TITLE 80

LANDLORD AND TENANT

[See Forcible Entry and Detainer, Title 61.]

Article 5475. [3235] Landlords shall have preference lien.—All persons leasing or renting lands or tenements, at will or for a term, shall have a preference lien upon the property of the tenant hereinafter indicated, upon such premises, for any rent that may become due and for all money and the value of all animals, tools, provisions and supplies furnished by the landlord to the tenant to enable the tenant to make a crop on such premises, and to gather, secure, house and put the same in condition for market, the money, animals, tools, provisions and supplies so furnished being necessary for that purpose, whether the same is to be paid in money, agricultural products, or other property; and this lien shall apply only to animals, tools and other property furnished by the landlord to the tenant, and to the crop raised on such rented premises.

[Act April 4, 1874, p. 55. P. D. 7418c.]

Creation and existence of lien.—A landlord has a lien on the products raised by his tenant independent of seizure under process. Newman v. Ward (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 865.

The lien is created by the statute and exists independent of the distress warrant which the landlord is entitled to sue on in order to preserve his lien. Folk v. King, 19 C. A. 668, 48 S. W. 601.

Evidence held not to show that notes were executed with reference to the relation of landlord and tenant between the parties thereto, so as to create a lien. Liles v. Price (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 626.

Under the facts held a landlord had a lien on the tenant's crops for pasture furnished. Tucker, Zeve & Co. v. Thomas, 35 C. A. 637, 59 S. W. 297.

Lien where renting is on shares.—A farming contract, by which the landlord reserved a specific interest in the crop, conveys a part of the very crop and not merely a lien to secure the rents. Horseley v. Moss, 23 S. W. 1115, 5 C. A. 241.

Whether a landlord has a mere lien or is the owner of a share of a crop raised on shares by his tenant as security for the rent depends on the construction of the rental contract. Miles v. Dorn, 40 C. A. 298, 90 S. W. 707.

Under a rule stated held a landlord cannot at once claim a crop lien and an interest in the crop. Antone v. Miles, 47 C. A. 289, 105 S. W. 39.

Whether one who lets a farm to another for a part of the crops to be grown thereon has a specified undivided interest in the crops when gathered, as distinguished from a lien, depends entirely upon the terms of the agreement. Id.

The landlord held to have a lien on a part of the crop sold by the tenant without the landlord's consent. Small v. Rush (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 874.

Rent or advances secured.—The lien given by the statute is limited to the rent and advances for the current year. H. R. E., B. & B. Ass'n v. Cochran, 60 T. 620.

C. rented a storehouse to B., and B. sublet the premises to H. H. gave his notes to B. for the rent, and B. transferred them to C. It appearing that H.'s tenancy was from month to month, and that the notes were given for the rent for months after the termination of the tenancy, they were not secured by the landlord's lien. Coutts v. Spivey, 66 T. 567, 17 S. W. 546.

A hotel having been sublet with the owner's consent, and the sublessee having afterwards surrendered the premises to the owner who occupied them during the last two years of the term, the lessee, who had a junior lien thereon for rent, may insist that the owner foreclose his lien only for the rent actually due, not including rent for the two years during which the owner held the premises. Kennedy v. Groves, 50 C. A. 266, 110 S. W. 136.

A landlord has no landlord's lien on a crop raised in 1909 for advances made and supplies furnished the same tenant in 1910, nor any other lien unless one is expressly given him by the tenant. McMullen v. Green (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 192.
Title 80) LANDLORD AND TENANT

Art. 5476

Subject-matter to which lien attaches.—Furniture used in a hotel is subject to the landlord's lien for rent. Biesenbach v. Key, 63 T. 79; Johnson v. Hulett, 56 C. A. 11, 129 S. W. 259.

The landlord's lien attaches upon whatever property subject to execution the lessee or his vendee, who has bought it out of the ordinary course of business, has on the rented premises when it is levied, and the tenant as a judgment against the landlord, Block v. Latham, 63 T. 414; Lehman v. Stone, 4 App. C. C. § 121, 16 S. W. 784.

The landlord's lien provided for in this article and Arts. 5479 and 5480, exists by force of the statute, independent of any levy of compulsory process, and attaches to any property owned by the tenant and placed in a storehouse or other building rented, so long as the tenant continues his occupancy, and for one month thereafter, except as to such property as may be relieved from the operation of such lien by the terms of the lease. Mar. v. Litman, 64 S. W. 404.

Where there is no permission to sublet, produce raised on the premises by a tenant is subject to the lien for rent. Stokes v. Burney, 22 S. W. 126, 3 C. A. 219. See Menger v. Ward, 26 S. W. 852, 57 T. 322.

A landlord has a lien on all crops raised on his rented premises, unless this be surrendered by contract, whether the premises are cultivated by the original lessee, his assignee or a subtenant. Forrest v. Durnell, 26 S. W. 481, 56 T. 547.

Goods in possession of a tenant as condemnation are not subject to the landlord's lien. Needham Piano & Organ Co. v. Hollingsworth (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 750.

A landlord has no lien on the proceeds of the crop voluntarily sold by the tenant. Estes v. McKinney (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 656.

The fact that chattels were on the rented premises when the lease was made, and had been there prior to that time, will not, of itself, secure to the landlord a lien upon them for rent. Davis v. Washington, 18 C. A. 67, 43 S. W. 585.

A landlord has no lien upon the furniture of another used by his tenant. Id.

The owner of an improved lot has lien on the improvements put thereon by the tenant, for his rent. Meyer v. O'Dell, 18 C. A. 210, 44 S. W. 545.

A landlord's lien includes all property on the premises. York v. Carlisle, 19 C. A. 269, 46 S. W. 257.

A landlord's lien for supplies and advances held to extend only to the crop raised the same year. Walker v. Patterson's Estate, 33 C. A. 650, 77 S. W. 437.

In the absence of a waiver, a landlord has a lien on all the crops whether raised by the tenant, or by a subtenant, or assignee. Edwards v. Anderson (Civ. App.) 82 S. W. 659.

Neither this article nor Art. 5490, gives a lien upon any property of the tenant, except such as has been furnished by the landlord, the crops raised by the tenant on the rented premises and property of the tenant which has been placed in a building rented him by the landlord. Allen v. Houston Ice & Brewing Co. (Civ. App.) 97 S. W. 1064.

The landlord's lien is given by this article, for supplies furnished to the tenant to enable him to make a crop, and any chattels to the crop, for the making of which such supplies were furnished. Lasater v. Streetman (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 657.

Where a lessee of a theater installed fixtures and began giving shows before the building was completed, he was liable for rent, and defendant's lessees were not liable for conversion of the fixtures on their refusal to deliver the same to plaintiff from whom they had been purchased on credit on the lessee's failure to comply with the lease. McConnell & Merchant v. Brick-Phillips Co. (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 1133.

Waiver, loss or discharge of lien.—See notes under Art. 5478a.

Person or corporation entitled to remedy.—The provisions of this article do not apply where the relationship of tenancy in common exists. T. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bayless, 62 T. 570.

The grantee in a deed for land, which was in fact a mortgage, is not entitled to this remedy against the tenant in possession. Campbell v. Hefflin, 4 App. C. C. § 90, 18 S. W. 539.

Conclusiveness of judgment enforcing lien.—A judgment enforcing a landlord's lien upon personal property is conclusive against a suit by the debtor to restrain its sale on the ground that it was exempt. Hammer v. Woods, 24 S. W. 942, 6 C. A. 179.

Forcible entry and detainer.—See Art. 3940.

Rights of sublessee.—See notes under Art. 5489.

Conversion of property subject to lien.—A landlord may maintain an action for damages against one who has wrongfully converted produce subject to his lien. Taylor v. Felder, 23 S. W. 480, 5 C. A. 417.

One who buys and converts property on which a landlord's lien rests is liable to the landlord. Newman v. Ward (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 589.

Proof held insufficient to show a conversion of part of crop of tenant on which landlord had a lien. Plecker, Zeive & Co. v. Thomas, 35 C. A. 495, 80 S. W. 649.

Assignment of lien.—Assignment of a written obligation to pay rent carries with it the landlord's statutory lien. Hatchett v. Miller (Civ. App.) 53 S. W. 857.

Art. 5476. [3226] Tenant not to remove property, subject.—It shall not be lawful for the tenant, while the rent and such advances remain unpaid, to remove, or permit to be removed, from the premises so leased or rented any of the agricultural products produced thereon, or any of the animals, tools or property furnished as aforesaid, without the consent of the landlord. [Id.]

Rights and liabilities in general.—The landlord's lien for advances to make a crop attaches by virtue of the statute to the crop raised by the tenant, and is superior to any other that can be given so long as it remains in force. Until that lien is satisfied the tenant cannot remove the crop from the premises without subjecting it to attachment, nor can any lienholder affect the landlord's lien by removing it. A subsequent lienholder who has removed the crop from the rented premises without the landlord's consent, and who has purchased it at forced sale, under proceedings foreclosing such junior lien, cannot not protect by showing that the tenant still had on the premises other property subject to the landlord's lien sufficient to satisfy it. Watson v. Cox, 2 App. C. C. § 277. The landlord's lien attaches to the entire crop, and cannot be extinguished as to any part of it by its unauthorized removal from the rented premises.
Wilkes v. Adler, 68 T. 588, 5 S. W. 497.

A tenant has no right prior to his payment of the rent and advances to remove or permit to be removed from the rented premises any of the agricultural products raised thereon without the consent of the landlord. Leverett v. Meeks, 29 C. A. 255, 58 S. W. 302.

Where a tenant removed and sold cotton the day succeeding the execution of an affidavit for a distress warrant before the levy thereof, such acts established that he was "about to remove the property" when the affidavit was made. Riggins v. Gray, 31 C. A. 268, 72 S. W. 101.

Charge that landlord acquired ownership of tenant's cotton on which he had a lien held for value refused. Burke v. Holmes & Hargis (Civ. App.) 80 S. W. 564.

Landlord estopped to claim a lien on cotton sold by tenant. T. W. Johnson & Son v. Kincaid (Civ. App.) 81 S. W. 538.

The crops of a tenant, who is indebted to his landlord for rent, supplies, or advances, are considered in possession of the landlord so long as they remain on the rented premises. Groesbeck v. Evans (Civ. App.) 83 S. W. 430.

If a tenant owes the landlord any sum for rents or advances to enable the tenant to raise a crop on the rented premises, the landlord has a lien on the crops to secure the same, and it is unlawful for the tenant to remove any part of the crops without the consent of the landlord. Beckham v. Collins, 54 C. A. 241, 117 S. W. 432, 433.

Rights and liabilities of purchasers of property.—A purchaser of crops on rented premises is liable to the landlord for the rent due, not exceeding the value of the crops. Zapp v. Johnson, 30 S. W. 861, 87 T. 641, citing Boydstun v. Morris, 10 S. W. 351, 71 T. 697.

A purchaser held charged with knowledge of the landlord's right to distrain a chattel sold by the tenant within a month after his removal from the premises, under Arts. 5490, 5491, giving a lien thereon for rent, etc. York v. Carlisle, 19 C. A. 265, 46 S. W. 257.

One who purchases and converts property on which there is a landlord's lien is liable to the landlord. Newman v. Ward (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 885.

Cotton raised by subtenants and subject to a landlord's lien held not relieved therefrom because purchased by a third party. Walhoefer v. Hobgood, 19 C. A. 629, 48 S. W. 32.

That one purchased the crop from the tenant or his renters for a valuable consideration and in good faith without intending to defraud the landlord, expressly reserving a lien, does not affect the rights of the landlord to enforce his lien. Land v. Roby, 56 C. A. 333, 120 S. W. 1057.

A purchaser from the tenant or of his renters of the crops raised on the premises is charged with notice of the acknowledged and recorded lease retaining a lien on the crops for the rent. Id.

Where a landlord's suit for rent and for foreclosure of lien has been begun in a justice's court within 30 days from the removal of personal property from the leased premises, the lien is fixed against the tenants and their vendees. Ingraham v. Rich (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 549.

Conversion.—Where, pending the foreclosure of a landlord's lien, one who has purchased the goods makes such disposition of them that they cannot be subjected to the lien, he is liable for conversion. Jackson v. Corley, 30 C. A. 417, 70 S. W. 570.

It is for the tenant to send away the product of the rented premises without the landlord's consent, while the rent is unpaid, and the party receiving it, with knowledge of the lien, whether handling it as his own, or as the property of the tenant, is also guilty of conversion. Mensing Bros. & Co. v. Cardwell, 33 C. A. 16, 75 S. W. 348. The right of the mortgagee in a mortgage executed by a tenant held a conversion of the crop as against the landlord having a lien thereon for rent. Sexton Rice & Irrigation Co. v. Sexton, 48 C. A. 190, 106 S. W. 728.

In an action by a landlord for conversion of a crop removed from the premises by his tenant and delivered to a third person made a party defendant, the evidence held to authorize a recovery. Id.

Right to distrain.—See notes under Art. 5479.

Art. 5477. [3237] When lien expires.—Such preference lien shall continue as to such agricultural products and as to the animals, tools and other property furnished to the tenant as aforesaid, so long as they remain on such rented or leased premises and for one month thereafter; and such lien, as to agricultural products and as to animals and tools furnished as aforesaid, shall be superior to all laws exempting such property from forced sales. [Id.]

Expires after one month.—Where a landlord delays for more than one month after the removal of a tenant before beginning proceedings to foreclose his lien, he waives his lien on the person of the property. Jenkins v. Batton (Civ. App.) 81 S. W. 629.

Priorities.—Where a tenant's cotton has been levied on under execution, his landlord cannot recover under his lien for rent, in the statutory proceeding of trial of right of property. While his lien is superior to all other creditors, it does not give him title to the property, but only the right to have it subjected to the payment of his debt. Perkins v. Sterne, 23 T. 561, 76 Am. Dec. 72; Duty v. Graham, 12 T. 432, 62 Am. Dec. 534; Buchanan v. Monroe, 22 T. 541; Wright v. Henderson, 12 T. 44; Pace v. Sparks, 1 U. C. 405; Ewing v. Ferry, 35 T. 776; Matthews v. Burke, 32 T. 415. 8303
Title 80)  LANDLORD AND TENANT  Art. 5477

When a tenant from month to month mortgages personal property to another, and the rent due his landlord for the month in which the mortgage is executed has been paid, and the property remains upon the premises, by permission of the mortgagee, from month to month, the lien of the landlord is subordinate to that of the mortgagee. H. R. E. B. & B. Ass'n v. Cochran, 60 T. 620.

Where a claim for rent due by an insolvent firm is a lien superior to attachment liens, and must be first satisfied out of moneys arising from a sale of the attached property, on application of the landlord who has intervened in the attachment suit. Sullivan v. Cleveland, 62 T. 677.

The lien of the landlord upon the crop is superior to that of a mortgagee. When the crop which has been delivered to the landlord is seized under execution, he may assert his right thereto in a proceeding for the trial of the right of property. Durham v. Flanagan, 2 App. C. C. § 25.

Whether the produce to which the landlord's lien attaches is sold under order of court to enforce that lien, or by the tenant or landlord, the rights of a subsequent lienholder attach only to what shall remain after the landlord's lien is satisfied. If the junior lienholder, by his declarations of a purpose not to look to his lien to enforce payment of his debt, induces the landlord to disregard his lien in the sale of the crop, he is thereby estopped from setting up claim that the landlord or tenant having possession shall appropriate any part of the proceeds to the payment of his debt. Chapman v. McLemore, 68 T. 654, 8 S. W. 682.

A tenant from month to month, at the day of making the lease, executed a mortgage upon a soda fountain and its appurtenances. The tenant paid rent for several months. Upon a suit to foreclose a mortgage on the fountain, etc., it was held that the lien of the mortgagee was superior to the landlord's lien. Brackenridge v. Millan, 81 T. 17, 18 S. W. 555.

A landlord's lien has priority over an unregistered chattel mortgage. Rogers v. Grigg (Civ. App.) 29 S. W. 654.

A landlord held not entitled to a lien, as against creditors, for sums paid by the landlord, as surety on the tenant's account, for supplies and money loaned. Kelley v. King, 18 C. A. 360, 44 S. W. 916; Kelley v. King (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 629.

A landlord's lien is superior to the landlord's lien unless the mortgage is filed "forthwith" within the meaning of Art. 5655. Austin v. Welch, 31 C. A. 526, 72 S. W. 883.

A lease existing at the date of a mortgage on the property is not invalidated by the mortgage, but is a paramount interest to which the mortgage is subject. F. Groos & Co. v. Property Investors, 100 S. W. 1366.

A landlord held not to have a lien as against his tenant's creditors for supplies furnished by a third person on the landlord's security. Ranger Mercantile Co. v. Terrett (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 1145, 882.

A lease being transferred the lease to another, agreeing to pay the lessor a certain sum and notes, which he was to receive from the sublessee, the owner having retained a superior lien on the furniture for rent, he was entitled, under the lease, to foreclose his lien for the merchants' notes, as well as for the rent accruing during the sublessee's tenancy. Kennedy v. Groves, 50 C. A. 266, 110 S. W. 136.

The title to furniture in a hotel held to be in the sublessee by virtue of the transfer of the lease to him by the original lessor. Id.

Claims for exempt property.—The lien is superior to the claim of the widow and children of the tenant to an allowance in lieu of exempt property. Champion v. Shumate, 90 T. 597, 39 S. W. 128, 369.

The landlord's lien is superior to the claim of the deceased tenant's children for exemptions and for an allowance in lieu thereof. Champion v. Shumate, 90 T. 597, 40 S. W. 394.

The lien of a mortgage on crops which came into existence before a certain landlord's lien became operative was superior to such lien. League v. Sanger, 25 C. A. 347, 60 S. W. 896.

Claims by third persons.—Where the levy of a distress warrant was invalid, claimants of the property held entitled to have the proceeding dismissed. Fry v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 620.

A claimant of property held under a distress warrant, who dismissed his bond in the county court, which had jurisdiction, is deemed to have abandoned his claim, unless he has such judgment of dismissal set aside. Taylor v. St. Louis Type Foundry, 21 C. A. 69, 51 S. W. 304.

Where a landlord has accepted from a subtenant a payment in satisfaction of rent due on the premises cultivated by him, he is liable for damages for seizing his crops for rents due by the tenant. Smith v. Price, 22 C. A. 286, 54 S. W. 284.

Where a landlord assented to an agreement by his tenant to deliver certain rice to plaintiff as part of a loan of money to make the crop, but thereafter appropriated the rice, he was liable to plaintiff therefor. Groesbeck v. T. H. Thompson Milling Co. (Civ. App.) 86 S. W. 346.

A tenant's parol agreement to deliver to plaintiff 400 sacks of rice, to be grown on the leased land, as a part of an advancement to enable him to raise the crop, held not to affect the property. Id.

Landlord held not required to apply proceeds of cotton received from tenant to payment of claim for which he held lien against property levied on by third person. Cadenhead v. Rogers & Bro. (Civ. App.) 96 S. W. 852.
In an action where defendant's landlord intervened and claimed a landlord's lien on property attached which was raised on his farm in 1910, and it appeared that he also held the crops raised on the farm as security for advances made to the tenant for that year, plaintiff, not having attached the 1909 crop, was not entitled to have that applied first to the satisfaction of the landlord's debt. McMullen v. Green (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 762.

Liability for wrongful distress.—See notes under Art. 5479.

Art. 5478. [3238] Does not apply to, etc.—Such lien shall not attach to the goods, wares and merchandise of a merchant, trader or mechanic, sold and delivered in good faith in the regular course of business to the tenant. [Id.]

To the tenant construed.—The words “to the tenant,” as written in the statute have to be construed “by the tenant.” Marsalls v. Pittman, 68 T. 637, 5 S. W. 404. It was clearly the intention of the legislature to exempt from the operation of the landlord's lien goods sold in good faith in the regular course of business “by the tenant” and not “to the tenant.” Freeman v. Collier Racket Co., 109 T. 476, 101 S. W. 293; Id., 112 S. W. 111, 118; 114 S. W. 1133.

“In the regular course of business” construed.—Where a firm sell a stock of goods worth about $17,000 in various amounts and to various purchasers in about 42 days in a “closing out” sale the goods are not sold “in the regular course of business” and the landlord has a lien on said goods, and the purchasers are liable to the landlord for the amount of their respective purchases. Freeman v. Collier Racket Co., 44 C. A. 177, 105 S. W. 1130.

Art. 5478a. [3239] Removal not a waiver, etc.—The removal of the agricultural products with the consent of the landlord for the purpose of being prepared for market shall not be considered a waiver of such lien, but such lien shall continue and attach to the products so removed the same as if they had remained on such rented or leased premises. [Id.]

Waiver, loss, or discharge of lien.—When property has been seized under a warrant the lien must be foreclosed by the judgment, otherwise it is waived and abandoned. Wise v. Old, 57 T. 514; Haymes v. Gray, 2 App. C. C. § 252.

The acceptance of a collateral promise of one who purchases the stock of goods of the tenant to pay the rent will not of itself operate as a release of the landlord's lien. Block v. Latham, 63 T. 414.

The lien is lost by failure to issue citation as required by article 5486. Miles v. Sprague, 3 App. C. C. § 199; Randall v. Rosenthal (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 906.

A landlord having leased premises for a term of years, and, after the failure in business of the lessee, accepting rents that became due thereafter from another, and the obligation of another tenant for the rents to become due for the balance of the term, cannot pursue his original lessee upon the lease contract and enforce payment of rents to become due out of the assets of such original lessee upon the premises by distress proceedings. Lounstaunau v. Lambert, 1 C. A. 454, 20 S. W. 937.

The acceptance by a landlord of another tenant as lessee, or as the party to whom the landlord should look for payment, such party being bound to do in law or by contract to pay to the landlord his rent due from the tenant for future rents, although after decree enforcing such lien circumstantial evidence tending to show such waiver is not competent. Id.

The removal of crops from the rented premises with the consent of the landlord, to be repossessed by the landlord, is no waiver of the landlord's lien upon the property of the first tenant for all rents, although after decree enforcing such lien circumstantial evidence tending to show such waiver is not competent. Id.

A landlord's lien for rent is not impaired by his failure to accept under a deed of trust. Missouri Glass Co. v. Marsh (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 546.

Where the mortgagee had permission from the landlord and the mortgagees to sell part of the mortgaged property to discharge the landlord's lien, such lien was released to the extent of the amount sold. Walhoefer v. Hobgood, 18 C. A. 291, 44 S. W. 566.

Where a tenant repays property taken under a distress warrant, and gives bond for the satisfaction of the judgment, this does not release the landlord's lien on the property. McEvoy v. Niece, 20 C. A. 680, 50 S. W. 424.

Under a lease entitling the lessor to a lien on the crop, the lessee held not entitled to sell the same without the lessor's consent. Zapp v. Davidson, 21 C. A. 566, 54 S. W. 366.

Where a landlord merely gave his tenant the right to sublet, the crops raised by the subtenant were subject to the landlord's lien for rent, notwithstanding such permission. Marrs v. Haymes, 1909 C. A. Secr. 599, 54 S. W. 775.

Where a landlord merely gave his tenant the right to sublet, payment of rent to the original tenant by subtenant did not release his crops from landlord's lien for rent. Id.

That a landlord consented to his tenant's subletting part of the property held a waiver of the landlord's lien on the subtenant's crop for unpaid rent. Trout v. McQueen (Civ. App.) 62 S. W. 928.

Where a landlord levied a distress warrant on cotton raised on his land by his tenant for failure to pay the rent, and the tenant replieved the cotton, such proceedings did not discharge the lien of the landlord's lien. McElvee v. Puckett (Civ. App.) 65 S. W. 242.

A landlord does not waive his lien on cotton of the tenant, as against a purchaser thereof from the tenant, because he permitted the tenant to sell other cotton to other purchasers. Sanger v. Magee, 29 C. A. 397, 69 S. W. 234.

A landlord held his lien waived. Bond v. Carter (Civ. App.) 73 S. W. 45.

A landlord held not to have waived his statutory lien on crop of tenant. Johnston v. Kleinsmith, 22 C. A. 446, 77 S. W. 35.
Where a tenant sells crops on which the landlord has a lien, the landlord's receipt of a part of the proceeds, with knowledge of the facts, tends to show a ratification. Planters' Compress Co. v. Howard, 35 C. A. 390, 80 S. W. 119.

Lien of a landlord on crops to secure advance to the tenant held waived as against a buyer from the tenant. Planters' Compress Co. v. Howard, 41 C. A. 285, 92 S. W. 44.

A lien raised on leased land held not waived so as to render the cotton on the sale thereof subject to execution in favor of the tenant's creditors. Sparks v. Ponder, 42 C. A. 431, 94 S. W. 428.

That a landlord permits a tenant to sell a portion of crops in the market, without objection, is insufficient to authorize a conclusion that he has waived his lien on the entire crop. Antone v. Miles, 47 C. A. 289, 106 S. W. 39.

A crop lien for advances held not forfeited by the landlord's failure to seek foreclosure within a month from the removal of the crop. Gaw v. Bingham (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 921.

A lien expressly retained in the recorded lease a lien on the crops raised on the premises for the payment of rent consented to by the tenant employing renters or subletting the premises, did not show that he released or waived the lien on the crops. Land v. Roby, 56 C. A. 333, 130 S. W. 1957.

A mortgagee of a tenant's crops held entitled to hold the crop freed from the lien of the landlord. Orange County Irr. Co. v. Orange Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 800.

A landlord may so act as to waive his lien on the crops, and confer on the tenant the right to sell the same discharged from the lien, and an express waiver is not necessary. Id.

— Burden as to waiver.—See notes under Art. 3687, Rule 12.

Art. 5479. [3240] Distress warrant.—When any rent or advances shall become due, or the tenant shall be about to remove from such leased or rented premises, or to remove his property from such premises, it shall be lawful for the person to whom the rents or advances are payable, his agent, attorney, assigns, heirs, or legal representatives to apply to a justice of the peace of the precinct where the premises are situated, or in which the property upon which a lien for rents or advances exists, may be found, or to any justice having jurisdiction of the cause of action, for a warrant to seize the property of such tenant; provided, that when a distress warrant shall be issued by any justice, other than the justice of the peace of the precinct in which the rented premises may be situated, or in which the defendant may reside, such warrant shall be made returnable to, and the affidavit and bond upon which it is issued shall be transmitted by, the justice issuing such distress warrant to some justice of the precinct in which the rented premises may be situated, or in which the defendant may reside. [P. D. 7418d. Act to adopt and establish R. C. S., passed Feb. 21, 1879. Acts 1881, p. 98.]

Liability of purchaser.—See notes under Art. 5476.

Enforcement of lien in general.—In an action against a tenant to foreclose landlord's lien, joined with an action against a junior mortgagee, an allegation that the mortgagee is asserting title to property subject to the lien is sufficient. Cardwell v. Masterson, 27 C. A. 591, 66 S. W. 1121.

Where a landlord sought to foreclose his lien on certain goods, and distrained some of them, the foreclosure was properly against all the goods subject to the lien, and not merely against those distrained. Jackson v. Corley, 30 C. A. 417, 70 S. W. 670.

Right to distrain.—Removal of products from rented premises without consent of landlord, when rent is unpaid, authorizes a distress warrant. Malice and want of cause must concur to authorize a finding for exemplary damages. Gray v. Webb, 3 App. C. C. § 321.

When property subject to the landlord's lien is wrongfully removed, a distress warrant may be sued out, although the rent is not due. Du Bose v. Battle (Civ. App.) 34 S. W. 148.

One must have not only an assignment of the arrears of rent, but a transfer of the reversion to distrain for the rent. Main v. Flood, 19 C. A. 501, 47 S. W. 1017.

Where the only lease was an implied contract to pay reasonable rent, and a sum shown to equal reasonable rent was paid, a distress warrant was illegal. Majors v. Goodrich (Civ. App.) 64 S. W. 319.

The carrying of cotton to a gin to be baled, and the using of a reasonable amount of feed, held not to constitute an appropriation of the products by the tenant, justifying the issuance of a distress warrant. Riggs v. Gray, 31 C. A. 268, 73 S. W. 101.

This article authorizes the warrant to seize the property whether the rent is due or not. Allen v. Brunner, 33 C. A. 138, 76 S. W. 821.

If the tenant owes the landlord for rents and advances and is attempting to remove crops from the rented premises without the landlord's consent, the suing out of a distress warrant under the circumstances is not illegal. Beckham v. Collins (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 433.

Property subject to distress.—A landlord may seize all the property on which he has a lien, though it is more than sufficient to pay the lien. McKee v. Sima, 32 T. 61, 45 S. W. 564.

Where, on the issuance of a distress warrant by a justice, the amount in controversy is within the jurisdiction of the county court, and the warrant is issued and copies seized in a county outside of the county where it was raised and the parties resided, the writ, under this article and Art. 5481, should be made returnable to the county court of the county where the rented premises were. Egger v. Kimmel, 24 C. A. 613, 69 S. W. 336.

Attachment of lease.—A lease that does not give the lessee the general power to sublet is not subject to attachment and sale. Boone v. First National Bank of Waxahachie, 17 C. A. 375, 43 S. W. 594.

Necessity of citation.—A distress warrant, when citation has not been issued, is voidable, but will protect an officer acting under it. Randall v. Rosenbalt (Civ. App.) 31 S. W. 822.

Necessary parties to foreclosure.—When the property subject to the lien is in the possession of a third person, he should be made a party to the suit. Templeman v. Gresham, 61 T. 60.

Persons holding a lien upon property subject to the landlord's lien are necessary parties to a suit to foreclose the latter. McCollum v. Wood (Civ. App.) 33 S. W. 1037.

Invalid distress proceedings as precluding foreclosure.—A landlord is entitled to have a foreclosure of his landlord's lien on property seized under a distress warrant, notwithstanding the warrant may be quashed. Duffey v. Collins, 3 App. 401; Fry v. Kelley, 4 App. C. C. § 176, 15 S. W. 119; Dwyer v. Testard, 65 T. 432; Wallace v. Bogel, 66 T. 674; 2 S. W. 96.

In recovering a security, the plaintiff showing a cause of action is entitled to foreclosure of the landlord's lien, although the distress proceedings may be invalid. Brown v. Collins, 77 T. 159, 14 S. W. 173.

The landlord's lien on the crop for supplies furnished to the tenant being given by this article, and the affidavit and bond for the distress warrant are defective. Laster v. Streeman (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 657.

Distress warrant as prerequisite to foreclosure.—The landlord's lien exists against an assignee of the goods, etc., on the leased premises for the benefit of creditors, independent of a levy of a distress warrant prior to the assignment. Rosenberg v. Shaper, 81 T. 134.

The landlord's lien is not acquired by a distress warrant and is not lost by a failure to sue out a warrant. The lien may be preserved by a suit to foreclose, and on a foreclosure of the lien the property can be seized and sold under final process. When the property is thus seized, it remains in possession of the tenant pending suit. As the lien is thus created, it is sufficient, it being alleged that it cannot be described with greater certainty. Bourlier v. Edmondson, 58 T. 676; Templeman v. Gresham, 61 T. 60.

The issue of a distress warrant is not a necessary prerequisite to a foreclosure of the landlord's lien, and it may be enforced by suit. Randall v. Rosenbalt (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 906.

The preference lien given a landlord by the statute exists independent of the distress warrant which may be sued out to preserve the lien. Folk v. King, 19 C. A. 666, 48 S. W. 651.

Effect of quashing distress warrant.—When a distress warrant is quashed by a decree of the court, the property is discharged from the levy and must be returned to the defendant. Hamilton v. Kilpatrick (Civ. App.) 29 S. W. 819.

Quashing a distress warrant quashes the levy thereunder, and discharges the sureties on the bond of one claiming title to the property. Fry v. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 620.

Variances.—Objection by defendant on appeal of action brought by "Antonio S." for wrongfully levying distress warrant in a justice court action, that judgment of such court was for "Amelia S." will not avail, where it is shown that such names applied to the same person. Kingsley v. Schmcker (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 381.

Bond.—A bond for distress does not secure costs. Kelley v. King, 18 C. A. 360, 44 S. W. 916.

Wrongful distress.—The defendant in the suit to enforce the landlord's lien can, under a plea in reconvention, recover damages against the plaintiff and the sureties on his bond, when the warrant has been illegally and unjustly sued out. Both causes must exist to support a recovery on the bond. If the warrant was legally sued out the defendant cannot recover on the bond, no matter how grossly unjust and utterly ruinous to the tenant the proceedings of the plaintiff might have been. Slay v. Milton, 64 T. 421.

Damages are not recoverable unless the warrant is issued illegally and unjustly. When the defect in the warrant was the fault of the justice by whom it was issued, damages for wrongful issuance are not recoverable. Miles v. Sprague, 3 App. C. C. § 830.

Where the warrant is illegally sued out and levied, damages occasioned thereby may be recovered by the defendant, although rent was due and unpaid. Stephens v. Bridge, 4 App. C. C. § 82, 16 S. W. 536.

The levy of a writ on real estate, the possession of which was not disturbed, is not a ground for the recovery of damages. Conrady v. Bywaters (Civ. App.) 24 S. W. 561.
Annoyance, vexation and expenditure of money in consequence of a distress warrant is not the basis of actual damages, but for exemplary damages. Smith v. Jones, 11 C. A. 18, 21 S. W. 396.

In action for wrongful levy of distress warrant, evidence of poverty and damages by the levy to plaintiff held too remote. Burger v. Rhiney (Civ. App.) 42 S. W. 590.

In an action for wrongful levy of distress warrant, that the affidavit and bond for distress were defective cannot be shown. 1d.

That a distress warrant was unjustly sued out does not entitle the tenant to exemplary damages, unless it is shown that it was sued out without probable cause. 1d.

Evidence held to justify the suing out of a distress warrant. 1d.

In an action for damages in wrongful suing out a distress warrant, the validity of the affidavit and bond upon which it was based cannot be impeached by an instruction to the jury, there having been no motion to quash in the original suit. 1d.

Though a distress warrant was illegally levied, yet if the distrained property is left in tenant's charge, he cannot recover for injury to it through his own negligence. Thomas v. Judy (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 830.

An affidavit for a distress warrant held to be substantially untrue, and to constitute an abuse of process. McKee v. Sims (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 27.

Whether a landlord is liable in damages for an excessive levy under a distress warrant depends on whether he authorizes the officer's acts. 1d.

The landlord cannot, without liability, under distress warrant attach more than sufficient for his rent and costs, though he has a lien on the whole of debtor's property. 1d.

To the extent that a distress is based on amount alleged in the affidavit in excess of what is justly and actually due, defendant is entitled to damages, under Art. 5480. McKee v. Sims, 92 T. 51, 48 S. W. 564.

The measure of damages for illegal seizure under distress is the value of the crop seized and converted only. Majors v. Goodrich (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 819.

Codefendant, against whom plaintiff had wrongfully sued out a distress warrant, held entitled to no action for damages when actions therefor, though the action in which it had been sued out had not terminated. Kingsley v. Schmicker (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 331.

A provision in a lease that the landlord shall not be liable for damages arising from any future arrest is against public policy and void. Watson v. Boswell, 26 C. A. 379, 61 S. W. 407.

The value of time lost and money expended in prosecuting an action of replevin to obtain possession of property wrongfully distressed is an element of damages in an action therefor. 1d.

The failure to establish all the grounds alleged by a landlord in his application for a distress warrant will not render him liable in damages to the tenant, when he establishes one of such grounds. 1d.

Where an application for a writ of distress alleges rent due as a cause therefor, and the evidence shows that only part thereof is due, the tenant is not entitled to damages for the distrain of the whole crop, but only to the damages sustained for the distrain of an unnecessary amount, caused by the false allegation. 1d.

Clause in a lease exempting landlord from any damage incident to a suit for distraint held valid. Watson v. Mirkie, 25 C. A. 527, 51 S. W. 535.

In an action for the wrongful suing out of a distress warrant, that the tenant did not sell a part of the crop without the landlord's consent, for which reason the distress proceeding were instituted, to order to defraud the landlord, held immaterial. Morgan v. Tims, 44 C. A. 186, 27 S. W. 823.

In the absence of authority in a cropping contract, the landlord held entitled to distraint for the tenant's act in selling a part of the crop without the landlord's consent. 1d.

Where a contract for the production of crops is on a certain condition precedent to the right of the vendor or his vendee to demand possession of the land from a lessee thereof. Lewis v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 846.

In an action for an illegal seizure of hotel furniture under a distress warrant, the measure of damages was by deprivation of use and depreciation in the value of the furniture or for the amount paid to rent other furniture and depreciation in value. Johnson v. Hulett, 56 C. A. 11, 120 S. W. 257.

A landlord is not liable for an illegal distress for levyng on more of the tenant's goods than was necessary to secure the rent, provided the warrant is not sued out for more rent than is due or to become due. 1d.

Evidence held insufficient to sustain an award of $350 actual, and $250 exemplary, damages, for wrongful distress against a farm tenant. Michalek v. Cernock (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 270.

A landlord cannot justify distress by showing on appeal a valid ground for the writ under Art. 5479 not relied on in the affidavit for the writ; the ground relied on below having been found not to exist. 1d.

Waiver, loss or discharge.—See notes under Art. 5472a.

Time of accrual of rent.—See notes at end of Title.

Art. 5480. [3241] Oath and bond.—The plaintiff, his agent or attorney, shall make oath that the amount sued for is for rent or advances, such as are mentioned in the first article of this title, or shall produce a writing signed by such tenant to that effect, and shall further swear that such warrant is not sued out for the purpose of vexing and harassing the defendant; and the person applying for such warrant shall execute a bond with two or more good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the justice of the peace, payable to the defendant, conditioned that the plaintiff will pay the defendant such damages as he may sustain in case such warrant has been illegally and unjustly sued out, which bond shall be filed among the papers of the cause; and, in the case shall be finally decided in favor of the defendant, he may bring suit against the plaintiff and his sureties on such bond, and shall recover such damages as may be awarded to him by the proper tribunal.

[Id.]

Affidavit as to grounds.—Affidavit for distress warrant held to state that the amount claimed was due, and that cause existed for issuing warrant. Fulcher v. West (Civ.
App.) 61 S. W. 342.

Error in name of defendant in affidavit for distress warrant and citation held im-

It is clear that the plaintiff when he applies for a distress warrant must show the existence of one of the grounds specified in Art. 4579 before he can obtain the writ.
The statute does not provide how this may be done. The statement of the ground relied on is usually inserted in the affidavit. This precludes the idea that any other ground than that stated is relied on, and unless the ground as stated is sufficiently alleged a motion to quash will be sustained. The allegation should be made in the language of the statute and when this is not done equivalent terms must be employed. When the ground is stated in the language of the statute, but the statement is accompanied by a qualifying clause of material import, this clause cannot be treated as surplusage but must be considered as expressing the sense in which the statement alleging the ground is made. Id.

Affidavit and warrant contemporaneous.—The affidavit and issuance of warrant should be contemporaneous. Bolton v. Sadler, 1 App. C. C. § 1226.

Liable for process.—See notes under Art. 4579.

"Vexing" construed.—The word "injuring" is equivalent to the word "vexing" used in the statute. Biesensch v. Key, 63 T. 79.

"Unjustly" and "illegally and unjustly" construed.—The term "unjustly" implies an evil, and the purpose of the creditor is to harass or vex his debtor and not merely to secure his debt. Riggins v. Ford, 1 App. C. C. § 1258.

A bond is defective when the word "wrongfully" is used in place of the words

"Illegally" and unjustly it is "unjustly," and not "illegally," construed, where it is for an amount largely in excess of the sum due. McTeer v. Young (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 194.

Surplusage.—An affidavit is not defective on account of surplusage. Murry v.
Blanchard, 2 App. C. C. § 479.

Bond.—The defendant in a proceeding by distress warrant recovered judgment against the plaintiff for damages on the ground that the warrant was unlawfully sued out. On appeal to the county court judgment was also rendered against the plaintiff and the sureties on his appeal bond. Held, that the distress warrant bond was fatally defective, and judgment could be rendered against the sureties on it. The judgment in the county court was properly rendered against the sureties on the appeal bond.

The date of the filing of a bond in distress proceedings held to control the date of the bond, on the question when the bond was executed. Kelley v. King, 18 C. A. 390, 44 S.
W. 915.

Warrant for excessive amount.—See notes under Art. 6481.

Art. 5481. [3242] Distress warrant, issued by whom.—Upon the filing of such oath and bond, it shall be the duty of such justice of the peace to issue his warrant to the sheriff or any constable of the county, commanding him to seize the property of the defendant, or so much thereof as will satisfy the demand, which warrant shall be, if the same is within the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace, returnable to said justice; but, if the amount in controversy exceeds two hundred dollars, exclusive of interest, and does not exceed five hundred dollars, exclusive of interest, the writ shall be made returnable to the county court. If the amount in controversy exceeds five hundred dollars, exclusive of interest, and does not exceed one thousand dollars, exclusive of interest, the writ shall be made returnable to either the county or district court of the county, as the plaintiff in such writ may direct. If the amount in controversy shall exceed one thousand dollars, exclusive of interest, the writ shall be made returnable to the district court of the county.
When the writ is made returnable to the district or county court, the justice of the peace shall transmit all the papers in said cause to the court to which such writ is made returnable, on or before the first day of the next term thereof.

Jurisdiction.—The jurisdiction of the court is fixed by the amount of the demand.
Geiser v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 31 S. W. 84; Dazey v. Pennington, 19 C. A. 326, 31 S. W. 313.

When the county court is without jurisdiction, it should dismiss the case from the docket and transfer it to the proper court. Dazey v. Pennington, 19 C. A. 326, 31 S. W. 312.

Where the amount in controversy was within the jurisdiction of the county court and the distress warrant was levied on property outside of the county in which the plaintiff and defendant lived and the property was raised, the warrant should be made returnable to the court of the county in which are the premises. Egger v. Kimmel (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 336.

The writ was properly returned to the county court where $420 rent was claimed, and where at the time of the trial $262.50 was due, although when the writ was issued less than $200 was due. Allen v. Brunner, 38 C. A. 125, 75 S. W. 821.

Where a tenant is involved, as against the tenant, in a suit against a tenant to enforce a landlord's lien for rent and supplies, as given and preserved by this article, being enough to give the court jurisdiction, it has jurisdiction as against one to whom the tenant had sold part of the crop, on which a distress warrant was levied, though the value of such part was insufficient to give the court jurisdiction. Small v. Rush (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 874.

Right to distrain.—See notes under Art. 5479.

Warrant for excessive amount.—A distress warrant is unjustly sued out when the writ issues for an amount in excess of that which is due. McFeer v. Young (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 194.

Landlord cannot without liability attach more of the tenant's property on which he has a lien than sufficient to satisfy his demand; and a distress warrant for an amount more than is due is "illegally and unjustly sued out" and the principal and sureties are liable on the bond to the party injured. McKee v. Slma, 92 T. 51, 45 S. W. 564.

Art. 5482. [3243] Duty of officer.—It shall be the duty of the officer to whom such warrant is directed to seize the property of such tenant, or so much thereof as shall be of value sufficient to satisfy such debt and costs, and the same in his possession safely keep, unless the same is replevied as herein provided, and make due return thereof to the court to which said warrant is returnable, at the next term thereof.

Responsibility for property in possession of officer.—A seizure of personal property under a writ served by the officer is not a seizure of the property. If wasted, lost or destroyed by negligence while in possession of the officer, the damages caused thereby will be applied towards the satisfaction of the judgment rendered in the case. To that extent the plaintiff is responsible, but such application can only be made upon a proper showing by the defendant, on whom the burden of proof rests. Taylor v. Forder, 28 S. W. 489, 8 C. A. 417.

Art. 5483. [3244] Defendant may replevy.—The defendant shall have the right at any time within ten days from the date of said levy to replevy the property so seized, by giving bond payable to the plaintiff, with two or more good and sufficient sureties in double the amount of the debt, or, at his election, for the value of the property so seized, conditioned that if the defendant be cast in the action he shall satisfy the judgment that may be rendered against him or pay the estimated value of the property, with lawful interest thereon from the date of the bond.

See Jacobs v. Dougherty, 78 T. 682, 16 S. W. 160; Bemis v. Wells, 10 C. A. 626, 31 S. W. 837.

Replevy bond.—A replevy bond is an unconditional obligation to pay the judgment, etc., which obligation is in no way dependent upon the validity of the distress warrant proceeding. Watson v. Cox, 2 App. C. C. § 278; Sexton v. Hindman, 2 App. C. C. § 462; Corley v. Rountree (Civ. App.) 37 S. W. 476.

When a bond is not in conformity with the statute, judgment cannot be rendered under this article against the sureties, but an action may be maintained upon the bond for the value of the property. Jacobs v. Dougherty, 78 T. 682, 16 S. W. 160; Jones v. Hays, 27 T. 1; City of Marshall v. Bailey, 27 T. 686; Dignan v. Shields, 51 T. 322.

Where a tenant replevies property taken under a distress warrant, and gives bond for the satisfaction of the judgment, this does not release the lien of the distress warrant. McEvoy v. Niece, 20 C. A. 686, 50 S. W. 424.

Where, in an action by a landlord against his tenant to recover for advances and rent, the crop is taken on a distress warrant and replevied by defendant, and the conditions of the replevy bond are more onerous on the sureties than required by the statute, the bond is not good as a statutory bond, and a verdict in favor of the sureties should be directed. Leverett v. Meeks, 29 C. A. 623, 68 S. W. 202.

In an action to foreclose a landlord's lien, the giving of a redelivery bond by a defendant of the property seized held not a defense to an action against him for converting the property. Martin Co. v. Cottrell (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 48.

Art. 5484. [3245] Judgment against sureties.—When the property levied on has been replevied as provided in the preceding article, and final judgment shall be rendered against the defendant, such judgment shall be also against him and his sureties on his replevy bond for the amount of the judgment, interest and costs, or for the value of the property replevied and interest, according to the terms of such bond.
Art. 5485. [3246] Perishable property sold.—If the property is of a perishable or wasting kind, and the defendant fails to reply as herein provided, the officer making the levy, or the plaintiff, or the defendant, may apply to the court, or judge thereof, to which the warrant is returnable, either in term time or vacation, for an order to sell such property; and, if any person other than the defendant apply for such order of sale, the court shall not grant such order, unless the person applying shall file with such court an obligation, payable to the defendant, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by said court, that they will be responsible to the defendant for such damages as he may sustain in case such sale be illegally and unjustly applied for, or be illegally and unjustly made, which sale shall be conducted as sales under execution. [Act to adopt and establish R. C. S., passed Feb. 21, 1879.]

Art. 5486. [3247] Citation for defendant.—It shall be the duty of the justice of the peace at the time he issues the warrant to issue a citation to the defendant requiring him to answer before such justice, if he has jurisdiction to finally try the cause, and, upon its being returned served, to proceed to judgment as in ordinary cases; and, if he has not such jurisdiction, the citation shall require the defendant to answer before the court to which the warrant was made returnable, and shall be returned with the other papers to such court; provided, that, if the defendant has removed from the county without service, the proper officer shall state this fact in his return on the citation; and the court shall proceed to try the case ex parte, and may enter the proper judgment. [P. D. 7418f.]

Requisites of citation.—A citation issued by a justice of the peace need not state the number of the case. Biesenbach v. Key, 83 T. 79. It must be issued at the same time as the distress warrant. Jones v. Stone, 2 App. C. C. § 359.

Waiver, loss or discharge of lien.—See notes under Art. 5478a.

Art. 5487. [3248] Petition.—When the warrant is made returnable to the district or county court, the plaintiff shall not be obliged to file his petition before suing out said warrant, but may file the same on or before the appearance day of the term of the court to which said papers are returnable. [Id.]

Requisites of petition.—A landlord suing his tenant to enforce his lien must allege that the premises are leased to the tenant. Constantine v. Frease Brewing Co., 17 C. A. 444, 43 S. W. 1046.

Filing of petition.—If the petition is not filed as required the defendant may move the dismissal of the case. But if the petition is filed before the case is dismissed the cause should not be dismissed. Maynard v. Lockett, 1 U. C. 537; Bateman v. Maddox, 26 S. W. 51, 86 T. 546; Bruner v. Dubard, 1 App. C. C. § 391; Briley v. Bailey, 1 App. C. C. § 796; Jones v. Stone, 2 App. C. C. § 359; Taylor v. Felder, 23 S. W. 490, 5 C. A. 417.

Where a distress warrant is sued out the plaintiff can file his petition on appearance day notwithstanding the fact that an answer had already been filed. Scoggins v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 318.

One instituting action by distress warrant may recover unliquidated damages on petition afterwards filed. Fulcher v. West (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 342.

Institution of suits.—See Title 37, Chapter 1.

Art. 5488. [3249] Rights of tenant.—Nothing in this title shall be so construed as to prevent landlords and tenants from entering into such stipulations or contracts in regard to rents and advances as they may think proper; and, should the landlord, without any default on the part of the tenant or lessee, fail to comply in any respect with his part of the contract, he shall be responsible to said tenant or lessee for whatever damages may be sustained thereby; and, to secure such damages to such tenant or lessee, he shall have a lien on all the property in his possession not exempt from forced sale, as well as upon all rents due to said landlord under said contract. [Act Aug. 14, 1876, p. 137.]

Removal of fixtures.—See notes at end of title.

Termination of lease.—See notes at end of title.
Art. 5489. [3250] Tenants shall not sub-let without consent, etc.

—If lands or tenements are rented by the landlord to any person or persons, such person or persons renting said lands or tenements shall not rent or lease said lands or tenements during the term of said lease to any other person without first obtaining the consent of the landlord, his agent or attorney. [Id.]

Application as to public lands.—It may perhaps be well doubted whether this article applies to leases of public lands by the land commissioner. Stokes v. Riley, 29 C. A. 373, 68 S. W. 706.

This statute applies to state's tenants. Adkinson v. Porter (Civ. App.) 73 S. W. 44.

Right to assign or sublet in general.—This article prohibits the assignment of a lease without the consent of the landlord. Matthews v. Whitaker (Civ. App.) 23 S. W. 638; Stokes v. Riley, 29 C. A. 373, 68 S. W. 706; Adkinson v. Porter (Civ. App.) 73 S. W. 44; Tandy v. Fowler, 150 S. W. 481.

Privilege of subletting held, under the terms of the lease, a personal trust, and not a general power to sublet. Boone v. First Nat. Bank, 17 C. A. 385, 43 S. W. 594.

A creditor, attaching crops growing on the homestead, cannot defend by raising issue whether the debtor, who is a sublessee, occupies with the owner’s consent. Moore v. Graham, 29 C. A. 235, 69 S. W. 200.

Where, after a sublessee enters and cultivates a crop, the owner claims a part of the gathered crop as rent, there is a sufficient ratification of the subletting. Id.

The lessee may waive the provision as to assignment and where he does so the assignment is valid and the assignee becomes the lawful tenant of the assignor for the term of the lease and his rights as tenant cannot thereafter be avoided or questioned. Acquiescence in assignment for 15 or 20 years is indicative of assent and ratification. Consent of tenant and assent of rent from assignee. Wildey Lodge No. 21, I. O. O. F., v. City of Paris, 31 C. A. 632, 73 S. W. 70.

When the consent of the landlord is given to sublet the premises whether in the written lease or afterwards, and agrees to accept the assignee as his tenant—and proof of acquiescence from the lessor will be deemed evidence of such—he no longer has any right of action against the original lessee. Ascarete v. Feaff (Civ. App.) 78 S. W. 975.

In action to set aside contract for sale of land, and to recover same, a defense that defendant was entitled to possession of the land under a certain lease held untenable. Slaughter v. Coke County, 34 C. A. 598, 79 S. W. 863.

Under this article a tenant cannot assign the lease nor sublet the premises without the consent of the landlord. The consent to the subletting cannot be carried further and made to include a consent to the assignment. Morrow v. Camp (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 821.

A leasehold cannot be sold without the consent of the landlord, and it has no market value. Steger v. Barrett (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 174.

A lease in a lease against subletting without the consent of the lessor may be waived by the lessor. Fred v. Moseley (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 343.

Where a lease provided that the premises should be used for mercantile purposes and not otherwise, and that the lessee should not assign or underlet the premises or any part thereof, without the consent of the lessor in writing, the lessee had no right without the consent of the lessor to permit a third person to place signboards on the roof, especially in view of this article; and the landlord will not be estopped by acceptance of rent from compelling removal of such signboards. Clayton D. Brown Co. v. O’Connor (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 339.

“Subtenant” and “subletting” defined.—A “subtenant” is one who leases all or a part of the rented premises from the original lessee for a term less than that held by the latter; and “subletting” is where the lessee demises the whole or a part of the premises for a particular term. Hug v. Bowes (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 174.

The lease by the tenant to a third party without the consent of the landlord is void and the legal status of the tenant is the same as if he had not attempted to sublease, and having abandoned the lease and the landlord having continued the cultivation of the leased premises the tenant cannot turn loose stock within the inclusion without violating article 1240 of the Penal Code. Gartrell v. State (Cr. App.) 61 S. W. 489.

One who is in possession under a subcontract with the tenant without the consent of the landlord occupies the attitude of a stranger to the landlord and to the contract of lease and in assuming to cut and remove timber, commits a tort. Brown v. Pope, 27 C. A. 225, 65 S. W. 43.

Although the lease does not contain a provision against subletting, the omission is supplied by the statute, and if the premises are sublet without the consent of the landlord he has the right to forfeit the lease by force of the statute. Markowitz v. Greenwall Theatrical Circuit Co. (Civ. App.) 75 S. W. 76.

The assignment of a lease by a tenant without the consent of the landlord is not void, but voidable at the option of the landlord, who may either claim or waive the forfeiture. Scott v. Slaughter, 35 C. A. 524, 80 S. W. 643.

Where a lessee has sublet without the owner’s consent, the latter is authorized to resume possession of his lands. Waggoner v. Snody, 36 C. A. 514, 52 S. W. 358.

Where an eight-room house two rooms to a tenant without the consent of the landlord, he forfeits his lease under this article. Hudgens v. Bowes (Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 178.

Assignment or sublease and construction and operation.—In an action for the consideration of an assignment of a lease for a term of years, an eviction by the landlord for nonpayment of rent would in no way operate as a defense. It is not a recovery under a title different and paramount from that held by the tenant. Howard v. Britton, 71 T. 286, 9 S. W. 73.
A sublease held an assignment of the original lease, making the subtenant liable for performance of the covenants. Campbell v. Cates (Civ. App.) 11 S. W. 265.

A subtenant is not liable to the landlord on covenants contained in the lease between the landlord and lessee, where he has not so contracted. Id.

A subtenant, who has not held nor been held to recover damages for the damage the owner has sustained, is chargeable with knowledge of the term of the lessee's lease. Markowitz v. Greenwall Theatrical Circuit Co. (Civ. App.) 75 S. W. 74, 817.

A subtenant is not liable to the landlord on covenants contained in the lease between the landlord and lessee, where he has not so contracted. Id.

A subtenant, who has not held nor been held to recover damages for the damage the owner has sustained, is chargeable with knowledge of the term of the lessee's lease. Markowitz v. Greenwall Theatrical Circuit Co. (Civ. App.) 75 S. W. 74, 817.

A lessee has performed the conditions of his lease, notwithstanding a void assignment of his lease, held to be entitled to recover of the landlord for expenditures after the assignment. Morrow v. Camp (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 819; Allen v. Same, Id.

A subtenant is chargeable with knowledge of the terms of the lessee's lease. Id.

A contract between lessee of opera house and third person held not to have amounted to a subletting of the premises by the lessee. Markowitz v. Greenwall Theatrical Circuit Co. (Civ. App.) 75 S. W. 74, 817.

A lessee, having performed the conditions of his lease, notwithstanding a void assignment of his lease, held to be entitled to recover of the landlord for expenditures after the assignment. Morrow v. Camp (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 819; Allen v. Same, Id.

A subtenant is chargeable with knowledge of the lessee's lease. Id.

A contract between a lessee, covenanted not to sublet or assign without the lessee's consent, and a third person, held an assignment of the lease. Cockrell v. Houston Packing Co. (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 597.

A lessee, having performed the conditions of his lease, notwithstanding a void assignment of his lease, held to be entitled to recover of the landlord for expenditures after the assignment. Morrow v. Camp (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 819; Allen v. Same, Id.

A subtenant is chargeable with knowledge of the lessee's lease. Id.

A contract between a lessee, covenanted not to sublet or assign without the lessee's consent, and a third person, held an assignment of the lease. Cockrell v. Houston Packing Co. (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 597.

Any disclaimer in such a contract must be disregarded. Id.

A party to whom a tenant has transferred his rights in a stall field cannot pasture his cattle in such field, to the damage of the owner after the expiration of the lease. Tandy v. Reveler (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 481.

An instrument executed by a lessee whereby he conveys the entire term and parts with all reversionary interest in the premises is an assignment, while, if he retains any reversionary interest, the instrument is a sublease. Davis v. Vidal, 105 T. 444, 131 S. W. 290, 42 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1084.

Where a tenant reserves, in the instrument, giving possession to his transferee, the right of re-entry on failure to pay rent, he retains an interest in the premises and the instrument is a subletting, though stated to be an assignment. Id.

The word "term," in the rule that a tenant who parts with the entire term embraced in his lease is an assignor of the lease, defined. Id.

Lessee who sublets as proprietor.—The lessee of a building, who sublets part of it, is a proprietor within the purview of the gambling statutes. De Los Santos v. State (Cr. App.) 146 S. W. 919.

Persons liable for rent.—See notes at end of chapter.

Subject-matter to which lien attaches.—See notes under Art. 5475.

Admissibility of evidence of sublease in criminal action.—In a prosecution for murder, where it appeared that the accused was the lessee and killed deceased when endeavoring to gain possession of a house on land which he had recently bought, occupied by deceased as a subtenant, the evidence clearly raised the issue whether deceased was in possession with the acquiescence of and under authority of his vendor. Held, that in such case testimony as to any lease, rent, or permission to occupy subsequent to the deed to accused was admissible, and there was no error in refusing to exclude it from the jury on motion before argument, based on the ground that subsequent to the deed there could be no sublease of the premises to deceased without consent of accused, because of this article, prohibiting subleases without consent of the landlord. Gay v. State, 59 Cr. R. 472, 125 S. W. 896.

Art. 5490. [3251] Owners of buildings to have preference lien, etc.

—All persons leasing or renting any residence, storehouse or other building, shall have a preference lien upon all the property of the tenant in such residence, storehouse or other building, for the payment of the rents due and that may become due; provided, the lien for rents to become due shall not continue or be enforced for a longer period than the current contract year, it being intended by the term, "current contract year," to embrace a period of twelve months, reckoning from the beginning of the lease or rental contract, whether the same be in the first or any other year of such lease or rental contract. Such lien shall continue and be in force so long as the tenant shall occupy the rented premises, and for one month thereafter; but this article shall not be construed as in any manner repealing or affecting any act exempting property from forced sale. [Acts 1889, p. 11.]

Duration of lien.—The lien given by statute is limited to the year. When the occupation of the premises continues beyond the term limited by the statute, the preference of the landlord is limited to the year if the tenant is to vacate the premises on the expiration of the term for any reason. If by the contract the rent becomes due and payable monthly on the first day of each subsequent month, the lien exists only for the rent already accrued and to accrue during the year. [H. R. E., B. & B. Ass'n v. Cochran, 60 T. 229.]

The effect of this article is to prevent the landlord from ever asserting a claim for more than one year's rent to become due in the future; that is, no matter how many years may be covered by the contract, the lien can only be enforced for a period up to the end of the current contract year. It does not prevent the making of a lease for more than one year, but it divides such contract as far as the lease is concerned into a series of yearly contracts, and when the tenant has occupied the premises for any part of any said series of years, the landlord has a lien for the balance of such year. [Allen v. Brunner, 33 C. A. 125, 78 S. W. 821.]

Failure to claim exemption.—The failure of a purchaser of the tenant to claim that property is exempt precludes such purchaser from claiming exemption to invalidate a judgment for foreclosure a lien. [York v. Carlisle, 19 C. A. 269, 46 S. W. 257.]

Subject matter to which lien attaches.—See notes under Art. 5475.

Rent secured.—See notes under Art. 5475.

Rent or notice of lien.—See notes under Art. 5477.

Rent or notice of attachment.—The tenant whose goods are seized by process of attachment, and which remain on the premises until their sale under such process, is liable for rent during the entire period of occupancy. The goods, while in custody of the law, are not subject to seizure for rent under a distress warrant; but immediately upon a refusal of them being made the landlord's lien may be enforced by his seizure of the store and for all rents due. If the landlord sells the premises after the goods are attached, he has the like remedy for the collection of rents which were due before his sale, which he may enforce against the goods in the hands of the purchaser remaining in the store after their sale under attachment. [Meyer v. Oliver, 61 T. 584.]

Persons as against whom lien may be enforced.—See notes under Art. 5475.

Rental and advances.—See notes at end of title.

Waiver, loss or discharge of lien.—See notes under Art. 5475a.

Distress warrant as prerequisite to foreclosure.—See notes under Art. 5479.

Art. 5491. [3252] Distress warrant, how obtained.—When any rent shall become due, or the tenant about to remove from such leased or rented buildings, or remove his property therefrom, it shall be lawful for the person to whom the rent is payable, his agent, attorney or assignee, to apply to a justice of the peace of the precinct where the building is situated for a distress warrant, which shall be issued on an affidavit and bond; and the same proceedings shall be had on the issuance, trial and return of such warrant as is now provided by law in this chapter; the object of this and the preceding article being to extend the operation of such law so as to include and protect liens on residences and storehouses and other buildings occupied or used by tenants, and conferring on the owners thereof the same rights and privileges as are now conferred by law on other landlords. [Acts 1879, ch. 119, p. 128.]

Notice to purchaser.—This article and Art. 5490 charge a purchaser from a tenant within one month after removal from the premises with notice of the landlord's lien. [York v. Carlisle, 19 C. A. 269, 46 S. W. 257.]

1. Creation and existence of relation of landlord and tenant.—The relation of landlord and tenant cannot exist upon public lands, and a contract of lease does not bind the tenant to hold for the landlord. Turner v. Ferguson, 33 Cal. 609.

A tenant may prove the true relationship between him and his landlord. Thus, he may show that his deed conveying land to his landlord and a rent contract between them were intended to operate as a mortgage or that they were made upon a specific trust. Smith v. Smith, 81 T. 49, 16 S. W. 657.

When one tenant in common, by express contract, rents his interest to his co-tenant, the relation of landlord and tenant exists between them. Grabfelder v. Gazetti (Civ. App.) 26 S. W. 435.

Where the relation of landlord and tenant is once established, it attaches to all who succeed the tenant immediately or remotely holding the possession originally derived. Buford v. Wesson, 49 C. A. 454, 109 S. W. 276.

2. Tenancy at will.—A tenant at will owns the premises until properly notified to vacate, and landlord's entry for any other purpose while tenancy exists is unauthorized. Elliott v. State, 39 Cr. R. 242, 45 S. W. 711.

A lease held to create a tenancy at will of either party. Beauchamp v. Runnels, 35 Cal. 212, 79 S. W. 1105.

Plaintiffs held tenants at will of defendants, and not bound by a provision of a former lease of the premises absolving defendant from liability for loss by fire. F. Worth & Co. v. J. C. Woolridge & Son, 101 T. 471, 108 S. W. 1193.

3. Implied tenancy.—One tenant in common occupying the premises is not liable to his cotenant for use and occupation, unless he has excluded him therefrom, or by express agreement has promised to pay for the use. Nell v. Shackelford, 48 T. 119.

E. sold B. a tract of land; afterwards the trade was canceled and E. took back the land; thereupon B. occupied same for himself and B. Held, that the relation of landlord and tenant never existed between the parties, and E. could not maintain the suit for rent. Engel v. Brown, 1 App. C. C. § 805.

Where a party has gone into possession of realty under a contract of sale, he cannot be liable to vendee on an implied contract to pay rent. Brown v. Randolph, 26 C. A. 66, 62 S. W. 981.

A tenant in common who does not deny the right of his cotenant to use the land, held not liable for rent. Morris v. Morris, 47 Cal. 244, 105 S. W. 242; Autry v. Reason, 102 T. 123, 108 S. W. 1162.

When a person enters into possession of and by express permission of the owner at will, such possession creates the relation of landlord and tenant; the tenant during said tenancy holding the land in subordination to the title of the owner. Buford v. Wesson, 49 Cal. 454, 109 S. W. 276.

Defendant's possession of the premises under all the circumstances held to be under a constructive tenancy. 16.

50. Claimants of certain land, part of a larger tract, held vendees, and not tenants, of the holder of the legal title. Emporia Lumber Co. v. Tucker (Civ. App.) 120 S. W. 1082.

The relation under certain facts held that of landlord and tenant. Emporia Lumber Co. v. Tucker, 103 T. 447, 131 S. W. 406.

Facts held to show that no contract for a lease, either to defendant or his wife, was entered into. Stevens v. Stoner (Civ. App.) 64 S. W. 934.

Evidence held insufficient to show the execution of a valid contract for the lease of land. Scottish-American Mortg. Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 74 S. W. 644.

In trespass to try title, evidence held insufficient to show that defendant occupied the land other than as plaintiff's tenant. Berry v. Jago, 45 Cal. 8, 100 S. W. 815.

Evidence held insufficient to show that the parties made a mutual and final agreement for a lease of lands at a particular rental. T. A. Robertson & Co. v. Russell, 51 Cal. A. 267, 111 S. W. 265.
The relation of landlord and tenant may be shown by the tenant's acknowledgment of the tenancy. Dunn v. Taylor, 102 T. 80, 113 S. W. 265.

Evidence in a suit by the lessee of a creamery plant for eviction held to raise an issue whether a verbal lease existed. Dickinson Creamery Co. v. Lyle (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 964.

5. Use of property before lease takes effect.—Herding cattle on land of another held not justified by permission of one having a lease not going into effect till after the herding. Tucson Land & Live Stock Co. v. Everett, 34 C. A. 340, 78 S. W. 535.

6. Evidence of lease.—A lease containing a promise to pay rent involved in the usual mutual covenants is not a negotiable instrument. Maxwell v. Urban, 22 C. A. 365, 55 S. W. 1124.

In an action to recover on a lease of lands, proof that a letter accepting a proposal was received held not essential to the establishment of the lease. T. A. Robertson & Co. v. Russell, 51 C. A. 257, 111 S. W. 265.

If defendant signed a lease at the solicitation of the landlord’s agents only to facilitate its transfer to another, he would not be liable thereon. Johnson v. Hulett, 55 C. A. 11, 120 S. W. 257.

Representations of lessor, who was lessee’s attorney, that premises could be used as a meat market, held ground for a rescission, where such use of the premises was prohibited by a city ordinance, though lessee agreed in the lease to use the premises for legitimate purposes. Altgelt v. Grobe (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 233.

8. Liability for breach of contract.—In a contract on a lease, a provision to pay a specified sum as damages for breach of obligation held a stipulation for liquidated damages. Eidler v. Balla (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 150.

Where the consideration for a lease was the lessee’s agreement to maintain a certain kind of school on the premises, and an assignee of the lease maintained a school for several years to the character of which the lessor did not object until some 17 years after it was instituted, the lessor was not then entitled to object. Wildey Lodge No. 21, I. O. O. F., v. City of Paris, 31 C. A. 632, 73 S. W. 69.

The measure of damages for breach of a rental contract is the difference between the contract price and the market rental of the land. Scottish-American Mortg. Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 74 S. W. 564.

In an action for breach of a contract for the rental of farm land, an allowance of damages was based on what the plaintiff could have earned from his share of the crops which he might reasonably have raised on the land, held not objectionable as speculative and uncertain. Rogers v. McGuffey, 96 S. W. 566, 74 S. W. 783.

A stipulation in a lease held not to furnish a measure of damages for a certain breach of the lease by the lessee. Raywood Rice Canal & Milling Co. v. Langford Bros., 33 C. A. 401, 74 S. W. 926.

The value of crops which might probably have been made on leased land during the term is a proper element of damages for breach by the lessor of his contract to lease the land. King v. Griffin, 39 C. A. 497, 87 S. W. 844.

The rule for computation of damages for breach of a contract to lease stated. Graves v. Brownson (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 566.

If the defendant rented land to a tenant agreeing to furnish seed and water, it would be liable for damages for breach of its agreement, whether the land leased belonged to it or not. Kinceloe Irrigating Co. v. Hahn Bros. & Co. (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 78.

The measure of damages for the lessor’s breach of a valid lease held to be what the lease might have been worth to him for the entire term. Garrett v. Danner (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 678.

9. Estoppel of tenant.—A tenant is estopped from disputing the validity of the title under which he enters on land, but in an action by the landlord to recover possession he may show that he has acquired the plaintiff’s title, as by judgment against him, execution and sale. Camley v. Stanfield, 19 T. 546, 69 Am. Dec. 215; Andrews v. Richardson, 21 T. 287; Texas Land Co. v. Turman, 63 T. 619.

A. leased a lot to B. for a term of twelve years. B. paid rent for five years, when, C. claiming to be the owner of the premises, demanded possession of the lot and threatened suit and eviction. A. being insolvent and unable to indemnify B., the latter purchased the lot. In a suit by A. for rents and possession, B. was permitted to defend as holding the superior title. Gallagher v. Bennett, 38 T. 291.

The doing upon land under or by consent of the legal owner or of one of several tenants in common is, as to such entry, a tenancy, and cannot be repudiated by the tenant in a suit by the holder of the title under which such entry was made, unless such tenancy has been terminated by some express disclaimer brought home to the landlord, so as to put him on notice of the statutes of limitation. Word v. Drouthett, 44 T. 366; Towery v. Henderson, 60 T. 291; Camley v. Stanfield, 10 T. 546, 60 Am. Dec. 219; Flanagan v. Pearson, 61 T. 302; Tyler v. Davis, 61 T. 674.

A tenant may lawfully attorn to a third party, who after the lease purchased the premises. Texas Land Co. v. Turman, 63 T. 619.

A tenant cannot deny the title of his landlord. The fact that he originally entered without recognizing his tenancy, and afterwards attorns to the landlord, does not vary the rule; he is estopped by his recognition of his tenancy, no matter how he first went into possession. Rait v. Van Pool, ex rel. W. J. Pluckett, 54 T. 1018, 32 Am. Dec. 479.

A tenant may lawfully attorn to a third party, who after the lease purchased the premises. Texas Land Co. v. Turman, 63 T. 619.

A tenant may lawfully attorn to a third party, who after the lease purchased the premises. Texas Land Co. v. Turman, 63 T. 619.

A tenant may lawfully attorn to a third party, who after the lease purchased the premises. Texas Land Co. v. Turman, 63 T. 619.

A tenant may lawfully attorn to a third party, who after the lease purchased the premises. Texas Land Co. v. Turman, 63 T. 619.

A tenant may lawfully attorn to a third party, who after the lease purchased the premises. Texas Land Co. v. Turman, 63 T. 619.

A tenant may lawfully attorn to a third party, who after the lease purchased the premises. Texas Land Co. v. Turman, 63 T. 619.
Tenants or their privies in blood or estate are, as a general rule, estopped from contesting the title of their landlord as long as they hold the possession originally derived from him. Whitsett v. Miller, 1 U. C. 306. “The tenant may, however, show that the landlord’s title has expired, or that some change has taken place in it since the lease; that he himself has purchased a title not inconsistent with his duty as tenant; or that he was induced to accept the lease or possession by fraud or mistake.” Caskey v. S. W. 406; McShan v. Myers, 1 U. C. 305.

When a tenant ceased to exercise control over the rented premises for a short time after the expiration of his lease, but without notifying his landlord, and then rented from a third party, it was held that he was estopped from denying the title of him under whom he was then holding. Juneman v. Franklin, 57 T. 411, 8 S. W. 562.

A tenant after termination of his lease may assert a superior title without surrendering the possession. Dodge v. Phelan, 21 S. W. 399, 2 C. A. 441.

Where a lessee and his heirs held over without giving notice that they claimed the land as their own, held, that their possession was the possession of the lessor, as against a subsequent purchaser of the land. Mattfeld v. Huntington, 17 C. A. 716, 43 S. W. 53.

A tenant cannot hold possession derived from his landlord, and contest his title to the landlord. Agnew v. Co. 44 S. W. 947 (Civ. App.)

Under a contract to purchase land if the title is good, or pay rent for its use if the title fails, the tenant is not liable for rent until the failure of title is shown. Cross v. Freeman, 19 C. A. 428, 47 S. W. 472.

Where a hotel is conducted by the agent of the owner, a servant employed by the agent is not estopped from showing the relations of the parties by a lease between them. Oriental Inv. Co. v. Barclay, 25 C. A. 543, 64 S. W. 80.

There is no duty resting on a tenant to protect the land from judicial sales which will prevent him from having a tax sale, and he is heaving itself at a tax title so acquired against his landlord, without coming within the rule prohibiting a tenant from denying his landlord’s title. Crosby v. Bonnowsky, 29 C. A. 455, 69 S. W. 212.

Any one holding possession by permission or at sufferance under another is estopped to deny possession. Cobb v. Robertson, 138, 86 S. W. 476, 123 Am. St. Rep. 606.

A tenant cannot dispute the title of his landlord and assert to another without surrendering the possession to him. Huslett v. Platt, 49 C. A. 377, 109 S. W. 397.

Certain statements by a tenant held not to affect the tenancy; and the tenant’s continued possession inured to the benefit of his landlord. Id.

A tenant held authorized without surrender of possession to resist a suit of his landlord by interposing an acquired superior title. Hyman v. Grant, 59 C. A. 37, 114 S. W. 585.

A lessee held not estopped from disputing the lessor’s title to a tract not within the bounds of the land leased. Rogers v. Stevenson (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 472.

In an action by a lessee to recover possession and to establish plaintiff’s title whereby defendant’s title was destroyed, the latter may defend by showing a superior title in himself. Stevenson v. Rogers, 103 T. 169, 123 S. W. 1, 29 L. R. A. (N. S.) 55, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 99.

The attornment by a tenant of a landlord claiming the premises to another tenant held void as against the landlord and not to affect his possession. Wiener v. Zweib (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 699.

A tenant having repudiated the contract of tenancy and restored the premises to the landlord may sue therefor and show that he has the superior title thereto. Lumpkin v. Woods (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 1139.

10. Warranty that building is adapted to lessee’s purpose.—There is no implied warranty on the part of a landlord that a building is adapted to the purposes for which it is leased. Young v. Ortlieb, 73 T. 727, 8 S. W. 515.

11. Commencement of term.—In an action to recover rent under a lease, where plaintiff had failed to complete a building within the contract time, defendant held to have accepted the building. Berry v. Burnett, 23 C. A. 555, 58 S. W. 769.

12. Right of mortgagor to rent.—Where a mortgagor was entitled to possession at the time rents accrued, he or his assignee were entitled to all of such rents as against the mortgagor. F. Groos & Co. v. Chittim (Civ. App.) 100 S. W. 1006.

Evidence held to support a finding that a lease of a described dwelling in a city and the yard and outhouses belonging thereto included a barn. Goodhue v. Hawkins (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 288.

Where an owner of a one-story building containing several rooms leases them to different tenants, each lessee has merely an easement in the roof and has no control over it. Clayton v. Brown Co. v. O’Connor (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 339.

14. Conversion by landlord.—Where tenant has left property on premises to secure payment of rent due, landlord, while not guilty of conversion for refusal to deliver property without tender of rent, should then resort to legal proceedings to collect his claim. Schwust v. Neely (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 608.

Conversion will not lie against landlord for disposing of property left by tenant on premises to secure payment of rent due, in absence of refusal to deliver it on demand, and tender of rent due. Id.

Landlord liable for conversion where he disposes of property left by tenant on premises, but not for purposes of securing payment of rent, without foreclosing his landlord’s lien. Id.

Evidence held to show a conversion by landlord of tenant’s hay. Gaw v. Bingham (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 951.
A wrongful conversion of the property of an evicted tenant held not shown by the evidence. Wilson v. Moore, 67 C. A. 418, 122 S. W. 577.

15. Liability of landlord for debts incurred by tenant.—A landlord held not liable to a tenant for his debts incurred by the tenant in the premises under a contract made by the tenant, though custom required landlords to pay a part of the expense of harvesting crops, nor on the theory that he accepted the work. Martin v. Slimp (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 431.

16. Rights of action against landlord. — In action between tenants. In an action by one tenant against another, where defendant brought in the owners, his allegations as to their duty held not to entitle him to judgment over against the owners. Burkett & Barnes v. Dillon (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 917.

17. Right of action against landlord for breach of contract with tenant. — Where plaintiffs recovered against their landlords for breach of contract to furnish water to irrigate their crops, the landlords were not thereby entitled to recover over against an irrigation company which had agreed to furnish the water to the landlords the amount of plaintiffs' recovery. Brooks v. Goodhue (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 422.

18. Extending time for payment of rent. — An agreement, without consideration, to extend, without interest, an installment of rent due on a lease, is invalid. Randolph v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 297.

Wrongful receipt of rent as creating trust. — Where one forgives a lease and receives rents thereunder, it does not create a constructive trust in favor of the landlord. Brown v. Hooks, 33 C. A. 245, 76 S. W. 606.

20. Recovery by tenant for services after breach of contract. — Renter who failed to comply with contract held entitled to recover the reasonable value of his services, not to exceed the contract price, less the owner's damages. Dyer v. McWhirter, 51 C. A. 200, 111 S. W. 1063.

22. Delivery of possession. — A tenant having knowledge of the refusal of a third person to vacate a part of the land, who takes possession of the remainder without notifying the landlord of the facts, held bound by his acts. Northcutt v. Allen (Civ. App.) 148 S. W. 607.

23. Damages for failure to deliver possession. — Measure of damages for failure of a landlord to furnish a part of the ground to the tenant which he has leased to him, stated. Pressler v. Warren, 57 C. A. 635, 122 S. W. 909.

A lessee paying the stipulated rent held not precluded from recovering from the lessor the rental value of property wrongfully withheld by him. Goodhue v. Hawkins (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 283.

A showing, in an action for damages for withholding possession of leased premises, that the lessee had conducted a similar business in the city, and that its old customers had promised to renew their patronage in defendants' building which was as well located as the other building, held not sufficient to authorize damages for profits lost by being deprived of the use of the building; such item being too uncertain and speculative. Walter Box Co. v. Blackburn (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 220.

In an action for damages for withholding possession of leased premises, plaintiff could recover the amount paid its manager while kept from using the storeroom, where it employed him immediately after making the lease with defendants, and his services were reasonable and necessary, and defendants knew when the building was rented that the business would be conducted by the lessor. Id.

A tenant held entitled to recover damages occasioned by a railroad company wrongfully obstructing the entrance to his place of business, and the question whether he was a lessee for a year or from month to month held immaterial. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Capers, 33 C. A. 233, 77 S. W. 39.

The proposal of a lease considered, and held that the lessor did not warrant the use and possession of the leased premises against the acts of a stranger. Thomas v. Brin, 53 C. A. 143, 85 S. W. 842.

In an action for injury to cattle and grass in a pasture, plaintiff held not entitled, under the evidence, to recover for the destruction of winter pasture. Baldwin v. Richardson, 39 C. A. 466, 87 S. W. 746.

A hotel lessee's measure of damage for wrongful dispossession stated. Orange Hotel Co. v. Townsend (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 701.

The owner of a leasehold of land for a term of years has an interest in the land for his term and a remedy for its recovery, if deprived of its possession, and not merely a right of action for breach of contract, as has a cropper. Ellis v. Bingham (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 602.

25. Mode and purposes of use of premises in general. — Lease of premises for saloon constituted, and held not to authorize the lessee to abandon the same on the passage of a law making it unlawful to use the property for a saloon. San Antonio Brewing Ass'n v. Bents, 39 C. A. 443, 88 S. W. 365.

A lessor held entitled to restrain use of the premises for a moving picture show or any other unauthorized purpose. Dycus v. Traders' Bank & Trust Co., 52 C. A. 175, 113 S. W. 329.
A tenant may use the premises for any business not prohibited by law, and for which the premises are adapted, where the lease is silent thereon. Fred v. Mosley (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 343. A landlord cannot enjoin a tenant from making small changes in the premises to adapt the same to his business. Id.

28. Rights as to crops. — Where a tenant abandoned a crop, his landlord could market it and apply the proceeds to the tenant's debt. Cunningham v. Skinner (Civ. App.) 97 S. W. 569.

A tenant who refused to surrender possession at the end of his term, and who unlawfully withheld possession, and planted a crop was properly deprived of the crop, on his refusal to surrender possession the land and taking the crop had been severed from the land. Duncan v. Jouett (Civ. App.) 111 S. W. 981.

A tenant may, notwithstanding the expiration of the tenancy, gather the remainder of his crop, but he must act promptly, and where he abandons the crop he cannot sue the landlord for a valuation of the crop. Huggins v. Reynolds, 504 N. Y. 116.

Certain facts held to show that a landlord and tenant contracted with reference to a custom, giving the tenant the right to harvest a crop planted before the expiration of the term. Bowles v. Driver (Civ. App.) 112 S. W. 446.

Where plaintiff was in possession under a lease, and another lessee, with notice of his possession, drove his cattle on the land, the lessors were not liable. And other lessees who drove the cattle off were not liable in damages if they did not know of his lease. Wilson v. Moore, 57 C. A. 418, 122 S. W. 577.

One claiming possession of land under a lease, and evicted on forcible entry and detainer, held not entitled, in a subsequent action against the landlord, to recover the value of the proceeds from the crop taken, as that part of judgment in forcible entry and detainer. Rankin v. Hooks (Civ. App.) 81 S. W. 1005.

Where a lessee was ejected from the leased premises by the lessor, the latter was liable to the lessee for the reasonable rental value of the land for the unexpired period of the lease. Campbell v. Howerton (Civ. App.) 87 S. W. 370.

Where, in a suit for wrongful eviction, the undisputed testimony showed the value of the use of the premises did not exceed the amount of rent to be paid, plaintiff failed to show damage. Wilson v. Moore, 57 C. A. 418, 122 S. W. 577.

In a suit for wrongful eviction and conversion of a tenant's property, evidence held insufficient to justify the direction of a verdict for plaintiff. Id.

A tenant from month to month held not entitled to possession and to recover damages for an eviction after termination of his lease by default in rent. Id.

An damages for eviction from such premises as a creamery plant, the lessee can recover for loss of prospective profits where they are reasonably certain. Dickinson Creamery Co. v. Lyle (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 904.

28. Liability for rent. — Attornment of tenant to third person under threatened eviction held not to release tenant from liability to landlord for rent. Afford v. Carver, 31 C. A. 607, 72 S. W. 865.

Conveyance by landlord of such title to demised premises as he had acquired under purchase at a foreclosure sale held not to release tenant from liability for rent, whether land was the subject of suit or not. Id.

Where a lessee of a theater installed fixtures and began giving shows before the building was completed, he was liable for rent. McConnell & Merchant v. Brick-Phillips Co. (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 1133.

29. Failure of landlord to repair. — Where a tenant in a lease in which the landlord covenant to make certain necessary repairs remains in possession at the request of the landlord after the latter has failed to make such repairs, he does not waive any right under the lease. Vincent v. Central City & Loan Investment Co., 45 C. A. 36, 99 S. W. 423.

Failure of a landlord to make repairs provided for in a lease is a defense to an action for the rent. Id.

The obligation to repair does not depend on employment of competent workmen; and, in an action for rent of premises abandoned for alleged failure to repair, it was not error to refuse to give the instruction that plaintiff would do his duty if he employed such workmen. Central City Loan & Investment Co. v. Vincent (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 912.

30. Injury to premises. — Where a lease of a store did not require the landlord to make repairs, or relieve the tenant from liability for rent on account of damage by fire, the tenant held liable for rent while the landlord was voluntarily repairing such damage except for so much of the time consumed as exceeded a reasonable time to make the repairs. Chambers v. Mattingly, 47 C. A. 129, 103 S. W. 663.

31. Surrender or abandonment. — A landlord is not obliged to endeavor to let premises for the benefit of a tenant who refuses to continue the tenancy under a lease. Radke v. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n, 17 C. A. 167, 42 S. W. 774.

On a tenant wrongly vacating the premises before expiration of his term, the landlord need not relet for the tenant's benefit. Goldman v. Broyles (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 293.

Where a term for years was terminated by order of the landlord acted upon by the tenant who paid the rent to that time, the tenant was entitled to a cancellation of his previously executed notes for each month's rent during the term. Davidson v. Harris (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 696.

where defendant gave notes for rent under a lease, the fact that he did not occupy the premises for the whole term was immaterial. presses v. barreda (civ. app.) 157 s. w. 438.

32. amount.—a tenant held not required to pay additional rent for land that he had made suitable for cultivation. hazlewood v. pennybacker (civ. app.) 60 s. w. 199.

where there was no express rental contract, defendant was liable for the reasonable rental value of the land. robbins v. voss (civ. app.) 64 s. w. 313.

a landlord held entitled by virtue of the agreement with his tenant to rent of the entire premises, including a house built thereon by the tenant. mentz v. haight (civ. app.) 97 s. w. 1976.

a tenant by the month holding over is liable for the whole month’s rent, though he has no lease. johnson v. hulett, 56 c. a. 11, 120 s. w. 257.

a tenant held entitled to rely on the lease, fixing the amount of the rent. sanborn v. h. r. roach drug co. (civ. app.) 157 s. w. 132.

tenants held liable for rent at same rate as stated in lease for months during which they held possession of premises. sheppard’s home v. wood (civ. app.) 143 s. w. 988.

tenants retaining possession and authoring to another landlord held liable for reasonable rent, but not as tenants. id.

33. time of accrual.—at common law, rent payable in money, in the absence of a stipulation as to the time of payment, is not due until the end of the year. neinaat v. doeckle, 1 app. c. c. § 219.

liability of lessees and guarantors, where the lease provides a gross sum as rent, for all to be due on default in any payment, determined. hart v. wynne (civ. app.) 40 s. w. 948.

in an action to recover rent and to terminate a lease, the court held to have properly noted the lease canceled for nonpayment was legally canceled on december 11, 1908, and improperly refused a charge that the rent was not due and payable until january 1st of each year. felknor v. hyman (civ. app.) 135 s. w. 1128.

34. persons entitled.—a person may, in the absence of fraud, bind himself to pay for the use of property to which the lessee has no title. cross v. freeman, 22 c. a. 294, 54 s. w. 246.

after notice of an assignment of rent due under a lease, the lessee can do no act which may affect assignee’s rights. maxwell v. urban, 22 c. a. 666, 55 s. w. 1124.

an assignee of rent without the reversion reserved in a lease for years may maintain an action of debt for the rent accrued against the lessee. f. gosse & co. v. chittim (civ. app.) 100 s. w. 1006.

the general rule is that even an apportionment of rent is never made under the common law in reference to length of time of occupation, but, when the rent falls due, the owner of the reversion at that time is entitled to the entire sum. lester v. zink (civ. app.) 154 s. w. 1161.

35. persons liable.—the assignees of a leasehold interest are liable for rent accruing according to the terms of the lease. where a leasehold interest was sold at sheriff’s sale, the purchaser became liable to the landlord for rent subsequently accruing, although the owner of the property had prosecuted suit for rents (under which nothing had been collected) against the original lessee. le gierse v. green, 61 t. 128, citing harvey v. mcgregor, 44 t. 412.

when a tenant, with the consent of the landlord, sublets land to another for a part of the term, the relation of landlord and tenant exists between these parties (t. & f. ry. co. v. bayliss, 62 t. 570), and the subtenant is not liable to the landlord for the rent due from the tenant (gibson v. mullican, 65 t. 430, citing harvey v. mcgregor, 44 t. 412).

an abnormally low rent, an increase in the value of the property increased the rent and the landlord was entitled to the increase. paterson v. bishop, 79 t. 176.

see reed v. mcgodirck (civ. app.) 154 s. w. 257, as to the rights of a subtenant of a life tenant, and the administrator of the life tenant. an acceptance by the landlord of a payment from a subtenant for rent due by him is a sufficient of all claims against him, whether or not there was an agreement of renting by the landlord to the subtenant of the premises cultivated by him. smith v. price, 22 c. a. 96, 54 s. w. 284.

where subtenants have converted crops on which the landlord has a lien for rent, he may sue either of them for his damages. marrs v. lumpkins, 22 c. a. 448, 54 s. w. 775.

in an action by a purchaser of leased premises against a sublessee for rent, the fact that the contract between the original owner and the lessee had not been settled held no defense. robbins v. voss (civ. app.) 64 s. w. 313.

one who occupies premises is liable for rent during the period of his occupancy, irrespective of the validity of the lease under which he purports to hold. ascarete v. paff, 34 c. a. 375, 78 s. w. 911.

a subtenant is not liable on the contract between the landlord and the original lessee, though a lien exists in favor of the landlord for rent as against property of the subtenant. st. worth fair assoc. v. st. worth driving club, 56 c. a. 167, 121 s. w. 211.

original lessor held not entitled to sue for rent due from a sublessor under a contract with the original lessee. davis v. vidal (civ. app.) 123 s. w. 1074.

a mortgagee of a lease, who takes possession of the leased premises, is, in effect, an assignee of the lessee and is liable to the landlord for the rent; but a mortgagee of a lease, not in possession, is not an assignee. cockrell v. houston packing co. (sup.) 147 s. w. 1146.

a landlord may not recover the rent due from a subtenant. davis v. vidal, 105 t. 444, 121 s. w. 290, 42 l. r. a. (n. s.) 1084.

a tenant who makes a sublease is not released from his obligation, where the landlord did not consent to the sublease, or where the landlord did not agree that the tenant should be released. mcgaff v. scrimshire (civ. app.) 155 s. w. 767.
A provision in a lease, authorizing a tenant to sublet, but providing that the subletting shall not be for rent, and that his liability for rents not so collected shall also become liable therefor, held to bind the tenant for the payment of the rent, whether he sublet the premises or not. Pressler v. Barreda (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 435.

Where a lease authorized a tenant to sublet, and made the subtenants liable to the landlord for rent, it was the duty of the tenant, and not of the landlord, to collect the rents from the subtenants. Id.

In an action on notes by a tenant for rent to accrue, the contract between defendant and his subtenants, to which the landlord was not a party, was immaterial. Id.

137. Evidence.—A lessee may await himself, as against an assignee of his lessor, or of any equity existing between himself and his lessor at the date of an assignment by the lessor. Maxwell v. Urban, 22 C. A. 566, 55 S. W. 1124.

An assignee of a lessee is chargeable with notice of the covenant expressed or implied in the lease assigned. Id.

Statement made by lessee to assignee of lessor, before assignment, held not to be waiver of lessee's rights under the lease. Id.

Though a general grant of the reversion passes all the leases to which the property is subject, including the rents, the grantee's right to the rents is subject to equities of the tenants and other Incumbrances of which the grantee had notice. F. Groos & Co. v. Chittim (Civ. App.) 100 S. W. 1006.

A tenant assuming the burden of taking up a vendor's lien note may not refuse to perform his lease because of the failure of the landlord to take up such note. Autrey v. Linn (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 197.

In an action for the rental value of certain real property, evidence of improvements made by the tenant and of his purchase of a house with a view to placing it on the premises held inadmissible. Brooks v. Wynn (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1055.

Evidence held sufficient to allow of the judgment for rent, without special testimony as to the value of the corn that was to be given as part of the rent. Menning Bros. & Co. v. Cardwell, 33 C. A. 16, 75 S. W. 354.

A tenant held liable to a prior grantor for reserved rents in case such grantee acquired possession from the grantor's tenant with notice of a reservation of such rents. Applegate v. Kilgore (Civ. App.) 91 S. W. 258.

In an action on a contract for rent, held to sustain a finding that plaintiff did not release defendant from his contract and accept another as lessee. Demetri v. McCoy (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 293.

In an action on rent notes, evidence held insufficient to show a release of the tenant's liability for rent on subletting the premises. Pressler v. Barreda (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 435.

Amount of recovery.—Where defendants claimed damages for failure to complete a stable, in an action for rent, a judgment held not reversible on appeal for inadequacy in the amount of such damages allowed. Berry v. Burnett, 23 C. A. 568, 56 S. W. 769.

Measure of recovery of rent under a lease where tenant refused to continue in occupancy held not lessened by amount for which landlord might have rented to others. Davidson v. Hirah, 45 C. A. 631, 101 S. W. 269.

Where one, suing for the reasonable rent for land, testified that the reasonable rent was $50 a year, a verdict for $45 rent per year was not excessive. Houston Land & Irrigation Co. v. Bradford (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 106.

Estoppel to sue for second installment of rent.—One bringing action for an installment of rent is not estopped from subsequently suing for subsequent Installments. Racke v. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n, 17 C. A. 167, 42 S. W. 774.

Estoppel to sue for rent.—In an action in favor of a judgment for rent on the ground that the tenant had held over, and thereby became liable for an additional time equal to the term, held, that a decree was conclusive as to the question of holding over. Racke v. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n, 17 C. A. 167, 42 S. W. 774.

A judgment in favor of the landlord in an action based on the lease held not res judicata in a subsequent action by the tenant against the landlord for breach of the lease. Dixon v. Watson, 52 C. A. 412, 115 S. W. 100.

A judgment in favor of the landlord bringing an action on the lease held to bar an action against the tenant for damages for breach of a covenant of the lease. Id.

Validity of bond by lessee for improvements.—A bond given by a lessee conditioned on his placing certain improvements on the leased premises held not unenforceable as imposing conclusiveness of action in action. —In an action for rent on the ground that such improvements were not made, the bond was held enforceable. Racke v. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n, 117 C. A. 108, 117 S. W. 576.

Transfer of reversion.—Purchaser of a reversion, without notice, other than the tenant's possession, of a parcel of land by which the tenant might apply the rent to reimburse himself for money paid on an indorsement of a note for the landlord, held entitled to the rents payable out of the produce of the land and accruing after the conveyance. Lester v. Zink (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 1161.

Illegality of distress warrant as affecting right to collect rent.—The right of the landlord to recover rent does not depend upon the legality of the distress warrant. If a rental contract existed, the landlord is entitled to recover upon it regardless of the existence of the ground alleged in the affidavit for the distress warrant. Dwyer v. Testard, 65 T. 452; Wallace v. Bogel, 66 T. 574, 2 S. W. 96; Pruitt v. Kelley, 4 App. C. C. § 176, 15 S. W. 1119.

Waste.—That a hole made in party wall by tenant could be repaired at trifling expense held not to prevent its constituting waste. Hamburger & Dreyling v. Settegast (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 659.

Art. 5491

To constitute waste, it is not necessary that an alteration by a tenant should diminish the value of the property, but it may even enhance its value. Id.

46. Improvements by tenant.—Death of landlord held not to revoke the tenant's right, under the lease, to make improvements and receive pay therefor. Haslewood v. Pennybacker (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 198.

A tenant held entitled to pay for new fences, though he was required to keep fences in repair without pay. Id.

A tenant authorized to make improvements to be designated by the landlord, in lieu of rent, is not entitled to credit for improvements made without request. Randolph v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 297.

A bond given by a lessee to put machinery into the leased building held not satisfied, unless substantially all of the machinery was put in. Marsh v. Phillips (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 1160.

47. Removal.—A tenant cannot remove fixtures attached to the premises by him, except trade fixtures, etc., agricultural fixtures and fixtures for ornament or convenience or for domestic use. Bovey v. Holzgraff, 23 S. W. 1014, 5 C. A. 141.

If a tenant having the right to remove fixtures placed by him on the demised premises accepts a new lease without reservation of fixtures and enters on a new term, the right to remove is lost. Wright v. Macdonell (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 1024.

Pumps, houses and machinery erected on land for the use and convenience of the lessee are movable fixtures and may be removed by the tenant. Railway Co. v. Dunman (Civ. App.) 33 S. W. 1024.

Improvements of lessee held not forfeited because not removed within the time required by the lease. Bernea Land & Lumber Co. v. Adoue, 20 C. A. 665, 50 S. W. 131.

And to remove his buildings, where not shown that the buildings were sold during his term, subject to his right to remove them, although his subsequent lease from the purchaser did not mention the buildings or the right to remove them. Hertzberg v. Witte, 22 C. A. 320, 54 S. W. 232.

Assignee of lease held not entitled to remove storehouse erected by his assignor on the leased property. Miller v. Gray, 29 C. A. 183, 68 S. W. 617.

48. Improvements by landlord.—Fact that agent of landlord had matter of making improvements requested by tenants under consideration held insufficient to raise implication that request would be complied with. Abeel v. McDonnell, 29 C. A. 452, 57 S. W. 1066.

49. Damages for failure to make improvements.—In an action for rent and damages, evidence of the enhanced value of the land for improvements made by the tenant held inadmissible on any issues as to damages for failure to exterminate a noxious grass. Haslewood v. Pennybacker (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 199.

Where a landlord failed to fence a tract leased for peanut culture as agreed in time to enable the crop to be planted, the tenant's measure of damages was the market value of the peanuts that would have been raised, less the cost of cultivating and marketing the crop. Cockrell v. Ellison (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 150.

50. Duty to make repairs in general.—A landlord is not bound to repair in the absence of a covenant or agreement on his part to do so. Weinstein v. Harrison, 66 T. 646, 1 S. W. 636.

A tenant is bound to keep in repair leased premises, unless otherwise expressly agreed or when the premises are let with a nuisance upon them. When a building containing a number of apartments is divided among seven tenants, each is responsible for any repairs required on his lease includes. In the absence of any contract upon the subject of repairs, the tenant and not the landlord is responsible for damages for want of repairs. O'Connor v. Andrews, 81 T. 28, 16 S. W. 628.

At common law the tenant and not the owner, is bound, as to the public, to keep the premises in as safe condition for the public use as they may be safely visited by the public. Taylor v. Ecker, 24 S. W. 964, 6 C. A. 188. The occupant is prima facie liable to third persons for damages accruing to them from defects in the leased premises, unless, perhaps, where it is shown that such defects existed at the time the premises were leased. Marshall v. Heard, 59 T. 266.

In the absence of a promise by a landlord to reimburse a tenant for repairs, the amount expended therefor cannot be recovered. Riggs v. Gray, 31 C. A. 268, 72 S. W. 101.

In an action for the wrongful suing out of a distress warrant, an instruction that in the absence of an agreement to the contrary it was the tenant's duty to repair fences held improperly refused. Morgan v. Tims, 44 C. A. 308, 37 S. W. 832.

A landlord is not bound to make any repairs on the rented premises unless he agrees to do so at the time of the making of the lease. Blackwell v. Speer (Civ. App.) 98 S. W. 903.

A lessor held not negligent by leaving a door on an upper floor of a hotel building, which opened out on space, unprovided with guards. Texas Loan Agency v. Fleming, 92 T. 458, 49 S. W. 1039, 44 L. R. A. 279.

Where in a lease the landlord contracted to keep the roof in repair, the fact that when the lease was made the roof was defective did not relieve him from liability for damages to the tenant from such defect. Lovejoy v. Townsend, 25 C. A. 385, 61 S. W. 351.

Under the facts, held a landlord was not liable to a tenant for fall of the building. American Exch. Nat. Bank of Dallas v. Swope & Mangold, 46 C. A. 61, 101 S. W. 872.

Where a landlord voluntarily undertook to put a new roof on the rented premises, he was responsible for damages to the tenant's goods by the negligence. Dalikowitz Bros. v. Theimer (Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 564.

A tenant on an upper room held liable for injuries to the goods of a tenant below. Burkett & Barnes v. Dillon (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 917.
A tenant must exercise ordinary care to prevent injury by failure of the landlord to keep the premises safe.S. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 189.

Measure of damages for breach of covenant to repair stated. Id.

A landlord's failure to repair defects in an irrigation lateral held not to excuse the tenant's duty to avoid resulting damage. Poutra v. Martin (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 725.

In a personal injury action the defendant, a railroad, maintained an amusement pavilion in the rear floor from liability for injuries to a patron, on the theory that it had leased the premises to a third person, where the evidence showed that neither the second story of the pavilion nor the boats of the company could be reached without using part of the first floor. Wichita Falls Traction Co. v. Thorne (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 271.

That a railroad, owning and maintaining an amusement pavilion, had granted certain exclusive privileges therein to third person, who was to keep the floor free from obstructions, a joint use of a court, compounding a conflict, would relieve the company from liability for injuries to a patron, caused by an obstruction on the floor, merely because there was no express reservation by the company of the use of that part of the premises where the injury occurred. Id.

Where, in an action against a railroad maintaining an amusement pavilion for injuries to a patron from an obstruction on the floor, there was evidence that certain exclusive privileges therein had been granted to a third person, who agreed to keep the floor free from obstructions, an instruction to find for the company if the jury did not find that the placing or the leaving of the obstruction was negligence on the part of the company, its agents, or employees was properly refused as relieving the company from liability, because it or its agents or employees would not have discovered the obstruction, though other employees would have done so by the use of ordinary care. Id.

51. Nuances.—To make the landlord liable for the maintenance of a nuisance on the premises, it must necessarily result from the ordinary use of the premises by the tenant, or for the purpose for which they were let; and the landlord is not responsible for a nuisance caused by the negligent use of the premises by the tenant. Kennedy v. Garrand (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 570.

52. Injuries to premises.—In an action on contract for rent damages to the property rented, held, plaintiff could not recover against one not party to the contract. Daugherty v. Glass (Civ. App.) 52 S. W. 705.

53. Incumbrances on leasehold in general.—A lessee held to take with notice of a prior recorded release of damages to the land from overflow. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Trojan Ass'n, Inc. (Civ. App.) 100 S. W. 226.

Statement of who can assert failure of consideration of a release. Id.

54. Condition of premises at termination of tenancy.—In an action by a landlord for damages from removal of improvements from the land, plaintiff held not precluded from recovering that neither the land nor the improvements had any market value. Sydney Webb & Co. v. Daggett, 39 C. A. 390, 87 S. W. 743.

Where a tenant obligated to return the property, in as good condition as he received it, ordinary wear and tear alone excepted, received the possession of an engine worth $400, and the engine, when returned by him, was worth $300 less, the landlord was damaged in the amount of the depreciated value. McGaff v. Scrinishire (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 976.

55. Accounting for personal property.—The fact that the lessee delivered all personal property on the premises to the sheriff, taking possession under a writ of sequestration pending against the real property only, did not excuse the lessee from accounting to the lessor for its value. Cammack v. Rogers, 32 C. A. 125, 74 S. W. 945.

56. Renewal of lease in general.—Where a landlord refuses to agree to renew a lease, held, it was proper to hold the lease, if it was allowed to continue, there was no mutual assent to renew. Cammack v. Rogers, 32 C. A. 125, 74 S. W. 945.

57. Renewal of lease.—In a lease binding only the parties to it, and not their heirs or assigns, the lessee must have the premises as long as he paid the rent is without consideration. Hill v. Hunter (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 247.

58. Renewal or extension by holding over.—A tenant holding over leased premises after the expiration of his written lease, which fixed the amount of rent, is only bound to pay reasonable value for the premises for the time he holds over, without regard to the rent fixed in the lease contract. Maynard v. Lockett, 1 U. C. 557.

When a tenant holds over there is an implied contract that he would pay rent as agreed in the written contract. Minor v. Kilgore (Civ. App.) 35 S. W. 593.

A tenant by holding over held not to have exercised an option to renew for a term of years, but to have become liable only for the time exceeded. Minor v. Kilgore (Civ. App.) 35 S. W. 593.

Racke v. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n, 17 C. A. 167, 42 S. W. 774.

A holding over after the expiration of a written lease, without the execution of a new lease, under the terms of the expired lease. Woodward v. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co., 35 C. A. 14, 79 S. W. 896.

Where the tenants under a lease of a storehouse for three years held over after the term expires, such holding over is a lease for a year in the absence of agreement, express or implied. Abeel v. McDonnell, 39 C. A. 453, 87 S. W. 1966.
Where notice to landlord that tenants would only keep the premises if improvement were sufficient to relieve tenants from rent for rent. Id.

Acceptance of rent by agent of landlord for month succeeding expiration of lease, with notice that tenants would only hold premises from month to month, held to raise implied assent by agent to tenants' proposed terms. Id.

When the lease of a storehouse for three years after the expiration of the term induced the lessee to believe that they desired to keep or would keep the premises for another year, they became liable for the rent for the year. Id.

A tenant by the year holding over after the expiration of the term held to premises for the year of the expired lease, by proof of a contract on different terms. Puckett v. Scott, 45 C. A. 393, 100 S. W. 969.

A landlord, refusing to accept the proposition of his tenant holding over after the expiration of the term, held not entitled to retitle premises. Id.

A tenant, holding over two months on the strength of the landlord's promise to make repairs, held not to have exercised his option to renew his lease for another year. Williams v. Houston Cornice Works, 46 C. A. 70, 101 S. W. 839.

Where lease for a year, but told the tenant he could have the house until she needed it for her own use, which would not be till the next spring or summer, the lease was merely from month to month. Patterson v. Ellis (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 390.

Where a lessee held over after a yearly tenancy under an agreement that he might have the premises as long as he paid the rent, the tenancy is from year to year and not a perpetual tenancy. Hill v. Hunter (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 247.

59. Option to purchase premises.—A lease reserving the right to the lessor to sell and terminate the lease on six months' notice, and providing the lessee shall have the option of buying, held not to give the lessee an unconditional option. De Vitt v. Kaufman, 27 C. A. 332, 66 S. W. 224.

60. Duration and termination of lease.—An ordinary contract of lease of a storehouse is not annulled by the death of the lessee. Wilcox v. Alexander (Civ. App.) 32 S. W. 561.

A failure to pay rent does not work a forfeiture of a lease in the absence of a stipulation to that effect. Ewing v. Miles, 12 C. A. 19.

When a lease contract contains a proviso that on nonpayment of rent the term shall cease, the lessee, and not the lessor, has the elective right of determining it upon breach made. Morris v. De Wolf, 11 C. A. 701, 33 S. W. 556.

A landlord held not to have canceled the lease, and resumed possession, by collecting rents from the subtenants, and making repairs. Texas Loan Agency v. Fleming, 92 T. 458, 49 S. W. 1039, 44 L. R. A. 279.

In garnishment, on the issue as to whether the garnishee was indebted for rent of the debtor's farm, evidence that the lessee turned over the premises to the debtor, held inadmissible. Faseler v. Kothman (Civ. App.) 70 S. W. 221.

A denial of the lessor's title by an assignee of the lease, and an assertion of title in itself, terminates the assignee's rights under the lease. Wildey Lodge No. 21, I. O. O. F., v. City of Paris, 21 C. A. 652, 73 S. W. 69.

Where rent for a year in advance was accepted conditionally, held, the lease was terminable on a sale of the property. Thomason v. Oates, 46 C. A. 383, 103 S. W. 1114.

A tenancy at will may be determined at any time by either the landlord or tenant upon notice to the opposite party. Buford v. Wasson, 49 C. A. 484, 109 S. W. 275.

A lease, containing a covenant that breach of any of the covenants or conditions shall terminate it and authorize a re-entry without notice or demand, is a letting for the time stated, unless sooner terminated by the tenant for violation by the tenant of the covenants or conditions. Walther v. Anderson, 63 C. A. 360, 114 S. W. 414.

A lease being for a certain term with power to sublet with the lessor's consent, and providing that any breach of condition shall terminate it and authorize re-entry without notice or demand, subletting without the lessor's consent terminated the lease ipso facto. Id.

A lessee could not waive, in favor of a sublessee, a stipulation in the original lease against the selling of intoxicating liquors on the premises and providing for a forfeiture for violation of such stipulation. Ft. Worth Driving Club v. Ft. Worth Fair Ass'n, 103 T. 24, 122 S. W. 354, Ann. Cas. 1912D, 67.

A notice to a sublessee to vacate "by" or "on or before" a fixed date held not to relieve him from liability for rent to that day on his removing earlier. Goldman v. Bros. (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 283.

To constitute a surrender of a lease, there must be a mutual agreement between the lessor and the lessee. Id.

A landlord's acceptance of rent held not a waiver of a stipulation giving him the right to declare lease forfeited. Id.

Where a tenant for years under a written lease was ordered during the term to vacate and did so, paying the rent to that date, it was a termination of the lease. Davidson v. Harris (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 689.

A duty of recovery of his tenant without the necessity of showing a proper title. Makey v. Dryden (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 633.

62. Renting on shares.—A contract relating to the raising of a crop held not to create the relation of landlord and tenant, but is a letting on shares making the parties tenants in common of the crop. Rogers v. Frazier Bros. & Co. (Civ. App.) 108 S. W. 727.

A contract by which a tenant agreed to work land for another held to make him a tenant, and not a mere cropper. McCullough Hardware Co. v. Call (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 714.
63. Mode of cultivation of land.—In a contract for rent, where the landlord is to receive part of the crop, there is an implied covenant that ordinary care should be exercised by the tenant to cultivate the premises in a farmerlike manner. Cammack v. Rogers, 32 C. A. 125, 74 S. W. 946.

64. Rights and liabilities as to land.—A cropper held entitled to ingress to the rented premises to gather his crop, though it had not matured when his lease expired. Crow v. Ball (Civ. App.) 99 S. W. 583.

65. Rights and liabilities as to crops.—A lessor of land who is to receive a portion of the crop, is not to sue for damage to the crop occasioned by the overflow of waters of a creek resulting from an embankment being erected thereon. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Caldwell (Civ. App.) 102 S. W. 461.

Where land is rented on shares, and the tenant abandons the crop, the landlord has the right to enter to save the same, even though the tenant has not abandoned the premises, nor is it necessary that the tenant give notice in person of his intention to abandon the crop, if the intention to abandon is manifest. Bettis v. Key (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 1160.

A tenant held entitled to possession of crops grown, so that the landlord's taking possession, thereby defeated the purpose of the contract. Crew v. Rogan (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 1126.

A landlord on shares of a crop does not become the owner of any part of the crop until it is matured and divided. Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Doke (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1174.

66. Lien.—See notes under Art. 5475.

67. Mode of division of crops.—Where a crop of cotton is raised on land rented on condition that the landlord shall receive one-half the crop, he is entitled to one-half the cotton seed as well as to one-half the lint. McBride v. Puckett (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 242.

In an action by a tenant against his landlord to recover the value of crops wrongfully seized by the latter, landlord held not entitled to recover the cost of gathering the crop. Fagan v. Vogt, 36 C. A. 528, 80 S. W. 684.

When in common of a crop abandoned, the remaining crops belong to the landlord and not to the tenant. J. & H. v. Fagan (Civ. App.) 115 S. W. 568.

68. Breach of contract by landlord in general.—Measure of damages for breach of contract whereby defendant was to furnish land and plaintiff was to receive half the crops raised by him determined. Rogers v. McCughey (Civ. App.) 75 S. W. 317.

The measure of damages for breach of a rental contract, whereby plaintiff was to raise crops on defendant's land, held not to include value of labor performed by plaintiff. Id.

On a breach by a landlord of a contract of rental on shares, only such sums as the tenant, and those to whose services he was entitled, might by reasonable diligence subsequently earn, can be deducted from the value of the tenant's share of crop. Crews v. Cortez, T. 102, 74 S. W. 229, 38 L. R. A. (N. S.) 715.

A tenant on shares not permitted to make a crop is entitled to recover the reasonable cash market value of his share of the crop that he could have and would have reasonably raised, less any sum which he may have or might have earned otherwise during the period of the contract; but, where there is evidence that the expenditure of money or the hiring of help would have been necessary in making the crop, the expenses of producing his share must be deducted. Brooks v. Davis (Civ. App.) 148 S. W. 1107.

A contract for renting on shares provided that the landlord, in consideration of assistance from the tenant and his family in gathering crops, rented to the tenant a tract of land with dwelling for a specified period on shares. The tenant in part performed the consideration to the benefit of the landlord. Held, that the landlord could not defeat a recovery on the ground that damages sustained by being prevented from making a crop by showing only part performance of the condition. Id.

69. Eviction.—The measure of recovery by a tenant of a farm on shares for the landlord wrongfully evicting him determined. Crews v. Cortez, 102 T. 111, 113 S. W. 523, 38 L. R. A. (N. S.) 713.

Measure of damages for wrongfully dispossessing a tenant renting for a share of the crops defined. Springer v. Riley (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 577.

A tenant of an owner on shares, wrongfully ousted by the landlord, held entitled to recover the value of his share, less specified deductions. Smith v. Milam (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 293.

A tenant who claimed damages for his wrongful dispossessment held to tender the issue whether he would have incurred expenses in marketing the crops, as bearing on the issue of damages. Id.

70. Conversion.—Tenant leasing on shares held entitled to maintain an action against the landlord for conversion of the crops before the term of the lease expired. Fagan v. Vogt, 36 C. A. 528, 80 S. W. 684.

In an action by a tenant to recover for landlord's wrongful act in taking possession of the crops, plaintiff's refusal of defendant's offer to pay the value of the crops and allowed plaintiff to re-enter held not to defeat recovery. Id.

Where a landlord seized the crops and dispossessed the tenant before expiration of the lease, the tenant's failure to sue to recover possession did not defeat his right to recover value of the crops. Id.

The rule requiring plaintiff in a suit for breach of a contract of hire to show that he has not been able to obtain other employment held not to apply to an action by a tenant against the landlord for conversion of crops. Id.

In wrongful conversion of a bale of cotton, the issue of exemplary damages held properly submitted. Curlee v. Rogan (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 1126.

71. Breach of contract to deliver share.—Upon defendant's breach of his agreement to harvest and thresh a wheat crop and pay plaintiff one-third thereof as rent, held, that plaintiff could recover the market value of one-third of the wheat threshed.
at the place it was threshed, with interest from threshing time. Cook v. Seay (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 575.

72. — Liabilities of third persons.—A tenant on shares held entitled to maintain suit for damages to crop by wrongful levy thereon. Parker v. Hale (Civ. App.) 78 S. W. 555.

Where one farms land under an agreement to give part of the crop as rental to the owner, the latter has an interest in the crop which entitles him to sue for damages thereto by a third party. Doke v. Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 1155.

In an action in which the defendant's landlord intervened and claimed a landlord's lien on property attached, evidence held to show that his lien was in full force and effect when the writ of attachment was levied. McMullen v. Green (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 762.

LAWS

CHAPTER ONE

COMMON LAW

Art. 5493. Executors, etc., governed by, when.

Article 5492. [3258] Common law of England adopted.—The common law of England, so far as it is not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this state, shall, together with such constitution and laws, be the rule of decision, and shall continue in force until altered or repealed by the legislature. [Act Jan. 20, 1840, p. 3. P. D. 978.]

Construction and operation.—The act of congress of the republic of Texas of 1840 (Laws 1840, p. 3; this article) means the common law declared by the courts of the several states, and not the common law in force in England in 1840. Grigsby v. Reib, 105 T. 697, 153 S. W. 1124.

The act of congress of the republic of Texas in 1840 (Laws 1840, p. 3; this article) was intended to effectuate the provisions of the common law so far as not inconsistent with the conditions and circumstances of the people of the state.

Powers of courts.—Whatever may be the powers of courts of other states, there can be no doubt that the courts of Texas must look to the constitution of this state, the enactments of the legislature and the common law for their authority to act in a given case. And if the authority did not exist at common law, and has not been conferred by the constitution, nor by the statutes of this state, then no court in Texas has the power to force any citizen to submit to a physical examination in an action for damages for personal injuries. Austin & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Cluck, 97 T. 173, 77 S. W. 465, 64 L. R. A. 494, 104 Am. St. Rep. 863, 1 Ann. Cas. 261.

Exclusiveness of statutory remedies.—A statute giving a remedy in a case in which the common law gives a remedy, without negating the existence of the common-law remedy, is not exclusive, but merely cumulative. Ludert's Adm'r v. State (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 220.

The remedy provided by a statute imposing new duties and creating a new right is exclusive. Vance v. Southern Kansas Ry. of Texas (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 743.

Exclusiveness of mode prescribed for enforcing constitutional power.—A prescribed mode for the exercise of a power expressly conferred by the constitution is exclusive. Crabb v. Celeste Independent School Dist., 105 T. 194, 146 S. W. 528, 39 L. R. A. (N. S.) 601.

Criminal procedure.—The rules of procedure at common law apply also in criminal cases, where the Code fails to provide a rule; but no person can be punished for any act or omission not made penal by the written law. P. C. arts. 3, 4; C. C. P. art. 25.

Personal injuries.—The common law does not impose upon the owner of property the duty to keep it in such condition that a trespassing child may not be injured thereon. Dobbs v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas, 91 T. 60, 41 S. W. 62, 38 L. R. A. 573, 66 Am. St. Rep. 856.

Where without his father's consent an infant is employed in a dangerous service, his father's right to recover for injuries is based on the common law. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Hervey (Civ. App.) 89 S. W. 1095.

Carriers.—See Art. 707.

Evidence.—See Art. 3697.

Printed statutes as evidence.—See Arts. 3692, 3693.

General provisions relating to Revised Statutes.—See Final Title.

Art. 5493. [3259] Executors, etc., governed by, when.—The rights, powers and duties of executors and administrators shall be governed by the common law, when not otherwise provided by statute. [Act Aug. 9, 1876, p. 130, sec. 141.]

See Art. 3232.
CHAPTER TWO SPECIAL LAWS

Art. 5494. Notice of intention to apply for special law, etc.—Any person intending to apply for the passage of any local or special law shall give notice of such intention by having a statement of the substance of such law published in some newspaper published in the county embracing the locality to be affected by said law, at least once a week for the period of thirty days prior to the introduction into the legislature of such contemplated law. [Const. art. 3, sec. 57. Act May 23, 1876, p. 7, sec. 1.]

Local or special law defined.—Local or special law defined. Wallis v. Williams, 101 T. 396, 108 S. W. 153; Hall v. Bell County (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 178.

A statute relating to particular persons or things of a class is special. Smith v. State, 54 Cr. R. 298, 113 S. W. 259.

Presumptions.—The court, in the absence of proof to the contrary, must presume that the legislature, in adopting a local or special law, complied with Const. art. 3, § 57, and this article; and this is true, though the act purports on its face to be a general law. Cravens v. State, 57 Cr. R. 135, 125 S. W. 29, 136 Am. St. Rep. 277.

Passage of act conclusive of notice.—The passage of the act is conclusive evidence that the required notice was given. Moller v. City of Galveston, 23 C. A. 693, 57 S. W. 1120.

Constitutionality of act.—Where a statute may be sustained as a local or special law, the court will not inquire whether the statute, if treated as a general law, is unconstitutional. Cravens v. State, 57 Cr. R. 135, 125 S. W. 29, 136 Am. St. Rep. 977.

Art. 5495. Where no newspaper is published, notice, how.—Where there is no newspaper published in said county, a written copy of such statement shall be posted on the court house door and in five other public places in the immediate locality to be affected thereby in said county, for said thirty days, and such notice shall accurately define the locality to be affected by said law. [Id.]

Art. 5496. Notice in more than one county, when.—Where the locality to be affected by said law shall extend beyond the limits of any one county, such notice shall be given for each county to be affected.

Art. 5497. Affecting persons, where published.—Whenever any person intends applying for the passage of a special law which shall affect persons chiefly, and not directly affect any particular locality more than others, such persons, if residing within this state, shall make publication of notice of such intention in the county of the residence of such person in the same manner as if the said law was to affect such locality. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 5498. Where applicant is a non-resident.—If residing without the limits of this state, said publication need only be made in a newspaper published at the capital, in like manner as if such person resided at the seat of government. [Id.]

Art. 5499. Details need not be embraced in notice.—It shall not be necessary to embrace in said notice the particular form and terms of such contemplated law, but a statement only of the general purposes and nature of the same shall be sufficient. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5500. Proof of publication in newspaper.—The publication in a newspaper at the county of the locality, or at the residence, or at the state capital, as the case may be, may be shown by the affidavit of the publisher, or one of the several publishers of such newspapers, accompanied with the printed copy of the notice as published. [Id. sec. 4.]
Art. 5501. [3267] Proof of posting.—The posting on the court house door, and at five other public places of the county, provided for in this chapter, may be shown by the return of the sheriff or constable, or by the affidavit of any credible person made on a written copy of the notice so posted, showing the fact of such posting, and such proof or other competent proof of the giving of said notice shall accompany the introduction of every local or special law. [Id. sec. 4.]

CHAPTER THREE

CONSTRUCTION OF LAWS

Art. 5502. [3268] General rules of construction.—The following rules shall govern in the construction of all civil statutory enactments:

1. The ordinary signification shall be applied to words, except words of art or words connected with a particular trade or subject matter, when they shall have the signification attached to them by experts in such art or trade, or with reference to such subject matter.

2. The present or past tense shall include the future.

3. The masculine gender shall include the feminine and neuter.

4. The singular and plural number shall each include the other, unless otherwise expressly provided.

5. A joint authority given to any number of persons or officers may be executed by a majority of them, unless it is otherwise declared.

6. In all interpretations, the court shall look diligently for the intention of the legislature, keeping in view at all times the old law, the evil and the remedy.

7. Whenever one law which shall have repealed another shall itself be repealed, the former law shall not be thereby revived without express words to that effect. [Act Jan. 16, 1840. P. D. 4577.]

See, also, Final Title. See Underwood v. Childress Independent School Dist. (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 773.

1. Construction of statutes in general.
2. — Constitution.
3. Intention of legislature.
4. — Intent in construing constitution.
5. Spirit or letter.
6. Policy and purpose.
7. — Terms of constitution.
8. Implications.
9. — In constitution.
10. Meaning of language—In general.
11. — Language of constitution.
12. Plain and unambiguous language.
13. — Words of constitution.
14. General and specific words.
15. — In constitution.
16. Singular and plural number.
17. Express mention and implied exclusions.
18. Statute as a whole.
20. — Constitutional provisions.
22. Preamble.
23. Title and caption.
24. History and surrounding circumstances.
25. — Terms of constitution.
27. Executive construction.
28. Presumptions to aid construction.
29. Statutes relating to same subject.
30. Statutes adopted at same session.
31. General and special statutes.
32. Re-enactment of or reference to former statute and adoption of provisions previously construed.
33. — Constitutional provisions.
34. Laws of other states.
35. Statutes adopted from another state or country.
36. Mandatory or directory.
37. Provisos, exceptions and saving clauses.
38. Repealing acts.
39. Remedial statutes.
40. Statutes in derogation of sovereignty.
41. Legislative grants.
42. Penal statutes.
43. Revenue laws.
44. Time of taking effect.
45. Retroactive operation.
46. — Constitution.
47. Construction in favor of constitutionality.

Rules of construction of statutes held intended to aid courts in arriving at proper conclusions, and the following of other rules to the exclusion of logical deductions. Eppstein v. State (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 1124. Statutes should be so construed as to prevent mischiefous consequences. Oliver v. State (Cr. App.) 144 S. W. 604.

Constitution.—The governing interpretation of constitutional provisions announced. Kemper v. State, 63 Cr. R. 1, 138 S. W. 1025. The meaning of a constitution is fixed when it is adopted, and is not different at any subsequent time. Cox v. Robison, 106 T. 436, 160 S. W. 1149.

The legislative intent in passing a law may be shown in the body of the act. Snyder v. Compton, 25 S. W. 1061, 6 T. 374.

A case destroyed from the operation of a statute held to have been intentionally omitted, even though no reason appears for the legislature's action in making the omission. Evans v. Terrell, 101 T. 167, 165 S. W. 490.

In construing written laws, courts are not bound by rules of grammar, and may disregard them to give effect to manifest legislative intent. Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. State, 48 C. A. 162, 106 S. W. 918.

To interpret the meaning of a statute, it is to be ascertained what was the fair, natural, and probable intent of the legislature, taking into consideration contemporaneous history of the habits and activities of the people. Ex parte Roquemore, 60 Cr. R. 225, 121 S. W. 1101, 32 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1186.

Art. 1949 provides that the parties may submit the matter in controversy between them to the court upon an agreed statement of facts made out and signed by counsel and filed with said statement so agreed and filed with the court shall be treated by the court to be correct, and the judgment rendered thereon, shall constitute the record of the case. Held, construing the section in view of the prior statutes on the subject (Acts 7th Leg. c. 92, § 12, Rev. St. 1879, arts. 1293, 1270, and Rev. St. 1895, art. 1391, and in view of Art. 5502, requiring the court to look for the legislative intention, keeping in view the old law, the evil and the remedy, that Art. 1949 did not authorize a statement of facts to be authenticated by the "judge," the term "court" as used therein not being equal to "judge," so that a certificate, to a purported agreed statement of facts long after the term and after the "court" had ceased by the expiration of the term, was not a compliance with the statute. Chickasha Milling Co. v. Crutcher (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 355.

5. Spirit or letter.—The reason and intent of the legislature will control the strict letter of the law, when the letter would lead to palpable injustice, contradiction and absurdity. Cannon v. Vaughan, 12 T. 396.

The intention of a statute, when plainly discernible from its provisions, is as obligatory as the letter, and will even prevail over the strict letter. Brooks v. Hicks, 20 T. 666; Simpson v. Brotherton, 65 T. 344.

The intention of the law-maker will prevail over the literal sense of the terms of the statute. If the expression of the statute be special or particular, but the reason is general in its application. Can. shell v. Cook (Civ. App.) 24 S. W. 977.

The intention of the legislature in enacting a law must be enforced, when ascertained, though not consistent with the strict letter of the statute. Edwards v. Morton, 92 T. 152, 48 S. W. 792.

It is a rule of statutory construction that a thing within the intention is within the statute though not within the letter, and a thing without the letter is not within the statute unless within the intention. Kirk v. Morley Bros. (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 1109.

Courts, in the construction of statutes, are not confined to the literal meaning of the words employed, but the intention may be collected from the cause or necessity of the act. Oliver v. State (Cr. App.) 144 S. W. 604.

When the intention of a statute is plainly discernible from its provisions, it is as obligatory as the letter of the statute, and will even prevail over the strict letter. Id. when statute must be literally construed, unless a change is necessary to effect the legislative intent. McCuistion v. Fenet (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 1165.

6. Policy and purpose.—When the words are not explicit, the intention is collected from the occasion and necessity of the law and from the mischief and objects and remedy in view, and the intention is to be presumed according to what is consonant to reason and good discretion. Cannon v. Vaughan, 12 T. 399.

It is competent for the court in interpreting a statute to take into consideration the existing facts to which it is intended to be applied, whether they consist of the ordinary acts of a person or of the nature of business relating to the subject-matter and embraced within the law. Higgins v. Rinker, 47 T. 393.

With the policy of a law the courts have but little concern. Pool v. Wedemeyer, 56 T. 287.

When the words of a statute are not explicit, the intention is to be collected from the cause, the occasion and necessity of the law, the mischief felt, and the remedy in view. Croomes v. State, 40 Cr. R. 673, 51 S. W. 924.

The legislative policy may be looked to as persuasive in a matter of doubtful statutory construction. City of Austin v. Cahill, 99 T. 172, 88 S. W. 542.
In determining the sense in which language was used in a statute, the court will look to the purpose of the legislature in enacting it. Hidalgo County Drainage Dist. No. 1 v. Davidson, 102 Tex. 559, 120 S. W. 849.

The court in determining the scope of a statute must consider the evil intended to be remedied. Hamner v. Garrett (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 961.

A construction of a statute designed to effect a public purpose which will carry out the purpose held required to be adopted. Imperial Irr. Co. v. Jayne, 104 Tex. 325, 138 S. W. 575.

In construing an ambiguous statute, held, that the law on the subject before its enactment and the evil sought to be remedied should be ascertained, if possible. Pecos & T. E. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 141 Tex. 419, 164 S. W. 175.

A construction tending to effectuate the purpose of a statute is to prevail over one which would have a contrary tendency. Oliver v. State (Cr. App.) 144 S. W. 604.

In determining the scope of a law, the court should limit its operation to the purposes of the legislature in enacting it, giving effect if possible to every clause and word, and avoiding any construction which implies that the legislature was ignorant of the meaning of the language employed. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Mahaffey, 105 Tex. 394, 150 S. W. 881.

7. Terms of constitution.—Where the terms of a constitution are ambiguous, the purpose sought to be accomplished may be considered, in order to discover their true meaning. Cox v. Robison, 105 Tex. 426, 150 S. W. 1149.

8. Implications.—Whenever a power is given or duty imposed by statute, everything necessary to make that power effectual or essential to the performance of the duty is conferred by implication. Callaghan v. McGowan (Civ. App.) 90 S. W. 319.

The grant of a specific power or the imposition of a definite duty by a statute confers by implication authority to do whatever is necessary to perform the duty or perform the power. Brown v. Clark, 102 Tex. 323, 116 S. W. 569, 24 L. R. A. (N. S.) 670.

Wherever a power is given by statute, everything necessary to make it effectual or necessary to attain the end is implied. Terrell v. Sparks, 104 Tex. 191, 135 S. W. 519.

The meaning and the purpose of a constitutional provision as necessarily implied from its language should be effectuated. Simmons v. Lightfoot, 105 Tex. 212, 146 S. W. 871.

10. Meaning of language.—In general.—Words employed by the legislature shall be taken in their ordinary and popular acceptance, unless technical terms are used, or unless it clearly appears from the context that the words used were not intended to be understood in their ordinary and popular signification. Engeling v. Von Wamel, 26 Tex. 469.

As to the meaning of words used in a statute, see Bear Bros. v. Marx, 63 Tex. 298; Busch v. Hargrave, 64 Tex. 118.

The legislature is presumed to have used words in the sense in which they are ordinarily understood. Turner v. Cross, 83 Tex. 218, 18 S. W. 578, 15 L. R. A. 262.

It is the duty of a court to give the language of a statute the meaning with which it was used by the legislature if this can be ascertained; and to do this, if the words used be not such as have a peculiar meaning when applied to a given art or trade with reference to which they are used in the statute, the only safe rule is to apply to them their ordinary meaning. Courts are not authorized to give words used in the statute a forced construction for the purpose of mitigating a seeming hardship, or conferring a right which the legislature has not thought proper to give. Michael v. Michael, 34 C. A. 630, 73 S. W. 74.

A construction should not be employed that would render the law absurd or meaningless, when a rational, expressive, and wholesome meaning may be ascertained. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 54 C. A. 419, 118 S. W. 1097.

If a statute is not ambiguous, its meaning and legislative intent must be determined from the language employed. Groves v. Colonial Ins. Co., 66 C. A. 133.

Under this article words in a statute must be taken in their ordinary and popular acceptance, unless technical terms are used, or unless it appears from the context that the words used are not intended to be understood in their ordinary signification. Clarey v. Hurst (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 840.

Words in common use, when used by the legislature in a statute, are to be understood as intended to express the sense in which they are ordinarily used. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, 106 Tex. 386, 150 S. W. 783.

11. Language of constitution.—The meaning of the words of a constitution at the time they were placed therein cannot be altered or amended by any legislative act at a subsequent time. Snodgrass v. State (Cr. App.) 150 S. W. 162, 41 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1144.

Words used in a constitution must be given their popular meaning, unless it is clear that they were used in their technical sense. Cox v. Robison, 106 Tex. 426, 150 S. W. 1145.

In construing constitutions it will be presumed that the language used was carefully selected. Id.

If a statute is ambiguous, its meaning and legislative intent must be determined from the language employed. Gross v. Colonial Assur. Co., 56 C. A. 627, 121 S. W. 517.

13. Words of constitution.—Plain and definite words of the constitution are to be taken in their ordinary meaning. Keller v. State (Cr. App.) 97 S. W. 669, 1 L. R. A. (N. S.) 489.

14. General and specific words.—When there are words in a statute expressive of a particular intent, and other words indicating a general intent inconsistent therewith, the particular intent must be taken as an exception to the general rule, so that all the parts of the law. Howard Oil Co. v. Davison, 78 T. 630, 13 S. W. 655.

Where general words follow particular and specific words in a statute, the former must be confined to things of the same kind. Ex parte Muckenfuss, 52 Cr. R. 467, 107 S. W. 1131.

General words in a statute following a designation of particular subjects or classes of persons held restricted in meaning by the particular designation. Farmers' & Mechanics' Nat. Bank v. Hanks, 104 T. 320, 137 S. W. 1120.

15. In constitution.—Particular intention expressed in constitution compatible with general statement expressed in another provision is to be considered in the nature of an exception to latter. Smith v. Grayson County, 18 C. A. 153, 44 S. W. 92.

16. Singular and plural number.—Art. 271, subd. 2, must, in view of this article, subd. 4, be strictly construed, and a garnishment writ in an action against several defendants jointly or severally on an affidavit that a defendant named does not have property in the state subject to execution sufficient to satisfy the debt sued on, and where the bond is made payable to such defendant alone, but the affidavit must show that neither of defendants has property subject to execution, and the bond must be paid payable to defendants. Smith v. City Nat. Bank of Wichita Falls (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 1145.

17. Express mention and implied exclusions.—Where the legislature has prescribed a general rule with special disabilities or privileges, these cannot be enlarged or extended to objects not embraced within the exception by mere implication or from parity of reason. Tyson v. Britton, 6 T. 222; Roberts v. Tarboro, 41 T. 449.

Affirmations in statutes that introduce a new rule imply a negative of all that is not within the purview. Etter v. M. F. Ry. Co., 2 App. C. C. 5.

Where a statute limits the thing to be done in a particular form, it implies that it shall not be done otherwise. Id.

18. Statute as a whole.—A statute should be construed so as to give effect, if possible, to each and all of its provisions. Aldridge v. Mardoff, 32 T. 204; Hudson v. Jurnigan, 29 T. 578.

Every word in a statute is presumed to have been intentionally used. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Blum Independent School Dist. (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 563.

19. Conflicting provisions.—If there be an apparent conflict between the enactments, the general intention is limited and controlled by the special intention. Scoby v. Sweatt, 28 T. 715.

Where there is a conflict between a general and special provision of a statute, the special provision must prevail. Callaghan v. McGown (Civ. App.) 90 S. W. 313; Shock v. Colorado County, 52 C. A. 473, 115 S. W. 61.

Where there is an apparent conflict between two provisions of a statute, the court must look to the statute such a construction as will reconcile the apparent conflict. Hill v. State, 54 Cr. R. 646, 114 S. W. 117.

Where the decision of a case does not under the facts require the court to determine that the statutes are conflicting, it will not decide which of the statutes control under a state of facts which would make them conflicting. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Louis Werner Stave Co. (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 668.

Rule governing construction of conflicting statutes stated. Ex parte Townsend, 64 Cr. R. 350, 144 S. W. 628.

20. Constitutional provisions.—The court, in construing two constitutional provisions, must so construe them as to give effect to both if possible, and, where they are in conflict, the special provision will prevail over the general provision. City of San Antonio v. Toepperwein, 104 T. 43, 133 S. W. 416.

Rule for construing general constitutional provisions with another, apparently conflicting, as to particular matter. Ex parte Cooks (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 139.

21. Context.—In determining the sense in which language was used in a statute, the court will look to the context. City of Houston v. Potter, 41 C. A. 381, 91 S. W. 839; Hidalgo County Drainage Dist. No. 1 v. Davidson, 102 T. 639, 120 S. W. 849.

22. Preamble.—The preamble to a legislative act may be considered. Railway Co. v. Jarvis, 69 T. 627, 7 S. W. 210.

23. Title and caption.—The caption of an act of the legislature will be looked to in aid of its proper construction. Hodge v. Donald, 55 T. 344.

In construing a law, the title must be considered the same as though it were in the body of the law. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Mahaffey, 105 T. 394, 150 S. W. 881.

24. History and surrounding circumstances.—In construing the legislative intent in the adoption of a statute, the courts may take into consideration contemporaneous legislative history. Ex parte Keith, 47 Cr. R. 283, 83 S. W. 683; Williams v. State, 63 Cr. R. 371, 107 S. W. 1121; State v. Duke, 104 T. 356, 137 S. W. 654.

The court in searching for the intent of the legislature in enacting a statute may consider the surrounding circumstances and legislation on similar subjects. Clary v. Hurst, 104 T. 423, 128 S. W. 566.

25. Terms of constitution.—Where the terms of a constitution are ambiguous, the prior state of the law, the purpose sought to be accomplished, as well as the proceedings of the convention, may be considered, in order to discover their true meaning. Cox v. Roberson, 105 T. 426, 150 S. W. 1149.

The contemporaneous construction of a special act, directing the commissioner of the land office to issue a certificate to the original holder of an unconditional certificate, as shown by the action of the governor and of the commissioner thereunder, is entitled to great weight in the construction of the act. Broussard v. Cruse (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 847.

27. Executive construction.—In cases of doubtful construction of a statute, that adopted by the executive department is entitled to much weight; yet where the meaning is clear, a construction contrary to its clear intent will not be followed. Railway Co. v. State, 81 S. W. 572, 17 S. W. 67.

The construction by the attorney general of the anti-trust statutes regarding attorney's fees in actions for violation of the statute will be adhered to by the courts. State v. McGrady (Civ. App.) 115 S. W. 836.

28. Presumptions to aid construction.—In construing a statute, the legislature must be presumed to have known, when it passed the statute, the constitutional limits of its legislative power. City of Austin v. Cahill, 99 T. 172, 88 S. W. 542.

Where the language of a statute is plain, executive construction of another statute, in the absence of any unambiguous language, may not have weight, but the unambiguous language of the statute should be given effect to arrive at the legislative intent. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. Love, 101 T. 376, 108 S. W. 810.

The court, in construing a statute, must assume that the legislature, in enacting it, was familiar with the decisions of the supreme court and of the court of criminal appeals. State v. Duke, 104 T. 355, 137 S. W. 654.

29. Statutes relating to same subject.—In construing a revised penal code, the court may look to the provisions of a revised civil code on the same subject. Braun v. State (Cr. App.) 49 S. W. 620.

The statutes relating to the same subject should be harmonized, if possible, so as to effectuate each; if being presumed that an implied repeal was not intended. Houston v. Koone (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 1159.

Statutes which are in parts of the same subject or matters should be construed together so as to give effect to both, if possible. Conley v. Daughters of the Republic (Sup.) 156 S. W. 197.

The supreme court must construe two statutes so that both may stand if they are fairly susceptible of such construction. Conley v. Daughters of the Republic (Sup.) 157 S. W. 937.

30. Statutes adopted at same session.—Laws relating to the same subject, and enacted during the same session of the legislature, are to be construed together, and are ordinarily to be taken as parts of the same act. Austin v. G., C. & S. F. R. R. Co., 45 T. 234; Laughter v. Seela, 59 T. 177; Lovett v. Casey, 17 T. 594; Nell v. Reese, 5 T. 33, 81 S. W. 794; Broussard v. Sweatt, 28 T. 715; Cannon v. Vaughan, 12 T. 399.

Two laws passed at the same session of the legislature should be construed as if embraced in one act, and should be so construed that both may stand. McGrady v. Terrell, 98 T. 427, 84 S. W. 641.

Where two acts are passed at the same session of the legislature, they should be construed as one act, and, if possible, so that both may stand. Garrison v. Richards (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 861.

31. General and special statutes.—A special provision in a law as to a particular class will prevail against the apparent general intent. Perez v. Perez, 59 T. 322; Howard Oil Co. v. Davis, 70 T. 630, 13 S. W. 666.

A general provision of a statute must yield to a special one, so far as is necessary to give effect to the particular subject of the special provision. City of Austin v. Cahill, 99 T. 172, 88 S. W. 542.

32. Re-enactment of or reference to former statute and adoption of provisions previously construed.—The mere change of phraseology in the revision of a statute bearing no work a change in the law previously declared, unless it indisputably appear that such was the intention of the legislature. Ennis v. Crump, 6 T. 34; Tucker v. Anderson, 25 T. Sup. 166.

When an old law is superseded by a new one, whose provisions are vague and indefinite, the former law may be resorted to for purposes of construction. Steadman v. Bank, 69 T. 50, 6 S. W. 675.

The legislature, using words contained in a prior statute on the same subject which have received a judicial construction, is presumed to use them in the same sense. Cooper v. Yoakum, 21 T. 391, 43 S. W. 871.

In construing a chapter of a revision of statutes, held, that the court might look to the different laws composing the chapter as they formerly existed. Braun v. State (Cr. App.) 49 S. W. 620.

Where the legislature re-enacts a statute formerly in force, it will be presumed that the legislature intended to have the construction formerly placed on the statute by the court of last resort. Supreme Council A. L. H. v. Anderson, 36 C. A. 615, 88 S. W. 207.

In re-enacting a statute with amendments, omissions of material words indicate an intent, to the contrary. Jones v. Da Shong (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 1011.

In construing a term in a statute, it will be presumed the legislature used it with reference to previous constructions of the appellate courts. Cohen v. State, 53 Cr. R. 423, 110 S. W. 66; Scott v. Same (Cr. App.) 110 S. W. 69.

Art. 1949 construed in view of the prior statutes on the subject (Acts 7th Leg. c. 95, § 12, Rev. St. 1879, arts. 1293, 1379, and Rev. St. 1896, art. 1381), and in view of subdivision 6 of this article, did not authorize a statement of facts to be authenticated by the "judge, the term "court" as used therein not being equivalent to "judge," so that a certificate, by the trial judge attached to a purported agreement of statements of facts long after the term and after the "court" had ceased by the expiration of the term, was not a compliance with the statute. Chickasha Milling Co. v. Crutcher (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 366.

Re-enactment of a statute held to give it the meaning given by the courts in construing the preceding statute. Adams v. State (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 940.
33. Constitutional provisions.—In construing a section of an article of the constitution the court will look to the former constitutions to determine its meaning. Milam County v. Bateman, 54 T. 155.

Where a statute or constitution, after having been construed, is re-enacted without material change, such construction becomes a part thereof. Pittman v. Byars, 51 C. A. 82, 113 S. W. 102.

Where language similar to that in a present constitution is found in former constitutions, it is presumed that it was intended to use such language in the sense previously given to it by the courts. Id.

Where a constitution re-enacts in the same words provisions which it superseded, it is presumed that no change of law was intended. Id.

The readoption in a constitution of a proviso of the constitution thereby super­seded is presumed to be with a purpose not to change the law, and the use of the same language in the new constitution is presumed to be with the same intent. Cox v. Robinson, 105 T. 426, 150 S. W. 1149.

While not binding on the courts, an unchallenged construction of a constitutional provi­sion by the legislative department for more than a quarter of a century should be given effect, unless manifestly wrong. Id.

34. Laws of other states.—Where a suit in Texas on a life policy which provides that it shall be governed by the laws of New York involves the construction of a statute of the latter state, it will be construed as a domestic statute; the New York decision being considered for such light as they may throw on the question. New York Life Ins. Co. v. English, 96 T. 391, 67 S. W. 884.

Supreme court, construing statute of foreign state in light of opinions of courts of that state, held to give full faith and credit to its public acts and judicial proceedings. New York Life Ins. Co. v. English (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 616.

35. Statutes adopted from another state or country.—When a statute adopted by this state from England or one of the older American states has, previous to our enactment of it, received a settled and uniform construction in the courts of the country from which we have adopted it, it is entitled to full force and effect. Morgan v. Hallowell, 26 T. 475, 84 Am. Dec. 682. But if there is something incorporated in the statute, or omitted therefrom, showing a legislative purpose not to adopt the former construction, then the construction given by the courts of the government from which it was borrowed cannot prevail. Morgan v. Davenport, 60 T. 230.

It may be presumed that the legislature in enacting a law copied from the law of another country intended that it should receive the same construction as had been placed upon it by the courts of that country. City of Tyler v. St. Louis, Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas, 79 T. 491, 91 S. W. 1.

The legislature adopting a statute of a sister state, after it has been construed by her courts, presumptively adopts the statute with such construction. Ollre v. State, 67 Cr. 529, 123 S. W. 1116.

The known and settled construction of English statutes embodied in our own constitution or statutes was impliedly adopted along with the statutes. Robertson v. State, 63 Cr. 216, 142 S. W. 633, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 440.

36. Mandatory or directory.—When a statute relates to matters of convenience rather than of substance, or its provisions are only for the purpose of requiring orderly procedure, they may generally be regarded as merely directory. Ferri Frass Brick Co. v. Hawkins, 53 C. A. 578, 116 S. W. 80.

A clause in a statute is directory where it contains mere matters of direction, and is not followed by words of positive prohibition. Gomes v. Timon (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 656.

A departure from statutory provisions as to the time or mode of doing a thing required or permitted by law will not usually invalidate the proceedings thereunder. City of Galveston v. Burney (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 311.

A statute in the affirmative, relating to the time or manner of doing acts which constitute the chief purpose of the statute, or those incidental thereto, by an official, is usually considered as directory. Id.

A proviso in a statute is generally intended to except something which would otherwise have been within it. Campbell v. Wiggins, 95 T. 424, 21 S. W. 599.

A provision in a chapter of a revised code that “the law should not apply in certain counties held to create an exemption only as to a portion of the chapter which formerly was a separate law. Braun v. State, 40 Cr. R. 236, 49 S. W. 620.

Where a statute repealing a pre-existing penal law contains a clause saving the rights of those state, the right of action only is preserved, and it must be prosecuted under the new law or under some law other than that repealed. State v. Brady, 102 T. 405, 118 S. W. 123.

The saving clause or proviso of a repealing statute, which preserves some right, must be construed not to include anything not fairly within its terms. Id.

A proviso held to be given a restricted construction, in the absence of a contrary intention shown. McCuilston v. Fenet (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 1156.

Provisos in a statute held not to be construed as referring immediately preceding where construction is inconsistent. Id.

A proviso in a statute is limited to the next preceding attached clause, unless the language indicates otherwise. Fenet v. McCuilston, 105 T. 229, 147 S. W. 867.

Exceptions to a statute of general terms cannot be enlarged to include cases not embraced within the exceptions by mere implications or parity of reason. Holnes v. Coalson (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 661.

While a proviso usually qualifies the language preceding it, it may apply to provisions of succeeding sections of the same statute, if from the context of the statute such clearly appears to have been the intention. Galveston & W. Ry. Co. v. City of Galveston (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 273.

38. Repealing acts.—The rule in construing acts or clauses purporting to repeal other statutes is to give effect to the intention of the legislature; the same rules applying to such a clause or statute as apply to ordinary statutes. Parshall v. State, 62 Cr. R. 177, 138 S. W. 759.

39. Remedial statutes.—When a statute gives a new remedy not repugnant to or inconsistent with the old one, the latter is not taken away, but parties have their election between the two. Etter v. M. P. Ry. Co., 2 App. C. C. § 58.

40. Statutes in derogation of sovereignty.—As a rule where a statute delegating a power directly the manner of its exercise, that manner is exclusive. Wichita Electric Co. v. Hinckley (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 1192.

41. Legislative grants.—Statutory grants of property, franchises, or privileges in which the government is interested must be strictly construed in favor of the public and against the grantee. Jayne v. Imperial Irr. Co. (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 1137.

A statute carries with it by necessary implication every other power necessary and proper to the execution of the power expressly granted. Imperial Irr. Co. v. Jayne, 104 T. 355, 138 S. W. 575.

42. Penal statutes.—The rule of strict construction of penal statutes does not prevent courts from inquiring into the evil sought to be remedied and the legislative intention obvious from the terms of a statute. International & G. R. Co. v. Voos, 49 C. A. 566, 109 S. W. 984.

The rule of strict construction as to penal statutes does not consist in giving words the narrowest meaning susceptible, nor consist in adopting a strained construction obviously contrary to, or destructive of, the lawmakers' intention. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 54 C. A. 419, 118 S. W. 1097.

The intention of the legislature, even in penal statutes, when it can fairly be discovered, must in all cases control. Id. The rule of strict construction as to penal statutes is, properly speaking, a requirement that plaintiffs' case must be brought strictly within the spirit and letter thereof. Id.

The courts cannot, and ought not to, deal with an act as a crime, unless plainly within the language used by the legislature; but, when determining whether or not it is within it, a common-sense method to ascertain its real meaning should always be employed. Id.

A penal statute must be strictly construed. State v. Duke, 104 T. 355, 137 S. W. 654. Penal laws are not to be construed so strictly as to defeat the obvious intention of the legislature, as collected from the words employed. Oliver v. State (Cr. App.) 144 S. W. 604.

The court will construe the Penal Code so that all its provisions may be upheld if consistent with the intent of the legislature. Talley v. State (Cr. App.) 147 S. W. 255.

Doubt or uncertainty in a taxing statute are to be resolved in favor of the taxpayer against the government. Underwood v. Childress Independent School Dist. (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 773.

44. Time of taking effect.—For rules on the computation of time, see 1 Tex. Civ. Prac. ch. 54.

An act repealing another, and not providing when it shall take effect, does not effect the repeal until the expiration of the time under this article. Austin v. G., C. & S. F. R. R. Co., 45 T. 234.

As a general rule a statute speaks from the time it becomes a law, and that which occurs after the passage and the time it took effect is deemed, with respect to the statute, a past transaction, unless a different rule is expressed. Railway Co. v. State, 81 T. 572, 17 S. W. 67.

Act approved March 3, 1897, not having an emergency clause putting it into effect at once, held to take effect August 21, 1897, 90 days after the legislature adjourned, and not to apply to an appeal from a conviction on June 1, 1897. Belcher v. State, 39 Cr. R. 121, 44 S. W. 1106.

Where the word "passage" is employed in an act which is finally passed at one time to take effect at a later time, it may, by reason of a somewhat common usage, be taken as referring to the latter date, unless such a construction is contrary to the intention appearing from the whole statute. The language of statutes which thus take effect at times subsequent to those of their adoption is usually taken as speaking only when they begin to operate as laws. The rule under consideration is one of construction merely and does not control the expressed intention of the Legislature. The mere use of such words as "before the passage," "after the passage," "heretofore," "hereafter," or "already," does not so plainly show an intention to fix a date differing from that of the taking effect of a statute as to control. Scales v. Marshall, 96 T. 140, 70 S. W. 946, 947.

House Bill No. 25, enacted in 1911, held to become effective June 9, 1911, notwithstanding the emergency clause. Keator v. Whittaker, 104 T. 628, 143 S. W. 607.

45. Retroactive operation.—See notes under Final Title, § 5.

46. Retrospective operation.—While the statute constitution should be interpreted to operate prospectively, its retrospective operation will be enforced, when such was clearly the purpose of its framers provided no right already vested would be disturbed thereby. Grigoby v. Pease, 57 T. 142.

As a general rule, constitutions operate prospectively; but they may operate retrospectively when it is apparent that such was the intention, provided no impairment of vested rights results. Cox v. Robison, 102 T. 426, 159 S. W. 1149.
47. Construction in favor of constitutionality.—The presumption is in favor of the constitutionality of a statute. Shown v. Stumpner, 1 App. C. C. § 852. The courts may not, in order to preserve a statute against constitutional objection, ascribe to it a meaning at variance with its plain import. City of Austin v. Cahill, 99 T. 172, 88 S. W. 542.

A construction of a statute that renders it unconstitutional will not be adopted where a constitutional purpose can fairly be derived from its terms. State v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 100 T. 153, 97 S. W. 71.

A court must resolve all doubt as to the constitutionality of a statute in favor thereof. Logan v. State, 54 Cr. R. 74, 111 S. W. 1021; Gardenhire v. State (Cr. App.) 111 S. W. 1031.

The court in construing a statute held not authorized to strain the language thereof, from its obvious meaning, imputing to it one contrary to that which it plainly expresses, to harmonize it with the constitution. Dupree v. State, 102 T. 465, 119 S. W. 361.

The legislature may exercise all legislative power which is not forbidden expressly or by implication by the constitution, and, where there is any doubt as to the validity of a statute, it must be upheld. Bonner v. Belsterling (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 1154.

The courts will construe a statute so as to uphold it rather than to nullify it. Tone v. City of Denison (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 1189.

If a statute is susceptible of two constructions, one placing it in opposition and another in harmony with the constitution, the latter should prevail. Ennis Waterworks v. City of Ennis, 105 T. 623, 144 S. W. 930.

In determining the validity of a law, the court should ascertain the intention of the legislature and sustain the law if it can be done by fair construction. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Mahaffey, 105 T. 594, 150 S. W. 881.

48. Construction of governor’s veto message.—A governor’s veto message must be construed as an application of the same rules that are applied to statutes. Fulmore v. Lane, 104 T. 499, 140 S. W. 405.

Art. 5503. [3269] Grammatical errors, etc., shall not vitiate.—Grammatical errors shall not vitiate a law, and a transposition of words and clauses may be resorted to when the sentence or clause is without meaning as it stands; and in no case shall the punctuation of a law control or affect the intention of the legislature in the enactment thereof.

Errors in punctuation.—Errors in punctuation will be disregarded when the meaning is obvious. Bradstreet Co. v. Gill, 72 T. 115, 9 S. W. 763; 2 L. R. A. 405, 13 Am. St. Rep. 766. See Art. 5503.

Art. 5504. [3270] Meaning of certain words.—The following meaning shall be given to each of the following words, unless a different meaning is apparent from the context:

1. “Property” includes real and personal property.
2. “Person” includes a corporation.
3. “Written” or “in writing” includes any representation of words, letters or figures, whether by writing, printing or otherwise.
4. “Oath” includes affirmation.
5. “Swear” or “sworn” includes affirmation.
6. “Signature” or “subscribe” includes the mark of a person unable to write.
7. “Justice,” when applied to a magistrate, means justice of the peace.
8. “Preceding,” when used by way of reference to title, chapter or article, means the next preceding.
9. “Succeeding,” in like manner, means the next succeeding.
10. “Month” means a calendar month.
11. “Year” means a calendar year.
12. “Effects” includes all personal property and all interest therein.

“Clerk” defined. McLennan County v. Bogness, 104 T. 311, 137 S. W. 346.

Ungathered crops, when matured are “personal property.” Ellis v. Bingham (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 602.

Decisions Relating to Subject in General

Enactments in general.—The courts will not disregard an act of the legislature because of the views of the legislating body or both houses of the legislature, or because the journal in which its passage is recorded is in strict conformity to all the directions in the constitution, it being in other respects perfect and unobjectionable. Blessing v. City of Galveston, 42 T. 641.

An issue of fact whether a particular bill has been passed by the legislature in conformity with the constitutional provisions is to be determined by the court, and will not be submitted to a jury. Id.

Query, as to the authority of the chief clerk of the house and secretary of the senate, after the adjournment of the legislature, to certify the final passage of an act. H. & T. C. R. R. Co. v. Odum, 53 T. 343.

The published journals of the legislature are evidence of the passage of an act in the proper time. H. & T. C. R. R. Co. v. Odum, 53 T. 343; Evering v. Duncan, 81 T. 230, 16 S. W. 1990. As to the manner of proving laws, see ante, Arts. 3694, 3695, and notes.

There is a wide distinction between the authority of a court to declare an act void for want of power to pass the law, and the jurisdiction to avoid it on the ground that it was irregularly passed. A court will not look to the journals to invalidate an act signed and approved by the proper officers. Williams v. Taylor, 83 T. 667, 19 S. W. 156.

For the purpose of informing itself of the existence and terms of a law, the court cannot look beyond the enrolled act. McLane v. Paschal, 53 S. W. 711, 8 C. A. 393. An act passed at special session cannot be invalidated by showing by proclamation and journals of legislature, that it did not relate to any subject mentioned in the proclamation or any message. Presidio County v. City Nat. Bank, 20 C. A. 651, 44 S. W. 1069.

The journals of the legislature cannot be looked to invalidate a statute signed by the president of the senate and speaker of the house. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Foth, 101 T. 133, 100 S. W. 171.

Subjects and titles of acts.—See Ball v. Presidio County (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 702. Mere limitations and restrictions by proviso on the general scope, as indicated by the body of the act, ordinarily relate and are germane to the general object, and are of general and universal use, though no references are made to them in the title of the act. Austin v. G. C. & S. F. R. R. Co., 45 T. 234.

When the object expressed in the title of an act is to amend a former act, it is not necessary that the nature and character of the proposed amendment should also be indicated in the title. Id.

The constitutional provision in regard to the caption of a law is mandatory. It is sufficient if there is a substantial compliance. Gunter v. T. L. & M. Co., 82 T. 496, 17 S. W. 840.

Amendment.—Amendment of laws, how made. Womack v. Gardner, 10 C. A. 367, 30 S. W. 589.

An amendment of a statute, which was passed after plaintiff’s rights accrued, but did not affect plaintiff’s rights and furnished him an efficient remedy, held applicable to plaintiff’s case. Maynard v. Freeman (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 334.

A statute which adds a provision to a section of an existing statute is an “amendment.” Henderson v. City of Galveston, 102 T. 153, 114 S. W. 168.

Repeal.—See, also, Final Title. The primary meaning of “repeal,” as used in speaking of the repeal of a statute, stated. Jesse v. De Shong (Civ. App.) 105 S. W. 1011.

The right to maintain an action for statutory liquidated damages is a statutory privilege accruing to the aggrieved party, and the legislature may at any time repeal the law creating the right and giving the remedy. Id.

A provision in a charter to a railroad company granted by the legislature of Louisiana, relieving the company from liability for injuries resulting in the death of its train operatives, held not irrepealable. Texas & N. O. R. R. Co. v. Miller (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 1165.

Express repeal.—When a general revising act expressly repeals all inconsistent acts and parts of acts, this implies that if there are parts of former acts (as in this case) not embraced in the new act, and not inconsistent therewith, they are not repealed. Buse v. Bartlett, 1 C. A. 335, 21 S. W. 52.

The courts held required to find a repugnancy between a prior law and an act repealing conflicting laws before they can find that the act repeals the prior law. Gaddes v. Terrell, 101 T. 574, 116 S. W. 429.

A recital in the title of an act that its purpose is to repeal a previous act is not of itself sufficient for that purpose, in the absence of a repealing clause in the body of the statute the title not being an operative part of the act. Berry v. State (Cr. App.) 166 S. W. 626.

An express repeal of a statute may be accomplished only by positive enactment; but, the question of repeal being one of legislative intent, an express declaration that a particular statute is repealed will not be given effect, where it was apparent that the legislature did not so intend. Id.

A general clause, repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith, while effective in repealing inconsistent enactments, extends only to those acts on the same subject, or parts of such acts clearly inconsistent and inconceivable with the repealing act, and only to the extent of the conflicting provisions. Id.

Implied repeal in general.—In the absence of the express repeal of an act, or where the intention and purpose of a repeal is not plainly made manifest from the Repeals by implication are not favored, and contradictions between two laws must be irreconcilable before one will be held to imply repeal the other. Ex parte Kimbrell, 47 C. R. 323, 83 S. W. 382.

Repeals by implication are not favored. Ex parte Keith, 47 C. R. 283, 83 S. W. 683; De Shong (Civ. App.) 105 S. W. 1011; Williams v. State, 55 C. R. 371, 107 S. W. 1121; Snead v. Same, 55 C. R. 583, 117 S. W. 983; Conley v. Daughters of the Republic of the (Sup.) 156 S. W. 197.

A repeal by implication must be by necessary implication, and there must be a positive repugnance between the old and new laws, and the old law is then repealed only to the extent of the repugnance. Jesse v. De Shong (Cliv. App.) 105 S. W. 1011.

The test of determining repeals by implication from legislative intent does not conflict with the rule that a retrospective effect will not be given to a statute unless the legislature says that such was its intention, nor does it force a retrospective effect by construction. Id.

Where two acts are irreconcilable, the one approved last repeals the other to the extent of the repugnancy, even though both acts go into effect on the same day. Garrison v. Richards (Cliv. App.) 107 S. W. 861.

In the construction of acts of the same session of the legislature, the whole must be taken into consideration to make a law by expression; an repeal or a former law there must be an express repeal or an irreconcilable repugnancy between them. Joliff v. State (Cr. App.) 109 S. W. 176; Webber v. Same (Cr. App.) 109 S. W. 182.

The repugnancy essential to the repeal of an old statute by a new one is that which is manifest; any repugnance or conflict between the old and new laws, in favor of the intent that the new should supplant it, and that is sufficient to operate a repeal, though there be no inconsistency in language. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Mosley, 103 T. 79, 124 S. W. 96.

Implied repeals are not favored, and there must be a positive repugnancy between the provisions of the new law and those of the old in order to effect such result. Sayles v. Robison, 105 T. 480, 129 S. W. 346.

A later statute on the same subject does not repeal an earlier one, if the two are not conflicting. Austin v. State, 61 C. R. 873, 135 S. W. 1167.

The law does not favor repeals by implication, and they will not be adjudged to occur, save where inevitable. Parshall v. State, 62 C. R. 177, 128 S. W. 759.

A later statute repeals an earlier statute on the same subject so far as they conflict. Goodwin v. State (Cr. App.) 143 S. W. 939.

A repeal by implication is not favored, and a statute will not repeal an existing one unless there is irreconcilable repugnancy, or unless there is an evident design to supersede all prior legislation in connection with the subject-matter and to enact a complete law in regard to it. Conley v. Daughters of the Republic of Texas (Cliv. App.) 161 S. W. 877.

A legislature may repeal by implication; but, to justify the finding of the intention to repeal one statute by another, either the two statutes must be irreconcilable or the effect to be achieved by the new act must be of such a nature as to make it obvious that if the intention not to repeal is manifest there is no room for repeal by implication. Berry v. State (Cr. App.) 166 S. W. 626.

A statute is repealed by implication whenever it appears that the legislature does not mean it to stand in force. And, consequently, an implied repeal will appear if it appears that it was not intended to so operate, and repeals by implication are not favored. Id.

In so far as two statutes irreconcilably conflict, the latest enactment must prevail. Conley v. Daughters of the Republic of the (Sup.) 167 S. W. 837.

By act relating to same subject.—When a subsequent statute, although not repugnant in all its provisions to a prior one, is clearly intended to prescribe the only rule which should govern; or where it revives the subject of a former one and is evidently intended as a substitute for it; or where it is framed from another, some parts being omitted, the subsequent statute must be held to repeal the prior one. Bryan v. Sundberg, 5 T. 418; Rogers v. Watrous, 8 T. 62, 58 Am. Dec. 100; Holden v. State, 1 App. 226; Stirman v. State, 21 T. 734; Hanrick v. Hanrick, 61 T. 696; Etter v. M. & T. R. Co., 2 App. C. C. § 58. See also, Tungstall v. Wormley, 54 T. 476. A new statute creates a new and independent system, express words of repeal are not necessary to repeal inconsistent provisions in a prior statute. State v. I. & G. N. Ry. Co., 67 T. 334.

An affirmative statute does not repeal an affirmative statute, and if both may stand together they should have a concurrent efficacy; but if the latter be contrary to the former, it amounts to a repeal. Brown v. Chancellor, 61 T. 437.

When statutes are repealed by acts which substantially retain the provisions of old laws the latter are not destroyed or interrupted in their binding force. Railway Co. v. Keller, 11 C. A. 569, 32 S. W. 847.

It will not be presumed that the legislature, in passing an act within four days from the passage of a prior act on the same subject, intended to nullify absolutely the prior act, unless there is an irreconcilable conflict between the two. McGrady v. Terrell, 98 T. 427, 84 S. W. 641.

A repeal by implication is effected when it is obvious that a subsequent statute revising the particular provisions of a former one was intended as a substitute therefor, though it contains no express words to that effect. Jessee v. De Shong (Civ. App.) 108 S. W. 1011.

Conditions under which provisions of an old statute are re-enacted or repealed in a new statute covering the same subject stated. Id.

Courts will not apply the rule of repeal by implication unless it distinctly appears that the legislature intended to continue an entire system upon the subject and to supersede all former systems upon the same subject. Id.

The general rule, that where a new law comprehends the subject-matter of an old it operates as a repeal by implication of such prior laws, held subject to the limitation that the old provisions in the new act cannot be treated as new enactments, but as a continuation of the former law. Id.

Where a general intention is expressed by the legislature, and also a particular intention incompatible with the general one, the particular intention will be considered an exception, and the two acts can stand together. Paul v. State. 48 C. A. 25, 106 S. W. 448.

A new act which extends and enlarges a right before existing impliedly repeals the law by which the former was created or given. Garrison v. Richards (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 881.

Where two statutes can be given a construction to uphold both, it must be done. Williams v. State, 62 Cr. R. 371, 107 S. W. 1121.

A statute containing no repealing clause will be construed in harmony with former laws if susceptible to such construction. Williams v. Keith (Civ. App.) 111 S. W. 1056.

A statute may imply repeal an earlier one by entirely superseding it, though the provisions of both, if inserted in one act, might stand together. Dallas Consol. Electric St. Ry. Co. v. State, 102 T. 570, 120 S. W. 957.

Two statutes relating to the same subject should be harmonized, if possible, so as to effectuate each; it being presumed that an implied repeal was not intended. Houston v. Amon (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 1359.

Where two statutes on the same subject are inconsistent, no repeal will be implied, where they can be construed so that both will stand. Harshall v. State, 62Cr. R. 177, 138 S. W. 759.

Statutes which relate to the same subject should be considered as if incorporated in one act and construed together, if possible, so as to give effect to each, in which case one does not imply repeal the other. Conley v. Daughters of the Republic (Sup.) 106 S. W. 197.

Of special by general act.—A general law does not repeal a special law by implication, though both relate to the same subject. City of Laredo v. Martin, 82 T. 548.

A special law is not affected or repealed by the provisions of a general law, unless specially mentioned in the general law, or unless it was manifestly the intention of the legislature to repeal the special law. Ex parte Kimbrell, 47 Cr. R. 523, 82 S. W. 383.

Special laws, to be made operative by the voters of a particular locality, are not repealed by general laws, unless specially mentioned in the general law, or such purpose is apparent. Ex parte Neal, 47 Cr. R. 441, 83 S. W. 531.

Special legislation or local laws are not repealed by a later general act unless specially mentioned in the general law, or the purpose to repeal is manifest. Paul v. State, 48 C. A. 25, 106 S. W. 448.

Of general by special act.—Where a general statute is followed by a special one, effect will be given to both by construing each as an exception from the general terms of the other. City of Marshall v. State Bank of Marshall (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 1083.

By amendatory act.—Act 1893, amending article 420, exempting N. county from certain provisions of the game law, repealed such articles of the subsequent statutes revising the subject-matter of a former one, and evidently intended as a substitute for it, although it contains no express words to that effect. Dickinson v. State, 58 Cr. R. 473, 41 S. W. 759.

Suspension of act.—A statute and an ordinance enacted thereunder, prohibiting the sale of liquors in certain parts of a city, and requiring all places for its sale to be located in a special district, does not violate the suspending of laws except by the legislature. Henderson v. City of Galveston, 102 T. 163, 114 S. W. 108.

Constitution as limitation of power.—The state constitution is a limitation, and not a grant of power. Solon v. State, 54 Cr. R. 261, 114 S. W. 349.

Laws violating state or federal constitution in general.—An act of the legislature in violation of the provisions of the constitution of this state or the United States is unconstitutional and void. Higgins v. Rinker, 47 T. 381; Williams v. Taylor, 53 T. 667, 19 S. W. 156.

When the jurisdiction of a court is defined by the constitution it cannot be changed in any manner by the legislature, except where the power is expressly conferred by the constitution. Ex parte Towlson, 48 T. 411.

An act of the legislature virtually reversing and setting aside the decision of the supreme court upon the unconstitutionality of a law is unconstitutional and void. Milam Co. v. Bateman, 54 T. 153.

Effect of partial invalidity.—If part of a statute is unconstitutional, and another part which is constitutional is separate and distinct therefrom, the latter will be operative and in force. W. U. T. Co. v. State, 62 T. 630.

When the several parts of a statute are so blended and dependent one upon the other that it cannot be presumed the legislature would have passed any part thereof without intending that all should be enforced, and a part is unconstitutional, then the entire statute will be disregarded. Stone v. Stumper, 1 App. C. C. § 325.

Though part of a law is unconstitutional, the rest will be given effect where the two parts are independent, but not so where the two parts are dependent on each other. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Mahaffey, 98 T. 392, 84 S. W. 646.

Where a statute is enacted to accomplish a single object, the whole will not fall because of the invalidity of some of its provisions, if sufficient remains to effect the object without the aid of the invalid portions. Oates v. State, 56 Cr. R. 671, 121 S. W. 570.

Determination of constitutional questions.—The court is not justified in annulling the action of the legislature except in case of clear and unquestioned violation of the provision of the state and federal constitution. Wharton County Drainage Dist. No. 1 v. Higbee (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 381.

Delegation of legislative powers.—The legislature cannot confer upon merely administrative or ministerial officers the power to make rules for taxation. Stratton v. Commissioners’ Court of Kinney County (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 1176.

Judicial powers and functions—Political questions.—What shall be included in an improvement district in a city being a political question, the court may not revise the action of the council in creating several districts, and hold the effect thereof to be but the creation of one district. City of Marshall v. Elgin (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 670.

The courts cannot enjoin a canvass of an election in a city on an ordinance fixing street railway fares under the power of the initiative on the ground of want of power in the electorate to adopt the ordinance; the canvass of elections being a political power beyond judicial control. City of Dallas v. Dallas Consolidated Electric St. Ry. Co., 105 T. 387, 148 S. W. 292.

--- Encroachment on legislature.---The policy of a statute is a question for the legislature alone, and the court cannot consider it. Glens Falls Ins. Co. v. Hawkins, 103 T. 327, 126 S. W. 1114; Pistole v. State (Cr. App.) 150 S. W. 618.

The court should not by construction take away the power of the legislature to enact a statute, if it is not inhibited by the constitution. Dozier v. State, 62 Cr. R. 258, 137 S. W. 679.

The court may not review the action of the legislature: but, when called on to administer a statute, it must determine whether it is in conflict with the constitution. Bonner v. Belsterling (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 1154.

In proceedings by a railroad corporation to condemn land for a right of way, the court will not consider matters involving the expediency of the granting by the state of a franchise to the corporation. Chapman v. Trinity Valley & N. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 440.

The wisdom of legislative enactments is of no concern to the courts. Chance v. State, 62 Cr. R. 602, 141 S. W. 112.

The question of the good faith of legislative acts held not a matter for cognizance by the courts. Ex parte Wolters, 64 Cr. R. 238, 144 S. W. 531.

The courts held not entitled to determine whether the provision in Paris City Charter, § 11, lodged a dangerous discretion in the city council. McCuistion v. Fenet (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 1155.

The court will not pass on the expediency or wisdom of a constitutional statute. Baldacchi v. Goodlet (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 325.

The courts may not inquire into the wisdom of the framers of the constitution in delegating certain functions to the different departments of government, but may only determine whether or not such a delegation has been made. Snodgrass v. State (Cr. App.) 150 S. W. 152, 41 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1144.

The legislature having the right to provide against minors entering and remaining in saloons, it is not for the courts to attach a qualification to such prohibition which the language of the law does not warrant or the rule of reason dictate. Haynes v. Habersetzer (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 717.

The wisdom or folly of a statute is no concern of the courts but is for the legislature only. Danner v. Walker-Smith Co. (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 295.

It is the court’s duty to administer the law as written by the legislature, and not to make the law. Wilson v. Brown (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 322.

--- Encroachment on executive.---When the constitution confers power upon one department of the government, it must be exercised in the manner pointed out, to the exclusion of all other means or manner of exercising it. Snodgrass v. State (Cr. App.) 150 S. W. 174.
TITLE 82

LEGISLATURE

[For Compensation of Legislators, see Salaries.]

CHAPTER ONE

TIME OF MEETING

Article 5505.  [3271] Time of meeting.—The thirty-third legislature shall assemble to hold its biennial session on the second Tuesday in January, A. D. 1912 [1913] at 12 o'clock m., and shall meet biennially thereafter on the same day and hour until otherwise provided by law.

See Const. art. 3, § 5.

ORGANIZATION

Art. 5506. [3272] Who may organize the legislature.—Those persons receiving certificates of election to the senate and house of representatives of the legislature, and those senators whose terms of office shall not have terminated, and none others, shall be competent to organize the senate and house of representatives. [Act Aug. 23, 1876, p. 311, sec. 29.]

Art. 5507. [3273] Secretary of state to preside for purpose of organization.—For the purpose of organization, as provided for in the preceding article, it shall be the duty of the secretary of state to preside at each recurring session of the legislature. [P. D. 5437.]

Art. 5508. [3274] Secretary of state to attend meeting and appoint clerk.—He shall attend at the time and place designated for the meeting of the legislature, and shall appoint a clerk, who shall have been chief clerk of the house the preceding session, if he be present, to take a minute of the proceedings. [Id.]

Art. 5509. [3275] The clerk to call counties in alphabetical order.—The clerk, under direction of the secretary of state, shall call all the counties in alphabetical order. [Id.]

Art. 5510. [3276] Clerk to administer oath.—When the counties are called and the members elect appear and present their credentials, it shall be the duty of the clerk, under the order and direction of the secretary of state, to administer to each the oath prescribed by the constitution. [Id.]
Art. 5511. [3277] All counties to be called whether election returns are made or not.—Should returns of election in any county for members of the legislature not be made to the office of secretary of state, the clerk shall nevertheless call such county. [Id. P. D. 5438.]

Art. 5512. [3278] Parties sworn in on any proper evidence.—Any person appearing at said call and presenting the proper evidence of his election shall be admitted or qualified in the same manner as though the return of his election had been made to the office of secretary of state. [P. D. 5438.]

Art. 5513. [3279] When quorum not present on day for meeting. —Should there not be a quorum in attendance on the day appointed for the meeting of the legislature, it shall be the duty of the secretary of state and clerk to attend from day to day until a quorum shall appear and be qualified as above. [P. D. 5439.]

Art. 5514. [3280] Election of speaker.—When a quorum shall have appeared and been qualified, the house shall proceed to the election of a speaker, unless a majority of the members present shall think proper to defer said election. [P. D. 5440.]

Art. 5515. [3281] Election of necessary officers.—When an election for speaker shall have been had, the speaker elect shall immediately take the chair, and the house proceed to its further organization by electing the necessary officers, to whom the speaker shall administer the oath of office. [P. D. 5441.]

Art. 5516. [3282] In absence of secretary of state, attorney general to preside.—Should there be no secretary of state, or in case he be absent or unable to attend from any cause, the attorney general shall attend and perform the duties prescribed in this title. [P. D. 5442.]

CHAPTER THREE

INVESTIGATING COMMITTEES—PROCEDURE

Art. 5517. May administer oaths, etc.—In the investigation of any public officer elected by the legislature, or the qualified voters of the state of Texas, or of any nominee of any political party in said state for election by the legislature, or qualified voters thereof, to any public office in respect to matters or charges that reflect upon the personal or official integrity of such public officer or nominee, or that disqualifies, or tends to disqualify, such public officer to hold the office to which he has been elected or nominated by any political party, or any investigation of any other matter, or for any other purpose that may be ordered by the legislature of this state, or either house of such legislature, before any committee heretofore appointed by the legislature of this state, or by either house of said legislature, and now pending, or before any committee that may hereafter be appointed by the legislature of this state, or either house thereof, at this or any subsequent session, such investigating committee, and each member thereof, shall have full power and authority to administer oaths to officers, clerks and stenographers that it may employ in connection with the performance of its duties, and to any witnesses and parties called to testify before it; and said investigating committee shall have full power and authority to issue any and all process that may be necessary to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of any books, papers and other written documents it may designate, and to compel any witness to testify in respect to any matter or charge by it being investigated, in answer to all pertinent questions propounded by it, or under its direction, and to fine or imprison any witness for his failure or refusal to obey the process served on him by such committee, or to answer any such pertinent questions propounded; provided, that such fine shall not exceed one hundred dollars, nor shall imprisonment extend beyond the date of adjournment of the legislature then in session; and provided, further, that the testimony given by a witness before such investigating committee shall not be used against him in any criminal action or proceeding, nor shall any criminal action or proceeding be brought against such witness on account of any testimony so given by him, except for perjury committed before such committee. [Acts 1907, p. 6, sec. 1.]

Appointment of committees.—A branch of the legislature held entitled, at special session, to appoint a committee to investigate a recent election. Ex parte Wolters, 64 Cr. R. 238, 144 S. W. 531.

Powers of committees.—Powers of investigating committee of legislature held as broad as the resolution appointing it. Ex parte Wolters, 64 Cr. R. 238, 144 S. W. 531.

Examination of witnesses.—Certain questions by a legislative investigating committee to a witness ruled on as proper or improper. Ex parte Wolters, 64 Cr. R. 238, 144 S. W. 531.

Refusal to answer as contempt.—Refusal to answer certain questions by a legislative investigating committee to a witness held not to constitute contempt. Ex parte Wolters, 64 Cr. R. 238, 144 S. W. 531.

Refusal of a witness to answer questions put by legislative committee held a criminal contempt. Id.

Punishment for contempt.—The power to punish for contempt held not to be inherent in the legislature, but to exist only as expressly given by the constitution. Ex parte Wolters, 64 Cr. R. 238, 144 S. W. 531.

Art. 5518. Sergeant-at-arms may serve process.—The sergeant-at-arms, or assistant sergeant-at-arms, of either house of the legislature of this state, or any sheriff or constable of this state, may serve any process that may be issued by said investigating committee, or by any commission by them appointed, for the attendance of witnesses who reside within this state; and, if such service is made by any sheriff or constable, he shall be allowed the same fees and mileage allowed for similar process by the district courts of this state in civil cases. Should said investigating committee so direct, any witness visiting or being within the state may be summoned before such committee by having a brief statement of the process issued for such witness transmitted by telegram to any sheriff or constable of the county within which such witness may reside, or is supposed to be, at the time such process may be issued. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 5519. Special committee to take certain testimony.—Whenever such investigating committee before which any investigation, such as herein above defined, is pending, shall deem it necessary or advisable to procure the testimony of any witness or witnesses residing or being at a great distance from the city of Austin, within this state, or residing or being without this state, or procure the evidence contained, or supposed to be contained, in any books, papers or written documents without this state, such investigating committee may name, appoint and delegate any two of its members as a special commission to go to any such distant point or points within this state, or beyond the confines of this state, where such witness resides, or is supposed to be, or where such evidence may probably be had, for the purpose of procuring the testimony of such witness or witnesses, or of such evidence, and shall seek to procure the same as hereinafter provided. [Id. sec. 3.]
Art. 5520. Notice of taking same to be given.—When such special commission as hereinabove defined shall be appointed and delegated by said investigating committee, notice thereof shall be forthwith given to the party under investigation, or his attorneys of record, and the point or points to which such special commission is directed to go, as far as may then be known, shall be stated in such notice, and the order in which such points are to be visited as far as may then be known; provided, that such special commission may visit any other point or points than those named by such investigating committee, if in the judgment of such commission necessary to procure such testimony or any other material testimony. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 5521. Authority to issue process, etc.—Such special commission shall have authority to issue any and all process that may be necessary to compel the attendance of witnesses before them, administer oaths to witnesses, compel authority to administer oaths to officers, clerks and stenographers that it may employ in connection with the performance of its duties, and to any witnesses and parties called to testify before it; and said investigating committee shall have full power and authority to issue any and all process that may be necessary to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of any books, papers and other written documents it may designate, and to compel any witness to testify in respect to any matter or charge by it being investigated, in answer to all pertinent questions propounded by it, or under its direction, and to fine or imprison any witness for his failure or refusal to obey the process served on him by such committee, or to answer any such pertinent questions propounded; provided, that such fine shall not exceed one hundred dollars, nor shall imprisonment extend beyond the date of adjournment of the legislature then in session; and provided, further, that the testimony given by a witness before such investigating committee shall not be used against him in any criminal action or proceeding, nor shall any criminal action or proceeding be brought against such witness on account of any testimony so given by him, except for perjury committed before such committee. [Acts 1907, p. 6, sec. 1.]

Art. 5522. Judges and other officers may take testimony, when.—Said commissioners, if they elect so to do, may file with any judge of any court of record, justice of the peace, commissioner of deeds for the state of Texas, or notary public of the county and state where any witness whose testimony is desired may reside or be found, a brief statement of the matters or charges under investigation by the legislature of the state of Texas, or either house of such legislature, in respect to which the testimony of such witness is sought, the name of the witness and where he can probably be found, the reasons why such witness is believed to possess the information sought, and, when books, papers and other documents are accessible to such witness are desired, such a description thereof as will enable the witness to produce the same, and thereupon ask that such judge, justice of the peace, or commissioner of deeds, or notary public, shall summon such witness to appear before him with any books, papers, and other written documents that may be so designated, and testify in answer to any and all pertinent questions that may be propounded to him by said commissioners, or under their direction, in respect to said matters and charges. Any subpoena or other process issued by said judge, justice of the peace, commissioner of deeds, or notary public, shall state the time and place of holding such examination, and otherwise conform to the laws of the state in which the same is issued; and the examination of such witness shall be in the same manner and subject to the same rules of procedure as provided by law for taking the deposition of witnesses in answer to oral interrogatories and cross interrogatories under a commission issued upon agreements of the parties litigant by the district courts of the state of Texas to take
Art. 5523. Process, by whom served.—Any process issued by said commissioners, or by any of the officers named in article 5522, when the same is to be served without this state, shall be served by any of the officers named in article 5522, by delivering a true copy of such process to the witness therein named; and such officer shall make his return on such service showing how and when the same has been served and service of process in this state shall be the same as service of similar process in civil cases. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 5524. Testimony to be written, etc.—When any witness appears to testify either before said commissioners or any of the officers named in article 5522, the questions propounded and answers thereto shall be taken down by a competent stenographer and thereafter transcribed, together with all objections thereto, and shall be returned to the investigating committee to be incorporated in the record as a part of the evidence in such investigation, subject to the ruling of said investigating committee as to the admissibility of any evidence therein contained. Any officer named in article 5522 shall have power and authority to compel any witness appearing before him to testify in answer to any and all pertinent questions propounded; and upon the failure or refusal of such witness to testify such officer may fine or imprison such witness for contempt to the extent and as may be provided by the laws of the state in which such witness is examined. The commission provided for by this act shall have the authority to employ and have to accompany them not more than one attorney who is not a member of such committee and who is a citizen of the state of Texas, at the expense of the state, but shall not have the authority to employ attorneys who are not citizens of this state at the expense thereof. [Id. sec. 8.]

Decisions Relating to Subject in General

Special session—Submission of subjects by governor.—Courts will not investigate the question whether an act passed at a called session was legislation to which the governor had by message called attention. State v. Larkin, 41 C. A. 253, 99 S. W. 912.

A message from the governor to the legislature in special session held not sufficient, as a submission of certain matters, to warrant their consideration by the Legislature. Ex parte Wolters, 64 Cr. R. 238, 144 S. W. 631.

Governor's response to request by legislature at special session for submission of further subjects construed as a promise to consider the request, so that the legislature by a committee could seek information to impress on him the necessity for a submission of such matters. Id.

Governor's response to request by legislature at special session for submission of further subjects construed. Id.

STATE RECLAMATION ENGINEER

Art. 5529a. Primary object of act; work authorized, etc.—That the primary object of this Act shall be to devise and plan and mark out upon the ground all the improvements necessary to reclaim or cause to become suitable for agricultural uses, the overflowed and swamp lands and overflowed areas in the costal plain, and other lands within this state, which, by reason of the temporary or permanent excessive accumulation of water thereon, or contiguous thereto, are not suitable for such uses, and, to accomplish the said primary purpose, it is hereby authorized and ordered that the necessary investigations, examinations, measurements, computations, estimates, surveys, maps, reports and publications shall be made, and any other necessary work incident thereto shall be done, which may be required in the process of designing, planning or marking out upon the ground the most effective, practical, permanent, economical, feasible and equitable improvements or systems of improvements such as levees, dikes, dams, canals, drains, water-ways, reservoirs or any or all of them, and other improvements incidental thereto, and that in so far as possible the said improvements shall be designed, planned or marked out upon the ground with primary consideration to the topographic and hydrographic conditions, and in such manner that each division of the said improvements shall be a complete, united project, forming a co-ordinate part of an ultimately finished series of projects, so constituted that the successful operation of the improvements in each united project existing within the same hydraulic influence; and the said improvements and system of improvements shall be discussed in reports, shown on maps, drawings or diagrams, or otherwise recorded, reproduced, delineated or published; and all such final results of the work herein authorized, which are or may be of value to the state of Texas, shall be filed for public reference as hereinafter provided. And provided, that no part of the money herein appropriated shall be used in the actual construction of any of the improvements herein authorized to be devised, planned or marked out upon the ground. [Acts 1909, p. 136. Amended Acts 1911, p. 160. Acts 1913, p. 292, sec. 2.]

Explanatory.—By Acts 1913, ch. 88 (p. 160), sec. 1, Acts 1909, ch. 81 (p. 130), was amended so as to read as set forth in sections 2-10 of the amendatory act. By Acts 1913, p. 292, sec. 1, Acts 1911 ch. 88, was amended so as to read as set forth in the articles here designated as Arts. 5529a-5529j. The provisions of Acts 1909, p. 136, were contained in Rev. Civ. Stat. 1911, Arts. 6525-5529, which are superseded by said Arts. 5529a-5529j.
Art. 5529b. State reclamation engineer; qualifications.—For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Act there is hereby created and established the office of state reclamation engineer. The said state reclamation engineer shall himself be a thoroughly experienced and skilled topographer and hydrographer and draftsman and reclamation engineer; and he shall have had not less than five years actual experience in the organizing and supervising of geodetic and topographic surveying and mapping of large areas, and in the general direction of field and office engineering corps. He shall be thoroughly experienced in making and passing upon reclamation plans and estimates, and in the preparation and writing of technical reports and publications, and in the reproduction of maps. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5529c. Duties and powers of engineer.—The said engineer shall have general supervision of all work authorized by this Act, and shall have power to determine at what points, within the territory herein prescribed, the said work shall be done, and, when not in conflict with the provisions of this Act, shall make such division and allotment of the money herein appropriated as to properly carry out the provisions of this Act; and shall determine the manner and the season that the results of said work shall be made public. The said engineer shall have the further power, if in his judgment it will subserve the best interests of the state of Texas, to accomplish the objects herein provided for, to make and approve agreements or contracts for co-operation with any branch or branches of the federal, state, county or city governments for the doing of all or any part of the work herein authorized; provided, that said engineer shall also have the power to cancel the said co-operative agreements or contracts upon ten days' written notice to the branch or branches of the federal, state, county or city governments concerned; and provided, that if said engineer shall deem the said co-operation not to be to the best interests of the state of Texas, then it is hereby made the duty of said engineer to cause to be accomplished the objects of this Act independent of the co-operation of federal, state, county or city governments. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 5529d. Engineer, how appointed; compensation.—The said state reclamation engineer shall be appointed by the governor with the advise and consent of the senate, and shall serve for a term of two years and until his successor is appointed and qualified. The said state reclamation engineer shall receive as compensation for his services the sum of thirty-six hundred dollars ($3600.00) per annum payable monthly; and in addition to his salary he shall be reimbursed for his necessary traveling and station expenses, or shall be reimbursed therefor by an equivalent per diem allowance in lieu thereof, while engaged upon his official duties in the field. [Id. sec. 5.]

Art. 5529e. Further powers and duties of engineer.—The said engineer shall have power to employ such assistants, to make or authorize to be made such purchases, to incur or authorize to be incurred such other expenses, and to formulate and enforce such reasonable and proper rules and regulations governing his official work, and the work of his assistants, both in the office and in the field, as may be necessary to perform with correct dispatch and economy the work herein authorized to be done. And the said engineer is further empowered to confer with any branch of the federal, state, county or city governments with a view to obtaining authority, assistance or advice in connection with his official work, whenever necessary or desirable, and he shall solicit the co-operation of any other branch of the federal, state, county or city governments whenever such co-operation may be to the best interests of the state of Texas. It shall be the duty of the said engineer to perform, conduct or supervise the work herein authorized, and to execute such additional or supplemental orders and instructions not incompatible with his prescribed duties, as may be necessary to properly carry out the provisions of this Act. It shall further be the duty of the said engineer to confer in a technical capacity with communities or districts within this state that have requested his technical advice with a view to the adequate execution of proposed levee, drainage and irrigation reclamation improvements contemplated in such communities or districts, for which technical advice the said engineer shall receive no extra compensation. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 5529f. Record of expenditures; districts to reimburse state, etc.; bonds.—That hereafter the said state reclamation engineer shall keep an accurate record of all moneys spent by the state in the making of the authorized surveys of each individual district, and upon the completion of such surveys shall certify what the pro rata cost of making the survey has been within the district in question. That hereafter any improvement district, drainage district or levee district organized under the provisions of the law authorizing the organization and conducting such improvement districts, drainage districts, or levee districts which takes advantage of the information furnished by the hydrographic and topographic survey provided for in this Act, shall, when such improvement district, drainage district, or levee district is organized and issues bonds, pay to the state reclamation engineer such sum as the said engineer may direct, provided, that the said engineer shall not require the district in question to reimburse the state in a greater amount than the pro rata cost of making the survey as certified by the said engineer as above specified; and, that all funds reimbursed to the state in this manner shall be placed in the state treasury to the credit of said engineer to be used again for the purpose of further carrying out the provisions of this Act. It is further provided that such improvement districts, drainage districts, or levee districts are hereby authorized to issue bonds in amounts equal to that charged by the said engineer for the cost of making the said survey with which to reimburse the state as hereinbefore provided. [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 5529g. Districts to file record, etc., with engineer.—Hereafter all improvement districts, drainage districts, or levee districts shall, immediately prior to the approval of their bonds by the attorney general, as authorized by law, file with the said state reclamation engineer a complete record showing all the steps in their legal organizations, and showing the boundaries, area, and amount of bonds to be issued, to be given upon forms furnished by said engineer, together with the plans of improvements, maps, profiles, the estimates and the engineer’s report of the said district. [Id. sec. 8.]

Note.—Section 9 makes it a misdemeanor to destroy or deface any corner, line, mark, etc., made in the work authorized by the act.

Art. 5529h. Engineer to maintain office, etc.—The said engineer shall have and maintain in the state capitol an office suitable for the proper performance of his technical and general office work, and in which it shall be his duty to safely file for public reference all final results of the work herein authorized, and provided in section 2 [Art. 5529a] of this Act. [Id. sec. 10.]

Art. 5529i. Appropriations.—For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Act, there is hereby re-appropriated all of the unexpended balance in the appropriation made by chapter 88, of the General Laws of the state of Texas passed at the regular session of the thirty-second legislature, entitled “An Act to amend Chapter 81, of the General Laws of the State of Texas passed at the Regular Session of the Thirty-First Legislature of the state of Texas.” Provided, further, that in addition to the foregoing reappropriation of the said unexpended balance as hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of forty thousand ($40,000) dollars to be expended in carrying out the provisions of this Act, and to be paid upon vouchers approved by the said state reclamation engineer. [Id. sec. 11.]

Art. 5529j. Laws repealed.—That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this Act be and the same are hereby expressly repealed. [Id. sec. 12.]

Article 5530. Commissioners' court to establish improvement districts.—The commissioners' court of each county of this state may hereafter create, establish and define one or more improvement districts in their respective counties in the manner hereinafter provided, and may, or may not include within the boundaries and limits of such districts, villages, towns and municipal corporations, or any portion thereof; but no land at the same time shall be included within the boundaries of more than one improvement district created under the provisions of this chapter. [Acts 1909, p. 140, sec. 1.]

Art. 5531. Improvement districts may control levees, etc.—Such improvement districts, when so created, established and defined, may build and construct, or cause to be built and constructed and maintained, levees or other improvements on all rivers, creeks and streams within such districts, or which may border on the same, to prevent overflows thereof, and issue bonds in payment therefor, and the maintenance thereof, and levy and collect taxes for the payment of said bonds and interest thereon, as hereinafter provided, and may acquire, by grant, condemn-tion or otherwise, such levees or other improvements as may have been already constructed in such district. [Id.]

Art. 5532. Petition to establish district and issue bonds.—Upon the presentation to the commissioners' court of any county in the state of a petition signed by twenty-five of the resident property taxpayers in the proposed district, or in the event there are less than seventy-five resident property taxpayers in the proposed district, then by one-third of such resident property taxpayers of such district, praying for the establishment of an improvement district, the issuance of bonds and levy of a tax in payment thereof, and setting forth the necessity and feasibility and proposed boundaries thereof, and designating the name for such, the name to include the name of the county, the said commissioners' court shall, if in session when said petition is presented at said session of the court, set said petition down for a hearing at some regular or special session of the court called for that purpose, not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the date of the presentation of said petition, and shall order the clerk of said court to give notice of the filing of the said petition, and of the date and place of hearing, by posting written or printed notices thereof in five public places in said county, one of which shall be at the court house door of the said county, and four of which shall be within the limits of the proposed improvement district. Such notices shall be posted for twenty days prior to the time set for such hearing. Said clerk may deputize some other person to perform such service, and the affidavit of such clerk or his deputy that such notices have been so posted shall be held conclusive thereof. Said clerk shall receive as compensation for such services one dollar for each of such notices and five cents per mile for each mile necessary to be traveled in posting same. Should said commissioners' court not be in session, at the time of the filing of said petition, it may be filed with the county judge of the county, who shall thereupon make and enter an order upon the minutes of said commissioners' court, setting said petition for hearing at some regular or special term of said commissioners' court, called for that purpose not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the filing of said petition, and shall order the clerk of the said commissioners' court to give said notice as is herein provided for in this article, and which notice shall be posted for the time and as is provided for in this article. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 5533. Objection to creation of district, how made.—At the time set down for the hearing of said petition, any person who would be affected by the creation of said district may appear before the said court and contest or contend for the creation of said district, and may offer testimony to show that the said district is or is not necessary and would or would not be of public utility, and the creation of said district would or would not be feasible or practicable. Said commissioners' court shall have exclusive or final jurisdiction to hear and determine all contests and objections to the creation of such districts, and all matters pertaining to the same; and said court shall have exclusive jurisdiction over all subsequent proceedings of said district, when organized, except as herein provided, and may adjourn hearings on any matter connected therewith from day to day; and all judgments, orders or decrees rendered by said court in relation thereto shall be final, except as hereinafter provided. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5534. Duty of court on hearing.—If, upon the hearing of said petition, it shall appear to the court that the improvement of said river or rivers, creek or creeks or streams within such district, or which may border on the same, to prevent overflows, is feasible and practicable, and that it is needed and would be a public benefit, then the court shall so find, and shall render judgment reciting such findings, and create and establish such improvement districts, and cause such judgment to be entered of record. But, if the court should find that the improvement of such river or rivers, creek or creeks and streams is not feasible or practicable, or that it is not needed and would not be a public benefit, then the court shall enter such findings of record and dismiss such petition at the cost of the petitioners. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 5535. Engineer appointed, compensation, assistants.—Should the court render judgment establishing such improvement district according to the boundaries set out in such petition, then the court shall appoint a competent engineer, who shall receive a sum of not more than ten dollars per day for his services for the time he is actually engaged in the work for which he is appointed; and said engineer may, with the consent of the commissioners' court, or the county judge, employ such assistants as may be necessary, at such compensation as may be fixed by the commissioners' court, or the county judge. [Id. sec. 5.]

Art. 5536. Engineer to give bond.—Before entering upon his official duties, the civil engineer shall enter into a bond in the sum of five hundred dollars, with two or more sureties, to be approved by and payable to the county judge for the use and benefit of the improvement district, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties under this chapter. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 5537. Duty of engineer.—Said civil engineer shall, as soon as practicable, go upon the lands and rivers, creeks and streams embraced in said district, or bordering thereon, and examine such river, creek or stream proposed to be improved by levee or otherwise, and make an estimate of the probable cost of making and completing such levee or other improvement, and shall also designate the river or rivers, creek or creeks or streams necessary to be improved and the estimated cost of each, and also the estimated probable cost of maintaining same per year and make a detailed report of his work to the commissioners' court. [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 5538. Report of engineer.—Such report shall be accompanied by maps showing the initial or beginning point of such improvement, and the nature and character and location of same, with the estimated cost thereof, together with the location and size of all levees, and the number of cubic yards of earth necessary to construct the same. [Id. sec. 8.]

Art. 5539. Hearing on report.—When the said report is filed with the clerk of the commissioners' court, it shall be the duty of the said court, if then in session, to make and enter of record an order setting said report down for a hearing at some subsequent regular or special term of not less than thirty nor more than forty days from said filing, and to require the clerk to give notice of such hearing by posting written or printed notices in the manner and places and for the length of time and for the same compensation as is provided for in article 5532 of this chapter in regard to original notices of the filing of the petition. Should said court not be in session at the time of the filing of such report, then the county judge shall make the orders and cause written or printed notices to be given and posted as provided for in this chapter; and, if there should be no regular session of the said court within thirty days after such filing, he shall call a special session of the commissioners' court to act on such report, not less than thirty nor more than forty days from such filing. At the hearing of the said report, any taxpayer of said district, whether he resides in said district or not, may appear and object to any and all of such improvements and levees for the reason that they are located at the place or places, or that they are not sufficient in capacity to prevent an overflow. [Id. sec. 9.]

Art. 5540. Proceedings on approval of report.—If there should be no objection to said report, or if there should be objections thereto and the court shall find that the objections are not well taken, the report shall be approved, and the said report and the fact of such approval entered of record in the minutes of said commissioners' court, but the commissioners' court shall not be confined to the nature and character of the improvements or to the initial point, course and end of such improvements as shown by the report of the engineer, but may change the location and add to or reduce the size, length and height of the levees and order the engineer to locate any additional levees and improvements as may be ordered by the commissioners' court, and the commissioners' court, if it is deemed necessary, may refer the entire report back to the engineer for a compliance with the order of said court; provided, that if the said commissioners' court shall not adopt, in whole or in part, the original report of the said engineer, as provided herein, they shall require, and it shall be the duty of the said engineer, to make and file with the said commissioners' court a further report in writing of the probable cost of said improvements, as said improvements may be modified or changed by said commissioners' court, as provided for in this chapter. Before the said commissioners' court shall make any change or alterations in such improvements, as reported by such engineer and as provided for in this article, such proposed action of the court shall be set down for hearing, and notice thereof shall be given by posting written or printed notices, for the same length of time and in the same manner as provided for in article 5539 of this chapter, in regard to the hearing of the said original report of said engineer. [Id. sec. 10.]

Art. 5541. Election, form of ballot.—After the approval of the engineer's report or reports, as provided for in the preceding articles of this chapter, and at the same session of the said commissioners' court, the said court shall order an election to be held within such improvement district at the earliest possible time, at which time there shall be submitted the following proposition, and none other: “For the improvement district and the issuance of bonds and levies of tax in payment therefor,” “Against the improvement district and the issuance of bonds and levies of tax in payment therefor.” [Id. sec. 11.]

Art. 5542. Notice of election; election, how conducted.—Notice of said election, stating the time and place or places of holding the same, shall be given by the clerk of the county commissioners' court by posting written or printed notices thereof in five public places in such proposed improvement district, and one at the court house door of the county in which such district is situated. Such notices shall contain the propositions to be voted upon as set forth in article 5541 of this chapter, and shall also state the estimated cost of such improvement as reported by the engineer, and approved by the commissioners' court, and also the amount of bonds proposed to be issued, together with the rate of interest the same shall bear, and when the said bonds shall be due, and for a tax to be levied and collected to pay said bonds and interest thereon. The manner of conducting said election shall be governed by the election law of the state of Texas, except as herein otherwise provided. None but resident property taxpayers, who are qualified voters of the said proposed improvement district, shall be entitled to vote at any election on any question submitted to the voters thereof by the county commissioners' court at such election. The commissioners' court shall name the polling place or places for such election within the proposed improvement district, and shall also select and appoint judges and other necessary officers of the election, and shall provide one and one-half times as many ballots for said election as there are qualified resident taxing voters within such district as shown by the tax rolls of the county. Such ballots shall have printed thereon these words, and none others: “For the improvement district and issuance of bonds and levy of taxes in payment therefor," "Against the improvement district and issuance of bonds and levy of taxes in payment therefor." [Id. secs. 12 and 13.]

Art. 5543. Oath of voters.—Every person who offers to vote in any election held under the provisions of this chapter, shall first take the following oath before the presiding judge of the polling place where he offers to vote, and the presiding judge is hereby authorized to administer same: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I am a qualified voter of... county, and that I am a resident property taxpayer of the proposed improvement district voted on in this election, and I have not voted before at this election." [Id. sec. 14.]

Art. 5544. Returns of election; result disclosed; form of certificate.—Immediately after the election, the presiding judge at each polling place shall make returns of the result in the same manner as provided for in elections for state and county officers and return the ballot boxes to the county clerk, who shall keep the same in a safe place, and deliver them, together with the returns from the several polling places, to the commissioners' court at its next regular session, or special session called for the purpose of canvassing the votes; and the county commissioners' court shall at such session canvass the vote; and, if it be found that a two-thirds of all of the resident property taxpayers voting thereon have been cast in favor of the improvements and the issuance of bonds and levy of taxes, then the court shall declare the result of the election to be in favor of the said improvement district, and bonds and taxes, and shall enter the same in the minutes of the said court as follows:

"The county commissioners' court of... county, Texas,............. term, A. D........, in the matter of the petition of.............and others, praying for the establishment of an improvement district, the issuance of bonds and the levy of a tax in payment thereof, in said petition fully described and designated by the name of.............Improvement District............." Be it known that at an election held for said purposes in said district on the......day of...... A. D...........a two-thirds of all of the resident property taxpayers voting at said election, voted in favor of the creation of said improvement district and the issuance of bonds and the levy of taxes. Now, therefore, it is considered and ordered by the court that said improvement district be and the same is hereby established by the name of............. Improvement District within the following named metes and bounds, to wit: (Giving boundaries of the district). [Id. sec. 15.]

Art. 5545. Commissioners appointed; term of office; compensation.—After the establishment of this district, as herein provided, the commissioners' court shall appoint three improvement commissioners, by a majority vote of said court, whose duty shall be as hereinafter provided, who shall each receive for his services a sum of not more than three dollars per day for the time actually engaged in the work of said district; provided, that the compensation, if any, shall have been definitely fixed in the order of the court making said appointment; and, before any amount shall be paid to said commissioners, or either of them, they shall make a detailed report to the commissioners' court of the time actually engaged in the work for said district, and of the work done; and such report shall be audited and approved by the commissioners' court. Said improvement commissioners shall hold office for a term of two years and until their successors shall be qualified, unless removed by a majority vote of the commissioners' court for malfeasance, or for non-feasance, in office; upon the expiration of the term of office of the said improvement commissioners, or in case of the resignation, death of refusal to act of any such improvement commissioners, the commissioners' court shall appoint their successors by a majority vote of said court. [Id. sec. 16.]

Art. 5546. Oath of commissioners.—Before entering upon their duties, all improvement commissioners shall take and subscribe before the county judge an oath to faithfully discharge the duties of their office without favor or partiality, and to render a true account of their doings to the court by which they are appointed, whenever required to do so, which oath shall be filed by the clerk of the said commissioners' court and preserved as a part of the records of said improvement district. [Id. sec. 17.]

Art. 5547. Bond of commissioners.—Before entering upon their duties, each of the said improvement commissioners shall make and enter into a good and sufficient bond in the sum of one thousand dollars payable to the county judge for the use and benefit of said improvement district, conditioned upon the faithful performance of their duty. [Id. sec. 18.]

Art. 5548. Commission to organize.—The improvement commissioners shall organize by electing one of their number chairman and one secretary, and two of whom shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of two shall be sufficient in all matters pertaining to the business of said district. [Id. sec. 19.]

Art. 5549. Appointment of engineer; compensation and duties.—After the establishment of said district, the improvement commissioners shall employ a competent civil engineer, upon a salary not to exceed the sum of ten dollars per day, for the time actually engaged in the work, whose term of office shall be at the will of said commissioners, which civil engineer shall proceed to make a map of such improvement district, showing the boundary lines thereof, with the original surveys therein, and also make maps and profiles of the several levees, or such other improvements located in such district; but a copy of the land map of the county, as it applies to such district, showing the name and number of surveys and showing the area or number of acres contained in such district, shall be a sufficient compliance with such order, in so far as making a map of the district is required; and any recognized map of any city or town which may be embraced within the boundaries of the district shall be sufficient as to such site of the town; provided, however, that where boundary lines of such improvements, or any of them, cornered at original surveys, the map shall show how many acres of such original survey are included within such improvement district. [Id. sec. 20.]

Art. 5550. Maps and profiles of levees.—The map and profile of such levees and other improvements required by the provisions of this chapter to be made shall show the relations that each levee or other improvement bears to each tract of land through which it passes, and the shape in which it divides each tract; and, where the levee or other improvements cut off any tract of land less than twenty acres, then the map shall show the number of acres so divided therefrom, and the number of acres in the whole tracts, and its relation to such levees or other improvements; and such profile map shall also show the number of cubic yards of earth necessary to be excavated to make each levee or other improvement located in such district, and give the estimated cost of each; and when said maps, profiles and estimates shall have been completed by the said engineer, he shall sign the same in his official capacity and file them with the clerk of the said commissioners' court. It is hereby further made the duty of such engineer to supervise and control the construction of any levee or other improvements made in said district as hereinafter provided. [Id. sec. 21.]
Art. 5551. Bonds to be issued; limitations upon.—After the establishment of any such improvement district, and after the making and filing of such maps and profiles and estimates, as herein provided for, and after said election authorizing the issuance of bonds and levy of tax, the commissioners’ court shall make an order directing the issuance of improvement bonds for such districts sufficient to pay for such proposed improvements, and the maintenance thereof for a period of not exceeding two years; provided, however, that said bonds shall not exceed in the amount one-fourth of the assessed value of the real property of such district, as shown by the last annual assessment thereof made for the state and county taxation, and shall not exceed the estimate made by such engineer made before the election, and voted on at the election in this chapter provided for; provided, however, that, if after an election has been held establishing the district, levying a tax and issuance of bonds it should become necessary for said improvement district to make further improvements, or alterations in the improvements already constituted, or to repair or maintain the improvements so created, and there shall be no sufficient funds in the construction and maintenance funds with which such improvements, alterations, repairs and maintenance may be made, then the improvement commissioners may apply to the commissioners’ court for an election to be ordered by said court to issue additional bonds, stating the necessity therefor and the amount of bonds necessary, and the character of such improvements, repairs and maintenance, and the estimated cost therefor as made by such engineer, which shall accompany said application; and, upon the filing of such application, the commissioners’ court shall set same down for hearing at some future regular or special session, and cause the county clerk to give notice of such hearing, which notice shall state the character of such improvements, etc., together with the estimated cost therefor and the amount of such bonds and the rate of interest thereon, and the date when due. Said written or printed notices shall be posted in the same manner and places and for the same length of time as required by this chapter for the original petition for the creation of such district. If, upon said hearing, the court should find that the necessity for the issuance of such additional bonds, and that the taxable values of the real property of the said district as shown by the last annual assessment rolls for state and county taxes will admit of an additional bond issue, then the court shall order an election within said district for the purpose of voting on said proposed bond issue and the levy of taxes to pay said bonds and the interest thereon. The manner of holding such election and making returns, and the notices for said election, manner and time of giving notice thereof, and the qualifications of the persons entitled to vote therein, shall be the same as, and in all things governed by, the provisions of this chapter for the election held for the issuance of bonds and levy of tax in the first instance; and the commissioners’ court shall meet and canvass the returns of such election as in the said first election; and, if it be found that two-thirds of the resident property taxpayers voting at said election vote in favor of the issuance of said additional bonds and the levy of said tax, then the said commissioners’ court shall enter an order reciting the result of said election, and ordering the issuance of said additional bonds and issuance and sale and registration of such additional bonds and levy of said tax; and the issuance and sale and registration of such additional bonds shall in all things be governed by the provisions of this chapter in regard to the bonds first issued. [Id. sec. 22.]

Art. 5552. Form and terms of improvement bonds.—All bonds issued under the provisions of this chapter shall be issued in the name of the improvement district, and shall be signed by the county judge and attested by the clerk of the county court with the seal of the county
Art. 5553. Bonds to be submitted to attorney general.—Any improvement district in the state of Texas, desiring to issue bonds in accordance with this chapter, shall, before such bonds are offered for sale, forward to the attorney general of this state a copy of the bond to be issued, a certified copy of the order of the commissioners' court levying the tax to pay interest and providing a sinking fund for the payment of such bonds, and a statement of the total bonded indebtedness of such improvement district as such, including the series of bonds proposed and the assessed value of the property for the purpose of taxation, as shown by the last official estimate by the county, together with such other information as the attorney general may require. Whereupon, it shall be the duty of the attorney general to carefully examine the said bonds in connection with the facts and the constitution and laws of the state of Texas governing and controlling the execution of said bonds; and, if as a result of the examination, the attorney general shall find that such bonds were issued in conformity with the constitution and laws and that they are valid and binding obligations upon said improvement district in which they are issued, he shall officially so certify. [Id. sec. 24.]

Attorney general to examine bonds.—The attorney general cannot be compelled to certify to the validity of the bonds until they have been properly executed, and printed or lithographed ready for sale. To prepare a form in which the bonds are intended to be executed and present the same to the attorney general for his inspection and opinion is not sufficient. He must have before him one of the bonds just as it will be offered for sale. Hidalgo Co. Drainage Dist. v. Davidson, 102 T. 559, 120 S. W. 666.

Art. 5554. To be registered by comptroller; not to be impeached. —When such bonds have been examined by the attorney general, and his certificate attached thereto, they shall be registered by the state comptroller in a book to be kept for that purpose; and the certificate of the attorney general as to the validity of such bonds shall be preserved of record for use in event of litigation. Such bonds, after receiving the certificate of the attorney general, and having been registered in the comptroller's office, as herein provided, shall thereafter be held in every action, suit or proceeding in which their validity is, or may be brought into question, a prima facie, valid and complete obligation; and in every action brought to enforce the collection of such bonds, the certificate of the attorney general, or a duly certified copy thereof, shall be admitted and received in evidence on the validity of such bonds, together with the interest coupons thereto attached; provided, that the only defense that can be offered against the validity of such bonds shall be forgery or fraud. But this article shall not be construed to give validity to any such bonds as may be issued in excess of the limits fixed by the constitution, or contrary to its provisions, but all such bonds shall, to the extent of such excess levy, be void. [Id. sec. 25.]

Art. 5555. Books of bonds to be kept; sinking fund provided.—Before issuing any bonds under the provisions of this chapter, the county commissioners' court shall first provide a well-bound book in which a record shall be kept by the clerk of said court of all bonds issued, with their number, amount, rate of interest and date of issuance, when due, where payable, and amount received for the same, and the tax estimate to pay the interest on said bonds: and said commissioners' court shall provide for a sinking fund for their payment, which shall be set forth in said book; and said book shall at all times be open to the inspection of all parties interested in said district, either as taxpayers or bondholders; and, upon the payment of any bond, an entry thereof shall be made in said book. The county clerk shall receive for his services in recording all bonds and other instruments of the improvement district, the same fees as provided for other like records. [Id. sec. 26.]

Art. 5556. Bonds, how sold; proceeds, how applied.—When such bonds have been registered as provided for in the preceding articles of this chapter, the county commissioners' court may appoint the county judge, or some other suitable persons, to sell said bonds on the best terms and for the best price possible; provided, that none of said bonds shall be sold for less than the face par value thereof and accrued interest thereon; and, as fast as said bonds are sold, all money received therefrom shall be paid into the county treasury and shall by him be placed to the credit of such improvement district. [Id. sec. 27.]

Art. 5557. County judge to give bond before selling bonds.—Before the county judge, or such other person as may be appointed by the commissioners' court, shall be authorized to sell any of said improvement bonds, the county judge, or other person so appointed, shall execute a good and sufficient bond payable to the commissioners of such improvement district, to be approved by the commissioners' court of said county, for an amount not less than the amount of the bonds issued, conditioned upon the faithful discharge of his duty, which bonds shall be subject to the approval of said improvement commissioners; and the person selling said bonds shall be allowed one-half of one per cent of the amount received for sale of the bonds sold by him in full payment for his services in their behalf. [Id. sec. 28.]

Art. 5558. Expenses after filing petition, how paid.—All expenses of any kind, after the filing of the original petition, necessarily incurred in connection with the creation, establishment and maintenance of any improvement district under the provisions of this chapter, shall be paid out of the construction and maintenance funds of such improvement district; which funds shall consist of all moneys received from the sale of bonds and all other moneys or property received by such district whatsoever the source, except tax collections applied to the sinking funds and the payment of interest on the improvement bonds; provided, that should the proposition for the creation of such improvement district and the issuance of bonds be defeated at the election called to vote upon the same, then all expense up to and including said election shall be paid for as provided in this chapter. [Id. sec. 29.]

Art. 5559. Deposit to accompany petition.—When the petition praying for the establishment of an improvement district is filed with the county commissioners' court, it shall be accompanied by two hundred dollars in cash, which shall be deposited with the clerk of the said county commissioners' court, and by him held until after the result of the election for the creation of said improvement district has been declared and entered of record by the commissioners' court, as hereinbefore provided; and, should the result of said election be in favor of the establishment of such district, then the said two hundred dollars shall be by the said clerk returned to the signers of the said original petition, or their treasurer or attorney; but, should the result of said election be against the establishment of said improvement district, then the said clerk shall pay out of the said sum of two hundred dollars, upon vouchers signed by the county judge, all costs and expenses pertaining to the said proposed improvement district up to and including the said election, and shall return the balance, if any, to the signers of said original petition, or their agent or attorney. [Id. sec. 30.]
Art. 5560. Tax to be levied.—Whenever any such improvement bonds shall have been voted, the commissioners' court shall levy, and cause to be assessed and collected, improvement taxes upon all property within said improvement district, whether real, personal or mixed, or otherwise, and sufficient in amount to pay the interest on such bonds as it shall fall due, together with an additional amount to be annually placed in the sinking funds sufficient to discharge and redeem said bonds at their maturity. If advisable, the sinking fund shall from time to time, be invested in such county, municipal, district or other bonds as shall be approved by the attorney general of the state. If any of said bonds shall be offered for payment and redemption before the date of their maturity, it shall be the duty of the county judge of the county, and the county treasurer, to pay and redeem same upon request of the improvement commissioners, if there be at the time a sufficient amount of money in said sinking fund for that purpose. [Id. sec. 31.]

Art. 5561. County assessor to assess property; removal for failure. —The county commissioners' court shall provide all necessary additional books for the use of the assessor and collector of taxes and the county clerk for such improvement district, and charge the cost of same to the said district. It shall be the duty of the county tax assessor, when ordered to do so by the commissioners' court, to assess all property within such improvement district and list the same for taxation in the books or rolls furnished by the said commissioners' court for that purpose and return said books or rolls at the same time when he returns the other books or rolls of the state and county taxes for correction and approval; if the said commissioners' court shall find said books or rolls correct, they shall approve the same and order the county clerk to issue a warrant against the county treasurer in favor of said tax assessor, to be paid from the funds of said improvement district. The tax assessor shall receive for his services such compensation as the said county commissioners' court shall deem proper to compensate him for the amount of work done; provided, that the said county assessor shall in no event be allowed less than what he is now allowed by law for like services. Should the tax assessor fail or refuse to comply with the orders of the commissioners' court requiring him to assess and list for taxation all property in such improvement district as herein provided, he shall be suspended from the further discharge of his duty by the commissioners' court of his county, and he shall be removed from office in the mode prescribed by law for the removal of county officers. [Id. sec. 32.]

Art. 5562. Tax collector to give special bond.—The tax collector of the county shall be charged by the county commissioners' court with the assessment rolls of the improvement district, and he shall be allowed such compensation for the collection of such taxes as he is now allowed for the collection of other taxes. The county commissioners' court shall require the tax collector of the county to give an additional bond of security, in such sum as they may deem proper and safe, to secure the collection of said taxes; and, should any collector of taxes fail or refuse to give such additional bond or surety as herein provided when required by the commissioners' court, within the time prescribed by law for such purposes, he shall be suspended from office by the commissioners' court of his county, and immediately thereafter be removed from office in the mode prescribed by law. [Id. sec. 33.]

Art. 5563. Delinquent taxes to be collected as other taxes.—It shall be the duty of the tax collector to make a certified list of all delinquent property, upon which the improvement taxes have not been paid, and return the same to the county commissioners' court, and said court shall proceed to have said taxes collected by the sale, by the collector, or by suit, in the same manner as now provided for the collection of delinquent state and county taxes; and at any sale of such property for such delinquent improvement taxes, the improvement commissioners may become the purchasers of the same for the benefit of the improvement district. [Id. sec. 34.]

Art. 5564. County treasurer to keep account.—It shall be the duty of the county treasurer to open an account with the improvement district and to keep an accurate account of all moneys received by him belonging to such district, and all moneys paid out by him. He shall pay out no money, except upon a voucher signed by two of the improvement commissioners and countersigned by the county judge, and he shall carefully preserve all orders for the payment of money; and, as often as required by the said improvement commissioners or the commissioners' court, he shall render a correct account to them on all matters pertaining to the financial condition of such district. [Id. sec. 35.]

Art. 5565. Tax a lien on property assessed.—All taxes levied, or authorized to be levied by this chapter shall be payable and shall mature and become delinquent as is provided by the laws of this state for state and county taxes, and, upon the failure to pay such taxes when due, the same penalties shall accrue and be collected as provided by the laws of the state of Texas for the non-payment of state and county taxes. All taxes shall be a lien upon the property for which said property is assessed. In the assessment and collection of the taxes levied, or authorized to be levied, by this chapter, the assessor and collector of taxes shall, respectively, have the same powers and shall be governed by the same rules and regulations as provided by the laws of the state of Texas for the assessment and collection of state and county taxes, unless herein otherwise provided. [Id. sec. 36.]

Art. 5566. Treasurer to give additional bond.—The county treasurer shall execute a good and sufficient bond, payable to the improvement commissioners and their successors in office of such district, and in the county where said district is located, in a sum equal to one and one-fourth the amount of the bonds issued, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duty as treasurer of such district, which bond shall be approved by said improvement commissioners; and the treasurer shall be allowed as compensation for his services as such treasurer, one-half of one per cent. Such treasurer may make said bond with any guaranty or surety company as may be approved by such improvement commissioners; and the premiums due such guaranty or surety company making said bond shall be paid out of the maintenance fund of the improvement district, and shall not be a charge against the county treasurer. [Id. sec. 37.]

Art. 5567. Condemnation proceedings; acquisition of right of way. —The right of eminent domain is hereby expressly conferred upon all improvement districts established under the provisions of this chapter for the purpose of acquiring the fee-simple title, easement or right of way to and over and through any and all lands, waters, or lands under waters, private or public (except land and property used for cemetery purposes) within or bordering on such districts, necessary for making, constructing and maintaining all levees and all other improvements for the improvement of a river or rivers, creek or creeks or streams within or bordering on such districts, to prevent overflows thereof. All condemnation proceedings or suits in the exercise of eminent domain under this chapter shall be instituted under the direction of the improvement commissioners and in the name of the improvement district, and all suits or other proceedings for such purposes and for the assessing of damages shall be in conformity to the statutes of the state of Texas for condemning and acquiring land or the right of way thereon, by eminent domain, by railroad corporations; provided, that no appeal from the judgment or order of condemnation of the commissioners assessing damages to any one whose land is sought to be condemned shall have the effect of preventing the said improvement district from going upon and using the land so sought to be condemned during the pendency of said appeal; provided, however, that the said improvement district shall deposit with the county clerk of the county, in which such proceedings are pending, a sum equal to double the amount of money adjudged by them to be paid for said land, or the right of way thereon, and all costs thereon accrued.

The improvement commissioners of any district are hereby empowered to acquire the necessary right of way for all levees and other necessary improvements contemplated by this chapter, by gift, grant, purchase or condemnation proceedings, and may by the same method acquire any levees or other improvements already constructed within the territory in any such improvement district, and, if acquired by grant or purchase, such purchase shall be subject to the approval of the county commissioners' court. [Id. secs. 38-39.]

Art. 5568. Commissioners and employés may enter upon lands, when.—The improvement commissioners of any district and the civil engineer, from time of their appointment, are hereby authorized to go upon any lands or water courses lying within said districts, or bordering thereon, for the purpose of examining the same, and locating all levees and other improvements, making plans, surveys, maps and profiles, together with all necessary teams, help and instruments, without subjecting themselves to an act of trespass. [Id. sec. 41.]

Art. 5569. Commissioners to repair and improve levees.—It shall be the duty of such improvement commissioners to keep the levees and other improvements made under the provisions of this chapter in repair, and they shall be given authority to supervise and control the construction and maintenance of same; and no county or improvement district, or the taxpayers therein, shall be held for damages occasioned by the construction, maintenance or repair of levees or other improvements under the provisions of this chapter. [Id. sec. 42.]

Art. 5570. Contracts let to lowest bidder.—Contracts for making and constructing levees and other improvements, and all necessary work in connection with any improvement district, shall be let by the improvement commissioners to the lowest bidder, after giving notice by advertising the same in one or more newspapers of general circulation in the state of Texas once a week for four consecutive weeks, and by posting notices for at least thirty days in five public places in the county, one of which shall be at the court house door, and at least two of which shall be within said improvement district; and the contract for such levee and other improvement may be let in separate sections or parcels, or all together; provided, that all the improvements included in the report of improvement engineer and approved by the court as provided for in this chapter, shall be constructed. [Id. sec. 43.]

Art. 5571. Bids, how submitted.—Any person, or corporation, or firm desiring to bid on the construction of any work, advertised as provided for in this chapter, shall, upon application to the improvement commissioners, be furnished a copy of the engineer's report, showing location, profile and estimate of such as is provided for in this chapter; provided, such person shall pay the county clerk for making same, and all bids or offers to do any work shall be in writing and sealed and delivered to the chairman of the improvement commissioners, together with a certified check for at least five per cent of the total amount bid, which shall be forfeited to the district in case the bidder refuses to enter into the proper contract, if his bid is accepted, and any and all bids may be rejected by the said commissioners. [Id. sec. 44.]

Art. 5572. Contracts approved and filed.—All contracts made by the improvement commissioners shall be reduced to writing and signed by the contractor and the commissioners, and approved by the county judge, and a copy of same shall be filed with the county clerk for reference. [Id. sec. 45.]

Art. 5573. Contractor's bond.—The party, firm, or corporation, to whom any such contract is let, shall give bond payable to the improvement commissioners for said district, and in the county where said district is located, in double the amount of the contract price, conditioned that he, they or it, will faithfully perform the obligations, agreements and covenants of their contracts, and in default thereof will pay to said district all damages sustained by reason thereof. Said bond shall be approved by such commissioners and the county judge. [Id. sec. 46.]

Art. 5574. Construction under supervision of engineer and commissioners.—The improvement engineer shall furnish the contractor with a sectionized profile of the work contracted for, showing the height, width and slope, brim and location of all levees and the number of cubic yards of earth to be removed and other work to be done by the contractor, together with drawn plans and specifications for such work; and such work shall be done by the contractor under the management and control and supervision of said improvement engineer and improvement commissioners, who shall indicate to the said contractor the beginning point and termination of all levees and other improvements called for by said contract; and, when such work is completed according to the contract, the engineer shall make a detailed report of the same to the improvement commissioners, showing whether the contract has been fully complied with according to its terms, and, if not, in what particular it has not been complied with. [Id. sec. 47.]

Art. 5575. Right of way across railroads, etc.—The said improvement commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to make all necessary levees, bridges and culverts to, across, and under any railroad tracks and right of way of any such railroads to enable them to construct and maintain any levees or other improvements necessary to be constructed as a part of the levee system of such district, such levees, bridges, or culverts to be paid for by such improvement district; provided, however, that notice shall first be given by such improvement commissioners to the railroad authorities to build or construct levees, bridges or culverts; and the railway company shall be allowed thirty days in which to build or construct the same at its own expense, if it should so desire according to its own plans; provided, that such levees, bridges, or culverts shall be constructed so as not to interfere with the purpose of said levee or other improvement, nor with the operation of said railway. [Id. sec. 48.]

Art. 5576. Payment of warrants.—The said improvement commissioners shall have the right, and it is hereby made their duty, at all times during the progress of the work being done under contract, to inspect the same; and upon the completion of any contract to their satisfaction, and when they have accepted the improvements as completed according to contract, they shall draw a warrant on the county treasurer for the amount of the contract price, or so much thereof as remains unpaid at that time, in favor of the contractor, or his assigns, which warrant shall, when approved by the county judge, be paid out of the improvement funds of said district. [Id. sec. 49.]

Art. 5577. Partial payments.—If the said improvement commissioners shall deem it advisable in order to obtain more favorable contracts, they may advertise and contract for work to be paid in partial payments as the work progresses; but such partial payments shall not exceed in the aggregate seventy-five per cent of the amount to be paid under the contract, the amount of work completed to be shown by certified report of the engineer, and no payment to be made for work not completed. [Id. sec. 50.]

Art. 5578. Annual report of commissioners.—The improvement commissioners shall make an annual report of their acts and doings as such commissioners, and file the same with the clerk of the county court on or before the first day of January of each year, which report shall show in detail the kind, character and amount of work done in the district, the cost of the same, and other data necessary to show the conditions of improvements under the provisions of this chapter. [Id. sec. 51.]

Art. 5579. May employ attorneys.—The improvement commissioners are hereby empowered and authorized to employ counsel to represent such districts in the preparation of any contracts, or the conducting of any proceedings in or out of court, and to be the legal adviser of such improvement commissioners upon such terms and for such fees as may be agreed upon by them, and approved by the county judge; and such commissioners may draw a warrant in payment of such legal services, to be paid out of the fund of said district upon approval by the county judge. [Id. sec. 52.]

Art. 5580. May acquire property; sue and be sued.—The improvement districts established under this chapter may acquire property, and, through the improvement commissioners, sue and be sued in all the courts of this state in the name of such improvement district; and all courts of this state shall take judicial notice of such said districts. [Id. sec. 54.]

Art. 5581. May lease or rent land.—The improvement commissioners, for the purpose of protecting any levees or other improvement constructed under the authority of this chapter, shall be authorized to keep the space between any levees or other improvement, and the stream or streams the overflow of which is intended to be prevented, free and clear from all obstructions; and, if any district should by gift, purchase, or condemnation become the owner of any such land, or any other land not needed and used for the purpose of drainage, the said improvement commissioners shall have authority to lease any such land for any purpose which shall not interfere with the work or use of such district, on such terms and for such rental as said improvement commissioners may see fit; and all moneys received therefrom shall be paid to the county treasurer for the use of said district. [Id. sec. 55.]

Art. 5582. May let use of levees, etc.—The improvement commissioners shall have the authority, with the consent of the county judge, to let the use of any levee for a public highway, or street, or railway, or street railway, or interurban railway right of way, or for telegraph, telephone, or electric poles upon such terms as such improvement commissioners and the county judge shall deem proper; but provisions shall be made in any such contract for the payment by the levy of an equitable portion of the cost and expense of thereafter maintaining such levee in good condition for the purposes for which such levee was constructed; and any money received for such rental use shall be paid to the county treasurer for the use of such district. [Id. sec. 56.]

Art. 5583. May dispose of surplus material.—The improvement commissioners shall have authority to dispose of, by sale, any and all earth or any material acquired by the district and not needed for the construction or maintenance of the improvements being constructed under the provisions of this chapter pertaining to this district; and any money received from same shall be paid to the county treasurer for the use and benefit of the district. [Id. sec. 57.]

Art. 5584. Land to be sold; form of conveyance.—The improvement commissioners, with the consent of the commissioners' court, shall have authority to sell and convey any land, the fee of which has been acquired by such district by purchase, gift, or condemnation, and not needed at the time, or likely to be thereafter needed, for the use of the district, upon such terms as said improvement commissioners and the county judge may deem best for the district; and the money received from any such sale shall be paid to the county treasurer for the use of the district. The deed of conveyance of such lands shall be executed by the chairman of such improvement district commissioners, in the name of the improvement district. [Id. sec. 58.]

SEAWALLS

Art. 5585. Construction and maintenance of seawalls; powers of counties and cities; levy of tax.—The county commissioners' court of all counties, and the municipal authorities of all cities, bordering on the coast of the gulf of Mexico, shall have the power and are authorized from time to time to establish, locate, erect, construct, extend, protect, strengthen, maintain, and keep in repair and otherwise improve any sea wall or breakwater, and to improve, maintain and beautify any boulevard erected in connection with such sea wall or breakwater, and to incur indebtedness therefor, the payment of which may be provided for either with or without the issuance of bond. And said commissioners' courts and municipal authorities shall also have power and are hereby authorized to levy taxes not to exceed in any one year fifty cents on the one hundred dollars of taxable values of said county or city for the payment of said indebtedness, provided that when the taxes are levied as herein provided for, will not pay off said indebtedness within five years; then the payment of said indebtedness shall be provided for by the issuance of bonds as hereinafter provided. [Acts 1901, 1 S. S., p. 23, sec. 1. Acts 1913, S. S., p. 3, sec. 1, amending Art. 5585, Rev. St. 1911.]

Construction in cities.—This act gives counties authority to construct seawalls or breakwaters in cities in the county, as well as outside of such cities. Johnston v. Galveston County (Civ. App.) 85 S. W. 511.

Acquisition of funds for work.—If funds can be obtained in any other way, the county can undertake the work without issuing bonds or levying a tax therefor. Johnston v. Galveston County (Civ. App.) 85 S. W. 511.

Art. 5586. Burdens on streets and highways for seawalls.—Said county commissioners' court, and municipal authorities, shall have the power to impose such additional uses and burdens upon all streets, alleys, public highways and other public grounds as they may deem necessary for the location, erection, construction and maintenance of seawalls and breakwaters, and to license, regulate or grant such additional uses of said seawalls or breakwaters as will not impair their efficiency. [Acts 1901, 1 S. S., p. 23, sec. 2.]
Art. 5587. To take land for; exercise right of eminent domain.—Said counties and cities shall have the power to take and appropriate such land and other property as may be deemed necessary for the establishment, location, construction and maintenance of said seawalls and breakwaters, and to define the area of land needed, and to acquire, take, hold and enjoy the same for the purposes aforesaid, and to that end shall have the right to exercise the right of eminent domain and to condemn lands for the uses and purposes aforesaid, in the manner and under the conditions provided by law in case of railroad corporations; provided, nevertheless, that said county commissioners' court, or said municipal authorities, shall be empowered to take the fee simple estate to the land condemned or acquired hereunder, whenever deemed necessary for the purposes of this act; and, provided, further, that before exercising the power of eminent domain hereunder said county commissioners' court, or said municipal authorities, shall, by order, ordinance, or resolution duly entered on the minutes of the county commissioners' court, or the city council, define and describe lands needed, and determine whether an easement or fee-simple estate in said land shall be taken. [Id. sec. 3.]

Conditions giving right to condemn.—The only conditions necessary to give county or city the right to condemn land for purposes stated in this act are that the land shall fall to be used for a public purpose, and that the commissioners' court shall by order entered upon its minutes, define and describe the lands needed and determine whether an easement or fee-simple estate in said land shall be taken. Johnston v. Galveston County (Civ. App.) 85 S. W. 651.

Jurisdiction.—In a suit brought under this act to condemn land, the jurisdiction of the county court, while not eo nomine, appelleate, is such in effect. The proceeding cannot be commenced in the county court, but must be commenced by a petition to the county judge stating facts which show that the petitioner is entitled to condemn the property. The county judge has authority to appoint three commissioners to determine the amount of damages to which the owner of the land is entitled for the taking of his land for public use. It is only when one of the parties is dissatisfied with the award of damages, that the county court acquires jurisdiction to try the issues involved in the proceedings. It follows that unless the original petition states facts sufficient to authorize the county judge to appoint commissioners, his action in making such appointment is void, and the commissioners are without jurisdiction to assess damages. There being no jurisdiction in the court a quo, the appellate (county) court could acquire none, and no amendment of the petition in the county court could avail to cure omission of necessary jurisdictional allegations in the original petition. Johnston v. Galveston County (Civ. App.) 85 S. W. 651.

Procedure.—The manner of condemning land is the same as that provided in Art. 6606, regulating the condemnation of land by railroad corporations. Johnston v. Galveston County (Civ. App.) 85 S. W. 651.

Injunction.—When the county has complied with the statute authorizing it to condemn land for purpose of making seawall, and it and its agents or contractors are in lawful possession of the premises pending an appeal in the condemnation proceedings, an injunction will not lie to prevent acting under the proceedings of condemnation, because there is an adequate remedy at law. Johnston v. O'Rourke & Co. (Civ. App.) 86 S. W. 603.

Art. 5588. Issuing bonds; election.—Before issuing the bonds of the county, or city, for the purposes authorized by this chapter, said county commissioners’ court or municipal authorities, shall prescribe the amount of the bonds to be issued, the rate of interest thereon, and provide for an election at which all tax payers who are qualified voters entitled to vote in said county or city, shall be allowed to vote for or against the proposed taxation for the payment of said bonds and interest thereon. [Acts 1901, 1 S. S., p. 23, sec. 1. Acts 1913, S. S., p. 3, sec. 2, amending Art. 5588, Rev. St. 1911.]

Art. 5589. Election, how conducted; board of inquiry, duties of.—For the purpose of ascertaining whether two-thirds of the taxpayers of said county, or city, have voted in favor of the proposed taxation, the county judge, the county assessor and the county collector, or three members of their own body selected by the municipal authorities, as the case may be, are hereby constituted and appointed a board of inquiry. Whenever an election is ordered hereunder, said board shall make out from the latest completed assessment rolls of said county, or city, a list of all taxpayers of said county, or city, who are qualified voters and taxpayers entitled to vote hereunder; and from the date of the notice of said election until five days before the day thereof, said board shall sit daily for the purpose of making additions to and corrections of said list, and all taxpayers being qualified voters shall, during said period, have the right to apply to said board and to have their names entered on said list. During the period of five days before said election, said board shall make out under certificate and file with the county or city clerk, as the case may be, a complete alphabetical list of all taxpayers who are qualified voters at said election, and shall furnish printed copies of said list to the officers at each poll at said election. Said printed list furnished by said board, and the returns and poll lists of said election, shall be returned to the county, or city clerk, as the case may be. The ballots at said election shall be printed or written on white paper, without any outward mark or device to distinguish the same, and shall contain the words, in substance, “In favor of the proposed tax,” or, “Against the proposed tax.” Said election shall, except as herein otherwise provided, be ordered and conducted in the same manner in all respects as are general state and county, or municipal, elections, so far as the same are applicable, not including, however, registration, and provisions incidental thereto, and the returns thereof shall be made in like manner, as far as may be; provided, nevertheless, that said election may be held on thirty days’ notice thereof at any time fixed by the county commissioners’ court, or municipal authorities. And the proposition to levy a tax hereunder may be renewed until the power to tax hereunder shall have been exhausted. [Acts 1901, 1 S. S., p. 23, sec. 5.]

Art. 5590. Election returns; canvass; two-thirds vote required.—The county commissioners’ court, or municipal authorities, shall, as soon as practicable after said election, meet and canvass the returns thereof, and with the aid of the returns and lists herein provided for, together with such other evidence as may be required, ascertain and record in the minutes of the commissioners’ court, or of the municipal authorities, the total number of taxpayers of said county or city who are qualified voters on the day of said election, the number of said taxpayers voting in favor of the proposed taxation, and the number of said taxpayers voting against the same. In the event that two-thirds of the taxpayers of said county or city, who are qualified voters therein, shall have voted in favor of the proposed tax, the said county or city shall thereupon have power to issue its bonds for the construction and maintenance of seawalls and breakwaters. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 5591. Interest, sinking fund; levy of taxes for.—Whenever bonds are issued under the preceding article, the county commissioners’ court, or municipal authorities, shall annually levy, assess and collect, in the mode prescribed by law for other county or municipal taxes, a tax on the real estate and personal or mixed property in said county, or city, sufficient to pay the interest and provide a sinking fund of not less than two per cent of the principal of all of said bonds; and all taxes collected by virtue hereof shall be held in trust by said county, or city, as a special and inviolable fund for the payment of interest and principal of said bonds; provided, however, that any surplus above the amount required to meet the annual interest may be invested for the benefit of the sinking fund in the bonds issued hereunder, or in bonds of the state of Texas, or of the United States. [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 5592. Cession of state lands for the benefit of.—The better to enable said counties and cities to secure the protection herein provided for, and to aid in the construction of said works, the right to the use and control for the purposes prescribed by this chapter, of so much of the land or sea bottom below high tide as may be deemed necessary by said county commissioners’ court, or municipal authorities, is hereby ceded by the state of Texas to counties and cities availing themselves of the provisions of this chapter. [Id. sec. 8.]
Art. 5593. City and county treasurers custodian of funds, exclusive use of.—All funds, revenues and moneys derived from the sale of the bonds herein authorized, and from the sale or rent of reclaimed or other lands acquired under this chapter and from additional uses of said works as herein authorized, shall be deposited with the county or city treasurer, as the case may be, and shall be held in trust exclusively for the construction and maintenance of seawalls and breakwaters, including the purchase of the right of way therefor; and all moneys derived from the assessment and levy of taxes as aforesaid are declared to be a trust fund for the payment of interest and principal of bonds to be issued under this chapter; and the use or diversion of such moneys for any other purposes whatsoever is hereby prohibited, and a violation of this article shall constitute a misapplication of public money, and the person or persons so offending shall be punished as provided in article 96 of the Penal Code of the state of Texas. [Id. sec. 9.]

Art. 5594. Bonds to be issued in cases of counties, cities and towns.—All bonds issued hereunder shall be issued under and subject to the provisions of articles 616-620, 622-625, inclusive, of the Revised Statutes of this state now in force, in so far as said articles do not conflict with the provisions of this chapter, and this chapter shall apply to all cities bordering on the coast of the gulf of Mexico, whether said cities are incorporated by general or special laws; and all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed. [Id. sec. 10.]

Note.—For local statute as to Galveston seawall, see Acts 1905, p. 54, as amended by Acts 1911, S. S. p. 99.

DEcISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT IN GENERAL

Rights and liabilities of adjoining landowners.—If one dams up water on his land and it backs up and overflows and damages another he is liable for the damage caused. Gembler v. Echterhoff (Civ. App.) 67 S. W. 313.

Equity will enjoin an owner of land bordering on a stream from filling in the low places on his land, and constructing a levee along the stream on his side, so as to cause the stream to unnaturally overflow the lands of another bordering on the opposite side of the stream. Sullivan v. Dooley, 31 C. A. 689, 73 S. W. 82.

An owner of land bounded on a stream held entitled to erect levees on his own land, provided he does not materially injure the adjacent owner. Knight v. Durham (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 591.

A landowner cannot lawfully construct an embankment that turns the overflow of a stream upon the land of another. Way v. Roddy (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 1148.

In an action to enjoin the construction of a levee, evidence held insufficient to show injury to plaintiff by a wrongful diversion of the overflow of a stream. Id.

LIBEL

Article 5595. Definition.—A libel is a defamation expressed in printing or writing, or by signs and pictures, or drawings, tending to blacken the memory of the dead, or tending to injure the reputation of one who is alive, and thereby expose him to public hatred, contempt or ridicule, or financial injury, or to impeach the honesty, integrity, or virtue, or reputation of any one, or to publish the natural defects of any one and thereby expose such person to public hatred, ridicule, or financial injury. [Acts 1901, p. 30, sec. 1.]

What constitutes libel in general.—An unsealed dunning letter sent through the mail is a libel, when. Burton v. O'Neill, 26 S. W. 1013, 6 C. A. 613.

The statutory definition of libel is broad enough to include within its terms any case which in the absence of the statute would be held to be within the common definition of a libel. At common law to publish in writing that one is mendacious or that he uttered a falsehood is libelous per se. Fleming v. Mattinson, 92 C. A. 594, 114 S. W. 652.

Though a person suffer injury from a publication, it is not libelous under the statute, unless the reasonable conclusion to be drawn from it is that it was intended to injure such person's reputation by exposing him to public contempt or financial injury. Galveston Tribune v. Guisti (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 239.

A certain newspaper publication held not libelous. Id.

Malice.—Where the words spoken are actionable per se, it was not necessary for plaintiff to prove express malice. Patterson & Wallace v. Frazer (Civ. App.) 93 S. W. 146.

Where words spoken are slanderous per se, it is presumed that they were spoken maliciously, in the absence of evidence tending to show the contrary. Mayo v. Goldman, 87 C. A. 475, 122 S. W. 449.

This article changed the common-law rule with respect to proof of malice, where a publication is not libelous per se, and recovery may be had under the statute for a publication not libelous per se where the publication has the effect contemplated by the statute, though there is no proof of malice. Guisti v. Galveston Tribune, 106 T. 497, 150 S. W. 874.

Malice authorizing an award of exemplary damages in a libel case may be shown by evidence of the personal ill will of defendant, or may be inferred where the libelous article was recklessly or carelessly published. Fessinger v. El Paso Times Co. (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 1171.

Exposing to hatred, contempt or ridicule.—Any publication tending to injure the reputation of one who is alive and thereby expose him to either public hatred, contempt or ridicule, or financial injury, is a libel. Walker v. San Antonio Light Pub. Co. (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 566.

When the tendency of the publication is to injure reputation by exposure to public hatred, contempt or ridicule, it is not necessary that financial injury should be shown in order to render the publication libelous. Id.

Unless the natural and reasonable conclusion to be drawn from an alleged libelous publication considered in connection with the circumstances alleged is that it was intended thereby to make a charge against or a statement concerning the person mentioned therein which would tend to injure his reputation and expose him to public hatred, contempt, ridicule, or financial injury, the publication is not libelous under this article, though the person mentioned may have suffered injury by reason thereof. Galveston Tribune v. Guisti (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 239.

Where a defamatory publication was such that it necessarily must, or as a natural and probable result would, tend to injure plaintiff's reputation, and expose him to public hatred, contempt, or ridicule, or impeach his reputation, and was libelous per se within this article, it was proper for the court to instruct the jury that the publication was libelous per se. Galveston Tribune v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 302.

In view of this article, words libelous per se and from the publication of which damages are implied as a matter of law are such words as tend to expose one to public hatred or disgrace or vilify him or injure his character. Allen v. Earnest (Civ. App.) 148 S. W. 1103.

"Public hatred" signified a public or general dislike or antipathy and "hatred" means to have little regard for or to despise. McDavid v. Houston Chronicle Printing Co. (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 252.

A publication that plaintiff's daughter, who was suing her husband for divorce, attempted to become the master of her household, and that this quality was inherited from plaintiff, who kept her husband in abject subjection, tended to expose plaintiff to public hatred, which is public or general dislike or antipathy, or the holding of one in small regard, and hence was actionable under the statute. Id.
A newspaper article reciting that a barroom in a grocery store near a medical school was operated by the daughter of the proprietor, the assistant, was found behind the bar, and stated that sales had been made to students in violation of law, but that the sales were made without knowledge that the buyers were students and that the place had been complained of, and that it was understood that students inclined to patronize such places were attracted there for some reason, was libelous, under the statute, as tending to subject her to public contempt or impeach her integritv, virtue, or reputation. Guisti v. Galveston Tribune, 105 T. 497, 150 S. W. 874.

This article modifies the common-law rule as to libel and slander, and a publication is libelous where it libelous per se or not; it being sufficient if it can be shown by innuendo that the matter imputed had the tendency described in the statute and had reference to the plaintiff. Id.

Conspiracy to publish.—Where a conspiracy to publish a libel is shown, all the conspirators are responsible for all of the publications, though no one of them was concerned in the actual publication. Cranfill v. Hayden (Civ. App.) 76 S. W. 872.

Actionable words in general.—See this case for notification held not to be libelous. Youngblood v. Godair (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 913.

One is liable for damages resulting from his speaking words that would convey a slanderous meaning to the ordinary hearer, though he intended a different meaning. King v. Sassaman (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 304.

A letter reflecting on plaintiff's honesty held libelous per se. Sanders v. Hall, 22 C. A. 285, 55 S. W. 694.

An article held libelous per se in charging plaintiff with being a liar. Mitchell v. Spradley, 23 C. A. 43, 56 S. W. 134.

Certain statements made by defendant regarding a husband and wife held to be slanderous per se. Cr. Kappellman, 30 C. A. 162, 70 S. W. 283.

A railroad company which makes an agreement whereby a third party is to solicit advertising, and which therefrom enounces him as a swindler, held guilty of libel. St. Louis S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas v. McArthur, 31 C. A. 206, 72 S. W. 76.

Imputation of crime and immorality.—It is libelous per se to charge that a note was "obtained under false pretenses." Young v. Sheppard (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 63.

A publication that plaintiff had been arrested on a warrant sworn out held libelous per se. A. H. Belo & Co. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 856.

Where a publication was calculated to induce belief that plaintiff had committed crime, it was libelous, though it did not accuse him in terms. Houston Printing Co. v. Moulden, 15 C. A. 574, 41 S. W. 381.

A certain publication held to be libelous per se, as it charged plaintiff with having fraudulently obtained or misapplied money. A. H. Belo & Co. v. Smith, 91 T. 521, 43 S. W. 859.

The words, "You stole a hundred dollars of his money," held actionable per se. Ledgerwood v. Elliott (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 872.

A statement that, if a certain woman has a certain disease, she caught it by illicit intercourse, is slanderous per se, if she is afflicted with such disease. King v. Sassaman (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 304.

Under this article words spoken or written which falsely and maliciously or falsely and wantonly impute to a female want of chastity are actionable without showing special damage arising therefrom. See Pen Code, art. 766 (646). Hatcher v. Range, 58 T. 85, 81 S. W. 289.

Language imputing unchastity to a female is actionable per se. Patterson & Wallace v. Fertig (Civ. App.) 93 S. W. 146.

It is not slanderous for a man speaking of a woman to say that he has "had a big time with her." Gooing v. State (Cr. App.) 98 S. W. 857.

An article which in effect charged plaintiff with smuggling goods into the country without paying the customs duties thereon held libelous. San Antonio Light Pub. Co. v. Lewy, 52 C. A. 22, 133 S. W. 574.

A statement held slanderous, as imputing to an unmarried female a want of chastity. Kyle v. State, 55 Cr. R. 560, 116 S. W. 535.

When a newspaper publishes an article concerning one man having been arrested for murder, and prints the picture of another in connection with said article who is in no way connected with the murder and who is not charged therewith, the offense is libelous per se. James v. Ft. Worth Telegram Co. (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 1029.

Statements made by railroad auditor to a ticket agent that he would have to make good the shortage of another employé which he had failed to report held not to charge a ticket agent with embezzlement. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Moses (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 1037.

Liability may arise under the statutes though the matter imputed by the publication does not constitute the commission of a crime in the sense of violating the penal laws of the state; it being sufficient that the publication has the effect described in the statute. Guisti v. Galveston Tribune, 105 T. 497, 150 S. W. 874.

It was held that the publication to the effect that a female acted as bawmaid at a saloon during the absence of the proprietor, and that for some reason or other students resorted to such place, and that the female stated that "they were there to do business," imputed unchastity to such female and was libelous. Id.

A newspaper article charging that plaintiff was arrested for assault, "forfeited a $35 bond," and failed to answer the charge against him, which is said to have been a mix-up in the red light district, was libelous per se. Fessinger v. El Paso Times Co. (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 1171.

Tendency to injure in profession or business.—Challenge to right of preacher to sit as member of a church convention held libelous per se. Cranfill v. Hayden (Civ. App.) 76 S. W. 573.

A letter to the general manager of a railroad, concerning plaintiff, a general freight agent, stating that plaintiff told the writer one thing and wired an agent another, and concluding with a separate paragraph saying that plaintiff was not a reliable man in any respect, and that his word was not good, was actionable without allegation of special damage. Allen v. Earnest (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1101.

The publication of unfitness or misconduct in office or employment.—A publication held libelous per se, as accusing an officer of the crime of false imprisonment and of misconduct in office. Houston Printing Co. v. Moulden, 15 C. A. 574, 41 S. W. 381.

A publication accusing an "officer" of crime held a libel on a sheriff, though it did not by name refer to him or his office. Id.

A newspaper article, charging that a person is unlawfully received and held a prisoner in the county jail, held libelous per se. Boone v. Herald News Co., 27 C. A. 546, 66 S. W. 313.

To falsely impugn to a clerk that he has been bribed to betray the confidence of his employer is per se slanderous. Mayo v. Goldman, 57 C. A. 475, 122 S. W. 449.

Cause special damage.—If matters published are libelous per se, the plaintiff need not offer any evidence of special damage except to increase the amount of recovery. Bailey v. Chapman, 16 C. A. 544, 44 S. W. 446.

Where an article is libelous per se, plaintiff need not prove damage. A. H. Belo & Co. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 866.

Where a publication was libelous per se, held, that plaintiff could recover for injuries resulting, including injury to feelings, without showing special pecuniary loss. Houston Printing Co. v. Moulden, 15 C. A. 574, 41 S. W. 381.

In actions for libel having a natural tendency to do injury, no special damages need be shown. Brown v. Durham (Civ. App.) 42 S. W. 331.

A statement that another uses morphine is not slanderous per se. King v. Sassa­man (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 304.

A letter to a plaintiff's creditor that plaintiff was unable to pay his debt and was preparing to leave the country was not libelous per se. Sanders v. Edmonson (Civ. App.) 56 S. W. 611.

Where no special damages were proved, plaintiff was not entitled to recover for an alleged libel, not libelous per se. Id.

Words spoken or written which falsely and maliciously, or falsely and wantonly, impute to a female want of chastity are, since the passage of article 1180, Penal Code, actionable without showing special damage arising therefrom. Hatcher v. Range (Sup.) 81 S. W. 292.

A derogatory publication concerning plaintiff is not actionable. In the absence of special damages, unless the publication is libelous per se. Fleming v. Mattinson, 52 C. A. 476, 114 S. W. 650.

This article does not require that special damage shall have been incurred from the libel in order to render it actionable. McDavies v. Houston Chronicle Printing Co. (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 252.

Under this article it is not necessary to prove special damages from a publication having the effect contemplated by the statute, though the publication is not libelous per se. Guisti v. Galveston Tribune, 105 T. 497, 150 S. W. 874.

Under this article recovery may be had for mental anguish resulting from a publication not libelous per se without proof of other injury or damage. Id.

Construction of language.—In determining the meaning of an alleged defamatory publication, the question is as to the effect of the publication on the mind of the ordinary reader. Guisti v. Galveston Tribune, 105 T. 497, 150 S. W. 874.

A false publication to the effect that a female acted as barmaid at a saloon during the absence of the proprietor, and that for some reason or other students resorted to such place, and that the female stated that "they were there to do business," imputed un­chastity to such female and was libelous. Id.

In an action for slander, the jury must consider the actual language used in the light of what it meant to the ordinary hearer. Lehmman v. Medack (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 438.

Certainty.—A communication may be libelous without naming the person or directly charging the crime if it is fairly susceptible of a defamatory meaning and is calculated to cause those who read it to understand who is intended. G. & C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Floore (Civ. App.) 42 S. W. 607.

Where a newspaper published an account of a homicide, and included as a part of the publication a picture of a person other than the one accused of the killing, referring to it as that of the person who did the killing by placing his name under it, the publication imputed the act to the person whose picture was published. James v. Ft. Worth Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 1028.

A newspaper account of a divorce proceeding contained matter derogatory to plaintiff in the divorce case, and stated that she derived her bad characteristics from her mother, and, while the report did not give the names of any of the parties, it described the occupation of the defendant in the divorce case, and made other identifying statements which would indicate to persons acquainted with the parties the persons referred to. A second article on the same subject mentioned the name of plaintiff in the divorce suit. Held, that the mother of the plaintiff in the divorce suit was sufficiently referred to to support an action by her against the owner of the newspaper for libel. McDavies v. Houston Chronicle Printing Co. (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 252.

To justify a recovery for libel, it is not necessary that all the world should understand who the person defamed was, if those knowing plaintiff can discern that she was meant. Express Pub. Co. v. Orsborn (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 574.

Repetition.—A slanderer is not liable for reports circulated by others. King v. Sassa­man (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 304.

Where a publication by an agent was not libelous, a ratification by the principal did not make it so. Harris v. Santa Fe Township Co. (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 77.

Where defendant published a libelous article against plaintiff, it was no defense that another newspaper published a similar article at the same time. Galveston Tribune v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 302.
A correction article stating plaintiff's claim, followed by the clause "and there you are," was not libelous, where the libelous fact stated therein was admitted to be true and was plaintiff's version of the incident. Fessinger v. El Paso Times Co. (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 1171.

Injury from defamation.—Defendant held not liable for a misstatement in the citation to a suit brought against a person of which plaintiff was a member, where he recovered in the suit. Towery v. McDougle-Craig Co. (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 621.

Damages in general.—Where a libel accused plaintiff of crime and of misconduct in office, held, that the jury might consider in assessing damages his previous character as a man and an officer, and the injury thereto and to his feelings. Houston Printing Co. v. Moulten, 15 C. A. 574, 41 S. W. 581.

Though defendant, in publishing a libel, intended to injure plaintiff merely in his business, yet plaintiff was not confined, in respect to damages, to the effect of the libel on his business. Durham v. Crain Co. (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 33.

Plaintiff is entitled to more than nominal damages in an action for libel, where defendant wrote a letter stating that plaintiff was dishonest, and intended to evade payment of his debts, though no special damages are proven. Sanders v. Hall, 24 C. A. 195, 65 S. W. 594.

Damages to plaintiff's character as a minister and editor, resulting from libelous publications, held to constitute such general damages as need not be specifically alleged or proven. Cranfill v. Hayden, 22 C. A. 566, 55 S. W. 805.

Loss of or injury to reputation may be considered in estimating damages for slander, though there is no specific proof of such loss or injury. Rosenbaum v. Roche, 46 C. A. 277, 101 S. W. 1164.

The law presuming injury from the publication of matter libelous per se, the libeled person is entitled to at least nominal damages from the publisher. James v. Ft. Worth Telegram Co. (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 1028.

When words spoken are slanderous per se because imputing a crime or tending to injuriously affect complainant in his business, trade, or calling, he is entitled to at least nominal damages, if the speaking is not privileged, and the imputation conveyed is false. Mayo v. Goldman, 57 C. A. 475, 122 S. W. 448.

In an action for slander, plaintiff held not entitled to damages because of his loss of employment in the company of which defendant was manager. Id.

In an action for libel on a member of a legislative committee with reference to alleged official misconduct, injuries to his political career and opportunities to secure office held proper elements of special damage. Galveston Tribune v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 114 S. W. 305.

Mental suffering.—Mental anguish is an element of damage from libel. Young v. Sheppard (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 62.

One to whom cause of action for libel survives may recover for mental anguish of deceased. Houston Printing Co. v. Dement, 18 C. A. 20, 44 S. W. 558.

One concerning whom slanderous words have been spoken may recover for mental anguish occasioned thereby, where actual damages have been sustained by reason of injury to the reputation of the person slandered. McCarthy v. Miller (Civ. App.) 57 S. W. 953.

In libel for charging plaintiff with smuggling, the measure of damages stated. San Antonio Light Pub. Co. v. Lewy, 52 C. A. 22, 113 S. W. 574.

Exemplary damages.—A slanderer may be liable for exemplary damages, where he was moved to utter the slander through implied malice, as well as express malice. King v. Basseman (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 304.

That slanderous words were spoken maliciously is admissible in aggravation of damages. Id.

In libel for charging plaintiff with smuggling, exemplary damages held not recoverable. San Antonio Light Pub. Co. v. Lewy, 52 C. A. 22, 113 S. W. 574.

Exemplary damages not recoverable for slanderer, where defamatory words were spoken maliciously or wantonly. Day v. Becker (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1197.

Exemplary damages are not recoverable in a libel case unless the libelous language was instigated by malice, even though the language be libelous per se. Fessinger v. El Paso Times Co. (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 1171.

Pleading.—See notes under Art. 1827, § 172.

Evidence.—See notes under Art. 3837.

Art. 5596. Mitigation of damages.—In any action for libel, the defendant may give in evidence, if specially pleaded, in mitigation of exemplary or punitive damages, the circumstances and intentions under which the libelous publication was made, and any public apology, correction or retraction made and published by him of the libel complained of. The truth of the statement or statements in such publication shall be a defense to such action. [Id. sec. 2.]

Justification and mitigation in general.—That a libel was published in other newspapers is a favor to defendant. Smith (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 556.

The fact that the alleged slander was spoken under provocation by misconduct of the plaintiff may be shown in mitigation of damages. Ledgerwood v. Elliott (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 572.

The fact that defendant believed a current rumor concerning plaintiff, of the same tenor as the slander, is properly submitted in mitigation of damages. Id.

The fact that a slanderous statement was a rumor repeated by defendant was no justification. Patterson & Wallace v. Frazer (Civ. App.) 93 S. W. 146.

LIBEL

Though the existence of probable cause for believing matters contained in a libelous article to be true may mitigate the damage, it will not justify the publication. San Antonio Light Pub. Co. v. Lewy, 52 C. A. 22, 113 S. W. 574.

If a notice in a newspaper that it would correct any erroneous reflection upon any one upon due notice of same being given, if admissible at all in evidence, it would only be admissible in mitigating damages in an action for damages in a libel suit and when specially pleaded in mitigation of such damages. James v. Ft. Worth Telegram Co., 54 C. A. 526, 117 S. W. 1030.

While, in an action by F. for the publication of a libel, a second article published by defendant and headed, "F.'s Correction," and commencing, "F. says," followed by his statements, was not admissible under this article, since it was a correction made by plaintiff, it was still admissible independent of the statute as a circumstance tending to rebut any inference of malice. Fessinger v. El Paso Times Co. (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 1171.

A notice to consignees of cattle that defendants held a mortgage thereon, and demanding the net proceeds thereof, held not libelous, where defendants held a mortgage on a portion of the cattle. Youngblood v. Godair (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 913.

The truth of the defamatory matter is a complete defense in libel. San Antonio Light Pub. Co. v. Lewy, 52 C. A. 22, 113 S. W. 574.

Under this article the defense of truth pleaded and proved is a complete one, though the statements were libelous per se. Whelos v. W. Y. Davis & Son (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 929.

Where, in libel, the truth of the statements complained of was established without dispute as a defense, as authorized by this article, so that the only proper judgment that could be rendered was the one rendered for defendant, errors committed by the trial court were not ground for reversal. Id.

A party exhibiting to others an account against a firm held not liable for damages to a member of the firm for a misstatement therein as to the persons owning the business. Bowerry v. McRobie-Craig Co. (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 621.

Bad character of defamed person.—The defendant can show plaintiff's general reputation in the respect in which it is assailed in mitigation of damages for libel. Schulze v. Jalopiek, 18 C. A. 296, 44 S. W. 580.

Art. 5597. What matters deemed privileged.—The publication of the following matters by any newspaper or periodical, as defined in article 5595, shall be deemed privileged, and shall not be made the basis of any action for libel without proof of actual malice:

1. A fair, true and impartial account of the proceedings in a court of justice, unless the court prohibits the publication of the same, when in the judgment of the court the ends of justice demand that the same should not be published, and the court so orders; or any other official proceedings authorized by law in the administration of the law.

2. A fair, true and impartial account of all executive and legislative proceedings that are made a matter of record, including reports of legislative committees, and of any debate in the legislature and in its committees.

3. A fair, true and impartial account of public meetings, organized and conducted for public purposes only.

4. A reasonable and fair comment or criticism of the official acts of public officials and of other matters of public concern published for general information. [Id. sec. 3.]

The defense of privileged communication is a perfect defense to an action for libel, and not a plea in mitigation of damages. Proof of every essential element of privileged communication is admissible. Cranfill v. Hayden, 22 C. A. 656, 55 S. W. 805.

The principle upon which privileged publications respecting judicial proceedings, etc., rests, stated. A. H. Belo & Co. v. Lacy (Civ. App.) 111 S. W. 215.

Privacy of official records required by law to be kept, as well as official proceedings made public by authority of law, held inadmissible with public policy. Id.

A newspaper reporter, in copying for publication a court record of the filing of a suit to recover a "penalty for keeping a disorderly house," held not required to verify the entry, in the absence of actual knowledge that it was erroneous. Id.

The clerk's file docket is an official record book of a court of justice required by law to be kept (Arts. 1512-1814, 1694), and the "entries so made are official proceedings within the meaning of this act as to privileged publication by a newspaper and their publication is therefore not libelous. Id.
Title 84  LIBEL  Art. 5597

Any allegation in a pleading in a suit is privileged, and will not sustain an action for libel. Harris v. Santa Fe Townsite Co. (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 77. The opinions of judges are absolutely privileged. Allen v. Earnest (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 1101.

Questions asked by an attorney of a party while testifying as a witness are absolutely privileged, and cannot be made the basis of an action for slander, though otherwise actionable. Kruegel v. Cockrell & Gray (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 352.

Reports of official proceedings.—Published proceedings of a convention excluding one of its members held privileged communications. Cranfill v. Hayden, 22 C. A. 656, 55 S. W. 605.

Discharge of duty to others.—A schedule of buildings furnished by an agent to his principal in the course of his duties is a privileged communication. Schulze v. Jalonick, 18 C. A. 296, 44 S. W. 580.

A letter to a business house, stating that plaintiff was selling goods under false representations, that the work thereon was done by the business house, held not privileged. Davis v. Wells, 25 C. A. 155, 60 S. W. 566.

Statements concerning character of an unmarried daughter made to her mother in response to the mother's inquiries held privileged. Lehmann v. Medack (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 438.

Self-defense.—It is not essential to privilege that the very words used must have been necessary to protect defendant. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Flores (Civ. App.) 42 S. W. 607.

Publications made to protect the rights of the one publishing are qualifiedly privileged. Allen v. Earnest (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 1101.

Request or provocation by person injured.—Plaintiff, having by her persistence caused slanderous words to be used, held to have no cause of action therefor. Patterson & Wallace v. Frazer (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 1077.

When an employee asked her employer the reason why he discharged her, or requested him to repeat the statement made to another as to the reason, and in answer thereto he gave the reason, or repeated the statement, it would not support an action for slander. Rosenbaum v. Roche, 46 C. A. 237, 101 S. W. 1164.

A statement of an employer to the father of a discharged employed as to the reason of the discharge, in response to inquiry made by the former, is privileged, but a voluntary statement made by the employer is not privileged. Id.

Where plaintiff, in company with a friend, went to defendant and inquired why he desired her to vacate his house, the statement of defendant's reason, in the presence of the three only, in which defendant charged plaintiff with keeping a disorderly house, was conditioned privileged and not actionable in the absence of malice. Laughlin v. Schnitzer (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 988.

Slanderous words uttered by one concerning another on the occasion of the latter seeking a retraction of a prior slander are not privileged. Wharton v. Chunn, 53 C. A. 124, 115 S. W. 887.

Criticism and comment on public matters.—Unless newspaper comments on official proceedings are fair and impartial they are not privileged, and, if untrue, the fact that such proceedings are matters of public concern will not render the comments privileged. San Antonio Light Pub. Co. v. Lewy, 53 C. A. 22, 113 S. W. 574.

In libel, a publication charging plaintiff with smuggling goods into the country without paying duties, held not a criticism of the acts of public officials so as to make it privileged as to plaintiff. Id.

This relates solely to comment or criticism of actual acts and matters of public concern, "the comment or criticism being not even a factor to be considered in determining whether it is privileged or not. If comment or criticism is libelous, the statute affords no immunity from the consequences unless it is reasonable and fair. Id.

While this article provides that a reasonable or fair comment on or criticism of the official acts of public officials and of other matters of public concern published for general information shall be privileged, other statements, if statements of fact as distinguished from the mere opinion of the writer, in order to be privileged, must be "fair, true, and impartial." Galveston Tribune v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 903.

Existence and effect of malice.—That a communication was privileged does not exempt the party from liability, if it was made with express malice or want of good faith. Davis v. Wells, 25 C. A. 155, 60 S. W. 566.

Whether or not a certain communication was privileged held to depend on whether it was actuated by malice. St. Louis S. W. Ry. Co. v. Texas v. McArthur, 31 C. A. 206, 72 S. W. 76.

If malice enters to any degree as a motive in the publication of libelous matter on a privileged occasion, the defense of privilege is lost. Cranfill v. Hayden (Civ. App.) 76 S. W. 572.

It is sufficient to justify a recovery for a libel conditionally privileged, if there is any degree of actual malice in the motives inspiring it, though there may also be a lawful motive. Cranfill v. Hayden, 97 T. 544, 60 S. W. 609.

Malice necessary to sustain a recovery for slander consisting of statements conditionally privileged cannot be found merely from the falsity of the statement. Laughlin v. Schnitzer (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 988.

Proof of actual malice on the part of a publisher of a libelous article prevents it from being privileged. San Antonio Light Pub. Co. v. Lewy, 52 C. A. 22, 113 S. W. 574.

Slanderous words spoken in malice are not privileged, even if the occasion would otherwise make them so. Wharton v. Chunn, 53 C. A. 124, 116 S. W. 887.

Actual malice must be proved for a recovery for a defamatory article which is privileged. Houston Chronicle Pub. Co. v. McDavid (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 224.
Art. 5598. To be construed, how.—Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to amend or repeal any penal law on the subject of libel. [Id. sec. 4.]

Qualification of preceding article.—This article did not so qualify the definition of privileged matter given in Art. 5597 as to retain the defense of conditional or qualified privilege so as to make a fair and impartial account of such matters as are privileged under the statute, privileged in fact, though untrue, in case they are published without actual malice. Galveston Tribune v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 392.
TITLE 85

LIBRARY AND HISTORICAL COMMISSION

Art. 5599. Object and purposes of commission. — The Texas library and historical commission shall consist of five members, which commission shall be assigned suitable offices at the capitol, and whose object and purposes shall be to control and administer the state library, and to adopt and to enforce reasonable rules and regulations governing its administration and control, to aid and encourage libraries, to collect materials relating to the history of Texas and the adjoining states, to preserve, classify and publish the manuscript archives and such other matters as it may deem proper, to diffuse knowledge in regard to the history of Texas, to encourage historical work and research, to mark historic sites and houses and secure their preservation, to aid those who are studying the problems to be dealt with by legislation, and to perform such other duties as may be enjoined by law. [Acts 1909, p. 122, sec. 1.]

Art. 5600. Commission how constituted. — The governor shall, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, appoint three persons who, together with the superintendent of public instruction and the head of the school of history of the state university, shall constitute the Texas library and historical commission. Appointments shall be made for the term of two years, except appointments to fill vacancies, which shall be made by the governor for the unexpired term. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 5601. Meetings; state librarian; bond, duties, expenses, etc. — The commission shall hold at the state capitol at least one regular meeting annually, and as many special meetings as may be necessary. The state librarian, hereinafter provided for, shall be secretary of the library and historical commission. No member of the commission shall receive any salary or per diem or other compensation for his services, as such commissioner, but the actual expenses incurred in attending the meetings of the commission, or by any member thereof in visiting and establishing libraries, shall be paid for by the state. The commission shall elect a state librarian, who shall not be of their number, and who shall be an experienced librarian. Said state librarian shall serve at the will of the commission and shall give to the governor an acceptable bond in the sum of five thousand dollars for the proper care of the state library and its equipment. He shall record the proceedings of the commission, keep an accurate account of its financial transactions, and perform such other duties as may be assigned him by said commission. In addition to his salary, the state librarian shall be allowed his actual expenses when traveling in the service of the commission. Such expenses shall be certified to under oath and approved by the chairman or acting chairman of the commission. [Acts 1909, p. 122, sec. 2. Acts 1913, p. 281, sec. 1, amending Art. 5601, Rev. St. 1911.]
Art. 5602. Powers and duties of the commission.—The commission is authorized and empowered to purchase, within the limits of the annual appropriation allowed by act of the legislature from time to time, suitable books, pictures, etc., the same to be the property of the state. The commission shall give advice to such persons as contemplate the establishment of public libraries, in regard to such matters as the maintenance of public libraries, selection of books, cataloguing, and library management. The commission shall have conducted library institutes and encourage library associations. The state librarian shall ascertain the condition of all public libraries in this state and report the results to the commission. [Acts 1909, p. 122, sec. 3]

Art. 5603. Commission may receive gifts.—The commission shall have power and authority to receive donations or gifts of money or property upon such terms and conditions as it may deem proper; provided, no financial liability is thereby entailed upon the state. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 5604. State library, all books, etc., belong to.—All books, pictures, documents, publications and manuscripts received through gift, purchase or exchange, or on deposit, from any source, for the use of the state, shall constitute a part of the state library, and shall be placed therein for the use of the public. [Id. sec. 5.]

Art. 5605. Books, pictures, etc., transferred from department of insurance and banking.—So much of the law relating to the department of insurance and banking as places under the jurisdiction of that department the custody and control of books, documents, newspapers, manuscripts, archives, relics, mementoes, flags, works of art, etc., now in said department, and places upon said department the duty of collecting and preserving historical data, is hereby repealed. The custody and control of books, documents, newspapers, manuscripts, archives, relics, mementoes, flags, works of art, etc., and the duty of collecting and preserving historical data, is transferred to the Texas library and historical commission. To avoid all misunderstanding, it is hereby expressly declared that the gallery of the portraits of the presidents of the republic and of the governors of the state of Texas constitutes a part of the state library. The commission shall adopt such rules and regulations for the government of the state library as will insure the careful preservation of the books, documents, newspapers, manuscripts, archives, relics, mementoes, flags, works of art, etc., deposited therein and particularly shall all materials relating to the history of Texas be carefully safeguarded. [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 5606. Duties of state librarian.—The duties of the state librarian, acting under the direction of the Texas library and historical commission, shall be as follows:

First. He shall have charge of the state library, and all books, pictures, documents, newspapers, manuscripts, archives, relics, mementoes, flags, etc., therein contained.

Second. He shall endeavor to collect all manuscript records, relating to the history of Texas, in the hands of private individuals, and, where the originals can not be obtained, he shall endeavor to procure authenticated copies. He shall be authorized to expend the money appropriated for the purchase of books relating to Texas, and he shall seek diligently to procure a copy of every book, pamphlet, map or other printed matter giving valuable information concerning this state. He shall collect portraits or photographs of as many of the prominent men of Texas as possible. He shall endeavor to complete the files of the early Texas newspapers in the state library, and he shall cause to be bound the current files of not less than ten of the leading newspapers of the state, and the current files of not less than four leading newspapers of other states, and of as many of the county papers, professional journals, denominational papers, agricultural papers, trade journals and other publications of this state as seem necessary to preserve in the state library an accurate record of the history of Texas.

Third. He shall demand and receive from the officers of state departments, having them in charge, all books, maps, papers, manuscripts, documents, memoranda and data not connected with or necessary to the current duties of said officers relating to the history of Texas, and carefully classify, catalogue and preserve the same. The attorney general shall decide as to the proper custody of such books, etc., whenever there is any disagreement as to the same.

Fourth. Any state, county or other official is hereby authorized and empowered in his discretion to turn over to the state library for permanent preservation therein any official books, records, documents, original papers, maps, charts, newspaper files and printed books not in current use in his offices, and the state librarian shall receipt for the same.

Fifth. The state librarian shall endeavor to procure from Mexico the original archives which have been removed from Texas and relate to the history and settlement thereof; and, in case he can not procure the originals, he shall endeavor to procure authentic copies thereof. In like manner, he shall procure the originals or authentic copies of manuscripts preserved in other archives beyond the limits of this state, in so far as said manuscripts relate to the history of Texas.

Sixth. He shall preserve all historical relics, mementoes, antiquities, and works of art connected with, and relating to, the history of Texas, which may in any way come into his possession as state librarian. He shall constantly endeavor to build up an historical museum worthy of the interesting and important history of this state.

Seventh. He shall make and certify to copies of papers or documents in the state library, upon application of any person interested, and shall charge the same fees as are allowed the secretary of state for similar services. And such certified copies of papers and documents shall be received in evidence by the courts the same as like papers and documents of other state departments. He shall collect all such fees in advance and turn them over to the state treasurer quarterly, and shall be authorized to approve the vouchers for all expenditures made in connection with the state library.

Eighth. He shall give careful attention to the proper classification, indexing, and preservation of the official archives that are now or may hereafter come into his custody.

Ninth. He shall make a biennial report to the Texas library and historical commissioners to be by them transmitted to the governor, to be accompanied by such historical papers and documents as he may deem of sufficient importance. [Id. sec. 9.]

Art. 5607. Books, pictures, etc., transferred from other departments.—All books, pictures, papers, maps, documents, manuscripts, memoranda and data which relate to the history of Texas as a province, colony, republic, or state, which have been, or may hereafter be, delivered to the state librarian by the secretary of state, comptroller, commissioner of the general land office, or by any of the heads of the departments, or by any persons or officers in pursuance of law, shall be deemed books and papers of said state library, and shall constitute a part of the archives of said state library; and copies therefrom shall be made and certified by the said state librarian upon application of any person interested; which certificate shall have the same force and effect as if made by the officer originally in custody of them, and for which the same fees shall be charged, to be collected in advance and turned over to the state treasurer quarterly. [Id. sec. 10.]
Art. 5607a. Distribution of reports.—That one hundred and fifty copies of each annual or biennial report, printed by the secretary of state in accordance with the laws regulating public printing, shall be delivered by the secretary of state to the library and historical commission for distribution to the free public libraries of Texas and to libraries elsewhere in exchange for publications received from them. [Acts 1913, p. 281, sec. 1.]

Art. 5607b. Sale and distribution of copies of archives.—That the library and historical commission is authorized to sell copies of the Texas Archives, printed with funds appropriated for that purpose, at a price not to exceed twenty-five per cent above cost of publishing, provided that any money realized in excess of the costs attending such sale shall be placed to the account of the general revenue in the state treasury; provided further that one copy of each volume of the Texas Archives may be distributed free to the governor, the members of the legislature and to the libraries indicated in article 5607a above. [Id.]

Art. 5608. Assistant librarian for legislature; duties, etc.—The said library and historical commission is authorized and directed to maintain for the use and information of the members of the legislature, the heads of the several state departments, and such other citizens as may desire to consult the same, a section of the state library for legislative reference and information. The commission shall appoint an assistant librarian competent to conduct the work of said legislative reference section. Said assistant librarian shall have available for use explanatory check lists and catalogues of the current legislation of this and other states, catalogues of the bills and resolutions presented in either branch of the legislature, check lists of the public documents of the several states, including all reports issued by the various departments, boards and commissions of this state, digests of such public laws of this and other states as may best be made available for legislative use. Said assistant librarian shall give the members of the legislature such aid and assistance in the drafting of bills and resolutions as may be asked. [Acts 1909, p. 122, sec. 11.]

Art. 5609. Biennial report of commission shall contain what.—The commission shall make a biennial report to the governor, which shall include the biennial report of the state librarian. Said report shall present a comprehensive view of the operation of the said commission in the discharge of the duties imposed by this chapter, shall present a review of the library conditions in this state, present an itemized statement of the expenditures of the commission, make such recommendations as their experience shall suggest, and present careful estimates of the sum or sums of money necessary for the carrying out of the provisions of this chapter. Said report shall be made and printed, and by the governor be laid before the legislature as are other department reports. [Id. sec. 12.]

Art. 5609a. Penalty for detaining books, etc.—That whoever willfully detains any book, newspaper, magazine, pamphlet, manuscript, or other property belonging to any public or incorporated library, reading room, museum, or other educational institution for thirty days after notice in writing to return the same, given after the expiration of the time which by the rules of such institution such articles or other property may be kept, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $1.00 nor more than $25.00, and the said notice shall bear on its face a copy of this section. [Acts 1913, p. 281, sec. 1.]

LIENS

[For Lis Pendens and Levies, see Articles 6837 to 6849. For Attachment Liens, see Article 6858 and Article 287.]

Chap. 1) LIENS

Chap. 2) JUDGMENT LIENS

Art. 5610. Clerk of county court shall keep judgment record.—Each clerk of the county court shall keep in his office a well-bound book, to be called the “Judgment record,” in which he shall record all abstracts of judgments filed in his office for record, which are authenticated in the manner hereinafter required.

Judgment record separate from deed record.—See Art. 6879.

Art. 5611. Clerks of courts shall make and deliver abstracts of judgments.—It shall be the duty of each clerk of a court, when the person in whose favor the judgment was rendered, his agent, attorney or assignee, applies therefor, to make out and deliver to such applicant, upon the payment of the fee allowed therefor by law, an abstract of such judgment, and certify thereto under his hand and official seal.

Rule of construction.—The statutory proceeding governing the making of abstracts of judgment held a special statutory proceeding, and the statute must be substantially complied with. Wicker v. Jenkins, 49 C. A. 366, 108 S. W. 188.

Art. 5612. Abstract shall show what.—The abstract provided for in the preceding article shall show:
1. The names of the plaintiff and of the defendant in such judgment.
2. The number of the suit in which the judgment was rendered.
3. The date when such judgment was rendered.
4. The amount for which the same was rendered and the amount still due upon the same.
5. The rate of interest, if any is specified in the judgment.

A judgment held insufficient to create a lien by reason of defects in the abstract, and in the record and indexing thereof. Schneider v. Dorsey (Civ. App.) 72 S. W. 1029.

The abstract of a judgment rendered in another county held sufficient under the statute. Wicker v. Jenkins, 49 C. A. 366, 108 S. W. 188.

Under this article an abstract, sufficient to create a lien, must correctly show the names of the parties, the amount of the judgment, and its true date. Blankenship & Buchanan v. Herring (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 882.
An abstract of a judgment is sufficient if it can be rendered certain by the construction of its own terms and within its terms supplies the information required by law without looking elsewhere. Kingman v. Texas Implement Co. v. Borders (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 614.

An abstract of a judgment which shows the amount and date of the original judgment, rate of interest, the amount of costs, and the credits, if any, is sufficient without expressly stating the balance then due. Id.

Names of parties.—The abstract must substantially describe the judgment. An abstract giving the name of Burkhead as plaintiff will not give a lien for a judgment in favor of Bankhead as plaintiff. Anthony v. Taylor, 68 T. 403, 4 S. W. 531.

The fact that in an abstract of judgment the defendants’ names were given in full, while in the county clerk’s certificate, attached thereto, they were described as “B. W. Lee et al.,” both the abstract and the certificate being recorded together, did not constitute a variance. James v. Midland Grocery & Dry Goods Co. (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1073.

Number of suit.—The number of the judgment is one of the requisites in an abstract to be recorded, in order to fix the lien. Bonner v. Grigsby, 84 T. 340, 19 S. W. 511, 31 Am. St. Rep. 45.

An abstract of judgment, though not containing the number of the case, was sufficient to create a lien where the number appeared in the certificate of the county clerk, attached to the abstract, which was also recorded. James v. Midland Grocery & Dry Goods Co. (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1073.

Date of judgment.—Error in date of judgment invalidates the abstract. Rushing v. Willis (Civ. App.) 28 S. W. 521.

Where the certificate to an abstract of judgment shows a year different from the true date the judgment was rendered the recording of the abstract would not create a lien. Atteridge v. Maxey, 18 C. A. 134, 45 S. W. 606.

Amount and credits.—An omission to give credit for money collected on execution renders void the Evans v. Friable, 84 T. 341, 19 S. W. 610.

It is sufficient if the abstract shows the amount for which the judgment was rendered, exclusive of costs, the rate of interest which it bears, and states that the total amount is due and unpaid. First Nat. Bank of Decatur v. Cloud, 21 S. W. 770, 2 C. A. 627.

An abstract of judgment not showing the amount still due creates no lien. Willis v. Sanger, 16 C. A. 655, 40 S. W. 229.

The abstract must show a credit for an amount recovered on execution, otherwise it will not create a lien. Id.

In an abstract of judgment, held, that double column headed “Amount of Judgment,” and containing three figures in one and two in the other, sufficiently indicated dollars and cents. Noble v. England Loan & Trust Co. v. Avery (Civ. App.) 41 S. W. 673.

Where the record of a judgment erroneously stated the date of a credit thereon, it was insufficient to create a lien. Noble v. Barner, 22 C. A. 357, 55 S. W. 382.

An abstract of a judgment which shows the amount and date of the original judgment, rate of interest, the amount of costs, and the credits, if any, is sufficient without expressly stating the balance then due. Kingman, etc., v. Borders (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 614.

Abstract of judgment, showing that $475 was realized from a sale, held not insufficient because it stated that $33 was applied to the costs of the sale and suit, and $473 applied on the judgment; the “$473” clearly being a clerical error for “$437.” Id.

Art. 5613. [3286] Justice of the peace shall deliver abstracts.—It shall also be the duty of each justice of the peace to make out and deliver an abstract of any judgment rendered in his court in the manner provided in the two preceding articles, certified to under his hand.

Art. 5614. [3287] Clerk of county court shall record and index abstracts.—When any such abstract, as is provided for in the three preceding articles, is presented to the clerk of the county court for record, he shall file and immediately record the same in the judgment record, noting in such record the day and hour of such record, and shall also at the same time enter it upon the index.

Rule of construction.—The statutory proceeding governing the recording of abstracts of judgment and statutory proceeding and the statute must be substantially complied with. Wicker v. Jenkins, 49 C. A. 366, 108 S. W. 188.

“Record” construed.—To “record” an abstract in the “judgment record” means to transcribe it upon the book required to be kept for that purpose and when the abstract was transcribed the act of recording was complete. Vidor v. Rawlins, 93 T. 269, 54 S. W. 1026.

Necessity for actual record.—Abstracts of Judgments will not for any purpose be regarded as recorded until they are recorded in fact, and no judgment lien attaches by virtue thereof before such actual registration. Belbaze v. Ratto, 69 T. 636, 7 S. W. 501; First Nat. Bank v. Cloud, 21 S. W. 771, 2 C. A. 627.

Time for filing and recording.—A lien will not be given by registering the abstract of a judgment rendered by failure of the party rendered dormant within twelve months after its rendition. Anthony v. Taylor, 68 T. 408, 4 S. W. 531; Central C. & C. Co. v. Southern Nat. Bank, 12 C. A. 334, 34 S. W. 333; Clements v. Ewing, 71 T. 570, 9 S. W. 312.

The record and index must be made before the judgment becomes dormant. Evans v. Friable, 84 T. 341, 19 S. W. 610. It is not necessary that the time of filing should be indorsed on the abstract. Gin Co. v. Oliver, 14 S. W. 451, 78 T. 152; Gunter v. Buckler (Civ. App.) 32 S. W. 229.
LIENS

Art. 5615

Noting day and hour.—When the abstract is transcribed as required by Art. 5610, and indexed under Art. 5615, the statute is fully complied with and the judgment lien becomes operative although the clerk failed to note upon his record the day and hour when he recorded the abstract. Vidor v. Rawlins, 93 T. 559, 54 S. W. 1026.

Sufficiency of record in general.—Record of a judgment abstract and index held sufficient without certificate (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 920.

Record of certificate.—It is not necessary to record the clerk's certificate. Spence v. Brown, 25 S. W. 413, 96 T. 430.

The certificate of the clerk of the district court of a county attesting the correctness of the abstract of a judgment recorded in another county need not be recorded. Wicker v. Jenkins, 49 C. A. 366, 105 S. W. 158.

An abstract of judgment cannot be recorded without a certificate of the clerk, but the certificate need not be recorded, if the certificate is recorded, it may itself be treated as the abstract, and, if it contains the essential elements, the record of the certificate is sufficient as the recording of an abstract of judgment. James v. Midland Grocery & Dry Goods Co. (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1072.

An abstract of a judgment is not admissible in evidence to show a lien claimed under it, unless the proper indexing of the abstract affirmatively appears. Corbett v. Redwood (Civ. App.) 58 S. W. 550.

Sufficiency of index.—See notes under Art. 5615.

Presumption as to indexing.—See notes under Art. 3687, Rule 14.

Art. 5615. [3288] Index shall show what.—The index to such judgment record shall be alphabetical, and shall show the name of each plaintiff and of each defendant in the judgment, and the number of the page of the book upon which the abstract is recorded.

Necessity for indexing.—See notes under Art. 5614.

Requisites of index.—See Art. 6792 et seq.

The indexing of a judgment held substantially correct, and sufficient to impose a lien on property of the defendant. Bradley v. Janssen (Civ. App.) 93 S. W. 506.

— Names of parties.—What a sufficient compliance with the statute requiring the names of the parties to be indexed alphabetically. Burnett v. Cockshatt, 21 S. W. 950, 2 C. A. 394.

Where the name of one only of two joint defendants is indexed, a lien is created on his property. Blum v. Keyser, 25 S. W. 561, 8 C. A. 675. See Gin Co. v. Oliver, 78 T. 186, 14 S. W. 451; Von Stein v. Trexler, 23 S. W. 1949, 5 C. A. 299.

It seems that there should be a direct index and also a reverse or cross index. Central Coal & Coke Co. v. Southern Nat. Bank of New York, 12 C. A. 334, 34 S. W. 335; Gin Co. v. Oliver, 78 T. 182, 14 S. W. 451.

Index of registration held sufficient to show names of plaintiff and defendants, and to create liens. Kanz v. P. J. Willis & Bro., 16 C. A. 12, 40 S. W. 171.

Ditto index of judgment record held to sufficiently show the names of the parties. New England Loan & Trust Co. v. Avery (Civ. App.) 41 S. W. 673.

In an abstract of judgment, if defendant's name is under the right letter, although plaintiff's is not, it is sufficient to fix a lien on defendant's property. Franke v. Lone Star Brewing Co., 17 C. A. 8, 42 S. W. 481.

A failure to index a judgment against all the members of a partnership destroys its lien. Glasscock v. Price (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 415.

A judgment in favor of F. J. Willis & Bro. was correctly indexed under the letter "W." Instead of "B." Willis v. Downes (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 920.

The giving of the firm name held unnecessary to the validity of the index of an abstract of a judgment in its favor.

Where the name of one of the parties to a judgment was erroneously indexed in the judgment record, the record was insufficient to create a lien. Noble v. Barner, 22 C. A. 357, 55 S. W. 382.

An abstract of a judgment in favor of "B. F. Avery & Sons," a corporation, should index under "B" and under "A." B. F. Avery & Sons v. Texas Loan Agency (Civ. App.) 62 S. W. 793.

A judgment indexed in favor of a mercantile company held not fatally defective for failure to indicate whether such company was a corporation, joint-stock company, or a partnership, and, if the latter, to disclose the names of the partners. Bradley v. Janssen (Civ. App.) 93 S. W. 506.

Under this article the index of the judgment must contain the names of the plaintiffs and defendants alphabetically, in order to create a lien upon the judgment debtor's property. Willis v. Studebaker Bros. Co. Co. v. Studebaker Bros. Co. (App.) 33 S. W. 675.

Where a judgment was recovered by the Studebaker Bros. Company of Texas, and in the index of an abstract of the judgment it only appeared as the Studebaker Bros. Company, and did not appear under the letter "S," such index was insufficient, under Art. 5614 and this article, to create a judgment lien on the property of the judgment debtor. 1d.
Art. 5616. [3289]. Lien of judgment, when.—When any judgment has been recorded and indexed, as provided in the preceding articles, it shall, from the date of such record and index, operate as a lien upon all of the real estate of the defendant situated in the county where such record and index are made, and upon all real estate which the defendant may thereafter acquire situated in said county.

Rule of construction.—While statutes fixing judgment liens on real property must be construed strictly, they must be given the full meaning that the language employed reasonably imports, and it is sufficient if they are substantially complied with. Kingman Trust Co. v. Edmonds ( Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 156.

Recording abstract as condition precedent to lien.—See notes under Art. 5614.

Indexing as condition precedent to lien.—See notes under Art. 5614.

Recording dormant judgment.—See notes under Art. 5614.

Actions on lien.—See notes under Art. 5614.

Not vacated by appeal.—A lien acquired by the registration of a judgment is not vacated by an appeal and supersededas which suspends the enforcement of the judgment. Thulmeyer v. Jones, 37 T. 566; Smith v. Kael, 32 T. 232.

Land to which lien attaches—Estate or interest of judgment debtor.—A judgment lien on land is subject to every equity existing at the time of the judgment and the lien will be restricted to the actual interest of the judgment debtor, without reference to registration. Ille v. Selznick, 57 T. 459, 13 S. W. 329; Allday v. Whitaker, 65 T. 673, 1 S. W. 794; Michael v. Knapp, 23 S. W. 280, 4 C. A. 464.

On the death of a judgment debtor’s successor, the judgment creditor has a lien on the debtor’s interest in decedent’s estate. Franke v. Lone Star Brewing Co., 17 C. A. 5, 42 S. W. 661.

The lien of a judgment creditor on the interest of a debtor in his ancestor’s real estate is not affected by the purchase by the property of other heirs from the debtor. Id. A plaintiff has no lien under a judgment on money tendered into court by defendant to refund the contract for breach of warranty not proven. Sanders v. Britton (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 209.

A judgment against a widow, administratrix, individually, rendered after partition proceedings, held to have created no lien on land set off to one of the children though the decree in partition was not recorded until after the recording of the abstract of the judgment. Corbett v. Redwood (Civ. App.) 58 S. W. 550.

Facts under which a judgment creditor acquired no interest in land fraudulently conveyed, as against plaintiff who held a deed of trust from the land acquired by fraud from decedent. White v. Providence Natl. Bank, 27 C. A. 487, 65 S. W. 498.

Homestead.—A judgment lien takes precedence of a subsequently acquired homestead right. Wright v. Straub, 64 T. 64.

A lien invalid at the time of registration because of homestead rights does not become valid by subsequent abandonment of the homestead. Wills v. Mike, 76 T. 84, 13 S. W. 58; Glasscock v. Stringer (Civ. App.) 32 S. W. 920.

Where a defendant with his family was actually residing on the premises when he bought, with intent that the property should be his homestead, the homestead exemption attached to the property when purchased, to the exclusion of any lien sought to be enforced by the registry and indexing of a judgment prior to his purchase. Friesberg v. Walzem, 85 T. 264, 20 S. W. 60, 34 Am. St. Rep. 808. A judgment duly filed and registered becomes a lien upon a homestead when abandoned as such. Glasscock v. Stringer (Civ. App.) 33 S. W. 677.

Where a judgment rendered by a county court has, by abstract duly filed, become a lien on the real estate of the debtor, the judgment creditor may, without first resorting to execution and levy, maintain an action in the district court to cancel a claim of homestead set up by the debtor and to enforce the judgment against the real estate so claimed as exempt. Hull v. Naumberg, 1 C. A. 132, 20 S. W. 1125.

The judgment lien cannot be extended to the homestead. Wallis v. Wendler, 27 C. A. 235, 65 S. W. 44.

Where a husband and wife occupied premises as a homestead when they sold the same to a purchaser holding under an unrecorded deed, no lien against the land was fixed by the subsequent abstracting of the judgment against the husband. Garth v. Stuart (Cr. App.) 125 S. W. 611.

After-acquired property.—A judgment lien attaches to land subsequently acquired. Barron v. Thompson, 64 T. 223.

Judgment liens of different dates attach simultaneously to after-acquired lands. Wills v. Downes (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 920; Matula v. Lane, 22 C. A. 391, 55 S. W. 504.

The statutory lien given by the record of a judgment does not defeat a resulting trust of which the creditor has notice before purchase under an execution sale. Ross v. Koons v. Thorp, 61 T. 646; F. Kamey v. Cooper, 60 T. 111.

A creditor claiming a mere statutory lien by the record of a judgment or the levy of an execution against the husband, in whom the apparent title is vested, cannot be protected by reason of such lien against a resulting trust in favor of the wife, though he be not the purchaser of such property; and a subsequent execution sale will take nothing as against the wife’s equity, if he had notice of the same before making the purchase. Yoe v. Montgomery, 68 T. 338, 4 S. W. 622.

A lien acquired by the registration of an abstract of a judgment is superior to the title of a prior unrecorded deed in which the creditors had no notice. Russell v. Nall, 20 S. W. 1006, 23 S. W. 901, 2 C. A. 60. See 2 Tex. Civ. Prac. § 1273; also No. 135 of Practical Forms.

The due record and indexing of a judgment will not affect a prior levy made under a valid judgment, the levy being followed by sale. Nor is the purchaser at said sale required to place his sheriff’s deed upon record as against the rights of the original parties to the recorded judgment. Brackenridge v. Cobb, 85 T. 448, 21 S. W. 1034. Right of claimant under a trust deed as against a purchaser of the land under execution against the trustee. Miller v. Soucy (Civ. App.) 22 S. W. 102.

Notice to judgment creditor of unrecorded deed, either actual or constructive, held fatal to his right as against the holder of the unrecorded deed. Barnett v. Squyres (Civ. App.) 52 S. W. 512.

Rule preferring the diligent creditor who unearths property fraudulently conveyed has no application where ostensible legal title remained in debtor, notwithstanding an attempt to dispose of it. Matula v. Lane, 22 C. A. 351, 55 S. W. 504.

A judgment against a husband for a community debt of husband and wife, recorded and indexed in the judgment records one day before decree of divorce of such wife and judgment foreclosing a lien in her favor on community property, held to create a prior lien to that created by the divorce judgment and decree. Boyd v. Ghent, 93 T. 545, 57 S. W. 35.

A purchaser of land, executing a mortgage thereon to the vendor, as part of the same transaction, to secure the price, takes the land burdened with the lien, and the mortgage, though unrecorded, is prior to an existing judgment lien against the purchaser, except as to bona fide purchasers. Masterson v. Burnett, 27 C. A. 270, 66 S. W. 90.

The possession of a party, claiming under an unrecorded deed, of one of several tracts of land, is not sufficient to charge a judgment creditor of his grantor with notice of his rights therein. Brooks v. Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., 44 C. A. 610, 39 S. W. 718.

The lien of the judgment creditor, based on execution sale, is superior to an unrecorded adverse lien of the defendant in execution. Reaves v. Poindexter, 19 T. 141.

Unrecorded deeds held void as to the grantor’s creditors acquiring a lien upon the land under legal process in the absence of notice. Whitaker v. Farris, 45 C. A. 378, 101 S. W. 454.

A judgment creditor held not a lienholder for value, without notice of a third person’s ownership of property. Leon Mercantile Co. v. Anderson, 56 C. A. 481, 121 S. W. 868.

Where the purchaser of land under a parol contract had paid part of the purchase price, taken possession, and made permanent improvements prior to the recording of the abstract of a judgment against the vendor, his rights were superior to those of the judgment creditor under this article; the land not being the land of the judgment debtor when the abstract was recorded. Dixon v. McNeese (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 675.

Burden of proof of notice of unrecorded deed. See notes under Art. 3887, Rule 12.

Action to determine priorities. Judgment creditor having acquired a lien upon land by the record of his judgment may either institute suit to have a prior conveyance of land by the debtor declared fraudulent and the land subjected to his execution, or he may cause an execution to be levied upon the land fraudulently conveyed by the debtor, and after purchasing at execution sale he may then bring his suit to have the fraudulent conveyance set aside and recover the land. Lynn v. Le Gierse, 48 T. 138; Gaines v. National Exchange Bank, 64 T. 16; Cassaday v. Anderson, 53 T. 527; Donnebaum v. Tinsley, 54 T. 362.

Effect of registration. See Art. 6133 et seq.

Art. 5617. [3290] Lien exists, how long.—When a lien has been acquired, as provided in this chapter, it shall continue for ten years from the date of such record and index, unless the plaintiff shall fail to have execution issued upon his judgment within twelve months after the rendition thereof, in which case said lien shall cease to exist.

Duration of lien. In general. Since this article fixes the period during which the lien shall continue a party who asserts it in an action must show that it has not ceased to exist at the time he brings suit. Boyd v. Ghent, 96 T. 46, 64 S. W. 930.

A party can acquire a good title to land under the three, five, or ten years statutes of limitations, by taking and holding possession under the conditions specified in the statutes, even though a judgment has been properly recorded and indexed in the county where the land lies. White v. Pingenot, 49 C. A. 641, 90 S. W. 673, 674.

Issuance of executions. Under the act of November 9, 1895, the judgment lien was lost unless executions were regularly issued, and a break of over 12 months between executions abated the lien. Barron v. Thompson, 54 T. 248; Picklin v. McCarty, 1d., 370; Williams v. Davis, 56 T. 250; Wylie v. Posey, 71 T. 34, 9 S. W. 87. See 2 Tex. Civ. Prac. §§ 1270, 1722; also, No. 134 of Practical Forms.

The article does not apply when there is a legal obstacle to the issuance of an execution during the year. Gruner v. Westin, 66 T. 213, 18 S. W. 512; Semple v. Eubanks, 23 C. A. 418, 35 S. W. 599.

Judgment lien is not lost because plaintiff in execution had it returned without a levy. Wylie v. Posey, 71 T. 34, 9 S. W. 87. Under Art. 3738, requiring property executions to be issued in the first instance to 3709.
the county in which judgment was rendered, and providing that upon the return thereof, wholly or partly unsatisfied, execution may issue to any other county, Art. 5727 providing that, where the execution requires the sale or delivery of specific property, it may be issued to the county where the property or some part of it is situated, and this article, an execution issued to a county other than the one where judgment was rendered for the sale of attached property in such other county prevented the judgment becoming dormant without the issuance of any execution to the county in which judgment was rendered within 12 months. Kingman Texas Implement Co. v. Borders (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 614.

Action to restore lien.—A judgment which, though not dormant, has lost its lien, may be made the basis of an action to restore the lien either by scire facias or by action of debt. Anderson v. Boyd, 64 T. 108.

Art. 5618. [3291] Satisfaction of judgment, shown how.—Satisfaction of any judgment in whole or in part may be shown:
1. By return upon an execution issued upon said judgment, or by a certified copy of such return, certified by the officer to whom the return is made, such certificate showing the names of the parties to the judgment, the number and style of the suit, the date and amount of the judgment, the court in which rendered, and the dates of the issuance and return of the execution.
2. By a receipt, acknowledgment or release signed by the party entitled to receive payment of the judgment, or his agent, or attorney of record, and acknowledged or proven for record in the same manner as deeds are required to be.

Satisfaction.—That judgment against husband had not been satisfied when suit to establish property of wife was begun held not established by production of an execution return of attached property in such other county. Maddox v. Sudder (Civ. App.) 5619.

Where defendants attached plaintiff's property, which was sold, and the proceeds deposited in court, plaintiffs were entitled to a credit on the judgment for the full amount received for the property. Hamburger v. Kosinski (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 958.

Unless the clerk of the district court is made the agent of the judgment creditor, a payment of money due on the judgment to the clerk is not a satisfaction of the judgment. City of Whitesboro v. Diamond (Civ. App.) 75 S. W. 540.

A payment of a joint judgment against a principal and surety by a surety held a satisfaction of the judgment. Tarlton v. Orr, 40 C. A. 410, 90 S. W. 524.

Payments made on a judgment to an attorney who had not recovered the judgment, and did not represent the judgment creditor, were ineffective. Morrison v. Hammack, 102 S. W. 494.

Art. 5619. [3292] Satisfaction of judgment to be entered on judgment record.—Sufficient space shall be left at the foot of each abstract of a judgment recorded in the judgment record for the entry of credits upon and satisfaction of such judgment, and it shall be the duty of the clerk to enter such credits and satisfaction whenever the same are made to appear, as provided in the preceding article.

Art. 5620. [3293] Abstract from United States courts may be recorded, etc.—An abstract of a judgment rendered in this state by any United States court may be recorded and indexed in the same manner provided for the judgments of the courts of this state, upon the certificates of the clerks of such United States courts; and the record and index of such judgments shall have the same force and effect as that of a judgment of a court of this state.

In general.—When an abstract of a judgment of a United States court is recorded and indexed in the same way as is required for recording and indexing a judgment of a state court, it operates as a lien in the same manner as is provided for a judgment of a state court. Bourn v. Robinson, 49 C. A. 157, 107 S. W. 875.

MECHANICS, CONTRACTORS, BUILDERS AND MATERIAL MEN

Art. 5621. In favor of whom. 5626. Description of property.
5622. When to be filed. 5627. What is sufficient diligence.
5623. Written notice to owner. 5628. Priority of lien.
5624. Form of fixing lien on unwritten contracts. 5629. When sold separately purchaser may remove.
5625. Form when material is furnished to contractor or builder. 5630. Sale must be under judgment.
5631. On homesteads, how fixed.

Article 5621. [3294] In favor of whom.—Any person, or firm, lumber dealer or corporation, artisan, laborer, mechanic, or sub-contractor, who may labor or furnish material, machinery, fixtures or tools to erect any house or improvement or to repair any building or improvement whatever, or who may labor or furnish material, machinery, fixtures or tools for the construction or repair of levees or embankments to be erected for the reclamation of overflow lands along any river or creek in this state, or furnish any material for the construction or repair of any railroad within this state under or by virtue of a contract with the owner, owners, or his or their agent, trustee, receiver, contractor or contractors, upon complying with the provisions of this chapter, shall have a lien on such house, building, fixtures, improvements, land reclaimed from overflow or railroad, and all its properties, and shall have a lien on the lot or lots of land necessarily connected therewith, or reclaimed thereby, to secure payment for the labor done, lumber, material, machinery or fixtures and tools furnished for construction or repair. The word "improvement" as herein used shall be construed so as to include wells, cisterns, tanks, reservoirs or artificial pools or lakes made for supplying or storing water, and all pumps, syphons, wind mills or other machinery or appliances used for raising water for stock, domestic use or for irrigation purposes. [Acts 1889, p. 110. Amend. Acts 1895, p. 194. Acts 1913, p. 252, sec. 1, amending Art. 5621, Rev. St. 1911.]

Property subject to lien.—Public buildings and grounds are not subject to builders' liens. Atascosa County v. Angus, 83 T. 202, 18 S. W. 563, 29 Am. St. Rep. 657; City of Dallas v. Loonie, 83 T. 201, 18 S. W. 726.

Fixtures erected on land can be affected with a lien for materials furnished to erect them only by operation of the statute. Nicholson v. City Co. v. Smalley, 21 C. A. 210, 51 S. W. 627.

The construction of roads is a public work, and laborers and materialmen have no lien for labor and material furnished. National Bank of Denison v. Coleman (Civ. App.) 351 S. W. 1123.

Materialmen and laborers can fix no lien upon public works for money due them for materials furnished or labor performed in the construction of such works. Jones Lumber Co. v. Guaranty State Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 472.

Right to lien—Nature of claim.—The lien exists when the sale and delivery of the materials were made without the limits of this state. Fagan v. Doyle Ice Mach. Co., 65 T. 724.

The lien of a mechanic for material for the construction of a building cannot be defeated by reason of its delivery, by direction of the owner of the house, at some other place than where the house is being erected. Trammell v. Mount, 68 T. 210, 4 S. W. 577, 2 Am. St. Rep. 479.

A materialman is entitled to a lien only for materials actually used in the construction of a building, and not for those purchased, but returned. Murphy v. Fleetwood, 30 C. A. 487, 70 S. W. 899.

Claims for furnishing tools, coal and oil, for the railroad company are not claims for "material" within the meaning of this article. Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. U. S. & Mex. T. Co., 44 C. A. 597, 99 S. W. 214.

The lien for material for the construction of a railroad is not given by Const. art. 16, § 37, but by this article. United States & Mexican Trust Co. v. Western Supply & Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 109 S. W. 382.

A statute giving a mechanic's lien for labor done, or materials, etc., furnished for construction or repair of a building, does not give a lien for "meals," "lodging," "mundy expenses" or for "over bill." Van Horn Trading Co. v. Day (Civ. App.) 148 S. W. 1129.

An architect preparing plans and specifications for a building and superintending its construction furnishes "labor" for the erection of such building and is entitled to a mechanic's lien under this article, even if such architect is not an "artisan," "laborer," or "mechanic," since, by the use of the expression "any person or firm, * * * who may labor," an intention is evidenced to provide a lien for any and all persons, whether artisans, laborers, mechanics, or not, who may labor to erect a house or improvement. San-guinett v. Staats v. Colorado Salt Co. (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 490.

— Contract with or consent of owner.—A parol declaration by the owner of land that a materialman's lien existed on the land and improvements does not create such lien against one taking a subsequent lien. Lyon v. Elzer, 12 T. 394, 12 S. W. 172.

A person in possession of land under a written contract of purchase is not the owner of the land or of the improvements he may place upon it, and for this reason cannot fix a lien on either. The parties so furnishing material and performing labor may be subrogated to the rights of the person in possession on paying the purchase money. Galveston Ex. Ass'n v. Perkins, 80 T. 69, 15 S. W. 633; Sheer v. Cummings, 80 T. 294, 16 S. W. 37.

Persons owning land in severalty may by a joint building contract subject the same to a lien which may be enforced in one suit. Carter Lumber Co. v. Simpson, 83 T. 970, 18 S. W. 812.

One who acquires the title to the land on which the improvements were made, during the performance of the contract for such improvement, is the owner within the meaning of N. J. Rev. Stat. § 813. Alamo Ice & Brewing Co. v. Apfel, 21 S. W. 160, 2 C. A. 236.

This article does not apply to a contract with a lessee. Penfield v. Harris, 7 C. A. 659, 27 S. W. 762.

No liens attach for permanent improvement by lessee without lessor's knowledge or consent. Hammond v. Martin, 15 C. A. 570, 40 S. W. 347.

A contract by one to furnish brick and stone, and to erect the walls of a building, held to constitute such person an independent contractor. Kahler v. Carruthers, 18 C. A. 216, 45 S. W. 160.

Two contracts to build held one, in effect, so that a materialman could not fix a lien on the amount due the contractor on the one building, where the cost of completing the other building, which the contractor had abandoned, was more in excess of the contract price than the amount due on the former building. Timmons v. Casey, 19 C. A. 478, 47 S. W. 805.

A mistake in written contracts for improving a lot and adjacent parts of lots, intended to be remedied by a lien therefor, in stating the number of feet frontage, held not to affect the extent of the lien. Brinahurst v. Mutual Building & Loan Ass'n, 19 C. A. 355, 47 S. W. 831.

The statute not requiring the affidavit by an agent to show the agency it is not error to omit the showing. Ritter v. Houston Oil Refining & Manufacturing Co., 19 C. A. 616, 48 S. W. 758.

Where the lien is given by contract, independent of the statute, the ownership of the land by the person executing the contract, or his authority, need not be shown. Wilson v. Vick (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 45.

A contract held to give a materialman a lien, independent of the statute. Id. An agent unauthorized to improve his principal's realty cannot charge it with a lien for materials furnished him therefor. Nicholson City Co. v. Smalley, 21 C. A. 516, 51 S. W. 524.

Act of owner in allowing part of materials to be purchased on his responsibility does not annul contract, so as to render him liable for all materials furnished. Sunset Brick & Tile Co. v. St. Louis Iron Co., (St. Louis) 53 S. W. 705.

One executing mechanic's lien held to have an equitable title, entitling him to create the lien. Geisberg v. Mutual Building & Loan Ass'n (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 478.

A person in possession of land under a written contract to purchase is not, within the meaning of this article the owner of the land or the improvements he may place on it, and for this reason he cannot fix a lien upon either. Faber v. Muir, 27 C. A. 27, 64 S. W. 940.

Materialmen entitled to recover from the owner of a building for materials furnished without regard to the contractor's contract, where the owner agreed to pay such materialmen for the material before it was delivered. Williamson v. D. M. Smith & Co. (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 61.

Parties contracting for a "builder's lien" will be construed to have used the term in its statutory sense as including the land. D. June & Co. v. Doke, 35 C. A. 240, 80 S. W. 402.

Description of property in a building contract providing for a lien held sufficient. Id. Equity will correct a mutual mistake in the description in a written instrument creating an easement. W. Taylor, 36 C. A. 495, 86 S. W. 45.

Where the owner of land contracts for the erection of an improvement, giving a mechanic's lien and notes, the giving of a lien for attorney's fees is valid. Summerville v. King, 98 T. 322, 83 S. W. 689.

Under the constitution, an original contractor held entitled to a lien on nonhomestead property without having a written recorded contract. Guarantee, Savings, Loan & Investment Co. v. Cash (Civ. App.) 87 S. W. 749.

A notary held not disqualified, by interest of a firm of which he was a member, to take an acknowledgment to a mechanic's lien contract. Roane v. Murphy (Civ. App.) 96 S. W. 782.

Statement by the owner that he would pay all bills, and requesting a materialman to continue delivering material will not support a claim for a lien for materials furnished the contractor before such statement was made. Elliott v. Waites & Wilkie (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 992.

A contract to purchase land does not make the purchaser the "owner" within this article. Hubbell v. Texas Southern Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 120 S. W. 315.

Under the circumstances, held that certain inadvertent mistakes in a contract for the erection of a building would be corrected, and the contract, as corrected, would be enforced, in an action to recover the balance due thereunder, and to enforce materialmen's lien. Hill v. Maloney (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 848.

Const. art. 16, § 37, giving materialmen a lien upon buildings for the value of materials furnished therefor, and requiring the legislature to provide for the enforcement of such liens, is self-executing and not subject to conditions not imposed by the constitution itself, so that the materials for such contract for material did not give the materialman a lien would not deprive him of a lien for the materials furnished. Id. Where a vendor sells property with the agreement that improvements are to be made upon it by the vendor, materialmen and laborers are entitled to a lien for materials or 8712.
labor furnished in making the improvements. Panhandle Telephone & Telegraph Co. v. Kellogg, 158 N. W. 803; Phipps & Supplee Co. (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 963.

Representations by joint owner of building under construction made to materialman that part of price was being withheld from contractor held not a promise to pay for material. Kuteman v. Lacy (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 1164.

That a builder under a contract for the completion of a building which the owners had started had an option which he afterwards exercised of using the material already purchased by the owners at the actual price paid for the same will not invalidate the portion of the contract already given providing for a mechanic's lien on the premises. Id.

Where owner frequently visited his work thereon, and saw and knew that work was done for his benefit and he suggested changes and supervised the work, there was an implied contract for the work on which a mechanic's lien for the reasonable value thereof could be predicated. Tenison v. Hagendorf (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 639.

In the absence of evidence that an owner of property is a married man or the head of a family, the property is subject to a mechanic's lien for the cost of an improvement therein, though there is no evidence of a written contract for the improvement. Id.

Breach of contract.—One who by his own fault fails to erect a house in conformity to his contract so to do does not acquire the right to a lien on the premises. Paschall v. Pioneer Savings & Loan Co., 19 C. A. 102, 47 S. W. 98.

Where a contractor for improvements, through his own fault only partially completes the work, he cannot avail himself of the lien contractually, but his remedy is on a quantum meruit. Murphy v. Williams (Civ. App.) 116 S. W. 412.

An original contractor is one who sells building material to the owner of the property without the intervention of a middleman. Matthews v. Brewing Ass'n, 83 T. 604, 19 S. W. 150.

A mechanic's lien may exist for material furnished under a contract with a subcontractor. Bassett v. Mills, 39 T. 152, 34 S. W. 83; Berry v. McAdams (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 962.

A contract between the owner of property and a contractor held not to authorize a mechanic's lien in favor of the materialman. James v. St. Paul's Sanitarium, 24 C. A. 664, 60 S. W. 322.

Mechanics and laborers who build machine shops, workshops, roundhouses, etc., for a railroad, are governed by this article in fixing a lien upon such structures and not by Art. 6640. National Bank v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., 55 T. 176, 66 S. W. 265.

Facts held to establish a substantial completion of a building contract, precluding the owners from asserting the invalidity of certain mechanic's lien notes executed to a trustee for the contractors, on the ground that the contract was abandoned, and the work completed under a different arrangement. Roane v. Murphy (Civ. App.) 96 S. W. 792.

A transferee of notes given to a contractor for the price of work contracted for and the lien securing them held not entitled to enforce the lien on the homestead on the contract work. Murphy v. Williams (Civ. App.) 116 S. W. 412.

One advancing money on notes given by an owner to a contractor held to acquire a lien on the nonhomestead land of the owner. Id.

A person held, under the facts, not entitled to a foreclosure of a contractor's lien. Morton v. Smith, 56 C. A. 313, 120 S. W. 571.

Where a building contractor was not entitled to a mechanic's lien for work on a homestead, because of his abandonment thereof before substantial performance, his assignee of the owner's notes for the price was also without right to a lien. Murphy v. Williams, 103 T. 155, 124 S. W. 906.

A subcontractor has no laborer's lien for wages for so much of the amount due as was earned by his own employees, though he oversaw their work. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Read Bros. & Montgomery (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 111.

An "original contractor" within this article is one who, for a fixed price, agrees to perform certain work, and does not include persons doing carpentry work, etc., by the day. Van Horn Trading Co. v. Day (Civ. App.) 148 S. W. 1129.

Operation and effect.—Amount and items secured.—A lien does not attach for work not mentioned in the contract. Wright v. Meyer (Civ. App.) 25 S. W. 1124.

Tools rented for use in moving a house are within this article. Burke v. Brown, 10 C. A. 298, 30 S. W. 926.

Attorney's fees stipulated for in a note given under a contract secured by mechanic's lien are not secured by the lien. Mathews v. Texas Building & Loan Ass'n (Civ. App.) 48 S. W. 744.

A mechanic's lien held security for extras, though everything else has been paid. Zollars v. Snyder & Lacey, 43 C. A. 120, 94 S. W. 1996.

An owner having promptly interpled various materialmen claiming a fund payable to the contractor and paid the fund into court as soon as the order was obtained, held not liable for interest. Beilharz v. Illingsworth (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 106.

Time of accrual or commencement.—The lien of a mechanic, though not fixed before registry of the contract or bill of particulars, relates back to the time when the work was performed by the material furnished and takes precedence of all claims on the property which have been created since that time. Transmvl v. Mount, 68 T. 210, 4 S. W. 377, 2 Am. St. Rep. 479. See Ricker v. Schmidt, 5 C. A. 460, 23 S. W. 907; Smith v. Hackaby, 4 C. A. 80, 23 S. W. 397.

The mechanic's lien is secured by Const. art. 35, § 37. It exists as soon as the material is furnished or work is done. It is based on compliance with the statute, and re­lates back to the beginning of the erection of the building, and takes precedence of all claims to the property improved arising thereafter. Implement Co. v. Light Co., 74 T. 605, 12 S. W. 489; Oriental Hotel Co. v. Griffiths, 88 T. 574, 33 S. W. 652, 30 L. R. A. 766, 63 Am. St. Rep. 790.

A mechanic's lien attaches when the steps prescribed by the statute are followed. Johnson v. Griffiths & Co. (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 663.

The lien of a contractor who completed improvements already begun on a building held by the owner for a lease only from the time he began work and not to relate back to the beginning of the improvements. Quinn v. Dickinson (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 992.

Accrual of indebtedness.—See note under Art. 5636.

Property, estates and rights affected.—When materials are furnished under a single contract for buildings to be erected on one or more contiguous lots owned by one person, the lien attaches to all the lots for the material used. Lyon v. Logan, 68 T. 521, 5 S. W. 72, 2 Am. St. Rep. 511.

The lien is confined to the property on which the work is done. Lambert v. Williams, 21 S. W. 198, 2 C. A. 415.

A contract provided for a lien on lot 9 and the improvements thereon. The improvements were upon lots 9 and 10. It was held the lien was valid as to lot 9, and Improvements on both lots. Crooker v. Grant, 24 S. W. 689, 5 C. A. 113.

By the constitution the mechanic's lien attaches to the land upon which the building stands to the extent that the lands are necessary to its enjoyment, etc. Strange v. Pray, 59 T. 525, 35 S. W. 1084.

Under this article and Art. 5628 and 5629, as against the rights of the lienholder, the improvements do not become a part of the real estate, but are treated as if they had been made under a contract for removal, because the statute provides that foreclosure may be had upon the house alone, and that the purchaser might remove it, which could not be done under this proposition that such improvements become a part of the realty.

Summerville v. King, 95 T. 332, 93 S. W. 681.

Subsequent purchasers of two lots cannot complain that their property was held responsible for labor and materials furnished for their lots and another under a single contract. Investment Co. v. Hague (Civ. App.) 87 S. W. 1173.

Where labor and materials were furnished under a single contract for the improvement of three houses, each separate lot held liable for the entire debt. Id.

Claims for material furnished and labor furnished held entitled to share only in the amount in the hands of the owner after deducting from the contract price what it reasonably cost the owner to complete the building on the contractor quitting work. Fall v. Nichols, 43 C. A. 583, 97 S. W. 145.

Claims of persons who had furnished material for an original contractor held not payable out of payments accruing under a new contract between the city and M. to finish the work the original contractor had abandoned. Ross v. Beaumont Brick Co., 53 C. A. 465, 116 S. W. 643.

Assignment of claim.—The assignments of a contractor on a fund in the owner's hands held to rank in the order they were given. Harris County v. Donaldson, 29 C. A. 9, 48 S. W. 791.

The assignee of a mechanic's lien can maintain an action on the claims assigned him as well as those assigned together with his own. House v. Schultz, 21 C. A. 342, 52 S. W. 654.

Plaintiff, though a bona fide holder of a note and mortgage purporting to create a mechanic's lien, held not entitled to assert such lien, where his assignor could not have done so. First Nat. Bank v. Campbell, 24 C. A. 160, 58 S. W. 628.

A debter or sub-contractor held to have a sufficient potential existence after the contract was made to sustain a parol equitable assignment of a part thereof to the contractor's surety. Campbell v. J. E. Grant Co., 36 C. A. 641, 82 S. W. 794.

That a building contractor's surety was not entitled to a lien for materials furnished as charging the owner did not relieve him from maintaining equitable assignment of the fund to become due the contractor. Id.

It was not essential to the validity of an equitable assignment of a part of a fund due a building contractor to his surety that notice of such assignment be given to the debtor. Id.

An order drawn by a contractor on the owner of a building in favor of a materialman, is an equitable assignment of a part of the fund on hand due the contractor on the contract as it was given for. Foley v. Houston Co-op. & Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 160.

The right of an assignee of notes given for the purchase price of improvements to be constructed on a homestead, to a mechanic's lien thereon, is limited to the right of the contractor. Murray v. Williams, 102 T. 155, 124 S. W. 900.

Orders drawn by a contractor on the owner in favor of a materialman and accepted held an equitable assignment superior to any claim or lien of other materialmen, of which notice was not given to the owner prior to notice of the assignment. Bellhara v. Illingsworth (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 106.

A lumber company, to which all money due under a building contract had been assigned, to secure it for advances, etc., held not a trustee for subcontractors and materialmen, nor required to pay their claims in preference to its own. South Texas Lumber Co. v. Concrete Const. Co. (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 913.

An assignment by a contractor to a materialman of the balance due under the contract, and the acceptance thereof by the owner, held to pass to the assignee the ownership of the balance due under the contract. Texas Glass & Paint Co. v. Southwestern Iron Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 749.

A municipality which advanced money to a contractor for work yet to be done is not liable to one having a verbal assignment of the proceeds of such work, where the contractor took the advance and abandoned work altogether. Alfalfa Lumber Co. v. City of Ladybird (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 204.

An order by a contractor to the supervising architect of a school building, on whose certificate estimates under the contract were to be paid to pay a materialman and charge
LIENS

[3295] When to be filed.—In order to fix and secure the lien herein provided for, it shall be the duty of every original contractor, within four months, and every journeyman, day laborer or other person seeking to obtain the benefits of the provisions of this law, within thirty days after the indebtedness shall have accrued, to file his or their contract in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such property is situated, and cause the same to be recorded in a book to be kept by the county clerk for that purpose; provided, that, if such journeyman, day laborer or other persons have no written contract, it shall be sufficient for them to file an itemized account of their claim, supported by affidavit, showing that the account is just and correct, and that all just and lawful offsets, payments and credits known to the affiant have been allowed. [Acts 1889, p. 110.]

Necessity of filing.—Under Const. art. 16, § 37, providing for mechanics' liens, an original contractor who performs labor or furnishes material is entitled to a lien, though he does not record his contract or account as provided by this article. Farmers' & Mechanics' Nat. Bank v. Taylor, 91 T. 78, 40 S. W. 876, 966.

The lien of an original contractor being given by the constitution, he need not file his contract as a condition precedent to fixing the lien. Kahler v. Carruthers, 18 C. A. 216, 45 S. W. 160.

One who furnishes material to a contractor, but fails to comply with the statute, has no lien on the property. James v. St. Paul's Sanitarium, 24 C. A. 664, 60 S. W. 322.

Every one save an original contractor must file his contract to furnish material or do the work in the office of the county clerk in the manner prescribed in this article in order to fix his lien. Palmer v. Muir, 27 C. A. 37, 64 S. W. 940, 941.

Where a building contract provided that the contractor should have a builder's lien, the filing and recording required in the case of statutory liens was not necessary to render the lien binding as between the parties and all others having notice. D. June & Co. v. Dole, 55 C. A. 240, 89 S. W. 402.

Under Const. art. 16, § 37, recording held not necessary to give a building contractor a lien as against the owner or any one charged with notice. Id.
A mechanic's lien being created by the Constitution is not lost by a failure to comply with statutory regulations in regard thereto. Blakensky v. Malle & Co., 46 C. A. 235, 101 S. W. 387.

The statute prescribing the method of preserving a lien must be complied with, or the lien will not prevail as against third persons. Kinsey v. Spurlin (Civ. App.) 103 S. W. 122.

Where a supply company furnishes a railroad company material for building its road it must comply with Arts. 5622 and 5623 in order to fix its lien. It has no lien by virtue of § 37, alone. United States & Mexican Trust Co. v. Western Supply & Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 109 S. W. 352.

The appointment of a receiver can in no way interfere with the statutory proceedings necessary to fix and secure liens upon property in his hands; and where railroad property is in hands of a receiver, compliance with the statute is necessary to fix lien for material furnished. Id.

Time for filing.—A record of the contract within the time prescribed by the statute is essential to secure a lien. Cameron v. Marshall, 65 T. 7; Quinn v. Logan, 67 T. 600, 4 S. W. 247.

After the appointment of a receiver for the debtor, a creditor who has a lien for materials, etc., furnished before the appointment of the receiver, may record his contract and thus secure his lien. Fagan v. Boyle Ice Mach. Co., 65 T. 324.

The lien attaches if the account is delivered to the proper officer for filing within 30 days after the indebtedness shall have accrued. A party is not prejudiced by the failure of the clerk to record it within that time. Bassett v. Brewer, 74 T. 554, 12 S. W. 229.

The language of this statute does not require the contract to be filed after the indebtedness accrues to secure the lien, but that the filing of it later will not have the effect to secure the lien. It may be filed at the time it is made. Clae v. Dallas L. & N. R. R., 88 T. 560, 18 S. W. 421.

The lien is secured by filing the account. In the case of an original contractor, within four months from the time the indebtedness accrued, and a person furnishing material directly to the owner is an original contractor. Baxter Lumber Co. v. Nickell (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 451.

Statement of time when material was to be considered delivered for construction, as regards the running of time for perfecting lien. United States & Mexican Trust Co. v. Western Supply & Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 109 S. W. 377.

The requirement in this article as to the time within which mechanic's lien claims must be filed, is mandatory. Van Horn Trading Co. v. Day (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 1129.

Filing of a claim for a mechanic’s lien does not fix a lien if the account was not filed in time, nor govern claims not lienable as affecting venue of an action against the debtors. Id.

Contract to be recorded.—The record of a note, August 27, 1884, reciting that it was “in settlement for account for lumber due January 1, 1884,” and bearing date June 26, 1884, and payable 60 days thereafter, does not fix the materialman's lien. Lyon v. Elser, 72 T. 304, 12 S. W. 177.

The written contract to be recorded as provided in this article is the one by virtue of which the material was furnished, and not any subsequent contract relating to the same matter. Lyon v. Ozee, 66 T. 95, 17 S. W. 405. But see Mundine v. Berwin, 62 T. 341. See Tinsley v. Boykin, 46 T. 599; Reese v. Corlew, 60 T. 70; Lyon v. Elser, 72 T. 304, 12 S. W. 177; Johnson v. White (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 174; Whistlebe v. Texas Loan Agency (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 309; Warner Elevator & Mfg. Co. v. Houston (Civ. App.) 33 S. W. 405; Id., 30 S. W. 427, 31 S. W. 352, 499, 88 T. 459.

Under a statute requiring the lienee to file his contract with the county clerk, a bill of false can be filed, the contract partly consisting of letters written by the lienee and out of his possession. Riter v. Houston Oil Refining & Manufacturing Co., 19 C. A. 516, 48 S. W. 758.

Mode and sufficiency of filing and recording.—The record may be a book in which mechanics are also recorded. Quinn v. Logan, 67 T. 600, 4 S. W. 247.

The fact that the registration of a contract or bill of material furnished, with its accompanying statement necessary to fix a mechanic's lien, is made in a book also used by the clerk to record bills of sale, will not affect the validity of the record, if the book is also used for the purpose of recording all mechanics' liens. Lyon v. Logan, 68 T. 521, 8 S. W. 72, 2 Am. St. Rep. 511.

Effect of failure to file.—It has been held that the failure to record a bill of particulars as required in this article defeated the lien. Lyon v. Ozee, 66 T. 95, 17 S. W. 405.

As to failure to deliver a copy to the debtor, see Gillespie v. Remington, 66 T. 108, 18 S. W. 338.

A mechanic's lien as between the parties is valid although it is not recorded. Windmill Co. v. Parker (Civ. App.) 30 S. W. 365; Lignoski v. Crooker, 86 T. 324, 24 S. W. 278, 788; Lippencott v. York, 86 T. 276, 24 S. W. 275; Johnson v. Improvement Co., 88 T. 606, 31 S. W. 590; Strub v. Fray (Civ. App.) 34 S. W. 666.

The lien is not defeated by the failure to record caused by the fact that the written contract is in the possession of the owner of the property, who refused to surrender it for registration. Strang v. Fray (Civ. App.) 34 S. W. 666; Parks v. Tippie (Civ. App.) 34 S. W. 676.

A contractor is entitled to a lien, as against the owner, without filing and recording his contract. Farmers' & Mech. Nat. Bank v. Taylor, 91 T. 78, 40 S. W. 876, 966.

As between the original contractor and the owner, and purchasers from the owner with notice of the contractor's lien for materials and labor, on the lot on which the building stands, it is not necessary for him to file his contract or bill of particulars, as required by this article; and where the property improved is not a home-stead, the contract need not be in writing nor recorded, as he has a lien by virtue of labor and material furnished. Guarantee Savings Loan & Investment Co. v. Cash (Civ. App.) 87 S. W. 751.

Under Const. art. 16, § 37, providing that materialmen shall have a lien on the building for the value of their material furnished thereon, and directing the legislature to provide by law for the speedy enforcement thereof, the legislature cannot affix conditions to the lien given by the constitution except to protect the owner or a purchaser of the property, and where tiling was furnished and used by the contractor for repair of a building, and notice thereof was given the owner, failure to file the account in the county clerk's office, as required by this article, did not render the lien unenforceable. Texas Builders' Supply Co. v. Beaumont Const. Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 770.

Curing defects.—A deed given to secure extension of debt, reciting that a mechanic's lien therefor was duly executed and acknowledged, held not to cure a defective certificate of acknowledgment to such lien. Starnes v. Beitel, 20 C. A. 524, 50 S. W. 202.

Fact of foreclosure held not to prevent correction of mistake in description in instrument creating mechanic's lien. Stillman v. Taylor, 35 C. A. 490, 80 S. W. 651.

Art. 5623. [3296] Written notice to owner.—Any person, firm, or corporation, who may furnish any material to any contractor, sub-contractor, agent, or receiver, to be used in the erection of any house, building or improvement, or to repair any house, building or improvement, or to construct or repair any railroad, or its properties, by giving written notice to the owner or his agent of such house, building or improvement, or the railroad company, its agent or receiver, of each and every item furnished, and by showing how much there is due and unpaid on each bill of lumber or material furnished by said lumberman, corporation, or material man under said contract, or at any time within ninety days after the indebtedness shall have accrued, may fix and secure the lien provided for in this chapter as to the material furnished at the time or subsequent to the giving of the written notice above provided for by filing in the office of the county clerk of the county in which such property is situated, and, if it be a railroad company, in any county through which its road may pass, an itemized account of his or their claim, as provided in this article, and cause the same to be recorded in a book kept by the county clerk for that purpose; provided, that in no case shall the owner be compelled to pay a greater sum for or on account of labor performed or material, machinery, fixtures and tools furnished as provided in this chapter than the price or sum stipulated in the original contract between such owner and the original contractor or builder of such house, building, fixtures, improvements or repairs. [Amend. 1895, p. 194.]

See, also, notes under Art. 5635.

In general.—Construing section 1 of the act of November 17, 1871 (P. D. 7112), which is substantially the same as article 2165 of the Revised Statutes of 1879, it was held by the court of appeals that the lien will not bind the property in the hands of a bona fide purchaser without such lien upon it, although the property was purchased within the time limited for filing the lien. Odum v. Loomis, 1 App. C. C. § 524. And see Mundine v. Berwin, 62 T. 341.

Under the law authorizing materialmen to fix their lien by notice on the owner, the notice need not be made under the original contract. Riter v. Houston Oil Refining & Manufacturing Co., 19 C. A. 516, 48 S. W. 758.

One who furnishes material to a subcontractor to be used in the construction of a building may, by complying with the provisions of this article, file a lien upon the property, and secure the payment of the price of the material so furnished without regard to the original contractor. He does not have to take any notice of the original contractor but is required to give notice to the owner of the property to the material furnished to enable him to subject the property to his lien. Padgett v. Dallas Brick & Const. Co., 92 T. 826, 56 S. W. 1010.

One who has furnished material for the construction of a county courthouse cannot maintain an action to set aside a fraudulent transfer of moneys due the contractor from the county, upon which no lien has been acquired under this article. Herring-Hall-Martin Co. v. Kroeger, 23 C. A. 672, 57 S. W. 981.

Where the owner of a building paid a contractor after notice from a materialman that such contractor had not paid for material purchased and used in constructing such building, and there is a fund from which such materialman can recover a portion of his claim, the owner is responsible to him only for the balance of his claim after such portion is recovered, not exceeding such payment after notice to the contractor. Baumgarten v. Mauer (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 451.

The provision in this article in notice to writing in the owner by one claiming a lien, applies to all liens, whether given by the constitution or by statute, when the materials are furnished to the contractor and not to the owner. Texas Glass & Paint Co. v. Southwestern Iron Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 620.

Notice to owner—Necessity.—Where a contractor throws up the contract, and is paid before notice of lien, the materialman cannot recover of the owner. Riter v. Houston Oil Refining & Manufacturing Co., 19 C. A. 616, 48 S. W. 758.
Materialman's lien defeated by owner paying contractors the contract price by assumption of claims against them prior to notice of such lien. Sunset Brick & Tile Co. v. Stratton (Civ. App.) 53 S. W. 708.

The practical effect of this article in connection with Art. 5635 is to furnish so much of the sum due from the owner of the building as may be necessary to pay for materials furnished by the materialman, and to exempt him from the liens of the other persons mentioned in Art. 5635, notwithstanding the fact that the owner has not paid the latter persons, and to render him liable for the unpaid balance due the contractor. The object is to give full opportunity to the materialman to assert and enforce his lien as against himself the appropriate lien law, between the owner and the original contractor, but in doing so he must have due regard to the rights of the former, giving due notice of the claim as the law directs. Berry v. McAdams, 93 T. 431, 55 S. W. 1114.

Materialman cannot claim lien on funds due contractor in hands of county without written notice of claim, as provided in this article. Herring-Hall-Marvin Co. v. Kroege, 23 C. A. 672, 57 S. W. 980.

Under this article and Arts. 5635 and 5637, the owner cannot be held liable to materialmen for sums he has bound himself to pay on written orders of the contractor, where no notice has been given, though Art. 5637 also declares that liens for material furnished shall be on an equal footing. Beilharz v. Illingsworth (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 106.

A materialman, who does not give to the owner the notice in writing required by this article, does not acquire any lien, especially where the owner has accepted an order from the contractor in favor of another materialman for the balance due on the contract. Texas Glass & Paint Co. v. Southwestern Iron Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 629.

The provision of the mechanics' lien statute requiring notice to be given the owner is necessary for his protection when the material is furnished by some person other than the contractor, and in such case notice to the owner is required. Texas Builders' Supply Co. v. Stratton (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 776.

Time for giving.—It is not necessary to give immediate notice to the owner when the items are furnished, to entitle a materialman to enforce a lien against a contractor and his sureties. Johnson v. Amarloil Imp. Co., 38 T. 505, 31 S. W. 503.

The time limitation (90 days) refers to the filing, and not to the notice as a material is furnished. Art. 5635 makes this plain. Nichols v. Dixon, 99 T. 263, 89 S. W. 766.

Sufficiency.—That notice by materialmen to the owner was not given as the items were furnished held not to prevent them from reaching the amount due on the contract at time of notice. Ritter v. Houston Oil Refining & Manufacturing Co., 19 C. A. 516, 48 S. W. 768.

Failure to give notice of claim in the time and manner prescribed by statute held not to invalidate a lien which the owner had notice. Padgitt v. Dallas Brick & Construction Co. (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 529.

It is sufficient to serve a member of a church building committee of an unincorporated society with notice of a subcontractor's claim in order to fix the lien. Id.

The owner of a building having actual notice of the materialman's claim held liable for the materials. Delauney v. Butler (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 752.

Actual verbal notice to the owner of claim by a materialman is not a sufficient compliance with this article. Berry v. McAdams, 93 T. 431, 55 S. W. 1112.

The owner will be protected in payments made by him to the original contractor in accordance with the terms of the contract against the claim of a subcontractor, laborer or materialman, unless prior to such payment he had given notice of such claim as directed by the statute. Actual notice is not sufficient, but the written notice required by the statute must be given. Nicholas v. Dixon (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 768.

A furnisher of materials having notified the owner of its claim, and fixed its lien, when the owner had more than enough in his hands to pay it, it was immaterial that it did not give notice of the items of its bills as the materials were furnished. Nichols v. Dixon, 99 T. 263, 89 S. W. 766.

Itemized account.—Necessity.—A materialman in order to fix his lien must file an itemized account of his claim with the county clerk. Art. 5631 does not aid the lien, notwithstanding the fact that the original contractor fixed his lien by written contract, as this article requires. Gilmer v. Wells, 17 C. A. 486, 43 S. W. 1058.

Const. art. 16, § 37, declares that mechanics and materialmen shall have a lien for the value of their labor done or material furnished, and the legislature shall provide for the efficient enforcement of such liens. Held that, though the legislature had power to provide for the service of a written notice by a claimant on the owner before payment to the contractor, it had no right to require the filing of an account or bill of particulars with the county clerk within 90 days after accrual of the indebtedness in order to save a materialman's lien, except as against subsequent purchasers. Beilharz v. Hunt, (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 106.

Sufficiency.—It is not necessary that the account should state a specific date for each item, the times between which the articles were delivered being stated. Stuart v. Broom, 59 T. 466. An account filed and recorded, after giving the date and names of the parties, continued as follows: "To painting house of Mr. P. In and outside, two coats, $405." Held, that the contract being for the entire job, for a sum certain, the whole was properly aggregated in one item; second, the fact that the account did not bear the exact date when the work was completed was immaterial. Pool v. Wedemeyer, 58 T. 297. Houston Crawler v. Crawford, 3 App. 93.

An account specified as "bill of sack and doors" and a "bill of mill work" is not an itemized account sufficient to fix a materialman's lien nor is an account having no date sufficient. Meyers v. Wood, 56 T. 67, 65 S. W. 174.

Art. 5624. [3297] Form of fixing lien on unwritten contract.—If there be no written contract, it shall be the duty of the person seeking to obtain the benefit of this chapter to deliver to the clerk of the county court a sworn account as provided for in articles 5622 and 5623, to be filed and recorded as therein provided, and in such cases when the labor is performed for or the material is furnished to the owner of the building or improvements, or the owner or receiver of any railroad, the following form may be used, and will be sufficient to fix the meaning contemplated by this chapter:

The State of Texas,
County of ——.
A B, affiant, makes oath and says that the annexed is a true and correct account of the labor performed (or material furnished) C D, of —— county, Texas, and that the prices thereof as set forth in said account hereto annexed are just and reasonable, and the same is unpaid; that said labor was performed (or material furnished, or both) for said C D at the time in said account mentioned, under and by virtue of a contract between affiant (or affiant’s principal) and C D, and that due notice was given by affiant (or his principal) of the labor performed (or material furnished) in accordance with article 3296 [5623]; and affiant further makes oath and says that he is informed that C D was at the time said contract was made and entered into and said labor was performed (or material furnished) the owner of the house (or improvements) described as follows: (Here describe the house or improvements.)
And the said house (or improvements) is situated upon a certain lot or tract of land which affiant is informed is owned by said C D, and which is described as follows: (Here describe the lot or lots or the land.)
And this affiant (or his principal) claims a lien upon said house (or improvements) and upon said land. (Or if the material was furnished to any railroad company, its agent or receiver, to construct or repair its railroad or other property, then the affiant shall describe said railroad by giving its charter name and the name of the receiver, if any, and the agent of said company, if any, with whom the contract was made, and that affiant or his principal claims a lien on said railroad and its proerty); provided, however, a substantial compliance with the above form shall be deemed sufficient to fix and secure the lien. [Id. sec. 4. Amend.
1895, p. 194.]

Art. 5625. [3298] Form when material is furnished to contractor or builder and not the owner of property.—If the labor is performed for, or the material is furnished to, a contractor, builder, agent or receiver, and not the owner of the property, then the following form shall be deemed sufficient to fix the lien provided for by this chapter:

The State of Texas,
County of ——.
A B, affiant, makes oath and says that the annexed is a true and correct account of the labor performed for (or the material furnished to) C D, a contractor (builder, agent, or receiver) by affiant (or his principal), and the prices therefor as set forth in the annexed account are just and reasonable, and that the same is unpaid (or the sum of $——, as shown by said account, is unpaid) after allowing all just and lawful offsets, payments and credits known to affiant; that said labor was performed (or material furnished, or both) for (or to) said C D, to be used in the erection of a house (or building or improvements, or in the repair of the house, building or improvement, or in the construction or improvement of the railroad or its property), owned, as affiant is informed and believes, by E F, of ——— county, Texas, and that said labor was performed (or material furnished, or both) to (or for) said C D, under and by virtue of his contract between affiant (or his principal) and said C D.
(And in case of material furnished, affiant shall further swear that he has given to the owner, his agent or representative or receiver, notice in writing of each item of said account as required in article 3296 [5623] as the same was furnished to said C D; provided, however, that a substansial compliance with the above form shall be deemed sufficient to fix and secure the lien.) [Id. sec. 5. Amend. 1895, p. 194.]

See, also, notes under Art. 5635.

Sufficiency of notice.—Under this article service by the materialman on the owner of a copy of the contract with the contractor to furnish the materials and of a copy of the account filed with the county clerk was not a sufficient compliance with the statute to effect a lien on the property. Spann v. King, 56 C. A. 49, 121 S. W. 207.

Art. 5626. [3299] Description of property.—In case the contract is filed and recorded as provided for in article 5527 [5622], a like description of the house, building or improvement, and the lot or tract of land, shall accompany the same, as is required in the foregoing forms, except that the same is not required to be under oath. [Id. sec. 6.]

Sufficiency of statement and description.—A description which would be adequate in a conveyance is sufficient. Swope v. Stantzenberger, 59 T. 387. A description which can be rendered certain by the references in it is sufficient. Stuart v. Brooms, 59 T. 466; Gillespie v. Remington, 68 T. 168, 18 S. W. 338.

If there is enough in the description to enable a party familiar with the locality to identify the premises with reasonable certainty, it will be sufficient. Scholes v. Hughes, 77 T. 482, 14 S. W. 148.

A claim of a lien on one of two lots is void for uncertainty. Lyon v. Logan, 66 T.
87, 17 S. W. 294.

It is not necessary that the interest or title of the debtor in the property should be

The lien of a mechanic or materialman, like the vendor's lien, arises out of the transaction and cannot be created by contract. If there appears enough in the contract to enable a party to identify the premises intended to be described, with reasonable certainty, to the exclusion of others, it will be sufficient. Houston v. Myers, 88 T. 126, 30 S. W. 91. See Wright v. MacDonnell, 30 S. W. 397, 88 T. 149.

Art. 5627. [3300] What is sufficient diligence; what included on property in city and county.—When a contract or account is filed and recorded as required by the preceding article, it shall be deemed sufficient diligence to fix and secure this lien. If this lien is against land in a city, town or village, it shall extend to or into the lot or lots upon which such house, building or improvement is situated, or upon which such labor was performed; and, if the lien is against land in the country, it shall extend to and include fifty acres upon which such house, building or improvements are situated, or upon which such labor has been performed; and, if the lien is against a railroad company, it shall extend to and include all of its property. [Id. sec. 7. Amend. 1895, p.

See notes under Art. 5621.

The words "preceding article" are used in place of "preceding sections" of the original act. The amendment of 1896 reads "preceding section."

Effect of labor and materials furnished does not extend to each lot. It is because the land improved is one, that the improvement is regarded as one. Guarantee Sav., Loan & Ins.
Co. et al. v. Cash, 95 T. 865, 31 S. W. 781.

Effect of claiming lien on too much land.—The fact that a lien is claimed on more land than it can lawfully cover cannot vitiate it in its application to so much of the land as the lien may properly apply to, unless the claim is intentionally or fraudulently made, or would operate to the injury of the owner or third persons. Lyon v. Logan, 68
T. 621, 5 S. W. 72, 2 Am. St. Rep. 611.

Art. 5628. [3301] Priority of lien.—The lien herein provided for shall attach to the house, building, improvements or railroad for which they were furnished, or the work was done, in preference to any prior lien or encumbrance or mortgage upon the land upon which the houses, buildings or improvements, or railroad, have been put, or labor performed, and the person enforcing the same may have such house, building or improvement, or any piece of the railroad property, sold separately; provided, any lien, encumbrance or mortgage on the land or improvement at the time of the inception of the lien herein provided for shall not be affected thereby, and holders of such liens need not be made parties in suits to foreclose liens herein provided for. [Id. sec. 8.
Amend. 1895, p. 194.]

See 2 Tex. Civ. Prac. § 932, and notes.

Priorities.—If the account is duly filed within the time required by this article, the lien is superior to a mortgage executed after the work was begun. Schultz v. Alamo Ice & Brewing Co., 21 S. W. 169, 2 C. A. 236.
The mere earnest of a prior lienor to the erection of a building on a lot subject to his lien does not import a surrender of the priority of his lien. Security Mortgage & Trust Co. v. Caruthers, 11 C. A. 420, 32 S. W. 837.

The lien upon a building for labor and material is superior to all other liens. Oriental Hotel Co. v. Griffiths, 88 T. 574, 33 S. W. 651, 30 L. R. A. 766, 52 Am. St. Rep. 790; People's Savings & Loan Ass'n v. Chlack (Civ. App.) 23 S. W. 881.

Where one advanced money and took a mortgage while a contractor was at work on the building, held, that he was affected with notice of the contractor's lien. Farmers & Spray Nat. Bank v. Taylor, 91 T. 78, 40 S. W. 575.

The purchaser of property upon which a mechanic's lien rests and which was sold to him subject to the lien, which the owner regarded as valid, cannot dispute it. Michigan Savings & Loan Association v. Attebery, 16 C. A. 222, 42 S. W. 569.

Knowledge by the seller of machinery that a house to hold it must be built by the buyer on credit was sufficient to charge the seller with notice of the building contractor's lien. D. June & Co. v. Doke, 35 C. A. 240, 80 S. W. 492.

Claims for material or repair of construction or the railroad are subordinate to rights of holders of mortgage bonds when the mortgage is on the road at time of inception of lien, unless the material was for new construction constituting a betterment, thus increasing security of mortgage. Water-Pierce Oil Co. v. U. S. & Mex. T. Co., 44 C. A. 397, 92 S. W. 214.

A building erected by a tenant cannot be subjected to a mechanic's lien for materials as against a subsequent purchaser for valuable consideration, without notice of the lien or of the tenant's claim to the building. Denison Lumber Co. v. Milburn (Civ. App.) 197 S. W. 146.

The claim of a materialman for money in the hands of a city retained from money due a contractor held superior to the claim of an assignee of another materialman under garnishment proceedings against the city. Ross v. Beaumont Brick Co., 53 C. A. 469, 116 S. W. 643.

Under this article, mechanics' liens do not have preference over a prior lien or incumbrance on the land at the inception of the mechanics' liens, and a mechanic's lien is not superior to a prior vendor's lien. Hubbell v. Texas Southern Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 313.

Claims by a materialman for extras furnished to the owner to enable him to complete building after the contractor had abandoned the same held entitled to preference over claims for, materials furnished the contractor. Beilharz v. Illingworth (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 106.

A mechanic's and materialman's lien for improvements held inferior to certain other liens. Quinn v. Dickinson (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 993.

Estoppel to assert priority.—An agreement by a mechanic's lien holder held to estop him from asserting that his lien was prior to that of another. Cain v. Texas Building & Loan Ass'n, 21 C. A. 61, 51 S. W. 879.

Application of payments.—Where a deed of trust was executed to a building and loan association to secure the purchase price of a lot and to pay for material used in building a house on it, it was proper, on rescission of the contract, to apply plaintiff's payments to a discharge of the vendor's lien and not to the debt for material. North Texas Sav. & Bldg. Ass'n v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 344.

Sale of property and apportionment of proceeds.—Held, that the proceeds of the sale of land should be paid pro rata between a mortgagee and mechanic's lienor. Owens v. Heidbreder (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 1079.

A sale of both house and lot to satisfy a mechanic's lien on the one and a vendor's lien on the other, held proper, where the house could not be removed from the lot without great loss. Kahler v. Carruthers, 18 C. A. 216, 45 S. W. 169.

Where one person had a first lien on a building and lot, and another person a prior lien on machinery in the building, it was proper to order the building and lot and the machinery sold separately. D. June & Co. v. Doke, 35 C. A. 240, 80 S. W. 462.

Art. 5629. [3302] When improvements sold separately, purchaser may remove.—When the house, building, improvement, or any piece of the railroad's property are sold separately, the officers making the sale shall place the purchaser in possession thereof; and such purchaser shall have the right to remove the same within a reasonable time from the date of the purchase. [Id. sec. 9. Amend. 1895, p. 194.]

Art. 5630. [3303] Sale must be under judgment.—Every sale must be upon judgment rendered by some court of competent jurisdiction, foreclosing such lien and ordering sale of such property. [Id. sec. 10.]

Art. 5631. [3304] On homestead, how fixed.—When material is furnished, labor performed, erections or repairs made upon a homestead, if the owner thereof is a married man, then to fix and secure the lien upon the same, it shall be necessary for the person or persons who furnished the material or performed the labor, before such material is furnished or labor is performed, to make and enter into a contract in writing, setting forth the terms thereof, which shall be signed by the owner and his wife, and privately acknowledged by her, as is required in making sale of homestead. And such contract shall be recorded in the office of the county clerk in the county where such homestead is situated, in a well-bound book to be kept for that purpose; provided, when such contract has been made and entered into by the husband and wife and the contractor or builder, and the same has been recorded, as herefore provided, then the same shall inure to the benefit of any and all persons who shall furnish material or labor thereon for such contractor or builder. [Id. sec. 11.]

A builder's lien may be given to secure payment of the value of the labor and material actually expended in making improvements on the homestead. Pioneer Savings & Loan Co. v. Edwards, 12 C. A. 554, 34 S. W. 195; Cameron v. Association, 18 T. 59, 34 S. W. 395; App.) 421; Cameron v. Ott v. York, 36 T. 276, 34 S. W. 275; 237; 9 C. A. 261. As to the lien of the builder of a party-wall, see Knowles v. Ott (Clv. App.) 34 S. W. 291.

A contractor agreed with husband and wife to furnish labor and material to improve their homestead. Contractor furnished money to the husband who paid for the labor and material. It was held that the contractor had a lien. First Nat. Bank of Muscogee v. Campbell (Clv. App.) 46 S. W. 446.

The provisions of the mechanic's lien law as to enforcing the lien held not to apply to liens created under the constitution for the improvement of homesteads. Myers v. Humphreys (Clv. App.) 47 S. W. 812.

Where the building was intended as a homestead, and the holders of mechanic's liens are entitled to priority on inquiry as to put the lien or lien held not entitled to priority over a claim under the original contract by an assignee who completed the building. Haldeman v. McDonald (Clv. App.) 85 S. W. 1040.

If a building is erected to be occupied by the owner and his family as a homestead, and the owner and his family move into the house before the lien is recorded, then upon the owner's successors in title occupying it as a home, the property becomes a homestead from the inception of the contract for the construction of the building, and hence materialmen furnishing material to the contractors after the making of the contract can acquire no lien. Republic Guaranty & Surety Co. v. Wm. Cameron & Co. (Clv. App.) 113 S. W. 317.

Necessity for compliance with requirements.—When before or after the contract is performed an express lien is given by a written contract, it may be secured by its record. Moore v. Berin, 65 T. 341; Lyon v. Elser, 72 T. 394, 15 S. W. 177; Cameron v. Dallas Loan Ass'n, 85 T. 50, 18 S. W. 421. But a lien upon the homestead must be secured under this article. Cameron v. Marshall, 65 T. 7.

An express agreement in a mechanic's contract, that he shall have a lien upon the homestead as provided by law, will not create a lien until all the requirements of the statute have been complied with. Cameron v. Marshall, 65 T. 7; Building & L. Ass'n v. Logan (Clv. App.) 33 S. W. 1088.

A material furnished for the erection of a building on a homestead will not support a mechanic's lien, in the absence of a written contract for such materials signed by the owner and his wife, as required by Const. art. 18, § 50. Republic Guaranty & Surety Co. v. Wm. Cameron & Co. (Clv. App.) 113 S. W. 317.

Sufficiency of contract.—The contract, in order to secure a lien, must be in writing. Huffman v. Graham, 61 S. W. 561; Cameron v. Gebhard (Clv. App.) 421; 113 S. W. 758. If the contract is for material it must be executed before the purchase. Lyon v. Osee, 66 T. 95, 17 S. W. 405.

F. T. and L. T., husband and wife, executed to H. & Co. their joint promissory note for $1,231, reciting therein that the amount for which it was given was for a balance due to payees for lumber and material furnished in the construction and repair of their homestead and hotel, situated, etc., and that the note constituted a builder's lien on the property until paid; which note was duly acknowledged and recorded.
In a suit by H. & Co. to recover on the note and to enforce their lien on the property, held to be the property upon which the lien was created, is that the property was owned by the defendant. (2) That the material having been furnished prior to, and not in pursuance of, the contract, the note did not create a lien upon the homestead. (3) That, independent of the mechanic's lien which the law creates, such a note as the one described would constitute an express contract, enforceable except as against the homestead. Taylor v. Huck, 65 T. 238.

When the contract has been properly executed the remedies of the parties are the same as in any other case. Fullenwider v. Longmoor, 73 T. 480, 11 S. W. 500.

The contract need not be recorded in a book kept for that purpose. It may be recorded in a book in which other instruments are recorded. Id.

A contract for the erection of a building and the note for the price are on the same piece of paper, they need not be separately acknowledged. Bosley v. Pezner (Civ. App.) 22 S. W. 516.

Contract for improvement of homestead held substantially performed, so as to entitle contractor to mechanic's lien. First Nat. Bank v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 840.

If an attorney was the agent of lienholders and fraudulently represented to a married woman that he could and would foreclose claims for improvements on her homestead, which had not become a lien thereon by compliance with this article, and she was thereby induced to sign a deed and conveying the deed executed by her to secure such lien claims in the belief that such representations were true, such conveyance was voidable. Ward v. Baker (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 620.

Fullenwider v. Longmoor is cited to show a wife's right to certify to a building contract, on which a claim to a lien on a homestead is based, held not to avoid the contract as to a mechanic's lien. Interstate Building & Loan Ass'n v. Goforth, 94 T. 259, 69 S. W. 871.

Action to correct.—See Art. 6552.

Personal judgment.—In the absence of priority of contract the right to personal judgment under the statute is dependent at least upon the right to a lien. Where being no lien and the property being a homestead, there can be no personal judgment. Muller v. McLaughlin, 37 C. A. 485, 34 S. W. 689.

Estoppel to allege invalidity of lien.—In proceedings to foreclose a mechanic's lien on a homestead, held that a wife was not estopped from alleging the invalidity of the lien by a written waiver of the failure to perform the building contract, executed by the husband. Rhodes v. Jones, 26 C. A. 567, 64 S. W. 699.

Art. 5632. [3305] Notice of sub-contractor or laborer to owner of property.—Every person, except the original contractor or builder, or those claiming under article 5523 [5623] who may wish to avail himself of the benefits of this law, shall give at least ten days' notice in writing before the filing of the lien, as herein required, to the owner or owners, or agent, or either of them, that he holds a claim against such house, building or improvement, setting forth the amount, and from whom the same is due; and thereafter said owner, or owners, or agent, shall be authorized to retain in his hands the amount claimed until the same is settled or determined not to be owing. [Id. sec. 12.]

Construction.—The owner of property who has accepted estimates and becomes obligated to pay before notice of sub-contractor's claims, is protected to the extent of his payments on such estimates. House v. Schulze, 21 C. A. 248, 52 S. W. 654.

This article does not create any right, in favor of the persons to whom it refers, to the fund in question. Its purpose is to aid such persons in respect to a lien on the property and to give them a lien in a proper case after the owner has paid the contractor in full. The retention by the owner of the unpaid contract price, which this and succeeding articles authorize is to afford him a means of protection against the threatened lien. He may use such funds to satisfy such claim and thereby avoid liability for it, or a lien upon his property. But he is not restrained by said article from using the funds as he may please, except as at the peril of having himself or his property subjected to a charge to that extent. Where a contractor employs sub-contractors in building a house, the latter's lien on the house are superior to the contractor's where he has failed to pay the sub-contractors, or their right to the fund in which is to be paid for the house is superior to his Texas Builders' Supply Co. v. National Loan & Investment Co., 22 C. A. 548, 54 S. W. 1059.

Effect of notice.—If the owner of the property is indebted to the contractor, the service of the notice in fixing the lien, if followed by the acts required to fix it, secures the fund in the hands of the owner under a contract, as does a writ of garnishment in an ordinary case, subject to pro rata distribution with other lienholders under the contract. Fullenwider v. Longmoor, 73 T. 480, 11 S. W. 500.

The owner of land on which a building is being erected under contract is not liable to a sub-contractor for any amount paid to the contractor before such owner is served with notice of a sub-contractor's claim. After the lien is established, the sub-contract-tor's right relates back to the date of notice to the owner and becomes a lien for such amount then due, or which may have subsequently accrued in favor of the contractor, not to exceed the sub-contractor's demand, there being no other mechanic's lien thereon. Dudley v. Jones, 77 T. 69, 14 S. W. 335; Burt v. Parker County, 77 T. 335, 14 S. W. 335.

Art. 5633. [3306] Diligence, what is sufficient.—A compliance with the provisions of the preceding article shall be deemed sufficient diligence to fix the liability of the owner of such house, building or improvement for the payment of such demand, subject to the subsequent provisions of this law. [Id. sec. 13.]

Art. 5634. [3307] Contractor to be furnished by owner with account.—Whenever any such account shall be placed in the hands of such owner, or his authorized agent, it shall be the duty of such owner, or his agent, to furnish his contractor with a true copy of said attested account; and, if said contractor shall not, within ten days after the receipt of said copy of attested account, give the owner written notice that he intends to dispute said claim, he shall be considered as assenting to the demand, which shall be paid by the owner when it becomes due. [Acts 1876, p. 91, sec. 7.]

Art. 5635. [3308] Original contractor to defend suits by sub-contractors, etc.—In all cases when a lien shall be filed under a provision of this chapter by any person other than the original contractor or builder, it shall be the duty of the original contractor to defend any action brought thereupon, at his own expense; and, during the pending of such action, the owner may withhold from the contractor or builder the amount of money for which such lien shall be filed, and, in case of judgment against the owner or his property upon the lien, he shall be entitled to deduct from any amount due by him to the contractor the amount of said judgment and costs; and, if he shall have settled with the contractor or builder in full, he shall be entitled to recover back from the contractor any amount so paid by the owner for which the contractor or builder was originally the party liable. But no owner or proprietor shall in any case be required to pay, nor his property be liable for, any money that he may have paid to the contractor before the fixing of the lien or before he has received written notice of the existence of the debt; and all sub-contractors, laborers and material men shall have preference over other creditors of the principal contractor or builder; provided, further, a copy of each bill of lumber furnished to the contractor or builder, as the same is furnished, shall be delivered to the owner of said homestead, said bill specifying each item so furnished, how much is paid thereon, and what is due for lumber or material furnished for said contract prior thereto; provided, when the debt is paid under the contract for such building or improvements, the party for whose interest the contract was recorded shall enter a relinquishment showing a full compliance of said contract to the extent of all money due them from the original contractor or builder on account of labor done or material furnished; and the money due said original contractor or builder from the person owning or having improvements made shall not be garnished by other creditors to the prejudice of such sub-contractors, mechanics, laborers or material men. [Id. sec. 14.]

In general.—If material has been furnished to a sub-contractor and the law has been complied with so that a lien is fixed upon the property and the owner owes to the original contractor a sufficient amount of the contract price to settle the claim, the property may be subjected to its payment although the contractor may have paid to the sub-contractor more than the latter was entitled to receive. Padgett v. Dallas Brick & Const. Co., 92 T. 626, 50 S. W. 1010.

In order for a claimant to have filed his lien, "as provided by this law," he must have given the notice prescribed by this article and Arts. 5629 and 5635, and in filing his claim must have made affidavit to the giving of such notice, and if he has omitted to do

Art. 5636. [3309] When indebtedness accrues.—When labor is performed by the day or week, then the indebtedness shall be deemed to have accrued at the end of each week during which labor is performed. When material is furnished, the indebtedness shall be deemed to have accrued at the date of the last delivery of such material, unless there is an agreement to pay for such material at a specified time. [Id. sec. 15.]

Accrual of indebtedness.—When lumber furnished on contract is delivered from time to time, the indebtedness accrues upon the last delivery. Matthews v. Brewing Ass’n, 93 T. 694, 18 S. W. 106.

When material is furnished for the construction of a building, an indebtedness is deemed to have accrued from the date of the last delivery of such material, unless there is an agreement to pay at a specified time. Baxter Lumber Co. v. Nickell (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 461.

Accrual of lien.—See notes under Art. 6621.

Art. 5637. [3310] Liens upon equal footing.—The liens for work and labor done or material furnished, as provided in this chapter, shall be upon an equal footing, without reference to date of filing the account or lien; and, in all cases when a sale shall be ordered and the property sold, which may be described in any account or lien, the proceeds arising from such sale, if not sufficient to discharge all the liens against the same, without reference to the date of filing the account or lien, shall be paid pro rata on the respective liens; provided, such accounts or liens shall have been filed and suit brought as provided by this law; provided, that nothing in this law shall be so construed as in any manner affecting the contract between said owner and original contractor as to the amount, manner or time of payment of said contract price. [Id. sec. 16.]

See, also, notes under Art. 5635.

In general.—All liens for work and labor done or material furnished, are put upon an equal footing by the statute without reference to the date of filing the account or lien. Baumgarten v. Mauer (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 455.

Equality is given by this article only to such liens as have been filed “as provided by this law,” and one can only secure the lien by showing that he has done that which the statute requires. Nichols v. Dixon, 99 T. 263, 89 S. W. 766.

Where a contractor has received a large part of the contract price and then abandoned the contract, the amount to be distributed among those who have fixed their liens under the statute is not the balance of the contract price remaining in the hands of the owner, but the amount left in his hands after he has paid others for the completion of the building according to the contract. Slade v. Amarillo Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 99 S. W. 479.

Art. 5638. Enforcement of.—Whenever any mechanic or artisan shall perform any labor or service for any contractor, sub-contractor, agent or receiver, in the erection of any house, building, fixture or improvement, or to repair any house, building, fixture or improvement, or as a necessary incident in connection with such work of construction or repair, it shall be the duty of the owner of such property, or such agent or receiver, to retain in his hands, to secure the payment of the artisans and mechanics who may perform such labor or service, ten per cent of the contract price of such building, fixture or improvement, or the repair thereof, and, in the event there be no fixed contract price, then a sum equivalent to ten per cent of the value of such building, fixture or improvement, or the repair thereof; provided, that the amount so retained by the owner, agent or receiver as the work progresses shall not fall below one-tenth of the value of such building, fixture or improvement, or the repair thereof, measured by the proportion that the work done bears to the work to be done thereon, and using the contract price or the reasonable value of the completed building, fixture or improvement, or the repair thereof, as a basis of computation of value. Such fund or funds shall be retained by the owner, or agent, or receiver for the purpose herein named during the progress of the work of construction upon such building, fixture or improvement, or the repair thereon, and for thirty days subsequent to the completion thereof. Any mechanic or artisan who may file a mechanic's lien upon said building, fixture or improvement so made or erected or repaired in accordance with the law applying thereto, shall have a preference lien upon said fund so retained in the hands of such owner, or agent, or receiver; provided, that all mechanics and artisans filing such lien shall be entitled to share ratably therein. In the event the owner of such building, fixture or improvement, or such agent, or receiver shall refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this law, and to retain such fund or funds in his hands as herein provided, the mechanics and artisans performing work thereon and in connection therewith, who may file liens thereon in accordance with law, shall have ratably among themselves preference liens, to be preferred above all other liens and claims whatsoever upon such house, building, structure, fixture or improvement, and all its properties, and on the lot or lots of land necessarily connected therewith, to secure payment for such labor thereon. The provisions of this article shall not be construed to deprive artisans and mechanics of the remedies given them for enforcement of their liens as set out in other provisions of this chapter, except in so far as they may be in conflict herewith; and the provisions of this article shall be cumulative of the other provisions of this chapter. [Acts 1909, p. 184, sec. 1.]

Enforcement in general.—As to foreclosure of mechanics' liens, see Land Mortgage Bank v. Austin Elevator Co. (App.) 52 S. W. 753; Id. 180, 235, 34 S. W. 730.

Liberal construction of statute.—As regards the enforcement of mechanics' liens the rule seems to be that, where the lien is given by the constitution, the law giving the remedy is to be construed liberally; in other cases, strictly. Warner Elevator Mfg. Co. v. Maverick, 88 T. 489, 30 S. W. 437, 31 S. W. 353, 499; Tyler Tap R. Co. v. Driscoll, 52 T. 13; Central & M. R. Co. v. Henning, 52 T. 466.

Under a petition to foreclose a mechanic's lien, showing separate contracts for buildings on separate lots, held not error to foreclose the lien on all the lots, it appearing that the contracts were made for a firm, which owned the equitable title. Berry v. McAdams (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 952.

Where a discount was credited to defendant by a materialman by mistake and without consideration, the materialman was not bound to allow the same. Noyes v. Smith (Civ. App.) 77 S. W. 845.

The action was to recover the balance due under a contract for the erection of a house and to foreclose a materialman's lien on the lot, and the contract, by the inadvertence of the scrivener, recited that plaintiff lumber company, was "a corporation," when it was a copartnership, and described the lot as situated in a different county from that in which it was situated, but the material furnished was used in erecting the dwelling specified in the contract on the lot specified therein. Held, that the contract would be construed according to the parties' intention in the same action. Howell v. McMurry Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 848.

Where, in an action by a materialman against the contractor, his surety, and the owner, another materialman, intervened, and the owner paid into court the balance found due, but substitute for the owner was substituted, in order to participate in the distribution of the fund, held required to establish valid liens enforceable against the property of the owner. Texas Glass & Paint Co. v. Southwestern Iron Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 620.

Where plaintiff never had nor was entitled to the possession of property attached by him in an action for a debt, he could not, after failing to establish defendant's ownership of the property, in that action enforce a laborer's lien against the property. Jackson v. Downs (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 256.

A mechanic's lien contract, transferred by the original lienor to a building and loan company to secure it on a loan made the owner of the house and her husband, cannot be foreclosed to pay attorney's fees due under the loan agreement. Cain v. Bonner (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 702.

Evidence.—In a suit to foreclose a materialman's lien, evidence held to warrant a finding that the lumber was used in the construction of the building on which the lien was sought. Noyes v. Smith (Civ. App.) 77 S. W. 649.

In a proceeding by a subcontractor to enforce a mechanic's lien for a balance owed by the owner to the contractor, evidence held insufficient to sustain a judgment for plaintiff. Carson v. Gilchrist (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 529.

In an action against a railroad to foreclose a lien, evidence held to support a finding that the balance due a laborer represented only his reasonable wages and the value of the use of his tools; and that he made no profit about the reasonable value of his own and his employers' labor and the use of his teams and tools. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Read Bros. & Montgomery (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 1027.

Foreclosure sale.—A purchaser at foreclosure of mechanic's liens is subrogated to the rights of the mechanics. Owens v. Heidbreder (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 1079.

The owner of property subject to a mechanic's lien may insist on his nonexempt property being first subjected thereto, before selling his homestead. King v. C. M. Hapgood Shoe Co., 21 C. A. 217, 51 S. W. 522.
Art. 5639. Release to be filed by mechanics, etc., when.—All parties who are authorized under this law to file a lien, and have done so, and had such lien recorded, shall, when such lien is paid or satisfied, or have received their proper lienable parts for which the owner of the building would be liable under this law, shall record a relinquishment and satisfaction of such lien. [Acts 1876, p. 91, sec. 18.]

CHAPTER THREE
LIENS OF RAILROAD LABORERS

Article 5640. [3312] Railroad laborers, etc., to have lien, when.—All mechanics, laborers and operatives who may have performed labor, or worked with tools, teams or otherwise, in the construction, operation or repair of any railroad, locomotive, car or other equipment of a railroad, and to whom wages are due or owing for such work, or for the work of tools or teams thus employed, or for work otherwise performed, shall hereafter have a lien prior to all others upon such railroad and its equipments for the amount due him for personal services, or for the use of tools or teams. [Acts 1887, p. 17, sec. 1.]

In general.—Where defendant issued scrip to its employés, payable when its first train shall reach a certain point over the new road, and subsequently abandoned work, so that the condition never happened, it could not take advantage of its own wrong by postponing collection of workmen’s claims on ground that such scrip had never matured. Gulf & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Winder, 26 C. A. 263, 63 S. W. 1049.

Where it appeared that interveners, claiming a lien for construction work on a railroad, were not entitled to such lien, held error to refuse to dismiss their pleas of intervention. 1d.

The term “railroad” as used in this article is confined to the limits of the right of way of such railroads. National Bank v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., 55 T. 176, 66 S. W. 206.

Appointment of a receiver for a railroad held not to excuse noncompliance with statute to fix and secure liens. United States & Mexican Trust Co. v. Western Supply & Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 109 S. W. 577.

In an action for the price of railroad material, held, that a finding of liability against the defendant was necessarily a finding of the existence of a lien. Richardson v. Herbert (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 628.

To entitle one to a laborer’s lien under this article it must appear that claimant was entitled to wages for actual labor done by him. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Read Bros. & Montgomery (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 111.

Constitutionality.—The legislature may provide that the claims of employés of railroad and its creditors in respect to mortgages thereon prior to the passage of the statute. Hubbell v. Texas Southern Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 313.

Who entitled to lien.—The foreman or superintendent of a company of laborers is within the meaning of the statute, and entitled to a lien for his services. T. & St. L. R. R. Co. v. Allen, 1 App. C. C. § 569.

Under this article the fact that a lien claimant contracted with the general contractor to move dirt and rock at a specified price per cubic yard and clear land at a specified price per acre did not, of itself, render him a subcontractor rather than a laborer, or deprive him of his right to a lien; that being only the method employed to determine the price to be paid for the work. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Read Bros. & Montgomery (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 1027.

Laborers under subcontractor.—The laborers under a subcontract are entitled to the lien. A. & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Daniels, 62 T. 70.

Party furnishing teams, etc.—A party who furnishes teams and tools and performs work on a railroad has a valid and subsisting lien upon the road and its equipments to secure the payment of such indebtedness. G. B. & S. W. Ry. Co. v. Fontaine, 23 C. A. 519, 57 S. W. 874.

A subcontractor, letting teams to a contractor for work on a railroad, held not to have a lien thereon under this article. Eastern Texas R. Co. v. Foley, 39 C. A. 129, 69 S. W. 1030.

Parties who clear weeds, etc., off of the right of way of railroad with their own labor and teams are laborers, and the work so done is work performed in the operation and repair of the railroad within the meaning of this article and Art. 5641, and gives them a lien against the railroad and equipments. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Bryan (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 577.

Under this article, a person who, while work was being done in the construction of a railroad by his employés and by the use of his teams and tools, worked in the black-
Art. 5640. [3313] Lien, how foreclosed.—In all suits for wages due by a railroad company for such labor as heretofore mentioned, upon proof being satisfactorily made that such labor had been performed, either at the instance of said company, a contractor or sub-contractor, or agent of said company, and that such wages are due, and the lien given by the preceding article is sought to be enforced, it shall be the duty of the court having jurisdiction to try the same to render judgment for the amount of wages found to be due, and to adjudge and order said railroad and equipments, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be sold to satisfy said judgment. In all suits of this kind, it shall not be necessary for the plaintiff to make other lienholders defendants hereto, but such lienholders may intervene and become parties thereto and have their respective rights adjusted and determined by the court.

Jurisdiction.—See notes under Art. 1706.

Necessity for perfecting lien.—Filing of suit to foreclose lien on a railroad, however early, held not to dispense with statutory steps to perfect lien. United States & Mexican Trust Co. v. Western Supply & Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 109 S. W. 277.

Parties in general.—See notes under § 70 at end of Title 37, Chapter 5.

Action directly against company.—Mechanics, etc., may maintain an action directly against the company to enforce the statutory lien for work done by them under a subcontractor. A. & N. W. R. R. Co. v. Daniels, 61 T. 70.

Right to sell part of railroad and equipment.—This article seems to contemplate that a part only of the railroad and its equipments may be sold to satisfy the laborer's lien. Wellingdon v. Carver, 46 C. A. 58, 100 S. W. 788.

Art. 5642. [3314] Venue.—Suits by mechanics, laborers and operatives for their wages due by railroad companies, may be instituted and prosecuted in any county in this state where such labor was performed, or in which the cause of action, or part thereof, accrued, or in the county in which the principal office of such railroad company is situated, and in all such suits service of process may be made in the manner now required by law. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5643. [3315] Lien ceases, when.—The lien created by article 5640 shall cease to be operative in twelve months after the creation of the lien, if no steps be sooner taken to enforce it. [Id. sec. 4.]

Construction.—Read altogether, this and the three immediately preceding articles, leave little room as to the intention of the legislature expressed in this article. The only method provided for the enforcement of the lien is by suit, which is only maintainable after the labor is performed and after the wages are due (Art. 5641), and it would be unreasonable to suppose that limitation should begin to run before the suit could be brought. Any other interpretation might materially interfere with the right of a laborer to make contract for the payment of his wages in future, and would fall far short of that liberal construction so uniformly extended to this class of statute. Gulf & S. V. Ry. Co. v. Berry, 31 C. A. 408, 72 S. W. 1050.

CHAPTER FOUR

LIENS OF ACCOUNTANTS, BOOK-KEEPERS, ARTISANS, CRAFTSMEN, FACTORY OPERATIVES, MILL OPERATIVES, SERVANTS, MECHANICS, QUARRYMEN, COMMON LABORERS AND FARM HANDS

Art.
5644. Who entitled to liens.
5644a. Laws repealed.
5645. Liens, how fixed.
5646. Wages, when paid.

Art.
5647. Right of assignment.
5648. Lien ceases when.
5649. Laws not repealed.

Article 5644. Who entitled to liens.—That whenever any clerk, accountant, book-keeper, artisan, craftsman, factory operator, mill operator, servant, mechanic, quarryman, or common laborer, farm hand, male or female, may labor or perform any service in any office, store, saloon, hotel, shop, mine, quarry, factory or mill of any character, or who may perform any service in the cutting, preparation, hauling, handling, or transporting to any mill, or other point for sale, manufacture or other disposition, logs or timber, or who shall perform any service upon any wagon, cart, tram, or railroad or other means or methods of transporting such logs or timber, and in the construction or maintenance of such tram or railroad, constructed or used for the transportation of logs or timber to or for such mills or to its owner or operator, or to points for sale, shipment or other disposition, or any farm hands, under or by virtue of any contract or agreement, written or verbal, with any person, employer, firm, corporation, or his, her, or their agent or agents, receiver or receivers, trustee or trustees, in order to secure the payment of the amount due or owing under such contract or agreement, written or verbal, the here-inbefore mentioned employees shall have a first lien upon all products, machinery, tools, fixtures, appurtenances, goods, wares, merchandise, chattels, wagons, carts, tram roads, railroads, rolling stock, and appurtenances, or thing or things of value of whatsoever character that may be created in whole or in part by the labor of or that may be used by such person or persons, or necessarily connected with the performance of such labor or service, which may be owned by or in the possession or under the control of the aforesaid employer, person, firm, corporation, or his, or their agent or agents, receiver or receivers, trustee or trustees; provided, that the lien herein given to a farm hand shall be subordinate to the landlord's lien now provided by law. [Acts 1897, p. 218, sec. 1. Acts 1913, p. 151, sec. 1, amending Art. 5644, Rev. St. 1911.]

Necessity for notice.—A laborer's lien given by this article is not such a lien as is given by Const. art. 16, § 37, to a mechanic or artisan, and a laborer's lien depends on the statute and is subject to its terms, one who perfects a purchaser without actual or constructive notice of the lien. Partin, Fondren & Fowler v. Wallace, 56 C. A. 631, 121 S. W. 515.

Lien for wages only.—This law gives a lien only for the wages of the servant, and when the contract declined on is for hire, he can claim a lien only in case he sustains his allegation that the sum is due under the contract, continued in force by the employer's failure to insist on the discharge. The servant has no lien for damages for breach of contract for hire. Under a contract of hire for a year payable monthly, the laborer is not required to fix his lien for the wages falling due each month. Mudgett v. Texas Tobacco Growing Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 152.

Priority.—Where a farm laborer worked under a contract for $20 per month from January 1st to September 1st, he had a lien on the crop for the whole amount due, superior to a mortgage lien on said crop. Cash v. First Nat. Bank of McGregor, 26 C. A. 109, 61 S. W. 723.

Under the express provisions of this article the lien of a landlord for rent and advances made to a tenant, to enable him to gather the crops, is superior to a laborer's lien. Pelne v. Dorough (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 369.

Persons entitled to lien.—Where a person makes a contract with a lumber company for hauling lumber by own labor and teams to be paid $3 per 1,000 feet, he has no lien under this article for his labor and team. The statute does not apply to a contract of this kind. Sparks v. Crescent Lumber Co., 49 C. A. 222, 89 S. W. 424.

A superintendent or manager of a brick manufacturing plant, employed by contract as such does not come within any of the classes of persons mentioned in this article and has no lien under this article, although he performs the same kind of work that common laborers performed about the plant. He was not hired as a common laborer and was not required by his contract to do the work of one but as superintendent and manager could have hired others to do the menial work which he performed from choice. Lindale Brick Co. v. Smith, 64 C. A. 297, 118 S. W. 570.

In order to fix a lien for labor under this article it must appear that the person claiming such lien is within the class named in the statute, and that the labor or services performed by him were performed under the conditions named in the statute. Bush Bros. Lumber & Milling Co. v. Eastwood (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 389.

Under this article the term "in any manufactury or mill of any character" refers to labor performed in or about such place, and no lien exists where the services are wholly performed at a place miles distant from the mill and have no immediate connection with the operation thereof, and hence one engaged at a distant place in cutting and hauling logs to be sawed at the mill was not entitled to a lien. 1d.

Where plaintiff contracted to haul logs at a specified rate per thousand feet, he was not entitled to a laborer's lien; the word "laborer" in this article meaning one who labors with his hands for wages, and not including one who contracts for the hauling of lumber with his wagon and team. Jackson v. Downs (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 286.

Property subject to lien.—This article gives a lien on a sawmill and machinery to laborers who do service in connection with the operation of the mill. Sparks v. Crescent Lumber Co., 49 C. A. 222, 89 S. W. 424.

Necessity of duplicate accounts.—See notes under Art. 5645.

Computation of time for filing account.—See notes under Art. 5645.

Art. 5644a. Laws repealed.—That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this Act, be and the same are hereby repealed; provided that this Act shall not be so construed as to repeal chapter 2 of title 86, of the Revised Civil Statutes of the state of Texas, 3730 relating to liens of mechanics, contractors, builders and materialmen.
LIENS

Art. 5646

[Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 5645. Liens, how fixed.—Whenever any person, employer, firm, corporation, his, her or their agent or agents, receiver or receivers, trustee or trustees, shall fail or refuse to make payments as hereinafter prescribed in this law, the said clerk, accountant, bookkeeper, farm hand, artisan, craftsman, operative, servant, mechanic, quarryman, or laborer, who shall have performed service of any character, shall make or have made duplicate accounts of such service, with amount due him or her for the same, and present, or have presented, to aforesaid employer, person, firm or corporation, his, her or their agent or agents, receiver or receivers, trustee or trustees, one of the aforesaid duplicate accounts within thirty days after the said indebtedness shall have accrued. The other of the said duplicate accounts shall, within the time hereinbefore prescribed, be filed with the county clerk of the county in which said service was rendered, and shall be recorded by the county clerk in a book kept for that purpose. The party or parties presenting the aforesaid account shall make affidavit as to the correctness of the same. A compliance with the foregoing requirements in this article shall be necessary to fix and preserve the lien given under this law; and the liens of different persons shall take precedence in the order in which they are filed; provided, that all persons claiming the benefit of this law shall have six months within which to bring suit to foreclose the aforesaid lien; and provided, further, that a substantial compliance with the provisions of this article shall be deemed sufficient diligence to fix and secure the lien hereinbefore given; provided, that any purchaser of such products from the owner thereof shall acquire a good title thereto, unless he has at the time of the purchase actual or constructive notice of the claim of such lienholder upon such products, said constructive notice to be given by record of such claim, as provided for in this law, or by suit filed. [Acts 1897, p. 218, sec. 2.]

Jurisdiction.—See notes under Title 35, Chapter 3.

Computation of time for filing account.—If day laborers are paid at the end of each day, then for the purpose of fixing the lien the time is computed from the end of the day. If to be paid at end of week, the time is computed from the contract due date. So of employment by the month. Sparks v. Crescent Lumber Co., 40 C. A. 222, 89 S. W. 424.

An indebtedness for labor accrues on the date fixed by agreement for the payment therefore, and a lien for the labor filed within thirty days after such date is filed within thirty days after the accrual of the indebtedness as required by this article. Partin, Fondren & Fowler v. Wallace, 65 C. A. 631, 121 S. W. 515.

Plaintiff worked as a farm hand from May 25 to August 6, 1908, but the payment for services was not due until the cotton was sold, and before the cotton was sold it was taken in sequestration proceedings on October 33, 1908, and plaintiff did not present his account until November 7, 1908. Held, under this article and Arts. 5644, 5646, that the account was filed in time, and plaintiff was entitled to recover in the sequestration proceedings. Neblett v. Barron, 104 T. 111, 134 S. W. 208.

Necessity of duplicate accounts.—Under Arts. 5644, 5645, 5648, in the absence of any compliance with the provisions as to the duplicate accounts, no lien could be created. Peavey v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 1191.

An affidavit.—Under the statute giving a lien to farm laborers on crops raised, a laborer's affidavit for such lien is not defective for failing to state the crops raised. Allen v. Glover, 27 C. A. 483, 65 S. W. 575.

The affidavit for a mechanic's lien, required by this article is fatally defective where it does not describe the property. Merchants & Planters' Bank v. Hollis, 37 C. A. 479, 84 S. W. 269.

The "account for services" to which affidavit is required to be made, must show the property or article upon which labor and services have been performed and the amount due therefor. The affidavit must be of affiant's knowledge and not to the "best of affiant's knowledge and belief." Id.

An affidavit for a lien under this article, for labor, which states the amount of the debt, and that it was for labor performed, and which aver that the affidavit was made to fix a lien on the product, is sufficient. Partin, Fondren & Fowler v. Wallace, 65 C. A. 631, 121 S. W. 515.

Art. 5646. Wages, when paid.—Under the operation of this law, all wages, if service is by agreement performed by the day or week, shall be due and payable weekly, or, if by the month, shall be due and payable monthly; all payments to be made in lawful money of the United States. [Id. sec. 3.]

Computation of time for filing account.—See notes under Art. 5645.

Art. 5647. Right of assignment.—Any of the parties named in article 5644 may transfer or assign their rights hereunder, and their assignee or assignees shall have the same rights and privileges as are conferred upon such persons enumerated in article 5644. [Id. sec. 4.]

In general.—Time check issued by an employer to an employee held primarily a contract to pay money on a day named, and transferable. Aldridge Lumber Co. v. Graves (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 846.

Assignee of a time check issued by an employer to an employee on proving an assignment to him for value may recover thereon. Id.

One to whom a paving contractor made an assignment of the amounts due on work yet to be performed cannot complain that the city made advances on the contract contrary to its provision; the contractor having abandoned work altogether. Alfalfa Lumber Co. v. City of Brady (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 204.

Art. 5648. Lien ceases, when.—The lien created by this chapter shall cease to be operative after six months after the same is fixed, unless suit is brought within said time to enforce such lien. [Id. sec. 5.]

Necessity of duplicate accounts.—See notes under Art. 5646.

Art. 5649. Laws not repealed.—This chapter shall not be so construed as to repeal chapter 2 of this title, relating to liens of mechanics, contractors, builders and material men. [Id. sec. 6.]

CHAPTER FIVE
LIENS ON DOMESTIC VESSELS

Art. 3316. Lien on vessels, when. —Every person who may furnish supplies or materials, or do repairs or labor or for or on account of any domestic vessel, owned in whole or in part in this state, shall have a lien on such vessel, her tackle, apparel, furniture and freight money, for the security and payment of the same. [Act Feb. 3, 1848. P. D. 4600.]

Art. 3317. Not to affect laws of liens for seamen’s wages. —The provisions of the preceding article shall not be construed to alter or affect in any way the general law regulating the liens of seamen on foreign vessels. [P. D. 4601.]

CHAPTER SIX LIEN—LIVE STOCK

Art. 3316. Lien of keeper of stallion. —The owner or keeper of any stallion, jack, bull or boar, who keeps the same confined for the purpose of standing him for profit, shall have a preference lien upon the progeny of such stallion, jack, bull or boar, to secure the payment of the amount due such owner or keeper, for the services of such stallion, jack, bull or boar, and such lien shall exist by reason of the force and effect of the provisions hereof, and it shall never be necessary in order to secure and fix said lien to secure, file or register any contract, or statement thereof with any officer, nor shall it be necessary that the owner of such progeny execute any contract whatever, but that such preference lien may be foreclosed in the same manner as the statutory landlord's lien is by law enforced; provided, that where parties misrepresent their stock by false pedigree, no lien shall obtain. [Acts 1889, p. 115. Amended 1905, p. 24.]

Art. 5653. [3336] Period of such lien.—The lien herein provided for shall remain in force for a period of ten months from the birth of said progeny, but shall not be enforced until five months shall have elapsed after such birth. [Id.]

CHAPTER SEVEN

CHATEL MORTGAGES

Art. 5654. Reservation of title in chattel mortgages, and to be recorded.—All reservation of the title to or property in chattels, as security for the purchase money thereof, shall be held to be chattel mortgages, and shall, when possession is delivered to the vendee, be void as to creditors and bona fide purchasers, unless such reservations be in writing and registered as required of chattel mortgages; provided, that nothing in this law shall be construed to contravene the landlord and tenant act. [Acts 1885, p. 76.]

See notes under Art. 5655.

Conditional sales.—A lien upon a personal chattel sold cannot be created by a parol reservation in the sale when the property is delivered to the purchaser. Gay v. Hardeman. 31 T. 346.

Property may be conveyed by deed, which will be construed as evidencing a conditional sale and not a mortgage, though the consideration is the payment of a debt with a condition for repurchase within a designated time. This occurs when it is intended and stipulated that the debt is paid by the conveyance. If the deed was intended merely as a security for the debt, it would be regarded as evidencing a mortgage. Miller v. Yturria, 69 T. 549, 7 S. W. 206.

A conditional sale passes the title to the property to the vendee, with the reservation or condition that the vendor may repurchase the same at a fixed price and at the specified time. If there is a debt, it becomes extinguished by the transaction. The delivery of the possession of the property to the mortgagee or vendee does not affect the question of the character of the instrument. Soell v. Hadden, 86 T. 182, 19 S. W. 1087.

The mortgagee of the stock of a retail merchant has a superior claim to that of the manufacturer who delivered the goods to the retail merchant under an unrecorded written agreement reserving title in himself. Not, however, the case where the mortgaged debt is a pre-existing one and there was no extension of time. Bowen v. Laning Wagon Works, 91 T. 385, 43 S. W. 372.

Unrecorded bill of sale of cattle held not an executed contract, where they are left in possession of the seller, to be accepted and paid for before driven to pasture. Edwards v. Irvin (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 1056.

Where one makes a pretended sale, an innocent purchaser from the buyer, without notice, will be protected. Therriault v. Compere (Civ. App.) 47 S. W. 765.

A reservation of title to personal property sold held not to defeat a recovery by seller of the contract price, after delivery of the goods and default in payment by the purchaser. Jaeggi v. Phears, 30 C. A. 212, 78 S. W. 330.

Under contract of conditional sale, the seller held to have the right to retake possession in default of payment. Henderson v. Mahoney, 31 C. A. 539, 72 S. W. 1019.

A sale of chattel held an absolute sale. White v. Carney (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 443. "Absolute" and "conditional" sales defined and distinguished. Id.

A seller retaining title until the price is paid, and entitled to take possession on the nonpayment of any installment at maturity, held to convert the goods, when assuming control of them before maturity of any installment of the price. Roberson v. Withers (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1169.

--- Mortgages.—A contract that personal property contracted to be sold and actually delivered should remain the property of the vendor until paid in full is a chattel mortgage and can be registered as such. Garretson v. De Foyster, 4 App. C. C. § 137, 16 S. W. 106.

A stipulation in an order for books that the sale is conditional upon payment of price, and the title shall remain in the vendor until price is paid, is a chattel mortgage. Clark v. West Pub. Co. (Civ. App.) 26 S. W. 527.

Held, the intention of property by a purchaser with the agreement that no title shall pass until payment is a mere bailment and not within the provisions of this article. Farmers' National Bank v. Henderson (Civ. App.) 29 S. W. 562.

A conveyance of sale reserving title to secure price held not a mortgage only as to creditors of purchaser having judgment at time of sale. Mechanics' Bank of St. Louis, Mo., v. Gullett Gin Co. (Civ. App.) 48 S. W. 627.

Reservation of title to a chattel sold and delivered as security for the purchase money thereof is but a chattel mortgage, and does not give a vendor's lien. Farlin & Orendorf Co. v. Davis' Estate (Civ. App.) 74 S. W. 951.

Contention that, when consideration is not paid, delivery of personal property with agreement that no title is to pass until consideration is paid is a bailment, held untenable. East v. De Long, 35 S. A. 531, 3 S. W. 372.

The effect of this article is to declare that when property is sold to another and the title is to be reserved by the vendor until the purchase money is paid, the transaction creates a chattel mortgage and not between the vendor and the persons. This declaration does not appear to apply to all reservations of the title to, or property in chattels as security for the purchase money, whether the reservation be by parole or in writing. Id.

Where one sells personal property to another, a verbal reservation of the title in the seller is not sufficient to reserve the right, and in order to secure the payment of the price of said chattel property being delivered to the purchaser at the time of the sale, constitutes a valid mortgage between the buyer and seller. Crews v. Harlan, 99 T. 93, 87 S. W. 658, 659, 13 Ann. Cas. 863.

A sale of personal property with a verbal reservation of title to secure the price constitutes a valid mortgage. Crews v. Harlan (Civ. App.) 88 S. W. 411.

The sale of goods with reservation of title in the seller to secure the purchase money constitutes a mortgage. Wright v. Texas Moline Plow Co., 40 C. A. 494, 90 S. W. 907.

If the purchase price of real estate is paid in money, which the title to the seller, though possession was given to the purchaser, were chattel mortgages. Stewart & Alexander Lumber Co. v. Miller & Vidor Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 334.

Waiver of reservation of title.—When the owner of personal property transfers his possession to one who executes his notes under a contemporaneous contract, by the terms of which the title is to remain with the vendor until the price is paid, the original owner, in default of payment, may elect either to enforce payment or reclaim possession. The assertion of either right is the abandonment of the other. Bensinger Co. v. Caln, 4 App. C. C. § 260, 18 S. W. 126; Bank v. Thomas, 69 T. 227, 6 S. W. 565.

Notes for the purchase price were taken under an agreement that until paid the title to the property should remain in the seller. The notes were indorsed, but on failure to collect the indorsement returned to the seller and the indorsement erased. Held, that the trust relation with the purchaser was severed, the title to the property passed to the seller, and could not be restored to the seller without the purchaser's consent. Merchants & Planters' Bank v. Thomas, 69 Tex. 237, 8 S. W. 565.

As a title shall not pass to the buyer unless payment of the price is made may be waived by the seller. Continental Bank & Trust Co. v. Hartman (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 179.

A waiver by the seller of the condition of cash payment of the price to the passing of the title where the same is made voluntarily, and where the seller's conduct is such as to clearly indicate his intention to waive the condition and make the delivery unconditional is necessary to give it validity; as to subsequent purchasers, the mortgage is valid if they have actual notice of its existence. Freiberg v. Magale, 70 T. 116, 7 T. 624, 37 S. W. 634.

An instrument was executed by the owner of goods, purporting to "bargain, sell and confirm" the property to another, who paid therefor $800 cash, executed a note for deferred payment, and reserved possession. It recited that the property remained in full force and effect, if the balance of the purchase-money was paid; if not paid, then the maker of the instrument reserved the right to repossess himself of the goods and dispose of the same, and "then the above conveyance shall be henceforth null and void." Held: The title passed, to be divested by the seller, by sale, in the event of non-payment of the note. If such an instrument is not recorded, the seller can assert no right to the goods as against a creditor of the vendee who has seized the same under legal process. Key v. Brown, 67 T. 300, 3 S. W. 445.

As to creditors, the deposit of a chattel mortgage with the clerk in compliance with the statute is absolutely necessary to give it validity; as to subsequent purchasers, the mortgage is valid if they have actual notice of its existence. Freiberg v. Magale, 70 T. 116, 7 T. 624, 37 S. W. 634.

A sold a quantity of wood to B., a wood dealer. An instrument in writing was executed to the effect that A. appointed B. his agent to sell the wood and pay the proceeds to C. for A. It was shown that this was intended as security, and that B. became absolute owner of the wood. Held: That there was a mortgage and, not being recorded, it was of no force as against one who purchased the wood, if he paid value therefor, whether he had notice of A.'s claim or not. Lewis v. Bell (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 747.

An unrecorded chattel mortgage where the mortgagee takes possession before bill of sale to the vendee is good. Smith v. Connor (204 N.C. 366). Where goods conditionally sold are removed into a state where registration is necessary, the conditions are void, unless statutes of such state are complied with. Sanger v. Jesse French Piano & Organ Co., 21 C. A. 523, 52 S. W. 621. This does not prohibit conditional sales as between the parties thereto. Parlin v. Harrell, 27 S. W. 1084, 8 C. A. 365.

The reservation of title in chattels by seller is good as against an assignee taking property under a general assignment for the benefit of creditors. Mansur v. Telbetts implement Co. v. Beer, 19 C. A. 311, 45 S. W. 972.

It has been held that instruments containing reservations of title in the sale and delivery of chattels, such as before had been known as conditional sales, although unrecorded, created valid liens as between the parties, and that subsequent mortgagees were not lien creditors within the sense of the statute, but were to be classed as purchasers, and in order to postpone the prior lien to their mortgage, antecedent debts, to secure which mortgage had been given, were not a sufficient consideration. Turner v. Cochran, 94 T. 480, 61 S. W. 924.

Contract of sale, reserving title in seller until payment for property by buyer, held valid immediately on execution, regardless of registration, as against all parties except lien creditors and bona fide purchasers or mortgagees. Hall v. Keating Implement & Machine Co., 33 C. A. 526, 77 S. W. 1054.

As between the buyer and the seller of personalty under a conditional sale, it is not necessary that the instrument be registered in order to create a lien. Wm. Cameron & Co. v. Jones, 41 C. A. 4, 90 S. W. 1126.

Under this article an unrecorded chattel mortgage is valid between the parties there­to. Stewart & Alexander Lumber Co. v. Miller & Vidor Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 545.

Who are “creditors.”—A mortgagee, when the mortgage has been duly recorded, is a lien creditor within the meaning of the statute. Tufts v. Blanton, 2 App. C. C. § 294; Kilgore v. Graves, 2 App. C. C. § 409; Ayres v. Duprey, 27 T. 593, 86 Am. Dec. 657; Mc­Keen v. Sultanfuss, 61 T. 335.

One who has not acquired a lien by process of law on chattels claimed under a prior unrecorded mortgage is not a creditor within the meaning of the statute regarding chattel mortgages, and is not entitled to protection as such. Overstreet v. Manning, 67 T. 657, 55 S. W. 248.

The “creditor,” within the meaning of the statute, is one who has acquired rights by an attachment or other process of law, and not merely a general creditor who has ac­quired no interest in the property mentioned in the mortgage. Snyder v. First Nat. Bank v.IME (App.) 35 (Civ. App.) 151. Subsequent, and other lien­holders in good faith, stand on the same footing. One who purchases at a voluntary sale from his debtor, and pays no money, but credits the amount of the consideration on a pre-existing debt, is not a bona fide purchaser for value. Overstreet v. Man­ning, 77 T. 652; Brothers v. Mundell, 60 T. 240; Keller v. Smalley, 45 T. 532.

This article applies to lien creditors only. Avery v. Mansur & T. I. Co. et al. (Civ. App.) 37 S. W. 466.

All persons are included within the term creditors whose claims are, upon certain conditions, charged by law as specific liens upon certain property, such as holders of attach­ments, execution, judgment, landlords’ and mechanics’ liens, and all others are ex­cluded. The statute does not make the requirement of good faith as to creditors in order that the unregistered mortgage become void, but it does make such requirement of subsequent purchasers, mortgagees, etc. Oak Cliff College for Young Ladies v. Arm­strong (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 610.

The word “creditor” in this article means creditors having some sort of lien fixed by law or legal proceedings upon the particular property and does not include a mere gen­eral creditor. The word “purchasers” includes mortgagees for value. Eason v. Garrison & Kelley, 35 C. A. 574, 82 S. W. 801.

Under this and the following articles the term “creditors” applies to those persons whose claims are upon certain conditions charged by law as specific liens upon the property, such as holders of attachments, executions, judgments, landlords’ and mech­anics’ liens, and as to subsequent purchasers and lienors in good faith, and so such a mort­gage is not void as to a prior trust deed on land which did not include the personality embraced in the chattel mortgage. Stewart & Alexander Lumber Co. v. Miller & Vidor Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 343.

Where the beneficiary of a trust deed, which did not include after-acquired propri­etary, foreclosed after a tramway had been laid upon the land, the judgment of foreclosure which followed the description of the deed of trust of the real estate, was not a “creditor” within the purview of this article, with respect to the rails of the tramway which were subject to an unrecorded chattel mortgage, for the judgment created no lien, but only enforced one. 1d.
Art. 5655. [3328] All chattel instruments intended to operate as liens to be recorded.—Every chattel mortgage, deed of trust, or other instrument of writing, intended to operate as a mortgage of or lien upon personal property, which shall not be accompanied by an immediate delivery and be followed by an actual and continued change of possession of the property mortgaged or pledged by such instrument, shall be absolutely void as against the creditors of the mortgagor or person making same, and as against subsequent purchasers and mortgagees or lien holders in good faith, unless such instrument, or a true copy thereof, shall be forthwith deposited with and filed in the office of the county clerk of the county where the property shall then be situated, or if the mortgagor or person making the same be a resident of this state, then, of the county of which he shall at that time be a resident; provided, that written contracts for the conditional sale, lease or hire of railroad equipments and rolling stock, by which the purchase money is therein agreed to be paid at any time or times after the date of such contract, with a reservation of title or lien in the vendor, lessor or bailor until the same has been fully paid, shall be recorded in the office of the secretary of state, in a book of records to be kept by him for that purpose; and, on payment in full of the purchase money and the performance of the terms and conditions stipulated in any such contract, a declaration in writing to that effect may be made by the vendor, lessor or bailor, or his or its assignee, which declaration may be made on the margin of the record of the contract, duly attested, or it may be made by a separate instrument to be acknowledged by the lessor, vendor or bailor, or his or its assignee, and recorded as aforesaid; and for such services the secretary of state shall be entitled to a fee of five dollars for recording each of said contracts and each of said declarations, and a fee of one dollar for entering such declaration on the margin of the record. [Acts 1879, p. 134, sec. 1. Amended Acts 1897, p. 209.]

Who are "creditors."—See notes under Art. 5654.

Who are purchasers.—An assignee under a general assignment for the benefit of creditors is not a purchaser within the meaning of this statute. Keller v. Smalley, 63 T. 612.

This statute evidently means a purchaser of goods by contract—one who, of his own volition, buys them and pays a price agreed upon and receives a transfer therefor from one who sells and delivers them. It does not contemplate a wrongdoer or trespasser upon the property who against his will is cast in judgment for the value of it and takes title unwillingly, by operation of law upon payment of the judgment. Scott v. Cox, 30 C. A. 190, 70 S. W. 805.

Filing, recording and registration.—It was the intention of the act of April 22, 1879, to dispense with the registration in full of chattel mortgages, and to provide in lieu of it for the deposit with the clerk of the original mortgage itself, or a true copy of it, there to be kept for the inspection of the parties interested, and to have a minute of the mortgage entered in a book, so that it might be perceived what were its contents, date of filing, etc. Brothers v. Mundell, 60 T. 240.

An indorsement on a chattel mortgage by the county clerk that it had been "filed for record" on a certain day, and that it had been recorded in a book for the registry of deeds, is not such evidence of a deposit and filing as required by the statute. Such an instrument is not admissible in evidence as against creditors of the mortgagor; and as against subsequent purchasers and mortgagees and lienholders in good faith, it is void. Id.

On the back of a chattel mortgage was the following indorsement by the clerk: "This instrument was filed for record on the 15th of February a. m., 1883, and duly registered in Book I of Chattel Mortgages, page 24." Held, the indorsement sufficiently indicated the "time of receiving" the instrument. Cook v. Haskell, 65 T. 1.

To prove the registry of a chattel mortgage, the record book containing the entry, or a certified copy of the entry, should be produced. Id.

An indorsement "filed for record" at a certain date given is sufficient. Cook v. Haskell, 65 T. 1. But see Brothers v. Mundell, 60 T. 240.

The acknowledgment or proof for registration is not necessary where the original of a chattel mortgage is deposited with the county clerk of the proper county. Hicks v. Ross, 71 T. 358, 9 S. W. 315; Chator v. Brunswick Co., 71 T. 589, 10 S. W. 250.

A conveyance to a trustee for the benefit of creditors named included real estate and a stock of merchandise. The deed was filed for record as for real estate, and a copy of the deed deposited with the county clerk for entry as a chattel mortgage. The deed was duly acknowledged. The execution of the mortgage laws were complied with, so as to give to the deed effect from date of filing against the attaching creditor. The neglect of the clerk to make proper record entries, as required by the statute, would not prejudice the rights of the beneficiaries. Willis v. Thompson, 85 T. 301, 20 S. W. 155.

The failure of the clerk to enter a mortgage in the proper book, after filing, does not affect the rights of the mortgagee. Cleveland v. Empire Mills, 25 S. W. 1055, 6 C. A. 479.

A purchase money chattel mortgage, though not recorded until more than two months after the last day of the month and only a few hours before the levy of an attachment on the property is void as against the attachment. See Art. 5655. Moore v. Masterson, 19 C. A. 368, 48 S. W. 855.

Where a chattel mortgage is filed as soon as it reasonably can be, after its execution and delivery, it will take effect from the time of delivery, and prevail against a lien created between the time of delivery and the time of filing in the clerk's office. Cameron Ice Co. v. Wallace, 21 C. A. 141, 50 S. W. 628.

The appellees did business in a town ten miles from the county seat, between which points ran a daily train, leaving the former about 5 o'clock p. m., and arriving at the latter about 6 p. m. A chattel mortgage executed and delivered to appellees at their place of business at noon on the 14th of the month and filed at the county clerk's office in the county seat at 9 o'clock on the morning of the 15th of the same month was not filed "forthwith" within the meaning of the law, so as to defeat an attachment lien secured on the mortgaged property on the 16th of the month, in the absence of facts showing why the mortgage was not filed more promptly. Hackney v. Schow, 21 C. A. 613, 53 S. W. 712.

Where a mortgage was executed at about 3 o'clock p. m. on Saturday and then and there delivered to the mortgagee, and afterwards during that afternoon before 5 o'clock he passed by the courthouse, and did not stop in and deposit the instrument with the county clerk, it gave no reason for not doing so, but filed it the following Monday, the mortgage was not filed "forthwith," so as to become superior to the landlord's lien on the mortgaged goods for rent. Austin v. Welch (Civ. App.) 72 S. W. 884.

Failure of the county clerk to discharge his duty in respect to mortgages duly filed with him does not affect the mortgagee's rights. Scaling v. First Nat. Bank, 29 C. A. 154, 87 S. W. 715.

Where chattels, mortgaged in a foreign state, were brought into Texas with the knowledge of the mortgagee, who did not register his mortgage there, an innocent purchaser for value would have the priority over the lien of the mortgage. Best v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 334.

Under this article a mortgage filed before the rights of other persons in respect to the mortgaged property have intervened is valid. Stewart & Alexander Lumber Co. v. Miller & Vidor Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 343.

The fact that a chattel mortgage was witnessed by two of the beneficiary parties would not invalidate its registration, since, under the statute, a chattel mortgage is entitled to registration, though not witnessed at all. Neely-Harris-Cunningham Co. v. Lacy Bros. & Jones (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 441.

— Necessity for recording.—A unrecorded mortgage is not by the terms of the statute made void as to all parties. It is made void as to "creditors" of the maker only when not "forthwith deposited with and filed in the office of the county clerk" of the proper county, and when not "accompanied by an immediate delivery and followed by an actual and continued change of possession of the property mortgaged or pledged by such instrument;" thus presenting two co-existing elements that must be shown before the creditor has the right to have possession of the property declared void. Randolph v. Brown, 21 C. A. 617, 53 S. W. 325.

A chattel mortgage is effectual, as between the parties, without being recorded. Tipts v. Gay (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 306.

— County of record.—A recital in a mortgage of the residence of the maker is prima facie evidence of the locality of the property, indicating where the mortgage should be recorded. Bass v. McLevick, 71 T. 588, 19 S. W. 284.

A mortgage held properly filed for record in the county where the property was situated. Oxshee v. Watt (Civ. App.) 42 S. W. 121.

When the maker of a chattel mortgage is a resident of this state, the mortgagee has the choice to record the instrument in the county in which the mortgagor resides, or in the county where the property is at the time situated. Oxshee v. Watt, 91 T. 402, 44 S. W. 67.

Registration of a chattel mortgage covering property in an unorganized county in the county in which that county was attached for judicial purposes held not constructive notice to subsequent purchasers and mortgagees where the unorganized county was attached to a third county for registration purposes. First Nat. Bank v. McElroy, 51 C. A. 124, 112 S. W. 801.

That a chattel mortgagor residing in an unorganized county was qualified for jury service in the county to which that county was attached for judicial purposes held not to make registration of the mortgage in the organized county proper, where the unorganized county was attached to a third county for registration purposes. Id.

Where an unorganized county is attached to an organized county for "judicial surveying and all other purposes," the latter is the county in which instruments affecting property situated in the former are to be recorded for the purpose of giving notice to persons to be affected by such instruments. Id.

— Foreign registration.—A mortgage on personalty was not at fault in failing to give notice of the mortgage by registration or otherwise to the citizens of another state into which the property was removed, where sufficient time therfore did not elapse between the removal and a sale of the property to a person without notice. Blythe v. Crompton, 5 C. A. 397, 86 S. W. 555.

The constructive notice obtained by registering a chattel mortgage in a foreign state depends upon the statutes of that state. Best v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 334.

A lien acquired by the registration of a chattel mortgage in a foreign state will not be given priority in Texas. Id.
Art. 5655

LIENS

Record as notice and effect as to priority.—The filing of a chattel mortgage for registry, furnishes notice and gives it validity against a subsequent attaching creditor. It operates upon the property, although an immediate change of possession was not given to the trustee named in the mortgage, and to whom right to possession was given. Will v. Thompson, 85 T. 301, 20 S. W. 155.

A mortgage filed with reasonable diligence is superior to the lien of an attachment levied before the actual filing of such mortgage of an earlier date. Baker v. Smoeller, 88 T. 26, 29 S. W. 377, 33 L. R. A. 163; reversing s. c., 26 S. W. 906, 6 C. A. 761.

A duly recorded chattel mortgage held constructive notice to a subsequent mortgage. Oxborough v. Watt (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 121.

A mortgage filed a few hours previous to the levy of an attachment held superior to the attachment. Moore v. Masterson, 19 C. A. 304, 46 S. W. 855.

A chattel mortgage covered by recorded chattel mortgage held to take with constructive notice thereof. Greer, Mills & Co. v. Crenshaw (Civ. App.) 76 S. W. 659.

A mortgage, reciting it was executed "this — day of August, 1892," and registered on the 20th day of that month, is a valid mortgage as of that day against third persons. Becker v. Bowen (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 46.

Registration of chattel mortgage executed by married woman alone held not constructive notice of the mortgage. Sweeney v. Taylor Bros., 41 C. A. 365, 92 S. W. 442.

A chattel mortgage held entitled to so much of the mortgaged property as was necessary to satisfy his demands for advances made up to the date of the recording of a junior mortgage. Bank of Omaha v. Pope (Civ. App.) 103 S. W. 692.

Recorded mortgage of animals to be acquired by the mortgagor held constructive notice of the mortgagee's lien as against a party converting part of them after things necessary for their identification as indicated by the mortgage had been done. Barron v. San Angelo Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 142.

Where a chattel mortgage upon cattle was registered, such registration was constructive notice to a subsequent mortgagee, and the first mortgage has priority over a second mortgage. Third Nat. Bank of Springfield, Mass., v. National Bank of Commerce (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 665.

Where defendant, intending to purchase property and to give a note therefor, executed a mortgage on the property to the seller, not knowing the mortgagor had a prior mortgage on the property to secure the purchase price to seller, who did not know of the prior mortgage, his lien was superior, notwithstanding priority of record. Tips v. Gay (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 306.

Where a seller agreed with the buyer that the latter might borrow from a third person the money to make the cash payment and secure the same by a chattel mortgage on the property, it was inequitable to hold that the purchase-money mortgage, filed for record after the mortgage to the third person, was superior thereto. Face v. J. M. Rader & Groppo (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1130.

Under this article the record of a chattel mortgage is required by law that constructive notice to all parties subsequently dealing with the property. American Type Founder Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Teague (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 309.

Failure to file or record mortgage.—A chattel mortgage, where possession of the mortgaged property remain with the mortgagor, and the instrument is not filed as required by statute, is absolutely void as to creditors of the mortgagor, whether or not they had actual notice of such mortgage, or were creditors in good faith of the maker of the instrument. Brothers v. Mundell, 60 T. 240.

A chattel mortgage not filed is not void as between the mortgagor and mortgagee, and the right to impeach it for fraud, etc., does not pass to the assignee of the mortgagor by a voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors. Keller v. Smalley, 63 T. 512.

The lien of a landlord will prevail over a mortgage executed by the tenant upon property in the lien, where the mortgagee does not file the mortgage for record, as required by statute. Liquid Carbonic Acid Mfg. Co. v. Lewis, 23 C. A. 481, 75 S. W. 47.

Where one takes a chattel mortgage, but does not file forthwith, and the mortgagee gives a security interest in the same property before the first mortgage is filed, the second mortgagee acquires the superior lien, even though he does not file his mortgage until after the first mortgage is filed. McCarthy v. North Texas Loan Co. (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 335.

Under this article a lienholder in "good faith" is one who pays a valuable consideration at the time of acquiring the lien without notice of the mortgage, and hence the holder of a deed of trust on land did not, by obtaining a judgment of foreclosure in which the description of the property followed the description as given in the deed of trust, become a lienholder in good faith as against one who furnished rails for the construction of a tramway on the land subsequent to the date of the deed of trust and took a chattel mortgage for the price of such rails which he failed to record. Stewart & Alexander Lumber Co. v. Miller & Vidor Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 343.

An unrecorded chattel mortgage would be void as to a subsequent mortgagee, under a recorded mortgage, having no notice of the prior mortgage. Tips v. Gay (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 306.

In determining the priority of chattel mortgages, it was immaterial that there was a change of possession under the senior unrecorded mortgage upon the day that the junior mortgage was given. Dunlap v. Broyles (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 578.

Under this article an unrecorded chattel mortgage was void as to a chattel mortgage executed and delivered for a valuable consideration and without notice, actual or constructive, of its existence. Id. ex. pr. 1916. Id. 3738.

Purchaser from a bona fide purchaser without notice of an unrecorded chattel mortgage unaccompanied by any change of possession acquires title as against the mortgagee. Hawkins v. Western Nat. Bank of Hereford (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1191.

Under this article a chattel mortgage by any change of possession of the mortgaged chattels from the mortgagor to the mortgagee, is void as to a bona fide purchaser from the mortgagee without notice of the mortgage. Id.
A chattel mortgagee of a firm who did not record his mortgage prior to the purchase by third persons of the entire firm business held but a simple firm creditor. Id.

An unrecorded chattel mortgage is not void as to subsequent purchasers, lienholders, and mortgagees, unless they have become such in good faith. Neely-Harris-Cunningham Co. v. Lacy Bros. & Jones (Civ. App.) 352 S. W. 441.

Where hogs were subject to a verbal chattel mortgage, a purchaser who bought without notice is not guilty of a conversion of mortgaged property, and the mortgagee has no right of action against him. May v. Merchants' & Planters' Nat. Bank of Mt. Vernon (Civ. App.) 352 S. W. 1394.

Conversion of property.—Conversion in general, see notes at end of chapter.

A stranger who converts cattle covered by duly recorded mortgage held liable, although the conversion took place in a state other than that where the mortgage was recorded. Scaling v. First Nat. Bank, 39 C. A. 154, 87 S. W. 715.

Art. 5656. [3329] Duty of clerk receiving.—Upon the receipt of such instrument, the clerk shall endorse thereon the day and hour when the same was deposited in his office for record, and shall keep the same on file in his office for the inspection of all parties interested until satisfaction thereof shall be entered, as provided in article 5659; provided, that if a copy be presented to the clerk for filing, instead of the original instrument, he shall carefully compare such copy with the original, and the same shall not be filed unless it is a true copy thereof, and a copy can be filed only when the original has been witnessed by two subscribing witnesses or acknowledged or proven for record and certified as required in case of other instruments for the purpose of being recorded. [Sen. Jour. 1895, p. 479.]

See notes under Art. 5655.

Art. 5657. [3330] Copy of instrument evidence of what.—A certified copy of any such instrument so filed as aforesaid, certified to under the hand and seal of the clerk of the county court in whose office the same shall have been filed, shall be admitted in evidence in like manner as the original might be, unless the execution of the original has been denied under oath by the party sought to be charged thereby; provided, that the party desiring to use such instrument shall file the same in the papers of the cause before announcing ready for trial, and not afterwards; and such certified copy shall in all cases be received as evidence of filing and entry thereof in chattel mortgage record according to the endorsement of the clerk thereon. [Id. 480.]

Original as best evidence.—If a copy of a chattel mortgage is filed with the clerk, and a question is raised as to whether it is a true copy, or as to whether the original was acknowledged, the original would seem to be the best evidence of those facts and should be admitted to prove them. Boykin v. Rosenfield & Co., 69 T. 115, 9 S. W. 318.

Admissibility in evidence of certified copy of chattel mortgage.—A certified copy of a chattel mortgage is admissible in evidence, the certificate of the clerk showing that the original has been deposited in his office. Oxsheer v. Watt, 91 T. 492, 44 S. W. 67.

It is not necessary to file a certified copy of a chattel mortgage in the papers of the case three days before trial as required in case of a deed. It is sufficient if it is done before announcement of ready. Id.

Art. 5658. [3331] County clerk to keep book.—The county clerk shall keep a book in which shall be entered a minute of all such instruments, which shall be ruled off into separate columns, with heads as follows: Time of reception, name of mortgagor, name of mortgagee or trustee and cestui que trust, date of instrument, amount secured, when due, property mortgaged, and remarks; and the proper entry shall be made under each of such heads. Under the head of property mortgaged, it will be sufficient to enter a general description of the property pledged and the particular place where located, and index shall be kept in the manner as required for other records. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 5659. [3332] Satisfaction to be entered.—When the debt secured by any such instrument shall have been paid or satisfied, it shall be the duty of the mortgagee, his assignee, attorney or legal representative to enter, or cause to be entered, and attested by the clerk, as aforesaid, satisfaction thereof, in the record book in which the instrument is entered, which may be done under the head of "remarks;" and any instrument acknowledging payment or satisfaction need not be recorded at length, but the entry as above provided showing the same has been paid shall be sufficient, and the original instrument or copy thereof on file shall then be delivered to the mortgagor or maker upon demand, or the clerk may mail the same to him. [Sen. Jour. 1895, p. 480.]

See notes under Art. 5656.

Art. 5660. [3333] Property not to be removed.—The person making any such instrument shall not remove the property pledged from the county, nor otherwise sell or dispose of the same without the consent of the mortgagor; and, in case of any violation of the provisions of this article, the mortgagor shall be entitled to the possession of the property, and to have the same then sold for the payment of his debt, whether the same has become due or not. [Id. sec. 6.]

See Buffalo Pitts Co. v. Stringfellow-Hume Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1161.

Removal or transfer of property.—A mortgagor of chattels has the right of possession immediately upon the removal of the mortgaged property. Hargadine-McKlitter Dry-Goods Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Jacksonsoro, 14 C. A. 416, 37 S. W. 622.

A chattel mortgage has no lien on proceeds of voluntary sale of chattels by mortgagor. Estate v. McKinney (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 586.

A chattel mortgagee may hold subject to those of a prior mortgage. Crane v. McGuire (Civ. App.) 64 S. W. 942.

If the mortgaged property has been removed from the county, or the mortgagor has consented to the disposal of the chattels. Hargadine-McKlitter Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Jacksonsoro, 14 C. A. 416, 37 S. W. 622.

When the mortgaged property has been removed from the county, or the mortgagor has consented to the disposal of the chattels, the mortgagor's consent being held subject to those of a prior mortgage. Crane v. McGuire (Civ. App.) 64 S. W. 942.

A chattel mortgage has no lien on proceeds of voluntary sale of chattels by mortgagor. Estate v. McKinney (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 586.

A chattel mortgagee may hold subject to those of a prior mortgage. Crane v. McGuire (Civ. App.) 64 S. W. 942.

The mortgagee's lien on personally follows the mortgagor property into another state, to which it is removed without his knowledge or consent. Blythe v. Crump, 28 C. A. 327, 66 S. W. 885.

In a suit by chattel mortgagees to establish a trust in the proceeds of the sale of the mortgaged property, the question of registration of the mortgagees could not affect the question of ownership of the proceeds of the sale. Texas Moline Plow Co. v. Kingman Texas Implement Co., 32 C. A. 343, 89 S. W. 1042.

A chattel mortgage held entitled to foreclosure of property sold by mortgagor as against both mortgagor and purchaser, and not compelled to take a personal judgment. Ranger Mercantile Co. v. Terrett (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 1145.

A person furnishing a tenant supplies and taking in payment mortgaged cotton also incumbered with a landlord's lien held liable to the mortgagee for the amount of the debt less the amount of the landlord's lien. Id.

The mere change in the locality or possession of a mortgaged chattel would not affect the mortgage. McDaniel v. Staples (Civ. App.) 113 S. W. 596.

When the mortgaged chattels with the mortgagee's consent is charged with the duty of seeing that the proceeds of the sale are paid to the mortgagee. Rusk County Lumber Co. v. Meyer (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 317.

The buyer of property subject to a chattel mortgage held not required to tender the amount of the mortgage debt as a condition to the assertion of his title to the property. Hughes v. Smith (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1142.

Where a chattel mortgage was executed and registered in a county, the removal of the property to another county for more than four months would not affect the mortgagee's rights, if such removal was without his knowledge or consent. Id.

Where a chattel mortgagee conveyed the mortgaged property to a third person, he conveyed whatever right or title he then had. Id.

Chattel mortgage held not invalidated by removal of chattels from county where mortgage was recorded without mortgagee's consent. Triplitt v. Stone (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 660.

A chattel mortgagee may not deduct from the proceeds of a sale of the mortgaged chattels the expenses incurred by him in the management and keeping of the chattels. Rodgers v. Sturgis Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1176.

Art. 5661. [3334] Not to be recorded at length.—Chattel mortgages and other instruments intended to operate as mortgages of or liens upon personal property shall not hereafter be recorded at length as heretofore required; and, when deposited and filed in accordance with the provisions of this law, shall have the force and effect heretofore given to a full registration thereof, and all persons shall be thereby charged with notice thereof, and of the rights of the mortgagee, his assignee or representative thereunder, but nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to in any manner affect the rights of any person under any instrument heretofore recorded as required by law. [Id. sec. 7.]

In general.—The clause "all persons shall be thereby charged with notice thereof" does not enlarge the scope of the notice as defined therein. Athina Ins. Co. v. Holcomb, 89 T. 404, 34 S. W. 915.
Art. 5662. Destruction of chattel mortgages.—All chattel mortgages filed with the county clerks of this state in accordance with law shall be prima facie presumed to have been paid after the expiration of six years from the date of the maturity of the debts such mortgages were intended to secure, unless the owner or holder of such mortgage, his agent or attorney, shall, within three months next before the expiration of said time, file an affidavit in writing with the county clerk stating that such debt has not been paid, and the amount still due thereon. If such affidavit is not filed, the clerk shall, at the expiration of said time, make disposition of such mortgage, either by delivering the same to the maker or by burning the same. 1. Chattel mortgages—Nature.—A creditor of the mortgagor may levy upon, under execution, and sell his interest in the mortgaged chattel property. The purchaser would buy subject to the mortgage lien, and the mortgagor, if his rights as lienholder are jeopardized, may sequester the property in a suit against the mortgagor and purchaser. Sparks v. Pace, 60 T. 298.

2. A mortgagee, although invested with the legal title, is a mere trustee for the mortgagor, and cannot maintain an action of trespass to try title to recover possession, and cannot convey the property to another. Pratt v. Godwin, 61 T. 331; Edrington v. Newland, 67 T. 627.

The mortgagor of personal property, while he cannot sell or remove it without the consent of the mortgagee, has a restricted control of it. If he attaches it to the homestead, it is exempt from forced sale at the suit of any other creditor. Low v. Tandy, 70 T. 745, 8 S. W. 620.

The fact that a creditor is otherwise secured does not invalidate a second mortgage by a failing debtor. It might entitle him to marshal securities. Fadgitt v. Porter (Civ. App.) 26 S. W. 429.

Instrument to secure seller by appointing buyer agent to make resale and account for proceeds held a chattel mortgage. Lewis v. Bell (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 747.

Chattel mortgages give only a lien on the mortgaged property; the legal title remaining in the mortgagor. Hughes v. Smith (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1142.

2. — Distinguished from other transactions.—In determining whether an instrument is intended to operate as a conditional sale or as a security, the intention of the parties may be shown by evidence of the surrounding circumstances. Hudson v. Wilkinson, 45 T. 444; Alstin v. Cundiff, 52 T. 453; Hardie v. Campbell, 63 T. 293; De Brou v. Moon, 54 T. 464; Calhoun v. Lumpkin, 60 T. 135.

When the possession of personal property which has been mortgaged is delivered to the mortgagee, or to another for him, it becomes in effect a pledge, and the rights of the parties are to be determined by the principles of law applicable to pledges. Hudson v. Wilkinson, 61 T. 606.

When a written instrument, from its terms or surrounding circumstances, appears to have been given as a security for a debt, it will be held a mortgage of the property conveyed, though it may contain no terms of defeasance. National Bank of Texas v. Lovenberg, 63 T. 506.

For an instrument held to be a deed and not a mortgage, see Seeligson v. Singleton, 66 T. 271, 17 S. W. 541. An instrument which gives to the grantee the power to take possession of, control and sell the merchandise of the makers, to secure a debt, operates as a mortgage and not as an assignment. Stiles v. Hill, 62 T. 429; Jackson v. Harby, 66 T. 710; Baldwin v. Peet, 22 T. 708, 75 Am. Dec. 806; Watterman v. Silberberg, 61 T. 106, 3 S. W. 578.

Instrument for sale of goods, property to remain in vendor until price paid, construed, and held a chattel mortgage, which could be foreclosed for the price remaining due. Lotus v. King, 23 C. A. 36, 56 S. W. 109.

One to whom a fraternal benefit certificate is assigned as collateral security to the holder has a lien thereon, especially for premiums or dues paid at the request of the assignor to keep the certificate alive. Coleman v. Anderson (Civ. App.) 82 S. W. 1067.

A certain assignment of rents securing a note held to have amounted to a mortgage. Thatch v. Jeffries (Clv. App.) 91 S. W. 1915.

A mortgage is a conveyance of an estate or property by way of pledge, to become void on payment of debt, and is not a mere lien. Poarch v. Duncan, 41 C. A. 276, 91 S. W. 1710.

A certain instrument held a mortgage, and not a sale of cotton, and the one executing it liable for the taxes assessed after its execution. McKinney Cotton Oil Mill Co. v. Van Brown (Clv. App.) 111 S. W. 438.

In equity, a mortgage is not a conveyance of the legal title, but only a security for debt. Barron v. San Angelo Nat. Bank (Clv. App.) 138 S. W. 142.

A written transfer of money that will be due, which in its last clause states the purpose to be to secure payment of a note, no other consideration being stated, will be construed only to describe the debt to be paid and will not be held a mortgage. A. A. Fielder Lumber Co. v. Smith (Clv. App.) 151 S. W. 665.

A transfer of a policy of life insurance by a debtor to a creditor having no insurable interest in the debtor’s life, operates only as a mortgage to secure the debt and interest and premiums subsequently paid by the creditor and interest, and to that extent is valid. Harde v. Germania Life Ins. Co. (Clv. App.) 153 S. W. 666.

3. Property which may be the subject of mortgage.—Machinery necessary to the operation of a mill and not actually annexed thereto, and which can be removed without damage to the freehold, is not a part of the realty. Hutchins v. Musterson, 46 T. 554, 26 Am. Rep. 236; Menger v. Ward (Clv. App.) 28 S. W. 824; Willis v. Munger Imp. Cotton Machine Mfg. Co., 13 C. A. 677, 36 S. W. 1018.

To whom a mortgage has been assigned for the purchase of property may by contract impose a lien which will be valid in equity, and will attach as a charge upon the particular property, as soon as he acquires title thereto. Taylor v. Huck, 65 T. 238.

Whatever may be the subject of an absolute sale may be the subject of a mortgage. A mortgage with future interest is not a subject of a sale. Things which have a potential existence, that is, things which are the natural product or expected increase of something belonging to the vendor, are subject to sale or mortgage. Thus, the man may sell the wool to grow upon his own sheep, or the crops to grow upon his own land. Dupree v. McClanahan, 1 App. C. C. § 594.

A mortgage on standing trees to be cut by the mortgagee is not void as a chattel mortgage. Boykin v. Rosenfeld, 69 T. 115, 9 S. W. 318.

A mortgage on personal and real property thereafter to be acquired, or a mortgage of crops to be raised during a series of years to secure rents, is valid in equity. Richardson v. Washington, 88 T. 339, 31 S. W. 614.

A chattel mortgage by a husband, covering separate property of the wife, cannot be enforced as to such property. Parish v. Austin (Clv. App.) 76 S. W. 583.

A mortgage on crops not yet planted is a valid equitable mortgage as between the parties, and will attach to the crop after it is planted and grown. Conley v. Nelin (Clv. App.) 128 S. W. 814.

Rule at law and in equity as to the mortgage of after-acquired property stated. Speer v. Allen (Clv. App.) 135 S. W. 231.

By the doctrine of “potential existence,” a mortgage of property not in existence, or which the mortgagor does not own, may be upheld at common law. Barron v. San Angelo Nat. Bank (Clv. App.) 138 S. W. 142.

Under the doctrine of “intervening act,” the grant of a future interest may take effect and operate as a conveyance of the legal title. Id.

In equity, the lien of a mortgage on after-acquired property will attach on its acquisition by the mortgagor. Id.

In the absence of statutory prohibition, any salable property may be mortgaged. Clark v. Altizer (Clv. App.) 8 S. W. 1941.

Debts which may be secured.—A mortgage can be made to cover future debts, and such a mortgage will be good not only between the parties, but as to purchasers from the mortgagor with notice of the mortgage. Freiberg v. Magale, 70 T. 116, 7 S. W. 684.

5. Parties.—Chattel mortgage held to create no lien, being executed by one not the owner, nor authorized by him to execute it. Martin v. Armstrong (Clv. App.) 62 S. W. 83.

6. Consideration.—It was sufficient consideration for the giving of a chattel mortgage that a surety upon the note secured by it required it to be given as a condition precedent to his becoming surety. Dunlap v. Broyles (Clv. App.) 146 S. W. 578.

7. Equitable mortgage.—Where a vendor agreed to execute a mortgage to secure the payment of the debt, but failed to deliver the vendor’s signature to the mortgage, the agreement, he was entitled to enforce the lien by subjoining the property to the payment of the debt. Perkins v. Frank (Clv. App.) 64 S. W. 236.

An equitable lien on personalty held created by one loaning money for the purchase thereof with an oral agreement for a lien. Galbraith v. First State Bank & Trust Co. (Clv. App.) 133 S. W. 300.

Where one agrees to execute a mortgage on certain property, and has the ability to perform the agreement, equity will enforce the agreement as a mortgage. Speer v. Allen (Clv. App.) 135 S. W. 231.

An equitable chattel mortgage is created by an agreement founded on a valuable consideration to give a mortgage. Edwards v. Hayes (Clv. App.) 136 S. W. 510.

8. Absolute bill of sale as mortgage.—An absolute bill of sale may be the subject of a mortgage. Almazan v. Ebarlow (Clv. App.) 45 S. W. 827.

Certain evidence held competent to show that bill of sale was in reality a mortgage. Harris v. Staples (Clv. App.) 89 S. W. 801.

9. Form of Instrument.—No particular form of words is necessary to constitute a mortgage. It must clearly indicate the creation of the lien, specifying the debts to secure which it is given, and the property upon which it is to take effect. Whatever the form of the contract may be, if it is intended thereby to create a security, it is an equitable mortgage. Calder v. Ramsey, 66 T. 218, 18 S. W. 592; Mason v. Bumpass, 1 App. C. C. § 1335; Mann v. Falcon, 25 T. 271; Boggs v. Brownson, 59 T. 417; Cason v. Chambers, 62 T. 305; McKeen v. James, 25 S. W. 498. 27 S. W. 59, 87 T. 193. Its character is affected by the fact that no defeasance is expressed. Calder v. Ramsey, 66 T. 218, 18 S. W. 592.
LIENS

Art. 5662

There is no particular formality necessary in the creation of a trust, and the trust can be manifested by any subsequent acknowledgment by the trustee. Wallace v. Frutt, 1 C. 311, 20 S. W. 728.

As to the terms of a chattel mortgage, see Meyer Bros. Drug Co. v. Rather (Civ. App.) 30 S. W. 812.

Reservation in chattel mortgage of rights which law would give mortgagor in absence of such reservation does not invalidate mortgage. Parlin v. Orendorff Co. v. Hanson, 21 C. A. 401, 53 S. W. 62.

Irrelevant matter in mortgage of personality held surplusage, not vitiating the instrument or rendering it incompetent in the prosecution for fraudulently disposing of the mortgaged property. Harris v. State (Cr. App.) 67 S. W. 327.

A chattel mortgage good as between the parties may be created by parol. Edwards v. Mayes (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 610.

A chattel mortgage given to secure notes is not invalid, because bearing a date prior to the date of the notes. Bates v. Hill (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 288.

10. Description of property.—Where the description of property in a mortgage is ambiguous or inconsistent one part with another, but may apply to either of two tracts, its record will affect a subsequent purchaser with notice, and so where the purchaser from his knowledge of the property is able to correct the error in the description of the property. But if the discrepancy is of a substantial nature the rule would be different. Carter v. Hawkins, 62 T. 393.

A recorded mortgage on 50 cows branded COOK on the left side and AK on left hip is in the nature of the mortgage lien on that milk containing more than that number. Avery v. Popper, 92 T. 327, 49 S. W. 219, 50 S. W. 122, 71 Am. St. Rep. 849.

A mortgage describing property included therein as "two Ledgerton engines," without giving other means of identification, held insufficient to create a lien. Solinsky v. O'Connor (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 355.

A chattel mortgage, describing the property as "two gray mares," contains a sufficient description, where second mortgagees had actual notice as to the mares referred to. Bytho v. Crump, 28 C. A. 327, 65 S. W. 885.

Description in a chattel mortgage held sufficient to cover crops growing when the mortgage was executed. Becker v. Bowen (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 45.

Mortgage of cattle held to sufficiently describe the mortgaged property. Scaling v. First Nat. Bank, 39 C. A. 154, 87 S. W. 715.

A description in a chattel mortgage which will enable third persons to identify the property, aided by inquiries which the mortgage indicates, is sufficient. Harless v. Jones (Civ. App.) 97 S. W. 138.

A chattel mortgage of diamond rings held to sufficiently describe the property. Id.

A description of property in a chattel mortgage as "one blue mare mule, 15½ hands high, of the value of $100," was sufficient to charge constructive notice as to the property mortgaged. Watt v. Parlin & Orendorff Co., 44 C. A. 435, 58 S. W. 426.

Chattel mortgages held to have sufficiently described the property. Beaumont Rice Mills v. Fort Arthur Rice Milling Co. (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 349.

"One 3-70 saw secondhand gin outfit complete, including engine and boiler," sufficiently described chattel mortgage property; it being ascertained by parol evidence. Tipp v. Gay (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 396.

As against third persons a chattel mortgage must point out the subject-matter, so that a third person may identify the property by the aid of such inquiries as the instrument itself suggests. Pitluk & Meyer v. Butler (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 1136.

Description of property in chattel mortgage as "one black mare mule colt eight months old" held sufficient to charge a purchaser from the mortgagor with notice, and hence the purchaser took subject to the mortgage. Id.

11. Execution.—A valid mortgage cannot exist in the absence of the consent of the parties to the contract, nor is the contract, even with consent, consummated until the delivery of the instrument, which constitutes its written evidence. Wallis v. Taylor, 67 T. 431, 3 S. W. 321.

Assent of mortgagees does not validate the mortgage as against parties acquiring interests in mortgaged property prior to such assent. Whitaker v. Sanders (Civ. App.) 52 S. W. 638.

The fact that a chattel mortgage was witnessed by two of the beneficiary parties would not invalidate its registration, since, under the statute, a chattel mortgage is entitled to registration, though not witnessed at all. Neely-Harris-Cunningham Co. v. Lacy Bros. & Jones (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 441.

12. Estoppel to raise objections.—Where plaintiff is estopped by his conduct from claiming ownership of animals as against defendants, whose title is based on a chattel mortgage made by plaintiff's father, it is immaterial in whose legal possession the animals were when the mortgage was made. Saenz v. O. F. Mumme & Co. (Civ. App.) 85 S. W. 59.

A landlord, who had released his lien on half a certain crop to a mortgagor, held not such a stranger to the transaction as to enable him to take advantage of an insufficient description of the crop. Gaulding v. Masterson (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 1017.

14. — Debts secured.—An instruction that plaintiff might recover attorney's fees for taking possession of mortgage property if he had probable cause to believe that mortgagor was about to remove the same from the county held error where the affidavit for sequestration only alleged that plaintiff feared defendant would remove the property from the county. Bullard v. Stewart, 46 C. A. 49, 102 S. W. 174.

A chattel mortgage construed to cover advances made by the mortgagee during a certain year only. Bank of Omaha v. Fope (Civ. App.) 103 S. W. 692.

A chattel mortgage given to secure advances made and to be made to a tenant to grow and market a crop of rice held not to cover a lien under a prior mortgage which to the second mortgagee had been subrogated. Sweeney v. Farmers' Rice Milling & Storage Co. (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 1147.

A chattel mortgage in possession; by agreeing a mortgagor in possession, with the mortgagee, to annex a mortgaged chattel to his own land, the mortgagee's rights are not affected, and he may still treat it as personal property. Harkey v. Cain, 69 T. 146, 6 S. W. 637.

A mortgagor is entitled to sever, in law or in fact, the crops which stand upon his lands at the time prior to the destruction of his title by sale under the mortgage. Lombardi v. Sherr, 14 C. A. 594, 37 S. W. 613, 971.

A mortgage of part of a herd of cattle held to confer on the mortgagee the right to select them, which right he might exercise by suit to foreclose and sequestration of such animals. Avery v. Popper (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 961.

A chattel mortgage executed by husband and wife is a lien on all the property described, whether it be separate or community property. Id.

A mortgage of a number of cattle of a herd, not designating the particular ones, held to confer on the mortgagee the right to select the required number from the entire herd. Avery v. Popper (Sup.) 48 S. W. 572.

Where a chattel mortgage on animals and their offspring, part of a larger herd, does not designate the particular animals, the lien on the young is lost, unless the mortgagee, before the offspring have separated from their dams, designates the animals he intends to hold. Id.

A mortgage of a drug stock and merchandise held not to include prescriptions that had been filled. R. C. Stuart Drug Co. v. Hirsch (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 583.

A chattel mortgagee cannot incumber with his debt property not included in the mortgage. Sollinsky v. O'Connor (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 935.

Power to sell under a mortgage covers only that property included within a valid description. Id.

A clause in the descriptive portion of a chattel mortgage, "and all cord wood and piling cut by or for me," is insufficient to cover after-acquired property. Galveston, H. & H. R. Co. v. Hill Mercantile Co., 51 C. A. 196, 71 S. W. 797.

A chattel mortgage can cover portions of certain cattle held to cover all the cattle covered by the first mortgage. Scott v. Liano County Bank, 99 T. 221, 89 S. W. 749.

Mortgage on crops executed in 1902 held not to cover crops raised by the mortgagee on different lands in 1904. McDavis v. Phillips, 100 T. 73, 94 S. W. 1131; Id. (Civ. App.) 94 S. W. 1129.

A deed of trust giving a lien on all the other property of the grantor, whether "real, mixed, or personal," will include the grantor's equitable title to certain tank cars. Smith v. Texas & N. O. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 105 S. W. 528.

Lumber pointed out by a mortgagor as included in the mortgage will be held to be included in the mortgage, although not originally so included. American Nat. Bank of Paris v. First Nat. Bank, 52 C. A. 519, 114 S. W. 176.

A description in a chattel mortgage held restricted in its meaning to the specific piece of machinery thereby described. McGregor v. Port Huron Engine & Thrasher Co. (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1128.

Where cotton to be raised on certain premises was mortgaged, and the mortgagee raised cotton thereon, cotton raised on other premises could not be substituted under the mortgage in the absence of fraud of the mortgagee. Conley v. Nelin (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 424.

Chattel mortgage of 300 head of yearlings held to sufficiently describe them as cattle, as distinguished from horses or sheep. Barron v. San Angelo Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 120 S. W. 142.

Acts done by the mortgagee of after-acquired property held to show a purpose to bring such after-acquired property within the terms of the mortgage and to render the mortgage valid. Id.

A chattel mortgage on all machinery appurtenant to a ginhouse, "such as are not previously incumbered," and providing that it should not affect a previous lien, covered machinery released from the prior chattel mortgage by sale. Tips v. Gay (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 304.

16. Bona fide purchasers.—A person is not a bona fide purchaser for value where the solvency is canceling of pre-existing debt or assuming of debt for which he is already bound. Lewis v. Bell (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 747.

A carrier who had delivered goods to the vendor of defendant, an innocent purchaser for value, on a forged order purporting to be signed by the consignee, held entitled to recover under the rule of caveat emptor. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 18 C. A. 571, 45 S. W. 749.

An heir purchasing from a widow certain personalty of her deceased husband held chargeable with the property which was only to one-half of the community interest, and that she could not pass title of her minor children in such property. Gurley v. Dickerson, 13 C. A. 203, 46 S. W. 53.

In an action by the seller to recover the property sold, on the ground of the buyer's fraud, where no fraud, the seller is not entitled to recover the price from a bona fide purchaser from the buyer. Walsh v. Leeper Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 630.

One crediting the amount of a debt as consideration of a purchase is not a bona fide purchaser. Sauer v. Jesse French Piano & Organ Co., 21 C. A. 523, 52 S. W. 621.

Purchaser of goods from a seller, who had obtained them by fraudulent representations of his solvency, held an innocent purchaser for value without notice, and hence entitled to the goods against the original seller. Wear & Boogher Dry-Goods Co. v. Crews, 23 C. A. 667, 57 S. W. 75.

Where a purchaser executed a note in payment of goods, but did not prove that the note was negotiable, he was not entitled to the rights of a purchaser for value. Perkins v. Frank (Civ. App.) 64 S. W. 376.

A buyer held to take property free from an equitable claim of a third person; it not appearing that he had notice of it. Wootton v. Thomson, 55 C. A. 583, 119 S. W. 117.

An owner of personalty, who is induced by fraud to part with the possession, may recover it as a purchaser, but an owner who is induced by fraud to part with the title to the property does not recover of an innocent purchaser. McDonald v. Humphries (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 712.

17. Priorities of mortgages.—Priority of lien of livery stable keeper, see notes under Art. 5664.

A second mortgagee who acquires his right without notice of a prior mortgage stands in no better position than a subsequent purchaser without notice. In the latter case it has been held that a pre-existing debt is not a sufficient consideration as a basis for an innocent purchase without notice. Ayres v. Duprey, 27 T. 598, 88 Am. Dec. 657; Bailey v. F. & M. Co., 232 S. 640; McKamey v. Thorp, 61 T. 648; Overstreet v. Manning, 67 T. 659, 4 S. W. 248; First Nat. Bank v. Western Mortg. Co., 24 S. W. 691, 6 C. A. 59.

Chattel mortgage is subject to a prior lien of an attachment. Smelser v. Baker, 26 S. W. 906, 6 C. A. 751.

The superior right of the holder of a chattel mortgage, the property having been sold under attachment proceedings by another creditor before judgment, is not affected thereby, and he may intervene in the suit to protect his interests. Ballinger Nat. Bank v. Bryan, 12 C. A. 673, 34 S. W. 451.

Purchasers of chattels under a trust deed given by a corporation held to take subject to a prior vendor's lien, only in so far as they had notice thereof. College Park Electric Belt Line v. Ide, 15 C. A. 273, 40 S. W. 64.

Where defendant purchased land to which a boiler was attached, without actual notice that it was subject to a chattel mortgage, held that his title was not affected by the mortgage. Ice, Light & Water Co. v. Lone Star Engine & Boiler Works, 15 C. A. 694, 41 S. W. 835.

Delivery of cattle by a sheriff to a chattel mortgagee under a range levy in sequestration proceedings was sufficient to entitle such mortgagee to hold the cattle, as against subsequent attaching creditors of the mortgagor. Randolph v. Brown, 21 C. A. 617, 53 S. W. 826.

An innocent purchaser of personalty incumbered by a mortgage takes title subject to the lien, where the mortgagees are not negligent in respect to giving notice. Blythe v. Crump, 28 C. A. 327, 66 S. W. 885.

Chattel held to have a lien prior to that retained by the seller of the chattel by a chattel mortgage. Sweeney v. Taylor Bros., 41 C. A. 365, 93 S. W. 442.

Facts held not to constitute a conversion of certain cotton as against a chattel mortgagee. Harvey v. Geo. Wilder & Co. (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 851.

In the absence of registration statutes, the right of priority between junior and senior chattel mortgagees where the mortgages were given to secure notes, is a subject peculiarly applicable to equitable jurisdiction. Third Nat. Bank of Springfield, Mass., v. National Bank of Commerce (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 665.

A mortgage, executed to plaintiff by defendant after he had, in contemplation of purchasing the property, executed to others a purported mortgage on the same chattels while they belonged to plaintiff, was entitled to priority over the prior mortgage. Tips v. Gay (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 306.

As between chattel mortgages, the prior one is superior, unless the subsequent mortgages took in good faith, which can only be shown by proof of payment of valuable consideration and want of notice. Neely-Harris-Cunningham Co. v. Lacy Bros. & Jones (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 441.

Where a seller agreed with the buyer that the latter might borrow from a third person the money for the cash payment and secure it by a chattel mortgage on the property, it was inequitable to hold the purchase-money mortgage superior to the mortgage to the third person. J. H. & J. T. Pace v. J. M. Radford Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1130.

18. — Mortgagee as bona fide purchaser.—A mortgagee securing a pre-existing debt held based on sufficient consideration to entitle the mortgagee, without notice of a prior unrecorded mortgage, to a priority. McKinney v. Williams (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 338.

Buyer of cattle and mortgagee for pre-existing debt held not innocent purchasers.
as to entitle them to rights superior to another mortgagee. Belcher v. Cassidy Bros. Live Stock, 56 N. Y. 60, 62 S. W. 924.

19. — Notice affecting priority.—A chattel mortgage, though not filed, held available against a bill of sale, where possession was taken. Smith v. Connor (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 287.

One taking second mortgage, charged with notice of a prior registered mortgage, holds subject thereto, notwithstanding fraudulent registration of a release of which he had no knowledge. Ross v. Strahorn-Hutton-Evans Commission Co., 18 C. A. 698, 46 S. W. 339.

Notice given by plaintiff to one of the defendants that he had a mortgage on the crops of a third person held ineffective. McKinney v. Ellison (Civ. App.) 75 S. W. 55.

Evidence held sufficient to put party on inquiry as to the existence of a mortgage on chattels at the time he caused an attachment to be levied thereon. Cassidy v. Willis & Coons, 53 C. A. 289, 78 S. W. 40.

If a person took a mortgage on chattels executed under a name other than the mortgagee's, who afterwards sold them under his customary name to a purchaser in good faith without notice of the mortgage, held, that the mortgagor, having made the loss possible, should stand it, and not the purchaser. Bradford v. Lemble (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 189.

A mortgage or other conveyance signed in a wrong name, or a name by which the grantor is not customarily known, imparts no notice. Id.

20. Rights and liabilities of parties—Possession or control of property.—Where a deed of trust, in which the trustee is also agent of the beneficiaries, provides that upon default in any payment the beneficiaries may, at their option, treat the debt secured as due, the property may be made subject to sale by such election on the part of the principal, and need not be formally declared; the election being sufficiently made by the trustee advertising the property for sale. Chase v. Bank, 1 C. A. 595, 20 S. W. 1017.

Though a chattel mortgage provides that on nonpayment mortgagees may recover possession, he cannot by force enter a house and take the same. Gillett v. Moody (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 35.

In an action to recover animals, held, that plaintiff's possession, when his father made the mortgage under which defendants claim, was not such as to make defendants trespassers in taking the animals under the mortgage. Saenz v. O. F. Mummé & Co. (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 59.

The buyer of property subject to chattel mortgage has the legal title and is entitled to possession until the right is cut off either by judicial foreclosure or by sale in accordance with the terms of the mortgage. Hughes v. Smith (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1142.

The sale by a mortgagee in possession, of timber on the mortgaged land and receipt of the purchase money, discharged the timber from the lien, so that neither the mortgagees nor a subsequent holder could assert it against the timber. Berry v. Hindman (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1181.

A chattel mortgage held guilty of negligence in not obtaining possession of the chattels mortgaged. Best v. Farmers' & Merchants' Bank (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 334.

Where a chattel mortgagee of a mule, who had power on default to take possession, the mortgage having been registered, brought suit against a purchaser of such mule for "title and possession," he should be allowed to recover possession for the purpose of sale, although he could not recover title. Butts v. Lucia (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 586.

21. Conversion of or injury to property.—Where the mortgaged property has been sold, the remedy of the mortgagee is to follow the property into the hands of such purchasers. Robinson v. Veal, 1 App. C. C. § 311.

As to the remedy of the mortgagee for mortgaged property which has been converted by a wrong-doer, see Brown v. Grimm, 2 App. C. C. § 414.

A purchaser of the property who thereafter sells, in denial of the mortgagor's right, is liable for its conversion. Western Mortg. & Inv. Co. v. Shetton, 29 S. W. 194, 8 C. A. 550.

Where original security is adequate, creditor has no cause of action against one levying on property covered by chattel mortgage given as additional security. Canfield v. Morlan, 28 C. A. 472, 41 S. W. 718.

One who purchases mortgaged property with knowledge of the mortgage, and sells it in hostility to the mortgagee, is liable to him as for a conversion. McCown v. Kitchen (Civ. App.) 52 S. W. 501.

An assignee of a mortgage having sequestered mortgaged chattels, which had been attached, and having paid the attachment lien decreed prior to his mortgage, held entitled to relief, as against subsequent attaching creditors, though the mortgage was invalid. Randolph v. Brown, 21 C. A. 617, 53 S. W. 825.

A cotton held not to be incumbered by a certain mortgage, so as to render its attachment as property of the mortgagee wrongful. Blount v. Lewis (Civ. App.) 59 S. W. 285.

The exercise of the mortgagee's right to take possession of mortgaged property on the mortgagor's default, as provided by the terms of a chattel mortgage, and the mortgagee's act in securing such right by procuring a seizure of the property under a writ of sequestration, cannot be made the ground of an action for damages by the mortgagor. Weil v. San Antonio Brewing Ass'n, 25 C. A. 153, 50 S. W. 567.

Where title to goods sold passes a notice by the seller to a person intending to purchase, that the former claims title thereto does not render the latter liable for conversion in subsequently purchasing the goods. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Ogburn, 26 C. A. 217, 63 S. W. 1072.
A mortgagee of personal property converted by third persons may elect to recover the value thereof from the latter, and is not required to enforce his mortgage. Parlin v. Gretna Bank Co. v. Moore, 28 C. A. 245, 66 S. W. 798.

Mortgagees of chattels held not barred from enforcing the lien against one converting the chattels, though not intervening in action by the owner for conversion. Scott v. Cox. 30 C. A. 196, 78 S. W. 592.

Attachment of property covered by a chattel mortgage held a conversion; the mortgagor being entitled to have the value of the property applied to the satisfaction of the notes secured by the mortgage, pursuant to an agreement to that effect. Bledsoe v. Palmer (Civ. App.) 81 S. W. 97.

Mortgage held entitled to sue one who converts mortgaged property, regardless of the question of other security. Scaling v. First Nat. Bank, 39 C. A. 154, 87 S. W. 715.

A landlord in a chattel mortgage held guilty of a conversion of the mortgaged chattels. Roche v. Dale, 43 C. A. 287, 96 S. W. 1100.

A mortgagee in a chattel mortgage held estopped from maintaining a suit against another mortgagee for the conversion of the property covered by the mortgage. McCarthy v. North Texas Loan Co. (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 835.

Where a mortgage transfers all the rights which it acquired as a purchaser on foreclosure of the mortgage, to a third person, the fact that such third person takes possession of chattels described in the description of the mortgage does not render the mortgagee liable for the conversion. Smith v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., 101 T. 405, 108 S. W. 819.

If the mortgage on fixtures attached to a homestead is void, a purchaser of such fixtures from the owner cannot be held liable for the conversion of mortgaged property. Donk v. Moore, 43 C. A. 591, 109 S. W. 405.

In an action for the conversion of mortgaged cotton, defendant was properly allowed his rent and the expenses incident to gathering and preparing the cotton for the market. McDaniels v. Staples (Civ. App.) 113 S. W. 596.

In an action against the purchaser of mortgaged chattels for conversion, evidence held to show that the mortgagee consented to the sale. Rusk County Lumber Co. v. Meyer (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 317.

Exercising dominion by a mortgagor in possession of property inconsistent with the rights of the mortgagor held to amount to a conversion if the mortgagor elected to so treat it. Payne v. Lindsay (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 329.

A chattel mortgagee out of possession may sue for conversion of the property. Buffalo Pitts Co. v. Stringfellow-Hume Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1161.

A third person who appropriates to his own use or destroys mortgaged personalty is guilty of conversion. Id.

On suit against a third person for converting mortgaged personalty by selling it, the buyer's willingness to have the mortgage foreclosed is immaterial. Id.

Mortgagee of personal property held entitled to bring action against a trespasser who had converted part of such mortgaged property, before exhausting its remaining security. Bank v. San Angelo Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 142.

An owner of property may recover it from an innocent purchaser from the thief. Morris v. Shuttles Bros. & Lewis (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1053.

Plaintiff, having recovered judgment on a claim transferred to him by defendant, and having foreclosed a chattel mortgage securing the debt, is not entitled to hold defendant as for conversion, because he, by mistake, recaptehed the claim and delivered the evidence thereof to the debtor, instead of to plaintiff. Port Arthur Townsite Co. v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 552.

In an action by a mortgagee for the conversion of mortgaged property, evidence held not to show the value of the chattels at the time and place of conversion. Johnson v. Oswald (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 1164.

Where hogs were subject to a verbal chattel mortgage, a purchaser who bought without notice or knowledge of the conversion of mortgaged property, and the mortgagee has no right of action against him. May v. Merchants' & Planters' Nat. Bank of Mt. Vernon (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1194.

22. — Measure of damages for conversion.—Where a person has acquired mortgaged property from one having no right to dispose of the same, and, after being notified of the claim of the mortgagee, disposed of the same to a third party, who converts the same to his own use, the mortgagee can by proper proceedings recover the value of the property to the extent of his interest therein from the first purchaser. Brown v. Grinnan, 2 App. C. C. § 414.

The measure of a mortgagee's damages for the conversion of the mortgaged property by a stranger is the amount of his debt, if that be less than the value of the property converted. Scaling v. First Nat. Bank, 39 C. A. 154, 87 S. W. 715.

Where mortgaged property is converted, and the mortgagee elects to follow the specific property, he may recover its value, though it has been increased by its change in form. American Nat. Bank of Paris v. First Nat. Bank, 52 C. A. 519, 114 S. W. 176.

Where a debt is less than the value of the mortgaged property, the amount of the debt is the measure of damages for the conversion of the mortgaged property. Watkins v. Citizens' Nat. Bank of Rockwall, 55 C. A. 437, 115 S. W. 394.

In trover for a piano sold to plaintiff by defendant, plaintiff was only entitled to recover the market value of the piano, less the amount of the indebtedness due to defendant, secured by a lien on the piano. Thos. Oggen & Bros. v. Garner (Civ. App.) 119 S. W. 341.

Where mules subject to a chattel mortgage, were sold to a third person and wrongfully taken from his possession by the mortgagee, the value of their hire per day was not the measure of damages for their detention where it extended over a considerable period. Hughes v. Smith (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1142.

A chattel mortgagee can recover the value of the property on its conversion not exceeding the amount of the mortgage; not being bound to foreclose. Buffalo Pitts Co. v. Stringfellow-Hume Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1161.
The mortgagee of personal property is entitled to recover, from one who converts the same in bad faith and prevents foreclosure, the value of the property converted, to the extent of his lien. Barron v. San Angelo Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 142.

One converting to his own use mortgaged chattels is only liable to the mortgagee for their market value at the time and place of conversion, and, where the value exceeds the debt, the excess belongs to the original debtor. Johnnson v. Osveld (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 101.

When mortgaged personal property is converted by a third person, the mortgagee has a right of action against the wrongdoer for his damages measured by the value of the property. If it does not exceed the amount of the secured debt. Busch v. Broun (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 683.

23. Assignment of mortgage or debt.—The assignee of a debt secured by mortgage on land, of which he is in possession, and holding the claim as a lien thereupon, cannot be disturbed by one claiming under the mortgagor, until the mortgage debt is satisfied. Duke v. Reed, 64 T. 706, citing Hannay v. Thompson, 14 T. 142; Loving v. Milliken, 59 T. 423.

The security for a debt inures to the benefit of the holder of the evidence of the indebtedness. Dorsey v. Frank, 15 C. A. 47, 38 S. W. 645.

Where part of a series of notes secured by lien were transferred absolutely, the assignee was entitled to precedence of the others as to the security, without taking up the whole series. Dilley v. Freedman, 25 C. A. 39, 60 S. W. 448.

Assignee of notes secured by mortgage on merchandise became mortgagee, and had the right, as against other creditors, to purchase mortgagor's property in payment of debts secured. Hall v. Keating Implement & Machine Co., 33 C. A. 526, 77 S. W. 1054.

24. Waiver or loss of lien.—While the mortgagor may not have power to sell, yet having held the prior mortgagee, its retention is equivalent to a ratification of the sale. The mortgagee could not have the thing mortgaged and its price. Hicks v. Ross, 71 T. 358, 9 S. W. 315.

The fact that the mortgagees consented to a sale of part of the property to pay a prior lien will not waive their lien on the other property covered thereby. Walhoefer v. Hobgood, 18 C. A. 291, 44 S. W. 566.

Willingness of the mortgagees to authorize a sale of mortgaged property will not, without consent, give a right to sell. Id.

When a mortgage was expressly subject to a prior mortgage on the same chattels, held, that junior mortgagee could not claim that senior mortgagees had, by acts, warranted a conclusion that mortgagor had the right to sell without restriction. Godair v. Tillar, 19 C. A. 541, 47 S. W. 553.

A chattel mortgage lien held not waived by the mortgagee. Mayers v. McNeese (Civ. App.) 71 S. W. 68.

Where a mortgagee consented to sale of mortgaged personalty, but refused to release mortgage, was not waived. Trabue v. Wade & Miller (Civ. App.) 95 S. W. 416.

The right of a mortgagee in a chattel mortgage to insist that his mortgage is superior to another mortgage held waived. McCarthy v. North Texas Loan Co. (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 835.

Where a mortgagee consents to a sale of the property by the mortgagor, he waives the lien of his mortgage as against the purchaser. Rusk County Lumber Co. v. Meyer (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 317.

A lien on personalty held not lost by the article being attached to the homestead of the one giving the lien. Galbraith v. First State Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 300.

A chattel mortgage lien held by the mortgagee. Thompson v. Perryman (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 184.

25. Payment, release or satisfaction.—An agreement in parol between a mortgagee and mortgagee for the transfer of chattels in payment of the mortgage debt transfers the title without specific delivery. Downey v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 48 S. W. 541.

Holders of notes taken up at maturity for the makers, with an understanding that the notes were to the benefit of the indorsees, were entitled to the notes, and against the objection that they were thereby paid. Dilley v. Freedman, 25 C. A. 39, 60 S. W. 448.

The taking of a second mortgage to secure the same debt secured by a first mortgage on the same property does not operate as a satisfaction and release in law of the first mortgage. Adams-Burks-Simmons Co. v. Johnson, 51 C. A. 583, 113 S. W. 176.

A chattel mortgage may convey his legal title to the mortgagee in satisfaction of the debt, or other consideration. Hughes v. Smith (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1142.

In order to set aside and invalidate a note and chattel mortgage, there must have been an express contract made after their execution. Stewart v. State, 60 Cr. R. 92, 131 S. W. 329.

In an action to foreclose a chattel mortgage where the mortgagor had given a second mortgage to discharge the first, and the mortgages were transferred to different parties by the mortgagee, held, that the second mortgagee was not entitled to interpose the defense of payment. Third Nat. Bank of Springfield, Mass., v. National Bank of Commerce (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 465.

A chattel mortgage being but an incident of the debt, the payment of the debt for which it was given extinguishes the mortgage. American Type Founder Co. v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 300.

When the buyer of personal property gives a chattel mortgage for the price, the giving of another mortgage to secure the identical debt, coupled with the execution of new notes and the cancellation of the old, does not discharge the original chattel mortgage, where the only consideration was an extension of time. Id.

26. - - - . The purchaser of 200 horses, of which a mortgagee has a right to select 50, to the knowledge of the purchaser, is not prejudiced by a foreclosure of 50 average head. Oxsheer v. Watt, 91 T. 124, 41 S. W. 466, 66 Am. St. Rep. 883.

A transaction held to constitute the payment of a note for the purchase price of a chattel mortgage, but not to make the person paying the note the owner of the chattel. Roche v. Dallas, 43 C. A. 287, 95 S. W. 1100.

27. Judgment of foreclosure of liens.—See Art. 2008. There is no essential difference between a mortgage with power of sale and an ordinary mortgage in reference to the right to foreclose through a judgment of court after the period of limitation has elapsed, if that be pleaded as a defense. The remedy by sale under a deed of trust is cumulative only, and it may be enforced by judicial proceedings. Blackwell v. Barnett, 55 T. 326; Morrison v. Bean, 15 T. 266.

The registry of a chattel mortgage must be shown in foreclosure proceedings by the record book containing the entry, or by a certified copy of the entry. Cook v. Halsey, 66 T. 1.

A trustee empowered to sell on non-payment of the debt to secure which the trust is created cannot appoint an agent to sell for him. Fuller v. O'Neil, 69 T. 349, 6 S. W. 181, 5 Am. St. Rep. 59.

Where a trust deed authorizes a sale for cash, and the trustee, who is also the mortgagee, makes the mortgage, purporting to sell for cash, gives credit to the bidder in order to induce him to make the property bring the full value of the debt secured, this is not to the injury of the mortgagor or those claiming under him, and will not avoid the sale. Chase v. Bank, 1 C. A. 595, 20 S. W. 1027.

A sale of property under a deed of trust at a place not authorized is void. Durrell v. Farwell (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 795.

As to the regularity of a trustee's sale, see Selp v. Grinnan (Civ. App.) 36 S. W. 349.

A judgment in a foreclosure action, wherein the decisive question is the priority of one of two mortgages, rendered without determining such question, will be reversed. Bythe v. Crump, 28 C. A. 327, 66 S. W. 885.

A national bank holding a mortgage on cattle was authorized to contract to obtain from the mortgagor the title to the cattle, and resell them to a third person, or to foreclose and buy at the sale, applying its bid on the debt. Dupree v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 608.

Article 5663. [3318] Lien in favor of hotels and boarding houses.

—Proprietors of hotels and boarding houses shall have a special lien upon all property or baggage deposited with them for the amount of the charges against them or their owners if guests at such hotel and boarding house. [Act May 2, 1874, p. 200, sec. 1. P. D. 7116.]

Lien of lodging house keeper.—A lodging house keeper held not entitled to the lien given by statute to boarding house keepers. Hardin v. State, 47 Cr. R. 493, 84 S. W. 591.

Drummers' trunks and samples.—Proprietors of hotels do not acquire a lien on the trunks and drummer's samples belonging to his employer, where the proprietors know the facts at the time the drummer becomes their guest. Torrey v. McElhaney, 17 C. A. 371, 43 S. W. 64.

Power of jury to exempt property.—The finding by the jury that party is indebted for board causes the lien to attach to the property of the boarder and the jury has no power by verdict to exempt part of the property. Kingsbury v. Price (Civ. App.) 59 S. W. 52.

Article 5664. [3319] Lien of livery stable keepers and pasturers.

—Proprietors of livery or public stables shall have a special lien on all animals placed with them for feed, care and attention, as also upon such carriages, buggies or other vehicles as may have been placed in their care, for the amount of the charges against the same; and this article shall apply to and include owners or lessees of pastures, who shall have a similar lien on all animals placed with them for pasturage. [Id. Amend. 1895, p. 96.]

Ownership and possession of cattle.—Claimants of cattle held to have had such possession as entitled them to a statutory trial of the right of property, where the cattle were levied upon under a judgment foreclosing plaintiff's lien. Craig v. Martin-Bennett Co. (Civ. App.) 102 S. W. 1712.

Where the owner of cattle placed them in the pasture of one J., who under this article had a lien thereon for pasturage, J. was the special owner as against the real owner, and an indictment for theft should have alleged ownership in J. or real ownership in the owner and special ownership in J. McKnight v. State (Cr. App.) 156 S. W. 1188.

Priority of lien.—A chattel mortgage on a horse is superior to a subsequent lien of a stable keeper when the horse is placed in the stable by the mortgagee without the knowledge or consent of the mortgagee.  Blackford v. Ryan (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 161.

The lien of proprietor of livery stable for board, care, etc., of property placed with him is inferior to that of a mortgage lien given by the owner of the property of which the proprietor has constructive notice.  Masters v. Feliz (Civ. App.) 88 S. W. 87.

Art. 5665.  [3320] Mechanics may retain possession of article repaired, when.—Whenever any article, implement, utensil or vehicle shall be repaired with labor and material, or with labor and without furnishing material, by any carpenter, mechanic, artisan or other workman in this state, such carpenter, mechanic, artisan or other workman is authorized to retain possession of said article, implement, utensil or vehicle until the amount due on same for repairing by contract shall be fully paid off and discharged.  [Act April 7, 1874, p. 68, sec. 1.  P. D. 7116a.]

Right to possession.—One who repairs a machine has a right to possession until the repairs are paid for.  Henderson v. Mahoney, 21 C. A. 539, 72 S. W. 1019.

Effect of death of owner.—The fact that owner of property placed in possession of mechanic to be repaired, dies before its redelivery and payment for repairs, and the claim therefor is presented and allowed against his estate does not take away the mechanic's lien.  Lithgow v. Sweedberg (Civ. App.) 78 S. W. 247.

Art. 5666.  [3321] Where no price is agreed upon.—In case no amount is agreed upon by contract, then said carpenter, mechanic, artisan or other workman shall retain possession of such article, implement, utensil or vehicle, until all reasonable, customary and usual compensation shall be paid in full.  [Id. sec. 1.]

Art. 5667.  [3322] When property may be sold for charges.—When possession of any of the property embraced in the four preceding articles has continued for sixty days after the charges accrue, and the charges so due have not been paid, it shall be the duty of the person so holding said property to notify the owner, if in the state and his residence be known, to come forward and pay the charges due, and, on his failure within ten days after such notice has been given him to pay said charges, the persons so holding said property, after twenty days' notice, are authorized to sell said property at public sale and apply the proceeds to the payment of said charges, and shall pay over the balance to the person entitled to the same.

Art. 5668.  [3323] When owner lives out of the state or residence is unknown.—If the owner's residence is beyond the state or is unknown, the person holding said property shall not be required to give the ten days' notice mentioned in the preceding article before proceeding to sell.

Art. 5669.  [3324] Balance, how disposed of.—If the person who is legally entitled to receive the balance mentioned in this chapter is not known, or has removed from the state or from the county in which such repairing was done, or such property was so held, it shall be the duty of the person so holding said property to pay the balance to the county treasurer of the county in which said property is held, and take his receipt therefor.  [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5670.  [3325] What is to be done finally with the balance.—Whenever any balance mentioned in this chapter shall remain in the possession of the county treasurer for the period of two years unclaimed by the party legally entitled to the same, such balance shall become a part of the county fund of the county in which the property was so sold, and shall be applied as any other county fund or money of such county is applied or used.  [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 5671.  [3326] Other liens and contracts not affected.—Nothing in this title shall be construed or considered as in any manner impairing or affecting the right of parties to create liens by special contract or agreement, nor shall it in any manner affect or impair other liens arising at common law or in equity, or by any statute of this state, or any other lien not treated of under this title.
DECISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT-MATTER OF CHAPTER IN GENERAL

1. Liens in general.—A contract to perfect title to lands, and to sell them for a compensation out of the proceeds, held not to create a lien on them. Girard v. Barnard (Civ. App.) 47 S. W. 482.

Where defendant fraudulently prevented the conveyance of certain land to plaintiff as agreed, it was proper to adjudge a lien against the land in plaintiff's favor for its value. Mansfield v. Neese, 21 C. A. 554, 54 S. W. 370.

Judgment enforcing trust for maintenance charged on net income of lands devised for life, remainder to devisee's children, by which amount of allowance necessary is determined against children and adjudged a lien on income, held proper. McCreary v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 57 S. W. 682.

The directors of a selling corporation, who will be individually benefited by the performance of an agreement by the purchaser of the corporate property, are, as individuals, entitled to damages. An agreement, and such damages constitute an equitable lien analogous to a debt for the purchase price. Scott v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 485.

A transaction resulting in the execution and delivery of a note held to create a contract lien as between the parties and others not purchasers for value without notice. Melton v. Beasley, 56 C. A. 537, 121 S. W. 574.

A party furnishing supplies to an unincorporated missionary association and taking its note in payment therefor had an equitable lien on its property, which it could enforce by action. Slaughter v. American Baptist Publication Society (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 224.

Where equity fastened a constructive trust on a house forming a part of the estate on which it was situated, equity could decree a lien on the land, and direct a sale thereof to protect the interest of the beneficiary. Miller v. Himebaugh (Civ. App.) 433 S. W. 338.

2. Waiver or release of lien in general.—One having a lien on lumber held not to have waived it by authorizing its sale. Continental State Bank of Beckville v. Trabue (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 299.

It is not essential that the amount due shall be made payable to the vendor; it may be made payable to other parties, and a new note may be given payable to a different party. Robertson v. Guerin, 50 T. 317; Ellis v. Singleton, 45 T. 27; Wright v. Wooters, 46 T. 383; Clements v. Neal, 1 U. C. 41.

An agreement by the grantee, as part consideration for the conveyance, to assume a debt owing by the grantor, makes him personally liable, and fixes a lien on the property conveyed to secure the debt so assumed. Mitchell v. National Railway Building & Loan Ass'n (Civ. App.) 49 S. W. 624.

ATTORNEY'S LIEN

32. Attorney's lien. 33. Subject-matter to which lien attaches.

34. Priorities. 35. Carrier's lien.

36. Landlord's lien. 37. Liens incident to partnerships.

38. Waiver or loss. 39. Liens incident to tenancies in common.

42. Pledges. 43. Title of pledgee.

44. Pledgee as bona fide purchaser. 45. Possession or control of property.

46. Expenses incurred. 47. Enforcement of right of action pledged and failure to collect or fix liability.

50. Payment or discharge of debt. 51. Transfer of property by pledgee.

52. Return of property on payment or discharge. 53. Sale of property.

54. Actions to enforce right of action pledged. 55. Indemnity bonds.

56. Subrogation. 57. Discharge of incumbrances by purchasers of property.

58. Persons making advances for discharge of debt or incumbrance.

59. Benefit of remedies of creditor. 60. Extent of right.

61. Actions for enforcement.
LIENS

An agreement which gives intervenor a "vendor's lien" on land bought from a third person with his money may create a lien giving intervenor a right to foreclosure. Ford v. Ford, 22 C. A. 453, 54 S. W. 773.

When real property on which a vendor's lien is reserved in the purchase-money notes is sought to be recovered after the default of the vendee, the plaintiff may show that the vendee has recently recognized his obligation on the notes. Ellis v. Hannay (Civ. App.) 64 S. W. 654.

Vendor's intention to retain the superior title should be given effect where it can be ascertained from the language used. Lipson v. Fuqua, 55 C. A. 535, 121 S. W. 193.

One conveying to a railroad a right of way may have a vendor's lien for the unpaid price. Hubbell v. Texas Southern Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 313.

4. — Lien reserved in contract or conveyance.—When a vendor retains in his deed a lien for the purchase-money he has a superior right to the land against the vendee, so long as the vendee, as against the vendee, has not paid the purchase-money notes, until the land is paid for, the vendee, and those claiming in his right as against the vendor, have merely an equitable, and not a legal, title to the land. Subsequent purchasers are bound by notice of the equities apparent in the line of their title. Peters v. Clements, 46 T. 114; Masterson v. Cohen, 46 T. 520; Roosevelt v. Davis, 43 T. 463; Webster v. Mann, 52 T. 416; Ufford v. Wells, 55 T. 612; Hale v. Baker, 60 T. 217.

A reservation of the lien may be made in the notes (Lundy v. Pierson, 67 T. 233, 2 S. W. 737; Willis v. Gay, 45 T. 463, 26 Am. Rep. 328; Irvin v. Garner, 50 T. 54; Ellis v. Singletary, 45 T. 27; Behrens v. Dignowitty, 4 C. A. 201, 23 S. W. 388); and so when the note is executed by a married woman (Davis v. Wheeler [Civ. App.] 23 S. W. 455), and continues until the debt is paid or the lien discharged by a valid agreement (Robertson v. Guerin, 50 T. 317).

A description of land in a vendor's lien note as 80 acres in a certain section is certain, and warrants a judgment foreclosing an undivided 80 acres in the survey. Fontaine v. Bollin (Civ. App.) 48 S. W. 527.

A mere recital in a deed, showing that a part of the purchase money is evidenced by promissory notes described therein, does not retain the vendor's lien, which is neces­sarily prior to the mortgage. The conveyance in the grantor is subject only to equitable lien for the balance of the purchase money evidenced by the notes. Proetzol v. Rabel, 21 C. A. 559, 54 S. W. 373.

A lien on land, reserved in a note given to procure money with which to reimburse sureties, who were protected by a lien on the property, held valid. Lennox v. Sanders (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 1076.

A deed reserving a vendor's lien as security for the payment of the price in Mexican dollars held to create a valid lien. Evans v. Ashe, 50 C. A. 54, 108 S. W. 398, 1190.

A vendor's lien reserved in a deed to property subsequently occupied by the grantee as his homestead held valid, though the debt secured was not a part of the purchase price nor money obtained from the vendor. Kaltey v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 462.

A purchaser of land gave as part payment his note which contained a vendor's lien. The vendor transferred the note to a third person, and the purchaser paid it. Thereafter the third person advanced to him a specified sum under an agreement that the payment of the vendor's lien note should be withdrawn to the amount advanced, and that the land should stand as security therefor, and a new note for the amount advanced was executed. Held, that the transaction resulting in the execution and delivery of the second note created a contract lien good as between the parties and others not purchasers for value without notice. Melton v. Beasley, 56 C. A. 537, 121 S. W. 574.

The recital in a railroad deed to a purchaser of land that it was reserved by the S. E. W. quarter of the N. E. lot, etc., held a sufficient reservation of an express lien on the property. Buckley v. Runge, 57 C. A. 322, 122 S. W. 596; Id. (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 623.

Neither the recital in a note given as the purchase money of land, nor defendant's indorsement thereon agreeing to pay it after it was barred by limitations, held to create a lien on the land to secure the note as against such indorser, nor did the circumstances raise an implied lien. Viver v. Viver [Civ. App.] 139 S. W. 1063.

The reservation in purchase-money notes of an express vendor's lien held sufficient 3752.
LIENS

Art. 5671

Chap. 8) to preserve the vendor the superior title to the land until the notes are paid. Buckley v. Runge (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 533.

A vendor's lien reserved in a note for the balance of the price held not invalid because the note did not describe the land, which was fully described in the deed executed the next day as a part of the same transaction. Miller v. Linguist (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 170.

Notes given for the price, in which a lien is reserved, and a deed, reserving a lien to secure payment of the notes, held required to be construed as one contract. Beckham v. Scott (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 89.

Where a lien for purchase money is reserved on other property, the implied lien on the land will not be presumed. Weeks v. Barton (Civ. App.) 31 S. W. 1071.

One who conveys and delivers possession of land retains a vendor's lien, though no agreement thereof was made. Marshall v. Marshall (Civ. App.) 42 S. W. 563.

A certain property had an lien on cataract land on the sum recovered by its legal owner from one wrongfully appropriating such property to his own use. Scott v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 486.

Where note is given in payment for land, the vendor has a lien by implication, in the absence of a reservation of the lien in the note. Brandenburg v. Norwood (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 587.

Stipulation in a contract of sale of property of one street railway to another held to afford the beneficiary under the stipulation a vendor's lien on the property for damages resulting from a breach. Scott v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank, 97 T. 31, 75 S. W. 7, 104 Am. St. Rep. 835.

Notwithstanding absolute conveyance, vendor's lien held to subsist as between vendor and purchaser, with notice that any of the purchase money is unpaid. Cecil v. Henry (Civ. App.) 93 S. W. 216.

In an action to cancel a vendor's lien on plaintiff's land, the extent to which defendant might assert an equitable creditor's lien, determined. McKenney v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 95 S. W. 112.

A vendor who has delivered possession has an equitable lien upon the land for the unpaid purchase money, though he has taken no distinct agreement or separate security for it, and though the deed recites full payment. Springman v. Hawkins, 53 C. A. 249, 118 S. W. 926.

The foundation of an equitable lien is a contract, expressed or implied, operating on some specific property. Vtfion v. Nicholson, 54 C. A. 43, 116 S. W. 386.

A deed of trust from F. to W., being a valid lien on the property, became also, by subsequent assumption by T. to W., and the assumption of F. to W., a deed of trust as part of the purchase price, a valid vendor's lien upon the property. Girardeau v. Perkins (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 633.

No vendor's lien held to exist in favor of a party to a contract for transfer of property who did not hold the title thereto. Jef Chaison Townsite Co. v. Beaumont Sawmill Co. (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 714.

In every sale of real estate, where the purchase price is not paid, a lien exists by operation of law, in the absence of a contrary agreement or understanding. Noblett v. Harper (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 519.

A mortgagee of money used to purchase land conveyed to the borrower has no lien upon the land. Jordan v. Jordan (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 359.

6. — Operation and effect.—Where lands were sold, and vendor's lien reserved, and afterwards recovered in discharge of the debt due for purchase price, held, no recovery could be had by vendors for timber removed in violation of the contract of sale. Carey v. Starr, 93 T. 506, 66 S. W. 324.

Where a deed reserved a vendor's lien, the legal title remained in the vendor until the price was paid. Evans v. Ashe, 50 C. A. 64, 108 S. W. 398, 1190.

The legal title to land held not to have passed to the grantee under a deed reserving a vendor's lien to secure notes which were never paid. Lacey v. Smith (Civ. App.) 111 S. W. 965.

A deed reserving a vendor's lien has the effect of a mortgage, and renders the transaction executory. Joiner v. Rogers, 102 T. 142, 113 S. W. 748.

A deed of land reserving a vendor's lien to secure deferred payments held to vest only in the purchaser an equity in the land, and the superior legal title remains in the vendor. DeSteegur v. Pittman, 54 C. A. 316, 117 S. W. 481.

The superior title to land sold remains in the vendor until payment of the balance of the price, where vendor's lien is reserved to secure the same. Miller v. Linguist (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 170.
7. Amount and extent of lien.—Note given for interest after payment of the principal, and secured by trust deed on part of the land, properly enforced as a vendor's lien. Cherry v. Nash (Civ. App.) 21 S.W. 411.

A vendor has a lien for the interest agreed to be paid on the purchase money. Id.

A lien reserved in deed extends only to that part of the price for which the lien is expressly reserved. Shotwell v. McCardell, 19 C.A. 174, 47 S.W. 39.

Where land and chattels are sold for a gross amount, the reservation of a vendor's lien for the entire amount binds the land for the amount of the notes, with interest and attorney's fees provided for therein. Honaker v. Jones, 102 T. 132, 113 S.W. 748. Payment of interest by plaintiff, for the maker of certain vendor's lien notes, held not to vest any interest in the notes until right to a lien for the interest so paid. Rutherford v. Gaines, 103 T. 263, 126 S.W. 251.

In a suit on vendor's lien notes, plaintiff held entitled to recover ten per cent. attorney's fees. Id.

8. — Property subject to lien.—Where land incumbered with an unrecorded vendor's lien is sold to an innocent purchaser, the lien attaches to the proceeds, though invested in an unperfected-emption right. Rose v. Taylor, 17 C.A. 535, 43 S.W. 385, 44 S.W. 326.

Machinery placed on lots by a vendee, which may be removed without injury to the realty, does not become a part thereof as against one having a lien from the purchase of vendor, financing same by Pauls, 28 C.A. 46, 66 S.W. 234.

The intention with which machinery is attached to realty is to be considered in determining if such machinery becomes a part of the realty, as between the owner and holder of a lien thereon. Id.

Where a machine was sold under a conditional sale, reserving title in the seller until it was paid for, the buyer by attaching it to the realty could not affect the seller's rights to enforce its lien. Wm. Cameron & Co. v. Jones, 41 C.A. 4, 90 S.W. 1129.

Where notes executed as a part of the purchase price of land seem to reserve a lien on the entire tract, but the deeds may be considered together with the notes, provided that the vendor's lien applies to only a part of the land, no lien exists on the part not included in the deed. Broom v. Herring, 45 C.A. 663, 101 W. 1929.

A lien upon land includes the growing timber standing thereon at the time the lien is created. American Nat. Bank of Paris v. First Nat. Bank, 52 C.A. 519, 114 S.W. 176.

9. — Priority of lien.—Priority as between vendor's lien and mechanic's lien, see notes under Art. 5828.

The assignee of one of several lien notes is not entitled to priority of payment over the assignor who retains one of the notes. Salmon v. Downs, 55 T. 243; Wooters v. Hollingsworth, 58 T. 371.

The vendor's lien on land, when held with the vendor's superior title, in the application of the proceeds of the sale of the land has precedence over every class of claims. Toullerton v. Maniche, 11 C.A. 148, 32 S.W. 235; Hamblen v. Polts, 79 T. 132, 7 S.W. 834; Abernathy v. Bass, 29 S.W. 399, 9 C.A. 239; White v. Cole, 87 T. 600, 29 S.W. 783.

Evidence held sufficient to support a verdict that defendant's right to land by purchase was superior to plaintiff's alleged vendor's lien. Mallard v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 45 S.W. 264.

The fact that an agent of record owner having possession became agent of another claiming interest under unrecorded deed held not notice of latter's claim to holder of vendor's lien. Ferguson v. McCrary, 20 C.A. 523, 50 S.W. 472.

Information received, pending suit to foreclose a vendor's lien, that a third person claimed the land, held not to affect plaintiff in the suit. Id.

In suit to foreclose vendor's lien securing a note, holder of another note so secured, who was joined as defendant, held not affected by notice to plaintiff of subsequent claim. Id.

A title to land acquired by foreclosure of vendor's lien notes to the common source of title held prior to the title acquired on foreclosure of notes executed by a subsequent purchaser. Edwards v. Anderson, 31 C.A. 131, 71 S.W. 555.

Vendor's lien secured, for the beneficiary in a deed of trust given to raise money to pay the notes creating such liens, held superior to the lien of the co-tenant on the grantor's share for rents and profits wrongfully retained by such grantor. Flach v. Zanderson (Civ. App.) 91 S.W. 348.

A conveyance by vendor's heirs retaining a vendor's lien held to vest a superior title to that acquired under foreclosure of a deed of trust executed by the vendee. Wm. D. Cleveland & Sons v. Smith (Civ. App.) 113 S.W. 547.

A creditor of a railroad not a party to receivership proceedings at the time of the issuance of receiver's certificates may contest the priority of payment of the certificates as against his lien. Hubbell v. Texas Southern Ry. (Civ. App.) 126 S.W. 318.

A lienholder's release of homestead property which was part of a number of lots subject to the lien, held not to prejudice one having a subsequent lien on other lots. First State Bank of Teague v. Cox (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 1.

Debts of the owners of a homestead, assumed by the purchaser as liens thereon, held not to vest under any vendor's lien note accepted by the owner of the homestead in payment. Quinn v. Dickinson (Civ. App.) 146 S.W. 993.

10. — Assignment of lien or claim for purchase money.—Where several notes given for the purchase money of the same land are in the hands of different parties, the holder has rights to satisfaction out of the land. McDermith v. Cross, 40 T. 361; Wooters v. Hollingsworth, 58 T. 371; Glase v. Watson, 55 T. 563; Delespine v. Campbell, 45 T. 635.
The superior title to the land does not pass by the assignment of the purchase-money notes only. Cannon v. McDaniel, 46 T. 313; Totten v. Manchke, 66 S. W. 335. An assignment by the vendor of his interest in the land and the purchase-money notes vests the superior title in the assignee (Jackson v. Ivory [Civ. App.] 30 S. W. 716), and the re-transfer to him of the note does not re-invest the title (Cassaday v. Frankland, 65 T. 482; Id., 65 T. 418; McCamy v. Waterhouse, 80 T. 341, 16 S. W. 19; Moore v. Glass, 25 S. W. 126, 6 C. A. 368).

If a vendor transfers the notes, he no longer has any title in the land, superior or otherwise; nor does the superior title pass to the assignee or transferee, though the vendor of a lien, Baker v. Compton, 53 T. 392; Cassaday v. Frankland, 1 U. C. 528; Harrison v. McMurray, 71 T. 122, 8 S. W. 612; Hamblen v. Polts, 70 T. 132, 7 S. W. 84; Stephens v. Mathews' Heirs, 69 T. 341, 6 S. W. 557; Lundy v. Pierson, 67 T. 233, 2 S. W. 737; Nass v. Chadwick, 78 T. 572, 12 S. W. 333; McCormy v. Waterhouse, 89 T. 36, 26 S. W. 126, 6 C. A. 368.

The assignment of a vendee's note for land transfers the lien reserved in the deed, the record of which is constructive notice of the lien only. To affect subsequent purchasers of the land, assignee's notes, with notice of the assignment of the note it should be recorded. Moran v. Wheeler (Civ. App.) 26 S. W. 297.

The assignment of a negotiable note for land, secured by the vendor's lien, should be recorded, to charge a subsequent mortgagee with notice. Patterson v. Tuttle (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 258.

A second vendee of land, holding by assignment the unpaid note of the first vendee, which is barred by limitation, may enforce the lien and recover the land. White v. Cole, 29 S. W. 505, 87 T. 500.

Where a part of a note secured by the vendor's lien is assigned, the payee will retain the vendor's lien on the land to the extent of the purchase money due to him. Christoff v. Chesley, 11 C. A. 122, 32 S. W. 355.

Purchase of a vendee's lien held entitled to enforce it as against subsequent purchasers of the land, Houghton v. Rogan, 17 C. A. 235, 42 S. W. 1018.

Innocent purchaser of vendor's lien notes before maturity held to occupy same position as purchaser of land. Mansur & Tebbetts Implement Co. v. Beer, 19 C. A. 311, 45 S. W. 972.

A vendor's transfer of a purchase-money note and all his interest in the land held to transfer the legal title to the transferee. New England Loan & Trust Co. v. Willis, 19 C. A. 128, 47 S. W. 389.

Assignment of inferior lien by vendor's assignee held not to carry the legal title with it. Davis v. Hertman, 19 C. A. 442, 48 S. W. 50.

Where a deed to land expressly reserved a vendor's lien, and notes given by a subsequent purchaser of a part of such tract were secured by lien, an indorse of such notes held to take subject to the first lien. Spencer v. Jones, 92 T. 516, 60 S. W. 113, 71 Am. St. Rep. 870.

Transferee of purchase-money notes, secured by lien, being also transferee of title of part of the vendees, may on default recover from other vendor. Anderson v. Silliman, 92 T. 560, 59 S. W. 576.

The transferee of a vendor's lien note may compel the vendor to transfer to him the superior title which the vendor holds in trust for him. Dittman v. Iselt (Civ. App.) 62 S. W. 98.

Where a vendor takes notes for the price, secured by a vendor's lien, and assigns one of the notes, the assigned note is entitled to priority over the others, and a sale under foreclosure of such note passes good title, although the vendor was not made a party to the sale. Enn v. Enn, 12 C. A. 493, 55 S. W. 526.

The assignment of purchase-money notes secured by a vendor's lien reserved in the deed carries to the assignee all rights under the lien, so that he is entitled to redeem from the foreclosure of another lien. Douglass v. Blount (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 439.

A person other than the vendor, who is holder of a vendor's lien note, has superior title to the land such as will entitle him to take possession of the property on failure of the vendee to pay the note at its maturity. Fox v. Robbins (Civ. App.) 62 S. W. 815.

A person to whom vendor's lien notes are transferred, but who does not receive a conveyance of the title of the vendor, does not occupy the position of the original vendor, but only acquires a lien on the land. Mundine v. Pauls, 28 C. A. 46, 66 S. W. 354.

A bona fide indorsee before maturity of a note apparently secured by a vendor's lien held entitled to such lien, though in fact it did not exist as between the immediate parties to the original transaction. Graves v. Kinney, 95 T. 210, 66 S. W. 593.

An assignee of one of several vendor's lien notes, who forecloses it, whereupon sale is made to a third person, is not entitled to participate in the proceeds of a second foreclosure sale at the suit of the holder of the remaining notes. Douglass v. Blount, 95 T. 369, 67 S. W. 484, 58 L. R. A. 699.

Rule of distribution of proceeds of foreclosure of vendor's lien notes, as between foreclosing assignee and purchaser at foreclosure sale of previously assigned note, stated. Id.

Deed from vendor to subsequent assignee of part of purchase money notes held not to enable such assignee to redeem from foreclosure of one note by a prior assignee. Id.

Assignee of vendor's lien note held bound by vendor's previous release of parcel conveyed by vendee, whereby lien on other parcels was impaired. Lattimore v. Provine, 29 C. A. 111, 69 S. W. 222.
An assignee of a vendor's lien note after maturity takes subject to the equities of persons previously receiving conveyances from the vendee, accompanied by releases given by the vendor. Id.

Vendee's lien notes not valid in favor of a purchaser after maturity. Lybrand v. Fuller (Cliv. App.) 69 S. W. 1065.

When one or more of a series of notes secured by a lien is assigned, the assigned note is entitled to priority in the lien over the other notes of the series. Perry v. Dowell, 38 C. A. 96, 84 S. W. 833.

Assignees of notes given for the price of land held entitled to first liens respectively on the parcels of land for the price of which the notes were given. Colquitt v. Sturm (Cliv. App.) 91 S. W. 872.

An assignee of notes given for the purchase price of land secured by a vendor's lien, and in the hands of the holder of the vendor's interest, has the same right to recover the land on the nonpayment of the notes as the original vendor would have. Rutherford v. Mothershed, 42 C. A. 360, 92 S. W. 1021.

The right of an assignee of purchase-money notes and the grantee of the vendor's interest in the land to recover the land on the nonpayment of the notes held defeated only by paying or tendering the balance of the purchase money represented by the notes. Id.

Purchaser of lien notes held not charged with notice that the property was the homestead of the lienors. Sanger Bros. v. Brooks (Cliv. App.) 100 S. W. 798.

Statement of the seller of vendors' lien notes held not to put buyer on notice that the transaction resulting in their execution was simulated. Id.

The purchasers of vendors' lien notes without notice that the property was the homestead of the lienors, or that the transaction involved was simulated, held entitled to foreclose the lien. Id.

A transfer of a note secured by a mortgage held chargeable with knowledge that the premises conveyed by the mortgage were a homestead, and that his rights were those of a mortgagee of a homestead. Adams v. Bartell, 46 C. A. 349, 102 S. W. 779.

The legal title, on the death of a vendor, expressly reserving a lien, held to vest in his buyer. The purchase-money note and the assignee of the purchaser on his paying the note. Atteberry v. Burnett, 102 T. 118, 118 S. W. 526.

A vendor assigning his vendor's lien note holds the legal title in trust for the assignee only to the extent that he cannot dispose of it so as to defeat the lien of the note. Atteberry v. Burnett, 52 C. A. 517, 114 S. W. 159.

The assignee of notes given for the purchase price of land secured by vendor's lien, who takes a conveyance of the vendor's interest, has the same right to recover the land on nonpayment of the notes as the original vendor would have. Crain v. National Life Ins. Co. of United States, 56 C. A. 486, 129 S. W. 1099.

An assignee of a vendor's lien note does not, by the assignment, take the superior legal title held by the vendor. Hutton v. Bodan Lumber Co., 57 C. A. 478, 125 S. W. 163.

The purchase-money price of land evidenced by a note carries with it the vendor's lien. Singletary v. Goeman (Cliv. App.) 123 S. W. 436.

The purchaser of notes reserving a vendor's lien, in due course of trade before maturity and for a valuable consideration, without notice of a parol dedication of a part of the land by the maker, will be protected as an innocent purchaser as against such dedication. Aboe & Lobit v. Town of La Porte (Cliv. App.) 124 S. W. 134.

The holder of purchase-money notes as security for other indebtedness has no lien on the land. Hightower Bros. v. W. F. Taylor Co. (Cliv. App.) 126 S. W. 821.

Original holders of vendor's lien notes releasing the notes without authority held not liable for the value of a mortgage lien attaching after the release. Broun v. Busch (Cliv. App.) 128 S. W. 1156.

An assignee of vendor's lien notes can recover from the original holder damages reasonably resulting from the latter's unauthorized release of the lien. Id.

Vendor's unauthorized release of original holder's assigned note. Id.

The assignee of a vendor's lien note which was assigned without recourse held not entitled to priority. Fitch v. Kennard (Cliv. App.) 133 S. W. 738.

An assignee of vendor's lien notes, who does not take a conveyance of the vendor's title, held to be merely the owner of the lien with right to foreclose. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Blount (Cliv. App.) 136 S. W. 566.

A vendor who expressly reserves a lien to pay purchase-money notes after assigning the notes, without transferring the legal title, holds it in trust for the assignee of the notes and the vendee. Ross v. Bailey (Cliv. App.) 142 S. W. 981.

A purchaser of a vendor's lien note after maturity takes the note subject to all defenses available against the payee. Burnett v. Atteberry, 105 T. 119, 145 S. W. 582.

A vendor's lien passes by an assignment of purchase money notes retaining such lien. Broun v. Broun (Cliv. App.) 152 S. W. 653.

A transfer of a vendor's lien note by the payee's indorsement conveys with it the lien for the transfer secured; a written transfer not being necessary. Davidson v. Mc Kinley (Cliv. App.) 152 S. W. 1149.

11. Transfer of property by purchaser.—Where a note is given for the purchase money of a survey of land, a subdivision thereof in the hands of a subsequent vendee is only bound for such proportion of unpaid purchase money as the value of the subdivision bears to the value of the entire survey. Attaway v. Carter, 1 U. C. 72.

A vendor's lien does not pass by a sale of the land upon which the lien exists. Davis v. Wheeler (Cliv. App.) 23 S. W. 435.

A vendor's lien upon land must be in the deed, or shown by a recorded instrument. R. A. H. Black, in an innocent purchase from the vendor, charged with the lien. Fitch v. Morgan v. Wheeler, 27 S. W. 44, 87 T. 179; Patterson v. Tuttle (Cliv. App.) 27 S. W. 758.

One who buys land from a vendee who has not paid all of the purchase money therefor, though no express lien has been reserved, takes the property charged with the lien in a case where the consideration is a pre-existing debt. Marshall v. Marshall (Cliv. App.) 42 S. W. 353.
One who purchases land subject to vendor's lien, and assumes the debt, held primarily liable, as between him and his grantor. Pickett v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 42 S. W. 388.

A note recites that it is given for part purchase price of land; that it is secured by a vendor's lien; the deed reserves the vendor's lien and is recorded. A purchaser of the note, the holder of which can enforce the lien against the land, although it had been sold to a subsequent purchaser, and as between the grantor and grantee no such lien existed. Houghton v. Rogan, 17 C. A. 285, 42 S. W. 104.

The payee of three vendor's lien notes assigned one of them and retained the other two. He brought suit on the two notes and foreclosed. Held: That the judgment would not be set aside at the instance of the holder of the third note, who attempted to intervene, but the land having been bought in by the payee of the other two notes would be charged with a lien in favor of the holder of the third note. Benson v. Panther, 17 C. A. 464, 42 S. W. 804.

A subsequent purchaser by deed is held to have notice of the holder's lien. John v. Sailes, 22 C. A. 583, 85 S. W. 57.

Where a purchaser of a homestead subject to an invalid deed of trust assumed the debt secured thereby as a part of the consideration, the lien so created inured to the holder of such deed. Fontaine v. Nuse, 38 S. W. 385.

Grantee, who assumed vendor's lien notes, held not entitled to judgment in trespass to try title as against the holder of the notes without paying the same. Diffie v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 85 S. W. 383.

Purchaser of vendor's lien notes, to whom the land was conveyed by the maker, held entitled to the payment of such notes before his superior right to the land could vest in a grantee who assumed the same. Id.

Assumption of a grantee to pay a note assumed by him held to give the holder of the note the right to foreclose the lien on the granted land given to secure it. Diffie v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 90 S. W. 193.

A vendor executing a deed containing a reservation of a vendor's lien for the unpaid purchase price is not bound to inquire of purchasers of the deed as to the right by which they claim the land, nor to ascertain whether they know of the vendor's rights. Gibbough v. Runge, 99 T. 539, 91 S. W. 566, 122 Am. St. Rep. 659.

Possession by purchasers of a vendor's deed containing a reservation of a vendor's lien held not to affect the vendor's right to enforce the lien. Id.

A vendee in a deed containing a reservation of a vendor's lien for the unpaid purchase price acquires the right of possession and the right to transfer the same, and purchasers hold in subordination to the vendor's lien. Id.

Plaintiff held to have received land free from a vendor's lien. Drumm Commission Co. v. Core, 47 C. A. 216, 105 S. W. 483.

Grantee of land from purchaser under executory contract subject to vendor's lien held to be proper to defend recovery of land conveyed to him for nonpayment by his grantee of the vendor's lien note, to show that such note had not been paid in whole or in part. Wood v. O'Hanlon, 50 C. A. 642, 111 S. W. 178.

Where lands subject to an incumbrance are sold to different persons in different parcels at the same time, the respective legal titles vest in the persons whose prorata facie determine the order of liability for the incumbrance. Watson v. Vansickle (Civ. App.) 114 S. W. 1160.

In an action to enforce personal liability on purchase-money notes which defendant agreed to pay, held, that he was entitled to specific performance of an agreement to rescind such assumption. Hill v. Hoeplitz, 54 C. A. 201, 117 S. W. 217.

Evidence held to show a defense to personal liability on vendor's lien notes through assumption of the debt. Id.

One held a bona fide purchaser for value acquiring title good as against a lien. Buckley v. Runge, 57 C. A. 322, 122 S. W. 596.

Where a vendor releases his lien on a part of the land sold, record of the release is not notice of its existence so as to charge parties dealing with the remaining part. Vansickle v. Watson, 103 T. 37, 123 S. W. 112.

A reference in a release by a vendor of his lien on a part of the land held evidence that he knew of prior sales of the remainder to others, charging him with knowledge of their priority right to marshaling their notes and securities in a case where land subject to a lien is divided and sold to different persons at different times. Id.

A grantor reserved a lien to secure the notes for the price. The purchaser conveyed the grant and held the note and gave the grantee a note for the purchase-money notes; the purchaser reserving a vendor's lien. The second grantee conveyed the timber on the land and thereafter conveyed the land to a third person, and after the payment of the original purchase-money notes the original vendor conveyed the land to the third person. Held, that the subsequent conveyance by the original grantor to the third person conveyed nothing, and hence did not affect the title of the purchaser of the timber. The payment of the interest of the lien notes extinguished whatever interest the original vendor possessed. Hatton v. Boden Lumber Co., 57 C. A. 478, 123 S. W. 163.

The transfer to a transferee of mortgaged land of a secured note and trust deed held not to release a subsequent vendor's lien retained by the mortgagor upon selling to such transferee the land with notice of the transferee taking with the knowledge that the mortgage was entitled to have the amount of such lien credited on the mortgage note. Magerstadt v. Martin (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 453.

A vendee who assumes the payment of notes secured by vendor's lien becomes primarily liable as an original promisor. Hoeldtke v. Horstman (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 642.

It is not essential to the liability of a grantee of land who assumes the payment of vendor's lien notes that he should receive actual notice of the holder's acceptance of such promise to pay. Id.

A purchaser, who assumed vendor's lien notes executed by his grantor, was bound to make payment thereof to the holder at maturity. Lott v. Cousins (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 270.

A purchaser of land held to have constructive notice that another had a vendor's lien upon it, securing unpaid purchase-money notes. Buckley v. Runge (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 533.

One having a vendor's lien upon land is not entitled to have a personal judgment against a subsequent incumbrancer, the land alone being liable for the vendor's lien. First State Bank of Teague v. Cox (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 1.

When a lien is sold in parcels the parcel last sold is primarily liable for payment of the lien. Id.

Where land subject to a vendor's lien was by the owner granted to his wife by way of gift, she took subject to all claims against it, regardless of her knowledge of such claims. E. v. Buttery (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 258.

A contract of a purchaser to pay indebtedness secured by vendor's lien on the property held not revocable without the consent of the person holding the lien. Hill v. Cresap (Civ. App.) 321 So. 571, 49 L. R. 927, 61 L. R. 722.

A suit by the original vendor and mortgagee against a remote vendee held one to recover the unpaid balance of a debt, and not the unpaid balance of a judgment in a former suit against the original maker and other vendees. Middleton v. Nibling (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 968.

A second or subsequent vendee held a joint and several obligor as to the original grantor and payee of the debt, with reference to its payment. Id.

An assignment of vendor's lien notes is such an instrument as is required by the registration laws to be recorded in order to be effectual against subsequent purchasers for valuable consideration without notice. Busch v. Broun (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 683.

It is not necessary that the note be recorded in order to convey the security of the lien. Where a vendor's lien note by the vendor's indorsement thereon if subsequent purchasers had notice of the lien. Davidson v. McKinley (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1142.

One who when he purchased land knew that a vendor's lien was outstanding was not a purchaser without notice. Id.

Under provision of a deed that grantee assumes payment of vendor's lien notes as part of the consideration, but shall not be liable on any deficiency judgment after foreclosure, held, that purchaser did not undertake to become personally liable for any balance of the original debt after foreclosure of the lien securing them. Martin v. Rutherford (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 156.

Where notes given for the purchase price of land acknowledged that a vendor's lien was given to secure their payment, one who purchased from the grantee with knowledge of such notes takes subject to the reservation of the grantor's lien. W. D. Cleveland & Sons v. Smith (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 247.

A lien reserved in the deed is not waived by substituting for the original note a new note executed by the purchaser and another who was under no obligation originally to pay, or by the subsequent execution of a new note, or by taking a deed of trust on the same land, unless there was an intention not to rely on the lien. Slaughter v. Owens, 62 T. 658; Ellis v. Singletary, 45 T. 27; Flanagan v. Cushman, 48 T. 241; Glaze v. Watson, 55 T. 688; Varner v. Carson, 59 T. 303; Irvin v. Garner, 50 T. 49; Perry v. Woodson, 61 T. 228; Johnson v. Townsend, 77 T. 648, 14 S. W. 233; Slaton v. Welborne, 78 T. 252, 14 S. W. 257; and the fact that the note for the purchase money was, by direction of the vendor, executed to a third person. Joiner v. Perkins, 59 T. 300.

A vendor's lien is not affected by the substitution of other notes in lieu of those first given. Helm v. Weaver, 69 T. 143, 6 S. W. 439.

Where vendor's lien notes, made in consideration of bond for deed, have been negotiated, vendee took possession of land by retaking possession of the land, though purchaser has abandoned contract without recording bond. Rose v. Taylor, 17 C. A. 635, 43 S. W. 285, 44 S. W. 326.

Levy of attachment on land affected held not a waiver of a vendor's lien. Taylor v. Fryar, 18 C. A. 266, 44 S. W. 183.

Vendor's lien not reserved in deed held not lost, where purchaser conveyed to third persons, and thereafter took reconveyance, where it is not alleged that the purchases were for a consideration. Seibert v. Bergman (Civ. App.) 44, S. W. 572.

Execution by vendor of deed to correct description in previous deed held not to discharge the land from the lien reserved in first deed. Smith v. Ojerholm (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 57.

Where land was sold with agreement that the purchaser might forfeit it to the government, and repurchase it, without affecting the vendor's rights, held, that the vendor could enforce his lien after repurchase. Garrett v. Findlater, 21 C. A. 635, 53 S. W. 839.

Where the lien for the purchase price of land was expressly reserved, the taking of renewal notes with other security, of itself neither released the lien, nor created a presumption that it was intended to be discharged. Wilcox v. First Nat. Bank, 93 T. 322, 55 S. W. 217.

A plea that land is the homestead of defendant is insufficient to defeat an action to foreclose a vendor's lien, where no other facts are pleaded to show that the lien has been discharged. Jackson v. Bradshaw, 24 C. A. 30, 57 S. W. 878.

Where vendee of land subject to vendor's lien dies, his estate holds the land subject to the covenants of the contract. Curran v. Texas Land & Mortgage Co., 24 C. A. 499, 52 S. W. 466.

Where a decree foreclosing vendor's lien authorized reconveyance, and before reconveyance vendor sold improvements to one who removed them, acceptance of reconveyance held a waiver of a right of action against the purchaser. Smith v. Fresno County (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 711.

Acceptance by vendor of reconveyance after judgment foreclosing vendor's lien, as authorized by the decree, held not to have constituted waiver of vendor's right of action against vendee's subsequent to the decree. Id.

Assignor of one of a series of notes secured by lien, who guarantees payment, held to waive his lien on account of the notes retained. Anderson v. Perry, 98 T. 493, 85 S. W. 1134.

Failure of vendor, after decease of vendee, to enforce remedy under vendor's lien through the probate court, held to result in a loss of the debt. Art. 5488; Wall v. Club Land & Cattle Co. (Civ. App.) 88 S. W. 534.

Where the plaintiff paid on a purchase-money note with the understanding that he was to hold the same until the vendee is held to the land subject to the vendor's lien should be conveyed to him, a subrogation took place, and the lien was not discharged by a conveyance of less land than was contemplated. Brown v. Rash, 49 C. A. 203, 89 S. W. 438.

When the vendee of the vendor's lien gives a release of his lien, and, after use of his vendor's lien, a release of his lien held not entitled to recover the land. Branch v. Taylor, 40 C. A. 248, 89 S. W. 813.

In an action to enforce a lien, where the lienholder had purchased an interest in the property subject to the lien, held that portion of the indebtedness which was a charge upon the interest purchased was extinguished by the purchase. Stone v. Pettus, 47 C. A. 14, 103 S. W. 413.

Vendor, accepting reconveyance from vendee of lots subject to vendor's lien, held chargeable with amount received by sale of part of property reconveyed, and, if the amount so received exceeds the amount of the lien, the lien is discharged, and property conveyed by the vendee to a third person is relieved from liability to it. Wood v. O'Hanlon, 50 C. A. 642, 111 S. W. 178.

Waiver of a vendor's equitable lien is not shown merely because the clause in the form used for the provision for the retention of a lien was eliminated in drawing the deed. Springman v. Hawkins, 52 C. A. 249, 113 S. W. 966.

The lien securing the payment of interest on purchase-money notes held not lost by the taking of a separate note therefor. Honaker v. Jones (Civ. App.) 115 S. W. 649.

A grantee who assumes a payment of vendor's lien notes is not released from liability by a reconveyance to his grantor. Hoedltke v. Horstman (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 642.

The taking of other security held to be a waiver of a vendor's lien, if unexplained. Nolett v. Harper (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 519.

The holder of a vendor's lien, with notice that a prospective purchaser would not purchase unless the land was free from all liens, who permitted the purchaser to acquire title, thinking that he had a title free from all liens, and did not inform him of the lien, but purposely concealed it from him for six or more years, was estopped to enforce the lien. Burnett v. Atcherry, 105 T. 119, 145 S. W. 552.

Rights of holders of a vendor's lien note transferred to them by the vendors as collateral security held not affected by an agreement between the vendors and third parties as to time of loan to vendor. Brasfield v. Young (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 189.

Any unpaid balance of purchase money is secured by vendor's lien, though it was originally understood that it should all be paid on delivery of deed, and this was waived as to part of it, and the purchaser's oral promise to pay the balance accepted. Detering v. Boyles (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 984.

13. Payment, release or satisfaction.—Payment by a vendee of the amount due his vendor under a contract for the purchase of land, on a judgment against him as garnishee in a suit against his vendor, is a sufficient payment of the purchase money to entitle him to specific performance. Scarborough v. Arrant, 25 T. 129; Nance v. Warren, 1 U. C. 598.

The vendee, when sued for the land, may tender the money due, and this will save the forfeiture, no matter how long he may have been in default. Tom v. Wollhoefer, 61 T. 271.
The release of one parcel or share of land from a vendor's lien, in an executory contract, covers all other parcels or shares, unless all holdings under the first vendor from the proportionate amount of their respective original value which the amount released bears to the total value of all. Burson v. Blackley, 67 T. S. 2 S. W. 668.

It is the duty of the vendor of land, having a lien thereon, on the payment of the purchase-money, to execute a release of such lien at his own expense. A tender of the amount due on condition that a release be executed is valid. The release cannot be made by holding the note, unless he shows an express authority to that effect. Engelbach v. Simpson, 12 C. A. 188, 23 S. W. 596.

A vendor's lien on property held to be entitled to be paid by first lienholders as a lien upon the property, to the creditors' rights under the lien. Manning v. Green, 56 C. A. 573, 121 S. W. 721.

A bank loaning money to make a part payment on vendor's lien notes held to have become subrogated pro tanto to the rights of vendor. John M. Bonner Memorial Home v. Collin County Nat. Bank, 57 C. A. 313, 122 S. W. 430.

Where one, who furnished money to pay vendor's lien notes under an agreement that he should have a lien until he was reimbursed, was not repaid, he could foreclose his lien; but he could not rescind the contract of sale and recover the land. Hatton v. Bodan Lumber Co., 57 C. A. 478, 123 S. W. 163.

One furnishing money to pay vendor's lien notes, with the understanding that he should have a lien until he was reimbursed, became subrogated to the lien held by the vendor; but his rights were only those of a creditor holding a lien on the premises, and not the superior legal title held by the vendor. Id.

One voluntarily advancing money to pay vendor's lien notes without any understanding that he shall have a lien to secure a reimbursement is not entitled to subrogation. Id.

Under an agreement between chattel mortgagee for advances in growing and marketing crop, a prior mortgagee who had made advances for the same purpose held to subrogate the mortgagee, having paid the prior mortgagee. Sweeney v. Farmers' Rice Milling & Storage Co. (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 1147.

One merely advancing money with which to pay off vendor's lien notes, with no understanding as to having a lien, is not entitled to subrogation. Davidson v. Bodan Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 709.

An insurance agent who undertakes to procure a policy for an applicant, who agrees to pay the premium when the policy is issued, is entitled to be subrogated to the company's right to recover the premium upon himself paying the company the premium. Goode & Bowie v. Alston (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 824.

The payment of a vendor's lien note held to discharge the lien and make the rights of one who furnished the money for such payment subject to those of all other lienholders. Doyle v. Sullivan (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 473.

Where a creditor's agent, having a note for collection, paid the amount thereof to the creditor without it having been paid by the debtor, he became the owner of the note. Norvell-Shapleigh Hardware Co. v. Lumpkin (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1194.

Where partners borrowed money on their personal responsibility to pay a vendor's lien, the lien was extinguished and could not be subsequently revived for the benefit of the partner who paid the loan. Sherk v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 832.

60. --- Extent of right.—A purchaser of mortgaged premises who pays the mortgage debt pursuant to his agreement to assume the same cannot, by subrogation, avail himself of the mortgagee's lien to the prejudice of a junior lien claimant. McDowell v. M. T. Jones Lumber Co., 42 C. A. 260, 99 S. W. 478.

One furnishing money to pay vendor's lien notes held subrogated to the lien of the original vendor, but not to the superior legal title of the vendor. Hatton v. Bodan Lumber Co., 57 C. A. 478, 123 S. W. 163.

A bank cashing a check drawn on a special deposit, held to have no greater right of subrogation than the payee had. Elliott v. First State Bank of Ft. Stockton (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 159.

61. --- Actions for enforcement.—Evidence held to show that a minor's guardian paid out of the minor's funds an amount due from the minor's father on account of a mortgage executed by him jointly with his brothers, precluding a subsequent claim by the brothers of right to subrogation under the mortgage, on account of having paid the entire debt. Newton v. Easterwood (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 646.

Article 5672. [3340] Three years' possession, when a bar.—Every suit to be instituted in order to recover real estate, as against any person in peaceable and adverse possession thereof under title or color of title, shall be instituted within three years next after the cause of action shall have accrued, and not afterward. [Act Feb. 5, 1841, p. 119, sec. 15. P. D. 4622.]

Mere naked possession of land for three years, united to a subsequently acquired chain of title, will not constitute title or color of title within the meaning of the statute of limitations. McCorkle v. Lawrence, 21 T. 731; Monroe v. Buchanan, 27 T. 241; Henderson v. Beaton, 1 U. C. 17.

Laches of the owner in suing and in paying taxes will not defeat his action where there has not been actual adverse possession for a sufficient time to support a plea of limitation. Williams v. Conger, 49 T. 582; Moss v. Berry, 53 T. 632; Murphy v. Welder, 58 T. 230; Mast v. Tibbles, 60 T. 501; Satterwhite v. Ross, 61 T. 156.

The wife's life estate in the separate property of the husband is not defeated by three years' adverse possession under the children and heirs of the husband. Cockrell v. Curtis, 83 T. 105, 18 S. W. 426.

Trespass to try title by creditor against grantee of debtor held barred by limitations after three years from judgment by creditor. Stern v. Marx, 23 C. A. 459, 56 S. W. 93.

To render a possession of three years a bar to the action by the true owner, the person in possession must have held under title or color of title. Hulett v. Platt, 49 C. A. 377, 109 S. W. 267.

One held to have acquired title by the three-year statute of limitations. Id.

Evidence held not to show such adverse possession by one as to give him title under the three or five year statutes of limitations. Lake v. Earnest, 53 C. A. 555, 116 S. W. 866.

Where, in trespass to try title, there was no evidence that tenants of defendants' grantor held possession for three years, there was no error in not submitting the question of possession of such tenants in a charge upon the three-year limitation as to such grantor. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. Kimball, 103 T. 94, 122 S. W. 533, 124 S. W. 85.

In trespass to try title, defendants held not to have acquired title under the three-year limitation. Wadsworth v. Vinyard (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 1171.

Where one had no title or color of title to certain land, limitations of three years could not be set up in his behalf. Bunnell v. Sugg (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 701.

The three-year statute is not applicable in an action to quiet title by an heir who had not joined in conveying the land. Woodburn v. Texas Town Lot & Improvement Co. (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 365.

Art. 5673. [3341] "Title" and "color of title" defined.—By the term "title," as used in the preceding article, is meant a regular chain of transfer from or under the sovereignty of the soil, and by "color of title" is meant a consecutive chain of such transfer down to such person in possession, without being regular, as if one or more of the memorials or muniments be not registered, or not duly registered, or be only in writing, or such like defect as may not extend to or include the want of intrinsic fairness and honesty; or when the party in possession shall hold the same by a certificate of headright, land warrant, or land scrip, with a chain of transfer down to him in possession. [Id. sec. 15. P. D. 4622.]

In general.—When the ancestor has conveyed land, his heirs upon regaining possession have no title, and cannot set up the limitation either of three or five years. Harris v. Hardenman, 15 T. 466; Id. 27 T. 248.

The re-enactment of the law defining color of title, with no change in its language, carried with it the construction given to the former statute in Marsh v. Weir, 21 T. 97. It is only such a defective muniment of title as is not wanting in "intrinsic fairness and honesty" that will support the statute of limitations of three years. Color of title cannot, in contemplation of the statute, exist when one of the links in the chain of title has been fraudulently obtained. Hussey v. Moser, 70 T. 42, 7 S. W. 606.

The written muniments of title need not be recorded under this article. Craig v. Cartwright. 65 T. 413.

One who has conveyed the land of which he is in possession thereby precludes himself from claiming title thereto under the statute under a deed prior in date to his conveyance. Voight v. Mackle, 71 T. 78, 8 S. W. 623.

Title by limitation under this article cannot be acquired by one who holds under an instrument executed by himself or by one who holds for him. White v. Rosser (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 1065.

A break in defendant's chain of title held to render it insufficient to support a plea of limitations. Baldwin v. Root, 90 T. 546, 40 S. W. 3. The possessor who obtains judgment against his grantor establishing title under a conveyance, without joining one to whom he transferred his rights under such conveyance, has not color of title. Morgan v. Baker (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 27.

In an action of trespass to try title, facts held to give plaintiff title to the premises under the three and five years statute of limitation. llama v. Root, 22 C. A. 413, 50 S. W. 411.

Evidence held not sufficient to authorize one in possession of land to take advantage of the statute, because of his not having color of title. Bartell v. Kelsey (Civ. App.) 59 S. W. 631.

In an action to recover property, held, that the occupant had not acquired title by adverse possession for more than three years under color of title. Black v. Garner (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 918.

In trespass to try title, evidence held insufficient to show title in defendant by adverse possession under the three or five year statute of limitation. William Carlyle & Co. v. Pruett, 37 C. A. 384, 84 S. W. 372.

One claiming under a deed to an overlap of a junior on a senior survey must show possession of at least part of the overlap. Mclemore v. Lomax, 38 C. A. 583, 86 S. W. 635.

In trespass to try title held, that defendant could not use the deeds under which plaintiff claimed as a basis for the five-year statute of limitations. Hammond v. Hammond, 43 C. A. 284, 94 S. W. 1067.

The three-year limitation held not applicable to bar plaintiffs' right in certain land as to which defendants had neither title nor color of title. Beale's Heirs v. Johnson, 45 C. A. 115, 99 S. W. 1046.

The three-year limitation does not protect one not derailing title from the state. Haring v. Shelton, 103 T. 10, 122 S. W. 12.

Defendants held not to have color of title from a sovereignty of the soil essential to a claim of adverse possession under the three-year statute of limitations. Sexton v. Corbett (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 75.

Where title was complete in defendant's remote grantor at the latter's death, it was immaterial to defendant's right to claim title by adverse possession that deeds of subsequent grantees were not recorded a sufficient length of time before the commencement of the action to bar a claim by limitations thereon. Merriman v. Blalack, 57 C. A. 270, 122 S. W. 403.

Where persons did not hold possession under title, or color of title, from the sovereignty of the soil, their chain of title not extending to the original grantee, they could not claim under the three-year limitation. Barrera v. Guerra (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 902.

Void, irregular or defective deeds.—A deed executed by an attorney in fact after the death of his principal is not title or color of title. Cox v. Bray, 28 T. 247.

A deed by the husband to the wife, while void as to his creditors, is valid between the parties, and hence possession through her husband is adverse within the meaning of the statute. De Garza v. Galvan, 55 T. 55; Grigsby v. May, 84 T. 256, 19 S. W. 343; Evans v. Guipel (Civ. App.) 35 S. W. 940.

Where one link in the chain of title shows on the face that the agent making the deed had no power to do so, it does not constitute color of title. Green v. Hugo, 51 T. 452, 17 S. W. 73, 26 Am. St. Rep. 824.

By the expression "be only in writing," it is intended to cover cases in which the evidence of right, though in writing, was not executed in the manner prescribed by law; and under the statute which makes the material defects wanting in intrinsic fairness and honesty. Grigsby v. May, 84 T. 240, 19 S. W. 343.

A valid judgment in a chain of title does not constitute title or color of title. Latimer v. Logwood (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 960.

A void deed does not constitute "title or color of title" because it is wanting in that "intrinsical fairness and honesty" required by the statute. A deed to part of the homestead signed by the husband but not by the wife, is void and does not constitute title or color of title. Watson v. Watson (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 183.
LIMITATIONS

Where a married woman’s deed is not acknowledged as required by statute, held, that grantee has neither title nor color of title affording protection under the three-year limitation. Silcock v. Baker, 25 C. A. 508, 61 S. W. 939. It is only such a defective instrument of title as is not wanting in “intrinsic fairness and honesty” as will support the statute of three years. Where a wife acknowledges a deed to her homestead thinking that it is a mortgage the transaction is not fair and honest. Black v. Garner (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 921.

Possession on which a claim to land is based cannot be referred to a void tax title, accorded and acknowledged began. Lynn v. Burnett, 34 C. A. 335, 79 S. W. 54.

A deed of a wife’s separate property, lacking a proper certificate of acknowledgment, though not in itself title or sufficient to show color of title supporting the three-year statute, may be made sufficient to show color by parol proof showing it was properly executed and acknowledged. Veeder v. Gilmer, 47 C. A. 464, 106 S. W. 331.

Where one link in the chain of title of persons claiming land is void, they have no such color of title as would bar an action against them under the three-year statute. Wall v. Lubbock, 52 C. A. 465, 118 S. W. 886.

Where a married woman’s deed, improperly acknowledged, was relied on as color of title, evidence that the deed was properly acknowledged in fact was admissible, though the right of action to correct the certificate was barred by limitations. Veeder v. Gilmer (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 584.

A married woman’s deed, though not properly acknowledged, may be color of title to support a plea of three-year limitation. Id.

Limitation of three years held no defense as against the heirs of a wife claiming against an unauthorized conveyance by the surviving husband. Hardy Oil Co. v. Burnham (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 221.

Where, in trespass to try title, defendant established by circumstances the execution of a lost deed to the land claimed by him, the title of plaintiff failed, but where defendant established execution of the deed, his claim of title by limitation of three years failed. Pratt v. Townsend (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 111.

On the issue of title by adverse possession, deeds of married women, which were ineffective because not acknowledged as required by law, were admissible in evidence to shed light upon the nature of the possession of the grantees. Carr v. Alexander (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 218.

Conveyance by one without title.—Where the land of a person has been sold under execution, a subsequent purchaser from him cannot plead three years’ adverse possession. Wren v. Polly, 26 T. 730. And so where there is a subsequent sale under a judgment foreclosing an attachment lien prior to the conveyance. Paxton v. Meyer, 67 T. 96, 2 S. W. 817.

A purchaser from one who has previously sold his land to another acquires no title. Elliot v. Whitaker, 30 T. 411; Allen v. Root, 39 T. 589. A second vendee from the same vendor with knowledge of the former sale may prescribe under this article. Snowden v. Rush, 63 T. 583, 6 S. W. 767.

A deed is not title when the grantor has in fact no title. Veramendi v. Hutchins, 48 T. 531; League v. Rogan, 59 T. 427.

Deeds made by persons who, before executing them, had conveyed the property to others, do not connect the vendee with the sovereignty of the soil, and will not support the three-year statute of limitation. Illies v. Frierichs, 11 C. A. 575, 32 S. W. 915.

The sale of community interest of the wife on administration of the husband’s estate held not to furnish color of title so as to support the three-year statute of limitation. Arnold v. Hodge, 20 C. A. 211, 49 S. W. 714.

A deed of land, executed by parties to a suit, where the judgment found that they had no interest to convey, held insufficient color of title to support the operation of the three-year statute of limitation. Wille v. Ellis, 22 C. A. 462, 54 S. W. 922.

Where a patentee of land conveyed to a third person before conveying to defendants, it was held the grantee was only a tenant and there had been no conveyance of such outstanding title, defendants had no color of title from the sovereignty of the soil and could not therefore claim under the three-year statute of limitation. Saxton v. Corbett (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 75.

Deeds made by persons who, before executing them, had conveyed to others, do not connect vendee with the sovereignty of the soil, and hence will not support the statute of three years. Dixon v. Cruze (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 591.

Purchasers from her father, of the daughter’s interest in the community estate, held not to have title or color of title so as to enable them to claim by the three-year limitation. Burnham v. Hardy Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 330.

The three-year statute is not applicable in an action to quiet title by an heir who had married in conveying the land. Woodburn v. Texas Town Lot & Improvement Co. (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 365.

Title bonds.—A title bond, whether the purchase-money be paid or not, save as against the vendor, is title or color of title if connected with the sovereignty of the soil, under which a defendant may maintain his defense under the statutory limitation of three years. Ellis v. Mitchell, 47 T. 449; Downs v. Porter, 54 T. 59.

A bond for title held sufficient to support a plea of three-year limitation as against the obligor. Tenzler v. Tyrrell, 32 C. A. 443, 75 S. W. 57.

Patents, grants, certificates and surveys.—A grant which has been annulled, and the land conveyed declared not constitute color of title. Marsh v. Weir, 21 T. 97; Summers v. Davis, 49 T. 541; Parker v. Bains, 50 T. 15.

Unreconciled land certificates are not title or color of title. Whitehead v. Foley, 28 T. 366.

The real owner of the certificate, the transfer whereof was forsworn, may permit the patent to stand, and have judgment vesting title in himself by reason of his equitable title existing prior to the patent, or he may, by proper proceedings, procure a cancellation of the patent and the issuance of another in his favor. League v. Rogen, 59 T. 427.

A land certificate being the mere evidence of a right, which right is in contemplation of law personal property, no adverse possession thereof can give title by limitation, either to the certificate or the right, of which it constitutes the evidence. Harvey v. Cummings, 68 T. 599, 5 S. W. 513.

As against title under certificate, limitation does not begin to run until the date of the location of the certificate. Tariton v. Kirkpatrick, 1 C. A. 107, 21 S. W. 405.

Although the three-year statute is applicable where the patent purports to pass the legal title, and does pass all the title the state has or can convey, though in fact no title passes to the grantee, yet where the patent is utterly void for want of authority in the officer issuing it, and does not in any manner bind the state, the three-year adverse possession cannot prescribe under it. Land & Mortgage Co. v. State, 1 C. A. 616, 23 S. W. 253.

Title of the patentee of land having been destroyed by plaintiff's ten years' adverse possession, defendant cannot show title under the three-year statute, by proof of subsequent entry as tenant of the patentee's heirs under written contract. Grayson v. Peyton (Civil App.) 67 S. W. 1074.

Adverse possession under a void headright grant is not sufficient to give title under the three-year statute. 25 C. A. 479, 59 S. W. 581.

Where land was patented to an entryman's heirs, the fact that they held possession for three years after plaintiff had acquired title by adverse possession held no defense to plaintiff's title. Burton's Heirs v. Carroll, 96 T. 320, 72 S. W. 581.

The adverse possession of land is not adverse possession does not confer title where the land so possessed is not included in such patents by a proper construction of their calls. Atascosa County v. Alderman (Civil App.) 91 S. W. 846.

A patent regularly issued by the officer instructed with the duty of issuing patents held to furnish to the patentee title or color of title. Hulet v. Platt, 49 C. A. 377, 109 S. W. 207.

The possession by a patentee of a tract of land held to extend to the entire tract, and to perfect his title by limitations. Id. A pre-emption, location, and patents for land which was not vacant and unappropriated public domain held insufficient to support a title under the three-year statute. Gilbert v. Harris (Civil App.) 105 S. W. 392.

A prior patent of land subject to grant by the state held a sufficient grant to support a defense of adverse possession under the three-year statute. Williamson v. Brown, 49 C. A. 402, 109 S. W. 412.

Title or color of title based on a grant from the state defined. Id.

Patent issued upon a location and survey made subsequent to a subsisting survey and location held void and not to serve as color of title to support a three-year limitation. Keith v. Guedry (Civil App.) 114 S. W. 392.

A sale of school land while a prior valid sale to another is in force does not constitute color of title, within the meaning of the three-year statute. Pohle v. Robertson, 102 T. 274, 115 S. W. 1186.

A pre-emption claim is neither such title nor color of title as will support limitations. Garnett v. Rapp (Civil App.) 126 S. W. 611.

An award of state school lands invalid for want of authority in the commissioner to make the sale is not title or color of title. Id.

Where the commissioner of the general land office classified land as dry grazing land possession thereupon was appraised it, and the individual and appraisor purchased the pre-emptor and actual settler, who conveyed it to a qualified purchaser and actual settler, title under the award was not title or color of title. Id.

Where, even if the survey under which defendants claimed covered the land in controversy, the same was covered by plaintiff's admittedly valid older survey, the three-year statute would not apply, and defendants could acquire no title thereunder; they having no title or color of title, their claim being void. Johnson v. Knippa (Civil App.) 127 S. W. 925.

If in trespass to try title, defendant claimed by limitation, under pre-emption claims, affidavits showing such claims were admissible. Lafferty v. Stevenson (Civil App.) 126 S. W. 216.

Neither a pre-emption claim nor an award under the public free school land laws will support a title under the three-year statute, at least until proof of sufficient occupancy to entitle the proposed purchaser to pay for the land and take title. Wolflarth v. De Lay (Civil App.) 142 S. W. 617.

One claiming under a patent, not void for want of authority on the part of the officer to issue it, has a sufficient connection with the sovereignty of the soil to support an adverse claim, when accompanied by the other statutory requirements. Sabine Valley Timber & Lumber Co. v. Cagle (Civil App.) 149 S. W. 697.

A patent, void, sufficient title in them to sustain a plea of three years' limitations, though he had previously assigned the certificate under which the patent was granted; no warranty of title appearing to have accompanied the assignment. Id.

The incumbrance right to purchase school land which one acquired by virtue of an award of the land commissioner of the general land office is not title or color of title within the three-year statute, at least until after the three years' occupancy required by law has been completed. Morrow v. Conoway (Civil App.) 157 S. W. 430.

Execution sales.—A sheriff's sale of land, if valid, breaks the chain of title of the defendant in execution remaining in or taking possession subsequent to the sale, and claiming under the statute of limitations of three years, as against the holder of the title which limitation by the sheriff's sale. Blum v. Rogers, 71 T. 669, 9 S. W. 593.

The three-year statute as to those in possession under "color of title" does not apply to one purchasing at execution sale after the title had passed from the judgment debtor to his wife. Watts v. Bruce, 31 C. A. 547, 72 S. W. 258.

The holder of a lease or of the title of a holder of the lease of land was from an officer upon a sale under execution will not break the continuity of the running of the three-year statute against a former grantor endeavoring to assert a secret equity, in the absence of a showing that the sale was invalid. Kennon v. Miller (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 986.

Descent and devise.—A will duly probated constitutes color of title, although it might have been set aside on proper proceedings. Charlie v. Saffold, 13 T. 94.

The title to land sold to another by hereditary and cannot plead the limitations of three or five years. Harris v. Hardeman, 27 T. 248.

After death of the wife the husband cannot convey title or color of title to the interest of his deceased wife in the community property, unless authorized to sell by reason of community debts. Veramendi v. Hutchins, 45 T. 631; Johnson v. Harrison, 48 T. 257; Bell v. Schwarz, 56 T. 333.

Title by inheritance is sufficient to form a link in a chain of title which will sustain a plea of three-year limitation. Kennon v. Miller (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 586.

Where one acquired title upon the death of her mother to an interest in the community property purchasers of such interest from her father have no title or color of title, so as to enable them to claim under the three-year statute. Burnham v. Hardy Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 430.

Tax sales and tax deeds.—A valid tax deed passes only such title as the person against whom taxes were assessed had at the time of sale. If the title of the real owner was acquired at such sale, the purchaser would stand in relation to persons having no title, but in possession under claim of right, just as the real owner would have stood had the deed been void. Robson v. Higgins, 63 T. 150.

A claimant under a tax deed recorded, who fails to show a compliance with the law in those steps prerequisite to its validity, cannot obtain title under the three years' statute of limitation. Definer v. Dillard, 70 T. 139, 7 S. W. 847.

No presumption arises from the tax deed that the requisite proceedings upon which the power to sell arises had been had. Dawson v. Ward, 71 T. 72, 9 S. W. 106.

The description in a tax deed, in order to support adverse possession, must be reasonably certain without the aid of extrinsic facts. Day v. Needham, 22 S. W. 103, 2 C. A. 680.

A void judgment does not constitute color of title, nor does a tax deed, in absence of authority for the sale. Latimer v. Logwood (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 960.

Tax deed of nonresident's property does not constitute color of title, the levy of the collector being made before the time authorized by statute. Allen v. Courtney, 24 C. A. 86, 58 S. W. 206.

Tax deeds are admissible for defendant, to support limitation, without proof of assessment of the land for taxes and due sale thereof. Villareal v. McLaughlin (Civ. App.) 62 S. W. 98.

A tax deed is not supported for a plea of three-year limitation without evidence that it was executed in completion of a sale regularly made for taxes duly levied and assessed. Gillaspie v. Murray, 27 C. A. 580, 66 S. W. 252.

Though a tax judgment was voidable, it was admissible in evidence in behalf of purchasers at a sale thereunder in support of the three-year statute. Carr v. Miller (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 1158.

Description of property.—Where the chain of title under which the benefit of three-year limitation is sought does not include the land in dispute in its description, such claim and possession does not mature into title. Carley v. Parton, 75 T. 98, 12 S. W. 950.

The description in a deed construed, and held to pass title to lands sufficiently to furnish color of title therefor to sustain adverse possession. Allen v. Boggs, 24 T. 83, 58 S. W. 833.

Defendant held to have acquired no title by possession of land not included in the boundaries of his deed, under the three or five year statute of limitations. Giddings v. Winfree, 32 C. A. 99, 73 S. W. 1066.

Where land was not embraced in the calls of the patent of one in possession thereof, who was using and cultivating it, the three and five year statutes of limitation had no application. Ward v. Forrester (Civ. App.) 87 T. 662.

A holding of land under the three and five year statute of limitations must be under a deed, and one cannot prescribe to a line beyond the calls of his deed under any interpretation of such calls. Runkle v. Smith, 52 C. A. 186, 114 S. W. 685.

One descriptions of tax deeds naming a corner at a point 250 vara distant from a corner of a survey has no title or color of title to any part of the survey within the three-year statute of limitations. McCaleb v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 116 S. W. 111.

One claiming land under the three and five year limitations must show that his adverse possession was held under a deed embracing the land within its calls. Lake v. Earnest, 53 C. A. 555, 116 S. W. 865.

A deed held to convey land bounded as therein described by established lines, so that a possession under the deed, which was recorded, and payment of taxes, was sufficient to support a plea of limitations. Pratt v. Townsend (Civ. App.) 115 S. W. 111.

Defendants held a tract of land as tenants in common under mesne conveyances from a patentee, and, while their deeds purported to grant to them all the land comprehended in the surveys referred to in their deeds, the total of the land in the surveys exceeded the total number of acres mentioned in the patentee's original deeds. Held that, as defendants had no deeds or title to such excess in their chain of title from the patentee, the court could not show the regular chain of transfers from the sovereignty necessary to an acquisition of it under the three-year statute. Wadsworth v. Vinyard (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 1171.

A deed, the description of which did not cover the land in controversy, held no deed where no suit to reform it had been instituted within four years. Gilmore v. O'Neill (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 1162.

Art. 5674. [3342] Five years' possession, when a bar.—Every suit to be instituted to recover real estate as against any person having peaceable and adverse possession thereof, cultivating, using or enjoying the same and paying taxes thereon, if any, and claiming under a deed or deeds duly registered, shall be instituted within five years next after the cause of action shall have accrued, and not afterward; provided, that this article shall not apply to any one in possession of land, who in the absence of this article would deraign title through a forged deed; provided, further, that no one claiming under a forged deed, or deed executed under a forged power of attorney, shall be allowed the benefits of this article. [Id. sec. 16. P. D. 4623. Acts 1879, ch. 125, p. 132.]

Heirs of an intestate can acquire title to land of their ancestor, by adverse possession under title in the same manner as any other person. Duke v. Reed, 64 T. 705.

A trustee cannot prescribe under the five-year statute in a suit to compel a reconveyance in accordance with the term of the trust deed under which he entered, except for that period of time which may elapse after he has repudiated the trust and given notice thereof to the cestui que trust. Neyland v. Bendy, 69 T. 711, 7 S. W. 497.

To sustain the plea of limitation of five years, continuity of possession and privity in the title are requisite, with the other conditions of hostile title. Hellin v. Burns, 70 T. 947, 8 S. W. 48.

Fraudulent grantee of insolvent debtor held to acquire title, good against debtor's creditor, purchasing at his own execution sale and bringing trespass to try title, by five years' exclusive adverse possession. Tynan v. Vodrie (Civ. App.) 755.

Possession by defendants held not to be under a deed, and therefore that they could only claim title by adverse possession under statute of limitations of ten years. Mass v. Bromberg, 28 C. A. 145, 66 S. W. 468.

A finding that possession of land was under recorded deeds, accompanied by assessment and payment of taxes, is sufficient to show adverse possession. Sparks v. Hall, 29 C. A. 177, 67 S. W. 916.

An action to recover land held barred by the five-year statute. Robles v. Cooksey (Civ. App.) 70 S. W. 534.

The five-year statute does not apply, where those claiming thereunder fail to show a deed of record or a payment of taxes. Watts v. Bruce, 31 C. A. 347, 72 S. W. 258.

One's title by deed being deverted out of him by possession of another before he went into possession, he can claim only by limitation of ten years. Smith v. Bunch, 31 C. A. 541, 73 S. W. 559.

Where defendant did not have color of title, the five-year statute did not apply. Nolan v. W. M. Converse, 34 C. A. 634, 79 S. W. 638.

Five years' continuous, adverse, and exclusive possession of an alley, under a deed properly acknowledged and recorded, and payment of taxes thereon, will bar an abutting owner of his easement and right of way over the alley. Feden v. Crenshaw (Civ. App.) 11 S. W. 563.

In trespass to try title, the evidence considered, and held insufficient to establish the acquisition of title in defendant under the five-year statute. Logan v. Robertson (Civ. App.) 83 S. W. 395.

Pleas of the ten-year and five-year statute held sufficient to support a judgment for defendants in trespass to try title. Eigan v. Childress, 40 C. A. 193, 89 S. W. 84.

In trespass to try title, evidence held to entitle defendant to a judgment under the five-year statute. Cook v. Spencer (Civ. App.) 91 S. W. 615.

The record of certain warranty deeds to the property in controversy, and payment of taxes on the land, held color of title sufficient to support adverse possession under the five-year statute. Milby v. Hester (Civ. App.) 94 S. W. 178.

Performance of every essential requisite of the five-year statute of limitations by parties claiming land is of itself sufficient to vest title to the land in them. Stubbsfield v. Hansom (Civ. App.) 94 S. W. 406.

Defendant held to have acquired title to the land in controversy under the five-year statute. Wm. D. Cleveland & Sons v. Smith (Civ. App.) 113 S. W. 547.

Where defendant's grantor entered on a tract under a deed thereto, and erected houses, built corrals, opened up fields and grazed cattle thereon, claiming the whole tract as his own under the deed, such acts were sufficient to support a claim of title by limitations to the entire tract, whether the deed is considered as a duly registered deed under the five-year limitations, or as a written memorandum of title under the ten-year limitations. Merriman v. Blalack, 57 C. A. 370, 122 S. W. 403.

The cause of action in a formal action of trespass to try title to recover possession arose when defendant wrongfully took possession, and that having been done at least 3775.
eight years before suit was filed, and the deed under which defendant claimed being duly recorded and all taxes paid, plaintiff's right to recover is barred by the five-year statute. S. recorded v. Buchanan, 57 C. A. 368, 123 S. W. 168.

Proof that one occupied land as tenant of another continuously for more than five years, unaccompanied by proof that the latter during that time held land under a recorded deed, and unaccompanied by evidence of payment of taxes by the latter did not establish title in the latter under the five-year statute. Kirby v. Hayden (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 992.

Adverse possession under deeds duly recorded to constitute title under the five-year statute of limitations defined. Dunn v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 311.

One held to have acquired title by adverse possession under the five and ten year limitation. Horan v. O'Connell (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 1048.

In giving title under the five-year limitation, all the requirements of the statute must be concurrently performed; and hence more than five years' continuous occupancy and use of land under a deed and payment of taxes is sufficient, if the deed was not of record full five years. William Cameron & Co. v. Collier (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 1178.

In order to recover land, evidence held insufficient to sustain a plea of five-year limitation. Snow v. Letcher (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 355.

Where defendants were in possession under color of title, and exercised acts of ownership and paid the taxes, the fact that the abstract number under which the land was rendered up to 1904 was not the proper abstract number of the survey will not prevent their acquisition of title by adverse possession, where the survey had not been given a separate abstract number until 1904, but was located under heuright certificate consisting of two surveys, and was regarded by all until 1904 as having the same abstract number as the larger tract. W. D. Cleveland & Sons v. Smith (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 247.

Possession.—When defendant is claiming a tract of land, he must show that he has had possession of the land claimed by him, under his deed, for the space of time required by the statute. Kilpatrick v. Bineros, 23 T. 113.

One held land appropriated by it for public streets adversely to the owner. The ordinary uses of a public street should be regarded as such adverse possession. S. registered v. Deputy Surveyor, 86 S. W. 521.

It seems however, that in claiming under the statute of five years, payment of taxes should be proven by the city as in other cases. Moore v. City of Waco, 85 T. 296, 26 S. W. 61.

A person can hold land adversely by virtue of a tax deed not void on its face duly recorded and has actual possession of it by inclosure with a quantity of other lands and pays all taxes on it, he fulfills all the requirements of the five-year statute and can hold the land. The statement in Kent v. Cecili, 25 T. 715, that the land being inclosed, constituted adverse possession supporting a claim under the five-year statute, made by the same court that renders this opinion, was wrong. Smith v. Kenny (Civ. App.) 64 S. W. 801.

Possession must be adverse and hostile to the owner. Clark v. Kirby (Civ. App.) 25 S. W. 1098.

This article applies to a survey included within a pasture inclosing more than 5,000 acres, and hence an action against a purchaser of such survey at a tax sale who has occupied the same and paid taxes thereon for five years is barred. Cunningham v. Matthews (Civ. App.) 67 S. W. 1115.

Adverse possession must have continued for five years under a deed registered for that period. Allen v. Courtney, 24 C. A. 86, 58 S. W. 200.

Where land is conveyed, and before the deed is recorded a portion of the tract is conveyed to an innocent purchaser, and the first purchaser afterwards takes possession of the land, but does not occupy the portion included in the second conveyance, such possession for the statutory time will not give title thereto. Payton v. Caplen, 24 C. A. 364, 69 S. W. 634.

One holding part of a league of land under a registered deed until his title is perfected by limitations does not extend his possession to the balance, so that the statute will run in his favor, by taking a deed thereto and paying taxes. Hill v. Harris, 26 C. A. 408, 84 S. W. 830.

Defendants in trespass to try title to land cannot avail of the benefit of the record and possession of their vendors, as possession by them must be under the record of the particular deed under which they claim. Logan v. Robertson (Civ. App.) 83 S. W. 365.

Possession under a recorded deed held not to be connected with prior possession, so as to create title under the five-year statute. Dunn v. Taylor, 102 T. 80, 113 S. W. 365.

A party held not entitled to claim adversely a part of a tract not inclosed or occupied, though he claimed the entire tract under a recorded deed. Holland v. Nance, 102 S. 177, 114 S. W. 346.

The use of a strip of land by the public as a way held not such adverse possession as will support the municipality's claim to title by five years' possession under a deed. City of Houston v. Bammel, 63 C. A. 336, 115 S. W. 661.

The fact that the land was under a duly recorded deed, and held open and notorious possession thereof, it was immaterial to his right to claim by adverse possession whether any one actually knew of his claim and possession. Merriman v. Blalock, 57 C. A. 270, 122 S. W. 463.

Pasturing the owner's cattle on land inclosed for that purpose and under his exclusive control is such use and enjoyment as is sufficient under the five-year statute. Hardy Oil Co. v. Burnham (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 221.

Where the deeds under which a party claimed title defined the boundaries, a fence embracing a part of the land, and the deed notes called for, used as a boundary fence by permission or otherwise sufficient to hold stock, was a sufficient barrier to show possession of the land to ripen into title by adverse possession, in the absence of some adverse possession of a part of it by some one asserting a superior title. Dunn v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 311.
LIMITATIONS

Art. 6674

Where a possessor sells his land and remains in possession claiming it, he breaks the possession and is estopped by adverse possession. Evidence held insufficient to show continuous adverse possession of certain lands in controversy for five years. Dunn v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 237.

The five-year statute was ineffective to establish any title by prescription under a recorded deed while the land remained unoccupied. Burnham v. Hardy Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 330.

Where a company inclosed with a fence and controlled and used a large body of land including the tract in controversy, the fact that within this inclosure there were tracts five years old, did not prevent the five-year statute from running in favor of the company as to the tract in controversy. Id.

Possession of one tract of land under a deed conveying several tracts extends to all. Snow v. Letcher (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 355.

When the real owner is in possession of land, one holding an inferior title is restricted to his actual possession. Chicago, R. I. & G. R. Co. v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 253.

Use and enjoyment.—See note under Possession, ante.

Pasturing the owner’s cattle on land inclosed for that purpose and under his exclusive control is such use and enjoyment as is sufficient. Hardy Oil Co. v. Burnham (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 221.

Payment of taxes.—It is necessary to prove the payment of taxes for the entire term upon all the land specified in the deed. Kelly v. Medlin, 26 T. 48. See Hoehn v. House (Civ. App.) 31 S. W. 85.

It is the duty of a party claiming land to render it for assessment and pay taxes. The fact that the land has not been assessed does not exclude the nonpayment of taxes. Ledyard v. Brown, 27 T. 393. See Hoehn v. House (Civ. App.) 31 S. W. 85.

A certificate by the tax collector of the county wherein the tract is situated, that no taxes are charged against said land on his books, is not sufficient evidence of payment of taxes. Acklin v. Paschal, 48 T. 147.

The failure to prove payment of taxes for any year of the five-year possession under a recorded deed will be fatal. Murphy v. Welder, 55 T. 355.

Proof of payment of taxes is sufficient without regard to assessment. Cantagrel v. Von Lupin, 58 T. 570.

In the absence of evidence showing payment of taxes, the defense of limitation of five years cannot be considered. Henderson v. Beston, 1 U. C. 17.

The possessor under a junior grant who pays taxes upon the land in litigation under assessment in name of the junior grantor is not deprived of the benefit of such payment by reason of his not paying in the name of the senior grantor. The description of the land is given in either grant. Harrison v. McMurray, 71 T. 122, 8 S. W. 612.

The defendant paid taxes upon two hundred acres out of the survey of which the land in controversy was a part. He owned by undisputed title about 210 acres, which added to the 20 acres in controversy made 230 acres subject to taxation. It was presumed that his payment of taxes was upon lands of which his title was undisputed. The facts did not support the five-year statute. Bassett v. Martin, 83 T. 339, 18 S. W. 687.

Payment of taxes may be proven by direct or circumstantial evidence, or by parol testimony. Where land is incorrectly listed upon the tax rolls, the parol testimony to payment will be evidence of payment upon the lands assessed. The taxpayer cannot apply such payment to lands not listed. Dutton v. Thompson, 85 T. 115, 19 S. W. 1026.

Where one pleading the five-year statute seeks to account for his failure to pay taxes for two years by showing that another under whom he claims did pay the taxes for those years, the possessor was then in actual possession, claiming under deed duly registered, else he cannot tack his own possession to the title acquired from such other person. Tarlton v. Kirkpatrick, 1 C. A. 107, 21 S. W. 405.

Limitation is complete without payment of taxes due after the expiration of the five years. Hulon v. Brown, 9 S. W. 236.

Under a plea of five-year limitation, in an action to devent title by possession under a tax deed, payment of taxes on the land for the full term necessary to complete the bar must be shown as concurrent with the possession. Taylor v. Brymer, 17 C. A. 517, 42 S. W. 899.

To support adverse possession the taxes need not be paid each year as they accrue. Capps v. Deegan (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 151.

Where the grantee in a recorded deed pays taxes on the number of acres called for in his deed, actually believing he is paying for the full quantity in his possession, he is not deprived of the five-year limitation merely because his tract is larger than he supposed. Henning v. Wren, 32 C. A. 538, 76 S. W. 905.

The payment of taxes and possession must concur. That is, all the taxes. If part of the taxes for one year remain unpaid title by limitation is not obtained. Wall v. Club Land & Cattle Co. (Civ. App.) 88 S. W. 539.

In trespass to try title, a defendant held not to have acquired title by adverse possession, under the five-year statute, because of failure to pay taxes. Club Land & Cattle Co. v. Wall, 99 T. 691, 91 S. W. 778, 122 Am. St. Rep. 666; Id. (Sup.) 90 S. W. 934.

Right of one having the legal title to land held unaffected by his nonclaim or failure to pay taxes or the payment of taxes by another claiming under a void deed. Hunter v. Hodgeson (Civ. App.) 85 S. W. 637.

One held to have paid taxes on a certain survey as regards the question of title by adverse possession. Yarbrough v. Moody, 48 C. A. 227, 106 S. W. 891.

Payment of taxes on land by one in possession under a deed of an undivided interest, held to be ascribed to that interest as regards adverse possession. Yarbrough v. Whitman, 60 C. A. 391, 110 S. W. 471.

There was no payment of taxes on land, so as to give title thereto by adverse possession under the five-year statute, where the description in the assessment was of other lands. Sharpe v. Kellogg, 53 C. A. 544, 116 S. W. 461.

Tax deeds, void upon their face for want of certainty and falsity of description of the land claimed, are not to be deemed deeds duly registered, and will not support the plea of limitation of five years. Nor are they deemed title of title or color of title to sustain the plea of possession for three years, etc. Kilpatrick v. Sisneros, 23
A deed does not convey a good title to the land does not prevent it from being available under a five-year statute of limitation. Hunton v. Nichols, 55 T. 217.
Possession under a void grant will not support limitation under this article. Parker
A deed executed by a married woman, in which her husband did not join, it not appearing on the face of the instrument that she was a married woman, will support limitation under this article. Fry v. Baker, 59 T. 404.
A deed from a city to a portion of an alley will not pass title thereto, but adverse possession under such deed and payment of taxes for the required time will support the statute of limitations of five years. Dwyer v. Hosea, 1 U. S. 596.
Landowners are bound to take notice of all deeds recorded in the county where their land lies, in so far as the boundaries in such deeds may extend, to protect their possession under the five-year statute of limitations. But no one is bound to take notice of things extrinsic to the contents of the deed itself in a case where a stranger claims under a recorded deed that has no connection with the title.
It is not necessary that the recorded deed under which possession is held should have been executed by more than one of two persons composing a partnership, he

LIMITATIONS

In trespass to try title the defense of five-year limitation is not established, unless a continuity of possession, a sufficient deed, and record of the deeds forming a chain of title is shown. Lackey v. Bennett (Civ. App.) 65 S. W. 651.

Tax deeds are admissible in support of a plea of five-year limitation, without proof of validity of the sale for taxes. Gillaspie v. Murray, 27 C. A. 580, 66 S. W. 252.

A deed conveying a deed absolute in form, but in fact a mortgage, nothing short of adverse possession on the part of the mortgagor, satisfying a requirement of the statute barring actions for land, would vest title in the mortgagor by limitations. Stafford v. Stafford, 29 C. A. 73, 71 S. W. 984.

Where one person is in possession of land claiming title to it, but holding under a recorded deed made to an entirely different person, although for the benefit of the person in possession, neither one can compute the time of such possession as a part of the five years. Thomson v. Thomson' (Civ. App.) 78 S. W. 731, 73 S. W. 15.

Where tax deed was issued to husband during the wife's lifetime, but he did not record the same until after her death, the children of the wife acquired no interest by inheritance from her to the land. By registration of deed and subsequent occupancy of the land for period prescribed by law the husband acquired full title in his own right. Gafford v. Foster, 56 C. A. 56, 81 S. W. 63.

Where a deed by a city, conveying an alley to which it had no title, did not appear on its face to void, it was a sufficient basis for a plea of limitation of five years. Peden v. Crenshaw (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 359.

The statute does not prescribe that the person in possession shall claim under a deed in his own name. A tenant claims land under the deed to his landlord, and the heir claims under the deed to his ancestor, yet the possession of either tenant or heir under such a deed will support a plea of five-year limitation. Thomson v. Weisman, 98 T. 176, 82 S. W. 504.

Possession of land by a grantee under a deed which conveyed no title held insufficient to confer title by adverse possession under the five-year statute. Peden v. Crenshaw, 98 T. 365, 84 S. W. 562.

Possession of land by a purchaser thereof at a tax sale held not adverse within the five-year statute. Niday v. Cochran, 42 C. A. 292, 93 S. W. 1027.

Deed containing defective certificate of acknowledgment held inadmissible to sustain claim of title under five-year limitation. Hughes v. Wright & Vaughan (Civ. App.) 97 S. W. 525.

Where a vendee caused the land to be conveyed to a third person to secure an indebtedness, the deed was nevertheless sufficient to constitute color of title to enable the vendee to acquire title under the five-year statute. Kirby v. Hayden, 44 C. A. 207, 99 S. W. 746.

A deed from a husband and wife held sufficient to support the grantee's title of five years, although defectively acknowledged by the wife. State Nat. Bank of Robertson Co. v. Osris (Civ. App.) 103 S. W. 484.

Evidence of a deed by a remainderman to a husband and wife of property in which the wife had a life interest as her separate property held immaterial on the issue of color of title created by a deed of the husband and wife, void as to the wife because of defects in the wife's acknowledgment. Kimmey v. Abney (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 885.

A patent that is neither title nor color of title is not such an instrument as will support a title under the five-year statute. Gilbert v. Harris (Civ. App.) 109 S. W. 392.

While a tax deed will support the plea of limitation, the statute does not begin to run before the expiration of the redemption period. Beatty v. O'Harro, 49 C. A. 404, 109 S. W. 414.

An instrument held not a mere executory contract insufficient as a basis for adverse possession under the five-year statute. Yarbrough v. Whitman, 50 C. A. 291, 110 S. W. 471.

A deed, the certificate of acknowledgment of which, as recorded, did not state that the grantor was known to the acknowledging officer as the person who signed it, held insufficient to support a claim under adverse possession under the five-year limitation, though the acknowledgment was in fact proper. Callen v. Collins, 56 C. A. 620, 120 S. W. 546.

A duly recorded tax deed, regular on its face, is sufficient to support a claim of title under the five-year limitation. Id.

Under the five-year statute of limitations, a grantee who under a deed has color of title can only claim adverse possession to the interest conveyed. Merriman v. Blalack, 56 C. A. 394, 121 S. W. 552.

A quitclaim deed is sufficient color of title to support a claim under the five-year statute. Id.

A deed held not a mere quitclaim or option to purchase as to three-fourths of the league of land conveyed thereby, but a deed of the whole league, sufficient to support a claim under the five-year limitation, or sufficient, as a memorandum of title, to support a claim under the ten-year limitation. Merriman v. Blalack, 57 C. A. 270, 122 S. W. 402.

The possession of land under a tax deed is not adverse to the owner during the two years within which the land may be redeemed. Bledsoe v. Haney, 57 C. A. 285, 125 S. W. 455.

An instrument held a conveyance of land and not a mere quitclaim of the grantor's interest, and was therefore sufficient to sustain a claim of limitations. Kirby v. Pitchfork Land & Cattle Co. (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1151.

A deed by a widow as the legal representative of her husband, which recites that, in consideration of an advancement to an heir of the part due him, to be deducted from the interest due him as an heir, in the final settlement of the estate, is inventoried at a specified sum per acre and accepted by the heir as grantee on that valuation, and which grants a tract described, and which contains a general warranty clause, which provides that, on the failure of title, the heir needs to account for the value of the land in the final partition of the estate, is a deed within this article. Glasscock v. Dimmitt (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 822.
Where the grantee under a recorded deed merely held title for the benefit of a company with whom the real owner, the conveyor, held title in his own name. Burnham v. Hardy Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 330.

A junior patent regularly issued, which conveyed all the title the state then had, if an act of inspection color of title to support a claim under the five-year limitation, not being absolutely void, but only voidable by the senior patentee. Horton v. Half (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 735.

Registration.—When a deed has been properly recorded, the subsequent removal or destruction of the records, without the fault of the party claiming under the deed, cannot prejudice his right. Fitch v. Boyer, 51 T. 356. But see article 574 as to the necessity of recording deeds, etc., when the original record has been destroyed.

The deed evidencing the claim under which the defendant entered must be recorded (Porter v. Wilkins, 60 T. 400) in the county where the land is situated (Adams v. Hayden, 60 T. 223; Jones v. Powers, 65 T. 207; Cook v. Dennis, 61 T. 246).

The statute of limitations of five years applies only when the adverse possession has been continuous during the full period of five years, and the deed or deeds under which title is claimed have been registered during the same continuous period. An adverse possession antedating the registration of the deed cannot be estimated in computing the five-year period of limitation. Harvey v. Cummings, 68 T. 639, 6 S. W. 513.

One adversely in possession of land may prescribe under a recorded deed to one who devised the land to him, without having recorded the will. McLavy v. Jones, 31 C. 264, 72 S. W. 477.

Record of deed held insufficient to support the five-year statute. Henning v. Wren, 32 C. A. 538, 75 S. W. 906.

Possession, to avail under five-year statute, must be under a deed duly recorded. Logan v. Robertson (Civ. App.) 82 S. W. 396.

Adverse possession under the five years' statute held not sufficient; defendant's deed being improperly registered. Veedler v. Gilmer, 47 C. A. 464, 105 S. W. 331.

Under the facts, adverse possession held to have commenced as to an entire tract from the time that the claimant recorded a deed thereto. Holland v. Perris (Civ. App.) 197 S. W. 102.

A deed by husband and wife held to show on its face that it was a conveyance of the husband's separate estate, so far, that her acknowledgment being defective, it was not such a properly registered deed by the husband as would support a title by limitations. Kimmey v. Abney (Civ. App.) 197 S. W. 825.

The five-year statute does not protect one claiming under a deed from an individual where he does not show the date of the recording of the deed. Haring v. Shelton, 103 T. 10, 122 S. W. 13.

Where title was complete in defendant's remote grantor at the latter's death, it was immaterial to defendant's right to claim title by adverse possession that deeds of subsequent grantors were not recorded a sufficient length of time before the commencement of the action to base a claim by limitations thereon. Merriman v. Blalock, 57 C. A. 270, 123 S. W. 403.

Where the record of a married woman's deed conveying her separate property showed that an acknowledgment certificate of acknowledgment had been recorded, the deed was not "duly recorded" so as to support a plea of title by limitations. Id.

Where a deed in the chain of title under which one claims title by adverse possession under the five-year statute has not been duly recorded, the possession essential to constitute title by adverse possession is broken. Dunn v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 311.

Where considerable time has elapsed between the execution and registration of deeds offered in support of a plea of adverse possession, evidence must be offered to explain the delay. Dunn v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 266.

To give title to land under the five-year statute, more than five years' continuous occupancy and use of land under a deed and payment of taxes is insufficient if the deed was not recorded for full five years. William Cameron & Co. v. Collier (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1378.

The continuity of possession of land relied on by defendant in an action to recover land under a plea of limitations was interrupted by failure, for more than a year after execution of deeds under which he claims, to record them. Snow v. Letcher (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 356.

The fact that land which defendants held adversely, and on which they paid the taxes, was not registered under the proper abstract number held not to prevent defendants from acquiring an adverse title. W. D. Cleveland & Sons v. Smith (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 247.

Description of land.—A deed void upon its face, for want of sufficient certainty in the description of the land it purports to convey, will not support the plea of five-year limitation. Wofford v. McKenna, 23 T. 36, 76 Am. Dec. 53; Kilpatrick v. Bennett, 22 T. 12; Flanagan v. Boggess, 23 T. 339; Cantagrel v. Von Lupin, 6 T. 670; Murphy v. Welder, 68 T. 235.

The description in a deed was as follows: "Two hundred acres of land in Hill county, Texas, lying about six miles northeast of Hillbboro, and located by virtue of part of M. E. Atkinson 320 acres certificate." Held, a sufficient description under the five years' statute; the two hundred acres being the whole of the survey at that place. Flanagan v. Kirkpatrick, 1 C. A. 107, 21 S. W. 406. When a tax deed gives what on its face appears to be a sufficient description of the land conveyed, and there is no evidence developing any latent uncertainty, the authorities do not decide that such a deed does not satisfy the statute of limitations. Flanagan v. Bogess, 46 T. 221.

The deed must describe the land with sufficient certainty to identify it. Murphy v. Welder, 58 T. 235. Possession under a recorded deed, which described the land as "all the land" which the vendor owned in H. county, is sufficient, when it appears that the vendor had a recorded deed describing the particular land. Cantagrel v. Von Lupin, 58 T. 570.

In order that the five-year statute be invoked, the land described in the deed should coincide with the land held in possession. Brosky v. McKenzie, 63 T. 373, 6 S. W. 623. It is not fatal that the deed describes the land erroneously as to the survey, if the description in other respects, with reference to objects on the ground, fixes its locality. Udell v. Peak, 70 T. 547, 7 S. W. 786.

A description of land in a deed otherwise identifying it is not vitiated by a mistake in giving the number of the certificate by which the land was located. Stout v. Taul, 71 T. 435, 9 S. W. 239.

A deed to all in a city or town only conveys the land to the line of the street, and the statute of limitations of five years does not apply where the owner takes and holds adverse possession of a portion of the street adjoining. Rippeteau v. Low, 1 U. 476.

The deed must, by its own terms, or by reference to some other registered deed, identify the land. Clark v. Kirby (Civ. App.) 25 S. W. 1096.

A deed which has a defective description is insufficient on which to base title by limitation. Newton v. Alexander (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 416.

A deed held insufficient for adverse possession. Williams v. Thomas, 18 C. A. 475, 44 S. W. 1073; Bruce v. Richardson, 26 C. A. 615, 64 S. W. 785. Routree v. Thompson, 30 C. A. 806, 71 S. W. 574, 72 S. W. 69.

There can be no adverse possession under deeds which do not describe the land. Simpson v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 1076.

In trespass to try title, a defendant claiming under a deed conveying an undivided half interest in the land held to have acquired title to the half interest by adverse possession. Club Land & Cattle Co. v. Wall, 99 T. 561, 91 S. W. 778, 122 Am. St. Rep. 668; Id. v. Hill, 93 S. W. 284.

Where the evidence disclosed a privity of holding for a period which would bar plaintiff's right to recover, an objection that certain conveyances in defendant's chain of title did not properly describe the land held immaterial. Lawder v. Larkin (Civ. App.) 94 S. W. 171.

Possession of one claiming land under a deed duly registered, and who enters upon and improves or incloses a part of the land embraced in the boundaries specified in his deed, extends to all the land embraced in the true boundaries of such deed. Davidson v. Equitable Securities Co. (Civ. App.) 96 S. W. 787.

The description in a deed held sufficient that it could not be considered a deed duly registered under the five-year statute. Young v. Tranth, 43 C. A. 611, 97 S. W. 147.

Though there may be a mistake in calls for course and distance in a description of the land, the deed will be sufficient color of title upon which to base adverse possession, where the mistake is apparent from the face of the deed, and the intention of the grantor as to the land attempted to be conveyed is obvious. Moore v. Loggins (Civ. App.) 114 S. W. 183.

Where defendant took no title under certain deeds, they were available as color of title under the five-year limitation only to the land or interest described. Kimbell v. Powl, 57 C. A. 57, 121 S. W. 641.

A recorded deed held sufficient to support a claim by adverse possession under the five-year limitations, though the block number was incorrectly given in the record. Eastham v. Gibba (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 372.

Title to land included in the description of a deed could be obtained by adverse use for the proper time, regardless of preceding deeds, or other deeds not referred to therein or of any mistake as to what land was described in the deeds. Basham v. Stude (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 662.

Where the description in a deed, by the assistance of parol evidence, may be located on the ground, the deed will be held sufficient to inaugurate a title under either the five or ten year statute of limitations. Noland v. Weems (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 1031.

A deed, conveying grantor's undivided interest in certain surveys, and reciting that the land conveyed by K. to T., sufficiently described the land conveyed, so as to support a claim under the five-year limitation; there being no other surveys of the same number, and the deed from K. to T. being on record. Clifton v. Creason (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 323.

Where grantor only had an undivided interest of 61 acres when he conveyed his "entire interest," the deed would support a claim under the five-year limitation by granting to only 61 acres. Id.

Forged deed.—A title cannot be acquired under this article by possession for five years. But if by a deed conveying a certificate for land which is not a forged deed within the meaning of this statute. Brown v. O'Brien, 11 C. A. 459, 33 S. W. 267.

The five-year statute is not available to adverse claimants where the must deprive their title through a forged deed. Logan v. Robertson (Civ. App.) 83 S. W. 390.

Presumptions and burden of proof.—See notes under Art. 3687, Rules 12 and 19.

Pleading.—See notes under Title 37, Chapter 3, and Art. 5706.
Art. 5675. [3343] Ten years' possession, when a bar.—Any person who has the right of action for the recovery of any lands, tenements or hereditaments against another having peaceable and adverse possession thereof, cultivating, using or enjoying the same, shall institute his suit therefor within ten years next after his cause of action shall have accrued, and not afterward. [Id. sec. 17. P. D. 4621-4624.]

In general.—See Campbell v. Houchin (Civ. App.) 35 S. W. 783. An action of trespass to try title to certain lots bought at a sale for taxes due on them was against persons holding them under claim of right. The defendants pleaded that the tax deed was void, and any title passed, it was only such as the real owner of the land had at the time of sale. (2) That such a person stands in relation to persons in possession under claim of right, but with no title, just as the real owner would have stood there been no sale. (3) That if the tax deed had been instituted by the real owner at the time it was, if his right of action would have been barred by the statute of limitations, so would that of the purchaser at tax sale or those holding under him. Jordan v. Higgins, 63 T. 150.

That a defendant claimed a pre-emption upon actual residence does not prohibit him from acquiring other lands by possession under the limitation of ten years. Dawson v. Ward, 71 T. 72, 9 S. W. 106.

Sheriff's sale September, 1879, passed title to the purchaser. Suit upon such title against defendants in execution for land sold was filed October 7, 1886. Held, that defendant could not have acquired title by possession within that time against plaintiff holding under the sheriff's sale. Aiston v. Emmerson, 82 T. 221, 18 S. W. 586, 29 Am. St. Rep. 639.

The proviso to Art. 5674 in regard to forged deeds, etc., does not apply under this article. Mundine v. McRill, 21 S. W. 414, 2 C. C. 457.

Where an heir takes possession under a judgment in partition, the title becomes perfect after a lapse of ten years, without reference to the validity of the judgment as against creditors of the estate. Limitation would commence to run from the date of the judgment and not from the date of a subsequent invalid sale at the suit of creditors. Hardin v. Clark, 1 C. A. 565, 21 S. W. 977.

Possession of land by defendant for ten years held insufficient to confer title on him as against plaintiff, who held the record title. Nolan v. Mundine, 34 C. A. 606, 79 S. W. 628.

In trespass to try title, held, that the petition should have been held for trial on the merits, and plaintiffs' adjudged 160 acres, to be set apart to them so as to include their improvements, under this and the following article. Parker v. William Cameron & Co., 39 C. A. 36, 68 S. W. 847.

Adverse possession and other requisites for the time prescribed are sufficient, though the time did not immediately precede the filing of suit. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Texas Tram & Lumber Co., 50 C. A. 382, 110 S. W. 140.

A naked trespasser by entering into actual possession of a part of a large tract, surveying such part, and claiming it to such designated lines, acquired title thereto by limitations. Texas & N. O. Ry. Co. v. Broom, 53 C. A. 78, 114 S. W. 655.

Where one in possession of a portion of a survey of land seeks to recover a definite portion of the field notes of his claim, the multiplicity of his title does not overcome the fact that he has occupied the land described in his petition for ten years prior to institution of the suit. Louisiana & T. Lumber Co. v. Kennedy, 103 T. 297, 126 S. W. 1110.

In trespass to try title, where plaintiffs claimed the property which they had occupied, conveyed certain property, and that as consideration therefor the grantee conveyed the property in controversy to the wife, and that the husband and wife moved onto the property and there resided for ten years as husband and wife, was admissible to show title by the ten-year statute. Ross v. Martin (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 718.

One in adverse possession of another's land claiming an easement acquires an easement as of right after the continuance of such possession for ten years. Fin & Feather Club v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 150.

To acquire a prescriptive title to land under the ten-year statute, each of the several and statutory requirements must be proved by a preponderance of evidence. McAllen v. Crafts (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 41.

One held to have acquired title under the ten-year statute. Kansas City Oil & Rice Land Co. v. Ogden (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 808.

One who has been in the adverse possession for ten years dating from the accrual of a third person's right of action, at the time of the filing of his application for the purchase of the land as school land and paying the price, acquires title by adverse possession under the ten-year limitation. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. McGrew (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 191.

A college, incorporated in 1839 by an act of the republic of Texas granting land to trustees, with a right to dispose thereof and use the proceeds for the college, is within this [art. Trutchen's Coll. of De Kuhl v. Williams (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 348.

The "possession" in the ten-year statute means an actual residence on the land, or such cultivation, use, and enjoyment of the same, by such visible and notorious acts of ownership, as will give notice to the owner and others, and such possession may be by tenant. Carlyon v. Willard (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 364.
Possession.—See, also, Arts. 5676, 5680-5692.

In trespass on title, commenced in 1890, an allegation of title in plaintiff by limitation for a period of more than ten years prior to the filing of the suit was supported by proof of a completed adverse possession between 1870 and 1880. Travis v. Hall, 95 T. 116, 62 S. W. 1077, 1078.

The peaceable and adverse possession for ten years of 5 acres, which are inclosed with claim of 160 acres, gives title to 160 acres. Fischer v. Giddings (Civ. App.) 74 S. W. 86.

A charge that one's possession for ten years must be visible, distinct, notorious and continued and hostile for the full period of ten years prior to the filing of suit, and actual, open and peaceful possession must dispose the land from the owner, is not erroneous. The court should not amplify the terms of the statute. Logan v. Meads, 43 C. A. 477, 98 S. W. 212.

A charge mingled or dependent on cultivation, use "and" enjoyment in connection with possession is erroneous. Hess v. Webb (Civ. App.) 115 S. W. 618.

"Requisites of possession to vest title" defined. Jones v. Weaver (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 619.

"Possession," as contemplated by the ten-year statute, means actual residence on the land and such use and enjoyment of the same by visible and notorious acts of ownership as will give notice to the owner and others. Carlock v. Willard (Civ. App.) 149 S. T. 362.

A special finding as to how long a certain strip had been inclosed was properly refused, where the court found that all of the land had been in defendants' peaceable and adverse possession since 1886. Sanders v. Moore (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 441.

Laches and stale demand.—See notes under Art. 7740 and other particular remedies.

Plaintiff held entitled under the evidence to be subrogated to the rights and securities of a prior mortgagee. Park v. Kribs, 24 C. A. 660, 60 S. W. 905.

Art. 5676. [3344] Ten years' possession construed to embrace, what.—The peaceable and adverse possession contemplated in the preceding article, as against the person having right of action, shall be construed to embrace not more than one hundred and sixty acres, including the improvements or the number of acres actually inclosed, should the same exceed one hundred and sixty acres; but when such possession is taken and held under some written memorandum of title, other than a deed, which fixes the boundaries of the possessor's claim and is duly registered, such peaceable possession shall be construed to be co-extensive with the boundaries specified in such instrument. [Id. P. D. 4624.]

In general.—See, also, notes under the preceding article.

Possession of part, see note under Art. 5681.

One sustaining his claim under this section can hold the full statutory number of acres, but if he holds under some recorded memoranda of title he holds only to the extent of the boundary described in the instrument. Pearson v. Boyd, 63 T. 541.

The construction placed upon the former law, giving the title to 640 acres without inclosure, etc., is the rule of construction for this article. Under both laws the possessor may hold what he has actually inclosed, though it exceeds the area to which his possession is construed to extend from an occupation of a part only. The present law, as distinguished from registration of written memorandum of title other than a deed necessary to make possession co-extensive with the boundaries specified in the memorandum of title. Craig v. Cartwright, 65 T. 413, citing Word v. Droothett, 44 T. 369; Pears­son v. Boyd, 63 T. 541; Smith v. Harza, 47 T. 159; 36 T. 470; Hobolcumb, 26 T. 714; Melton v. Turner, 83 T. 81; Mooring v. Campbell, 47 T. 37; Bridges v. John­son, 69 T. 716, 7 S. W. 596; Branch v. Baker, 70 T. 190, 7 S. W. 808.

Where the improvements are upon one separate and distinct land adjoining each other, the settler claiming both tracts under the ten-year limitation by virtue of one and the same possession, and he sells out of one tract all that he is entitled to claim by virtue of naked possession, he cannot claim upon the other tract beyond his actual occupancy. Snow v. Starr, 75 T. 411, 12 S. W. 673.

In Schleicher v. Gatlin, 85 T. 270, 20 S. W. 120, it is held that the occupation of land under the belief that it was vacant will not support the plea of ten-year limitation. A contrary ruling is made in Converse v. Ringer, 24 S. W. 707, 6 C. A. 51. In Cartwright v. Pipes, 29 S. W. 696, 9 C. A. 309, it is said that the decision in the Schleicher-Gatlin case was right on the facts, but that it is not authority. In Longley v. Warren, 11 C. A. 269, 33 S. W. 304, reviewing the former cases, it is held that an occupant of land, erroneously believing it to be vacant public land, may by such occupancy acquire title by adverse possession against the true owner. See Alexander v. Newton, 11 C. A. 618, 33 S. W. 306.

A defendant claiming by limitation a tract of less than 160 acres can assert his right to all of it, without apportioning his 160 acres between it and another tract not in dispute. Durst v. Skillern (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 840.

A person showing ten years' peaceable possession of 320 acres prior to 1879 held entitled to judgment. Simpson v. Johnson, 92 T. 159, 46 S. W. 628.

One entering on large tract, and taking possession of 160 acres, which he marks off, may acquire the title thereto after ten years. McCarty v. Johnson, 20 C. A. 184, 49 S. W. 1998.

See this case for facts which show that a party secured complete title to 320 acres by adverse possession for more than ten years prior to the passage of the statute of 1879 after deducting the period in which the statute of limitations was suspended. Johnson v. Simpson, 22 C. A. 299, 54 S. W. 388.
A naked trespasser having possession of a part of a tract of vacant land belonging to another, claiming and holding same openly and adversely, has by force of the terms of the statute constructive possession of 160 acres, if so much is in the tract. And if he holds the same for ten years his title is perfect. Nativel v. Raymond (Civ. App.) 59 S. W. 313.

Defendant in trespass to try title held entitled to the dwelling house, on evidence of adverse possession for 10 years. Thompson v. Dutton, 96 T. 205, 71 S. W. 544.

Where there is no muniment of title of record, one can claim under naked possession no more than 160 acres of land. Watts v. Bruce, 31 C. A. 947, 72 S. W. 269.

Where land was not inclosed, and one actually occupied a part, limitations did not run in his favor as regards the portion not actually occupied, in the absence of a showing that the occupancy and use of the remainder had been exclusive. Zapeda v. Hoffmann, 71 A. 312, 72 S. W. 443.

Where two persons were in possession of 160 acres, claiming the land as pre­emptors, and one inclosed 80 acres by him and the other inclosed 30 acres of the 80 acres claimed by him, and no one was in possession of the tract not inclosed, they acquired by ten years' possession title to the whole 160-acre tract. Price v. Eardley, 34 C. A. 69, 77 S. W. 418.

The sale of land having divested the then owner of his title and claim under his deed, his subsequent possession was that of a trespasser and as such he could only acquire title to the land actually occupied by him, or if his occupancy extended to less than 160 acres, he could by virtue of the statute have his claim extended to include that amount of land. Doom v. Taylor, 35 C. A. 251, 75 S. W. 1088.

An action to try title under the 10-year statute of limitations, in which plaintiff claimed no specific tract out of a section, but only 160 acres out of the same, held not maintainable. Titel v. Garland, 99 T. 201, 87 S. W. 1152.

While it is not required that all the land in the peaceable and adverse possession of one seeking to acquire title should be under the same or improved, yet there must be peaceable and adverse possession thereof. Webb v. Lyler, 43 C. A. 124, 94 S. W. 1096.

This article became effective September 1, 1879, the time when the revised statutes of 1879 took effect. Persons who went into possession of land in 1861 could not acquire title by the ten-year limitation to more than 160 acres, by virtue of Pasch. Dig. art. 4624, the statute of limitations in Texas having been suspended from January 28, 1861, to March 30, 1870. Excluding the time when the statute was suspended there was not ten years in which to acquire title to more than 160 acres. Poland v. Porter, 44 C. A. 334, 98 S. W. 217, 218.

One held to have acquired title to 160 acres by adverse possession. Davis v. Receiver of Houston Oil Co., 50 C. A. 597, 111 S. W. 219.

Blight of one in adverse possession of a tract, the particular boundaries of which have not been defined by occupancy or claim for the statutory period, stated. Smith v. Simpson Bank, 52 C. A. 109, 113 S. W. 568.

Unless one claims under a deed, one does not acquire title under the ten-year statute to land not in actual possession. Simpson Bank v. Smith, 52 C. A. 249, 114 S. W. 446.

The rule that a person in actual possession of a few acres is entitled to recover 160 acres only applies where there is an assertion and claim to the 160 acres. Williams v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., 52 C. A. 217, 114 S. W. 877.

When one holding land adversely for ten years without claiming under any muniment of title fixing the boundaries of his claim may assert title to 160 acres thereof without showing actual occupancy of the whole, stated. Vann v. Denison, 56 C. A. 220, 120 S. W. 1029.

Where the evidence was sharply conflicting as to whether defendant claimed adversely any land beyond his original inclosure, an instruction that the fencing and possession of some 12 acres, in connection with defendant's adjoining tract, did not support his claim to the larger ten-year limitation, was not error. And, in connection with defendant's acts with reference to the land, was sufficient to put a reasonably prudent person on notice that defendant claimed title to all the land, was proper. Hedrick v. Kilgore, 57 C. A. 47, 121 S. W. 892.

Where the undisputed evidence showed that plaintiff had improvements on, and held possession of, the rear part of the lot, it was not error for the court to state such fact to the jury. Washam v. Harrison (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 52.

Evidence held to show that a survey by an occupant claiming 160 acres of a tract by adverse occupation setting off his portion was not a fair partition between the parties. Louisiana & T. Lumber Co. v. Kennedy, 103 T. 297, 126 S. W. 1110.

The possession of one claiming adverse possession held to extend to the limits of an entire tract. Stevens v. Pedregon (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 296.

The possession of one actually in possession of land within lines fixed and acknowledged held not subject to extension by construction to other land. Nolans v. Weems (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 1031.

A part of a person's fence and improved land lies in a survey adjoining the one on which he has his residence and the remainder of his improvements held not to prevent his recovery of 160 acres on the section on which he lives. Houston Oil Co. v. Texas v. McGrew (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 191.

The possession of land held to acquire title by adverse possession to 160 acres. Lutcher v. Grant (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 1190.

One who used, cultivated, and enjoyed land peaceably and adversely for ten years acquired title thereto, regardless of the ownership or existence of any fence enclosing the land. Houston Cattle Co. v. Barnhart (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 265.

One who, without deed or recorded memorandum of title, has peaceable and adverse possession of land, claiming title, and cultivating, using, or enjoying the same for ten years, acquires title to 160 acres of the land so held. Carlcock v. Willard (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 265.
Possession under written memorandum of title—Constructive possession extends to lands within the boundaries in the deed. But this rule does not obtain against the owner of a senior grant where there is a partial conflict, unless possession of junior grantee extends to that part of his grant within the boundaries of the older grant. Whitehead v. Foley, 28 T. 268; Parker v. Baines, 65 T. 606; Turner v. Moore, 81 T. 209, 16 S. W. 929; Cook v. Lister, 15 C. A. 31, 38 S. W. 380.

An intruder holds only to the limits of his actual boundaries. One who enters under a mistaken color of title may hold to the boundaries described in the deed under which he claims. Cantagrel v. Von Lupin, 58 T. 570.

But he is not affected with notice that an adjoining proprietor has encroached by his fence a few feet over the line, for the purpose of acquiring a part of his land under the ten-year statute. This is only where the party who sets up limitation entered under a recorded deed, which on its face discloses a conflict, and assumes to convey title, that the true owner whose land is held adversely is notified of the adverse claim. Bracken v. Jones, 63 T. 184.

A possessor, the calls of whose deed through mistake embraced part of an adjoining survey to which the vendor held no title, occupied the land so included by mistake, but asserted no claim to any portion of such survey, except to the land so occupied by him, until after the expiration of ten years and after he had abandoned possession. His actual and constructive possession being identical, he obtained no title to any portion of such survey except that which was actually and visibly appropriated by him under a claim of right hostile to the claim of the true owner. Ivey v. Peaty, 70 T. 178, 7 S. W. 795.

A deed of a part of a tract of land extends to the boundaries claimed. Porter v. Miller, 76 T. 696, 13 S. W. 555, 14 S. W. 334.

A possession of a party entering under a deed of a large tract is sufficient to put the statute in operation as to the entire tract described in the deed, other facts concurring. Talsafero v. Butler, 77 T. 578, 14 S. W. 191.

Possession of that part of the land which is indisputably covered by an indefinite deed does not draw to it constructive possession of that part which is in controversy, where for years the grantees asserted no claim to it. Pope v. Riggs (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 306.

A bond for title to land, duly registered and twenty years old, held a sufficient color of title on which to base the defense of limitation under the ten-year statute. Wille v. Ellis, 22 C. A. 462, 54 S. W. 922.

Where owner of tract, before selling all to defendant's vendor, sold part to plaintiff's vendor, defendant actually in possession of the part not sold to plaintiff did not constructively extend to the latter part. Beaumont Pasture Co. v. Folk (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 614.

One in actual possession of any part of an entire tract, as shown by the deed under which he claims, has constructive possession coextensive with the boundaries designated in his deed. Boggess v. Allen (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 130.

Possession of one tract held constructive possession of adjoining tract, conveyed as part of the same body of land. Allen v. Boggess, 94 T. 83, 58 S. W. 833.

Where defendant, under a deed covering land in controversy and adjoining land, entered and occupied the adjoining land, he could be held to be in constructive possession, where he held possession for more than twenty years, his possession should be deemed coextensive with the description in his deed, so as to give defendant title by adverse possession. Coleman v. Florey (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 412.

Possession under a junior conveyance of a part of the land included in the deed held adverse possession only of the part actually possessed. Folk v. Beaumont Pasture Co., 26 C. A. 342, 64 S. W. 58.

Where plaintiff's husband, acting under a power of attorney from her, sold and executed a deed of her land, the deed, though void as a conveyance, as against her, is sufficient in memorandum of title. Williams v. Bradley (Civ. App.) 67 S. W. 170.

A deed, by mistake including land in its description, held not to interfere with one's acquiring title thereto by the ten-year statute of limitations. Ellis v. Le Bow, 30 C. A. 445, 71 S. W. 576.

Plaintiffs in trespass to try title held barred by limitations, defendants having had actual possession of part for ten years, claiming all under a bond for title. Ellis v. Le Bow, 96 T. 332, 74 S. W. 525.

Fact held to establish title in a subsequent grantee of land by limitation, as against a prior grantor under an unrecorded deed. Pierson v. McClintock, 34 C. A. 369, 78 S. W. 706.

Possession of land by one claiming under a deed held not to extend to the boundaries called for from the deed, so long as the same remains unrecorded. Doom v. Taylor, 35 C. A. 351, 79 S. W. 1086.

Compromise of an action relating to a portion of the alley, which defendant claimed under a deed, held not to affect defendant's constructive possession of another portion of the alley. Greenlaw v. Greenlaw (Civ. App.) 83 W. 369.

Actual possession by the grantee in a deed of a part of the land conveyed gives constructive possession to the extent of the boundaries of the deed. Id.

The possession of the east half of a survey held as a distinct tract under one deed describing it alone could not be extended by construction to the boundaries of the west half.

A deed together with other deeds held a sufficient memorandum to authorize a recovery by the grantee under the ten-year statute. State Nat. Bank of New Orleans v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 103 S. W. 454.

Under Arts. 5676, 5677, a trespasser or "naked possessor" cannot acquire by peaceable and adverse possession more than 160 acres of the land claimed and occupied, but if the occupant takes possession and holds under deed or some memorandum of title duly recorded, his possession will be coextensive with the boundaries specified in the instrument. Id.

Though a deed be void as a conveyance and is not title nor color of title under Art. 5672, yet it is admissible in evidence in determining the extent of the disseisin and fixing the boundaries, Sanders v. Word, 60 C. A. 294, 110 S. W. 396.

Actual possession of a portion of a tract under a deed calling for all of it, on compliance with other statutory requisites, constitutes possession of the entire tract, except as against the true owner in actual possession of a portion of the land, in which case the claimant's title is limited to the land in his actual possession. Craver v. Ragon (Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 489.

One in actual possession under a void grant describing the land may hold and prescribe under the ten-year statute to the extent of the boundaries of the grant. Harris v. Igelhart, 52 C. A. 6, 115 S. W. 770.

Where one has possession of a portion of a tract under a recorded deed, the record is notice to all opposing claimants as to the character and extent of his claim, but such record is not notice of any claim to the land, unless the claimant has possession thereof. Hargis v. Sabine, 102 T. 77, 114 S. W. 346.

The grantee under a deed to undivided interests held not to have acquired adverse possession beyond the limits of the deed under the ten-year statute. Merriman v. Blalock, 56 C. A. 504, 121 S. W. 532.

Certain acts by a grantee, improving land upon which he entered under a deed, held sufficient to support title by limitations to the entire tract, whether the deed is considered as a duly registered deed under the five-year limitation, or as a written memorandum of title under the ten-year limitation. Merriman v. Blalock, 67 C. A. 278, 122 S. W. 402.

Actual possession by grantee of part of land covered by deed held not to extend by construction to the rest of it, so as to give title by adverse possession. Lowry v. McDaniel (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 710.

A claimant erected a corral 160 feet square on land, and used it for fourteen years in open, peaceable, and adverse possession, claiming the land to the extent shown by the description in his deed, and using timber thereon for firewood. Held, that there was possession of the whole tract sufficient to create title under the ten-year limitations. Rodriguez v. Priest (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 1137.

One who himself or by a tenant actually resides upon a large tract and claims it for ten years acquires title to 160 acres thereof, including his improvements, or the amount included in his deed if he claims under a deed, irrespective of whether such tract is inclosed. Frazer v. Seureau (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 649.

One's right to acquire title by limitation to more than 160 acres under the ten-year statute is not limited to cases where claim is made under a memorandum of title, as distinguished from a deed. Surgenor v. Ducey (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 22.

The rule that actual possession of any part of land described in a deed gives constructive possession of the whole applied. Id.

One who took possession of land under a recorded deed, and paid taxes, and used it for more than ten years as his own, acquired title by adverse possession under the five and ten year limitations. Horan v. O'Connell (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 1048.

Possession of part of a tract of land under a deed held not possession of another part in the peaceable possession of another. Cook's Hereford Cattle Co. v. Barnhart (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 662.

A possession of land by a grantee ripens into title under the ten-year statute, where such possession continues for ten years and the land is within the limits of a deed under which he claims. Cole v. Webb (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 249.

Description of land claimed by adverse possession held sufficient to identify the land. Griffin v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 567.

Where defendant claimed title by adverse possession, but only proved actual possession of four or a. a. area, and had no written evidence of title, except a mortgage which did not describe the boundaries, the court should have charged, as requested, that defendant's adverse possession. if any, would not embrace more than 160 acres. Fulshear v. Deadman (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 816.

A tenant to a survey is sufficient to give the grantee the benefit of the principle that actual possession of a part of a tract of land by the owner will be extended to give him constructive possession of the whole and prevent acquisition of title by adverse possession by one having no title beyond the limits of his actual inclosure. R. W. Wier Lumber Co. v. Conn (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 276.

Where a tenant of a defined tract of land leased a defined part thereof, the tenant's actual possession of the leased portion did not give the claimant constructive possession of the whole tract claimed by him. Id.

Pleading.—See notes under Title 37, Chapter 3, and Art. 5706.

Art. 5677. [3345] Land surrounded by other lands, etc., peaceable possession of defined.—A tract of land owned by one person, entirely surrounded by a tract or tracts owned, claimed or fenced by another, shall not be considered inclosed by a fence inclosing the circumscribing tract or tracts, or any part thereof; nor shall the possession by the owner or claimant of such circumscribing land of such interior tract be the peaceable and adverse possession contemplated by article 5675, unless the same be segregated and separated from the circumscribing land by a fence, or unless at least one-tenth thereof be cultivated and used for agricultural purposes, or used for manufacturing purposes. [Acts 1891, p. 76.]

In general.—This article has no application when the land owned by the person is merely adjacent to, and not surrounded by, that claimed and fenced by another. Green v. Boon, 14 C. A. 307, 27 S. W. 187; Cunningham v. Matthews (Civ. App.) 67 S. W. 1118; Daughtrey v. N. Y. & T. Land Co., 61 S. W. 947.

Art. 5678. [3346] Same subject.—Possession of land belonging to another by a person owning or claiming five thousand acres or more of lands inclosed by a fence in connection therewith, or adjoining thereto, shall not be the peaceable and adverse possession contemplated by article 5675, unless said land so belonging to another shall be segregated and separated by a substantial fence from said lands connected therewith or thereto adjoining, or unless at least one-tenth thereof shall be cultivated and used for agricultural purposes, or used for manufacturing purposes, or unless there be actual possession thereof. [Id.]

In general.—See, also, notes under Art. 5677.

After the passage of this statute (in 1891) the statute of ten years limitation will not give title to a tract of land included in an inclosure of more than 5,000 acres where there was no separation or segregation of the land claimed from the other tracts, and where there was no actual possession or cultivation of one-tenth of the land claimed. Flack v. Bremen, 45 C. A. 473, 101 S. W. 540, 541.

This article does not apply where the five-year statute is in question, but it does apply where the ten-year limitation is claimed by such an inclosure as is mentioned. It declares in effect that possession by inclosure of the specified size shall not be deemed the possession essential to ten-year limitation unless the other prescribed things exist. The same possession and claim held sufficient for five years, is made ineffectual for ten years. Dunn v. Taylor, 102 T. 80, 113 S. W. 263.

In so far as title under the five years statute is concerned, the size of the inclosure has nothing to do with the question. Hardy Oil Co. v. Burnham (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 221.

Art. 5679. [3347] Possession gives full title, when.—Whenever in any case the action of a person for the recovery of real estate is barred by any of the provisions of this chapter, the person having such peaceable and adverse possession shall be held to have full title, precluding all claims.

In general.—A possession which operates a dissisin of the true owner, continued for the period and under the conditions prescribed by the statutes, confers upon the possessor title to the thing possessed. Craig v. Cartwright, 65 T. 413. See Desmuke v. Houston (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 198; Bridges v. Johnson, 50 T. 714, 7 S. W. 606; Hand v. Swamy, C. A. 241, 21 S. W. 252.

The execution of a writ of possession against parties bound by the judgment under which it issued in no way affects the right of a party in possession of another part of the grant sued for, and not bound by the judgment, when such party had title to his land. Johnson v. Williams, 51 T. 51.

A title acquired by ten years' adverse possession is not based on any writing and therefore is not within the statute requiring registration or continued possession. Macgregor v. Thompson, 26 S. W. 646, 7 C. A. 82.

A right of way may be established by prescription. Railway Co. v. Gaines (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 266.

One who has acquired title by limitation is not required to give notice thereof by legal proceeding. East Texas Land & Improvement Co. v. Shelby, 17 C. A. 685, 41 S. W. 542.

The owner of a dam on a stream acquires a prescriptive right as against the owner of a lower dam who was first in time, the upper dam having been maintained for twenty years. Cape v. Thompson, 21 C. A. 681, 55 S. W. 268.

An action to enforce a lien upon land there being no adverse possession is not barred until the debt is barred. Adverse possession for the statutory period would probably preclude a claim for a lien. Wilcox v. First Nat. Bank, 93 T. 322, 55 S. W. 317.

The fact that defendant signed an agreement that the land in controversy was not a part of a certain survey held not to defeat his subsequent title by adverse possession for ten years under that survey. Daughtrey v. New York & T. Land Co. (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 947.

The evidence showing adverse possession under the 5 and 10 year statutes of limitation, a verdict for defendants held proper. Stipe v. Shirley, 27 C. A. 97, 84 S. W. 1012.

The peaceable continuous adverse possession of land for ten years by one claiming title confers "full title"; that is, all of the title which had emanated from the state years in the possessor, as against the claim of any and all persons. Burton's Heirs v. Carroll, 86 T. 320, 72 S. W. 552.

Adverse possession of land for ten years establishes a title against one whose title is derived from a judgment, though the adverse possessor be the defendant in such judgment. Pendleton v. McMains, 32 C. A. 575, 15 S. W. 349.
Right to property adversely occupied held barred by the ten-year statute. Wills v. Goodhue (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 874.

Where plaintiff and those under whom he claimed title had been in adverse possession for more than ten years, his title was perfect. Magerstadt v. Lambert, 39 C. A. 472, 87 S. W. 1068.

Possession held not indispensable to the presumption of a grant in countries where the lands are largely unsettled. Arthur v. Ridge, 40 C. A. 137, 89 S. W. 15.

Where a party buys land from a vendor against whom a judgment has been obtained, and properly recorded, and indexed in the county where the land lies, and takes and holds possession under "title" or "color of title" adverse to the judgment creditor until limitation has run, he acquires a good title by limitation in spite of the judgment lien obtained by the record of the judgment. White v. Pingenot, 49 C. A. 641, 90 S. W. 674, 677.

Whenever any cause of action for the recovery of real estate is barred by any of the statutes of limitation the person having such peaceable and adverse possession shall be held to have full title. Lamberida v. Barnum (Civ. App.) 90 S. W. 699.

The foundation of prescription rests upon an adverse, continuous, uninterrupted use of such a nature as to impart notice to the owner for such a period of time as would raise a presumption of grant, which is ten years. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Cuneo, 47 A. 132, 108 S. W. 714.

In trespass to try title, defendant held entitled to defend the suit and recover upon its plea of limitation, the evidence failing to show that defendant had sold the property before the beginning of the suit, and it being immaterial whether or not he sold it after the suit was brought. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Texas Tram & Lumber Co., 69 C. A. 182, 110 S. W. 140.

Adverse possession, barring trustees in a will, held to bar the devisees in the will also. Appel v. Childress, 53 C. A. 607, 116 S. W. 129.

Where adverse possession for the requisite period is shown, the character of possession antecedent thereto is immaterial. Ocoit v. Squires (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 314.

Possession, being deemed abandoned, was not sufficient evidence of title against a subsequent possessor. Adela v. Joseph (Civ. App:) 148 S. W. 1154.

Where the statute had been fully complied with by ten years' consecutive occupancy of land, title matured; and a failure to thereafter comply with the statute was immaterial. Tate v. Waggoner (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 737.

Subsequent loss of possession or admissions.—Where there has been three years' possession under Art. 5672, the title is not affected by subsequent loss of possession. Spofford v. Bennett, 55 T. 283.

When the period of limitation has fully run in favor of an adverse possessor of land, it confers title on him which he may assert against the former owner, though his possession ceased after his title by limitation was acquired. Branch v. Baker, 70 T. 150, 7 S. W. 808.

An adverse possessor in possession when the period of limitations expired held entitled to plead limitations against the former owner, though such possessors ceased to continue in possession after title was acquired. Lamberida v. Barnum (Civ. App.) 90 S. W. 699.

Where one had acquired title by adverse possession, such title was not affected by subsequent acts looking to the acquisition of title from another source or by doubt as to the validity of his title. Morgan v. White, 50 C. A. 318, 110 S. W. 491.

Title adverse possession cannot after its acquisition be defeated by declaration of the heirs of the one who so acquired it that she does not claim the land. Smith v. Guinn (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 635.

Mere verbal relinquishment of a claim to land after title had vested by adverse possession held ineffect. Cannon v. Producers' Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 883.

Where adverse possession had ripened into title, no admission made thereafter by the party having such title as to the nature of her present possession could affect her title. Cook's Hereford Cattle Co. v. Barnhart (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 662.

One who acquired title by limitations did not, by renting the premises from another and stating that he did not claim them, divest himself of the title acquired. Louisiana & Texas Lumber Co. v. Stewart (Civ. App.) 148 S. W. 1193.

One holding adverse possession of land for the statutory period acquires a title thereto which is not lost by the subsequent cessation of his possession. Carlock v. Willard (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 363.

Where defendant and those under whom he claimed had acquired title by adverse possession by statements made thereafter, other by him or his predecessors, that during such period they did not assert such a claim as was necessary to mature title would deprive him of the title he had acquired. Tate v. Waggoner (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 737.

Release of rights by person having title by adverse possession held not invalidated by false representation that other squatters had agreed to release their rights. where he
Art. 5680. [3348] “Peaceable possession” defined.—“Peaceable possession,” within the meaning of this chapter, is such as is continuous and not interrupted by adverse suit to recover the estate. [Acts 1841, p. 119, sec. 14. P. D. 4621.]

In general.—A statement that one had been in actual continuous possession implies peaceable possession. East Texas Land & Improvement Co. v. Shelby, 17 C. A. 466, 41 B. W. 543.

Interruption by suit.—See “Decisions Applicable to Subject in General,” following this title, §§ 32-52.

A suit prosecuted to effect against the tenant in possession within ten years from the advertisement by the landlord breaks the continuity of possession and avoids the defense of ten years' limitation when asserted by the landlord against the holder of the proper title. Stout v. Taul, 71 T. 433, 9 S. W. 329.

In order to stop the running of limitation by suit there must be a bona fide intention that the suit shall be issued and served on the defendant within a reasonable time. When citation is not issued by reason of the failure of the plaintiff to give a bond for costs or to make an affidavit of his inability to pay or secure costs, limitation continues to run, notwithstanding the fact that the petition has been marked filed. Rickert v. Sharmaker, 51 T. 22, 15 S. W. 645. See Bowles v. Smith (Civ. App.) 34 S. W. 381.

The statute held not to stop running in defendant's favor until he was actually made a party to a suit for the land. Cable v. Jackson, 16 C. A. 579, 42 S. W. 136.

Where parties in possession sue to remove cloud from title, and are defeated, limitations continue to run as against strangers to the suit. Miller v. Gist, 91 T. 335, 43 S. W. 263.

A continuous adverse possession under the statute can only be interrupted by the bringing of suit. Cobb v. Robertson, 99 T. 138, 86 S. W. 746, 87 S. W. 1148, 122 Am. St. Rep. 609.

The running of ten-year limitation in favor of one in adverse possession of land as against the true owner is not interrupted by the foreclosure of a tax lien and a sale thereunder. Sellers v. Simpson, 53 C. A. 205, 115 S. W. 888.

Suit against defendants by other parties for the land in controversy held not to affect the running of limitations in favor of defendants as against plaintiff. Paterson v. Rednor (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 561.

A sale under execution held not to break the running of the limitations. Kennon v. Miller (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 986.

The mere assertion by the owner of a claim to land adversely held, not made by suit against the adverse holder, will not prevent the statute from running. Carr v. Alexander (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 218.

Continuity of possession.—See cases cited under Art. 5682.

When one ceases to have actual possession of land by sale of the improved portion or otherwise, he loses his constructive possession of the remainder. Chandler v. Rushing, 38 T. 591.

Possession of land must be unbroken for the full period. Id.

One who, being in possession of land, is driven from it by Indians, and resumes possession as soon as it is safe to return, cannot compute the period of his absence under the plea of limitation. Fitz v. Boyer, 51 T. 336.

Continuous adverse possession of a pasture is not interrupted by a failure for a time to keep up the fences so as to exclude others from the land. Gunter v. Meade, 78 T. 624, 14 S. W. 563.

Where the unimproved part of a tract of land is severed by sale from the improvements, ordinarily the statute ceases to run as to that part. Tarlton v. Kirkpatrick, 1 C. A. 197, 21 S. W. 466.

The disaffirmance to support limitation must be continuous and uninterrupted to avail as limitation or prescription. If it is interrupted before the period of prescription has elapsed, prescription is annihilated and must begin de novo. Cunningham v. San Saba County, 11 C. 159, 59 C. 524, 53 S. W. 892.

Occupancy of part of a tract by the true owner interrupts adverse possession as to all of the tract not actually occupied by the adverse claimant. Freedman v. Bonner (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 47.

The fact that defendant's predecessors, on whose adverse possession he relies did not divide the land claimed when they partitioned their real estate does not prove an abandonment of their claim. Id.

Evidence held sufficient to support the finding of continuous occupation. Spencer v. Hendges (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 57.

Temporary vacancy for a short while, when it was clear that there was no intent to abandon possession, will not stop the running of the statute. Collier v. Coutts (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 485.
A finding that a defendant had not acquired title to realty by limitation is not error, where the evidence shows breaks in his possession. Boyd v. Miller, 22 C. A. 165, 64 S. W. 411.

An interruption of seven years in the possession of one claiming real property under the statute held fatal to his claim. Wille v. Ellis, 22 C. A. 462, 54 S. W. 923.

An estate given by the possession is not lost for eight years, after which the occupant removes therefrom, and only manages the land for his mother, who owns a life estate therein, during the remainder of the statutory period. Anderson v. Lumber Co., 29 C. A. 240, 69 S. W. 73.

In a country where much of the lands are unoccupied, continued possession is not indispensable to a presumption of a grant from the exercise of acts of ownership. Ortiz v. State (Civ. App.) 86 S. W. 45.

Wide land claimed by adverse possession was vacant for an entire year during the period, such vacancy deprived the possessor of the right to count the time previously elapsing as a part of the period of limitation. Wilson v. Nugent (Civ. App.) 91 S. W. 241.

In trespass to try title, evidence of prior possession of land by defendant's predecessor in title held insufficient to authorize a judgment for defendant, in absence of proof of possession of the particular tract in controversy. Cook v. Spencer (Civ. App.) 91 S. W. 813.

Breaks in the occupancy of tenants of defendant, relying on adverse possession, held to break the continuity of the possession. Dunn v. Taylor, 102 T. 80, 113 S. W. 268.

The necessity of the continuous use of land to create title by adverse possession held under a pledge of limitations was interrupted by failure, for more than a year after execution of deeds under which he claims, to record them. Snow v. Letcher (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 355.

Questions for Jury.—See notes under Title 37, Chapter 13.

Art. 5681. [3349] "Adverse possession" defined.—"Adverse possession" is an actual and visible appropriation of the land, commenced and continued under a claim of right inconsistent with and hostile to the claim of another.

In general.—By possession is meant either an actual residence on the land, or such cultivation, use or enjoyment of the same by visible, notorious acts of ownership as would give notice to the owner and others of the adverse possession of the land. Kimbro v. Hamilton, 28 T. 669.

To set the statute of ten-year limitation in operation, the possession must be an actual, visible appropriation of the land for the full period of ten consecutive years, under claim of right adverse to the true owner. Beall v. Evans, 1 C. A. 443, 20 S. W. 946.

The following instruction was held to be contrary to the above article: "What will in law constitute actual, visible and adverse possession is not susceptible of a definition, but must depend on the facts in evidence in each particular case, whether or not plaintiff's possession had adverse possession." Preston v. Hilburn (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 695.

In trespass to try title, a judgment by limitations, because of possession during a period in which no cause of action existed, was not warranted. Sparks v. Hall, 29 C. A. 177, 67 S. W. 916.

The rights of one who has acquired a title to lands cannot be barred by lapse of time, unaccompanied by adverse possession. Lochridge v. Corbett, 31 C. A. 656, 73 S. W. 96.

Possession of land, warranting a recovery in trespass to try title against one entering without leave, must be so clearly defined as to constitute exclusive dominion over the property. Lynn v. Burnett, 34 C. A. 335, 79 S. W. 64.

Occupancy, use and encroachment held to confer title by adverse possession, under the ten-year statute, to a strip of land along a dedicated, but practically unused, street. City of Houston v. Ginnigan (Civ. App.) 85 S. W. 478.

A showing of adverse possession for the statutory period of a portion of a lot does not authorize a recovery without evidence showing what portion of the lot was occupied adversely. Wiley v. Bargman (Civ. App.) 99 S. W. 1116.

Adverse possession is held sufficient to support title by adverse possession, if they occupied the property as a community homestead was no defense. Breath v. Flowers, 43 C. A. 516, 95 S. W. 26.

Actual possession, use, and enjoyment of land do not constitute adverse possession. Earnest v. Lake, 45 C. A. 462, 101 S. W. 479.

As to what constitutes adverse possession, each case must be governed by the circumstances surrounding it. Dunn v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 952.

It is only when a defendant is in possession of land shown to be plaintiff's property that he need invoke limitations to protect his possession. Weston v. Meeker (Civ. App.) 109 S. W. 471.

The court held to have properly defined adverse possession. Texas & O. Ry. Co. v. A. G. & J. C. Broom, 53 C. A. 78, 114 S. W. 655.

Title can be perfect title to adjoining land by limitations, where the facts show a distinct possession under an open hostile claim. Id.

One claiming adverse possession under a junior title overlapping an older survey must show an actual and visible appropriation of at least some part of the junior survey. Lake v. Earnest, 53 C. A. 555, 116 S. W. 866, 659.

Adverse possession sufficient to ripen into title must be adverse, peaceable, and continuous for ten years. Louisiana & T. Lumber Co. v. Kennedy (Civ. App.) 119 S. W. 884.

One who had never been in possession of the land, nor paid taxes on it, held not entitled to maintain trespass to try title against one who had paid taxes for sixteen years, under a claim of title, and held it adversely for five years, cultivating and improving it, though the latter is unable to show that the person under whom he claims was the person named in the bounty warrant for the land. Kirby v. Boaz (Civ. App.) 121 S. W. 225.

Where the court assumed that defendants' title was sufficient to sustain the three-year limitations and charged the statute, and the jury found that they had not held possession for three years, defendants were not injured by failure to charge the five and ten year limitations, since the character of possession necessary was the same under either statute. Houston Oil Co. v. Kimball, 103 T. 94, 122 S. W. 533, 124 S. W. 85.

Issuing a power of attorney to sue generally for lands held not an assertion of a claim adverse to that under a lost deed. Masterson v. Harrington (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 628.

To sustain a plea of limitations, defendant was bound to show adverse, continuous, and unbroken occupancy of the land for the required period. Snow v. Letcher (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 355.

Actual and visible appropriation.—The fact that defendant paid taxes on land, used firewood from it, kept people from trespassing, and built hog pens on it, and used it as a ranch for his cattle and horses, but had made no other inclosure, or ever lived on or occupied the land, is not evidence of adverse possession. Sellman v. Hardin, 58 T. 86.

Casual and incomplete possession of land, evidenced by grazing stock on it, and constructing and fencing around a tank of water, is not sufficient. Murphy v. Welder, 58 T. 285. See Richards v. Smith, 57 T. 610, 4 S. W. 571; Pendleton v. Snyder, 24 S. W. 363, 5 C. A. 427, as to continuous possession.

The mere occupancy of land by grazing live stock upon it, without substantial inclosures or permanant improvements, is not sufficient to support a plea of limitation under our statute. Fuentes v. McDonald, 85 T. 132, 29 S. W. 43; Whitehead v. Foley, 28 T. 291, adhered to. Tarlton v. Kirkpatrick, 1 C. A. 107, 21 S. W. 405.

Where more land is inclosed by a vendee than his deed calls for, and his vendee buys with reference to the inclosure, though his deed contains the same description as that of his vendor, his claim may become adverse. Hand v. Swann, 1 C. A. 241, 21 S. W. 285.

Possession not shown by a fence partially destroyed. Tarrant Co. Ass'n v. Kit, 10 C. A. 565, 31 S. W. 1080.

Exclusive actual possession is not acquired by setting posts a great distance apart, along the boundary of the land claimed. Freedman v. Bonner (Civ. App.) 49 S. W. 47.

Grazing cattle on uncleasced land is not sufficient possession to support the statute. Vineyard v. Brundrett, 17 C. A. 147, 42 S. W. 252.

Where adverse possession of pasture land is based on a fence, it must be sufficiently substantial to support reasonable protection against cattle. Sharrock v. Ritter (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 156.

Cutting timber is not possession of such a character as will support a plea of limitations. Soase v. Doss, 18 C. A. 649, 45 S. W. 387.
LIMITATIONS

An owner must be held to know his own boundaries but an encroachment so slight that it may have readily occurred through mistake, and which does not actually appropriate any substantial part of a large tract of land and which is evidenced only by a fence, is not such actual, visible appropriation as is required. McAdams v. Moody (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 628.

One who has open, continuous, and notorious possession for over ten years, and who claimed the land, held to have acquired title by adverse possession, though the defendant allowed adjoining owners to cultivate a part of its right of way, and did not consider such use adverse unless so notified. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Maynard (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 355.

Where a railroad track was constructed on land without permission of the owner, and remained there for ten years, but the use of the property for railroad purposes commenced for only such adverse possession as would entitle the railroad to hold the right of way by limitations. Galveston & W. Ry. Co. v. Kinkead (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 468.

The maintenance of a cemetery held to be an open, visible and notorious adverse possession. City of El Paso v. Ft. Dearborn Nat. Bank, 95 S. 496, 74 S. W. 21.

The fact that during the time of possession of land fences erected by the party in possession are allowed to be down for a short time in certain places does not operate to break his possession so as to interrupt the running of limitations. Kane v. Sholars, 41 C. A. 164, 96 S. W. 337.

That a river on one side of land at times went dry held not as a matter of law to show want of adverse possession. Dunn v. Taylor, 42 C. A. 241, 94 S. W. 347.

An inclosure of land held insufficient to show adverse possession. McDonald v. McCrody, 4 C. A. 259, 105 S. W. 238.

The fact that the land inclosed was an adverse claim that cultivation, use, and enjoyment be shown as only one of the three is required. Hirsch v. Patton, 49 C. A. 499, 108 S. W. 1015.

The occasional cutting of wood and pasturing of stock on uninclosed land by one claiming by adverse possession was not such actual possession and occupancy as would affect the constructive possession of the true owner. Haynes v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., 51 C. A. 49, 111 S. W. 427.

The fact that land was inclosed held not sufficient use of the land to constitute adverse possession. Dunn v. Taylor, 102 T. 80, 113 S. W. 266.

If improvements, such as building houses, opening fields, etc., made by defendant’s grantor on land, claimed by defendant by the adverse possession of such grantor, were located on the land claimed, it was immaterial on what particular part of the land they were located. Merriman v. Blaizec, 57 C. A. 270, 122 S. W. 483.

To acquire an easement of way over lands of another by adverse possession for over ten years the adverse possession must have been of a way within definite lines. South v. Collins, 53 C. A. 71, 115 S. W. 337.

The inclosure of land without use is not sufficient to constitute adverse possession. Appel v. Childress, 53 C. A. 607, 116 S. W. 129.

Where an inclosure consists partly of fences and partly of natural objects, it is for the jury to determine whether such inclosure gave sufficient notoriety of a claim of ownership as a whole tract, and, where a tract was fenced on three sides and the fourth side abutted on a stream and the entire tract was used as a pasture, it was for the jury to decide whether the inclosure was sufficient so as to establish adverse possession under the ten-year limitations, if an inclosure were necessary. Frazer v. Seureau (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 649.

The occasional sale of coal from a coal bank on the land claimed held not such adverse possession as to support a claim of title by limitations. Allen v. Clearman (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 1140.

Where a tract was fenced on three sides and the fourth side abutted on a stream and the entire tract was used as a pasture, it was for the jury to decide whether the inclosure was sufficient so as to establish adverse possession under the ten-year limitations, if an inclosure were necessary. Frazer v. Seureau (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 649.

The occasional sale of coal from a coal bank on the land claimed held not such adverse possession as to support a claim of title by limitations. Allen v. Clearman (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 1140.

Merely fencing land without actually using it in some manner is not such actual possession as will ripen into title. Herrmann v. Peck (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1139.

That one cut timber off of land and exercised acts of ownership over it held not a sufficient possession to mature into a title by limitation. Davis v. George (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 565.

Mere occasional grazing is not sufficient, but continued cultivation is sufficient, as well as any visible and notorious acts evidencing an intention to claim ownership and possession, and an inclosure is only an act indicative of possession and claim of ownership. Stevens v. Pedregon (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 236.

Where the land comprised two cultivated fields, it was only necessary that one of the fields be cultivated in each year in order to maintain adverse possession of the whole tract. Trueheart v. Parker (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 231.

Occasional cutting of timber and pasturing of cattle in an inclosure, containing the land in controversy with other lands, without proof of cultivation, continuous use, or enjoyment, held insufficient to show title by adverse possession. Noland v. Weems (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 1031.

One occupying land adversely for ten years held to acquire title by adverse possession, regardless of the ownership or existence of any fence inclosing the land. Cook's Hereford Cattle Co. v. Barnhart (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 662.

Where the occupants, claiming adversely, performed the necessary cultivation and used and enjoyed the land so as to indicate adverse possession, it was not material that for part of the time one of them was under age and both resided with their father on other land. R. W. Wier Lumber Co. v. Conn (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 276.

Entry on land.—Possession under an inferior title will operate a disseisin of the holder of the superior title to the extent of the inferior, unless the holder of the superior title is in actual possession of some part of the land covered by his title. Craig v. Cartwright, 65 T. 413.

The holder of a prior grantee draws to it the seisin of the entire tract covered thereby. The party claiming under a junior grantor may, by taking actual possession, dispossess the prior grantee to the extent of the second grant. But upon actual possession being taken by the prior grantee, the adverse holding of the trespasser becomes limited to his improvements. Parker v. Bailes, 65 T. 609; Evitts v. Roth, 61 T. 81; Fobis v. Withers, 61 T. 134; Whitehead v. Folley, 28 T. 259; Horton v. Crawford, 19 T. 382; Cunningham v. Frandsen, 26 T. 38; Cantagrel v. Von Lupin, 58 T. 670, Anderson v. Jackson, 69 T. 346, 6 S. W. 575.

The holding deed to land in constructive possession of another held to acquire adverse possession only to the portion which he holds in actual possession. Zimmerman v. Kennedy (Civ. App.) 52 S. W. 642.

Where an entry is made on land with permission of the owner, possession will be presumed to be permissive until distinctly repudiated by some hostile act shown to have been brought to the knowledge of the owner. Meurin v. Kopplin (Civ. App.) 100 S. W. 884.

Whatever the original character of an entry on land believed to be vacant, but in fact the property of an individual, with intent to acquire title from the state, the possession may subsequently become adverse as against the individual. Hoenczke v. Lumax, 102 T. 487, 115 S. W. 845.

Where a plaintiff's right to the land in controversy was made to depend on his adverse possession after forcible entry and detainer proceedings, whether his original entry was in the exercise of a supposed pre-emption right was immaterial. Louisiana & Texas Lumber Co. v. Kennedy (Civ. App.) 119 S. W. 854.

The actual possession of the land at the time of the entry of the holder of the land without title, is the only evidence of the extent of the actual possession and occupation by inclosure for the full required period of limitation of the person so claiming. Ragon v. Craver (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 1087.

There is a presumption at all times in favor of the true owner, and he is deemed by law to have possession coextensive with his title, unless actually ousted by the personal occupation of another, so that, whenever such occupation ceases, the title again draws to it the possession and restores the seisin of the owner, and a subsequent entry, even by the same wrongdoer and under the same claim of title, constitutes a new disseisin, from the date of which the statute takes a fresh start. Id.

Possession as notice.—See, also, cases under subdivision 2, supra.

The owner of land is chargeable with notice of its locality and boundaries, and the meaning and locality of every adverse settlement, and cannot set up his ignorance of the claim of right of an adverse occupant to defeat limitation. Brownson v. Scanlan, 59 T. 223.

When a possessor holds under written muniments of title, which the law does not require to be registered, or notice of given in some particular way as a condition on which the holding will be held sufficient to defeat the effect of an open, visible, substantial possession by an occupant of the land, it is held that the effect of such holding under the owner is alone entitled to operate as notice to the owner of whatever claim the possessor asserts. Craig v. Cartwright, 65 T. 413.

Limitation not interrupted by temporary breaks in the inclosure, if enough is seen to give notice. Williams v. Rand, 20 S. W. 509, 9 C. A. 431.

Possession of land is notice of the claim under which it is held. Allison v. Pitkin, 11 C. A. 652, 35 S. W. 298.

When land was bounded on three sides by water, and on the fourth by a fence erected by the adjoining owner, held, that the fact that an occupant of the premises maintained such fence was not notice to the true owner of an adverse claim. Vineyard v. Brook-Adret, 17 C. A. 147, 42 S. W. 232.

Where the holder of the equitable title caused the legal title to be placed in a third person, the mere fact of the former's occupancy would not notify one dealing with the third person that the possession was hostile to the legal title. Montague County v. Mercantile (Civ. App.) 42 S. W. 326.

Testimony that the land in suit was generally known to be the land of claimant, offered to show that a claim of adverse possession was notorious, was properly excluded, Preston v. Hillburn (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 698.

Failure of public to fence passway over mountain held not to prevent its use being notice to the owner of the land. Hall v. City of Austin, 20 C. A. 59, 48 S. W. 53.

Where acts done on land give notice of an adverse claim, accompanied by actual possession, is notorious, limitations run in favor of the adverse possessor from the time occupancy commenced, whether the land be inclosed or not. Zepea v. Hoffman, 31 C. A. 312, 72 S. W. 443.

Evidence held sufficient to show notice of plaintiffs' adverse possession. Stubbs v. Hanson (Civ. App.) 34 S. W. 406.

The mere occupancy of a tract of wild land for camping and hunting purposes did not constitute such adverse possession as would notify the owner that his land was being claimed. Nona Mills Co. v. Wright, 101 T. 14, 102 S. W. 1118.

Possession of land to be adverse must be of that character which would notify the owner of the intention of the occupant of the land to appropriate it to his own use. Id.

Where it is the custom to use a river as a barrier on the side of inclosures, a tract of land is sufficiently inclosed to give notice of an adverse holding if it is fenced on all sides except along such river. Dunn v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 552.

Where a tenancy at will was created merely for the purpose of allowing the tenant's cattle and horses to graze upon the land, and a third person entered upon and used the land with the right of the land, under the grazing of the third person's cattle and horses on the land held not of itself sufficient notice to the landlord of adverse possession by such person. Buford v. Wasson, 49 C. A. 464, 109 S. W. 275.

In order to acquire title by adverse possession, claimant's holding must be such as is reasonably open to notice that he is the true owner of the land. Craver v. Ragon (Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 489.

Where one claimed land used as a pasture by adverse possession, and showed that the land was inclosed on a fence, and on the fourth by a river, evidence that the river below was generally used as a barrier was not sufficient to indicate to the owner that the land was properly and used by others. Dunn v. Taylor, 102 T. 50, 113 S. W. 265.

Where one had never lived on a 160-acre tract, and only cultivated a few acres thereof in connection with a larger tract adjacent thereto, his possession was insufficient to notify the owner of an adverse claim thereto. Callen v. Collins, 56 C. A. 620, 120 S. W. 546.

One who entered upon land under a duly recorded deed thereto, and held it adversely to the true owner, to a suit to repudiate the title of others claiming the land, or notify them of his claim of title, in order to set limitations running. Merriman v. Blalock, 57 C. A. 270, 122 S. W. 403.

The possession of a purchaser was not so visible and notorious that it could be notice to another, and could ripen into title by adverse possession. Jones et al. v. Weaver et al. (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 619.

An encroachment on the land of another, which does not appropriate some substantial portion of the land sufficient in extent to give notice to the owner of an adverse claim to the land, will not support a plea of limitation. Bartine v. McClory (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 1174.

Possession of land held such as to constitute an ouster and notice thereof to others, notwithstanding their nonresidence and actual ignorance. Hardy Oil Co. v. Burnham (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 221.

If the statute begins to run so as to sustain a claim of adverse possession, it will not be interrupted on the ground that a subsequent purchaser had no notice of the facts setting up its claim. ib. v. Gingles (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 377.

Evidence held to show the use and occupation of the land claimed by defendant's grantor for over 50 years under an open and notorious claim to the whole tract, extending from a river to a certain road. Rodriguez v. Priest (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 1187.

That a tract was fenced on three sides and was bounded on the fourth side by a bayou held notice that the possessor claimed all the land within such boundaries. Fraser v. Seegers (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 645.

The registration of a deed held not notice of possession, so as to support a claim by adverse possession. Lynch v. Lynch (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 461.

A second wife's continued possession of land, acquired during a first marriage, after the husband's conveyance thereof to her, held not to start the statute against his children by his first marriage, until notice that she was claiming under the deed. Id.

The extent of the encroachment on land held to determine its sufficiency as notice of an adverse claim to land not actually occupied. Wm. M. Rice Institute v. Goolsee (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 397.

The encroachment rule, with reference to occupancy of land along a division line, did not apply, where defendants had inclosed, occupied, and used the land in controversy for more than 25 years, and their possession was open and notorious. Cannon v. Producers' Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 803.

Where a grantee and his grantor occupied for more than ten years, under claim of ownership, a tract inclosed by a fence, except where a marsh and bayou served as a barrier against stock, and the parties claimed the land as bounded by lines of a survey on the ground, the grantee acquired title under the 10-year limitation against one having notice of the claim, though the field notes in the patent for the tract placed it elsewhere.

Kansas City Oil & Rice Land Co. v. Ogden (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 808.

Ordinarily title by limitations may be acquired without reference to whether the real owner has notice of the doing of those things which under the statute matures the title by limitations. Gibbs v. Eastern City Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 323.

Where one who held an entire tract of land under color of title actually used and cultivated part of the tract for the statutory period, his adverse title to the whole is established, such possession being an encroachment sufficient to give notice to the owner. Wm. M. Rice Institute v. Goolsbee (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 1021.

A recorded deed to a portion of a tract of land, together with the grantors' continued possession of the remainder of the tract, was notice to a cotenant of the grantors that they were asserting adverse claim to the entire tract, and made their possession open, notorious, and adverse to the cotenant. Wm. M. Rice Institute v. Goolsbee (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 215.

Plaintiffs were presumed to know the true location of their boundaries and were bound to take notice of the inclosure of a part of their lands. Sanders v. Moore (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 441.

* Where, in action to try title to 35 acres, defendant showed adverse possession of a tract of 5 or 6 acres thereof, but did not identify such tract, so that it could be described in the judgment, a judgment for plaintiff for the whole 35 acres should not be rendered. Howard v. Hays, 26 C. A. 293, 62 S. W. 802.

When the fence of an adjoining owner extended into and inclosed 35 acres of a tract of 207 acres, occupation of such 35 acres for ten years does not constitute adverse possession of, and give title to, the 207-acre tract. Hall v. Clountz, 26 C. A. 348, 63 S. W. 941.

Where, in trespass to try title, the only possession shown for a certain period was of districts of the land, aggregating less than the entire tract, and no parcel is identified, a judgment for title by limitation is not warranted. Sparks v. Hall, 29 C. A. 177, 67 S. W. 916.

Where the unimproved part of a tract of land is severed by sale from the improved part, limitations, based on occupancy of the improved part, ceases to run. Kirkpatrick v. Tarlton, 29 C. A. 276, 69 S. W. 179.

The maintenance of a cemetery on a part of a tract claimed under color of title held to be constructive adverse possession of the whole tract. City of El Paso v. Ft. Dearborn Nat. Bank, 96 T. 496, 74 S. W. 21.

Where the owner of a tract is in possession of a part of the land, he has constructive possession of the whole tract as against an adverse claimant of the part not occupied by such owner. Peden v. Crenshaw, 98 T. 365, 54 S. W. 362.

The principle that an owner in actual possession of a portion of land, claiming title to the whole, has the constructive possession of all the land, held not applicable where an intruder claims land against another. Morris v. Jacks (Civ. App.) 96 S. W. 637.

Where plaintiff and defendant each claimed title to land by limitations, and each was in actual possession of a part only, claiming title as against the other to the whole by constructive possession, neither acquired title as against the other to any of the land which was not in his actual possession. Id.

Plaintiff held to have had constructive possession of land within the true boundary lines of the survey only. Davidson v. Equitable Securities Co. (Civ. App.) 96 S. W. 178.

Where adverse possession of a tract of land held to constitute constructive possession of the whole tract. Ridgell v. Atherton (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 129.

Entry upon part of the land by the true owner, by tenants, held to give him constructive possession of the entire tract except as inclosed by adverse holders, and such entry was sufficient to stop their adverse possession of land not inclosed. Haynes v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., 61 C. A. 49, 111 S. W. 427.

Adverse possession of land extends to the entire tract claimed, unless a part thereof is in the actual possession of another during some of the period of limitation. Thacker v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 938.

The possession of one actually in possession of land within lines fixed and acknowledged held not subject to extension by construction to other land. Blaske v. Settegast (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 229.

Plaintiff held to have had actual possession of three of the quarter sections of a section, and constructive possession of the whole section, except such part of the remaining quarter as defendant actually occupied. Thompson v. Texas & N. O. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 616.

Evidence of possession of a small portion of a tract held not sufficient on which to base an adverse claim to the entire tract. Bartine v. McElroy (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 1174.

Adverse possession held sufficient to create title to the whole of a tract under the ten-year limitations. Rodriguez v. Priest (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 1157.

Entry upon part of a tract by limitations through adverse possession of only a part thereof, he may rely upon such title obtained by possession of such part in suit for the unoccupied part, though title to the occupied part was not put in controversy. Basham v. Stude (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 662.

Where an original survey, previous to commencement of the possession within it, had been subdivided, held, no title by adverse possession could be acquired outside the subdivision to which actual possession was confined. Mayhan v. McManus (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 591.

Possession of a part of a 160-acre tract held sufficient to raise the issue of notice to the owner of adverse claim to the whole thereof. Wm. M. Rice Institute v. Goolsbee (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 307.
An owner of land in possession of part held to have constructive possession of the entire tract, save that in the actual possession of a trespasser. Sanders v. Thompson Bros. Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 1004.

Defendant held to have acquired title to an entire survey by adverse possession; his improvement of the part he held here is constructive possession of the whole. Long v. Thompson & Tucker Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 501.

Plaintiff, establishing a right to 160 acres of a larger tract, held entitled to have that area surveyed out of the larger tract. Louisiana & Texas Lumber Co. v. Kennedy (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 989.

Where one and his ancestors asserted ownership to 150 acres, adjoining a survey on which they lived, and they cleared about 50 acres of the land and cultivated the same, and such acts of ownership continued for over ten years, title to 150 acres was acquired. Langtry v. Willard (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 357.

Hostile character of possession.—See cases under "Claim of right." Infra.

Occupying land under belief that it was vacant, with intent to obtain title from the state, is not adverse possession. It is not necessary that the owner be known in case of occupancy under claim of ownership. Schlichter v. Gatlkn, 56 T. 270, 26 S. W. 129; Norton v. Collins, 20 S. W. 1113, 1 C. A. 272; L. & H. Blum Land Co. v. Rogers, 11 C. A. 184, 32 S. W. 713. A contrary ruling is made in Converse v. Ringer, 6 C. A. 51, 24 S. W. 705.

This possession is adverse although it was taken and held under a mistaken belief that the land so held was public land. Converse v. Ringer, 24 S. W. 705, 6 C. A. 51.

An agreement to surrender possession of land is evidence that possession is not adverse. Eldridge v. Parish, 26 S. W. 49, 6 C. A. 36; Mhoon v. Cain, 77 T. 216, 14 S. W. 24; Railway Co. v. Wilson, 83 T. 107, 15 S. W. 226; Warren v. Fredericks, 92 T. 384, 18 S. W. 759.

Irrigation company held not to have been in adverse possession of lands of one of its members thereof, and in possession being permissive. Togyah Creek Irr. Co. v. Hutchins, 21 C. A. 274, 62 S. W. 101.

Defendant's possession need not only be adverse to plaintiff who is asserting title. Beaumont Pasture Co. v. Polk (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 614.

Where a separate property of a wife, and is jointly occupied by her and her husband, his continued occupancy after her death, without denying the right of her children therein, will not cause limitations to run against them. Dryer v. Pierce (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 441.

Where a widow and child were in adverse possession of land, and she married, an agreement by the husband with the true owner to purchase stopped the running of limitations in favor of the widow and child. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Speights, 94 T. 856, 60 S. W. 659.

Where plaintiff's grantor was in possession of land under a claim of ownership for ten years, the adverse character of such possession was not affected by plaintiff's afterwards consenting to a survey, or by what he said as to his views of where the true line was situated. Mann v. Schueling (Civ. App.) 68 S. W. 292.

Where a husband conveyed his homestead to his wife for a consideration moving from her separate estate, his possession of the premises thereafter was not adverse to her. Hunter v. Magee, 31 C. A. 304, 72 S. W. 250.

The possession of land, to give occupant title by adverse possession, must be adverse to the entire world, including the supposed owner. Flewellen v. Randall, 32 C. A. 361, 74 S. W. 49.

Purchase of land from a certain person held not recognition of an adverse title in a third person on the part of the purchasers. Pendleton v. McMainis, 32 C. A. 575, 75 S. W. 249.

A wife cannot acquire title to her husband's lands by adverse possession during the continuance of the marriage relation where he has abandoned her without cause. Cervantes v. Cervantes (Civ. App.) 75 S. W. 790.

Possession of land is adverse to the true owner under the ten-year statute, though under the erroneous belief that it is vacant land. Price v. Eserley, 34 C. A. 60, 77 S. W. 416.

Claim of title by adverse possession held defeated by proof of acknowledgment of superior title of another. Welaman v. Thomson (Civ. App.) 78 S. W. 725.

An instruction requiring adverse possession to be hostile to the claim of plaintiffs and all others held erroneous. Whitaker v. Thayer, 38 C. A. 597, 88 S. W. 364.

Persons in possession of land which they believe belongs to the state held mere squatters, and not in adverse possession thereof. Id.

The complainant's agreement to move complainant's cabin some 20 or 30 feet, in order that defendant might sell certain adjoining land, held insufficient to establish, as matter of law, that complainant did not claim adversely to defendant. West v. Webster, 39 C. A. 373, 87 S. W. 196.

Person entering land believing it to be vacant, and holding hostile to all except the state, held to acquire title by limitation. If holding is for requisite time. Village Mills Co. v. Manley, 42 C. A. 420, 94 S. W. 102.

Person who enters upon land with the knowledge that he has no title and that another has, but with the intention to occupy it in hostility to all the world, and does so occupy it openly and visibly, is in adverse possession, and if he so holds it for ten years he acquires title by limitation. Link v. Hland, 43 C. A. 519, 95 S. W. 1110, 1111.

Partition agreement to a partition agreement which acknowledged the existence of a locative interest in the land outstanding in H., and the possession of a grantee of such party, held in subordination to such interest and not adverse. Surghenor v. Taliafero (Civ. App.) 98 S. W. 648.

Where testator held possession of a strip of land in controversy under an agreement with plaintiff, mere lapse of time of itself held insufficient to make testator's possession adverse. Crosby v. First Presbyterian Church of El Paso, 45 C. A. 111, 59 S. W. 694.

LIMITATIONS

Art. 5681

If one claims land against the world, the statute is set in motion, but if he merely claims it in the land of an owner, the result of inquiry as to whether it is within his boundaries, the claim is not adverse. Wiess v. Goodhue, 46 C. A. 142, 102 S. W. 793.

The plea of adverse possession presented as a defense to an action to recover real estate held not based alone on lapse of time, but an assertion of title in defendant, with intent to acquire under the homestead laws, may amount to a claim by ten years' adverse possession. Morgan v. White, 56 C. A. 318, 110 S. W. 491.

A party taking possession of land under the mistaken belief that it is vacant, with intent to acquire under the homestead laws, may acquire title by ten years' adverse possession. Fassman v. Collins, 53 C. A. 71, 115 S. W. 337.

The possession of a land, in common with others of the general public is not sufficient to create a prescriptive right to the way, though it be used for the prescriptive period. Hayworth v. Williams, 102 Tex. 452, 132 Am. Rep. 579.

1. Possession of land may be adverse as against the true owner, though the possessor believes that the land is public domain and expects to buy it from the state. Smith v. James, 13 S. 205, 116 S. W. 888.

A woman in possession of and claiming land as the wife of a man to whom the title was conveyed does not have such adverse possession as will confer a right on her. Hayworth v. Williams, 102 Tex. 452, 132 Am. Rep. 579.

The adverse possession of vacant lands, believing them to be state lands, held not affected by the fact that it was private property. Hoenecke v. Lomax, 55 C. A. 189, 113 S. W. 617.

A husband's possession of land by reason of the marital relation is not adverse to the wife. Watkins v. Watkins (Cliv. App.) 119 S. W. 145.

One entering and holding land under the belief that it is vacant public land, with the intention of acquiring title from the state, is not holding adversely to the true owner. Weaver v. Jones (Cliv. App.) 122 S. W. 619.

Possession of land in controversy taken by W. held subordinate to D., and was therefore available to continue D.'s possession to establish title by the ten-year statute of limitations. Bond v. Garrison (Cliv. App.) 127 S. W. 839.

To establish title by adverse possession, the possession must have been hostile for the whole period of the statute. Husband v. Lanier (Cliv. App.) 129 S. W. 528.

One in adverse possession of another's land claiming an easement acquires an easement as of right after the continuance of such possession for ten years. Pin & Feather Club v. Thomas (Cliv. App.) 135 S. W. 150.

That R. and G., when they sought to acquire certain land, believed it to be public land, and intended to obtain it by pre-emption, could not affect R.'s right by adverse possession after purchasing the rights of G. Trueheart v. Graham (Cliv. App.) 141 S. W. 281.

An agreement held not to constitute an acknowledgment of title interrupting running of limitations. Surghenor v. Ayers (Cliv. App.) 139 S. W. 28.

Entry held not by permission, but such that title by adverse possession could be acquired without repudiation of a permissive possession and a claim under right. Lutcher v. Grant (Cliv. App.) 142 S. W. 1190.

Entry held not by permission, but such that title by adverse possession could be acquired without repudiation of a permissive possession and a claim under right. Lutcher v. Grant (Cliv. App.) 142 S. W. 1190.

That R. and G., when they sought to acquire certain land, believed it to be public land, and intended to obtain it by pre-emption, could not affect R.'s right by adverse possession after purchasing the rights of G. Trueheart v. Graham (Cliv. App.) 141 S. W. 281.

Entry held not by permission, but such that title by adverse possession could be acquired without repudiation of a permissive possession and a claim under right. Lutcher v. Grant (Cliv. App.) 142 S. W. 1190.

The joint use of a party's land is not an adverse use by one of the parties to the land of the other. Fall v. Kinzler (Cliv. App.) 144 S. W. 1174.

Where plaintiff in possession of land of another sells it as his own, he asserts title in himself to his title, sufficient to ripen title by limitation, though he has previously stated that he was not claiming the land, but desired to buy from the Claim of right.—See cases under “Hostile character of possession,” supra.

The possession of such rights as pertain to the owner alone, is sufficient in the absence of evidence indicating that it is held in subordination to the title of the real owner. Craig v. Cartwright, 66 T. 413.

Occupation by successive parties with occasional cultivation for the term of ten years, without claim of ownership, will not support the plea of ten-year limitation. Forsd v. Golson, 77 T. 666, 14 S. W. 332.

Possession obtained under a belief that all claims against the land in favor of an estate have been paid, and continued open and notorious for fifteen years, constitutes title by adverse possession. Smith v. Pate, 91 T. 596, 45 S. W. 6.

That adverse possession was held in mistaken belief that land was covered by deed, without subject matter. Jayne v. Hanna (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 296.

That a tenant asserted title to land as a part of a particular survey held not to defeat the adverse character of his possession, though the land in fact was not a part of that survey. Daughtrey v. New York & T. Land Co. (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 947.

In trespass to try title, held error to refuse to charge that failure of the true owner to evict a trespasser is not evidence that he had abandoned title. Lackey v. Bennett (Civ. App.) 65 S. W. 651.

Where defendant in 1902 filed a verified petition to enjoin plaintiff from doing work on a certain street, alleging said street had been dedicated to the public and used for more than 20 years, he was not in a position to claim title to the street under the statute. Heard v. Connor (Civ. App.) 84 S. W. 606.

Where a wife claimed certain lots as her separate property, and denied her husband’s community interest, her occupancy of the property held to vest her with title by adverse possession as against his husband’s heirs. Heidelberg v. Behrens (Civ. App.) 85 S. W. 1029.

An acknowledgment of an intent to purchase by person in possession of land held to defeat a claim of adverse possession, if made within the limitation period. Whitaker v. Thayer, 38 C. A. 537, 86 S. W. 364.

Assertion that another is the owner of land held not abandonment of all claim to the land, so as to preclude the one making the assertion from relying on adverse possession by tenant. Cobb v. Robertson, 99 T. 158, 96 S. W. 746, 87 S. W. 1148, 122 Am. St. Rep. 609.

Admission of nonclaim made by party in possession held not to affect the adverse character of his possession as to premises not within the scope of the admission. Kane v. Tapp, 67 C. A. 154, 96 S. W. 937.

Where a person in possession admitted that he did not claim the property, his possession did not become adverse until the giving of actual or constructive notice of a change in the character of his possession.

One who took and held possession of land under a mistaken belief that it extended to a certain fence held to have acquired title. Logan v. Meade, 45 C. A. 477, 98 S. W. 219.

Defendant held not entitled to claim adverse possession of a narrow strip of land along the boundary line between his land and plaintiff’s, and inclosed by defendant, where prior to the ten-year bar they employed a surveyor to run the line, and defendant did not then reserve his claim to hold to plaintiff’s fence, including such strip. McDonald v. McCarbb, 47 C. A. 259, 105 S. W. 238.

Statement of interest acquired by adverse possession where one takes possession for himself and another without understanding with the other. Frey v. Myers (Civ. App.) 113 S. W. 552.

Possession, to be adverse, must be with the intent to claim the land occupied. Holland v. Nance, 102 T. 177, 114 S. W. 346, Sume v. Ferris, Id.

In trespass to try title, in which defendant claimed by the adverse possession of his grantor, entry upon the land under a deed, and making improvements thereon, held to show prima facie that such possession and use were based upon the deed, and a claim of title to the entire tract thereunder. Merriman v. Blalock, 57 C. A. 270, 122 S. W. 402.

If the person in possession, it must be such as to unmistakably indicate an assertion of claim of exclusive ownership in the occupant. Bender v. Brooks, 103 T. 329, 127 S. W. 168, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 659.

The statute, declaring that the land must be held under a claim of right inconsistent with and hostile to the claim of another, refers to a claim of the possessor when he holds only for himself, and a claim to satisfy the statute may be only such as is involved in a mere maintenance of possession of and the exercise of dominion over the land, provided there is present the condition of hostility and exclusiveness towards the true owner; but the facts must give rise to the inference of a claim or an attitude of that character where

Where a party has purchased a tax title, and has had possession of the premises purchased for the period necessary to perfect title, the fact that after getting a tax title he bought out the interest of the former owner’s heirs does not prevent his title from being adverse to them, as he could buy his peace without admitting their title. Houston Oil Co. v. Davis (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 858.

The failure of one in possession of land to make a claim against a railroad company when it built a line across such land was not necessarily sufficient to defeat his right to hold it under a claim of limitations, though his purpose was to conceal the fact of his claim to the land. Fleming v. Mistletoe (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 923.

An agreement for partition of land, reciting an unsettled claim by the heirs of a third person, that one of the partners would settle with the heirs, so that the other would receive his allotment clear, was not such acknowledgment of the heirs’ title as to prevent running of limitations against them. Surgeon v. Ayers (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 28.

Where one took possession of land inclosed by a fence which included a strip belonging to an adjacent owner, believing he took possession of his own land, continued in possession for ten years, claiming it as his own and living on it held, that he acquired title by adverse possession, as against the objection that his possession was by mistake. Arnold v. Evans (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 497.

Vendor and purchaser.—See cases under “Vendor and purchaser,” cited under Art. 583.

When both the vendor and vendee are in possession of land, the possession, so far as it affects third parties, is with him who has title. Cameron v. Rumble, 53 T. 238.

Where the land conveyed is public land, to which the vendor has no title, the vendee, on discovering that the land is vacant, is not bound to surrender or abandon possession, but to adjust the title. Howard v. McKenzie, 54 T. 171, citing Craven v. Brooke, 17 T. 268; Jennings v. De Cordova, 20 T. 598; Slier v. Laman, 27 T. 295; Wheeler v. Styles, 28 T. 243; Rodgers v. Daily, 46 T. 685. And see Young v. O’Neal, 54 T. 541, A., by deed of gift, conveyed to his children and their heirs land with warranty of title, reserving the right to use it in the management and control, etc., during his life. The possession of the grantees was the possession of the grantor, and limitation did not run in favor of the grantees. Bomberger v. Morrow, 61 T. 417.

A contract under an executory contract is not adverse until the relation of vendor and vendee is repudiated by one of the parties within the knowledge of the other. Pearson v. Boyd, 62 T. 541; Roosevelt v. Davis, 49 T. 463; Johnson v. Newman, 43 T. 638; Howard v. McKenzie, 64 T. 171.

Possession by virtue of an executory contract with one who himself claims under a like contract from the patentee is not adverse to that of the patentee till the latter repudiates his contract by selling to other parties, in which case possession under the executory contract becomes adverse to that of the second vendee. Pearson v. Boyd, 63 T. 541, citing Roosevelt v. Davis, 49 T. 463; Keyes v. Mason, 44 T. 144. And see Craig v. Cartwright, 65 T. 413.

That the grantor in a deed remained in possession acknowledging the title to be in the grantee does not show adverse possession. Nichols v. Nichols, 79 T. 332, 15 S. W. 272; L & H H Blum Land Co. v. Rogers, 11 C. A. 184, 22 S. W. 175.

A vendee entering upon land under an executory title holds by consent, and cannot plead limitation until he shows a repudiation of the contract under which he entered. Smith v. Lee, 82 T. 134, 17 S. W. 598.

Mere possession by vendor or an entry by consent, is not sufficient to support limitation. Evans v. Berlocher, 83 T. 612, 19 S. W. 168; Stanley v. Schwalby, 85 T. 548, 19 S. W. 264; Murphy v. Welder, 68 T. 235.

Grantors in a deed imperfectly describing the land conveyed are not required to bring suit for land that the deed erroneously purports to convey, until the grantee asserts some claim thereto. Pope v. Riggs (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 306.

A vendee in possession under a warrant which reserves a vendor’s lien holds in subordination to the title of the vendor until he repudiates the same. Smith v. Pate (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 312.

Acts held to show adverse possession on the part of a purchaser as against the vendor. Durst v. Skillern (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 840.

Possession under deed reserving lien is not adverse to vendor. Shotwell v. McCardell, 19 C. A. 174, 47 S. W. 39.

A purchaser in possession of land held to have repudiated his contract, and, the period of limitation having expired, was entitled to the land by adverse possession. Manus v. Matthews (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 589.

Grantor in deed held not to have acquired title by adverse possession as against grantee of portion of tract conveyed. Woods v. Texas Land & Loan Co. (Civ. App.) 67 S. W. 185.

Parties holding land under a deed reserving a vendor’s lien cannot plead an limitations against those deriving title from a decree foreclosing the lien the time the land was held under such deed prior to the foreclosure. Henry v. McNew, 29 C. A. 285, 69 S. W. 231.

Where a person went into possession under a contract to purchase, and delivered possession to defendant, who claims adversely to the owner, the time such person was so in possession cannot be included in the ten-year limitations. Thompson v. Dutton (Civ. App.) 69 S. W. 641.

Where the parties in trespass to try title claimed from common source, and both failed to connect themselves with the source, plaintiff, having had possession, held entitled to show against the title remaining in the person who had attempted to convey to him. Estes v. Turner, 39 C. A. 365, 70 S. W. 1067.

A vendee, holding under a deed reserving a vendor's lien, could not retain adverse possession without repudiating his vendor's title and giving the latter actual or constructive notice thereof. Runge v. Gilbough (Civ. App.) 87 S. W. 832.

Execution and record of a deed by a vendee of land, subject to a vendor's lien to a third person, held not constructive notice to the vendor of the vendee's repudiation of his title. Id.

Possession and claim of land under an executory contract of purchase held not such adverse possession as if continued would bar an entry under the statute. Wilson v. Nat'1. Land Co. (Civ. App.) 91 S. W. 241.

Where defendants entered under a deed, evidence held to support a judgment for defendants based on possession and repudiation of the grantor's title. Evans v. Jackson, 41 C. A. 277, 82 S. W. 47.

Purchase by party claiming title by limitations held a circumstance tending to show a recognition of the vendor's title. Hughes v. Wright & Vaughan (Civ. App.) 97 S. W. 528.

A purchaser, or one claiming under him entering into possession of land under a contract of purchase, held a tenant at sufferance, and, so long as the title of the vendor is recognised, limitations do not run against the vendor. Glenn v. Rhine, 53 C. A. 921, 118 S. W. 91.

A purchaser, taking possession of land under a contract of sale, cannot, without repudiation of the title of his grantor, hold adversely against him. Tipton v. Tipton, 65 C. A. 192, 118 S. W. 842.

Where a deed purported to convey an entire tract, and not an undivided interest, and the grantee and tenant took open and notorious possession of the whole, claiming it as his own, it was held that the deeded possession was not adverse. Merriman v. Blalack, 65 C. A. 694, 121 S. W. 552.

A claim of adverse possession will be sustained if it is shown that the claimant acted in good faith, with no intent to defraud the true owner. Wilson v. государственному, 8 S. W. 562.

The possessor of the grantee of land incumbered by a vendor's lien held not inconsistent with the title in the vendor, so the latter could not claim against them by adverse possession. Atterberry v. Burnett (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 1028.

Possession by a purchaser and his grantee held not adverse to the heirs of the vendor, retaining a vendor's lien for the price, until they repudiate the title under the deed. Lumpkin v. Stony (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 298.

Although the rule that the possession of a vendee under an executory contract is not adverse, the judgment is modified to show that the vendor's lien with such adverse possession is against the vendee, where the lienor had notice of the purchaser's adverse claim, and purposely concealed from him the existence of the lien. Burnett v. Atterberry, 105 T. 119, 145 S. W. 882.

Where the owner sells land to another which is not subject to an adverse claim, and then sells the same by adverse possession, the court may order summary proceedings for the recovery of the land. Wilson v. Park, 65 S. W. 119.

When a tenant takes possession of land of another without adverse intent, the court may not order summary proceedings for the recovery of the land. Wilson v. Park, 65 S. W. 119.

A tenant cannot secure a prescriptive right until he repudiates the tenancy and gives his landlord notice thereof. Flanagan v. Pearson, 61 T. 302.

The possession by a tenant of the owner of the fee of a part of a larger tract with defined boundaries will not extend beyond the tract held by him as tenant. Craig v. Cartwright, 65 T. 413; Texas Land Co. v. Williams, 61 T. 61; Reed v. Allen, 63 T. 158.

When a tenant acknowledges himself the tenant of another, or his possession in his own right, not only against the persons to whom he attorns, but against the true owner, he is liable for all taxes. Eason v. Robinson, 78 T. 824, 18 S. W. 655.

Inclosure and cultivation of a small part of a tract of land under a lease of the whole tract, held to constitute actual possession of the whole. Tarlton v. Kirkpatrick, 1 C. A. 107, 21 S. W. 485.

Possession is not adverse between landlord and tenant so long as the relation exists, and though it was previously adverse. O'Connor v. Dykes (Civ. App.) 29 S. W. 920.

Notice of the tenant's adverse possession must be brought home to the landlord before the statute will begin to run in favor of tenant. Hintze v. Krabbeschmidt (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 38.

A finding of actual possession by tenants of separate parcels of land, not stating the duration thereof, held not to show adverse possession of the whole of two grants in question, barring action thereon. Hanrick v. Gurley, 55 T. 485, 54 S. W. 347, 55 S. W. 119, 55 S. W. 330.

Declaration of heirs held not to constitute a repudiation of title of the lessor of their intestate, under whom they had entered. Huntington v. Mattfield (Civ. App.) 65 S. W. 361.

A party cannot establish title to land by adverse possession, where he has occupied it as a tenant for the claimant and those through whom the latter claims. Balles v. Dolch (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 267.

The defendant claimed title to a park and lake, to which a city asserted title by dedication, an attempt by defendant to rent the property of the city held a sufficient recognition of the city's title to prevent the running of the statute prior to that time. Gillis v. City of Frost, 25 C. A. 371, 61 S. W. 545.

A judgment in claimant's favor, although by agreement, against a tenant, stops the running of the statute in the landlord's favor. Anderson v. Wynne, 25 C. A. 440, 62 S. W. 119.

Deed of a tenant's interest held not to make his grantee an adverse possessor as against the landlord. Bruce v. Richardson, 36 C. A. 615, 64 S. W. 785.
Lim 5681

The statute does not begin to run in favor of a tenant until he repudiates his tenancy. New York Land Co. v. Dooley, 29 C. A. 658, 37 S. W. 3d.

Where ten-year limitations were raised in trespass to try title, held to authorize admission of a parol lease from plaintiff to show occupancy as tenant. Bonner v. Bonner, 34 C. A. 348, 78 S. W. 655.

In an action to recover leased premises, explanation of an answer claimed to constitute an assertion of adverse title by the lessee held to destroy any right to recover on such answer which might have otherwise existed. Willsey Lodge, No. 21, 1 L. O. F. v. City of Paris (Civ. App.) 81 S. W. 99.

A judgment in favor of plaintiffs in trespass to try title held not to render defendant's subsequent possession the less adverse by reason of his failure to serve notice of his repudiation of an alleged tenancy relation existing by virtue of such judgment. Thompson v. Weisman, 98 T. 170, 82 S. W. 503.

In a petition by tenant to a stranger, or negotiations to lease from the stranger, held not to affect the sufficiency of the landlord's possession to meet the requirements of limitations. Cobb v. Robertson, 99 T. 138, 88 S. W. 746, 87 S. W. 1148, 22 Am. St. Rep. 609.

Limitations held not to run in favor of a tenant who purchased the land at tax sale against his landlord until notice to the latter of its repudiation of the tenancy. Bryson & Hartgrove v. Boyce, 41 C. A. 415, 92 S. W. 820.

The relation of landlord and tenant being once established, limitation will not run against the title of the landlord in favor of the tenant until the tenant publicly disclaims his tenancy. The tenant's purpose to disclaim tenancy must be brought home to the landlord in some way. The disclaimer must be open, continued, notorious, and adverse so as to preclude all doubt as to the character of the holding or the want of knowledge on the part of the landlord that the tenant was holding adversely not be proven beyond all doubt, but stronger and clearer proof is required in some cases than in others. Merely because the landlord neglects to disturb the tenant's possession the latter acquires no permanent rights. The possession of the tenant or of one holding under him relied upon as evidence of abandonment of the tenant's relation and adverse holding must be positive and unequivocal and inconsistent with the permissive use originally derived from the former landlord. Where the character of the tenant's possession is so uncertain and uncertain as to be a limited and presumptive only that the tenant did not claim the title, it is proper ground for saying it was not notice to the landlord of adverse possession. In trespass to try title against one who was in possession with the consent and under the right of the original tenant, evidence held insufficient to show notice to the landowner of an abandonment of the tenancy relation and an adverse claim by defendant so as to entitle the latter to the protection of the statute. Buford v. Wasson, 49 C. A. 464, 109 S. W. 275.

Where one claiming to be in adverse possession of lands accepts a lease from the owner, the possession ceases to be adverse. Hermann v. McIver, 31 C. A. 270, 111 S. W. 766.

A plea of adverse possession, being addressed to an entire league of land, was not sustained by proof of occupancy by tenants under leases of undefined parcels. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. Kimball (Civ. App.) 114 S. W. 662.

The continuity of adverse possession of a passway over land of another was broken where the person claiming the way by prescription held the servient estate for part of the time as a tenant of the owner. Sassman v. Collins, 53 C. A. 71, 115 S. W. 337.

There having been nothing to show a repudiation of the relation of landlord and tenant, held, the tenant could not acquire title against the landlord by adverse possession. Emporia Lumber Co. v. Tucker, 103 T. 547, 131 S. W. 498.

Execution of a lease by one in possession of land as the lessee, if there is false representation to start not to stop the running of limitations in favor of the named lessor. Lumpkin v. Woods (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 1339.

At any time before the ten-year limitation is completed for title by adverse possession, the husband may change the character of the possession by acknowledging occupancy as a tenant, whether such title would have been separate or community property. Burrell v. Adams, 104 T. 183, 135 S. W. 1156.

Where an occupant of land signed an instrument acknowledging himself as plaintiffs' tenant, at a time when he broke the continuity of his ten-year possession, held, under the evidence, he could not claim by limitation. A charge held to properly submit the issue of an acknowledgment of tenancy, interrupting adverse possession. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. McGrew (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 391.

It is immaterial whether tenants held under a written or a verbal lease to make their holding available to the lessor as an adverse possession. Wolf v. Wilhelm (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 216.

Where one in possession was notified of another's claim, and then executed an instrument purporting to sell the land, and acknowledged that he held the same as tenant of the owner, the use and occupancy must be deemed to have been in subordination to the rights of the owner. Bennett v. Louisiana & Texas Lumber Co (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1389.

Adverse possession under the ten-year statute of limitations may be by tenant. Carlock v. Willard (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 363.

Where land, constituting the separate property of a husband, was occupied by himself and wife as his homestead, her possession thereof after his death, either in person or by a tenant renting it temporarily, was not adverse to a grantee of a child of the parties. Dillard v. Cochran (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 662.

In an action wherein the wife claimed land by adverse possession, a lease taken by the husband from the other claimant was properly admitted as evidence that the wife had not held adversely, though the evidence conflicted whether the husband had abandoned the wife. Smith v. Adoue & Lobit (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 268.

Where a claimant of a defined tract leased a defined and separate portion thereof, the tenant's actual possession of the leased portion did not give the claimant constructive possession of the whole tract claimed by him. R. W. Wier Lumber Co. v. Com (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 276.

Where one claiming land under the statutes of five and ten year limitation was in possession under a lease, his possession was not adverse to the landlord. Whitman v. Aldrich (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 464.

Tenants in common.—One in possession under a deed conveying a designated portion of a survey cannot plead limitation against the owner of an undivided interest therein under a devise or other deed from the common vendor, the second purchaser having notice of the same. Saunders v. Silvey, 55 T. 46.

No limitation will run in favor of a tenant in common in possession against his cotenant until after notice that the possession is adverse is brought home to him. Moody v. Butler, 63 T. 210.

Where a tenant in common recognizes his cotenant's right, his possession then ceases to be adverse, however hostile it may previously have been. House v. Williams, 16 C. A. 123, 40 S. W. 414.

Possession of tenant in common is not adverse until cotenants have notice of his intent to repudiate their claims. Gist v. East, 16 C. A. 274, 41 S. W. 396.

Where one owning an undivided half interest in land conveyed the same, and afterwards bought the interest of two of the persons whose undivided half interest, held, that the purchaser's possession was not shown to be adverse against the owners whose interests were not so purchased. Wright v. Odell (Civ. App.) 42 S. W. 325.

Occupancy of homestead of decedent by his widow, without repudiating title of children by a former wife, held insufficient to show adverse possession. Clemens v. Clemens (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 199.

A deed of partition executed by a tenant in possession of property, in pursuance of a decision against him, to the tenant who has possession, and the grantee of a cotenant, shows that his prior possession was not adverse to the rights of his cotenant. Ilg v. De la Luz Garcia (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 857.

Long-continued possession under claim of ownership, and nonassertion of claim by the other tenant, where all the parties are dead, held to show repudiation of claim of such cotenant. Ilg v. Garcia, 92 T. 251, 47 S. W. 717.

Where parol partition was made by two owners in common, possession of portion of tract set apart to one owner is not possession of the tract set apart to other. Bayne v. Denny, 21 C. A. 415, 62 S. W. 983.

A co-owner of property, who is holding it adversely to the other tenants, cannot institute the property and charge the cotenants with a portion of the premiums. Gilroy v. Richards, 26 C. A. 355, 63 S. W. 694.

Possession of land of a decedent by one of her heirs held not adverse as against the other heirs. Newcomb v. Cox, 27 C. A. 583, 66 S. W. 338.

Occupancy of realty by a son (inheriting his mother's community interest), payment of taxes, and improvements held not sufficient to show an ouster of his cotenant. Madison v. Matthews (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 803.

No joint tenancy held to have existed between defendant in a judgment whereby title to land was obtained, and the plaintiff, so as to prevent limitations running in favor of defendant remaining in possession. Pendleton v. McMain, 32 C. A. 576, 75 S. W. 249.

A tenant in common, holding land adversely to his cotenant, is properly charged with the value of the use of the premises. Stephens v. Hewitt (Civ. App.) 77 S. W. 229.

Adverse possession of an entire survey under color of title from 1866 to 1884 held sufficient to bar the right of a tenant in common not under disability. Broom v. Pearson, 98 T. 469, 85 S. W. 790, 86 S. W. 733.

Suit brought by one cotenant within the limitation period held not to imure to the benefit of his cotenants. Cobb v. Robertson, 99 T. 138, 86 S. W. 146, 87 S. W. 1148, 122 Am. St. Rep. 606.

Possession of one cotenant is not adverse to other cotenants, unless the possessor gives notice to the other cotenants of his adverse claim, or does some act which clearly gives notice of which they should take notice. Keith v. Keith, 39 C. A. 362, 87 S. W. 354.

Act of tenant in common in appropriating rents and profits to herself held not to deprive her cotenants of their rights. Mecaskey v. Morris, 40 C. A. 390, 89 S. W. 1085.

An act of ouster or repudiation of the cotenant's title by its mention of an heir not signing, where it purported to convey the whole estate. Naylor & Jones v. Foster, 44 C. A. 699, 99 S. W. 114.

Where G. and his sister held title to land in controversy as heirs of their ancestor, a conveyance of the entire tract by G. did not oust his sister or her successors in interest, whose rights could be barred only by one of the statutes of limitation of suits for the recovery of land. Kirby v. Hayden, 44 C. A. 207, 99 S. W. 746.

Possession of one tenant in common asserting an exclusive right to the land under a deed containing the same specific description held adverse to his cotenants. Morgan v. White, 50 C. A. 318, 110 S. W. 491.

Under the facts, held, a tenant in common acquired title by adverse possession against a cotenant. Frey v. Myers (Civ. App.) 113 S. W. 592.

A purchaser of an interest of an heir in a tract of land of a deceased ancestor held not to hold the possession adversely to the other heirs, unless notice was brought home that he claimed the entire tract. Hess v. Webb (Civ. App.) 113 S. W. 618.

Possession of a specific part of a tract of land under a deed held not to be adverse to the occupant's cotenants of the larger tract that he is holding adversely. Tolle v. Renfro, 53 C. A. 482, 114 S. W. 450.

Where a wife died in 1877, and willed half the community property to her husband, adverse possession to such land, begun in 1878, will run against the husband's community interest, and continue to run unaffected by his death. Appel v. Childress, 53 C. A. 607, 116 S. W. 129.

The claim of a tenant in common of certain property held barred by limitations. Williams v. W. C. W. 553, 116 S. W. 770.

Possession by one claiming property under title to himself and another which is held adversely to every other person for the required time inures to the benefit of the cotenant not in actual possession. Myers v. Frey, 102 T. 557, 119 S. W. 1142.

Though a daughter took possession of property for herself and her minor brother claiming adversely against their mother, the daughter's possession was not for the benefit of her brother where he at all times recognized his mother's interest in the property, and did not know that her sister was claiming for him. Id.

Sufficiency of proof of adverse possession as against a stranger and against a tenant in common. Hones v. Aridege, 56 C. A. 296, 129 S. W. 506.

Partitioning of land by certain cotenants among themselves ignoring another cotenant held to constitute an ouster and start the running of limitations as against him. Id.

A wife's adverse possession of property conveyed to her husband under a tax deed, held to inure to the benefit of the community; and, even, if an unexecuted order for partition of the property, made upon the granting of a divorce, operated to prevent title to the whole tract from vesting in the community by virtue of her adverse possession, she acquired title to one-half of the tract under the tax deed. Callen v. Collins, 56 C. A. 630, 12 S. W. 546.

A surviving husband conveyed community real estate, and all the subsequent vendees claiming under him dealt with the land without any recognition of rights on the part of the deceased wife's heirs, paying taxes, etc. Held, that the possession of those claiming under the husband was an ouster of the heirs of the wife, and they could not claim to have been in joint possession as tenants in common with those claiming under the husband's conveyance. Hardy Oil Co. v. Burnham (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 291.

The statute does not run in favor of a tenant in common holding the community property until some act is done repudiating the relation with the cotenants. Wingo v. Rudder, 103 T. 150, 124 S. W. 589.

Circumstances held to tend to show notice to defendant's cotenant of defendant's adverse possession of the whole tract so as to start limitations running against the cotenant. Eastham v. Gibbs (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 372.

Tenants in common, who are at all times ready and willing to recognize the right of a cotenant out of possession, cannot interpose the bar of the statute to an action by the cotenant for partition. Wrighton v. Butler (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 472.

An action by tenant in common against a trespasser inures to the benefit of his cotenants and is not an act indicating possession adverse to his cotenants. Wadsworth v. Vinyard (Civ. App.) 121 S. W. 171.

Defendants in trespass to try title, being cotenants with the plaintiff, held not to have acquired title against the plaintiff under the five and ten year statute of limitations. Id.

A cotenant in possession held to have acquired her cotenant's interest by adverse possession. Yealock v. Yealock (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 342.

An instruction in trespass to try title that, if plaintiff recognized defendant's interest in the land and was not holding adversely to him, he was entitled to recover, held proper. Id.

In a suit for partition between cotenants, held, that the defense of limitation could not be made. Schriver v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 231.

Mere possession of land and payment of taxes, etc., by one cotenant held not to raise a presumption of an adverse claim to the land, though known by the other cotenant. Gibbs v. Eastham (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 323.

An agreement by one cotenant with another to assume the management of the joint property held to inure to the benefit of successive owners of the property until expressly repudiated. Id.

Limitations held not to begin to run against a cotenant or his successors until they had actual notice of the claim of ownership of the tenant in possession. Id.

Payment of taxes by one tenant in common is not adverse to the interests of his cotenants, being construed as favoring the whole benefit of all of them. Montgomery v. Trueheart (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 284.

Evidence in partition between tenants in common held not to show that defendant's holding of the land was adverse to plaintiff, so as to give him title under a plea of stale demand. Id.

Deed by a tenant in common pending partition to one who did not intervene, but remained in possession after judgment, held sufficient basis for a claim of adverse possession. Dough v. Cook (Civ. App.) 148 S. W. 1120.

Deeds, whereby the grantors undertook to convey to others at least one-half of the entire tract of land sought to be recovered, were admissible in evidence as tending to show that grantors intended their possession to be adverse to every one, including their cotenant. Carr v. Alexander (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 218.

Possession and assertion of exclusive ownership may be so notorious and long continued as to constitute notice to a cotenant of adverse possession, though there is no actual notice thereof given the cotenant. Id.

Evidence, in an action to recover land, held sufficient to show ouster of a cotenant and to establish an open, notorious, and adverse possession sufficient to establish title in plaintiffs under the ten-year limitation. Id.

A tenant in common, who is in possession, cannot acquire title as against the cotenant, unless the latter had notice of the adverse claim; but, to prove notice, it is not always necessary to show that the cotenant had actual knowledge of the adverse claim. Dillard v. Cochran (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 662.

The execution of a deed by a tenant in common and its recording by the grantee who took open and adverse possession thereunder, and paid the taxes, was notice to the cotenant of the assertion of an adverse claim. Robles v. Robles (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 230.

Where one of the cotenants of timber land cut merchantable timber and sold the same, recognizing the interest of its cotenant, the fact that it took a deed to the whole of the land, paid all the just and executed mortgages thereon did not constitute an ouster so as to render it liable to the cotenant for the manufactured value of the lumber. De Witz v. Bamer-Whiteman Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 980.

The plea of limitations is not available to parties who have been in possession as tenants in common with the claimants of adverse interests. Whitman v. Aldrich (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 464.
Persons in fiduciary relations.—See Decisions Applicable to Subject in General. 14

Limitation will not run in favor of one who holds title to land in his own name under a resulting trust in favor of another until he repudiates such trust, and notice of such repudiation to the cestui que trust is shown. Cooper v. Lee, 75 T. 114, 12 S. W. 483.

In trespass to try title, where it did not appear that an agent asserting a claim to the land had repudiated his agency, the statute of limitations did not apply. Richardson v. Bruce (Civ. App.) 75 S. W. 435.

The granting of a title by adverse possession to land taken possession of by their father for them, where he had conveyed the land to another in trust for the children and in fraud of his creditors. Coke & Reardon v. Ikard, 39 C. A. 403, 87 S. W. 889.

If a person held title to land in trust for a county, his possession would not be adverse to the trustee as to start the statute, until there was a repudiation of the trust. Bell County v. Felts (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 295.

Where an agent is in actual possession of land, and his agreement not to hold adversely, during the pendency of a suit, is sufficient to suspend the running of limitations. Stallings v. Waterford, 57 C. A. 345, 122 S. W. 906.

Where before purchasing land a purchaser contracted to acquire title and convey to another on payment of the purchase price, he has no right on the premises beyond those of a stranger so long as the agreement remains in force, and his subsequent entry and assumption of hostile possession were not essentially a breach of the trust, except as indicating a refusal to convey, but a naked trespass. Hoffman v. Buchanan, 57 C. A. 368, 123 S. W. 168.

Limitations do not run in favor of a party while he holds the property for another. Makey v. Dryden (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 633.

One to whom land was conveyed for life by afterwards selling it for its full value repudiated any trust in her under the deed conveying the life estate, so as to put her grantors in possession that title was acquired, so as to make limitations begin to run upon the subsequent vendee entering and taking possession. Horan v. O'Connell (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 1048.

Where father and son agreed to buy land jointly, and the son paid one-half of the first payment, and the father fraudulently procured the erasure of the son's name from the deed, the father could not acquire title against the son by limitations, in the absence of actual notice to the son that he was claiming adversely. Weatherford v. Weatherford (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 353.

Where suit was brought to recover land by virtue of an equitable title based on a constructive trust impressed thereon by alleged fraudulent acts of the defendant, only those statutes of limitation affecting actions for the recovery of realty were applicable. Nutt v. Staney (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 93.

Limitations do not begin to run against a remainderman to deprive him of title, in favor of the grantee of a life tenant, until the death of the tenant. Morris v. Edmins, 18 C. A. 38, 44 S. W. 203.

The statute began to run against children holding subject to the life estate in their father in one-third of the land at the time the estate was cast, and not at death of life tenant since, although they had no right of possession during the life estate, they could recover as against strangers as to the entire estate. McConnico v. Thompson, 19 C. A. 539, 47 S. W. 537.

Limitations held not to run against partition of homestead among children, so long as it is occupied by surviving wife. McAnulty v. Ellison (Civ. App.) 71 S. W. 670.

The possession of the grantee of a life tenant does not become adverse to the remainderman until the life tenant's death. Adverse possession of an entire tract, under a conveyance by the owner's widow of her dower interest therein, relates only to the life estate conveyed, and terminates therewith. Beaty v. Clymer, 32 C. A. 322, 75 S. W. 540.

The possession of land by a stranger held adverse against the life tenant and remainderman, giving each a right of action on the beginning of the adverse possession. Elen v. C. & O. C. R. R., 40 C. A. 193, 89 S. W. 84.

A remainderman whose title to part of a tract of land had been barred by limitations held entitled to claim the remainder after a life estate therein, where the right to the remainder was not barred. Schnabel v. McNeill (Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 558.

When a grantor in estate in land which was to terminate on her remarriage, and the widow for herself and as independent executrix of the estate of testator executed a deed to the land, limitations did not begin to run against an action by the heirs to recover the land from the purchaser until the remarriage of the widow. Harling v. Shelton (Civ. App.) 114 S. W. 589.
The possession of a life tenant is not adverse to the remainderman and cannot ripen into a perfected title. Lovenberg v. Mellen (Cliv. App.) 144 S. W. 317.

Where a surviving husband conveyed land constituting community property in 1907, and it passed by various conveyances to defendants, an action by heirs of the deceased wife in 1908, based upon the title which descended to them under the statute, was not barred under the doctrine of stale demand. Burnham v. Hardy Oil Co. (Cliv. App.) 147 S. W. 330.

Payment of taxes.—For payment of taxes under the five year statute, see notes under Art. 5674.

The payment of taxes on vacant lands by one who has not the legal title thereto is evidence of an assertion of title, but is not equivalent to possession. Texas Tram & Lumber Co. v. Gwin, 29 C. A. 1, 67 S. W. 802, 68 S. W. 721.

Although payment of taxes is not necessary under the ten-year statute, failure to have the land assessed and pay taxes held to weaken a claim of adverse possession.

In determining whether defendant's possession of a few acres of a tract of land was an adverse possession of the whole, the jury are entitled to consider the fact of his failure to pay taxes on the land. Harris v. Wagner (Cliv. App.) 148 S. W. 606.

Where one segregated 60 acres from a larger tract by a purchase thereof and abandoned actual occupancy of the remainder, on which he failed to pay taxes, his occupancy of the 60 acres cannot be construed to extend to the remainder, so as to give title by adverse possession. Cook v. Southern Pine Lumber Co. (Cliv. App.) 149 S. W. 716.

One fencing a tract in 1882, and thereafter continuously using the land for grazing cattle for nearly 30 years and paying all the taxes, held to acquire title by limitations.

Evidence.—See, also, preceding notes under this article.

Evidence held insufficient to avoid the statute of limitations. Lumkins v. Coates (Cliv. App.) 42 S. W. 560.

Finding that defendant had been in possession of land in controversy since 1896 held justified by the evidence. Petrucio v. Gross (Cliv. App.) 47 S. W. 43.

Testimony held to sustain finding that defendant's possession was not adverse to plaintiff. Mass v. Bromberg, 28 C. A. 145, 66 S. W. 468.

Evidence supported the court's conclusion that defendant's occupancy was not adverse. Cruse v. Richards (Cliv. App.) 109 S. W. 205.

Evidence in an action of trespass to try title held to show that the action was barred by ten-year statute. Mcallan v. Lawler, 61 S. W. 274, 69 S. W. 475.

In trespass to try title, evidence held to warrant finding of jury on the issue of adverse possession. Cochran v. Moerer, 47 C. A. 372, 105 S. W. 1138.

Certain evidence held not to establish adverse possession as against the heirs of the deceased ancestor. Hess v. Webb (Cliv. App.) 112 S. W. 618.

Evidence held not to show such adverse possession by one claiming under a junior title overlapping an older survey as will give him title. Lake v. Earnest, 53 C. A. 855, 116 S. W. 865.

Evidence held to warrant a finding that plaintiff intended to hold adverse possession of 160 acres of the land in controversy, including his improvements. Louisiana & T. Lumber Co. v. Kennedy (Cliv. App.) 119 S. W. 824.

A grantee in a deed held to have acquired a valid title to the entire tract by adverse possession. Merriman v. Blalack, 56 C. A. 594, 121 S. W. 552.

Evidence held to sustain finding against claim of adverse possession. Henderson v. Louisiana & Texas Lumber Co. (Cliv. App.) 128 S. W. 671.

Evidence of occupancy and use of land in controversy and of a claim to all the land within an inclosure held to justify a conclusion that the occupant's possession was adverse. Cannon v. Producers' Oil Co. (Cliv. App.) 128 S. W. 902.

Evidence held to sustain a finding that occupancy under which title by adverse possession is claimed began in 1852 or 1853. Cook v. Houston Oil Co of Texas (Cliv. App.) 134 S. W. 279.

Evidence held to support a finding that defendant did not acquire title by adverse possession under the ten-year statute. Shaw v. Windham (Cliv. App.) 155 S. W. 686.

Presumptions, burden of proof and admissibility of evidence.—See notes under Art. 5687, Rules 5, 12, 19.

Possession may be held by different persons.—
Pecable and adverse possession need not be continued in the same person, but when held by different persons successively there must be a privity of estate between them.

Tacking successive possessions.—See cases cited under Art. 5630.

One claiming an undivided half interest in a lot went into possession, recognizing B., his vendor, the claimant of the other half, as tenant in common, he holding adversely to all others; having purchased afterwards B.'s interest, he continued in possession as before of the entire lot. Held, that his possession, as against a third party claiming an adverse title to the half interest purchased from B., could be added to the period of possession from his entry up to the date of the deed to him from B. Terrell v. Martin, 64 S. W. 131.

Instruction excluding plaintiff's right to tack the possession of the land in controversy by her tenant to that of her brother, if any, who held for her benefit, held erroneous. Trask v. Hall, 37 S. C. A. 143, 83 S. W. 425.

Certain occupations under adverse possession tucked. City of Houston v. Finnigan (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 476.

Where the running of limitations is interrupted, the periods prior and subsequent to the interval tacked, to make out title by adverse possession. Lawless v. Wright, 39 C. A. 26, 86 S. W. 1039.

One relying on title by adverse possession held required to show facts from which the conclusion of continuity of the possession of successive possessors might be deduced. Dunn v. Taylor, 102 T. 89, 113 S. W. 265.

Where successive possessors are tacked to establish adverse possession for the period of the statute, the fact that the prior possessor held under a mistake as to his right to possession held immaterial. Williams v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., 52 C. A. 217, 114 S. W. 877.

Where plaintiff, in trespass to try title to a named tract of land, claims by adverse possession through his predecessors in title, that one of the former owners did not know the adverse fact is not material where he claimed and held the tract as such. Bennett v. Collins, 54 C. A. 16, 116 S. W. 618.

Evidence held insufficient to show that defendant's predecessors in title held the land under adverse claim of right. Ryle v. Davidson (Civ. App.) 115 S. W. 822.

Evidence held not to show a present gift of the land to W., but only a promise to make such gift by deed in the future, the land in the meantime to belong to D., so that W.'s continued possession was D.'s possession for the purpose of establishing D.'s title by ten-year limitation as described in D.'s deed. Bond v. Garrison (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 839.

One occupying land under a claim of right held not entitled to tack his possession prior to a conveyance of his right to a conveyance afterwards held by him in computing the period. Cowart v. Alexander (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 664.

Adverse possession of claimant and his predecessors in claim held continuous, so as to sustain his claim of title. Davis v. Adams (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 159.

A widow claiming land held by her husband under a tax deed will be presumed to claim under that deed. Wright v. Giles (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1163.

Evidence held insufficient to show that defendant's remote grantor within the period of the statute claimed to hold adversely. Rushing v. Lanier (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 528.

The possession of the holder of a headright certificate sufficient to supply a predicate for the presumption of a retransfer by a purchaser of the certificate cannot be tacked to the possession by one not claiming through the holder, but through a third person having no title from the holder or from any other source. Mitchell v. Stanton (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 1053.

A person and his assigns claiming title under a settler and holding adverse possession for fifteen years of 100 feet of the 200 feet of land granted to a railroad for a right of way acquired title by adverse possession. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Western Stockyards Co. (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1172.

Privity of estate.—Where the defendant relies on ten years' possession, he must show privity between himself and those whose possession he claims. Trueheart v. McMichael, 46 T. 222; Henderson v. Beaton, 1 U. C. 17.

The plea of ten years is not sustained when the adverse occupancy of different persons is relied on, unless the defendant can show privity between himself and others on whose possession he relies. Dotson v. Moss, 58 T. 152; Forsod v. Golson, 77 T. 666, 14 S. W. 232.

Where, under a plea of five-year limitation, possession is claimed under different titles, and the requisite term of occupancy has elapsed under neither, but the possession under one title must be tacked to that under another in order to make out the five years, a privity must be shown between the various titles under which possession is claimed, or its continuity would be broken, and the statute of five years will not avail on the claim. Brownson v. Scanlan, 59 T. 222; Medlin v. Wilkins, 60 T. 499; Cook v. Dennis, 61 T. 246.

A naked trespasser in possession may set up in his defense an outstanding title acquired by a third party by limitation to defeat an action instituted by one whose title was lost by limitation. Privity of claim or of possession is important only when it becomes necessary to tack the possession of two or more to give adverse possession for the period requisite to perfect limitation. Branch v. Baker, 70 T. 190, 7 S. W. 908.

The continuity of possession is broken when held by one not in privity with the party asserting it. South v. Frederichs, 78 T. 660; War Sn v. 548.

Evidence held to show privity of estate so as to tack possession. Bateman v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 224.

Privity of possession between parties holding adversely for more than ten years can be shown by parol evidence in order to establish title by possession for the requisite period. Johnson v. Simpson, 22 C. A. 290, 54 S. W. 308.

Parol sale between adverse claimants of land held to show sufficient privity to entitle the latter to cumulate the possession of both. McManus v. Matthews (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 685.

In trespass to try title, evidence offered by defendant showing occupancy by various persons for the requisite period for obtaining title by adverse possession, but failing to show any privity of such persons with defendant, will not support a judgment sustaining defendant's title by limitations. McV. Loggins (Civ. App.) 114 S. W. 138.

Evidence held to sustain a finding that plaintiff's predecessors in title each held the land adversely, and that there was a privy between them, and that the land held adversely was the same land as that in dispute. Bennette v. Collins, 54 C. A. 16, 116 S. W. 618.

Where title by adverse possession is to be sustained by the successive possession of several holders, the evidence of privy between them must be competent and clear. Evidence held insufficient. Rushing v. Janier (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 329.

Vendor and purchaser.—See cases under "Vendor and purchaser," cited under Art. 6581.

One who entered under a deed to himself, duly recorded, may tack his own possession to that of his vendor, who also entered and held under a deed duly registered. Cook v. Dennis, 61 T. 246.

When the purchaser under an executory contract enters into possession of the land, his possession is adverse as against all except his vendor, or one standing in a similar relation to him as the vendor by priority of contract. Barrett v. McKinney (Civ. App.) 93 S. W. 246.

The possession of land by the vendee is not the possession of his vendor as against one who enters possession after the sale. Kirby v. Boaz (Civ. App.) 121 S. W. 223.

A possession taken by a purchaser under a deed reserving a lien to secure the purchase money notes is available to the vendor as against an adverse claimant. Kirby v. Boaz, 103 T. 525, 131 S. W. 533.

One claiming the title of a vendor held not entitled to rely on the possession taken by the purchaser and subsequently abandoned by him to the holder of the adverse title.

Where the privy between an occupant of land and a third person was that of vendor and landlord, the latter was entitled to the benefit of the tenant's possession by the occupant. Campbell v. San Antonio Machine & Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 750.

Where a possessor sells his land and remains in possession claiming it, he breaks the possession essential to establish title by adverse possession. Dunn v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 211.

Landlord and tenant.—See cases cited under "Landlord and tenant" under Art. 6581.

A person who has occupied land, using, cultivating and claiming it as his own, without title, color of title or deed, may continue his possession by his agent, tenants or lessees, whether the case be by parol or in writing. Cochrane v. Paris, 18 T. 856.

A tenant repudiating his attorney cannot tack his possession as tenant either with his previous or subsequent possession. Robinson v. Bazoon, 79 T. 524, 15 S. W. 585.

Where one, with color of title to the whole tract, fenced and put a tenant in possession of part, and they used the rest for grazing, held, that such continuous adverse possession was shown to support a plea of limitations. Puryear v. Friery, 16 C. A. 116, 46 S. W. 446.

Evidence held to sustain a finding that an occupancy by a tenant constituted adverse possession. Neyland v. Texas Yellow Pine Lumber Co., 26 C. A. 417, 64 S. W. 696.

Tenant's possession of land held insufficient to show constructive possession on part of landlord. William Carlyle & Co. v. Pruett, 57 C. A. 384, 84 S. W. 372.

A claimant's possession falls through by limitation through a tenant by his lessee, unless he was a tenant for the full statutory period. The tenant's occupancy must be exclusive. Wiley v. Bargman (Civ. App.) 90 S. W. 1116.

Evidence held to show that defendant's predecessor held and used the land as a tenant in recognition of plaintiff's title, and not adversely. Buford v. Wassen, 49 C. A. 454, 109 S. W. 275.

Where a landlord claimed under a grant, the tenant's possession of a part of the land extended the landlord's claim of adverse possession to the boundaries of the grant. English v. Dehart, 52 C. A. 5, 113 S. W. 170.

A tenant, having acquired title from his landlord, held entitled to assert the rights of possession acquired by the landlord. Id.

Where the boundaries of a lot were clearly marked, possession of plaintiff, through his tenants, of a part of the lot, perfected title by limitation to the well-defined limits of the whole lot. Washam v. Harrison (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 52.

Where a landlord is in adverse possession through a tenant, his possession is not destroyed by the tenant's attornment to a stranger. Saxton v. Corbett (Civ. App.) 121 S. W. 76.

Where plaintiffs had possession through tenants, a hiatus between the tenants' abandonment without notice to plaintiffs and defendants' entry held not to establish plaintiffs' abandonment of their possessory rights. Id. of Possession.
Art. 5682

LIMITATIONS

Plaintiff's predecessor's possession of land through tenants inures to plaintiff's benefit on a claim of title by adverse possession. Wright v. Giles (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 1162.

Outstanding claims by the ten-year statute of limitations can predicate his right thereto on the possession of one holding as his tenant. A tenant could not defeat the right of his landlord holding adversely, by an attempted attornment to another. Combs v. Stringer (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 668.

Continuity of possession of an adverse claimant is broken by the attornment of his tenant to the owner of the property obtained by him, without any notice that the person in possession, who attorns, is holding under one claiming adversely to him. Lawless v. Alexander (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 233.

Descendent and heirs and representatives.—Heirs may tack their possession to that of the ancestor, so as to complete the term of occupancy required by the statute. Olive v. Bevil, 55 T. 423.

The possession of the real estate by an executor held not a break in the possession of land as between ancestor and devisee, being authorized by Arts. 2353, 2355. McLay v. Jones, 31 C. A. 354, 72 S. W. 407.

One adversely in possession of land which has been set apart to her in partition of the estate of an ancestor may prescribe under deed to the ancestor, without there having been a record of the probate order. 10.

Possession of land by plaintiff's ancestor held not such as to confer title by adverse possession. Veatch v. Gray, 41 C. A. 146, 91 S. W. 324.

Under the statutory provisions the survival of possession, time of adverse possession relied on as defense in trespass to try title held measurable back from the commencement of the action, even as to heirs of deceased plaintiff. Upson v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 99 S. W. 1129.

Title by inheritance held a sufficient link in a chain of title to sustain a plea of limitations. Kennon v. Miller (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 986.

Art. 5683. [3351] Right of the state not barred, etc.—The right of the state shall not be barred by any of the provisions of this chapter, nor shall any person ever acquire, by occupancy or adverse possession, any right or title to any part or portion of any road, street, sidewalk or grounds which belong to any town, city or county, or which have been donated or dedicated for public use to any such town, city or county by the owner thereof, or which have been laid out or dedicated in any manner to public use in any town, city or county in this state; provided, this law shall not apply to any alley laid out across any block or square in any city or town. [Id. secs. 15–17. P. D. 4622–4624. Acts 1887, p. 28.]

See, also, notes at end of title.

State.—Limitations do not run against the state's right to set aside a patent obtained by fraud. State v. Burnett (Civ. App.) 69 S. W. 699.

In determining in possession of one in possession of land, as against the state. Zepeda v. Hoffman, 31 C. A. 313, 72 S. W. 445.

Limitations do not run against the state. Lawless v. Wright, 39 C. A. 26, 86 S. W. 1039.

Adverse possession of land forfeited to state for nonpayment of interest on price held thereby interrupted, and the state can sell the land, in view of Art. 5423, providing for its reversion. 10.

A college, though designed for a public use, to be employed as a medium through which the republic was to exercise some of its governmental functions, was not within this article; and the title of the college to the land granted to it might be lost by adverse possession. Trustees of College of De Kalb v. Williams (Civ. App.) 148 S. W. 348.

Land legally surveyed under location of a valid land certificate is segregated from the mass of public domain; the equitable title is thereby vested in the owner of the certificate. Limitations will run in favor of an adverse occupant claiming the land. Udell v. Peak, 70 T. 547, 7 S. W. 786.

Land was bought from the state in 1877. It was patented in 1889. In such case, as the purchaser could maintain trespass to try title for the land upon his contract with the state, the statute of limitation would run against such purchaser in favor of one in adverse possession before the patent issued for the land. Dutton v. Thompson, 85 T. 116, 19 S. W. 1026.

While limitation does not run against the state (Campbell v. McFadden, 9 C. A. 379, 31 S. W. 436), it will run in favor of an occupant of public lands against one claiming under purchase from the state (Parker v. Brown, 80 T. 565, 16 S. W. 262).

Limitations do not run against a purchaser of state land so as to confer title by adverse possession in the state, and the purchaser has merely a right to acquire title upon compliance with the terms of the purchase. Dooley v. Maywald, 18 C. A. 386, 45 S. W. 221.

The period of adverse possession of school lands between the application to purchase and the issue of the patent may be included in the ten-year limitation prescribed by statute. Thompson v. Dutton (Civ. App.) 69 S. W. 641.

A grantee of a purchaser of school lands paying one-fourtieth of the price in cash is In the attitude of the state, and no limitation can be pleaded against him. Hamman v. Preaswood (Civ. App.) 120 S. W. 1053.

Where defendants, in adverse possession of land, had not been in possession for ten years when the state instituted suit to foreclose its lien for unpaid taxes, so that they were not proper parties to such action, they were still bound by the judgment, though not noticed, and hence were not entitled to hold the land as against the purchaser from the state and those claiming under him. Patton v. Minor, 103 T. 176, 125 S. W. 6.

Title by limitation may be acquired to unpatented school lands sold by the state. Paterson v. Rector (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 661.

United States.—As no action can be maintained against the government, no limitation would run in its favor against the owner of land occupied by the United States. Stanley v. Schwabey, 86 T. 345, 19 S. W. 264.

County.—In the absence of statutory prohibition, limitation will run in favor of or against a county. Caldwell County v. Harbert, 68 T. 331, 4 S. W. 607.

The statute of limitation cannot be invoked as a defense in actions by a county acting as the representative of sovereignty, such as an action to establish county boundaries. Marsalis v. Garrison (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 929, citing Coleman v. Thurmond, 86 T. 614; Railway Co. v. Travis County, 62 T. 18.

Limitations run against counties, unless otherwise provided. Ward v. Marlon County, 26 A. 361, 62 S. W. 557, 63 S. W. 155.

Under the express provisions of the constitution, adverse possession or limitations is not available against the title of a county to lands set aside for educational purposes. San Augustine County v. Madden, 29 A. 257, 87 S. W. 1056.

In an action by a county to recover certain land, facts held to show that the county was entitled to exclusive possession for the purposes for which the land was set aside by adverse possession for more than 10 years. City of Victoria v. Victoria County (Civ. App.) 94 S. W. 365.

Facts held to show acquisition of title to county land by limitations. Hardin County v. Nona Mills Co. (Civ. App.) 112 S. W. 222.

No claim of possession subsequent to the dedication of the site by a town to a county for county buildings can reduce or increase the dedicated area. City of Victoria v. Victoria County (Civ. App.) 115 S. W. 67.

Where a county holds the superior title to land to no adverse occupancy or possession can ripen into a right under the statutes of limitation for the recovery of land. In such a case limitation will not run against the county. Bell County v. Feils (Civ. App.) 120 S. W. 1072.

Under Const. art. 7, § 6, and Paschal’s Dig. art. 3470, on a recovery by a county of such land in trespass to try title, defendant is not entitled to compensation for the improvements made by him, as his remedy is to purchase the land. Lamar County v. Talley (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 272.

—A railway company, continuing in the undisturbed possession for over 20 years of land belonging to a city, under an ordinance of the city, held to acquire an easement to such lands. Board of School Trustees of City of San Antonio v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 67 S. W. 147.

Roads and streets.—Prior to the act of 1887 there was no statutory inhibition from a person acquiring title by limitation to land upon which a street or road had been established. Ostrow v. City of San Antonio, 77 T. 345, 14 S. W. 66.

Rights might have grown up if the street had been opened and run the greatest distance from the street, before the street was laid off or dedicated to public use. Perry v. Bail, 52 A. 134, 113 S. W. 591, 592.

Grounds.—The statute may be relied upon in a suit by a county to recover lands which were not acquired or used for public purposes. The words “road,” “street” and “sidewalk” do not include all real estate, and the word “grounds” applies only to such real estate as was dedicated to or intended for public use. Johnston v. Llano County, 15 A. 421, 39 S. W. 995.

A deed to defendant held not sufficient to set in operation the statute as against the rights of a city to use the property as a public park. Gibilane v. City of Frost, 25 A. 376, 106 S. W. 753.

Title cannot be acquired to any public road or street by limitation (since 1887, when this article was passed), against any county or town or city. Nor could limitation have commenced to run before the street was laid off or dedicated to public use. Perry v. Bail, 52 A. 134, 113 S. W. 591, 592.

Grounds.—The statute may be relied upon in a suit by a county to recover lands which were not acquired or used for public purposes. The words “road,” “street” and “sidewalk” do not include all real estate, and the word “grounds” applies only to such real estate as was dedicated to or intended for public use. Johnston v. Llano County, 15 A. 421, 39 S. W. 995.

A deed to defendant held not sufficient to set in operation the statute as against the rights of a city to use the property as a public park. Gibilane v. City of Frost, 25 A. 376, 106 S. W. 753.

Title cannot be acquired to any public road or street by limitation (since 1887, when this article was passed), against any county or town or city. Nor could limitation have commenced to run before the street was laid off or dedicated to public use. Perry v. Bail, 52 A. 134, 113 S. W. 591, 592.

A lake can be dedicated to public use, and is comprehended under the term “grounds” used in the statute. Gillean v. City of Frost, 25 A. 371, 61 S. W. 348.

Title to an alley in a city can be acquired by limitation. Folsom v. City of McGregor (Civ. App.) 30 S. W. 346.

Art. 5684. [3352] Does not run against infants, etc.—If a person entitled to commence suit for the recovery of real property, or to make any defense founded on the title thereto, be at the time such title shall first descend or the adverse possession commence—

1. Under the age of twenty-one years; or,

2. Of unsound mind; or,

3. A person imprisoned; the time during which such disability shall continue shall not be deemed any portion of the time limited for the commencement of such suit, or the making of such defense; and such person shall have the same time after the removal of his disability that is allowed to others by the provisions of this chapter; provided, that limitation shall not begin to run against married women until they arrive at the age of twenty-one years; and, further, that their disability shall continue one year from and after July 29, 1895, and that they shall have thereafter the same time allowed others by the provisions hereof; and, further, that this article shall in no way affect suits then pending, and all such suits shall be tried and disposed of under the law then in force. [Acts 1841, p. 109, secs. 14–17. P. D. 4621–4624. Amend. 1895, p. 35.]

See Art. 5708.

In general.—Where one of two tenants in common is under some disability which prevents the running of limitation against him, the other tenant is not protected from the effect of limitation, and in such case the party under disability and not barred can recover only his own moiety. Stovall v. Carmichael, 52 T. 333.

A trust which is exempted from the operation of the statute of limitations must be a trust truly existent and not a sham or withal a device for evasion of the jurisdiction, and shall be construed, produced, and accounted for in accordance with its true nature. Hightower v. Heater, 4 App. C. C. § 67, 15 S. W. 412.

Where the defendant has never repudiated his obligation to the plaintiff, there is no limitation to a suit on a contract made by the defendant to buy and locate land certificates for the plaintiff with money received from him for that purpose. White v. Affleck, 1 U. C. 73.

Limitation which begins to run against an ancestor is not estopped in favor of the heir either by minority or coverture. Moody v. Moeller, 72 T. 635, 10 S. W. 757, 13 Am. St. Rep. 839; Harris v. Wells, 85 T. 312, 20 S. W. 68.

The only heir of an intestate conveyed land of the deceased and his grantee took possession. The heir brought suit attacking the validity of the administration. Held, that limitation ran against the administrator in favor of the party claiming under the heir during the pendency of such suit. Bowen v. Kirkland, 17 C. A. 346, 44 S. W. 189.

A person is not entitled to a prescriptive right in the use of a road as against persons not sui juris. City of Austin v. Hall, 93 T. 591, 57 S. W. 563.

Evidence held to support the reply of minority to a plea of limitations. Halliday v. Lumber Co., 29 C. A. 225, 88 S. W. 712.

Will construed, and held not to vest a husband with the legal title to land devised by his wife to their children, and hence limitations did not run against such children's right to recover the property during their minority. Wiess v. Goodhue, 98 T. 574, 83 S. W. 178.

Limitations do not run in favor of one in possession of land against a minor. Meurlin v. Kopplin (Civ. App.) 100 S. W. 984.

In order for a claim of adverse possession to prevail against one who was a minor at the commencement of the possession, the adverse possession must continue for the requisite period after the minor becomes of age. Burnham v. Hardy Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 330.

Limitations do not begin to run against the owner of land until he becomes of age.

Where land of infants was in the continuous adverse possession of one and those claiming under him for twenty-four years, ten of which were after removal of the disability of infancy, title was acquired under the ten-year statute, which began to run against the infants on the removal of disability. Where the agent of infants was in actual possession of land asserting an adverse claim, the fact that he received a third person's application to purchase a different tract of the infants did not affect his right to perfect his title by limitation. Louisiana & T. Lumber Co. v. Southern Pine Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 694.

The fact that a party took possession of and set up a claim to land for his own benefit while a minor, but with his father's permission to acquire the land for himself, would not prevent him from acquiring title to the land by limitation. Griffin v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 567.

Where occupants of land cultivated the same and claimed it adversely, it was not material that one of them was not of age at the time the adverse possession began, and that the other on other land with their father a portion of the time. R. W. Wier Lumber Co. v. Conn (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 276.

Persons of unsound mind.—The statute does not run against a person of unsound mind. Moore v. City of Waco, 85 T. 266, 20 S. W. 61.

Limitations held not to begin to run against one's right to recover land when actual possession is taken by others, if he is then insane. Knack v. Slanton, 51 C. A. 495, 112 S. W. 702.
Possession under a claim of title which begins after the owner has been adjudged a hus­tic cannot ripen into title by limitations. Mitchell v. Stanton (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 1023.

Married women.—Where plaintiff's husband, acting under her power of attorney, sold and conveyed her land in 1872, and died in 1889, and she did not sue to recover the land from such purchaser, who had continued possession, until four years after the act of 1893 made limitations applicable to married women, her action was barred. Williams v. Bradley (Civ. App.) 67 S. W. 170.

Limitations held not admissible against defendant; she having been a married woman until within less than three years before the action. Estes v. Turner, 30 C. A. 385, 78 S. W. 1007.

Where defendants in trespass to try title went into possession during the coverture of the owner of the land, limitations did not begin to run in their favor until termination of the year in which the action was commenced by married woman over sixty years old on December 2, 1903, to try title to real estate which had been in adverse possession of defendants for more than five years it was barred. Broom v. Pearson (Civ. App.) 81 S. W. 753.

Where action was begun December 2, 1902, by heirs of a deceased married woman, who would then, if living had been fifty-six years old, to recover real estate, adverse possession of which had been held by defendant for more than five years, it was barred.

Where two cotenants were married women, limitations could only be established against them by proof that the statute commenced to run before their respective marriages, or that the bar had operated since the passage of the statutes abolishing the disability of coverture. Broom v. Pearson, 29 T. 468, 85 S. W. 723.

Where land was unoccupied till defendant H. purchased a portion in 1879, when the holder of the legal title was a married woman, and so continued till her death in 1894, and suit was brought to recover the land by her heirs in 1901, refusal to charge that defendants had title under the ten-year limitation held proper. Hiemer v. Holfcly (Civ. App.) 87 S. W. 722.

Limitations held to have run against the right of children of a former owner of certain land to recover the same, but not so as to such owner wide except as to a portion of the tract. Surghenor v. Taliferro (Civ. App.) 89 S. W. 648.

In an action brought in 1902, adverse possession held not sufficient under the ten-year statute owing to plaintiff's coverture. Veader v. Gilmer, 47 C. A. 464, 105 S. W. 331.

Limitations run against a married woman's right to recover a community homestead conveyed by her husband in hostility to her homestead rights. Sanders v. Word, 60 C. A. 294, 110 S. W. 205.

Couverture subsequent to the beginning of adverse possession does not interrupt it. Howse v. Lenax, 56 C. A. 118, 113 S. W. 817.

Title to land cannot be acquired by adverse possession as against a married woman. Whitaker v. Thayer (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 1137.

The statute began to run against a female minor owner of land held adversely by another when she married. Louisiana & Gulf Lumber Co. v. Lovell (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 366.

Evidence in trespass to try title held not to show that a minor against whom limitations were claimed to have run married as late as June 1, 1895, so as to start the running of limitations from that date. id.

The rule that the statute begins to run against a female minor from her marriage was changed by the amendment of 1895, which provides that limitations shall not begin to run against married women until they become twenty-one years old. This applies to trespass to try title, where defendants rely on a judgment foreclosureing a vendor's lien. Gibson v. Oppenheimier (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 694.

When amendment of 1895 took effect.—This article was amended by the act of April 1, 1895, without an emergency clause. (54th Leg., p. 35.) The legislature adjourned April 30, 1895. Its effect did not take effect until 1896. Its effect was not retroactive, but limitation would run only from the end of the year after the passage of the act. Anderson v. Wynne (Civ. App.) 62 S. W. 121.

The language “after the passage of this act,” used in the amendment of this article, means after the act took effect, which was ninety days after the adjournment of the session of the legislature at which the act was passed. Shoek v. Lappier (Civ. App.) 100 S. W. 1046.

Decisions prior to amendment of 1895.—Construing this article in connection with Kelley v. Whitmore, 41 T. 647, Simonton v. Mayblum, 59 T. 7, and Smith v. Ussell, 61 T. 221, held, that the law which suspends the operation of the statutes of limitation as against the wife during coverture has no application to suits involving the homestead when it is claimed as the separate property of the husband or as part of the community estate. In either case the right of the wife to maintain an action during coverture in her own name exists. (This case distinguished from Simonton v. Mayblum, 59 T. 7, and Smith v. Ussell, 61 T. 221.) An exception in favor of the wife, who sets up claim to the homestead merely as such, cannot be engrafted on the statutes of limitation by the courts, and the fact that the husband, in alienating the property, has acted in hostility to her claim, will not suspend the operation of the statute as against one in possession claiming under deed. Hussey v. Moser, 70 T. 42, 7 S. W. 606.

Limitation does not run against one claiming an estate in remainder, who under the act took effect, which was ninety days after the adjournment of the session of the legislature at which the act was passed. Shook v. Lappier (Civ. App.) 100 S. W. 1046.

Hussey v. Moser, 70 T. 42, 7 S. W. 606.

Limitation runs against the wife where the homestead, not her separate property, has been conveyed by the husband and abandoned by both. Hussey v. Moser, 70 T. 42, 7 S. W. 606.

A purchaser of land by a married woman will not stop the running of the statute of limitation in favor of a person holding adverse possession when it had begun to run before her purchase. Johnson v. Schumacher, 73 T. 334, 12 S. W. 207. 3811
By the Revised Statutes the indefinite equitable defense of stale demand was eliminated from our law, and instead of meeting such a plea with excuses it should be met with legal exceptions; as, for example, coverture or infancy. Storer v. Lane, 1 C. A. 250, 29 S. W. 852.

Where a married woman conveys land which is her separate property, by deed in which her husband does not join, limitation will not run against her and in favor of the purchaser while she remains married. Fox v. Brady, 1 C. A. 590, 30 S. W. 1024.

Limitation runs against a female minor from the date of her marriage. Smith v. Powell, 23 S. W. 1109, 5 C. A. 373.

When the homestead belongs to the community estate and has been abandoned by the husband and wife, and has been conveyed by the husband, acting in direct hostility to the homestead rights of the wife, the statute of limitations runs against the wife. Cuelar v. Dewitt, 24 S. W. 671, citing Kelley v. Whitmore, 41 T. 647; Simonton v. Mayblum, 59 T. 7; Smith v. Uzzell, 61 T. 230.

Limitation does not run against an action to correct a deed brought by the party in possession. Payne v. Ross, 10 C. A. 419, 50 S. W. 671.

A statute as to land cannot run against a woman until she has become of age, or until she marries. Taylor v. Brymer, 17 C. A. 517, 42 S. W. 999.

Cause of action arose while a female was under twenty-one years of age. Held that, under Rev. St. 1879, art. 2471, upon her marriage she ceased to be a minor and the statute of limitations commenced to run. Grayson v. Lofland, 21 C. A. 503, 52 S. W. 121.

CHAPTER TWO

LIMITATION OF PERSONAL ACTIONS

Article 5685. [3353] Actions to be commenced in one year.—There shall be commenced and prosecuted within one year after the cause of action shall have accrued, and not afterward, all actions or suits in courts of the following description:

1. Actions for malicious prosecution or for injuries done to the character or reputation of another by libel or slander.

Subdivision 1.—The term "malicious prosecution," as used in this article, refers to a criminal proceeding, and not to a prosecution as involved in a civil action. Bear Bros. v. Marx, 62 T. 298.

Limitations begin to run against an action for malicious prosecution from the time the prosecution ends. Von Koehring v. Witte, 15 C. A. 646, 40 S. W. 63.

Subdivision 2.—When there is no dispute as to the fact that the promise of marriage was made within one year before filing suit, the court properly refused to charge upon the issue made by the plea of limitation. Daggett v. Wallace, 76 T. 352, 13 S. W. 49, 16 Am. St. Rep. 908.

An action for breach of marriage promise is brought in time, if brought within one year from the breach. Huggins v. Carey (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 390.

Amendment of 1897.—This article, before it was amended by the act of 1897, applied to an action for damages for mental anguish caused by failure to deliver a telegram. Bear v. Marx, 63 T. 298; Martin v. Telegraph Co., 26 S. W. 126, 6 C. A. 619; Kelly v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 17 C. A. 344, 42 S. W. 532. So of an action for damages by a passenger against a railway company for carrying him beyond his destination and putting him off the train at a distance from the station to which he should have been allowed to leave. Railway Co. v. Roemer, 1 C. A. 191, 20 S. W. 843.
Art. 5686. [3353a] Survival of cause of action.—Causes of action upon which suit has been or may hereafter be brought by the injured party for personal injuries other than those resulting in death, whether such injuries be to the health or to the reputation, or to the person of the injured party, shall not abate by reason of his death, nor by reason of the death of the person against whom such cause of action shall have accrued; but, in the case of the death of either or both, such cause of action shall survive to and in favor of the heirs and legal representatives of such injured party and against the person, receiver or corporation liable for such injuries and his legal representatives; and so surviving, such cause may be thereafter prosecuted in like manner and with like legal effect as would a cause of action for injuries to personal property.

In general.—The fact that one on whom personal injuries were inflicted brought action therefore for his death will not cause the action to survive in favor of his wife. Mexia v. Cent. Ry. Co. v. Goodman, 20 C. A. 109, 48 S. W. 778.

After a husband's death, the wife may continue suit brought by him for injuries to her. Id.

Where, pending an action for personal injuries to a married woman, her husband dies intestate, the widow may prosecute the suit in her own name as survivor, where there was no administration upon the husband's estate nor any necessity therefor. St. Louis S. W. Ry. Co. v. Carwile, 28 C. A. 208, 67 S. W. 160.

A woman who in good faith married a man in ignorance of the fact that he had a wife living, and lived with him until his death in ignorance of such fact, is entitled to bring a cause of action for injuries to the man which did not result in his death. Ellyson v. L. & G. N. Ry. Co., 33 C. A. 1, 75 S. W. 669.

Where one sues for damages for personal injuries and dies pending the suit, if death resulted from the injuries, the heirs and representatives of deceased cannot recover, but if death resulted from some other cause, they can recover for the injuries. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Ellyson, 43 C. A. 45, 94 S. W. 910.

A woman who in good faith married a man in ignorance of the fact that he had a wife living, and lived with him until his death in ignorance of such fact, is entitled to bring a cause of action for injuries to the man which did not result in his death. Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Robertson, 56 C. A. 509, 121 S. W. 202.

Elements of damage.—The cause of action mentioned in this article does not abate with the death of the injured party, but suit can be brought by his heirs after his death. They can recover for the physical pain and mental anguish which the injured party suffered up to the time of his death. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Moore, 28 C. A. 603, 68 S. W. 560, 561.

The term "personal injuries" is broad enough to include mental suffering. It is upon this theory that damages for mental suffering are recoverable at all. W. U. Tel. Co. v. Kaufman (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 631.

The statute authorizes a recovery of all damages which the injured party, if living, could recover, so that the widow and children of one maliciously prosecuted could recover damages for injury to his feelings, etc., as well as to his reputation. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Groseclose (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 736.

Burden of proof.—See notes under Art. 3786, Rule 12.

Assignment of cause of action.—Causes of action for personal injuries survive and may be sold and transferred, the same as would causes of action for injuries to personal property, and where a person conveys a half interest in his claim for damages, in consideration of services rendered and to be rendered to collect the same he can not revoke the power granted without the consent of the grantee in the power. Railroad Co. v. Miller, 21 C. A. 609, 63 S. W. 700.

An interest in a cause of action for personal injuries is assignable before suit is brought to recover for such injuries, and the party liable for the injuries with notice of the assignment is bound. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Glenther, 96 T. 256, 72 S. W. 167.

A party injured by a railway company can assign an interest in the claim to his attorney in consideration of services to be rendered in the case before suit is filed, without complying with Art. 633, but to hold the company liable where it afterwards makes a settlement with the injured party, the burden is on the assignees of the interest to show that the company had notice of the assignment. G., C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Eldredge, 35 C. A. 467, 80 S. W. 556.

Injury without jurisdiction.—The only right which a wife has to damages to the person of her husband after his death arises by virtue of the statute, and a statute which gives a right of action for a tort in derogation of the common law, or a right unknown to the common law, can have no extra territorial force. Railroad Co. v. Goodman, 20 C. A. 109, 48 S. W. 778.

Decisions prior to Acts 1895, p. 143.—A husband sued the city of Austin for damages for personal injuries caused by alleged neglect on the part of the city to keep a street in proper repair. Pending the suit plaintiff died. The widow sought to revive the suit. Held, that the suit abated upon the husband's death. Ritz v. City of San Antonio, 1 C. A. 456, 20 S. W. 1029.
This statute has no effect on a cause of action which had abated, according to the rule of the common law before it took effect. Fitzgerald v. W. U. Tel. Co., 15 C. A. 141, 40 S. W. 421.

When an injury occurred prior to the passage of the act, which resulted in death after the enactment, the death of the injured person did not abate the suit. City of Marshall v. McAllister, 18 C. A. 159, 45 S. W. 1043.

Art. 5687.  [3354] Actions to be commenced in two years.—There shall be commenced and prosecuted within two years after the cause of action shall have accrued, and not afterward, all actions or suits in court of the following description:

1. Actions of trespass for injury done to the estate or the property of another.
2. Actions for detaining the personal property of another, and for converting such personal property to one's own use.
3. Actions for taking or carrying away the goods and chattels of another.
4. Actions for debt where the indebtedness is not evidenced by a contract in writing.
5. Actions upon stated or open accounts, other than such mutual and current accounts as concern the trade of merchandise between merchant and merchant, their factors or agents. In all accounts, except those between merchant and merchant, as aforesaid, their factors and agents, the respective times or dates of the delivery of the several articles charged shall be particularly specified, and limitations shall run against each item from the date of such delivery, unless otherwise specially contracted.
6. Action for injury done to the person of another.

Cited, Elder, Dempster & Co. v. St. Louis S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas, 105 T. 628, 154 S. W. 975, cited under Art. 5687, subd. 1. See Decisions Applicable to Subject in General, § 30, following this title.

Subdivision 1.—The claim against a county for damages to land from its unlawful use as a highway is barred in two years from the time of its actual use by the road overseer or hands in opening up or working same. Cunningham v. San Saba County, 1 C. A. 489, 20 S. W. 341.

An action against a telegraph company to recover the toll paid for a message which was not delivered involves an injury to the estate. Kelly v. Western Union Tel. Co., 17 C. A. 344, 43 S. W. 532.

The limitations of two and four years held not to preclude owner of land from recovering damages occasioned to the remainder of a tract of land from the occupation of a portion by defendant railroad. Galveston & W. Ry. Co. v. Kinkead (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 468.

Action for damages for permanent injury to real property by reason of diversion of surface water is barred after two years from the time the damage occurred. Tietze v. International & G. N. R. Co., 35 C. A. 128, 80 S. W. 124.

Action of an adjoining property owner, against a commercial railroad, for damages caused by the operation of a railroad in a street in front of his premises, held to have accrued more than two years prior to the institution of the suit, and was, therefore, barred. Houston, O. L. & M. P. Ry. Co. v. Grossman (Civ. App.) 89 S. W. 312.

Facts held sufficient to sustain defendant's burden of proof of limitations in a suit by an adjoining property owner for damages caused by the maintenance of defendant's commercial railroad in the street in front of his premises. Id.

Where the construction of an embankment gives rise to a permanent nuisance, the cause of action for damages arises upon its construction, and is barred by limitation after two years. Brown v. Texas Cent. R. Co., 42 C. A. 392, 94 S. W. 134.

An action to property owner for damages caused by the construction of an embankment and switch track in 1903 is not barred by limitation. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Barr, 44 C. A. 571, 99 S. W. 437.

A claim for cutting timber on land belonging to interveners held barred by the two-year statute of limitations. Kirby v. Hayden, 44 C. A. 207, 90 S. W. 746.

Where a railway embankment becomes a nuisance only at intervals, held the cause of action arises upon receipt of each injury, and successive actions may be brought for each injury as it occurs, and that an action for such injury would not be barred for two years thereafter. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Kyle (Civ. App.) 103 S. W. 272.
LIMITATIONS

Art. 5687

Where, in trespass to try title, the original petition claimed only damages resulting from the withholding of possession, a claim for damages resulting from cutting timber, set up in an amended petition filed more than two years after the accrual of the right to damages, was barred. Kirby v. Hayden (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 995.

Where the work of constructing a railroad in a street in front of plaintiff's property was not completed until within two years prior to the commencement of the suit, plaintif's right to recover damages was not barred. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Bell (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 634.

Even though failure of a carrier to deliver freight received for transportation gave the shipper a cause of action for trespass, or for conversion within subdivisions 1 and 2, limitations do not begin to run so long as the carrier promises to search for the goods and deliver them if found, and if not found to pay damages. Davies v. Texas Cent. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 295.

The word "trespass" includes all tortious acts amounting to a transgression of the rights of another as to his property, but there must be some act done; and a mere failure to prevent the act, or which one is insufficient, and the failure of a carrier to deliver freight received for transportation is not a trespass. Id.

That a railroad company has been operated for more than two years does not preclude an adjoining landowner from recovering for nuisances maintained within two years before suit, arising from the method of operating trains. Passons v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 435.

Where a landlord on shares brought an action for injuries to growing crops, but the tenant was not made a party plaintiff until after the expiration of two years after the injury, the action of the tenant was barred. Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Dokes (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1174.

Where a city's direct invasion of abutting property by drainage ditches is of a permanent character, as the city's injuries occasioned by the ditch may be fully recovered at once; but, where the injury is continuous and progressive from the date that damages to the property began, suit could be maintained for damages therefor within two years prior to filing of the writ. City of Houston v. Merkel (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 335.

In trespass to try title to land wrongfully appropriated by a railroad company for its right of way, no damages can be recovered for more than two years back, being barred by the two-year statute. Southern Kansas Ry. Co. of Texas v. Vance (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 696.

In trespass to try title to land occupied by a railroad, where the railroad by cross-action sought condemnation of the right of way, upon which issue alone the case was submitted and two or four year limitation did not apply to the right of the owner to compensation for damages to the remainder of the land, Chicago R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 253.

Subdivision 2.—See Decisions Applicable to Subject In General, § 30, following this title.

The fact that a debt which a pledge, with the right of possession, is made to secure is barred by the statute of limitations constitutes no defense to an action by the pledgee against another for the wrongful conversion of the property, the pledgee having a special property in the thing pledged. Hudson v. Wilkinson, 61 T. 606.

A married woman claiming personal property as her separate estate, and holding adverse possession for more than two years after the death of her husband, is protected by limitation against an action by a creditor of the husband for its conversion. Young v. Willis, 63 T. 388.

The limitation of two years applies to an action to recover damages on account of the seizure and sale of property under an attachment wrongfully sued out. The cause of action accrues when the property is seized under the writ. Woods v. Huffman, 64 T. 98.

That a bond or other evidences of indebtedness, or evidence of title, to personal property. If the owner of a certificate elect to treat its adverse possession as a conversion, and receives to recover its value, he must bring his action within two years from its accrual. His failure to do so does not bar his right to recover that to which the paper evidences his title, and further, he can recover such value. Rice v. Rice, 65 T. 407, 1 S. W. 117; Harvey v. Cummings, 68 T. 605, 5 S. W. 513; Harvey v. Carroll, 72 T. 63, 19 S. W. 334; Boone v. Miller, 73 T. 557; 11 S. W. 551.

Subdivisions 2 and 3 of this article, the right to recover personal property is barred by two years 'adverse possession. Such bar concludes the owner's right, and vests title in the holder of the property. After title has passed by such adverse possession, the fact that the property came into the possession of the former owner without claim by him of ownership would have no effect upon the right of the owner by right of the adverse possession. Connor v. Hawkins, 71 T. 888, 9 S. W. 66.

Limitation commences at the time of wrongful conversion of money collected by a bank, and is barred in two years. National Bank v. Bernard (Civ. App.) 30 S. W. 590.

Limitation in favor of an agent collecting money does not run until notice to the principal. Bonner v. McCreary (Civ. App.) 30 S. W. 197.

An action for the unauthorized sale of mortgaged chattels is within this article. Greer v. Gill, 33 C. A. 395, 35 S. W. 558.

Limitations held to have barred defendant's answer impeaching a third party for conversion. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Garland, 23 C. A. 380, 56 S. W. 551.

A suit for conversion, brought within two years, is not barred by laches. Texarkana Water Co. v. Kiser (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 913.

This article is broad enough to cover detention or conversion of personal property. The only essential ingredient is that it is adverse to the title sued on. And if it is adverse it would be defeating the intent of the statute to permit an action to lie against the publicity of its origin. If the possession has been adverse for two years preceding the institution of the suit it is a bar. If one in good faith purchases personal property that has been stolen without knowledge of this fact, and the property is used openly, and there is no concealment, two years' adverse possession of such property gives the innocent purchaser a good title. Luter v. Hutchinson, 30 C. A. 511, 70 S. W. 1014, 1015.

An action by the creditor of a corporation against the purchaser of its assets, based on the conversion of its property, is barred by the two-year statute, which runs from the date of the purchase. Cleverenger v. Galloway & Garrison (Civ. App.) 104 S. W. 514.

Plaintiff's right to recover against a bank for an alleged conversion of a special bank deposit held barred by the two-year limitation. Prosser v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 781.

An action against a carrier for nondelivery of goods is one for conversion, so that the two-year limitation applies, notwithstanding the petition alleges a breach of contract. R. R. & P. Ry. Co. v. Cleverenger, 30 S. W. 587.

An action against a connecting carrier for injuries to freight held not barred by the two-year limitation. Id.

A cause of action in favor of a chattel mortgagee for conversion accrued when property was applied to other claims in the absence of excusable ignorance on his part. Beaumont Rice Mills v. Port Arthur Rice Milling Co. (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 349.

Where a buyer in a conditional contract did not consent to the seller's assumption of control over the goods, and renting them to third persons before the maturity of any installment of the price, the cause of action for the seller's conversion accrued at that time; and an action not brought within two years was barred. Roberson v. Withers (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1160.

Subdivision 3.—See Connor v. Hawkins, 71 T. 582, 9 S. W. 634, cited under subdivision 1, supra.

Subdivision 4.—See Decisions Applicable to Subject In General, §§ 23-28, following this title.

In a suit to recover back a portion of a tax claimed to be illegally assessed, it was held that plaintiffs did not have the right to bring their suit at any time within two years to recover back that portion of the tax claimed to be illegal. Galveston County v. Gorham, 49 T. 279.

An action of deceit in misrepresenting the number of acres in certain land sold to plaintiff was barred in two years from date of sale. Bass v. James, 83 T. 110, 18 S. W. 336.

Where one took possession of a system of waterworks under an invalid contract, an action to recover their value or their possession was held to be barred in two years. Water Co. v. Cleburne, 1 C. A. 550, 21 S. W. 393.

Damages recoverable for a breach of a verbal contract are a debt, an action on which runs in two years. Walter A. Wood M. & R. Mach. Co. v. Hancock, 4 C. A. 302, 23 S. W. 384.

The word "debts" used in this article is not restricted to its technical or common-law meaning, but includes any open, unliquidated claim for money. A tax levied by a city is within this article. O'Connor v. Koch, 29 S. W. 400, 2 C. A. 586.

A suit for the breach of a verbal contract must be brought within two years thereafter. Harrison v. City of Sulphur Springs (Civ. App.) 35 S. W. 744.

An improvement certificate given by a city to a sewer contractor is not founded on the written contract between the city and the contractor, and hence an action thereon is barred under the two-year statute. Glover v. Storrie, 18 C. A. 6, 43 S. W. 1035.

Action against purchaser of land verbally assuming as part of the consideration a mortgage thereon is barred after two years. Beitel v. Dobbin (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 299.

Where a note was presented by the surety as a claim against the estate of the principal, which claimant as surety had been compelled to pay, held that the claim was a cause of action on an implied promise and barred by the two-year statute. Miers v. Beterton, 18 C. A. 430, 45 S. W. 430.

Held, that the two-year statute of limitations could not be pleaded as a bar against the recovery of delinquent taxes. Abney v. State, 20 C. A. 101, 47 S. W. 1043.

See the facts of this case for circumstances under which it is held that the right of a person who has paid money under circumstances entitling him to subrogation in the enforcement of a vendor's lien is barred by the two-year limitation, because the right is not evidenced by a contract in writing. Darrow v. Summerhill, 93 T. 92, 53 S. W. 650, 77 Am. St. Rep. 533.

Where a claim is founded on a judgment, the two-year statute of limitation is no bar. Mills v. Terry, 22 C. A. 277, 54 S. W. 789.

Action by a receiver against a distributee of fund, for reimbursement for liability in respect to same, is barred after two years. First Nat. Bank v. Cohen (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 561. Damon v. Adams, 1d.

A sale of goods held not in writing, and hence an action for the price was barred after two years. Voelcker v. McKey (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 798.

Where plaintiffs paid a draft drawn on them by defendants, whereby defendants became liable for the amount, plaintiff's cause of action was not on the draft, but was an implied promise to pay, and hence was barred by the two-year limitation. Dwight v. Matthews (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 805.

An action against a co-obligor on a note for contribution is barred, where not brought within two years from the time payment of the note was made. Reed v. Sieckelius (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 457.

An action to recover a deduction of the price of land sold for a gross deficiency in quantity held barred after two years from the completion of the sale. Sibley v. Hayes, 30 C. A. 61, 71 S. W. 494.

An action based for a third term held under an implied contract, and not under the written lease, and hence an action for rent accrued was subject to the two-year limitation. Rollr v. Zundelowitz, 32 C. A. 165, 73 S. W. 1790.
building not under the control of the lessee is barred by the two-year limitation. Houston Saengerbund v. Dunn, 41 C. A. 376, 92 S. W. 429.

In an action for a debt founded on a written contract, the four-year statute applies, but, where the debt is not founded upon a written contract, the two-year statute bars the action. Fidelity & Casualty Co. v. Callahan & Graham (Civ. App.) 104 S. W. 167.

The two-year statute held applicable to an action to recover on a verbal agreement to refund purchase money on satisfactory proof of barrenness of an animal sold. Williams v. Heath, 49 C. A. 254, 108 S. W. 993.

An action against real estate brokers for deceit in selling land is an action for a "debt," and must be brought under this article, and not under Art. 5690. Gordon v. Rhodes & Daniel, 102 T. 390, 11 S. W. 41, 42.

Damages for deceit practiced in the sale of land is a debt within the meaning of this subdivision. Gordon v. Rhodes & Daniel (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 1027.

Suit upon a liquor dealer's bond to recover penalty for its violation is an action for debt not evidenced by a contract in writing, and is barred in two years. Hillman v. Gallagher (Civ. App.) 120 S. W. 505.

A cause of action for money advanced to defendant as a loan by way of a part payment on land, was barred in two years after the payment was made, in absence of a true debt resulting from such payment. Epp v. Meacham (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 290.

The two-year limitation governs the right of action of a junior lienor for breach of an oral agreement to discharge a prior lien, whereby it was subsequently foreclosed by the promisor and bought in and thereafter transferred to a purchaser without notice of the agreement so that the junior lien was lost. Hampshire v. Greenes (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 666.

The two-year limitation applies to an action for fraud and deceit; but an action begun within two years after the discovery of the fraud is not barred. Coleman v. Ebeling (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 196.

A surety's right of action for reimbursement is not on the original debt, but on an implied promise arising out of the relation of the parties, and is barred in two years.

Yndo v. Rivas (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 920.

A cause of action in favor of the intestate against defendant, because defendant received $650, arose as soon as such sum was placed to the credit of defendant and his partner on the books of the bank; and an action thereon was barred in two years, and a parol promise, made after the expiration of the two years, to pay the claim was not sufficient, under Art. 8670, to renew the obligation. Penick v. Castle (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 297.

An action on an implied warranty of suitableness for the purpose for which goods are purchased under a contract in writing is within the two-year limitation. Kirwan v. Alleco Iron Works (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 986.

Subdivision 5.—See Decisions Applicable to Subject in General, § 29, following this title.

See, also, Title 37, Chapter 13.

The second sentence of this subdivision was article 3255 in Salyer's Civil Statutes.

Notes and accounts barred by limitation are not a valid and legal set-off against an existing debt. This rule does not apply to running accounts between merchant and merchant. Holliman v. Rogers, 6 T. 98; Lowe v. Dowbarn, 26 T. 608; Ney v. Rothe, 61 T. 374; Howard v. Randolph, 73 T. 459, 11 S. W. 450; Campbell v. Park, 11 C. A. 456, 39 S. W. 754.

When there are mutual accounts not between merchant and merchant, their factors or agents, of which some of the items have been due more than two years before the commencement of the limitation, notwithstanding there may be other items in the account not within the bar of the statute, Lowe v. Dowbarn, 26 T. 607. Citing Pridgen v. Hill, 12 T. 374; Pridgen v. McLean, 12 T. 420. And see Hassler v. Kay, 1 App. C. C. § 665; Winn v. Bryant, 1 App. C. C. § 699.

Assuming the plaintiff was a merchant, but the defendant was not a merchant, and the items of his account were not strictly credits given to the plaintiff, but were payments made on his own account, the dealings are not accounts between merchant and merchant. May v. Pollard, 23 T. 677.

The term "open account" is used in contradistinction to a "stated account," wherein the account is closed by an assent to its correctness by the party charged. The fact that a balance is shown in an account and claimed in a suit does not make it less an open account. Whittlesey v. Spofford, 47 T. 13.

The statute of limitations has no application to payments or to charges in accounts which might legitimately be considered as payments. Hassler v. Kay, 1 App. C. C. § 665, citing Beardsley v. Hall, 9 T. 119; Williams v. Bradbury, 9 T. 487; Ware v. Bennett, 19 T. 794.

Where there is a continuous accounting consisting of many items, if no appropriation of payments to specific items is made by either party, they will be applied in accordance with the priority of dates of the items of account. If no specific appropriation of payments is made by either party until rights of third parties holding under the debtor had been created of such a character as to authorize against them his enforcement, the creditor cannot so appropriate payments made by the debtor as to affect such rights, if, by a different appropriation, they can be protected. Willis v. McIntyre, 70 T. 34, 7 S. W. 824, 8 Am. St. Rep. 574.

As to limitation between partners, see Morris v. Nunn, 79 T. 125, 15 S. W. 220; Henry v. Roe, 83 T. 446, 18 S. W. 806; Waterworks Co. v. Maury, 72 T. 112, 12 S. W. 166; McGuire v. Bidwell, 64 T. 43; Regan v. Bonham, 4 App. C. C. § 66, 15 S. W. 502.

An open account must be mutual and current, and not merely showing a sale on one side and a credit of money upon the other, Richardson v. Thibou, 98 T. 55, 23 S. W. 649; Gulich v. Superville, 11 T. 522; Leavitt v. Gooch, 12 T. 96; Judd v. Sampson, 13 T. 20; May v. Pollard, 23 T. 679; Cohen v. Schwartz (Civ. App.) 32 S. W. 820.

The statute is not affected by a local custom as to the maturity of accounts. Smyth v. Wille, 24 S. W. 1034, 5 C. A. 678.

As to effect of a recovery on a part of an open account, see Anderson v. Rogge (Civ. App.) 28 S. W. 106.

When mutual debts are open accounts they mutually extinguish each other, although an action on some of the items is barred by limitation. But an account barred by limitation cannot be offset in an action on a promissory note. Campbell v. Park, 11 C. A. 465, 33 S. W. 754.

A suit upon an account payable April 24, 1892, was filed on April 24, 1894. It was held that the suit was not barred by limitation. The day upon which the debt became due is excluded in the reckoning of time. Geistwelt v. Mann (Civ. App.) 37 S. W. 372.

An amount due on an account stated is barred by limitations after two years. Stacy v. Walker (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 532.

Subdivision 6.—Subdivisions 6 and 7 of this article were formerly subdivisions 1 and 4 of Rev. St. 1879, art. 3202. They are transferred to this article pursuant to the provisions of chapter 14 of the Acts of 1897.

Limitation runs against an action for personal injuries to a married woman, as the husband took the right to sue. Rice v. Railway Co., 27 S. W. 921, 8 C. A. 130.

The act of March 4, 1897, worked a repeal of the former legislation and extended the period to the terms of two years as to causes of action then existing. Volgt v. G. W. T. & P. Ry. Co., 94 T. 357, 60 S. W. 659.

Where an action by the wife and children of a decedent for his death was begun within six months after his death, and an amended petition, filed more than two years after his death, alleged for the first time the existence of his mother, and demanded a recovery for her benefit, limitations barred the right of the mother, but did not bar the right of the wife and children. Paris & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 294.

One guilty of negligence causing the death of a person may not escape the payment of full damages because one of the persons entitled to sue did not institute an action until limitations had run against it. Id.

Art. 5688. [3356] What actions barred in four years.—There shall be commenced and prosecuted within four years after the cause of action shall have accrued, and not afterward, all actions or suits in court of the following description:

1. Actions for debt where the indebtedness is evidenced by or founded upon any contract in writing.

2. Actions for the penalty or for damages on the penal clause of a bond to convey real estate.

3. Actions by one partner against his co-partner for a settlement of the partnership accounts, or upon mutual and current accounts concerning the trade of merchandise between merchant and merchant, their factors or agents; and the cause of action shall be considered as having accrued on a cessation of the dealings in which they were interested together. [Act Feb. 5, 1841, p. 163, sec. 1. P. D. 4604.]

Subdivision 1.—See Decisions Applicable to Subject in General, §§ 22–23, following this title.

Esotoppe to plead limitation, see notes, § 17, following this title. There is no technical distinction between actions and suits, and debt and damages, at common law. Robinson v. Varnell, 16 T. 382.

The payee of a promissory note who indorses it, and afterward takes it up, has a remedy upon the note, and not upon an account for money paid to the use of the maker. Williams v. Durst, 25 T. 667, 78 Am. Dec. 545.

When the goods are sold on the written order of defendant promising payment therefor the written order is the ground and foundation of the action. Page v. Payne, 41 T. 143.

The payment of a note by a surety is not, as between himself and the principal, an extinguishment of the same, and his right of action against the principal is upon the note, and not upon the implied assumpsit. Tutt v. Thornton, 57 T. 56. Citing Holliman v. Rogers, 6 T. 91. And see Rush v. Bishop, 60 T. 177.

An action for debt is given for the recovery of a sum certain, or that may be rendered certain, due the plaintiff, without regard to the manner in which the obligation is incurred. Davidson v. Mc. Pac. Ry. Co., 3 App. C. C. § 172.

The resolutions of a company formed to take over a railroad were reduced to writing, signed by the president and secretary of the company, with the seal of the company, a certificate by the secretary, was delivered to the vendor, and by him placed on record. The resolution constituted a contract in writing, within the meaning of Art. 5688, on which an action might be brought at any time within four years thereafter. Railway Co. v. Gentry, 69 T. 625, 8 S. W. 98.

An action for the value of goods delivered on a written order is within this article. Light Co. v. Electric Co. (Civ. App.) 26 S. W. 310.

An action on a written promise to pay an account is not barred until four years. Willard v. Guttmann (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 391.

Where agent, under authority derived from written correspondence, took charge of realty, and was to receive commission for a sale, and the owners sold the land, the agent's claim for services would not be barred until four years after sale. Stringfellow v.
Elsiss (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 418.
The enforcement of mechanics' liens held not barred by four-year limitation, where a renewal note payable in five years, including additional indebtedness, was taken. Myers An action by the client to recover moneys not accounted for by his attorney under a written contract is not governed by the two-year statute. Sanborn v. Plowman, 20 C. A.
494, 49 S. W. 659.
Notes executed in October, 1892, and due in three and four years, held not affected by limitation, where suit was commenced in September, 1893. Noel v. Clark, 25 C. A. 136, 60 S. W. 356.
A written order for goods, containing a promise to pay therefor, is a contract of sale, and hence the four-year statute applies. Voecker v. McKay (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 424.
Suit on a note executed September 23, 1890, payable three years thereafter, not brought until November 3, 1897, held barred by the four-year limitation. Schneider v.
Sanborn, 25 C. A. 169, 61 S. W. 627.
Where a note matured November 2, 1890, and the time of paying a balance thereon was extended to November, 1893, a suit instituted on the note in August, 1897, was not

A suit by a city attorney to recover commissions earned under an ordinance fixing his salary and fees was not founded on a written contract, so as to be governed by the four-year statute. City of Houston v. Stewart, 40 C. A. 499, 90 S. W. 49.
An action by a lessee against the purchaser of the premises for his failure to repair the same as required by the written lease executed by the vendor is an action founded on a contract in writing. Houston & Sturgis v. Dunn, 41 C. A. 376, 92 S. W. 429.
Where a widow, as qualified survivor of the community, contracted for the extension of certain notes securing a community debt, they were not barred by limitations until more than four years after the date to which they were extended. Dashiel v. W. L.
Moody & Co., 44 C. A. 97, 97 S. W. 849.
An indebtedness for a premium upon a written policy of insurance issued upon a written application held to be founded upon a written contract, although no promise was expressed in the policy or application. Fidelity & Casualty Co. v. Callahan & Graham
(Civ. App.) 104 S. W. 1072.
The limitation of four years held applicable to a suit on the official bond of a judge to recover fees illegally collected by him. Lane v. Delta County (Civ. App.) 109 S. W. 666.
A debt evidenced by warrants issued by a de facto municipal corporation is a debt evidenced by written instrument and is not barred by the two-year statute. City
A claim of a cotenant for services rendered under an express contract held subject to limitations. Rosamond v. Rosamond, 56 C. A. 173, 120 S. W. 520.
A tenant for rent collected by him under an assignment of rent and a power of attorney to collect the same is based on a contract in writing, and is not an action for money received; hence the two-year limitation does not apply. Dowlen v. C. W. Georges Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 551.
An action on a note brought more than four years after its maturity is barred. Co-
Action on certain coupons of county bonds held barred by limitations. Rockwall County v. Roberts County, 102 T. 466, 128 S. W. 369.
This article applies to an action on a liquor dealer's bond for selling liquor to a minor, the cause of action being both "evidenced by and founded on a contract in writing." Hillman v. Gallagher, 103 T. 427, 128 S. W. 899.
A written lease, a written obligation, and, when passing to a third person by a conveyance of the land by the lessor, an action by the grantee for rents subsequently accruing is on the written obligation and is not barred in two years. Vogel v. Zucker-er (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 737.
Where notes were extended by agreement for a definite period and four years had not elapsed from the time of the last extension of each note, to the time of the maker's death, none of the notes were barred. Mathews v. Towell (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 169.
An action against railroads on a written contract to carry freight to a foreign port is governed by the four, and not the two, year limitation. St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co.

Subdivision 3.—See Decisions Applicable to Subject in General, § 29, following this title.

Accounts mentioned must be mutual, open and current. When a statement of the account is made at the account is no longer current, and limitation begins to run as to the balance due. Gulchard v. Superville, 11 T. 625; Handel v. Macdonell (Civ. App.) 38 S. W. 133. A note given by agreement between merchant and merchant, not in the payment of a debt, a credit in their dealings with each other and on a convenient basis for further credit, will be subject only to the statutory bar applied to the account. McGuire v. Bidwell, 64 T. 45.

When the nature of a suit originally brought between partners for an accounting is changed by an amendment in which there was a prayer for specific judgment, limitation will run as against the items set up in the amendment up to the date of its filing. Santee v. Froboese, 17 C. A. 626, 43 S. W. 671.

An agreement by a partner to pay into the firm's earnings the commissions earned by him as county treasurer is against public policy and void. Id. An account in mutual current trade between merchant and merchant is not barred by limitation in less than four years. Willard v. Gutman (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 901.

Two-year limitation does not bar a counterclaim on a suit on a note growing out of a partnership. Felt v. Giesen, 21 C. A. 324, 52 S. W. 401.

Limitation does not begin to run until cessation of dealings in which the parties were interested together, and where the dealings were between one firm and another firm acting as agent for the firm, the parties were between the merchant and merchant, and the four-year statute applies. Dwight v. Mathews, 94 T. 633, 62 S. W. 1053.

A petition in an action by a partner for the settlement of partnership accounts held to show the running of limitations from the time of a certain sale. Bluntzer v. Hirsch, 82 C. A. 556, 75 S. W. 256.

Where a surviving partner is sued by the heirs of the deceased partner for a debt due the firm in an individual capacity and for an amount of firm debts collected by him, the claims between parties to which the four-year limitation applies. Wylie v. Langhorne, 45 C. A. 618, 101 S. W. 527.

Art. 5689. [3357] On bond of executor, administrator or guardian.—All suits on the bond of any executor, administrator or guardian shall be commenced and prosecuted within four years next after the death, resignation, removal or discharge of such executor, administrator or guardian, and not thereafter. [Act March 20, 1848. Act Aug. 9, 1876, p. 102, sec. 42. P. D. 1375, 3923.]

In general.—Limitation does not begin to run in favor of a guardian or of the sureties on his bond upon the death of his ward, but runs only from the time when an order of court has been entered of record declaring the resignation, removal or discharge of such guardian. Marlow v. Lacy, 68 T. 154, 2 S. W. 52.

The statute does not begin to run until the guardian is discharged. Allen v. Stovall, 94 T. 614, 62 S. W. 866, 64 S. W. 777.

An action against a surety on a guardian's bond is barred in two years after the ward attains his majority. Freedman v. Vaillie (Civ. App.) 75 S. W. 322.

The death of an executor or administrator severs the relation between him and the estate, and also the action against him, and therefore it is not within the jurisdiction of the county court sitting in probate to determine the amount due from the deceased executor or administrator to the estate. McClellan v. Mangum, 33 C. A. 193, 75 S. W. 841.

This article has no application to proceedings under Art. 4269 to compel a guardian to file his final account, though the bondsmen become parties in opposition thereto. Whitfield v. Burrell, 54 C. A. 567, 118 S. W. 183.

A guardian of an insane person having misappropriated funds of the ward, action was commenced on his bond a year after his death, and final judgment against the surety was affirmed three years later and two years after the death of the ward. Held, that action by the surety, commenced soon afterwards, based on subrogation to the right of the ward's estate, against the persons who, with notice of their trust character, received such funds from the guardian in satisfaction of his personal obligation to them, was not barred. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Adoue & Lobit, 104 T. 379, 137 S. W. 648, 138 S. W. 383, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 409.

Art. 5690. [3358] All other actions barred, when.—Every action other than for the recovery of real estate, for which no limitation is otherwise prescribed, shall be brought within four years next after the right to bring the same shall have accrued, and not afterward.

In general.—See Decisions Applicable to Subject in General, §§ 33, 38-44, following this title.

When no judgment has been in fact rendered against the sureties on a replevin bond, a suit to substitute a new bond in place of the original, which has been lost, and to obtain a judgment of forfeiture upon it, would be subject to the limitation of four years. Poland v. Henry, 64 T. 542.
The provisions of this article have been applied to equitable as well as to legal actions for which other provision is not made. Blount v. Eleker, 13 C. A. 227, 36 S. W. 882, and cases cited.

A suit by creditors against an assignee to whom an assignment has been made for the benefit of creditors to recover from him property of assignors unlawfully acquired by him is an equitable action and not within Art. 5697, but is within Art. 5690. Mc-Cord v. Nabours, 101 T. 494, 109 S. W. 913, 111 S. W. 144.

Meaning of "action."—A proceeding to supply, restore, and reinstate a judgment and record destroyed by fire, under Arts. 6778, 6779, is subject to this article. Phelan v. Wiley, 2 App. C. C. § 735.

Limitation interposed to a petition for bill of review after four years from date of judgment is properly sustained. Bowling v. Blum (Civ. App.) 82 S. W. 97.

The "every action" in this article does not mean the demand by the probate court of the guardian for a final accounting of his transactions about the estate of his ward during the ward's minority. The accounting "for final settlement" by the probate court arises from the trust relation of guardian and is within and under the control and power of the probate court. Whitfield v. Burrell, 54 C. A. 567, 118 S. W. 166.

See Art. 4225.

The word "action" means the prosecution of some demand in a court of justice, including all proceedings taken in such a court to fix a right given either by statute or substantive law, and therefore included a proceeding to correct a clerical error in a judgment previously rendered in the same court. Rogers v. Waggoner (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 854.

A proceeding by scire facias to correct a judgment, the entry of which omitted to show that it was against a certain party for a certain sum, is not an "action" to correct a judgment article. Coleman v. Zapp, 198 T. 421, 151 S. W. 1465.

Actions for recovery of real estate.—See Decisions Applicable to Subject in General, § 21, following this title.

This article does not apply to an action by a lessee of the right to a mine, etc., to recover possession when the owner had unlawfully entered and had taken possession. Bender v. Hunt, 79 T. 339, 155 S. W. 306.

This statute considered at length, and cases cited as to what character of action may be considered an action for the recovery of real estate. Mc-Campbell v. Durst, 15 C. A. 522, 46 S. W. 315.

Where there were irregularities in the sale of the lands by a guardian of which the minor had notice at his majority, an action four years thereafter to recover such land therefor is barred. Stroud v. Hawkins, 28 C. A. 321, 67 S. W. 534.

One who has the equitable title to land can maintain such action for recovery as may be taken in his own name and had the complete legal and equitable title. The fact that one sets out the facts which constitute his cause of action does not change the character of suit. It is as much an action for the recovery of real estate as if it had been in the form of trespass to try title. An action for recovery of real estate does not come within this article. Stafford v. Stafford, 96 T. 106, 70 S. W. 76.

In suit to recover land sold for taxes, limitations as to suits for land held applicable. Green v. Robertson, 30 C. A. 236, 70 S. W. 345.

In trespass to try title, held, that the only limitation applicable to plaintiff's cause of action was that relative to actions to recover real property. Craig v. Harless, 33 C. A. 257, 15 S. W. 594.

In trespass to try title suit, defendant pleaded specially his chain of title. Plaintiff by replication alleged that one of the deeds in defendant's chain was made in fraud of creditors and void, and set out facts to prove this, and also notice of the fraud to all subsequent purchasers, including defendant. Defendant excepted to plaintiff's supplemental petition (or replication) on the ground that more than four years had elapsed since date of alleged and that plaintiff's attack of the deed was barred by this statute, and the trial court and court of civil appeals sustained the exception, supreme court reverses the case because it is a suit to recover land, and not an action to set aside a fraudulent deed, and that this article expressly excepts this kind of action. Rutherford v. Carr, 59 T. 101, 87 S. W. 315.

Four-year limitation held not applicable to trespass to try title, to recover land on payment of vendor's lien, such an action not being equivalent to one for specific performance. Mason v. Bender (Civ. App.) 97 S. W. 715.

A suit to recover certain land by virtue of an alleged trust resulting from the holder of the legal title for plaintiff's benefit held within the general statute of limitations, and not barred by the four-year statute. Bell County v. Felts (Civ. App.) 120 S. W. 1066.

An interest in land held barred only by limitations affecting suits of trespass to try title. Sherman v. Pickering, 56 C. A. 530, 121 S. W. 536.

In trespass to try title to recover land in possession of another, no limitation is available except that which affects the right to recover real estate. Hoffman v. Buchanan, 67 C. A. 365, 123 S. W. 168.

Where a deed of land was a mortgage, and the equitable title remained in the grantor, so that he could sue for a recovery of the land, a suit by him for a cancellation of the deed and for an accounting was in effect an action to recover the land, so that limitations as to actions for real estate applied, and not the four-year statute. Smith v. Olivarrí (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 235.

The four-year limitation held not to apply to trespass to try title. Watson v. Harris (Civ. App.) 120 S. W. 237.

In trespass to try title, where defendants disclaimed any right or title to the "land," held, that a plea of the statute of limitations as to personal property was without application to a house standing thereon. Fidelity Cotton Oil & Fertilizer Co. v. Martin (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 535.

An action of trespass to try title, in which plaintiff relied on an equitable title, would be barred in four years after the cause of action accrued. Wolf v. Wilhelm (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 215.
In a suit to recover land pursuant to an alleged constructive trust, only those statutes of limitation as affect actions to recover rent were applicable. Nuckols v. Stanger (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 921.

By its express terms the four-year statute does not apply to actions to recover real estate. Broussard v. Cruse (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 347.

A suit to avoid a fraudulent sheriff's sale of land may be brought within four years. Garvin v. Hall, 83 S. 295, 18 S. W. 731.

A suit to avoid a deed for fraud is barred under this article in four years. Railway Co. v. Titterington, 84 T. 218, 19 S. W. 472, 31 Am. St. Rep. 39.

A suit to set aside a sale under a judgment by one claiming under an older judgment is barred in four years after the sale. Brackenridge v. Cobb, 21 S. W. 1034, 85 T. 448.

A suit to have a patent canceled is within the purview of this statute. Wynne v. Kennedy, 11 C. A. 596, 23 S. W. 288.

Action to set aside administrator's sale of land held within the four-year statute. McCampbell v. Durst, 15 C. A. 622, 40 S. W. 316.

An action to cancel a deed alleged to have been procured by fraud comes under this article. Groesbeck v. Cromwell, 91 T. 74, 40 S. W. 1028.

The four-year statute held not to apply to a petition to recover land sold under a trust sale, on the ground that the deed made by the trustee was void. Chandler v. Peters (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 867.

Creditors' suit to set aside fraudulent conveyance held barred in four years from the time creditors by reasonable diligence might have discovered fraud. Vodrie v. Tyman (Civ. App.) 57 S. W. 680.

An action by judgment creditors, more than four years after recovery of their judgments, to have lands previously conveyed to his daughter declared the property of the debtor, is barred by this article. Gans v. Marx, 25 C. A. 497, 61 S. W. 527.

The four-year limitation does not apply to an action by a corporation to recover land conveyed by its president, who had no authority to make such conveyance, although the petition asks cancellation of the deed. Aransas Pass Harbor Co. v. Frist Nat. Bank, 28 C. A. 372, 67 S. W. 906.

Action to rescind and recover damages for fraud in inducing lease of cotton press held governed by four-year limitation. American Cotton Co. v. Frank Holerman & Bro., 37 C. A. 312, 83 S. W. 845.

An action to cancel a release for personal injuries on the ground that the settlement was fraudulently obtained held not barred by the two-year limitation. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Jowers (Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 946.

The right of a purchaser, rescinding the contract of purchase on the ground of the fraud of the broker, to sue the broker, held barred by the four-year limitation. Gordon v. Rhodes & Daniel (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 1023.

In trespass to try title, plaintiffs were precluded from asserting invalidity of a deed executed by their mother for fraud and want of consideration, where the four-year limitation had run. Cook v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 279.

Reformation or correction of instrument.—The right of a party to have a certificate of acknowledgment corrected in a legal proceeding is barred by the limitation of four years. Starnes v. Beitel, 20 C. A. 524, 50 S. W. 202.

In trespass to try title, defendant held, under the four-year statute, precluded from a certificate of acknowledgment of a deed under which defendant claimed from a husband and wife. Kopke v. Votaw (Civ. App.) 96 S. W. 15.

An action of trespass to try title, requiring for the relief sought the showing that the premises were by mistake included in a deed, is, in effect, one for correction of deed, and is therefore barred under this article. Sanborn v. Crowdus Bros. & Co. (Civ. App.) 99 S. W. 445.

See Art. 4648.

In actions to correct acknowledgments, the four-year statute held simply to exclude parcel proof after the limitation had run, and then only in case it is invoked. Veede v. Gilmer, 47 C. A. 464, 105 S. W. 331.

Evidence offered to correct certificate to a married woman's acknowledgment of a deed held not admissible four years after the deed was made. Kimmey v. Abney (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 836.

An equitable action to correct mistakes in field notes in deeds to a party's predecessors in title would be barred by the four-year limitation. William Carlisle & Co. v. King (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 681.

A suit for the correction of an alleged misdescription in the deeds is within this article. Mounger v. Daugherty (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 1070.

A suit to correct or reform a deed is not an action to recover real estate, though the relief, when granted, may serve as the foundation for its recovery, and must therefore be brought within four years. Gilmore v. O'Neil (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 1185.

The running of limitations against a grantee's right of action to correct a mistake in a deed was not interrupted by his sale of the land. Durham v. Luce (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 850.

A suit to correct a mistake in a deed must be brought within four years after the mistake was discovered, or after it should have been discovered by exercise of reasonable care. Id.

Trusts.—An action against a trustee for failure to execute a trust is barred in four years. Fuller v. O'Neal, 22 T. 417, 18 S. W. 479, 481.
A suit to set aside a judgment discharging a guardian and to compel him to file his final account must be brought within four years. Stewart v. Robbins, 27 C. A. 188, 65 S. W. 901.

An equitable proceeding brought to reform and amend a judgment must be instituted within four years. If it is grounded on fraud or mistake it must be up and doing using reasonable diligence to discover the fraud or mistake which gives the right of action, and the party must act in good faith with reasonable diligence, otherwise his remedy in equity will be cut off by his own laches. McLane v. San Antonio Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 65 S. W. 65, 66.

A judgment rendered by consent in trespass to try title held not to subject to vacation for fraud by one of the parties more than four years after its rendition. Hamilton v. Blackmon, 43 C. A. 153, 36 S. W. 1094.

Notwithstanding the four-year bar, the probate court may review and set aside such of its orders as have been procured by fraud; the action therefor being direct and brought in time after the timely discovery of the fraud. Locust v. Randle, 46 C. A. 544, 101 S. W. 246, 248.

A bill of review to set aside a judgment for fraud and to set aside sales of land thereunder is barred only after four years. McLean v. Stith, 50 C. A. 325, 112 S. W. 585.

An action in heirs, etc., to set aside an order of the county court approving a claim against the estate, evidence held to sustain a finding that the claim was barred by limitations when presented. Bloom v. Oliver, 56 C. A. 321, 120 S. W. 1101.

An equitable suit to prevent the enforcement of an unjust judgment is not barred until after four years. Wolf v. Sahm, 65 C. A. 664, 120 S. W. 114, 121 S. W. 581.

Action on judgment.—Under Arts. 2387, 3717, the cause of action on a judgment on which execution had been issued within the twelve months would not accrue until ten years after the issuance of the last valid execution, and the four-year limitations will start to run at that time, under this article, rather than under Art. 5996. Gale Mfg. Co. v. Dupree (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1048.

In view of Arts. 2387, 3717, a judgment on which execution has not been issued within twelve months after rendition becomes a dormant judgment after a lapse of ten years, and is within this article, and so is a cause of action within the purview of Art. 5702. Spiller v. Hollinger (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 338.

A void judgment for delinquent taxes has no legal effect, and the running of limitations will not give it any validity. Mote v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1165.

Action to remove cloud from title.—A right of action to remove a cloud from the title is a continuing right, and is not barred by the four-year limitation. Fannell v. Askew (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 364.

When statute begins to run.—See Decisions Applicable to Subject in General, following this title.

and therefore until such time limitation will not run in sheriff's favor as against a suit in such plaintiff's bill for damages caused by the sheriff's taking an insufficient claimant's bond, whereby the attached property is lost. Jacobs v. Shannon, 1 C. A. 295, 21 S. W. 386.

Action by an assignee of county warrants, who was director and stockholder in assignee more than four years after his resignation as attorney, that the county had repudiated the warrants, held barred by limitation. Presidio County v. Shock, 24 C. A. 622, 60 S. W. 287.

A creditors' bill to subject land conveyed by a judgment debtor, alleged by the bill to have been conveyed to defraud creditors, must be brought within four years from the date of recording the judgment abstract by virtue of which the creditor claims a lien. Gans v. Marx, 25 C. A. 497, 61 S. W. 518.

An action to set aside and annul a voidable deed, and recover the land conveyed thereby, is barred four years after the law charges notice of the deed. Rutherford v. Carr (Civ. App.) 84 S. W. 660.

Art. 5691. [3359] Actions on foreign judgments barred, when.—Every action upon a judgment or decree rendered in any other state or territory of the United States, in the District of Columbia, or in any foreign country, shall be barred, if by the laws of such state or country such action would there be barred, and the judgment or decree be incapable of being otherwise enforced there; and, whether so barred or not, no action against a person who shall have resided in this state during the ten years next preceding such action shall be brought upon any such judgment or decree rendered more than ten years before the commencement of such action.

Art. 5692. [3360] Actions for specific performance.—Any action for the specific performance of a contract for the conveyance of real estate shall be commenced within ten years next after the cause of action shall have accrued, and not afterward.

Historical.—Prior to the adoption of the Revised Statutes, which took effect July 24, 1879, there was no statute prescribing the time within which an action for specific performance of a contract for the conveyance of real estate should be brought. Taylor v. Campbell, 59 T. 315.

This article applies to suits on contracts made prior to the adoption of the Revised Statutes. Campbell v. McFadden, 31 S. W. 436, 9 C. A. 379.

The owner of a land certificate, after having conveyed a part of a survey under it, lifted and relocated it without the knowledge of his grantee and obtained a patent in his own name. The equity of the first grantee was barred in ten years. Abernathy v. U. S., 51 T. 430, 16 S. W. 192.

This article applies to equitable as well as legal rights. Sheldon v. Sternberger (Civ. App.) 25 S. W. 333; Chamberlain v. Boon, 74 T. 669, 12 S. W. 727; Boon v. Chamberlain, 32 T. 469, 18 S. W. 655.

This article has reference to suits for the specific performance of contracts to convey land. Galbraith v. Howard, 11 C. A. 230, 32 S. W. 893.

Where the instrument sued on is insufficient to convey land, but is only an executory contract to convey, the ten-year limitation will apply. Laguerenne v. Farrar, 25 C. A. 404, 51 S. W. 854.

Defendants, in the undisputed possession of land, claiming under decree for specific performance of a contract or partition, with recognition by plaintiffs, cannot be deprived of their equitable title by limitations applicable to suits for mere specific performance. Logan v. Robertson (Civ. App.) 83 S. W. 396.

On an issue of limitations, evidence held sufficient to show breach more than ten years before the bringing of the action. Bateman v. Ward (Civ. App.) 93 S. W. 668.

Art. 5693. Limiting the time for suits for specific performance of a contract to convey land, does not apply to an action of trespass to try title for the recovery of the land pursuant to a bond for the conveyance. Wright v. Riley (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 1134.

A bond for title when the purchase price has been paid operates to convey to the grantee an equitable title, and an action of trespass to try title against the grantor can be maintained on such equitable title. The bond is a species of title to the land.

The action is for specific performance, and this article does not apply. II.

The suit to convey made in March, 1909, was not barred when brought April 29, 1907. Gamble v. Martin (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 386.

Art. 5693. Time in which power of sale may be exercised.—No power of sale conferred by any deed of trust or any mortgage on real estate heretofore executed, or that may hereafter be executed, shall be enforced after the expiration of four years from the maturity of the indebtedness secured thereby, and any sale under such power after the expiration of such time shall be void, and such sale may be enjoined and the lien created in such mortgages or deeds of trust shall cease to exist four years after the maturity of the debt secured thereby. Provided, if several obligations are secured by said mortgage or deed of trust, the same may be enforced at any time prior to four years after the note or obligation last maturing has matured and may be enforced as to all notes or obligations not barred by the four years statute of limitations. [Acts 1905, p. 334, sec. 1. Acts 1913, p. 250, sec. 1, amending Art. 5693, Rev. St. 1911.]

Historical.—Rev. Clv. St. 1911, art. 5693 (Act 1905, p. 334, sec. 1), read: "No power of sale conferred by deed of trust or mortgage on real estate executed after July 14, 1905, shall be enforced after the expiration of ten years from the maturity of the indebtedness secured thereby; and any sale under such power after the expiration of such time shall be void, and such sale may be enjoined." Decisions prior to Rev. Clv. St. 1911.—See Decisions Applicable to Subject in General following this title.

In an action for debt the statute of limitations affects the remedy only; it does not deprive the creditor of a remedy when he had provided by contract to enforce through a trustee the payment of his claim without the assistance of the courts, and consequently sale of property may be made under a deed of trust, although an action on the debt secured thereby is barred by limitation. Fleevel v. Zuber, 67 T. 275, 3 S. W. 273; Goldfrank v. Young, 64 T. 433; Wood v. Welder, 42 T. 409; Grigsby v. Peak, 67 T. 147; Jordan v. Peak, 38 T. 429; Stewart v. Mackey, 16 T. 57, 67 Am. Whether limitations have run against a note secured by deed of trust is immaterial, where the trustee only seeks to exercise the power conferred in the deed of trust by selling the property. Peacock v. Cummings, 34 C. A. 431, 78 S. W. 1002.

Sale under trust deed held not barred by limitations, though debt secured is barred. Brinkerhagen v. Gorse, 26 C. A. 142, 79 S. W. 692.

Where right of action on a note was barred by four-year limitation, payee held not entitled to foreclose lien of trust deed given to secure the note. Stone v. McGregor, 99 T. 51, 87 S. W. 334.

A trust deed contains a power of sale, that the debt was barred by the four-year statute does not affect the power to sell, though in a proceeding in court to foreclose such a plea would prevail. In a suit to enjoin the foreclosure of a trust deed under a power, the three, five and ten year limitations are not available, as they apply only to the claim for land. Williams v. Armstead, 41 C. A. 36, 90 S. W. 925.

Payment of the debt secured by a trust deed held not a condition precedent to the right to interpose the defense of limitations to foreclosure. Taylor v. Williams (Civ. App.) 105 S. W. 837.

The right to foreclose a trust deed lien held not barred by limitations until the debt secured by the deed is barred. Pinckney v. Young (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 622.

A plea that a note secured by a deed of trust executed in 1900 was barred by limitation was a good defense to a prayer for foreclosure of the deed of trust. Though the mortgage debt and a suit to foreclose were barred by limitations, the trustee might exercise the power of sale. Openshaw v. Dean (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 899.

Limitation of plaintiff's right to redeem land as a junior lienholder ran from the expiration of a reasonable time to foreclose his lien after maturity of his debt, if such period was not fixed or terminated before a suit to recover his lien under his deed of trust executed in 1893. Gamble v. Martin (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 387.

Art. 5694. Rights under vendor's lien barred, when.—The right to recover any real estate by virtue of a superior title retained in any deed of conveyance heretofore or hereafter executed, or in any vendor's lien note or notes heretofore or hereafter executed, given for the purchase money of such real estate, shall be barred after the expiration of four years from the maturity of such indebtedness, and if suit is not brought for recovery of such real estate, or for the foreclosure of the lien to secure such note or notes within four years from the date of the maturity of such indebtedness, or if suit is not brought within such time for the recovery of the land by the original vendor, or his transferee, or for the foreclosure of the lien given to secure such notes, the purchase money therefor shall be conclusively presumed to have been paid in any suit to recover such land or to enforce a lien thereon, and the lien reserved in any such notes and deeds conveying the land shall cease to exist four years after the note or notes have matured, provided the lien reserved in such note or notes may be extended as provided in section 5695 of this chapter and provided, if several obligations are secured by said deed of conveyance, the same may be enforced at any time prior to four years after the note or obligation last maturing has matured and may be enforced as to all notes not then barred by the four years statute of limitations. [Acts 1905, p. 334, sec. 2. Acts 1913, p. 250, sec. 2, amending Art. 5694, Rev. St. 1911.]

Persons to whom bar is available, see notes, § 56, following this title.

Historical.—Rev. Civ. St. 1911, art. 5694 (Acts 1905, p. 334, sec. 2) read: “When a vendor’s lien is retained to secure purchase money in any sale of real estate after July 14, 1905, the right to recover such real estate by virtue of the superior title retained shall be barred after the expiration of ten years from the maturity of the debt; and if suit is not brought for recovery of such real estate within such term, the purchase money shall be conclusively presumed to have been paid.”

In general.—See Decisions Applicable to Subject in General following this title.

Where a vendor brought suit to recover the land, and not to collect a note reserving a vendor’s lien for the balance of the price, nor to foreclose the lien, it was not material that an action on the note or to foreclose the lien would have been barred by limitations. Miller v. Linguist (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 170.

The fact that any cause of action on the vendor’s express promise to make good any shortage in the amount of land conveyed was barred by limitations did not bar the purchaser’s right to maintain an action as for money had and received for land falsely represented to exist. Yates v. Buttrill (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 247.

Where a vendor’s lien is expressly retained in the deed, or a contemporaneous mortgage is given, the legal title remains with the vendor, and he may recover the land, though the purchase-money notes are barred by limitation. Woodward v. Ross (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 168.

Where a vendor of land held a note for the purchase price in trust, as to the excess above a specified price per acre, for himself and for his broker who effected the sale, limitations did not begin to run in the vendor’s favor against the broker, until the former repudiated such trust to the latter’s knowledge. Campbell v. Shiflett (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 664.

Decisions prior to Rev. Civ. St. 1911.—The transfer of a note, payable to bearer and secured by the vendor’s lien, as collateral to secure a less sum than the note so transferred, carries with such transfer the lien and also the right to priority of payment out of the sum realized on such collateral, and the security therefor. White v. Downs, 49 T. 225.

If a vendor transfers the notes, he no longer has any title in the land, superior or otherwise; nor does the superior title pass to the assignee or transferee, though the vendor’s lien does, and the statute of limitations of four years will apply. Baker v. Compton, 62 T. 252; Cassiday v. Frankland, 1 U. C. 538; Harrison v. McMurray, 71 T. 122, 66 S. W. 618; Bumblein v. Feits, 70 T. 153, 7 S. W. 834; Stephens v. Mathews’ Heirs, 69 T. 341, 6 S. W. 567; Lundy v. Pierson, 67 T. 233, 2 S. W. 737; Nass v. Chadwick, 76 T. 572, 13 S. W. 383; McCamy v. Waterhouse, 80 T. 341, 16 S. W. 19; Moore v. Glass, 25 S. W. 128, 6 C. A. 368.

Where there is a lien reserved in a deed or notes, or there is a contemporaneous mortgage, the vendor may recover the land, although the notes are barred by limitation. McKelvain v. Allen, 58 T. 383; Lundy v. Pierson, 67 T. 233, 2 S. W. 737; Hamblien v. Feits, 70 T. 153, 7 S. W. 834; Kauffman v. Brown, 83 T. 45, 18 S. W. 425; Barber v. Hoffman (Civ. App.) 87 S. W. 768.

A personal judgment upon a note, which is a lien on lands for unpaid purchase money, preserves the lien, so that if a suit be brought to revive the same and have it declared a lien on the land, though more than four years have elapsed from the maturity of the judgment, the bar of limitation will not apply. The note which holds the lien having been merged in the first judgment, no limitation as to the lien can apply as long as the judgment remains a subsisting and valid claim against a debtor. Slaughter v. Owens, 60 T. 666.

The vendee in an executory contract who has not paid the purchase money cannot hold the land as vendee, although the only contract to the property, although an action for the debt is brought. Adkins v. Harn (Civ. App.) 23 S. W. 28. See Mitchell v. Allen, 69 T. 70, 6 S. W. 745.

Where deed reserves vendor's lien, limitation does not run against a purchaser of the vendor's interest, though the note is barred until vendee repudiates title. Johnson v. Lockhart, 16 C. A. 32, 40 S. W. 640.

A lien held not barred, though the note which it secured was barred. Columbia Ave. Savings-Fund Safe-Deposit, Titl. & Trust Co. v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 39 S. W. 111.

Art. 5690 did not apply in a case brought to enforce a vendor's lien because by Art. 5688 suits upon written contracts were required to be brought within four years after the cause of action had accrued and by Art. 5705 the bar was permitted to be avoided by a written acknowledgment of the claim. The statute which applied to an action to recover the lien for the enforcement of the lien, and not to recover for the amount due on the lien, could be by his acknowledgment restore both, where he still owned the property affected by the lien, he could not by such acknowledgment restore the lost lien on property which had ceased to be his through his conveyance of it to another. Fiewelten v. Cochran, 19 C. A. 419, 48 S. W. 39.

Where a note is given for the price of land, and a vendor's lien is retained, the superior title of the vendor survives the destruction of the note's vitality by limitations. Dittman v. Iselt (Civ. App.) 52 S. W. 96. The vendor of a vendor's lien note cannot plead limitation to the recovery of another note secured by an equal lien on the land. Columbia Avenue Fund, etc., Trust Co. v. Srawn, 93 T. 48, 53 S. W. 342.

An assignee of a note given for the price of land secured by a vendor's lien held not entitled to subject the land to its payment after it is barred by limitations. Farmers'Loan & Trust Co. v. Beckley, 93 T. 267, 54 S. W. 1027.

An action brought to enforce a vendor's lien in 1897, is not barred where judgment for the purchase-money was obtained in 1885, and execution issued thereon within twelve months, followed by an alias in 1889. Wilcox v. First Nat'l Bank, 93 T. 322, 55 S. W. 320.

In an action to recover land, or, in the alternative, to foreclose a vendor's lien thereon, a successful plea of limitations as to the lien notes, interposed by defendant, entitled the plaintiff to a judgment for recovery of the land. Efron v. Burgower (Civ. App.) 57 S. W. 306.

Though an assignee of a vendor's lien note barred by the statute cannot recover on the note, yet, if he acquire the vendor's legal title, he may recover the land in like manner as the vendor could if he retained the note. A purchaser of land may waive the plea of limitations as to the original purchase-money note by renewing the same. Jackson v. Bradshaw, 24 C. A. 30, 57 S. W. 878.

Where real property on which a vendor's lien is reserved in the purchase-money notes is sought to be recovered after the default of the vendee, the plaintiff may show that the notes have not been paid, even though they are barred by limitations. Ellis v. Hannaway (Civ. App.) 64 S. W. 684.

A vendor, having a superior title to the property conveyed by reason of having served a vendor's lien in the purchase-money notes, may convey such interest, even though the notes are barred by limitations. Id.

The holder of a vendor's lien in reserved in purchase-money notes, trespass to try title will lie after the default of the vendee, though the notes are barred by limitations. 1d.

Where, in action on vendor's lien note, defense of limitations was made, plaintiff held entitled to recover the land. Finks v. Abele, 33 C. A. 567, 77 S. W. 650.

Suit for non-payment of land purchased under trust held not barred by limitations which have run against the debt. Brinkerhoff v. Goree, 35 C. A. 142, 79 S. W. 592.

That notes given for the price of land had become barred by limitations held no defense to a suit by the vendor's administrator to recover the land for nonpayment of the price. Smith v. Owen, 45 C. A. 411, 97 S. W. 621.

Where a note given for the purchase price of land, containing no reservation of a vendor's lien, is barred by limitations, the vendor or holder of the note has no longer any claim on or interest in the land. Laird v. Murray (Civ. App.) 111 S. W. 780.

Laches is no defense to a suit to set aside a sale on foreclosure of a vendor's lien brought within the period of limitations. McLean v. Stith, 50 C. A. 323, 112 S. W. 355.

The administrator of the assignee of a vendor's lien note held entitled, on the nonpayment of the note and on limitations being pleaded, to recover the land. Atteberry v. Burnett, 52 C. A. 617, 114 S. W. 159.

A vendor suing on his note and for a foreclosure of the vendor's lien may, on limitations being invoked, rescind the contract, and sue for and recover the land. 1d.

The considerations are pleaded against purchase-money notes, while a vendor's lien, plaintiff may change the cause of action, rescind the contract of sale, and recover the land. Lumpkin v. Story (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 289.

Art. 5695. Contracts of extension, how made and construed; proviso.—When the date of maturity of either debt referred to in either of the foregoing articles is extended, if the contract of extension is signed and acknowledged as provided for in the law relating to the execution of deeds of conveyance by the party or parties obligated to pay such indebtedness as extended and filed for record in the county clerk's office in the county in which the land is situated, the lien shall continue and be in force until four years after maturity of the notes as provided in such extension, the same as in the original contract and the lien shall so continue for any succeeding or additional extension so made and recorded. The date of maturity set forth in the deed of conveyance or deed of trust or mortgage or the recorded renewal and extension of the same shall be conclusive evidence of the date of maturity of the indebtedness therein mentioned. Provided that the owners of all notes secured by deeds of trust or other liens and the owners of all vendors lien notes reserved in deeds of conveyance which were executed prior to July 14, 1905, and which are more than four years past due at the time this Act takes effect as shown by the original mortgage, deed of trust or conveyance, or last record extension shall have twelve months after this Act takes effect within which they may obtain such record extension as hereinbefore provided for, or bring suit to enforce the liens securing them if same are valid obligations when this Act takes effect and if such debt is not so extended of record, or suit is not brought within such time, the right to extend such debt of record, or bring suit to enforce such liens shall be forever barred; and provided that the owners of all notes secured by deeds of trust or other liens and the owners of all vendors lien notes reserved in deeds of conveyance which were executed subsequent to July 14, 1905, shall have four years after this Act takes effect within which they may obtain such recorded extension as herein provided for, or bring suit to enforce the liens securing them if same are valid obligations and not already barred by the four years statutes of limitation when this Act takes effect, and if such debt is not extended of record, or suit is not brought within such four years or four years after they mature, they shall be forever barred from the right to extend such debt of record, or bring suit to enforce the lien securing the same, and further provided if any such obligations executed subsequent to July 14, 1905, were barred by the four years statute of limitation on the 30th of June, 1913, the owners thereof shall have four years within which to bring suit to enforce the lien securing the same; and providing those owning the superior title to land retained in any deed of conveyance or his transferee and those subsequently acquiring such superior title by transfer, shall have twelve months after this Act takes effect within which to bring suit for the land if their claim to the land is not otherwise invalid and unless such suit is brought within twelve months after this Act takes effect, they shall be forever barred from bringing suit to recover the same. [Acts 1905, p. 334, sec. 3. Acts 1913, S. S., p. 39, sec. 1, amending Art. 5695, Rev. St. 1911, as amended by Acts 1913, p. 250, sec. 3.]

Art. 5696. [3361] Judgment shall be revived, when.—A judgment in any court of record within this state, where execution has not issued within twelve months after the rendition of the judgment, may be revived by scire facias or an action of debt brought thereon within ten years after the date of such judgment, and not after. [Act Feb. 5, 1841, sec. 2. P. D. 4608.]

When judgment is barred.—See cases cited under Art. 5690, “Action on judgment.”

A judgment is barred by limitation after the expiration of ten years from the date when the last execution thereon issued. Its period of dormancy has no influence in fixing the date when the statute begins to run. Willis v. Stroud, 67 T. 518, 5 S. W. 782; Mullen v. Ware, 84 T. 298, 19 S. W. 478; Low v. Felton, 84 T. 378, 19 S. W. 693; McKinnon v. McGown (Civ. App.) 29 S. W. 696; Central Coke Co. v. Southern Nat. Bank of New York, 12 C. A. 334, 34 S. W. 385. See Cole v. Terrell, 71 T. 549, 9 S. W. 668; Richardson v. Harrison, 25 S. W. 438, 6 C. A. 661.

It seems that where an attack is not upon a judgment, but only upon the subsequent proceedings taken in making a sale under it, ten years would be allowed within which proceedings might be taken; but if the attack is against the judgment, only two years would be allowed. Smith v. Perkins, 51 T. 153, 16 S. W. 805, 26 Am. St. Rep. 794.

Where execution has issued within one year after the judgment it will not become dormant within ten years thereafter. Davis v. Beall (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 1086.

The issuance of a writ of garnishment does not prevent a judgment from becoming barred by the statute of limitations. Shields v. Stark (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 840.

Where execution has been sued out within twelve months from the date of the judgment, an action upon it will not be barred until the lapse of ten years from the date of the last execution or the last act of diligence. Wilcox v. First Nat. Bank, 53 T. 323, 55 S. W. 320.

The judgment is not barred until the lapse of ten years from the issuing of the last execution, when the first execution was issued within twelve months from the date of the judgment. Stevens v. Stone, 94 T. 415, 60 S. W. 960, 86 Am. St. Rep. 861.

An execution is sufficient for its purpose, although returned without a levy by order of plaintiff. Pfeiffer v. Werner, 27 C. A. 283, 65 S. W. 889.

Though one is not a party to a suit in partition, yet if he accepts the provisions of the decree in so far as same establish a lien on lands described to secure the payment of his debt, this acceptance gives him the right to enforce such lien, and such lien being established by the judgment of a court is not barred either by the two or four year statutes of limitation, but is within the ten year statute, which is applicable to judgments. Stone v. McGregor (Civ. App.) 84 S. W. 401.

Foreign judgment.—A foreign judgment, though revived by acræ facias in the foreign jurisdiction, is barred in Texas by a lapse of more than ten years; it appearing that the defendant was a citizen of Texas during the running of the statute. Collin County Nat. Bank v. Hughes (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 1181.

Action to revive dormant judgment, entered on appeal by supreme court, may be maintained in court from which appeal was taken, though judgment of supreme court was not entered on the minutes of the trial court. Carothers v. Lange (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 590.

It is not necessary, in acræ facias proceedings to revive a judgment, that any petition accompany the writ. Polnac v. State, 46 Cr. R. 70, 80 S. W. 351.

The four-year statute of limitation does not apply to an acræ facias to revive a judgment. Such action may be brought within ten years from date of judgment. Henry v. Red Water Lumber Co., 46 C. A. 179, 102 S. W. 749.

Statutory limitation does not apply to acræ facias to enter a judgment pendente lite. Id.

Where judgment creditors sought to enter a judgment pendente lite and revive the same, held, that the relief sought should not be denied on the ground of laches or for any other reason. Id.

A judgment may be revived by acræ facias, or other appropriate proceedings, unless the right is barred by limitations. Gale Mfg. Co. v. Dupree (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1048.

Venue.—See notes under Art. 1827.

Process.—See notes under Arts. 1854 and 1859.

Evidence.—See notes under Art. 3657, Introductory, § 60.

Judgment.—See notes under Art. 1894, § 64.

Art. 5697. [3362] On motion for returning execution.—Where execution has issued and no return is made thereon, the party in whose favor the same was issued may move against any sheriff or other officer and his sureties for not returning the same within five years from the day on which it was returnable, and not after. [Id. P. D. 4608.]

Art. 5698. [3363] On the action of forcible entry, etc.—No action of forcible entry or forcible detainer, as provided for by law, shall be prosecuted at any time after two years from the commencement of the forcible entry or detainer.

Art. 5699. [3364] On actions to contest a will.—Any person interested in any will which shall have been probated under the laws of this state may institute suit in the proper court to contest the validity thereof, within four years after such will shall have been admitted to probate, and not afterward. [Act Aug. 9, 1876, p. 94, sec. 3.]

In general.—Under this article any person interested in a will probated under the laws of this state may institute suit in the proper court for testing the validity thereof within four years after such will shall have been admitted to probate and not afterwards. This proceeding must be commenced in the county court in which the will was admitted to probate. Franks v. Chapman, 61 T. 576; Id., 60 T. 46; Heath v. Layne, 62 T. 686.

Art. 5700. [3365] In case of forgery, etc., action accrues, when.

—Any heir at law of the testator, or any other person interested in his estate, may institute suit in the proper court to cancel a will for forgery or other fraud within four years after the discovery of such forgery or fraud, and not afterward. [Id. sec. 3.]
CHAPTER THREE

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Art. 5701. Suspension of during late war.

Art. 5702. Time of temporary absence not counted.

Art. 5703. Death of owner stops limitation, until.

Art. 5704. Death of person, etc., against whom, etc.

Art. 5705. Acknowledgment must be in writing.

Art. 5706. Limitation must be pleaded, etc.

Art. 5707. Presumption of death, etc., when, etc.

Art. 5708. No limitation against infants.

Article 5701. [3366] Suspension during late war.—The laws of limitation of civil suits in this state shall be considered as suspended during the late civil war, commencing on the twenty-eighth day of January, 1861, and ending on the thirtieth day of March, 1870; but nothing herein shall be held to revive any cause of action heretofore barred. [Const., art. 16, sec. 18.]

The suspension of the statute of limitation during the Confederate war will be taken notice of, without it being pleaded as an exception to the running of the statute. Maverick v. Flores, 71 T. 110, 8 S. W. 635.

Possession commenced in 1867, though not continued between 1862 and 1868, is continuous under the above article if resumed in 1868, and held until 1879. Collier v. Couts (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 485.

This article in connection with Pasch. Dig. arts. 4631 and 4631a, and Const. 1869, art. 12, § 43, does not have the effect, where there has been an abandonment during the war, of taking adverse possession before the war with that after. Collier v. Couts, 92 T. 524, 47 S. W. 625.

Possession of land by a party after suspension of limitations by the civil war held immaterial, where he had held for a sufficient time to prescribe the owner's title before such suspension. Harris v. Iglehart, 52 C. A. 6, 113 S. W. 170.

Occupancy of land, prior to 1870 and during the suspension of the statutes of limitation by reason of the civil war, is not to be considered in determining whether the claimant has occupied the land for the requisite period. Moore v. Loggins (Civ. App.) 114 S. W. 183.

Art. 5702. [3367] Time of temporary absence not counted.—If any person against whom there shall be cause of action shall be without the limits of this state at the time of the accruing of such action, or at any time during which the same might have been maintained, the person entitled to such action shall be at liberty to bring the same against such person after his return to the state, and the time of such person's absence shall not be accounted or taken as a part of the time limited, by any of the provisions of this title. [Act Feb. 5, 1841, sec. 22. P. D. 24.]

In general—Absence from the state of the maker of a vendor's lien note suspends the statute as well against the lien as against the indebtedness; nor can a purchaser from the vendee with notice avoid the lien by limitation while the debt and lien are valid against the original vendee. Falwell v. Henig, 78 T. 278, 14 S. W. 613.

This article applies to real as well as personal actions. Huff v. Crawford, 89 T. 214, 34 S. W. 696.

Absence from state of subsequent grantee of land does not suspend statute, where right depends upon enforcement of judgment against immediate grantee. Miller v. Anders, 51 Const., 73, 51 S. W. 897.

Where no execution has been issued on a judgment within twelve months from its rendition, and none can be issued because of the inhibition of Art. 3771, and the judgment can only be revived under scire facias provided by Art. 6596, the judgment is a cause of action, done the business of this article. Spiller v. Hollinger (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 338. A judgment on which execution has been issued is not a cause of action within the purview of this article; for, even though the judgment debtor be without the state and leave no property therein, execution may be issued and the judgment be kept alive and is efficacious as a second judgment. Id.

The operation of limitations as to an action to try title, as well as to personal actions, is suspended during the absence of the defendant from the state. Tate v. Waggoner (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 727.
LIMITATIONS

Art. 5703

Absence at time of accrual of cause of action.—In a suit for reimbursement by a surety who did not pay the debt until after his principal had become a resident of another state, the residence of the principal from the state of Texas held not to suspend the statute of limitations. Habermann v. Heidrich (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 106.

Where use of note does not pay it until maker becomes resident in another state, limitations will not be suspended by reason of the latter's absence from the state. Habermann v. Heidrich (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 795.

Where the first of a number of notes on which defendant had assumed the payment fell due February 1, 1891, at which time the maker, who was also a defendant, was absent from the state, and continued absent until the fall of 1893, suit brought January 22, 1894, was not barred by the four-year limitation. Liner v. J. B. Watkins Land Mortg. Co. 29 C. A. 187, 68 S. W. 311.

Where, after the accrual of a cause of action, defendant came into the state openly and publicly, the circumstances affording plaintiff reasonable opportunity, by ordinary diligence, to obtain personal service, the time defendant remained in the state must be counted in determining the running of limitations, whether plaintiff had actual knowledge of defendant's presence or not. Glenn v. McPadden (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 342.

Since an action to revive a judgment did not accrue until the judgment had become dormant, where at the time the debtor had left the state, his nonresidence did not suspend limitations against a proceeding to administer his estate in Texas after an action to revive a judgment of Solomon's Estate (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 214.

Depreciation after accrual of cause of action.—This article includes each departure from the state and the whole time of the defendant's absence; that is, to render the bar effective, the debtor must remain in the state for the full period of time prescribed by the law. Fisher v. Phelps, 21 T. 551; Phillips v. Holman, 29 T. 276.

If the debt had been in Texas before the debt was run over, the running of the statute was suspended during his absence. O'Neal v. Clymer (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 845.

Where a person resides in the state at the time of the accrual of an action against him, and then permanently removes from the state, the running of limitation is suspended until he returns to the state. Memo v. Ward, 37 C. A. 481, 84 S. W. 291.

Where the debtor has absented himself from the state on two occasions, each for the period of two or more months, the period of both absences must be excluded from the computation in making up the four years necessary to bar the action. Id.

Where it is shown that the maker of a note leaves the state before the paper is barred and from that time on is not a resident of the state, it is sufficient to stay the running of the statute of limitation. Dignowity v. Sullivan, 49 C. A. 582, 124 S. W. 429.

Nonresidence.—If a non-resident debtor is in this state openly and publicly, under circumstances which permitted personal service of process, the aggregate time so spent in this state is available in completing the term of limitation. Montgomery v. Brown, 28 S. W. 324, 9 C. A. 127.

It is the settled law of this state that the provisions of the statute of limitations in regard to absent defendants do not apply to persons who were non-residents of the state at the time the cause of action accrued, and so remained. Lynch v. Ortleib, 30 S. W. 546, 88 T. 590; Huff v. Crawford, 88 T. 368, 30 S. W. 546, 31 S. W. 614, 33 Am. St. Rep. 763; Cotton v. Rand (Civ. App.) 29 S. W. 833. Citing Snoddy v. Cages, 5 T. 106; Love v. Davis, 5 T. 541; Moore v. Hendrick, 8 T. 553; Ayres v. Henderson, 9 T. 540; Fish v. Phelps, 31 T. 656; Phillips v. Holman, 26 T. 278; Falwell v. Hening, 78 T. 278, 14 S. W. 413.

This article does not apply where a non-resident was within the state at the time of taking possession of the land by his agent. Wilson v. Daggett, 88 T. 376, 31 S. W. 613, 55 Am. St. Rep. 766; Id. (Civ. App.) 31 S. W. 717.

A non-resident cannot invoke the Texas statute of limitations relating to the recovery of land, although he had tenants in possession of the land and had paid all taxes thereon. Beale's Heirs v. Johnson, 46 C. A. 119, 39 S. W. 1046, 1047.

In an action to correct a certificate of acknowledgment to a deed, the nonresidence of the parties did not prevent the running of the statute of limitations whether such action could have been brought and jurisdiction over defendants therein obtained in the state or not. Vedder v. Gliner, 103 T. 488, 129 S. W. 696.

Corporations.—The absence of the officers of a corporation created in this state, and carrying on its business here, beyond the state, is not the absence of the corporation itself. Sherman v. B. B. B. & C. R. R. Co., 21 T. 349.

A foreign corporation doing business in this state and subject to suit here may plead the statute of limitations to an action on a debt. Thompson v. T. L. & C. Co. (Civ. App.) 24 S. W. 856.

Art. 5703. [3368] Death of owner, etc., shall stop limitation until, etc.—In case of the death of any person in whose favor there may be cause of action, the law of limitation shall cease to run against such cause of action until twelve months after such death, unless an administrator or executor shall have sooner qualified according to law upon such deceased person's estate; then and in that case the said law of limitation shall only cease to run until such qualification. [Act Feb. 16, 1852, sec. 3. P. D. 4607.]

In general.—When the statute of limitations begins to run against one who, before its bar is declared, leaves minor heirs, it is only suspended for twelve months after his death, unless administration is begun before that time, and continues to run against his heirs, who are not protected by minority against its operation. Grimes v. Watkins, 59 T. 132.

When a decedent before his death transferred in blank a note payable to himself, limitation is not suspended by his death. Davis v. Dixon, 61 T. 446.

Money due an estate having a proper representative becomes barred by the statute of limitations. The statute will not be suspended by the disability of the heir. If the representative of the estate had a right of action. Rindge v. Oilpint, 63 T. 652, citing Thomas v. Greer, 6 T. 377.

This article applies to real and personal actions. Hendricks v. Huffmeyer (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 777.

In trespass to try title, begun by the grandchildren of a deceased, claiming the interest of their mother, where it appears that the children's mother was a minor or married woman up to the time of her death, and no administration of her estate had ever been had by the statutes will not begin until ten years after her death. Hasseldens v. Doffmeyre (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 830.

The running of the statute of limitation is interrupted for twelve months though no administration is necessary on decedent's estate. Carter v. Hussey (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 270.

Limitation held not to run against a cause of action accruing to an estate of a decedent, after his death, until the expiration of one year. William J. Lemp Brewing Co. v. La Rose, 20 C. A. 575, 50 S. W. 460.

Adverse possession while title to land is in executors can be set up as a defense in action by the devisees. Matthews v. Darnell, 27 C. A. 181, 65 S. W. 890.

Under the statute, death of the owner of land suspends for one year after the death, or until administration, the suspends of limitations in favor of one in possession of the land. Meurin v. Kopplin (Civ. App.) 100 S. W. 884.

Art. 5704. [3369] Death of person, etc., against whom, etc.—In case of the death of any person against whom there may be a cause of action, the law of limitation shall cease to run against such cause of action until twelve months after such death, unless an administrator or executor shall have sooner qualified according to law upon such deceased person's estate; then and in that case the said law of limitation shall only cease to run until such qualification. [Id. sec. 2. P. D. 4060.]

In general.—As to creditors, executors and administrators are only trustees between them and the estate represented by the executor or administrator, the statutes of limitation run. Smith v. Gillette, 59 T. 86, citing Timmen v. Meulane, 10 T. 246, 60 Am. Dec. 205; Parker v. Catet, 8 T. 318.

An assignment under the statute for the benefit of creditors does not suspend limitation. Meusebach v. Halff, 77 T. 186, 33 S. W. 979.

The article does not apply when the person in whom the right of action vests takes charge of the estate without administration. Scefld v. Douglass (Civ. App.) 30 S. W. 817.

This article applies to actions for the recovery of land. Wynne v. Parke (Civ. App.) 32 S. W. 726.

An action against a surviving wife to cancel a deed on the ground of fraud on the part of the deceased husband, otherwise barred within four years, having been administration on the estate, might be brought within five years. Groesbeck v. Crow, 81 T. 74, 49 S. W. 1028.

Foreclosure of a mortgage to secure a debt against an estate is not barred by limitations, where it does not appear that administration has closed. Hantrick v. Gurley, 21 T. 485, 54 S. W. 347, 55 S. W. 119, 56 S. W. 320.

Meaning of "cause of action."—"Cause of action" includes all cases in which there are demands against the person at the time of his death, whether they had so matured at the time as to entitle holders to institute and maintain actions against the deceased or not. It includes an undisturbed judgment not dormant at death of a defendant. Low v. Felton, 84 T. 373, 19 S. W. 653.

See also, Whitfield v. Burrell, 54 C. A. 567, 118 S. W. 163.

Art. 5705. [3370] Acknowledgment must be in writing.—When an action may appear to be barred by a law of limitation, no acknowledgment of the justness of the claim made subsequent to the time it became due shall be admitted in evidence to take the case out of the operation of the law, unless such acknowledgment be in writing and signed by the party to be charged thereby. [Act Feb. 5, 1841, sec. 12. P. D. 4617a.]

LIMITATIONS

Art. 5705

An acknowledgment must show that the debt is due, either in whole or part, and must be unqualified.

An offer by a debtor in writing to pay the principal, but repudiating the interest of the debt, is not an acknowledgment of the justice of the principal. McDonald v. Gray, 28 T. 80. An offer to compromise does not suspend limitation. Goldstein v. Gans (Clav. App.) 32 S. W. 185.

See statement of case for a letter which was held not to contain such an acknowledgment of indebtedness, and such an acknowledgment would remove the bar of the statute of limitations. Galenthire v. Wheat, 70 T. 740, 9 S. W. 76.

Letters held to evidence an admission of indebtedness and a promise to pay. Wheatley v. Nipper (Clav. App.) 45 S. W. 777.

A request for extension of time, and written notice of payment of interest, held to remove bar of limitations. Clayton v. Watkins, 19 C. A. 133, 47 S. W. 810.

A note given for interest due on a note after it would have otherwise been barred is admissible as a new promise to pay the balance of the original debt by the maker of an indorsement on the note acknowledging the debt and promising its payment. Martin v. Somervell County, 21 C. A. 308.

Evidence held sufficient to show an extension of one year of note about to be barred as consideration for acknowledgment taking debt out of statute. Id.

A written acknowledgment of an existing debt in consideration of an extension is sufficient to take the debt out of the statute.

Right to except to authority of county officer to take acknowledgment taking claim out of statute of limitations held waived, where not raised in the court below. Id.

A letter containing an unqualified admission of liability, and showing no unwillingness to take, pays claim out of the statute. Burnett v. Munger, 23 C. A. 278, 56 S. W. 103.

Statements in letters held sufficient to take an action without the bar of the statute. Aces v. Aces, 23 C. A. 584, 56 S. W. 196.

In a suit on municipal notes, limitation on the original debts funded thereby is to be computed up to the date that they were funded by the issue of other notes. City of Tyler v. T. L. W. & Co., 344, 78 S. W. 1085.

Defendant's letter to plaintiff held an acknowledgment of the debt, and a new promise to pay it, taking it out of the statute. O'Neill v. Ellis (Clav. App.) 78 S. W. 1083.

Letters written to the payee of a note by the maker and signed by him held such acknowledgments as to take the debt out of the statute. Vogelsang v. Taylor (Clav. App.) 80 S. W. 631.

A letter held not to revive a compromise agreement entered into for the execution of a note, but to be an acknowledgment of the indebtedness evidenced by the note. Robertson v. Warren, 46 C. A. 844, 100 S. W. 806.

An agreement between parties held not to affect the running of limitations against a right of action. Vernor v. D. Sullivan & Co. (Clav. App.) 126 S. W. 641.

An acknowledgment must import an acknowledgment of the debtor's present liability; an acknowledgment of the original justness of the claim being insufficient. Stacy v. Parkes (Clav. App.) 132 S. W. 637.

A writing, signed by defendant, agreeing to pay interest at 10 per cent. on debts and premiums paid on certain insurance by plaintiff, held not to constitute a sufficient acknowledgment.

A written acknowledgment of a debt must be clear and unequivocal, and neither qualified by conditions or limitations.

Where there are several claims against the same debtor, a general acknowledgment will not take any out of the statute, but, if there is only one transaction, a reference to the debt is sufficient as to its identity. Cotulla v. Urbahn, 104 T. 209, 135 S. W. 1189, 34 L. R. A. (N. S.) 345.

New promise.—An alleged promise to pay when thereunto requested is not supported by a promise to pay in two years from date. Hunt v. Wright, 13 T. 645.

A promise to make conditions or settle, the plaintiff must prove a compliance with such conditions, or the happening of the events upon which he relies. Legh v. Linthecum, 30 T. 100. See Vernon v. D. Sullivan & Co. (Clav. App.) 132 S. W. 641.

Where the word "Renewed," signed by the defendant, is indorsed on the back of the note, its legal effect is the same as if its maker had executed a new note. Oppenheimer v. Fritter, 1 App. C. C. § 372.

A new promise to pay a claim which is otherwise barred by which the promisor agrees to pay "if I owe it," does not relieve the claim from the operation of the statute. Meyer v. Andrews, 70 T. 327, 7 S. W. 814; Henry v. Roe, 83 T. 446, 18 S. W. 806.

A debtor on open account wrote to his creditor, November 14, 1882, in reference to the debt due: "I will, if I am ever able, pay it." The amount of the debt at the date of the letter was established, and it was also shown that In October, 1885, the debtor had acquired and owned an amount of money more than sufficient to pay his debts, including the account. In December, 1885, he was sued on the written conditional promise. Held: (1) The existence of the original debt being shown, and the reference made to it in the letter being established, the claim was not barred by limitation, but the right of action accrued on the written promise at the time when the defendant first had the ability to pay. (2) The plaintiff was not bound to show that the defendant continued to be able to pay, after the suit was once existed. (3) Where such ability that the defendant after being able to pay, invested his money in a homestead, could not defeat the plain­tiff's right of action. Lang v. Caruthers, 70 T. 718, 8 S. W. 604.

Where notes are given in part payment for land conveyed by quitclaim deed, and the vendee takes and retains possession of the land, a subsequent promise by the vendor to procure a patent is sufficient consideration for a new promise by the vendee to pay the notes, so as to give the vendor a right of action on the new promise, even after suit on the notes is barred. Heisch v. Adams, 61 T. 94, 16 S. W. 780.

Where a debt is barred, and is renewed, the new contract constitutes the debt, and the old debt is a sufficient consideration therefor. Interstate Building & Loan Ass'n v. Goforth, 94 T. 258, 59 S. W. 671.

Sale and delivery and indorsement of writing obligatory after the statute of limitations had run against it held a new contract, removing the bar of the statute so far as the indorser's liability was concerned. Conly v. Hampton (Civ. App.) 87 S. W. 1171.

No recovery can be had upon a promise to pay a note barred by limitations where the statute at the time of the action would also defeat recovery on the new promise. Hall v. Jennings (Civ. App.) 104 S. W. 489.

A letter written by a debtor held to be a sufficient new promise to remove the bar. White v. Escrada (Civ. App.) 116 S. W. 113.

Since the plea of usury is personal to the one alleging it, one acknowledging and agreeing to pay a usurious note barred by limitations could only claim the advantage of the usury law from the time she agreed to pay the note; her agreement being a new promise. Vinson v. Whitfield (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 1068.

The action is on the new promise, and the original indebtedness serves only to show the consideration. Cotulla v. Urbahn, 104 T. 298, 135 S. W. 1159, 34 L. R. A. (N. S.) 346.

In order to take a case out of the statute on the ground of new promise, such new obligation must either evidence an express promise to pay the debt or an unequivocal acknowledgment of its justness, when the law will imply a promise to pay it. Id.

Requirement of writing.—In actions for the recovery of personal property, evidence of verbal acknowledgment by the defendant of the plaintiff's title to the property may be sufficient for the purpose of showing that his claim and possession were not adverse to the plaintiff. When the evidence clearly shows an adverse holding by the defendant, for the purpose of stopping the statute of limitations to keep it from running, he is bound to execute an acknowledgment of title in plaintiff, accompanied by evidence of intention or willingness to submit thereto, will not defeat the bar of the statute. Thurmond v. Trammell, 28 T. 371, 91 Am. Dec. 321.

Four-year limitation does not bar a note, where there is a written acknowledgment of its justness before it was barred. Montague County v. Meadows, 21 C. A. 556, 61 S. W. 556.

An acknowledgment, signed for the maker by another at his request, is sufficient. Martin v. Somervell County, 21 C. A. 308, 52 S. W. 556.

Acknowledgment made after a debt is due must be in writing. Wells v. Moor, 42 C. A. 47, 93 S. W. 220.

A writing signed by defendant agreeing to pay interest at 10 per cent. on debts and premiums paid on certain insurance by plaintiff held not to constitute an acknowledgment of the debt sufficient to take it out of the statute. Stacy v. Parker (Civ. App.) 322 S. W. 552.

Acknowledgment or promise.—To whom made.—A promise to pay a debt appearing to be within the bar of limitation, made to a stranger, will not relieve the claim from the bar. City of Houston v. Jankowski, 76 T. 368, 13 S. W. 269, 18 Am. St. Rep. 67.

An agreement between a mortgagee and mortgagees to extend the time of payment of the debt secured by a first mortgage, when made after the creation of a junior incumbrance, deprives the junior incumbrancer of the defense of limitation. Johnson v. Lasker Real Estate Ass'n, 21 S. W. 961, 2 C. A. 494.

An admission of liability by a garnishee held not an admission to his creditor, so as to stop limitations from running against the debt. Holland v. Shannon (Civ. App.) 84 S. W. 554.

Parol evidence held inadmissible to show that a general written acknowledgment to a third person was intended to revive defendant's debt to plaintiff then barred by limitations. Cotulla v. Urbahn, 104 T. 298, 135 S. W. 1159, 34 L. R. A. (N. S.) 346.

— By whom made.—The allowance of a claim made by an executor before it is barred implies a distinct promise to pay in due course of administration. It does not follow that an executor may not suspend the operation of the statute before the bar is complete. Howard v. Johnson, 69 T. 658, 7 S. W. 822; Park v. Prendergast, 23 S. W. 536, 4 C. A. 556.

An executrix who is sole legatee and devisee may waive the statute. Suhre v. Benton (Civ. App.) 25 S. W. 822.

A debtor can toll the statute by written acknowledgment of debt so as to continue the lien thereon after assignment of property charged with the lien, where acknowledgment is made before bar of statute has operated. Flewelling v. Cochran, 19 C. A. 499, 48 S. W. 33.

Where by a deed a vendor's lien is retained to secure a purchase-money note, and an agreement is entered into, before limitations have run, between the owner of the land and the holder of the note, to extend the time of payment, the statute is thereby stayed, and the lien preserved, even as against a subsequent purchaser of the land. Bahn v. Greblin, 29 C. A. 431, 69 S. W. 441.

Renewal notes, executed by an independent executor, sued on within four years after maturity, on payment being refused, held not barred by the statute of limitations. Altgelt v. Alamo Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 581.

A guardian given of minor children construed, and held to limit his authority to such acts as he could perform as guardian. Stone v. McGregor, 99 T. 61, 87 S. W. 334.
An administrator cannot charge the estate by acknowledging a debt of decedent barred by limitations; it being his duty to plead the statute. Vinson v. Whitfield (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 1056.

Estoppel.—See “Estoppel to rely on limitation,” post.

Where, prior to the expiration of limitations, defendant importuned plaintiff not to sue, agreeing that he would plead limitations, held, that defendant was estopped to plead the statute. Smith v. Dupree (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 367.

Part payment.—A payment of a part of the debt does not avoid the bar of the statute. Meusebach v. Half, 77 T. 185, 18 S. W. 379.

When a number of notes mature at different times, and provision is made in the contract that, if default is made in payment of some, all become due, in case default is made to pay the prescribed number, at once limitation begins to run against all the notes, and it is not stayed by partial payments after maturity and oral promises to pay. San Antonio R. B. & L. Ass'n v. Stewart, 94 T. 441, 65 S. W. 666, 96 Am. St. Rep. 884.

Indorsement on note, acknowledging part payment, extending the note, and signed by makers, held to take case out of statute. Carter v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 90 S. W. 701.

Where defendant had credited by agreement plaintiff's account on certain indebtedness of plaintiff to defendant, he could not afterwards claim that plaintiff's account was barred by limitations. Lowry v. Smith, 42 C. A. 112, 94 S. W. 450.

Revival of debt as revival of lien or other security.—Renewal of note secured by mortgage before limitations had run held to have renewed the mortgage lien. Eastham v. Pat. 29 C. A. 473, 69 S. W. 224.

Recitals in a conveyance by the grantor to a holder of a vendor's lien note executed by him held sufficient to revive the debt and the lien on the land. Austin v. Lauder­dull (Civ. App.) 83 C. W. 413.

The acknowledgment of a note barred by limitations by one not a party to the note held not to revive an implied lien on land to secure payment of the note. Vinson v. Whitfield (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 1056.

A mortgage, given when an earlier mortgage was barred, held not subordinated to the earlier mortgage by its being renewed. Moore v. Porter (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 426.

Art. 5706. [3371] Limitation must be pleaded, etc.—The laws of limitation of this state shall not be made available to any person in any suit in any of the courts of this state, unless it be specially set forth as a defense in his answer. [Act Feb. 16, 1852, sec. 5. P. D. 4629.]

Pleading statute as defense.—As to amendment of pleadings, see Decisions Applicable to Subject in General, § 45, following this chapter.

Defenses by warrantor in trespass to try title, see notes under Art. 7725.

It may be doubted whether a plea of the five-year statute which nowhere contains an allegation of claim alleged under a deed registered, or that they paid the taxes for the requisite time, would be sufficient to sustain a judgment based upon this statute, although no exception was made to it. L. & M. Co. v. Bridgeman, 1 C. A. 333, 11 S. W. 141.

A plea of limitation of five years of adverse possession held sufficient. Montague County v. Meadows (Civ. App.) 42 S. W. 326.

Where there is no plea of limitations, it cannot be proved. Kelts v. Wipf (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 1056.

Where a plea of limitations alleged possession "for a period more than ten years next before commencement of the suit," held, the time was not limited to ten years immediately preceding the suit. Hennessy v. Savings & Loan Co., 23 C. A. 591, 55 S. W. 134.

Where the complaint did not raise the issue of limitation, such question was not in issue, though raised by the evidence. Lang v. Henke, 22 C. A. 490, 55 S. W. 374.

Where limitations are not specially pleaded as a bar to a cause of action, the question is waived, and cannot be raised on appeal. Boyd v. Ghent (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 733.

A petition in an action to recover real estate from mortgagee wrongfully in possession, held a sufficient allegation of limitations to raise such defense against a claim of defendant for a reformation of a trust deed to establish title by a prior sale thereunder which was not according to the terms of the deed. Galloway v. Kerr (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 186.

The pleading and evidence in an action of trespass to try title held to entitle defendant to a decree establishing a title acquired by adverse possession as to part of the land, though he had not pleaded adverse possession as to any specific portion of a larger tract, including the land in question, but only as to the entire tract. Smith v. Abadie, 29 C. A. 69, 67 S. W. 226.

Where, in an action on a note, defendant pleaded limitations, and plaintiff filed a replication alleging a written contract extending the time of payment and reducing the rate of interest, to which no answer or exception was filed, the plea of limitations to the original cause of action did not apply to or affect the new cause of action so set up. Bangs v. Crebbin, 29 C. A. 385, 69 S. W. 441.

A plea of limitations for 160 acres only of the land sued for, this being claimed on a naked possession, is insufficient; it not describing the land. Giddings v. Fischer, 97 T. 77, 77 S. W. 309.

In an action on a note, a plea of limitations held sufficient. Evana v. Jackson, 41 C. A. 277, 92 S. W. 47.

Where an attorney employed to sue on a note fraudulently stated to his client that such action had been commenced and judgment obtained, the client upon discovering the fraud held justified in bringing suit upon the note before bringing action for the fraud, though limitations had run against the note, since such defense might have been waived by failure to plead. Shuttleworth v. McEvoy, 47 C. 160, 136 S. W. 823.

The admission of evidence of limitation without being pleaded held not error. Dunn v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 952.
LIMITATIONS

One relying upon limitation must plead it specifically. Williams v. Keith (Civ. App.) 111 S. W. 106; Perry v. Ball, 52 C. A. 184, 113 S. W. 584.

Where it was pleaded that the cause of action accrued more than thirteen years before suit, its sufficiency cannot be called in question for the first time on a writ of error. Schneider v. Schneider (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 789.

That where persons claiming the right to purchase or lease any lands one year to assert their right, is a statute of limitations, and cannot be availed of as a defense, unless specially pleaded under the express provisions of this art. Title 17, Sec. 465, R. S.

Sufficiency of pleading and proof where defendant in trespass to try title claims part of the land by adverse possession under Art. 8568. Louisiana & Texas Lumber Co. v. Stewart (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 199.

That the statute may be availed of, it must be pleaded in defense. Pecos & N. T. Co. v. Crews (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 1049.

A plea of limitations for less than 160 acres need not describe by metes and bounds the land claimed, though where the tract claimed contains more than 160 acres, and there is no written memorandum of title, claimant must accurately describe the 160 acres to which he is restricted. Stevens v. Pedregon (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 236.

A plea of limitation in trespass to try title when coupled with a prayer for affirmative relief to prove an adverse claim and will support a judgment for recovery of the land. Jones v. Wagner (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 280.

Where defendant corporation, sued in the wrong name, voluntarily answered to the merits, it could not, when plaintiff corrected such misnomer, plead that the action was barred. Forbes Bros. Texas & Spice Co. v. McDougle, Cameron & Webster (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 746.

In a suit of trespass to try title for damages incident to the trespass, to revoke a power of attorney fraudulently procured, and for the value of timber disposed of under such lease, the two-year limitations against statute of limitations as to damages to the land, is not available to defendant, if not pleaded. William Cameron & Co., Inc., v. Collier (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 1178.

In a case being reversed, it will not also be rendered merely because the cause of action will be barred on another trial if the statute be taken advantage of as a defense. Bagley v. Brack (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 247.

Deferrer or exception as raising defense.—See, also, notes at end of Title 37, Chapter 2.

In the absence of a special exception to a petition to set aside a sale of intestate's land to pay debts, an allegation that the debts were barred by limitations held sufficient. Smart v. Panther, 42 C. A. 262, 95 S. W. 679.

Defense of limitations held presentable by special exceptions when petition shows on its face that the time has elapsed. Schutz v. Burgess, 60 C. A. 249, 118 S. W. 494.

A judgment for defendant will not be affirmed, because an exception to the petition as barred by limitations, which was not ruled on by the trial court, was well taken. Holland v. Western Bank & Trust Co., 66 C. A. 324, 118 S. W. 218, 119 S. W. 694.

Defensive matter to plea of limitations.—See notes under Art. 1528.

When a suit is filed, the statute of limitations stops running against all valid existing claims in set-off. Walker v. Fearhake, 22 C. A. 61, 52 S. W. 629.

A plea in reconvention in an action by a city for taxes held insufficient for failing to show whether any part of defendant's claim was barred by limitations. City of Houston v. Stewart, 40 C. A. 499, 93 S. W. 49.

In an action on a contract, where defendants' claims against plaintiff were unliquidated, they cannot be set-off, for, pro tanto, the set-off is not effected, as a matter of law, where it is for unliquidated damages; and hence limitations continued to run against such claims, despite the action, until pleaded. Nelson v. San Antonio Traction Co. (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 146.

Matters pleaded in the form of a set-off or counterclaim, may be set up at any time before trial, without being subject to the running of the statute during the pendency of the action. 1d.

Anticipating defense in petition.—See notes under Art. 1827.

On appeal from justice's court.—When limitation is not pleaded in the justice's court, it cannot be pleaded on appeal. Pickett v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 25 S. W. 32.

That the petition filed in the county court on appeal from a justice does not aver when the account sued on was due does not justify its dismissal on the ground that it was barred by limitations, in the absence of special exceptions raising the objection. A general demurrer to such petition does not reach such defect. Threadgill v. Shaw (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 707.

Stale demand.—Plaintiffs, suing for land, failing to plead stale demand to facts alleged in the answer, cannot avail themselves of facts which would show laches in the assertion of an equitable title. Hensel v. Kagana, 79 T, 347, 16 S. W. 276.

Burden of proof.—See notes under Art. 3637.

Trespass to try title.—As to the defense of limitation and the form of pleas, see Tallasferro v. Butler, 77 T, 578, 14 S. W. 191; Church v. Waggoner, 78 T, 200, 14 S. W. 651.

Where a party would rely on a title accruing by virtue of limitations, he must plead it. Miller v. Gist, 91 T, 335, 43 S. W. 265.

Limitation cannot be shown under the plea of not guilty, but must be pleaded specially. V. Peterson (Civ. App.) 64 S. W. 93; Stoner v. M. S. (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 261.

This article does not apply to the allegations in the petition in trespass to try title, but is confined by its terms to the defense in the answer. Benavides v. Molino (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 261.
LIMITATIONS

Art. 5708

A plaintiff in trespass to try title, claiming title through the operation of the statute of limitations, must specially plead such title. Enr v. Tillman, 103 T. 574, 131 S. W. 1067.

In trespass to try title and for damages for injury to the land, the two-year statute of limitations held not available to defendant if not pleaded. William Cameron & Co. v. Collier (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 1178.

Pleading limitation against debt against enforcement of security.—The beneficiary of a policy, transferred by the insured in payment of his debt, could not plead limitations against the debt as a defense to the creditor's right to recover an amount equal to the debt and interest, etc., on the insured's death, without first tendering the debt, interest, etc. Harde v. Germania Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 666.

Art. 5707. [3372] Presumption of death when, etc.—Any person abstaining himself beyond sea or elsewhere for seven years successively shall be presumed to be dead, in any cause wherein his death may come in question, unless proof be made that he was alive within that time; but an estate recovered on such presumption, if in a subsequent action or suit the person presumed to be dead shall be proved to be living, shall be restored to him who shall have been evicted, and he may moreover demand and recover the rents and profits of the estate during such time as he shall be deprived thereof, with lawful interest. [Act Feb. 5, 1841, sec. 10. P. D. 23.]

Presumption of death.—Hearsay evidence, see Art. 3857, Rule 35. Sufficiency of evidence, see Art. 3857, Rule 12, § 210.

The absence of a person beyond the sea or elsewhere for seven years successively, without having been heard from, authorizes the presumption that he is dead. Art. 5707.

Parties presented themselves in Texas in 1822 as man and wife, and were so reputed until the deed was signed in 1827. The man was previously married in Ohio in 1809, and in 1818 separated from his wife, who shortly after disappeared and was not heard from during the four years preceding the husband's immigration to Texas. Held, that the presumption existed that the first wife was dead, and the second marriage, although illicit in its commencement, was rendered valid by the presumed death of the first wife. Yates v. Houston, 3 T. 433.

A woman having been separated from her husband five years, again married. But one witness had heard of the first husband since the separation, and there was no evidence that she had any knowledge of his existence. Held, that the burden of proof was upon the person impeaching the second marriage to show that the first husband was living at the time of its celebration. Lockhart v. White, 18 T. 102.

The common law does not indulge in any presumption of survivorship or death by reason of age or sex, when two or more persons are lost in a common disaster. Paden v. Btacoe, 81 T. 563, 17 S. W. 42.

There is no presumption that a man presumed to be dead left a surviving wife, child, or children. Nehring v. McMurrian (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 381.

This article does not apply where no absence from the state of Texas is shown. The application for and grant of letters of administration are not proof of death in a collateral inquiry. Twiner v. Sealock, 21 C. A. 594, 64 S. W. 258.

Mere lapse of time since a person was last heard from is insufficient to prove death, in the absence of a statute. 1d.

The common law does not indulge in any presumption of survivorship or death by reason of age or sex, when two are lost in a common disaster. Males v. Sovereign Camp, Woodmen of the World, 30 C. A. 134, 70 S. W. 108.

Absence of person from state and taking up residence in a known place elsewhere, followed by period of seven years in which he is not heard from, held not to raise presumption of death. Gorham v. Settegast, 44 C. A. 254, 98 S. W. 665.

In trespass to try title, where the record fails to show anything concerning a grantor after the execution of a deed by him in 1860, his death might be presumed from the length of time elapsed. Holland v. Nance, 102 T. 177, 114 S. W. 246; Same v. Ferris, Id.

Art. 5708. [3373] Limitation shall not run against infants, etc.—If a person entitled to bring any action other than those mentioned in chapter one of this title be at the time the cause of action accrues, either—

1. Under the age of twenty-one years;
2. A married woman;
3. Of unsound mind; or
4. A person imprisoned; the time of such disability shall not be deemed a portion of the time limited for the commencement of the action; and such person shall have the same time after the removal of his disability that is allowed to others by the provisions of this title.

See Art. 5684.

Historical.—Section 14 of article 12 of the constitution of 1869 provided that married women, infants and insane persons should not be barred of their rights of property by adverse possession, or law of limitation, of less than seven years from and after the removal of their respective legal disabilities. In Grigsby v. Peak, 57 T. 148, it was held that the constitution of 1869 took effect on the 30th of March, 1870. In Peak v. Swindle, 68 T. 242, 4 S. W. 478, it was held that the constitution became operative when ratified by the vote of the people, at the election held on the last day of November and the three first days of December, 1868. The constitution of 1869 was suspended by the constitution of 1876, which took effect April 18, 1876.

A legislative suspension of the statutes of limitation will not enable one who was an infant before and during the period of such suspension, when the adverse possession began, and who was of a certain age, to claim the same court when the operation of the statute was restored, to avoid the effect of limitation on account of such coverture. The purpose of article 12, section 43 of the constitution of 1869 was to prevent the suspended period from being taken into account in the computation of the time required by the statute to bar an action, and not to restore disability already removed. Baggdale v. Beck, 98 T. 504, 5 S. W. 63.

Infants.—After the appointment of an administrator the statute of limitations on claims due the estate will not be prevented from running by the disability of the heir. Ridg v. Ollphnt, 62 T. 682.

The only cases in which it has been held that the statutes of limitation ran against a minor cestui que trust, in favor of a stranger, have been those in which the legal title to the property was vested in the trustee. Hanks v. Crosby, 64 T. 483; Lacy v. Williams, 8 T. 182.

In an action on an indorsed note, payable one day after date, appearing to be barred by limitation, the defendant by special exception alleged that the action was barred. By amendment plaintiff alleged that at the date of the execution and transfer of the note plaintiff was a minor. The exception was overruled and judgment rendered for the plaintiff upon the pleadings. Grounds v. Sloan, 73 T. 662, 11 S. W. 936.

The disability in the statute of limitations arising out of coverture and infancy apply to damages against a county for operating and using a public highway over the lands of such parties. Cunningham v. San Saba County, 1 C. A. 489, 20 S. W. 941.

Limitation of an action to disaffirm a deed executed by a minor, see Hisett v. Dixon (Civ. App.) 26 S. W. 263.

Limitations do not run against an action until the minor becomes of age. Hampton v. Hampton, 29 S. W. 425, 9 C. A. 497.

An infant having no equitable interest only in a debt is barred by the statute of limitation; otherwise if the legal title is vested in the infant or cast upon him by operation of law. McAdams v. McAdams, 10 C. A. 653, 32 S. W. 87.

An action to set aside an order in probate, for the sale of real estate 15 years after it was made, but within a year after the plaintiff became of age, is not barred. Kelley v. Wipff, 92 T. 673, 62 S. W. 63.

A bill to review the proceeding in a guardianship can be brought by the minor before the expiration of two years after reaching their maturity. Miller v. Miller, 21 C. A. 382, 53 S. W. 362.

A judgment against a minor, rendered on plea of statute of limitations, when the party representing the minor was not her guardian, will be set aside on the minor's showing a cause of action and defense to the statute of limitations. Stephens v. Hewett, 22 C. A. 308, 84 S. W. 301.

Infant, two years after attaining majority, held entitled to sue heirs to recover his share of the property retained by them on division of property. Middleton v. Pipkin (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 240.

The bringing of an action by the next friend of a minor, and the dismissal thereof, held not to cause limitations to commence to run against a subsequent suit on the same cause of action, since it does not remove the disability. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Washburn, 25 C. A. 600, 63 S. W. 538.

The bringing of an action by a father as next friend for an injury to his son does not create the relation of guardian and ward, so as to start the running of limitations against the minor.

Where minor has received personal injury he has two years after the removal of his disability of minority within which to bring suit for damages on account of said injury. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Scarborough, 29 C. A. 194, 68 S. W. 198.

A bill of review to set aside a judgment must be brought within two years after the judgment of plaintiff, who was a minor when his right of action accrued. Ferguson v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 81 S. W. 1240.

Two-year statute of limitation held no bar to action for recovery of value of infant's land wrongfully sold to innocent purchaser. Schneider v. Sellers, 58 T. 380, 54 S. W. 417.

In a suit to set aside a judgment obtained against plaintiff during his minority, held that the four-year statute of limitation was not applicable, but plaintiff was bound to use reasonable diligence in bringing suit after his majority. Johnson v. Johnson, 35 C. A. 385, 55 S. W. 1025.

The disability of an heir arising from his infancy cannot avail him where limitations ran against his ancestor. Sanders v. Word, 50 C. A. 294, 110 S. W. 205.

The statute does not run against minor heirs on the right of action against an independent executrix, even if knowledge of defendant's adverse claim to the property is brought home to them in time. Japhet v. Pullen (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 441.

Married women.—See, also, Cunningham v. San Saba County, 1 C. A. 489, 20 S. W. 941, cited supra under "Infants."

This exception in favor of a married woman applies in all cases. T. & P. R. R. Co. v. Gwaltney, 2 App. C. G. C. § 685.

Limitation will not run during marriage against the right of the wife to recover damages for the wrongful seizure and forced sale of her property protected from forced sale by statute. Alsop v. Jordan, 69 T. 300, 6 S. W. 831, 5 Am. St. Rep. 53.

Where under the disability of coverture the statute of limitation does not begin to run against her until the removal of the disability. Harrison v. City of Sulphur Springs (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 1064.

Under Art. 5690 and this article, an action to reform a deed was not barred, where the land involved was the separate property of plaintiff, a married woman. Harry v. Hamilton (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 637.

Marriage of female infant.—When a female minor marries, she becomes, in contemplation of law, of full age. Parish v. Alston, 65 T. 194.

The marriage of a female infant put the statute of limitations running as to an action existing in her favor. D. Sullivan & Co. v. Ramsey (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 589.

Persons of unsound mind.—It is error in a suit brought on behalf of a person of unsound mind to sustain a plea of limitation, the plaintiff's disability appearing in the pleadings. Killfoil v. Moore (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 1024.

Limitation could not run against plaintiff's right to set aside a judgment and certain sales thereunder for fraud, while plaintiff was a lunatic, nor until his sanity was restored. McLean v. Stith, 60 C. A. 323, 112 S. W. 355.

Persons imprisoned.—One is 'a person in prison' where under arrest and in custody of the sheriff. Lasater v. Waits (Civ. App.) 67 S. W. 518.

Stale demand.—Coverture will defeat the plea of stale demand when pleaded against an equitable right asserted by a married woman. Reed v. West, 47 T. 248; Hill v. Moore, 85 T. 336, 19 S. W. 162. Hall v. Wootters, 54 T. 231, and Barker v. Swenson, 66 T. 407, 1 S. W. 117, adhered to. Id.

A married woman asserted by suit an equitable claim to land, and in reply to defendant's plea of laches and stale demand pleaded her coverture. The cause of action accrued to her as an infant in her lifetime, and, by analogy to the statute of limitation which prohibits the taking of disabilities, laches did not at his death then cease to be imputed to her because of her coverture. Land & Cattle Co. v. Ward, 1 C. A. 307, 21 S. W. 129.

Infancy and coverture are a sufficient answer to a plea of stale demand. Griffin v. Towns (Cr. R.) 25 S. W. 968; Reed v. West, 47 T. 248; Hill v. Moore, 85 T. 336, 19 S. W. 162; Robinson v. Kampman, 24 S. W. 529, 6 C. A. 655.

Art. 5709. [3374] Action against immigrant barred, when.—No action shall be brought against any immigrant of the state to recover a claim which was barred by the law of limitations of that state or country from which he emigrated; nor shall any action be brought to recover money from an immigrant who was released from its payment by the bankrupt or insolvent laws of the state or country from which he emigrated. [Id. sec. 13. P. D. 4618.]

Art. 5710. [3375] Debts incurred prior to removal of person to this state.—No demand against any person who shall hereafter remove to this state, incurred prior to his removal, shall be barred by the statute of limitation until he shall have resided in this state for the space of twelve months; provided, that nothing in this article shall be construed to affect the provisions of the preceding article. [Id. sec. 4. P. D. 4620.]

Art. 5711. [3376] One disability not tacked to another.—The period of limitation shall not be extended by the connection of one disability with another; and, when the law of limitation shall begin to run, it shall continue to run, notwithstanding any supervening disability of the party entitled to sue or liable to be sued.

In general.—Minority cannot be tacked to coverture, and the saving of the statute is only to those to whom the right first accrues. Hunton v. Nichols, 65 T. 217; Parish v. Alston, 65 T. 194.

Limitation which begins to run against an ancestor is not stopped in favor of the heir either by minority or coverture. Moody v. Moeller, 72 T. 635, 10 S. W. 727, 13 Am. St. Rep. 839; Howard v. Stubblefield, 79 T. 1, 14 S. W. 1044; Jackson v. Houston, 84 T. 625, 19 S. W. 799.

Where land is held adversely the running of the statute will not be interrupted by the coverture of a married woman to whom it is conveyed. Mexia v. Lewis, 21 S. W. 1016, 5 C. A. 112.

Where adverse possession against a female begins during her minority, limitations begins to run against her, under the rule forbidding the tacking of disabilities, upon her marriage. V. Huthsebraun, 37 C. A. 367, 83 S. W. 896.

The disability of minority cannot be tacked on to the disability of coverture of the ancestor of the minors. Elcan v. Childress, 40 C. A. 193, 89 S. W. 84.

Where a married woman, entitled to sue to recover real estate, died leaving minor heirs who were also full of the state, the time then elapsed, suit not to be barred, for the disability of infancy as an additional suspension of the statute. Lamberida v. Barnum (Civ. App.) 90 S. W. 698.

Where the right of action accrues during the life of a married woman the statute begins to run at her death and is not interrupted by the minority of her heirs. Minority and coverture cannot be tacked. Laird v. Murray (Civ. App.) 111 S. W. 782.

Coverture cannot be tacked to minority. Louisiana & T. Lumber Co. v. Lovell (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 566.
Art. 5712. [3377] Claims barred under pre-existing laws, etc.—No one of the provisions of this title shall be so construed as to revive any claim which is barred by pre-existing laws; and all claims against which limitation under said laws had commenced to run shall be barred by the lapse of time which would have barred them had those laws continued in force; provided, the said time be shorter than that by which they would have been barred by the other articles of this title.

In general.—When a period of limitation is shortened, reasonable time must be allowed after the law goes into effect to bring suits upon actions which are not then barred. Wright v. Hardie, 32 S. W. 885, 88 T. 663.

The statutes of limitations apply to claims against which limitation had begun to run before their adoption only when they prescribe a shorter period of limitation than did the old law. Volight v. Gulf, W. T. & P. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 69 S. W. 578.

See Art. 6587.

Art. 5713. [3378] No agreement shortening period of limitation valid.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, association or combination of whatsoever kind to enter into any stipulation, contract, or agreement, by reason whereof the time in which to sue thereon is limited to a shorter period than two years. And no stipulation, contract, or agreement for any such shorter limitation in which to sue shall ever be valid in this state. [Acts 1891, p. 20, sec. 1.]

In general.—A reasonable limitation of an action for breach of a contract made in 1890 for the transportation of freight might be fixed by agreement of parties, but a limitation of forty days was held unreasonable. Railway Co. v. Humé, 24 S. W. 916, 5 C. A. 655; or of Railway Co. v. Trawick, 68 T. 314, 4 S. W. 567, 2 Am. St. Rep. 494; Railway Co. v. Garrett, 24 S. W. 354, 5 C. A. 640.

A contract providing that a suit for damages must be brought within fourteen days is void. Railway Co. v. Williams (Civ. App.) 32 S. W. 225.

A provision in a contract of shipment requiring suits for injuries to the shipment to be commenced within a specified time was waived, where the carrier attempted to settle a suit for such injuries brought after expiration of the time. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Dysart (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 1047.

A stipulation in a contract for the carriage of freight that, unless suit is brought within two years of the accrual of the cause of action, it shall be barred, is valid. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Langbehn (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 1188.

Foreign contract.—What law governs, see Decisions Applicable to Subject in General, § 1, following this chapter.

By this statute the provision in a contract limiting the time within which suit must be brought is a shorter period than two years, if the contract were a Texas contract, would be invalid, even if it were a contract for an interstate shipment. As the provision in the contract only affects the remedy, and is contrary to the law of this state, it will not be enforced in a suit brought within this state, though the contract may be legal in Arkansas, where it was entered into. St. L. I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Hambrick (Civ. App.) 97 S. W. 1074. See cases cited under Art. 5714.

Insurance policy.—When a delay in commencing suit, as stipulated in a policy of insurance, has been fraudulently caused by the defendant, the stipulation will be disregarded. Life Ass'n v. Tolbert (Civ. App.) 33 S. W. 295.

This article invalidates a stipulation in an insurance policy limiting the time in which suit may be brought to six months. German Ins. Co. v. Luckett, 12 C. A. 139, 34 S. W. 273. See Art. 4743.

Under Art. 4620, exempting fraternal benefit associations from the provisions of the insurance law, unless they be expressly designated therein, the holder of a certificate of such an association is, in accordance with this article, entitled to two years in which to bring his action thereon, notwithstanding a provision in the certificate fixing a shorter time. International Travelers' Ass'n v. Hosworth (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 346.

City charter.—A city may by a special charter be authorized to prescribe the time within which suit against it may be brought. City of Dallas v. Young (Civ. App.) 28 S. W. 1936.

Art. 5714. [3379] Notice of claims for damages; rule as to.—No stipulation in any contract requiring notice to be given of any claim for damages as a condition precedent to the right to sue thereon shall ever be valid, unless such stipulation is reasonable; and any such stipulation fixing the time within which such notice shall be given at a less period than ninety days shall be void, and, when any such notice is re-required, the same may be given to the nearest or to any other convenient local agent of the company requiring the same; provided, that no stipulation in any contract between a person, corporation or receiver operating railroad, or street railroad, or interurban railroad, and an employed or servant requiring notice of a claim by an employed or servant for damages for injury received to the person, or by a husband, wife, father, mother, child or children of a deceased employed for his or her death, caused by negligence as a condition precedent to liability, shall ever be valid. In any suit brought under this and the preceding article it shall be presumed that notice has been given, unless the want of notice is especially pleaded under oath. [Amended Acts 1907, p. 241, sec. 1.]

Meaning of notice.—Filing of suit and service of citation is not giving notice within the meaning of this article. Telegraph Co. v. Ferguson (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 1048; Telegraph Co. v. McKinney, 2 App. C. C. § 647.

Meaning of stipulation.—Where the sender of a telegraph message telephoned it to the company as notice, and such notification was not binding as part of the contract or as a regulation of the company. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Douglas, 104 T. 663, 138 S. W. 877.

Time for giving notice.—A stipulation in a contract of carriage requiring notice within ninety days of the time for the transmission of the claim for damages, and upon failure to do so the suit will be barred. Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. Maves, 44 C. A. 31, 97 S. W. 319.

A stipulation in a contract for the transmission of a message that the telegraph company shall be liable for damages where the claim therefor is not presented within sixty days after the filing of the message for transmission is void, and a sworn answer setting up the stipulation is of no effect. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Douglas (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 488.

A stipulation in a bill of lading requiring notice of the claim be given “before the expiration of” ninety days from the filing of the claim contravenes this article. St. Louis & S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Brass (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 1076.

The ninety-day period should be computed from the time the cause of action arose; and hence a stipulation in a contract for the transmission and delivery of a telegram, that notice of a claim for damages must be made within ninety days after the message was “filed with the company for transmission,” was void, both as requiring the filing of notice before the expiration of ninety days from the date of the company’s default, and also as giving less than ninety days, by requiring that notice shall be filed “within” that period. Tater v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 104 T. 272, 137 S. W. 196, 34 L. R. A. (N. S.) 185, reversing (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 263. See, also, Baldwin v. Western Union Tel. Co. (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 890; Western Union Tel. Co. v. Vanway, 54 S. W. 414; Smith v. International & G. N. R. Co., 138 S. W. 1974; Texas & F. Ry. Co. v. Langbehn, 156 S. W. 1188.

Statement of how, for, and when provision in a contract of shipment that the carrier shall give no notice of damages in a certain time is applicable and binding. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Crews (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 1049.

Reasonable time—How determined.—Question for jury, see notes under Art. 1971, § 16.

The provision in a contract not having required the notice to be given in less than ninety days, the court was not authorized to declare the same unreasonable and void, as a matter of law, on demurrer. St. L. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Honea (Civ. App.) 84 S. W. 263.

Where a message received for transmission and delivery by a telegraph company, under a provision within ninety days of notice of damages from the filing of the message, was received by the sender three days after it was filed, the stipulation left only sixty-seven days within which to give notice, so that it was unreasonable as a matter of law. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 622.

Whether a stipulation is unreasonable, when the time provided for is not less than ninety days, is a question of fact to be determined by the evidence in the particular case. Id.

Interstate commerce.—The statute making invalid the provision in the contract of a telegraph company that the company shall not be liable for failure to deliver the message unless notified of the claim for damages within sixty days is void under the constitution of the United States so far as it applies to messages sent into and received from another state. Western Union Telegraph Company v. Burgess (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 1033.

The requirement in a contract that notice of claim for damages be given within less than ninety days is invalid in a shipment of goods from this state to another state, as well as in a state shipment. Armstrong v. G. H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 92 T. 117, 46 S. W. 33.

This article does not violate the provision of the constitution of the United States empowering Congress to regulate commerce among the several states. Burgess v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 92 T. 125, 46 S. W. 794, 71 Am. St. Rep. 833.

A provision in the contract of a telegraph company, seeking to avoid its liability if a claim is not presented in sixty days, is void, though the message was sent to another state. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lovely (Civ. App.) 82 S. W. 662.

Under the Carmack amendment of the interstate commerce act, a stipulation of a contract of shipment requiring notice in writing of any damages sustained held sufficient.

VERN.S.CIV.ST.-241

Where a carrier prior to the institution of a suit for damages did not refuse payment because notice was not given within ninety days, as required by the contract of shipment, and made no objection to the form or contents of a notice given to a connecting carrier, it waived the provision of the contract. Id.

Foreign contract.—See cases cited under Art. 5713. See, also, Decisions Applicable to Subject in General, § 13, following this chapter.

In an action against an insurer for a shipment of live stock, evidence held not to justify a finding that a contract requiring notice of claim for damages within a specified time, entered into where such contracts are valid if reasonable and supported by a valid consideration, was not executed in consideration of a reduction of freight rates, or that it was not fairly made. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Franklin (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 181.

This article has no application to a written contract, made in Alabama for the trans­mission of a telegram to a Texas point, requiring notice of claim for damages for failure or delay in delivery to be filed within sixty days, such a stipulation being valid in Ala­bama, whose laws must govern. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Douglass, 104 T. 65, 133 S. W. 877.

Insurance companies.—A stipulation that suit must be brought within one year from date of loss, is valid, but is waived by an agreement within the year that the insurer shall not take advantage of delay pending an investigation as to the loss. Insurance Co. v. Luckett, 135 id. 32 T. 248. A provision in a policy requiring to be brought within a certain time is waived when the insurer by its conduct induces the insured to believe that payment would be made without suit, and for that reason suit is not brought within the prescribed time. St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co. v. McGregory, 63 T. 293.

A stipulation in a policy requiring a suit for loss, etc., to be brought within a period less than two years, is void. German Ins. Co. v. Luckett, 12 C. A. 139, 34 S. W. 173.

A clause in an accident insurance policy requiring notice to be given of claim for damages within less than ninety days is void, and the policy will be construed as though time was specified. Maryland Casualty Co. v. Hudgins, 72 S. W. 1048. See, also, Attna Life Ins. Co. v. Griffin (Civ. App.) 123 S. W. 432.

Under this article a provision of a casualty policy requiring notice of the injury to be given within ten days would be void: Art. 473 providing that the general laws relat­ing to corporations shall apply to accident insurance companies so far as pertinent and not conflicting with that act. Royal Casualty Co. v. Nelson (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 674. See cases cited under preceding article, "Insurance policy."

Notice of injury given to the local agent of a casualty company was sufficient. Id.

Amendment of 1907.—The amendment consisted of the insertion of the proviso.

The amendment cannot be construed to apply to a stipulation in a contract of employ­ment entered into before the act took effect since such a construction would violate the state and federal constitutions. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Hudgins (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 1183.

Notice not required.—Where plaintiff's cattle were not carried to their destination by defendant railroad or delivered to any other carrier, or mixed with other cattle, but were killed in a wreck on defendant's road, notice of claim for loss was not required under the contract of shipment obligating the carrier to give notice of injury to the agent or owner of the stockyard where the injury occurred. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Harriman Bros. (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 922.

Withdrawal of claim.—Where a notice of claim was furnished within the time limited, was accepted and acted on by defendant, and served its purpose, and defendant thereupon repudiated liability, the taking of such notice by plaintiff from defendant's agent did not constitute a withdrawal of the claim. Missouri, K. & T. Co. of Texas v. Harriman Bros. (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 922.

Pleading and burden of proof.—The burden is on the railway company to show breach of stipulation to give notice of claim for damages. To authorize proof of that fact and the assumption existing under the statute, it is absolutely essential that the plea setting up the stipulation in question must be sworn to. Until this is done the want of notice of claim for damages is not in issue. St. L. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Home (Civ. App.) 84 S. W. 248.

Where a paragraph of defendant's answer setting up a clause of the contract of shipment requiring notice to be served within ninety-one days was sworn to, but a subse­quent paragraph alleging failure to give the notice was not sworn to, it would be pre­sumed that the notice was given. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Williams (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 847.

Limitation of common-law liability by notice, etc., in violation of Art. 708.—The stipulation in the contract for shipment of cattle, to be performed partly without the state, that, as a condition precedent to one's right to recover damages for loss or injury of said cattle, he would give notice in writing to some officer of the company, or its nearest station agent, before removing said stock from the place of destination or the place of delivery, to him, and before said stock should be mingled with other stock, is valid; but see next paragraph. A verbal notice to the superintendent of the stockyard or the conductor of the train is sufficient. T. C. R. R. Co. v. Morris, 1
LIMITATIONS

Art. 5714

In all the foregoing cases the contract of carriage was to be performed partly without the limits of this state, and those cases are therefore not within the provisions of the statute. When the contract of carriage is to be wholly performed within this state, a stipulation requiring notice of damages, etc., is within the inhibition of the statute and void. G. C. & S. F. R. R. Co. v. Maetz, 2 App. C. C. § 624.

A contract requiring that a shipper should give notice in writing of his claim for damages for loss or injury to live stock, before they are removed from their place of destination and mingled with other stock, is a limitation of the liability of the carrier at common law. A limitation of the common-law liability of a carrier for the proper delivery of articles to a point beyond the limits of this state, to be recognized, must be something in the nature of a pleading that the carrier had an officer or agent so situated that the contract to give notice was reasonable was fatal to demurrer. It is doubtful whether such a contract, which falls by its terms to specify who is the officer or agent to whom notice shall be given, when the carrier is a corporation and the cattle to be delivered in a distant state, should ever be sustained. Mo. Pac. R. R. Co. v. Harris, 67 T. 166, 2 S. W. 574.

Where stock is shipped over several lines a stipulation in the contract that notice in writing of damages, must be given to officers of an intermediate line, before removed from the car in which it was transported is a limitation on the liability of the carrier at common law, and hence unenforceable. Notice, of which no complaint was made, was given to terminal company. M. K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Allen, 39 C. A. 236, 87 S. W. 169.

See note to Art. 707.

DECISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT IN GENERAL

I. NATURE, VALIDITY AND CONSTRUCTION OF LIMITATIONS IN GENERAL

1. What law governs.—Pre-existing laws, see Art. 5712. "Foreign contracts," see notes under Arts. 5115, 5114.

The time of limitation on contracts depends upon the law of the state in which the action is brought. Tilliard v. Hall, 11 C. A. 381, 32 S. W. 864. Action executed in Missouri by citizen of Texas sought to be enforced in Texas held not entitled to benefit of statute of limitations of Missouri. Washington Life Ins. Co. v. Gooding, 19 C. A. 490, 49 S. W. 123. Liability created by a statute limiting time for its enforcement cannot be enforced in foreign jurisdictions after that time. Rule that liability must be enforced within prescribed time in foreign jurisdictions held not affected by fact that defendant railroad, Involving rule, was incorporated in another state. Ross v. Kansas City S. R. Co., 34 C. A. 586, 78 S. W. 628. The law of the forum governs as to limitations, except where statutes create the liability extinguish the cause of action, if suit is not brought within a prescribed time. In an action under the statutes of another state for causing death, held that the law of the forum governs as to limitations. Ross v. R. Co. v. Ziegler, 53 C. A. 491, 116 S. W. 403. Law governing limitations on an action for personal injury to an employee held the law of the forum and not of the place of injury. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Mills, 53 C. A. 359, 116 S. W. 852.

The limitations of Texas may not be invoked against title to lands emanating from Texas, while the boundary between United States and Mexico, as observed by the political authorities, left the land in Mexico. Reese v. Cobb (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 220.

2. Limitation as against state or municipality.—See, also, notes under Art. 5683.

Limitation held to run against a city. Grandjean v. City of San Antonio (Civ. App.) 38 S. W. 337.

A city held to have a reasonable time after a law of limitation takes effect in which to act; but the plea is barred under the limitation as to the time it took effect. Link v. City of Houston, 94 T. 378, 59 S. W. 566.

Limitations held not to run against an action by a county to recover the purchase price of school lands (Const. art. 7, § 6). Delta County v. Blackburn, 160 T. 51, 93 S. W. 419.

Limitations do not run against the state unless expressly enacted. Waters-Pierce Oil Co. v. State, 48 C. A. 167, 106 S. W. 918. Limitations do not run against the state, unless the statute makes a specific exception. The defense of state demand is purely equitable, and is not available in an action at law for a debt by the state for expenses incurred in maintaining a lunatic at an asylum. Ludger's Adm'r v. State (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 220.

Limitations would not run against a right of action by the state to compel a railroad company to construct its road through a county seat within three miles of its line, as required by Const. art. 10, § 9. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. v. Texas (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 561.

3. Limitations not available to delinquent taxpayer.—See Art. 7662.

4. Persons who may rely on limitation.—Absence or nonresidence affecting running of statute, see Art. 5702. Existence of trust as affecting running of statute, see post, §§ 29, 30. Persons to whom bar is available, see post, § 56.

Rights of the various parties determined, where certain defendants, as against plaintiffs, had acquired title by limitations. Miller v. Gist, 91 T. 333, 43 S. W. 263.

A suit against the railroad commission held a suit against the state within the statute of limitations. A suit against the railroad commission to enjoin it from enforcing its orders is not barred by limitations. The duty of the railroad commission to enforce rules held a continuing duty within the statute of limitations. Galveston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 737.

5. Estoppel to rely on limitation.—Estoppel to rely on new promise, see notes under Art. 5705. Estoppel by failure to plead, see Art. 5706. Waiver of bar, see post, § 58.

By pleading title under a deed, and seeking equitable relief, grantee was estopped from pleading limitations to a count for damages for failure to execute the consideration. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Gurley, 52 T. 229, 47 S. W. 513.

A railroad company is estopped from pleading the four-year limitation to defeat an action of damages where it failed to put in a switch which it obligated to do as a consideration for land granted it and which land it took possession of. Id.

A taxpayer held not to estop limitations in an action by a city to recover taxes. City v. Stewart, 49 C. A. 485, 50 S. W. 49.

Delay held not to estop one who had released another from liability for injuries from rescinding the release at any time within the period of limitations. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Cade (Civ. App.) 93 S. W. 124.

Where the payee of a promissory note, who indorses it, afterwards pays and takes it up, and then, from the time of such recovery, runs good and payable, and this rule applies to an accommodation indorser. In the case of an accommodation acceptor of a bill of exchange, it has been held that the statute begins to run from the date of payment. Williams v. Durst, 25 T. 667, 78 Am. Dec. 548; Tutt v. Thornton, 57 T. 35; Rush v. Bishop, 60 T. 177.

That the lien on a partner's interest to secure a note to his copartner could not be enforced when the note fell due does not prevent limitations from running thereon. Gresham v. Harcourt, 93 T. 148, 53 S. W. 1019.

Limitations on a contract demand against the county begins to run in favor of the county from the time of the maturity of such demand, and not from the time of the rejection by the county commissioners' court. Noel Young Bond & Stock Co. v. Mitchell County, 21 C. A. 638, 54 S. W. 254.

The extension of the time of the payment of a promissory note or other chose in action, based upon a valuable consideration, for a definite period, is a new contract against which limitations do not run until the end of the period of such extension. Matthews v. Towell (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 169.

13. Impaired contracts.—See, also, notes under Art. 5657.

Though a parcel contract for the conveyance of land for services to be rendered may not be enforced, an action may be maintained to recover the value of the services performed under it. When the services extend during a period which would ordinarily bar the claim for their value, yet if they are rendered in good faith, and the owner of the land accepts the benefit conferred by them, without disaffirmance of the parcel contract, limitation will not begin to run against an action to recover their value until the re-nunciation of the agreement. Stevens v. Lee, 79 T. 279, 8 S. W. 40.

Limitations begin to run, against the right to recover money paid under a void contract of payment. Rayner v.fonts: Cattle Co. v. Berford, 58 T. 942, 44 S. W. 418.

Ignorance of the invalidity of a contract held not to toll the statute, as to recovering back payments that had been made on the contract. Id.

An in contruction between a joint obligor held, that limitations did not begin to run against payments In excess of one's share until such a time as the equities of all the obligors could be fully adjusted. Mateer v. Cockrill, 18 C. A. 391, 45 S. W. 751.

Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Caldwell (Civ. App.) 102 S. W. 461.

An action for injuries to a railroad company by the increased use of a track originally constructed for a switch track held to have accrued only from the date that the increased use of the track operated as an injury to plaintiff's property. Schueller v. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co., 46 C. A. 444, 102 S. W. 922.

18. Reimbursement or indemnity from person ultimately liable.—See notes under Art. 5687. Liability to contribution, ante, § 13.

The statute of limitations begins to run between cosureties at the time the debt is paid, irrespective of the time when the obligation was entered into or became due. Beck v. Tarrant, 61 T. 402.

Ordinarily there is no liability for contribution to a cosurety who voluntarily pays a debt after it is barred by limitation; yet if he pays it after judgment a suit begun before has run, after a period when the judgment would have been complete if the suit had not been brought, will render his cosurety liable for contribution, and the plea of limitation is not available against such action. Glasscock v. Hamilton, 62 T. 143.

Where the payee of an obligation, after death of principal debtor, has proceeded against the sureties, and his remedy as against the deceased principal's estate is barred, the sureties yet may recover against the estate under an implied contract between principal and surety. Willis v. Chowning, 90 T. 617, 49 S. W. 586, 59 Am. St. Rep. 812.

Where S., standing in the position of a suy creditor, had paid part of the creditor's claim, and then allowed the period of limitation to expire without enforcing her right against the debtor, her claim was barred. Darrow v. Summerhill, 24 C. A. 208, 55 S. W. 153.

Evidence of Clerk of court, uncorroborated, which is in conflict with other evidence, as to money embezzled, und insufficient to show that the embezzlement occurred at a time to establish the defense of limitations, in action against his surties. Dodson v. Ford, 29 C. A. 115, 68 S. W. 194.

Fact that two years had elapsed since injury caused by defective sidewalk before filing of answer by defendant city impleading property owner held not to bar city's action for indemnity, since its cause of action did not accrue until it had suffered damage. City of San Antonio v. Talerico, 95 T. 151, 81 S. W. 518.

A claim barred by the statute against a principal held provable against his surety's estate, not being barred against it, because of suspension of the statute by death. Charbonneau v. Bouvet, 98 T. 167, 82 S. W. 460.

Action by bank against banking firm to recover money which the bank was compelled to pay by breach of contract held not barred by limitations, since the cause of action did not accrue until the firm made default and the bank paid the demand. Hoskins v. Velasco Nat. Bank, 48 C. A. 246, 107 S. W. 595.

A claim against a principal held barred by limitations pending against the principal for the amount of the debt constituted a payment as between him and the principal, and started the running of limitations. Yndo v. Rivas (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 920.
19. Liabilities created by statute.—Right of action by old county against county created out of it, to recover the latter's proportion of the debt of the original county, does not arise until discontinuance of payment by such new county. Hardenman County v. Board County, 19 C. A. 212, 47 S. W. 30.

Limitations would run against a right of action to compel a railroad company to construct its road through a county seat within three miles of its line, as required by Const. art. 10, § 9, only from the time the road was constructed within three miles of the town, and not from the time the profiles of the right of way were filed with the county clerk. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. v. State (Civ. App.), 155 S. W. 561.

Limitations do not apply, in partition between heirs, to the right of one to compel contribution for expenditures beneficial to the estate. Hanrick v. Gurley, 93 T. 458, 54 S. W. 347.

Recording of mortgage does not put mortgagor on inquiry to discover mistake in description, so as to start running of limitations against suit for reformation, since limitations did not begin to run till the fraud or mistake could reasonably have been discovered. American Freehold Land Mortg. Co. v. Pace, 23 C. A. 222, 56 S. W. 377.

Limitations against mortgagee's right to reform mortgage because of fraudulent representation held not to begin to run before execution of renewal. Where a debt secured by a trust deed is barred by limitation, a reformation of the deed will not be granted. Galloway v. Kerr (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 150.

When obligations which are a lien on a homestead are included in a trust deed on the homestead and other property, under which the property is sold, but the sale is invalid as to the homestead, the claim of the purchaser by subrogation to enforce the valid lien against the homestead accrues with the maturity of the trust deed, and is barred in four years. Galloway v. Kerr (Civ. App.) 67 S. W. 272, 44 S. W. 678.

As a general rule courts of equity will adopt the length of time to bar causes of action that prevail in analogous cases in actions at law. Watson v. Texas & F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 73 S. W. 380.

21. Conditions precedent in general.—Where seed is sold to be paid for when weighed up, limitations begin to run when it is so weighed. National Cotton Oil Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 478.

In an action for breach of contract to purchase land, held, that plaintiff could not set up limitations as a bar to the defense that plaintiff failed to furnish an abstract of title as agreed, though not stated in contract. Jackson v. Martin, 37 C. A. 593, 84 S. W. 692.

Limitations held not to run on a contract to repay the purchase price upon satisfactory proof of a certain defect until such proof was made. Williamson v. Heath, 49 C. A. 254, 105 S. W. 583.

Rule respecting suspension of limitations on suits depending upon preliminary acts to be performed by plaintiff, stated. Gamble v. Martin (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 356.

When the act of an insane person having misappropriated funds of the ward, action was commenced on his bond a year after his death, and final judgment against the surety was affirmed three years later and two years after the death of the ward. Held, that action by the surety, on tender secured by bond, on application after the expiration of the guardian's estate, against the persons, who, with notice of their trust character, received such funds from the guardian in satisfaction of his personal obligation to them, was not barred. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Adoue & Lobit, 104 T. 379, 157 S. W. 646, 188 S. W. 383, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 496.

(B) Performance of Condition, Demand and Notice

21. Conditions precedent in general.—Where seed is sold to be paid for when weighed up, limitations begin to run when it is so weighed. National Cotton Oil Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 478.

Limitations on an action for the price of fences to be determined by measurement held to run from the purchaser's repudiation of the contract and refusal to measure. Stribling v. Moore, 33 C. A. 297, 76 S. W. 593.

In an action for breach of contract to purchase land, held, that plaintiff could not set up limitations as a bar to the defense that plaintiff failed to furnish an abstract of title as agreed, though not stated in contract. Jackson v. Martin, 37 C. A. 593, 84 S. W. 692.

Rule respecting suspension of limitations on suits depending upon preliminary acts to be performed by plaintiff, stated. Gamble v. Martin (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 356.

When the act of an insane person having misappropriated funds of the ward, action was commenced on his bond a year after his death, and final judgment against the surety was affirmed three years later and two years after the death of the ward. Held, that action by the surety, on tender secured by bond, on application after the expiration of the guardian's estate, against the persons, who, with notice of their trust character, received such funds from the guardian in satisfaction of his personal obligation to them, was not barred. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Adoue & Lobit, 104 T. 379, 157 S. W. 646, 188 S. W. 383, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 496.
within a reasonable time, as in case of notes payable after demand. What this reasonable time is depends upon the circumstances of each particular case, and is a matter of fact for the jury. If no cause for delay can be shown, the demand is barred, unless made within the period of limitations. Id.

A note payable on demand is payable immediately, and no special demand is necessary. The statute commences to run from the date of the note. Schara v. Nolte, 1 App. C. C. § 1156; Cook v. Cook, 19 T. 436; Henry v. Roe, 83 T. 445, 18 S. W. 806.

Limitation does not run against a school claim during the period of its recognition by the county as a valid claim, and not until after its disallowance. Caldwell Co. v. Harbert, 68 T. 322, 4 S. W. 607.

Execution of a mortgage on land by owner thereof, who had given a title bond, held not to start running of limitations, since the cause of action could not accrue till the obligor had been requested and had refused to perform the conditions of the bond. Tensler v. Tyrrell, 32 C. A. 445, 75 S. W. 57.

The limitation of action against an assignee for the misappropriation of money held to run from the date of failure to pay over upon demand. American Bonding Co. v. Williams (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 552.

A statement by plaintiff, at the time an account was stated, that he was to "carry the debt" without any proof as to the length of time, would not take the case out of the general rule with reference to limitations concerning debts payable on demand. Stacy v. Parker (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 532.

A demand obligation being due at its date, a creditor cannot suspend limitations by postponing his demand. Id.

23. Notice.—Notice of mistake, see post, § 38. Notice of fraud, see post, § 40. Notice of repudiation of trust, see post, § 42.

Where a bank agreed to pay its attorney's fee when a judgment obtained in its favor was satisfied, limitations did not run against the attorney's claim until they received notification of the satisfaction. Cobb v. First Nat. Bank, 91 T. 226, 42 S. W. 770.

Limitations held not to have run against claim for improvements on land by one holding under void parol gift until after the gift had been disavowed by the donor. Morris v. Wells, 27 C. A. 363, 66 S. W. 248.

If limitation begins to run so as to sustain a claim of adverse possession, it will not be barred by a subsequent purchaser if a notice of the facts setting it running. Eastham v. Gibbs (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 372.

24. Leave to sue.—Limitation did not begin to run against right of Lampasas county to sue Mills county for the latter's share of former's debts, until passage of Act April 26, 1893. Mills County v. Lampasas County (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 552.

(C) Ignorance, Mistake, Trust, Fraud and Concealment of Cause of Action

Statute held not to commence to run until discovery of fraud of an agent, although the principal had annually appointed a committee to examine the agent's accounts, where the committee had not discovered the fraud. Moore v. Waco Building Ass'n, 19 C. A. 48, 45 S. W. 774.

Limitations against action for conversion held to run from day of conversion, though plaintiff had no knowledge of the conversion. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. v. Fry (Civ. App.) 48 S. W. 752.

The knowledge of the ancestor that a deed executed by him, absolute in form, was in fact a mortgage, is not imputable to his heirs or devisees, so as to set limitations running against a mortgage before actual knowledge on their part. Rice v. Ward, 92 T. 704, 51 S. W. 844.

In an action by heirs to recover community personal property left by their father, a decree of partition of the community lands held competent evidence on the issue as to whether they had notice of the existence of such personal property, more than two years before suit. Gerfers v. Meeke, 28 C. A. 265, 57 S. W. 444.

Where plaintiffs' father died, leaving community personalty of which their mother had possession until her death, when her second husband took possession, plaintiffs could not recover the value of such property unless they sued within two years after knowledge of their rights. Id.

Where a surviving wife did not know of her interest in community land until sixty years after her husband's death, her claim was not stale. Texas Tram & Lumber Co. v. Gwin, 29 C. A. 1, 67 S. W. 592.

Transfer of a safe bailed to a firm by the bailor to a corporation, the officers of which were the same persons as composed the firm, held not to start limitations against the right of the owner to recover the safe in the absence of notice of any adverse claim by the corporation. Woodward v. San Antonio Traction Co. (Civ. App.) 95 S. W. 76.

That a deed contained a misdescription held insufficient to charge the grantee with notice thereof, unless he was cognizant of facts which would have caused an ordinarily prudent person to investigate. Isaacks v. Wright, 50 C. A. 312, 110 S. W. 790.

Limitations held to begin to run against the right of an assignee of the proceeds of a note in the hands of another when he knew that the note had been collected or should, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, have known it. Vernor v. D. Sullivan & Co. (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 641.

Evidence held insufficient to show that a chattel mortgagee was ignorant of the accrual of a cause of action for conversion, as affecting bar by limitations. Beaumont Rice Mills v. Port Arthur Rice Milling Co. (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 349.

26. Mistake as ground for relief.—See, also, notes under Art. 5690.

Exception to petition and trial amendment to correct mistake in deed on ground that they showed action was barred by four years' statute of limitations held properly overruled. Harris v. Flowers, 21 C. A. 669, 52 S. W. 1046.
A right of action to reform a mistake in a deed accrues at the time the mistake was discovered or might have been discovered by the exercise of reasonable care and diligence have been discovered. Wright v. Isacks, 43 C. A. 223, 95 S. W. 55.

In a suit where no limitation would run against plaintiff's right to have deeds alleged to have been intimated as a mortgage canceled and released until the mortgage debt was discharged, and refused to allow them to be redeemed, it was immaterial when plaintiff learned that the instruments were absolute deeds. Openshaw v. Rickmeyer, 46 C. A. 608, 102 S. W. 467.

The rule that limitations will not run in case of mistake until discovery by the party sought to be charged does not apply where plaintiff purchased school land in 1834 and a mistake of the surveyor was not discovered until 1908. Paterson v. Rector (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 561.

Evidence held to sustain a finding that defendant, by the exercise of ordinary care, should have discovered the mistake more than four years before the filing of the cross­bill. Durham v. Luce (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 850.

27. Fraud as a ground for relief—In general.—Where a debtor conveys his land to his wife in trust for himself, the statute does not run in his favor against the claims of his creditors. O'Neal v. Clymer (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 545.

One collecting a note under an agreement to apply the proceeds in diverting a part of the proceeds held guilty of fraud so that limitations began unless he concealed the act so as to prevent a discovery of the facts. Vernor v. D. Sullivan & Co. (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 641.

28. Discovery of fraud.—See notes under Arts. 5688, 5690. Fraud creating resulting trust, see post, § 29. Repudiation of trust, see post, § 30.

Where there is fraud growing out of a transaction wherein there was an exchange of deeds to lands, within which to sue for a conclusion: or if the fraud was not immediately discovered he has four years from time of the discovery of the fraud, provided that it must be discovered within a reasonable time. What is a reason­able time is sometimes a mixed question of law and fact. Cooper v. Lee, 1 C. A. 9, 21 S. W. 993.

In case of constructive fraud, limitation will run from the time when, with reason­able diligence, defendant ought to have discovered it. Lastovica v. Sulik (Civ. App.) 33 S. W. 909.

Where plaintiff could have discovered the fraud by reasonable diligence, held, that he was not entitled to benefit of the exception suspending running of the statute till discovery. Cleveland v. Carr (Civ. App.) 40 S. W. 406.

Vendee purchasing land knowing of the equity of the children of vendor, their mother, thereupon, participates with her in the fraud on them, so that limitations do not run in his favor until discovery. Worst v. Gticitovich (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 72.

On conveyance by defendant to another of lands he had previously sold plaintiff, the statute runs from the time plaintiff has actual notice of second conveyance. Mitchell v. Simons (Civ. App.) 53 S. W. 76.

Limitations do not begin to run, in case of relief on the ground of fraud or mistake, until the fraud or mistake is or could have been discovered. American Freehold Land Mortgage Co. v. Pace, 22 C. A. 222, 25 S. W. 277.

Insolvent debtor's conveyance to his niece for an insufficient consideration held suffi­cient information to creditor to put him on inquiry as to intent to defraud, and hence statute runs against creditor from recording of conveyance. Vodrie v. Tynan (Civ. App.) 57 S. W. 680.

Statute of limitations held to run from date of creditor's knowledge of debtor's fraud­ulent conveyance, and not from date of creditor's subsequent judgment; no reason being alleged for delay in obtaining judgment. Id.

A mortgagee who has his claim approved by the probate court administering on mortgagee's estate, reduces it to the status of a judgment, and thereby removes the operation of limitations on the original claim. Hayes v. Tison, 18 C. A. 610, 45 S. W. 479.

Limitations held not to run against one becoming an equitable assignee of a mortgage by purchasing under an illegal foreclosure. Hanrick v. Gurlay (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 894.

The right to sue against the statute of limitations is not interrupted by a suit by the warrantee to set aside a judgment rendered against him for the land, which he voluntarily discharges. Herr v. Rodriguez (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 487.

The bringing of trespass to try title does not stop the running of limitations against the right of plaintiffs, the heirs of a subvendor, to pay the balance of the purchase price owing by the vendor, and thus obtain title to the land. Robinson v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 52 S. W. 117.
An agreement by which money due, to enjoin the collection of which a suit was pending, was paid under protest, held not to affect the running of limitations against the right to recover the money so paid. City of Dallas v. Kruegel, 95 Tex. 43, 64 S. W. 922.

A garnishment proceeding held insufficient to suspend the statute of limitations as against the debt garnished. Holland v. Shannon (Civ. App.) 84 S. W. 854.

A judgment establishing a debt secured by a deed of trust against a decedent, whose estate had not been administered, held to stop the running of limitations against such debt. Gates v. Field (Civ. App.) 85 S. W. 52.

Here, where parties acquired in a judgment for thirty years, held, that the doctrine of lis pendens would not apply to prevent limitations from running in favor of one of the parties or privies, even if the judgment was not final. Maes v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 846.

34. Pendency of appeal.—Though a judgment is suspended by an appeal, it is not thereby so vacated as to allow limitations to run after its rendition in a suit to recover lands held adversely. Miller v. Giat, 91 Tex. 335, 43 S. W. 263.

Appeal by a defendant who had disclaimed as to the interests of the other defendant to stay limitations on the judgment against the other defendants. Britton v. Matlock, 49 C. A. 275, 89 S. W. 1092.

35. Stay of proceedings.—A stay of proceedings held not to forbid the filing of an amended petition, and hence not to prevent limitations from running against claims first set up therein. Taub v. Woodruff (Civ. App.) 334 S. W. 750.

36. Suspension of statute of limitations.—When after the dismissal of a suit the judgment is set aside and the cause reinstated on the docket, limitation is suspended by the commencement of the suit. Miller v. Earle, 4 App. C. C. § 212, 15 S. W. 916.

Where the statute of limitations was suspended by limitation proceeding vacated, set aside, or suspended. Williams v. State ex rel. Bland, 15 S. 156.

(B) Commencement of Action or Other Proceeding

37. Mode of computation of time limited.—A debt contracted on the 28th day of the month or time due on the 28th day of the sixth month thereafter. The debt for goods sold on the 6th day of August, 1890, on six months' time, was held to be due on the 28th of February, 1891, and an action brought on the 28th day of February, 1893, was barred by limitation. State v. Asbury, 26 Tex. 82; Shaline v. Goodman, 2 App. C. C. § 267.

In the computation of time from an act done, the day on which the act is done will be excluded whenever such exclusion will prevent an estoppel or save a forfeiture. The day on which the statute took effect is excluded. When an act is to be done within thirty days, the party has the whole of a thirtieth day in which to perform it; but if it is to be done after the expiration of thirty days, it cannot be performed until on the thirty-first day, the law taking no notice of fractions of a day. Dowell v. Vinton, 1 App. C. C. § 331; O'Connor v. Towns, 1 Tex. 147; Bur d v. Lewis, 13 Tex.; Campbell v. Lane, 25 Tex. Sup. 53; Moore v. Hallaman, 25 Tex. Sup. 51; Cox v. Reinhardt, 41 Tex. 631; Watkins v. Willin, 58 Tex. 621.

In computing time during which limitation will run, the day on which the cause of action accrued is excluded. Smith v. Dickey, 74 Tex. 61, 13 S. W. 1819; State v. Asbury, 26 Tex. 82; Lubbock v. Cook, 49 Tex. 96. See Baldwin v. W. U. Tel. Co. (Civ. App.) 33 S. W. 890.

The injuries occurred on October 30, 1895. Suit was filed October 30, 1896. Held, that the suit was brought within a year after the accident. T. & F. R. R. Co. v. Moore (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 67.

The day of doing an act may be included or excluded in computing time, so as to operate most favorably to the party entitled to the favor. *Elna Life Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn. v. Wimberly (Civ. App.) 108 S. W. 773.

When the time within which an act is to be done is to be computed from and after a certain date, the rule is to exclude that day. Id.

In which a suit is commenced is not excluded because the last day of the period of limitation was Sunday. Standard v. Thurmond (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 627.

Where a cause of action subject to the four-year limitation, accrued October 2, 1907, the time to sue expired October 1, 1911; and a suit commenced the following day was barred. Id.

38. Proceedings constituting commencement of action—in general.—See, also, note under Art. 5680.

Limitation is interrupted by a commencement of suit, no matter how defectively the cause of action may be presented in the petition. Scoby v. Sweat, 28 Tex. 752; Coats v. Elliott, 23 Tex. 412; Dobson v. Young, 19 Tex. 475; Coats v. Young, 14 Tex. 619; Smith v. McGaughey, 13 Tex. 467; Kinney v. Lee, 10 Tex. 153; Wells v. Fairbanks, 5 Tex. 883; Bremond v. Johnson, 1 App. C. C. § 899. If the petition is not filed sufficiently to aver facts showing the bar, limitation runs until the amendment. Howard v. Wisdom, 86 Tex. 569, 25 S. W. 483.

The filing of a petition to enjoin a sale under a trust deed was not the commencement of an action on the notes secured thereby, and did not suspend the running of the statute of limitation as against the executors of the beneficiary in the deed, who were not parties when the injunction was granted. Davis v. Andrews, 58 Tex. 554, 20 S. W. 492, 32 S. W. 513.

Limitation is not suspended by the filing of a petition, when there has been an unreasonable delay in securing satisfaction. Goldstein v. Gans (Civ. App.) 32 S. W. 185.

Filing a petition on which at petitioners' request no citation is issued is sufficient to interrupt limitations. Wood v. Mistretta, 20 C. A. 236, 49 S. W. 236.

An action is not barred where the petition was filed in time, though without fault of plaintiff the citation failed to issue until after limitation. City of Belt on v. Sterling (Civ. App.) 56 S. W. 1027.

In trespass to try title, where plaintiff claims title under a deed from one tenant in common and defendant under the statute of limitations, the statute ceases to run in defendant's favor as to plaintiff's interest acquired from the tenant in common when the pleading setting up that title is filed, but continues to run against the interests of the cotenants, and, if at the time of trial the statutory period has elapsed as to their interests, plaintiff can recover only the interest of his donor. Hutchens v. Chandler,

[Art. 5714]
47 S. W. 434.

The statute is suspended by the institution of a suit, service on defendant, and its appearance and answer. Forbes Bros. Teas & Spice Co. v. McDougle, Cameron &
Webster (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 745.

39. Issuance and service of process.—A suit against a nonresident, in which no sufficient process was issued or served, held insufficient to suspend the statute of limitations because defendant was not served with process. Anderson v. Lewis, 28 S. W. 322.

A suit is not commenced in justice court, so as to toll limitations, until the citation has been served. Richardson v. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 97 S. W. 516.

Laches in prosecuting a cause of action commenced for a tort held to constitute a bar to the action. Fairies v. Loessin, 46 C. A. 551, 102 S. W. 924.

40. Want of jurisdiction.—Suit by foreign receiver in Texas does not interrupt running of statute against the cause of action. Kellogg v. Lewis, 16 C. A. 668, 40
S. W. 323.

41. Defects as to parties.—Effect as to persons not parties, see post, § 44.

A suit by husband and wife instituted within the year is not subject to limitation by an amendment, after the year, dropping the wife's name. Railway Co. v. Campbell
(Civ. App.) 26 S. W. 884.

Action held not barred, where original petition, erroneously describing defendant, was filed within statutory period, though a supplemental petition correcting the defect was not filed until after the time had expired. Grand Lodge A. O. U. W. v. Bollman, 22 C. A. 106, 53 S. W. 829.

An amendment of the petition in a damage suit, after a judgment therein had been reversed, on account of misjoinder of defendants, by leaving out the wrongfully joined defendant, held not to constitute a new cause of action as to make limitation apply.

An action commenced against a corporation by a wrong name held saved from the bar of limitations by the mistake. Prichard v. McCord-Collins Co., 38 C. A. 582, 71
S. W. 303.

A petition on a notice, misnaming defendant, held not to toll the statute. Martinez

Finding that an answer was filed on behalf of the real defendant, and that it had appeared in the case prior to the bar of limitations, held warranted. McCord-Collins Co. v. Prichard, 37 C. A. 418, 84 S. W. 388.

Petition against one defendant alone, filed on appeal more than two years after the filing of the original suit, and stating that this defendant was an equal joint owner of the lot sold and liable for one-half of the commission sued for, did not set up a new cause of action, and hence was not defeated by a plea of limitations. Grayson

Where defendant corporation, sued in the wrong name, voluntarily answered to the merits, it could not plead limitations after plaintiff had corrected the misnomer. Forbes Bros. Teas & Spice Co. v. McDougle, Cameron & Webster (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 745.

42. Defects or irregularities in pleadings or other proceedings.—Defects as to parties, see ante, § 41. Amendment of pleadings, see post, § 45.

Petition held a commencement of the suit in relation to the assumption of a note within the statute, though making no other reference to it than by referring to the receipt of the deed by which it was assumed. Smith v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 27
C. A. 170, 51 S. W. 515.

An original petition, open to attack on a special demurrer, but good on general demurrer, stopped the running of limitations. Schmidt v. Brittain (Civ. App.) 84 S.
W. 677.

Where a passenger on a railroad company's train was injured in 1906, the filing of a petition praying a recovery of damages for such injuries stopped the running of the statute, even though the petition was defective in failing to allege that the action was brought only under a foreign statute, and that fact was supplied by an answer filed long after the period of limitation would have expired had not the petition been filed. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Fife (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 1181.

43. Intervention or bringing in new parties.—The intervention of parties in an action against a railway company for delaying contractors held not to constitute a new cause of action, as affected by limitations. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Harris & Liebman
(Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 146.

Where a landlord on shares brought an action for injuries to growing crops, but the tenant was not made a party until two years from the injury, the action of the tenant was barred by limitations. Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Dike (Civ. App.)
162 S. W. 1174.

44. Effect as to persons not parties.—See, also, post, § 46. Intervention or bringing in new parties, see ante, § 43.

A suit by one cotenant against parties in possession does not put in issue the title of his cotenant, and limitation runs against such cotenant not a party to the suit, and is not interrupted until the defendants are dispossessed through the writ of possession.
Carmichael, 62 T. 383.

Suit commenced against a railway held to arrest limitations in favor of a purchaser of the franchises carrying on its line under the former name. Houston & T. C. Ry.
Co. v. McPadden, 91 T. 119, 49 S. W. 216.

An action by a landlord to foreclose a lien on property does not interrupt the running of limitation in favor of a purchaser of it who was not made a party. Meyer

45. Amendment of pleadings.—Defects as to parties, see ante, § 41. Intervention or bringing in new parties, see ante, § 43. Pleading limitation in general, see
Art. 5706.
Failure, until an amended petition was filed, asking, also, for partition and an adjudication of the rights of all parties, to aver facts unnecessary to recovery, held not to delay interruption of limitations in defendant's favor until the amended petition was filed. Hankrich v. Gurley, 93 T. 458, 54 S. W. 347.

The claim on a pleading in reconvenion in based is not barred by limitations, although the plea was filed before the claim was barred was defective; It being susceptible of amendment. Southern Cold Storage & Produce Co. v. A. F. Deechman & Co. (Civ. App.) 73 S. W. 546.

An amended petition, which omits a count and prays for a larger sum on the remaining causes of action, does not constitute a new cause of action, so as to affect the running of limitations. Schmidt v. Britain (Civ. App.) 84 S. W. 677.

Rule stated as to amendments to a petition which will admit the bar of limitations. Taylor v. Southwestern Co. (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 165.

In trespass to try title, a claim for damages resulting from the cutting of lumber on the land held barred by limitations. Kirby v. Hayden (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 393.

Plaintiff's action on a note held not barred because more than four years elapsed from the date of a new promissory note to the time of filing plaintiff's amended original petition, where the promises was pleded in his previous supplemental petition while within four years after they were made. Cotulla v. Urbahn (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 13.

The filing of a supplemental petition, instead of an amended petition, in an action on a note barred by limitation, held not a mere irregularity not affecting the filing of a new promise from stopping limitation from the filing of supplemental petition. Cotulla v. Urbahn (Sup.) 126 S. W. 1108; Id., 104 T. 268, 135 S. W. 1169, 34 L. R. A. (N. S.) 346.

The statute only bars a cause of action set up by an amended petition, where the amended petition is new cause of action different from the one alleged in the original petition. D. Sullivan & Co. v. Ramsey (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 580.

The running of limitations is stopped pending an action as to the cause of action alleged in the petition, but not as to an amended petition setting up a new cause of action and asking for a different or inconsistent remedy. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Bracht (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 269.

46. Amendment restoring original cause of action.—An amendment which set out more fully the nature of defendant's negligence held not to state a new cause of action, so as to be barred. Texas & S. Ry. Co. v. Eberhart (Civ. App.) 40 C. v. Eberhart, 47 S. W. 156.

Enlargement of the allegations as to specific injuries received by plaintiff in action for injuries held not affected by the statute. The Oriental v. Barclay, 16 C. A. 193, 41 S. W. 117.

Amendment to complaint held not to set up a new cause of action, so as to allow the running of the statute. Sherman Oil & Cotton Co. v. Stewart, 17 C. A. 59, 42 S. W. 241.

An amended petition, by which several plaintiffs were omitted, held not to constitute a new action, which would invoke the statute. Triplett v. Morris, 18 C. A. 50, 44 S. W. 684.

An amended petition alleging negligence in defendant's foreman and in the machinery generally does not state a new cause of action, though the original petition confused the negligence to a portion of the machinery. Canwell v. Hupson (Civ. App,) 47 S. W. 64.

Where an action had been begun before limitations had expired, an amended petition setting up facts for the first time after limitations had expired held not to state a new cause of action. Orange Mill Supply Co. v. Goodman, 47 S. W. 780.

It was not error to hold that plea of limitation was not available against a cause of action in amended petition; the original petition not being in evidence, and the date of the amended petition not being shown. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. English (Civ. App.) 52 S. W. 628.

Where an amended petition only amplies a cause of action set up in the original petition, and the original petition was filed within period of limitations, limitations should not be regarded as having run against the action. Id.

Amendment of complaint held not to change the cause of action, so that limitations would run between the filing of the petition and the amended petition. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. v. Eckles, 25 C. A. 179, 60 S. W. 830.

Where a cross-bill to recover on the bond of a claimant in an action to try the right of property is filed within four years after the claimant abandoned his claim to the property, it is in time, though the bill is amended after the period of limitations has run by alleging the manner of his failure to establish his right. St. Louis Type Foundry v. Taylor, 37 C. A. 349, 36 S. W. 677.

An action held not to have been commenced as to certain parties plaintiff at the time of an amendment to the petition, causing it to allege that another plaintiff sued as trustee for them. Ferguson v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 81 S. W. 1240.

Amendment of petition to show new ground of negligence held not to state a new cause of action, so as to bar recovery under the statute. Johnson v. Texas Cent. R. Co., 42 C. A. 694, 93 S. W. 433.

The correction of a clerical error in a petition on account held not to create a new action within the statute. Borden v. Le Tulle Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 99 S. W. 128.
Art. 5714  LIMITATIONS

An original petition in a sequestration suit filed within the period limited by the statute and an amended petition filed after that period held to state the same cause of action. Parlin v. Orendorff Co. v. Glover, 45 C. A. 93, 99 S. W. 592.

Amendment of petition in an action against an architect for damages sustained by contractors through being delayed in commencing work held not to state new causes of action. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. v. Harris & Liebman (Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 145.

An amendment to a petition which sets up new cause of action, but simply varies or expands the allegations in support of the cause of action stated, held to relate back to the commencement of the action, and the running of limitations is arrested at that point. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. McDonald, 56 C. A. 34, 120 S. W. 494.

An amendment held not to render the petition subject to the two-year limitation, by changing the cause of action from one for breach of contract to one for damages for fraud, since it was made to cure a supposed defect, and did not allege a new cause of action. Gilliland v. Elliott, 137 S. W. 168.

An amended petition held to be a continuance of an original action, begun before the running of the statute, so that the right was not barred. Jones v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 623.

Stockholder's action against other stockholders held not barred by the two-year statute. Kingsbury v. Phillips (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 73.

An amended petition supplying a fatal defect in the original petition, was not barred, though filed more than two years after the cause of action accrued. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 332.

In an action for railway employee's death, amendment of petition charging negligence of his foreman held to permit the bar of limitations if the cause was not barred when the first petition was filed. Eastern Ry. Co. of New Mexico v. Ellis (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 701.

47. Amendment Introducing new cause of action.—A petition to recover a debt due from an illegally incorporated company from the stockholders, as partners, states a cause of action, and an amended petition is immaterial because they have withdrawn the assets of the company, states a cause of action ex delicto, and, being a distinct action, is barred if the limitation was completed between the filing of the original and amended petition. American Salt Co. v. Heldenheimer, 80 T. 344, 15 S. W. 1038, 26 Am. St. Rep. 743.

An amendment claiming an additional number of cattle sued for sets up a new cause of action. Worsham v. Vigilam, 14 C. A. 324, 37 S. W. 17.

Where plaintiff by a supplemental petition asserts a different title to a piano which has been in the adverse possession of defendant, limitations ran until the filing of the supplemental petition. Estey v. Fisher (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 555.

An amendment setting up a demand for damages for failure to deliver all the goods contracted for in an action for money overpaid held a new cause of action, and is barred by the statute. S. A. of Texas, Ltd., v. Ford, 85 S. W. 220.

Amendment of petition charging the facts alleged as an action ex contractu, to charge the same facts as a cause of action ex delicto, held improper, and not to sustain the action after limitations had barred an action for breach of contract. Phoenix Lumber Co. v. Houston Water Co. (Civ. App.) 99 S. W. 552.

When a petition alleging certain facts as ground for recovery on the express contract, was filed after limitations expired, and alleged the same facts as ground for recovery for negligent failure to perform a duty imposed by implication of law, held that the amendment was improper and the action was barred. Phoenix Lumber Co. v. Houston Water Co., 94 T. 456, 61 S. W. 797.

Where complaint to compel a guardian to file a final account was amended to ask the setting aside of a judgment of discharge, the original complaint does not prevent the bar of limitation in favor of the judgment. Stewart v. Rosensky, 27 C. A. 158, 65 S. W. 289.

An action on an express contract set forth in an amended petition filed more than 3858
III. OPERATION AND EFFECT OF BAR BY LIMITATION

53. Nature and extent of bar.—When the interest of one or more tenants in common is barred by limitation, the plaintiff against who limitation does not run can only recover as to that not barred by limitation. Johnson v. Schumacher, 72 T. 334, 12 S. W. 247.
LIMITATIONS

(Title 87)

Defence of deficiency in acreage in action for price is not barred by the fact that limitations have run against prosecution of claim for deficiency. Hynes v. Packard (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 548.

Where a note is merged in a judgment, the ownership of the note and the running of limitations against the same are immaterial issues in an action based on a claim of subrogation. Brown v. Bash, 40 Okl. 390, 93 S. W. 438.

A purchaser of land, perfecting his title under the statute of limitations, cannot urge the invalidity of the title of his vendor as a defense to an action for the purchase price. Overby v. Johnston, 42 C. A. 348, 94 S. W. 131.

Plaintiff held entitled to recover for services covering an entire month, though the sum due before the sixth day of the month was barred by limitation. O'Connell v. Storer (Civ. App.) 105 S. W. 1174.

Limitations do not bar a defense against a legal action brought by another, nor preclude the Introduction of competent evidence to establish the defense pleaded. Snow v. Gallup, 57 C. A. 672, 123 S. W. 222.

A suit to restrain a private nuisance cannot be brought after the time limited by statute. Dunleavy v. Simon v. Nance (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 651.

The running of limitations will not give any validity to a void judgment for delinquent taxes. Note v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 1106.

54. Bar of debt as affecting security.—See notes under Arts. 5693, 5694.

A mortgage is so completely an incident of the debt which it is given to secure, that if the debt is barred by the statute of limitations, the creditor is left without remedy upon his mortgage, nor can he possess the land by suit after the bar is complete. Blackwell v. Barnett, 62 T. 326, citing Duty v. Graham, 12 T. 437, 62 Am. Dec. 533; Rice v. Mathes, 58 T. 159; Perkins v. Sterne, 23 T. 561, 58 Am. Dec. 72.

When a note secured by a mortgage becoming barred is renewed, it operates as a renewal of the mortgage between the original parties thereto, but does not affect the rights of third parties arising after the execution of the mortgage, but prior to the renewal, and when the original debt was barred by the statute of limitations. Case v. Chambers, 62 T. 305; Hodges v. Taylor, 57 T. 196; Rigg v. Hanrick, 59 T. 570; Ross v. Mitchell, 58 T. 154; Blackwell v. Barnett, 52 T. 536.

The lien, either cannot be enforced through a judgment after the debt is given to secure is barred; but the statute of limitations operates only upon the remedy by suits or actions in courts, and does not deprive the creditor of a remedy when he had provided by contract to enforce through a trust deed the payment of his claim, without the assistance of a court. A debtor who defaults in debt secured by his trust deed cannot by injunction restrain the sale of the trust property for its payment. Goldfrank v. Young, 64 T. 432, citing Jordan v. Peak, 38 T. 429; Stewart v. Mackey, 63 T. 57, 67 Am. Dec. 609; Chipman v. McKinney, 41 T. 78; Mod. v. Wedler, 42 T. 409; Grigsby v. Peak, 57 T. 147; Sprague v. Ireland, 56 T. 684; Blackwell v. Barnett, 57 T. 331; Hemphill v. Watson, 60 T. 679.

The fact that payee of an obligation presented it as a claim against deceased principal, though barred by limitations, does not preclude a recovery against the sureties on the obligation. Willis v. Chowning, 90 T. 617, 40 S. W. 395, 59 Am. St. Rep. 842.

A pledgee may enforce payment of a debt by sale of collaterals, though such debt is barred. Tombok v. Palestine Ice Co., 17 C. A. 556, 43 S. W. 896.

Limitations against an action for a personal judgment against a distributee do not apply to an action to foreclose a lien on distributed land. Devine v. United States Mortg. Co. of Scotland (Civ. App.) 48 S. W. 558.

Sultan can be maintained by vendor of land against the grantee's vendee, who assumes, but fails, to pay the vendor's lien notes, even though the notes are barred by limitation. Smith v. Cottingham, 20 C. A. 303, 49 S. W. 146.

The rule that property held as security may be retained and applied, though limitations has run against the debt, held inapplicable to a partner, holding a note against his copartner, securing possession, on his partner's death, of his interest in the firm, on which he was to have a lien. Gresham v. Harcourt, 93 T. 149, 53 S. W. 1019.

An existing debt ceases to exist as an incident to the extinguishment of the debt by limitations. Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Straton, 49 C. A. 378, 89 S. W. 1111.

Though the remedy of a principal against his debtor is barred by limitations, the remedy of the principal against guarantors of the debt is not barred, where the guaranty itself is not barred. Western Casket Co. v. Estrada (Civ. App.) 116 S. W. 113.

A constable's bond being merely a collateral security for performance of his duty, the two-year limitation, which bars an action for breach of duty, bars an action on the bond. Phillips v. Hall (Civ. App.) 116 S. W. 190.

A beneficiary under a policy assigned by the insured in payment of his debt held not entitled to plead limitations against the debt as a defense to the creditor's right to recover the debt, interest, etc., out of the proceeds of the insurance on the insured's death. Harte v. Germania Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 666.

55. Actions and other remedies barred.—A bill of review to set aside an allowance by a guardian, approved by the county court, held not barred by limitations. De Cordova v. Rodriguez (Civ. App.) 57 S. W. 1042.

The fact that a private citizen's suit for damages from the flooding of his land by city waterworks has been barred will not prevent his securing an abatement of a nuisance on an amended petition. City of Ennis v. Gilder, 32 C. A. 351, 74 S. W. 555.

That any cause of action on vendor's express promise to make good shortage in amount of land conveyed was barred held not to bar purchaser's action as for money had and received for land falsely represented to exist. Yates v. Buttrill (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 347.

56. Persons to whom bar is available.—Persons who may rely on limitation, see ante, § 4.

Limitations run in favor of a second mortgagee who purchased the chattels under a foreclosure, against a prior mortgagee, although the debtor waived his right to plead limitation. Dunn v. Smith (Civ. App.) 28 S. W. 446.
A subsequent purchaser of mortgaged land, whether under a voluntary or forced sale, may plead limitations to defeat lien or mortgage debt, though the debtor waives it and renews the mortgage. Levy v. Williams, 20 C. A. 651, 49 S. W. 930.

Holder of vendor's lien note held not entitled to plead limitations to defeat lien on similar note, in hands of another party, carrying equal lien on same property. Columbia Ave. Savings Bank v. Safe-Deposit, Title & Trust Co. v. Strawn, 35 T. 48, 63 S. W. 242.

An agreement to extend the time of paying a note secured by a mortgage held enforceable against a subsequent purchaser of the mortgaged property, who assumed the mortgage debt; and hence he could not set up limitations against the debt until four years from the date to which payment was extended. Shaw v. Western Land & Live-Stock Co. (Civ. App.) 62 S. W. 941.

In an action to recover a bank deposit, limitations held unavailable either to the bank or to plaintiff as against a third party claimant. McCormick v. National Bank of Commerce (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 747.

A grantee is entitled to the benefit of an extension of time of payment of a mortgage on the land conveyed, made to the grantor, though the grantee was not a party to the contract therefor. Kelsey v. Collins, 49 C. A. 159, 103 S. W. 785.

The fact that limitations barred an action by a debtor for the misapplication of money collected by the creditor held not to prevent him from pleading the collection in defense as a payment in an action by the creditor for the debt. Vernor v. D. Sullivan & Co. (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 941.

A regular administrator must plead the statute against any barred claim, and he may not pay a claim that is barred by limitations. Jackson v. Stone (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 960.

57. Persons barred.—Limitations as against state or municipality, see Art. 5683, and ante. §§ 2, 15. Persons under disabilities, see Arts. 5684, 5708.

In trespass to try title to lots bought at a tax sale, brought against defendants, who held them under claim of right and pleaded the ten-year statute, it was held that if there had been no tax sale, and suit had been instituted by the real owner at the time it was, that the right of action of the purchaser at the tax sale, or those holding under him, was barred by the statute if the real owner's right of action would have been barred. Jordan v. Higgins, 63 T. 159.

Where a suit by a trustee is barred, the right of the cestui que trust to sue is also barred, though he was under a disability at the time the cause of action arose. Wiesse v. Goodhue, 98 T. 274, 83 S. W. 178.

Heirs of a deceased wife, held barred by limitations from suing the sureties on the community bond of the husband. Belt v. Cetti (Civ. App.) 91 S. W. 1098.

Limitation runs against a married woman's right to recover a community homestead where the husband sells without her joining in the deed and against her consent and the vendee goes into possession. Sanders v. Word, 60 C. A. 294, 110 S. W. 205.

Where in 1896 the surviving husband conveyed land constituting community property, and it passed by various conveyances to defendants, an action by heirs of the deceased wife in 1908, based upon the title which descended to them under the statute, was not barred under the doctrine of stale demand. Burnham v. Hardy Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 335.

58. Waiver of bar.—Agreements shortening period of limitation, see Art. 5713. Acknowledgment or new promise, see Art. 5705.

A void deed of trust executed to secure payment of a note after the same had become barred by limitations held ineffective to constitute a waiver of the defense of limitations. Kalteyer v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 119 S. W. 462.

A maker of a note secured by vendor's lien may in a suit to foreclose the lien waive the defense of limitation. Zeno v. Adoue, 54 C. A. 36, 117 S. W. 1098.

The right to plead the statute is a legal right and can only be waived by the person for whose protection it is given. Jackson v. Stone (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 960.
TITLE 88
LOCAL OPTION
[See Injunctions, Penal Code, Code of Criminal Procedure. Also Taxation.]

Art. 5715. [3384] Commissioners' courts may order elections.—The commissioners' court of each county in the state, whenever they deem it expedient, may order an election to be held by the qualified voters of said county, or of any commissioner's or justice's precinct, or school district, or any two or more of any such political subdivisions of a county, as may be designated by the commissioners' court of said county, to determine whether or not the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be prohibited in such county, or commissioner's or justice's precinct, or school district, or any two or more of any such political subdivisions of such county, or in any town or city; provided, it shall be the duty of said commissioners' court to order the election as aforesaid whenever petitioned so to do by as many as two hundred and fifty voters in any county, or fifty voters in any other political subdivision of the county or school district, as shall be designated by said court, or in any city or town, as the case may be; provided, that if the precinct or precincts designated embrace within the limits an incorporated town or city, then such election shall only be ordered when the petition for the same is signed by qualified voters, not less than one-tenth in number of the total vote cast for governor at the next preceding general election in such incorporated town or city; and, in case an election is asked for a subdivision of said county, composed of two or more complete commissioners' or justices' precincts, or school districts, such petition shall describe such subdivision by metes and bounds, as well as by the proper numbers of such precincts, or school districts; and said petition and the description of such subdivision shall be recorded in full in the minutes of the commissioners' court, and such description shall be embraced in the notice given for such election; provided, that where a school district, city or town, may be composed in part of two or more subdivisions of the county, named hereinbefore, the right to order and hold an election in such school district, city or town, shall not be denied; and provided, further, that no city or town shall be divided in holding a local option election for any of the other subdivisions named herein; nor shall any school district which has adopted local option be divided in a subsequent election held for any other of such subdivision covering a part of the territory of such school district. [Acts 1887, p. 96. Amend. 1893, p. 48. Amended Acts 1897, p. 235.]

1. Validity of local option laws.
2. Relation to other laws.
3. Where local option elections may be held.
4. Authority of court to order elections—In general.
5. — — Time for exercising authority.
6. — — Designation of district.
7. Petition for election—In general.
8. — — Description of territory.
9. — — Number of signers.
10. — — Recording petition.
11. Order for election—In general.
12. — — Time of making order.
13. — — Description of territory.
14. — — Recital of statutory exceptions.
15. — — Date of election, voting places and election officers.
16. — — Recording and signing minutes.
17. — — Change of boundaries before election.
18. — — Qualified voters.
19. — — Mandamus to secure election.
20. Local option elections for adoption of stock laws.

4. The validity of local option laws.—See, also, notes under Arts. 5716, 5728.

As to the validity of this act, see Kimberly v. Morris, 31 S. W. 808, 89, 87 T. 637.

The statute provides for submitting the question of prohibition to the voters without restriction, and conforms to the constitutional provision (article 16, § 20), although the provision in Art. 5716 as to the sale of wines for sacramental purposes be held invalid.

Bowman v. State, 33 Cr. R. 14, 40 S. W. 796.

The legislature had the right to do exactly what was done, in passing the act known as the local option law, both under the constitution of Texas and that of the United States. Rippy v. State, 44 Cr. R. 72, 68 S. W. 688; Id. (Cr. App.) 73 S. W. 15.

Local option law held not in conflict with Const. art. 16, § 20. Ray v. State, 47 Cr. R. 407, 83 S. W. 1121.

The absolute prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors within portions of the state held a lawful exercise of the police power of the state, and not to deprive one of property without due course of law in violation of the federal and state constitutions. Edgar v. McDonald (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 1152.

Local option laws and laws in aid thereof apply equally to all in the territory where adopted, they do not deprive any citizen of his equal rights. Ex parte Flake (Cr. App.) 149 S. W. 146.

2. Relation to other laws.—The Terrell election law (Title 49) does not purpose or attempt in any of its provisions to change the general election law with reference to the time of adopting the election for the various things or purposes involved in the general election law prior to the time of adopting the Terrell law. Ex parte Keith, 47 Cr. R. 283, 83 S. W. 684.

The disorderly house statute is a general law, and applies to all parts of the state, whether local option is in force or not. Lyon v. State, 61 Cr. R. 135 & 65 S. W. 557.

The prohibition law was not repealed by the vagrancy act subsequently enacted. Snell v. State (Cr. App.) 150 S. W. 615.

3. Where local option elections may be held.—See, also, notes under Art. 5724, 5726.

This statute authorizes the holding of local option election in cities and towns, though they are not specifically named in the first part of the act. Sweeney v. Webb, 33 C. A. 244, 76 S. W. 765.

It was competent for the commissioners' court to order a local option election in a county, irrespective of the status of some of the precincts as to local option. Cantwell v. State, 47 Cr. R. 511, 85 S. W. 19.

Grant by legislature of special charter to city, authorizing it to license saloons, held not to preclude adoption of local option by the county in which the city is located. Ex parte Elliott, 49 Cr. R. 108, 91 S. W. 570.

4. Authority of court to order elections.—In general.—The first clause of this article directs the county commissioners' court the authority on its own motion to order a local option election. This power is not limited by the next clause which imposes an imperative duty to order an election when proper petition is presented. The proviso is intended to apply only when citizens of the subdivision are seeking to avail themselves of the right given them by the preceding clause to compel the court to order the election. It was inserted between two other clauses relating to the ordering of such elections upon petition and not in connection with the clause empowering the court to order elections on its own motion. The purpose of the proviso is indicated not only by the structure of the article, but also by the language used. The proviso following the clause which requires the court to order an election, if proper petition is presented, must be construed as applying to that clause and not to a more remote clause which embraces the power of the court to order elections on its own motion. The court has authority on its own motion to order a local option election for a subdivision embracing seven justice precincts, and it is immaterial whether the petition was signed by the requisite number of voters or whether it was recorded or whether the order conforming to such petition was presented in due form. The order being the petition the sufficiency of the election does not depend upon the sufficiency of the petition or upon the regularity of the proceedings antedating the order. Williams v. Davidson (Civ. App.) 76 S. W. 982.

The commissioners' court must have known when they ordered the election of the proviso in this article under which they acted. The commissioners' precinct in which the election was ordered embraced a part of a Justice precinct including about one-fourth of the town of Quitman, which was incorporated by special act of the legislature, but no officer of said town had been elected in the town for more than thirty years, and it has failed to perform any corporate act for that length of time. It will be presumed that the commissioners' court acted properly in ordering the election. Coefield v. Britton, 60 C. C. A. 208, 109 S. W. 493, 497.

6. —Designation of district.—The discretionary power which had theretofore existed in the commissioners' court to designate boundaries within which local option elections could be held, is taken away, and is now limited to designation of the particular one or more of the political subdivisions of the county theretofore in existence, so that the court cannot arbitrarily select and fix a territory, and ignore and segregate the political divisions mentioned in the statute. Oxford v. Frank, 30 C. A. 343, 76 S. W. 427, 428.

A commissioners' court has no authority to combine political subdivisions of the county for the purpose of a local option election. Ex parte Mitchell (Cr. App.) 76 S. W. 544.

An election precinct is not such a subdivision of a county as that the commissioners' court can designate it for holding a local option election. Election precincts are not of a permanent character, but are subject to annual changes, nor are they political subdivisions of a county such as Justice precincts and towns and cities named in the constitution. Eard v. State, 48 Cr. R. 520, 80 S. W. 620.

LOCAL OPTION (Title 88)

1. The invalidity of the provisions for the ordering of an election in two or more subdivisions of a county held not to affect the validity of an election duly authorized by other provisions of the constitution and statute, not dependent on such invalid provisions.

2. The commissioners' court cannot combine subdivisions of a county (for example, two commissioners' courts for the purpose of holding a local option election therein). Commissioners' Court of Nolan County v. Beall, 98 T. 194, 81 S. W. 527.

3. The commissioners' court has no authority to combine school districts in a justice precinct for the purpose of holding a local option election therein. Anderson v. State, 49 Cr. R. 195, 92 S. W. 38.

4. Petition for election—In general.—The requisites of the petition not having been prescribed, it is sufficient when it expresses in an intelligible manner the desire of the petitioners that an election to determine the prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors be held within the limits therein defined. Ex parte Lynn, 19 App. 291; Lipari v. State, 19 App. 431.

5. The word “citizen” used in a petition is equivalent to the word “voter.” Steele v. State, 19 App. 425.

6. An order of the commissioners’ court declaring local option in force held not void because the petition was defective. Cantwell v. State, 47 Cr. R. 521, 85 S. W. 18.

7. In a prosecution for a violation of the local option law, held not error to admit an order of the commissioners’ court for the election, where it was shown that the petition attached was made up of a number of petitions originally under separate heads. Neal v. State, 61 Cr. R. 513, 102 S. W. 1139; Id. (Cr. App.) 102 S. W. 1141.

8. Description of territory.—The petition need not set out the boundaries of the precinct, Nichols v. State, 57 Cr. R. 546, 40 S. W. 260.

9. Under this article it is only necessary to set out the territory by metes and bounds where there are two or more of these arbitrary subdivisions mentioned in the petition for local option. Holden v. State, 41 Cr. R. 411, 55 S. W. 337.

10. In a petition in the field notes for a local option election, in an order therefor, or in an order declaring its result, will not invalidate it, if the exact boundaries can be ascertained with reasonable and legal certainty. Goble v. State (Cr. App.) 66 S. W. 966.

11. Number of signers.—Where defendant applied for a writ of habeas corpus to secure his release from imprisonment for violating the local option law on the ground that the election district included an incorporated town, the writ held properly denied where the included town was incorporated only for school purposes. The law only required one-tenth of the voters of the entire election district embracing an incorporated city or town to sign the petition, and not one-tenth of the voters of such city or town. Ex parte Douthit (Cr. App.) 63 S. W. 131.

12. The provision that where an incorporated town or city is embraced in the petition must be signed by not less than one-tenth of the voters of the entire election district or precinct in which a municipal corporation is located, and not where the election is called to determine whether local option shall prevail in the precinct or the entire city or town. Roper v. Scoback, 28 C. A. 484, 69 S. W. 457.

13. Recording petition.—It is not necessary that the citizens’ petition for a local option election be recorded, as the commissioners’ court may order the election of its own motion. McGovern v. State, 49 Cr. R. 35, 90 S. W. 605.

14. Order for election.—An order of the commissioners’ court for a local option election is not objectionable, though it does not say in terms that the election is to be held by the “qualified voters” of the county. Thurmond v. State, 46 Cr. R. 161, 79 S. W. 318.

15. An order of the commissioners’ court for local option election is not objectionable, because submitting the question “whether or not” local option shall be adopted, though the language of the law is “whether” it shall be adopted.

16. An election to determine whether the sale of liquor should be prohibited held a sufficient compliance with this statute, requiring an order for an election to determine whether or not such sale should be prohibited. Wade v. State, 52 Cr. R. 608, 108 S. W. 376, 377.

17. An order submitting the question of prohibition to popular vote held sufficient, though it used the word “whether,” instead of “whether or not.” Wade v. State, 53 Cr. R. 184, 109 S. W. 191; Id., 53 Cr. R. 299, 109 S. W. 192.

18. Time of making order.—An order for a local option election reciting that it was made February 14, 1898, shows that it was made at a regular term of court. Loveless v. State (Cr. App.) 49 S. W. 601.

19. Commissioners’ court can order a local option election at either a special or regular session. Abbott v. State, 42 Cr. R. 8, 57 S. W. 58; Koch v. State, 48 Cr. R. 290, 85 S. W. 809.

20. The commissioners’ court held authorized to make an order at special term for a local option election. Hanna v. State, 48 Cr. R. 269, 87 S. W. 702.

21. Order for election.—In general.—An order of the commissioners’ court for a local option election need not set out the boundaries of the precinct. Nichols v. State, 37 Cr. R. 546, 40 S. W. 265.

22. If the boundaries of a local option territory can be accurately traced according to the field notes in the petition for an election, and orders therefor and declaring its result, the order is proper. Goble v. State (Cr. App.) 66 S. W. 966.

23. The part of this article which requires a subdivision to be described by metes and bounds applies only where the election is ordered on petition. Williams v. Davidson (Cr. App.) 70 S. W. 985.

24. The order for a local option election need not give the metes and bounds of the precincts. Fitz v. State (Cr. App.) 85 S. W. 1156.
An order for a local option election and the notices therefor held to sufficiently describe the territory. Hill v. Howth (Civ. App.) 112 S. W. 707.

The local option election was not rendered void for any deficiency in describing the boundaries of a commissioners' precinct, if no one could have been deceived by such discrepancy. Stewart v. State (Cr. App.) 150 S. W. 1150.

14. Recital of statutory exceptions.—Order authorizing election on issue of prohibition need not contain the statutory exceptions as to sales for medicinal and sacramental purposes. Shields v. State, 38 Cr. R. 252, 42 S. W. 398.
The order for a local option election need not contain the exceptions in favor of the sale of wine and liquor for certain purposes. Frickel v. State, 30 Cr. R. 254, 46 S. W. 819.

An order for the holding of a local option election need not negative the exceptions. Green v. State, 62 Cr. R. 345, 137 S. W. 126.

15. Date of election, voting places and election officers.—See notes under Art. 5717.

16. Recording and signing minutes.—Where an order for a local option election was duly passed, and the pencil draft was signed by the county judge and duly entered, that the minutes were not signed until after the election did not invalidate it. Roper v. Scurlock, 29 C. A. 464, 69 S. W. 456.

An order for a local option election, appearing in the minutes of the commissioners' court, held valid, though the minutes were not signed. Davidson v. State, 44 Cr. R. 586, 73 S. W. 308.

Where the clerk has recorded the orders ordering and declaring the result of a local option election in vacation, the court may merely approve the minutes without recording the orders again. Ex parte Walton, 46 Cr. R. 74, 74 S. W. 314.

17. Change of boundaries before election.—Local option held to have been adopted in a certain commissioner's district, though new territory was added to the precinct on the day of election, it not appearing that the vote was thereby affected. Ex parte Curlee, 61 Cr. R. 614, 103 S. W. 596.

A change in the boundary of a precinct, made after the calling of a local option election and before such election, held not to render the election void. Hill v. Howth (Civ. App.) 112 S. W. 707.

18. Qualified voters.—See, also, Title 49, Chapter 4.

A letter written by a county judge to managers of a local option election, instructing them that certain voters were disqualified under constitutional amendment of 1902, held unobjectionable. Ex parte Wood (Cr. App.) 81 S. W. 529.

Gen. Laws 1903, ch. 63, § 1, provides that time of payment of all county and state tax in certain counties for year 1902 shall be extended to October 1, 1903. On May 30, 1903, a local option election was held in one of these counties. The voters were not relieved of the necessity of paying their poll tax at such election. Black v. Pool, 97 T. 338, 78 S. W. 923.

In a local option election, a person is not a qualified voter who has not paid his poll tax and obtained his poll tax receipt. McCormick v. Jester, 53 C. A. 306, 115 S. W. 278.

19. Mandamus to secure election.—Evidence held insufficient to entitle petitioners to mandamus compelling the commissioners' court to order a local option election. Adams v. Kelley, 17 C. A. 473, 44 S. W. 529.

Article 16, § 20, of the constitution is not self-executing, and a mandamus will not lie to compel the commissioners' court to order a local option election in the absence of a legislative provision therefor. Adams v. Kelley (Civ. App.) 45 S. W. 859.

20. Local option elections for adoption of stock laws.—See Title 124, Chapter 7.

Art. 5716. [3385] What not prohibited.—The preceding article shall not be so construed to prohibit the sale of wines for sacramental purposes, nor alcoholic stimulants as medicines in cases of actual sickness, but such stimulant shall only be sold upon the written prescription of a regular practicing physician, dated and signed by him, and certified, on his honor, that he, the physician, has personally examined the applicant, naming him, and that he finds him actually sick and in need of the stimulant prescribed as medicine; provided, that a physician who does not follow the profession of medicine as his principal and usual calling shall not be authorized to give the prescription provided for in this article; and provided, further, that no person shall be permitted to sell more than once on the same prescription, nor shall any person be permitted to sell at all on the prescription of a physician not herein authorized to give it, nor on a prescription which is not dated, signed, and certified as above required; provided, that every person selling such stimulants upon the prescription herein provided for shall cancel such prescription by indorsing thereon the word "canceled," and file the same away. [Id. sec. 5. Amend. 1893, p. 48.]
The provisions of the local option law, which excepts from the prohibition sales for medicinal and sacramental purposes, do not violate the constitution prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors. McLain v. State, 43 Cr. R. 213, 64 S. W. 855.

Who may question validity.—The question as to the validity of the statute on the ground that it unconstitutionally discriminates between those who practice medicine and apothecaries and those who practice opium and that it is void as being an interference with the rights of a retail liquor dealer. Sweeney v. Webb, 33 C. A. 324, 76 S. W. 767.

Liability to license tax.—Persons selling under this article not subject to license tax. Rathburn v. State, 31 S. W. 109, 88 T. 281.

Art. 5717. [3386] Where voting to take place.—When the commissioners' court, of their own motion, or upon the petition provided for in article 5715, shall order the election as herein provided for, it shall be the duty of said court to order such election to be held at the regular voting place or places within the proposed limits, upon a day not less than fifteen nor more than thirty days from the date of said order; and the order thus made shall express the object of such election, and shall be held to be prima facie evidence that all the provisions necessary to give it validity, or to clothe the court with jurisdiction to make it, have been fully complied with; provided, that if there is no regular voting place within the proposed limits of a subdivision less than a justice's or voting precinct, then the commissioners' court shall designate some suitable place within said subdivision, where said election shall be held, and said place shall be named in the notices of election, and said court will appoint such officers to hold such election as are now required to hold general elections. [Id. Amend. 1893, p. 48.]

Date of election.—It seems that an election for prohibition in a county and for prohibition in a precinct may be held on the same day. Lipari v. State, 19 App. 431.

Under the statute an election held less than 15 days from the entry of the order was void. Yates v. State (Cr. App.) 59 S. W. 275.

A local option election, not held on the date fixed therefor by the county commissioners' court, is void. Id.

An order of the commissioners' court approving in all things a petition for a local option election, to be held on December 17th, and then directing the election for December 6th, is not objectionable as rendering the election day uncertain. Thurmond v. State, 46 Cr. R. 162, 75 S. W. 315.

The commissioners' court, after making an order for a local option election on the petition of voters, held authorized to order on its own motion an election at a later day. Hanna v. State, 48 Cr. R. 269, 87 S. W. 702.

Voting places.—An election held at a place in the ward at a short distance from that designated by the order is not valid. Ex parte Segars, 25 S. W. 28, 32 Cr. R. 555.

An order for a local option election in a subdivision of a county held to sufficiently designate the places of holding the election and the persons to hold the same. Matkins v. State (Cr. App.) 58 S. W. 108.

Where a local option election was held at the usual place of holding elections, and the reasons for not holding the election at the place designated are shown, the election will not be held invalid. Roper v. Scurlock, 29 C. A. 464, 69 S. W. 456.

An order of the commissioners' court for local option election was not invalid because it was held at the voting boxes instead of places. Neal v. State, 51 Cr. R. 513, 102 S. W. 1139; Id. (Cr. App.) 102 S. W. 1141.

Election officers.—See, also, Art. 5718 and note.

An order for a local option election in a subdivision of a county held to sufficiently designate the persons to hold the same. Matkins v. State (Cr. App.) 58 S. W. 108.

In a prosecution for violating local option law, held, that order for election need not show who was appointed to hold same. Nelson v. State (Cr. App.) 75 S. W. 502.

The order for a local option election need not show the name of the presiding officer. Fitze v. State (Cr. App.) 85 S. W. 1156.

Voting election.—Failure of county judge in a local option election to issue writs of election held not to render the election void. Ex parte Schilling, 33 Cr. R. 237, 43 S. W. 553.

Relation to other laws.—This article is not governed by Art. 2993. Voss v. Terrell, 12 C. A. 459, 34 S. W. 170.

The giving of the notice of election in a local option election for the length of time required by this article is sufficient, and it is not necessary that the notice be given as required by Art. 2993 relating to general elections. Roper v. Scurlock, 29 C. A. 464, 69 S. W. 458.

In order to make a valid local option election it is only necessary to comply with the character of notice required under the local option law, and the Terrell election law (title 49) does not repeal by implication any of the provisions of the local option law in regard to notices required under the local option law. Ex parte Keith, 47 Cr. R. 283, 88 S. W. 684.

As to notices of local option election the Terrell election law (title 49) does not apply. It is not necessary to comply with character of notice required under the local option law. Parks v. State, 49 Cr. R. 449, 98 S. W. 325.
Order for posting notices.—An order requiring the posting of notices of a local option election held sufficient. Magill v. State, 51 Cr. R. 357, 103 S. W. 397.

Attaching seal to copies of order.—Where the copies of the order for a local option election were certified to and signed by the clerk officially, that he did not attach the seal of the commissioners' court to the copies and that they contained trivial errors held not to invalidate. Bodin v. Scurlock, 29 C. A. 464, 69 S. W. 455.

Necessity of giving notice.—The notice required by law of a local option election held essential to the adoption of prohibition. Brooks v. Ellis (Clv. App.) 98 S. W. 336.

Posting notices in general.—"Posting as required by law" notices of local option election held to mean actual posting requisite number of days before election is held. Nelson v. State (Cr. App.) 75 S. W. 502.

Posting with clerk's consent.—Notices posted with the knowledge and consent of the county clerk is a compliance with statute, though not posted nor caused to be posted by him. McCormick v. Jester, 53 C. A. 306, 115 S. W. 285.

Notices need not remain up.—Where notices of a local option election were posted as required, it was immaterial that one was torn down before it had been up the required length of time. Bowman v. State, 38 Cr. R. 14, 48 S. W. 786.

The fact that notices of local option election actually posted were subsequently torn or blown down held not to affect validity of election. Nelson v. State (Cr. App.) 75 S. W. 502.

Using additional methods of notice.—Where the statute was complied with as to giving notice of a local option election, the fact that other methods of notice were also used would not vitiate the election. Neal v. State, 51 Cr. R. 513, 102 S. W. 1139; Id. (Cr. App.) 102 S. W. 1141.

Evidence regarding posting.—Evidence that sheriff and deputy did not post notice of local option election themselves held insufficient to justify submission to jury of the question whether local option law had gone into effect. Shields v. State, 38 Cr. R. 252, 42 S. W. 398.

Sheriff held entitled to testify that he posted five local option notices, as required, notwithstanding his return showed the posting of only four. Watkins v. State (Cr. App.) 62 S. W. 911.

In a prosecution for violation of the local option law held, that it was not incumbent on the state to show publication or posting of the notice for the election held to determine the question of local option. Neal v. State, 51 Cr. R. 513, 102 S. W. 1139; Id. (Cr. App.) 102 S. W. 1141.

Effect of failure to give legal notice.—The failure to give the statutory notice of an election, if the voters had knowledge of and participated in the election, so that the result thereof was not affected by the failure to give notice in the manner prescribed by law, will not vitiate the election. When such notice is not given, the evidence offered to show actual notice will be closely scrutinized, and unless it is sufficient to show with reasonable certainty that no injury has resulted from the failure to give the precise legal notice, the election will be declared void. Norman v. Thompson, 39 C. A. 357, 73 S. W. 66, 68.

Failure to post one notice of local option election for requisite number of days held to invalidate election. Ex parte Conley (Cr. App.) 75 S. W. 301.

Election officers.—See also, Title 49, Chapter 2.

The fact that an officer acted at a local option election under the misnomer of "manager of the election," instead of "presiding officer," held not to render the election subject to collateral attack. Ex parte Mayes, 39 Cr. R. 36, 44 S. W. 881.

The failure to have the required number of election officers hold a local option election held not to affect the election. Sneed v. State, 40 Cr. R. 292, 49 S. W. 597.

Where a county local option election was fair, and there is no intention of fraud, the election will not be set aside because in many precincts there were only 5, instead of 7, election officers, and 1, instead of 2, ballot boxes. Roper v. Scurlock, 29 C. A. 464, 69 S. W. 466.

A local option law held not invalid because the presiding judge of a voting precinct was at the time of the election chairman of the Democratic executive committee of the county. Ex parte Anderson, 51 Cr. R. 239, 102 S. W. 727.

Validity of election.—See notes under Art. 5720.

Art. 5718. [3387] Notice.—The clerk of said court shall post, or cause to be posted, at least five copies of said order at different places within the proposed limits, for at least twelve days prior to the day of election, which election shall be held and the returns thereof made in conformity with the provisions of the general laws of the state, and by the officers of election appointed and qualified under such laws. [Id. Amend. 1893, p. 48.]

Art. 5719. [3388] Form of ballot, etc.—At said election the vote shall be by official ballot, which shall have printed or written at the top thereof in plain letters the words "Official Ballot." Said ballot shall have also written or printed thereon the words "For Prohibition" and the words "Against Prohibition," and the clerk of the county court shall furnish the presiding officer of each voting box within the proposed limits with a number of such ballots, to be not less than twice the number of qualified voters at such voting boxes; and the presiding officer of each such voting box shall write his name on the back of each ballot.
before delivering the same to the voter, and the person offering to vote at such election shall, at the time he offers to vote, be furnished by such presiding officer with one such ballot; and no voter shall be permitted to depart with such ballot, and shall not be assisted in voting by any person except such presiding officer or by some officer assisting in the holding of such election, under the direction of such presiding officer when requested to do so by such voter.

Those who favor the prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors within the proposed limits, shall erase the words “Against Prohibition” by making a pencil mark through same, and those who oppose it shall erase the words “For Prohibition” by making a pencil mark through same. No ballot shall be received or counted by the officers of such election that is not an official ballot, and that has not the name of the presiding officer of such election written thereon in the handwriting of such presiding officer, as required by this article. [Acts 1893, p. 48. Amended Acts 1909, 1 S. S., p. 338.]

Relation to Terrell law.—A local option election held not vitiated by ballots not complying with the Terrell law. Hanna v. State, 48 Cr. R. 269, 87 S. W. 702.

This article applies in local options, and not the Terrell election law of 1905 (Title 49, Chapter 5), in the matter of ballots. Hash v. Ely, 45 C. A. 299, 100 S. W. 981; Walker v. Mobley, 101 T. 28, 103 S. W. 492.

Stature mandatory.—The statute prescribing the form of ballot is mandatory and must be strictly followed. Griffin v. Tucker, 61 C. A. 522, 119 S. W. 346.

The provisions regarding the character of the ballots to be used is mandatory. Gomez v. Timon (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 656.

Form of ballots.—See Walker v. Mobley, 101 T. 28, 103 S. W. 492, holding that under this article, prior to its amendment as set out in the 1911 Revision, the voter furnishes his own ballot and presents it to the judges. It may be printed or written, and need have nothing upon it save the words, “For prohibition,” or “Against prohibition.” The official ballot under the Terrell election law (Title 49) is not required to be used in local option elections. Walker v. Mobley, 101 T. 28, 103 S. W. 492.

Under this article and Art. 5721 the court was not authorized to count ballots reading “For Local Option,” or those reading “Against Local Option.” Griffin v. Tucker, 61 C. A. 522, 119 S. W. 340.

The provision as to the character of the ballots to be used is mandatory, so that a local option election is void where the ballots do not have the words “official ballot” thereon, in which two ballots are given to each voter marked respectively “For Prohibition” and “Against Prohibition,” the voters voting one of such ballots and retaining the other in their possession. Gomez v. Timon (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 656.

Deficiency of ballots.—Under facts stated, deficiency of ballots in a local option election held not to vitiate the election. Short v. Gouger (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 267.

Art. 5720. [3389] How election to be held.—The officers holding said election shall, in all respects not herein specified, conform to the general election laws now in force regulating elections; and after the polls are closed shall proceed to count the votes, and, within ten days thereafter, make due report of said election to the aforesaid court. [Amended Acts 1909, 1 S. S., p. 338.]

Relation of Terrell to local option elections.—There is nothing in the local option statutes that conflicts with sections 65 and 72 of the (Terrell) election law of 1903, (Arts. 3001, 3011), and therefore the provisions in those two sections are applicable in a local option election. Arnold v. Anderson (Civ. App.) 33 S. W. 697.

The Terrell election law (Title 49) does not apply to local option elections, as to matters in which there is a conflict, and so far as a conflict exists the local option statute will prevail. Walker v. Mobley, 101 T. 28, 103 S. W. 491.

Election officers.—See Art. 5717, 5718, and notes.

Qualification for voting.—See notes under Art. 5715; and see Title 49, Chapter 4.

Validity of election—in general.—See, also, notes under Art. 5728 and other articles of this chapter.

An election not conducted in accordance with the requirements of the law, and all proceedings under it, is absolutely void, and the legality of the same may be questioned not only directly but collaterally. Ex parte Kramer, 19 App. 123; Smith v. State, 19 App. 444; Lipari v. State, 19 App. 431; McMillan v. State, 18 App. 376; Boone v. State, 19 App. 418, 38 Am. Rep. 641; Prather v. State, 12 App. 401, Akin v. State, 14 App. 142.

A local option election held valid. Oxley v. Allen, 49 C. A. 90, 107 S. W. 945.

A local option election held invalid because of the failure to comply with the essential prerequisites of the statutes. Hill v. Howth (Civ. App.) 112 S. W. 707.

Burden of showing illegality.—See notes under Art. 3687, Rule 12.

One precinct not holding election.—Local option election held not void because one precinct held no election. Ex parte Schilling, 38 Cr. R. 287, 42 S. W. 553.

No separate election in city in precinct.—A local option election in a Justice precinct held not void because no separate election was held for a city in the precinct on the question. Bowman v. State, 38 Cr. R. 14, 49 S. W. 796.

Art. 5721. [3390] To hold session for counting votes, when.—Said court shall hold a special session on the eleventh day after the holding of said election, or as soon thereafter as practicable, for the purpose of opening the polls and counting the votes; and, if a majority of the votes are "For prohibition," said court shall immediately make an order declaring the result of said vote, and absolutely prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors within the prescribed limits, except for the purposes and under the regulations specified in this title, until such time as the qualified voters therein may at a legal election held for that purpose by a majority vote decide otherwise; and the order thus made shall be held to be prima facie evidence that all the provisions of law have been complied with in giving notice of and holding said election, and in counting and returning the votes and declaring the result thereof. [Acts 1887, p. 96; Amend. 1893, p. 48.]

11. --- Need not recite statutory exceptions. 22. --- Effect of prohibition in general.

See Stockard v. Reid, 57 C. A. 126, 121 S. W. 1144; Coats v. Blanding (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 627.

1. Validity of local option laws.—See notes under Art. 5715.
2. Relation to general election law.—The local option law is complete within itself, so far as it undertakes to prescribe the duty of the commissioners' court, and Art. 3039 of the general election law does not apply to a local option election. Clarey v. Hurst (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 240.
3. Strict compliance with statutes.—The local option law is a penal law, and must be strictly followed in all the proceedings necessary to put it into operation, or the order declaring it to be in force in the particular territory will be void. Griffin v. Tucker, 61 C. A. 522, 115 S. W. 338.
4. Canvass of votes.—The failure of the commissioners to count the votes would not be fatal to their order declaring the result of the election. Chapman v. State, 37 Cr. R. 167, 39 S. W. 113.

The commissioners' court can count the votes regardless of what results the election officers may have reached in their canvass of the votes, and when they have counted the votes they can declare the result of the election. Burrell v. State (Cr. App.) 65 S. W. 916.

Where the election officers of a local option election have made returns to the commissioners' court, it may canvass the vote and declare the result from such returns. Roper v. Scurlock, 29 C. A. 464, 69 S. W. 466.

Under Art. 5720 and this article the commissioners' court has authority to canvass the returns made by the officers of the election, and they may not open the ballot boxes and count the votes; the word "polls" in this article meaning the returns of the election officers, though the word "poll" means the number or aggregate of heads; a list or register of heads or individuals voting at an election (citing Words and Phrases, vol. 6, p. 6446). Clarey v. Hurst, 194 T. 423, 128 S. W. 564, overruling Clarey v. Hurst (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 240.

This article only authorizes the canvassing of the returns made by the election officers, and does not authorize them to open the ballot boxes, and recount the ballots. Clarey v. Hurst (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 592.

6. --- Impeaching count.—In an election contest, the action of the commissioners' court in counting the ballots may not be impeached by the testimony of one present at the count as to how the duty was performed. Savage v. Umphries (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 553.

7. Order declaring result of election—Necessity.—It is essential that the commissioners' court shall declare the result of a prohibition election before such election can become effective. Holloway v. State, 53 Cr. R. 246, 110 S. W. 745.

8. --- Time of making order.—An order declaring the result of a local option election is valid, though it was made more than ten days after the vote, and does not show on its face that it was impracticable to make it earlier. Loveless v. State (Cr. App.) 49 S. W. 601.

9. --- Sufficiency in general.—An order which does not conform to the requirements of the law is void. Steele v. State, 19 App. 426.
An order of the commissioners' court declaring the result of a county election under the local option law shall set out there in each of the election precincts of the county. Barker v. State (Cr. App.) 47 S. W. 980.

Order declaring result of local option election need not recite that local option was only to remain in force until another election might declare otherwise. Armstrong v. State (Cr. App.) 47 S. W. 1068.

Order of the commissioners' court declaring local option in effect held not invalid for not stating that court "opened" the polls. Sinclair v. State, 45 Cr. R. 487, 77 S. W. 621.

An order declaring result of local option election held not objectionable, as rendering uncertain the time when the law went into effect. Thurmond v. State, 46 Cr. R. 163, 79 S. W. 315.

Neither the order for a local option election nor the order declaring the result need show the names of the presiding officers. Witzel v. State, 44 Cr. R. 572, 73 S. W. 636.

An order declaring the result of a local option election need not show that it was made at a special session of the commissioners' court, held for the purpose of opening the polls, counting the votes and declaring the result of the election, or that notices of election had been posted. Neal v. State, 51 Cr. R. 513, 102 S. W. 1123; Id. (Cr. App.) 112 S. W. 1141.

An order declaring the result of a local option election, which recited that an election was held to determine whether or not the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors should be prohibited, held not erroneous. Id.

The order of the commissioners' court held a sufficient performance of its sole duty in a local option election to declare the result of a local option election. Griffin v. Tucker, 104 S. W. 420, 118 S. W. 656.

10. — Need not show vote by precincts.—An order of the commissioners' court declaring the result of a county election under the local option law need not set out the vote by voting or justice precincts. Barker v. State (Cr. App.) 47 S. W. 980.

Order declaring result of election on the question of local option need not show vote by precincts. Armstrong v. State (Cr. App.) 47 S. W. 1006.

11. — Need not recite statutory exceptions.—Order declaring result of election on question of local option need not contain exceptions authorizing sale of liquors. Armstrong v. State (Cr. App.) 47 S. W. 1006.

The fact that an order of the commissioners' court declaring the result of an election on the question of local option did not recite the exceptions in regard to sales for medicinal and sacramental purposes held not to invalidate the order. Truesdell v. State, 42 Cr. R. 544, 61 S. W. 935.

An order of the commissioners' court prohibiting the sale of intoxicants held sufficient, though its contained no the statutory exceptions. Racer v. State (Cr. App.) 73 S. W. 968.

12. — Mistake in date of election.—An order of the commissioners' court declaring the result of a county election under the local option law is not vitiated by an erroneous reference to the year in which the local option law was passed. Barker v. State (Cr. App.) 47 S. W. 980.

A mistake in the date of a local option election in the order declaring the result held a clerical error and not a material variance, in a prosecution for violating the law. Luck v. State (Cr. App.) 97 S. W. 1049.

13. — Description of territory.—An order declaring the result of a local option election held valid, though it contained but a partial description of the prohibited district, where the order for the election described it fully. Loveless v. State (Cr. App.) 49 S. W. 602.

Mere discrepancies in the filed notes in an order declaring the result of a local option election will not invalidate it, if the exact boundaries can be ascertained with reasonable exactness. Glenn v. State (Cr. App.) 69 S. W. 648.

Unless there is a material variance between the orders in a local option election and declaring its result, indicating different territory in each, the law is not invalid. Id.

Where the order for election covering a supposed local option election cannot be ascertained, the election is invalid. Ex parte Waits (Cr. App.) 64 S. W. 254.

Neither the order for a local option election nor the order declaring the result need give the metes and bounds of the precinct. Fitzie v. State (Cr. App.) 85 S. W. 1158.

A local option election was not rendered void for any deficiency in describing the boundaries of a commissioner's precinct, if no one could have been deceived by such discrepancy. Stewart v. State (Cr. App.) 153 S. W. 1151.

14. — Ordering publication.—See, also, Art. 5722 and notes.

The fact that the commissioners' court ordered the publication in some newspaper of an order declaring the result of a local option election for four successive weeks, though not necessary, did not vitiate the order. Neal v. State, 51 Cr. R. 513, 102 S. W. 1123; Id. (Cr. App.) 102 S. W. 1141.

15. — Execution and recording.—Orders, appearing in the minutes of the commissioners' court, for a local option election, counting and declaring the vote, and publication, held valid, though such minutes were not signed. Davidson v. State, 44 Cr. R. 658, 73 S. W. 808.

A local option election is not void by reason of the failure of the commissioners' court to record the orders ordering and declaring the result of the election at the time designated by law. Ex parte Walton, 45 Cr. R. 74, 74 S. W. 314.

The order for local option, to go into effect, signed by the county judge, held not vitiated by obtained by the commissioners' court also signing it. Hanna v. State, 48 Cr. R. 269, 87 S. W. 702.

16. — Burden on party attacking order.—See notes under Art. 3687, Rule 12.

17. — Operation and effect in general.—See, also, notes under Art. 5727.

An order of prohibition prevents the sale of intoxicating liquors under an unexpired license. Emberton v. State, 12 App. 290; Robertson v. State, 13 App. 641.

A legal election, the result of which is declared, puts an end to the previous law, and no order of the commissioners to that effect is requisite. State v. Harvey, 11 C. A. 681, 53 S. W. 855.

Title 88)  LOCAL OPTION  Art. 5722

A county election resulting favorably to prohibition held to prohibit the sale in precincts voting against it. Ex parte Fields, 39 Cr. R. 50, 46 S. W. 1127.
The designation of localities where the sale of intoxicating liquor is inhibited is not prohibition, but a mere regulation, of sale. Garonzik v. State, 50 Cr. R. 533, 100 S. W. 374.

18. Prima facie evidence of preliminary steps.—See, also, notes under Art. 3637, Rule 12, and Art. 5727.

Order declaring result of election and putting local option in force held prima facie evidence that proper preliminary steps were taken. Ex parte Schilling, 35 Cr. R. 287, 42 S. W. 555.

19. Restraining issuance of order.—See Title 69 and notes.

The commissioners' court are only authorized by the terms of this article to count the vote and declare the result of a local option election. They are not empowered, nor could the legislature grant them the power to try contested elections. Burks v. State, 51 Cr. R. 637, 103 S. W. 851.

21. Changes in precinct after election.—Where local option was put into effect in a justice precinct, a subsequent change of boundaries in such precinct did not invalidate the local option law as previously put into operation. Medford v. State, 45 Cr. R. 180, 74 S. W. 768; Nelson v. State (Cr. App.) 75 S. W. 502.

Where local option had been established in a justice precinct by an election as authorized by the constitution, the mere addition of territory to such precinct under Const. art. 6, § 18, held not to authorize the sale of liquor in such precinct. Ex parte Fields (Cr. App.) 86 S. W. 1022.

The act of the commissioners' court in changing an election precinct from a justice's precinct which had adopted local option to another justice's precinct held not to repeal local option in the election precinct. Ex parte Pollard, 51 Cr. R. 488, 103 S. W. 787.

A change of boundary by the commissioners' court held not to affect local option as adopted, since, to nullify local option, it requires a vote of all the people living within the original bounds of the justice's precinct which put the law into effect. Oxley v. Allen, 49 C. A. 90, 107 S. W. 945.

22. Effect of prohibition in general.—See notes under Art. 5727.

Art. 5722. [3391] Result to be declared.—The order of court declaring the result and prohibiting the sale of such liquors shall be published for four successive weeks in some newspaper published in the county wherein such election has been held, which newspaper shall be selected by the county judge for that purpose. If there be no newspaper published in the county, then the county judge shall cause publication to be made by posting copies of said order at three public places within the prescribed limits for the aforesaid length of time. The fact of publication in either mode shall be entered by the county judge on the minutes of the commissioners' court. And entry thus made, or a copy thereof certified under the hand and seal of the clerk of the county court, shall be held sufficient prima facie evidence of such fact of publication. [Id. Amend. 1893, p. 48.]

Necessity of legal publication.—The local option law cannot be put into operation, unless the result of the election adopting it be published either in a newspaper or by posting notices thereof. Strickland v. State (Cr. App.) 47 S. W. 777.

The publication of the final order of the court is required as a condition precedent to putting local option into effect. Griffin v. State (Cr. App.) 87 S. W. 155; Stephens v. State (Cr. App.) 87 S. W. 157.

Unless the publication of the result has been published for four successive weeks in a newspaper designated by the county judge, the law has not been put in operation, Chenowith v. State, 50 Cr. R. 238, 98 S. W. 21.

Order for publication—in general.—An indictment which alleges that the sale was made after the commissioners' court had made an order authorizing the election, etc., and that thereafter the commissioners' court passed and published an order declaring the result, was defective; it being the duty of the county judge, and not of the commissioners' court, to publish the result of the election. Carnes v. State, 50 Cr. R. 232, 99 S. W. 98, but see Watson v. State, 52 Cr. R. 561, 107 S. W. 544.

An order of the commissioners' court held not to show that such court caused publication to be made of the order putting local option into effect. Covington v. State, 51 Cr. R. 48, 100 S. W. 368.

That an order of the commissioners' court declaring the result of a local option election and prohibiting the sale of liquor was not published as directed by the county judge, but as suggested by the district judge, held not to invalidate the election. Seay v. State, 51 Cr. R. 444, 102 S. W. 1127.

An order for the publication of the result of a local option election may be entered at any time, whether there had been a previous certificate entered by another county judge or not. Biddy v. State (Cr. App.) 108 S. W. 689.

Selection of newspaper.—Under local option law, the fact that the order of publication of order declaring law in effect did not specify particular newspaper held not to invalidate order. Sinclair v. State, 45 Cr. R. 487, 77 S. W. 621.

That a county judge subsequently certified the adoption of local option in a county based in part on a voluntary publication of the local option order in a certain newspaper held not a ratification of such publication. Chenowith v. State, 50 Cr. R. 238, 98 S. W. 19.

The publication of the order declaring the result of a local option election held pre-sumptively made in the newspaper selected by the county judge as required by law. Hollander v. State, 51 Cr. L. 145, 101 S. W. 1905; § 1 Cr. R. 157, 101 S. W. 1094.

It is not required that the order of the commissioners' court shall provide that the newspaper shall be selected by the county judge; this is made his duty by law independent of any order of the court. Johnson v. State, 52 Cr. L. 924, 108 S. W. 631.

The article a judgment on the contest of a local option election declaring that prohibition carried the election was not invalid because publication of result of the contest was ordered to be made by the clerk in a newspaper to be selected by him. Bickers v. Lacy (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 763.

Time of publishing order.—Failure to immediately publish order putting local option into effect held not to vitiate the order, but to merely postpone the taking effect of the law. Rawls v. State, 48 Cr. L. 622, 89 S. W. 1071.

Efficiency of publication.—In general.—Where, notwithstanding an appeal from an order declaring an injunction restraining the carrying into effect of a local option, the result was finally published, it could not be held, in a collateral proceeding to punish relator for selling liquor, that such publication was void. Ex parte Wood (Cr. App.) 51 S. W. 529.

Published copy of order putting local option into effect need not contain the names of the county judge and the commissioners. Hillard v. State, 49 Cr. L. 314, 87 S. W. 521.

Where the order putting local option into effect is not published for four successive weeks, the court shall give effect to the result. Rogers v. State (Cr. App.) 89 S. W. 833; Johnson v. Same (Cr. App.) 89 S. W. 834; Stephens v. Same, Id.; Ellis v. Same (Cr. App.) 89 S. W. 974.

The publication must show whether the vote was favorable or unfavorable. Roberts v. State (Cr. App.) 144 S. W. 940.

Continuity of publication.—A break in the continuity of the publication caused by an injunction will not defeat the election. McDaniel v. State, 32 Cr. L. 16; 21 S. W. 664, 23 S. W. 589; Ex parte Brown, 35 Cr. L. 445, 34 S. W. 151.

The publication must be made for four successive weeks. The meaning of "successive" is well understood and apprehended that the publication must be continuous, that is, without a break. By judicial interpretation one exception to this continuity has been ingrafted. Thus, the statute states that it is based on a breach of the continuity by notice of the law. While the injunction exists no publication can be made, but when this is dissolved, the reason for delay or restraint ceases and the publication should be immediately resumed. If this is not done the publication is not sufficient. Griffin v. State (Cr. App.) 87 S. W. 156; Stephens v. State (Cr. App.) 87 S. W. 157.

The publication announcing the result of a local option election need not be in consecutive weeks, if there is a good excuse for the interruption, for example, the intervention of an injunction suit. Gill v. State, 48 Cr. L. 517, 89 S. W. 273.

Publication twenitwived between the first and last publications of an order putting local option in effect, held it could not be said that the publication was ineffectual; it not being shown when the injunction against publication was dissolved. Riggs v. State (Cr. App.) 97 S. W. 492.

There was a skip of one week in the publication of a local option election order would not render the election invalid. Carnes v. State (Cr. App.) 103 S. W. 931.

The law contemplates that the order shall be published for four full consecutive weeks or by order of the court. The order in this case recites that publication was made for four successive weeks to-wit: April 8, 15, 22 and 29. When the order was published on April 25th this covered and contemplated the week in which the 29th of April was. Williams v. State, 53 Cr. L. 156, 109 S. W. 189, 190.

Effect of republication.—Where the local option law had become effective by publication of an order declaring the result thereof at a subsequent time did not affect the validity of the previous proceedings. Beatty v. State, 53 Cr. L. 432, 110 S. W. 449.

Proof of publication.—In general.—Showing of publication of order declaring result of local option election held sufficient. Armstrong v. State (Cr. App.) 47 S. W. 106.

A certificate of the county judge reciting that a local option election was held in "precinct number two," omitting the word "justice" before "precinct," held not invalid. Lacy v. State, 40 Cr. L. 341, 49 S. W. 98.

The certificate of the county judge of the publication of the law is sufficient, though there is not shown any order of the commissioners' court for the publication, nor any order adopting or ratifying it. Skipwith v. State (Cr. App.) 68 S. W. 273.

A certificate of a county judge of notice of a local option election held insufficient to put local option into effect, it not being such as required by law. Lively v. State (Cr. App.) 72 S. W. 383.

It is not necessary to state in the judge's certificate the particular issues of the paper in which the publication was made. It is enough to say that it was made in four successive weeks, as required by law. Magill v. State, 51 Cr. L. 357, 103 S. W. 397.

Fact that the county judge certified that the result of a local option election was published on the date of the fourth issue of a weekly newspaper, while the four weeks did not expire until the end of the week in which the last issue appeared, would not vitiate his certificate. Williams v. State, 53 Cr. L. 156, 109 S. W. 189.

The certificate stating that publication was made as required by law is equivalent to saying that it was made for four consecutive weeks. The statement in the certificate should receive a fair and sensible construction. Harryman v. State, 53 Cr. L. 474, 110 S. W. 927.

Recital of unnecessary facts.—Where the certificate of the county judge showed that the publication of the result of an order declaring an election was in accordance with the statute, the fact that it referred to other things did not vitiate the order or certificate. Neal v. State, 51 Cr. L. 513, 102 S. W. 1139; Id. (Cr. App.) 102 S. W. 1141.

In a prosecution for violating the local option law, the fact that a certificate of the county court's order of publication of the result of the election, etc., contained a recital of facts having no place therein, held not prejudicial. Walker v. State, 52 Cr. L. 255, 106 S. W. 376.

Entry in minutes in general.—An entry in the minutes of the commissioners' court of publication of the result of a local option election held valid, though the minutes were not signed. Davidson v. State, 44 Cr. R. 556, 73 S. W. 588.

An entry on the minutes of the commissioners' court held to show that the order of such court declaring the result of a local option election was published four successive weeks. Ex Parte Sullivan (Cr. App.) 75 S. W. 290.

Failure of the county judge to enter on the minutes the fact of publication of the result of a local option election held not to affect the election. Beaty v. State, 53 Cr. R. 422, 119 S. W. 449.

Testimony is admissible to show such publication. Id.

An entry by the judge in the minutes that the result of a local option election was published “for the time and in the manner required by law” held sufficient under the statute. Byrd v. State, 53 Cr. R. 507, 111 S. W. 149.

Under this and three following articles, a county court record, purporting to show the proceedings taken for the adoption of local option, but failing to state for what purpose the local option election was held, and the minutes failing to show whether the result of the election was favorable, was not sufficient to show that local option had been adopted in the county. Roberts v. State (Cr. App.) 144 S. W. 940.

Who may make entry.—Perhaps the county judge should make the entry, as the language seems to be rather strong and of mandatory nature. In this particular case the order was written by the county judge and copied by the clerk into the minutes. This, perhaps, would be sufficient. Gorman v. State, 52 Cr. R. 327, 106 S. W. 385.

An order of the county judge on the minutes of the commissioners' court showing that the result of a local option election had been published was not required to be written by the judge himself, but it was sufficient where he signed the minutes. Coleman v. State, 53 Cr. R. 578, 111 S. W. 1011.

The entry on the minutes of the commissioners' court showing that publication of the order of court declaring the result of the election need not be in the handwriting of the county clerk if the same be made by the county clerk if there is evidence showing that the entry was made under the direction and with the approval of the judge, such as his signing the minutes containing the entry. Coleman v. State, 54 Cr. R. 396, 112 S. W. 1072, 1073.

An order of approval by a county judge in the minutes of the commissioners' court held to adopt a former entry made by the clerk, showing the publication of the order of court declaring the result of a local option election. Id.

That an order declaring the result of a local option election was entered by a deputy clerk, and not by the county judge, held not a valid objection to the enforcement of local option in the county. Edgar v. State, 59 Cr. R. 252, 127 S. W. 1053.

Operation and effect.—See, also, notes under Art. 5727.

An instruction that the local option law was in force held not error, where the county judge's certificate was in evidence. Segars v. State (Cr. App.) 61 S. W. 238.

It is proper for the court to assume that local option in force when the county judge has certified the fact that the order has been published as required by statute. Johnson v. State (Cr. App.) 55 S. W. 968.

In a prosecution for illegal sale of liquors in local option district, certificate of the county judge, certifying the publication of the local option law in the precinct where the sales were made, held admissible. Skipwith v. State (Cr. App.) 68 S. W. 278.

In a prosecution for violating local option law, prima facie case of fact of publication is made where county judge's certificate of the result of the election has been properly entered of record. Nelson v. State (Cr. App.) 75 S. W. 502.

The evidence of the facts of publication for the time required by law, and any other statements in the certificate are not admissible in evidence, and ought not to be in the certificate. Walker v. State, 52 Cr. R. 293, 106 S. W. 377.

The fact that the judge certifies that the publication was made is, in the absence of anything in the record to the contrary, sufficient proof that the publication was made in a newspaper selected by him. Johnson v. State, 52 Cr. R. 624, 108 S. W. 683.

Enjoining publication.—See also note under Art. 4643.

An injunction to commissioners' court not to further publish the order declaring result of a local option election held not to annul the election. McMan v. Love, 59 C. A. 512, 87 S. W. 875.

Art. 5723. [3392] Order when against prohibition.—If a majority voting at such election vote "Against prohibition," the court shall make an order declaring the result, and have the same entered of record in the office of the clerk of said court. [Acts 1893, p. 48.]

See Roberts v. State (Cr. App.) 144 S. W. 940.

Art. 5724. [3393] Second election, when.—No election under the preceding articles shall be held within the same prescribed limits in less than two years after an election under this title has been held therein, the result declared, and the notices published as provided in the preceding articles. Such time shall date from the time of publication of the last notice; provided, that, where no such notice is required to be published, then such time shall date from the time such result is declared; but at the expiration of that time the commissioners' court of each county in the state, whenever they decree it expedient, may order another election to be held by the qualified voters of said county, or of any justice's precinct, or such subdivision of a county as may be designated by the commissioners' court of such county, for the same purpose; provided, it shall be the duty of such court to order the election aforesaid whenever petitioned to do so by as many as two hundred voters in any county, or fifty voters in any justice's precinct, or subdivision of such county, as the case may be, to order an election for the same purpose, which election shall be ordered held, notice thereof given, the votes returned and counted, and the result declared and published, in all respects as provided by this title for a first election; and the order granting such other elections, as well as that declaring the result, shall, if prohibition be carried, have the same force and effect, and the same conclusiveness, as are given to them in the case of a first election by the provisions of this title; provided, that, where no such notice is required to be published, then such time shall date from the time such result is declared. [Amended Acts 1905, p. 378.]

See Roberts v. State (Cr. App.) 144 S. W. 940.

In general.—In so far as articles 3383, 3385 (Rev. St. 1895) may be construed as enlarging the scope of article 3384 (Art. 5715) they were repealed by the amendment of 1897, which changed article 3227 to 3384. Oxford v. Frank, 30 C. A. 343, 70 S. W. 428.

These articles furnish a contemporary construction by the legislature of the right conferred by the constitution on the localities named to vote on the question of prohibition, and time to time. By this provision they were constrained to preserve the autonomy of the localities named in order that they might exercise their constitutional right to again vote on the question Ex parte Heyman, 45 Cr. R. 532, 78 S. W. 553.

The city of Dallas should never have authority to permit intoxicating liquors to be sold within the limits of the added territory, and that local option as it then existed in the added territory should never be repealed by any Dallas proposal and that any election be held on the question it should be held solely in the entire justice precinct in which the added territory was. This provision is not void because local option being in force the city council of Dallas would have no authority over the matter and the reference to another election referred to elections under the local option law which could not be held except under the state law. City of Oak Cliff v. State, 97 T. 353, 79 S. W. 1 (decision made before amendment of 1905).

This article would control as to a local option election held two years after its enactment. Coats v. Blanding (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 247.

Where it appears that prohibition was adopted in a county at an election held June 5, 1910, the court will take judicial notice that another election could not have been held, and the law repealed prior to alleged violations between March and September, 1911. Leonard v. State (Cr. App.) 152 S. W. 632.

When second election may be held.—See, also, Art. 5726 and notes.

A valid election having been held in same territory less than two years prior to date of presentation of petition for another election, the commissioners' court was not authorized to grant the petition. McFann v. Love (Civ. App.) 87 S. W. 877.

The second election held after the expiration of two years from the first election. It makes no difference when the result of the election is published and put in operation. Ex parte Smith, 48 Cr. R. 356, 88 S. W. 245 (decision made before the amendment of 1906).

Under this article no local option election can be ordered within less than two years from the date of the declaration of the result of the previous election, where there has been a previous election. Seay v. State, 51 Cr. R. 444, 102 S. W. 1128.

An election was held, and the commissioners' court, on June 26th, declared the result as against prohibition, but on appeal to the court of civil appeals the result of the election was vacated and judgment rendered in favor of prohibition, and on March 9th, pursuant to the mandate of the court of civil appeals, the commissioners' court vacated its decision of June 26th and declared the result of the election as for prohibition. Held, that under this article and Art. 5721 the two years which must elapse before another election could be held began to run from the final declaration of the result of the former election, which was March 9th. Coats v. Blanding (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 632.

Second election for same precinct and another.—A commissioner's precinct was composed of two justices' precincts, one of which was a local option precinct. An election in the other precinct resulted unfavorably to local option. An election cannot be held in the commissioners' precinct within less than two years from the election in the last mentioned, 56 Cr. R. 519, 88 S. W. 870, 871.

The inhibition in this article is against a second election "within the same prescribed limits"—i. e., the limits of the subdivision in which the first was held—not within the different limits of another subdivision. For illustration: If two justice precincts compose a commissioners' precinct and prohibition is in force in one and not in the other, there is nothing to prevent an election in the commissioners' precinct in less than two years after the election in the justice precinct in which prohibition is in force. The status of the justice precinct in which prohibition is in force is not affected by the result in the commissioners' precinct election prohibition is still in force in the justice precinct, and if prohibition carries then the law is extended to the other justice precinct, where before the election prohibition was not in force. Griffin v. Tucker, 102 T. 429, 118 S. W. 639.

Second election continuing prohibition.—An election in a local option territory in which prohibition prevails at the time of election, resulting in favor of prohibition, does not affect the status of the territory, but the law remaining in force by virtue of the first election, and not the later one. Leftwich v. State (Cr. App.) 55 S. W. 571.

State held entitled to show a local option law put into operation in 1903, notwithstanding the holding of an election in 1905, prior to the commission of the alleged offense. Givens v. State, 49 Cr. R. 267, 91 S. W. 1090, 1091.

A local option election subsequent to the one under which a prosecution was based, which also resulted in favor of prohibition, did not nullify, supersede, and set aside the prior election. Wade v. State, 53 Cr. R. 184, 109 S. W. 191.

The result of an election favorable to the local option law did not repeal a prior election, so as to invalidate a prosecution brought under the prior election. Holmes v. State, 55 Cr. R. 331, 118 S. W. 571.

One held properly prosecuted under the second election adopting the local option law in a county. Mayo v. State, 62 Cr. R. 110, 136 S. W. 790.

Orders and proceedings under a local option election offered as bearing upon the time when a local option law went into effect held inadmissible; that election having been superseded by another. Green v. State, 62 Cr. R. 345, 137 S. W. 126.

— Proclamation of result.—County held subject to the prohibition law, though there was no proclamation of the result of the second election continuing prohibition. Decker v. State, 39 Cr. R. 20, 44 S. W. 845.

Second election repealing prohibition.—See notes under Art. 5725.

Art. 5725. [3394] Order, etc., on second election.—When such second election results against prohibition, the court shall enter an order setting aside the previous order enforcing prohibition, and shall officially announce and publish the same as provided where the election resulted in prohibition. [Acts 1887, p. 96; Amend. 1893, p. 48. Id.]

See Roberts v. State (Cr. App.) 144 S. W. 940.

Second election repealing prohibition.—The statute expressly provides that prosecutions may be maintained for a violation of the local option law after the repeal of the law in the territory. Woods v. State (Cr. App.) 75 S. W. 37.

While the local option law of a county passed in 1903 cannot be maintained after the abrogation of the law by a law passed in 1906. Byrd v. State, 51 Cr. R. 539, 103 S. W. 863.

— Publication of result.—Failure of the commissioners' court to publish the result of a county election abolishing prohibition held not to invalidate an order for a local option election in a precinct therein, which would warrant the reversal of a judgment convicting defendant of a violation of the local option law. Lyon v. State, 42 Cr. R. 506, 61 S. W. 125.

Art. 5726. [3395] May hold second election in subdivision.—The failure to carry prohibition in a county shall not prevent an election for the same from being immediately thereafter held in a justice's precinct, or subdivision of such county as designated by the commissioners' court, or of any town or city in such county; nor shall the failure to carry prohibition in a town or city prevent an election from being immediately thereafter held for the entire justice's precinct or county in which said town or city is situated; nor shall the holding of an election in a justice's precinct in any way prevent the holding of an election immediately thereafter for the entire county in which the justice's precinct is situated; but, when prohibition has been carried at an election ordered for the entire county, no election on the question of prohibition shall be thereafter ordered in any justice's precinct, town or city of said county until after prohibition has been defeated at a subsequent election for the same purpose, ordered and held for the entire county, in accordance with the provisions of this title; nor in any case where prohibition has carried in any justice's precinct shall an election on the question of prohibition be ordered thereafter in any town or city of such precinct until after prohibition has been defeated at a subsequent election ordered and held for such entire precinct. [Amend. 1893, p. 48.]

Election in city, town or subdivision—After rejection by county.—This article clearly provides for the holding of a second election in a city or town upon the failing of prohibition to carry in the county. Citizens of cities and towns have the right to determine whether the sale of intoxicating liquors and beer shall be prohibited within their respective limits. Sweeney v. Webb, 33 C. A. 324, 78 S. W. 769.

The holding of a local option election in a county in August which results against its adoption does not make illegal the holding of an election in September thereafter in a commissioner's precinct to determine whether local option should be adopted therein. Cordell v. Britton, 50 C. A. 208, 109 S. W. 496.

— After adoption by county.—Where local option prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors throughout a county has been adopted, the commissioners' court may refuse a petition for a local option election in a single district in such county. Roper v. McCoy, 29 C. A. 470, 68 S. W. 459.

Effect of adoption by county upon precinct laws.—A conviction for violation of the local option law in a certain precinct of the county is erroneous, where local option had been adopted in the county before the finding of the indictment, the law in the precinct shall be deemed to be part of the law of the county. 49 Cr. R. 56, 57 W. 651.

Declaration against prohibition, in a local option election in a commissioners' precinct held not to affect the status of a justice's precinct therein in which prohibition was in effect. Griffin v. Tucker, 102 T. 420, 118 S. W. 635.

At such election by a county, at an election held throughout the county, of Pen. Code, Art. 597, fixing the penalty for violating the local option law at confinement in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than three years, superseded the prior local option law adopted in any of the precincts in the county, so that such penalty was operative throughout the county, including such precincts. Garrett v. State, 61 Cr. R. 254, 134 S. W. 696.

Election for district embracing territory already dry.—The right of a people of a school district to have prohibition in their district is not affected or destroyed by reason of the fact that district lies partly in a county in which prohibition prevails. Kidd v. Truett, 25 C. A. 618, 68 S. W. 310.

That all of a county except two towns was under local option when an election was held to place the entire county under local option held not to invalidate the election. Cantwell v. State, 47 Cr. R. 521, 85 S. W. 18.

A commissioners' court can order an election in a commissioners' precinct, composed of two justices' precincts, though prohibition is in force in one of the justices' precincts and not in force in the other, it not being inhibited by either article 5724 or this article. Griffin v. Tucker, 102 T. 420, 118 S. W. 638.

Law can only be repealed by vote of entire district.—Local option having been adopted by a county, a city therein could not thereafter hold a local option election until the repeal of the local option law by the entire county, nor could the legislature authorize the same until such time as the result of a second county election in favor of prohibition, was not published; the first election having been declared as prohibiting the sale of liquor until the law should be repealed, and under the constitution the law could only be repealed by the voters of the entire district. Adair v. Kelly, 17 C. A. 419, 44 S. W. 829.

The local option law in 1892 could only be repealed by vote of the entire people in the territory in which it was operative. Ex parte Elliott, 44 Cr. R. 576, 72 S. W. 337.

A local option election held only for a part of the territory originally adopting local option, being on an account void ab initio, need not be held valid until contested by competent authority, and its invalidity may be determined in a collateral proceeding. Oxley v. Allen, 49 C. A. 90, 107 S. W. 945.

Art. 5727. [3396] Penalty.—When any such election has been held and has resulted in favor of prohibition, and the aforesaid law has made the order declaring the result, and the order of prohibition, and has caused the same to be published as aforesaid, any person who shall thereafter, within the prescribed bounds of prohibition, sell, exchange, or give away, with the purpose of evading the provisions of this title, any intoxicating liquors whatsoever, or in any way violate any of the provisions of this title, shall be subject to prosecution by information or indictment, and shall be punished as prescribed in the Penal Code. [Acts 1893, p. 48. P. C. 378.]

When prohibition takes effect.—See, also, Art. 5722 and notes.

In a prosecution for violation of the local option law, a charge that the law was in force held justified. Sebastian v. State, 44 Cr. R. 508, 72 S. W. 849.

One cannot be prosecuted for the sale of intoxicants until after 28 days from the first publication. Byrd v. State, 53 Cr. R. 607, 111 S. W. 149.

Evidence of adoption of prohibition.—See, also Arts. 5721, 5722, and notes.

Question whether local option law is in force in a county is for jury. Strickland v. State (Cr. App.) 47 S. W. 470.

An order of the commissioners' court and their publication of the result of a local option election held sufficient to establish its legality. Cooper v. State (Cr. App.) 65 S. W. 212.

In a prosecution for violating local option law, return and poll list of election held competent in evidence. Nelson v. State (Cr. App.) 76 S. W. 502.

In a prosecution for violation of the local option law, the original minutes of the commissioners' court, containing the orders going to make a valid local option law, are admissible to prove the existence of the law. Holley v. State, 46 Cr. R. 324, 51 S. W. 957.

The order for a local option election, the order declaring the result, and the certificate of the county judge, having evidence that local option was in force in the territory specified. Cantwell v. State, 47 Cr. R. 521, 85 S. W. 18.

On a prosecution for a violation of the local option law, held proper to permit the minutes of the commissioners' court to be corrected and read. 1d.

In a prosecution for violating the local option law, a statement by a witness that there was a local option law in the county held insufficient to show that fact so as to sustain a conviction for its violation. Bills v. State, 55 Cr. R. 541, 117 S. W. 835.

While, under the statute, contests of local option elections must be taken in due time, objection to every prosecution for violating the local option law require the introduction of formal orders of the commissioner's court adopting local option in the county.

Under Arts. 5722-5725, a county court record, purporting to show the proceedings taken for the adoption of local option, but failing to state for what purpose the local option election was held, and the minutes failing to show whether the result of the election was favorable or unfavorable, was not sufficient to show that local option had been adopted in the county. Roberts v. State (Cr. App.) 144 S. W. 948.
The state, on a trial for following the occupation of selling liquor in local option territory, must show that local option was in effect at the time, and a mere offer in evidence of certified copies of orders showing that local option was in effect is not sufficient.

Lester v. State (Cr. App.) 153 S. W. 861.

Judicial notice.—The local option law is a local or special law, and is in force only in those counties where the people have adopted it, and the court on appeal does not judicially know in what territory it has been adopted. Dorman v. State, 64 Cr. R. 104, 141 S. W. 526.

Effect of prohibition in general.—Legality of contracts.—Though a lease provided that the premises should be used for the saloon business, the contract was not rendered illegal, nor the lease dissolved, by the adoption of local option in the county. Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Keenan, 99 T. 79, 88 S. W. 197.

In an action for the price of beer sold defendant on the ground of illegality of consideration, in that the beer was intended to be sold in a local option territory evidence held insufficient to show that liquor was retailed was a local option territory, so as to defeat the action. Dallas Brewery v. Holmes Bros., 51 C. A. 614, 113 S. W. 122.

Sales to minors.—Where the local option law is in force in a district, the law prohibiting the sale of liquor to minors held superseded. Tompkins v. State, 48 Cr. R. 364, 90 S. W. 1019.

A sale of liquor to a minor in local option territory cannot be prosecuted under the statute prohibiting sales to minors, as it is a violation of the local option law. Dean v. State, 49 Cr. R. 249, 92 S. W. 28.

A person can be convicted of giving intoxicating liquors to a minor, regardless of whether the local option law was in force in the county. Ex parte Cassens, 57 Cr. R. 377, 122 S. W. 888, 891.

What constitutes sale within prescribed bounds.—Order to one outside local option district to buy whisky to be sent by express C. O. D. held not a sale consummated within the prohibited district, and hence a prosecution for the illegal sale of liquor there will not lie. Weathered v. State (Cr. App.) 60 S. W. 876.

If accused merely acted as another's agent in purchasing intoxicants and delivering them, he is not guilty of making a sale in violation of the local option law. Scott v. State (Cr. App.) 153 S. W. 871.

Changes in boundaries of precinct—Before election.—See notes under Art. 5716.

After election.—See notes under Art. 5721.

Change of laws during period of prohibition.—The legislature cannot by amendment impose new burdens upon the people of a precinct pending the operation of the local option law therein. Ex parte Bains, 39 Cr. R. 62, 45 S. W. 24.

The legislature in amending the provisions of the local option law cannot affect territory in which the law is already in force. Ex parte Elliott, 48 Cr. R. 575, 72 S. W. 897.

Legislature held to have power to create additional offenses relating to sale of liquor in local option territory. Mizell v. State, 59 Cr. R. 226, 128 S. W. 125.

Accused could not be convicted of a felony for selling liquor in local option territory under the act of the thirty-first legislature, where the county had adopted local option before the act was passed. Rice v. State, 60 Cr. R. 293, 128 S. W. 613.

Statute making the violation of local option law a felony held not to apply to counties adopting local option before its passage. Crawford v. State (Cr. App.) 128 S. W. 1122.

Art. 5728. [3397] Election, how contested.—At any time within thirty days after the result of the election has been declared, any qualified voter of the county, justice's precinct or subdivision of such county, or any town or city of such county in which such election has been held, may contest the said election in the district court of the county in which such election has been held, which shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction of all suits to contest such election; and the proceedings in such contest shall be conducted in the same manner as has been, or may hereafter be, prescribed; and said court shall have jurisdiction to try and determine all matters connected with said election, including the petition of such election and all proceedings and orders relating thereto, embracing final count and declaration and publication of the result putting local option into effect; and it shall have authority to determine questions relating to the legality and validity of said election, and to determine whether by the action or want of action on the part of the officers to whom was entrusted the control of such election, such a number of legal voters were denied the privilege of voting as had they been allowed to vote might have materially changed the result; and, if it shall appear from the evidence that such irregularities existed in bringing about said election or in holding same, as to render the true result of the election impossible to be arrived at, or very doubtful of ascertaining, the court shall adjudge such election to be void, and shall order the proper officer to order another election to be held, and shall cause a certified copy of such judgment and order of the court to be delivered to such officer upon whom is devolved by law the duty of or-

1. Validity of statute.—See, also, notes under Art. 5716.

This article held valid. Hardy v. State, 52 Cr. R. 420, 107 S. W. 547.

This law is constitutional. It simply serves as a statute of limitation and repose against any one contesting irregularities thereof after the expiration of sixty days. Evans v. State, 55 Cr. R. 460, 117 S. W. 187.

This article is constitutional. Ex parte McGuire, 57 Cr. R. 28, 123 S. W. 425.

The title of Gen. Laws 1907, pp. 447, 448, amending Rev. St. 1895, art. 2397 (Art. 5728 now), was sufficient to embrace any provisions therein extending the time within which a local option election may be contested. Coats v. Hbling (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 627.

The amendment of 1907 does not violate any vested personal or property rights. Id.

3. — Election.—As used in this article the term “election” means the act of casting and receiving the ballots from the voters, counting the ballots and making returns thereof. Where, the legislature seem to have had in view those things to be done on the day of the election in contradistinction to the acts which are to be done preparatory to the election. The posting of the notices of election not being embraced in the terms of the statute, the failure to post one of such notices for twelve prior days to the election constitutes a ground for the contest of the election. Norman v. Thompson, 96 T. 250, 72 S. W. 63, 64.

The term “election” as used in this article means “the act of casting and receiving the ballots from the voters counting the ballots and making returns thereof.” Lowery v. Briggs (Civ. App.) 73 S. W. 1062.

As used in this article the word “election” means the act of casting and receiving the ballots from the voters, counting the ballots and making returns thereof. As used here the word “election” has in view those things done on the day of the election and not those things done preparatory to holding the election. Kilgore v. Jackson, 55 C. A. 99, 118 S. W. 822, 823.

4. Time for contesting election—In general.—Where local option election was held on June 15th and votes counted and result announced June 25th, suit filed on July 3rd to contest and citation served same day was within the thirty days provided by law. McCormick v. Jester, 63 C. A. 306, 115 S. W. 285.

Thirty days having elapsed after local option went into effect in a county, its adoption could not be contested. Terry v. State (Cr. App.) 117 S. W. 801.

Under this article a person prosecuted for violating the local option law cannot defend on the ground of the invalidity of the local option election, after the expiration of the prescribed time. Jerue v. State, 57 Cr. R. 213, 123 S. W. 414.

In amendment of 1907 a local option election cannot be contested by any voter of the election district after 30 days from the declaring of the result, or by any voter in districts within the state which have voted on local option within 60 days. Kirksey v. State, 61 Cr. R. 298, 138 S. W. 124.

Under this article, where no contest was filed within thirty days after prohibition was declared, one tried for violating the law was not entitled to have the ballots examined for defects avoiding the election. Kirksey v. State, 61 Cr. R. 641, 135 S. W. 577.

5. — Elections held prior to enactment of statute.—The provision that contests of elections theretofore held must be made within 60 days from taking effect of the law, 5738.
and not otherwise, is valid, and applies to all local option elections. Hardy v. State, 52 Cr. R. 425, 107 S. W. 441; McCormick v. State, 52 Cr. R. 403, 107 S. W. 551.

Art. 5728

The act of the thirtieth legislature expressly limited attack on local option laws, as far as contest is concerned, to sixty days after the act took effect. Wilson v. State (Cr. App.) 107 S. W. 818.

Where accused was prosecuted more than sixty days after this law took effect, he could not raise the question of the validity of the election by attacking the orders of the commissioners court. The record shows there was no civil contest of the local option law. Alexander v. State, 53 Cr. R. 504, 111 S. W. 145.

The commissioners court, in a proceeding for the seeking of a declaratory judgment, and enjoining the enforcement of an act of 1907 (now Art. 5728), enlarges the field of inquiry in contests of local option elections, and provides for filing contests within sixty days after taking effect of law under elections theretofore held. McCormick v. Jester, 53 C. A. 306, 115 S. W. 265.

The act of 1907 prohibited contests of election after sixty days from the time the law took effect. Romero v. State, 56 Cr. R. 435, 120 S. W. 860.

Under the amendment of 1907 an election cannot be contested by any voter, in districts which have held elections prior to the enactment of the statute, after sixty days from the declaration of the result of the election. Kirksie v. State, 61 Cr. R. 280, 135 S. W. 124.

6. Jurisdiction of contests.—The district court has jurisdiction of contest of local option election, although the ground of invalidity is not specified in this article. Oxford v. Frank, 30 C. A. 345, 70 S. W. 428, 429.

The commissioners court has no authority to try a local option election contest and declare such an election illegal and void. Burks v. State, 51 Cr. R. 637, 103 S. W. 561.

This article gives to the district court of the county in which a local option election has been held original and exclusive jurisdiction of all suits for the contest of a local option election, and confers upon such court jurisdiction to try and determine all matters connected with said election. Cofield v. Britton, 50 C. A. 208, 109 S. W. 455.

Under this article, Art. 3050, and Const. art. 5, § 11, a district judge of a district not embracing the county in which the contested election was held, has exclusive jurisdiction, and the judge of that district, could try the case; jurisdiction being conferred on the district court and not its judge. Savage v. Umphries (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 895.

7. Procedure in general.—See, also, Chapter 8 of Title 49. Contest cannot be made in the district court without legislation prescribing the rules of procedure, etc. Odell v. Wharton, 27 S. W. 123; 87 T. 172.

The first part of this article indicates that it was the intention of the legislature that the general rules of procedure regulating contested elections as contained in Chapter 8 of Title 49 should be applicable to contests of local option elections. Kidd v. Truett, 28 C. A. 616, 68 S. W. 310.

In the absence of statute, the court was not bound, in a local option election contest, to have certain challenged ballots removed from the boxes, and then direct the clerk to recount the remaining ballots and announce the result to the court. Savage v. Umphries (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 895.

8. Notice of contest.—A contestee in a local option election contest does not, by answering to the merits, waive the right to insist upon a dismissal for the contestant’s failure to serve the statutory notice. Norton v. Alexander, 28 C. A. 466, 67 S. W. 787.

Actual notice to one of defendants in contested local option election of grounds of contest held not to dispense with necessity for serving written notice required by statute to contest jurisdiction. Mercereau v. Woods, 33 C. A. 645, 78 S. W. 15.

Notice of the ground of contesting an election held sufficient within Arts. 3061, 3077, 3078, and this article. McCormick v. Jester, 53 C. A. 306, 115 S. W. 278.

Service of the notice of contested election on the assistant county attorney held proper under Art. 3063.

One is not estopped from contesting a local option election where a temporary injunction obtained by him restraining the publication of the result has been dissolves. Savage v. Umphries (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 893.

A voter’s capacity under this article to contest an election cannot be objected to on appeal, where the court below made no finding on such capacity and no finding on that point was requested by the contestee. Savage v. Umphries (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 891.

10. Petition.—In a petition contesting an election to decide whether intoxicating liquors should be sold in a specified territory, it is not sufficient to allege the grounds of contest in the words of the statute, but facts must be averred which would show that the election was either illegal or that the result was impossible to be arrived at, or that it was very doubtful of ascertaining. The fact that 500 illegal votes were cast, without stating for which side they were cast does not make the election invalid. They may have been cast against prohibition, and if so the result was not thereby changed. Stinson v. Gardner, 97 T. 387, 78 S. W. 494.

12. Scope of inquiry.—A suit under the statute to contest a local option election is a special proceeding, and the courts are limited in their investigation to such subjects as are specified in the statute. Cofield v. Britton, 50 C. A. 208, 109 S. W. 453.

13. Evidence.—It is not error to refuse permission to the defendant to introduce in evidence injunction proceeding, pending in district court, wherein it is sought to prevent the putting into operation the local option law in the county. Keller v. State, 46 Cr. R. 549, 81 S. W. 1214.
In a suit to contest the validity of a local option election, the refusal to admit certain testimony regarding a previous local election held not erroneous. Oxley v. Allen, 49 C. A. 90, 107 S. W. 945.

Evidence in a contest of a local option election as to the casting of unnumbered ballots held not admissible under the general denial. McCormick v. Jester, 53 C. A. 506, 115 S. W. 278.

14. Grounds of contest—In general.—See, also, notes under Arts. 5715, 5717, 5720, and other articles in this chapter.

It was the intention by enacting this article to provide that a local option election might be contested upon any ground which would render such election illegal or void. Kidd v. Truett, 28 C. A. 618, 68 S. W. 310, 311.

The finding of a court in an election contest that a voter who was not allowed to vote would have probably voted for prohibition held erroneous. McCormick v. Jester, 53 C. A. 394, 115 S. W. 278.

Findings of the district judge in a proceeding to contest a local option election held to authorize a judgment declaring such election void under this article. Savage v. Umphres (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 291.

15. Result must be affected.—Where, at a county local option election, the election in one precinct was invalid, but the vote of such precinct would not change the result, the election for the county will not be held invalid. Roper v. Scurluck, 29 C. A. 464, 69 S. W. 456.

An allegation that 500 illegal votes were cast, without stating for which side they were cast, does not show that the election was invalid, as they may have been cast for prohibition and not have affected the result of the election going against prohibition. Stinson v. Gardner, 97 T. 237, 78 S. W. 494.

Petition in local option election contest, stating payment of poll tax for voters, but falling to allege how such voters voted, held to state no ground of contest. Stinson v. Gardner (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 354.

Allowance of certain erroneous votes in a local option election held not to invalidate the election or the finding that such votes were sufficient to change the result. Hoover v. Thomas, 35 C. A. 535, 80 S. W. 859.

In order to render the election void on account of action or want of action on part of officers, it must appear that such number of legal voters were denied privilege of voting, as, had they been allowed to vote, the result would have been materially changed. Ex parte Wood (Cr. App.) 81 S. W. 530.

In a local option election contest, that only one of two tickets bearing the same number was counted for prohibition did not show any injury, in the absence of an allegation that the other ticket was voted against prohibition. Savage v. Umphres (Civ. App.) 115 S. W. 893.

16. — Fraud or illegality in general.—It is not necessary in order to make a case of fraud and illegality in an election that the officers holding the election should themselves be implicated. If a sufficient number of illegal or fraudulent votes have been cast to make the verdict at the polls a false verdict, the election should be set aside. Whaley v. Thompson, 41 C. A. 405, 93 S. W. 213.

17. — Illegal ballots.—See, also, Art. 5719 and notes.

If officers of the election provide illegal ballots and these are voted, and the irregularity renders it impossible to arrive at the result of the election the election must be declared void. Griffin v. Tucker, 51 C. A. 522, 119 S. W. 340.

18. — Denial of privilege of voting.—This statute makes it the duty of the court in which the validity of a local option election is contested to declare the election void, "number of legal voters were denied privilege of voting, as, had they been allowed to vote might have materially changed the result." Truesbell v. Bryan, 24 C. A. 386, 60 S. W. 60.

19. — Failure to post notice.—See, also, notes under Art. 5718.

The failure to post one of the notices of election for twelve days prior to the election constitutes no ground for the contest of the election. Norman v. Thompson, 96 T. 280, 72 S. W. 63.

20. Enforcement of law pending contest.—A mere contest of a local option election does not suspend a prosecution under the law, declared in force by the proper authorities. Ex parte McGuire, 57 Cr. R. 38, 123 S. W. 425.

A prosecution for violating the local option law (Arts. 5715-5730) may be maintained pending a contest of the election adopting such law. Gober v. State, 57 Cr. R. 64, 123 S. W. 427.

Where an election at which local option was voted in the county was held to be illegal on an appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals in an election contest, on the judgment subsequent to the contest was no longer "pending" within the provision of this article that the enforcement of the local option law shall not be suspended pending the contest. Savage v. State (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 511.

21. The judgment of the court—In general.—The clause relating to the character of judgment to be entered in certain contingencies was inserted in order to secure that no one would have another election in such case and to prevent unnecessary delay in bringing on such election. Kidd v. Trust, 28 C. A. 618, 68 S. W. 310, 311.

A contest of election concludes no question which may be involved in a prosecution for the violation of the law after it has been declared in force. Norman v. Thompson, 96 T. 280, 72 S. W. 62.

22. — On appeal.—By virtue of this article the appellate court can reverse the judgment and render judgment for the proposition which was carried by the election according to the decision of the appellate court. McCormick v. Jester, 53 C. A. 306, 115 S. W. 278.

23. Presumption where election not contested.—The court, on a trial for violating the local option law, must assume that the election putting the law in force was valid, where there was no contest as provided by this article; and it cannot consider questions.
as to the sufficiency of the orders and judgments of the commissioners' court putting local option into effect. Wesley v. State, 57 Cr. R. 277, 122 S. W. 556.

Under this article the trial court and the court on appeal must assume the verity of the judgment of the commissioners' court, determining that the local option law was adopted at an election held therefor, until the same has been annulled in a contest in the district court.

In a prosecution for liquor selling, the regularity of an uncontested local option election is assumed. Trinkle v. State, 57 Cr. R. 567, 123 S. W. 1114.

Under this article it will, in the absence of a contest, be conclusively assumed, on appeal from a conviction for violating the local option law, that the judgment and decree putting local option in force and the proclamation of the county judge had the effect to institute the law in the county. Doyle v. State, 59 Cr. R. 60, 127 S. W. 815.

In a prosecution for selling intoxicating liquor in a local option territory after the time for contesting the election in such territory prescribed by this article has elapsed, the validity of the election upon the introduction of the orders of the commissioners' court is presumed, and it was not error for the court to instruct that prohibition was in force in the territory described in the orders. Moreno v. State, 64 Cr. R. 989, 145 S. W. 126.

24. Statutory contest only way to attack election.—The legality of an election cannot be questioned in a prosecution for giving away liquors at such elections. Anderson v. State, 39 Cr. R. 54, 44 S. W. 824.

A licensed liquor dealer held not entitled to contest a local option election by proceedings in equity. Norton v. Alexander, 28 C. A. 466, 67 S. W. 787.

The validity of a local option election law cannot be inquired into in a habeas corpus proceeding to release one charged with violating a local option law. The validity of such an election must be inquired into by contest before the district court. Ex parte Thulemeny, 56 Cr. R. 337, 119 S. W. 1146.

Where prohibition had been in effect in a county for several years, and no contest had been made or pending, objections to the orders of the court putting prohibition in effect, raised on a trial for violating the local option law, could not be considered. Gibson v. State, 58 Cr. R. 403, 128 S. W. 267.

25. — Injunction.—See, also, Title 69.

An election contest held to be a mere political proceeding, as distinguished from a suit, so that injunction will not lie to prevent publication of result of local option election, even at the suit of liquor dealers, on allegation of irreparable injury to their property in case of publication. Robinson & Watson v. Wingate, 36 C. A. 65, 80 S. W. 1067.

Equity held without jurisdiction to prevent by injunction a publication of the result of a local option election, but the remedy is in the manner pointed out by statute. Merrill v. Savage, 49 C. A. 292, 109 S. W. 408.

26. Conclusiveness of decision of court of criminal appeals.—Where the court of criminal appeals declared the local option election in certain districts void, and the state and county accepted the decision, and licenses were issued for the sale of liquor for many years, the decision is conclusive upon the civil courts. State v. Schwarz, 103 T. 119, 124 S. W. 420.

Art. 5729. [3398] Refunding of license tax.—In all cases where any person, firm or association of persons pursuing the occupation of liquor dealers under license issued in accordance with the laws of this state has been or shall hereafter be prevented from pursuing such occupation for the full time to which he would be otherwise entitled by reason of the adoption of local option in any county, precinct, subdivision of such county, town or city, a proportionate amount of the taxes paid by him for the unexpired term shall be refunded to him. [Acts 1883, p. 110. Amend. 1893, p. 48.]

Art. 5730. [3399] District judges to give in charge to grand juries. —It is hereby made the duty of the district judges to give this law in charge to the grand juries; and it is made the special duty of the county attorneys to file or have filed a complaint in the county court of said county against all houses, and the keepers thereof, used for the sale, exchange or gift of any kind of intoxicating liquors, in any county, justice's precinct or subdivision of such county, or of any town or city in such county in this state when local devices are resorted to, to prevent or avoid detection of the keeper thereof; and, upon said complaint being filed with any justice of the peace, describing the place where the device is kept, and the name of the person violating this law, if known, said justice of the peace shall issue his warrant commanding any sheriff or constable to search said place, and, if the law is being violated, to arrest the person or persons so violating the law; and it shall be the duty of the sheriff of the county wherein such house or place where such device is kept, for the sale or gift of intoxicating liquors, to demand admission into the same; and, upon admittance being refused, the sheriff is hereby authorized and required by law to force open the same and arrest and hold for trial before the courts all such persons who shall violate any of the provisions of this title; and it is the duty of the county judges and justices of the peace, having jurisdiction in the premises, to see that this law is rigidly enforced; provided, no arrest or search shall ever be made until the sheriff shall first procure a warrant therefor, issued by the proper authority. [Acts 1879, p. 41. Amend. 1893, p. 48.]

House or place.—The words "house" or "place" in this article include an arbor kept by defendant for the purpose of selling liquor. Whitcomb v. State, 21 S.W. 976, 2 C.A. 391.
TITLE 89

MANDAMUS

Art. 5731. No mandamus on ex parte hearing.

Art. 5732. Mandamus, etc., not to issue against officer of executive department, except by supreme court.

Article 5731. [1450] No mandamus on ex parte hearing.—No mandamus shall be granted on ex parte hearing; and any peremptory mandamus granted without notice shall be abated on motion. [Act May 11, 1846, p. 300, sec. 4. P. D. 1407.]

Art. 5732. [4861] Mandamus, etc., not to issue against officer of executive department, except by supreme court.—No court of this state (except the supreme court, as provided by article 1526) shall have power, authority or jurisdiction to issue the writ of mandamus or injunction or any other mandatory or compulsory writ of process against any of the officers of the executive departments of the government of this state to order or compel the performance of any act or duty which, by the laws of this state, they, or either of them, are authorized to perform, whether such act or duty be judicial, ministerial or discretionary. [Acts 1881, p. 7, sec. 4.]

For jurisdiction of the several courts in mandamus, see Arts. 1525, 1528, 1592, 1713, 1772.

I. NATURE AND GROUNDS IN GENERAL

1. Mandatory Injunction.—See notes under Art. 4643.
2. Existence and adequacy of other remedy in general.—Mandamus will not issue where there is another adequate statutory or common-law remedy. Screwmen's Ass'n v. Benson, 76 T. 552, 13 S. W. 379.
The writ will be refused where there is an adequate legal remedy. Jackson v. Swayne, 132 T. 242, 47 S. W. 711.

Law held to afford no adequate remedy precluding mandamus in the case of a refusal to enter judgment on an alleged invalid verdict affecting the title of land. Texas Tram & Lumber Co. v. Hightower, 100 T. 126, 96 S. W. 1071.

Where suit was upon an exception to return therefor, an entry of judgment in favor of plaintiff would be an adequate remedy. Bailey v. Aransas County, 46 C. A. 847, 102 S. W. 1159.

The legal remedy which will bar mandamus must not only be adequate, but it must be specific and appropriate. International Water Co. v. City of El Paso, 51 C. A. 321, 112 S. W. 816.

A city, contracting with one for water for itself and its inhabitants, held entitled to maintain mandamus to compel performance thereof, as against the objection that its other remedy was adequate. Dewees v. Stevens, 105 T. 356, 150 S. W. 589.

The city council having acted on and refused a telephone company's application to erect poles in the streets, it cannot be said resort should be to mandamus rather than injunction against the city's interference with such erection. City of Brownwood v. Brown Telegraph & Telephone Co. (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 709.

3. Remedy by appeal, writ of error or certiorari.—Mandamus will not issue to compel the board to approve a preliminary school site when no appeal has been taken to the state superintendent. Plummer v. Gholson (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 1.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the entry of a judgment for injunction, where final judgment was reviewed at an appeal. Locke v. Clark, 94 T. 313, 60 Aycock v. Clark, 94 T. 313. Adequate relief from an order punishing contempt by forbidding a further appearance or filing of any paper can be obtained by appeal therefrom, and therefore mandamus cannot be resorted to. Kruegel v. Nash, 51 C. A. 15, 70 S. W. 983. Writ of mandamus held not to be a substitute for appeal or writ of error. Smith v. Conner, 98 T. 434, 84 S. W. 815.

The remedy for the error in computing interest accrued on a demand or otherwise, so that the judgment is rendered for an excessive sum, is by appeal or certiorari, and not by injunction. Kansas City Life Ins. Co. v. Warlington (Civ. App.) 113 S. W. 988.

Mandamus, and not certiorari, is the proper remedy to compel the clerk to perform his ministerial duty of preparing the transcript on appeal. Martin v. Irvin (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 1164.

Mandamus will not lie to correct a judgment, however erroneous, from which an appeal may be taken. Shook v. Journeay (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 406.

4. Nature and existence of rights to be protected or enforced.—Where a board of medical examiners placed such a construction on the law as to deprive a citizen of an unquestionable legal right, the latter was entitled to have the determination reviewed by mandamus. Board of Medical Examiners of Texas v. Taylor, 56 C. A. 291, 130 S. W. 574.

Codification commissioners held not entitled to maintain mandamus to compel the secretary of state to deliver to them possession of two bills passed by the thirty-second legislature, entitled "Revised Civil Statutes" and "Revised Criminal Statutes," that the mischief complete the labors thereon. Minor v. McDonald, 189 T. 461, 140 S. W. 401.

Mandamus must be founded upon a clear legal right in relator. Erp v. Robison (Sup.) 155 S. W. 180.

Courts will not control the secretary of state in rejecting a corporate charter because his purpose clause is not justified unless the purpose named is clearly authorized by law. Smith v. Wortham (Sup.) 157 S. W. 740.

5. Nature of act to be commanded.—Before mandamus will lie, a plain and unambiguous duty which it is designed to enforce must already have been imposed by law. Caven v. Coleman, 100 T. 467, 101 S. W. 199.

Mandamus will lie to compel the performance of an act which the law enjoins as a duty resulting from an office, trust, or situation. City of San Antonio v. Routledge, 46 C. A. 136, 102 S. W. 756.

Mandamus lies only to compel the performance of an existing legal duty and cannot be the means of imposing that duty. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Thompson, 65 C. A. 12, 118 S. W. 618. To justify mandamus, a legal duty must be shown. Conger v. Robison, 114 T. 141, 138 S. W. 118.

6. Demand and default.—Mandamus will not lie to compel a tax collector to issue a license as merchant druggist where he had not refused to do so. Yellowstone Kit v. Wood. 18 C. A. 633, 48 S. W. 1068.

Mandamus will not issue to compel a trial judge to make up and file a statement of facts on appeal, where relator did not apply therefor till after expiration of time for filing the record in the appellate court. Caples v. Russell, 25 C. A. 367, 68 S. W. 923.

Writ of mandamus, being based on default of duty, cannot direct a future levy of taxes in advance of default in making such levy. City of Austin v. Cahill, 99 T. 172, 88 S. W. 542, 89 S. W. 552.

Demand on a city to levy taxes to meet bonds held not necessary prerequisite of a mandamus to compel it to do so, where such demand would have met with a refusal. Id. Mandamus will not lie to compel a city to levy a tax to discharge a debt, where it does not appear that the city council has refused on request to do so. Gutta Percha & Rubber Mfg. Co. v. City of Cleburne (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 157.
MANDAMUS

A city, granting to one company a franchise to supply the city and its inhabitants with water, has no power to compel the company to construct the necessary connections to supply water to consumers, without applying for such connections in each case. International Water Co. v. City of El Paso, 51 C. A. 321, 112 S. W. 816.

The supreme court will not issue mandamus to compel a district judge to set a case for hearing on the first request by relator to have the case for hearing in vacation. Ashford v. Goodwin, 102 T. 491, 131 S. W. 535, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 699.

Before mandamus will be granted to coerce action by a judge, a previous request to act and a definite, unqualified refusal must be shown. Shook v. Journey (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 406.

Mandamus ineffectual or not beneficial. Where the granting of a writ of mandamus to compel the secretary of state to accept franchise tax would not improve the position of the relator, it should be denied. Arkansas Building & Loan Association v. Maddox, 91 T. 461, 44 S. W. 833.

Where the record on appeal shows conclusively that the conclusions of fact and law were not filed in time, mandamus does not lie to compel the district court to correct the record by striking therefrom the conclusions of fact and law. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. Powell (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 887.

Persons entitled to relief. Mandamus held not to lie to compel the undoing of what relator caused or helped to be done. Nevell v. Terrell, 99 T. 355, 87 S. W. 669, 89 S. W. 971.

A city held not deprived, by reason of contracts, of its right to maintain mandamus to compel a water company to construct, at its own cost, the necessary connections to supply water to consumers. International Water Co. v. City of El Paso, 51 C. A. 321, 112 S. W. 816.

Qualified taxpayers of a county held to have sufficient interest to sue out mandamus to compel a county commissioners' court to take certain sections of land from a school district, and permit them to be annexed to another district. McLaughlin v. Smith (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 248.

II. SUBJECTS AND PURPOSES OF RELIEF

Mandamus is the proper remedy to enforce the performance of ministerial or judicial acts, clearly defined and enjoined (Reagan v. Copeland, 78 T. 551, 14 S. W. 1031; Railway Co. v. Jarvis, 80 T. 456, 15 S. W. 1089; Schley v. Maddox (Civ. App.) 32 S. W. 988; Walker v. Barnard, 27 S. W. 726, 6 C. A. 14), when there is no other adequate legal remedy (State v. Morris, 85 T. 226, 24 S. W. 383), and a judicial discretion cannot be exercised (Screws v. Benin v. Benson, 76 T. 552, 13 S. W. 379; Callaghan v. Salliy, 5 C. A. 239, 23 S. W. 327; Railway Co. v. Lane, 79 T. 643, 15 S. W. 477, 16 S. W. 18; Ewing v. Cohen, 63 T. 485; Schlegler, 66 T. 498, 63 S. W. 358; Campbell v. Blanchard, 2 T. C. 321; Wells v. Littlefield, 62 T. 28; Luckey v. Short, 1 C. A. 5, 20 S. W. 723).

A mandamus will be granted to compel the clerk of a court to issue a citation (Williams v. Taylor, 83 T. 667, 19 S. W. 150); to compel the issuance of a warrant by the county treasurer for the payment of an audited claim (Brown v. Ruse, 69 T. 589, 7 S. W. 489); to compel the location of a land certificate (Railway Co. v. Jarvis, 80 T. 456, 15 S. W. 1089; Grigsby v. Bowles, 79 T. 338, 15 S. W. 39; Railway Co. v. Lane, 79 T. 643, 15 S. W. 477, 16 S. W. 18).

Acts and proceedings of courts, Judges and Judicial officers—Courts and Judicial officers subject to mandamus. Where a court is void, mandamus will not lie to compel it to permit the county attorney to take charge of certain prosecutions therein. Jackson v. Swainey, 92 T. 249, 47 S. W. 711.

Where it is judicially known by the court that a party is no longer a justice of the peace, it will refuse a writ directing him to proceed to trial as such justice. First Nat. Bank v. Bee Cleveland, 46 C. A. 3, 93 S. W. 1042.

Matters of discretion in general. The discretion of the county judge engaged in the administration of justice is not to be controlled by mandamus, though some or all of the members were influenced by corrupt motives. Goehauer v. Anderson, 35 C. A. 569, 81 S. W. 104.

The discretion of the trial court in adopting a reasonable method to enforce the right of a partner to inspect books disclosing firm transactions will not be controlled by mandamus. Rush v. Browning, 103 T. 649, 132 S. W. 763.

Mandamus to an inferior court lies only respecting a purely ministerial act. Wright v. Swainey, 104 T. 449, 140 S. W. 221.

Specific acts. The clerk may be required by mandamus to issue an order of sale. Moore v. Muse, 47 T. 310.

Mandamus will be granted to compel the clerk of a court to issue a citation. Williams v. Taylor, 83 T. 667, 19 S. W. 150.

Mandamus will not lie to compel a judge to dismiss a suit against a corporation and to discharge a receiver. Matlock v. Smith, 96 T. 211, 71 S. W. 906.
Where the commissioners' court arbitrarily and without exercising discretion refused to authorize bond of the county judge, mandamus lies to compel them to exercise their discretion. Gouhenour v. Anderson, 25 C. A. 569, 81 S. W. 104.

13. Entertaining and proceeding with cause.—To entitle one to mandamus to compel a lower court, on remand, to try a particular issue only, it must appear that the order remanding the case directed the trial of that issue. Taylor v. Jones, 24 C. A. 201, 68 S. W. 47.

Mandamus held to lie to compel a judge to try a case though there be remedy by injunction. St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 99 S. W. 171.

15. Conclusions of law and fact.—Mandamus will lie to compel a court of civil appeals to find conclusions of fact, when it wholly fails to do so, but not to correct insufficient conclusions. Moore v. Waco Bldg. Ass'n, 92 T. 255, 47 S. W. 716.

Mandamus will not lie to compel a judge to file conclusions of fact and law; he having understood that the request therefor was withdrawn, and his statement that he could see no reason or necessity for findings being acquiesced in by counsel. Magee v. Penn (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 1077.

16. New trial.—Unless a judge's action in granting a new trial is void, mandamus does not lie to control his action. Wright v. Swayne, 104 T. 440, 140 S. W. 221.

17. Signing or entry of judgment or order.—Mandamus will not lie to compel the entry of the judgment for injunction, the act being judicial. Aycock v. Clark, 94 T. 375, 60 S. W. 466.

A mandamus will not issue from the court of criminal appeals to compel the clerk of the court below to enter the sentence in a criminal case on the record. Jones v. State, 45 Cr. R. 418, 66 S. W. 559.

Mandamus to compel the trial court to immediately enter judgment refused. Testard v. Brooks (Civ. App.) 70 S. W. 240.

18. Vacation of judgment or order.—The refusal of a county judge to make publication of the result of a local option election held a substantial refusal to perform a statutory duty, and mandamus will not lie vacate an order of the district judge compelling the county judge to make such publication. Thorne v. Moore, 101 T. 205, 105 S. W. 936.

Mandamus does not lie to compel a trial judge to vacate a judgment of dismissal and to try an election contest on the merits. Jefferson v. Scott (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 706.

The trial judge's action in granting a petition for mandamus to compel the chairman of a Democratic executive committee to certify a certain name to the county clerk as the Democratic candidate for county commissioner held to involve the exercise of a judicial discretion which could not be reviewed by an original writ of mandamus to vacate the order. Dewees v. Stevens, 105 T. 356, 150 S. W. 583.

19. Proceedings for review.—Mandamus may be resorted to to compel clerk of supreme court to transmit to court of civil appeals copy of order of supreme court refusing writ of error, and may be issued by a justice of the supreme court in vacation. Hines v. Morse, 92 T. 194, 47 S. W. 516.

Mandamus lies to compel the court in which a judgment was entered to determine the issue as to the ability of plaintiff in error to pay the costs of an appeal, under Art. 2003 H. C. S. 1914.

A plaintiff, failing to present the statement of facts to defendant's counsel until the day before the expiration of the time for filing, when it was impossible for counsel then to prepare a statement, held not entitled to mandamus to compel the court to make cut and the appeal. Krueger v. Nash, 28 C. A. 749, 66 S. W. 61.

The court of criminal appeals may issue mandamus to compel the trial court to enter a notice of appeal, where the trial court willfully or inadvertently fails to enter such notice. over the force or fear, accused is prevented from giving it. Ex parte Martinez (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 959.

Mandamus lies to compel the district court to correct the record on appeal, when necessary to have the error corrected. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. Powell (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 857.

20. Taxation of costs.—Mandamus will not lie against the clerk of the county court to compel the entry on the probate fee book of sheriff's fees in a guardianship proceeding in such court. Shrewsbury v. Ellis, 26 C. A. 406, 64 S. W. 700.

The fact that sheriff's fees in a guardianship proceeding in the county court have never been adjudicated is a defense to a mandamus proceeding by the sheriff against the clerk of such court to compel the entry of such fees on the probate fee book. Id.

21. Criminal prosecutions.—Mandamus will not lie to compel a city court to permit the county attorney to take charge of the prosecution, if the ordinance upon which it is based is void. Mandamus to compel the city court to permit the county attorney to appear will be refused where its jurisdiction of the offense is not exclusive, and the county attorney could have filed a complaint in justice's or county court. Jackson, City Judge, v. Swayne, County Attorney, 92 T. 242, 47 S. W. 711.

To require a city judge to control proceedings in the municipal court, because if the law under which court essays to act is invalid there can be no legal prosecution, and if valid the county attorney's rights are not exclusive, and this in spite of Const. art. 5, § 21. Id.

Innocent, under which offense punishable by statute are being prosecuted, is no ground for a writ to compel the court to permit the county attorney to take charge of the prosecutions. Id.

Mandamus held not to lie to compel a county attorney to institute a criminal prosecution. Murphy v. Summers, 54 Cr. R. 369, 112 S. W. 1078.

Title 89
MANDAMUS

Art. 5732

If the stenographer did not comply with the judge's order requiring him to furnish a statement of facts in an indigent accused upon affidavit, accused would be required to sue out a mandamus to compel the issuance of the statement by the stenographer, in order to enable accused to procure a reversal for failure to have a statement of facts. Wood v. State (Cr. App.) 150 S. W. 194.

22. Acts and proceedings of public officers or boards and municipalities—Official character of act.—An officer cannot be compelled by mandamus to perform an act unless it is one that is imperatively required of him by law to perform. Harte v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 520.

The drawing of a warrant by a municipal officer for the payment of a definitely ascertained demand is a ministerial act, which may be compelled by mandamus. Altgelt v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 78 S. W. 967.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the performance of an act by an official, unless his duty to perform the same is so clear and free from doubt as not to require the exercise of discretion on his part, and so that its performance amounts to a mere ministerial act. Wogoman v. Sullivan (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 702.

A decision of the commissioners' court in a local option election held a decision on a matter committed to the court by the constitution, so that mandamus does not lie to control it. Durrett v. Robinson, 103 T. 502, 131 S. W. 400.

25. Specific acts.—Mandamus will be granted upon the application of a municipal corporation to compel an officer to perform his duty. Elser v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 733.

Mandamus is the proper remedy to compel the commissioner of the land office to receive and file field notes. Hogue v. Baker, 92 T. 58, 45 S. W. 1004.

Where the articles of a corporation include a purpose for which a corporation is not authorized to be formed and also a legal purpose, the second cannot be required by mandamus to file such articles. Miller v. Tod, 95 T. 404, 67 S. W. 483.

Where a city has no board of health or city engineer, so that they may be appointed members of the "examining and supervising board of plumbers," a mandamus will not lie to compel such board to hire an engineer, so that this law may be complied with. Caven v. Coleman, 100 T. 467, 101 S. W. 199, reversing (Civ. App.) 96 S. W. 777.

A county surveyor cannot be required to make a survey in territory lying beyond a de facto line of the county in which political powers of the state are not exercised. Wortham v. Sullivan (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 702.

26. Title to and possession of office.—Mandamus a proper remedy to restore one to an office. Nelson v. Edwards, 55 T. 399.

Mandamus is properly granted to restore a person to an office from which he has been illegally ousted. Johnson v. City of Galveston, 11 C. A. 469, 23 S. W. 150.

Action of city council in removing the mayor held not reviewable by mandamus. Riggins v. Richards (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 84.

Where the authorities of a city were threatening to unlawfully appoint a successor of a municipal officer, and to dispossess him of his office and of the property thereof, his remedy was not mandamus, but injunction. Callaghan v. McGown (Civ. App.) 90 S. W. 319.

Mandamus held not to be the proper remedy of a school superintendent to compel the school trustees to recognize his right to the office, and to prevent them from interfering therewith. Young v. Dudney (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 802.

27. Matters relating to public schools.—Mandamus to compel reinstatement of pupil refused, where facts showing cause of suspension of pupil were not set forth. Cochran v. Patillo, 16 C. A. 458, 41 S. W. 537.

Where a decision of the state superintendent that a teacher's contract is invalid is not appealable from, the teacher is entitled to mandamus to compel recognition of the contract. Town of Pearshall v. Woolis (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 959.

The contention that a county superintendent should not be compelled to approve a teacher's contract, because it would render the funds of the district deficient, held not sustainable under the evidence. Watkins v. Huff (Civ. App.) 68 S. W. 922.

Mandamus held not to lie to require state board of education to set aside an order and make a different decision. McFall v. State Board of Education, 101 T. 572, 110 S. W. 733.

28. Proceedings relating to public land.—Mandamus is not available to compel the land commissioner to cancel a patent issued nearly fifty years ago, and issue another in the name of another to petitioner, if it appears that a determination of rights would involve doubtful questions of fact. Teat v. McGaughey, 85 T. 478, 22 S. W. 302.

Mandamus was the proper remedy to compel the commissioner of the general land office to reinstate a relator or purchaser of certain sections of school lands, where their award to him had been canceled. Hazelwood v. Rogan, 95 T. 295, 67 S. W. 89.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the land commissioner to reinstate a sale, where disputed questions of fact must be determined. Wooten v. Rogan, 96 T. 434, 73 S. W. 799.

A land commissioner cannot be compelled by mandamus to sell land previously sold to an alleged minor, where he would be required to determine the question of minority. Boozer v. Terrell, 96 T. 635, 75 S. W. 482.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the commissioner to approve an application of assignee of a lessee to purchase leased school land in one of the counties during the continuance of the lease when no annual rental is delinquent. Martin v. Terrell, Com'r, 97 T. 118, 75 S. W. 748.
The supreme court has no power to interfere by mandamus to compel the commissioner of the general land office to accept an application for the purchase of school land, where the right to purchase depends on a question of fact. Clark v. Terrell, 98 T. 11, 81 S. W. 4.

Applicants to purchase school land, whose applications were accepted subject to a reservation to mandamus, held not entitled to land commissioner's right to reserve the minerals prior to the accrual of their right to demand patents. Thaxton v. Terrell, 99 T. 562, 91 S. W. 559.

Where a certificate is issued by the commissioners, showing that the purchaser has occupied the land as required by statute, and the commissioner attempts to revoke for failure to so occupy, mandamus to compel him to reinstate the sale will be granted. Mitchell v. Robison, 103 T. 642, 132 S. W. 465.

29. — Issuance of certificates and licenses.—Mandamus will not lie to board of pharmaceutical examiners to issue certificate to one passing requisite examination. Dean v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 59 S. W. 294.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the insurance commissioner to issue the certificate provided for by Art. 4497 before he has completed his investigation as his action is discretionary and there is no absolute ministerial duty resting on him. The commissioner must be satisfied that the company seeking the certificate has met all the requirements of law. The court cannot by mandamus deny him the authority which the statute gives him of investigating the subject before acting. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Love (Civ. App.) 108 S. W. 822.

Before mandamus can issue to compel the commissioner of banking and insurance to issue a license, etc., it must appear that the acts are imperatively required of him by law. Trinity Life & Annuity Society v. Love, 102 T. 277, 115 S. W. 26, 118 S. W. 1139.

30. — Establishment of roads.—Commissioners' court held not subject to mandamus under the statutes concerning the establishment of roads. Howe v. Rose, 35 S. A. 328, 50 S. W. 1019.

31. — Issuance of warrants and payment of claims.—Mandamus is the proper remedy to compel the issuance of a warrant on the county treasurer for the payment of the audited claim. Though the practice in such cases is to swear to the petition, the statute does not expressly require it. Brown v. Ruse, 69 T. 589, 7 S. W. 495.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the county treasurer to pay warrants the legality of which he doubts, the payment having been prohibited by the commissioners' court. Walk- er v. Board & Co., 8 Civ. App. 14, 27 S. W. 728.

A claimant against a city held not entitled to mandamus to compel the issuance of a warrant for his claim out of its regular order. Altgelt v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 78 S. W. 967.

Mandamus will not go to compel a city to appropriate to the payment of interest on bonds taxes collected indiscriminately for interest and sinking fund both. City of Austin v. Cahill (Civ. App.) 88 S. W. 536.

Mandamus held to lie to compel the city of San Antonio to pay off a judgment rendered against it, and to exercise the power conferred by law to raise money to discharge it. City of San Antonio v. Routledge, 46 C. A. 196, 102 S. W. 756.

Where funds for payment of teachers' salaries have been wrongfully disbursed by school trustees, mandamus to the treasurer held the proper remedy to recover the amount out of a judgment against the treasurer. Tilson v. Stephenson v. Camp (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 816.

Mandamus held to lie to compel a treasurer, who has collected a special assessment, to pay a part thereof as called for by a warrant. Fairbanks, Morse & Co. v. Tilson (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 263.

32. — Assessment and levy of taxes.—The requirements of the constitution and a city charter, that provision for interest and a sinking fund shall be made on the creation of a municipal debt, may be enforced by mandamus. Wright v. City of San Antonio (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 406; Berlin Iron Bridge Co. v. Same, Id. 408.

A judgment against a city, and mandamus to enforce the levy of a tax, held, under the circumstances, obtainable in the same suit. City of Austin v. Cahill, 99 T. 172, 88 S. W. 542, 89 S. W. 552.

Failure of a city to levy taxes to meet bonds at the time required by law may be remedied by mandamus, relating back to the time when the levy should have been made. Id.

For unpaid obligations incurred by a city during years that are past, a tax may be levied and placed on the rolls of the year when levied to pay the indebtedness, and, if the city refuse to make the levy and a surplus taxing power remains, it can be compelled by mandamus to do so. City of San Antonio v. Routledge, 46 C. A. 196, 102 S. W. 756.

Mandamus held to lie to compel the city of San Antonio to levy a special tax to pay a judgment against it. Id.

Mandamus will not lie to compel a city to levy a tax to discharge a debt where it does not appear that there is a necessity therefor. Guha Percha & Rubber Mfg. Co. v. City of Cleburne (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 157.

Mandamus will lie to require the commissioner of banking and insurance to impose tax assessments upon insurance companies required by statute. Firemen's Fund Ins. Co. v. Vol. Rosenberg, 100 T. 571, 122 S. W. 467.

33. Acts and proceedings of private corporations and individuals—Membership in corporation or association.—Mandamus will not lie to restore a member expelled from an association, where he has failed to appeal under the provisions of the constitution of the association, although the order of expulsion was void. Screwwen's Ass'n v. Benson, 70 T. 562, 13 S. W. 377; Screwwen's Ass'n v. Benson, 72 S. W. 553, Screwwen's Ass'n v. Screwwen's Ass'n.

Where the executive officers of a mutual benefit society attempt to enforce an unauthorized resolution, the member's remedy is by injunction, or by mandamus to compel restoration, if suit is brought for refusing to comply therewith. Supreme Ruling of Fraternal Mystic Circle v. Ericson (Civ. App.) 121 S. W. 92.
34. Exercise of corporate franchises and powers.—A street railway company accepting the franchise can be compelled by mandamus to operate its road. Railway Co. v. State (Civ. App.) 38 S. W. 64.

A city held entitled to mandamus: a railroad having refused to comply with an ordinance as to grade of its tracks at street crossings. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 78 S. W. 535.

Facts held to justify mandamus compelling a street railway to forthwith proceed to perform its franchise obligation to pave its portion of a street which was then being improved by the city. Denison & S. Ry. Co. v. City of Denison (Civ. App.) 112 S. W. 760.

35. Performance of corporate contracts.—A city held entitled to maintain mandamus to compel performance of a contract to furnish water to it and its inhabitants. International Water Co. v. City of El Paso. 51 C. A. 321, 112 S. W. 816.

Proceedings for an order compelling defendant to furnish water to irrigate plaintiff’s crop held one for mandamus and not injunction. Old River Rice Irr. Co. v. Stubbs (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 494.

III. JURISDICTION, PROCEEDINGS AND RELIEF

39. Jurisdiction in general.—A peremptory writ can be issued only by a court. Murphy v. Wentworth, 36 T. 147.

Mandamus cannot be issued by the district court to revise the judgment of an inferior court over which it has no appellate control. Ewing v. Cohen, 63 T. 482.

Judges of the district court may grant a writ of mandamus in vacation. Dunnagan v. Wingfield (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 288.

37. Jurisdiction of supreme court.—See Arts. 1526, 1528.

38. Jurisdiction of courts of civil appeals.—See Arts. 1592, 1585.

39. Time to sue and leave of court.—An action within Acts of 1885, c. 29, held begun by the filing of a motion and notice to file a petition for mandamus against the commissioner of the land office to compel him to award land, accompanied by the petition therefor. King v. Robison, 103 T. 390, 125 S. W. 368.

Relators held not entitled to mandamus to compel the printing of a statute with the laws of the thirty-second legislature, where the proceeding was not instituted until after the laws had been published in pamphlet form. Minor v. McDonald, 104 T. 461, 140 S. W. 401.

40. Parties.—See, also, Chapter 5 of Title 37.

Mandamus will not lie to compel the commissioner of the general land office to issue a patent, where it appears there is an adverse claimant to the land who is not made a party to the proceeding. Chappell v. Rogan, 94 T. 492, 62 S. W. 539.

Mandamus against the Judge is not the proper remedy to compel the clerk to file a motion. Kruegel v. Nash, 31 C. A. 16, 76 S. W. 981.

A third person, purchasing free school lands pending mandamus to compel the commissioner of the general land office to award the lands to the relator, cannot intervene. Sherrod v. Terrell, 97 T. 97, 76 S. W. 442.

In mandamus to compel the commissioner of the land office to reinstate relator as lessee of certain lands, another person, to whom the commissioner had subsequently leased the lands, held a necessary party. NeveU v. Terrell, 99 T. 365, 87 S. W. 669.

To compel the commissioner of the general land office to direct the relator public land previously awarded to others cannot be directed to land awarded to an applicant not made a party. Halbert v. Terrell, 102 T. 29, 112 S. W. 1036.

On the retirement from office of the defendant in a mandamus proceeding, the writ must not issue in the absence of statute permitting a substitution of his successor. Carpenter v. Cone, 54 C. A. 264, 118 S. W. 203.

41. Alternative writ.—An alternative writ in vacation should be made returnable to the next term of the court. A peremptory writ can be issued only by a court. Murphy v. Wentworth, 36 T. 147.

The statute fixing the length of time for the service of a citation before the term of court to which it is returnable does not apply to the service of an alternative writ of mandamus. Jones v. Doherty (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 596.

42. Pleading.—See, also, Chapters 2, 3 and 8 of Title 37.

Mandamus will issue on the sworn allegations of the complaint, when they are sufficient, and are met only by a general denial. Burrell v. Blanchard (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 46.

43. Scope of inquiry.—Validity of original cause of action on which judgment was rendered cannot be questioned in proceeding to enforce it by mandamus. City of Sherman v. Langham, 92 T. 13, 42 S. W. 561, 39 L. R. A. 258.

The court of civil appeals will not determine, on application for mandamus to compel the clerk of the lower court to deliver to appellant a transcript omitting certain papers, whether such papers are necessary. Baum v. McAfee (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 883.

44. Judgment or order.—Where a teacher sues to compel recognition of her rights, relief should be limited to mandamus directing the board to permit plaintiff to exercise her rights, and an injunction restraining other teachers interfering therewith. Town of Pearsall v. Woolls (Civ. App.) 60 S. W. 969.

Mandamus issued by a district to a county court in probate proceedings should never proceed farther than to command the county court to proceed to judgment. Shook v. Journey (Civ. App.) 149 S. W. 406.

45. Peremptory writ.—Where, in mandamus to compel a city engineer to ascertain and disclose the street line in front of relator’s premises in accordance with a city ordinance, he admitted a refusal to disclose the line, except in accordance with the claim of the city authorities. In accordance with his data, the court was authorized to suspend the hearing and order a peremptory writ. Giraud v. Winslow (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 1189.

46. Appeal and error.—A judgment awarding a peremptory mandamus can be superseded by appeal. Griffin v. Wakelee, 42 T. 513.

Held, that a rehearing will not be granted in mandamus proceeding where nothing will be gained by granting it. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v. Love, 191 T. 444, 198 S. W. 821, 1157.

No appeal being given by statute from an order of a district judge granting a writ of mandamus in vacation, an appeal will not lie from such order. Dunnagan v. Wingfield (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 288.

Error in granting writ of mandamus to compel justice of the peace to send up transcript, although there was no pleading or evidence assailing the action of the justice in setting aside a pauper's affidavit in lieu of a cost bond, held fundamental error, apparent on the face of the record. Hart v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 520.

On reversal of judgment of county court granting writ of mandamus to compel justice of the peace to send up transcript in order that appeal might be perfected, held, that the mandamus proceeding, an independent suit, would be remanded to the county court and not to the justice court. Id.

47. Costs.—See Chapter 18 of Title 37.
TITLE 90
MEDICINE—PRACTICE OF

CHAPTER ONE
PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS

Article 5733. Medical board established.—A board, to be known as the board of medical examiners for the state of Texas, shall consist of eleven men learned in medicine, legal and active practitioners in the state of Texas, who shall have resided and practiced medicine in this state under a diploma from a legal and reputable college of medicine of the school to which said practitioner shall belong for more than three years prior to their appointment, and no one school shall have a majority representation on said board. Said board shall be appointed by the governor of this state within ninety days after his inauguration, and the term of office of its members shall be two years or until their successors shall be appointed and qualified. No member of said board shall be a stockholder or a member of the faculty or a board of trustees of any medical school. Vacancies occurring in the board shall be filled by the governor. The word “medicine,” as used in this article, shall have the same meaning and scope as given to it in article 5745. [Acts 1907, p. 224, sec. 1.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Constitutionality of prior act.—As to constitutionality of the present act, see notes under Art. 5736.

A prior act limiting the board of medical examiners to graduates of a medical college recognized by the American Medical Association, which is composed exclusively of allopathic physicians, is not repugnant to state constitution, art. 16, § 31. Dowdell v. McBride, 92 T. 289, 47 S. W. 524.

Article 5734. Organization, meetings, etc., of the board.—The members of said board shall qualify by taking the oath of office before a notary public, or other officer empowered to administer oaths, in the county in which each shall respectively reside. At the first meeting of said board after each biennial appointment, the board shall elect a president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer. Six members shall constitute a quorum. Regular meetings shall be held at least twice a year, at such times and places as shall be deemed most convenient for applicants. Due notice of such meetings shall be given by publication in such papers as may be selected by the board. Special meetings may be held upon a call of three members of the board. The board may prescribe rules, regulations and by-laws, in harmony with the provisions of this chapter, for its own proceedings and government for the examination of applicants for the practice of medicine and obstetrics. Said board, or any member, shall have power to administer oaths for all purposes required in the discharge of its duties, and to adopt a seal to be affixed to all of its official documents. [Id. sec. 2.]
Art. 5734  MEDICINE—PRACTICE OF

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Art. 5735.  Board shall keep register.—The board of examiners shall preserve a record of its proceedings in a book kept for that purpose, showing name, age, place and duration of residence of each applicant, the time spent in medical study in respective medical schools, and the year and school from which degrees were granted; said register shall also show whether applicants were rejected or licensed, and shall be prima facie evidence of all matters contained therein. The secretary of the board shall, on March 1 of each year, transmit an official copy of said register to the secretary of state for permanent record, certified copy of which, with hand and seal of the secretary of said board, or secretary of state, shall be admitted in evidence in all courts. [Id. sec. 3.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Art. 5736.  Physicians required to register.—It shall be unlawful for any one to practice medicine in any of its branches upon human beings within the limits of this state, who has not registered, in the district clerk’s office of the county in which he resides, his authority for so practicing, as herein prescribed, together with his age, postoffice address, place of birth, school of practice to which he professes to belong, subscribed and verified by oath, which, if willfully false, shall subject the applicant to conviction and punishment for false swearing as provided by law. The fact of such oath and record shall be indorsed by the district clerk upon the certificate. The holder of the certificate must have the same recorded upon each change of residence to another county, and the absence of such record shall be prima facie evidence of the want of possession of such certificate. [Id. sec. 4.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Certificate for practice.-Const. art. 16, § 31, provides that the legislature may pass laws prescribing the qualifications of practitioners of medicine and punish persons for malpractice, but that no preference shall ever be given by law to any school of medicine. Held, that the word “medicine,” as used in the constitution, embraced the art of healing, by whatever scientific or supposedly scientific method; the art of preventing, curing, or alleviating diseases, and remedying as far as possible results of violence and accident, some thing or method supposed to possess curative power, and hence authorised the passage of this act, requiring physicians and surgeons, including osteopaths, to obtain a license before engaging in the public practice of their profession. Ex parte Collins, 57 C. R. 2, 121 S. W. 601.

This act regulating the right to practice medicine, and defining who shall be regarded as medical practitioners, was a reasonable exercise of the state’s police power. State v. Albritton, 74 State (Cr. App.) 146 S. W. 891.

This act, requiring one desiring to practice medicine to obtain authority so to do from the state board of medical examiners, is valid, since no one has an inalienable right to practice medicine or treat diseases for pay. Lewis v. State (Cr. App.) 156 S. W. 522.

Necessity of having certificate.—Although one may have a diploma “issued by a bona fide medical college of respectable standing” still he must receive a certificate to practice medicine from one of the duly constituted boards of medical examiners of the state of Texas, which shall be recorded before he would be authorized to practice. It is not necessary for him to be examined if he has complied with other provisions of the statute, but he must have the certificate. That a board refuses to examine him, or to issue a certificate to him, is no defense. Stone v. State, 48 Cr. R. 114, 86 S. W. 101.

Prosecutions for unlawfully practicing.—In general.—Where, in a prosecution for practicing medicine without a license, accused testified that he never procured a license to practice medicine, and had not filed for registration a license to practice medicine in any county, it was no defense that the alleged offense was committed before he was required to register and file a certificate to practice medicine, if he desired so to do, under this act as a legal practitioner of medicine within the state under prior laws then in force, which required a physician to file a diploma or license, and have the same recorded in the office of the clerk of the district court in which he practiced. Dankworth v. State, 61 Cr. R. 157, 136 S. W. 788.

Indictment or information.—Under this act an indictment which charges that accused did unlawfully engage in the practice of medicine in C. county without having first filed for record with the clerk of the district court of said county his authority for practicing medicine, is insufficient for failure to allege either that accused resided in C. county or that he did not register his authority to practice in the office of the district clerk of the county in which he resided. Lockhart v. State, 57 Cr. R. 99, 134 S. W. 933.

In a prosecution for violation of this act the complaint and information need not negative the exceptions in the act, which are not contained in the enacting clause, defining the offense, since the prosecution is not required to anticipate defenses arising under the act. Newman v. State, 53 Cr. R. 293, 124 S. W. 964.
Under this article and Art. 5745 an indictment charging the defendant with unlawfully practicing medicine, without having or being registered with authority for so doing, and treating and offering to treat physical disease and disorder, and making a charge therefor, is sufficient. Young v. State, 61 Cr. R. 440, 134 S. W. 736.

An indictment for practicing medicine without registering and filing for the required certificate, in violation of this act, need not negative exceptions prescribed by the act which are not contained in the clause defining the offense. Dankworth v. State, 61 Cr R. 157, 136 S. W. 788.

Evidence.—In a prosecution for practicing medicine without authority in violation of this act, evidence that defendant treated persons other than the person named in the information was admissible. Germany v. State, 63 Cr R. 276, 137 S. W. 130, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 477.

Evidence as to whether the treatment given by defendant to certain patients was harmful or beneficial was immaterial. Id.

Evidence that defendant made representations to the father of the prosecuting witness and to others that he could cure certain diseases, and had cured them, was admissible. Id.

Evidence of advertisements issued by defendant for the purpose of obtaining practice was admissible. Id.

The admission of the testimony of the father of the prosecuting witness that he had such witness treated by other physicians before she was treated by defendant was harmless error. Id.

In a prosecution against defendant for practicing medicine without a license, evidence that, on request being made for receipts for money paid by a patient's husband, defendant stated that he did not give receipts because they were unnecessary as he could not collect by law, was admissible to show that defendant was aware of the provisions of this act and that the business he was pursuing was prohibited. Singh v. State (Cr. App.) 146 S. W. 921.

The state was not limited to proof of defendant's treatment of the person alleged, but was entitled to show that defendant had treated and offered to treat other persons as proof that he had been treating or offering to treat various diseases for compensation, especially in view of the defense that he only accepted free will offerings in return. Id. Id.

In a prosecution for practicing medicine without a license, newspaper advertisements, in which defendant called himself a "professor" able to cure any and all diseases, and invited the afflicted public to come to him for treatment, were not inadmissible, because they did not show that he was practicing, or offering to practice, medicine, and did not claim to be a physician or practitioner of medicines belonging to any particular school, or because such advertisements stated that he made no charge. Mueller v. State (Cr. App.) 153 S. W. 1142.

Defendant's newspaper advertisements were not objectionable because the state, at the time the advertisements were offered, had not shown that defendant had treated the particular persons named in the first count of the indictment. Id.

Where defendant was charged in one count with practicing medicine in that he treated certain named persons, and in another count with offering to treat diseases without a license, evidence that, at various times about the time charged in the indictment, defendant treated numerous witnesses, whose names were not mentioned in the indictment, for various ailments and diseases were admissible in support of either or both counts. Id.

Evidence held to sustain a conviction of accused for unlawfully practicing medicine without a license. Id.

Unlicensed practitioner's right to recover fees.—By the act of March 23, 1887, article 3635, Rev. St. 1895, the law of 1879 was amended by providing that before the person to whom a certificate was granted (under the law of 1879) is entitled to practice by virtue thereof, such certificate must be recorded in the office of the district clerk of the county in which the person resides or solicits patients. The practitioner was not only a practitioner unable to force collection of his pay for professional services, but he was liable to prosecution under article 756 of the Penal Code.

To recover for medical services, it must appear that the physician had a certificate to practice, and that it was recorded. Wilson v. Vick (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 45.

Physician who has duly recorded diploma from duly authorized college may recover for medical services rendered, though he has no certificate from state medical examiners. Wilson v. Vick, 53 T. 85, 53 S. W. 576.

Regular practicing physician may recover for medical services, although he has not obtained a certificate to practice from a medical board appointed by district judge. Carleton v. Sloan (Civ. App.) 55 S. W. 753 (decision under prior act).

A contract for medical services by a physician practicing under an unauthorized temporary certificate is unenforceable. Peterson v. Seagraves, 94 T. 399, 60 S. W. 761.

A physician may not recover for professional services without compliance with the statute regulating the practice of medicine. Wooley v. Bell, 33 C. A. 399, 76 S. W. 797.

Art. 5737. District clerks to keep register.—It is hereby made the duty of the district clerk of each county in this state to publish a book of suitable size, to be known as the "Medical Register" of such county, and set apart one full page for the registration of each physician, and to record in the same the name and record of each practitioner who presents a certificate from the state board of examiners, issued under this law. The clerk shall receive the sum of one dollar from each physician.
so registered, which shall be his full compensation for all duties required under this law. When any physician shall die, or remove from the county, or have his license revoked, it shall be the duty of said clerk to make a note of facts at the bottom of the page as closing the record. On the first day of January in each year, said clerk shall, on request of the board, certify to the office of the state board of medical examiners a correct list of the physicians then registered in the county, together with such other information as said board may require. A copy from the medical register pertaining to any person, certified to by said clerk under the seal of said court, also a certificate issued by said officer certifying that any person named has or has not registered in said office as required by this chapter, shall be admitted as evidence in all trial courts. [Id. sec. 5.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Art. 5738. Reciprocity allowed.—The board of medical examiners may, at its discretion, arrange for reciprocity in license with the authorities of other states and territories having requirements equal to those established by this law. License may be granted applicants for license under such reciprocity on payment of twenty dollars. [Id. sec. 6.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446; Lockhart v. State, 58 Cr. R. 80, 124 S. W. 923.

Verification certificate.—Section 6 of this act provided for the issuance of verification certificates to practitioners under former laws or under medical diplomas, upon application within one year after passage of the act. The above provision was omitted when the section was re-enacted in Rev. Civ. St. 1911, as Art. 5738.

Where one has been granted a certificate under articles 3784, 3785, Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, to practice medicine in any county, and the certificate has been duly recorded, the board of examiners has no right to refuse a verification license to an applicant therefor, nor to limit the certificate of a female applicant to the practice of obstetrics. Board of Medical Examiners v. Taylor, 56 C. A. 291, 120 S. W. 575.

Under Rev. St. 1895, arts. 3784, 3785, requiring the board of medical examiners to examine applicants for certificates to practice medicine in any of its branches in enumerated subjects, and providing that the board, being satisfied as to the qualifications of an applicant, shall grant to him a certificate, which shall entitle the person to practice medicine, etc., a certificate reciting that the board has examined a person, and has found her qualified to practice the branches of obstetrics and diseases peculiar to women and children, is, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, a valid license to such person to practice medicine as limited in the certificate, and such person is entitled to a verification certificate, under Acts 1907, c. 123. State Board of Medical Examiners v. Taylor, 103 T. 444, 129 S. W. 600.

Art. 5739. Applicants for license to pass examination, etc.—All applicants for license to practice medicine in this state, not otherwise licensed under the provisions of law, must successfully pass an examination before the board of medical examiners established by this law. Applicants to be eligible for examination must present satisfactory evidence to the board that they are more than twenty-one years of age, of good moral character, and graduates of bona fide, reputable medical schools. Such schools shall be considered reputable within the meaning of this law, whose entrance requirements and courses of instruction are as high as those adopted by the better class of medical schools of the United States, whose course of instruction shall embrace not less than four terms of five months each. Application for examination must be made in writing under affidavit to the secretary of the board, on forms prepared by the board, accompanied by a fee of fifteen dollars; except, when an applicant desires to practice obstetrics alone, the fee shall be five dollars. Such applicants shall be given due notice of the date and place of examination. Applicants to practice obstetrics in the state of Texas, upon proper application, shall be examined by the board in obstetrics only, and upon satisfactory examination shall be licensed to practice that branch only; provided, this shall not apply to those who do not follow obstetrics as a profession, and who do not advertise themselves as obstetricians or midwives, or hold themselves out to the public as so practicing. In case any applicant, because of failure to pass examination, be refused a license, he or she shall, after one year, be permitted to take a second examination without an additional fee. [Id. sec. 7.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Verification certificate.—See notes under Art. 5738.

Temporary certificate.—One member of the board of examiners cannot issue a third temporary certificate to an applicant so as to entitle him to practice medicine and charge fees. Peterson v. Seagraves, 94 T. 390, 60 S. W. 752 (decision under prior act).

Unlicensed practitioner's right to recover fees.—See notes under Art. 5736.

Art. 5740. Disposition of fees.—The fund realized from the aforesaid fees shall be applied first to the payment of necessary expenses of the board of examiners; any remaining funds shall be applied by the order of the board to compensating members of the board in proportion to their labors. [Id. sec. 8.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Art. 5741. Examination, how conducted, and to include what.—All examinations shall be conducted in writing, and in such manner as shall be entirely fair and impartial to all individuals and every school of medicine, the applicants being known by numbers, without names or other method of identification on examination papers by which members of the board may be able to identify such papers, until after the applicants have been granted licenses or rejected. Examinations shall be conducted on the scientific branches of medicine only, and shall include anatomy, physiology, chemistry, histology, pathology, bacteriology, physical diagnosis, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, hygiene, and medical jurisprudence. Upon satisfactory examination under the rules of the board, applicants shall be granted licenses to practice medicine. All questions and answers, with grades attached, shall be preserved for one year. All applicants examined at the same time shall be given identical questions in each of the above branches. All certificates shall be attested by the seal and signed by all members of the board, or a quorum thereof. [Id. sec. 9.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Constitutionality.—See, also, notes under Art. 5736.

This act is not unconstitutional in discriminating against the practice of the masseur treatment, in failing to provide any board or authority to whom one can apply for license to practice such treatment, for a license to practice that treatment can be obtained from the state medical board, and the condition that an applicant have certain medical knowledge is not a discrimination against the practice of the masseur treatment, but a valid exercise of police power. Germany v. State, 62 Cr. R. 276, 137 S. W. 130, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 477.

Nature of license.—A license to practice medicine is a privilege or franchise, the refusal to grant which does not constitute a penalty. Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Necessity of having certificate.—See note under Art. 5736.

Verification certificate.—See notes under Art. 5738.

Temporary certificate.—See note under Art. 5739.

Art. 5742. Does not apply to whom.—Nothing in this law shall be so construed as to discriminate against any particular school or system of medical practice. This law shall not apply to dentists legally qualified and registered under the laws of this state who confine their practice strictly to dentistry; nor to nurses who practice only nursing; nor to masseurs, in their particular sphere of labor, who publicly represent themselves as such; nor to commissioned or contract surgeons of the United States army, navy or public health and marine hospital service, in the performance of their duties, but such shall not engage in private practice without license from the board of medical examiners; nor to legally qualified physicians of other states called in consultation, but who do not open offices or appoint places in this state where patients may be met or called to see. This law shall be so construed as to apply to persons other than licensed druggists of this state not pretending to be physicians, who offer for sale on the streets or other public places remedies which they recommend for the cure of disease. [Id. sec. 10.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

When prior act took effect.—The act of February 22, 1901, which excludes from its operation all those who were practicing medicine in Texas prior to January 1, 1885, did not go into effect until ninety days after the adjournment of the twenty-seventh legislature, and adjournment occurred April 9, 1901.  Wicker-Nease v. Watts, 30 C. A. 515, 70 S. W.
Art. 5742  MEDICINE—PRACTICE OF

(Title 90)

1002, 1003.

Masseur treatment.—See notes under Arts. 5736, 5741, 6745.

Practice of dentistry.—See Title 43.

Art. 5743.  Board may refuse to admit certain persons.—The state board of medical examiners may refuse to admit persons to its examinations, or to issue the certificate provided for in this law, for any of the following causes:

1.  The presentation to the board of any license, certificate or diploma which was illegally or fraudulently obtained, or when fraud or deception has been practiced in passing the examination.

2.  Conviction of a crime of the grade of a felony, or one which in volves moral turpitude, or procuring, or aiding or abetting the procuring of a criminal abortion.

3.  Other grossly unprofessional or dishonorable conduct of a character likely to deceive or defraud the public; or for habits of intemperance or drug addiction calculated to endanger the lives of patients; provided, that any applicant who may be refused admittance to examination before said board shall have his right of action to have such issue tried in the district court of the county in which some member of the board shall reside.  [Id. sec. 11.]

Validity of statute.—See, also, note under Art. 5744.  As to constitutionality of the act in general, see notes under Art. 5736.

This article, authorizing the denial of a physician's license for other grossly unprofessional or dishonorable conduct of a character likely to deceive or defraud the public, was not void for uncertainty.  Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 445.

Denial of license not a penalty.—A license to practice medicine is a privilege or franchise by the government, and a refusal to grant it, for whatever reason, did not constitute an act of fraud by the State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Unprofessional or dishonorable conduct.—See, also, notes under Art. 5744.
By the use of the word "other," in subdivision 3, it was intended that the conduct referred to therein should be similar in its nature to that designated in the preceding subdivision as a crime of the grade of a felony, etc.  Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Art. 5744.  Revocation of license.—The right to practice medicine in this state may be revoked by any court of competent jurisdiction, upon proof of the violation of the law in any respect in regard thereto, or for any cause for which the state board of medical examiners is authorized to refuse to admit persons to its examinations as provided in the preceding article; and it shall be the duty of the several district and county attorneys of this state to file and prosecute appropriate judicial proceedings in the name of the state, on request of any member of said board.  [Id. sec. 12.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Validity of statute.—See, also, Art. 5743 and note.

The failure of this act to define "grossly unprofessional or dishonorable conduct of a character likely to deceive or defraud the public," enumerated as one of the grounds for revoking a license to practice medicine, does not invalidate that portion of the act.  Ber-

Action of civil nature.—An action to revoke a license to practice medicine is of a civil Jurisdiction.—Any district court of a county in which two acts relied on occurred held to have jurisdiction of action to revoke license to practice medicine.  Berry v. State, (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 631.

Revocation of licenses in general.—The petition, in an action to revoke a license to practice medicine for grossly unprofessional and dishonorable conduct of a character likely to deceive and defraud the public, held sufficient as against exceptions thereto. Ber-

Where a petition to revoke a license under this act is based on grossly unprofessional and dishonorable conduct likely to deceive the public, the charge that the jury must find defendant guilty of a felony, or other crime involving moral turpitude, in order to return a verdict for the state was properly refused; each subdivision of the grounds stated being sufficient in itself to justify a judgment of revocation.  Id.

In an action to revoke license to practice medicine, issue as to proper method in different schools of physicians held not raised, in absence of evidence that defendant's treatment after the one in the ecletic school, as assumed by him.  Id.

Art. 5745.  Who regarded as practicing medicine.—Any person shall be regarded as practicing medicine within the meaning of this law:

1.  Who shall publicly profess to be a physician or surgeon and shall treat, or offer to treat, any disease or disorder, mental or physical, or any physical deformity or injury, by any system or method, or to effect cures thereof:

2. Or who shall treat or offer to treat any disease or disorder, mental or physical, or any physical deformity or injury by any system or method, or to effect cures thereof and charge therefor, directly or indirectly, money or other compensation. [Id. sec. 13.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446; Young v. State, 61 Cr. R. 440, 134 S. W. 736.

Constitutionality of act.—See notes under Art. 5736. Practicing medicine—in general.—Under this article an information charging that accused did practice medicine, etc., was not objectionable for failure to allege that he professed to be a physician or surgeon; the act not being limited to persons so professing, but including any person treating or offering to treat any disease, etc. Singh v. State (Cr. App.) 146 S. W. 891.

Masseur treatment.—See, also, Art. 5742, and notes under Arts. 5736, 5741.

Under this article an osteopath is not entitled to practice without a license. Ex parte Collins, 57 Cr. R. 2, 121 S. W. 603.

A party who advertised in a local newspaper that he was a masseur doctor located at a certain place, and that he could heal all diseases, and who treated many persons who came to him afflicted with various ailments, for which he received compensation, was "practicing medicine," within the meaning of this article, and hence was required to have a license, although he prescribed and used no drugs, but only massage treatment. Newman v. State, 68 Cr. R. 223, 124 S. W. 956.

While this act does not apply to masseurs in their particular sphere of labor who publicly represent themselves as such, yet a masseur who treats or offers to treat diseases or injuries, mental or physical, and attempts to effect a cure thereof, and charges compensation therefor, without having registered and filed a certificate authorizing him to practice medicine, is guilty of a violation of the act. Dankworth v. State, 61 Cr. R. 167, 128 S. W. 788.

A masseur who publicly represents himself as a masseur, and who limits his practice to that of a masseur, is exempt from the law requiring a certificate for the practice of medicine; but where he represents himself as a masseur, but undertakes to cure diseases for pay and represents himself as able to cure diseases, he must obtain the proper certificate. Milling v. State (Cr. App.) 150 S. W. 454.

Instructions—clearly drawing the distinction between the practice of medicine and practicing solely as a masseur, and stating that, before accused could be convicted, the jury must be satisfied that he practiced medicine and charged for his services in the practice, etc., held to correctly submit the issues. Id.

Prayer and laying on of hands.—Under this and the preceding articles no person may treat or offer to treat any disease or bodily infirmity by any manner or method whatsoever, without having first been licensed to practice as provided, and hence it prohibited the attempted treatment of disease by an unlicensed person by means of prayer and the laying on of hands. Singh v. State (Cr. App.) 146 S. W. 891.

Treating without medicine.—This act does not seek to regulate how any one shall treat diseases, but merely provides that, before any one shall treat, or offer to treat, diseases, he shall show his competency and obtain from the state board of medical examiners authority to practice, and one treating, or offering to treat, without medicine, various diseases for a specific compensation is within the act. Lewis v. State (Cr. App.) 150 S. W. 523.

Practicing for free will offerings.—Proof that defendant did not charge for his services directly, but told all who applied for treatment that he would receive from them "free will offerings," and that he actually did receive pay from patients, was sufficient to show that he practiced medicine for compensation. Singh v. State (Cr. App.) 146 S. W. 891.

Art. 5746. Definitions.—The terms, "physician," and, "surgeon," as used in this law, shall be construed as synonymous, and the terms, "practitioners" and "practitioners of medicine," and, "practice of medicine," as used in this law, shall be construed to refer to and include physicians and surgeons. [Id. sec. 16.]

See Morse v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 57 C. A. 93, 122 S. W. 446.

Art. 5747. Malpractice cause for revoking license.—Any physician or person who is engaged in the practice of medicine, surgery, osteopathy, or who belongs to any other school of medicine, whether they use the medicines in their practice or not, who shall be guilty of any fraudulent or dishonorable conduct, or of any malpractice, or shall, by any untrue or fraudulent statement or representations made as such physician or person to a patient or other person being treated by such physician or person, procure and withhold, or cause to be withheld, from another any money, negotiable note, or thing of value, may be suspended in his right to practice medicine or his license may be revoked by the district court of the county in which such physician or person resides, or of the county where such conduct or malpractice or false representations occurred, in the manner and form as is provided for revoking or suspending license of attorneys at law in this state. [Acts 1905, p. 370, sec. 1.]

NURSES

Article 5748. Board of nurse examiners; qualifications; appointment, etc.—That a board to be known as the board of nurse examiners for the state of Texas is hereby established. Said board shall be composed of five registered nurses, who shall be trained nurses of at least twenty-three (23) years of age, of good moral character and graduates of a training school connected with a general hospital or sanitarium of good standing presided over by a graduate nurse where a two years' training with a systematic course of instruction is given in the wards. Two members of said board must be nurses who have had at least two years experience in educational work among nurses. Said board shall be appointed by the governor of this state within sixty days after this Act shall go into effect, and biennially thereafter within sixty days after his inauguration, and the term of office shall be two years, or until their successors shall be appointed and qualified. Vacancies occurring in the board shall be filled by the governor. [Acts 1909, p. 228, sec. 1. Amended Acts 1911, p. 165, sec. 1, superseding Arts. 5748, 5749, Rev. St. 1911.]

Art. 5750. Regulations governing board.—The members of said board shall as soon as organized, annually in the month of April, elect from their members a president and secretary who shall also be the treasurer. Three members shall constitute a quorum, and special meetings shall be called by the secretary upon the written request of any two members. The board is authorized to make such by-laws and rules as shall be necessary to govern its proceedings, and to carry into effect the purpose of this law. The board shall adopt Robert's Rules of Order to guide it in the transaction of its business. The secretary shall keep a record of all the meetings of said board, including a register of the names of all nurses duly registered under this law, which shall at all seasonable times be open to public scrutiny; and said board shall cause the prosecution of all persons violating any of the provisions of this law, and may incur necessary expenses on that behalf. The president and secretary shall make biennial report to the governor on or before the first day of January immediately preceding the convening of the legislature, together with a statement of the receipts and disbursements of said board. [Acts 1909, p. 228, sec. 2.]

Art. 5751. Board to meet, examine applicants, etc.—That after organization it shall be the duty of said board to meet regularly once in every six (6) months, notice of which meeting shall be given to the public press and in one nursing journal one month previous to the meeting. At every regular meeting, namely, every six months, it shall be the duty of the board to examine all applicants for registration under this act. Applicants must be graduated from a chartered training school, presided over by a graduate nurse. Upon filing application for examination, each applicant shall pay an examination fee of five dollars, which shall be in no case returned to the applicant, whether the examination be passed or not, but in case the applicant passes the examination, then no further fee shall be required for registration. The examination shall be of such a character as to determine the fitness of the applicant to practice professional nursing as contemplated by this Act; provided, said board shall prepare questions for examinations and shall examine applicants on the following subjects: Practical nursing, surgical nursing, obstetrical nursing, materia medica, anatomy, physiology, hygiene, dietetics and gynecology. If the results of the examination shall be satisfactory to the majority of the board, the board shall sign and issue a certificate to the applicant to that effect, which certificate shall be attested by the secretary, whereupon the person named in the certificate shall be duly qualified to practice professional nursing in this state. Any registered nurse from any other state where the laws with reference to professional nursing are up to the standard of the laws of the state of Texas, who shall show to the satisfaction of the board that he or she is a trained, graduate nurse of a hospital or sanitarium, the standard of instruction and training of which shall meet the requirements of the rules prescribed by said board, and who shall be otherwise properly qualified, may receive a certificate and be registered as a nurse of this state without examination. [Acts 1909, p. 228, sec. 3. Amended Acts 1911, p. 165, sec. 1, superseding Art. 5751, Rev. St. 1911.]

Art. 5752. Persons entitled to registration without examination, etc.; certificate of registration, etc.—That all nurses who are engaged in nursing at the time of the passage of this Act, and who shall show to the satisfaction of the said board that they are of good moral character and were graduated prior to April, 1909, from a training school connected with a hospital or sanitarium giving two years general training, or prior to the year 1901, having given 18 months general training, and who maintains in other respects proper standards, shall be entitled to registration without examination, provided they register prior to January 1st, 1912. All persons who have heretofore received registration certificates in compliance with an Act of the regular session of the thirty-first legislature, being “An Act to define and regulate the practice of professional nursing, to create a board of nurse examiners for the examination and licensing [licensing] of nurses, and to prescribe their qualifications, to provide for their proper registration and for the revocation of certificates, and to fix suitable penalties for the violation of this Act,” shall not be required to obtain new registration certificates, but such certificates heretofore secured under said Act of the thirty-first legislature shall be in all things valid and binding and of full force and effect. All persons who are in training in the wards of a general hospital or sanitarium in this state where a two-years' training with a systematic course of instruction is given at the time of the passage of this Act, and shall graduate hereafter, and possess the above qualifications, shall be entitled to registration without examination. Provided application for registration certificate shall be made to the board herein provided for, who shall issue proper certificate of registration without examination, if the applicant be found entitled thereto under the provisions of this Act. All nurses who have served in the army or navy of the United States, and have been honorably discharged, shall be entitled to registration without examination. It shall be unlawful hereafter for any person to practice nursing as a registered nurse, without a certificate from the state board of nurse examiners. A nurse who has received his or her certificate according to the provisions of this Act shall be styled and known as a "Registered Nurse." No other person shall assume such title or use the abbreviation "R. N." or any other letters to indicate that he or she is a registered nurse. The board in each instance shall require a registra-
Art. 5753. Board to have power to revoke certificates, etc.—The state board of nurse examiners shall have the power to revoke any certificate issued in accordance with this law, by a unanimous vote of said board, for gross incompetency, dishonesty, habitual intemperance, or any act derogatory to the morals or standing of the profession of nursing as may be determined by the board; but, before any certificate shall be revoked, the holder thereof shall be entitled to at least thirty days notice in writing of the charge against him or her and of the time and place of hearing and determining of such charges, at which time and place he or she shall be entitled to be heard; and, in the event said certificate shall be revoked by said board, the holder of such certificate shall have right of action within thirty days thereafter in the district court of the county of the residence of any member of the board, and said certificate shall remain in force until the question is finally decided by the courts. Upon revocation of any certificate, it shall be the duty of the secretary of the board to strike the name of the holder thereof from the roll of registered nurses. [Acts 1909, p. 228, sec. 5.]

Art. 5754. Disposition of fees.—All fees received by the state board of nurse examiners under this law shall be paid to the treasurer of said board, who shall pay the same out on vouchers issued and signed by the president and secretary of said board upon warrants drawn by the president of the state board of examiners. All money so received and placed in said fund may be used by the state board of nurse examiners in defraying its expenses in carrying out the provisions of this law. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 5755. Law does not apply, when.—This law shall not be construed to affect or apply to the gratuitous nursing of the sick by friends or members of the family, or to any person nursing the sick for hire who does not in any way assume the practice as a trained, graduate, or registered nurse. [Id. sec. 7.]

CHAPTER THREE
ANATOMICAL BOARD

Art. 5757. Regulations for delivering dead bodies.

Art. 5758. Distribution of bodies to various institutions.

Art. 5759. Regulations for moving bodies; records to be kept.

[See notes on the subject of Dead Bodies, at end of chapter.]

Article 5756. Board, how constituted; duties of.—The professor of anatomy and the professor of surgery of each of the medical schools or colleges now incorporated, and the several medical and dental schools and colleges which may hereafter be incorporated in this state are constituted a board, to be known as the anatomical board of the state of Texas, for the distribution and delivery of dead human bodies, hereinafter described, to and among such institutions as, under the provisions of this chapter, are entitled thereto. The said board shall have the power to establish rules and regulations for its government, and to appoint and remove proper officers, and shall keep full and complete minutes of its transactions, and records sufficient for identification shall also be kept, under its direction, of all bodies received and distributed by said board and of persons to whom the same may be distributed, which minutes and records shall be open at all times to the inspection of each member of said board and of any district attorney or county attorney of this state. [Acts 1907, p. 117, sec. 1.]

Art. 5757. Regulations for delivering dead bodies.—All public officers, agents, and servants, and all officers, agents, and servants of any county, city, town, district, or other municipality, and of any and every almshouse, prison, morgue, hospital, or any other public institution, other than the state orphans' home, the confederate home, the state blind institute, and the state deaf and dumb institute, insane asylum, and epileptic colony, or any other home for the indigent, or other eleemosynary institution maintained by the state, having charge of, or control of, dead human bodies required to be buried at public expense, are hereby required, after notification in writing by said board of distribution or its duly authorized officers, or persons designated by the authorities of said board, then and thereafer to announce to said board, its authorized officer or agent, whenever such body or bodies come into his or their possession, charge, or control, and shall without fee or reward greater than the value of such fee as may be paid in any county, city, town, or municipality on the third day of April, 1907, for the burial of pauper bodies, deliver such body or bodies, and permit and suffer the said board and its agents and the physicians and surgeons, from time to time designated by them, who may comply with the provisions of this chapter, to take and remove all such bodies as are not desired for post mortem examinations by the medical staff of public hospitals or institutions for the insane, to be used within this state for the advancement of medical science; but no such notice need be given, nor any such body be delivered, if any person claiming to be and satisfying the authorities in charge of such body that he or she is of a kindred or is related by marriage to the deceased, or is a bona fide friend or representative of an organization of which the deceased was a member, shall claim the said body for burial, but it shall be surrendered, without cost to such claimant for interment, or shall, upon such claimant's request, be interred in the manner provided for the interment of bodies not coming within the operation of this chapter, nor shall notice be given for the body to be delivered, if the deceased died of contagious disease, save tuberculosis, or syphilis; nor shall notice be given, if such deceased person were a traveler who died suddenly, in which case, the body shall be buried. It is further required that due effort be made by those in charge of such almshouse, prison, morgue, hospital, or other public institution having charge or control of such dead human bodies, to find kindred or relatives of such deceased and notify him or her of the death; and failure to claim such body by kindred or relation within twenty-four hours after receipt of such notification shall be recognized as bringing such body under the provisions of this chapter, and delivery shall be made as soon thereafter to said board, its officers, or agents as may be possible. Such person in charge of such public institution shall file with the county judge an affidavit that he has made diligent inquiry and stating such inquiry as he has made. In case a body is claimed by relatives within ten days after it has been delivered to an institution or person entitled to receive the same under the provisions of this chapter, it shall be delivered to them for burial and without cost. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 5758. Distribution of bodies to various institutions.—The board, or their duly authorized agents, may take and receive such bodies so delivered as aforesaid, and shall, upon receiving them, distribute and deliver to and among the schools, colleges, physicians and surgeons aforesaid in the manner following: Those bodies needed for lecture and demonstration, in the said incorporated schools and colleges, shall first be supplied; the remaining bodies shall then be distributed proportionately and equitably, the number assigned to each to be based upon the number of students receiving instruction or demonstration in normal or morbid anatomy and operative surgery, which number shall be certified by the dean of each school or college to the board at such times as it may direct. Instead of receiving and delivering said bodies themselves through their agent or servant, the said board may, from time to time, either directly or by their designated officer or agent, authorize physicians and surgeons who shall receive them, and the number which each shall receive. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5759. Regulations for moving bodies; records to be kept.—The board may employ public carriers for the conveyance of said bodies, which shall be carefully deposited, with the least possible public display. Sender shall keep on permanent file a description by name, color, sex, age, place and cause of death of each body transmitted by him; or where the body shall be one of a person unknown, the color, age, sex, place and supposed cause of death; and any other data available for identification, such as scars, deformities, etc., shall be put on record. A duplicate of this description shall be mailed, or otherwise, safely conveyed, to the person or institution to whom the body is being sent; and the person or institution receiving such body shall, without delay, mail or otherwise safely convey to sender a receipt for the same in the full terms of the description furnished by sender. All these records shall be filed in a manner to be determined by the board so that they may be at any time available for inspection by the board, or any district or county attorney of this state. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 5760. Schools, colleges, etc., may dissect bodies.—Any and all schools, colleges, and persons who may be designated by said anatomical board of the state of Texas, shall be, and are, by this chapter authorized to dissect, operate upon, examine, and experiment upon such bodies hereinbefore described and distributed for the furtherance of medical science; and such dissections, operations, examinations, and experiments shall not be considered as amenable under any already existing laws for the prevention of mutilation of dead human bodies. Such persons, schools, or colleges shall keep a permanent record, sufficient for identification of each body received from such anatomical board or agent, which record shall be subject to inspection by the board, or its authorized officer or agent. The board shall also have power to authorize incorporated schools or colleges and individual physicians and surgeons to experiment on the lower animals under bond as hereinafter designated. [Id. sec. 5.]

Art. 5761. Parties receiving bodies to give bond.—No school, college, physician, or surgeon shall be allowed or permitted to receive any such body or bodies until bond shall have been given to the state by such physician or surgeon, or by or in behalf of such school or college, to be approved by the clerk of the county court in and for the county in which such physician or surgeon may reside, or in which such school or college may be situated, and to be filed in the office of said clerk; which bond shall be in the penal sum of one thousand dollars, conditioned that all such bodies which the said physician or surgeon, or said college, shall receive thereafter shall be used, and all such experiments on the lower animals shall be conducted only for the promotion of medical science; and whosoever shall sell or buy such body or bodies, or in any way traffic in the same, or shall transmit or convey, or cause or procure to be transmitted or conveyed, said bodies to any place outside the state, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction, be punished as provided in the Penal Code. [Id. sec. 6.]
Art. 5762. Expenses, by whom paid.—Neither the state, nor any county, nor municipality, nor any officer, agent or servant thereof, shall be at any expense by reason of the delivery or distribution of any such body; but all expense thereof, and of said board of distribution, shall be paid by those receiving the bodies in such manner as may be specified by said anatomical board of the state of Texas, or otherwise agreed upon. [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 5763. Compensation of board.—No compensation other than actual traveling expenses shall be received for their services in this capacity by members of this board. [Id. sec. 9.]

Dead Bodies

Rights in dead bodies.—While a dead human body is not property, it is a sort of quasi property, to which certain persons may have rights, and the right to dispose of a corpse by decent sepulture includes the right to the possession of the body in the condition in which death leaves it. Gray v. State, 55 Cr. R. 90, 114 S. W. 635, 22 L. R. A. (N. S.) 513.

Neither the right of sepulture nor the right to have a dead body unmolested is an absolute one, but they must yield where they conflict with the public good or where the demands of justice require such subordination. Id.

Damage to corpse in transit.—A mother may recover from a carrier for its negligent handling of the corpse of her child resulting in injury to the corpse. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. of Texas v. Hawkins, 50 C. A. 128, 109 S. W. 221.

TITLE 91
MILITIA
[See Rangers, State, Title 1111.]

CHAPTER ONE
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 5764. Active and reserve militia.—The militia of this state shall be divided into two classes, the active and the reserve militia. The active militia shall consist of the organized and uniformed military forces of this state, which shall be known as the Texas national guard; the reserve militia shall consist of all those liable to service in the militia, but not serving in the Texas national guard. [Acts 1905, p. 167, sec. 2]

Art. 5765. Who are subject to military duty.—All able-bodied male citizens, and able-bodied males of foreign birth who have declared their intention to become citizens, who are more than eighteen and less than forty-five years of age, who are residents of this state and who are not exempted by the laws of the United States, or of this state, shall constitute the militia and be subject to military duty. [Id. sec. 1.]

Art. 5766. Exemptions.—In addition to the persons exempted by the laws of the United States, the following persons shall be exempt from military duty in this state, namely:
1. The lieutenant governor and the heads of the several departments.
2. The judges and clerks of all courts of record.
3. The members and officers of both houses of the legislature.
4. The sheriffs, district attorneys, county attorneys, county assessors, county collectors, county treasurers, and county commissioners.
5. The mayor, alderman, assessor and collector of incorporated cities and towns.
6. The officers and guards of state prisons, houses of correction, and the officers and instructors and attendants of other state institutions; keepers, attendants and assistants of poor houses; superintendents, nurses and assistants of all hospitals.
7. The members of any regularly organized and paid fire or police department in any city or town, but no member of the active militia shall be relieved from duty because of his joining any such fire company or department.
8. All ministers of the gospel exclusively engaged in their calling; all teachers engaged in public institutions and public schools.
9. All persons who shall have served in the active militia of this state for the term of seven years, and have been honorably discharged therefrom.
10. Idiots, lunatics, vagabonds, confirmed drunkards, persons addicted to the use of narcotic drugs, and persons convicted of infamous crimes.
11. Any person who conscientiously scruples to bear arms; provided he shall pay an equivalent for personal service.
12. All such exempted persons, except those enumerated in subdivision 10, shall be liable to military duty in case of war, insurrection, invasion or imminent danger thereof. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5767. Governor to be commander-in-chief.—The governor of this state, by virtue of his office, shall be the commander-in-chief of the military forces of this state, except of such portions as may at times be in the service of the United States. Whenever the governor is unable to perform the duties of commander-in-chief, the adjutant general of this state shall command the military forces of this state, except in cases where the lieutenant governor, or the president of the senate, under the laws of this state, is required to perform the duties of governor. [Id. sec. 4.]

CHAPTER TWO

RESERVE MILITIA

Art. 5768. Reserve militia not subject to military duty, except, etc.—The reserve militia shall not be subject to active military duty, except when called into the service of this state, or of the United States, in case of war, insurrection, invasion, or for the prevention of invasion, the suppression of riot, tumults and breaches of the peace, or to aid the civil officers in the execution of the law and the service of process, in which case, they or so many of them as the necessity requires, may be ordered out for actual service by draft or otherwise, as the governor may direct. The portion of the reserve militia ordered out or accepted shall be mustered into the service for such period as may be required, and the governor may assign them to existing organizations of the active militia, or organize them as the exigency of the occasion may require. [Id. sec. 5.]

Art. 5769. Governor may order enrollment.—Whenever the governor deems it necessary, he may order an enrollment of all persons, other than members of the active militia, liable to military duty, to be made by the county assessor of each county, or by other persons designated by the governor. Such enrollment shall state the name, residence, age, color, and occupation of the persons enrolled. Enrolling officers shall have power to question under oath, which they are hereby authorized to administer, any person deemed liable to perform military duty, but who denies the same; and, if any person refuses to be sworn, the enrolling officer shall enroll his name in the same manner as though he had admitted his liability. The assessor, or such other person as may be designated by the governor to act as enrolling officer, shall, within such time as may be required by the governor, prepare and file three copies of such enrollment, properly certifying that he has enrolled all persons residing in his county, who are liable to perform military duty, one copy to be filed in the office of the adjutant general, one copy in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the enrollment was made, and one copy retained by the enrolling officer. Upon filing the lists of enrollment, as herein provided, the enrolling officer shall be paid
Art. 5770. Officer making enrollment to serve notice, etc.—The officer making the enrollment shall, at the time of making the same, serve a notice of such enrollment upon each person enrolled, by delivering such notice to him, or leaving it with some person of suitable age and discretion, at his place of residence, or by mailing such notice at the expense of the county to his last known place of residence or abode. All persons claiming exemption must, within ten days after receiving such notice, file a written statement of such exemption, verified by affidavit, in the office of the county clerk. Such clerk shall thereupon, if such person be exempted according to law, mark the word, "exempt," opposite his name; and the remainder of all thus enrolled, and not thus found to be exempt, shall constitute the militia of this state and be subject to military duty; and such clerk shall transmit a copy of such corrected list of enrollment to the adjutant general within twenty days after the filing of the original list of enrollment by the enrolling officer, for which he shall be allowed two cents for each name on such list, to be paid by the county. The officer highest in rank in the active militia, and the heads of the fire and police departments in each city or town, shall, whenever an enrollment is ordered, file, within ten days, in the office of such county clerk a certified list of the names of all persons in the active militia of such county or in such department. [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 5771. Persons making enrollment to have access to assessment rolls.—The assessor in each county of this state shall allow persons appointed to make such enrollment, if persons other than the assessor be appointed, at all proper times to examine their assessment rolls and make copies thereof. All persons shall, upon the application of any person making such enrollment, give the name of and all other information concerning any person within their knowledge liable to be enrolled, under penalty of ten dollars for every concealment, or false information, or refusal to give the information requested, to be recovered in the name of the state of Texas by a judge advocate, district or county attorney in the justice court, Austin, Texas, or precinct of his residence, with costs. The officer making the enrollment shall, within ten days, report all persons who shall fail or neglect to give information to the adjutant general. [Id. sec. 8.]

Art. 5772. Governor may draft for military duty, when.—Whenever it shall be necessary to call out any portion of the reserve militia for active duty, the governor may apportion the number by draft according to the population of the several counties of the state, or otherwise, as he shall direct. The governor shall direct his order to the sheriff of each county from which any draft is required, setting forth the number of persons such county is to furnish. Upon the requisition of the governor being received by the sheriff, he shall immediately personally notify the county clerk, who shall repair to his office and in public shall copy by name or number, from the corrected list of enrollment of such county on file in his office, all persons who are so returned as liable to perform military duty; such names, or their corresponding numbers, shall be placed on slips of paper of the same size and appearance, as near as practicable, which slips, so named or numbered, shall be placed in a box suitable for that purpose, and the number required to fill such draft or requisition shall be drawn therefrom, in the same manner as jurors are by law now drawn. All persons so drawn and liable to perform military duty shall be determined to be legally held to serve, in the manner and for the purpose and time specified in the requisition; and the sheriff shall notify the persons so drafted by registered letter, or personally in writing, at what time and place they shall appear; for which service he shall receive expense of postage and five cents each, to be paid by the county. [Id. sec. 9.]

Art. 5773. Persons drafted shall report, etc.—Every member of the reserve militia ordered out, or who volunteers, or is drafted, under the provisions of this law, who does not appear at the time and place designated by the sheriff, or his commanding officer, within twenty-four hours from such time, or who does not produce a sworn statement of physical disability from a physician in good standing, to so appear, shall be taken to be a deserter and dealt with as prescribed for deserters by law. [Id. sec. 10.]

Art. 5774. Persons drafted may furnish substitute.—Any person in the reserve militia of this state, who has been drawn to perform military duty, may, at any time, be exempt until again required in his turn to serve, by furnishing an acceptable substitute on or before the day fixed for his appearance; but, if, during any period of service, any man who is serving in the active militia as a substitute for another, becomes liable to service in his own person, he shall be taken for such service, and his place as substitute shall be supplied by the man in whose stead he was serving, or another substitute. [Id. sec. 11.]

Art. 5775. Officer neglecting or refusing to perform duty in drafting, liable for penalty.—If any sheriff, or constable, county assessor, or county clerk, shall neglect or refuse to perform any duty enjoined upon him by this law, in addition to criminal liability, the person or persons guilty of such refusal or neglect shall be liable to a penalty of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, to be recovered against him or his bondsmen in the name of the state of Texas, by suit instituted by a judge advocate, district or county attorney, in the proper court of Travis county, or the county of which such person is the sheriff, constable, assessor or clerk. [Id. sec. 12.]

Art. 5776. Power of governor to call out militia.—The governor shall have power, in case of insurrection, invasion, tumult, riot, or breach of peace, or imminent danger thereof, to order into the active service of this state any part of the militia that he may deem proper. When the militia of this state, or a part thereof, is called forth under the constitution and laws of the United States, the governor shall order out for service the active militia, or such part thereof as may be necessary; and, if the number available be insufficient, he shall order out such part of the reserve militia as he may deem necessary. During the absence of organizations of the militia in the service of the United States, their state designations shall not be given to new organizations. [Id. sec. 13.]

Art. 5777. Reserve militia to be mustered in, when.—The portion of the reserve militia ordered out or accepted into the service, as indicated in articles 5768 and 5772 of this chapter, shall be immediately mustered into the service for such period as the governor may direct, and shall be organized into troops, batteries, companies and such other organizations as may be necessary, which may be arranged in squadrons, battalions, regiments, or corps, or assigned to organizations of the active militia already existing. The governor is authorized to appoint the officers necessary to commence or complete, or to command any organization thus created. Such new organization shall be equipped, disciplined and governed according to the military laws and military regulations of this state. [Id. sec. 14.]

ARTICLES OF WAR

5860. Rules and articles for the government of the military forces.
Article 5778. National guard to consist of existing military organizations.—The Texas national guard shall consist of the existing military organizations, and such others as may be organized hereafter, and such persons as are held to military duty under the laws of this state, or such persons as are exempt under said laws who may accept appointment or voluntarily enlist therein, or of such persons of the reserve militia as may be mustered therein, as provided in articles 5768 and 5777 of this title; but at no time, except in case of war, insurrection, invasion, the prevention of invasion, the suppression of riot, or the aiding of the civil authorities in the execution of the laws of this state, shall the maximum strength thereof exceed seven thousand officers and enlisted men. [Id. sec. 15.]

Art. 5779. Governor to prescribe regulations for government of national guard.—The governor is hereby authorized, and it shall be his duty, to prescribe such regulations as he may see fit for the organization of the Texas national guard; and he shall, from time to time, as he may deem for the best interests of the service, change such regulations, which shall be in accordance with this chapter, and conform as near as practicable to the organization of the regular army of the United States. He may, at any time for cause deemed good and sufficient by him, muster out of the service or reorganize any portion of the Texas national guard or the reserve militia, or discharge any officer or enlisted man thereof, and he shall have full control and authority over all matters touching the military forces of this state, its organization, equipment and discipline. [Id. sec. 16.]

United States army regulations.—The duties of the national guard being defined by this act, by which the governor is alone authorized to prescribe regulations, in the absence of proof that the governor had adopted and promulgated the United States army regulations as governing the state militia, such regulations are not applicable to the militia. Manley v. State, 63 Cr. R. 392, 137 S. W. 1137.

Art. 5780. Governor to make and publish regulations.—The governor is hereby authorized, and it shall be his duty, to make and publish regulations in accordance with existing military laws, for the government of the military forces of this state, which shall embrace all necessary orders and forms of general character for the performance of all duties incumbent on officers and men in the military service, including rules for the government of courts martial; the existing regulations to remain in force until the governor shall have published such regulations.
The governor shall, as he may see fit from time to time, create new regulations, or amend, modify, or repeal existing regulations. [Id. sec. 17.]

Art. 5781. Governor's staff.—The governor shall have a staff consisting of the adjutant general and twelve aides-de-camp. The adjutant general shall have rank and be appointed as provided by this Act; the twelve aides-de-camp shall have the rank of lieutenant colonel while serving, and shall be appointed by, and serve during the pleasure of the governor. Three of the aides-de-camp shall be selected from the officers of the Texas national guard below the grade of colonel, and nine shall be selected without restriction as to the source of selection; provided, further, that said aides-de-camp shall not be ineligible from holding any office of emolument, trust or honor within this state, nor shall said aides-de-camp be ineligible from serving as chairman or member of any committee of any political party or organization. [Acts 1907, p. 224, sec. 18. Amended Acts 1911, p. 25, sec. 1, superseding Art. 5781, Rev. St. 1911.]

Art. 5782. Military organizations deemed bodies corporate, etc.—Whenever any troop, battery, company, signal corps or band is mustered into the active militia of this state by the authority of the governor, such troop, battery, company, signal corps or band shall, from the date of such muster-in, be deemed and held in law a body corporate and politic, with power under its corporate name to take, purchase, own in fee simple, hold, transfer, mortgage, pledge and convey real or personal property to an amount in value, at the time of its acquisition, of two hundred thousand dollars (provided that the natural enhancement in value of any property properly acquired by any such company shall not affect the right of such company to hold or otherwise handle such property), and with like power under its corporate name to sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, and to prosecute and defend in the courts of this state or elsewhere; to have and use a common seal of such device as it may adopt; to ordain and establish by-laws for the government and regulation of the company affairs not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this state and of the United States, and the orders and regulations of the governor; and such by-laws to alter and amend at will; and generally to do and perform any and all things necessary and proper to be done in carrying out and perfecting the purpose of its organization, of which the officers, and in case of a band, the non-commissioned officers, shall be directors, the senior the president. [Acts 1907, p. 224, sec. 54. Amended Acts 1911, p. 149, sec. 1, superseding Art. 5782, Rev. St. 1911.]

Art. 5783. Discipline to conform to that of the United States army.—The system of discipline and exercise of the active militia of this state shall conform generally to that of the army of the United States, as it is now or may hereafter be prescribed by the president, and to the provisions of the laws of the United States, except as otherwise provided by law, or by the regulations issued by the governor. [Acts 1905, p. 167, sec. 67.]

Art. 5784. Prohibiting organization of military companies, except, etc.—No body of men, other than the regularly organized militia of this state and the troops of the United States, shall associate themselves together as a military company or organization or parade in public with firearms in any city or town of this state; but students in the educational institutions where military science is a prescribed part of the course of instruction, and soldiers honorably discharged from the service of the United States, and confederate veterans, may, with the consent of the governor, drill and parade with firearms in public. This article shall not be construed to prevent parades by the active militia of any other state as hereinafter provided. [Id. sec. 74.]
ADJUTANT GENERAL

Art. 5785. Adjutant general's department.—There shall be at the seat of government of this state an executive department known as the adjutant general's department, and the adjutant general shall be the head thereof. [Id. sec. 19.]

Art. 5786. Rank of adjutant general.—The adjutant general shall have the rank of brigadier general, and shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, if in session. [Id. sec. 20.]

Art. 5787. Term of office and salary of adjutant general.—The adjutant general shall hold his office for the term of two years, and until the appointment and qualification of his successor in office. In case of a vacancy in such office, the appointment shall be made for the unexpired term only. He shall receive an annual salary of two thousand dollars. [Id. sec. 21.]

Salary of adjutant general.—See Art. 7054.
Fees for copies and certificates.—See Arts. 3833–3836.

Art. 5788. Oath and bond of adjutant general.—Before entering upon the duties of his office, the person appointed adjutant general shall enter into a bond with two or more good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the governor, which bond shall be in the sum of ten thousand dollars, payable to the governor of this state and his successors in office, and conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of said office. He shall also take and subscribe the oath of office prescribed by the constitution for all officers, which oath and bond shall be deposited in the office of the secretary of state. [Id. sec. 22.]

Art. 5789. Shall have a seal.—The adjutant general shall procure and keep in his office a seal for the authentication of all certificates and other instruments emanating from his office, when such authentication is required by law or necessary, the device upon which seal shall consist of a star of five points with the words, "Office of Adjutant General, State of Texas," around the margin. [Id. sec. 23.]

Art. 5790. Shall have control of military department of the state.—The adjutant general shall be in control of the military department of this state and subordinate only to the governor in matters pertaining to said department, or the military forces of this state; and he shall perform such duties as may, from time to time, be entrusted to him by the governor relative to the military commissions, the military forces, the military stores and supplies, or to other matters respecting military affairs of this state; and he shall conduct the business of the department in such manner as the governor shall direct. And he shall have the custody and charge of all books, records, papers, furniture, fixtures, and other property relating to his department; and shall perform, as near as practicable, such duties as pertain to the chief of staff, the military secretary and other chiefs of staff departments, under the regulations and customs of the United States army. [Id. sec. 24.]

Art. 5791. Duties of adjutant general.—The adjutant general shall, from time to time, define and prescribe the kind as well as the amount of supplies to be purchased for the military forces of this state, and the duties and powers respecting such purchases; and shall prescribe general regulations for the transportation of the articles of supply from the places of purchase to the several camps, stations of companies, or other necessary places for the safe-keeping of such articles, and for the distribution of an adequate and timely supply of the same to the regimental quartermasters, and to such other officers as may, by virtue of such regulations, be entrusted with the same; and shall fix and make reasonable allowance for the store rent and storage necessary for the safe-keeping of all military stores and supplies; and shall control and supervise the transportation of troops, munitions of war, equipments, military property and stores throughout the state. [Id. sec. 25.]

Art. 5792. Same.—The adjutant general is authorized to prescribe rules and regulations to be observed in the preparation and submission and opening of bids for contracts under the adjutant general's department; and he may, at his discretion, require any bid to be accompanied by a bond in such penal sum as he may deem advisable, with good and sufficient security, conditioned that the bidder will enter into a contract agreeable to the terms of his bid, if the same be awarded to him, within sixty days from the date of the opening of the bids, or otherwise pay the penalty. No bid shall be withdrawn by the bidder within the said period of sixty days. [Id. sec. 26.]

Art. 5793. Same.—The adjutant general is authorized to prescribe regulations, not inconsistent with law, for the government of his department, the conduct of its officers and clerks, the distribution and performance of its business, the custody, use and preservation of the records, papers and property appertaining to it. He shall superintend the preparation of such returns and reports as may be required by the laws of the United States from this state, and perform such other duties prescribed for him by this act or by other laws of this state, or by the governor. He shall keep a register of all officers of the militia of this state, and keep in his office all records and papers required to be kept and filed therein. He shall, at the expense of this state, when necessary, cause the military law and regulations of this state to be printed, indexed and bound in proper and compact form and distributed to the commissioned officers, sheriffs, clerks and assessors of the counties of this state at the rate of one copy to each; and to each commissioned officer and headquarters he shall issue one copy of the necessary text books, and of such annual reports concerning the militia as the governor may direct. He shall cause to be prepared and issued all necessary blank books, blanks, forms and notices required to carry into full effect the provisions of this act. All such books and blanks shall be and remain the property of this state. He shall make such regulations pertaining to the preparation of the reports and returns, and to the care and preservation of property for military purposes, whether belonging to this state or to the United States, as, in his opinion, the conditions demand; such regulations to be operative and in force when promulgated in the form of general orders, circulars, or letters of instruction. He shall report annually to the governor:

1. A statement of all moneys received or disbursed by him since his last annual report.
2. An account of all arms, ammunition, and other military property belonging to this state, or in possession of this state, from what source received, to whom issued, and its present condition, so far as he may be informed.
3. The number, condition and organization of the Texas national guard and reserve militia.
4. Any suggestions which he may deem of importance to the military interests and conditions of this state and the perfection of its military organization. [Id. sec. 27.]

Art. 5794. Annual report to be printed.—The annual report provided for in the preceding article shall be printed annually and laid before the legislature for its information. [Id. sec. 28.]

Art. 5795. To hire clerks and laborers.—All necessary clerks and employés will be appointed and laborers will be hired by the adjutant general. [Id. sec. 29.]
Art. 5796. Assistant adjutant general.—The adjutant general shall have one assistant adjutant general, who shall fill the position of chief clerk, with the rank of colonel, one assistant quartermaster general, with the rank of colonel, and such necessary clerks, employés, and laborers as may be required, from time to time, to carry on the operations of his department, all of whom shall be under the direction and control of the adjutant general. [Id. sec. 30.]

Art. 5797. Assistant adjutant general to be appointed by the governor.—The assistant adjutant general shall be appointed by the governor on the recommendation of the adjutant general, and shall remain in office during the pleasure of the governor, and until his successor is appointed and qualifies. He shall receive an annual salary of twelve hundred dollars, and shall, during his term of office, be entitled to all rights, privileges and immunities granted officers of like rank in the Texas national guard. He shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe to the oath of office prescribed for officers of the Texas national guard, which oath shall be deposited in the office of the adjutant general. He shall aid the adjutant general by the performance of such duties as may be assigned him, and shall, in case of absence or inability of the adjutant general to act, perform all such portions of the duties of the adjutant general as the latter may expressly delegate to him. [Id. sec. 31.]

Art. 5798. Authorized to administer oaths to officers of militia, etc.—The assistant adjutant general is hereby authorized and directed, on application and without compensation therefor, to administer oaths of office to officers of the active militia, and to employés of the adjutant general's office required to be taken on their appointment or promotion. [Id. sec. 32.]

Art. 5799. To issue certificates to organizations, etc.—On the muster-in to the active militia of this state of any troop, battery, company, signal corps, or band, the adjutant general shall issue to such organization a certificate to the effect that such organization has been duly organized in accordance with the laws and regulations of the militia service of this state, and that such organization is entitled to all the rights, powers, privileges and immunities conferred by such laws and regulations. Such certificate shall be in such form as the adjutant general may prescribe. Such certificate shall be evidence in all courts of this state that the organization therein named is duly incorporated; but, in suits by or against any troop, battery, company, signal corps, or band of the active militia of this state, it shall not be necessary for either party, where the incorporation is alleged, to prove such incorporation, unless that fact is denied under oath by the opposite party. [Id. sec. 55.]

Art. 5800. To purchase certain military stores, etc.—The adjutant general may, after the appropriations are made for that purpose, purchase and keep ready for use, or issue to the military forces of this state, as the best interests of the service may require, such amount and kind of quartermaster's, ordnance, subsistence, medical, signal, engineer's, and all other military stores and supplies as shall be necessary; he shall see that all military stores and supplies, both the property of this state and of the United States, are properly cared for and kept in good order, ready for use; and all accounts which may accrue against this state under the provisions of this chapter shall, if correct, be certified and approved by the adjutant general and paid out of the state treasury as other claims are paid. Any military stores belonging to this state which may become unserviceable, obsolete, or unfit for further use, may be disposed of in such manner as the governor or adjutant general may prescribe by regulations or order; and the adjutant general is hereby authorized to sell or destroy, as he may see fit for the best interests of the service, any unserviceable, or obsolete, or unsuitable military stores belonging to this state, the sums realized from the sale thereof to be turned into the state treasury, to be credited to any fund appropriated for the use of the active militia of this state, as shall be determined at the time by the governor or adjutant general; or he may, in his discretion, exchange such stores for such other military stores as the interest of the service may require, for the use of the active militia of this state. [Id. sec. 101.]

ASSISTANT QUARTERMASTER GENERAL

Art. 5801. Assistant quartermaster general.—The assistant quartermaster general shall be appointed by the governor on recommendation of the adjutant general, and shall remain in office during the pleasure of the governor, and until his successor is appointed and qualified. He shall receive an annual salary of fifteen hundred dollars, and shall, during his term of office, be entitled to all rights, privileges and immunities granted officers of like rank in the Texas national guard. He shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, enter into a bond, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the governor, which bond shall be in the sum of ten thousand dollars, payable to the governor of this state and his successors in office, and conditioned faithfully to discharge the duties of his office and disburse and account for all moneys, and to faithfully keep, issue and account for all military stores, supplies and other property of this state, or of the United States, coming into his possession or entrusted to his care for the use of the military forces of this state. He shall take and subscribe the oath of office prescribed for officers of the Texas national guard, which oath and bond shall be deposited in the office of the adjutant general. He shall, under the immediate direction of the adjutant general, perform, as near as may be, the duties pertaining to the chiefs of the quartermaster, subsistence, and ordnance departments under the regulation and customs of the United States army. He shall, upon assuming the duties of his office, receipt to the adjutant general for all military property of whatever kind belonging to this state, or to the United States, which may be on hand and intended for the use of or issue to the military forces of this state, and he shall also receive the adjutant general for such other military property as may, from time to time, be received from the United States, or from other sources. He shall be responsible for all quartermaster's, subsistence, ordnance, medical, signal, and all other military stores and supplies belonging to this state, or which may be issued to this state by the United States, except such of the above mentioned stores and supplies as may be issued to officers and organizations of the military forces of this state in accordance with the regulations in force. He shall issue and receive such quartermaster's, subsistence, ordnance, medical, signal, and all other military stores and supplies as the governor, or the adjutant general, may direct. He shall attend to the care, preservation, safe keeping, and repairing of the arms, ordnance, accoutrements, equipments and all other military property belonging to this state, or issued to this state by the United States, for the purpose of arming and equipping the military forces of this state. He shall prepare such returns of all quartermasters, subsistence, ordnance, medical, signal; and all other military stores and supplies that have been issued this state by the United States at the times and in the manner required by the secretary of war, and shall render semi-annually to the adjutant general returns of all military stores and supplies on hand or issued, in such manner as required by the adjutant general. He shall render to the adjutant general annually, or oftener if required, a statement of all moneys received or disbursed by him since last report. He shall perform the duties of quartermaster,
COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

Art. 5802. Officers to be commissioned by governor.—All officers in the military service of this state shall be appointed and commissioned by the governor, at his discretion; and no one shall be recognized as an officer, unless he shall have been duly commissioned, and shall have taken the oath of office. [Id. sec. 33.]

Art. 5803. Commissions.—All commissions in the military service of this state shall be in the name and by the authority of the state of Texas, sealed with the state seal, signed by the governor, and attested by the secretary of state, and recorded by the adjutant general in a record book kept in his office for that purpose; provided, no fee for issuing such commissions shall be charged, or collected. [Id. sec. 34.]

Art. 5804. Qualifications of commissioned officers.—Commissioned officers must be citizens of the United States and residents of this state of the age of eighteen years or upward. No person who has been dishonorably discharged from the military service of this state, or expelled from any military organization, shall be commissioned, unless he produces the written consent to such appointment of the commanding officer of the organization from which he was expelled or dishonorably discharged, and of the commanding officer who approved such expulsion, or issued such dishonorable discharge. No person shall be commissioned, unless he shall possess the additional requirements herein prescribed for the particular office to which he is to be commissioned. A general officer, at the time of appointment, must be an officer above the grade of captain in the military service of this state, and must have been, for six successive years immediately preceding his appointment, a commissioned officer in such service, or he must have had previous service as a commissioned officer in the military service of this state, or of the United States, or both, for nine years. A colonel of a regiment, at the time of his appointment, must be an officer in the active service of the military forces of this state, and for five successive years immediately preceding his appointment must have been an officer in such active service, or must have had previous service of at least eight years in the active military forces of this state, or of the United States, or both. A lieutenant colonel, or a major of the line, at the time of his appointment, must be an officer in active service of the military forces of this state, and for four successive years immediately preceding his appointment must have been an officer in such active service, or must have had previous service of at least seven years in the active military forces of this state, or of the United States, or both. Staff officers, on promotion to colonel, must have had two years previous service as an officer in the active military forces of this state, or of the United States, or both; on promotion to lieutenant colonel or major, one year previous service as above. A judge advocate must be a counsellor at law of the supreme court of this state of at least ten years standing; if of the grade of colonel, or lieutenant colonel; of at least seven years, if of the grade of major, and of at least four years standing, if of the grade of captain. Surgeons and assistant surgeons must be graduates of a reputable school of medicine, and of at least ten years practice, if of the grade of lieutenant colonel; of at least seven years practice, if of the grade of major; of at least five years, if of the grade of captain; and of at least two years, if of the grade of lieutenant. An engineer officer of the military forces of this state must have been educated as a military or civil engineer. A signal officer must have a knowledge of signaling, telegraphing, topography, and map mak-
Art. 5805. Officers to pass examination.—Before receiving a commission consequent upon an original appointment, or before being commissioned to a higher grade as a result of promotion, every officer must have passed a satisfactory examination before a board as to his knowledge of military affairs and general knowledge and fitness for the service. Anyone failing to pass such examination shall not be eligible for an office in the militia of this state, or for promotion, for the period of one year from the date of such failure. Judge advocates, medical officers, and veterinary surgeons shall be examined as to their general and professional knowledge and fitness for the service only. The following are exempt from examination: General officers, chaplains and enlisted men placed on the retired list as brevet second lieutenants. [Id. sec. 37.]

Art. 5806. Boards of examiners to be appointed by governor.—Boards of examination under the preceding article shall be appointed by the governor. Such boards shall consist of not less than three officers, and shall have the same power to take evidence, administer oaths, and compel witnesses to attend and testify and produce books and papers, and punish their failure to do so, as is possessed by a general court martial. When returns of appointments are received by a board, the persons appointed shall by it be ordered before it for examination, and the result of the examination, with all papers in the case, shall be forwarded to the adjutant general. [Id. sec. 38.]

Art. 5807. Officers to take oath within ten days after appointment.—Every officer duly commissioned shall, within ten days after his commission is tendered to him, or within ten days after he shall have been notified personally or by mail that the same is held in readiness for him by a superior officer, take and subscribe the constitutional oath of office. Such oath shall be taken and subscribed before an officer authorized to administer an oath, or some general or field officer, or an officer who shall hold the assimilated grade of a field officer, who has taken the oath himself, and who is hereby authorized to administer the same. In case of neglect or refusal to take and subscribe such oath within the time mentioned, such commission shall be canceled by the governor, and a new appointment shall be made; such oath of office shall be filed in the office of the adjutant general. [Id. sec. 39.]

Art. 5808. Governor may confer brevet commissions.—The governor may, upon the recommendation of their commanding officers, confer brevet commissions of a grade higher than the ordinary or brevet commissions ever held by them, upon officers of the military service of this state for gallant conduct, or meritorious service of not less than twenty-five years. He may also confer upon officers in active service in the military service of this state, who have previously served in the forces of the United States in time of war, brevet commissions of a grade equal to the highest grade in which they previously served. Such commissions shall carry with them only such privileges or rights as are allowed in like cases in military service of the United States. [Id. sec. 40.]

Art. 5809. Supernumerary list.—Officers who shall be rendered surplus by reduction or disbandment of organizations, or in any manner provided by this law, now or hereafter, shall, at the discretion of the governor, be withdrawn from active service and placed upon the supernumerary list. The governor may detail supernumerary officers for active duty, in which case they shall rank in their grade from the date of such detail, and he may relieve them from such duty and return them to the supernumerary list at his discretion. [Id. sec. 41.]
Art. 5810. Retirement.—Any officer of the active militia who has reached the age of sixty-four years may be placed upon the retired list by the governor. Any officer who shall have served as an officer in the same grade in the military service of this state for the continuous period of eight years, or as an officer in the military service of this state continuously for ten years, or as an officer in the military service of this state for twelve years, or as an officer and enlisted man in the military service of this state for eighteen years, may, upon his own request, be placed upon the retired list and withdrawn from active service and command by the governor. Any officer who has become, or who shall hereafter become, disabled, and thereby incapable of performing the duties of his office, shall be withdrawn from active service and placed on the retired list by the governor. Any officer who has become, or shall hereafter become, unfit or incompetent, and thereby incapable of performing the duties of his office, shall be discharged upon the recommendation of his commanding officer, or the recommendation of an inspecting officer. Such retirement or discharge shall be by order of the governor, and, in either case, shall be subject to the provisions of this article. Before making such order, the governor shall, at his discretion, appoint a board of not less than five commissioned officers, one of whom shall be a surgeon, whose duty it shall be to determine the fact as to the nature and cause of incapacity of such officer as appears disabled or unfit, or incompetent, from any cause to perform military service, and whose case shall be referred to it. No officer whose grade or promotion would be affected by the decision of such board, in any case that may come before it, shall participate in the examination or decisions of the board in such case. Such board is hereby invested with the powers of courts of inquiry and courts martial, and, whenever it finds an officer incapacitated for active service, shall report such fact to the governor, stating cause of incapacity, whether from disability, unfitness, or incompetency, and if he approves such finding such officer shall be placed on the retired list, or discharged, as herein provided. The members of the board shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, be sworn to an honest and impartial performance of their duties as members of such board. No officer shall be placed upon the retired list, or discharged by the action of such board, if appointed by the governor, without having had a fair and full hearing before the board, if upon the notice he shall demand it, and the governor in his discretion shall think proper to appoint such board. It shall not be necessary to refer to any case for the action of such board arising under this article, unless the officer designated be placed on the retired list or discharged shall, within twenty days after being notified that he will be so retired or discharged, serve on the adjutant general a notice in writing that he demands a hearing and examination before such board, and the governor approve such demand. The governor may withdraw from active service and command and place upon the retired list any officer who has been twenty-five years in the military service of this state, on the recommendation of the commanding officer of his organization and the commanding officer of the brigade or division. Vacancies created by the operations of this article shall be filled in the same manner as other vacancies. [Id. sec. 42.]

Art. 5811. Governor may order board to examine character, etc., of officers.—The governor may, whenever he may deem that the good of the service requires it, order any officer before a board of examination, to consist of not less than three nor more than five officers above the grade of captain, which is hereby invested with the powers of courts of inquiry and courts martial, and such board shall examine into the moral character, capacity, and general fitness for the service of such officer, and record and return the testimony taken and a record of its proceedings. If the findings of such board be unfavorable to such officer and be approved by the governor, he shall be discharged from the service. No officer whose grade or promotion would in any way be affected by the decision of such board, in any case that may come before it, shall participate in the examination or decision of the board in such case. Failure to appear when ordered before a board constituted under this article shall be a sufficient ground for a finding by such board that the officer ordered to appear be discharged. [Id. sec. 43.]

Art. 5812. Governor may require bond from officers.—When required to do so by the governor, any officer of the active militia of this state shall give good and sufficient bond in such sum as the adjutant general may direct, payable to the governor of this state and his successors in office, at Austin, Texas, conditioned faithfully to discharge the duties of his office, and faithfully to expend all public money of this state and account for the same, and to account for and safely keep all public property of this state, or of the United States issued and intended for use of the military forces of this state, which he may receive from time to time, and to promptly turn over the same to whomsoever the governor may direct. Such bond shall be signed by at least two good and sufficient sureties, or executed and guaranteed by any corporation having power to guarantee the fidelity of persons holding positions of public or private trust, which such corporations are hereby authorized to execute, which may be authorized to carry on business in this state; such bond shall be in such sum as may be prescribed by the adjutant general, and shall be approved by him and filed in his office; and such bond shall not extend to the reasonable wear and tear of arms, equipments, and other military supplies, incident to the military service; provided, that the commanding officer of every troop, battery, company, or signal corps and the chief musician of every band mustered into the military service of this state shall file the bond provided by this article in the office of the adjutant general, before the commission of such officer shall be issued, or any arms, uniforms, equipments, or other military property shall be issued for the use of his organization; and, provided, further, that when required to do so by the governor any non-commissioned officer or enlisted man of the military forces of this state shall make and file the bond as provided by this article. Whenever such bond is sued upon, the principal and sureties therein shall pay a reasonable attorneys' fee, not to exceed ten per cent, and said fee shall not be less than ten dollars, and they shall also pay all court costs in connection with such suit. [Id. sec. 52.]

Art. 5813. Records admissible as evidence.—Copies of all bonds and other papers filed in the office of the adjutant general, in accordance with the provisions of this chapter or any other law of this state, certified under the hand and seal of office of the adjutant general, shall be admitted in evidence in all courts of this state, in the same manner and with like effect as the original would be if duly proven. [Id. sec. 53.]

Art. 5814. Commanding officers may make certain deductions.—The commanding officer of any troop, battery, company, signal corps, or band is hereby authorized to deduct from any pay for military service due any officer or enlisted man of his organization such amount as such officer or enlisted man may owe his organization for dues and fines, as provided by the by-laws of such organization. [Id. sec. 56.]

Art. 5815. Company commanders custodians of company funds.—The commanding officer of each company shall be the custodian of the company fund, and it shall be his duty to receive, safely keep, and properly disburse, as may be required by the governor, all money that may be entrusted to his care, and to render, on June 30 and December 31 of each year, to adjutant general, an itemized statement of all money by him received and disbursed for the preceding six months. [Id. sec. 60.]
Art. 5816. In case of absence or disability duty shall descend to next ranking officer.—The duties assigned to an officer by title in this chapter shall devolve, in case of absence or disability to command of the officer named, upon the line officer next in rank, except as otherwise provided in this chapter. [Id. sec. 63.]

Art. 5817. Officer can excuse from duty, when.—The officer ordering any military duty shall have the power to excuse any officer or enlisted man for absence therefrom upon good and sufficient grounds. [Id. sec. 65.]

Art. 5818. Commissioned officers to furnish arms, etc.—Every commissioned officer shall provide himself with the arms, uniforms, and equipments prescribed and approved by the governor. [Id. sec. 66.]

Art. 5819. Certain applicants for commissions exempt from examination.—Any person who graduates from any college or school of this state, wherein there is a prescribed course of military instruction under the supervision of an officer of the United States army, or an officer of the active militia of this state, shall, if he applies for appointment as a commissioned officer in the active militia of this state, in the grade of second lieutenant, within two years after graduation, be exempt from examination in all military subjects, except the militia law of this state, and examination as to personal qualifications and physical condition; and in no case shall such graduate be drafted to serve in any capacity other than that of a commissioned officer; provided, that, when an officer of the active militia of this state is military instructor, the adjutant general shall prescribe the course of military instruction to be given, and when such colleges or schools do not follow the course of instructions so prescribed, the graduates thereof shall not be entitled to the exemptions and privileges specified in this article. [Id. sec. 102.]

NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN

Art. 5820. Who may voluntarily enlist in militia.—Any male citizen of the United States, or any male who has declared his intention to become such citizen, who is a resident of this state, if more than eighteen or less than forty-five years of age, able-bodied, free of disease, and of good character and temperate habits, may voluntarily enlist in the active militia of this state; provided, persons may enlist who are under eighteen and over forty-five years of age on the written authority of the adjutant general. [Id. sec. 44.]

Art. 5821. Enlistment for a term of three years.—All enlistments in the active militia of this state shall be for the term of three years; and no soldier shall be again enlisted in the active militia of this state whose service during his last preceding term of enlistment has not been honest and faithful. [Id. sec. 45.]

Art. 5822. Persons enlisting shall take oath.—Every person who enlists or re-enlists in the active militia of this state shall sign and make oath to an enlistment paper, which shall be filed in the office of the adjutant general. Such oath shall be taken and subscribed to before a field officer, or the commanding officer of a signal corps, troop, battery, or company who are hereby authorized to administer such oaths; and such oaths may be taken before any officer authorized by the laws of this state to administer oaths. A person making a false oath to any statement contained in such enlistment paper shall, upon conviction, be deemed guilty of false swearing and punished accordingly. [Id. sec. 46.]

Art. 5823. Disqualifications for enlistment, how removed.—No minor shall be enlisted without the written consent of his parents or guardian. A man who has been expelled, or dishonorably discharged, from the military service of this state, or of the United States, shall not be eligible for enlistment or re-enlistment, unless he produce the written consent to such enlistment of the commanding officer of the organization from which he was expelled, or dishonorably discharged, and of the commanding officer who approved such expulsion, or issued such dishonorable discharge. [Id. sec. 47.]

Art. 5824. Non-commissioned officers, how appointed.—Commanding officers of regiments and of battalions and squadrons not part of regiments shall appoint and warrant the non-commissioned staff officers of their respective regiments, battalions, or squadrons, and they shall, in their discretion, warrant the non-commissioned officers of the troops, batteries and companies of their respective regiments, battalions and squadrons from the members thereof, upon the written nomination of the commanding officer of the troops, batteries and companies, respectively. In troops, batteries and companies not a part of a regiment, battalion or squadron, and in signal and hospital corps, the non-commissioned officers shall be warranted by the commanding officer of the brigade or division, in his discretion, to which such organization may be attached, from the members of such organization upon the written nomination of the commanding officer of the troop, battery, company, signal, or hospital corps. To be eligible for appointment as sergeant, first class, of the hospital corps, a candidate must be a registered pharmacist. A sergeant of the hospital corps must be appointed from the hospital corps. The officer warranting a non-commissioned officer shall have power to reduce to the ranks for good and sufficient reasons the non-commissioned officers named in this article. [Id. sec. 48.]

Art. 5825. Discharged and re-enlisted men entitled to credit.—Men who have been discharged by reason of disbandment may be re-enlisted, and shall then receive credit for the period served at the time of such disbandment. A man discharged for physical disabilities shall, if such disability cease, and he again enlists, or a man discharged upon his own request shall, if he again enlists, receive credit for the period served prior to such discharge. [Id. sec. 49.]

Art. 5826. Governor may appoint second lieutenants by brevet.—The governor may appoint and commission enlisted men, who have served well and faithfully in the active militia of this state for a period of not less than twenty-five years, without examination, second lieutenants by brevet; provided, such enlisted men, so appointed and commissioned, shall be immediately placed on the retired list. [Id. sec. 50.]

Art. 5827. Physical examination.—No applicant for appointment or enlistment in the active militia of this state will be commissioned or enlisted without first passing a satisfactory physical examination. [Id. sec. 57.]

Art. 5828. Assignment of pay invalid.—No assignment of pay by any officer or an enlisted man shall be valid, except as otherwise provided by the governor. [Id. sec. 58.]

Art. 5829. Veterans of Spanish-American war entitled to credit for time served in service of United States.—For all purposes under this title, officers and enlisted men of the active militia of this state who entered the United States service in the Spanish-American war shall, on re-entering the active militia of this state, be entitled to credit for the time served in the forces of the United States in that war, as if this service had been rendered in the active militia of this state. [Id. sec. 61.]

Art. 5830. No fee allowed for administering oaths, etc., to soldiers.—No officer, civil or military, shall be entitled to charge or receive any fee or compensation for administering or certifying any oath administered or certified under the provisions of this title. [Id. sec. 62.]
SERVICE AND DUTIES

Art. 5831. Governor may call out militia, when.—When an invasion of, or an insurrection in, this state is made or threatened, or when the governor may deem it necessary for the enforcement of the laws of this state, he shall call forth the active militia, or any part thereof, to repel, suppress, or enforce the same, and if the number available is insufficient he shall order out such part of the reserve militia as he may deem necessary. [Id. sec. 75.]

Art. 5832. Same.—When there is in any county, city, or town in this state tumult, riot, or body of men acting together by force with intent to commit a felony, or breach of the peace, or to do violence to person or property, or by force to break or resist the laws of this state, or when such tumult, riot, mob, or other unlawful act or violence is threatened and that fact is made to appear to the governor, he may issue his order to any commander of a division, brigade, regiment, squadron, battalion, troop, battery or company of the active militia of this state to appear at the time and place directed, to aid the civil authorities to suppress or prevent such violence and in executing the laws; provided, whenever the necessity for military aid in preventing or suppressing such violence and in executing the laws is immediate and urgent, and it is impracticable to furnish such information to the governor in time and secure military aid by his order, the district judge of the judicial district in which the disturbance occurs, or the sheriff of such county, or the mayor of such city, or town may call for aid upon the commanding officer of the active militia stationed therein, or adjacent thereto; such call shall be in writing, and the civil officer making the call shall as soon as possible notify the governor of his action. [Id. sec. 76.]

Art. 5833. Duty of officer on receipt of order.—The officer to whom the order of the governor, or the call of the civil authority, is directed shall, upon its receipt, forthwith order his command, or such portion thereof as may be ordered or called for, to parade at the time and place appointed, and shall immediately notify the governor of his action. [Id. sec. 77.]

Art. 5834. Commanding officer's duty in case of riot.—When such troops have appeared at the appointed place, the commanding officer thereof shall obey and execute such general instructions, which shall be in writing if practicable, otherwise verbal instructions given in the presence of two or more credible witnesses, as he may there and then receive from the civil authorities charged by law with the suppression of riot, or tumult, or the preservation of the public peace, but such commanding officer shall exercise his discretion as to the proper method of practically accomplishing the instructions received; the kind and extent of force to be used, and the particular means to be employed to accomplish the object specified by the civil authority shall be left solely to such commanding officer. [Id. sec. 78.]

Art. 5835. Governor may order active militia to assist civil authorities, etc.—The governor may order the active militia, or any part thereof, to assist the civil authorities in guarding prisoners, or in conveying prisoners from and to any point in this state, or discharging other duties in connection with the execution of the law as the public interest or safety at any time may require. [Id. sec. 79.]

Art. 5836. Commanding officer may order closing of saloons, when. —Whenever any part of the active militia of this state is on active duty pursuant to the order of the governor, or call of civil authority, to aid in the enforcement of the law, the commanding officer of such troops may order the closing of any place where intoxicating liquors, arms, ammution, dynamite or other explosives are sold, and forbid the selling, bartering, lending, or giving away any of said articles so long as any of the troops remain on duty in such place or in the vicinity where such place may be located, whether any civil officer has forbidden the same or not.
[Id. sec. 80.]

Art. 5837. Organizations shall drill, etc.—Officers and enlisted men each troop, battery, and company of the active militia of this state shall assemble for and undergo drill and instruction at company, battalion, or regimental armories (troop, squadron, or battery armories for cavalry or field artillery) or rendezvous or for target practice, not less than twenty-four times during each calendar year preceding the annual allotment of funds under section 1661, Revised Statutes of the United States, as amended. During the same period, there shall be at least one inspection of each troop, battery, and company by an officer of the active militia of this state, or by an officer of the regular army of the United States, at such times as the governor may direct. In addition to such drills and parades, the commanding officer of any organization may require the officers and enlisted men of his command to meet for parade, drill, or instruction at such times and places as he may appoint.
[Id. sec. 93.]

Art. 5838. Shall participate in practice marches, etc.—Each troop, battery, or company of the active militia of this state, not especially excused by the governor, will be required to participate for at least five consecutive days annually in practice marches or camps of instruction, under such regulations as the governor may prescribe, and under such instructors as he may appoint. [Id. sec. 94.]

COMPENSATION AND PRIVILEGES

Art. 5839. Pay of militia in active service.—The military forces of this state, when called into actual service of this state in time of war, insurrection, invasion or imminent danger thereof, or the prevention of invasion, shall, during their time of service, be entitled to the same pay, rations, and allowances for clothing as is now or may hereafter be es-established by the laws for the army of the United States. [Id. sec. 81.]

Art. 5840. Same. —When the military forces of this state, or any part thereof, are called into active service under articles 5832, 5833, 5834 and 5835, officers shall, during their term of service, receive the same

[Id. sec. 82.]

Art. 5841. Members of militia exempt from certain taxes.—All officers and enlisted men of the active militia of this state, who comply with their military duties as prescribed by this chapter, shall be entitled to exemption from the payment of all poll taxes, except the poll tax prescribed by the constitution for the support of the public schools; exemption from the payment of any road or street tax, and from any road duty whatsoever under the laws of this state, and exemption from jury service or duty of every character and description. [Id. sec. 83.]

Art. 5842. Same.—In order to entitle any troop, battery, company, signal corps, or band of the active militia of this state to the exemption from the payment of poll taxes as specified in the preceding article, the commanding officer of such organization shall, between the first days of January and April of each year, file with the assessor of taxes for his county a list of all members of his command who have discharged the military duties required of them for the preceding year, and who have been present for at least twenty-four drills or parades, or have been excused for non-attendance thereof by reason of illness or other necessary cause; such list shall be certified to by such commanding officer, and the persons whose names appear on such list shall not be assessed for any poll taxes whatever, other than the poll tax of one dollar prescribed by the constitution for the support of public schools for the current year; and it shall be the duty of assessors with whom such lists are filed to note the exemptions on his assessment roll as set forth in such lists, and furnish such information to all concerned as may be necessary in carrying out the provisions of this article. [Id. sec. 84.]

Art. 5843. Same.—In order to entitle any troop, battery, company, signal corps, or band of the active militia of this state to exemption from the payment of road or street taxes, jury service or duty, and road duty as specified in article 5841 of this chapter, the commanding officer of such organization shall, between the first and thirty-first days of January of each year, file lists similar to that set forth in the preceding article, certified to by him, one copy with the clerk of the district court of his county, and one copy with the clerk of the county court of his county; and the names appearing on such lists shall thereafter be exempt from jury service or duty of every character and description, from the performance of any road duty, and from the payment of any road or street tax in such county for the current year. Clerks of the county courts shall furnish information of the person so exempt to the proper road overseers and to all others concerned. [Id. sec. 85.]

Art. 5844. Same.—In order to entitle any general, field or staff officer of the active militia of this state to the exemptions as set forth in article 5841 of this chapter, such officer shall, between the first days of January and April of each year, file with the assessor of taxes for his county his certificate to the effect that he is an officer of the active militia of this state in good standing, and that he has faithfully discharged all the military duties required of him during the preceding year, and, on filing the certificate as herein required, such officer shall not be assessed for any poll tax whatever other than the poll tax of one dollar prescribed by the constitution for the support of public schools for the current year; and such officer shall file similar certificates between the first and thirty-first days of January of each year, with the district and county clerks of his county, and, on filing such certificates, shall thereafter be exempt from jury service or duty of every character and description, from the performance of any road duty and from the payment of any road or street tax in such county for the current year. [Id. sec. 86.]

Art. 5845. Same.—In order to entitle any non-commissioned staff officer, member of the engineer or hospital corps, or other enlisted man of the active militia of this state, not belonging to the regular organisation, to the exemptions as set forth in article 5841 of this chapter, such non-commissioned officer or soldier shall prepare and file affidavits similar to the certificate provided in the preceding article for officers, with the assessor, district and county clerks of his county; such affidavits shall be filed during the same period and in the same manner as set forth above for officers, and, on filing such affidavits, such non-commissioned officer or soldier shall be entitled to the same exemptions in the same manner as provided for such officers. [Id. sec. 87.]

Art. 5846. State to provide for wounded or disabled, when.—Every member of the military forces of this state who shall be wounded or disabled while in the service of this state, in case of riot, tumult, breach of the peace, resistance to process, invasion, insurrection or imminent danger thereof, or whenever called upon in aid of the civil authorities shall be taken care of and provided for at the expense of this state. [Id. sec. 88.]

Art. 5847. State to pay for transportation, etc.—The state shall make suitable provision for the pay, transportation, subsistence and quarters of all troops of this state who may attend at any annual encampment, or when called into active service of this state. [Id. sec. 95.]

Art. 5848. Members of militia exempt from arrest, when.—No persons belonging to the active militia of this state shall be arrested on any civil process while going on duty to or returning from any place at which he may be required to attend for military duty, except in cases of treason, felony, or breach of the peace. [Id. sec. 70.]

ARMS, EQUIPMENT, ETC.

Art. 5849. Enlisted men to return property.—An enlisted man who has not returned all the public property for which he is responsible shall, under no circumstances, receive a full and honorable discharge. [Id. sec. 51.]

Art. 5850. Officers and soldiers liable for damage to equipment, etc.—The cost of arms, equipment and all other military supplies and stores, and the cost of repairs or damage done to arms, equipment and all other military supplies and stores, shall be deducted from the pay of any officer or soldier in whose care or use the same were when such loss, destruction or damage occurred, if said loss, destruction or damage was occasioned by the carelessness, neglect or abuse of said officer or soldier. [Id. sec. 59.]

Art. 5851. Government property not for private use.—No officer or enlisted man of the active militia of this state having property in charge shall loan for private use, or permit to be used for any other purpose than the legitimate purpose intended, any public property that he may be responsible for to the governor. All property issued to a brigade, regimental, battalion, or company commander, or to any band, corps, or auxiliary squad or to any military organization whatever, when not in legitimate use, shall be carefully stored and protected from waste, theft, loss or injury. [Id. sec. 64.]

Art. 5852. Arms, equipment, etc., to be provided by state.—All organizations shall be provided by this state with such arms, equipments, books of instruction and of record and other supplies as may be necessary for the proper performance of the duty required of them by this chapter; and each organization shall keep such property in proper repair and in good condition. [Id. sec. 08.]

Art. 5853. Sheriff may seize arms, etc., when.—Whenever it shall come to the knowledge of the governor, on the affidavit of a credible person, that persons having arms, equipments, or other military property issued by this state for the use of the military forces of this state, without authority of law, and that such persons fail or refuse to deliver up such property, it shall be his duty forthwith to issue his warrant to the sheriff of the county where such persons may be or reside, commanding such sheriff to seize and take into his possession such arms, equipments or other military property, and the same keep subject to the further order of the governor. [Id. sec. 09.]

Art. 5854. Sheriff in executing such warrant may call on militia.—
Any sheriff receiving a warrant such as is specified in the preceding article shall proceed without delay to execute the same in the manner therein directed, and in executing such warrant he may summon to his aid the power of the county and any command of the active militia of this state that may be convenient. [Id. sec. 09.]

Art. 5855. Sheriff to collect arms, etc., when.—The sheriffs of the several counties of this state shall, from time to time, collect such arms or property as may be liable to loss or in the hands of unauthorized persons, and such property, when collected and turned over to them, safely keep subject to the order of the governor, to whom a report of such colcollection shall be made; and the official bond of sheriffs shall extend to and include the faithful performance of their duties under this and the preceding articles. [Id. sec. 09.]

Art. 5856. Arms, etc., exempt from forced sale.—Arms, equipments, clothing, or other military supplies issued by this state to organizations or members of the active militia for military purposes, shall be exempt from levy and sale by virtue of an execution for debt, or in any other legal proceedings. [Id. sec. 09.]

Art. 5857. Governor to draw arms, etc., from U. S. government.—
The governor in his official capacity is authorized to draw from the United States government all arms, equipments, munitions, or other military stores to which this state may, from time to time, be entitled, for the use of the militia, and may execute such bonds in the name of the state of Texas as may be necessary or requisite to secure their issuance.
[Id. sec. 09.]

Art. 5858. Arms, etc., to be stored, where.—The governor shall cause all arms, equipment, munitions, or other military property belonging to or under the control of this state, to be stored at such points as he may deem most conducive to the interests of this state and the convenience of the people. [Id. sec. 09.]

Art. 5859. Uniform, same as that prescribed for United States army.
—The uniform for officers and enlisted men of the active militia of this state shall be the same as that prescribed for the United States army, with such modifications as the governor may deem necessary from time to time. All uniforms and other military property issued by this state shall be used for military purposes only, and when issued shall be received for, and kept and accounted for in such manner as the adjutant general may prescribe. [Id. sec. 10.]

ARTICLES OF WAR

Art. 5860. Rules and articles for the government of the military forces.—The military forces of this state shall be governed by the following rules and articles:
The word, "officer," as used therein, shall be understood to designate commissioned officers; the word, "soldier," shall be understood to include non-commissioned officers, musicians, artificers, privates and other enlisted men; the word, "company," shall be understood to include troops, batteries, companies, signal corps, hospital corps, bands and detachments, and the convictions mentioned therein shall be understood to be convictions by court martial.

Article 1. Enlistment in the active militia of this state shall be voluntary, and every person who enlists therein shall take and subscribe an oath (or affirmation) in the following form:

"I, ............, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the state of Texas and to the United States of America; that I will serve them honestly and faithfully against all their enemies whomsoever, and that I will obey the orders of the governor of Texas, and the orders of the officers appointed over me, according to the laws, rules and articles for the government of the military forces of the state of Texas."

Art. 2. Every officer who knowingly enlists or musters into the military service of this state any minor over the age of sixteen years without the written consent of his parents or guardian, or any minor under the age of sixteen years, or any insane or intoxicated persons, or any deserter from the military service of this state or of the United States, or any person who has been convicted of any infamous crime, shall, upon conviction, be dismissed from the service or suffer such other punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 3. No enlisted man, duly sworn, shall be discharged from service without a discharge in writing, signed by a field officer of the regiment to which he belongs, or by the commanding officer when no field officer is present; and no discharge shall be given to any enlisted man before his term of service has expired, except by order of the governor, the adjutant general, or by order of a court martial.

Art. 4. Any officer who knowingly musters as a soldier a person who is not a soldier, shall be deemed guilty of knowingly making a false muster, and punished as a court martial may direct.

Art. 5. Any officer who takes money, or other thing, by way of gratification, on mustering any regiment, or company, or on signing muster rolls, shall be dismissed from the service, and shall thereby be disabled to hold any office or employment, civil or military, in the service of the state of Texas, or suffer such other punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 6. Every commanding officer shall, in the beginning of January and July of each year, and oftener if required by the governor, transmit to the adjutant general's department an exact return of the troops under his command, specifying the names of the officers absent from their posts, with the reasons for and the time of their absence. Such returns shall be made in the form and forwarded in the manner prescribed by the adjutant general; and any such officer, who through neglect or design omits to send such return, shall, on conviction thereof, be punished as a court martial may direct.

Art. 7. Every officer who knowingly makes a false return to the adjutant general's department, or to any of his superior officers authorized to call for such returns, of the state of the regiment or company under his command, or of any arms, ammunition, clothing or other stores thereunto belonging, shall be punished as a court martial may direct.

Art. 8. Every officer who signs a false certificate relating to the absence or pay of any officer or soldier shall be dismissed from the service, or suffer such other punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 9. Any officer who knowingly makes a false muster of man or horse, or who signs, or directs, or allows, the signing of any muster roll, knowing the same to contain a false muster, shall, upon proof thereof by two witnesses before a court martial, be dismissed from the servvice, and shall thereby be disabled to hold any office or employment, civil or military, in the service of the state of Texas.

Art. 10. Any officer who wilfully or through neglect suffers to be lost, damaged, or spoiled any military stores or supplies belonging to this state, or to the United States, which have been received for use of the military forces of this state, shall make good the loss or damage and suffer such punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 11. Any soldier who sells or through neglect loses or spoils the arms, uniforms, equipments, accoutrements, or any other military stores or supplies issued to him for his use or in his charge, shall make good the loss or damage, and suffer such punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 12. Any officer or soldier who shall strike his superior officer, or offers any violence to him, the said superior officer being engaged in the reasonable execution of his official duties, or if any officer or soldier disobeys any lawful command of his superior officer, he shall suffer punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 13. Any officer or soldier who begins, excites, causes, or joins in any mutiny or sedition in any regiment, company quarters or guard, shall suffer such punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 14. Any officer or soldier who, being present at any mutiny or sedition, does not use his utmost endeavor to suppress the same, or having knowledge of any intended mutiny or sedition, does not, without delay, give information thereof to his commanding officer, shall suffer such punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 15. All officers, of what conditions soever, have power to part and quell all quarrels, frays and disorders, whether among persons belonging to their own or to any regiment or company, and to order officers into arrest, and non-commissioned officers and soldiers into confinement who take part in same, until their proper superior officer is acquainted therewith. And whosoever being so ordered refuses to obey such officer or non-commissioned officer, or draws a weapon upon him, shall be punished as a court martial may direct.

Art. 16. No officer or soldier shall send a challenge to another officer or soldier to fight a duel, or accept a challenge so sent. Any officer who so offends shall be dismissed from the service. Any soldier who so offends shall suffer such punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 17. Any soldier who absents himself from his company or guard, without leave from his commanding officer, shall be punished as a court martial may direct.

Art. 18. Any officer or soldier who fails, except when prevented by sickness or other necessity, to repair, at the fixed time, to the place of parade, exercise, or other rendezvous appointed by his commanding officer, or goes from the same, without leave from his commanding officer, before he is dismissed or relieved, shall be punished as a court martial may direct.

Art. 19. Any soldier who is found one mile from camp, without leave in writing from his commanding officer, shall be punished as a court martial may direct.

Art. 20. Any officer who is found drunk on his guard, party or other duty, shall be dismissed from the service. Any soldier who so offends shall suffer such punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 21. Any sentinel who is found sleeping upon his post, or who leaves it before he is regularly relieved, shall suffer such punishment as a court martial may direct.
Art. 22. Any officer or soldier who quits his guard, without leave from his superior officer, except in case of urgent necessity, shall be punished as a court martial may direct.

Art. 23. Any officer who, by any means whatsoever, occasions false alarms in camp, command, or quarters, shall suffer such punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 24. Any officer or soldier who misbehaves himself before the enemy, runs away, or shamefully abandons any place, post or guard, which he is commanded to defend, or speaks words inducing others to do the like, or casts away his arms or ammunition, or quits his post or colors to plunder or pillage, shall suffer such punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 25. Any officer or soldier who, having been duly enlisted or drafted in the military service of this state, deserts the same, shall suffer such punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 26. Every soldier who deserts the military service of this state shall be liable to serve for such period as shall, with the time he may have served previous to his desertion, amount to the full term of his enlistment; and such soldier shall be tried by a court martial and punished, although the term of his enlistment may have elapsed previous to his being apprehended and tried.

Art. 27. Any officer who, having tendered his resignation, quits his post or proper duties, without leave and with intent to remain permanently absent therefrom, prior to due notice of the acceptance of the same, shall be deemed and punished as a deserter.

Art. 28. No soldier shall enlist himself in any other regiment or company, without a regular discharge from the regiment or company in which he last served, on a penalty of being reputed a deserter and suffering accordingly. And in case any officer shall knowingly receive and entertain such soldier, or shall not, after his being discovered to be a deserter, immediately give notice thereof to the command in which he last served, the said officer shall, by court martial, be dismissed.

Art. 29. In time of war, insurrection or rebellion, larceny, robbery, burglary, arson, mayhem, manslaughter, murder, assault and battery with intent to kill, wounding by shooting or stabbing with intent to commit murder, rape, or assault and battery with an intent to commit rape, shall be punishable by the sentence of a general court martial when committed by persons in the military service of the state; and punishment in every such case shall not be less than the punishment provided for like offenses by the Penal Code of this state.

Art. 30. When any officer or soldier is accused of a capital crime, or of any offense against the person or property of any citizen of this state, which is punishable by the laws of this state, the commanding officer and the officers of the regiment or company to which the person so accused belongs are required, except in time of war, upon application duly made by or in behalf of the party injured, to use their utmost endeavors to deliver him over to the civil authority and to aid the officers of justice in apprehending and securing him in order to bring him to trial. If, upon application, any officer refuses or wilfully neglects, except in time of war, to deliver over such accused person to the civil authorities, or to aid the officers of justice in apprehending him, he shall be punished as a court martial may direct.

Art. 31. Any person in the military service of this state who makes, or causes to be made, any claim against this state or the United States, or any officer thereof, knowing such claim to be false or fraudulent; or who presents, or causes to be presented, to any person in the civil or military service thereof, for approval or payment, any claim against this state, or the United States, or any officer thereof, knowing such claim to be false or fraudulent; or

Who enters into any agreement or conspiracy to defraud this state, or the United States, by obtaining, or aiding others to obtain, the allowance or payment of any false or fraudulent claim; or

Who, for the purpose of obtaining, or aiding others to obtain, the approval, allowance or payment of any claim against this state, or the United States, or against any officer thereof makes or uses, or procures or advises the making or use of, any writing, or other papers, knowing the same to contain any false or fraudulent statement; or

Who, for the purpose of obtaining, or aiding others to obtain, the approval, allowance or payment of any claim against this state, or the United States, or any officer thereof, makes, or procures or advises the making of, any oath to any fact or to any writing or other paper, knowing such oath to be false; or

Who, for the purpose of obtaining, or aiding others to obtain, the approval, allowance, or payment of any claim against this state, or the United States, or any officer thereof, forges or counterfeits or procures or advises the forging or counterfeiting of any signature upon any writing or other paper, or uses, or procures or advises the use of, any such signature, knowing the same to be forged or counterfeited; or

Who, having charge, possession, custody or control of any money or other property of this state, or the United States, furnished or intended for the military service of this state, knowingly delivers, or causes to be delivered, to any person having authority to receive the same, any amount less than that for which he receives a certificate or receipt; or

Who, being authorized to make or deliver any papers certifying the receipt of any property of this state, or the United States, furnished or intended for the military service of this state, makes or delivers to any person, such writing, without having full knowledge of the truth of the statements therein contained, or with intent to defraud this state, or the United States; or

Who steals, embezzles, knowingly and wilfully misappropriates, applies to his own use or benefit, or wrongfully or knowingly sells or disposes of any ordnance, arms, equipments, ammunition, clothing, subsistence stores, money or other property of this state, or the United States, furnished or intended for the military service of this state; or

Who knowingly purchases, or receives in pledge for any obligation or indebtedness, from any soldier, officer or other person who is a part of, or employed in, said forces or service, any ordnance, arms, equipments, ammunition, clothing, subsistence stores or other property of this state, or the United States, such soldier or officer, or other person not having lawful right to sell or pledge the same, shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by fine or imprisonment, or by such other punishment as a court martial may adjudge, or by any or all of said penalties. And if any person, being guilty of any of the offenses aforesaid, while in the military service of this state, receives his discharge, or is dismissed from the service, he shall continue to be liable to be arrested and held for trial and sentence by a court martial, in the same manner and to the same extent as if he had not received such discharge or been dismissed.

Art. 32. Any officer, who is convicted of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, shall be dismissed from the service.

Art. 33. All crimes not capital, and all disorders and neglects, which officers and soldiers may be guilty of, to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, though not mentioned in the foregoing articles, are to be taken cognizance of by a general or a regimental, or asummary court martial, according to the nature and degree of the offense, and punished at the discretion of such court.

Art. 34. Whenever, by any of these articles of war for the government of the military forces of this state, the punishment or conviction of any military offense, is left to the discretion of the court martial, the punishment therefor shall not be in excess of a limit which the governor may prescribe.

Art. 35. The officers and soldiers of any troops, whether active or reserve militia of this state or otherwise, appointed, enlisted, mustered or drafted into the military forces of this state, shall at all times, and in all places be governed by these articles, and shall be tried by courts martial.

Art. 36. All retainers of the camp and all persons serving with the military forces of this state in the field, though not enlisted soldiers, shall be subject to these rules and articles in the same manner as enlisted men.

Art. 37. Officers charged with crime shall be arrested and confined in their quarters or tents, or other place, and deprived of their swords by the commanding officer. And any officer who leaves his confinement before he is set at liberty by his commanding officer shall be dismissed from the service, and suffer such other punishment as a court martial may direct.

Art. 38. Soldiers charged with crime shall be confined until tried by court martial, or released by proper authority.

Art. 39. Any provost marshal, or any officer commanding a guard, who shall refuse to receive or keep any prisoner committed to his charge by an officer belonging to the military forces of this state, shall suffer such punishment as a court martial may direct; provided, the officer committing shall, at the same time, deliver a statement in writing, signed by himself, of the crime charged against the prisoner.

Art. 40. Every officer to whose charge a prisoner is committed shall, within twenty-four hours after such commitment, or as soon as he is relieved from his guard, report in writing to the commanding officer the name of such prisoner, the crime charged against him, and the name of the officer committing him; and, if he fails to make such report, he shall be punished as a court martial may direct.

Art. 41. Any officer who presumes, without proper authority, to release a prisoner committed to his charge, or suffers any prisoner so committed to escape, shall be punished as a court martial may direct.

Art. 42. No officer or soldier put in arrest shall be continued in confinement more than five days, or until such time as a court martial can be assembled.

Art. 43. When an officer is put in arrest for the purpose of trial, except at remote stations, the officer by whose order he is arrested shall see that a copy of the charges on which he is to be tried is served upon him within five days after his arrest, and that he is brought to trial within ten days thereafter, unless the necessities of the service prevent such trial; and then he shall be brought to trial within thirty days after the expiration of said ten days. If a copy of the charges be not served, or the arrested officer be not brought to trial, as herein required, the arrest shall cease. But officers released from arrest, under the provisions of this article, may be tried, whenever the exigencies of the service shall permit, within twelve months after such release from arrest.

Art. 44. The governor, or any general, or other officer, commanding a division or brigade, may appoint general courts martial whenever necessary. But when any such general or other officer is the accuser or prosecutor of any officer under his command, the court shall be appointed by the governor; and its proceedings and sentence shall be sent directly to the adjutant general, by whom they shall be laid before the governor for his approval or orders in the case.

Art. 45. Officers who may appoint a court martial shall be competent to appoint a judge advocate for the same.

Art. 46. General courts martial may consist of any number of officers, from five to thirteen, inclusive, but they shall not consist of less than thirteen when that number can be convened without injury to the service. A decision of the appointing authority as to the number that can be assembled without injury to the service is conclusive.

Art. 47. When the requisite number of officers to form a general court martial is not present in any command or detachment, the commanding officer shall, in cases which require the cognizance of such a court, report to the governor, who shall thereupon order a court to be assembled at the nearest and most convenient place at or near which there may be such a requisite number of officers, and shall order the party accused, with the necessary witnesses, to be transported to the place where the said court shall be assembled.

Art. 48. Every officer commanding a camp or other place where the troops consist of different corps, and every officer commanding a regiment, separate squadron or battalion, shall be competent to appoint for such camp or other place, or such regiment, separate squadron or battalion, regimental courts martial, consisting of three officers, to try enlisted men for offenses not capital; but such courts martial shall be appointed and the officers designated by superior authority when by him deemed desirable. Such courts martial shall have power to award punishment not to exceed confinement at hard labor for thirty days, or forfeiture of thirty dollars pay, or a fine of thirty dollars, or any or all of such confinement, forfeiture of pay and fine, and, in case of a non-commissioned officer, reduction to the ranks in addition thereto.

Art. 49. Every commanding officer of each camp or other place, regiment or corps, detached battalion or company, and the commanding officer of each company at its home station, shall have power to appoint for such place, command or station summary courts martial to consist of one officer to be designated by him, to try enlisted men for offenses not capital; but such summary courts martial may be appointed and the officer designated by superior authority when by him deemed desirable; and, when but one commissioned officer is present with a command, he shall hear and finally determine such cases. Such summary courts shall have power to adjudge punishment not to exceed confinement at hard labor for thirty days, forfeiture of thirty dollars pay, or a fine of thirty dollars or any or all of such confinement, forfeiture of pay and fine, and, in case of non-commissioned officers, reduction to the ranks in addition thereto; provided such summary courts shall not adjudge confinement for more than ten days, forfeiture of more than ten dollars pay, or a fine of more than ten dollars, or any or all of such confinement, forfeiture of pay and fine, unless the accused shall, before trial, consent in writing to trial by said court; but, in case of refusal to so consent, the trial may be had either by general, regimental or by said summary court, but in case of trial by said summary court, without consent of as aforesaid, the court shall not adjudge confinement for more than ten days, or forfeiture of more than ten dollars pay, or a fine of more than ten dollars, or any or all of such confinement, forfeiture of pay and fine. The officer holding the summary court shall have power to administer oaths and to hear and determine cases cognizable by said court, and when satisfied of the guilt of the accused, adjudge the punishment to be inflicted, which said punishment shall not exceed the limit prescribed in this article.

Art. 50. There shall be a summary court record kept at the headquarters of the proper command in the field, each regiment or corps, detached battalion or company, and each company at its home station, for which summary courts martial have been appointed, in which shall be entered a record of all cases heard and determined and the action had thereon. And the commanding officer of each camp or other place, regiment or corps, detached battalion or company, and each company at its home station, for which summary courts martial have been appointed shall, on the last day of every month and oftener if required, make a report to the adjutant general of the number of cases determined by summary courts, during the period, setting forth the offenses committed and the penalties awarded.

Art. 51. The judge advocate of any general or regimental court martial shall administer to each member of such court, before they proceed upon any trial, the following oath (or affirmation): "You, A. B., do swear (or affirm) that you will well and truly try and determine, according to evidence, the matter now before you, between the state of Texas and the prisoner to be tried, and that you will duly administer justice, without partiality, favor or affection, according to the provisions of the rules and articles for the government of the military forces of this state, and if any doubt should arise, not explained by said articles, then according to your conscience, the best of your understanding, and the customs in like cases; and you do further swear (or affirm) that you will not divulge the sentence of the court until it shall be published by the proper authority, except to the judge advocate; neither will you disclose or discover the vote or opinion of any particular member of the court martial, unless required to give evidence thereof as a witness by a court of justice in due course of law. So help you God."

Art. 52. When the oath (or affirmation) has been administered to the members of a court martial, the president of the court shall administer to the judge advocate, or person officiating as such, an oath (or affirmation) in the following form: "You, A. B., do swear (or affirm) that you will not disclose or discover the vote or opinion of any particular member of the court martial, unless required to give evidence thereof as a witness by a court of justice in due course of law; nor divulge the sentence of the court to any but the proper authority until it shall be duly disclosed by the same. So help me God."

Art. 53. A court martial may punish, at discretion, any person who uses any menacing words, signs or gestures in its presence, or who disturbs its proceedings by any riot or disorder.

Art. 54. All members of a court martial are to behave with decency and calmness.

Art. 55. Members of a court martial may be challenged by a prisoner, but only for causes stated to the court. The court shall determine the relevancy and validity thereof, and shall not receive a challenge to more than one member at a time.

Art. 56. When a prisoner, arraigned before a court martial, from obstinacy and deliberate design, stands mute or answers foreign to the purpose, the court may proceed to trial and judgment as if the prisoner had pleaded not guilty.

Art. 57. The judge advocate general, or some person deputed by him, or by the governor, or general, or officer commanding the division, brigade, camp or other place, regiment, separate squadron or battalion shall prosecute in the name of the state of Texas; but when the prisoner has made his plea he shall so far consider himself counsel for the prisoner as to object to any leading question to any of the witnesses and to any question to the prisoner, the answer to which might tend to criminate himself. And whenever a court martial shall sit in closed session the judge advocate shall withdraw, and, whenever his legal advice or his assistance in referring to recorded evidence is required, it shall be obtained in open court.

Art. 58. The judge advocate general and the officers of his department, the judge advocate of court martial and the trial officers of summary courts are hereby authorized to administer oaths for the purpose of the administration of military justice and for other military purposes.

Art. 59. The depositions of witnesses for the accused residing beyond the limits of the state, or the county in which any military court may be ordered to sit, may be taken and read in evidence as provided by the laws of this state.
Art. 60. All persons who give evidence before a court martial shall be examined on oath (or affirmation) which shall be administered by the judge advocate in the following form: “You swear (or affirm) that the evidence you shall give in the case now in hearing shall be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. So help you God.”

Art. 61. A court martial shall, for reasonable cause, grant a continuance to either party for such time and as often as may appear to be just; provided, that if the prisoner be in close confinement the trial shall not be delayed for a longer period than sixty days.

Art. 62. Members of a court martial, in giving their votes, shall begin with the youngest in commission.

Art. 63. Officers shall be tried only by general courts martial; and no officer shall, when it can be avoided, be tried by officers inferior to him in rank.

Art. 64. No officer shall be discharged or dismissed from the service, except by order of the governor, or by sentence of a general court martial.

Art. 65. When an officer is dismissed from the service for cowardice or fraud, the sentence shall direct that the crime, punishment, name and place of abode of the delinquent shall be published in the newspapers in and about the state and in the county in which the offender lives; and, after such publication, it shall be scandalous for an officer to associate with him.

Art. 66. When a court martial suspends an officer from command, it may also suspend his pay and emoluments for the same time, according to the nature of his offense.

Art. 67. No person shall be tried the second time for the same offense.

Art. 68. No person shall be liable to be tried or punished by a general court martial for any offense, except for desertion in the face of an enemy, committed more than two years before the arraignment of such person for such offense, unless he shall meanwhile have absented himself from this state, in which case the time of his absence shall be excluded in computing the period of the limitation; provided, that said limitation shall not begin until the end of the term for which said person was mustered into service.

Art. 69. No sentence of a court martial respecting a general officer, and no sentence of a court martial directing the dismissal of any officer, shall be carried into execution until it shall have been confirmed by the governor.

Art. 70. No sentence of a court martial shall be carried into execution until the same shall have been approved by the officer ordering the court, or by the officer commanding for the time being.

Art. 71. All sentences of a court martial may be confirmed and carried into execution by the officer ordering the court, or by the officer commanding for the time being, where confirmation by the governor is not required by these articles.

Art. 72. Any officer who is authorized to confirm and carry into execution the sentence of a court martial shall have power to pardon or mitigate any punishment adjudged by it, except the punishment of dismissal of an officer; and the governor shall have power to pardon or mitigate any punishment adjudged by any court martial.

Art. 73. Every judge advocate, or person acting as such, at any general or regimental court martial, shall, with such expedition as the opportunity of time and distance of place may admit, forward the original proceedings and sentences of such court to the adjutant general, in whose office they shall be carefully preserved.

Art. 74. Every party tried by a general or regimental court martial shall, upon demand thereof, made by himself or by any person in his behalf, be entitled to a copy of the proceedings and sentence of such court.

Art. 75. A court of inquiry to examine into the nature of any transaction of, or accusation or imputation against, any officer or soldier may be ordered by the governor, or by any commanding officer; but such courts of inquiry shall never be ordered by any commanding officer, except upon a demand by the officer or soldier whose conduct is to be inquired of.

Art. 76. A court of inquiry shall consist of one or more officers, not exceeding three, and a recorder to reduce the proceedings and evidence to writing.

Art. 77. The recorder of a court of inquiry shall administer to the members the following oath: "You shall well and truly examine and inquire, according to the evidence, into the matter now before you, without partiality, favor, affection, prejudice or hope of reward. So help you God." After which the president of the court shall administer to the recorder the following oath: "You, A. B., do swear that you will, according to your best abilities, accurately and impartially record the proceedings of the court and the evidence to be given in the case in hearing. So help you God."

Art. 78. A court of inquiry and the recorder thereof shall have the same power to summon and examine witnesses as is given to courts martial and the judge advocates thereof. Such witnesses shall take the same oath which is taken by witnesses before courts martial, and the party accused shall be permitted to examine and cross-examine them so as fully to investigate the circumstances in question.

Art. 79. A court of inquiry shall not give an opinion on the merits of the case inquired of, unless specially ordered to do so.

Art. 80. The proceedings of a court of inquiry must be authenticated by the signatures of the recorder and the president thereof, and delivered to the commanding officer.

Art. 81. The proceedings of a court of inquiry may be admitted as evidence by a court martial in cases not extending to the dismissal of an officer; provided, that the circumstances are such that oral testimony can be obtained.

Art. 82. The foregoing articles shall be read once in every twelve months to every company in the military service of this state, and shall be duly observed and obeyed by all officers and soldiers in said service.

[Id. sec. 103.]

Militaryman killing citizen—Jurisdiction.—Under article 30 of this statute, the district court of D. county had jurisdiction to try a member of the state militia for murder alleged to have been committed while such soldier was doing patrol duty within the coun-

Where a member of the national guard, while on duty in time of peace, committed a capital offense by killing a citizen who insinuated on passing a military line, the court of the state had jurisdiction to try the soldier therefor, both under authority conferred by article 30 of this statute and independent thereof; the state courts having first obtained jurisdiction before a military investigation was begun. Manley v. State (Cr. App.) 154 S.
W. 1098.

Duty to obey orders.—Since under this article one who enlists in the national guard is required to obey the orders of his superior officers, and may not question the authority of the order directing executive service, where accused as a member of the national guard was called into active service by the mayor of a city to do patrol duty during a visit of the president in the city, and while performing such service killed deceased by stabbing him with a bayonet, whether the mayor had authority to call out the national guard under such circumstances was irrelevant. Manley v. State, 62 Cr. R. 392, 137 S. W. 1137.

COURTS MARTIAL

Art. 5861. Evidence in courts martial.—The rules of evidence in all courts martial shall follow in general, so far as apposite, the common law rules of evidence as observed by the courts of this state in criminal cases; but a certain latitude in the introduction of evidence and the examination of witnesses by an avoidance of restrictive rules is permis-
Art. 5862. Privileges of accused.—In all trials before courts martial, the accused shall have the right to demand the nature and cause of the accusation against him, and to be presented with a copy of the charges. He shall have the right of being heard by himself or counsel, or both; shall be confronted with the witnesses against him, and shall have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor. [Id. sec. 105.]

Art. 5863. Counsel for defendant to be detailed, when.—The officer ordering a general or regimental court martial will at the request of any prisoner who is to be arraigned, detail as counsel for his defense a suitable officer, one not acting as a summary court; provided, such request is made within a reasonable time before trial. If there be no such officer available, the fact will be reported to the adjutant general for his action. An officer so detailed should perform such duties as usually devolve upon counsel for defendant before civil courts in criminal cases. [Id. sec. 106.]

Art. 5864. Judge advocate to appoint reporter.—The judge advocate of a military court shall have power to appoint a reporter, who shall record the proceedings of, and testimony taken before, such court, and may set down the same, in the first instance in shorthand. The reporter shall, before entering upon his duty, be sworn or affirmed faithfully to perform the same. [Id. sec. 107.]

Art. 5865. Judge advocate may issue process, etc.—The president or judge advocate of every general or regimental court martial shall have power to issue like process to compel witnesses to appear and testify, which courts of criminal jurisdiction within this state may lawfully issue; and such process shall be issued in the same style and manner and executed by the same officers as when issued by such court. [Id. sec. 108.]

Art. 5866. Process generally.—The president of any court martial, and any summary court officer, shall have authority to issue, under his hand, in the name of the state of Texas, directed to any sheriff or constable, whose duty it shall be to serve or execute the same in the same manner in which like process is served or executed when issued by a magistrate, all necessary process, subpoenas, attachments, warrants of arrest and warrant of commitment. [Id. sec. 109.]

Art. 5867. Penalty for disobeying, etc.—Every person, who being duly subpoenaed to appear as a witness before a regimental or general court martial, who willfully neglects or refuses to appear, or refuses to qualify as a witness or produce documentary evidence which such person may have been legally subpoenaed to produce, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and prosecuted in the proper justice court, and punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars; provided, such witness may plead as a defense that he was not tendered or paid one day's fee and mileage for the journey to and from the place of trial, as provided by this chapter, such amounts to be paid by the adjutant general's department out of any appropriation or funds available for that purpose; provided, that no witness shall be compelled to incriminate himself, or to answer any questions which may tend to incriminate or degrade him. [Id. sec. 110.]

Art. 5868. Witnesses entitled to transportation.—Persons in the employ of this state, but not belonging to the military forces thereof, when traveling upon summons as witnesses before military courts, are entitled to transportation in kind from their place of residence to the place where the court is in session and return. If no transportation be furnished, they are entitled to reimbursement of the cost of travel actually performed by the shortest usually traveled route. They are also entitled to reimbursement of the actual cost of meals and rooms at a rate not to exceed two dollars per day for each day actually and unavoidably consumed in travel, or in attendance upon the court under the order or summons. No allowance will be made to them when attendance upon court does not require them to leave their place of residence. [Id. sec. 111.]

Art. 5869. Compensation of.—A person not in the employ of this state and not belonging to the active military forces thereof, who has been duly summoned to appear as a witness before a military court, will receive one dollar and fifty cents per day for each day actually in attendance upon the court, and six cents a mile for going from his place of residence to the place of trial or hearing, and six cents a mile for returning. Civilian witnesses will be paid by the adjutant general's department. [Id. sec. 112.]

Art. 5870. Same.—The charges for return journeys of witnesses will be made upon the basis of the actual charges allowed for travel to the court, and the entire account thus completed will be paid upon discharge from attendance without waiting for completion of return travel. [Id. sec. 113.]

Art. 5871. Attachment may issue for witnesses.—In all cases where a witness has been subpoenaed and fails to attend, attachment shall issue, and he shall be liable for the costs of such attachment, unless good cause be shown to the court why he failed to obey the subpoena, which cost may be recovered by civil suit in any court having jurisdiction of the amount involved. [Id. sec. 114.]

Art. 5872. No fees allowed, except, etc.—No fees shall be allowed to a person as witness fees, unless such person has been subpoenaed, attached, or recognized as a witness in the case. [Id. sec. 115.]

Art. 5873. Governor may order arrest, etc.—When charges against any person in the military service of this state come before the governor, or any officer authorized to order a court martial for the trial of such person, and the governor, or such officer, believes that such charges can be sustained, and has reason to believe that the person so charged will not appear for trial, or intends to flee from justice, the governor, or such officer, may issue a warrant of arrest to the sheriff or any constable of the county in which the person so charged, resides, or wherein he is supposed to be, commanding such sheriff or constable to take the body of the person so charged and confine him in jail until such time as his case may finally be disposed of; and it shall be the duty of the sheriff or constable, on the order of the governor, or officer ordering the court, to bring the person so charged before the court martial for trial, or to turn over to whoever the order may direct; it shall be the duty of the governor, or the officer issuing the warrant of arrest, to indorse thereon the amount of bail to be required; and it shall be a violation of duty on the part of any sheriff or constable to permit a person so committed to remain out of jail; except that he may, when such person desires it, permit him to give bail in the sum indorsed on the warrant of arrest, conditioned for his appearance, from time to time, before such court martial as he may be ordered for trial, and until his case is finally disposed of, or until such time as he may surrender to the sheriff or constable as directed by the reviewing authority of the court martial before which he may be ordered for trial. [Id. sec. 116.]

Art. 5874. Suit on bonds, etc.—Upon the failure of any person, who has been admitted to bail conditioned for his appearance for trial before a court martial, or upon the failure of any person admitted to bail to appear as a witness in any case before a court martial, as conditioned in the bail bond of any such person, the court martial shall certify the fact of such failure to so appear to the officer ordering the court martial, or the officer commanding for the time being, as the case may be; and it shall be the duty of such officer to cause a judge advocate, district or county attorney, to file suit in any court having jurisdiction of the amount involved in Austin, Texas. [Id. sec. 117.]

Art. 5875. Code of Criminal Procedure to govern in giving bail, etc. — The rules laid down in the Code of Criminal Procedure of this state relating to the giving of bail, the amount of bail, the number of sureties, the persons who may be sureties, the property exempt from liability, the responsibility of parties to the same and all other rules of a general nature not inconsistent with this law are applicable to bail taken as provided by this chapter. [Id. sec. 118.]

Art. 5876. Warrant of arrest to extend to every part of the state, etc. — A warrant of arrest issued by the governor, or other officer authorized to order a general court martial, and all subpoenas and other process issued by general courts martial shall extend to every part of the state; but warrants of arrest issued by an officer, other than those named above, and all subpoenas and other process issued by other military courts can not be executed in any other county than the one in which they were issued, except they be indorsed by the governor, or an officer authorized to order a general court martial, in which case they can be executed anywhere in the state. The indorsement may be, “Let this process be executed in any county of the state of Texas.” The indorsement shall be dated and signed officially by the governor, or officer making it. [Id. sec. 119.]

Art. 5877. Defendant liable for costs. — The judgment of every court martial shall direct that all costs incurred in any trial shall be paid by the defendant; and it shall be the duty of the officer ordering the court, or the officer commanding for the time being, as the case may be, to enforce the collection thereof in the manner prescribed by this law; and when the defendant is imprisoned for costs, as hereinafter provided by this law, the adjutant general shall pay said cost out of any funds which may be available. [Id. sec. 120.]

Art. 5878. Same. — Upon conviction of any person by a court martial, the cost accruing for witness fees and the fees for sheriffs or constables for executing the process, subpoenas, writs of attachment, warrant of arrest, warrant of commitment, or any other authorized writs, shall be taxed against defendant; and any sheriff or constable executing any process, subpoena, writ of attachment, warrant of arrest, warrant of commitment, or any other authorized writs, shall be allowed the same fees as provided by the Code of Criminal Procedure in this state. [Id. sec. 121.]

Art. 5879. Procedure in cases of conviction of felony. — When the sentence of a court martial adjudges confinement, and the reviewing authority has approved the same in whole or in part, and such sentence as approved exceeds two years confinement, the reviewing authority, or the commanding officer for the time being, as the case may be, shall issue a warrant of commitment to the sheriff of the county in which such court martial was held, directing such sheriff to take the body of the person so sentenced and confine him in the county jail of such county until a duly accredited agent of the state penitentiary shall take charge of such person for confinement in the state penitentiary; and it shall be the duty of such reviewing authority, or the commanding officer for the time being, as the case may be, to certify a copy of the proceedings, as approved, of the court martial in the case of such person to be confined, to the superintendent of the state penitentiary, which shall be sufficient authority for, and it shall be the duty of, such superintendent to send for and confine such person in the state penitentiary for the period named in the proceedings of the court martial as approved, or until he may be directed to release him by proper authority; and it shall be the duty of the state penitentiary board to make such provisions as may be necessary for receiving from the sheriff as aforesaid and confining such person in such manner as persons are received and confined in the state penitentiary on sentence of district courts in this state. [Id. sec. 122.]

Art. 5880. Procedure in cases of misdemeanor with jail sentence.—When the sentence of a court martial adjudges confinement, and the reviewing authority has approved the same, in whole or in part, and such sentence, as approved, does not exceed two years confinement, the reviewing authority, or the commanding officer for the time being, as the case may be, shall issue a warrant of commitment to the sheriff of the county in which such court martial was held, directing such sheriff to take the body of the person so sentenced and confine him in the county jail of such county for the period named in such sentence, as approved, or until he may be directed to release him by proper authority; and such confinement shall be carried out as prescribed for confinement in the county jail by the Code of Criminal Procedure of this state. [Id. sec. 123.]

Art. 5881. Conviction in cases of fine and costs.—When the sentence of a court martial adjudges a fine and cost against any person, and such fine and cost has not been fully paid within ten days after the confirmation thereof, the governor, or officer ordering the court, or the officer commanding for the time being, as the case may be, shall issue a warrant of commitment directed to the sheriff of the county in which the court martial was held, directing him to take the body of the person so convicted and confine him in the county jail; and it shall be the duty of the sheriff to take the body of the person convicted and confine him in the county jail for one day for any fine not exceeding one dollar, and one additional day for every dollar above that sum, and one additional day for each dollar of cost. [Id. sec. 124.]

Art. 5882. Fines to be paid to whom in cases of general court martial.—All fines and forfeitures, imposed by general or regimental courts martial, shall be paid to the officer ordering such courts, or to the officer commanding for the time being, and by said officer, within five days from the receipt thereof, paid to the adjutant general, who shall disburse the same as he may see fit for military purposes. [Id. sec. 125.]

Art. 5883. Fines to be paid in cases of summary courts.—All fines and forfeitures imposed by summary courts martial shall be paid to the officer ordering the court, or the officer commanding for the time being, and by such officer, within five days from the receipt thereof, placed to the credit of the company fund of the company of which the person fined was a member when the fine was imposed. [Id. sec. 126.]

Art. 5884. Sheriff to execute lawful process from courts martial.—When any lawful process, issued by the proper officer of any court martial, comes to the hand of any sheriff or constable, he shall perform the usual duties of such officer and perform all acts and duties by this chapter imposed or authorized to be performed by any sheriff or constable. [Id. sec. 127.]

Art. 5885. Jurisdiction presumed.—The jurisdiction of the courts and boards established by this chapter shall be presumed, and the burden of proof shall rest on any person seeking to oust such courts or boards of jurisdiction in any action or proceeding. [Id. sec. 131.]

Art. 5886. Acts by or under military authority exempt from punishment.—No action or proceeding shall be prosecuted or maintained against a member of the military forces of this state, or officer or person...
acting under its authority or reviewing its proceedings, on account of the approval or imposition or execution of any sentence, or the imposition or collection of any fine or penalty, or the execution of any warrant, writ, execution, process, or mandate of a military court.  [Id. sec. 132.]

Killing citizen in time of peace.—See, also, notes under Art. 5890.

Since in time of peace a militiaman has only the rights of a peace officer, if in the performance of his duty his life becomes in danger, or it appears to him under all the facts and circumstances in evidence that some person is about to assault him with the intention of killing him, or doing him some bodily injury, he may kill such other in self-defense, but he has no other authority to take human life.  Manley v. State, 62 Cr. R. 392, 137 S. W. 1137.

In a prosecution of a militiaman for killing a citizen while doing guard duty in time of peace, evidence that the state militia was a part of the United States military, and concerning the instructions given to the soldiers as a body, and to defendant individually by his superior officers, was immaterial.  Id.

That a militiaman doing guard duty in time of peace was directed by his superior officer to keep the people out of a certain inclosure at all hazards did not authorize him to kill a citizen attempting to break into the inclosure after being warned, but only authorized him to use such means as were necessary to perform his order without taking life or committing an assault.  Id.

In a prosecution of a militiaman for killing a citizen while doing guard duty in a city during a presidential visit at a point where a part of the city street had been closed to travel, accused having had no control over the closing of the street, and having no authority to question his orders with reference thereto, the court should have charged the inclosure wired off and guarded was not to be taken as a circumstance against accused, nor the fact that he was there as a soldier and had a gun with a bayonet thereon, but that the jury should assume that he was properly at the place in question with the right to carry the gun and bayonet.  Id.

Art. 5887. Change of venue in certain cases.—Any officer or member of the military forces of this state, who is indicted or sued for any injury to persons or property done while performing, or endeavoring to perform, any duty required of him by this law, shall have the right, and it is hereby made the duty of the court in which such indictment or suit is pending, upon the application of the person so indicted or sued, to remove the venue of such cause to some court of competent jurisdiction in another county not subject to the same or some other disqualification; provided, such application is supported by the affidavit of two credible persons to the effect that they have good reason to believe that the defendant can not have a fair and impartial trial before such court.  [Id. sec. 133.]

Knowledge of affiants.—Under this article, where a member of the national guard indicted for murder committed while doing guard duty applied for a change of venue, and filed an affidavit supported by necessary compurgators, and the county attorney elected not to attack the credibility of the latter but only their means of knowledge, it was the duty of the court to grant the change; the statute not contemplating a trial of the question whether accused could or could not get a fair trial in the county.  Manley v. State, 62 Cr. R. 392, 137 S. W. 1137.

GENERALLY

Art. 5888. Commissioners' court and city council may make appropriations for militia.—The commissioners' court of each [county,] and the council of any city or town in this state, are hereby authorized and empowered, in their discretion, to appropriate a sufficient sum, not otherwise appropriated, to pay the necessary expenses of the troops, batteries, companies, signal corps, hospital corps and bands of the active militia of this state located in their respective counties, cities or towns, not to exceed the sum of one hundred dollars per month for such expenses of any one organization.  [Id. sec. 69.]

Art. 5889. Militia entitled to right of way on streets.—The commanding officer of any portion of the active militia of this state, parading or performing any military duty in any street or highway, may require any or all persons in such street or highway to yield to the right of way to such militia; provided, that carriage of the United States mails, the legitimate functions of the police and the progress and operations of hospital ambulances, fire engines and fire departments shall not be interfered with thereby.  [Id. sec. 71.]
Art. 5890. Unlawful disposition of property; illegal wearing of uniform, etc.—Any person who shall secrete, sell, dispose of, offer for sale, purchase, retain after demand made by a commissioned officer of the active militia of this state, or in any manner pawn or pledge, any arms, uniforms, equipments, or other military property, issued under the provisions of this chapter, or of the military regulations of this state, and any person who shall wear any uniform, or part thereof, or device, strap, knot or insignia of any design or character used as a designation of grade, rank, or office, such as are by law or by general regulations duly promulgated, prescribed for the use of the active militia of this state, or similar thereto, except members of the army of the United States, or the active militia of this state, or any other state, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be punished as provided in the Penal Code, and in addition thereto shall forfeit to this state one hundred dollars for each offense, to be sued for in the name of the state of Texas by a judge advocate, district or county attorney. All money recovered by any action or proceeding under this article shall be paid to the adjutant general, who shall apply the same to the use of the active militia of this state. [Id. sec. 72.]

Art. 5891. Arrest of trespassers; may prohibit sale of liquor, etc.—The commanding officer upon any occasion of duty may place in arrest, during the continuance thereof, any person who shall trespass upon the camp ground, parade ground, armory or other place devoted to such duty, or shall in any way or manner interrupt or molest the orderly discharge of duty by those under arms, or shall disturb or prevent the passage of troops going to and returning from any duty. He may prohibit and prevent the sale or use of all spirituous liquors, wine, ale or beer, the holding of huckster or auction sales, and all gambling within the limit of the post, camp ground, place of encampment, parade or drill under his command, or within limits not exceeding one mile therefrom, as he may prescribe. And he may in his discretion abate as common nuisances all such sales. [Id. sec. 73.]

Art. 5892. Insurrection may be declared, when.—Whenever any portion of the military forces of this state is employed in aid of the civil authority, the governor, if in his judgment the maintenance of law and order will thereby be promoted, may, by proclamation, declare the county or city in which the troops are serving, or any specified portion thereof, to be in a state of insurrection. [Id. sec. 98.]

Art. 5893. Troops to enter state only by permission.—No armed military force from another state, territory or district shall be permitted to enter this state without the permission of the governor, unless such force is part of the United States army. [Id. sec. 99.]

MILL PRODUCTS

Art. 5894. Packages, how marked; standard weights.

Art. 5895. Unground or unbroken grain or seed not included in definition.

Art. 5896. Concentrated feed stuffs, definition.

Art. 5897. Sample to be deposited.

Lines 1-2: Article 5894. Packages, how marked; standard weights.—Every lot or parcel of concentrated feeding stuffs, as defined in article 5896, used for feeding farm live stock, sold, offered, or exposed for sale in the state of Texas for use within this state, shall have printed on a tag described in article 5898, a plainly printed statement clearly and truly certifying the number of net pounds of feeding stuff in the package, stating the name or names of material of which such weight is composed, where the contents are of a mixed nature, the name, brand, or trade mark under which the article is sold, the name and address of the manufacturer or importer, the place of manufacture, such information as is required by article 5902, if any, and a chemical analysis stating the minimum percentages it contains of crude protein, allowing one per cent of nitrogen to equal six and one-fourth per cent of protein, of crude fat, of nitrogen-free extract, and the maximum percentage it contains of crude fiber; these constituents to be determined by the methods adopted at the time by the association of official agricultural chemists of the United States. Mill products hereinafter mentioned shall have the following standard weights, viz.: Flour, one hundred and ninety-six pounds per barrel, or forty-eight pounds per sack; corn meal, bolted or unbolted, thirty-five pounds per sack; rice bran, one hundred and forty-three pounds per sack; rice polish, two hundred pounds per sack; and other feeds made from cereals of any kind, whether pure, mixed, or adulterated, one hundred pounds per sack. Fractional barrels and sacks shall weigh in the same proportion, and those weights shall be net and exclusive of the barrel or sack in which said product is packed. [Acts 1905, p. 207. Amended Acts 1907, p. 243, sec. 1.]

Art. 5895. Unground or unbroken grain or seed not included in definition.—The term, "concentrated commercial feeding stuffs," as herein used, shall not include hay or straw, the whole seed or grains of wheat, rye, barley, oats, Indian corn, rice, buckwheat, or broom corn, or any other whole or unground grains or seeds. [Acts 1905, p. 207, sec. 2.]

Art. 5896. Concentrated feed stuffs, definition.—The term, "concentrated feed stuffs," as herein used, shall include wheat bran, wheat shorts, linseed meals, cotton seed meals, pea meals, cocoanut meals, gluten meals, gluten feeds, maize feeds, starch feeds, sugar feeds, dried brewer's grains, malt sprouts, hominy feeds, cerealin feeds, rice meal, rice bean, rice polish, rice hulls, oat feeds, corn and oat chops, corn chops, ground beef, or mixed fish feeds, and all other materials of similar nature not included herein. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5897. Sample to be deposited.—Before any concentrated feeding stuff, as defined in article 5896 of this chapter, is offered or exposed for sale, the importer, manufacturer and party who causes it to
Art. 5898. Tax tags; disposition of funds collected.—The manufacturer, importer, agent or seller of each concentrated commercial feeding stuff as defined in article 5896 of this chapter, shall, before the article is offered for sale, pay to the director of the Texas agricultural experiment station an inspection tax of ten cents per ton for each ton of such concentrated feeding stuff sold, or offered for sale, in the state of Texas for use within this state, and shall affix to each lot shipped in bulk, and to each bag, barrel or other package of such concentrated feeding stuffs, a tag to be furnished by said director, stating that all charges specified in said article have been paid. The director of said Texas agricultural experiment station is hereby empowered to prescribe the form of such tags, and adopt such regulations as may be necessary for the enforcement of this law. Whenever the manufacturer or importer or shipper of a concentrated feeding stuff shall have filed a statement named in article 5894 of this chapter, and have paid the inspection tax, no agent or seller of said manufacturer, inspector or shipper shall be required to file such statement or pay such tax. The amount of the inspection tax and penalties received by said director shall be paid into the state treasury. So much of the inspection tax and penalties collected under this chapter shall be paid by the state treasurer to the treasurer of the Texas agricultural and mechanical college as the director of the Texas agricultural experiment station may show by his bills has been expended in performing the duties required by this chapter, but in no case to exceed the amount of the inspection tax and penalties received by the state treasurer under this chapter. [Id. sec. 5.]

Art. 5899. Manufacturers and importers to furnish list of, and marks.—All manufacturers and importers of concentrated commercial feeding stuffs, or dealers in same, shall, when requested, furnish the director of the Texas experiment station with a complete list of names or trade marks of such feeding stuffs. [Acts 1905, p. 207, sec. 8.]

Art. 5900. How samples secured; analysis; publication.—The director of the Texas agricultural experiment station shall cause one analysis or more to be made annually of each concentrated commercial feeding stuff sold or offered for sale under the provisions of this chapter. Said director is hereby authorized in person or by deputy to take a sample not exceeding two pounds in weight for analysis from any lot or package of concentrated commercial feeding stuff which may be in the possession of any manufacturer, importer, agent, dealer or buyer in this state; but said sample shall be drawn or taken in the presence of said party or parties in interest, or their representatives, and shall be taken from a parcel, lot or number of parcels which shall not be less than five per cent of the whole lot inspected, and shall be thoroughly mixed and divided into two samples, and placed in glass or metal vessels carefully sealed, and a label placed on each, stating the name or brand of the feeding stuff, or material sampled, the name of the party from whose stock the sample is drawn, and the date and place of taking such sample, and said label shall be signed by the director or his deputy and the party or parties at interest, or their representative present at the taking and sealing of said sample; provided, that where the party or parties at interest refuse to be present and take part in the sampling of the said feed stuffs, the director or his deputy may take said samples in the presence of two disinterested witnesses, one of said duplicate samples shall be retained by the director and the other shall be left with the party whose stock was sampled, and the sample or samples retained by the director shall be for comparison with the certified statements made in articles 5894 and 5897 of this chapter. The result of the analysis of the sample or samples so prescribed, together with such additional information as circumstances advise, shall be published in reports or bulletins by the Texas agricultural and mechanical college from time to time. [Acts 1905, p. 207, sec. 9.]

Art. 5901. Term “importer” defined.—The term, “importer,” for all the purposes of this chapter shall be taken to mean all such persons as shall bring into or offer for sale within this state concentrated commercial feeding stuffs manufactured without this state. [Acts 1905, p. 207, sec. 10.]

Art. 5902. What feed stuffs deemed adulterated.—For the purpose of this chapter, a feeding stuff shall be deemed to be adulterated if it contains any sawdust, dirt, damaged feed, or any foreign matter whatever, or if it is in any respect not what it is represented to be, or if any rice hulls or chaff, peanut shells, corncocks, oat hulls, or other similar substances of little or no feeding value are admixed therewith; provided, that no wholesome mixture of feeding stuffs shall be deemed to be adulterated if the true percentage of constituents thereof is plainly and clearly stated on the package and made known to the purchaser at the time of the sale. It shall be the duty of the director of the experiment station to examine, or have examined for adulteration, all suspicious samples of feeding stuffs, and such other samples as may be desirable. [Acts 1905, p. 207. Amended Acts 1907, p. 243, sec. 11.]

Art. 5903. Duties and powers of director of experiment station.—The director of the experiment station is empowered to adopt standards or definitions for concentrated feeding stuffs, and such regulations as may be necessary for the enforcement of the law. The said director shall have the power to refuse the registration of any feeding stuff, under a name which would be misleading as to the material of which it is made up, or which does not conform to the standards or definitions aforesaid. Should any of said materials be registered and it is afterwards discovered that they are in violation of the above provisions, the said director shall have the power to cancel the registration ten days after notice. The director of the Texas experiment station is hereby empowered to adopt such regulations as may be necessary for the enforcement of all the provisions of this chapter. [Acts 1907, p. 243, sec. 11a.]

Art. 5903a. Disposition of funds for concentrated commercial feed stuffs.—That all money or moneys heretofore or hereafter collected by the officers and employees of the agricultural and mechanical college, under the provisions of the pure feed acts, passed by the twenty-ninth legislature, being chapters 108 and 118 of said acts, and amended by chapter 131, Acts of the thirtieth legislature, regulating the sale of concentrated commercial feed stuffs and so forth, and paid into the state treasury, and not heretofore expended for and on behalf of the agricultural and mechanical college, be and the same are hereby transferred and appropriated to the use and benefit of the agricultural and mechanical college of Texas; and the treasurer of this state shall keep an account on his books, to be designated and known as “Pure Feed Fund of the Agricultural and Mechanical College,” and to which said fund he shall at once transfer from the general fund all funds heretofore collected and paid into the general fund by said pure feed department of the agricultural and mechanical college under said acts (and not expended for the use of the agricultural and mechanical college), and shall place all funds hereafter collected under said acts to said fund.

Art. 5903b. Same.—Said fund so appropriated and collected shall be used by the board of directors of the agricultural and mechanical college for making all necessary repairs at the agricultural and mechanical college, erection of buildings and other improvements, and for such other purposes as may be deemed advisable by the board of directors; and said funds shall be paid out by the state treasurer on warrants issued by the president and secretary of the board of directors. The said board of directors shall, on the thirty-first day of August of each year, file a sworn report with the governor, giving an itemized statement of all receipts and disbursements of said fund for the year ending on said date.
ART. 5904.

Lands open to prospecting, development and lease, etc.—All public school, university, asylum and the other public lands, fresh water lakes, islands, bays, marshes, reefs, and salt water lakes; belonging to the state of Texas, and all lands which may hereafter be so owned and all lands which have been heretofore sold or disposed of by the state of Texas, with a reservation of minerals or mineral rights therein, as well as all lands which may hereafter be sold with reservation of minerals or mineral rights therein, and lands purchased with relinquishment of the minerals therein, shall be included within the provisions of this Act and shall be open to mineral prospecting, mineral development and the lease of mineral rights therein in the manner herein provided. Only citizens of the United States and such other persons as have heretofore declared or shall hereafter declare their intention of becoming such shall be entitled to acquire any rights under this Act. It is declared to be the policy of the state to open all such lands to mineral prospecting and development on a system providing for the payment into the state treasury to the credit of the permanent free school, university, asylum or other funds, of certain rents and royalties upon the gross output of any minerals or mineral product thereon. [Acts 1913, p. 409, sec. 1.]

Note.—Acts 1913, p. 409, sec. 33, repeals chapter 1, title 93, Rev. St. 1911, and "all other laws and parts of laws relating to the sale of mineral lands."

Cited, Cox v. Robinson, 102 T. 426, 150 S. W. 1149.

To what land applicable.—The language "that public school, university and asylum lands, containing valuable mineral deposits are hereby reserved," etc., was not intended to operate upon lands which had not been found to contain valuable mineral deposits and were not apparently mineral lands. The state provided for the classification so as to designate the lands reserved, and offered all for sale through the same officers and it cannot be said that there was an intention to have a secret reservation of that which was not known. Schendell v. Regan, 94 T. 585, 63 S. W. 1005.

No class as mineral lands is recognized by law, except such as have been classified as agricultural, pasture, or timbered lands that should be found to be apparently mineral-bearing, which were required to be designated as "mineral lands." Id.

An applicant for mineral land when he has furnished the evidence provided for in other articles of this law that the land is mineral bearing is entitled to a patent upon his complying with the statute in regard to price and fees, although the land has not been designated by survey as mineral land. Colquitt-Tignor Min. Co. v. Rogan, 96 T. 452, 68 S. W. 154-155.

There is nothing in this article and Art. 5912 which indicates that the legislature used the words "public lands," in a sense other than that which the law attaches to them. One has no right to purchase nor has the land commissioner the right to sell the soil lying below the line of ordinary high tide. De Merit v. Robinson, 102 T. 358, 116 S. W. 796, 797.

What are minerals.—"Minerals," if meaning both surface and subsurface minerals, includes every constituent of the earth’s crust. Gladys City Oil, Gas & Mfg. Co. v. Right of Way Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 171.

Art. 5904a. Right to prospect for and develop petroleum oil and natural gas.—Any person or association of persons, corporate or otherwise, desiring to obtain the right to prospect for and develop petroleum oil or natural gas that may be in any of the surveyed public free school land, university or asylum or other public lands of the state, which may be unsold at the time such desire is made known as herein provided, or in any of said land which has heretofore been sold with the reservation of minerals therein to the public free school fund or other fund and such of said land as has heretofore been purchased with the relinquishment of the minerals therein by the purchaser, or in any of said land that may hereafter be sold with the reservation of minerals therein, also in any of the fresh water lakes owned by the state or public free school fund or other fund, and also in any of the islands, bays, marshes, reefs and salt water lakes, may do so under the regulations, terms and conditions of this Act, together with such rules and regulations as may be adopted relative thereto and necessary for the execution of the purpose of this Act by the commissioner of the general land office. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 5904b. Right to prospect for and develop petroleum oil and gas in surveyed lands; application; how many acres may be awarded; duty of county clerk; fees.—One desiring to obtain the right to prospect for and develop petroleum oil or natural gas that may be in any of the surveyed lands mentioned herein shall first file with the clerk of the court of the county in which the area desired, or a portion thereof, is situated, or with the clerk of the county to which said county may be attached for judicial purposes, a separate application in writing for each tract applied for, designating the land in which he desires to acquire the aforesaid rights. No individual or corporation shall be awarded exceeding 1280 acres of the public lands of the state for oil or gas development purposes, and no individual or corporation shall be awarded exceeding 1000 acres for oil and gas development purposes within ten miles of any producing oil or gas well. The said 1280 acres in undeveloped territory, or the 1000 acres within ten miles of any producing oil or gas well, may be in as many different tracts of land or fresh water lakes as the applicant may desire, provided the applicant correctly describes the land or fresh water lakes desired for development purposes. The lines of all tracts less than a whole survey shall conform to the exterior of the lines of the survey of which it may be a part, as nearly as practicable. The said clerk shall file and record the application or applications aforesaid and note the same on his register opposite the entry of the proper survey if surveyed, or in his record book if unsurveyed, giving the time of filing, and the applicant shall file such application in the general land office together with one dollar as filing fees within thirty days after the date it was filed by the county clerk. [Acts 1913, S. S., p. 26, sec. 1. Amending Acts 1913, p. 409, sec. 3.]

Art. 5904c. Right to prospect in unsurveyed lands, etc.; application; duty of county surveyor; extent of surveys and locations, etc.—One desiring to obtain the right to prospect for and develop petroleum oil or natural gas in any of the state's islands, salt water lakes, bays, marshes, reefs and fresh water lakes owned by the state, or in any of the unsurveyed public land, shall first file a separate written application for each tract applied for with the county surveyor of the county in which the area or a part of same may be situated or the county to which said county may be attached for surveying purposes giving a designation of the same sufficient to identify it. The surveyor shall immediately file and record same, giving time of such filing, and within ninety days thereafter he shall survey and deliver to the applicant the field notes and original application. Said papers, together with one dollar as filing fee, shall be filed in the general land office, within one hundred days after the application was filed with the county surveyor, and not thereafter. Locations and surveys under this section shall not exceed 1280 acres in undeveloped territory and not exceeding 1000 acres within ten miles of a producing gas or oil well. All locations and surveys under this section shall, if practicable, be of regular form, but in every case the line or lines adjacent to other surveys shall conform to the lines of such adjacent surveys. If there are no adjacent surveys the surveyor shall connect such survey with some established survey on the mainland. [Id. sec. 2. Amending Acts 1913, p. 409, sec. 4.]

Art. 5904d. Commissioner to issue permit, when.—When the commissioner receives an application, or application and field notes, as provided for in the two preceding sections, within the time required, together with the filing fee of one dollar, he shall file same, and if, upon examination, said papers are found to be correct, and in compliance with this Act, and if the status of the area applied for is within the provisions herein, the applicant shall be entitled to the right to prospect for and develop the petroleum oil or natural gas that may be under the surface embraced in the application and field notes, and as evidence of such right the commissioner shall issue to each applicant a permit after the applicant shall have complied with the conditions hereinafter imposed. [Acts 1913, p. 409, sec. 5.]

Art. 5904e. Payments to be made by applicant, etc.; extension of permit granted, when.—Before the issuance of the permit provided for in the preceding section the applicant shall pay to the commissioner of the general land office ten cents per acre for each acre embraced in the application and field notes. Thereupon a permit shall be issued to the applicant conferring upon him an exclusive right to prospect for and develop petroleum oil or natural gas within the designated area for a term not to exceed two years. Within thirty days after the expiration of the first year the owner of the permit shall pay another ten cents per acre as in the first instance. Upon the termination of the period for which the original permit was granted and the receipt of satisfactory evidence of the compliance with the conditions prescribed in section 7 of this Act [Art. 5904f], and such compliance shall not have led to the discovery of petroleum oil or natural gas in commercial quantities, then the commissioner may grant an extension of the permit for a term not to exceed one year upon the payment by the applicant or his successors in interest of an additional fee of twenty-five cents per acre. No extension, however, shall be granted unless satisfactory proof of an effort towards the development of the area included in the permit has been made in good faith and the expenditure of the sum required and duly submitted as set forth in section 7 [Art. 5904f] of this Act. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 5904f. Owner to commence work; statements of expenditures; revocation of permit; transfers and liens, etc.—Before the expiration of six months after the date of the permit the owner of said permit shall in good faith commence actual work necessary to the physical development of said area, and if petroleum oil or natural gas is not developed the owner or manager shall, on or before the thirty days after the expiration of twelve months from the date of the permit, file in the general land office a sworn statement supported by two disinterested, credible witnesses that such actual work was begun within the six months aforesaid, and that petroleum oil or natural gas has not been discovered in commercial quantities and that a bona fide effort to develop said was made during the six months preceding the filing of said statement during the two years covered by said permit the owner thereof shall expend not less than four thousand dollars in a bona fide effort for the development of such area, unless such area has sooner been developed or abandoned. The owner or manager shall, within thirty days after the expiration of the two years from the date of the permit, filed with the commissioner of the general land office a sworn statement supported by two disinterested, credible witnesses that such bona fide effort for the development of the area has been made, stating in what condition, and showing the expenditure thereof. A failure to file either of the sworn statements herein provided for and within the time specified. or the filing of a statement untrue or false in material matters, or the failure to expend the sum named in a bona fide effort toward the development of the area or areas, shall work a revocation of said permit and the termination of the rights of the owner. Such termination shall be endorsed by the commissioner of the general land office, upon a duplicate copy of the permit retained in the general land office. Upon the termination of such permit the area shall again be subject to location by another than the forfeiting owner. The expenditure herein required for development purposes may be made upon one or more contiguous tracts embraced in a permit and shall be sufficient for the entire area embraced in one such permit. The amount herein required to be expended in development purposes shall be required on each and every non-contiguous area. A separate permit shall be issued for each non-contiguous area, but may contain an entire contiguous area of two or more adjacent tracts of land. An application may embrace contiguous portions of different tracts or surveys. An assignment by deed or other form of transfer and also a lien of any form may be executed upon any claim to any person, association of persons, corporate or otherwise, that may be qualified to obtain a permit or lease in the first instance; provided, that deed or other evidence of sale, assignment or lien shall be recorded in the county where the property or a part thereof is situated and shall be filed in the land office within sixty days after the date thereof, accompanied by a filing fee of one dollar. If such instrument shall not be filed in the land office within the time required such deed or evidence of transfer or evidence of lien shall not have the effect to convey the property nor shall the obligations incurred therein be enforceable.
[Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 5904g. Owner of permit shall have right to lease, when; conditions.—If at any time within the life of the permit one should develope petroleum oil or natural gas in commercial quantities the owner or manager shall file in the land office a statement of such development within thirty days thereafter, and thereupon the owner of the permit shall have the right to lease all or part of the area included in the permit upon the following conditions:
(1) An application and a first payment of $2.00 per acre for a lease of the area included in a permit shall be made to the commissioner of the general land office within thirty days after the discovery of petroleum oil or natural gas in commercial quantities.

(2) A lease may be granted for a period of ten years or such portion thereof as the applicant may desire and with the option of renewal or renewals for an equal or a shorter period upon the payment of a cash sum of $2.00 per acre in advance on the entire area included in any lease and an equal sum annually in advance thereafter during the life of such lease, and in addition thereto the owner of such lease shall pay a sum of money equal to a royalty of one-eighth of the value of the gross production of petroleum oil.

(3) The owner of a permit shall not take, carry away or sell any petroleum oil or natural gas found in any area before such owner shall have obtained a lease therefor; provided, such owner may use for fuel such portion of said substances as may be necessary for the continued development of the area without accounting therefor. In addition to the $2.00 per acre annually in advance, the owner of a gas well shall pay a sum of money equal to 10 per cent. of the meter output of all gas sold. The said royalty on petroleum oil, or natural gas, shall be paid to the commissioner of the general land office monthly during the life of the lease. In all such payments the owner or manager shall accompany the remittance with a sworn statement of the amount produced, and the market price of the output, and a copy of any pipe or pipe lines or tank receipt, check or memoranda of amount put out or into such lines or tanks. The books and accounts and the receipts and discharges of all lines, pipe lines or tanks and gas lines and gas pipes, and all other matters pertaining to the production, transportation and marketing of the output shall be open to the examination and inspection at all times by the commissioner of the general land office or his representative or any other representative of the state. The value of any unpaid royalty or royalties and any sum or sums due to the state upon any lease contract shall become a prior lien upon all production of petroleum oil or natural gas produced upon the leased areas to secure the payment of any royalties and sums due the state. [Id. sec. 8.]

Art. 5904h. Lands sold with reservation of minerals, etc., subject to prospect and lease; payments to land owner; condemnation, when.—In the event any land or water included within the operation of this Act has heretofore been or may hereafter be sold by the state with the reservation of minerals therein, or has been purchased by one with the waiver of mineral rights, such land shall be subject to prospect and lease as set forth in this Act, but the owner of the permit or lease shall pay to the owner of the surface of the land twenty cents per acre per annum in advance during the life of the permit or lease and the first payment shall be paid to the commissioner of the general land office, for the use of the owner of the surface, prior to the issuance of such permit, and said sum so paid to the owner of the surface rights shall be in full compensation for all damages to such surface by reason of the ingress and egress and operation necessary to development and the operation under the permit or lease; provided, that if the owner or lessee of the surface will not accept the payment of twenty cents per acre per annum as above provided, and the lessee of the mineral rights cannot agree with such owner or lessee of the surface rights on the compensation to be paid for the use of the damages to such surface rights, then the right thereto and the ingress and egress from such mine or mining claim may be acquired by condemnation as hereinafter provided. [Id. sec. 9.]

Art. 5904i. Limit of holdings.—No person, association of persons, corporate or otherwise, shall hold or own at one time by permit or lease, direct or through assignment, nor hold or own a controlling interest in more than two sections of 640 acres each, more or less, of surveyed school land, university, asylum or other public land, nor more than 1280 acres of islands, lakes, bays, marshes, reefs, or unsurveyed school, university, or asylum or other public land in any undeveloped field nor more than one thousand acres within ten miles of any producing oil or gas well. [Acts 1913, S. S., p. 26, sec. 3. Amending Acts 1913, p. 409, sec. 10.]

Art. 5904j. Association applying to file statement of membership; permit; lease.—A person or association of persons, corporate or otherwise, applying for a permit or lease shall file with the application a sworn statement showing what interest, if any, the applicant or each of the members of the association or each stockholder in the corporation may hold in any other permit or lease issued by the state. When the commissioner is satisfied that the applicant is entitled to such permit or lease he shall issue the permit for a term not to exceed two years, and the lease may be issued for such time as the applicant may elect, not to exceed ten years, with the right of a renewal or renewals upon such terms and conditions as hereinbefore provided. The permit or lease shall contain the terms upon which it is issued and such other matters as the commissioner may deem important to the rights of the state or applicant. Should a permit or lease be issued upon a statement by the applicant or applicants, or either of them which is false or untrue in any material fact, the commissioner may cancel such permit or lease when sufficiently informed as to such false or untrue statements. [Acts 1913, p. 409, sec. 11.]

Art. 5904k. Cancellation of permits and leases, etc.—Should the owner of a permit fail or refuse to proceed with reasonable diligence in a bona fide effort to develop an area included in such permit, the commissioner of the general land office may cancel same. Should the holder of a lease fail or refuse to proceed with reasonable diligence and in a bona fide effort to develop, operate and put out the product of a producing well of petroleum oil or natural gas at any time during the life of a lease, the commissioner of the general land office may cancel such lease contract. In the event of a cancellation of a permit or lease contract for the causes mentioned in this section the area included therein shall be subject to the application of another than the forfeiting owner, in the same manner as in the first instance; provided, should a lease covering a producing well be cancelled an application for a lease of such area or part thereof may be made direct to said commissioner, and a copy of such lease shall be filed in the office of the county clerk. [Id. sec. 12.]

Art. 5904l. Coal and lignite subject to prospect and development, under what terms and conditions.—All coal and lignite underlying the surface of the lands and waters, as defined by this Act, shall be subject to prospect and development under the following terms and conditions:

Any person, firm, or corporation desiring to prospect for coal and lignite shall file with the clerk of the county in which the land is situated his application covering not more than 2560 acres. Said application shall be made in the same manner and form as is required by other sections of this Act, and permits shall be granted by the commissioner of the general land office authorizing such prospect and development upon the following terms and conditions, subject to forfeiture for breach of any of said terms and conditions; said permit shall run for a period of twenty years with preference right of renewal to lessee for three months after the expiration thereof. Lessee shall, within sixty days after the granting of said permit, begin to prospect for coal and lignite, and shall, within ten months thereafter, sink a shaft 6 x 8 feet to coal or lignite, drive a tunnel in said coal or lignite, to a distance of twenty yards, and shall crib said shaft and prop said tunnel in strict conformity with specifications to be furnished by mine inspector of this state, and shall, within sixty days thereafter, begin to mine said coal or lignite, and shall continuously mine the same, provided same be situated within two miles of any railroad; but, if said coal or lignite be situated more than two miles from any railroad, then said lessee shall be allowed five years within which to begin to mine said coal and lignite; provided, that in the last named contingency the said five years shall not be reckoned as any part of the time covered by said lease. The royalty to be paid to the state, shall not be less than six cents per ton for coal and not less than four cents per ton for lignite, for each and every ton of two thousand pounds of said product sold. Said royalties shall be due and payable to the state monthly, and the same shall be accompanied by a sworn statement of the lessee showing the number of tons so mined as well as the number of tons sold; provided, further, that the royalties herein provided shall, after the third year of operation of said mine, equal a minimum of $4.00 per acre for each and every acre covered by said lease. Said mine shall be kept in continuous operation, barring strikes, lockouts, fires, floods and other accidents over which the lessee has no control; provided, further, that said lessee shall not be required to operate said mine at a time when the market price for said product is such as to cause same to be run at a loss to the lessee. [Id. sec. 13.]

Art. 5904m. Other minerals.—All other minerals and mineral rights that may be in the lands or waters included in section 1 [Art. 5904], of this Act, shall be subject to prospect and development under the terms and conditions hereinafter stated. [Id. sec. 14.]

Art. 5905. Repealed. See note under Art. 5904.

Art. 5906. [3498d] Mining claim shall be of what extent.—A mining claim upon deposits, veins or lodes of quartz or any other rocks, bearing silver, gold, cinnabar, lead, tin, iron, copper or any other metallic substance, may equal but shall not exceed 1500 feet in length and 600 feet in width; such claim may be of unlimited depth, but shall be bounded by four vertical planes. All claims shall be in the form of a parallelogram, unless such form is prevented by adjoining rights, and the locator shall be entitled to the use of all superficial area bounded by the enclosed lines of the claim and to all minerals therein upon the terms hereinafter provided. In all conflicts priority of location shall decide. [Acts 1913, p. 409, sec. 15.]

Art. 5907. [3498e] Locator to post notice; markers.—The locator of any mining claim shall post up at the center of one of the end lines of the claim a written notice stating the name of the location and of the claim and date of posting and shall describe the claim by giving the number of feet in length and width and direction the claim lies in length from the notice, together with the section number, if known, and the county, and shall place stone or concrete markers at the four corners not less than three feet high and otherwise describe the corners so that they can be readily found. The notice shall be posted in a conspicuous place so that it can be easily seen. [Id. sec. 16.]

Art. 5908. [3498f] To file copy of notice, etc., with county clerk; application for survey; duty of surveyor; fees.—The locator shall, within three months after the date of posting the required notices, file with the county clerk of the county in which the land, or a part of the same, is situated, a copy of the notice provided for in section 16 hereof [Art. 5907], together with a recording fee of one dollar ($1), and an affidavit that the locator has performed ten feet of work in the shape of tunnels, shaft or open cut on the claim, and within one year from the date of the posting of the original notice the locator shall file with the county surveyor of the county in which the land or a part thereof is situated, an application in writing for the survey of the claim, giving the name of the claim and such description of its boundary and location as will enable the surveyor to identify the land. The affidavit shall be accompanied by a fee of twenty dollars ($20), unless its tender is waived, and also with an affidavit stating the kind of the claim; also, the date of the first posting of the notice on the claim by the applicant, and that the notice has not been post dated or its date changed. Upon receiving the application and affidavit and fee the surveyor, shall file the application and affidavit and shall forthwith proceed to survey the claim. After the field notes are recorded and a plot of the survey is made by the surveyor, which shall be within ninety days, he shall deliver the application and the affidavit, together with the field notes and plat, to the applicant or his agent, who shall forward the same within sixty days, to the commissioner of the general land office, together with one dollar ($1.00) as a filing fee. The fee of twenty dollars ($20) shall cover all charges by the surveyor in connection with any one claim. [Id. sec. 17.]

Art. 5909. [3498g] Joint claim; right of co-owner who has paid against defaulting co-owner, etc.—If any mining claim of any character shall be filed upon jointly by two or more claimants and any one or more of them shall fail to contribute his proportion of any expenses required in this Act within the necessary time the co-owner or co-owners who have paid the fees or other expenditures required by this Act may, at the expiration of the time in which the payment is required to be made and after the same has been made, give notice in writing to such defaulting co-owner, or if such defaulting co-owner cannot be found, then by publication in a newspaper published in the county where the claim is situated, or if no such newspaper be published in such county, then in the newspaper published nearest thereto at least once a week for four successive weeks. If, after such publication notice, such delinquent shall fail or refuse to contribute his proportion of the expenditures required, his interests in the claim shall cease and shall be forfeited to the co-owner or co-owners who have made the required expenditures. An affidavit of such co-owner or co-owners of the claim, accompanied with notices given, shall, when recorded in the office of the county clerk, be sufficient evidence of such delinquency and forfeiture. [Id. sec. 18.]

Arts. 5910-5916. Repealed. See note under Art. 5904.

How much land may be acquired.—Under Art. 5912, one may acquire not exceeding two sections of land; but the law does not permit a husband and wife to each acquire two sections, and with the consent of the husband the wife may purchase any part of the land; and, by the statute under which the provisions are made, the wife must make the application, and the husband must deliver the application and the affidavit, and the wife may purchase with the consent of the husband the remainder of a section after deducting the amount purchased by him. Brown v. Robison, 103 T. 561, 131 S. W. 401.

Sufficiency of description in affidavit.—An affidavit by an intending purchaser of minerals, which, after naming different portions of different sections by number, designates the lands as "all or any of these lands," does not reasonably describe the land, within Art. 5912, where the intending purchaser is not entitled to purchase the whole of the 440 acres described by section numbers, but only the land remaining after deducting the acres previously purchased by another. Brown v. Robison, 103 T. 551, 131 S. W. 401.

Land sold prior to Act March 29, 1889.—Where land was sold by the state prior to Act March 29, 1889, and a mineral location was not made thereon until August, 1900, the locator acquired no title against the purchaser of the land. Heil v. Martin, 96 T. 209, 71 S. W. 814.

Constitutionality.—Const. art. 14, § 7, providing that the state thereby releases to the owner or owners of the soil all mines and minerals thereon, was curative in its nature and retrospective in its effect, and intended as an extinguishment of the rights of the state in only those mines and minerals in soil owned at the time of its adoption, and was not intended to prevent the state from reserving mines and minerals in lands of the public domain subsequently granted by it, in view of the facts that this provision was originally adopted by the convention which framed the constitution of 1855 at a time when the state could not afford to be generous in its disposal of the ungranted public domain; that it was adopted, not as a general provision of the constitution, but as an ordinance substituted for one having special reference to the title to a salt lake, then in dispute; and that its language has remained unchanged in subsequent constitutions, especially as the term "release" commonly means to surrender a right or discharge a liability which presupposes the existence of some person against whom the right may be exercised or the liability enforced, and the word "owner" ordinarily means one who already has a legal or rightful title, and not one who must acquire such title in the future, in order to come within the term; and hence Art. 5916, reserving minerals on lands thereafter granted by the state, is valid. Cox v. Robinson, 105 T. 426, 150 S. W. 1149. 3952
Art. 5917. [3498o] Placers and certain other mining claims, subject to location, entry and lease, on what terms, etc.—Claims usually called placers, including all forms of metallic deposits, excepting those described in section 15 [Art. 5906], as well as any mining claim covering deposits of kaolin, baryta, salt, marble, fire clay, gypsum, nitrates, mineral paints, asbestor, marl, natural cement, clay, onyx, mica, precious stones or any other non-metallic mineral and stones valuable for ornamental or building material shall be subject to location and entry and lease on the same terms and conditions and upon similar proceedings as are provided herein for vein or lode claims; provided, all placer claims located shall conform as nearly as practicable to existing surveys and their sub-divisions, and no placer claim shall include more than forty acres, and no aggregation of individual claims shall exceed three hundred and twenty acres. After the location of any mining claim and survey thereof and the registration thereof in the office of the general land commissioner, as hereinbefore provided, the locator shall be entitled to the exclusive uses and possession thereof so long as the locator shall continue to do the amount of work upon such claims equivalent to one hundred dollars ($100) worth of labor per annum; provided, that an affidavit shall be filed before the expiration of each and every year, setting forth, in detail, the development work that has been done that year, with an itemized statement of the value thereof. Such statement shall be filed in the office of the commissioner of the general land office, also in the office of the county clerk of the county where such mining claim is located, or the county to which such county is attached for judicial purposes. The commissioner of the general land office may, at his discretion, require additional proof that such development work has been done. [Acts 1913, p. 409, sec. 19.]

Art. 5917a. Royalties; forfeiture, etc.—In full payment to the state for the right to take from any mining claim of any character described in sections 15 [Art. 5906] and 19 [Art. 5917], any mineral wealth or deposit whatever, whether metallic or non-metallic, the owner or holder of such claim shall pay unto the state a royalty or rental equivalent to five per centum of the total gross output sold or disposed of or from such mine or mining claim of any character therein defined. If any locator shall fail to post the location notice or to file with the county clerk the location notice and affidavit, or shall fail to file with the county surveyor the application for survey and affidavit hereinbefore required, or shall fail to file with the commissioner of the general land office the application, affidavit, file notice and plat hereinbefore required; or shall fail to comply with any of the terms or conditions herein required, such claim shall be subject to forfeiture by the commissioner of the general land office by an endorsement upon such application theretofore filed of the word "Forfeited," signed officially by him, and thereupon all rights in such mining claim and rights of the locator or claimant in such mining claim shall utterly cease and determine and the same shall be subject to relocation; provided that the commissioner of the general land office may, upon satisfactory showing to him why such conditions or requirements were not complied with, reinstate such claim upon the written request of one or more of the locators, claimants, or owners, filed in his office; provided, further, that no rights of any others have intervened at the date of filing of such request in the general land office. One interested in the claim at the date it was forfeited shall not be eligible to relocate or file upon the same land or in behalf of any other person within a period of six months next ensuing after such forfeiture, and any attempt to make such location by such person shall be wholly void. [Id. sec. 20.]

Art. 5918. Repealed. See note under Art. 5904.

Art. 5919. [3498q] Timber and trees.—Any locator, claimant, or owner of any mining claim under this Act is authorized to fell and remove for building and mining purposes any timber or any trees growing or being upon any unoccupied public lands under such rules and regulations as the commissioner of the general land office may, from time to time, provide for the protection of timber and other growth upon such lands and such other purposes. [Acts 1913, p. 409, sec. 21.]

Art. 5920. [3498r] Claims and rights not impaired, etc.—Nothing in this Act contained shall ever be construed to destroy, invalidate or impair any valid claim, right or interest existing in, to or concerning any lands whatsoever at the date of the passage of this Act, or of any pre-emptor, purchaser, claimant, settler, locator or any other person whatever. [Id. sec. 22.]

Art. 5920a. Surface rights of locator or owner of mining claim; compensation in case of disagreement, etc.—The locator or owner of a mining claim shall have the right to occupy within the limits of his claim so much of the surface ground as is strictly necessary for the use and exploitation of the mineral deposits and for the buildings and works necessary for mining operations and for the treating and smelting of the ore produced on such claims and to occupy within and without the limits of his claim the necessary land for right of way, for ingress and egress to and from his claim, for roadways, or railways; provided, that if the locator or owner of the mineral right cannot agree with the owner or lessee of the surface right in regard to the acquiring of same and in regard to the compensation for the injury incident to the opening and the working of such mine and the access thereto, he may apply to the judge of the county court of the county in which such mining claim is located by filing a written petition setting forth with a sufficient description the property and surface right sought to be taken and the purpose for which the same is to be taken, and it shall be the duty of such county judge of such county to appoint three disinterested freeholders to examine, pass upon and determine the damages and compensation to be paid to the owner of such surface right or other property necessary to be taken, and the proceedings for acquiring or condemning such surface right or other property shall, at all times, so far as possible, be covered by the laws relating to the condemnation of rights of way for railway companies the locator or owner of such mining claim, occupying the position of the railway company, and an appeal may be taken from the decision of the commissioners upon the same terms and conditions and subject to the same regulations and qualifications prescribed by law for the condemnation of right of way for railways. [Id. sec. 23.]

Art. 5920b. Rights of prior purchasers or lessees from state to apply for reserved mineral rights.—Upon all lands of any character heretofore sold or leased by the state in which the minerals or mineral rights were reserved to the state, the public free school fund, university fund, asylum or other fund, the grantee or lessee, as the case may be, shall have the prior right for six months after date upon which this Act shall take effect to prospect, locate and apply for the mineral rights upon such land heretofore sold or leased to him, and after the expiration of such six months such preference or priority right shall cease and such grantee or lessee shall have no prior or preference rights over any other prospec tor or locator. [Id. sec. 24.]

Art. 5920c. Relinquishment of permit, lease or claim.—The holder of a permit, a lease, a prospecting right, or any other right acquired under this Act may relinquish one or more of such permits, leases, claims or prospector’s claims at any time by filing a relinquishment in the general land office after it is duly recorded by the clerk of the proper county, but such holder shall not be entitled to a refund of any sum paid thereon. [Id. sec. 25.]

Art. 5920d. Moneys to be credited to what funds, etc.—The commissioner of the general land office shall collect and transmit to the state treasurer all money derived from the development of any minerals or substance named herein and found on the public free school land or other public land, and it shall be credited to the permanent free school fund or other fund to which the land from which such money is derived is set apart. All money derived from the development of any mineral or substances named herein and found on other than public free school land, university or asylum land, shall be credited to the game, fish and oyster fund for the use of that department. All fees shall be credited to the general revenue in the manner provided by law for other fees paid into the general land office. [Id. sec. 26.]

Art. 5920e. Protection of waters from pollution, etc.—All development in water or on islands, marshes and reefs shall be done under such regulations as will prevent the pollution of the water and for the prevention of such pollution the game, fish and oyster commissioner may be called upon for assistance in the adoption and enforcement of rules and regulations for the protection of said waters. For a violation of such rules and regulations the commissioner of the general land office may revoke a permit or cancel a lease. [Id. sec. 27.]

Art. 5920f. Taxation.—The rights acquired under this Act shall be subject to taxation as is other property after the owner shall have paid to the state the sums necessary to perfect his rights. [Id. sec. 28.]

Art. 5920g. Land may be sold without minerals, etc.—The issuance of a permit or lease or the filing of a prospector’s affidavit on unsold land included within this Act, shall not prevent the sale of the land without minerals on which such mineral or mining claim may be located under the laws applicable to such land, but in case of such sale after an application has been filed with the county clerk so herein provided the purchaser of such land shall not be entitled to any part of the proceeds of such minerals or mining location nor other compensation, nor shall such purchaser have any action for damages done to such land by or resulting from the proper working of or operation under such permit, lease or prospector’s claim. [Id. sec. 29.]

Art. 5920h. Commissioner of general land office to have supervision, etc.—The commissioner of the general land office shall have general supervision of all matters necessary for the proper administration of the purpose of this Act, and he is authorized to adopt rules regulations and to alter or amend them from time to time as may appear necessary for the protection of the interest involved and the execution of the purposes of this Act not inconsistent with its provisions and the constitution of the state. [Id. sec. 30.]

Art. 5920i. Number of mining claims to one person, etc.—No individual, firm, association of persons or corporations shall be entitled to locate or lease more than five mining claims of any character defined in section 15 and 19 [Arts. 5906 and 5917] and any location or lease made contrary to this section shall be void; provided, however, that upon coal or lignite mines or deposits any one individual, firms, association of persons or corporations shall be entitled to locate or lease a total area not to exceed twenty-five hundred and sixty ($2560) acres. [Id. sec. 31.]

Art. 5920j. Unconstitutionality of part not to invalidate whole.—If any provision of this bill shall be held to be unconstitutional either as applied to any character of land or water described in section 1 [Art.
5904) or in any other respect, such decision shall not be construed to invalidate the provision of this Act with regard to any other character of land of [or] waters described in section 1 or any other provision of this Act. [Id. sec. 32.]

Arts. 5921, 5922. Repealed. See note under Art. 5904.

DECISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT IN GENERAL

Title to oil.—While the landowner has no specific title to the underlying oil until it has been brought to the surface, as soon as it has been extracted it becomes the owner's property. Bender v. Brooks, 103 T. 329, 137 S. W. 105, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 559.

Damages for taking oil from another’s land.—Measure of damages for taking oil from another’s land through mistake as to ownership of the land, stated. Bender v. Brooks, 103 T. 329, 137 S. W. 105, Ann. Cas. 1913A, 559.

The measure of damages for taking oil from land through mistake as to the ownership of the land held the value of the oil at the surface, less the reasonable cost of extracting it. Gladys City Oil, Gas & Mfg. Co. v. Right of Way Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 171.

Purchase of oil from cotenants.—Purchasers of oil from one who, without the concurrence of his cotenants, has extracted it from land in which he has only an undivided interest, are liable to the cotenants if the transactions are a wasteful disposition of the oil. Burnham v. Hardy Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 390.

A lessee entitled to moving an undivided interest in land may extract oil therefrom without his cotenants concurrence or participating. Burnham v. Hardy Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 390.

Liability of cotenant for expense of producing oil.—One holding his cotenant to an executory agreement for oil extracted from the land is chargeable with the reasonable expense of producing and marketing the oil. Burnham v. Hardy Oil (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 330.

Nonparticipating cotenant held not chargeable with the expense of nonproducing oil wells. Id.

Contracts for development of oil and gas lands.—Compliance within reasonable time with stipulation to secure partition of grantor’s interest held necessary to preserve interest of grantees under contract for development of oil lands. Emery v. League, 31 C. A. 474, 72 S. W. 603.

Contract for development of oil lands held to have been forfeited by failure to comply with reasonable time with stipulation requiring grantee to obtain partition of lands. Id.

A contract for the drilling of an oil well constituted, and held not to have given one of the parties any right to take possession of the other’s drilling outfit. Hammond v. Decker, 46 C. A. 222, 102 S. W. 453.

A contract purporting to transfer to S. oil, gas, and minerals under certain land held a unilateral contract. Witherspoon v. Staley (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 557.

Options.—Grantors of oil and gas option held to have right to rescind. National Oil & Pipe Line Co. v. Teel (Civ. App.) 67 S. W. 545.

Contract for development of oil lands construed, and held to confer only an option. Emery v. League, 31 C. A. 474, 72 S. W. 603.

An instrument held at most an option for an oil lease, and terminated by foreclosure of judgment lien against the lands. Hodges v. Brice, 32 C. A. 358, 74 S. W. 598.

A contract purporting to transfer to S. the oil, gas, and minerals under certain land held a mere option, which terminated on the failure of S. to perform its conditions Within 90 days after the option. Staley (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 557.

Where a mining lease option could have been continued by the payment of 25 cents on January 28, 1911, a deposit of that sum to the landowner’s credit in a bank on January 30th was insufficient, though the receipt for a prior payment erroneously recited that it extended the option to the latter date. Id.

Oil lease held to have been terminated. Id.

A lease of land for oil and gas development, terminable at the will of the lessee on the payment of two dollars, is terminable also at the will of the lessor on tender or payment of the value of all labor done and services rendered by defendant. J. M. Guffey Petroleum Co. v. Oliver (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 884.

Diligence, good faith, and reasonable development held to be implied condition of lease of lands for oil and gas development. Id.

Plaintiff, in action to cancel lease of land for oil and gas development for delaying the work, held not estopped to claim a forfeiture of the lease by executory agreement for delay. Id.

An oil and gas lease obligating the lessee to begin work on the first oil well within six months, etc., held based on a sufficient consideration. Great Western Oil Co. v. Carpenter, 43 C. A. 329, 95 S. W. 57.

Duty of lessee of oil lands held to be to use reasonable diligence to develop and protect property. J. M. Guffey Petroleum Co. v. Jeff Chaison Townsite Co., 43 C. A. 555, 107 S. W. 609.

An oil lease construed. Id.

Duty of lessee of oil land to recover by mandatory injunction a well drilled thereon by the lessee and its product, evidence held not to show that the lease was consented to the drilling of the well by the lessor, but merely declined to drill other wells. Id. (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 172.

An oil lease held not to convey to the lessee the oil under the ground, but merely

[In addition to the notes under the particular articles, see also notes on the subject in general at end of chapter.]

Article 5923. State mining board; duties of. — For the purpose of securing efficiency in the mine inspection service, a board of examiners, to be known as the state mining board, whose duty it shall be to make formal inquiry into and pass upon the practical and technical qualifications and personal fitness of persons seeking appointments as state inspector of mines, shall be appointed by the governor. [Acts 1907, p. 331, sec. 14.]

Art. 5924. Appointment, qualifications and terms of office of members of board. — Said board shall be composed of seven members, three of whom shall be practical miners, three shall be mine operators; and it shall be the first duty of the six members thus appointed to nominate to the governor the seventh member of said board; provided, that if the six members aforesaid shall fail for a period of ten days after their appointment to so nominate the seventh member, the same shall be appointed by the governor. Said board shall hold office for a period of two years and until their successors have been appointed and qualified. [Id. sec. 15.]

Art. 5925. Board to select mining inspector; place of meeting.—The board shall meet in the capitol building at Austin biennially, for the purpose of hearing applications for the office of state mining inspector. It shall be the duty of the board to thoroughly examine all applicants who may come before it, and to select from among such applicants the person who in its opinion is best qualified to perform the duties of state mining inspector; and, upon the nomination of said board, the governor shall appoint the person so recommended. [Id. sec. 16.]

Art. 5926. Qualifications of mining inspector; term of office.—The state mine inspector shall be a citizen of the United States, and shall have resided in the state of Texas for one year, of temperate habits, of good repute, a man of personal integrity, shall have attained the age of thirty years, and shall have had at least five years experience working in and around coal mines, and shall not have any pecuniary interest whatever in any mine in this state. He shall hold office for a period of two years, unless sooner removed as provided herein. [Id. sec. 17.]

Art. 5927. State mine inspector under supervision of board; how removed from office.—It shall be the duty of the state mining board to exercise supervision over the acts of the state mine inspector, and, in the event of his incompetency or the neglect of his duty being proved to the board, said board shall recommend to the governor that he be removed from office, and his successor shall be chosen as herein provided. [Id. sec. 18.]

Art. 5928. Semi-annual meetings of board; reports of inspector.—The state mining board shall meet twice each year, and at such time and place as the majority may select, for the purpose of receiving reports from the inspector and instructing him in the performance of his duty. [Id. sec. 19.]

Art. 5929. Compensation of members of board.—The members of the state mining board shall receive as compensation for their services the sum of five dollars per day for a period not exceeding thirty days in any one year, and traveling expenses in going to and returning from board meetings. [Id. sec. 20.]

Art. 5930. Inspector to enforce law; salary and expenses.—It shall be the duty of the state mining inspector to enforce the provisions of this chapter under the instructions of the state mining board, and to make a report to said board at its semi-annual meetings, and oftener if required. He shall receive for his services the sum of two thousand dollars per year, and actual traveling expenses incurred in the discharge of his duty; provided, that his traveling expenses shall not in any one year exceed the sum of one thousand dollars. Said mining inspector shall file an itemized statement, showing the actual amounts expended, and the number and times he inspected each mine or mines. [Id. sec. 21. Amended Acts 1909, p. 163.]

Art. 5931. Discrimination prohibited.—It shall be the duty of the state mining inspector to enforce the provisions of this chapter under the instruction of the state mining board, and to make report to said board at its semi-annual meetings and oftener if required; provided, that neither the instructions of said board nor the acts of said inspector shall ever discriminate in favor of or against any mine or mines, nor against any owner, operator or employé, of any mine or mines; but said acts, either of the board, or of the inspector, shall be impartial, fair and just to all persons or corporations subject to the provisions of this chapter. [Id.]
Art. 5932. Bond of inspector; liability for discrimination.—Before receiving his appointment by the governor, the inspector of mines shall be required to enter into and deliver to the governor a good and sufficient bond in the sum of ten thousand dollars, with at least three good, lawful and sufficient sureties for the faithful and impartial performance of his duty; and the sureties herein required shall make affidavit before some officer authorized to administer oaths that they, in their own right, over and above all exemption, are worth the full amount of the bond they sign as sureties, said bond to be approved by the governor, provided he is satisfied as to its sufficiency, and said bond shall be conditioned that there shall be no discrimination in favor of or against any mine or mines, nor against any owner, operator or employé of any mine or mines; provided, further, if the fact may be shown that said inspector has discriminated against and to the injury of any mine or mines, or against and to the injury of any owner, operator or employé, then the said owner, operator or employé may sue upon the bond herein provided for, and shall be entitled to recover such liquidated damages as may be proven and shown in such suit.

MINING REGULATIONS

Art. 5933. Mine shafts, how constructed and equipped.—Any shaft in process of sinking, and any opening projected for the purpose of mining coal of all kinds, shall be subjected to the provisions of this chapter. At the bottom of every shaft and every caging place therein, a safe commodious passageway must be cut around said landing place, to serve as a traveling way by which employés shall pass from one side of the shaft to the other without passing under or on the cage. The upper and lower landings at the top of each shaft, and the openings of each intermediate seam from or to the shaft, shall be clear and free from loose materials and shall be securely fenced with automatic or other gates or bars so as to prevent either men or materials from falling into the shaft. Every hoisting shaft must be equipped with substantial cages fitted to guide rails running from the top to the bottom. Said cages must be safely constructed, they must be furnished with suitable boiler iron covers to protect persons riding thereon from falling objects, and they must be equipped with safety catches. Every cage on which people are carried must be fitted with iron bars, rings or chains in proper place and in sufficient number to furnish a secure handhold for every person permitted to ride thereon. At the top landing, cage supports, where necessary, must be carefully set and adjusted so as to work properly and securely hold the cages when at rest. In all cases where the human voice cannot be distinctly heard, there shall be provided a metal tube or telephone from the top to the bottom of the shaft or slope through which conversation may be held between persons at the bottom and top of such shaft or slope, and that there shall also be maintained an efficient system of signaling to and from the top of the shaft or slope and each seam or opening. Every underground place on which persons travel, worked by self-acting engines, windlasses or machinery of any description, shall be provided with practical means of signaling between the stopping places and the ends of the plane, and shall further be provided, at intervals of not more than sixty feet, with sufficient manholes for places of refuge. [Acts 1907, p. 331, sec. 1.]

Art. 5934. Mine must be suitably propped.—Every mine shall be supplied with props and timbers of suitable length and size; and, if from any cause the timbers are not supplied when required, the miners shall vacate any and all such working places until supplied with timber needed. [Id.]

Safe place to work.—In an action for the death of a miner owing to the caving in of the roof of a room in a mine, evidence held to warrant a finding that deceased was killed because of the unsafe condition of the place where he was at work, which condition was due to defendant’s negligent failure to prop the roof. Lone Star Lignite Mining Co. v. Caddell (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 841.

The rule that the master is not liable for injuries to a servant while engaged in making a dangerous place safe held not to apply where a coal digger is preparing an entry in a mine for props, at the time and in the manner directed by the vice principal. Reid Coal Co. v. Nichols (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 847.

In an action for injuries to a coal miner, instruction held to correctly state the duty of a master to furnish a safe place. Adams v. Consumers’ Lignite Co. (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 1178.

The rule that a master must furnish a safe place to the servant in which to work is applicable to a mineowner. Stag Canon Fuel Co. v. Rose (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 677.

A rule of an owner of a coal mine held not to require a miner to discover the condition of the roof to the extent of relieving the owner from the duty of maintaining a safe place to work. Id.

Inspection.—A mineowner has the duty of inspecting the mine. Stag Canon Fuel Co. v. Rose (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 677.

A fire boss of a mine represents the mineowner in the performance of the duties of inspection. Id.

Art. 5935. Abandoned workings to be cut off.—All openings connecting with worked-out or abandoned portions of every operated mine likely to accumulate explosive gases or dangerous conditions shall be securely gobbed and blocked off from the operated portions thereof, so as to protect every person working in such mines from all danger that may be caused or produced by such worked-out portions of such mines. [Id.]

Art. 5936. Ventilation.—Throughout every mine there shall be maintained currents of fresh air sufficient for the health and safety of all men and animals employed therein, and such ventilation shall be produced by a fan or some other artificial means; provided, a furnace shall not be used for ventilating any mine in which explosive gases are generated. The quantity of air required to be kept in circulation and passing a given point shall be not less than one hundred cubic feet per minute for each person, and not less than three hundred cubic feet per minute for each animal, in the mine, measured at the foot of the downcast; and this quantity may be increased at the discretion of the inspector, whenever in his judgment unusual conditions make a stronger current necessary. Said current shall be forced into every working place throughout the mine, so that all parts of the same shall be reasonably free from standing powder smoke and deleterious air of any kind. The measurement of the current of air shall be taken with an anemometer at the foot of the downcast, at the foot of the upcast and at the working face of each division or split of the air current. The main current of air shall be split or subdivided as to provide a separate current of reasonably pure air to every one hundred men at work; and the inspector shall have authority to order separate currents for smaller groups of men, if in his judgment special conditions make it necessary. The air current for ventilating the stable shall not pass into the intake air current for ventilating the working parts of the mine. Whenever the inspector shall find men working without sufficient air, he shall at once give the mine manager or operator notice and a reasonable time in which to restore the current; and, upon his or their refusal or neglect to act promptly, the inspector may order the endangered men out of the mine. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 5937. Same.—It shall be the duty of the mine foreman to see that proper cut-throughs are made in all the pillars at such distances as in the judgment of the mine inspector may be deemed requisite, not more than twenty yards nor less than ten yards apart, for the purpose of ventilation; and the ventilation shall be conducted through said cut-throughs into the rooms and entries by means of check doors made of canvas or other material, placed on the entries or in other suitable places; and he shall not permit any room to be opened in advance of the ventilating current. Should the mine inspector discover any room, entry, airway, or other working place, being driven in advance of the air current contrary to the requirements of this article, he shall order the workmen in such places to cease work at once until the law is complied with. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 5938. Dangerous gases and fires; inspector notified.—Immediate notice must be conveyed by the miner or mine owner to the inspector upon the appearance of any large body of fire damp in any mine, whether accompanied by any explosion or not, and upon the concurrence of any serious fire within the mine or on the surface. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5939. Cages, how operated.—Cages on which men are riding shall not be lifted or lowered at a rate greater than six hundred feet per minute, except with the written consent of the inspector. No persons shall carry any tools or material with him on a cage in motion, except for use in making repairs; and no one shall ride on a cage while the other cage contains a loaded car. No cage having an unstable or self-dumping platform shall be used for the carriage of men or materials, unless the same is provided with some convenient device by which said platform can be securely locked, and unless it is so locked whenever men or material are being conveyed thereon. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 5940. Powder.—No miner or other person shall carry powder into the mine, except in the original keg, or in a regulation powder can securely fastened, and the can in otherwise air tight condition. [Id. sec. 5.]

Art. 5941. Inspector may require use of safety lamp.—At any mine where the inspector shall find fire damp is being generated so as to require the use of a safety lamp in any part thereof, the operator of such mine, upon receiving notice from the inspector that one or more such lamps are necessary for the safety of the men in the mines, shall at once procure and keep for use such number of safety lamps as may be necessary. [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 5942. Rules to be observed by miners.—It shall be unlawful for any miner, workman or other person knowingly or carelessly to injure any shaft, safety lamp, instrument, air-course or brattice, or to obstruct or throw open an air-way, or to carry any open lamp or lighted pipe, or fire in any form, into a place worked by the light of safety lamps, or within three feet of any open powder, or to handle or disturb any part of the hoisting machinery, or to enter any part of the mine against caution, or to do any wilful act whereby the lives or health of persons working in mines, or the security of the mine machinery thereof, is endangered. [Id. sec. 8.]

Art. 5943. Rules to be posted.—It shall be the duty of every operator to post on the engine house and at the pit top of his mine, in such manner that the employés of the mine can read them, rules not inconsistent with this law, plainly printed in the English language, which shall govern all persons working in the mine. And the posting of such notice, as provided, shall charge all employés of such mine with legal notice of the contents thereof. [Id. sec. 9.]

Art. 5944. Coal scales.—The owner or operator of every mine shall provide adequate and accurate scales for weighing coal; and it shall be the duty of the mine inspector to examine such scales; and, if same are not found to be accurate, he shall notify the owner to repair same; and, if such owner fails or refuses to repair same within a reasonable time, said inspector shall institute proceedings under the law against the proper parties. [Id. sec. 10.]

Art. 5945. Employés may employ check weighman.—The employés in any mine in this state shall have the right to employ a check weighman at their own option and their own expense. [Id. sec. 11.]

Art. 5946. Kind of oil to be used.—No miner, or other person employed in a mine, shall use any kind of oil other than a good quality of lard oil for lighting purposes, except when repairing downcast or upcast shafts. [Id. sec. 12.]

Art. 5946a. Electric wires to be insulated; trolley wires, how placed.—From and after September 1, 1911, in all mines in this state where electricity is or hereafter shall be used as a part of the system, power or means of mining and procuring the coal or other mineral from any of said mines, that the owners or operators of every such mine shall cause all wires conducting electricity in and about said mine to be carefully and thoroughly insulated or protected in a safe manner, so that the person or animals coming in contact therewith shall not be injured thereby; all wires as aforesaid shall either be thoroughly insulated or placed where persons employed in and about the mines can not come in contact therewith, or shall be covered, protected or shielded in a safe manner, so as to prevent any injuries or accidents therefrom to those in or about the mines; provided, however, it shall not be necessary to insulate or cover trolley wires, but they shall all be hung and kept not less than five feet and six inches above the rail, and shall be securely fastened, and not permitted to sag less than said height. Where there is sufficient height in existing entries to permit this, but where sufficient height is not available in existing entries, then the trolley wires shall be placed to one side of the entry, six inches outside the rail; and in all such cases the trolley wire shall be placed on the side of the entry opposite from the working rooms, except where there are rooms on both sides of the entry, in which event, the trolley wires may be placed over the opening of said rooms, said trolley wires to be safely shielded; provided, where it is impracticable in existing entries to place trolley wires six inches outside of the rail, or five feet, six inches high, and where separate travel way is not provided, then the trolley wire shall be safely shielded; and it is further provided that this Act shall not apply to entries that are not used as travel ways for workmen or work animals; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to mines in operation in this state on January 1, 1902, and prior thereto, and which have developed until there is at least two thousand (2000) feet distance from the shaft to the face of the coal being operated, except as to extensions of trolley wires made and to be made after January 1, 1910, in such mines. [Acts 1911, p. 196, sec. 1.]

Note.—Section 2 makes a violation of the act a misdemeanor.

Art. 5946b. Penalty for violation.—Each and every person, company, corporation or receiver, who shall in any manner violate any of the provisions of this Act, shall for each and every offense committed forfeit and pay to the state a penalty of not less than one hundred ($100.00) dollars nor more than five hundred ($500.00) dollars, and it shall be the duty of the district or county attorney to institute suit in the name of the state for the recovery of same. [Id. sec. 2a.]

Art. 5946c. Duties of state mining inspector.—It shall be the duty of the state mining inspector to see that the provisions of this Act are complied with, and shall report all violations hereof to the state mining board and to the district or county attorney of the county where the offense is committed. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5946d. Map of underground workings to be filed.—It shall be the duty of every operator of a coal mine in the state of Texas to make a map of the underground workings of every mine in his charge, under operation on the first day of January, 1912, or that may be opened thereafter; said map shall be drawn on a scale of one inch to one hundred feet, and shall indicate the surface land lines as well as the rooms, entries or openings underground. It shall be brought up to date at least once each month, covering operations for the preceding month. The original of said map shall be on file at the office of the operator at or near said mine. Said map shall be extended or brought up to date at any time requested by the state mine inspector, at least every three months, if, for any reason, a mine should be closed, then a final map shall be made and filed; provided, however, that maps existing on the date of the passage of this Act may be continued on the same scale as begun, if not smaller than one-half inch to one hundred feet. [Id. sec. 4.]

Note.—Section 5 provides for imposition of a fine for violation of Art. 5946d.

Art. 5946e. Feeding animal in mine, etc., unlawful.—It shall be unlawful for any person, association of persons, corporation or receiver, owning, operating or managing any mine in this state, to feed or permit to be fed any work animal in said mines, or to store or keep any feed for such animals in said mines. [Acts 1911, p. 205, sec. 1.]

Art. 5946f. Permitting animal to remain over ten hours unlawful. —It shall be unlawful for any person, association of persons, corporation or receiver, owning, operating or managing any mine in this state, to permit any work animal to remain in any mine longer than ten consecutive hours. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 5946g. Not applicable to certain mines; open light in stable prohibited; inflammable stock food.—It is further provided that sections 1 and 2 [Arts. 5946e, 5946f] shall not apply to mines complying with the following provisions:

All stables in mines in which work animals are kept shall be equipped with fire proof doors at each opening, with a door frame of concrete, stone or brick, laid in mortar, and such stable door shall be kept closed during working hours of mines.

All feed, hay, grass, cane, etc., except corn, corn chops, bran and shelled oats, shall not be taken down the hoisting shaft until after the regular day shift is out of the mine.

It is further provided that no open light shall be taken into any underground stable by any person.

It is further provided that not over twenty-four (24) hours’ supply of hay, grass or cane, or any other kind of inflammable stock food, except corn, corn chops, bran and shelled oats, shall be taken down in any one day. [Id. sec. 2a.]

Art. 5946h. Penalty for violation.—Each and every person, company, corporation or receiver who shall in any manner violate any of the provisions of this Act shall for each and every offense committed forfeit and pay to the state a penalty of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and it shall be the duty of the district or county attorney to institute suit in the name of the state for the recovery of same. [Id. sec. 3.]

Note.—Section 4 makes a violation of the act a misdemeanor, and is omitted.

Art. 5946i. Duties of state mining inspector.—It shall be the duty of the state mining inspector to see that the provisions of this Act are complied with, and he shall report all violations thereof to the state mining board and to the district or county attorney of the county where the offense is committed. [Id. sec. 5.]
ART. 5947  MINORS

MINORS

REMOVAL OF DISABILITIES OF MINORS

[For Suit by Next Friend, etc., see Articles 2167-2171.]

Art. 5947. When may have disabilities removed.
5947. When may have disabilities removed. 5948. Proceeding for removal.
5948. Proceeding for removal. 5949. Shall be deemed of full age, when, 5950. Notice of proceeding, on whom served.

Article 5947. [3499] When may have disabilities removed.—Any minor in this state over the age of nineteen years, who may desire to have his disabilities as a minor removed, shall, by a bill or petition, present to the district court of the county where he may reside the cause or causes existing which make it advisable or advantageous to said minor to have his disabilities removed, which bill or petition shall be sworn to by some person cognizant of the facts set out in said bill or petition.
[Acts 1881, p. 16, sec. 1.]

Jurisdiction.—Under this article a record is insufficient to show a valid removal where it does not appear that petitioner was that old, or that he resided in the county. Cunningham v. Robison, 104 T. 227, 136 S. W. 441.

Under this article an order purporting to remove the disabilities of relator, showing on its face that she was only temporarily a resident of that county, she having gone there to get her disabilities removed, with the intention to return to her home county, was void. Durrill v. Robison (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 107.

Under this article an order of removal by a district court of the county other than that of the minor's residence was a nullity, though the minor consented thereto. Gulf,

Under this article an order removing disability of minority is void where it appears on the face of the proceeding that the minor did not reside in the county. Rainer v. Durrill
(Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 589.

Female minor.—A female minor can have her disabilities of minority removed for the purpose of enabling her to manage her property. Texas Cent. Ry. Co. v. Wheeler, 52 C. A. 693, 116 S. W. 68.

Signing and verifying petition.—A judgment removing disability of minority based upon a petition not signed nor sworn to by the minor is not an absolute nullity, inasmuch as the statute does not specifically require that it shall be so signed nor prescribe the maner of its presentation, nor that it shall be verified by an affidavit with the formalities

Conclusiveness and effect of judgment.—The function devolving on district courts in proceedings to remove the disabilities of a minor is a special authority to the judge as a commissioner, and not to the court, and no such presumptions are indulged in favor of the order in such proceedings in case of collateral attack as in favor of an ordinary

A former order removing a minor's disabilities held not presumptively regular in a

The authority of the district court under this article to remove disabilities of minors being special, a judgment in such a proceeding is not as conclusive, especially as to jurisdiction, as an ordinary judgment. Cunningham v. Robison, 104 T. 227, 136 S. W. 441.

The removal by the district court of the disability of infancy of one to whom public land had been previously awarded does not avoid an award to an adult made subsequent to the award to the minor and prior to the removal of disability. Rainer v. Durrill (Civ.
App.) 158 S. W. 589.

Art. 5948. [3500] Proceedings for removal.—Said petition or bill shall be docketed on the trial docket of the court, and may be heard by the court, either in regular order or at any time during term time; and, if it shall appear to the court that the ground or causes set out are suficient, and that it is advisable, or will be advantageous to such minor, in person or property, to have his disabilities as a minor removed, the court shall enter up a decree removing the disabilities of said minor, and cause it to be entered of record among the decrees and judgments of court. [1d. sec. 2.]

Nature of proceedings.—This is not a strictly judicial proceeding, and no presumption is indulged in favor of the proceedings. Brown v. Wheelock, 75 T. 365, 12 S. W. 111, 34.

Conclusiveness and effect of judgment.—See notes under Art. 6947.

Art. 5949. [3501] Shall be deemed of full age.—After the removal of such disabilities of minority, the said minor shall be deemed and held, for all legal purposes, of full age, and shall be held responsible, and shall have all the privileges and advantages as if he were of full age, saving only that he shall not vote until he arrives at the full age of twenty-one years. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5950. [3502] Notice, on whom served.—In all proceedings under this title, a copy of the petition shall be served upon the father of the minor, if living within the state, and, if he be dead, that fact shall be mentioned in the petition. If the father of the minor be not living, then a copy of the petition shall be served upon the county judge of the county in which the proceeding is instituted; and in all such cases the court hearing the application shall appoint a special guardian, whose duty it shall be, in connection with the county judge, to represent the true interests of the minor, as they shall understand it, in aiding or resisting the application of the minor. An allowance shall be made by the district judge presiding to the special guardian, which shall be paid out of the estate of the minor. [Id. sec. 4.]

Residence of minor.—See, also, notes under Art. 5947. In view of this article, the minor's residence when the application is made may be distinct from that of the father. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Lemons (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1189.

DECISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT IN GENERAL

1. Constitutionality of certain statutes.—Arts. 2502a, 3502b, Sayles' Ann. St. 1897, authorizing proceedings to remove a minor from improper custody, held unconstitutional and void. Ex parte Reeves, 100 T. 617, 103 S. W. 480.
2. Who are minors.—See Art. 4045.
3. Removal of disabilities.—See Arts. 5947-5950, and notes.
4. Emancipation by parent.—An agreement between a parent and a minor child, relinquishing to the child the right of the former to his earnings is valid. Furrh v. McKnight, 28 S. W. 96, 6 C. A. 683. An agreement by a parent to emancipate his minor children, so as to relieve himself of their support for necessaries, is contrary to public policy. Snell v. Ham (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 1077.
6. Custody—Proceedings in which custody may be awarded.—Right to custody of a minor held not determinable in a guardianship proceeding begun in a county court. Estes v. Pruesswood (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 145. A pleading showing that the welfare of a minor requires an order from the district court or judge thereof authorizes the exercise of the judge's discretion, and it is not necessary that the proceeding be either habeas corpus or for divorce. Green v. Green (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 667.
7. Right to custody in general.—A father is the natural guardian of his minor child, and has the right to invoke by habeas corpus the enforcement of his authority as such guardian by the county court or a judge thereof, when the minor is held in custody by a person not entitled to the guardianship of his person. Stirman v. Turner, 4 App. C. C. § 140, 16 S. W. 787.

Where a child's mother and her husband are suitable persons and are able to care for the child, they are entitled to its custody, though it had been adopted by other suitable persons. Right v. Denton, 93 T. 243, 64 S. W. 201. That a child will be less comfortably reared in his father's custody than in that of its grandparents does not justify giving them custody of the child. Watts v. Lively (Civ. App.) 69 S. W. 676.

A mother can sue in her own name for the custody of her child without being joined by her husband, and unless she is totally unfit for its care and custody she is entitled to its possession. Sancho v. Martin (Clv. App.) 64 S. W. 1015, 1016.

The paramount consideration with courts in determining the right to the custody of children is the welfare of the child; but the custody of a child will be awarded to the father or mother, if their interests be deemed to be unworthy and fit. St. Louis ex rel. between a child and its foster parents has little weight in determining the rights of the natural parents to the child's custody. Parker v. Wiggins (Clv. App.) 85 S. W. 788. The custody of his father in the custody of her mother. In Louisiana, the relative rights of the father and mother to the child's custody should be determined by the courts of that state. Lanning v. Gregory, 100 T. 310, 99 S. W. 842, 10 L. R. A. (N. S.) 690, 123 Am. St. Rep. 899.

In an action by a father for the custody of his child, placed in the care of an aunt soon after its birth, where it remained for eight years, the reputation of his present wife held properly considered. Peese v. Gellerman, 51 C. A. 39, 110 S. W. 196. The peace, comfort, happiness, moral training, and the best interests of the child held the controlling importance, notwithstanding the relation of father and child. Id.

Which home is best for a child is a question of fact, to be determined primarily by the trial court. Id.

Rights and duties of one standing in loco parentis are the same as those of the parent. Saunders v. Alvido & Laserre, 52 C. A. 355, 113 S. W. 982.

The paramount consideration in determining custody is the interest and welfare of the child, but, the father being the natural guardian, it will be awarded him unless he is shown incompetent, or it be demonstrated that the welfare of the child demands a different disposition; but where the father had not supported or had any relations with the child until after the death of the child's mother, when it was some eleven years old, the affection of the child may be considered in determining the question of its disposal. Wheelock v. Finney (Clv. App.) 157 S. W. 949.

8. — Gift of child.—When the parents by a written agreement have fully relinquished their right to an infant child in favor of another, and the child has been formally adopted by that person, a court has authority to determine a controversy as to the custody of the child, and will award it as the best interests of the child may require. Jezecate (Sup.) 28 S. W. 291, 87 T. 242.

Parent who has given child to another to care for during its minority cannot regain custody without showing that it is for the best interest of the child. State v. Deaton (Clv. App.) 52 S. W. 501.

A mother may abrogate a contract to give her child to another, and is entitled to its custody as against the one to whom she had given it. Camanover v. Massengale (Clv. App.) 64 S. W. 317.

Parent of child by dying mother held not to affect the rights of the child's father to the custody of the child. Parker v. Wiggins (Clv. App.) 85 S. W. 788.

As a general rule, it is contrary to the policy of the law to permit a person to release his authority to control the person of his child during its minority, and an attempted gift of a child, standing alone, is invalid; and the fact that a parent has attempted to give away a child is properly considered in determining the child's best interests, and whether it should be again delivered into the parent's control. Peese v. Gellerman, 51 C. A. 39, 110 S. W. 196.

9. — Evidence.—In habeas corpus to obtain the custody of a child, evidence considered, and held that the child's best interests would be conserved by denying the custody to petitioners. White v. Richeson (Clv. App.) 94 S. W. 202.

Evidence held to sustain a judgment awarding the custody of a child to those with whom the father had placed it soon after its birth. Peese v. Gellerman, 51 C. A. 39, 110 S. W. 196.

In an action to determine the right to the custody of an infant, evidence held to warrant a finding that the best interests of the infant would be served by delivering her into custo of her mother, in case the child shall not have been born at the time of its birth. Cobb v. Works (Clv. App.) 125 S. W. 349.

9 1/2. — Trial and determination.—That a judgment dismissing a writ of habeas corpus to obtain the custody and control of an infant entered in vacation was not appealable did not make it the less final. Ex parte Fuller (Clv. App.) 123 S. W. 204.

Where an application for a writ of habeas corpus to determine the right to the custody of a minor was presented to a judge in chambers while sitting in another county from that in which petitioners resided, and pending determination of a writ issued by the judge on such application relators filed their amended application with the clerk of the court of the proper county, a final judgment dismissing the writ rendered by the judge was res judicata of the court proceeding. Id.

In an action by a parent to recover custody of her minor child, whether under the facts and circumstances in evidence the child's welfare demanded that the custody be awarded to the plaintiff or defendant was for the jury. Cobb v. Works (Clv. App.) 125 S. W. 349.

In an action by a parent to recover custody of her minor child, where a material issue was whether under all the facts and circumstances in evidence it would be to the best interests of the child that her custody be awarded to plaintiff or defendant, a requested instruction, which ignored this issue, was properly refused. Id.

A female minor eighteen years of age is not liable for damages for breach of a marriage contract. Wells v. Hardy, 21 C. A. 454, 51 S. W. 502.

A sale of orphan asylum land to an infant is not voidable only, but absolutely void as against a subsequent settlor in good faith. Dupree v. Duke, 39 C. A. 360, 70 S. W. 961.

An assignment for the benefit of an infant creditor will be protected without his assent thereto being shown. South Texas Nat. Bank v. Texas & Lumber Co., 38 C. A. 412, 70 S. W. 764.
Where a father did business in the name of his minor son, and gave a note signed by both for goods purchased, but the son had neither possession nor benefit from the goods, he was not liable. Memphis Coffin Co. v. Patton (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 657.

A deed of a minor is not absolutely void, but only voidable, and, unless he disaffirms the deed within a reasonable time after attaining majority, it is binding upon him. Bone v. Wolfe, 50 C. A. 251, 109 S. W. 961; Hatton v. Bodan Lumber Co., 57 C. A. 323, 123 S. W. 163.

A contract by an infant for the sale of her land held voidable, not void. Merida v. Cummings (Civ. App.) 115 S. W. 612.

An infant's contract for the purchase of land, which has been executed by a conveyance, is binding until disaffirmed by a distinct act. Clemmer v. Price (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 604.

An infant's contracts are voidable, except contracts for necessaries and contracts authorized by statute, which are binding. Id.

The question as to what are necessaries for an infant is one of fact. Melton v. Katzman (Civ. App.) 49 S. W. 172.

Whether articles purchased by an infant were necessary to make a crop to support himself and family held a mixed question of law and fact. Id.

12. Liability of parent.—While a parent cannot be charged for necessaries furnished by a stranger for his minor child, except by his express or implied promise to pay, such promise may be inferred from his legal duty to furnish necessaries. Shell v. Moore (Civ. App.) 111 S. W. 1077.

If articles furnished to minor children were reasonably necessary for their support and comfort the father's promise to pay therefor would be inferred, in absence of a showing that he was not ready to himself supply the children therewith. Id.

An instrument executed by one who was an infant when his guardian signed an unauthorized power of attorney for him held not a ratification of such unauthorized act. Merrill v. Bradley, 55 C. A. 527, 121 S. W. 661.

An infant, who did not attempt to disaffirm a sale until three years after his majority, will be held to have affirmed it. Dalmwood v. Driscoll (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 621.

Where a minor did not ascertain the fact of his father's appropriation of money obtained in the father's settlement as guardian of a claim for injuries to the minor, until he attained his majority and sued to set aside the settlement, his mere unwillingness to theretofore demand such sum from his father or demand rescission of his father's purchase of a farm with the proceeds of the settlement, would not ratify it. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Lemons (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 1189.

15. Avoidance of conveyances or contracts.—In general.—Infant tenant, abandoning lease, held not liable for rent of premises for time longer than he actually occupied the same. Peck v. Cain, 27 C. A. 38, 63 S. W. 177.

Where an infant, on the removal of her disability by marriage, repudiated a contract for sale of her land, the vendee was entitled to remove improvements or to recover their value, though liable for the rental value and for timber taken. Merida v. Cummings (Civ. App.) 115 S. W. 612.

Infant purchasing corporate stock held entitled, before reaching majority, to repudiate transaction and recover sum paid from vendor and any other party who received the fund. Cage v. Menczer (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 717.

Infant, on disaffirming contract of purchase of stock, held entitled to recover sum paid thereof to bank to which the vendor had transferred the money in payment of a debt. Id.

If a minor's disabilities had not at the time, been removed, his appropriation of the proceeds of land purchased by his father out of a settlement of his claim for injuries would not operate to ratify the settlement, if invalid, so as to preclude the minor from having the settlement set aside. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Lemons (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 1189.

A sheriff's deed, under foreclosure of a fictitious lien fraudulently claimed by surviving brothers against the interest of their deceased brother's minor heir, held void and subject to attack in a suit brought by the minor, on removal of disability, to recover the land, against the surviving brothers and their grantees. Newton v. Easterwood (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 646.

An infant who purchased land giving negotiable notes in payment held not entitled to take in preference to a superior outstanding title, for he could protect himself by disaffirming his contract and the notes. Nellius v. Thompson Bros. Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 259.

16. Who may take advantage of minority.—Adult who has received benefits under a contract cannot annul it because the other party was an infant, the contract being beneficial to such infant. Stringfellow v. Early, 15 C. A. 597, 40 S. W. 871.

Defendants, in an action against them and an infant tenant for removing goods of such tenant owned by them, held entitled to take advantage of such infant's disaffirmance of the contract on a plea of infancy. Peck v. Cain, 27 C. A. 38, 63 S. W. 177.

A minor's deed is voidable only and his minority can only be taken advantage of by him. Crosby v. Ardoin (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 102.
17. Time of disaffirming.—An infant may disaffirm a deed executed by him within a reasonable time after attaining majority, against his father, her mother, or a trustee for a minor, and against his minor or infant his or her own personal property, possession thereof, and her conveyance induced by coercion by her father, and for a consideration paid to her father, and that an action to disaffirm would have been brought before, but for her father's statement that to do so would result in his arrest, and his threats to disown her and her brothers, it could not be said, as a matter of law, that plaintiff's failure to institute suit earlier barred her right to disaffirm the conveyance.

18. What constitutes a disaffirmance.—A power of sale contained in a deed of trust executed by an infant is not revoked by the marriage of the infant during minority.

The question of what is a reasonable time within which to bring a suit to disaffirm a conveyance made in infancy is one of fact.

20. Estoppel.—An infant held not bound by an equitable estoppel unless his conduct has been intentional and fraudulent. Harper v. Utsey (U.S. 1882).

A minor suing by his next friend may recover damages for physical pain and suffering. Railway Co. v. Malone, 15 C. A. 56, 38 S. W. 538.

22. Suit by next friend.—See Arts. 2167 et seq., and notes.
24. Limitation of actions against minors.—See Arts. 5884, 5708.

25. Pleading.—See, also, Chapters 2, 3 and 8 of Title 37.

19 C. A. 405, 47 S. W. 399.

26. Evidence.—In an action to foreclose a chattel mortgage, evidence held sufficient to support a finding that the mortgagor was of age at the time the mortgage was executed. Johnson v. Brown (Civ. App.) 65 S. W. 485.

In a suit to set aside a judgment rendered against plaintiff during minority, canceling a deed to him, held error to exclude evidence tending to show that after plaintiff reached his majority he lived in the community of the land and knew that his former grantor was improving the same. Johnson v. Johnson, 38 C. A. 335, 85 S. W. 1023.

In an action against a minor on a note given for goods purchased by his father in a business transacted in the minor’s name, evidence held to sustain a finding that the minor had no knowledge of the transaction and was not guilty of fraud. Memphis Coffin Co. v. Patton (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 697.

In a suit on a note against a minor, evidence considered, and held sufficient to sustain a verdict for plaintiff on the issue of fraud and minority set up by defendant. Clayton v. Ingram (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 880.

A defendant relying on plaintiff’s minority to avoid a contract on which suit is based must allege and prove it. Baldwin v. Salgado (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 608.

Where property was partitioned to a minor, it would be presumed that he was of age when he subsequently conveyed it to another. Crosby v. Ardoin (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 709.

27. Operation and effect of judgment against infant.—A judgment against an infant is voidable only, and is binding until set aside by a direct attack, even where he was sued and a guardian ad litem appointed for him under a wrong given name. McGhee v. Romatka, 19 C. A. 397, 47 S. W. 291.

Where a judgment was recovered against an infant for the balance due on the price of an automobile sold to him, which he paid, he could not recover the same on disaffirming the contract immediately after becoming of age. Grogan v. Spaulding (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 1014.

Infants may sue and be sued, and are as much bound by a judgment or decree as if they were adults. 1d.

28. Setting aside judgment against minor.—A judgment denying an application to vacate a judgment against an infant, made by the infant after his coming of age, is conclusive of his right to attack such judgment. McGhee v. Romatka, 19 C. A. 397, 47 S. W. 291.

A petition by a minor to set aside a judgment against him held sufficient, on proof of the allegations, to authorize its vacations. Wallis v. Stuart, 92 T. 568, 50 S. W. 567.

The mere knowledge of a minor of the pendency of a suit against her does not preclude her from thereafter attacking the judgment rendered in the suit. Stephens v. Hewitt (Civ. App.) 77 S. W. 229.

In a suit to set aside a judgment recovered against plaintiff during his minority, held that the question whether he had used reasonable diligence in bringing the suit after he had attained majority was one for the jury. Johnson v. Johnson, 38 C. A. 385, 85 S. W. 1023.

ART. 5951

NAME—CHANGE OF

ART. 5951. [377] [336] Application for change of name to district court.—When any person shall desire to change either his Christian or surname, or both, and to adopt another name instead thereof, he shall file his application in the district court of the county of his residence, setting forth the causes which induce him to desire a change of name and to adopt another; whereupon the judge of the said court, if in his opinion it should be for the interest or benefit of the applicant to change his name and to adopt another, shall by a judgment of said court order that the adopted name of the party shall be substituted for the original name. [Act Feb. 5, 1856. P. D. 32.]

See Wiener v. Zweib, 105 T. 262, 141 S. W. 771, 147 S. W. 867.

Manner of designating parties to suits.—See notes under Art. 1824 and at end of Chapter 5 of Title 87.

ART. 5952. [378] [337] Minors by guardian.—Whenever it shall be to the interest of any minor under the age of twenty-one years to change his name and to adopt another name instead of the original name, the guardian or next friend of said minor shall file his application in the district court of the county of the said minor's residence, setting forth the causes which induced the minor to desire to change the original name, accompanied with the full name which the minor wishes to adopt: whereupon the judge of said court, if the facts contained in the application shall satisfy him that it will be for the benefit and interest of the minor to change his name and to adopt another, shall grant authority to change his original name and to adopt another instead thereof. [Id. P. D. 33.]

ART. 5953. [379] [338] Not to injure third parties.—Whenever any person shall change his original name and adopt another instead thereof, it shall not operate so as to release the person from any responsibility which he may have incurred by the original name, nor shall it operate by said change of name to defeat or destroy any rights or property or action which the person had or held in his original name. [Id. P. D. 34.]

ART. 5954. [380] [339] In divorce suits name may be changed.—In suits for divorce, the court may, in its discretion, on the final disposition of the case, enter a decree changing the name of either party to said suit, if such change of name is specially prayed for in the pleadings of such party.
TITLE 96

NAVIGATION DISTRICT

Art. 5955. Districts may include, what.—One or more districts may be established in the several counties of this state, to be known as navigation districts, in the manner hereinafter provided; and such districts may or may not include within their boundaries and limits villages, towns and municipal corporations, or any parts thereof. Such navigation districts, when so established, may make improvement of rivers, bays, creeks, streams and canals running or flowing through such districts, or any part thereof, and may construct and maintain canals and waterways to permit of navigation or in aid thereof, may issue bonds in payment thereof as hereinafter provided. [Acts 1909, p. 32, sec. 1.]

Art. 5956. Application to commissioners' court to contain what; notice given.—Upon the presentation to the county commissioners' court of any county of this state of a petition, accompanied by the deposit provided for in article 5981 of this chapter, signed by twenty-five of the resident property taxpayers, or in the event there are less than seventy-five resident property taxpayers in the proposed district, then by one-third of such resident property taxpayers of any proposed navigation district, praying for the establishment of a navigation district, and setting forth the boundaries of the proposed district, accompanied by a map thereof, the general nature of the improvement or improvements proposed, and an estimate of the probable cost thereof, and praying for the issuance of bonds and levy of tax in payment thereof, and designating a name for such navigation district, which name shall include the name of the county, said petitioners shall make affidavit to accompany said petition of their said qualification; and the said commissioners' court shall, at the same session when said petition is presented, set same down for hearing at some regular term of said court, or at some special session of said court called for the purpose, not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the presentation of said petition, and shall order the clerk of said court to give notice of the date and place of said hearing by posting a copy of said petition, and the order of the court thereon, in five public places in said county, one of which shall be at the court house door of said county, and four of which shall be within the limits of said proposed navigation district, which said notices shall be posted not less than twenty days prior to the time set for the hearing. The said clerk shall receive as compensation for such services one dollar for each such notice and five cents per mile for each mile necessarily traveled in posting such notices. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 5957. Navigation boards in cities and towns with special charters.—In the event the boundaries of the proposed district shall include a city or cities, or a part or parts thereof, acting under special charter granted by the legislature, the hearing of said petition, hereinafter provided for, shall be had before the county judge and members of the commissioners' court and the mayor and aldermen or commissioners, as the case may be, of said city or cities; and said persons shall constitute a board to be known and designated as the navigation board, to pass upon the petition aforesaid. Each individual member of the said board shall be entitled to a vote. A majority in number of the individuals composing said board shall constitute a quorum, and the action of a majority of the quorum shall control. [Id.]

Art. 5958. Notice of hearing before navigation board.—In the event the hearing of said petition shall be had before the navigation board, the commissioners' court of said county shall set the petition down for hearing not less than thirty nor more than sixty days from the date of the presentation of said petition without reference to any term of the commissioners' court, but said hearing shall be held at the regular place of meeting of the commissioners' court, and notice shall be given of the hearing in the manner and for the time as hereinbefore provided. [Id.]

Art. 5959. Proceedings to be recorded by county clerk.—The county clerk shall enter and record the proceedings of the navigation board in a record book kept for this purpose, which record shall be a public archive. [Id.]

Art. 5960. Duties imposed without compensation.—The duties and powers herein conferred upon the county judge and members of the commissioners' court, and upon the mayor and aldermen or commissioners of cities, and upon the county clerk and other officers, are made a part of the legal duty of said officials, which they shall render and perform without additional compensation, unless otherwise provided herein. [Id.]

Art. 5961. Objections and contest on hearing.—Upon the day set by said county commissioners for the hearing of said petition, any person who has taxable property within the proposed district, or who may be affected thereby, may appear before the said court, or navigation board, as the case may be, and contest the creation of said district, or contend for the creation of said district, and may offer testimony in favor of or against the boundaries of the said district, to show that the proposed improvement or improvements would or would not be of any public utility and would or would not be feasible or practicable, and the probable cost of such improvement or improvements, or as to any other matter pertaining to the proposed district. Said county commissioners’ court, or navigation board, shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and determine all contests and objections to the creation of such districts, and all matters pertaining to the creation and establishment of the same, and shall have exclusive jurisdiction in all subsequent proceedings of the district when organized, except as hereinafter provided, and may adjourn hearing on any matter connected therewith from day to day; and all judgments or decisions rendered by said court, or navigation board, in relation thereto shall be final, except as herein otherwise provided. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 5962. Finding of board at hearing.—If, at the hearing of said petition, it shall appear to the commissioners’ court, or navigation board, as the case may be, that the proposed improvement is feasible and practicable, that it would be a public benefit and a public utility; and, if the court, or navigation board, as the case may be, shall approve the boundaries of the proposed district as set out in said petition, then the court, or navigation board, shall so find, and shall also find the amount of money necessary for said improvement or improvements and for all expenses incident thereto, and shall determine whether to issue bonds for said full amount or in the first instance for a less amount, and shall specify the amount of bonds to issue, the length of time the bonds shall run, and the rate of interest said bonds shall bear, and cause its findings to be recorded in the records of the commissioners’ court, or minutes of the navigation board, as the case may be. If the court, or navigation board, shall find that the proposed improvement is feasible and practicable, that it would be a public benefit and a public utility, but does not approve the boundaries of the proposed district as set forth in the petition, the court, or navigation board, shall so find, and shall also find the amount of money necessary for said improvement or improvements, and for all expenses incident thereto, and shall determine whether to issue bonds for said full amount or in the first instance for a less amount, and shall specify the amount of bonds to issue, the length of time the bonds shall run, and the rate of interest said bonds shall bear, and cause its findings to be entered of record, together with a map thereof. Providing, however, that before any change is made by said court, or navigation board, as the case may be, of the boundaries, notice and a hearing thereof shall be given and had as provided for in article 5956 of this chapter. If the court, or navigation board, shall find that the proposed improvement is not feasible or practicable, or that it would not be a public benefit or public utility, and that the establishment of such navigation district is therefore unnecessary, then the court, or navigation board, shall enter such findings of record and dismiss the petition at the cost of petitioners, but the order dismissing said petition shall not prevent or conclude the presentation at a later date of a similar petition. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 5963. Election; form of ballot.—After the hearing upon the petition, as herein provided, if the court, or navigation board, as the case may be, shall find in favor of the petitioners for the establishment of a navigation district according to the boundaries as set out in said petition, or as changed or modified as above provided by the said court, or navigation board, the commissioners’ court of said county shall order an election, in which order provision shall be made for submitting to the qualified property taxpaying voters resident in said district whether or not such navigation district shall be created, and whether or not a tax shall be levied sufficient to pay the interest and provide a sinking fund sufficient to redeem said bonds at maturity, said order specifying the amount of bonds to be issued, together with the length of time the bonds shall run, and the rate of interest said bonds shall bear as said matters have been determined by the commissioners’ court, or naviga-
Art. 5964. Election notice.—Notice of such election, stating the time and place of holding the same, shall be given by the clerk of the county court by posting notices thereof in four public places in such proposed navigation district, and one at the court house door of the county in which such district is situated, for thirty days prior to the date set for the election. Such notices shall contain the proposition to be voted upon as set forth in article 5963 of this chapter, and shall also specify the purpose for which said bonds are to be issued, and the amount of said bonds, and shall contain a copy of the order of the court ordering the election. [Id.]

Art. 5965. Election to conform to general election law.—The manner of conducting said election shall be governed by the election laws of the state of Texas, except as herein otherwise provided. None but resident property taxpayers, who are qualified voters of said proposed district, shall be entitled to vote at any election on any question submitted to the voters thereof by the county commissioners' court at such election. The county commissioners' court shall create and define, by an order of the court, the voting precincts in the proposed navigation district, and shall name a polling place or places within said precincts, taking into consideration the convenience of the voters in the proposed navigation district, and shall also select and appoint the judges and other necessary officers of the election, and shall provide one and one-half times as many ballots as there are qualified resident property taxpayers within such navigation district. Said ballot shall have printed thereon the words and none others: "For the navigation district, and issuance of bonds and levy of tax in payment thereof;" "Against the navigation district, and issuance of bonds and levy of tax in payment thereof." [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 5966. Electors; form of oath before voting.—Every person who offers to vote in any election held under the provisions of this chapter shall first take the following oath before the presiding judge of the polling place wherein he offers to vote, and the presiding judge is hereby authorized to administer same: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I am a qualified voter of ............ county, and that I am a resident property taxpayer of the proposed navigation district voted on at this election, and I have not voted before at this election." [Id. sec. 8.]

Art. 5967. Commissioners' court to canvass returns; declare result.—Immediately after the election, the presiding judge at each polling place shall make return of the result in the same manner as provided for in elections for state and county officers, and return the ballot boxes to the county clerk, who shall keep same in a safe place and deliver them, together with the returns from the several polling places, to the commissioners' court at its next regular session, or special session called for the purpose of canvassing the vote, and the county commissioners shall, at such session, canvass the vote; and, if it be found that a two-thirds majority of those voting at such election shall have been cast in favor of the navigation district and the issuance of bonds and levy of tax, then the court shall declare the result of said election to be in favor of said navigation district, and shall enter same in the minutes of the court as follows:

"Commissioners' court of .......... county, Texas .......... term, A. D. ........, in the matter of petition of .......... and .......... others, praying for the establishment of a navigation district, and issuance of bonds and levy of taxes in said petition fully described and designated by the name of .......... Navigation District .......... Be it known that an election called for that purpose in said district, held on the .......... day of .........., A. D. ........, a two-thirds majority of the resident property taxpayers voting thereon voted in favor of the creation of said navigation district, and the issuance of bonds and the levy of a tax. Now, therefore, it is considered and ordered by the court that said navigation district be, and the same is hereby established by the name of .......... Navigation District, and that the bonds of said district in the amount of .......... dollars be issued, and a tax of .......... cents on the hundred dollars of valuation, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be levied upon all property within said navigation district, whether real, personal, mixed or otherwise, sufficient in amount to pay the interest on such bonds and provide a sinking fund sufficient to redeem them at maturity, and that if said tax shall at any time become insufficient for such purposes, same shall be increased until same is sufficient. The metes and bounds of said district, being as follows, to wit: [Giving the metes and bounds]. [Id. sec. 9.]

Art. 5968. Navigation commissioners, how appointed; qualifications; compensation, term of office.—After the establishment of any navigation district, as herein provided, the commissioners' court, or navigation board, as the case may be, shall appoint three navigation and canal commissioners, all of whom shall be residents of the proposed navigation district, who shall be freehold property taxpayers and legal voters of the county, whose duties shall be as hereinafter provided, and who shall each receive for their services such compensation as may be fixed by the commissioners' court and made of record. Said navigation and canal commissioners shall hold office for the term of two years, and until their successors have qualified, unless sooner removed by a majority vote of the county commissioners, or navigation board, as the case may be, for malfeasance or nonfeasance in office. Upon the expiration of the term of office of said navigation and canal commissioners, the commissioners' court, or navigation board, as the case may be, shall appoint their successors by a majority vote. Should any vacancy occur through the death or resignation or otherwise of any commissioner, the same shall be filled by the commissioners' court, or the navigation board, as the case may be. [Id. sec. 10.]

Art. 5969. Oath of commissioners.—Before entering upon their duties, all navigation and canal commissioners shall take and subscribe before the county judge an oath to faithfully discharge the duties of their office without favor or partiality, and to render a true account of their doings to the court, or navigation board, by which they are appointed whenever required to do so, which oath shall be filed by the county clerk and preserved as a part of the records of said navigation district. [Id. sec. 11.]

Art. 5970. Bond of commissioners.—Before entering upon their duties, each of the navigation and canal commissioners shall make and enter into a good and sufficient bond in the sum of one thousand dollars, payable to the county judge for the use and benefit of said navigation district, and conditioned upon the faithful performance of their duties. [Id. sec. 12.]

Art. 5971. Organization; quorum.—Said commissioners shall also organize by electing one of their number chairman and one secretary, and two of the commissioners shall constitute a quorum, and a concur-
Art. 5972. Engineers appointed; duties; compensation; U. S. government aid; proceedings in case of.—Said commissioners shall have authority to employ a competent engineer, whose term of office shall be at the will of said commissioners, and who shall receive such compensation as may be determined by said commissioners. It shall be the duty of the engineer to make all necessary surveys, examinations, investigations, maps, plans and drawings with reference to the proposed improvements. He shall make estimate or estimates of the cost of such, shall supervise the work of improvement, and shall do and perform all such duties as may be required of him by the commissioners. Provided, that if the river, creek, stream, bay, canal, or waterway, to be improved is navigable or the improvement proposed be of such nature as requires the permission or consent of the government of the United States, or any department or officer of the government of the United States, the navigation and canal commissioners shall be authorized to obtain the required permission or consent of the government of the United States, or any proper officer or department thereof; and, in lieu of the employment of an engineer as herein provided, or in addition thereto, the navigation and canal commissioners shall have power to adopt any survey of the river, creek, canal, stream, bay, or waterway theretofore made by the government of the United States, or any department thereof, and to arrange for surveys, examinations and investigations of the proposed improvement, and for supervision of the work of improvement by the government of the United States, or the proper department or officer thereof; provided, that said commissioners shall have full power and authority to co-operate and act with the government of the United States, or any officer or department thereof, in any and all matters pertaining to or relating to the construction and maintenance of said canals, and the improvement and navigation of all such navigable rivers, bays, creeks, streams, canals, and waterways, whether by survey, work or expenditure of money made or to be made either by said navigation and canal commissioners, or by said government of the United States, or any proper officer or department thereof, or by both; and, to the end that the said government of the United States may aid in all such matters, the said commissioners shall have authority to agree and consent to the said government of the United States entering upon and taking management and control of said work, in so far as it may be necessary or permissible under the laws of the United States, and the regulations and orders of any department thereof. [Id. sec. 14.]

Art. 5973. Commissioners' court to issue bonds, when and how.—When said commissioners shall have determined the cost of the proposed improvement or improvements, all of the expenses incident thereto and cost of maintenance thereof, they shall certify to the commissioners' court of the county in which such district is situated the amount of bonds necessary to be issued; and thereupon the said court, at a regular or special meeting, shall make an order directing the issuance of navigation bonds for such navigation district in the amount so certified; provided, that the amount of bonds shall not exceed the amount authorized by the election theretofore held. In the event the proceeds of bonds issued by such navigation district should be insufficient to complete the proposed improvement or construction, or in the event said commissioners shall determine to make other and further construction or improvements, or shall require additional funds with which to maintain the improvements made, they shall certify to the commissioners' court of the county in which such district is situated the necessity for an additional bond issue, stating the amount required and the purpose of the same, the rate of interest of said bonds and the time for which they are to run; whereupon the commissioners' court shall issue such bonds, unless the amount previously authorized shall have been exhausted, in which case the commissioners' court shall order an election on the issuance of said bonds to be held within such navigation district at the earliest possible legal time, and in the manner hereinbefore provided for the original issue of bonds, at which election there shall be submitted the following propositions and none other: "For the issuance of bonds, and levy of tax in payment thereof;" "Against the issuance of bonds, and levy of tax in payment thereof." Notices of such election shall be given as provided in article 5964 of this chapter; and the election shall be held and conducted in the manner provided in articles 5965 and 5966 of this chapter. Only those who are qualified property paying voters, as provided in this chapter, shall vote at such election, and the returns of such election shall be canvassed as provided in article 5964 [5967] of this chapter. [Id. sec. 15.]

Art. 5974. Bonds, when issued; assessments, limitation of.—If, upon a canvass of the vote, the commissioners' court shall determine that a two-thirds majority of the votes cast at said election shall have been cast in favor of the issuance of bonds and levy of tax, the said court shall make an order directing the issuance of said bonds and levy of tax; provided, however, that the outstanding bonds and the additional bonds so ordered shall not exceed in amount one-fourth of the assessed value of the real property in such district, as shown by the last annual assessment thereof made for state and county taxation. [Id. sec. 15a.]

Art. 5975. Bonds, form of; denominations, term.—All bonds issued under the provisions of this chapter shall be issued in the name of the navigation district, signed by the county judge and attested by the clerk of the county court, with the seal of the commissioners' court affixed thereto, and such bonds shall be issued in denominations of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars each, and such bonds shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed five per cent per annum. Such bonds and interest shall be payable at the court of the county at which such navigation district is located, or elsewhere, as may be fixed by said navigation and canal commissioners; and no bonds shall be made payable more than forty years after date. [Id. sec. 16.]

Art. 5976. Attorney general to certify to validity of.—Any navigation district in the state of Texas desiring to issue bonds in accordance with this chapter shall, before such bonds are offered for sale, forward to the attorney general a copy of the bonds to be issued, a certified copy of the order of the commissioners' court levying the tax, copy of the order of the commissioners' court levying the tax to pay interest and provide a sinking fund, and a statement of the total bonded indebtedness of such navigation district as such, including the series of bonds proposed and the assessed value of property for the purpose of taxation, as shown by the last official assessment by the county, together with such other information as the attorney general may require; whereupon it shall be the duty of the attorney general to carefully examine said bonds in connection with the facts and the constitution and laws on the subject of the execution of such bonds; and, if as the result of such examination the attorney general shall find that such bonds were issued in conformity with the constitution and laws, and that they are valid and binding obligations upon such navigation district by which they are issued, he shall so officially certify. [Id. sec. 17.]

Art. 5977. Certificate of attorney general; effect of.—When said bonds have been examined by the attorney general, and his certificate issued to that effect, they shall be registered by the state comptroller, in a book to be kept for that purpose; and the certificate of the attorney general to the validity of such bonds shall be preserved of record for use in the event of litigation. Such bonds, after being approved by the attorney general, and after having been registered in the comptroller's office as herein provided, shall thereafter be held in every action, suit or proceeding in which their validity is or may be brought in question, prima facie valid and binding obligations. And, in every action brought to enforce collection of said bonds or interest thereon, the certificate of the attorney general, or a duly certified copy thereof, shall be admitted and received as prima facie evidence of the validity of such bonds, together with the coupons thereto attached; provided, that the only defense that can be offered against the validity of said bonds or coupons shall be forgery or fraud. But this article shall not be construed to give validity to any such bonds or coupons as may be issued in excess of the limit fixed by the constitution, or contrary to its provisions, but all such bonds shall, to the extent of such excess, be held void. [Id. sec. 18.]

Art. 5978. Record of bonds to be kept; duties and fees of clerk.—Before issuing any bonds under the provisions of this chapter, the county commissioners' court shall provide a well bound book, in which a record shall be kept by the county clerk of all bonds issued, with their numbers, amount, rate of interest, and date of issue, when due, where payable, and amount received for the same, and the annual rate per cent assessment made each year to pay the interest on said bonds and provide a sinking fund for their payment. And said book shall at all times be open to the inspection of all parties interested in said district, either as taxpayers or bond holders or otherwise; and, upon the payment of any bond, an entry thereof shall be made in said book. The county clerk shall receive for his services in recording all bonds and other instruments of the navigation district the same fees as provided by law for other like records. [Id. sec. 19.]

Art. 5979. Bonds sold, how; limitations on sale.—When such bonds have been registered, as provided for in the preceding article of this chapter, the chairman of the navigation and canal commission shall offer for sale and sell said bonds on the best terms and for the best price possible, but none of said bonds shall be sold for less than the face par value thereof and accrued interest thereon; and, as fast as said bonds are sold, all moneys received therefor shall be paid to the county treasurer, and shall by him be placed to the credit of such navigation district. [Id. sec. 20.]

Art. 5980. Chairman to give bond.—Before the said chairman of the navigation and canal commissioners shall be authorized to sell any of the navigation bonds, he shall execute a good and sufficient bond, payable to the county judge or his successors in office, to be approved by the county commissioners' court of said county, for an amount not less than the amount of the bonds issued, conditioned upon the faithful discharge of his duties. [Id. sec. 21.]

Art. 5981. Cost of proceedings to establish district; how provided. —All expenses of any kind, after the filing of the original petition, necessarily incurred in connection with the creation, establishment and maintenance of any navigation district organized under the provisions of this chapter, shall be paid out of the "Construction and Maintenance Fund" of such navigation district; which fund shall consist of all moneys received from the sale of bonds and all other amounts received by said district from whatever source, except the tax collections applied to the sinking fund and payment of interest on the navigation bonds; provided, that, should the proposition of the creation of such navigation district and issuance of bonds be defeated at the election called to vote upon same, then all expenses up to and including said election shall be paid in the following manner: When the original petition praying for the establishment of a navigation district is filed with the county commissioners' court, it shall be accompanied by five hundred dollars in cash, which shall be deposited with the clerk of said county commissioners' court, and by him held until after the result of the election for the creation of said navigation district has been declared and entered of record by the commissioners' court, as hereinbefore provided; and, should the result of said election be in favor of the establishment of said district, then the said five hundred dollars shall be by said clerk returned to the signers of said original petition, or their agent or attorney; but, should the result of said election be against the establishment of said district, then the said clerk shall pay out of the said five hundred dollars, upon vouchers signed by the county judge, all costs and expenses pertaining to the said proposed district up to and including the said election, and shall return the balance, if any, of said five hundred dollars to the signers of said original petition, or their agent or attorney. [Id. sec. 22.]

Art. 5982. Taxes for interest and sinking fund.—Whenever any such navigation district bonds shall have been voted, the commissioners' court shall levy and cause to be assessed and collected improvement taxes upon all property within said navigation district, whether real, personal, mixed or otherwise, and sufficient in amount to pay the interest on such bonds, together with an additional amount to be annually placed in a sinking fund sufficient to discharge and redeem said bonds at their maturity. [Id. sec. 23.]

Art. 5983. Available sinking fund, how invested.—If advisable, the sinking fund shall, from time to time, be invested by the commissioners' court of the county in such county, municipal, district or other bonds as shall be approved by the attorney general of the state. [Id.]

Art. 5984. Tax proceedings; compensation of assessor.—The county commissioners' court shall provide all necessary additional books for the use of the assessor and collector of taxes and the county clerk for such navigation district, and charge the cost of same to the said navigation district. It shall be the duty of the county tax assessor, when ordered to do so by the commissioners' court, to assess all property within such navigation district and list the same for taxation in the books or rolls furnished him by said commissioners' court for that purpose, and return said books or rolls at the same time when he returns the other books or rolls of the state and county taxes for correction and approval; and, if the said commissioners' court shall find said books or rolls correct, they shall approve the same, and, in all matters pertaining to the assessment of property for taxation in said district, the tax assessor and board of equalization of the county in which said district is located shall be authorized to act, and shall be governed by the laws of Texas for assessing and equalizing property for state and county taxes, except as herein provided. All taxes authorized to be levied by this chapter shall be a lien upon the property upon which said taxes are assessed, and said taxes may be paid and shall mature and be paid at the time provided by the laws of this state for the payment of state and county taxes; and all the penalties provided by the laws of this state for the non-payment of state and county taxes shall apply to all taxes authorized to be levied by this chapter. The tax assessor shall receive for said services such compensation as the said navigation and canal commissioners shall deem proper; provided, that said county assessor shall in no event be allowed more than he is now allowed by law for the like services. Should the tax assessor fail or refuse to comply with the orders of the commissioners' court requiring him to assess and list for taxation all the property in such navigation districts, as herein provided, he shall be suspended from the further discharge of his duties by the commissioners' court of his county, and he shall be removed from office in the mode prescribed by law for the removal of county officers. [Id. sec. 24.]
Art. 5985. Compensation of tax collector; additional bond required.—The tax collector of the county shall be charged by the county commissioners' court with the assessment rolls of the navigation district, and he shall be allowed no more compensation for the collection of said taxes than he is now allowed for the collection of other taxes, same to be fixed by the navigation and canal commissioners. The county commissioners' court shall require the tax collector of the county to give an additional bond or security in such a sum as they may deem proper and safe to secure the collection of said taxes; and, in all matters pertaining to the collection of taxes levied under the provisions of this chapter, the tax collector shall be authorized to act and shall be governed by the laws of Texas for the collection of state and county taxes, except as herein provided; and suits may be brought for the collection of said taxes and the enforcement of the tax liens created by this chapter. Should any collector of taxes fail or refuse to give such additional bond or security, as herein provided, when requested by the commissioners' court, within the time prescribed by law for such purposes, he shall be suspended from office by the commissioners' court of his county, and immediately thereafter be removed from office in the mode prescribed by law. [Id. sec. 25.]

Art. 5986. Delinquents; tax sales.—It shall be the duty of the tax collector to make a certified list of all delinquent property upon which the navigation tax has not been paid, and return the same to the county commissioners' court, which shall proceed to have the same collected by the sale of such delinquent property in the same manner, both by suit and otherwise, as is now provided for the sale of property for the collection of state and county taxes; and, at the sale of any property for any delinquent tax, the navigation and canal commissioners may become the purchasers of the same for the benefit of the navigation district. [Id. sec. 26.]

Art. 5987. County treasurer; duties.—It shall be the duty of the county treasurer to open an account with the navigation district, and to keep an accurate account of all moneys received by him belonging to such district and of all amounts paid out by him. He shall pay out no money, except upon a voucher signed by the chairman or any two of the said navigation and canal commissioners, and he shall carefully preserve on file all orders for the payment of money; and, as often as required by the said commissioners, or the county commissioners' court, he shall render a correct account to them of all matters pertaining to the financial condition of such district. [Id. sec. 27.]

Art. 5988. Treasurer to give bond; compensation.—The county treasurer shall execute a good and sufficient bond, payable to the navigation and canal commissioners of such district, in a sum equal to twice the amount of bonds issued, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duty as treasurer of such district, which bond shall be approved by said commissioners, and the treasurer shall be allowed such compensation for his services as such treasurer as may be determined by said commissioners, not exceeding the same per cent as is now allowed by the county for his services as county treasurer. [Id. sec. 28.]

Art. 5989. Condemnation proceedings.—The right of eminent domain is hereby conferred upon all navigation districts established under the provisions of this chapter for the purpose of condemning and acquiring the right of way over and through any and all lands, private or public, except property used for cemetery purposes, necessary for the improvement of any river, bay, creek, or stream, and the construction and maintenance of any canal or waterway, and for any and all purposes authorized by this chapter. All such condemnation proceedings shall be instituted under the direction of the navigation and canal commissioners, and in the name of the navigation district, and the assessing of damages shall be in conformity to the statutes of the state of Texas for condemning and acquiring the right of way by railroads; provided, that no appeal from the finding and assessment of damage by the commissioners appointed for that purpose shall have the effect of causing a suspension of work by the navigation commissioners in prosecuting the work of improvement in all of its details; provided, that no right of way can be condemned through any part of an incorporated city or town without the consent of the lawful authorities of such city or town. [Id. sec. 29.]

Art. 5990. May acquire property for navigation purposes.—The navigation and canal commissioners of any district are hereby empowered to acquire the necessary right of way and property of any kind for all necessary improvements contemplated by this chapter by gift, grant, purchase or condemnation proceedings. [Id. sec. 30.]

Art. 5991. Commissioners may enter lands to make surveys.—The navigation and canal commissioners of any district, and the engineers, from the time of their appointment, are hereby authorized to go upon any lands lying within said district for the purpose of examining the same, making plans, surveys, maps and profiles, together with all necessary teams, help, tools and instruments, without subjecting themselves to action of trespass. [Id. sec. 31.]

Art. 5992. Work, how done; contracts, how let when U. S. government fails to act.—If the improvement or improvements be not carried out and performed by the government of the United States, as herein provided, the contract or contracts for such improvement or improvements shall be let by the navigation and canal commissioners, and the same shall be awarded to the lowest and best responsible bidder, after giving notice by advertising the same in one or more newspapers of general circulation in the state of Texas once a week for four consecutive weeks, and by posting notices for at least thirty days in five public places in the county, one of which shall be at the court house door, and at least two of which shall be within said navigation district. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the making of more than one improvement, and where more than one improvement is to be made, the contract may be let separately for each or one contract for all such improvements. [Id. sec. 32.]

Art. 5993. Bids for work, how awarded.—Any person, corporation, or firm, desiring to bid on the construction of any work advertised for as provided under the preceding article of this chapter, shall, upon application to the navigation and canal commissioners, be furnished the survey, plans and estimates for the said work, and all bids or offers for any of such work shall be in writing and sealed and delivered to the chairman of the navigation and canal commissioners, together with a certified check for at least five per cent of the total amount bid, which shall be forfeited to the district in case the bidder refuses to enter into a proper contract, if his bid is accepted. Any and all bids may be rejected at the discretion of the navigation and canal commissioners. [Id. sec. 33.]

Art. 5994. Contracts to be in writing and filed.—All contracts made by the navigation and canal commissioners shall be reduced to writing and signed by the contractors, and navigation and canal commissioners, or any two of said commissioners, and a copy of same filed with the county clerk for reference. [Id. sec. 34.]

Art. 5995. Contractor's bond.—The party, firm, or corporation, to whom any such contract is let, shall give bond, payable to the navigation and canal commissioners for said district, in twice the amount of the contract price, conditioned that he, they or it, will faithfully perform the obligations, agreements and covenants of their contract, and that in default thereof will pay to said district all damages sustained by reason thereof. Said bond shall be approved by such navigation and canal commissioners. [Id. sec. 35.]

Art. 5996. Work supervised by engineer; his report.—All work contracted for by the navigation and canal commissioners, unless done under the supervision of the government of the United States, or the proper department or officer thereof, shall be done under the supervision of the engineer; and, when the work is completed according to contract, the engineer shall make a detailed report of the same to the navigation and canal commissioners, showing whether the contract has been fully complied with, according to its terms, and if not in what particular it has not been so complied with. [Id. sec. 36.]

Art. 5997. Commissioners to inspect work; payment, how made.—The commissioners shall have the right, and it is hereby made their duty, during the progress of the work being done under contract, to inspect the same; and, upon the completion of any contract, they shall draw a warrant on the county treasurer for the amount of the contract price in favor of the contractor or his assignee, which warrant shall be paid out of the construction and maintenance fund of such district; provided, that, if the navigation and canal commissioners deem it advisable, they may contract for the work to be paid for in partial payments as the work progresses; but such partial payments shall not exceed in the aggregate eighty per cent of the total amount to be paid under the contract, the amount of work completed to be shown by a certificate of the engineer; and provided, further, that nothing in this article shall affect the provisions of this chapter providing for the carrying out and performing of the improvement or improvements by the government of the United States. [Id. sec. 37.]

Art. 5998. Commissioners' report of work to contain what.—The commissioners shall make an annual report of their acts and doings as such commissioners, and file the same with the clerk of the county court on or before the first day of January each year; which report shall show in detail the kind, character and amount of work done in the district, the cost of same, and the amount paid out on order, for what purpose paid, and other data necessary to show the condition of improvements made under the provisions of this chapter. [Id. sec. 38.]

Art. 5999. Commissioners may employ assistant engineers and legal counsel.—The commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to employ such assistant engineers and other employes as may be necessary, paying such compensation as they may determine; and the said commissioners are authorized to employ counsel to represent such district in the preparation of any contract, or the conducting of any proceedings in or out of court, and to be the legal adviser of the navigation and canal commissioners on such terms and for such fees as may be agreed upon by them; and such commissioners shall have the authority to draw warrant or warrants in payment of such legal services, and for the salary of the engineer, his assistant, or any other employes, and for all expense incident and pertaining to the navigation district. [Id.]

Art. 6000. Unlawful for officers to be interested in contracts.—Neither the county judge, nor any county commissioner, nor member of the navigation board, nor the navigation and canal commissioners or engineer shall be directly or indirectly interested for themselves, or as agents for any one else, in the contract for the construction of any work to be performed by such navigation district. [Id. sec. 40.]

Art. 6001. Commission may sue and be sued.—All navigation districts established under this chapter may, by and through the navigation and canal commissioners, sue and be sued in all courts of this state in the name of such navigation district; and all courts of this state shall take judicial notice of the establishment of all such districts. [Id. sec. 41.]
NOTARIES PUBLIC

Article 6002. Governor shall appoint; tenure; additional notaries; proviso.—There shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, a convenient number of notaries public for each organized county, and not to exceed six notaries public for each unorganized county in this state, who shall hold their office for the term of two years from the first day of June after appointment at a regular session of the legislature; provided, that the governor by and with the advice and consent of the senate may appoint additional notaries public at any special session of the legislature, who shall hold their office until the first day of June succeeding the next regular session of the legislature after their appointment. Provided that nothing herein be so construed as to exempt them from jury service. [Acts 1889, p. 89. Acts 1885, p. 1. Acts 1903, p. 158. Acts 1913, S. S., p. 2, sec. 1, amending Art. 6002, Rev. St. 1911.]

History of legislation.—Section 2 of the act of April 11, 1879 (16th Leg., p. 89), reads as follows: "The governor is hereby authorized to appoint, with the advice and consent of the senate, one notary public and one cattle and hide inspector in each of the unorganized counties of the state." The act of April 1, 1881 (17th Leg., p. 94), provided for the appointment of notaries public, and with subsequent amendments as given in the text is the law now in force. Section 15 of this act reads as follows: Sec. 15. "All laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed."

By the act of December 29, 1856 (1st Cong., p. 148), the chief justices of the several county courts were ex officio notaries public for their respective counties. The seal of the county court was the notarial seal, and required to be fixed to all instruments and attestations of the respective notaries. By the act of June 12, 1837 (1st Cong., p. 273), an associate justice was authorized to act as notary public in case of the absence or inability of the chief justice to act.

Under the act of November 16, 1837 (2d Cong., p. 16), a notary public was appointed for each of the ports of entry of the republic. He was required to have a seal of office, to be affixed to his certificate. Under the act of May 10, 1838 (2d Cong., p. 126), two notaries public were appointed for the county in which the seal of government was located, and one notary in each other county.

By the act of February 6, 1844 (3d Cong., p. 105), and the act of January 10, 1846 (9th Cong., p. 13), additional notaries were appointed for certain counties named in those acts.

By the act of January 10, 1845, a notary was required to use a seal of office with the words "notary public" and the name of the county around the margin, and no notarial act was valid unless the seal of office of such notary was appended.

By the act of May 13, 1846 (1st Leg., p. 341), the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, was authorized to appoint a convenient number of notaries, not exceeding six in number, for each county. He was also authorized to fill vacancies during the recess of the senate.

The seal had engraved in the center a star of five points and the words "Notary Public, County of ______, Texas," around the margin, with which all official acts must be authenticated.

The first section of the act of May 13, 1846, was amended by the act of March, 1863 (9th Leg., S. S., p. 14).

By the act of June 24, 1876 (15th Leg., p. 29), former laws were repealed and an act passed to regulate the appointment and define the duties of notaries public, which was substantially incorporated in the Revised Statutes. The act passed April 1, 1881 (17th Leg., p. 94), did not purport to be an amendment of the Revised Statutes, but repealed all laws and parts of laws in conflict therewith, and was entitled: "An act to regulate the appointment and define the duties of notaries public, to require them to procure and use legal seals, and to punish them for failing to do so." This act, with subsequent amendments was substituted for the original title to the Revised Statutes. The act was again amended by the act of 1883, page 94, the act of 1885, page 89, and the act of 1885, page 1.

Article 6003. [3504] Bond and oath.—Every person who may be appointed a notary public, before he enters on the duties of his office, shall execute a bond, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the clerk of the county court of his county, payable to the governor and his successors in office, in the sum of one thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his office; and shall also take and subscribe the oath of office prescribed by the constitution, which shall be indorsed on said bond, with the certificate of the officer administering the same; said bond shall be recorded in the office of the clerk of the county court, and deposited in said office, and shall not be void on the first recovery, and may be sued on in the name of any party injured from time to time until the whole amount thereof has been recovered. [Acts 1881, p. 94.]

Art. 6004. [3505] To be removed, when.—Every notary public who shall be guilty of any willful neglect of duty or malfeasance in office may be removed from office in the manner provided by law. [Id. sec. 3.]

Removal from office.—See Arts. 6058, 6059.

Art. 6005. [3506] Office to become vacant, when.—Whenever any notary public shall remove permanently from the county for which he was appointed, or an ex officio notary public from his precinct, his office shall thereupon be deemed vacant. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 6006. [3507] Seal, and what it shall contain.—Every notary public shall provide a seal of office, wherein shall be engraved in the center a star of five points, and the words, "Notary Public, County of .........., Texas," around the margin (the blank to be filled with the name of the county for which the officer is appointed), and he shall authenticate all his official acts therewith; and any notary public or other officer required by law to keep and use a seal, who shall use, in attesting any instrument any seal not such as is required by law to keep and use for that purpose, or shall fail or refuse to deliver to the county clerk of his county his seal, record books and all public papers pertaining to his office, or any of them, in case of his resignation or removal from the county, shall be punished as provided in the Penal Code. [Id. sec. 5.]

Acts of notaries public, authenticated by a seal not conforming to the requirements of this article, were made valid by an act of 1889. See Acts 1889, p. 121.

History of legislation.—See notes under Art. 6002.

Use of seal on envelopes containing depositions.—Under Art. 3600, requiring the officer before whom depositions are taken to certify on the envelope enclosing the depositions that he in person deposited the same in the mail for transmission, etc., and this article, providing that every notary public shall authenticate his official acts with his seal of office, the certificate of a notary on the envelope enclosing depositions must be authenticated by his official seal. Wisegarver v. Yinger (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 252.

Art. 6007. [3508] Duty of county clerk when office becomes vacant.—Whenever the office of notary public shall be vacated by resignation, removal or death, it shall be the duty of the county clerk of the county where said notary resides to obtain and deposit in his office the seal, record books and all public papers belonging in the office of said notary; provided, that the seal of any notary vacating his office may be sold by the owner thereof to any qualified notary public in the county. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 6008. [3509] Their powers.—Notaries public may take acknowledgments or proof of all instruments of writing in the manner provided by law, to entitle them to registration, and give certificates of all such acknowledgments and proof under their hand and official seals; they may take the examination and acknowledgments of married women to all deeds and instruments of writing, conveying or charging their separate property, of their interest in the homestead, in the manner provided by law. [Id. sec. 7.]

Disqualification by interest.—A managing agent of a building association who is a stockholder held disqualified to take an acknowledgment of a mortgage to the association. Miles v. Kelley, 16 C. A. 147, 40 S. W. 590.

The acknowledgment of the execution of a contract with a building association, taken before a notary who is a stockholder therein, is of no effect. Bexar Building & Loan Ass'n v. Heady, 21 C. A. 164, 59 S. W. 1079.
Acknowledgment before a notary, who is a director of a corporation, held void. Workman's Mut. Aid Ass'n v. Monroe (Civ. App.) 53 S. W. 1029.

Form of certificate.—A notary's certificate is not rendered insufficient by the fact that the caption of the instrument acknowledged differs from that of the certificate. First Nat. Bank v. Hicks, 24 C. A. 269, 59 S. W. 842.

Recital of notary's certificate, stating that "personally came and appeared," to him personally known, who acknowledged that he signed the instrument," held to be a sufficient identification of the person executing the instrument. Id.

Where a notary shows his official character as notary public for a certain county and state in the first part of his certificate of acknowledgment, he need not repeat such showing after his signature. Kane v. Sholars, 41 C. A. 154, 90 S. W. 937.

Void acknowledgment cannot be reformed.—An acknowledgment void because taken before a notary who is interested cannot be reformed. Bexar Building & Loan Ass'n v. Heady, 21 C. A. 154, 50 S. W. 1079.

Evidence of acknowledgment.—See, also, Art. 6013 and notes.

Fees.—See Art. 3878.

Clerk of county court may take acknowledgments, etc.—See Art. 1751.

Art. 6009. [3510] Duty on vacating office.—Whenever any notary public shall vacate his office in any manner, his record books and all public papers in his office shall be deposited with the clerk of the county court of his county.

Art. 6010. [3511] Shall have power to administer oaths, etc.—Every notary public shall have power to administer oaths and give certificates thereof under his hand and official seal. He may take the proof or acknowledgments of all instruments of writing relating to commerce and navigation, and also letters of attorney and other instruments of writing, make declarations and protest, and certify under his hand and seal the truth of the matters or things done by virtue of his office. [Id. sec. 8.]

Authority to take oaths.—A notary public has authority to swear persons whether it be to necessary affidavits and those required by law or those which are purely voluntary. Campbell v. Stidio, 43 Cr. B. 602, 63 S. W. 614.

He has authority to swear a chattel mortgage to an affidavit stating that he is the owner of the property and that it is not incumbered. Id.

Fees.—See Art. 3878.

Art. 6011. [3512] Shall keep a well-bound book.—Every notary public shall procure and keep a well-bound book, in which shall be entered the date of all instruments acknowledged before him, the date of such acknowledgments, the name of the grantor or maker, the place of his residence or alleged residence, whether personally known or introduced, and, if introduced, the name and residence or alleged residence of the party introducing him; if the instrument be proved by a witness, the residence of such witness, whether such witness is personally known to him or introduced; if introduced, the name and residence of the party introducing him; the name and residence of the grantee; if land is conveyed or charged by such instrument, the name of the original grantee thereof shall be kept, and the county where the land is situated. The book herein required to be kept, and the statements herein required to be entered, shall be an original public record, and the same shall be open to inspection by any citizen at all reasonable times; and such notary public shall give a certified copy of any record in his office to any person applying therefor on payment of all fees thereon. [Id. sec. 9.]

Certified copy of notarial record as evidence.—See notes under Art. 6013.

Art. 6012. [3513] May take depositions.—Notaries public shall have power to take the depositions of witnesses in the manner prescribed by law; to attest the oath of any person to a petition or answer in any suit, and the same when so attested shall be valid in all the courts of this state. [Id. sec. 10.]

Fees.—See Art. 3878.

Clerk of county court may take depositions, etc.—See Art. 1762.

Vern. S. Civ. St. — 250

Art. 6013. [3514] Copies of records.—Copies of all records, declarations, protests and other official acts of notaries public may be certified by the county clerk with whom they are deposited, and shall have the same authority as if certified by the notary by whom they were originally made. [Id. sec. 11.]

Certified copy of notarial record as evidence.—It is competent for district clerk to make and certify to copy of entry in notarial record deposited in his office so as to make such copy admissible in evidence. Mayfield v. Robinson, 22 C. A. 385, 56 S. W. 401.

In the absence of proof of the loss of a deed, or of plaintiffs' inability to produce secondary evidence of its execution, consisting of a certified copy of the entries of the notary, who took the acknowledgment, in his notary's book, which he was required to keep, and in which he was required to make entries of acknowledgments by Art. 6011, which certificate was made as authorized by this article, was inadmissible to prove the execution of the deed. Trice's Heirs v. McCaleb (Civ. App.) 138 8. W. 792.

Art. 6014. [3515] Printed list to be furnished by secretary of state.—When notaries public have been appointed by the governor and shall have qualified, it shall be the duty of the secretary of state to furnish to the clerks of the county courts a printed list of all notaries public so appointed and qualified; and it shall be the duty of said clerks to preserve said list for public inspection and post a copy thereof on the court house door. [Id. sec. 12.]

Art. 6015. [3516] To qualify, when.—When a notary is appointed, the secretary of state shall forward the commission to the clerk of the county court of the county where the party resides; and the said clerk shall immediately notify said party to appear before him within ten days, pay for his commission, and qualify according to law; provided, that, if said party be absent from the county, or sick at the time of reception of said commission by the clerk, then he shall have ten days from his return to said county in which to appear and qualify. [Id. sec. 13.]

Art. 6016. [3517] Clerk shall notify secretary of state.—The clerk receiving the commission shall indorse thereon the day on which notice was given, and, if the party pay the state fee for commission and qualify according to law, the said clerk shall notify the secretary of state of his qualification, giving date of same, and remit the fee to said officer; but if the party fails to qualify and pay the fee within the limited time the appointment shall be void, and the clerk shall certify on the back of the commission that the party has failed to qualify, and return it to the secretary of state. [Id.]
TITLE 98

OFFICERS—REMOVAL OF

CHAPTER ONE

REMOVAL OF STATE AND CERTAIN DISTRICT OFFICERS

Art. 6017. State and district officers removable by impeachment.—The governor, lieutenant-governor, attorney general, treasurer, commissioner of the general land office, comptroller, commissioner of agriculture, the commissioner of insurance and banking and the judges of the supreme court, court of criminal appeals, courts of civil appeals and district courts, and the judges of the criminal district court of Galveston and Harris counties and of Dallas county, shall be removable from office by impeachment in the manner provided in the constitution. [Const., art. 15, secs. 1, 2. Act Aug. 21, 1876, p. 226, sec. 26.]

Art. 6018. Judges of supreme, appellate and district courts, and commissioner of agriculture, etc., removed by address.—The judges of the supreme court, court of criminal appeals, courts of civil appeals, district courts, the judge of the criminal district court of Galveston and Harris counties and of Dallas county, and the commissioner of agriculture, and commissioner of insurance and banking, shall be removed from office by the governor on the address of two-thirds of each house of the legislature, for willful neglect of duty, incompetency, habitual drunkenness, oppression in office, breach of trust, or other reasonable cause, which shall not be sufficient ground for impeachment. [Const., art. 15, secs. 7, 8. Id.]

Art. 6019. Cause for removal to be set out.—The cause for such removal shall be stated at length in such address, and entered on the journals of each house. [Id.]

Art. 6020. Notice to be given.—The officer so intended to be removed shall have notice of the cause assigned for his removal, and shall be admitted to a hearing in his own defense before any vote for such address shall be heard. [Id.]

Art. 6021. Vote, how taken.—In all such cases, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays and entered on the journals of each house respectively. [Id.]

Art. 6022. District judges removed by supreme court.—Any judge of the district court who is incompetent to discharge the duties of his office, or who shall be guilty of partiality or oppression, or other official misconduct, or whose habits and conduct are such as to render him unfit to hold such office, or who shall negligently fail to perform his duties as judge, or who shall fail to execute in a reasonable measure the business of his court, may be removed by the supreme court. [Constr., art. 15, sec. 6.]

Art. 6023. [3524] Preceding article shall apply to the criminal district judge.—The provisions of the preceding article shall also apply to the criminal district judge of the counties of Galveston and Harris and the criminal district judge of Dallas county. [R. S. 1879.]

Art. 6024. [3525] Jurisdiction of supreme court in such cases.—The supreme court shall have original jurisdiction to hear and determine the causes aforesaid when presented in writing, upon the oaths taken before some judge of a court of record of not less than ten lawyers practicing in the courts held by such judge, and licensed to practice in the courts of civil appeals. [Id.]

Art. 6025. [3526] Presentment shall be founded upon what.—The presentment provided for in the preceding article shall be founded either upon the knowledge of the person making it, or upon the written oaths, as to facts, of credible witnesses. [Id.]

Art. 6026. [3527] Supreme court may issue process, etc.—The supreme court may issue all needful process, and prescribe all needful rules to give effect to the four preceding articles, and such cases shall have precedence and be tried as soon as practicable. [Id.]

Art. 6027. [3528] State officers appointed by the governor, how removed.—All state officers appointed by the governor, or elected by the legislature, where the mode of their removal is not otherwise provided by law, may be removed by him for good and sufficient cause, to be spread on the records of his office, and to be reported by him to the next session of the legislature thereafter. [Id.]

CHAPTER TWO

REMOVAL OF COUNTY AND CERTAIN DISTRICT OFFICERS

Art. 6028. Certain convictions work a removal from office.
6029. Appeal supersedes order of removal.
6030. Officers removable by the district judge, etc.
6031. Causes to be set forth in writing.
6034. Two preceding articles apply to mayors and aldermen.
6036. Further defined.
6038. Must be three times convicted.
6039. Three convictions sufficient ground for removal, etc.
6040. Failure to give bond ground for removal.
6041. Proceedings, how commenced and by whom.

Art. 6042. Requisites of petition.
6043. General issues alone submitted—Verdict.
6044. Citation, how and when to issue.
6045. Application made in vacation.
6046. Citation shall issue.
6047. Time to answer.
6048. How trial shall be conducted.
6049. May be suspended from office, how.
6050. Appeal or writ of error.
6051. Bond for costs, when.
6052. Relator to give security for costs.
6053. Against district attorney, where commenced.
6054. Criminal district attorney included in district attorney.
6055. Not to be removed for acts done prior to his election.
6056. Appeal and writ of error.
6057. Mandate, when to issue.

Article 6028. [3529] Certain convictions work a removal from office.—All convictions by a petit jury of any county officers for any felony, or for any misdemeanor involving official misconduct, shall work an immediate removal from office of the officer so convicted; and such judgment of conviction shall, in every instance, embody within it an order removing such officer. [R. S. 1879.]
Art. 6029. [3530] Appeal supersedes order of removal.—When an appeal is taken from such judgment by the officer removed, such appeal shall have the effect of superseding such judgment, unless the court rendering such judgment should deem it to the public interest to suspend such officer from the office pending such appeal; and in that case the court shall proceed as in other cases of the suspension of officers from office as provided in this chapter. [1d.]

Art. 6030. [3531] Officers removable by the district judge.—All district attorneys, county judges, commissioners, and county attorneys, clerks of the district and county courts, and single clerks in counties where one clerk discharges the duties of district and county clerks, county treasurer, sheriff, county surveyor, assessor, collector, constable, cattle and hide inspector, justice of the peace, and all other county officers now or hereafter existing by authority either of the constitution or laws, may be removed from office by the judges of the district court for incompetency, official misconduct, habitual drunkenness, or drunkenness not amounting to habitual drunkenness, as hereafter defined in this chapter. [Const., art. 5, sec. 24; art. 15, sec. 7. R. S. 1879.]

One action to remove several commissioners.—Under Const. art. 5, § 24, and the above article, any action against officers against whom the allegations of official misconduct, etc. with the charge that they conspired together in the acts complained of, may be joined in the same action. Eberstadt v. State, 92 T. 94, 46 S. W. 1007.

Removal of school trustee.—Each school trustee is an officer in and for the precinct of the county, and consequently is a part, and in fact, as the district judge, of the county itself, and can be removed from office by the district judge for incompetency, etc. Hendricks v. State, 20 C. A. 178, 49 S. W. 705.

Removal of clerk of court—Grounds.—Antedating by a clerk of a court of the filing of a paper filed out of time, so as to show filing within time, is official misconduct warranting his removal under this article. Howard v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 707.

Art. 6031. [3532] Causes to be set forth in writing.—In every case of removal from office for the causes named in the preceding article, the cause or causes thereof shall be set forth in writing, and the truth of said cause or causes be found by a jury. [Const., art. 5, sec. 24. R. S. 1879.]

Art. 6032. [3533] "Incompetency," what is.—By "incompetency," as used in this title, is meant gross ignorance of official duties, or gross carelessness in the discharge of them; or an officer may be found to be incompetent when, by reason of some serious physical or mental defect, not existing at the time of his election, he has become unfit or unable to discharge promptly and properly the duties of his office. [R. S. 1879.]

Art. 6033. [3534] "Official misconduct," what is.—By "official misconduct," as used in this title with reference to county officers, is meant any unlawful behavior in relation to the duties of his office, willful in its character, of any officer intrusted in any manner with the administration of justice, or the execution of the laws; and under this head of official misconduct are included any wilful or corrupt failure, refusal or neglect of an officer to perform any duty enjoined on him by law. [R. S. 1879.]

Grounds for removal.—See, also, notes under Art. 6030.

Official misconduct.—A petition which alleges that a county judge conspired with others to do an unlawful thing, and sets out specific, unlawful acts, and charges that he knowingly and wilfully acted in furtherance of the conspiracy, is good on demurrer under this article. Perry v. State, 44 C. A. 65, 98 S. W. 412.

The failure of the tax assessor of a county to make a report of the fees collected by him, as required by law, is "official misconduct" within Const. art. 5, § 8, conferring on district courts jurisdiction to try all misdemeanors involving official misconduct, and Code Cr. Proc. 1871, art. 90, giving the district court exclusive jurisdiction in cases involving official misconduct. Bolton v. State (Cr. App.) 164 S. W. 1197.

Art. 6034. [3535] Two preceding articles apply to mayor and aldermen.—The two preceding articles shall apply also to mayors and aldermen, whose removal is hereafter provided for in this title. [R. S. 1879.]

Grounds for removal of mayor.—See notes under Art. 6065.

Art. 6035. [3536] "Habitual drunkenness," what is.—By "habitual drunkenness," as used in this title in relation to county officers, is meant the frequent and customary use to excess of intoxicating drinks, resulting in that condition of the body and the mind produced by the excessive use of intoxicating liquors, spirituous, vinous or malt, confirmed by habit. [R. S. 1879.]

Art. 6036. [3537] Further defined.—In order to constitute habitual drunkenness under this title, it shall not be necessary to show that the officer is incapable of discharging the duties of his office, or of taking care of himself; but the proof of the fact of habitual drunkenness to the satisfaction of the judge and jury shall be sufficient cause of removal without reference to his capacity or incapacity to discharge the duties of his office. [Act Aug. 16, 1876, p. 135, sec. 3.]

Art. 6037. [3538] "Drunkenness not habitual" defined.—By "drunkenness not amounting to habitual drunkenness," as named in this chapter in connection with county officers, is meant the immoderate use of any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors to such a degree as to incapacitate the officer for the time being or permanently from the discharge of the duties of his office. [Act July 31, 1876, p. 76, secs. 1, 4.]

Art. 6038. [3539] Must be three times convicted.—No county officer shall be removed from office on the charge of drunkenness, as defined in the preceding article, until he shall have been three times convicted of such offense of drunkenness. [Act July 21, 1876, p. 76, sec. 4.]

Art. 6039. [3540] Three convictions sufficient ground for removal, etc.—The fact of a third conviction, as provided in the preceding article, shall be sufficient ground for his removal from office by the district judge, on the matter being brought before him in the manner provided in this chapter for bringing before him other causes of removal. [R.S. 1879.]

Art. 6040. [3541] Failure to give bond ground for removal.—All county officers who are required to give official bonds, who shall fail to execute their bonds within the time prescribed by law, or who, when required in accordance with law to give a new bond or additional bond or security, and shall fail to do so, may also be removed from office for such failure by the district judge, on the matter being brought before him in the manner hereinafter provided for bringing such matters before the court. [Id.]

Time to qualify—Provision directory only.—The provision as to the time within which an officer shall qualify is directory only, where, from reasons beyond his control, he cannot qualify within the time allowed: but such construction will not be given in a case of neglect or refusal. Flattan v. State, 56 T. 93. See State v. Cooke, 54 T. 482.

Art. 6041. [3542] Proceedings, how commenced, and by whom.—The proceedings for the removal of said officers may be commenced, either in term time or vacation, by first filing a petition in the district court of the county where the officer resides, by a citizen of the state who has resided for six months in the said county where he proposes to file such petition, and who is not himself at the time under indictment in said county. [Id.]

Pleading plaintiff's disqualification.—The disqualification to act is in the nature of a disability of a party plaintiff and must be pleaded when it does not appear on the face of the petition. Eland v. State (Civ. App.) 38 S. W. 252.

Attorney to prosecute case.—See notes under Arts. 6042, 6048.

Art. 6042. [3543] Requisites of the petition.—The petition shall be addressed to the district judge of the court in which it is filed, and shall set forth in plain and intelligible words the cause or causes alleged as the grounds of removal, giving in each instance, with as much certainty as the nature of the case will admit of, the time and place of the occurrence of the alleged acts; the petition shall, in every instance, be sworn to at or before the filing of the same by at least one of the parties filing the same, and the proceedings shall be conducted in the name of "The State of Texas," upon the relation of the person filing the same. [Id.]

Sufficiency of petition.—Petition in proceedings to remove county commissioners held to sufficiently charge conspiracy between them and county treasurer to embezzle funds. Eberstadt v. State, 20 C. A. 164, 49 S. W. 654.

Defenses.—In a proceeding to remove a sheriff from office, the petition held not demurrable on the ground that the proceeding could only be conducted by the district attorney, or some other officer authorized to prosecute suits in the name of the state. State v. Box, 34 C. A. 435, 78 S. W. 982.

Art. 6043. [3544] General issue alone submitted—Verdict.—In these cases, the judge shall not submit special issues to the jury, but shall, under a proper charge applicable to the facts of the case, instruct the jury to find from the evidence whether the cause or causes of removal set forth in the petition are true in point of fact or not; and, when there are more than one distinct cause of removal alleged, the jury shall by their verdict say which cause they find sustained by the evidence before them, and which are not sustained. [R. S. 1879.]

Evidence.—In a proceeding to remove a county judge for official misconduct in conspiring to defeat school land taxes held it is no defense that the lands were afterwards duly assessed and placed on the tax rolls. Perry v. State, 44 C. A. 55, 98 S. W. 411.

Defenses.—In a proceeding to remove a county judge for official misconduct in conspiring to defeat the collection of school tax lands, held, that as explanatory of the subsequent approval of the tax rolls by him and the county court it was competent to show that prior thereto suits to enforce such action had been instituted. Perry v. State, 44 C. A. 65, 98 S. W. 411.

In a suit to remove a county judge for official misconduct, it may be shown in evidence that he and the commissioners' court over which he presided approved tax rolls with taxes thereon charged against school lands in the name of unknown owners, when the court and the county judge knew to whom the lands belonged. Id.

Sufficiency of verdict.—In a proceeding for the removal of a sheriff for failure to qualify and give bond, a verdict containing a negative pregnant held insufficient to support a judgment in favor of defendant. State v. Box, 34 C. A. 435, 78 S. W. 982.

Conviction of part of defendants.—In a proceeding to remove several officers charged with conspiracy to embezzle funds, one or more of the defendants may be convicted. Eberstadt v. State, 20 C. A. 164, 49 S. W. 654.

Art. 6044. [3545] Citation, how and when to issue.—After the filing of such petition, the person or persons so filing the same shall make a written application to the district judge for an order for a citation and a certified copy of the said petition to be served on the officer against whom the petition is filed, requiring him at a certain day named, which day shall be fixed by the judge, to appear and answer to the said petition; and until such order is granted and entered upon the minutes of the court (if application is made during term time) no action whatever shall be had thereon; and, if the judge shall refuse to issue the order so applied for, then the petition shall be dismissed at the cost of the relator, and no appeal or writ of error shall be allowed from such action of the judge. [R. S. 1879.]

Dismissal at relator's cost.—Should the person presenting the petition not appear to be competent, the judge may refer the application at his cost. Bland v. State (Civ. App.) 1879.

Art. 6045. [3546] Application made in vacation.—If the application for said citation is made to the judge in vacation, he shall indorse his action, whatever it may be, on such petition, and shall order it spread on the minutes of the court at the next ensuing term. [R. S. 1879.]

Art. 6046. [3547] Citation shall issue.—Upon the order being granted, and, if granted during term time, also spread upon the minutes, the clerk shall issue the citation, accompanied with a certified copy of the petition. [Id.]
Art. 6047. [3548] Time to answer.—In no case whatever shall the period fixed by the judge in his order, in which the officer is to answer, be less than five days from the date of such service, to be computed as time is computed in other civil suits. [Id.]

Art. 6048. [3549] How trial shall be conducted.—The trial and all the proceedings connected therewith shall be conducted as far as it is possible in accordance with the rules and practice of the court in other civil cases. [Id.]

Attorney to prosecute case.—It is within the discretion of the district judge, in proceedings to remove a county officer, to require the district attorney to conduct the proceedings, or to appoint other attorneys for such purpose. State v. Box, 34 C. A. 435, 78 S. W. 582.

Art. 6049. [3550] May be suspended from office, how.—At any time after the issuance of the order for the citation, as herein provided, the district judge may, if he sees fit, suspend temporarily from office the officer against whom the petition is filed, and appoint for the time being some other person to discharge the duties of the office; but in no case shall such suspension take place until after the person so appointed shall execute a bond in such sum as the judge may name, with at least two good and sufficient sureties, on such conditions as the judge may see fit to impose, to pay the person so suspended from office all damages and costs that he may sustain by reason of such suspension from office, in case it should appear that the cause or causes of removal are insufficient or untrue. [Id.]

Constitutionality.—The provision of this article for the suspension without notice of an officer pending proceedings for removal from office, is not so clearly opposed to the constitution as to justify the supreme court in disregarding it, while admitting that the question is a debatable one. Griner v. Thomas, 101 T. 96, 104 S. W. 1658, 16 Ann. Cas. 944.

Where the constitution prescribes a mode for removing officers, the legislature may not authorize a removal in another mode, but a temporary suspension under this article is not a removal within that rule. Id.

Removal bars action on officer's bond.—The judgment removing an officer is a bar to an action on the bond for fees during his suspension. Eberstadt v. State ex rel. Armistead, Judge, 26 C. A. 164, 49 S. W. 664.

Exemplary damages under indemnifying bond.—Exemplary damages held not recoverable under a temporary sheriff's bond given by direction of court to secure the sheriff for all damages and costs sustained because of an unlawful suspension from office. McMuln v. Ellis (Civ. App.) 48 S. W. 217.

Art. 6050. [3551] Appeal or writ of error will lie.—An appeal or writ of error to the court of civil appeals may be sued out by either party from the final judgment in these cases as in other civil cases. [Id.]

Appeal after expiration of term.—Appeal by officer from conviction in proceeding to remove him, taken after his term has expired and new election had, will be entertained, where he was temporarily suspended and a bond for damages given. Eberstadt v. State, 26 C. A. 164, 49 S. W. 664.

Art. 6051. [3552] Bond for costs, when.—If the party has not been temporarily suspended from office, no other bond, when an appeal is taken or writ of error sued out by him, shall be necessary than a bond for all the costs that have or may accrue in the district and courts of civil appeals. [Id.]

Art. 6052. [3553] Relator to give security for costs.—On the order for citation being granted, the clerk of the district court will be authorized to demand of the relator security for costs as in other cases. [Id.]

Art. 6053. [3554] Against district attorneys, where commenced.—Proceedings under this title may be commenced against any district attorney either in the county of his residence or the county where the alleged cause of removal occurred, if in a county of his judicial district. [Id.]

Art. 6054. [3555] Criminal district attorney included in district attorney.—Under the name of "district attorney," as used in this chapter, is included the district attorney for the criminal district court of Galveston and Harris counties; and the judge of said criminal district court shall have the same power as to his removal and proceed in the same manner as the district judges of the state have in reference to all county officers. [Id.]

Art. 6055. [3556] Not to be removed for acts done prior to his election.—No officer shall be prosecuted or removed from office for any act he may have committed prior to his election to office. [Id.]

Acts prior to election.—Evidence of his acts before his election held relevant, in a proceeding to remove a county judge for official misconduct consisting of conspiracy to delay and prevent collection of school land taxes. Perry v. State, 44 C. A. 55, 98 S. W. 41.

Art. 6056. [3557] Appeal or writ of error.—In these cases, an appeal may be taken or writ of error be made returnable to the court of civil appeals, and such cause shall have precedence of the ordinary business of the court and be decided with all convenient dispatch. [Amend. 1895, Sen. Jour. p. 480.]

Art. 6057. [3558] Mandate when to issue.—When so decided, unless the judgment be for some cause set aside or suspended, the mandate of the court shall issue within five days after the judgment of the court is rendered. [R. S. 1879.]

CHAPTER THREE

REMOVAL OF CERTAIN OTHER OFFICERS

Art. 6058. [3559] Notary public, how removed.—Any notary public who shall be guilty of any willful neglect of duty or official misconduct may be indicted by the grand jury, and, on conviction, shall be removed from office. [Act June 24, 1876, p. 29, sec. 4.]

Art. 6059. [3560] Order of removal to be embodied in judgment. —The order for his removal shall in each instance be embodied in the judgment of the court.

Art. 6060. [3561] Public weigher, how removed.—Any public weigher who shall be guilty of official misconduct, or who is incompetent, shall be removed by the governor, who shall keep a record of such removal, and report the same with his reasons therefor to the next legislature. [Act March 17, 1875, p. 162, sec. 1. See Acts 1879, ch. 108, sec. 1.]

Art. 6061. [3562] Clerk supreme court, how removed.—The clerk of the supreme court shall be subject to removal by said court for good cause entered of record on the minutes of said court. [Const., art. 5, sec. 4.]

Art. 6062. [3563] Clerks of courts of appeals, how removed.—The clerks of the court of criminal appeals, and courts of civil appeals, shall be subject to removal by their respective courts for good cause entered on the minutes of the court. [Const., art. 5, sec. 6. Amend. 1895, Sen. Jour. p. 480.]

Art. 6063. [3564] Clerk of district court, how removed.—The clerk of the district court may also be removed by information or by indictment of a grand jury and conviction by a petit jury. [Const., art. 5, sec. 9.]
Art. 6064. [3565] Order of removal to be embodied in judgment.
—When so removed, the order for his removal shall be embodied in the judgment of conviction. [R. S. 1879.]

Removal of Other Officers

Assistant district attorneys.—See Art. 344.
City health officer.—See Arts. 4549, 4550.
City officers.—See Art. 796.
County auditor.—See Art. 1497.
Judge of county court of Tarrant county.—See Art. 1810.
Judge of criminal district court.—See Art. 2206.
Superintendent of lunatic asylum.—See Art. 122.

CHAPTER FOUR

REMOVAL OF MAYORS AND ALDERMEN

Art. 6065. [3566] Causes of removal.—The mayor and aldermen of any incorporated town or city may be removed from office for official misconduct, wilful violation of any of the ordinances of such town or city, habitual drunkenness, incompetency, or for such other cause as may be prescribed by the ordinances of such town or city. [Act March 6, 1875, p. 63, secs. 1, 2.]

Grounds for removal.—See, also, Arts. 6032-6034.
Refusal of mayor of city to sign checks for payment of certain claims against the city held misconduct in office. Riggins v. Richards (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 84.
A mayor held guilty of misconduct authorizing his removal by the council. Riggins v. City of Waco, 40 C. A. 569, 90 S. W. 657.
Incompetency of a mayor within a charter authorizing removal of officers for such cause defined. Id.

Art. 6066. [3567] Complaint against an alderman and proceedings thereon.—When complaint in writing and under oath, charging any alderman with any act or omission which may be cause for his removal, shall be presented to the mayor, he shall file the same and cause the alderman so charged to be served with a copy of such complaint, and shall set a day for the trial of the case, and notify the alderman so charged and the other aldermen of such town or city to appear on such day. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 6067. [3568] Who shall try an alderman.—The mayor and aldermen of such town or city, except the aldermen against whom complaint is made, shall constitute a court to try and determine the case. [Id.]

Art. 6068. [3569] Proceedings against a mayor.—When any complaint, such as is prescribed in article 6066, is made against the mayor of any incorporated town or city it shall be presented to an alderman of such town or city, who shall file the same, and cause such mayor to be served with a copy thereof, and shall set a day for the trial of the case, and notify the mayor and other aldermen to appear on such day. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 6069. [3570] Who shall try a mayor.—A majority of the aldermen shall constitute a court to try and determine the complaint against the mayor, and they shall select one of their number to preside during such trial. [Id.]

Alderman preferring charges not disqualified.—Members of a city council, who had preferred charges against the mayor, held not thereby disqualified from participating in his trial before the council. Const. art. 6, § 11. Riggins v. Richards, 97 T. 229, 77 S. W. 948.
Art. 6070. [3571] Rules which govern proceedings and trial.—The rules governing other proceedings and trials in the courts of justices of the peace, mayors and recorders shall govern in the cases provided for in this chapter.

Art. 6071. [3572] Judgment.—If two-thirds of the members of the court present, upon the trial of the case, find the defendant guilty of the charges contained in the complaint, and find that such charges are sufficient cause for removal from office, it shall be the duty of the presiding officer of the court to enter judgment, removing such mayor or alderman, as the case may be, from office, and declaring such office vacant; but, should the party charged be found not guilty, judgment shall be entered accordingly. [Id. sec. 5.]

Review by courts.—The court held not deprived of the power to inquire whether or not the council of a city exceeded its authority in attempting to remove the mayor. Riggins v. City of Waco, 100 T. 32, 93 S. W. 426.

The action of the council of a city in removing the mayor for misconduct, after a hearing, will not be disturbed where the court cannot say that there was no evidence which the council, acting fairly, might not find sufficient to sustain the charges. Id.

Art. 6072. [3573] Officer removed ineligible for two years.—Any officer removed under the provisions of this chapter shall not be eligible to re-election to the same office for two years from the date of such removal. [Id.]

Art. 6073. [3574] This chapter does not apply, when.—The provisions of this chapter shall not apply to any town or city, except such as are incorporated under the general laws of this state. [Id.]

CHAPTER FIVE

REMOVAL OF OFFICERS GUILTY OF NEPOTISM

Art. 6074. Officers guilty of nepotism to be removed from office.

Art. 6075. Removals; proceedings.

Art. 6076. Suits by attorney general; venue.

Art. 6077. Attorney general to be assisted by district or county attorney.

Article 6074. Officers guilty of nepotism; removal of.—In addition to any other penalty imposed by law, any person who shall violate any of the provisions of the law contained in the Penal Code relating to the offense known as nepotism, and the inhibited acts connected therewith, shall be removed from his office, clerkship, employment or duty, as herein mentioned. [Acts 1909, p. 85, sec. 6, par. 2.]

Art. 6075. Removals; proceedings.—Such removal from office shall be made in conformity to the provisions of the constitution of this state concerning removal from office in all cases to which they may be applicable. All other removals from office under the provisions of this law shall be by quo warranto proceedings. All removals from any such position, clerkship, employment or duty aforesaid shall be summarily made, forthwith, by the appointing power in the particular instance, whenever the judgment of conviction in a criminal prosecution in the particular case shall become final; provided, that, if such removal be not so made within thirty days after such judgment of conviction shall become final, the person holding such position, clerkship or employment, or performing such duty, may be removed therefrom as herein provided with reference to removal from office. [Id.]

Art. 6076. Suits by attorney general; venue.—All quo warranto proceedings mentioned shall be instituted by the attorney general in one of the district courts of Travis county, or in the district court of the county in which the defendant may reside; and concurrent jurisdiction in such suits is hereby conferred upon such courts. [Id.]
Art. 6077. Attorney general to be assisted by district or county attorney.—In such suits, the district attorney, or the county attorney of the county in which such suit may be filed, shall assist the attorney general whenever he shall so direct. [Id.]

DECISIONS RELATING TO OFFICERS IN GENERAL

Nature of office.—Office is property, and the legal incumbent is entitled to its emoluments during the term for which he was elected. State v. Owens, 63 T. 261; Bastrop County v. Hearn, 70 T. 563, 8 S. W. 302.

Resignation.—Acceptance of a second office is a resignation of the first. State v. De Gress, 63 T. 387.
OFFICIAL BONDS

THE RECORD OF OFFICIAL BONDS AND THE RELIEF OF SURETIES THEREON

Article 6078. [3575] Official bonds to be recorded.—All official bonds of county officers that are required by law to be approved by the commissioners' court, and which have been so approved, shall be recorded by the clerk of the county court in a book kept for that purpose.

Delay in filing bond.—The fact that an officer's bond was not delivered to the county judge for approval and filing until more than 20 days after he had received his certificate of election will not render such bond void. McFarlane v. Howell, 16 C. A. 246, 43 S. W. 315.

Art. 6079. [3576] Sureties on, to be relieved.—Any surety on any official bond of any county officer may apply to the commissioners' court of the county to be relieved from his bond, and the clerk of the county court shall thereupon issue a notice to said officer, and a copy of the application, which shall be served upon said officer by the sheriff or any constable of the county. [Act Aug. 12, 1876, p. 132, sec. 1.]

Waiver of application and notice.—The application and notice are for the benefit of the officer and may be waived by him. Kempner v. County of Galveston, 73 T. 216, 11 S. W. 188.

Art. 6080. [3577] Officer shall cease to act, etc.—Upon the service of such notice, said officer so notified shall cease to exercise the functions of his office, except to preserve any records or property committed to his charge, and in case of sheriffs and constables, to keep prisoners, preserve the peace and execute warrants for the arrest of persons charged with offenses. [Id.]

Art. 6081. [3578] Must give new bond.—Said officer so notified shall give a new bond within twenty days from the time of receiving such notice, or his office shall become vacant. [Id.]

Validity of new bond given without notice.—A new bond made by the officer without the formal notice is legal and binding upon the principal and sureties. Kempner v. County of Galveston, 73 T. 216, 11 S. W. 188.

Art. 6082. [3579] Discharge of sureties.—If a new bond be given and approved, the former sureties shall be discharged from any liability for the misconduct of the principal after the approval of such new bond. [Id. sec. 2.]

When sureties released.—The sureties on the bond of a tax collector are not discharged until the new bond is approved by the comptroller of the state. State v. Wells, 61 T. 563.

Upon the death of one of the sureties upon the bond of a tax collector the county commissioners ordered the execution of a new bond. A new bond was made and approved by the county court, and was transmitted to the comptroller, and was by him rejected. The county court made no order removing the collector, and he continued in office. Held, the sureties on the first bond were not discharged by the proceedings looking to a new bond. Approving State v. Wells, supra. A like rule exists when a new bond is ordered by the county commissioners upon their own motion as when upon application of a surety to be relieved. Suits against heirs of one of the sureties—assets and no administration alleged, defendant only demurs; held not error to render judgment against the heirs, to be satisfied out of assets subject to execution. Finch v. State, 71 T. 52, 9 S. W. 85.
CHAPTER TWO OF OBTAINING NEW SURETIES ON OFFICIAL BONDS

Art. 6083. Commissioners' court may require new bond, etc.

Article 6083. [3580] Commissioners' court may require new bond, etc.—In all cases where by law the commissioners' court is required to approve the bond of any of the officers of their several counties, it shall be their duty, whenever they shall become satisfied that said bonds from any cause are insufficient, to require new bonds or additional sureties to be given, as the case may require. [Act July 22, 1876, p. 54, sec. 17.]

Release of sureties on old bond.—See note under Art. 6082.

Art. 6084. Officer to be cited.—The said court shall cause the officer whose bond is complained of to be cited to appear at a term of their court not less than five days after service of said citation, and shall take such action thereon as they may deem best for the interest of the state and county. [Id.]

Art. 6085. No appeal allowed.—From the decision of the commissioners' court in reference to said official bond no appeal shall be allowed, and their decision shall be final and conclusive.

DECISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT IN GENERAL

Form of bond.—See, also, the articles dealing with bonds of particular officers.

It is a general rule that a statutory bond, to be valid as such, must strictly conform in every essential particular to the statute. But if the bond is in substantial compliance with the statute, or if the substituted words make the obligation less onerous, an action may be maintained on the bond. Mays v. Lewis, 4 T. 1; Hanks v. Horton, 5 T. 103; Lawton v. State, 5 T. 270; Warren v. State, 21 T. 510; James v. Reynolds, 2 T. 250; Johnson v. Erskine, 9 T. 1; L., I. M. & C. Co. v. Roberts, 62 T. 615; Wooters v. Smith, 56 T. 198; Eichoff v. Tidball, 61 T. 421; Dignan v. Shields, 51 T. 322; King v. Frazer, 2 App. C. C. § 788; Walker v. Bennett, 1 App. C. C. § 649; Seeligson v. De Witt County, 1 App. C. C. § 826.

For what acts sureties responsible.—See, also, the articles dealing with bonds of particular officers.

Sureties on bond of public officer held liable for all defaults of the officer within the limit of what the law authorizes or enjoins upon him as such officer, but not for acts not done in his official capacity. Gold v. Campbell, 54 C. A. 269, 117 S. W. 482.

Acts of officers "virtute officii" and "colore officii," defined. Id.
TITLE 100
PARDON ADVISERS—BOARD OF

CHAPTER ONE
POWERS AND DUTIES OF BOARD

Art. 6086. Governor to appoint—The governor is hereby authorized to appoint two qualified voters of the state of Texas, and who shall perform such duties as may be directed by him consistent with the constitution, as he may deem necessary in disposing of all applications for pardon. The said two voters shall be known as the board of pardon advisers, and shall be paid out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated a salary of two thousand dollars each per annum on monthly vouchers approved by the governor. [Amended Acts 1905, p. 68.]

Art. 6087. Shall keep record.—Said board shall be required to keep a record, in which will be entered every case sent it by the governor, giving the docket number of the convict, his name, when and where convicted, his sentence, his offense, when received from the governor, the action taken by said board, and the date of said action. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 6088. Shall examine applications for pardons, etc.—Said board shall be given a room in the capitol, properly furnished with necessary furniture and file cases, and provided with such stationery, letter books and other appliances which may be necessary for the speedy and proper transaction and dispatch of the business for which it is organized. In addition to the thorough examination of each application which the governor may refer to said board, and reporting its recommendation thereon to him, it shall perform any other work in connection with said business the governor may direct; and said board shall spend such time each year as may be necessary in personally looking into the condition of such convicts as it may desire, or as may be designated by either the governor, the superintendent of penitentiaries, or either of his assistants, or by the prison physician, or either of the commissioners, giving special attention to the cases of those of long service, who may be thus designated, and who have no means or facilities for getting a proper petition before the governor, to the end that the board may have before it such data as will enable it to judge the condition of each. All cases shall be taken up, considered and acted upon by said board in the regular order of reference by the governor, except when it appears to said board there is extraordinary emergency in any case. Article 6088a. Indeterminate sentences of persons convicted of certain felonies.—That whenever any person seventeen years of age or over shall be on trial for any felony, the jury trying said cause shall not only ascertain whether or not said person is guilty of the offense charged in the indictment, but shall also in the verdict assess the punishment or penalty within the period of time fixed by law as the maximum and minimum penalty for such offense, provided, if the jury shall assess the punishment for such offense at a longer period of time than the minimum period of imprisonment in the penitentiary for such offense, then the judge presiding in such cause, in passing sentence on such person, instead of pronouncing a definite time of imprisonment in the penitentiary on such person so convicted, he shall pronounce upon such person an indeterminate sentence of imprisonment in the penitentiary, fixing in such sentence the minimum and maximum terms thereof, fixing in said sentence as the minimum time of imprisonment in the penitentiary the time now or hereafter prescribed by law as the minimum time of imprisonment in the penitentiary, and as the maximum time of such imprisonment the term fixed by the jury in their verdict as punishment for such offense; provided, that if the punishment assessed by the jury shall be by pecuniary fine only, or imprisonment in the county jail, or both fine and imprisonment in the county jail, then the provisions of this act shall not apply. [Acts 1913, S. S., p. 4, sec. 1, superseding Acts 1913, p. 262, sec. 1.]

Art. 6089. Convicts paroled, when.—Meritorious prisoners who are now or may hereafter be in prison under a sentence to penal servitude may be allowed to go upon parole, outside of the building and jurisdiction of the penitentiary authorities subject to the provisions of this act, and to such regulations and conditions as may be made by the board of prison commissioners, with the approval of the governor of this state, and such parole shall be made only by the governor, or with his approval. [Article 6089, Rev. St. 1911. Acts 1911, p. 64, sec. 1. Acts 1913, S. S., p. 4, sec. 2, amending Acts 1913, p. 262, sec. 2.]

Note.—This article amends Acts 1913, p. 262, sec. 2, which superseded Art. 6089, Rev. St. 1911, and, it would seem, Acts 1911, p. 64, sec. 1, which reads as follows: "The board... of prison commissioners shall have power to make, establish and amend rules and regulations, subject to the approval of the governor, under which meritorious prisoners, who are now or hereafter may be imprisoned under a sentence to penal servitude, and who may have served the minimum term fixed by statute, for commission of offenses of which they were convicted, may be allowed to go upon parole outside the buildings and jurisdiction of the penitentiary authorities, subject to the exceptions hereinafter contained."
See amendment to constitution, adopted November 5, 1912 (Art. 17, § 58), ante, p.
lxxix.

Art. 6090. Paroled prisoners to remain under control of board of prison commissioners; retaking; warrants.—While on such parole such prisoners shall remain under the control of the board of prison commissioners and subject at any time to be taken back within the physical possession and control of the said board of prison commissioners as under the original sentence, but such retaking shall be at the direction of the governor, and all orders and warrants issued by said board of prison commissioners under such authority for the retaking of such prisoners shall be sufficient warrants for all officers named therein to return to actual custody and parole convicts, and it is hereby made the duty of all officers to execute such orders as ordinary criminal processes.
[Article 6090, Rev. St. 1911. Acts 1911, p. 64, sec. 2. Acts 1913, S. S., p. 4, sec. 3, amending Acts 1913, p. 262.]
See amendment to constitution, adopted November 5, 1912 (Art. 17, § 58), ante, p.
lxxix.

Art. 6090a. Meetings of commissioners; prisoner may apply for parole or discharge, when.—The board of prison commissioners shall meet at each of the prisons of this state from time to time, as they shall deam necessary. At each meeting of said board held at any prison in this state, every prisoner confined in said prison whose minimum sentence has expired shall be given an opportunity to appear before said board and apply for his release upon parole or for an absolute discharge as hereinafter provided, and said board is hereby prohibited from entertaining any other form of application or petition for the release upon parole or absolute discharge of any prisoner; provided, that any prisoner now serving or who may hereafter be sentenced to serve a term of imprisonment in the state penitentiary shall be paroled, if the prisoner so desires, three months before the expiration of his term of servvice, after deducting from his sentence all commutations for good behavior, and such parole shall extend until such prisoner shall violate the parole rules or the expiration of such prisoner's original term of imprisonment, unless terminated by the restoration of citizenship by the governor. [Acts 1911, p. 64, sec. 3.]

Art. 6091. Record of prisoner; transfer to other place of confinement; copy.—The wardens or sergeants or guards of such prisoners, or who have in custody convicts subject to parole under this act, shall cause to be kept at such prison or place of confinement at which such convicts are confined an accurate record of each prisoner therein confined upon sentence, as aforesaid, which record shall include a biographical sketch covering such items as may indicate the cause of the criminal character or conduct of the prisoner, and also a record of the demeanor, education and labor of the prisoner while confined thereat, and whenever such prisoner is transferred from one prison or place of confinement to another, a copy of such record or an abstract of the substance thereof, together with certified copy of the sentence of such prisoner shall be transmitted with such prisoner to the prison or place of confinement to which he shall be transferred and delivered to the prison officer in charge thereof and retained by him as a part of the record of such pris-
Acts 1913, p. 262.]

Note.—This article and articles 6091a and 6091b would seem to supersede Art. 6091, Rev. St. 1911, which was substantially re-enacted by Acts 1913, p. 262, sec. 3. Section 3 in Acts 1913, p. 262, reads as follows: "No convict confined in the Texas penitentiaries shall be considered eligible for parole, and no application for parole shall be considered by the prison commissioners until such prisoner is recommended as worthy of such con-
Art. 6091a  PARDON ADVISERS—BOARD OF consideration by a chaplain of the penitentiaries, and, before consideration by the prison commissioners, notice of such recommendation shall be published in a newspaper in the county from which such prisoner was sentenced, and, if none be there published, then in the county whose county site is nearest thereto, provided the expense of such publication shall not exceed one dollar; and in no case shall any prisoner be paroled, unless there is in the judgment of the prison commissioners reasonable ground to believe that he will, if released, live and remain at liberty, without violating the law, and that his release is not incompatible with the welfare of society; and such judgment shall be based upon the record and character of the prisoner established in prison, and his general reputation for honesty and peace prior to conviction. And no petition or other form of application for the release of any prisoner shall be entertained by the said commission, and no attorney or outside persons of any kind shall be allowed to appear before the prison commissioners as applicants for the parole of a prisoner. But these requirements shall not prevent the said prison commissioners from making such inquiries as they may deem desirable in regard to the previous history or environment of such prisoner, and in regard to his probable surroundings if paroled; but such inquiries shall be instituted by the prison commissioners, superintendent, and assistant superintendent, board of par­donors, and all such information thus received shall be considered and treated as con­fidential."

Art. 6091a. Report by wardens as to prisoners entitled to parole.—It shall be the duty of the wardens of such prisoners to make or cause to be made to the board of prison commissioners a written report based upon the record of such prisoner as to whether or not such prisoner shall be paroled or pardoned, and such report shall be made with reference to each prisoner in charge of such warden, and shall give the reasons for such recommendations as are made, and if no recommendations are made the report shall so state, such reports to be made semi­annually. [Acts 1911, p. 64. Acts 1913, S. S., p. 4, sec. 5, amending Acts 1913, p. 262.]

See note under Art. 6091.

Art. 6091b. Action of prison commissioners on reports of wardens. —It shall be the duty of the board of prison commissioners to receive and preserve said reports and recommendations provided for in this act, and to consider the same and to approve or disapprove the same within three months after the same are received and to transmit a report of such recommendations for parole or pardon as they approve to the governor of this state without delay. [Acts 1911, p. 64. Acts 1913, S. S., p. 4, sec. 6, amending Acts 1913, p. 262.] See note under Art. 6091.

Art. 6091c. Commissioners may authorize release on parole, when. —If it shall appear to said board of prison commissioners, from a report by the warden or sergeant of such prison, or upon an application by a convict for release on parole as hereinbefore provided, that there is reasonable probability that such applicant will live and remain at liberty without violating the law, then said board of prison commissioners may authorize the release of such applicant upon parole, and such applicant shall thereupon be allowed to go upon parole outside of said prison walls and enclosure, upon the terms and conditions as said board shall prescribe, but to remain while so on parole in the legal custody and under the control of the said board of prison commissioners until the expiration of the maximum term specified in his sentence as hereinbefore provided, or until his absolute discharge as hereinafter provided. [Acts 1911, p. 64, sec. 5.]

Art. 6091d. Warrant for retaking of prisoner.—If such board of prison commissioners, or any two members thereof, shall have reasonable cause to believe that a prisoner so on parole has violated his parole and has lapsed or is probably about to lapse into criminal ways or company, then such board, or any two members thereof, may issue their warrant for the retaking of such prisoner, at any time prior to the maximum period for which such prisoner might have been confined within the prison walls upon his sentence, which time shall be specified in such warrant. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 6091e. Warrant, how executed; fees.—Any officer of said prison, or any officer authorized to serve criminal process within this state.
to whom such warrant shall be delivered, is authorized and required to execute said warrant by taking said prisoner and returning him to said prison within the time specified in said warrant. Such officer, other than an officer of the prison, shall be entitled to receive the same fees therefor as upon the execution of a warrant of arrest at the place where said prisoner shall be retaken, and as for transporting a convict from the place of arrest to the prison, in case such officer also transports said prisoner to the prison. Such fees of the officer in executing said warrant shall be paid by the prison commissioners out of the funds of the prison. [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 6091f. Board to be notified of warrant; prisoner declared delinquent, when; imprisonment.—At the next meeting of the board of prison commissioners held at such prison after the issuing of the warrant for the retaking of any paroled prisoner said board shall be notified thereof. If said prisoner shall have been returned to said prison after said period, he shall be given an opportunity to appear before said board and the said board may after such opportunity has been given, or in case said prisoner has not been returned, declare said prisoner to be delinquent, and he shall, whenever arrested by virtue of such warrant, be thereafter imprisoned in said prison for a period equal to the unexpired maximum term of sentence of such prisoner at the time of such delinquency is declared, unless sooner released on parole or absolutely discharged by the board of prison commissioners. [Id. sec. 8.]

Note.—A part of the subject-matter of this article was carried into section 4 of Acts 1913, p. 262, and on the amendment of that act by Acts 1913, S. S., p. 4, it was omitted. Section 4 of Acts 1913, p. 262, reads as follows: "Any prisoner violating the conditions of his parol, as prescribed by rules issued by said commissioners, when by a formal order entered in the proceedings of same, he is declared delinquent, shall thereafter be treated as an escaped prisoner, owing service to the state, and shall be liable when arrested to serve out the unexpired period, and the time from the date of his declared delinquency to the date of his arrest shall not be counted as any part or portion of time served. Any prisoner at large on parole committing a fresh crime, and, upon conviction thereof, being sentenced anew to the penitentiary, shall be subject to serve a second sentence after the first sentence is served or annulled, to commence from the date of termination of his liability upon the first or former sentence." The effect of the omission from the amendatory act of the subject-matter in question may present a matter for judicial construction.

Art. 6091g. Absolute discharge, when.—If it shall appear to the said board of prison commissioners that there is a reasonable probability that any prisoner so on parole will live and remain at liberty without violating the law, and that his absolute discharge from imprisonment is not incompatible with the welfare of society, then said board of prison commissioners shall issue to such prisoner an absolute discharge from imprisonment upon such sentence and which shall be effective therefor. [Id. sec. 9.]

Art. 6091h. Power of pardon or commutation not impaired.—Nothing herein contained shall be construed to impair the power of the governor of this state to grant pardon or commutation in any case. [Id. sec. 10.]

Art. 6091i. Commissioners to appoint agent or inspector; duties. Said board of prison commissioners shall appoint an agent or inspector whose duty it shall be to aid and secure proper employment for all prisoners who have so conducted themselves as to be entitled to get out from such prison on parole, and to keep the said board informed of the conduct of such prisoner when out on parole, and to make a report as to each prisoner in such matters on the first day of each month for the preceding month. [Id. sec. 11.]

Art. 6091j. Parole of prisoners serving under indeterminate sentence; continuance of supervision.—Whenever any prisoner serving an indeterminate sentence, as provided in section 1 [Art. 6088a] of this Act shall have served for twelve months, on parole, in a manner acceptable to the board of prison commissioners, the said board shall certify such fact to the governor, with the recommendation that the said prisoner be pardoned and finally discharged from the sentence under which he is serving. But it shall be the duty of the prison commission to continue its supervision and care over such paroled prisoner until such time as the governor shall pardon and finally discharge from custody the said prisoner; provided, that in no case shall any prisoner be held for a longer term than the maximum provided by the sentence for the crime of which the said prisoner was convicted. [Acts 1913, S. S., p. 4, sec. 7, amending Acts 1913, p. 262, sec. 5.]

Arts. 6092, 6093. These articles were superseded by Acts 1911, p. 64, secs. 12 and 13. The last-named sections seem to have been in turn superseded by Acts 1913, p. 262, sec. 2. The last-named act was amended by Acts 1913, S. S., p. 4, and the subject-matter of articles 6092, 6093, was omitted from the amendatory act.

Art. 6094. Superseded. The subject-matter of this Article was carried into Acts 1911, p. 64, sec. 14, and into Acts 1913, p. 262, sec. 4, but it was omitted from Acts 1913, S. S., p. 4, which in terms amended Acts 1913, p. 262.

Art. 6095. Restoration of citizenship.—When a convict who has been paroled shall have complied with the rules and conditions governing his parole until the end of the term to which he was sentenced, and without a revocation of his parole, he shall, upon a written or printed discharge from the superintendent and prison commissioners, setting forth these facts, be recommended by the board to the governor for restoration of his citizenship by the governor of the state of Texas. [Art. 6095, Rev. St. 1911. Acts 1911, p. 64, sec. 15. Acts 1913, S. S., p. 4, sec. 8, amending Acts 1913, p. 262, sec. 6.]

Art. 6095a. Application of Art. 6217 to prisoners not paroled under this act.—If a prisoner, sentenced to the penitentiary, shall not be paroled under the provisions of this Act, or if he shall only be sentenced to serve the minimum term of imprisonment fixed by law, then article 6217 of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas shall apply to his sentence, and he shall be entitled to such commutation or reduction of time as in said article provided under the conditions therein named. [Id. sec. 9.]

Art. 6095b. Laws repealed.—No provision of this law shall in any manner be held to in anywise repeal, limit or affect in any manner the provisions of chapter seven (7) of the Acts of the thirty-third legislature [Arts. 6095c-6095j], providing for suspension of sentence in certain cases, and the provisions of said chapter 7 of the Acts of the thirty-third legislature shall apply to the trial of all cases under the conditions therein stipulated, and not specifically exempted from the operation thereof by the terms of said law. [Id. sec. 10.]

Art. 6095c. Suspended sentence.—That when there is a conviction of any felony in any district court of this state, except murder, perjury, burglary of a private residence, robbery, arson, incest, bigamy and abortion, the court shall suspend sentence upon application made therefor in writing by the defendant, which shall be sworn to and filed before the trial begins, when the punishment assessed by the jury shall not exceed five years confinement in the penitentiary; and in all cases where defendant is charged with felonies other than those named in section 1 hereof [this article], when the defendant has no counsel, it shall be the duty of the court to inform the defendant of his right to make such application, and the court shall appoint counsel to prepare and present same if desired by defendant; provided, that in no case shall sentence be suspended except when the proof shall show and the jury shall find in their verdict that the defendant has never before been convicted of a felony in this state or any other state. This Act is not to be construed as preventing the jury from passing on the guilt or innocence of the defendant, but he may enter his plea of not guilty at the same time with said affidavit. [Acts 1911, p. 67, superseded. Acts 1913, p. 8, sec. 1.]

Constitutionality of prior act.—Const. art. 4, § 11, provides that, in all criminal cases except treason and impeachment, the governor shall have power after conviction to grant reprieves, and pardons, commutations of punishment, and悬dons, etc., on condition, that the district court judges may in prosecutions for certain offenses at defendant’s request submit to the jury the issue as to whether or not the defendant has ever been charged with or convicted of crime, and, if the jury finds that he has not been so charged or convicted, the sentence is to be suspended. Such suspension is for an indefinite time with the power in the court to revoke on a violation of a requirement of good behavior, and compel the convict to undergo the penalty of the original sentence, or on good behavior for a time equal to the period of the sentence, to bring the pardon, a suspension, and set aside and annul the former judgment. Held, that a pardon is an act of grace which exempts an individual on whom it is bestowed from the punishment the law inflicts for a crime which he has committed, and, although the word “pardon” is not used in the statute, as that is the effect of the constitutional provision prohibiting the exercise of powers delegated to one of the departments of government by either of the other two departments. Snodgrass v. State (Cr. App.) 150 S. W. 162, 41 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1144.

Such act is invalid as in contravention of Const. art. 16, § 2, which commands the legislature to enact laws to exclude from office, serving on juries, and the right of suffrage, those convicted of bribery, perjury, forgery, or other high crimes. Id.

Such act is not valid as an exercise of the court’s power to grant a new trial, as it does not constitute another trial of the defendant, but rather a discharge irrespective of the fact that guilt has been established in a court of competent jurisdiction beyond question, and as it contemplates action by the court at a time after the end of the term at which the judgment was entered, since under Acts 2023, 2025, no court may grant a new trial or change its judgment at a subsequent term. Id.

Such act is unconstitutional in authorizing district courts to suspend sentences in certain cases as an invasion of the right to “reprieve” or grant “commutations of punishment,” Const. art. 4, § 11, and suspends the execution of a sentence to a day certain, whereas a “suspension” is for an indefinite time, and a “commutation” is the changing of the punishment assessed to a less punishment (citing 7 Words and Phrases, pp. 6115, 6116). Id.

Under Const. art. 5, § 5, which gives the right of appeal only under such regulations and restrictions as the legislature may prescribe, Acts 32d Leg. c. 44, is not unconstitutional as a suspension of the right of appeal, as the legislature has that power. Id.

The word “conviction,” in Const. art. 4, § 11, which provides that in all criminal cases, except treason and impeachment, the governor shall have power after conviction to grant reprieves, commutations of punishment, and pardons, etc., means simply the determination of guilt by the jury, and does not embrace the sentence, so that a person becomes subject to pardon whenever that issue is finally determined, and a court has no inherent authority by postponement of sentence to relieve a person legally convicted of crime of the punishment fixed by law, and Acts 32d Leg. c. 44, is not constitutional as within that power. Id.

Const. art. 1, § 28, provides that no law shall be suspended except by the legislature itself. Held, Acts 32d Leg. c. 44, is unconstitutional as an authorization to the district courts to suspend a law or right of appeal. Snodgrass v. State (Cr. App.) 150 S. W. 178.

Such act confera upon the district courts the discretionary power not only to grant a “suspension,” which is an indefinite suspension, but also to set aside a conviction and restore the convict to all his rights, which is an essential element of the pardoning power, and it is unconstitutional as an invasion of the governor’s prerogative. Id.

Art. 6095d. Testimony as to defendant’s reputation and criminal history.—The court shall permit testimony and submit the question as to the general reputation of defendant to enable the jury to determine whether to recommend the suspension of sentence, and as to whether the defendant has ever before been convicted of a felony; such testimony shall be heard and such question submitted only upon the request in writing by the defendant; provided, that in all cases sentence shall be suspended if the jury recommends it in their verdict. Provided further, that in such cases, neither the verdict of conviction nor the judgment entered thereon shall become final, except under the conditions and in the manner and at the time provided for by section 4 [Art. 6095f] of this Act. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 6095e. Form of judgment; “good behavior” defined.—When sentence is suspended the judgment of the court on that subject shall be that sentence of the judgment of conviction shall be suspended during the good behavior of the defendant. By the term “good behavior” is meant that the defendant shall not be convicted of any felony during the time of such suspension. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 6095f. Conviction of other felony; pronouncement of sentence.—Upon the final conviction of the defendant of any other felony, pending the suspension of sentence, the court granting such suspension shall cause a capias to issue for the arrest of the defendant, if he is not then in the custody of such court, and upon the execution of a capias, and during a term of the court shall pronounce sentence upon the original judgment of conviction, and shall cumulate the punishment of the first with the punishment of any subsequent conviction or convictions, and in such cases no new trial shall be granted in the first conviction. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 6095g. Expiration of suspension period; disposition of cause; effect of judgment of conviction.—In any case of suspended sentence, as provided herein, upon the expiration of the time assessed as punishment by the jury, the defendant may make his written and sworn application for a new trial and dismissal of such case, stating therein that since such former trial and conviction, he has not been convicted of any felony, and that there is not now pending against him any felony charge, which application shall be heard by the court during the first term time after same is filed, and, if it shall appear to the court, upon the hearing of such application, that the defendant has not been convicted of any other felony and that there is not then pending against him any other charge of felony, the court shall enter an order reciting the fact, and shall grant the defendant a new trial and shall then dismiss said cause; provided, further, that if the defendant is prevented from physical disability or other good cause from applying to the court to have the judgment of conviction set aside at the time provided for, he may make such application at the first term when such physical disability or other good cause no longer exists. After the setting aside and dismissal of any judgment of conviction as herein provided for, the fact of such conviction shall not be shown or inquired into for any purpose, except in cases where the defendant has been again indicted for a felony and invokes the benefit of this Act. [Id. sec. 5.]

Art. 6095h. Pendency of other charge; extension of suspension period.—If at the expiration of the time assessed by the jury as punishment, there be pending against the defendant any other charge of felony, the court shall, upon application of the defendant, (which shall be in writing, and shall state under his oath that he is not guilty of such charge), further suspend the sentence to await the final disposition of such other prosecution. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 6095i. Release on recognizance.—When sentence is suspended the defendant shall be released upon his recognizance in such sum as may be fixed by the court during such suspension. [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 6095j. Laws repealed.—That all laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed. [Id. sec. 8.]
PARTITION

[See Estates of Decedents, Title 52, Chapter 26.]

CHAPTER ONE

PARTITION OF REAL ESTATE

Art. 6096. Joint owner may compel partition.—Any joint owner or claimant of any real estate, or of any interest therein, may compel a partition thereof between the other joint owners or claimants thereof, in the manner provided in the succeeding articles of this chapter. [R. S. 1879.]

Jurisdiction, parties and petition.—See Art. 6097 and notes.

Property and estates therein subject to partition.—There can be no partition between an owner and one having no interest. Davis v. Agnew, 67 T. 206, 2 S. W. 43, 376.

As to the power of the court to partition land between joint owners, see Moore v. Blagge, 91 T. 151, 28 S. W. 979, 41 S. W. 465.

On declaring a trust in land acquired by defendant as plaintiffs' attorney under an agreement for an equal division of the recovery, held proper to decree partition. Henyan v. Trevino (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 458.

This article authorizes any joint owner or claimant of any estate to compel a partition. Reed, Williamson v. McElroy (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 988.

Estate of decedents.—See, also, Chapters 12, 14, 18 and 26 of Title 52.

The land belonging to an estate, there being no administration pending, can be partitioned in this proceeding. Harris v. Reed, 47 T. 523.

Community property.—See, also, Arts. 3556-3559, 3612, which, however, only relate to partition after death of either husband or wife.

One who has purchased the community interest of the wife at sheriff's sale may bring suit for partition against the heirs of the husband. Wooten v. Dunlap, 20 T. 183.

Life estates and reversions or remainders.—See, also, Art. 6113.

Where a life estate extends to only a portion of a tract of land, the owner of the remaining interest, whether in fee or for life, may enforce partition. But where the right to possess the entire property exists in one holding a life estate therein, if such person has no other estate, no right to partition exists. If one, by purchase or otherwise, owns a life estate in land, and also owns a fee-simple interest in an undivided one-half thereof, he is entitled to have a partition thereof. Tieman v. Baker, 63 T. 641.

The right is given by this statute to the owner of any interest in any estate to compel a partition, and this includes the owner of a life interest. Morris v. Morris, 45 C. A. 60, 99 S. W. 874.

One claiming under a devisee in a will held not entitled to sue in partition for a tract acquired by a purchaser from testator's surviving wife, owning an undivided half in the premises as survivor and owning a life estate in the remainder under the will. McComas v. Curtis (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 594.

Grantees in a deed of trust held deprived during the life of the trust of the right to partition the property conveyed. Cage & Crow v. Perry (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 75.

Personal property.—See Chapter 2 of this title.

Partition of whole or part of property.—The husband and wife owned 2,600 acres of land in common, of which 200 acres was set apart as a homestead, and the balance sold in bankruptcy proceedings. Held, that the wife could properly maintain an action for partition of the excess over the homestead tract, without including the homestead tract in the suit. Battle v. John, 49 T. 202.
Art. 6096  PARTITION  (Title 101)

A co-tenant in several lots who has not asserted to a sale of one of them by the others is not bound to seek a partition of that lot only with the purchaser, but may join him and the other co-tenant in a suit to partition all of the lots. Ferguson v. Stringfellow & Hume, 47 C. A. 449, 106 S. W. 762.

Stale demands.—Action by cotenants for partition of lands held as tenants in common, on a basis necessary to devise any of them, the 50 years of their possession, does not embrace a stale demand. Welder v. Lambert, 91 T. 519, 44 S. W. 281.

In partition of certain alleged community property, the principle of stale demand held inapplicable to the husband's claim that a portion of the land was his separate property. Lyle v. Peacock (Civ. App.) 94 S. W. 1131.

Partition by act of parties.—See notes under Art. 6122.

Art. 6097. [3607]  Petition for and what it shall state.—Such joint owner or claimant may file his petition in the district court of the county in which the real estate sought to be partitioned, or a portion thereof, is situated, which petition shall state:
1. The names and residence, if known, of each of the other joint owners, or joint claimants, of such real estate.
2. The share or interest which the plaintiff and the other joint owners, or claimants, of said real estate own or claim so far as known to the plaintiff.
3. The real estate sought to be partitioned shall be described in such manner as that the same may be distinguished from any other real estate, and the estimated value thereof stated. [1d.]

See Richardson v. Trout (Civ. App.) 335 S. W. 677.

Juristicion.—Until the close of administration the county court has exclusive jurisdiction to decree a partition of the lands of an estate, when the title, as between the distributees, is clear, and no other party claims an interest adverse to the heirs. Branch v. Hanrick, 70 T. 731; 8 S. W. 539.

As to the jurisdiction of the district court of an ex parte proceeding in partition, see Moore v. Blagge, 34 S. W. 311.

District court held to have jurisdiction to partition estate of decedent, though an administrator with will annexed had been appointed. Robb v. Robb (Civ. App.) 41 S. W. 22.

District court held to have power to sell real property for partition. Blagge v. Shaw (Civ. App.) 41 S. W. 758.

A judgment in partition, ordering lands in two counties to be sold in one of the counties, and a sale thereunder held not subject to collateral attack, even though Acts 3751, 3752, required each tract to be sold in the county where located. Menard v. McDonald, 53 C. A. 627, 115 S. W. 63.

Parties—in general.—See, also, "Intervention," under Art. 6123.

Where in a proceeding for partition one party asserts superior title in himself, the suit is practically changed to an action of trespass to try title, and any one who claims title and asks an adjudication on an adverse interest in the land may become a party. De La Vega v. Leaque, 64 T. 265.

The purchaser of a cotenant's interest held a proper defendant in a suit by the other cotenant to specifically perform a contract between the original cotenants for partition and, in the alternative, for a partition. Ferguson v. Stringfellow & Hume, 47 C. A. 449, 106 S. W. 762.

Whether the persons named in petition for partition as the only heirs of the deceased ancestor were the only heirs held for the jury. Hess v. Webb (Civ. App.) 113 S. W. 618.

necessary parties.—In a suit for partition, all interested in the estate must be made parties. Oliver v. Robertson, 41 T. 422; Channel Co. v. Bruly, 45 T. 6; Newland v. Holland, 45 T. 588; Ellis v. Stewart (Civ. App.) 24 S. W. 585; Roller v. Reid (Sup.) 25 S. W. 624.

Devises held necessary parties to a partition suit. Shiner v. Shiner, 15 C. A. 666, 40 S. W. 439.

In a suit for partition necessary parties determined. Wipff v. Heder (Civ. App.) 41 S. W. 164.

Attorneys of a wife, having a contract requiring the wife to convey a certain interest in community property, have no vested title therein which renders them necessary parties to a suit for partition. Moor v. Moor (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 347.

In partition, where defendant was a living man, he could have no heirs who should have been made parties. Hughey v. Mosby, 51 C. A. 76, 71 S. W. 352.

Where plaintiff in partition seeks to charge defendant's interest with another tract, which they had owned equally, but which defendant sold, applying the proceeds to his own use, the purchaser of such tract was not a necessary party; no relief being asked against him. Campbell v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 835.

Effect of defect of parties.—See, also, "Petition—Parties and their interest," post.

Want of parties is not cured by failure to take action upon it in the trial. Hollew v. Melhennny Co. 77 T. 857, 14 S. W. 240; Boone v. Knox, 80 T. 642, 15 S. W. 448, 26 Am. St. Rep. 767; McKinney v. Moore, 73 T. 470, 11 S. W. 493; Franks v. Hancock, 1 U. C. 554.

Parties to a partition suit cannot complain, in an action against them to quiet title, that the partition decree is not binding by reason of the failure to make the wife of the decedent, whose property was partitioned, a party. Hail v. Reese's Heirs, 24 C. A. 221, 58 S. W. 974.
Assignee of an heir held not entitled to partition, where the wife of the ancestor was not made a party. Franklin v. Moss (Civ. App.) 64 S. W. 788.

Partition of land between heirs cannot be had after one is dismissed from the suit on her plea of coverture, where she was a necessary party thereto. Black v. Black, 95 T. 637, 69 S. W. 65.

Where in partition it becomes apparent that there are part owners of the property sought to be partitioned, who are not parties to the suit, the trial must be suspended until they are brought before the court. Hess v. Webb (Civ. App.) 113 S. W. 618.

A judgment for partition showed the shares of certain of the heirs to be shown by the evidence, and the judgment against defendant relying solely on limitations should stand, though the court erred in proceeding to decree a partition without having all of the parties in interest before it. Id.

Petition—Sufficiency in general.—In a suit brought by the heirs of the deceased mother against the administrator of the husband, who survived the will, having charge as such of the community estate, it was incumbent on plaintiffs to allege facts showing that a general distribution of the estate was ready to be made, and that, after making the partition sought for, a sufficient amount of community assets would remain in the hands of the administrator to meet all community debts. Hyatt v. Venters, 41 T. 265.

A plaintiff in partition of land in possession of defendant who denies that plaintiff is a cotenant, and who asserts sole ownership, may maintain the suit brought in the statutory form; and he need not establish his interest in the land on a pleading in the form of trespass to try title. Banks v. Blake (Civ. App.) 145 S. W. 1153.

—See, also, “Parties,” ante.

The petition should set out the title of defendants as well as of the plaintiffs, and it must appear that the parties to the suit are entitled to the entire estate; if it appears that other parties are interested in the decision, an exception to the petition should be sustained. If such facts appear from the evidence, the court should stop the case and cause such other parties to be cited before decreeing partition. Ship Channel Co. v. Bruly, 45 T. 6; De La Vega v. League, 64 T. 206. It is not necessary that the petition should aver the extent of each defendant's interest; it is sufficient to show that there is a tract of land, to the extent of which the defendants show their respective interests if they desire partition among themselves. Glasscock v. Hughes, 55 T. 461.

Plaintiffs suing in partition for the entire interests as heirs of the deceased ancestor held required to show that they are the only heirs of the ancestor. Hess v. Webb (Civ. App.) 113 S. W. 618.

A petition in partition, failing to show what had become of the interest of an heir alleged to have died, held insufficient to sustain a decree. Meide v. Meide (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 986.

In a suit by several upon equitable grounds to establish a tenancy in common with defendant, who was employed to protect their lands in severity, it was not necessary to aver and establish the specific interest claimed by each plaintiff, as would be required if plaintiffs sued as tenants in common. Henyan v. Trevino (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 453.

Joinder of actions.—In a suit by one against several defendants for partition, the plaintiff cannot join an individual claim against one of the parties interested. Oliver v. Robertson, 41 T. 422.

—Prayer.—In an action for an equitable accounting and for partition, the court may grant all the relief to which the parties may be entitled, either at law or equity, including partition, although no prayer for such relief be made in the petition. Kalteyer v. Wippf, 92 T. 673, 62 S. W. 63.

Not only is it proper under this article and Art. 6100 for the court in a partition suit to ascertain and determine the rights of the defendants and make partition between them, without any prayer for the partition thereof, whereas the latter asking that there be no partition between, thus making the judgment conclusive between them, preventing one of them thereafter claiming separate ownership against the other of land which it was decreed should be partitioned; but under any system of pleading such adjudication, with such result, is proper, where one of the defendants by his answer sets up the interest of the other in all the lands, and as to the particular tract in question prays that in case a partition it be set off to himself, because of improvements thereon made by him, and the other defendant adopts such answer so far as setting up his rights, and prays for affirmative relief, and that his title be quieted, and for general relief. Gurley v. Hainrick's Heirs (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 721.

That a petition for partition did not pray costs, and the citation did not show a claim therefor, did not prevent a sale of interests of absent defendants for costs. Cain v. Hopkins (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 834.

Where a party in partition asked that a definitely described part of the land be set apart to him, the court might, in the interest of justice, set apart other land, where his pleading also prayed for general equitable relief. Wing v. Red (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 301.

Evidence admissible under petition.—In suit for partition, evidence held such that there was no variance between proof and pleading as to the derivation of plaintiff's title. Bartell v. Kelsey (Civ. App.) 59 S. W. 63.

In partition plaintiffs are not required to allege common source of title in order to give evidence thereof. Hughes v. Mosby, 31 C. A. 76, 71 S. W. 399.

In trespass to try title and for partition, allegations in complaint held sufficient to authorize evidence that a certain defendant was liable to plaintiff for rent for the land in controversy. Ford v. Boone, 32 C. A. 550, 76 S. W. 353.

Decree authorized under petition.—See, also, "—Prayer," ante.

In such a suit for partition, on the ground that the trustees had unreasonably delayed making partition as directed by the will, that a demurrer to the petition was not acted upon, and evidence of such unreasonable delay was admitted without objection, did not authorize a judgment of partition on the ground of unreasonable delay, where such delay was not alleged. Davis v. Davis, 51 C. A. 491, 115 S. W. 948.

Property and estates therein subject to partition.—See notes under Art. 6096.

Stale demands.—See notes under Art. 6096.

Proof of proceedings and evidence.—See Art. 6123 and notes for pleading, practice and evidence not covered by the matter under this article.

Art. 6098. [3608] Citation and service.—Upon the filing of a petition for partition, the clerk shall issue citation for each of the joint owners, or joint claimants, named therein, as in other cases, and such citations shall be served in the same manner and for the same length of time provided for the service of citation in other cases. [Id.]

Parties.—See notes under Art. 6097.

Service by publication.—See Art. 6099 and notes.

Art. 6099. [3609] Citation and service where defendant is unknown.—If the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, at the commencement of any suit, or during the progress thereof, for the partition of land, shall make affidavit that an undivided portion of the land described in the plaintiff's petition in said suit is owned by some person or persons unknown to affiant, the clerk of the court shall issue a citation to the proper officer, which shall contain a brief statement of the nature of the suit, and a description of the interest of the unknown owner or owners, commanding said officer to summon such unknown owner or owners by making publication of the citation in some newspaper in the county where the writ issued, if there be a newspaper published in said county, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, for four successive weeks previous to the return day of such process; when such notice is given, and no appearance is entered within the time prescribed for pleading, the court shall appoint an attorney to defend in behalf of such owner or owners, and proceed as in other causes where service is made by publication; and it shall be the special duty of the court in all such cases to see that its decree protects the rights of the unknown parties thereto; and the judge of the court shall fix the fee of the attorney so appointed, which shall be entered and collected as costs against said unknown owner or owners. [Acts 1879, p. 46.]

Service by publication.—See, also, note under Art. 6098.

In partition, jurisdiction of joint owners of the land, who neither joined in the application for partition nor appeared, could not be obtained by service by publication. Walker v. Bray (Civ. App.) 70 S. W. 443.

Where in partition the names and residences of all the heirs of the deceased ancestor cannot be given, resort may be had to the statute authorizing service by publication on unknown heirs. Hess v. Webb (Civ. App.) 113 S. W. 619.

Lien for attorney's fee.—See note under Art. 6125.

Art. 6100. [3610] Court shall determine, what.—Upon the hearing of the cause, the court shall determine:

1. The share or interest of each of the joint owners or claimants in the real estate sought to be divided.

2. All questions of law or equity affecting the title to such real estate, or any part thereof, which may arise. [R. S. 1879.]

Jurisdiction.—See Art. 6097 and notes.

Pleading, practice and evidence.—See Art. 6123 and notes, but for the petition, the parties, and evidence admissible under the petition, see Art. 6097 and notes, and see the articles dealing with particular matters of procedure.

Questions to be determined in general.—In a suit for partition of land between partners it is proper to litigate and adjust by the decree all of the partnership transactions. Morris v. Nunn, 79 T. 125, 15 S. W. 220.

The court in partition must, as required by this article, determine all questions of law or equity affecting the title to the property involved. Miller v. Odom (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1155.

Establishing title.—In a suit for partition by the holder of the legal title, the defendants cannot defeat the plaintiff's title on the ground of a resulting trust or an equitable title in a third party, unless they show either that they had acquired that title or had some vested interest in it, and in the latter case the holder of such title must have been made a party to the suit. Portis v. Hill, 14 T. 69, 65 Am. Dec. 99; Burleson v. Burleson, 28 T. 383; Walker v. Howard, 34 T. 478; Gullett v. O'Connor, 54 T. 408; De La Vega v. League, 64 T. 205.

PARTITION

Art. 6100

The rule of common source applies, though the action is one of partition, where defendants are in title to the land. Smith v. Davis, 18 C. 568, 47 S. W. 101.

In a partition, where the deed under which defendant claimed showed common source of title, it was not necessary for plaintiffs to show title deraigned from the sovereignty of the soil. Hughley v. Mosby, 31 C. A. 75, 71 S. W. 395.

In apartition for the removal of a cloud on the title, the court held authorized to enter judgment for defendants on their cross-petition. Gray v. Tribe (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 538.

Partition between vendors retaining the legal title and a vendor's lien held not defeated by setting up the equitable title of the purchaser, acquired by foreclosure, without showing that one of the vendors had acquired and paid the purchase notes. Sbriver v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 231.

Adjustment of claims and equities.—See, also, note under Art. 6111.

In a partition, the court shall determine the interest, rights, and equities of the parties, and make such order as may be just. Schriver v. Davis, 18 C. 568, 47 S. W. 101.

In a partition, the court shall determine the interest, rights, and equities of the parties, and make such order as may be just. Schriver v. Davis, 18 C. 568, 47 S. W. 101.

Where a party is adjudged entitled to contribution from the other parties for expenses or rent, the court may order that the party be given a security for the same, or that the parties be equitably charged with such expenses or rent, or that the other party or parties be held liable for the same. Schmitter v. Dunham (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 541.

Where the conveyance by S. for the benefit of minors of part of a tract, in all of which she had an undivided interest, was not part of a partition, and the deed was conditional upon the minor's assent, the court held that it was not a conveyance for the benefit of minors. Schmitter v. Dunham (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 841.

Where a party is adjudged entitled to contribution from the other parties for expenses or rent, the court may order that the party be given a security for the same, or that the parties be equitably charged with such expenses or rent, or that the other party or parties be held liable for the same. Schmitter v. Dunham (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 541.

Manner of division in general.—See, also, Art. 6105 and notes.

In a partition, the court shall determine the interest, rights, and equities of the parties, and make such order as may be just. Schmitter v. Dunham (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 541.

Where a party is adjudged entitled to contribution from the other parties for expenses or rent, the court may order that the party be given a security for the same, or that the parties be equitably charged with such expenses or rent, or that the other party or parties be held liable for the same. Schmitter v. Dunham (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 541.

Where a party is adjudged entitled to contribution from the other parties for expenses or rent, the court may order that the party be given a security for the same, or that the parties be equitably charged with such expenses or rent, or that the other party or parties be held liable for the same. Schmitter v. Dunham (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 541.

Glauco and lien generally. —See, also, notes under Art. 6115.
equal shares, and the inequality corrected by a lien on the more valuable property in favor of the person to whom the less valuable is allotted. Moor v. Moor (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 347.

The payment of the amount so charged as a lien on the more valuable property in the case of an unequal division of community property in a partition suit is not a condition precedent to the vesting of the title of such property, but creates an incumbrance in the nature of a vendor's lien. Id.

Where community property is partitioned into unequal portions, and a charge on the portion of value is made in favor of the party receiving the lesser portion, the lien is only a charge on the property, and not a personal charge against the person to whom it is allotted. Id.

A debt of one of the parties to a partition suit, charged against the land apportioned to either party, held by a creditor of such party not made a party to the proceeding. Stone v. McGregor, 99 T. 51, 87 S. W. 334.

A party to a partition suit held not to be entitled to reimbursement on payment of a debt of his charged as equity against land apportioned to other parties, unless so entitled on adjustment of all matters between him and other parties to the suit. Id.

Grantee of specific portion.—Where one or where several hold small parcels of the estate, equity would direct that the share or shares of each and his improvements be allotted as claimed, making such title good by allotting such tracts to the cotenants from whom such purchases were made. Arnold v. Cauble, 49 T. 527.

In analogy to the rule as to the rights of purchasers of parts of a tract or tracts of land covered by an incumbrance, requiring the enforcement of the incumbrance against the last purchasers first, it would seem equitable to give preference to the elder purchaser in partition, and the more so that the later purchaser had notice of the facts of the title. Id.

A sale by one tenant in common of a distinct part of a large tract of land will be protected, and the part so sold set apart to the vendee, when it can be equitably done, if it does not exceed the share to which the cotenant vendor was entitled. Peak v. Swindle, 68 T. 242, 4 S. W. 478.

A grantee from a tenant in common of a specific portion of the tract held in common entitled on a partition to have allotted to him the specific portion conveyed. Moon v. Stover, 80 T. 110, 111 S. W. 161.

Where one tenant in common conveys a specific portion thereof, the purchaser on a partition should be allotted the portion conveyed, provided it can be done without detriment to the cotenants. Id.

Subsequent purchasers of undivided interests in land held to take subject to the right of the prior grantee of a specific portion thereof to have the specific portion allotted to him on partition. Id.

Appellants held not entitled to complain that the rule in partition that a part of the land conveyed by a common vendor to G. should be set off to him was not complied with. Bond v. Garrison (Civ. App.) 127 S. W. 839.

Improvements.—It seems to be a rule in the partition of land, where one owner has made improvements in good faith, to allot the part upon which the improvements are made to the party making them, or, if that cannot be done, then to allow compensation for such improvements. Robinson v. McDonald, 11 T. 385, 62 Am. Dec. 489; Osborn v. Osborn, 62 T. 495.

In adjusting the question of improvements between tenants in common, the land upon which improvements are made should be set apart to the tenant who made them, if it can be done without injury to the cotenants. Taylor v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 26 S. W. 889.

The decree should adjust the equities arising out of improvements, etc. Branch v. Makeig, 28 S. W. 1060, 9 C. A. 399.

A partition no equitable right to arise between children of the vendor of her half of property owned by her and her deceased husband, together with improvements thereon erected with community funds. Olschewski v. Summerville, 43 C. A. 361, 95 S. W. 1.

Where defendants owned an undivided one-half of a tract of land, and placed their improvements thereon, it is, no doubt, their half, which, if the south half, they were entitled to have the north half set off to them in partition. Baker v. Hamblen, 48 C. A. 639, 107 S. W. 577.

Persons in possession, who have made improvements on a part of land, are entitled on partition to have the part improved set off to them, if practicable. Ord v. Waller (Civ. App.) 116 T. 1166.

A tenant in common cannot make claim for improvements, where the portion of the property containing the improvements is allotted to him. Rosamond v. Rosamond, 56 C. A. 173, 120 S. W. 639.

In a suit to recover a one-half interest in land and for partition, where defendant had been adjudged entitled to a one-half interest in a prior suit, he was entitled, on the rendering of a judgment giving plaintiffs a one-half interest in the land, with a decree of partition, to be compensated for improvements made pending the suit, since as tenant in common of the tract he had a right reasonably to improve it, and to either have the improvements set apart to him or be compensated therefor. Whitmire v. Powell, 103 T. 231, 125 S. W. 889.

A tenant in common in possession, who have made improvements on a part of land, are entitled on partition to have the improvements set apart to them, on condition the court shall order the sale of the improvements thereon. 4012

Statement as to apportioning, on partition of common property, of property improved by one of the owners. Higgins v. Higgins (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 162.

The rule that where one joint owner goes into possession of the common property, and uses it thereon, the court may apportion thereto set apart to him the part so improved if it can be done without impairing the rights of the other joint owners, does not authorize the court in partition of four lots to award to one joint owner a lot permanently improved by him where the only access to the other lots is over the lot improved, and where to separate the others would seriously impair their value, and the court may order a sale of the lots. Bowen v. Hart Land & Improvement Co. (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 835.

A tenant in common, having improved land without intending to embarrass his cotenant, is entitled on partition to have the improvements set apart to him, if it can be done in justice to the cotenant; otherwise, he is entitled to compensation. Burns v. Parker (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 708.

Defendant in partition held not to have lost his right to receive the part on which he had made improvements by his deed of the legal title to the co-owner of the interest to which he had hitherto held merely an equitable title. Wentworth v. Wentworth (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 141.

Where a tenant in common occupied and improved as his homestead a part of the estate with the consent of his cotenant, he acquired a preference thereto on actual partition. Id.

A tenant in common is entitled to have improvements made by him without intent to embarrass his cotenant set apart to him in partition if it can be done without injury to the cotenant, and, if it cannot be done, he is entitled to compensation. Holloway v. Hall (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 896.

In partition, plaintiff held entitled to recover against infant defendants taxes paid by him on the land involved. Olschewskes v. Summerville, 43 C. A. 361, 95 S. W. 1.

Though taxes are imposed during the life of the life tenant, held, that they may be paid by a remainderman under such circumstances that the shares of the others may on partition be charged with their proportion thereof. Mateer v. Jones (Civ. App.) 102 S. W. 724.

Expenditures to preserve property.—A cotenant is entitled to a lien on the common property to secure a contribution for expenditures to preserve it. Hanrick v. Gurley (Civ. App.) 48 S. W. 994.

A cotenant held entitled to contribution for expenditures to preserve the property, though he had claimed to be the sole owner. Id.

A cotenant is not bound to accept additional land as reimbursement for expenditures to preserve the common property. Id.

An heir in a partition suit, seeking contribution for expenditures to preserve the property, need not account for moneys received by him as administrator of the ancestor’s estate. Id.

Where, in a proceeding to execute a Judgment of partition, making an allowance to one of the parties for an expenditure for preserving the common estate, it appears he had conveyed more than his share of the estate, held, the excess he had conveyed should be applied on the compensation judgment. Gurley v. Hanrick’s Heirs (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 721.

Rents.—A tenant in common who has put improvements upon the premises is not liable to his cotenant for the profits resulting from their use. Neil v. Shackleford, 46 T. 119.

The authorities are conflicting as to whether a tenant in common who uses the entire common property, though without claiming the right to its exclusive use, and who is not applied to by the other owners to be admitted to its enjoyment, will be liable for the value of the use, over and above the proportionate use of such tenancy in common. If, however, he rents the common property, or excludes his cotenants therefrom, under a claim of exclusive right, his cotenants are entitled to their pro rata share of the rents. Osborn v. Osborn, 62 T. 498.

In partition liens may be adjudged against the interest of a tenant who has collected the rents in favor of the cotenants. Wipff v. Heder (Civ. App.) 41 S. W. 164.

Defendants in partition held liable to plaintiff for rents accruing pending appeal and before sale on the basis of the rental value of the property. Kalteyer v. Wipff (Civ. App.) 65 S. W. 207.

In partition, plaintiff vendee of half interest in property held not entitled to recover against minor defendants rents alleged to have accrued through their occupancy of the property. Olschewskes v. Summerville, 43 C. A. 361, 95 S. W. 1.

Advancements.—In a suit to partition community property, the survivor of the community held entitled to have advancements made to certain of the children considered in determining their interests. Letot v. Peacock (Civ. App.) 94 S. W. 1121.

In action by heirs of a deceased mother for partition of community property, plaintiffs should not be required to account for the full value of advancements made to them by their deceased father out of the community property. Clements v. Maury, 50 C. A. 158, 110 S. W. 186.

Decree ordering partition.—See Art. 6101 and notes.

Division by commissioners.—See Arts. 6106-6109 and notes.

Sales in partition proceedings.—See Art. 6111 and notes.

Final decree.—See Art. 6115 and notes.

Art. 6101. [3611] Decree of the court and appointment of commissioners.—The court shall determine before entering the decree of partition whether the property, or any part thereof, is susceptible of partition; and, if the court determines that the whole of such property, or any part thereof, is susceptible of partition, then the court for that part of such property held to be susceptible of partition shall enter a decree directing the partition of such real estate, describing the same, to be made in accordance with the respective shares or interests of each of the parties entitled thereto, specifying in such decree the share or interest of each party, and shall appoint three or more competent and disinterested persons as commissioners to make such partition in accordance with such decree and the law, a majority of which commissioners may act. [R. S. 1879. Amended Acts 1905, p. 95.]

Adjustment of claims and equities.—See notes under Art. 6100.
Procedure in general.—See, also, Art. 6123 and notes.

In a partition suit the jury are not authorized to prescribe in the verdict how lands shall be divided. The verdict ascertains the rights of the parties. Decree for partition follows. Commissioners divide according to the decree, subject to the approval of the court. Reed v. Howard, 71 T. 304, 9 S. W. 109.

In a partition suit cannot prescribe how lands shall be divided, nor find that they are incapable of division. They can only find the share or interest of each claimant. Commissioners will make the division, and if the property is incapable of division the commissioners will so report, and the court can order the property sold. Kindley v. Kosub (Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 80.

Determination as to divisibility.—See, also, Art. 6111 and notes.

It is error for the court not to determine whether the land is susceptible of partition before the decree of partition is entered and commissioners appointed, but the case will not be reversed for such error, where it is manifest that partition can be made and everything is regular otherwise and that no injustice has been done. Fagan v. Fagan, 56 C. A. 175, 120 S. W. 551.

Under this article and Art. 6111, a general finding by the court in its decree that a portion of the property allotted to the defendants was not susceptible of partition was sufficient, without a recital of the testimony upon which such finding was based. Gorman v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 177.

Decree for partition—Sufficiency in general.—In an action for partition of a city lot, a portion of the lot was set apart to plaintiffs, who were husband and wife, but the court found that the property was not susceptible of partition and set it apart to the defendants, and accorded them the right of sale, if they so desired. Held, that the decree was correct and in conformity to the statute, and a defendant could not complain thereof, in the absence of a prayer in his pleading for a sale, and in the absence of a request in the portion set apart to plaintiffs was not a fair allotment. Gorman v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 177.

On decreeing partition of land, one-half of which defendant was declared to hold in trust for plaintiffs, it was error not to authorize the commissioners to consider the value of the property; defendants not having requested submission of value of the property to the jury as an issue. Henyan v. Trevino (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 493.

Under these articles a decree which provides how the shares shall be determined, and which settles all questions affecting the title, and which directs that the partition shall be made in two parts, describing part 1 and part 2, which provides for commissioners to partition, for a surveyor to assist them, and which directs the commissioners to award to one of the parties the portion of the property on which improvements are situated, provided such division can be made so as to leave such moiety of equal value when each is taken as a whole, improvements included, etc., sufficiently determines the controversy, and the commissioners must divide the land and return proper description of their work in their report, with plats, field notes, and other description necessary to designate the shares, so that the court may enter the proper decree. Wentworth v. Wentworth (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 141.

Description of land.—It is not essential that a decree ordering partition accurately describe the land. Black v. Black (Civ. App.) 67 S. W. 923.

The description in the decree for partition must be so definite as to enable the commissioners to distinguish it from other real estate. Black v. Black, 55 T. 527, 69 S. W. 66.

Construction and effect.—A decree ordering the partition of community property, which is affirmed on appeal, is a final judgment, and is conclusive on the parties as to all matters therein determined, which cannot be again raised in proceedings to confirm the report of the commissioners executing the decree of partition. Moor v. Moor (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 347.

The terms of a decree of partition held not to prevent commissioners from assigning to a widow personal property satisfactory to her in place of real property assigned by the decree. Johnson v. Franklin (Civ. App.) 76 S. W. 611.

The judgment in a partition decree that a party have a certain sum for expenditures for preserving the common estate, to be satisfied by setting aside land to him, having made no provision for interest, and there having been no provision as to the rents, held, that he, having between the decree and its execution had possession of the land, would not be allowed interest or charged rent. Gurley v. Hanrick's Heirs (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 721.

The provision in the judgment in partition making an award to one of them for expenditure for preserving the common estate held conclusive as to his sole right thereto in a proceeding to execute the judgment. Id.

Under the decree in partition, held, that land improved by one of the parties being set aside for executing the decree, he should be charged with the then value of the improvements, but not with improvements made after the decree. Id.

Under a decree in partition, held a party who had previously conveyed part of the land was to be charged with its value at the time of the decree, without regard to what he obtained for it. Id.

Appointment of commissioners.—Where the judgment in partition vested in plaintiff an undivided half interest and in defendant an undivided half interest, but adjudged a lien on the whole in favor of a third person, and adjudged a lien on plaintiff's undivided half interest in favor of defendant, the failure to appoint commissioners to partition the land was not erroneous. Miller v. Odom (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1185.

— New commissioners.—For appointment of new commissioners after rejection of the commissioners' report, see Art. 6111 and notes.
In partition, a court did not err in appointing new commissioners and surveyor to make partition, when those first appointed failed or refused to act. McShan v. Johnson
(Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 597.

Motion for new commissioners.—See note under Art. 6123.

Manner of division.—See notes under Art. 6100 and Arts. 6106-6109 and notes.

Final decree.—See Art. 6115 and notes.

Art. 6102. [3612] Writ of partition.—The clerk shall issue a writ of partition, directed to the sheriff or any constable of the county, commanding such sheriff or constable to notify each of the commissioners of their appointment as such, and shall accompany such writ with a certified copy of the decree of the court directing the partition. [R. S.
1879.]

Art. 6103. [3613] Service of writ of partition.—The writ of partition shall be served by reading the same to each of the persons named therein as commissioners, and by delivering to any one of them the accompanying certified copy of the decree of the court. [Id.]

Art. 6104. [3614] Court may also appoint surveyor.—The court may also, should it be deemed necessary, appoint a surveyor to assist the commissioners in making the partition, in which case the writ of partition shall name such surveyor, and shall be served upon him in the same manner as upon a commissioner. [Id.]

Failure to act.—Where the commissioners and surveyor first appointed failed to act,

Motion for new surveyor.—See note under Art. 6123.

Art. 6105. [3615] Writ returnable, when, and return thereof.—A writ of partition, unless otherwise directed by the court, shall be made returnable to the first day of the next term of the court from whence the same issue; and the officer serving the same shall indorse thereon the time and manner of such service. [Id.]

Art. 6106. [3616] Commissioners shall proceed to partition, etc.—
The commissioners, or a majority of them, shall proceed to partition the real estate described in the decree of the court, in accordance with the directions contained in such decree and with the provisions of this chapter. [Id.]

Notice of time and place of meeting.—Commissioners appointed to partition community property are not required to give notice to the parties of the time and place of their meeting to perform their duties. Moor v. Moor (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 347.

Failure to act.—Appointment of others.—See note under Art. 6101.

Art. 6107. [3617] May cause land to be surveyed.—Should the commissioners deem it necessary, they may cause to be surveyed the real estate to be partitioned into several tracts or parcels. [Id.]

Construction.—The words “several tracts or parcels,” as used in this article, do not have the same meaning as the word “shares” used in Art. 6108. Each share may be composed of several of the tracts or parcels into which, in the discretion of the commis-ioners, the land may be divided, and the parcels finally set aside to the respective parties may not be contiguous. Houston v. Blythe, 71 T. 719, 10 S. W. 520.

Art. 6108. [3618] Shall divide real estate, how.—The commis-ioners shall divide the real estate to be partitioned into as many shares as there are persons entitled thereto, as determined by the court, each share to contain one or more tracts or parcels, as the commissioners may think proper, having due regard in the division to the situation, quantity and advantages of each share, so that the shares may be equal in value, as nearly as may be, in proportion to the respective interests of the parties entitled. [Id.]

See Houston v. Blythe, 71 T. 719, 10 S. W. 520; Gorman v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 135
S. W. 177; Wentworth v. Wentworth, 142 S. W. 141.

Notice of time and place of meeting.—See note under Art. 6106.

View of premises unnecessary.—Where commissioners appointed to make partition inform themselves of the character and value of the land, the fact that they do not go upon the land and view it is not sufficient ground for setting aside their report. Robb v.
Robb (Civ. App.) 62 S. W. 125.

Manner of division.—See, also, notes under Art. 6100; and see Arts. 6106, 6107, 6109, and notes.

Where community property sought to be partitioned is in several parcels, the owners are not entitled to a share of each parcel, but only to an equal portion of the entire property. Moor v. Moor (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 347.
Art. 6108  PARTITION  (Title 101)

Division according to value.—On decreeing partition of land one-half of which defendant was declared to hold in trust for plaintiffs, held not error to authorize the commissioners to consider the value of the property. Henyan v. Trevino (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 468.

Under the judgment in partition, held, the land would be valued as of the date thereof as between two parties whose appeal delayed execution of the judgment. Gurley v. Hanrick's Heirs (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 721.

Under this article the duty of dividing the land as to value is confided to the commissioners, and they may divide it according to value, although the court determines that each of the parties is entitled to one-half. McShan v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 597.

Adjustment of claims and equities, improvements, etc.—See notes under Art. 6100.

Art. 6109. [3619] Shall allot shares.—The commissioners shall then proceed by lot to allot and set apart to each of the parties entitled one of said shares, as determined by the decrees of the court. [Id.]

Adjustment of claims and equities, improvements, etc.—See notes under Art. 6100.

Failure of decree to provide for assignment by lot.—Where the decree does not require the commissioners to assign the shares by lot they are not bound to do so. If there is error, it is the error of decree, and as the decree is not appealed from the error will not avail on an appeal from a judgment confirming the commissioners' report. Moor v. Moor (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 351.

Art. 6110. [3620] Report of commissioners and what it shall contain.—When the commissioners have completed the partition, they shall report the same in writing and under oath to the court, which report shall show:

1. The real estate divided, describing the same.
2. The several tracts or parcels into which the same was divided by them, describing particularly each of such tracts or parcels.
3. The number of shares and the land which constitutes each share, and the estimated value of each share.
4. The allotment of each share.
5. The report shall be accompanied by such field-notes and maps as may be necessary to make the same intelligible. [Id.]

Description of land.—See notes under Art. 6115.

Art. 6111. [3621] When property is incapable of division, same shall be sold, etc.—Should the court be of the opinion that a fair and equitable division of the real estate, or any part thereof, can not be made, it shall order a sale of so much of such real estate as is incapable of partition, which sale shall be for cash, or upon such other terms as the court may direct, and shall be made as under execution, or by private sale through a receiver, if the court so order, and the proceeds thereof shall be returned into court and be partitioned among the persons entitled thereto, according to their respective interests. [R. S. 1879. Amended Acts 1905, p. 95.]

Power to order sale.—There was no statute law until 1879 authorizing the district court to order a sale to effect a partition; but it is held that the power has existed since the adoption of the common law in 1840. Blagge v. Shaw (Civ. App.) 41 S. W. 756; Moore v. Blagge, 91 T. 131, 38 S. W. 979, 41 S. W. 465.

Where a judgment in partition orders two tracts of land situated in different counties to be sold in one of them and sale is made thereunder neither the judgment nor sale is subject to collateral attack, although the statutes require land to be sold under execution in the county wherein situated. It is the judgment which protects the sale from collateral attack. Menard v. MacDonald, 52 C. A. 627, 115 S. W. 64, 65.

Before the court is authorized to divest title by sale, all the requirements of the statute must be complied with. Fagan v. Fagan, 56 C. A. 175, 130 S. W. 550.

The court in a suit for partition held authorized to order a sale of the property. Bowen v. Hart Land & Improvement Co. (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 835.

When sale to be ordered.—See, also, notes under Art. 6101.

The question whether the land is susceptible of partition is decided first by the commissioners, and only after their report that a fair and equitable division cannot be made is the court empowered to order a sale to effect partition. Tieman v. Baker, 63 T. 941; Keener v. Moss, 66 T. 181, 18 S. W. 447. But see notes under Art. 6101. "Determination as to divisibility.

The court cannot order a sale in the absence of an application therefor. Kremer v. Haynie, 67 T. 460, 3 S. W. 676.

In equitable action for partition, the court may order a sale of the property, and a distribution of the proceeds, whenever the necessities of the case require it, without first appointing commissioners and receiving their report that no division can be made. Kaltey v. Wipf, 93 T. 673, 52 S. W. 63.

Where the evidence shows that land sought to be partitioned cannot be equitably partitioned in kind, the court may order a sale thereof without first appointing a commission to determine if the land is capable of division.  Saunders v. Saunders (Cliv. App.) 62 S. W. 797.

Sale on credit.—Where there is no showing in a partition suit of the necessity of a credit sale of the land, it is error to direct the commissioner to sell the land partially on credit.  Saunders v. Saunders (Cliv. App.) 62 S. W. 797.

Procedes of sale.—A purchaser at a partition sale is not bound to see that the proceeds are received by the parties to the suit.  Blagg v. Shaw (Cliv. App.) 41 S. W. 756.

Sale without confirmation.—A judgment in partition is not void because it authorizes a conveyance after sale and without confirmation.  Blagg v. Shaw (Cliv. App.) 41 S. W. 756.

Title acquired by purchaser.—A purchaser during the term at which a decree of partition is entered holds subject to further orders of the court during such term.  Sharp v. Elliott, 70 T. 66, 8 S. W. 488.

A confirmed sale of a land certificate sold pursuant to a decree in partition, held valid and binding on all parties to the suit and their heirs.  Hall v. Reese's Heirs, 24 C. A. 221, 58 S. W. 974.

A purchaser at a partition sale of property, the legal title to which stands in part in the hands of a married man, may rely on the assumption that he has at least a community interest in the property, and he is not chargeable with an undisclosed equitable title held in trust by the husband for his wife.  Holt v. Love (Cliv. App.) 131 S. W. 857.

The rule that one who purchases at an execution sale can claim the protection of an innocent purchaser for value, and that he has a right superior to those claiming the property through an undisclosed trust, applies to sales in partition, and a purchaser under a partition decree acquires a right superior to one claiming under an undisclosed trust.  Id.

Adjustment of claims and equities between parties.—See notes under Art. 6106.

Art. 6112.  [3622] Objections may be filed to report, etc.—Either party to the suit may file objections to any report of the commissioners in partition, and in such case a trial of the issues thereon shall be had as in other cases; and, if the report be found to be erroneous in any material respect, or unequal and unjust, the same shall be rejected, and other commissioners shall be appointed by the court, and the same proceedings had as in the first instance.  [R. S. 1879.]

Review of commissioners' report.—The action of commissioners in partitioning community property will not be disturbed, in the absence of evidence of their partiality or unfairness.  Moor v. Moor (Cliv. App.) 63 S. W. 347.

Right to offer proof.—Parties objecting to report are entitled to introduce proof, no matter how well satisfied the court may have been with the report.  Hensel v. Sturm (Cliv. App.) 25 S. W. 817.

Adjustment of claims and equities.—See, also, notes under Art. 6100.

Appointment of new commissioners.—Regarding appointment of new commissioners when the first appointees fail to act, see note under Art. 6101.

When the report of the commissioners is not approved, others may be appointed with more specific instructions.  Houston v. Blythe, 71 T. 719, 19 S. W. 520.  See Alston v. Emmerson, 83 T. 231, 18 S. W. 566, 29 Am. St. Rep. 639.

Appeal.—Under Art. 2078, which prevents appeal, except from a final judgment, no appeal lies from an order in a partition suit rejecting a report of commissioners and appointing new commissioners.  Meyers v. Riley (Cliv. App.) 100 S. W. 479.

Final decree.—See notes under Art. 6115.

Art. 6113.  [3623] Partition not prejudicial to reversion, etc.—When a partition is made between a joint owner who holds an estate for a term of years or for life with others who hold equal or greater estates, such partition shall not be prejudicial to those entitled to the reversion or remainder of such estates.  [Id.]

Art. 6114.  [3624] Each party shall hold in severalty, subject, etc.—When any partition is made, each party to whom a share has been allotted shall hold the same in severalty under the same conditions and covenants that it was held before such partition was made; and no warranty, lease or right whatsoever shall be impaired or affected by such partition.  [Id.]

Extent of implied warranty.—The warranty which is implied in compulsory partition between heirs extends only to the title under which each received his distributive interest.  Grigsby v. Peak, 68 T. 236, 4 S. W. 474, 2 Am. St. Rep. 487.

Attornment by lease.—Where a lessee of all land participates in the partition of the land, and recognizes the several ownership of the parties of their respective tracts, the character of its holding is changed from that of lessee from the joint owners of the whole tract to lessee from each owner of the respective tracts.  J. M. Guffey Petroleum Co. v. Jeff Chaison Townsite Co., 48 C. A. 555, 107 S. W. 699.

Trust.—A decree in a partition suit brought by a trustee for the benefit of the beneficiaries held not to have devested them of their title to land decreed to the trustee, without any mention of the trust.  Tinsley v. Magnolia Park Co. (Cliv. App.) 59 S. W. 629.

(Title 101)

Liens on property partitioned.—A tenant in common held barred by laches from enforcing an equitable lien on his co-tenant's share, for rents collected and unpaid, as against the holder of a deed of trust on such co-tenant's interest. Flach v. Zanderson (Civ. App.) 91 S. W. 348.

Evidence held to justify a finding that a co-tenant had notice that money secured by a deed of trust on his co-tenant's interest was given to pay vendor's lien notes thereon, and continued the lien for the benefit of the lender. Id.

Setting apart wife's land to husband.—Though commissioners in partition set apart to the husband all the land which belonged to him and his wife, it did not vest the title in his favor. O'Connor v. Vineyard, 21 T. 498, 44 S. W. 465.

Art. 6115. [3625] Decree of court shall vest title.—The decree of the court confirming the report of the commissioners in partition, when a partition has been made shall vest the title in each party to whom a share has been allotted, to such share as against the other parties to such partition suit, their heirs, executors, administrators or assignees, as fully and effectually as the deed of such parties could vest the same, and shall have the same force and effect as a full warranty deed of conveyance from such other parties and each of them. Decree of partition.—See Art. 6101 and notes.

In an action for partition held that a money judgment, on the ground of certain parties having sold their interests to other parties, could not be had. Kindley v. Kosub (Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 76.

Validity and propriety.—Judgment in partition decreeing plaintiff an interest in certain land previously partitioned by mistake held proper. Cartmell v. Chambers (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 362.

A judgment in proceedings for the partition of the real estate of a decedent approving the report of the commissioners recommending a sale, if rendered before the service of citations on the heirs, is premature, but not void. Rye v. J. M. Guffey Petroleum Co., 42 C. A. 185, 95 S. W. 621.

Where in partition it did not appear that plaintiffs were the only heirs of the deceased ancestor, it was error to permit them to recover any more than their respective interests in the premises. Hess v. Webb (Civ. App.) 115 S. W. 618.

In partition and for the removal of a cloud on the title, the court held without authority to render judgment for plaintiffs for the part of the land disclaimed by defendants filing a cross-petition for the balance. Gray v. Tribue (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 808.

A judgment failing to dispose of the case as to two codefendants was void. Uher v. Cameron State Bank (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 321.

Decree authorized under petition.—See notes under Art. 6097.

Description of land.—Contention that a decree of partition was void for insufficiency of description of the allotments held without showing that the parties making such claim had taken possession of the allotment under the decree. Taffinder v. Merrill (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 936.

In partition, decreeing defendant to be owner of certain land which had been sold to be charged to two of the parties, held not invalidated for failure to contain a description of such land. Hanrick v. Hanrick, 98 T. 269, 93 S. W. 181.

A judgment in partition should be so specific as to show on its face without the aid of the pleadings the land intended to be partitioned. Massie v. Massie, 64 C. A. 817, 118 S. W. 219.

In case of repugnancy as to a description in a partition decree, the report of the commissioners may be considered. Morse's Heirs v. Williams (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 118.

Where a plat, made part of the report of commissioners in partition and of the decree of court, covered all the land intended to be partitioned, but field notes in the report did not do so, the question was as to the intent of the commissioners in their report and the court's intention in its adoption by decree. Rosenthal v. Sun Co. (Civ. App.) 120 S. W. 615.

Decree partitioning community estate held res judicata of right to charge money expended for minor child on other party's portion. Moor v. Moor, 31 C. A. 137, 71 S. W. 794.

In case of repugnancy as to a description in a partition decree, the report of the commissioners in partition for the sale of a decedent's real estate held not open to collateral attack. Rye v. J. M. Guffey Petroleum Co., 42 C. A. 185, 95 S. W. 621.

Plaintiff, in trespass to try title, was a minor at the death of her father, and was entitled to one-half of the community property and to all of her father's separate estate, subject to the life interest and homestead rights of her stepmother; and by her guardian she then petitioned for partition, claiming an undivided one-half interest in all the property, including the separate estate, and erroneously alleging that she was an equal owner of such property with her stepmother. An actual partition was made, as prayed, and conveyed, and the parties took possession of the shares allotted them, and after the stepmother's death plaintiff claimed reversion in her share and against her heirs. Held, that the decree of partition was res judicata as to plaintiff's rights and interests in the property involved. Richardson v. Trout (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 677.

Persons bound.—A sale of a minor's interest in certain lands held in common under authority of the court in 1855 held not to operate as a partition of the tract as against other tenants in common. Broom v. Pearson, 98 T. 469, 85 S. W. 730, 86 S. W. 733.

A third person made a party in partition by intervention, who filed after judgment and pending a new trial a disclaimer in favor of his son, was bound by the judgment. Ivy v. Ivy, 51 C. A. 397, 112 S. W. 110.

A judgment in a suit for partition held to dispose of the rights of all the parties. Whitmire v. Powell (Civ. App.) 117 S. W. 432; id., 103 T. 222, 125 S. W. 889.

One-half of the portion of the tract held by a minor, one-half of which belonged to the estate of a deceased, subject to the life interest of her husband, and the other half of which was owned by a third person as separate property, was brought against the third person and his wife, a judgment disposing of the rights of the parties to the land effectually disposed of the third person, and the wife of the third person, though it did not mention her name; the fact that she was given nothing being in effect an adverse judgment. Whitmire et ux. v. Powell et al., 103 T. 222, 125 S. W. 889.

If a partition is final as to some of the parties, it is final as to all, except as against those to whom the land is set in a joint allotment. Parks v. Knox (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 203.

A partition decree held not an adjudication of the claims of heirs in the estate of their deceased mother. Moss v. Slack (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 1063.

Persons benefited.—One not a party to a partition suit held entitled to enforce a lien given him by the decree. Stone v. McGregor (Civ. App.) 84 S. W. 369.

Lien of a party to a partition suit on land awarded to other parties for the amount of a debt as owlet held not to pass to the creditor by the judgment. Stone v. McGregor, 99 T. 51, 87 S. W. 334.

A judgment in partition held to protect a purchaser from an owner of an undivided interest of his interest in the timber on the tract. Hunter v. Hodgson (Civ. App.) 95 S. W. 637.

Estoppel by participation or acquiescence.—A party who takes part in a partition is estopped from afterwards setting up the superior title as a basis of recovery against one of his co-tenants, who also took part in the partition. De La Vega v. League, 64 T. 205.

One who conveys by deed the interest in land set apart to him in partition between himself as an heir of his father and other heirs of his father is not estopped thereby from alleging thereunto a larger interest in the same land inherited from his mother, who was not a party to the proceedings and the interest of whose estate was not adjudicated therein. Grigsby v. Peak, 65 T. 235, 4 S. W. 474, 2 Am. St. Rep. 487.

Where a party to a suit to partition community property appears before the court and moves that the decree in partition be approved, such party cannot afterwards deny its validity; and hence it is not necessary to compel her to execute a bill of sale for personal property which is partitioned. Moor v. Moor (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 347.

Acquisition of adverse title.—The rule that one party to a partition decree may not acquire the title of a stranger and set it up against the other party has no application where the decree was procured by fraud of the latter party. Clevenger v. Mayfield (Civ. App.) 88 S. W. 1062.

Notice of recitals.—Where a partition decree recites that it is made without prejudice to rights of plaintiff, one who takes a mortgage from one to whom the land is adjudged is put on notice of plaintiff's rights. Gray v. Cockrell, 20 C. A. 324, 49 S. W. 247.

Construction.—A decree in partition construed to have effected the partition of a land certificate, though not specifically mentioned in the original decree. Hall v. Reese's Heirs, 49 C. A. 241, 58 S. W. 974.

A decree in partition held not to impose a personal liability to pay a debt charged as owlet. Stone v. McGregor, 99 T. 51, 87 S. W. 334.

A decree in partition held to give certain property to minor heirs, subject to lien of a trust deed thereon executed by another heir to secure a debt, charged as owlet against the property apportioned. Id.

Effect in general.—A partition decree held insufficient to constitute a divestiture of title in fee to the tract set off to the widow, and vested in her simply a life estate with remainder to the husband's heirs. Drew v. Morris (Civ. App.) 82 S. W. 321.

A partition decree between heirs held not to deprive the county court of jurisdiction within four years after intestate's death to grant administration and sell the property to pay debts as against creditors not parties to the partition. Salas v. Mundy (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 635.

A judgment in partition whereby the title to lands are vested in a widow and her children jointly, in fee simple, created an equality of interest in her and her children, and she holds an undivided interest in the land as a tenant in common with them. Parks v. Knox (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 203.

Costs.—See notes under Art. 6125.

Power to alter.—One who purchases land allotted to one of several joint owners at the term of court when a decree of partition is entered determining the interest of each owner, and after the entry of such decree, has the entry of his parcel notice. Sharp v. Elliott, 70 T. 666, 8 S. W. 458.

Assignment of judgment.—An agreement transferring all interest in judg-
PARTITION OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

Art. 6116. [3626] Part owners may compel partition.—Part owners of personal property may be compelled to make partition between them in the manner provided in the succeeding articles of this chapter. [Act Dec. 24, 1851. P. D. 4711.]

Partition of estates of decedents.—See Chapter 12, 14, 18 and 36 of Title 52.
Partition of intermingled cattle.—This chapter is applicable in a case as to two or more mortgages when there has been an intermingling and confusion of the mortgaged property where neither is to blame. This chapter does not exclude every other method of partition, but it is sufficient in a case of mortgaged cattle, when it is impossible to identify the precise stock covered by each mortgage. Belcher v. Cassidy Bros. Live Stock Commission Co., 28 C. A. 60, 62 S. W. 924.

Property outside of state.—See notes under Art. 6117.

Art. 6117. [3627] Suit shall be commenced, in what court.—Suit for partition shall be commenced in the court having jurisdiction of the value of such property, in the same manner as other civil suits are commenced, and the several owners or claimants of such property shall be cited as in other cases. [Id.]

Property outside of state—Jurisdiction.—Where the court has jurisdiction of the parties in a suit to partition community property, it may render a valid decree partitioning their personal property situated outside the state. Moor v. Moor (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 347.

Presumption.—Where a decree of partition orders the sale of personal property situated on a certain ranch, the location of which is not determined, it will be presumed, on confirming the report of the commissioners partitioning such property, that the property was situated within the state. Moor v. Moor (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 347.

Time to object.—The objection that community property ordered to be partitioned by a decree which has been affirmed is not situated within the state cannot be raised for the first time by objections to the report of the commissioners appointed to execute the decree of partition. Moor v. Moor (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 347.

Art. 6118. [3628] Court shall ascertain, what.—The separate value of each article of such personal property, and the allotment in kind to which each owner is entitled, shall be ascertained by the court, with or without a jury. [Id. P. D. 4712.]

Art. 6119. [3629] Decree of court executed, how.—When partition in kind of personal property is ordered by the judgment of the court, a writ shall be issued in accordance with such judgment, commanding the sheriff or constable of the county where the property may be to put the parties forthwith in possession of the property allotted to each respectively. [Id. P. D. 4713.]

Art. 6120. [3630] Property shall be sold, when.—When personal property will not admit of a fair and equitable partition, the court shall ascertain the proportion to which each owner thereof is entitled, and shall order the property to be sold. [Id. P. D. 4714.]

Art. 6121. [3631] How sold and partition of proceeds.—In the case provided for in the preceding article, execution shall be issued to the sheriff or any constable of the county where the property may be, describing such property and commanding such officer to sell the same as in other cases of execution, and pay over the proceeds of sale to the parties entitled thereto, in the proportion ascertained by the judgment of the court. [Id. P. D. 4715.]

CHAPTER THREE
MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Art. 6122. Provisions of this title shall not affect, what. —The provisions of this title shall not affect the mode of proceeding prescribed by law for the partition of estates of decedents among the heirs and legateses, nor shall such provisions preclude partition in any other manner authorized by the rules of equity; which rules shall govern in proceedings under this title in all things not provided for in this title. [R. S. 1879.]

Partition of estates of decedents.—See Chapters 12, 14, 18 and 26 of Title 52.
Partition of community property.—See Arts. 3556-3559, 3612, which, however, only relate to partition after the death of one of the parties.

Equitable jurisdiction. —The statute does not take away or in any degree abridge the original and inherent powers of the court of chancery in respect to the partitioning of estates. The statute prescribes a procedure, but it is not obligatory. Our courts, possessing the powers of courts of chancery, may proceed to administer relief upon the principles of equity without the aid of the statute. It is usual to provide in the decree for the commissioners to report, etc., but it is competent for the court to direct the manner of making the partition, and to decree the making of the conveyances, without the necessity of a report and decree of confirmation. The court may, in the first instance, direct conveyances to be made in pursuance of the allotments of the commissioners, if that be deemed proper. Grassmeyer v. Beeson, 18 T. 753, 70 Am. Dec. 309; Payne v. Benham, 16 T. 364. But see Tiemann v. Baker, 63 T. 441; Keener v. Moss, 66 T. 181, 18 S. W. 447; Keener v. Haynie, 67 T. 469, 3 S. W. 676; post, Art. 6122.

Partition by act of parties.—In general.—Land acquired under a contract for its joint acquisition may be partitioned by parol by the owners. Gibbons v. Bell, 46 T. 418.

A verbal partition of land is valid. Johnson v. Johnson, 65 T. 87; Shannon v. Taylor, 18 T. 413; Stuart v. Baker, 17 T. 417; Houston v. Sneed, 15 T. 307; Gibbons v. Bell, 45 T. 418. Possession under it is not necessary to its validity. When those who it is alleged made it are dead, when it is of ancient date, all the conduct and acts of the parties, and every circumstance of acquiescence in such acts as are consistent only with the fact that a partition had been made, should be admitted in evidence. The payment of taxes by one claiming under such a partition may be shown. Glasscock v. Hughes, 55 T. 461.

Where the heirs make deeds one to the other of the lands allotted to them, the question whether the commissioner's partition was invalid becomes immaterial. Kempner v. Beaumont Lumber Co., 30 C. A. 307, 49 S. W. 412.

What constitutes.—If one entitled to a locative interest of one-third of a tract of land verbally agrees with another that he shall appropriate a portion of the survey in satisfaction of his claim, this, as between the parties, amounts to a parol partition of the land. Huffman v. Cartwright, 44 T. 296.

A license by parol by one party to the other, being interested in a disputed division line, to occupy part of the land in dispute to a designated line, is not equivalent to an agreement upon such line as a division line. Wright v. Lassiter, 71 T. 640, 10 S. W. 295.

Parol agreement by husband and wife, after permanent separation, held an equitable partition of the community property, which, having been fully executed, would be upheld. Moore v. Moore, 28 C. A. 600, 68 S. W. 59.

Acquiescence.—When a partition of land has been acquiesced in and acted upon, it will not be set aside after a great lapse of time. Conner v. Huff, 48 T. 363; Wilson v. Holms, 59 T. 686; Stone v. Ellis, 69 T. 335, 7 S. W. 348; Wardlow v. Miller, 69 T. 385, 6 S. W. 292; Lemonds v. Stratton, 24 S. W. 370, 5 C. A. 403.

A parol partition of a land certificate before its issuance, between several entitled to an interest therein, which was acted on by them and recognized, conveyances made in pursuance thereof, and possession taken, is binding on the parties thereto. Parker v. Spencer, 61 T. 155.

After seven years' acquiescence by parties in interest to a verbal partition of land fairly made, and under which the parties have held possession in severality of the parcels allotted, the partition was held valid and conferred title. Mitchell v. Allen, 69 T. 70, 6 S. W. 745.

Quitclaim deed.—A partition deed is intended to pass the land itself to the grantee, and not merely a claim to it; and one who claims through it is an innocent pur-

Married woman.—A parol partition of land is valid when a wife, having an interest therein, gave her consent in a written instrument, joined by her husband, to a partition thereof, accepted the land allotted to her, and clearly manifested by her acts and words that she consented to the partition; the fact that the written instrument was not signed in the manner regulating the conveyance of the property of married women was immaterial. Wardlow v. Miller, 69 T. 356, 6 S. W. 292.

A parol partition of land by married women is valid. Martin v. Harris (Civ. App.) 26 S. W. 91.

Upon whom binding.—If one entitled to a locative interest of one-third of a tract of land verbally agrees with another that he shall appropriate a portion of the survey in satisfaction of his claim, this, as between the parties, amounts to a parol partition of the tract, and it is not afterwards incumbent on the other to require as a condition precedent to the sale of the land, the written instrument, on the ground that the agreement was made he had no title. Huffman v. Cartwright, 44 T. 296.

A purchaser under a voluntary partition is not affected by a mistake made by one of the parties thereto as to the extent of his interest in the property, though the facts recited in the paper which evidences the partition may show that such party was entitled to a larger interest than he consented to receive. The purchaser, while chargeable with notice that the party had received less than his share, would not be charged with notice as to whether the party was mistaken as to his legal rights. Wardlow v. Miller, 69 T. 356, 6 S. W. 292.

In the absence of evidence showing that those in interest, who were not parties to a partition of land, assented to the partition made, or participated in it, such partition is, as to them, a nullity. House v. Brent, 69 T. 27, 7 S. W. 65.

Two tenants in common in a tract of land made a parol partition. After the partition one of the tenants, for a term of years, received rents that the other was sold under execution, the purchaser having no notice of the partition. The holders of the term were in possession of the lot at the execution sale. In suit by such purchaser, held: 1. That the partition was valid between the owners. 2. That the lessees, after the partition, were protected by the partition, and 3. A purchaser while the lessees were in possession under the lease was chargeable with notice of the partition to the extent necessary to protect the lessees, etc.; that on recovery by the execution purchaser it was error to allow rents against the lessees so holding. Whitaker v. Alliday, 71 T. 623, 9 S. W. 485.

Agreements within statute of frauds.—See notes under Art. 3965.

Art. 6123. [3633] Rules of pleading, practice and evidence.—The same rules of pleading, practice and evidence which govern in other civil causes shall govern in suits for partition, when not in conflict with any provisions of this title. [Id.]

Parties, petition, evidence and decree authorized by petition.—Joiner of actions.—See notes under Art. 6057.

Procedure in general.—See, also, notes under Art. 6101 and other articles dealing with particular matters of procedure.

The strict rules of chancery do not prevail in proceedings for the partition of land. In such proceedings questions involving conflicting claims to title by parties thereto may be determined. Where it appears from the pleadings that one of the plaintiffs with whom partition is sought claims the entire land, and asks judgment therefor, the partition proceedings must be delayed until the question of title is adjudicated. De La Vega v. Langue, 64 T. 205. See Art. 6115.

Where the pleadings in a partition suit do not raise the question of the liability of an occupying tenant for certain rents, a refusal of the trial court to require an accounting for such rents is not erroneous. Saunders v. Saunders (Civ. App.) 62 S. W. 797.

Intervention.—See, also, "Parties," under Art. 6097.

A purchaser of a specific portion of land pending a partition suit between his vendors and others as tenants in common had the right to intervene in the suit, and ask to have the property conveyed set apart to his grantors. Rosborough v. Cook (Civ. App.) 148 S. W. 1120.

Sufficiency of motion.—Motion for appointment of surveyor and commissioners upon failure of those previously appointed to act held sufficient, although defendant did not state that a writ of partition, accompanied by a certified copy of the decree, was ever issued to the sheriff. McShan v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 597.

Establishing title.—See notes under Art. 6100.

Burden of proof.—See, also, Art. 6587.

The burden was on plaintiffs in partition to prove, as they alleged, that a deed under which defendant claimed, and which was produced and shown to be genuine, was executed only for the temporary purpose of making defendant eligible for an office. Ivy v. Ivy (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 637.

A plaintiff in partition held required to establish his right as to an interest in the land. Banks v. Blake (Civ. App.) 148 S. W. 1183.

Questions for jury.—See, also, Chapter 13 of Title 37; and see "Parties—In general," under Art. 6097.

Where, in an action for partition, a deed to plaintiff from one of defendants alleged to be of unsound mind was sought to be set aside, it was discretionary with the trial court to inquire into the mental condition of defendant in limine, or to submit the question to the jury with the other issues. Lindly v. Lindly (Civ. App.) 109 S. W. 467.

Admissibility of evidence.—See, also, Art. 3687; and see notes under Art. 6097.

In a partition suit, certain evidence held inadmissible as not within the issues. Jennings v. Borton, 44 C. A. 280, 38 S. W. 445.

In partition wherein a deed, under which defendant claimed, was alleged to have been executed by the latter's mother merely to make him eligible for an office, to repel the im-
Partition cast on the deed, and as well as to show the consideration, he should have been allowed to testify that he paid a part of the purchase price for the land when it was conveyed to her. Ivy v. Ivy (Civ. App.) 125 S. W. 852.

Sufficiency of evidence.—See, also, "Establishing title," under Art. 6109; and see articles dealing with particular questions.

In partition, evidence held to justify a supposition that the description in a deed to plaintiffs’ ancestor was a typographical error, and sufficient to support a judgment for the recovery of a lot other than that described in the deed. Hughey v. Mosby, 31 C. A. 76, 71 S. W. 355.

Art. 6124. [3634] Pay of commissioners.—The commissioners in partition and the surveyor, if any has been appointed, shall receive for their services three dollars each per day for each day they are engaged in making and returning such partition, and the same shall be taxed and collected as other costs in the case. [Id.]

Pay of commissioners in non-statutory partition.—The commissioners appointed by the court to partition community property, in a partition made under the court’s general powers, rather than the statutory partition, are entitled to a reasonable value for their services, and are not limited to the statutory fee of three dollars per day. Moor v. Moor (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 347.

Art. 6125. [3635] Costs to be adjudged, how.—The court shall adjudge the costs in a partition suit to be paid by each party to whom a share has been allotted in proportion to the value of such share. [Id.]

Prayer for costs.—See note under Art. 6097.

When to be assessed.—Under this article the court cannot be compelled to pass on any question of costs until the case is finally disposed of. Wentworth v. Wentworth (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 141.

Apportionment.—Where there is no contest as to the title, all parties are liable for costs to be apportioned according to their respective interests. If the defendant contests the right of the successful plaintiff, he is liable for the costs thereby incurred. The costs subsequent to the decree ascertaining the rights of the parties are to be apportioned. Johns v. Northcutt, 49 T. 444; Keener v. Moss, 66 T. 181, 18 S. W. 447.

In partition suits, defendants are liable for all costs incurred by them in contesting the rights of the successful plaintiffs. Powell v. Naylor, 32 C. A. 346, 74 S. W. 338.

Sale on partition, of improvements on separate estate of wife, to enforce collection of judgment at suit of trustee in bankruptcy held to subject the wife and trustee to the costs in proportion to their respective shares. Collins v. Bryan, 40 C. A. 88, 88 S. W. 432.

Under the facts in an action to partition property of an estate and to foreclose a mortgage, held not an abuse of discretion to tax seven months of the costs against plaintiff. Nelson v. Brown (Civ. App.) 111 S. W. 1106.

Costs incurred in establishing contested title in partition held chargeable against the defendants. Richmond v. Sims (Civ. App.) 144 S. W. 1142.

Lien for costs.—In partition, costs awarded against absent defendants, including a fee to an attorney appointed for them, were properly made a lien against their share. Cain v. Hopkins (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 334.

Execution.—It is not error to award execution for the costs against parties taking in partition in decreeing partition. That parties so taking as heirs are also parties as legal representatives does not prevent such order. Peak v. Brinson, 71 T. 310, 11 S. W. 263.
TITLE 102
PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT STOCK COMPANIES

CHAPTER ONE
PARTNERSHIPS—LIMITED

Art. 6126. [3583] Limited partnership authorized.—Limited partnerships for the transaction of any mercantile, mechanical, manufacturing or other business, except banking or insurance, may be formed by two or more persons, upon the terms, with the rights and powers, and subject to the conditions and liabilities herein prescribed. [Act May 12, 1846, p. 279, sec. 1. P. D. 4717 et seq.]

Partnership.—For decisions relating to common-law partnerships, see notes at end of this chapter.

Art. 6127. [3584] General and special partners.—Such partnerships may consist of one or more persons, who shall be called the general partners, and who shall be jointly and severally responsible as general partners now are by law; and of one or more persons who shall contribute in actual cash payments a specific sum as capital to the common stock, who shall be called special partners, and who shall not be liable for the debts of the partnership beyond the fund so contributed by him or them to the capital. [Id. sec. 2.]

Defective articles.—See notes under Art. 6129.

Art. 6128. [3585] General partners only to act.—The general partners only shall be authorized to transact business and sign for the partnership and to bind the same. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 6129. [3586] Such partnerships, how formed.—The persons desirous of forming such partnership shall make and severally sign a certificate, which shall contain:

1. The name or firm under which the partnership is to be conducted.
2. The general nature of the business intended to be transacted.
3. The names of all the general and special partners interested therein, distinguishing which are general and which are special partners, and their respective places of residence.
4. The amount of capital which each special partner shall have contributed to the common stock.
5. The period at which the partnership is to commence, and the period at which it is to terminate. [Id. sec. 4.]

Defective articles.—Mere formal defects in the articles of partnership which do not mislead third parties to their injury will not render the limited partner liable as a gen-

When articles are not made in conformity with the statute, the record is not notice. Gallagher v. Heidenheimer, 3 App. C. C. § 133.

Art. 6130. [3587] Certificate to be acknowledged.—The certificate shall be acknowledged by the several persons signing the same, before any officer authorized to take acknowledgments for record, and such acknowledgment shall be made and certified in the same manner as the acknowledgment of the conveyances of land. [Id. sec. 5.]

Art. 6131. [3588] And filed and recorded.—The certificate so acknowledged and certified shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county court of the county in which the principal place of business of the partnership shall be situated, and shall also be recorded by him at large in a book to be kept for that purpose, open to public inspection. If the partnership shall have places of business situated in different counties, the certificate and acknowledgment thereof shall be filed and recorded in like manner in the office of the clerk of the county court of every such county. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 6132. [3589] General partner to file affidavit.—At the time of filing the original certificate with the evidence of the acknowledgment thereof, as before directed, an affidavit of one or more of the general partners shall also be filed in the same office, stating that the sums specified in the certificate to have been contributed by each of the special partners, to the common stock, have been actually and in good faith paid in cash. [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 6133. [3590] Prerequisites indispensable.—No such partnership shall be deemed to have been formed until a certificate shall have been made, acknowledged, filed and recorded, nor until an affidavit shall have been filed as above directed; and, if any false statement be made in such certificate or affidavit, all the persons interested in such partnership shall be liable for all the engagements thereof as general partners. [Id. sec. 8.]

Defective articles.—See notes under Art. 6129.

Art. 6134. [3591] Terms to be published.—The partners shall publish the terms of the partnership when registered for at least six weeks immediately after such registry, in such newspapers as shall be designated by the clerk in whose office such registry shall be made; and if such publication be not made the partnership shall be deemed general. [Id. sec. 9.]

Art. 6135. [3592] Publisher's affidavit.—An affidavit of the publication of such notice by the publisher of the newspapers in which the same shall be published may be filed with the clerk directing the same, and shall be evidence of the facts therein contained. [Id. sec. 10.]

Art. 6136. [3593] Renewals to be with like formalities.—Every renewal or continuance of such partnership beyond the time originally fixed for its duration shall be certified, acknowledged and recorded, and an affidavit of a general partner be made and filed, and notice given in the manner herein required for its original formation; and every such partnership which shall be otherwise renewed or continued shall be deemed a general partnership. [Id. sec. 11.]

Art. 6137. [3594] Certain alterations a dissolution.—Every alteration which shall be made in the names of the partners, in the nature of the business, or in the capital or shares thereof, or in any other matter specified in the original certificate, shall be deemed a dissolution of the partnership; and every such partnership which shall in any manner be carried on after any such alteration shall have been made shall be deemed a general partnership, unless renewed as a special partnership according to the provisions of the last article. [Id. sec. 12.]
Art. 6138. [3595] Firm name.—The business of the partnership shall be conducted under a firm in which the names of the general partners only shall be inserted, without the addition of the word “company,” or any other general term; and if the name of any special partner be used in such firm, with his privity, he shall be deemed a general partner. [Id. sec. 13.]

Art. 6139. [3596] Suits by and against.—Suits in relation to the business of the partnership may be brought and conducted by and against the general partners, in the same manner as if there were no special partners. [Id. sec. 14.]

Art. 6140. [3597] Capital of special partner not to be withdrawn.—No part of the sum which any special partner shall have contributed to the capital stock shall be withdrawn by him, or paid or transferred to him in the character of dividends, profits or otherwise, at any time during the continuance of the partnership; but any partner may annually receive lawful interest on the sum so contributed by him, if the payment of such interest shall not reduce the original amount of such capital; and if, after the payment of such interest, any profits shall remain to be divided he may also receive his portion of such profits. [Id. sec. 15.]

Art. 6141. [3598] If reduced, to be made good.—If it shall appear that by the payment of interest or profits to any special partner the original capital has been reduced, the partner receiving the same shall be bound to restore the amount necessary to make good his share of the capital, with interest. [Id. sec. 16.]

Art. 6142. [3599] Powers of special partner.—A special partner may from time to time examine into the state and progress of the partnership concerns, and may advise as to their management. [Id. sec. 17.]

Art. 6143. [3600] Partners to account, and liability for fraud.—The general partners shall be liable to account to each other, and to the special partners, for the management of the concern, both in law and equity, as other partners are by law; and every partner who shall be guilty of any fraud in the affairs of the partnership shall be liable, civilly, to the party injured to the extent of his damage. [Id. secs. 18, 19.]

Art. 6144. [3601] Assignments by partnership void, when.—Every sale, assignment or transfer of any property or effects of the partnership made by such partnership when insolvent, or in contemplation of insolvency, or after, or in contemplation of insolvency of any partner, with the intent of giving a preference to any creditor of such partnership, or insolvent partner, over other creditors of such partnership, and every judgment confessed, lien created, or security given, by any such partnership under the like circumstances and with like intent, shall be void as against the creditors of such partnership. [Id. sec. 20.]

Art. 6145. [3602] Assignments in contemplation of insolvency.—Every such sale, assignment, or transfer of any of the property or effects of a general or special partner made by such general or special partner when insolvent, or in contemplation of insolvency, or after, or in contemplation of the insolvency of the partnership, with the intent of giving to any creditor of his own, or of the partnership, a preference over the creditors of the partnership, and every judgment confessed, lien created, or security given, by any such partner under like circumstances and with like intent, shall be void as against the creditors of the partnership. [Id. sec. 21.]

Art. 6146. [3603] Effect of concurrence by special partner.—Every special partner who shall violate any provision of the last two preceding articles, and who shall concur in or assent to any such violation of the partnership by any individual partner, shall be liable as a general partner. [Id. sec. 22.]

Art. 6147. [3604] Partnership creditors preferred.—In case of the insolvency or bankruptcy of the partnership, no special partner shall, under any circumstances, be allowed to claim as creditor until the claims of all other creditors of the partnership shall be satisfied. [Id. sec. 23.]

Art. 6148. [3605] Dissolution before the time agreed on.—No dissolution of such partnerships by the acts of the parties shall take place previous to the time specified in the certificate of its formation, or in the certificate of its renewal, until a notice of such dissolution shall have been filed and recorded and published once in each week for four weeks in a newspaper printed in each of the counties where the partnership may have a place of business, if there be such papers, and if there be no newspapers published in such county, then in a newspaper published in the nearest county where there is one. [Id. sec. 24.]

DECISIONS RELATING TO PARTNERSHIPS IN GENERAL

I. Creation and existence of relation.
   1. Partnership distinguished from other relations.
   2. Creation and existence of relation in general.
   4. Ostensible partner.

I. CREATION AND EXISTENCE OF RELATION

2. Creation and existence of relation in general.—A partnership exists where two or more persons combine their property, labor or skill for the purpose of business for their own benefit. Brickley v. Harkins, 48 T. 225.

As to partnership, see Buzard v. McAnulty, 77 T. 438, 14 S. W. 138. A refrigerator car company held not the partner of a carrier. American Refrigerator Transit Co. v. Chandler (Civ. App.) 29 S. W. 244.

A surety on a note given for the price of corporate stock bought by the maker held not a partner with the maker in the transaction. Wisegarver v. Yinger (Civ.-App.) 122 S. W. 925.

Parties held partners in a business so that one or any person acting on the part of the other, was liable therefor. Armstrong v. Simms (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 560.

In an action to recover debts, an instruction held not objectionable as authorizing recovery upon the theory of a partnership among defendants. Curtis v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 795.

Contracts as contemporaneously construed by the parties held severable, and not to create a partnership between plaintiff and defendant, each being subject to the losses occurring in its own business as previously conducted. El Paso Ice & Refrigerator Co. v. Consumers' Ice & Cold Storage Co. (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 551.

Arrangement held merely a conditional agreement, under which the partnership would not come into existence until the conditions had been complied with. O'Marrow v. State (Cr. App.) 147 S. W. 252.

3. Secret partnership.—A secret partnership exists when one is really participating in the profits and losses of an enterprise carried on by another, and withholds a knowledge of his fact from the public. Harris v. Crazy, 67 T. 383, 3 S. W. 316.

4. Ostensible partner.—An ostensible partner is one who holds himself out as a partner, or knowingly permits another in any manner to use his name as a member of the firm in order to obtain credit, when in point of fact he is not a partner. Harris v. Crazy, 67 T. 383, 3 S. W. 316; Gribble v. Harry, 2 App. C. C. § 800.

PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT STOCK COMPANIES

Art. 6148

5. Community of interest in profits and losses.—In general.—One who charters a ship for another, under an agreement for a share of the profits, is an agent and not a partner. Heldenheimer's Ex'rs v. Walthew, 21 S. W. 981, 2 C. A. 501. A contract by which one furnishes cattle to another, who is to keep them for a definite period, at the end of which they are to be sold, their cost repaid, and the profits and loss to be shared equally, constitutes a partnership. Stratton v. O'Connor (Civ. App.) 34 S. W. 183.

One who furnished another with property for carrying on a business in consideration of a share of the profits is a partner in the business. Fouke v. Bringle (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 613.

The test of a partnership held to be the co-ownership of the profits of a business. Altgelt v. Alamo Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 78 S. W. 682.

A contract held not to create a partnership, but to make the parties thereto joint owners. Beaumont Rice Mills v. Bridges, 45 C. A. 439, 101 S. W. 611.

On stated facts an existing partnership and a corporation held to be partners in a transaction. Ramsey & Montgomery v. Empire Timber & Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 294.

Where defendants engaged in a theatrical venture, two of them to contribute money and all three to share equally in the profits, they were partners, and equally liable for debts. Danforth, Roos & Eppstein v. Levin (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 569.

6. — Sharing profits as interest on loans or advances.—Where one furnishes money to another under an agreement that he who receives it as agent for the owner is to use it in a designated business and receive a part of the net profits as compensation for his services, he who thus receives the money is not thereby constituted a partner of him who advances it. Buzard v. Bank of Greenville, 67 T. 85, 2 S. W. 54, 69 Am. Rep. 7. Other money to be used in a business, under an agreement to receive interest and a share of the profits, held a partner as to a creditor of the borrower, whose debt arose subsequent to the loan and in the course of the business. Dilley v. Abright, 19 C. A. 487, 48 S. W. 548.

Facts held insufficient to establish a partnership between the parties. Altgelt v. Elmendorf (Civ. App.) 86 S. W. 41.

7. — Sharing profits as compensation for services.—One who advances nothing, and receives a stipulated portion of the profits as compensation for his services as clerk, is not a partner. Cohan v. Marmaduke, 60 T. 370; Stevens v. Gainesville Nat. Bank, 63 T. 492; Grabenheimer v. Rindskoff, 64 T. 49.

The fact that a real estate broker promises a third person part of his commission if he can obtain a purchaser held not to make such third person a partner of the broker. Brackenridge v. Claridge (Civ. App.) 42 S. W. 1085.

Sharing the profits on a certain shipment with an assistant in lieu of wages does not constitute a partnership. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Smiessen, 31 C. A. 549, 73 S. W. 42.

A widow held to be the sole owner of the business founded and owned by her husband and bequeathed to her. Altgelt v. Alamo Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 682.

Where a partnership buys lumber, and then contracts with a corporation or its representative to sell the stock for it for a compensation or commission of one-third of the net profits, the parties are not partners. Ramsey & Montgomery v. Empire Timber & Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 294.

An employé of a piano dealer, receiving a part of the profits of a special sale, with no interest in the stock, and bearing none of the expenses of the sale, is not a partner. Montgomery v. Mccall (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1089.

An agreement, whereby a storekeeper agrees to give another 20 per cent. of the profits to attend to the business and do the buying, creates merely the relation of employer and employé, and not a partnership. O'Marrow v. State (Cr. App.) 147 S. W. 502.

8. — Sharing profits, but not losses.—It is not essential to constitute a partnership as to third persons that the parties are by agreement to share in the losses of the business; it is sufficient if they are to have a community of interest in the profits as such. Goode v. McCartner, 10 T. 195; Cohan v. Marmaduke, 60 T. 370; Stevens v. Gainesville Nat. Bank, 62 T. 459; Bradshaw v. Apperson, 36 T. 133; Cleveland v. Anderson, 2 App. C. C. § 147.

One held an agent for certain cotton dealers, and not their partners. Shute & Limont v. McVville (Civ. App.) 75 S. W. 423.

An agreement between land brokers held not to make them partners so as to render notice to one of defects in the title to land listed for sale notice to the other. Montgomery v. Amsler, 57 C. A. 216, 122 S. W. 307.

10. Capacity of parties.—As between the parties to the contract, a partnership in fact can only exist where there is a voluntary agreement between persons competent to contract, with a view for that purpose. Cleveland v. Anderson, 2 App. C. C. § 146.

An agreement of partnership between the father and his minor son is binding on the former. Washington v. Washington (Civ. App.) 31 S. W. 88.

11. Fraud or misrepresentations.—Evidence held to sustain findings that defendant was induced by fraudulent representations to enter into a partnership agreement with plaintiff. Caplen v. Cox, 42 C. A. 397, 92 S. W. 1048.
A partnership agreement having been induced by false representations will be rescinded. Id.

Statement as to liability of parties on an accounting, where a partnership agreement is rescinded for fraudulent representations inducing the making of it. Id.

Recitals as to value in a contract which defendant was induced by false representations to bind him on rescission thereof. Id.

12. Creation of partnership as to third persons.—Persons may form a partnership, though not intending so to do. Freeman v. Huttig Sash & Door Co., 105 T. 569, 153 S. W. 122.

15. — Particular agreements and transactions.—Evidence held to establish a partnership as to vendors of one of the parties thereto so as to bind the other to the terms of sale. Buchanan v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 61 S. W. 33.

16. Estoppel by holding out as partner—In general.—The liability of a partner may be shown by his acts or declarations from which it might reasonably be concluded that he was such partner. White v. Whaley, 1 App. C. C. § 102.

A contract for the division of profits of certain municipal improvement contracts, held to constitute defendant a partner rendering him liable for supplies furnished to carry on the work. Kelley Island Lime & Transport Co. v. Masterson, 100 T. 38, 96 S. W. 457.

A purchaser of a partner's interest in a going firm with the intention that the business should be incorporated held a partner in a new firm, where the business was not incorporated, but was conducted in the firm name. Freeman v. Huttig Sash & Door Co., 105 T. 660, 153 S. W. 122.

17. Conduct constituting holding out.—The fact that defendant B. said he had authority to buy wood for a firm was not a representation that he was a member of the firm. Armstrong v. King (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 629.

18. Knowledge of third person.—The fact that certain persons allowed themselves to be held out as partners held not to render them liable to one not extending credit on the faith thereof. Burrows v. Grover Irr. Co. (Civ. App.) 41 S. W. 822.

19. Defective corporations.—Continuation of a corporate business under a new name, without complying with the law in such case makes the stockholders liable as partners. Robinson v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 79 S. W. 103.

Plaintiffs who purchased stock from defendant in erroneous belief that company was incorporated, held not responsible as partners for depreciation in value of company's property, and entitled to rescission without placing defendant in statu quo. Bolton v. Frather, 35 C. A. 295, 80 S. W. 666.

20. Evidence to show relation—Admissibility.—See notes under Art. 3697.

21. Weight and sufficiency.—An affidavit to a sworn account against a partnership proves the partnership, unless the same is denied under oath, as well as all other facts necessary to make out a prima facie case. Carder v. Wilder, 1 App. C. C. § 14.

It is not competent to prove a partnership by general reputation, common rumor, or the opinion or belief of a witness founded on such hearsay testimony. White v. Whaley, 1 App. C. C. § 103; Cleveland v. Duggan, 2 App. C. C. § 56.
II. NAME, POWERS AND PROPERTY OF FIRM

22. Firm name.—Facts held not inconsistent with a finding that all the business of a banking partnership was done in the firm name of the “Bank of L.” Masterson v. Manganese, 78 C. A. 262, 61 S. W. 608.

23. Powers and property of firm as a body.—A power may be conferred on a firm to execute a conveyance of land. McCulloch County Land & Cattle Co. v. Whitefort, 21 C. A. 314, 50 S. W. 1042.

24. What is firm property in general.—Where A. contracted for the purchase of a storehouse and merchandise, and by articles of partnership with B. and C. admitted them to equal interest with himself in the storehouse and merchandise, they stipulating that they would pay their proportion of the purchase-money, held, that the property thereby became partnership property of the firm. Rogers v. Nichols, 29 T. 719.

The fact that a conveyance of land is made to parties who are partners, and that it may be used after being thus conveyed for partnership purposes, does not necessarily impress on it the character of partnership property. Griffie v. Mixcy, 68 T. 210.

26. Partnership real estate.—Where a partner incurs a debt to secure money withdrawn by a partner from the business is firm property, where it is withdrawn in bad faith, without the knowledge and consent of the other partner, but where the other partner knows of and consents to such transaction. Hengy v. Hengy (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 1127.
III. MUTUAL RIGHTS, DUTIES AND LIABILITIES OF PARTNERS

27. Construction of articles of partnership in general.—A partnership under articles providing no definite time for its dissolution held to be a partnership at will. Wright v. Ross, 30 C. A. 297, 79 S. W. 334.

Partnership contract construed, and a partner held not liable for one-half the losses. Johnston v. Steele, 48 C. A. 336, 197 S. W. 631.

28. Interest on debts from one to another.—Suma due by one partner to another do not bear interest until after settlement; but if the parties agree that interest shall be paid, such agreement will govern. McKay v. Overton, 65 T. 63.

29. Interests of partners in firm property.—In the absence of evidence as to the respective shares of partners in the capital stock the presumption is that they hold an equal interest. Johnson v. Ballard, 63 T. 486, 18 S. W. 656.

When partners credit themselves on firm property, in an action by the other partner for conversion, he need not show his interest in the partnership property; the presumption being that the interests of the partners are equal. Leonard v. Worsham, 18 C. A. 410, 45 S. W. 336.

A partner's right in the firm property is in effect a right to share in the surplus after discharging the firm debts, including reimbursements for advancements in excess of his proportional share. Sherk v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 832.

30. Books of account.—A partner held entitled to the absolute right to inspect books disclosing firm transactions, which the court will enforce by any reasonable method. Rush v. Browning, 103 T. 649, 132 S. W. 763.

A partner held to possess an absolute right to inspect account books of the firm kept by a bank of which the copartner is president. Id.

31. Accounting as to firm business.—Three partners engaged in a contract made in the name of one of them. A suit by the other two to compel an accounting for money earned can be maintained. Flanders v. Wood, 83 T. 277, 18 S. W. 572.

32. Interests in profits.—Under partnership agreement alleged by plaintiff, plaintiff held not to show that defendant received commission on sale of his own stock in order to entitle plaintiff to recover his share of commissions. Goodwin v. Morsen (Civ. App.) 128 S. W. 1182.

Transaction held to constitute a sale, rather than an exchange, as affecting the defendant's liability for commissions. Id.

Where plaintiff formed a partnership for the sale of lands, with the agreement that he should receive one-half of the commissions to which the firm would be entitled upon the sale of the land by it, and the other members of the firm sold to themselves individually and reaped the transaction was a partnership transaction, in the profits of which plaintiff was entitled to participate. Burns v. Russell Bros. (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 707.

33. Liabilities for expenses and losses.—Where two partners agreed to furnish $10,000; the three to share profits equally, and the third partner contracted debts, they were equally liable therefor, in absence of proof that any part of the $10,000 remained available, and he could not recover over against his partners prior to an accounting. Danforth, Roos & Eppstein v. Levin (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 559.

34. Dealings between partners.—The assignment of a negotiable note as collateral security for a pre-existing debt due from one partner to another is a transfer in due course of trade, for a valuable consideration. Liddell v. Crain, 63 T. 549.

35. Purchase of copartner's interest in firm.—A partner may rescind a sale of his partnership interest to his copartner on the ground of the latter's false representations. Butler v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 50 S. W. 1045.

A partner's right to share in the surplus and to have the assets applied to the firm debts which can be sold by a transfer of his interest in the property either to a copartner or to a stranger. Sherk v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 832.

36. Individual profits or benefits from firm business.—A partner is not permitted to do business to his own advantage which will sacrifice the interest of the firm. Where he uses partnership funds so that profits accrue, the profits belong to the partnership, and equity will not permit him to hold more than his proportionate share thereof. Gill v. Wilson, 2 App. C. C. § 383.

Liability to the other partners of member of a firm conducting a real estate brokerage purchase of land in his own name. Henson v. Byrne (Civ. App.) 41 S. W. 494.

37. Fraud as to firm or copartners.—The rule that the members of a firm owe to each other the most scrupulous good faith held to apply to all classes of partnership. Armstrong v. Simms (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 500.

Where one, ignorant of the oil business, trusted in the superior knowledge of another, the latter held liable for defrauding the former. Id.

38. Engaging in other business.—A partner in a firm owning and operating a telephone exchange held not, under the evidence, liable to the copartner for damages to his individual toll lines connected with the exchange. Bishop v. Riddle, 51 C. A. 317, 113 S. W. 151.

39. Partnership in different firms.—A sale by one who was the surviving partner in a dissolved partnership to a firm of which he was a member, if made in good faith, held not invalid as a sale to himself. Morris v. Owen (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 237.

40. Contribution between partners.—When under a partnership contract the proceeds of the security fund from which a partner is to be reimbursed for any advances, and the partnership is by consent terminated before they are sufficient, the partner who has advanced in excess of the amount due from him may maintain an action for the excess. Merriwether v. Hardeman, 61 T. 436.

The question will not lie by one partner against another, during the continuance of the partnership, to recover money alleged to have been contributed by the plaintiff to the firm which should have been paid in by his copartner. O'Neill v. Brown, 61 T. 34.

A defendant in an action on a note by the maker held not entitled to show failure of consideration. Martin v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 1068.

41. Action by partners.—Where there has been no accounting between partners, the liability of one for contribution cannot be made the subject of a set-off in an action at law. Worley v. Smith, 26 C. A. 270, 63 S. W. 903.

The right of contribution between partners obtains only after a full settlement or accounting. This shows inequities in the partners' accounts. Danforth, Rose & Eppaite v. Levin (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 569.

42. Pleading and practice.—See Title 37.

43. Evidence.—See, also, Art. 3687.

44. Damages.—For breach of a partnership contract to purchase and herd cattle, plaintiff held not entitled to recover a sum equal to his interest when the cattle were to be purchased. Shropshire v. Adams, 49 C. A. 339, 89 S. W. 448.

IV. RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES AS TO THIRD PERSONS

45. Representation of firm by partner.—Powers of partners in general.—One partner cannot withdraw a portion of the assets of the firm beyond the reach of creditors to their injury. B. C. Evans Co. v. Kingsbury (Civ. App.) 25 S. W. 729.

46. — Commercial character of partnership.—When a firm is non-trading partnership. Huey v. Fish, 15 C. A. 455, 49 S. W. 29.

A member of a "trading partnership" held empowered to execute a note for its debt. Hatchett & Large v. Sunset Brick & Tile Co. (Civ. App.) 99 S. W. 174.

47. — Scope of firm business.—Where one dealing with a partner knows the contract not to be in the usual course of dealing of the firm, the firm is not bound. Goode v. McCartney, 10 T. 192.

A note executed in the firm name by one partner does not bind the other partner where it is given for a consideration disconnected with the business of the partnership. Burleigh v. Parton, 21 T. 585.

When the subject-matter of a contract is consistent with the partnership business, or incident thereto, an act of one partner is binding upon all. Richardson v. Thacker, 1 App. C. C. § 138.

The implied authority of a partner to contract so as to bind the firm relates only to the business in which the firm is engaged. S. W. Slayden & Co. v. Palmo (Civ. App.) 90 S. W. 908.

A contract by a partner in the firm name held not within the scope of the firm business, and not binding on the firm unless ratified. S. W. Slayden & Co. v. Palmo, 53 C. A. 227, 117 S. W. 1064.

48. Limitations on liability.—A person who deals with a partnership, after he has express notice of the limited liability of one of the firm, is bound by such limitation. Carhart v. Killough, 1 App. C. C. § 112; Gallagher v. Heidenheimer, 3 App. C. C. § 133.

Whenever credit is given to a firm within the scope of the business of that firm, whether the partnership be of a general or limited nature, it will bind all the partners, notwithstanding any secret reservation between them, which is unknown to those that give the credit. Franklin v. Hardie, 1 App. C. C. § 1220.

49. — Partner in different firms.—One who sells goods to another knowing him to be a member of two different firms of the same name must ascertain by inquiry with whom the goods are to be held for the firm. He cannot hold the firm for which the goods were not purchased responsible. Cushing v. Smith, 43 T. 261.

Where one member of a firm, engaged in banking under one name and in the real-estate business, under another name, borrowed money in the name of the real-estate firm, it is not liable, unless under such partnership such power is implied. Mastersen v. Mansfield, 25 C. A. 262, 61 S. W. 505.

In an action on notes for borrowed money, made by one partner in the name of a firm in the real-estate business, evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that he had no implied power to bind the firm. Id.

50. — Individual credit or interest of partner in general.—Liability of firm for conversion by member thereof in a transaction by the firm, in the ordinary course of business, determined. Filter v. Meyer, 16 C. A. 235, 41 S. W. 152.

When a partner contracted for the purchase of goods, and they were sold to him on his own credit, he was an original promisor and liable therefor without reference to his connection with the firm. Brown v. Brown (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 551.

51. — Use of firm name.—A bond executed in a partnership name, which does not pertain to the ordinary business of the firm or in settling up its affairs, which is executed by one member of the firm without the knowledge or consent of the others, and when nothing has been done by the other partners that would estop them from denying the authority, will not bind the firm. A subsequent ratification will supply authority. Where the firm name is used as a surety for a third person, the presumption prevails that such use is outside of the firm business. Fore v. Hitson, 20 T. 517, 8 S. W. 292.

A member of a firm cannot bind the firm by the use of its name outside of the partnership business. Nolan County v. Simpson, 74 T. 218, 11 S. W. 1098; Patty v. Hillsboro Roller Mills Co., 23 S. W. 336, 4 C. A. 224.

A single member of a firm may exercise a power of attorney conferred on the firm to execute a deed. McCulloch County Land & Cattle Co. v. Whitefort, 21 C. A. 314, 50 S. W. 1042.

The estate of one partner is not liable for money loaned to another partner as an individual. Altgelt v. Elmendorf (Civ. App.) 84 S. W. 412.

A firm held liable on a note given for it in the name of one of the partners. Dockery v. Faulkner (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 501.

54. A contract on partnership account, and on the joint credit of the partners, is binding, although made in the individual names of one of the partners, Burnley v. Rice, 18 T. 481. Partnership contract not liable for individual undertaking of a member. Beatty v. Bulger, 28 C. A. 117, 66 S. W. 593.

55. — Purchases and sales.—Where land procured by one of the members of a firm, with the agreement that the latter must accept the deeds and pay all cost of purchasing the same, and afterwards, without his knowledge or consent, or his waiver of his right to a commission, bought by the other two members of the firm individually, their agreement, as part of the consideration and contract of sale, that the vendor should pay no commission, bound the third partner, under the rule that each member of a partnership in partnership transactions is an authorized agent of all the members. Burns v. Russell Bros. (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 767.

56. Where goods are purchased by a partnership and the firm obligation given, agreements between the partners as to their liabilities are not binding on the payee. Barton v. R. P. Ash & Co. (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 608.

57. — Mortgages or deeds of trust.—One partner, with the consent of the other, may, by deed of trust, create a valid lien on land and convey the entire title. Where there is a sale of goods in the name of the seller it is not affected by the death of a partner. Schwab Clothing Co. v. Claunck (Civ. App.) 29 S. W. 922.

58. When one partner may not mortgage the entire assets of the firm without the consent of copartner: Huey v. Fish, 15 C. A. 455, 46 S. W. 29; Ewing v. Kapp, 10 T. 195, 58 S. W. 117; Sanger v. Ker, 1 App. C. C. § 1086; and such transfer passes no title to the transferee, at least in the absence of the consent of the other partners, such authority is implied. Lee v. Hamilton, 12 T. 413.

A firm held bound by collections made by a partner, though he may afterward have used the money for his individual benefit. Progressive Lumber Co. v. Rogers & Crole (Civ. App.) 120 S. W. 260.

The implied power of each partner to receive payment of and collect firm debts results from his general agency for the firm.

59. — Payment of individual debts with partnership funds.—One partner cannot apply the partnership funds or securities to the discharge of his own private debts, without the consent of the other members of the firm, whether the separate creditor knew the property to be partnership property or not (Goode v. McCartney, 10 T. 195; Lee v. Hamilton, 12 T. 413; Powell v. Meeze, 18 T. 401; Young v. Reed, 25 T. Sup. 113; Daugherty v. Haynes [Civ. App.] 28 S. W. 692; Sanger v. Ker, 1 App. C. C. § 1086) and such transfer passes no title to the transferee, at least in the absence of the consent of the other partners. (Anderson v. Boyd, 54 T. 168).

60. — Borrowing money.—Evidence held to justify the inference that borrowing money was within the scope of a partnership. Harris County v. Donaldson, 20 C. A. 454, 48 S. W. 721.

Where it is the general usage of a firm for one partner in his own name to borrow money for the firm, it will be presumed as between the firm and persons dealing with it that the members of the firm intended the power to be exercised by the acting partner. Progressive Lumber Co. v. Rogers & Crole (Civ. App.) 120 S. W. 260.

61. — Negotiable instruments.—Every partner has an implied authority to bind his partner by the making of notes and the drawing and accepting of bills for commercial purposes, consistent with the object of the partnership, and to rebut this presumption of authority there must be proof of fraud or of a knowledge of the want of authority or of notice. Crozier v. Kirker, 4 T. 252, 51 Am. Dec. 724; Nunn v. Lackey, 4 App. C. C. § 1331; Richie v. Levy, 69 T. 133, 6 S. W. 655.

Parol evidence admissible to show that a note for the purchase of land given in the name of a firm was binding on the firm. Morrison v. Faulkner, 89 T. 128, 15 S. W. 797.

Partnership to purchase and sell tract of land held to exist after the land is sold and notes received for the price. Spencer v. Jones, 92 T. 516, 50 S. W. 118, 71 Am. St. Rep. 570.

A note executed by a member of a trading partnership is binding on the partnership. Wallace & Reid v. Reed Bros., 54 C. A. 457, 117 S. W. 1019.

62. — Suretyship and guaranty.—A member of a commercial partnership has no implied authority to bind the firm as sureties or guarantors of the obligations of others. Buchard v. Cavina, 77 T. 365, 14 S. W. 338; Olive v. Morgan, 28 S. W. 572, 8 C. A. 654.

63. — Compromises and releases.—A partner may bind his firm by the compromise of a debt due the partnership of which he is a member, if the debtor has neither knowledge nor notice that the partner is acting in violation of his obligation and duties to the firm, or for purposes disapproved of by the firm, or in fraud of its rights. Stout v. Bank, 69 T. 384, 8 S. W. 608.

Either member of a partnership has authority to settle, collect and compromise debts before or after the dissolution of the firm. Weir Plow Co. v. Evans (Civ. App.) 24 S. W. 38.
PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT STOCK COMPANIES

Art. 6148

A collusive settlement with one partner in fraud of the others is of no effect against the firm. (Civ. App.) 143 S. W. 236.

62. — The indemnity of a partner is chargeable with fraud of another partner in procuring a note, whether he had actual knowledge or not. Gill v. First Nat'l Bank (Civ. App.) 47 S. W. 751.

Under the facts, held that a landlord, to the amount of his claim for which he had a lien, sold a member of firm a member of which had appropriated the tenant's crop. Thomas v. Tucker, Zeve & Co., 40 C. A. 327, 89 S. W. 802.

A conspiracy between a partner and an employee of the firm to slander an individual held not to render the firm liable for the slander. Wessels v. W. Y. Davis & Son (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 399.

63. — Estoppel to deny partner's authority.—A partner held estopped to deny that his copartner had power to borrow money on notes due the firm. Spencer v. Jones (Civ. App.) 47 S. W. 665.

64. — Ratification.—A contract executed in the name of a firm by a partner held ratified by his copartner. Hatchett & Large v. Sunset Erlick & Tile Co. (Civ. App.) 99 S. W. 174.

65. — Rights acquired by firm.—In proceedings to restrain defendant from re-engaging in the photography business, defendant held bound by a statement made to plaintiff's partner, whether plaintiff was present or not. Parrish v. Adwell (Civ. App.) 124 S. W. 441.

66. — Notice of partner's transactions.—Each member of a firm is chargeable with notice of the transactions of the others, within the scope of the partnership business, but not of the sale by a partner of his individual interest in partnership property, or of his representations in making the sale. Liddell v. Crain, 52 T. 549.

Knowledge of a partner executing a note and mortgage in the firm name held not to notice to the copartner and third persons purchasing the partner's interest. Hawkins v. Western Nat. Bank of Hereford (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1191.

67. — Undisclosed partnership.—Partners, although not known to be such, are liable for firm debts. Devine v. Martin, 15 T. 26; Ford v. McBryde, 45 T. 488; Mann v. Clapp, 1 App. C. C. § 609.

Partners are liable for articles furnished for the benefit of the firm to an individual member, though the vendor does not know of the existence of the firm, and though he supposed himself dealing with an individual partner, by charging him alone on his books. Ford v. McBryde, 45 T. 488; Devine v. Martin, 15 T. 26; Mann v. Clapp, 1 App. C. C. § 608; Strauss v. Jones, 37 T. 313.

68. — Misrepresentation as to partnership.—A partner feeding cattle under contract with his copartner held not entitled to recover therefor from the sellers of the cattle to the copartner, who did not know of the partnership, and retook the cattle for nonpayment. Buchanan v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 51 S. W. 33.

Where persons were doing business under a firm name, all of the partners were liable on notes signed by the partner in whose name the business was transacted. Moore v. Williams, 142, 62 S. W. 977.

70. — Acts of agent of firm.—Partners are bound by the acts of their agent acting within the scope of the agency as well as by the acts of each partner acting within the scope of the firm. Autrey v. Linn (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 197.

71. — Assets to liabilities in general.—The claim of the owner of goods transferred to a person subsequently entering a partnership held not to be a partnership liability. Holder v. Shelby (Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 590.

72. — Priority of partnership debts.—Partnership debts claim a priority of payment out of the partnership effects before the individual debt of one of the members of the firm. Converse v. McKee, 14 T. 20; Rogera v. Nichols, 20 T. 719; Warren v. Wallis, 38 T. 226; De Forest v. Miller, 42 T. 34; Moore v. Steele, 67 T. 435, 3 S. W. 448; Dunaney v. Johnson, 22 S. W. 121, 3 C. A. 174.

Where one sells his interest in the partnership property bona fide to his copartner, upon the terms that his copartner shall pay the debts of the firm, and pay him a certain price for his interest, the assets of the firm immediately become the separate property of the purchasing partner, discharged of any lien in favor of the partnership debts, and, upon the decease of the purchasing partner, go to his administrator subject to the ordinary rules of administration, and cannot be claimed by the selling partner, or surviving partner of the firm; nor can the latter claim that such assets shall be applied first to the payment of the partnership debts. White v. Parish, 20 T. 698, 73 Am. Dec. 204.

Partnership creditors will not be heard to complain of an application of the partnership assets to the payment of the individual debts of the members of the firm, unless it be made to appear there is not enough partnership property to satisfy both the creditors of the firm and of the individual members thereof. De Causey v. Baily, 57 T. 669.

Equity does not subrogate a partnership creditor to the partner's right to have the partnership property applied to the payment of the partnership debts. This right of subrogation applies only where there is a real partnership. Grabenheimer v. Rindskoff, 64 T. 49.

Though partnership transactions are in violation of public policy, the proceeds belong to the firm as against Individual creditors. Patty-Joiner Co. v. City Bank of Sherman, 15 C. A. 475, 41 S. W. 173.

PARTNERSHIPS AND JOINT STOCK COMPANIES

Partnership assets will be applied to the payment of partnership debts notwithstanding the fact that the surviving partner turned them over to the administrator of the deceased partner with the knowledge of the firm's creditor. Levy's Estate v. Archerhold (Civ. App.) 44 S. W. 46.

Each partner has the right to require the application of all the firm's assets to the payment of the firm's debts. Scher v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 522.

73. To debts of individual partners.—See Batchelor v. Sanger et al., 15 C. A. 110, 38 S. W. 355.

When the creditor has taken a judgment against one partner, as on his individual contract, equity will not aid him to subject the partnership property to its satisfaction, especially where he shows that the partnership property will not satisfy the partnership liabilities. Gaut v. Reed, 24 T. 46, 76 Am. Dec. 94.

A separate interest of a partner may be seized and sold under execution, subject to the rights of other partners, and the credit shall be left until these rights are ascertained, but may require the sheriff to proceed and sell. De Forest v. Miller, 42 T. 34; Warren v. Wallis, 42 T. 472; Bradford v. Johnson, 44 T. 381; Weaver v. Ashcroft, 50 T. 457; Schley v. Hale, 1 App. C. C. § 530.

The separate creditor of a partner may by an attachment acquire a lien on the debtor partner's interest in the copartnership property, and may by execution subject it to sale. Lee v. Wilkins, 65 T. 205.

Partnership credits cannot be reached by garnishment process for the individual debt of a member of such partnership. Seaton v. Brooking, 1 App. C. C. § 104.

In a suit by partners the defendant may plead and set off an individual debt due him from one of the members of the firm who is insolvent. Hahn v. Cook, 1 App. C. C. § 883; Singer v. Manufacturing Co. v. Wood, 1 App. C. C. § 117.

As to application of partnership assets to payment of individual debts, see Wiggins v. Blackshear, 26 S. W. 939; Sanchez v. Goldfrank (Civ. App.) 27 S. W. 204.

74. Transactions by or between partners affecting creditors' rights.—Where one of two partners makes an absolute sale of his interest to the other, the property may be levied on for the debts of the purchasing partner; but where the selling partner stipulates that he shall obtain a lien of the partnership property to secure payment of the partnership debts, and the agreement is duly recorded, or the separate creditor has actual notice, the lien, and remedy thereon, remain the same as if there was a dissolution without sale. Rogers v. Nichols, 39 T. 719.

After the levy of an execution on partnership property to satisfy a separate debt of one partner, the copartners cannot dissolve the partnership, make a settlement of their joint effects, in which the debtor partner is paid for his share, and in which property (other than that levied on) greater than the amount of the executions, and thereby defeat the levy so made. Thompson v. Tinnin, 25 T. Sup. 56.

Effect of agreement by purchaser of firm interest to pay firm debts on insolvency of new firm, as between creditors of the different firms, determined. Bell v. Beazley, 15 C. A. 639, 46 S. W. 491.

A purchaser held not estopped from claiming ownership against the seller's creditors because he was a secret partner of the seller. Texas Drug Co. v. Baker, 20 C. A. 634, 50 S. W. 157.

Waiver of breach of right to have interest of deceased partner applied to partnership debts held established. Luck v. Hopkins (Civ. App.) 54 S. W. 429.

In an action to foreclose a firm mortgage on land which afterwards became the sole property of one, evidence of notice that one partner assumed all the firm debts, including such note, was inadmissible. Eastham v. Patty, 22 C. A. 473, 69 S. W. 224.

Where a partner conveys his interest in the firm property to his copartner, thereby dissolving the firm, without in any manner reserving the quasi lien of the firm creditors, the quasi lien is lost. Hawkins v. Western Nat. Bank of Hereford (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1191.

A firm while a going concern may transfer its property to an honest purchaser for value. Id.

75. Actions by or against firms or partners.—On a trial of the right to property in possession of and claimed by a partnership firm, neither the rights of the partners, nor the equities between the partners themselves, nor between the firm and its creditors, can or will be adjudicated. Grant v. Williams, 1 App. C. C. § 384.

A charge authorizing recovery by one partner of all damages for levy on the partnership property held erroneous. P. B. Haight & Co. v. Turner & Pierce, 44 C. A. 655, 99 S. W. 196.

76. Process.—See Art. 1862.

77. Parties.—See, also, chapter 5 of Title 37.

An ordinary action for debt is maintainable by one firm against another, irrespective of the fact that the same person is a member of both firms, and thus appears as both plaintiff and defendant. Douglass v. Neil, 37 T. 529.

A copartner who is not privy to the contract need not be joined in a suit against the firm. Garrett v. Muller, 37 T. 558; McIlhenny v. Lee, 43 T. 205; Speake v. Prewitt, 6 T. 252; Jackson v. Alexander, 8 T. 199.

An incoming partner is not a necessary party to a pending suit. Gill v. Bickel, 10 C. A. 673, 99 S. W. 919.

Where member of a firm contracts in his own name, for his own benefit, and assigns to the firm, a suit thereon must be brought by the partners. Cleveland v. Heidenheimer, 92 T. 108, 46 S. W. 50.

One who sells goods to H. without knowing that B. was his partner, which fact was concealed, may sue H. alone, and seize the goods as his. Davis v. Bingham (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 840.

Where a contract of insurance was made with a mercantile firm composed of two partners, any partners' party to an action to recover for a loss thereunder, though one of them is a merely nominal partner, has no interest in the property, and is working for the other on a salary. Lion Fire Ins. Co. v. Heath, 29 C. A. 203, 68 S. W. 305.

78. Pleading.—See Chapters 2, and 8 of Title 37.
79. Presumptions, burden of proof and admissibility of evidence.—See Art. 3687.
80. Sufficiency of evidence.—In an action against an alleged firm on notes signed by one of the alleged partners, where the partnership was denied, held that the evidence tended to show a firm, and hence it was error to direct for defendants. Moore v. Williams, 26 C. A. 142, 62 S. W. 977.

Evidence held insufficient to show that a person was a member of a firm. Bartholomew v. Shepperd, 41 C. A. 579, 93 S. W. 218.

81. Instructions.—See Chapter 15 of Title 37.
82. Judgment against partners when all not served.—See Art. 2096.
83. Execution and enforcement of judgment.—See, also, Art. 3743.

If a judgment be obtained against a partnership, the judgment creditor is not required to first exhaust the partnership property before he can levy upon the outside or separate property of a partner. Webb v. Gregory, 49 C. A. 323, 198 S. W. 478.

V. RETIREMENT AND ADMISSION OF PARTNERS

84. Withdrawal from firm in general.—One partner cannot exclude another from a partnership. While he himself can withdraw from it, and thus terminate the partnership, he would be liable to his copartner for damages sustained by his improper withdrawal from the partnership. Ball v. Britton, 58 T. 57.

85. Transfer of partner's interest to copartner.—The doctrine of caveat emptor held not to apply to a certain transaction between partners. Seal v. Holcomb, 48 C. A. 330, 107 S. W. 916.

86. Transfer of partner's interest to third person.—A person who was induced to buy an interest in the partnership on the representations of the members of the firm as to the firm indebtedness held entitled to rescind on the ground of fraud. Beene & Trotter v. Rotan Grocery Co., 50 C. A. 448, 110 S. W. 162.

A partner's right to share in the surplus and to have the assets applied to the firm debts property which can be sold and is sold by a transfer of his interest in the property either to a copartner or to a stranger. Sherk v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 931.

87. Assets of old firm.—Where, after the dissolution, notes pledged to the retiring member were by the remaining partners transferred to a bank, if it knew of the dissolution, it could not presume that the full title of the claims was in the new firm. First Nat. Bank v. Watson (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 237.

Continuing partner held entitled to recover penalty provided by statute for payment of usurious interest on firm note. Lasater v. First Nat. Bank, 96 T. 345, 72 S. W. 1057.

In a suit on a partnership obligation after dissolution of firm, evidence held not to show that a partner agreed that the assets retained by him should be burdened with lien in favor of retiring partner to secure payment of firm debt. Blackwell v. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank, 97 T. 445, 73 S. W. 518.

88. Obligations of old firm.—Rights of creditors where a new firm is formed by a entry of an additional member. Schneider v. Roe (Civ. App.) 25 S. W. 558.

89. Liabilities of retiring partners.—A dormant partner is not liable for a debt contracted after he has retired, unless he had been previously known as a partner. Speake v. Frewitt, 6 T. 282; Jackson v. Alexander, 8 T. 109; Bradshaw v. Apperson, 36 T. 133.

When one member of a partnership retires from a firm and the remaining members agree with him to pay the firm debts, and these facts are known to the creditor, the member so retiring will be considered in law a surety. Gourley v. Tyler, 4 App. C. C. § 215, 13 S. W. 731.

While a firm was in existence a creditor was notified by the active member of the name of his secret partner. The creditor, relying upon the solvency of the secret partner, opened an account with the firm, which account was kept up after the dissolution. Held, that the secret partner cannot claim to have been a dormant partner against such creditor, and he is liable to such creditor for debts subsequently incurred in the name of the firm before the creditor had notice of its dissolution or of the retirement of such member. Bank v. Bergstron, 1 C. A. 151, 29 S. W. 835.

Forbearance to sue continuing partner of a firm held not pursuant to a binding agreement to extend the time of payment sufficient to discharge the retiring partner. Barlow v. Frederick Stearns & Co., 44 C. A. 321, 98 S. W. 455.

90. Liabilities of continuing partners or new firm.—Partnership property held liable for firm debts, though one partner bought the interest of the other without knowing of the indebtedness. Dodge v. Faulkner (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 591.

91. Liabilities of incoming or succeeding partners.—An incoming partner does not by his entry into the firm per se become liable for the existing debts of the firm. He becomes a member of the firm for the future, and is bound for its future liabilities only. If the incoming partner agrees with the firm to pay the existing liabilities of the firm, such agreement is binding between the parties to it, but does not extend to a creditor, and does not confer upon him the right to fix the debt upon the new partner. Heldenheimer v. Franklin, 1 App. C. C. § 840.

Incoming partner held liable for a precedent firm debt if he binds himself to pay it. Baptist Book Concern v. Carwesell (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 858.

The fact that a new partner, induced to enter a firm by fraud, authorized his partner to pay off debts of the old firm with firm money on hand, held not to authorize the partner to give notes of the new firm for the debt, nor did it show an abandonment of the defense of fraud to hold him liable individually for the old firm’s debts. Beenie & Trotter v. Rotan Grocery Co., 50 C. A. 448, 110 S. W. 162.

Defendant held liable for debts of a partnership, whether incurred before or after his purchase of an interest. Freeman v. Huttig Sash & Door Co. (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 740.

If a partner of a going firm does not thereby become liable for debts previously incurred in the absence of an agreement, express or implied, to that effect. Freeman v. Huttig Sash & Door Co., 105 T. 560, 153 S. W. 122.

A purchaser of a partner’s interest in a going firm is not of itself sufficient to create an assumption of his individual liability for existing firm debts. Id.

A purchaser of a partner’s interest in a going firm is not liable for existing firm debts for goods purchased merely because the new firm receives and uses them for its own benefit. Id.

A purchaser of a partner’s interest in a going firm is not personally liable for firm debts merely because he recognized that the firm property was subject thereto, and did not expect to obtain the partner’s interest free therefrom. Id.

A partner’s interest in a going firm held liable for goods ordered by the firm before the change in the firm, and thereafter delivered, but not liable for goods ordered and delivered before the change. Id.

Persons purchasing a two-thirds interest in partnership reality, with knowledge of breach by the firm of contracts for the sale of the land, were responsible for the entire liability of the firm, and not only to the extent of their interest. Kinney County Land Co. v. Cubbage (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 591.

A new partner of an existing firm is not liable for debts previously incurred, in the absence of agreement to that effect. Rodgers-Wade Furniture Co. v. Wynn (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 340.

92. Assumption of obligations of old firm.—In suit against a firm, contention of plaintiff that agreement whereby one of the partners had been released from his liability was without consideration held without merit. Texas Drug Co. v. Coulter (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 110.

A buyer of a partner’s interest in a firm under an agreement binding the partner to pay firm debts held required to maintain actions for damages for wrongful attachments of the property Bank v. Sinking, 193, 129 S. W. 472.

A partner selling his interest in a firm and agreeing a pay firm debts held liable to the buyer on a failure to pay the firm debts. Id.

A party to a transaction involving an exchange of property held entitled to a cancellation of note given by him to the adverse party. Id.

A partner transferring his interest in the firm to a third person may, as a part of the consideration, require the third person to assume the outstanding indebtedness of the firm. Fordson Machinery & Farming Co. v. Wynn (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 340.

A retiring partner, who sought to escape liability for firm debts accruing prior to notice given of the retirement, had the burden of showing that the purchaser of his interest assumed the firm debts, and, where he failed to do so, payments made by the new firm could not be applied to the debts incurred prior to the retirement and notice. Id.

93. Liabilities of retiring partner for acts and obligations of continuing partner or new firm.—When persons have held themselves out to the public as partners, and authorized others to contract and deal with them on the faith or their joint liability, those who thus deal with them are authorized to act upon the presumption that such relations continue until notice is given of the dissolution of the partnership, or such facts are shown as will raise the presumption that it was known; and whether a party who deals with one member of a firm upon the credit or in the name of the firm, after it has been dissolved, has any rights or liabilities under such assumption is a question of fact and must be determined by the jury. Tudor v. White, 37 T. 534; Davis v. Willis, 47 T. 154; Long v. Garnett, 59 T. 239; Grabenheimer v. Rindskoff, 46 T. 49; Blanks v. Haflin (Civ. App.) 30 S. W. 841.

The signing of a note with the firm name in liquidation is of itself notice to the taker of the note that the partnership has been dissolved. Haddock v. Crocheron, 32 T. 276, 5 Am. Rep. 244; Cock v. Carson, 45 T. 429.

When the parties occupy the relation of dealer and customer, a retired partner must show notice of the dissolution to relieve himself from subsequent liability, which may be done by direct or circumstantial evidence sufficient to establish the fact that the party seeking to enforce the liability knew of the dissolution. Laird v. Ivens, 45 T. 621, citing White v. Tudor, 24 T. 639, 76 Am. Dec. 126; Mann v. Clapp, 1 App. C. C. § 504; Miller v. Schneider, 2 App. C. C. § 521.

A retiring partner can only relieve himself from liability for debts thereafter incurred in the firm name by giving express notice to all persons dealing with the firm, and the world in general, of the dissolution of the partnership. Dunham v. Simon, 1 U. C. 648.

The rule as to notice to creditors of a dissolution does not apply to dormant or secret partners. Bank v. Bergstrom, 1 C. A. 151, 20 S. W. 836.

To relieve the retiring members from liability on subsequent contracts with remaining members, notice must be shown. Id.

A dormant partner, leaving a firm without notifying one who is ignorant of his being a partner, held not liable for contracts subsequently entered into with such person. Baptist Book Concern v. Carswell (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 858.

A retiring partner held not liable on a firm note given by the continuing partner in the firm name, after dissolution, where payee’s agent had notice of the dissolution before the note was made. Bonnet v. Tips Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 69 S. W. 59.

Where immediately after the dissolution, the continuing partners borrowed from a bank, it is not to charge them with the debt, not assuming to charge them with any debt entered into by the old firm. First Nat. Bank v. Watson (Civ. App.) 66 S. W. 292.
A partnership once proved to exist continues so far as liability against the partners is concerned, and dissolution and notice is not to one seeking to charge the partners. Miller v. Laughlin ( Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 711.

Retiring partners giving no notice of their retirement held liable for obligations there after incurred. Thompson v. Harmon ( Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1101.

A partner who retires from the firm is liable to a creditor for the part of the account charged until notice of the retirement. Id.

Actions after change of membership.—A partner who bought another's interest held entitled to recover only one-half the amount of funds appropriated and not charged on the books by the other, and only one-half the difference between the actual indebtedness of the firm and the amount as represented by the other. Seal v. Holcomb, 45 C. A. 230, 107 S. W. 916.

In an action against retiring partners in a bank, evidence held to sustain a finding that such partners gave no notice to the bank's customers of their retirement. Thompson v. Harmon ( Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1161.

Evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that depositors in a partnership bank made their deposits in the belief that the partnership was composed of the same persons who originated it. Id.

Evidence, including a bill of sale and a deed, held sufficient to show that parties purchasing a two-thirds interest in a firm engaged in selling a large tract of land assumed the obligations of their assignors, not only with respect to the uncompleted contracts transferred to them, but as to all of the firm's contracts with purchasers. Kinney County Land Co. v. Coughlin ( Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 591.

VI. DISSOLUTION, SETTLEMENT AND ACCOUNTING

Presumption of continuance of relation.—When it has been proven that a partnership existed at a given date, it is presumed to continue until it has been proven to have dissolved. Devine v. Martin, 15 T. 25.

Causes of dissolution—Transfer of partner's interest.—A voluntary assignment or sale of the interest of a partner dissolves the partnership. Carroll v. Evans, 27 T. 262.

Sale under execution of the interest of one member of a firm in partnership property creates a dissolution of the partnership, and makes the purchaser a tenant in common with the remaining member. The purchaser is not bound to become a partner in a partnership enterprise, nor the remaining member to admit the purchaser as a partner, but if the partner refuses to recognize the purchaser's interest in the property, the purchaser has a right to seek partition or, if the parties agree, to sue for damages for conversion, in which case the value of the property at the time of the conversion is the measure of damages. Carter v. Roland, 53 T. 540; Moore v. Steele, 67 T. 435, 3 S. W. 448.

A sale by a partner to his copartner of his interest dissolves the partnership and converts the property into the individual property of the purchaser free from the equities of the seller. Sherck v. First Nat. Bank ( Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 832.

Misconduct of partner.—A partner excluded from the management of or from a participation in the profits of a partnership held entitled to a dissolution thereof. Rische v. Rische, 46 C. A. 23, 104 S. W. 849.

Exclusion of a partner from participation in the management and profits of a partnership held ground for dissolution. Holder v. Shelby ( Civ. App.) 118 S. W. 590.

Marriage of feme sole.—A partnership is dissolved by the marriage of a member who was a feme sole. Brown v. Chancellor, 61 T. 437.

Death of partner.—An agreement that upon the death of one of two partners the other is to inherit the property of the survivor, is not the will of the survivor, and is not a will, and is not testamentary, in the absence of proof to the contrary. Gault v. Reed, 24 T. 46, 51 Am. Dec. 94. By operation of law a partnership is dissolved by the death of any of its members. An agreement taking the partnership out of this rule must be shown distinctly, and by evidence satisfactory. Alexander v. Lewis, 47 T. 481; Kottlitz v. Alexander, 34 T. 659.

By express agreement a partnership may be continued by the survivor after the death of one partner. Lewis v. Alexander, 51 T. 578.

A partnership can be extended by will so as to continue after the death of the testatrix. Mason v. Stevin, 1 App. C. C. § 13.

Rights, powers and liabilities after dissolution.—Effect of dissolution as to rights and liabilities of third persons.—On the death of a partner upon whose individual credit goods were sold to the partnership, the vendor may exercise the right of stoppage in transit. Fulton v. Thompson, 18 T. 278.

If during the existence of the partnership there was a request to pay certain subsisting bills, and the plaintiff paid them after the dissolution, and with the notice thereof, the partnership would be liable, unless there had been a revocation of the request; but if the only request was by one of the firm after dissolution, the other member of the firm would not be liable, unless before the dissolution there had been a similar course of business between the firms, and the payments were made without notice of the dissolution. Lee v. Stowe, 57 T. 444.

It could not affect a bailor's right to recover against two bailors for the value of a cot that the bailleurs during the bailment dissolved partnership, and one agreed to stand.

103. — Collection and payments.—After a dissolution of the partnership by death, the surviving partner is authorized to close up the affairs of the firm, and to this end may receive the debts due to the partnership, and apply the partnership assets and effects in discharge of its debts. Fulton v. Thompson, 18 T. 278; Weir Plow Co. v. Evans (Civ. App.) 24 S. W. 38.

There must be an actual payment of a firm debt by one partner after dissolution before he can maintain an action for contribution against the other. Long v. Garnett, 59 T. 225.

Before a division of assets a partner is entitled to receive a sufficient sum to reimburse him for all debts paid by him and sums advanced beyond his share of capital. Moore v. Steele, 67 T. 435, 8 S. W. 448.

104. — Sale with stipulation to refrain from competition.—W. Bros. sold out their undertakers' goods in D., and further stipulated by the firm name "not to undertake in D. so long as their vendee is in business." Held, that the obligation bound each member of W. Bros. It was competent in a suit upon the contract to prove the estimated value of business done by the defendant who had executed his contract by starting again in business. Welsh v. Morris, 81 T. 159, 16 S. W. 744, 16 Am. St. Rep. 200.

After dissolution of a partnership, one partner cannot bind the firm by a new contract. But when one dealing with the firm, without notice of dissolution, continues to deal, partnership is bound. White v. Hudson (Civ. App.) 36 S. 322.

Where after dissolution a partner changes time of payment of a note and rate of interest, he makes it his personal debt. Baptist Book Concern v. Carswell (Civ. App.) 46 S. W. 858.

106. — Making or indorsing negotiable instruments.—A note executed after the dissolution of the firm by one of the partners does not extinguish the partnership debt for which it was given, and a recovery may be had upon the account, notwithstanding the execution of the note. Seward v. L'Estrange, 36 T. 295.

While one of two or more partners cannot impose a new obligation on the firm after its dissolution, or vary, so as to bind the firm, the character of its existing contracts, yet, when one who has dealt with the firm during its continuance as such receives from one of its members, after its dissolution, but ignorant thereof, a note in payment of a firm debt, the firm will be bound for its payment. It is always a fact for the jury to determine whether the payee had notice. Long v. Garnett, 59 T. 229; Davis v. Willis, 47 T. 154; Tudor v. White, 27 T. 554.

A general authority given by one partner, on the dissolution of the firm, to his late partner, to settle up the business of the late firm, does not authorize him to give a note in the firm name for a firm debt, or to renew one that had been given before dissolution of the firm. Brown v. Chancellor, 61 T. 437.

After the dissolution of a partnership, a note executed by a member in the name of the firm in payment of a firm debt is not binding on other members of the firm, unless authorized or received in ignorance of dissolution. Funck v. Heintze (Civ. App.) 23 S. W. 417.

After dissolution of firm, a partner indorsing note payable to firm, to creditor who had notice of dissolution, held liable as indorser. Tarver v. Evansville Furniture Co., 59 C. A. 66, 48 S. W. 199.

After dissolution of firm, one partner indorsed a note payable to firm to creditor who had notice of dissolution. Held, that other partner could not be held liable as indorser. Id.

107. — Rights and liabilities of survivor as to estate of deceased.—Upon a dissolution of a partnership, the surviving partners must cease carrying on the trade or business; if they continue the business it is at their own risk, and they will be liable at the option of the representatives of the deceased partner to account for the profits, or be charged with interest upon the deceased partner's share of the profits, besides bearing all the loss. Franklin v. Tonjoues, 1 App. C. C. § 507.

On the dissolution of a partnership by death, the surviving partner cannot recover from the administrator of the deceased partner money or property passing to the partnership, unless needed to pay partnership debts, and can only recover his share of the same on a settlement of the partnership accounts. Id.

A partner, after death of his associate, has no right, as survivor, to claim a portion of the partnership as segregated to deceased with the survivor's consent; the partnership having been dissolved previous to the death of deceased. Stanton v. Nugent, 22 C. A. 163, 64 S. W. 793.

108. — Wrongful acts.—A surviving partner who claims the entire firm property and appropriates it to his own use as solatrior sale by the temporary administrator of the deceased partner, which sale the court refuses to confirm, is guilty of a conversion thereof. Goldstein v. Susholtz, 46 C. A. 552, 105 S. W. 219.

109. — Actions by or against partners after dissolution.—For pleading and practice, see Title 37; and for presumptions, burden of proof and admissibility of evidence, see Art. 3857.

The executor of the deceased partner has no right to intervene in a suit brought by the survivor to collect the debt, when the only object of the intervention is to join in the recovery. Watson v. Miller, 55 T. 289.

Where suit is instituted against a partnership, service of process upon one of the parties, or an appearance and answer by one partner, will authorize a judgment against the firm, which can be enforced by execution against the partnership property and the property of any partner who is served (Art. 1588); and it is very improbable that the partnership had been dissolved before suit, if there is partnership property which may be subject to execution. Sanger v. Overmier, 64 T. 57: Patten v. Cunningham, 63 T. 666; Alexander v. Stern, 41 T. 133; Rhodius v. Storey, 1 App. C. C. § 357; Farris v. Seifeld, 1
A suit may be maintained by the executrix of a deceased partner against another partner, without having a settlement of the partnership affairs, if the obligation sued upon shows an indebtedness by the defendant independent of the state of the partnership ac-
In a suit by the executrix of one partner against the surviving partner on a promisory note, the defendant cannot plead and set off a demand arising from a single partnership transaction or he should have prayed for the settlement of the partnership affairs, and that any sum found due him should be allowed as a set-off. Id.
When one of three partners dies, and another is insolvent and ceases to pay any attention to the affairs of the firm, and withdraws from all connection with it, the third person, who is solvent, and gives his active attention to the business of the firm, cannot sue on the note in his own name as surviving partner. Hines v. Dean, 1 App. C. C. § 690.
It is the right of a maker of a note to joint partners to have all the partners bound by the judgment, and if one of two surviving partners refuses to join in the action to recover the debt due the firm, he may be made a party defendant, and thus be concluded by the judgment. Id.
Where an insolvent partner misapplies and devotes to his own use partnership assets, which he delivers to the surviving partner, without consideration, the other partner may recover such assets Partnership liabilities are Joint and several. Webb v. Gregory, 49 C. A. 282, 108 S.
W. 478.
The right of a surviving partner to a portion of the salary due and unpaid the decayed partner at the time of his death, for services rendered such surviving partner as receiver of a railroad, could be determined only on a partnership accounting. Jones v.
Gardner (Civ. App.) 112 S. W. 526.
110. Distribution and settlement between partners and their representatives.—Rights of partnership. The remaining partners (Art. 111.) 42 S. W. 253.
111. Necessity of settlement in general.—An action cannot be maintained by one partner against another for contribution of expenditures incurred by a partner for the use of the partnership, without going into a settlement of the partnership accounts, in the absence of a special agreement or a separation from the transaction from the partnership
The adjustment of the accounts of a partnership is necessary to a determination of the rights of the partners in the property of the firm. The property of a partner consists in whatever portion of whatever balance may ultimately be left after the settlement of the partnership debts and statement of accounts between the partners, and neither party has any exclusive right to any portion of the joint effects for any sum due him until a balance of accounts be struck. Moore v. Steele, 67 T. 435; 3 S. W. 438; Hines v. Dean, 1
App. C. C. § 691.
112. Who entitled to require accounting.—Unless it is made to appear that a person owned some substantial interest in the assets of a company, the fact that he is excluded from participation in its business will not entitle him to an accounting. Bryant
v. Galbraith (Civ. App.) 43 S. W. 333.
113. Division of profits.—In an action by remaining partners against a former partner for a share of commissions, held, that a termination of the partnership before the deed was executed was no defense, where with that exception the deal was complete before the deed was executed. Dighton v. Wooley (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 253.
114. Private accounting and settlement.—In the absence of fraud or deceit a setlement of partnership matters will not be set aside, although it is harsh and unequal.
The trial court found that the firm assets had been divided between two partners upon a settlement between them, one taking his share in money, the other taking property, of which the land in controversy was part. In connection with other facts, held, that the land belonged to the party to whom it was allotted in the parcel

v. Adams, 5 C. A. 400, 120 S. W. 946.
Where the personal representative of a deceased partner was induced by the misrepresentations of the surviving partner to make a settlement, the question of damages from the misrepresentations in determining the validity of the settlement must be determained by the partnership affairs at the time of the settlement. Morris v. Owen (Civ.
App.) 145 S. W. 227.

business and to become a partner wherein determined. Peterson v. Barrow (Civ. App.) 105.

116. Actions for dissolution and accounting—in general.—A certain claim in a partnership

CHAPTER TWO

UNINCORPORATED JOINT STOCK COMPANIES—PERMITTING SUIT IN COMPANY NAME

Art. 6149. May sue or be sued in its company name.—Hereafter any unincorporated joint stock company or association, whether foreign or domestic, doing business in this state, may sue or be sued in any court of this state having jurisdiction of the subject matter in its company or distinguishing name; and it shall not be necessary to make the individual stockholders or members thereof parties to the suit. [Acts 1907, p. 240, sec. 1.]

To whom applicable.—Under Acts 31st Leg., 2d Ex. Sess., c. 32, relating to fraternal beneficiary associations, and this article, a voluntary unincorporated association doing business as a fraternal life insurance association may sue and be sued and a judgment was properly rendered against it in an action against it and its directors for a wrongful refusal to pay the amount of a policy to the beneficiary of a deceased member. Home Benefit Ass’n No. 3 of Coleman County v. Webster (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1022.

Unincorporated associations.—See notes at end of this chapter.

Art. 6150. Citation, upon whom served.—In suits against such companies or associations, service of citation may be had on the president, secretary, treasurer or general agent of such unincorporated companies. [Id. sec. 2.]

Who may be served.—Service of process against an unincorporated association in 1906, on a member who had charge of its affairs and was acting as manager, agent, or secretary pro tem., was sufficient service, especially in view of this article, which was thereafter enacted. Slaughter v. American Baptist Publication Society (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 324.

Art. 6151. Judgment against, conclusive against stockholders.—In suits by or against such unincorporated companies, whatever judgment shall be rendered shall be as conclusive on the individual stockholders and members thereof as if they were individually parties to such suits. [Id. sec. 3.]

Art. 6152. Effect of judgment where agent of company only is cited.—Where suit shall be brought against such company or association, and the only service had shall be upon the president, secretary, treasurer or general agent of such company or association, and judgment shall be rendered against the defendant company, such judgment shall be binding on the joint property of all the stockholders or members thereof, and may be enforced by execution against the joint property; but such judgment shall not be binding on the individual property of the stockholders or members, nor authorize execution against it. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 6153. Effect of judgment where individual stockholders are also cited.—In a suit against such company or association, in addition to service on the president, secretary, treasurer or general agent of such companies or associations, service of citation may also be had on any and all of the stockholders or members of such companies or associations; and, in the event judgment shall be against such unincorporated company or association, it shall be equally binding upon the individual property of the stockholders or members so served, and executions may issue against the property of the individual stockholders or members, as well as against the joint property; but executions shall not issue against the individual property of the stockholders or members until execution against the joint property has been returned without satisfaction. [Id. sec. 5.]

Debt of joint-stock company.—The indebtedness of a joint-stock company will be charged pro rata to the solvent members. Cameron v. First Nat. Bank (Clv. App.) 34 S. W. 178.

Art. 6154. This chapter cumulative; not to impair existing rights.—The provisions of this chapter shall not affect nor impair the right allowed unincorporated joint stock companies and associations to sue in the individual names of the stockholders or members, nor the right of any person to sue the stockholders or members; but the provisions or this chapter shall be construed as cumulative merely of other remedies now existing under the law. [Id. sec. 6.]

DECISIONS RELATING TO UNINCORPORATED ASSOCIATIONS IN GENERAL

Partnerships.—See notes at end of Chapter 1 of this title.

Limited partnerships.—See Arts. 6126–6148 and notes.

Joint-stock companies.—See Arts. 6149–6154 and notes.

By-laws.—By-laws adopted by voluntary associations are regarded as a contract of the members with each other, and determine their individual rights. Gaines v. Farmer, 55 C. A. 601, 119 S. W. 874.

Property and funds of association.—The assets of a defunct voluntary association do not constitute a trust fund for the benefit of creditors in the hands of purchasers of such assets. Industrial Lumber Co. v. Texas Pine Land Ass'n, 31 C. A. 375, 73 S. W. 875.

Members of a voluntary unincorporated association can hold property in no other way than by voting as depositaries of the legal title, and the equitable interest entitles each beneficiary to the same voice in the management and control of the property as if he were a joint owner and holder of the legal title. Clark v. Brown (Clv. App.) 108 S. W. 422.

The rights of members of churches and other voluntary associations not organized for commercial purposes in the property held for the common use held one of user only. Id.

Liability of members for acts and debts of association.—An unincorporated association is not a person, and has not the power to sue or be sued; but when it has been organized and conducted for profit it will be treated as a partnership, and its members held liable as partners. Slaughter v. American Baptist Publication Society (Clv. App.) 150 S. W. 224.

Officers and committees.—The right of a person to hold office in a purely benevolent society carrying no salary cannot be the basis of an election contest by a civil suit. Gaines v. Farmer, 55 C. A. 601, 119 S. W. 874.

Civil courts will not review the internal operations of a voluntary association except to protect a civil or property right of the complaining party. Id.

Mere receipt by one of the candidates for office in an association of a majority of the ballots cast did not vest in him any right to the position. Id.

Unauthorized false representations of one member of building committee of a lodge to a materialsman held not binding upon the lodge or upon an individual jointly interested with the lodge. Kuteman v. Lacy (Clv. App.) 144 S. W. 1184.

Actions by or against association.—The question of the validity of the grant of an interest in land to an unincorporated association held not involved in an action by a voluntary association to recover the cost of improvements put on the land by the association. Ackermann v. Ackermann Schuetzen Verein (Clv. App.) 60 S. W. 308.

The rule that a petition by the members of an association to recover on a contract in the name of the company was insufficient, unless incorporation was alleged, held not applicable to plaintiff's petition. Id.

A complaint by a voluntary association held not demurrable on the ground that it was brought in the name of the association, instead of the names of its members. Id.

A petition by a voluntary association held not to open to the objection that some of its alleged members were not in fact shown to be members. Id.

Members of a voluntary association may maintain an action on a contract executed for the benefit of the association. Id.
Where bondholders of an electric company formed an association to reconstruct certain of the company's lines under permission of its receiver, it could be sued for injuries to a servant only in the names of the members. Standard Light & Power Co. v. Munsey, 33 C. A. 416, 76 S. W. 921.

A voluntary association cannot be subjected to an ordinary judgment for debt. Methodist Episcopal Church South v. Clifton, 34 C. A. 248, 78 S. W. 732.

An unincorporated, voluntary association organized for charitable, and not for business purposes, can neither sue nor be sued, except where it be a joint stock association, or where individuals are held liable either in person or as agents for debts incurred for the benefit of the association, or where the plaintiffs have shown themselves entitled to subject the general, or some particular, property of the association to their claims by virtue of an equitable lien or some species of trust. Home Benefit Ass'n No. 3 of Coleman County v. Wester (Civ. App.) 146 S. W. 1022.

Unincorporated voluntary associations organized for the purpose of insuring its members, and not for charitable purposes, might be sued, though not possessed of any property. Id.
TITLE 103

PAWN BROKERS

Art. 6155. [3636] Definition of "pawnbroker."—A "pawnbroker" is one who pursues the business of lending money upon interest, and receiving upon deposit, as security for the payment of such loan and interest, any personal property. [R. S. 1879.]

Art. 6156. [3637] Pawnbroker shall give bond, and its requisites.
—No person shall pursue the business of a pawnbroker without first having given bond, with at least two good and sufficient sureties, in the sum of one thousand dollars, payable to the state of Texas, and approved by and filed with the clerk of the county court of the county in which such person proposes to pursue said business, conditioned that such person will faithfully comply with each and every requirement of the law governing such business. [Act April 28, 1874, p. 153. P. D. 7168p.]

Art. 6157. [3638] Bond shall be recorded and new bond shall be given every 12 months.—The bond required by the preceding article shall be recorded and safely kept in the office of the clerk of the county court of the county in which such pawnbroker pursues such business, the recording fees thereof to be paid by such pawnbroker; and a new bond shall be given, filed and recorded in the same manner as the first one every twelve months during the continuance of such business. [Id. P. D. 7168q.]

Art. 6158. [3639] Shall keep a register, and what the same shall show.—Each pawnbroker shall keep a well-bound book, in which he shall register all his transactions as a broker at the time the same occurs. Such register shall show:
1. The article of property received, giving an accurate description of the same.
2. From whom received.
3. The time and the amount for which the article is pawned.
4. The probable value of the article.
5. The rate of interest agreed upon.
6. The final disposition made of such property, and, if sold, to whom sold and the amount for which each article was sold. [Id. P. D. 7168p.]

Art. 6159. [3640] Book shall be open for inspection, etc.—Such book shall be kept open for inspection and the broker shall give, to the party pledging, a ticket corresponding to the entry on the book of registry. [Id.]
Art. 6160. [3641] Property pawned shall be sold after notice, when.—If any article deposited with such broker as a pawn shall not be redeemed at or before the time agreed upon, the broker shall sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at his usual place of business, after giving at least five days' notice of such sale. [Id. P. D. 7168q.]

Evidence as to sale.—Facts held insufficient to show such good faith on the part of a pawnbroker in selling pledged property as to render the sale valid. Uncle Sam's Loan Office v. Emery, 49 C. A. 236, 107 S. W. 1155.

Where a pawnbroker purchases pledged property at his own sale, the burden is upon him to show as against the pledgor that the sale was made according to law and with the utmost good faith. Id.

Art. 6161. [3642] How notice shall be given.—Such notice of sale shall be given by posting written or printed advertisements at not less than three public places in the county where such sale is to take place, one of which places shall be the court house of such county. [Id. P. D. 7168q.]

Art. 6162. [3643] Advertisement shall state what, and copy shall be filed in office of county clerk.—The written advertisements of sale shall state the time and place of such sale, and shall contain a full description of the article or articles to be sold; and the name or names of the person or persons depositing the same; and a copy thereof shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county court of the county where such sale takes place. [R. S. 1879.]

Art. 6163. [3644] Within what hours sales shall be made.—All sales made by a pawnbroker shall be made between the hours of ten o'clock a. m. and four o'clock p. m., and no sales shall be made upon Sunday or upon a legal holiday. [Id.]

Art. 6164. [3645] Report of sales to be made, and what the same shall show.—When a sale has been made, the pawnbroker shall, within five days thereafter, file with the clerk of the county court of the county where such sale was made, a report in writing and under oath, showing:

1. The time and place of such sale.
2. The notice given thereof.
3. A full description of the property sold and by whom deposited.
4. By whom purchased and the amount which each article was sold for.
5. The amount due the broker, principal, interest and expenses upon each article sold.
6. The amount of surplus of the proceeds of sale of each article, if any, after deducting the amount due the broker of principal, interest and expenses. [Id.]

In general.—The purpose of the statute is to give publicity to the sale in all its respects. It does not in terms prohibit a sale upon failure to comply with any requirement of law governing the business of pawnbrokers. Uncle Sam's Loan Office v. Emery, 49 C. A. 236, 107 S. W. 1156.

Art. 6165. [3646] What expenses shall be allowed and deducted.—The expenses named in the preceding article shall be such expenses as have been agreed upon by the parties to the contract; or, if there be no agreement in regard thereto, then the reasonable expenses of the sale only, such as reasonable auctioneer's commissions, shall be allowed and deducted. [Id.]

Art. 6166. [3647] Owner or depositor entitled to surplus for thirty days after sale.—The owner or depositor of the property so sold shall be entitled upon demand to receive from such broker the surplus of the proceeds of such sale at any time within thirty days after such sale; and, if no demand therefor be made within thirty days after such sale, such surplus shall become the property of the county where such sale was made. [Id.]
Art. 6167. [3648] Surplus shall be paid to county treasurer, when. Should there be any surplus of the proceeds of any sale made by a broker, he shall, at the expiration of thirty days from the day of such sale, pay such surplus to the county treasurer of the county where such sale was made, or he shall file with such county treasurer the receipt of the owner or depositor of the property sold, for such surplus, at the expiration of said thirty days. [Id. P. D. 7168q.]

Art. 6168. [3649] Suit upon bond for surplus and damages. Suit may be brought upon the bond of the pawnbroker by the county, or by any party entitled to the surplus of any sale made by him; and upon recovery judgment shall be rendered against such pawnbroker and the sureties upon his bond for the amount of such surplus, together with ten per cent per month on such amount for each month or fraction of a month that such surplus has been illegally withheld by such pawnbroker. [Id. P. D. 7168r.]

Art. 6169. [3650] Party injured may sue upon bond. Any person injured by the failure of a pawnbroker to comply faithfully with his contract, or with any requirement of law governing the business of pawnbrokerage, may sue upon the bond of such pawnbroker and recover such damages as he may prove himself entitled to, not to exceed the penalty of such bond. [R. S. 1879.]

Art. 6170. [3651] Injured parties may sue officer, when. Any person injured by the failure, refusal or neglect of any officer whose duty it is to comply with any of the provisions of the law governing pawnbrokerage shall have a right of action against such officer so failing, refusing or neglecting, for the recovery of all damages resulting from such failure, refusal or neglect. [Id. P. D. 7168s.]

Art. 6171. [3652] Common law shall govern, except, etc. The rules of the common law pertaining to and governing the business of pawnbrokerage shall govern the civil liability of pawnbrokers, except in so far as the same may be contrary to or inconsistent with any statute. [R. S. 1879.]

TITLE 104
PENITENTIARIES AND CONVICTS
[For Parole of Convicts, see Pardon Advisers, Chap. 2.]

CHAPTER ONE
SYSTEM OF PRISON GOVERNMENT

Art. 6172. Policy of prison system.—It shall be the policy of this state, in the operation of its prison system, to so manage and conduct the same that those convicted of violating the law and sentenced to a term in the penitentiary shall have humane treatment and shall be given opportunity, encouragement and training in the matter of reformation. [Acts 1910, 4 S. S., p. 143, sec. 1.]

License of convict as attorney.—See Attorney at Law.

Art. 6173. Prison system includes what.—The prison system of this state, as referred to in this title, shall include the state penitentiary at Huntsville, the state penitentiary at Rusk, and such other penitentiaries as may hereafter be established, and all farms or camps where state prisoners are or may be kept or worked, together with all property of every character belonging thereto or connected therewith. [Id. sec. 2.]

Art. 6174. Prison labor not to be leased to private parties.—It is hereby declared the policy of this state to work all prisoners within the prison walls, and upon farms owned by the state, and in no event shall the labor of a prisoner be sold to any contractor or lessee to work on farms or elsewhere, nor shall any prisoner be worked on any farm or otherwise upon shares, or upon any other farm or place other than that owned or controlled by the state of Texas, after January 1, 1914; provided, that all contracts for prison labor in existence January 20, 1911, shall terminate not later than January 1, 1914; and no contract for any prison labor shall be made which would extend beyond January 1, 1914; provided, further, that the board of prison commissioners shall change from the system of leasing and hiring out of prisoners at the earliest practicable time. [Id. sec. 3.]
Art. 6175. Board of prison commissioners; appointment; term.—To better carry out such policy, the management and control of the prison system of the state of Texas shall be vested in a board to be known as the board of prison commissioners, and for the purposes of this title shall be referred to as the prison commission. Said board of prison commissioners shall be composed of three men, to be appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, whose term of office shall be two years from date of appointment, except those first appointed under this act, who shall hold their offices respectively for eight, sixteen and twenty-four months from the date of their appointment and qualification. In the appointment of said commissioners first to be appointed under this chapter, the governor shall designate the term each one shall hold under such appointment; provided, however, that in the event of a change in the constitution, extending the term of office of the prison commissioners, then the members of said board of prison commissioners then in office shall adjust their terms of office by lot or in conformance with the provisions of such constitutional amendment without the necessity of further legislative enactment. [Id. sec. 4.]

Art. 6176. Commissioners to give bond.—Each member of said commission shall, within ten days after his appointment, execute a bond payable to the governor of this state and his successors in office for the use of the state in the sum of fifty thousand dollars, and conditioned that he will faithfully execute the duties of his office, which said bond shall be executed with two or more good and sufficient sureties, or with some indemnity, fidelity or bonding companies authorized to do business in Texas; the form of which bond shall be prepared by the attorney general, and the sufficiency of the sureties thereon approved by, and the same shall be filed with, the secretary of state; which said bond shall not be void on the first recovery of part or of the whole of the penalty, but shall thereafter continue in force for the whole amount of the penalty thereof, and may be sued on from time to time, and shall be deemed to extend to the faithful performance of the duties of his trust, until his successor shall be duly qualified, and shall have entered upon the duties of his office. And it shall be the duty of the attorney general, upon notice of default or failure to perform the duties as contemplated by law by any member of said prison commission, to bring suit in any court of competent jurisdiction in Travis county, Texas, for the forfeiture and collection of said bond; and, before entering upon the duties of his office, each member of said board shall take and subscribe the oath of office prescribed by the constitution of this state. [Id. sec. 5.]

Art. 6177. Salary.—Each member of the board of prison commissioners shall receive as compensation for his services the sum of three hundred dollars per month, to be paid at the end of each month; and in addition thereto he shall be allowed all reasonable and necessary traveling expenses actually incurred when traveling on business of the prison system, to be paid, together with said salary, out of the funds of the prison system, all such expense accounts to be itemized and sworn to in duplicate, and approved by the board of prison commissioners, or a majority of said board, one copy to be kept with the records of the board of prison commissioners, and one copy to be filed with the comptroller of public accounts. Each member of said board of prison commissioners shall reside at Huntsville, in Walker county, Texas, which is hereby designated as the headquarters of the prison system, and shall be permitted to occupy free of rent the residence houses belonging to the state at Huntsville. [Id. sec. 6.]

Art. 6178. Commissioners to devote whole time to office.—Each member of the prison commission shall devote his entire time to the discharge of the duties of said office, and shall not engage in any other occupation or business during his term of office, nor shall either of the members of said board be directly or indirectly connected with or interested in any contract, sale or purchase of any property or thing whatsoever which may be made during his term of office, and in which either the state or the prison system are interested. And any violation of any of the provisions of this article shall be sufficient ground for his removal from office. [Id. sec. 7.]

Art. 6179. Shall have exclusive management.—Said prison commission shall be vested with the exclusive management and control of the prison system of this state, and shall be held responsible for the proper care, treatment, feeding, clothing and management of the prisoners confined therein, and at all times for the faithful enforcement of the spirit, intent and purpose of the laws and rules governing said system; provided, that the prison commission shall be held responsible for maltreatment of prisoners, and, if permitted, it shall be grounds for removal from office. [Id. sec. 8.]

Art. 6180. Appointment of under-officers.—The said prison commission shall have the power, and it shall be their duty, to appoint all necessary officers, all physicians, chaplains, teachers, and all clerical help needed in conducting said prison system, including a secretary of the prison commission; and they shall require all appointees, who, in discharging their duties, are charged with handling any funds of the system or state, to execute bond in such amount as may be fixed by the prison commission, payable to the prison commission for the use and benefit of the state, to be conditioned for the faithful performance of their duties. [Id. sec. 9.]

Art. 6181. Quorum; chairman; assignment of duties.—A majority of said prison commission shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The commissioners shall select one of their number as chairman. They shall designate one member to have supervision over the finances and financial transactions of the prison system, one who shall supervise the feeding, clothing, care and treatment of the prisoners, and one who shall supervise the work of all the officers and employes of the prison system, and who shall also be known and designated as the superintendent of parole, and shall direct the enforcement of any parole law, or indeterminate sentence law, which may now or hereafter be in force in this state, unless otherwise directed by law; provided, that the work of each member so designated shall be under the general supervision of and he shall report his actions to the prison commission. The provisions of this article are intended to facilitate the work of the prison commission, and shall not be construed as relieving the full board of prison commissioners of any authority or general responsibility for the management of the prison system. The prison commission shall keep, or cause to be kept, in a well-bound book a minute of the proceedings of all meetings held by them. [Id. sec. 10.]

Art. 6182. May discharge under-officers and employes.—The prison commission shall have the authority at all times to discharge any officer or any employé of the prison system for failure to comply with the rules, regulations or laws governing the prison system, or for any dereliction in duty, or whenever they may deem it to be for the best interests of the service. [Id. sec. 11.]

Art. 6183. May purchase instrumentalities for employment of convicts.—The prison commission shall have the power to purchase, or cause to be purchased, with such funds as may be at their disposal, any lands, buildings, machinery, tools or supplies for the benefit of said prison system, and may establish such factories as in their judgment may be practicable and that will afford useful and proper employment to prisoners confined in the state prison, under such regulations, conditions and restrictions as may be deemed best for the welfare of the state and the prisoners, it being the purpose of this title to clothe said board of prison commissioners with all power and authority necessary for the proper management of the prison system of this state. [Id. sec. 12.]

Art. 6184. Purchases of land, how made.—The prison commission shall have power, with the approval of the governor, to purchase such land as may, in their judgment, be necessary in the operation of said system, and the employment of prisoners confined in said prison; and in the purchase thereof they may pay such sum in cash as may be agreed upon with the vendor; and, for the unpaid purchase money to become due upon said land, they shall execute to the vendor notes payable in such sum and at such time as may be agreed upon between the parties, and the payment of which shall be secured by a deed of trust upon such land in the usual form, and containing such covenants as may be agreed upon between the parties, and may pledge a sufficient amount of the net revenues of the property so purchased to pay the deferred installments of purchase money thereon; and it shall be expressly provided in the conveyance to said land, the notes executed for the unpaid purchase money and the deed of trust, that the vendor relies alone upon the lien created by the deed of trust upon said land and the net revenues so pledged, and that no personal liability against the prison commission of the state of Texas shall arise out of said transaction beyond said liens; and the purchase money paid originally, as well as the installments paid upon the deferred payments, may be paid out of any funds belonging to said prison system. The title to all lands purchased by the prison commission under the terms of this chapter shall be examined, passed upon and approved as good and sufficient by the attorney general; and all conveyances, notes and trust deeds and other instruments executed under the provisions of this chapter shall be prepared, passed upon and approved by the attorney general. The title to all lands so purchased shall vest in the prison commission, and their successors in office, as trustees for the state. [Id. sec. 13.]

Art. 6185. Lands to be bought sufficient for employment of prisoners.—The prison commission may buy annually so many acres of land as will, not later than January 1, 1914, or sooner if practicable, enable all prisoners hired out or employed on share or contract farms, and who are not otherwise employed by the state, to be employed directly on farms belonging to the prison system. [Id. sec. 14.]

Art. 6186. Modern buildings to be erected and equipped.—The prison commission is authorized, and it shall be its duty, to cause to be constructed upon land now belonging to the prison system, and upon such land as may be bought hereafter, all necessary modern fireproof, well ventilated prison buildings, providing a separate cell or room for each prisoner, as far as conditions and the welfare of the prisoners demand, with proper bathing facilities and all necessary sanitary water closets and other sanitary arrangements within such buildings; also sanitary kitchens, dining rooms, hospitals, school rooms, and chapels, and other necessary conveniences for the benefit of the prisoners. The provisions of this article shall be carried out to completion as rapidly as is practicable, so that the same shall be completed in the entire prison system within six years from January 20, 1911. [Id. sec. 15.]

Art. 6187. Farm and factory products, movable and real property, how sold.—The prison commission shall have power to sell and dispose of all farm products and the products of all factories connected with the prison system, and all personal and movable property, at such prices and on such terms as may be deemed best by them, and they may, with the approval of the governor, sell or lease any real estate or other fixed property and appurtenances belonging thereto, upon such terms as to them seem best; and upon the sale thereof they shall have power to execute proper conveyances to the title thereto; which instruments of conveyance shall be prepared and approved by the attorney general. The prison commission shall in the purchase or sale of all real estate, or in the purchase or sale of any machinery or equipment for the prison system, exceeding in value the sum of five thousand dollars, advertise in the manner prescribed by the prison commission for bids for such property in at least three daily papers in this state having a general circulation, and shall give all such bids received to the public press at least thirty days before any such contract is let. [Id. sec. 16.]

Art. 6188. Prison funds.—On Monday of each week, the prison commission shall remit to the state treasurer all moneys received by them as such, from whatever source during the preceding week and belonging to the system. The treasurer shall hold such fund as bailee for the prison commission, which fund shall be known as the prison commission account; and he shall give to the prison commission a deposit receipt for same, and shall pay out same on draft drawn by the officer designated by article 6192. The prison commission is authorized to draw upon the prison commission account with the state treasurer such sum or sums of money and at such time or times, as in their judgment may be necessary for the transaction of the business of the system; provided, they shall not draw for a sum that will give them in hand and in bank, subject to disbursement, a sum in excess of twenty-five thousand dollars; and provided, further, the account of the prison system with the state treasurer shall in no event be overdrawn, and in no event shall the state treasurer ever permit an overdraft against the prison commission account to be paid. On December 1 of each year the state treasurer shall ascertain the interest earned by the fund belonging to the prison system from the state depositories, and place said sum to the credit of the prison commission account and send deposit receipt to the prison commission. [Id. sec. 17.]

Art. 6189. Commission may make regulations.—The prison commission may at any time issue such orders and prescribe such rules and regulations for the government of the prison system of this state, not inconsistent with the law, as it may deem proper, or to provide such details not embraced herein, and for such contingencies as may at any time arise concerning the management of the prison system, or its proper and effective operation; and such rules and regulations shall be made with a view of carrying out the general principles on which the penal laws are founded, and for which the prison system is established, and shall be binding on all under-officers, employés, and all persons whomsoever in any way connected with the state prisons, or its management, or its prisoners within and without the walls. The prison commission shall have all laws, rules and regulations of the prison printed in pamphlet form for the information and guidance of all connected with the management of the prison system; and such parts of said rules as relate to the duties of subordinate officers and prisoners shall be printed in suitable form and posted in conspicuous places about the prison, or wherever prisoners may be confined, for the information of all concerned. All officers, employés and guards having supervision of prisoners shall be furnished with a copy of the law, rules and regulations governing the prison system, and shall give a receipt therefor; and the prison commission shall from time to time require examination of such officers, employés and guards as will ascertain their knowledge of such law, rules and regulations; and any such officer, employé or guard, who shall fail to familiarize himself with the law, rules and regulations of the prison system, shall be dismissed from the service. [Id. sec. 18.]

Art. 6190. Commissioners to visit camps and farms.—It shall be the duty of some member or members of the prison commission to spend at least one whole day each month, without notice, at each prison, camp or farm where prisoners are kept or worked, and to carefully inspect same with reference to the food, clothing and treatment of the prisoners, the general sanitary conditions existing at such prisons, camps or farms, reporting upon such conditions, the efforts at reformation, the general conduct of all officers and employéés connected therewith, and punishment administered for the enforcement of prison discipline; provided, that the various prisons, camps and farms where prisoners are kept may be divided for the purpose of this inspection between two or more members of the prison commission, or such other person as may be designated by the prison commission. [Id. sec. 19.]

Art. 6191. Inventories.—The prison commission shall cause to be made annually, on January 1, a full and complete inventory of all lands, buildings, machinery, tools, live stock, and all other property of every description, belonging to the prison system, and shall cause to be set opposite each item the book value, and also the actual value of the same so as to afford an easy comparison with the previous annual statement. And the prison commission shall cause to be kept in the accounting department of the prison system a system of books, showing a separate account with each industry and farm and for the system as a whole, showing the losses, profits, and net earnings of each industry and farm connected with the system, and shall make a report of the same annually on January 1 to the governor; which report shall be published by the governor in a sufficient number of copies to give general publicity to such report; such report to include the rules and regulations in force for the management of said system, and the methods of dealing with the convicts thereof. [Id. sec. 21.]

Art. 6192. Prison accounts, how kept.—The member of the prison commission designated by the board to have supervision over the finances and financial transactions of the prison system shall keep, or cause to be kept, correct and accurate accounts of each and every financial transaction of the prison system, including all receipts and disbursements of every character. He shall receive and receipt for all money paid to the prison commission from every source whatsoever, and shall sign all vouchers or warrants authorizing the payment or disbursement of any sum or sums on account of the prison system; and no money shall be paid out on any account of the prison system, except upon a warrant or voucher signed by him. He shall keep full and correct accounts with each industry, department and farm, and with all firms, persons or corporations having financial transactions with the prison system. He shall have power to require all necessary reports from any department, officer or employé at stated intervals. All deposits of prison funds with banks shall be kept in the name of the officer in his official capacity, and all funds of the prison system shall be kept separate from private funds. Such accountants and clerical assistance as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this article shall be provided by the prison commission, in order that a full, complete and correct account may be kept of all financial transactions of the prison system. In the absence of such officer, one of the other prison commissioners may sign such receipts, warrants or vouchers. [Id. sec. 22.]

Art. 6193. Auditor, appointment and duties.—On the taking effect of this act, and annually thereafter, there shall be appointed by the comptroller of public accounts, the attorney general and the state treasurer, a permanent auditor for the prison system, who shall hold his office for a term of one year, subject to discharge at any time, as hereinafter provided. It shall be the duty of such auditor to audit all accounts, vouchers, payrolls and all other business transactions of the prison system, and to check all property, material and supplies received and disposed of by or distributed within the prison system, and he shall make a full report thereof to the governor on the first day of January of each year. Such auditor shall be subject to discharge at any time by the comptroller of public accounts, attorney general, and state treasurer, or by a majority of said officers, for any incompetency, neglect, failure or refusal to discharge the duties of his office, or for any wrongful conduct that, in the judgment of the comptroller of public accounts, attorney general, and state treasurer, renders him unfit for said office; and, in the case of the discharge or resignation of any auditor, another shall be appointed by said officers or a majority of said officers. During the term of his services, such accountant shall be paid monthly a salary of two hundred dollars per month and all actual and necessary traveling expenses, to be paid at the end of each month, out of any moneys belonging to the prison system, such traveling expenses to be evidenced by an itemized sworn statement by the auditor filed with the board. [Id. sec. 23.]

Art. 6194. Commissioners may take oaths and examine witnesses.—Each member of the board of prison commissioners in the discharge of his duties is authorized to administer oaths, to summon and examine witnesses, and take such other steps as he deems necessary to ascertain the truth of any matter about which he may have the right to inquire. [Id. sec. 24.]

Art. 6195. Commissioners, removal of.—If any member of the board of prison commissioners shall be guilty of malfeasance or nonfeasance in office, or shall become incapable or unfit to discharge his official duties, or shall wilfully fail, refuse or neglect to discharge the duties of his office, such member shall be subject to removal from office as provided by article 6027. [Id. sec. 28.]

Art. 6196. Salaries and qualifications of under-officers and employes.—The prison commission shall, except as provided in this title, fix the salaries of all officers and employés of the prison system upon such basis as the labor and ability of the officer or employé entitles him to, such salary to be paid monthly at the end of each month. They shall pay to those employed as guards of the convicts a salary of not less than thirty-five dollars per month, and furnish them board and lodging free; provided, that, for meritorious service and adaptability to the work, the prison commission may increase the pay of any guard to an amount not to exceed forty dollars per month. No person shall be employed as a guard to guard convicts who is not at least twenty-one years of age, of good moral character, and who is not able to read and write and has not a fair knowledge of the English language; and the prison commission may provide such other qualifications as they may deem expedient; provided, that no person shall be employed as a guard who is in any way addicted to the use of alcoholic or intoxicating liquors; and the prison commission shall require all officers and employés connected with the prison system to familiarize themselves with and conform to the rules and regulations and laws governing the prison system of this state; provided, the prison commission shall require all officers and employés connected with the prison system of this state to take and subscribe to the oath of office prescribed by the constitution. [Id. sec. 29.]

Art. 6197. Fraudulent conversion of prison property; penalty.—Any officer or employé of the prison system, who shall fraudulently convert to his own use and benefit any food, clothing, or other property belonging to or under control of the prison system, shall be guilty of theft, and, upon conviction, be punished as prescribed by law. [Id. sec. 55.]

Art. 6198. Dishonesty of officers or employés; penalty.—Any officer, agent or employé in any capacity connected with the prison system of this state, who shall be financially interested, either directly or indirectly, in any contract for the furnishing of supplies or property to the prison system, of the purchase of supplies or property for the prison system, or who shall be financially interested in any contract to which said prison system is a party, or who shall knowingly and fraudulently sell or dispose of any property belonging to said prison system below its reasonable market value, or who shall be financially interested in any other transaction connected with the prison system, shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished as provided by the Penal Code, and each transaction shall constitute a separate offense. [Id. sec. 56.]

Art. 6199. Unauthorized punishments; penalty.—Any sergeant, guard or other officer or employee of the prison system of this state, who shall inflict any punishment upon a prisoner not authorized by the rules of the prison system, shall be guilty of an assault, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished as prescribed by law; and it shall be the duty of the prison commission to make complaint before the proper officer of any county in which such assault was committed upon such prisoner. Provided, that, in all cases where any person is charged by complaint or indictment with an offense against a prisoner, prisoners and ex-prisoners shall be permitted to testify. [Id. sec. 57.]

Art. 6200. Seal of commission.—The prison commission shall provide a seal whereon shall be engraved in the center a star of five points and the words, “Board of Prison Commissioners of Texas,” around the margin, which seal shall be used to attest all official acts. [Id. sec. 59.]

CHAPTER TWO

PRISON REGULATIONS AND DISCIPLINE

Art. 6201. After conviction prisoners must first be sent to Huntsville. — It shall be the duty of the prison commission to make suitable provision and regulation for the safe and speedy transportation of prisoners from counties where sentenced to the penitentiary at Huntsville, by the sheriffs of such respective counties, if such sheriffs are willing to perform such service as cheaply as said commission can have it done otherwise. Said transportation shall be on state account; and in no instance shall the prisoners be carried direct from the county jails to the state farms, but shall first be carried to the penitentiary at Huntsville, where the character of labor which each prisoner may reasonably perform shall be determined. Upon the arrival of each prisoner at the penitentiary at Huntsville, the prison commission shall cause a statement to be made by the prisoner, giving a brief history of his life, and showing where he has resided, the names and postoffice addresses of his immediate relatives, and such other facts as will tend to show his past habits and character; and the prison commission shall, by correspondence or otherwise, verify or disprove such statements, if practicable, and shall preserve the record and information so obtained for future reference. [Id. sec. 20.]

Art. 6202. Prison uniforms.—Except for third class prisoners, within a reasonable time and not later than six months after January 20, 1911, the prison commission shall abolish striped or checked clothes for prisoners, except as a mode of punishment for the violation of prison discipline, substituting therefor some suitable uniform. [Id. sec. 25.]

Art. 6203. Instruction and recreation of prisoners.—The prison commission shall, as soon as practicable, provide at each prison, farm and camp where prisoners are kept or worked, schools for instruction of prisoners in elementary branches of the English language and industrial education, and such other instruction as they may prescribe, and shall provide suitable recreation for the prisoners at reasonable hours, including music; and they shall employ such number of competent teachers to instruct the prisoners in the same, as in the judgment of the prison commission may seem necessary; and the prison commission shall make reasonable rules and regulations whereby the prisoners may attend such schools. The prison commission shall prescribe and furnish to the prisoners suitable books and other reading matter, and to this end may establish and operate among the prisoners a circulating library, and may adopt such other means of distributing among the prisoners good and wholesome literature as in the judgment of the prison commission will best enable the prisoners to avail themselves of the same; provided, that all teachers herein provided for shall, as far as practicable be taken from the convicts, and such teachers may be excused from further labors. The chaplain shall be ex officio librarian of the penitentiary, passing upon all library books, and direct such other work as may be prescribed for such library management. [Id. sec. 26.]

Art. 6204. Religious services.—The prison commission shall provide for religious services at prisons, farms, and camps where prisoners are kept or worked. They shall employ such chaplains as may be necessary to afford all prisoners an opportunity to attend at least two religious services each month, said chaplains to devote their entire time to religious and moral training and education of the prisoners under their care, teaching them the principles and practice of every Christian and moral duty; provided, that chaplains may also be teachers as provided for in this chapter. [Id. sec. 27.]

Art. 6205. Food.—The prison commission shall see that all state prisoners are fed good and wholesome food, properly prepared under wholesome, sanitary conditions, and in sufficient quantity and reasonable variety, and they shall hold all under-officers performing this work strictly to account for any failure to carry out this provision. That the food may be properly prepared, the prison commission shall provide for the training of prisoners as cooks. [Id. sec. 30.]

Art. 6206. Monthly reports to board shall contain what.—The prison commission shall require, at the end of each month, reports showing fully the condition and treatment of the prisoners, and the changes in prison population during the month, including itemized statements of all different items of food, clothing and utensils used and on hand in each of the units of the prison system, and such other matters as they may require. [Id. sec. 31.]
Art. 6207. Prison register to show what.—The prison commission shall keep a register of all prisoners belonging to the prison system, showing the number of each prisoner, giving the aliases, name, age, height, color of hair, color of eyes, complexion, marks on person, sex, nativity, residence, county where convicted, offense of which convicted, date of sentence, date of receipt, previous occupation and habits, if known, and may adopt such other means of identification as they may deem proper and necessary. They shall keep a record of the general conditions and conduct of each prisoner, noting all punishments, forfeitures, bad conduct, changes and incidents of importance that may occur during his confinement; and, to the end that complete records may be kept, they may require from all under-officers such monthly and other reports as they may deem proper. They shall issue discharges to such prisoners as are entitled thereto by expiration of sentence or otherwise. [Id. sec. 32.]

Art. 6208. Classification of prisoners; uniforms; punishments.—That persons confined in the state prisons of this state may have every opportunity and encouragement for moral reform, it shall be the duty of the prison commission, in addition to the requirements of this title, to provide every reasonable and practicable means for the encouragement of such reforms. To this end, the prison commission shall provide for the classification of all prisoners, separating them into the following classes: In the first class shall be included young men, first offenders, those appearing to be corrigible, or less vicious than others, and likely to observe the laws, and to maintain themselves by honest industry after their discharge. In the second class shall be included those appearing to be less corrigible, or more vicious, but content to work and reasonably obedient to prison discipline as not to seriously interfere with the productiveness of their labor, or with the labor or conduct of those with whom they may be employed. In the third class shall be included those appearing to be incorrigible or so insubordinate or so vicious in their nature as to seriously interfere with the labor and moral development of those with whom they must come in contact. The prison commission shall make rules and regulations for the promotion and reduction of the prisoners from one class to another, and shall transfer them from one class to another, from time to time, as they may seem to merit promotion or reduction. The prisoners in each of the classes hereinbefore named shall be kept in or upon different or separate prisons or farms. Any prisoner, upon entering the prison system, shall be assigned to one of its institutions according to his class, as hereinbefore provided, and shall be entered in said institution in a neutral grade which shall be known as grade No. 2, and in which he shall be furnished with a suitable uniform designated for that grade. The prison commission shall adopt rules for a higher grade which shall be known as grade No. 1, as a reward for obedience to prison discipline and good conduct, and shall provide a suitable uniform for this grade; and they shall provide for a lower grade as a punishment for misconduct and violation of prison discipline, which grade shall be known as No. 3, and in which the prisoner shall be clothed in stripes. The uniforms for grades Nos. 1 and 2 shall not be stripes. The prison commission shall provide rules for promotion of prisoners from any grade to another for good conduct and obedience to prison discipline, and for demotion of prisoners for misconduct and violation of prison discipline. The prison commission shall provide specifically for the extension or denial of privileges for the various grades herein provided. In order that prison discipline may be enforced, the prison commission may adopt such modes of punishment as may be necessary, such punishment being always humane; and placing prisoners in stocks shall be prohibited. Whipping with not exceeding twenty lashes on the bare rump and thighs may be resorted to with prisoners of the third class, who can not be made to observe the rules by milder methods of punishment. The strap to be used must be of leather, not over two and one-half inches wide, and twenty-four inches long, attached to a wooden handle; no convict shall be whipped until same has been authorized by at least two members of the prison commission upon their written order; and such order so issued shall be executed only in the presence of a prison physician, and a sworn report shall be made by the officer executing such order to the penitentiary commission, who shall keep a record of all such reports in a well-bound book to be kept for that purpose, which shall be at all times open to public inspection; and such report so to be made by such officer executing the order of the penitentiary commission shall state the name of the convict whipped, the number of strokes administered, the size of the strap used, the time and place thereof, in whose presence same was done, and the cause thereof. It shall further be the duty of the penitentiary commission to make a semi-annual report of the whipping of convicts to the district judge of the county where such whippings occurred, who shall report [same to the grand jury, which is hereby authorized to make investigation] thereof, if they deem same advisable. The utmost care must be used by the officer executing the order of the commission not to break the skin of the prisoner whipped; and any person guilty of whipping a prisoner more lashes or other than as provided herein, or striking a prisoner, except in self-defense, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars, and imprisoned in the county jail not less than thirty days nor more than six months. White and negro prisoners shall not be worked together when it can be avoided, and shall be kept separate when not at work. [Id. sec. 33.]

Art. 6209. Female prisoners shall be kept separate.—All female prisoners shall be kept separate and apart from the male prisoners. Where practicable, the prison commission shall keep the female prisoners upon a separate farm, or at a separate prison, from the male prisoners, and shall provide reasonable rules and regulations for the government of the same. [Id. sec. 34.]

Art. 6210. Labor for female prisoners; physical condition.—The prison commission shall provide such labor for said female prisoners as in their judgment they can reasonably perform, but the prison physician for such female prisoners shall at any time have the authority to say whether the physical condition of said female prisoners is such that they can perform any physical labor; provided, that in the absence of the physician the matron shall pass upon the physical condition of said female prisoners. [Id. sec. 35.]

Art. 6211. Whites and negroes kept separate.—The prison commission shall keep the white female prisoners separate and apart from the negro female prisoners, and shall select and place over said female prisoners a matron or matrons, whose duty it shall be to give her personal attention to the welfare of such female prisoners. The matron or matrons so employed to look after the welfare of the female prisoners shall reside at the place where female prisoners are kept. [Id. sec. 36.]

Art. 6212. Only married men employed as guards.—At the place where female prisoners are kept, none but married men shall be employed as guards; and the houses for such guards and their families shall be provided by the state, in which the families of the guards shall live. And said guards shall be allowed ten dollars per month in addition to his salary in lieu of his board, said houses not to be situated further than one hundred yards from the main prison building where such female prisoners are kept. [Id. sec. 37.]
Art. 6213. Children of female prisoners.—If a female prisoner be received with an infant, or if any child be born in the penitentiary, the child shall be permitted to remain with its mother until three to six years of age, in the discretion of and as prescribed by the prison commission. [Id. sec. 38.]

Art. 6214. Compensation paid prisoners, when.—Every prisoner who shall become entitled to a diminution of his term of sentence by good conduct shall receive compensation from the earnings of the state prison to the amount of ten cents per day for the time said prisoner is confined in prison; provided, that, whenever any prisoner shall forfeit any part of his good time for misconduct or violation of the rules or regulations of the prison, he shall forfeit out of the compensation allowed under this section twenty-five cents per day for each day of such good time so forfeited; provided, that, when such prisoner has a family or relatives within the second degree of consanguinity or affinity dependent upon him, such saving shall be paid semi-annually to such of them as may be designated by the prisoner; but if he have no such dependent relatives, then said saving shall be paid to him upon his discharge from prison. And if he be a life term prisoner such saving may be paid as directed by him, with the approval of the prison commission. But if he should die in prison without such dependent relations such saving shall revert to the state. [Id. sec. 39.]

Art. 6215. Sunday labor.—No prisoner shall be worked on Sunday, except in cases of extreme necessity; and all prisoners so required to work on Sunday shall be paid out of the funds of the prison system the sum of one dollar per day for each Sunday so worked. [Id. sec. 40.]

Art. 6216. Intent of law.—The various provisions of this title are designed to secure to the prisoners humane treatment, suitable moral instruction, to provide for their health, and to extend to them such comforts and privileges as may be consistent with their situation, and at the same time to require of them a due attention to their various duties and a strict observance of the discipline, rules and regulations of the prison. [Id. sec. 41.]

Art. 6217. Reward for good conduct; relaxation of discipline; parole; commutation.—In order to encourage prison discipline, a distinction may be made in the treatment of prisoners so as to extend to all such as are orderly, industrious and obedient comforts and privileges according to their deserts. The rewards to be bestowed on prisoners for good conduct shall consist of such relaxation of strict prison rules and extension of social privileges as may not be inconsistent with proper discipline. Commutation of time for good conduct shall be granted by the prison commission, and the following deductions shall be made from the term or terms of sentences when no charge of misconduct has been sustained against a prisoner, viz.: Two days per month off the first year of sentence; three days per month off the second year of sentence; four days per month off the third year of sentence; five days per month off the fourth year of sentence; six days per month off the fifth year of sentence; seven days per month off the sixth year of sentence; eight days per month off the seventh year of sentence; nine days per month off the eighth year of sentence; ten days per month off the ninth year of sentence; fifteen days per month off the tenth year and all succeeding years of sentence. A prisoner under two or more cumulative sentences shall be allowed commutation as if they were all one sentence. For each sustained charge of misconduct in violation of any rule known to the prisoner, in any year of the term, the commutation allowed for one month of such year may be forfeited; for any sustained charge of escape, attempt to escape, mutinous conduct, or other serious misconduct, all the commutation which shall have accrued in favor of the prisoner up to that day shall be forfeited, unless in case of escape the prisoner voluntarily returns without expense to the state, such forfeiture may be set aside by the prison commission. For extra meritorious conduct on the part of any prisoner, he shall be recommended to the favorable consideration of the governor for increased commutation or pardon; and, in the case of any prisoner who shall have escaped and been captured, part or all of his good time thereby forfeited may be restored by the prison commission, if in their judgment his subsequent conduct entitles him thereto. [Id. sec. 42.]

Art. 6218. Commutation of life or long term sentence.—Hereafter, life or long term prisoners who have actually served fifteen years and have no sustained charges of misconduct, and have a good prison record, and who shall be favorably recommended to the governor, may receive at the hands of the governor a reasonable commutation of sentence; and, if a life sentence is commuted to a term of years, then such convict shall have the benefit of the ordinary commutation, as if originally sentenced for a term of years, except the governor shall otherwise direct. [Id. sec. 43.]

Art. 6219. Clothing.—Suitable clothing of substantial material, uniform make and reasonable fit, and such footwear as will be substantial and comfortable, shall be furnished the prisoners; and no prisoner shall be allowed to wear other clothing than that furnished by the prison authorities, except in case of extra meritorious conduct only, the prison commission may allow the prisoners to wear citizen underwear. Sufficient food of wholesome quality and variety and wholesomely prepared shall be furnished to all, and such provisions shall be made for serving the food to prisoners as will tend to encourage and elevate them. It shall be the duty of every officer charged with the preparation and serving of food to the prisoners to post in the dining room each Monday morning for the coming week the bill of food for that week, and the rules promulgated by the prison commission shall prescribe the quality, kind and variety of food to be furnished. Prisoners shall not be allowed spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, except upon the prescription of the physician. [Id. sec. 44.]

Art. 6220. Restrictions on amount of labor required.—Prisoners shall be kept at work under such rules and regulations as may be adopted by the prison commission; provided, that no prisoner shall be required to work more than ten hours per day, except in case of an extreme and unavoidable emergency, which time shall include the time spent in going to and returning from their work, but not to include the intermission for dinner, which shall not be less than one hour. And in case of such extreme and unavoidable emergency, said prisoner shall receive out of the funds of the prison system the sum of ten cents per hour for such work so performed more than ten hours per day. In going to and returning from work, prisoners shall not be required to travel faster than a walk. No greater amount of labor shall be required of any prisoner than his physical health and strength will reasonably permit, nor shall any prisoner be placed at such labor as the prison physician may pronounce him unable to perform. No prisoner upon his admission to the prison shall be assigned to any labor until first having been examined by the prison physician. Any officer or employé violating any provision of this article shall be dismissed from the service. [Id. sec. 45.]

Art. 6221. Physical condition.—Prisoners who have been reported by the physician or other officer in charge as in a condition of health which requires their removal to some other place shall be accordingly removed. [Id. sec. 46.]

Art. 6222. Prisoners searched; disposition of money in their possession.—Prisoners when received into the penitentiary shall be carefully
Art. 6223. Death of prisoner; disposition of remains.—If any prisoner shall die while in prison, the officer in charge of the prisoner at the time of his death shall immediately report the same to the prison commission, and, if he knows the address or place of residence of any relative within the third degree, either by consanguinity or affinity, shall also notify by wire said relative of the death of such prisoner; and, if the relative of such prisoner claim the body or will take charge of same, then the body of such prisoner shall be turned over to such relative, and the expense of shipping the body to where it is to be buried, provided it is within this state, shall be paid by the prison commission out of any available penitentiary funds on hand upon the request of such relative. If the residence and address of the relative of such prisoner is unknown, such prisoner shall be decently buried in citizen's clothes, and the grave marked by a stone with the name of said prisoner, date of death and age, if known, inscribed thereon. If the body of such prisoner is not claimed by the relatives, the prison commission shall at once notify the county judge of the county from which the prisoner was sentenced of his death, the date and cause of death and place of burial. The prison commission shall cause to be made and kept a record of the deaths of prisoners; and certified copies of same made by the custodian thereof shall be admissible in evidence under the rules of law applying to official records. Any officer or employé of the prison system of whom any duties are required by this article, who shall fail to discharge such duties, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be punished as provided by the Penal Code [article 1612.] [Id. sec. 48.]

Art. 6224. Proceedings in case of death of prisoner.—The prison commission, or other person in charge of prisoners, upon the death of any prisoner under their care and control, shall at once notify the nearest justice of the peace of the county in which said prisoner died, of the death of said prisoner; and it shall be the duty of such justice of the peace, when so notified of the death of such prisoner, to go in person and make a personal examination of the body of such prisoner, and inquire into the cause of the death of such prisoner; and said justice of the peace shall reduce to writing the evidence taken during such inquest, and shall furnish a copy of the same to the district judge of the county in which said prisoner died; and the copy so furnished to said district judge shall be turned over by the district judge to the succeeding grand jury; and the said judge shall charge the grand jury, if there should be any suspicion of wrong doing shown by the inquest papers, to thoroughly investigate the cause of such death. Any officer or employé of the prison system having charge of any prisoner at the time of the death of such prisoner, who shall fail to immediately notify a justice of the peace of the death of such prisoner, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and by confinement in the county jail not less than sixty days nor more than one year; provided, that the justice of the peace making such examination shall be paid a fee as is now provided by law for holding inquests, said fee to be on sworn account thereafter approved by the prison commission. [Id. sec. 49.]

Art. 6225. Medical attention.—The prison commission shall provide for competent medical attention for all prisoners, and shall establish rules
