CIVIL STATUTES, TITLES 1 TO 67A

KANSAS CITY, MO.
VERNON LAW BOOK COMPANY
1918
The publisher of Vernon's Sayles' Civil Statutes of 1914 and Vernon's Criminal Statutes of 1916 presents, in two volumes, a combined Supplement continuing to date those publications, with their various features. All laws of general application enacted by the second and third called sessions of the 33d Legislature, and by the 34th and 35th Legislatures, and all of the called sessions thereof, except such laws as were carried into Vernon's Criminal Statutes of 1916, have been included in the Supplement. The new laws have been classified in accordance with the scheme of division adopted by the revisions of 1911. New provisions, which amend or supersede existing laws, are given the same numbers in the Supplement that the old laws bore in the original editions. Entirely new provisions are given lettered numbers, and placed in the titles and chapters to which their subject-matter relates. Notes and references have been made under article headings calling attention to new legislation affecting, but not directly amending or superseding, the old provisions. Thus the reader who has found a provision in the former editions may follow the article number into the Supplement, and will know at once whether any change has been made in the statute law on the matter in hand. If the article number is either omitted from the Supplement or is included for some other purpose, but contains no text or text note, he knows at once that no change has been made by the Legislature as to that subject-matter.

The annotations have been continued on the plan of the former editions down to and including 194 Southwestern Reporter. To facilitate ready reference from the old edition to the Supplement, the notes have been given the same numbers as they bore in the original edition.

The text of the new law is a literal copy of the published Session Laws. What may appear to be typographical errors in this work will be found on examination of the Session Laws to be an exact copy of the law as enacted and published.

A separate index and table of statutes have been prepared for each branch of the statute law, conforming to the plan of the original editions. The valuable matter in the appendix of the original editions has been continued in the Supplement.

1. How heir adopted.

Cited: Menville v. Wickham (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1123; Masterson v. Harris (Sup.) 174 S. W. 570.

Nature of relation.—Adoption is unknown to the common law, and is purely statutory. Thompson v. Waits (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 82.

Agreement for adoption—Sufficiency.—Instrument executed by husband and wife having no children, attempting to adopt a child, held ineffective, where it provided that he should be the only coheir with their other legal heirs. Thompson v. Waits (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 82.

Civil and common law.—Adoption was unknown at common law. Harle v. Harle (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 674.

Since adoption did not exist at common law, the adoption statutes ingrafted upon the law of the state the provisions of the civil law on the subject, as well as its construction of the law thereon. Id.

Construction of statute.—The legislative intention in enacting the adoption statutes should be determined by giving to the words therein their ordinary meaning. Harle v. Harle (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 674.

Birth of issue as affecting will.—See Evans v. Evans (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 815.

2. Rights of adopted heir.

Inheritance by adopted child.—Instrument executed by husband and wife having no children, attempting to adopt a child, held ineffective, where it provided that he should be the only coheir with their other legal heirs. Thompson v. Waits (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 82.

An adoption merely places the adopted child on the same footing as the foster parent’s other children, leaving such parent free to dispose of his property by will as he may desire. Masterson v. Harris (Sup.) 174 S. W. 570, answer to certified questions conforming to (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 284.

In an action for partition, evidence held not to sustain a finding that a decedent, adopting a child of his intended wife, intended that she should take, either under his will or upon his intestacy, equally with his own children. Masterson v. Harris (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 284.

In an action for partition, held, on the pleadings, that proof that decedent had intended that an adopted child, through whom plaintiff claimed, should have the same interest in his estate as his own children, did not authorize judgment for plaintiff. Id.

An adopted heir, upon the death of the adopting party, becomes entitled, if living, to an interest in all the property of which he may die intestate. Evans v. Evans (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 815.

The law of adoption applies only to heirship and the right to maintenance and support, giving full rights of inheritance, and brings him within general laws of descent and distribution. State v. Yturria (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 221.

— Children of adopted child.—In view of articles 1, 2, and 5, held that the children of an adopted child may take the same as natural children under article 2469. Harle v. Harle (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 674.

As working revocation of will.—Child adopted by testator subsequent to the execution of his will was not a child within articles 7866, 7867, making the birth of an after-born child a revocation of the will, and not entitled to inherit any of testator’s property. Evans v. Evans (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 815.

Exemption from property from inheritance taxes.—Under Inheritance Tax Law, art. 7487, property passing by testator’s will to his adopted children was exempt, in view of this article. State v. Yturria (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 291.

Art. 5. Right of adopted child to support, etc.

Art. 10. Oaths, etc., generally, who to administra-
11. Affidavit may be by agent or attorney.
Art. 12. All affidavits must be in writing and interest of notary.—Under this article, in a suit for injunction, affidavit of president of plaintiff bank in support of petition held not void because made before a notary public who was cashier of bank. Schaefer v. First Nat. Bank, Bay City (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 556.

Justice of the peace.—A justice of the peace is authorized to take affidavits. Millner v. State, 75 Tex. Cr. R. 22, 169 S. W. 899.
Art. 11. [5] [5] Affidavit may be made by agent or attorney.
Knowledge of facts.—Affidavits required in the course of pleadings or for the obtaining of writs or special process, if made either by a party seeking relief or by his agent or attorney, should be on the knowledge of affiant as to the truth of the facts. Abilene Independent Telephone & Telegraph Co. v. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 356.
Definition of "affidavit."—An "affidavit" is an oath reduced to writing. Marsden v. Troy (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 969.
That a pleading was verified by a party before one of his attorneys in the case was not ground for sustaining a special exception thereto. Coody v. Shawver (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 935.

FARMERS' COUNTY LIBRARY

Article 14xx.
See Arts. 1498%-1498%s, post.

CHAPTER SIX

CO-OPERATIVE DEMONSTRATION WORK

Article 14zzz. Canning demonstration work.—The commissioners courts of the respective counties of this State may and they are hereby authorized and empowered to appropriate and use under such rules and regulations as they may prescribe any sum or sums of money not to exceed fifteen hundred ($1500.00) dollars per year for the canning demonstration agent in their respective counties along the same lines as this work is and may be conducted by the Agricultural and Mechanical College and may conduct such work jointly in their respective counties with the agents and representatives of the Agricultural and Mechanical College upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the agents of the Agricultural and Mechanical College and the commissioners court. [Act May 19, 1917, 1st C. S., ch. 35, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after May 17, 1917, date of adjournment.

CHAPTER SEVEN

FARMERS' CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES

Article 14½. Corporations may be created.—That private corporations may hereafter be incorporated for the purpose of enabling those engaged in agricultural pursuits to co-operate with each other for the purposes named in this Act. Only those engaged in agricultural pursuits can become incorporators of or members of Societies chartered under this Act.

Each corporation chartered hereunder shall contain as a part of its name these words, “Farmers' Co-operative Society.” No. 1. Provided, persons not engaged in agricultural pursuits may be permitted to contribute an amount not in excess of one-third the outstanding working capital of the society. [Act April 4, 1917, ch. 193, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 14½a. Locality of operation; public funds not to be used in organizing societies; joint agencies.—Corporations chartered hereunder shall be purely local in their character, shall confine their activities, business operations and membership to the community in which they are located, and in no event to extend beyond the territory surrounding the town, village or city designated as the place of business of the corporation, provided that no public funds appropriated to any department of State Government, or to any State Institution shall be used in organizing any societies or corporations mentioned in this Act. Provided, that corporations incorporated hereunder may join with other corporations incorporated under this Act in establishing and maintaining joint agencies for the accomplishment of the purposes for which they are incorporated. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 14½b. Incorporation proceedings.—Those desiring to form corporations hereunder shall, in the exercise of the rights herein granted and subject to the limitations herein provided, prepare and file their charters under the General Corporation Laws of this State, which said corporation laws shall govern them except where in conflict with the provisions of this Act, and then in such instances this Act shall govern. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 14½c. Charter fees; filing charters, amendments, etc., with Secretary of State; approval of Attorney General; filing charters, etc., with County Clerk; certified copies.—The Secretary of State shall, instead of the statutory fees charged for filing charters, charge for filing charters and amendments to charters of corporations incorporated hereunder the sum of Ten Dollars for each charter and amendment thereof. Charters, amendments to charters and all by-laws must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and must first before being filed be approved by the Attorney General. Copies of the charter and by-laws properly certified to by the Secretary of State shall also be filed in the office of the County Clerk of the county in which is located any Society which is incorporated hereunder, but need not be recorded by the County Clerk but shall be kept by him subject to inspection of any person interested. The Secretary of State shall, in furnishing the corporation certified copies of charters, amendments and by-laws, furnish to the Society two certified copies of each, one for the files of the Society and one to be filed in the office of the County Clerk. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 14½d. Purposes of corporations; franchise tax; statements; surplus.—Corporations chartered hereunder shall be purely co-operative, and not for profit, and shall not be required to pay any annual franchise tax, but shall nevertheless make a statement of their assets and liabilities to the Secretary of State, showing the condition of their affairs, in such form as may be prepared for the Secretary of State by the Attorney General. Such Societies may, by their Directors in accordance with their by-laws pass their profits to the surplus fund or divide the same among the members of the Society in proportion to the respective contributions in cash to the working capital of the corporation, and patronage of their members. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 14½e. Assets; payment of contributions; rights of certificate holders before payment; notes.—Corporations chartered hereunder shall have property of not less than Five Hundred Dollars in value, which may be cash, property or notes acceptable to the Board of Directors; provided, however, that no membership certificates shall be issued for subscriptions in the form of notes until such notes have been paid in full, principal and interest, and the holders of membership certificates for which cash or property has not been paid, while entitled to vote in the management of the affairs of the corporations shall not be entitled to share in its dividends nor in a distribution of any assets until such notes are paid in full. However, they may become borrowers from the corporation under the provisions of this Act and the by-laws adopted hereunder. Such notes shall be construed to be valid subscription contracts, and shall be the property of the corporations chartered hereunder for any and all purposes. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 14 1/4f. Powers.—Corporations chartered under this Act shall have authority to borrow money and discount notes to an aggregate amount not in excess of five times the working capital of the corporation; such corporations shall have the right to loan their funds to members only upon such terms and such security, if any, as may be provided in their by-laws; they shall also have the right to act as the co-operative selling and purchasing agents of their members only, and may for their members sell any and all agricultural products, and for their members purchase machinery and all supplies of any kind or character, including the purchase of fire, livestock, hail, cyclone and storm insurance for its members in the event of purchasing insurance for its members, however, the corporation shall have authority to be, and shall be appointed and licensed as, the agent of the insurance companies, and the commissions so received by it shall be a part of the corporate funds of the company; they shall also have authority to own and operate such machinery and instrumentalities as may be necessary in the production, harvesting, and preparation for market of farm and ranch products. [Id., § 7.]

Art. 14 1/4g. Membership.—Membership in Societies incorporated under this Act can be obtained only by election thereto at the time of the organization of the Society by the organizers thereof, or by the Board of Directors of such Society when organized under such rules and limitations as may be made in the by-laws. Members shall each have one vote only in the management of the affairs of the corporation. Members may be suspended or expelled for misconduct under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed, in the by-laws. In case of expulsion the Society shall return to the member at such time as may be fixed in its by-laws an amount equal to the money value of the amount contributed by such member to the working capital of the society. [Id., § 8.]

Art. 14 1/4h. Membership certificates not transferable; withdrawal.—Membership certificates shall not be transferable, but members shall have the right of withdrawal under such rules and regulations as may be adopted by the Society in its by-laws. In case of withdrawal the society may return to the member an amount equal to the money value of the amount contributed by him to the working capital of the society. [Id., § 9.]

Art. 14 1/4i. Liability of members; waiver of exemption.—Unless otherwise provided, the members of a corporation chartered hereunder shall not be responsible to the corporation, or to its creditors, in excess of the membership shares subscribed by them, and when such shares are paid for their liability shall cease; provided, however, that the association may, in its by-laws, make each member responsible for an additional amount equal to 100 per cent. of the shares owned by a member, payable upon assessment of the Board of Directors for the payment of the debts and obligations of the corporation; And may provide in like manner that members may waive their right to claim personal property exempt from seizure for debt as against debts and obligations due to the society; but in all such instances such liability must be plainly provided for in the by-laws, which by-laws in this and all other instances must be signed by the member. [Id., § 10.]

Art. 14½j. Forms to be prepared by Attorney General.—Appropriate forms of charter, charter amendments, by-laws, rules and regulations and annual reports to the members, and such other forms as may be necessary to make this Act effective, shall be prepared by the Attorney General of the State and filed with the Secretary of State who shall cause same, together with copy of this Act, to be published and distributed among the citizens of the State who may be interested. [Id., § 11.]
Art. 22. Defining places of public amusement.

Negligence in conduct of place of public amusement.—Unless a defect in a stairway was brought to the notice of the manager of a theater or his employees before an injury to a patron alleged to have been caused thereby, or unless it had existed for such a length of time that by ordinary care he would have discovered it, he was not liable. Dalton v. Hooper (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 84.

In an action for injuries to child while on walk in amusement grounds under defendant's control, measure of duty held to be ordinary care to keep walk in condition, safe for child of plaintiff's years. Wichita Falls Traction Co. v. Adams (Sup.) 183 S. W. 155.

Owner of amusement grounds held liable for injuries by tank on walk under its control if placed there by its employees, or if placed there by stranger and it did not exercise ordinary care to remove it. Id.

Liability of manager for breach of contract.—A manager of a theater for a lessee is not liable for breach of contract based on sale of ticket by an employé of the lessee and ejection by another of the holder of the ticket. Weis v. Skinner (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 34.

A manager of a theater for a lessee is not liable in tort for other employés of the lessee selling a ticket to a performance and ejecting the holder thereof from her seat. Id.

The courts of said district shall continue to hold their terms as provided by existing law until July 1st, 1917. [Acts 1907, p. 100; Acts 1913, p. 176; Act March 26, 1917, ch. 99, § 1.]

That all process issued out of the courts of the First Judicial District prior to July 1st, 1917, is hereby made returnable to the terms of the courts as fixed by this Act on and after July 1st, 1917, and all bonds executed and all recognizances entered of record in said courts prior to July 1st, 1917, shall bind the parties for their appearance or to fulfill the obligations thereof at the terms of such courts as fixed by this Act on and after July 1st, 1917, and all process heretofore or hereafter issued or returned prior to July 1st, 1917, as well as all bonds or recognizances taken in the courts of said district heretofore or prior to July 1st, 1917, shall on and after July 1st, 1917, be as valid as if no change had been made in the times of the holding of such courts in said district. [Id., § 2.]

By Act Feb. 13, 1917, set forth post in subdivisions 9 and 15 of this article, Tyler county is removed from the 1st district and placed in the 75th district.

3. The Third Judicial District shall be composed of the Counties of Houston, Henderson and Anderson, as now constituted, and the district courts shall be held therein as follows:

In the County of Henderson on the first Monday in February and the second Monday before the first Monday in September, and may continue in session for seven weeks.
In the County of Houston on the seventh Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the first Monday in September, and may continue in session seven weeks.

In Anderson County on the fourteenth Monday after the first Monday in February and may continue in session eight weeks; on the twenty-second Monday after the first Monday in February, and may continue in session until the business is disposed of; on the twelfth Monday after the first Monday in September, and may continue in session until the business is disposed of. [Acts 1905, p. 141; Act Feb. 20, 1915, ch. 19, § 1; Act March 12, 1915, ch. 42, § 1.]

That all process, writs and bonds issued, served or executed prior to the taking effect of this Act and returnable to the terms of the Third Judicial District Court as heretofore fixed by law in the several counties composing said district are hereby made returnable to the terms of said court in said several counties as fixed by this Act, and all process heretofore returnable, as well as all bonds and recognizances heretofore entered into in any court created or reorganized by this Act, shall be valid and binding and have the same effect as if no change had been made by this Act in the times of holding said terms of court. [Id., § 2.]

Took effect March 12, 1915. Section 3 repeals Senate Bill No. 38, regular session 34th Leg. approved Feb. 20, 1915, and all other laws in conflict.

5. That the Fifth Judicial District of Texas shall be composed of the counties of Bowie and Cass, and the terms of the District Court shall be held therein in each year as follows:

In the County of Bowie, beginning on the first Monday in January of each year, and may continue in session for ten weeks.

In the County of Cass, beginning on the tenth Monday after the first Monday in January of each year, and may continue in session for five weeks.

In the County of Bowie, on the fifteenth Monday after the first Monday in January of each year, and may continue in session until the first Monday in September.

In the County of Cass, on the first Monday in September of each year, and may continue in session for five weeks.

In the County of Bowie, on the fifth Monday after the first Monday in September of each year, and may continue in session until the first Monday in January following. [Acts 1907, p. 198; Acts 1911, p. 167, § 1; Act Feb. 9, 1915, ch. 5, § 1.]

The District Judge and the District Attorney of the Fifth Judicial District, elected and now acting for said District, shall hold their respective offices until the term for which they were elected shall expire and their successors are elected and duly qualified. [Id., § 3.]

That all process issued or served before this Act takes effect, including recognizances and bonds returnable to the district courts of any of the counties of the said judicial districts, shall be considered as returnable to the said court in accordance with the terms and provisions as prescribed in this Act, and all such process is hereby legalized, and all grand and petit juries drawn and selected under the existing laws in any of the counties of said judicial district, shall be considered lawfully drawn and selected for the next term of the district court of their respective counties, held after this Act takes effect, and all such processes are hereby legalized and validated; provided, that if any court in any county of said districts shall be in session at the time this Act takes effect, such court or courts affected thereby shall continue in session until the term thereof shall expire under the provisions of existing laws, but thereafter the courts in such counties shall conform to the requirements of this Act. [Id., § 7.]
7. The Counties of Upshur, Wood and Smith shall hereafter constitute and be the Seventh Judicial District of the State of Texas, and the terms of the District Court shall be held therein each year as follows:

In the County of Upshur: One term, beginning on the second Monday in January and may continue in session six weeks.

In the County of Wood: Beginning on the seventh Monday after the second Monday in January and may continue in session six weeks.

In the County of Smith: Beginning on the thirteenth Monday after the second Monday in January and may continue in session until the thirtieth day of June.

In the County of Upshur: Beginning on the first Monday in July and may continue in session six weeks.

In the County of Wood: Beginning on the seventh Monday after the first Monday in July and may continue in session six weeks.

In the County of Smith: Beginning on the thirteenth Monday after the first Monday in July and may continue in session until the third Saturday in December. [Acts 1909, p. 120; Act March 10, 1917, ch. 70, § 3.]

The District Judge of the Seventh Judicial District, as formerly constituted, and the District Attorney thereof, shall continue in office as district judge and district attorney of the Seventh Judicial District, as herein constituted, until the end of the term for which they were elected. [Id., § 4.]

That all process and writs issued out of the district courts of said counties and jurors selected prior to the taking effect of this Act are hereby made returnable to the terms of said courts, as said terms are fixed by this Act, and all bonds executed and recognizances entered in said courts shall bind the parties for their appearance or to fulfill the obligations of such bonds and recognizances at the terms of said courts as they are fixed by this Act, and all process heretofore returned to, as well as all bonds and recognizances heretofore taken in any of said counties' district courts thereof shall be as valid as though no change had been made in the said districts and the times of holding courts therein. [Id., § 8.]

Should any district court of the Seventh, Fourteenth or Fortieth Judicial District be in session in any of the counties in said district under existing laws when this Act takes effect the same shall continue and end its term under such existing laws as if no change in the district had been made, and all process, writs, judgments and decrees shall be valid and shall not be affected by the change in said districts and the times of holding courts therein made by this Act. [Id., § 9.]

Section 11 repeals all laws in conflict. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

9. The Ninth Judicial District of the State of Texas shall hereafter be composed of the following named counties, to wit: Hardin, Liberty, Montgomery, San Jacinto and Polk, and the terms of the district courts in and for said Ninth Judicial District of Texas shall be begun and holden therein as follows:

In the County of Montgomery, on the second Monday in January and July of each year, and may continue in session four weeks.

In the County of Liberty on the fourth Monday after the second Monday in January and July of each year, and may continue in session five weeks.

In the County of Hardin, on the eleventh Monday after the second Monday in January and July of each year, and may continue in session five weeks.

In the County of San Jacinto, on the sixteenth Monday after the second Monday in January and July of each year, and may continue in session four weeks.
In the County of Polk, on the twentieth Monday after the second Monday in January and July of each year, and may continue in session until the business is disposed of. [Acts 1909, p. 128; Act April 7, 1915, ch. 155; Act Feb. 13, 1917, ch. 23, § 1.]

Either of the judges of the District Court of Montgomery, Liberty and Hardin Counties in said judicial districts may, at his discretion, either in term time or in vacation transfer any case or cases, civil or criminal, that may at any time be pending in his court to the other district court in said county by an order or orders entered upon the minutes of the court making said transfer; and where such transfer or transfers are made the clerk of said court shall enter such case or cases upon the docket of the court to which said transfer or transfers are made, and when so entered upon the docket the judge of said court shall try and dispose of such cases in the same manner as if such cases were originally filed in such court. The district courts of said Ninth and Seventy-Fifth Districts shall each have and exercise concurrent jurisdiction co-extensive with the limits of said three counties in all civil and criminal matters of which district courts are given jurisdiction under the Constitution and Laws of this State. [Id., § 3.]

The district clerks and sheriffs elected, qualified and acting as officers of the district court in the counties of Montgomery, Liberty and Hardin shall be alike officers of both the Ninth and Seventy-fifth Judicial Districts in their respective counties. [Id., § 4.]

The present judges of the Ninth Judicial District and of the Seventy-fifth Judicial District as same now exist shall remain the district judges of their respective districts as reorganized under the provisions of this Act and shall hold their office until the term for which they have been elected shall have expired and their successors are duly appointed or elected and qualified, and they shall receive the same compensation as now, or may hereafter be provided by law for district judges, and a vacancy in either of said offices shall be filled as is now, or may hereafter be provided for by law. [Id., § 5.]

There shall be a district attorney in and for said Seventy-fifth Judicial District, and the said Ninth Judicial District, and the present district attorneys of the Seventy-fifth Judicial District and of the Ninth Judicial District as same now exist shall remain the district attorneys of their respective districts as reorganized under the provisions of this Act, and shall hold their office until the term for which they have been elected shall have expired and their successors are duly appointed or elected and qualified, and they shall receive the same compensation as now, or may hereafter be provided by law for district attorneys, and a vacancy in either of said offices shall be filled as is now, or may hereafter be provided for by law. [Id., § 6.]

Explanatory.—The act amends chapter 155 of the 34th Legislature so as to read as set forth in this subdivision and subdivision 75, post. It also, by section 8, expressly repeals all of the sections of that act, except section 5, and repeals all other laws in conflict. Section 5 of the former act, reserved from the repealing clause, provides that the then present judge of the ninth district should remain the judge of the new district during his term at the same compensation. Became a law Feb. 13, 1917.

13. That the Thirteenth Judicial District of Texas shall hereafter be composed of the county of Navarro, and the terms of the District Court shall be held therein in each year as follows: On the first Mondays in January, April, July and October of each year, and the terms of the January and April terms of said Court shall continue in session twelve weeks, or until all of the business be disposed of; the term beginning on the first Monday in July shall continue in session six weeks, or until the business is disposed of; and the term beginning on the first Monday in October shall continue in session twelve weeks, or until all of the business be disposed of; provided, there shall be no jury trials at the July term of said Court. [Acts 1899, p. 38; Act Feb. 12, 1915, ch. 8, § 1.]
That there shall be organized grand juries at the April and October terms of said District Court of said District, and at such other terms of said Court as may be determined and ordered by the Judge thereof. [Id., § 2.]

That the District Judge of the Thirteenth Judicial District elected and now acting for said District shall hold his office until the term for which he was elected shall expire, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified, and the office of District Attorney for the Thirteenth Judicial District is hereby abolished, the county attorney of Navarro county shall hereafter perform all the duties heretofore performed by said District attorney of the Thirteenth Judicial District. [Id., § 5.]

The several District Clerks of Navarro, Limestone and Freestone counties, duly elected and acting as such shall continue to be the clerks of the District Court of their respective counties, until the next general election and until their respective successors are duly elected and qualified. [Id., § 7.]

That all process issued or served before this Act takes effect, including recognizances, and bonds, returnable to the District Court of any of the counties of said Judicial District, shall be considered as returnable to said Courts in accordance with the terms as prescribed in this Act, and all such process is hereby legalized and grand and petit juries drawn and selected under existing laws in any of the counties of said Judicial Districts shall be considered lawfully drawn and selected for the term of the District Court of their respective counties held after this Act takes effect. And all such process are hereby legalized and validated, provided, that if any court in any county of said District shall be in session at the time this Act takes effect, such court or courts affected hereby shall continue in session until the term thereof shall expire under the provisions of existing laws, but thereafter, the courts in such county shall conform to the requirements of this Act. [Id., § 8.]

14. Dallas County shall constitute the Fourteenth Judicial District instead of Dallas and Rockwall, as it has heretofore existed, and the District Court of the said Fourteenth Judicial District shall hold four terms each year in the County of Dallas as follows:

Beginning on the second Monday in January and ending on the Saturday before the second Monday in April.

Beginning on the second Monday in April and ending on the Saturday before the second Monday in July.

Beginning on the second Monday in July and ending on the Saturday before the second Monday in October.

Beginning on the second Monday in October and ending on the Saturday before the second Monday in January.

The said Fourteenth Judicial District Court shall continue and have jurisdiction as is now provided by the acts of the Thirty-third Legislature, Chapter 89, approved March 31, 1913 [Vernon's Sayles' Civ. St. 1914, art. 30, subd. 14], save and except as the Act may apply to Rockwall County. Nothing herein nor in this Act shall be construed to in any manner affect the jurisdiction or validity of any other district court in Dallas County heretofore created, but this Act shall be construed in so far as it may affect the Fourteenth Judicial District of Dallas County to leave each of said courts, including the Fourteenth District Court, with the same jurisdiction now granted them under existing laws, save and except the transfer of Rockwall County to a new judicial district and the changing of the terms in Dallas County for the said Fourteenth Judicial District. [Acts 1913, p. 171; Act March 10, 1917, ch. 70, § 5.]

The District Judge of the said Fourteenth Judicial District, as formerly constituted, shall continue in office as district judge of the Fourteenth Judicial District, as herein constituted, until the end of the term for which he was elected. [Id., § 6.]

For special provisions relating to this district and districts 7, 40, and 86, see subdivision 7 of this article.
16. The Sixteenth Judicial District shall be composed of the counties of Denton, Montague and Cooke, and the district court shall be held therein as follows: In the County of Montague on the first Monday in January and the twenty-second Monday after the first Monday in January, and may continue in session six weeks; in the County of Denton on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in January, and on the first Monday in September, and may continue in session eight weeks; in the County of Cooke on the fourteenth Monday after the first Monday in January, and the eighth Monday after the first Monday in September and may continue in session eight weeks. [Act Feb. 17, 1917, ch. 26, § 1.]

That all process issued or served before this Act goes into effect, returnable to the district court in said judicial district, shall be returnable to the said court as fixed by the terms of this Act, and said process is hereby legalized and validated, and all grand and petit jurors selected and drawn under existing laws in any of the counties of said judicial district shall be considered as legally drawn and selected for the next term of the district court of the respective counties held after this Act takes effect, and all appearance bonds and recognizances taken in and for said court shall bind the parties therein obligated to appear at the next term of said court under this Act. [Id., § 2.]

17. Service on first of defendants less than 10 days before the term to which process was returnable cannot support a default judgment, nor would a transfer of the cause to another judicial district, under this subdivision, cure the defect. McCaulley v. Western Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1609.

18. That the 18th Judicial District shall be composed of the counties of Johnson, Bosque and Somervell. The district courts in the counties comprising the said 18th Judicial District shall be holden as follows: In the County of Johnson, beginning on the first Monday in January and may continue in session until and including Saturday before the third Monday in March; beginning on the first Monday in May and may continue in session until and including Saturday before the first Monday in July; beginning on the second Monday in October, and may continue in session until and including Saturday before the first Monday in December. In the County of Bosque, beginning on the third Monday in March and may continue in session until and including Saturday before the third Monday in April; beginning on the third Monday in September and may continue in session until and including Saturday the second Monday in October; beginning on the first Monday in December and may continue in session until and including Saturday before the first Monday in January. In Somervell County beginning on the third Monday in April and may continue in session until and including Saturday before the first Monday in May; beginning on the first Monday in September and may continue in session until and including Saturday before the third Monday in September. [Acts 1905, p. 37; Act Feb. 23, 1917, ch. 45, § 1.]

All processes issued or served before this Act goes into effect, including recognizances and bonds, returnable to the district court of any of said counties in each of said Judicial Districts shall be considered as returnable to said courts in accordance with the terms as described by this Act, and all such process is hereby legalized and all grand and petit juries drawn and selected under existing laws in any of the counties of either of said Judicial Districts, shall be considered lawfully drawn and selected for the next term of the district court of their respective counties, held in accordance with this Act, and after this Act takes effect, all such process is hereby legalized and validated; provided, that if any court in any county of either of said Judicial Districts shall be in session at the time this Act takes effect, such court or courts affected hereby shall continue in session until the term thereof shall expire under the provisions of existing laws, and thereafter the said courts of said county or counties shall conform to the requirements of this Act. [Id., § 3.]

The Judges of the Nineteenth and Fifty-fourth Judicial Districts as heretofore existing, shall be and remain the Judges of the respective Courts, as provided for in this Act, until the expiration of their respective terms of office to which they were elected and until their successors are elected and qualified. [Id., § 4.]

The Clerk of the District Courts of McLennan County as heretofore existing, shall be and remain the Clerk for each of said District Courts, and shall hold his office until his successor is elected and qualified. [Id., § 5.]

The terms of the Nineteenth Judicial District shall be held as follows:

On the first Mondays in January, April, July and October in each year, and may continue in session until the business is disposed of; provided, the October term shall not continue longer than the last Saturday before the 25th day of December. [Id., § 8.]

The Judges of the Nineteenth and Seventy-fourth Judicial Districts shall never impanel a Grand Jury in their Courts, but may at any time reconvene the Grand Jury impaneled by the Judge of the Fifty-fourth District, when a necessity therefor exists in the judgement of the Judge or Judges of said Nineteenth and Seventy-fourth Judicial Districts. [Id., § 9.]

Either of the Judges of said Courts may, in their discretion, either in term time or vacation, transfer any cause or causes Civil or Criminal, that may at any time be pending in his court, to either of the other said District Courts in McLennan County, by order or orders entered upon the minutes of his said Court, and where such transfer or transfers are made, the Clerk of said Courts shall enter such cause or causes upon the docket of the Court to which such transfer or transfers are made, and when so entered upon the docket, the Judge of said Court to which such cause or causes have been transferred, shall try and dispose of said cause or causes in the same manner as if such cause or causes were originally in said Court. [Id., § 10.]

The Judges of the Nineteenth and Fifty-fourth Judicial Districts shall transfer to the docket of the Seventy-fourth Judicial District immediately upon the taking effect of this Act, a sufficient number of cases now pending in their respective Courts to equalize the cases and business of the Nineteenth, Fifty-fourth, and Seventy-fourth Judicial Districts. [Id., § 11.]

No petit Juries shall be drawn for the July term of the Nineteenth Judicial District or for the August term of the Seventy-fourth Judicial District, unless the Judges of said Courts shall deem the same necessary. [Id., § 12.]

20. That the Twentieth Judicial District of Texas shall hereafter be composed of the county of Milam, and the terms of the District Court shall be held therein in each year as follows: On the first Monday in the months of January, March, May and September, and the second Monday in the month of November of each year, and each term may continue in session until and including the Saturday next preceding the beginning of the next succeeding term, unless the business of the term shall be disposed of. [Acts 1893, p. 52; Act March 26, 1916 (1917), ch. 96, § 1.]

Grand Juries in said Twentieth Judicial District shall be organized at the May and November terms of said court and at such other terms as the judge of said District Court may determine and order by causing an order to that effect to be entered upon the minutes of said court by the clerk thereof. [Id., § 2.]

That the District Judge of the Twentieth Judicial District elected and now acting for said district shall hold his office until the term for which he was elected shall have expired and until his successor is duly elected and qualified, but shall continue as judge of said Twentieth Judicial District as herein constituted. [Id., § 6.]

The office of district attorney for the Twentieth Judicial District as now existing, is hereby abolished. Provided, that the District Attorney of said Twentieth Judicial District as now constituted, and now acting as such shall hold his office as District Attorney of the Twentieth Judicial District as it now exists, charged with the duties of prosecuting all felony cases presented in the District Courts of said three counties until the term for which he was elected shall have expired; provided further that the respective duly elected county attorneys of Milam, Brazos and Robertson counties, shall be charged with the duties of prosecuting all misdemeanor cases prosecuted in their respective counties during the term for which they were elected.

And it is further provided, that at the expiration of the term for which said District Attorneys was elected for said Twentieth Judicial District shall have expired, that said office of District Attorneys for said Districts as created by this Act shall be abolished; and the regularly elected county attorneys for the counties of Milam, Brazos, and Robertson, elected at the general election to be held in November, A. D. 1918, and each regular election thereafter held, shall perform all the duties of District Attorneys in their respective counties, theretofore performed by said District Attorney. [Id., § 7.]

The several clerks of Milam, Robertson, and Brazos Counties, duly elected and acting as such, shall continue to be the clerk of the District Court of their respective counties until the next general election and until their respective successors are duly elected and qualified. [Id., § 8.]

The District Court of the Twentieth Judicial District shall have all such powers and jurisdiction as District Courts now have or which may hereafter be conferred upon them and under the laws and Constitution of the State of Texas, and shall also have and exercise all such other and further jurisdiction as may be at any time transferred to it from the County Court of Milam County by any Act or Acts of the Legislature.
[Id., § 9.]

It is provided that in case a term of any of the District Courts of the three counties of Milam, Robertson and Brazos, shall in session at the time this Act takes effect, said term of said Court shall continue until said term shall have been adjourned or expired under the existing law, and in case said term of said court is in session in any of said counties, then the provisions of this Act shall not be operative as to said court in said county until such term shall have expired or shall be adjourned sine die by the Judge of said District Court as the same is now constituted.
[Id., § 19.]

It is provided further that an official Court Reporter of said Twentieth Judicial District, and also one for said Eighty-fifth Judicial District, shall be appointed by the Judge of said Courts, the said official Court Reporters, to have the qualifications, be subject to the duties and regulations, and entitled to the same compensation as official court reporters for District Courts of this State are now or may hereafter be subject to and entitled to under the general laws of this State. [Id., § 20.]

It is further provided that Chapter 67 of the General Laws of the 18th Legislature of the State of Texas, passed at the Regular Session, and approved April 9th, 1883, entitled "An Act to re-district the State into Judicial Districts, and fixing a time for the holding of Court therein, and to provide for the election of Judges and District Attorneys in said District," and which now constitutes Section 20, Article 30, of the Revised Statutes of 1911, and also all other laws and parts of laws in conflict with this bill, are here now repealed. [Id., § 21.]

The act took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

21. The counties of Washington, Burleson, Lee and Bastrop shall constitute the Twenty-first Judicial District, and the district courts therein shall be held as follows: in the county of Washington, on the first Monday in March and September, and may continue in session six weeks; in the county of Lee, on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in March and September, and may continue in session four weeks; in the county of Burleson, on the tenth Monday after the first Monday in March and September, and may continue in session five weeks; in the county of Bastrop there shall be held two terms of said court in each year, the first term to be held on the second Monday in January of each year, and may continue in session six weeks, and the second term to be held on the fifteenth Monday after the first Monday in March of each year, and may continue in session six weeks. [Acts 1911, p. 39; Act March 28, 1917, ch. 118, § 1.]

The act amends paragraph 21, art. 30, of title 5, Rev. Civ. St. 1911. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

22. That the counties of Comal, Hays, Caldwell, Fayette and Austin shall constitute the Twenty-second Judicial District, and the District Courts therein shall be held twice in each year, as follows:

In the County of Comal on the first Monday in February and September of each year, and may continue in session three weeks.

In the County of Hays on the third Monday after the first Monday in February and September of each year, and may continue in session four weeks.

In the County of Caldwell on the seventh Monday after the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session five weeks, and on the seventh Monday after the first Monday in September of each year, and may continue in session four weeks.

In the County of Fayette on the twelfth Monday after the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session five weeks; and on the eleventh Monday after the first Monday in September of each year, and may continue in session six weeks.

In the County of Austin on the seventeenth Monday after the first Monday in February and September of each year, and may continue in session four weeks. [Acts 1903, p. 27; Act March 19, 1915, ch. 64, § 1.]

All process, writs and bonds, civil and criminal, issued or executed prior or subsequent to the taking effect of this Act and returnable to the terms of said court as heretofore fixed by law in the several counties composing the said Twenty-second Judicial District are hereby made returnable to the terms of said courts in the several counties as fixed in this Act, and in conformity with the change herein made, and all process heretofore returned, as well as all bonds and recognizance heretofore entered into or hereafter entered into after this Act takes effect in any of said courts shall be as valid and as binding as if no change had been made in the time of holding said courts. [Id., § 2.]

Became a law March 19, 1915. Section 3 of the act repeals all laws in conflict.

23. That the Twenty-third Judicial District of Texas shall be composed of the Counties of Brazoria, Fort Bend, Wharton and Matagorda, and the terms of the district court in said counties shall be held therein in each year as follows:

In the County of Brazoria, beginning on the first Monday in September of each year, and may continue in session for five weeks.

In the County of Fort Bend, beginning on the fifth Monday after the first Monday in September of each year, and may continue in session for five weeks.

In the County of Matagorda, beginning on the seventeenth Monday after the first Monday in September of each year, and may continue in session five weeks.

In the County of Brazoria, beginning on the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session for six weeks.

In the County of Fort Bend, beginning on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session for six weeks.

In the County of Wharton, beginning on the twelfth Monday after the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session for six weeks.

In the County of Matagorda, beginning on the eighteenth Monday after the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session for six weeks.

[Acts 1905, p. 80; Act June 3, 1915, 1st C. S. ch. 19, § 1; Act Feb. 23, 1917, ch. 44, § 1.]

That the District Judge of the Twenty-third Judicial District of Texas elected and now acting as judge for said district shall hold his office until the term for which he was elected shall expire, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified. [Act June 3, 1915, 1st C. S. ch. 19, § 4.]

That any judge of any civil district court of Harris County may, in his discretion, either in term time or in vacation, transfer any civil case, that may at any time be pending in his court, to any other civil district court in said county, by order entered upon the minutes of the court making such transfer, and where such transfer is made, the clerk of said court shall enter the case upon the docket of the court to which the same is transferred, and when the same has so been entered upon the docket, the judge of the court to which the case has been transferred shall try and dispose of said case in the same manner as other cases pending in said court. [Id., § 7.]

That upon the county attorney of Waller County elected and now acting as such in said county, and his successor in office, is imposed the same duties of representing the State in all matters, both civil and criminal, now imposed by general law upon county and district attorneys in reference to matters of which district courts have jurisdiction under the Constitution and laws of the State, and his compensation shall be that now provided by law for county attorneys in counties having no district attorney. [Id., § 8.]

That the several district clerks of Brazoria, Fort Bend, Wharton, Waller and Matagorda Counties, duly elected and acting as such, shall continue to be the clerks of the district court of their respective counties, until the next general election and until their respective successors are duly elected and qualified. [Id., § 9.]

That the district attorney of the Twenty-third Judicial District of Texas, elected and now acting as district attorney shall hold his office until the term for which he was elected shall expire and until his successor is duly elected and qualified. [Id., § 10.]

That all process issued or served before this Act takes effect, including recognizances, and bonds returnable to the district court of any of the counties of the Twenty-third Judicial District, shall be considered as returnable to said courts in accordance with the terms as prescribed in this Act, and all such process is hereby legalized and grand and petit juries drawn and selected under existing laws in any of the counties of said judicial district, and in the county of Waller, shall be considered lawfully drawn and selected for the term of the district court of their respective counties held after this Act takes effect. All such process is hereby legalized and validated. It is further provided that if any court in any county of said district shall be in session at the time this Act takes effect, such court or courts affected hereby shall continue in session until the term thereof shall expire under the provisions of existing laws, but thereafter, the court in such county shall conform to the requirements of this Act. [Id., § 11.]

That all laws or parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this Act be and the same are hereby repealed, provided that this Act shall take effect and be in force from and after the first day of September, 1915.
[Id., § 13.]

That all process issued or served before this Act takes effect, including recognizances and bonds returnable to the district court of any of the counties of the Twenty-third Judicial District shall be considered as returnable to said court, in accordance with the terms as prescribed in this Act, and all such process is hereby legalized, and grand and petit juries drawn and selected under existing laws in any of the counties of said Judicial District shall be considered lawfully drawn and selected by the term of the court of their respective counties held after this Act takes effect, as herein provided. All such process is hereby legalized and validaged.

It is further provided that if any court in any county of said district shall be in session at the time this Act takes effect, such court or courts affected hereby shall continue in session until the term thereof shall expire under the provisions of existing laws, but thereafter the court in such county shall conform to the requirements of this Act. [Act Feb.
23, 1917, ch. 44, § 2.]

Act Feb. 23, 1917, c. 44, amends section 1, c. 19, Gen. Laws 34th Leg. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

26. The Twenty-sixth Judicial District shall be composed of the counties of Travis and Williamson, and the terms of the District Court of said district shall be held hereafter for the trial of civil cases therein as follows:

(a) In the County of Williamson, on the first Monday in February, and may continue in session to and including the last Saturday before the first Monday in March; on the first Monday in June, and may continue in session five weeks; and on the first Monday in November, and may continue in session four weeks.

(b) In the County of Travis, on the first Monday in March, and may continue in session to and including the last Saturday in May; on the third Monday in September, and may continue in session to and including the last Saturday in October; and on the first Monday in December, and may continue in session to and including the last Satur-
17, § 1.]

The Twenty-sixth and Fifty-third District Courts of Travis County shall have concurrent jurisdiction with each other throughout the limits of Travis County of all matters civil of which jurisdiction is given to the district courts by the Constitution and the laws of the State of Texas.

(a) The clerk of the District Courts of Travis County as heretofore constituted, and his successors in office, shall be the clerk of the Twenty-sixth and Fifty-third District Courts, and also the clerk of the Criminal District Court in Travis County hereinafter created, and shall perform all the duties pertaining to all of said courts; and the clerk of the District Court of Williamson County, as heretofore constituted, and his successors in office, shall be the clerk of the Twenty-sixth District Court in Williamson County, and also the clerk of the Criminal District Court in Williamson County, Texas, hereinafter created, and shall perform all duties pertaining to both of said courts.

(b) Either of the judges of the Twenty-sixth and Fifty-third District Courts in Travis County may in his discretion transfer any civil cause that may at any time be pending in his court to the other Civil District Court in Travis County, by an order entered upon the minutes of his court; when such transfer is made the clerk of the District Court of Travis County shall enter such cause upon the docket of the court to which such transfer is made, and when so entered upon the docket the judge of said court shall try and dispose of said cause in the same manner as if such cause was originally instituted in said court.

(c) All writs, process and bonds in civil cases and matters issued, executed or entered into prior to the taking effect of this act in the Twenty-sixth and Fifty-third District Courts, respectively, and returnable to terms of said courts heretofore fixed by law in the counties of Travis and Williamson, are hereby made returnable to the next ensuing term of said respective courts as fixed by this act, and shall be as valid and binding as if no change had been made in the time of holding of said courts; and all juries drawn and selected under existing laws shall be as valid as if no change had been made in the time of holding said courts, and provided further, that jurors drawn and selected under existing laws shall be required to appear and serve at the next ensuing term of said respective courts as fixed by this act, and their acts shall be as valid as if no change had been made in the time of holding said courts.

(d) Should either the Twenty-sixth or Fifty-third District Court be in session under existing laws when this act takes effect, such court shall continue in session for the time fixed by such existing law, and all process, writs, orders, judgments and decrees issued and rendered by said court shall be valid, and shall not be affected by the change in the terms of said court made by this act. [1d., § 3.]

Note.—A criminal district court for Travis and Williamson counties is created by Act Feb. 18, 1915. This court is given jurisdiction in divorce cases as well as in criminal cases. The jurisdiction in those subjects is taken away from the regular district court. See Vernon’s Code of Cr. Proc. 1916, arts. 97wv–97zzz.

28. That the Twenty-eighth Judicial District of the State of Texas shall be composed of the counties of Nueces, Kleberg, Willacy and Cameron, and the terms of the Civil District Court shall be held in said district each year as follows:

In the county of Willacy on the nineteenth Monday after the first Monday in January of each year and may continue in session two weeks; on the thirteenth Monday after the last Monday in July and may continue in session two weeks. [Acts 1913, 1st C. S. p. 14; Act March 12, 1915, ch. 48, § 1; Act Feb. 26, 1917, ch. 46, § 6a; Act March 15, 1917, ch. 82, § 6a; Act May 17, 1917, 1st C. S. ch. 19, § 6a.]

That all processes, writs, and bonds issued, served or executed prior to the taking effect of this Act and returnable to the term of said court as heretofore fixed by law in the several counties composing said district are hereby made returnable to the terms of said court in the several counties as fixed by this Act, and all processes heretofore returnable, as well as all bonds and recognizances heretofore entered into, in any of said courts, shall be valid and binding as if no change had been made by this Act in the times of holding said terms of court. [Act March 15, 1917, ch. 82, § 2]

The present district judge and district attorney of the Twenty-eighth Judicial District, as the same now exists, being residents of the Twenty-eighth Judicial District as recognized under the provisions of this Act shall hold their office until the time for which they were elected shall expire and their successors are duly elected and qualified. [Act March 12, 1915, ch. 48, § 3.]

Act Feb. 28, 1916 [1917], c. 46, creates a criminal district court for the counties above enumerated, and such court is given jurisdiction not alone of criminal cases, but of divorce matters and actions to enforce tax liens. The text of the act is set forth post as articles 97½ to 97½ of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Section 11 of the act repeals all laws in conflict.

29. The 29th Judicial District shall be composed of the Counties of Palo Pinto, Hood and Erath. The district courts in the counties, comprising the said 29th Judicial District, shall be held as follows: In Palo Pinto County, beginning on the first Monday in March and September and may continue in session eight weeks. In Hood County beginning on the eighth Monday after the first Monday in March and September and may continue in session five weeks. In Erath County beginning on the thirteenth Monday after the first Monday in March and September, and may continue in session until all the business is disposed of. [Acts 1909, 2nd C. S. p. 390; Act Feb. 23, 1917, ch. 45, § 2.]

For special provisions relating to this and the 18th district, see subdivision 18 of this article.

30. The Thirtieth Judicial District shall be composed of the counties of Young, Archer, Clay and Wichita, and terms of the district court shall be held therein each year as follows:

In the county of Young on the first Monday in March and September and may continue in session four weeks.

In the county of Archer, on the fourth Monday after the first Monday in March and September and may continue in session three weeks.

In the county of Clay on the seventh Monday after the first Monday in March and September and may continue in session eight weeks.

In the county of Wichita on the fifteenth Monday after the first Monday in March and September, and may continue in session until the business of the term is disposed of. [Acts 1903, p. 96; Act March 23, 1915, ch. 128; Act May 28, 1915, 1st C. S. ch. 6, § 1.]

All process issued from the office of the district clerk of Wichita County, Texas, since March 23, 1915, providing for service on the thirteenth Monday after the first Monday in March and served more than ten days before May 31, 1915, is hereby validated and shall be as effective for service as if calling for the time provided in this Act. [Id., § 2.]

For special provisions relating to this district and district 78, see subdivision 78 of this article.

Note.—Act approved May 28, 1915, which became effective on date of approval, amends paragraph 30 of article 30, title 5, Rev. Civ. St. 1911, as amended by chapter 128 of acts of regular session of 58th legislature, so as to read as above.

32. That the Thirty-second Judicial District of Texas shall hereafter be composed of the following counties:

Howard, Borden, Nolan, Mitchell and Scurry; and the terms of the district courts shall be held therein in each year as follows:

In the county of Howard on the first Mondays in February and September, and may continue in session three weeks.

In the County of Borden on the third Mondays after the first Mondays in February and September and may continue in session one week.

That all process and writs issued out of the district courts of said counties, prior to the taking effect of this Act are hereby made returnable to the terms of said courts as fixed by this Act, and all bonds executed, and recognizances entered of record in said courts shall bind the parties for their appearance, or to fulfill the obligation of such bonds and recognizances at the terms of said courts as they are fixed by this Act, and all process heretofore returned to, as well as all bonds and recognizances heretofore taken in any of said courts shall be valid or as valid as if no change had been made in the time of holding said courts. [Id., § 4.]

The present judges and district attorneys of the said Thirty-second, Thirty-ninth and Seventieth Judicial Districts shall continue to hold their offices until their said present terms expire. [Id., § 5.]

Became a law Feb. 12, 1197.

33. That the Thirty-third Judicial District of this State shall be composed of the counties of Kimble, Gillespie, Mason, Blanco, Menard, San Saba, Llano and Burnet, and the district courts shall be held therein as follows:

In the county of Kimble, on the first Monday in February and September, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Gillespie, on the third Monday in February and September, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Mason, on the fourth Monday after the first Monday in February and September, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Blanco, on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in February and September, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Menard on the eighth Monday after the first Monday in February and September, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of San Saba on the tenth Monday after the first Monday in February and September, and may continue in session three weeks.

In the county of Llano on the Thirteenth Monday after the first Monday in February and September, and may continue in session three weeks.

In the county of Burnet on the first Monday in January and may continue in session three weeks, and on the sixteenth Monday after the first Monday in February, and may continue in session until the business is disposed of. [Acts 1913, ch. 37, p. 68; Act June 3, 1915, 1st C. S., ch. 16, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The title of the act purports to amend chapter 37, General Laws, regular session 33rd Legislature. The enacting part makes no reference to the former law. Section 2 repeals all laws in conflict. Took effect 90 days after May 28, 1915, date of adjournment.

34. The terms of the District Court of the Thirty-fourth Judicial District, composed of El Paso and Culberson Counties, shall be held in each of said counties each year as follows, to-wit:

In El Paso County the terms of said court shall be as follows:

Beginning on the first Monday in September of each year and may continue in session for four weeks thereafter; a term beginning on the first Monday in November of each year and may continue in session until the last Saturday before the 25th day of December of each year thereafter; a term beginning on the first Monday in January of each year and may continue in session until the last Saturday in March thereafter; a term beginning on the first Monday in May of each year and may continue in session until the last Saturday in June of each year thereafter.

In Culberson County the terms of said court shall be as follows:
A term beginning on the first Monday in April of each year and may continue in session for four weeks thereafter; and a term beginning on the first Monday in October of each year and may continue in session for four weeks thereafter. [Acts 1913, 1st C. S. p. 17; Act Feb. 25, 1915, ch. 24, § 4.]
The said District Courts of El Paso County shall have concurrent civil and criminal jurisdiction with each other in said county of matters over which the jurisdiction is given or shall be given by the Constitution and laws of Texas to District Courts; provided, that no grand jury shall be impaneled in the District Courts of said county, other than that of the Thirty-fourth Judicial District, unless by special order of the judge of either of the other District Courts a grand jury shall be called for either of said courts. [Id., § 6.]
The District Attorney of the Thirty-fourth Judicial District shall also act as District Attorney in and for the Forty-first and Sixty-fifth Judicial Districts, and the clerk of the District Court of El Paso County shall act as clerk of the District Court for each of said District Courts. [Id., § 7.]

Either of the Judges in the said District Courts in El Paso County may, in their discretion, either in term time or vacation, transfer any case or cases, civil or criminal, to any other of said District Courts by order entered on the minutes of his court, or minutes of orders made in chambers, as the case may be, which orders, when made, shall be copied and certified to by said clerk, together with all orders made in said case, and such certified copies of such orders shall be filed among the papers of any case thus transferred, and the fees therefor shall be taxed as part of the costs of said suit. And the clerk of said court shall docket any such cause in the court to which it shall have been transferred, and, when so entered, the court to which the same shall have been thus transferred shall have like jurisdiction therein as in cases originally brought in said court, and the same shall be dropped from the docket of the court from which it was transferred; provided, that where there shall be a transfer of any case from one court to another, as herein provided, on motion of either of the parties to said suit, notice must be given to either the opposite party or his attorney by the party making the motion to transfer one week before the time of entering the order of transfer. [Id., § 8.]

Took effect March 15, 1915.

Note.—By Act Feb. 16, 1917, c. 25, p. 39, Hudspeth county is created, and, when organized, is to constitute a part of the 34th Judicial district, the court in which district shall hold two sessions of two weeks each annually in the new county at the county seat on the third Monday in April and October in each year.

For special provisions relating to this district and the 38th, 63rd, 70th, and 83rd districts, see subdivision 38 of this article.

53. The County of Travis shall constitute the Fifty-third Judicial District, and the District Court shall be held therein for the trial of civil cases as follows: On the first Monday in October, January, March and May in each year, and may continue in session until the business is disposed of; provided, the May term shall not continue longer than the third Saturday in July, unless continued longer by the judge thereof by an order duly entered; and the October term shall not continue longer than the last Saturday before the 25th of December each year, unless continued longer by the judge thereof by an order duly entered. [Acts 1913, 1st C. S. p. 17; Act Feb. 18, 1915, ch. 17, § 2.]

For special provisions relating to this district, see subdivision 26 of this article.

Note.—By Act Feb. 18, 1915, a criminal district court for Travis and Williamson counties is created, with jurisdiction in criminal and divorce cases, and the jurisdiction in those subjects is taken away from the regular district court. See Vernon's Code Cr. Proc. 1914, arts. 57vv-57zzz.

54. McLennan County [and Falls County] shall constitute the Fifty-fourth Judicial District. [Acts 1911, 1st C. S. p. 79; Act Jan. 29, 1915, ch. 3, § 3.]
The terms of the Fifty-fourth Judicial District shall be held as follows:

[In the County of Falls on the first Mondays in January, and the first Mondays in June and the January term of said Court may continue in session nine weeks and the June term nine weeks.] In the County of McLennan on the Second Mondays in March and the fourth Mondays in September and may continue in session until the business is disposed of. [Id., § 8.]

For special provisions relating to this district and the seventy-fourth district, see subdivision 19 of this article.

Note.—By Act Feb. 7, 1917, c. 9, § 10, post. subd. 82 of this article, Falls County is taken out of the 54th district, and the provisions of Acts 1916, regular session, ch. 3, §§ 8, 8, repealed so far as Falls county is concerned.

62. That the terms of the court in the Sixty-second Judicial District of the State of Texas, composed of the counties of Hunt, Delta and La­mar, shall be held therein each year as follows:

In the county of Hunt, beginning on the first Monday in December, and may continue in session eight weeks, and on the third Monday in May, and may continue in session ten weeks. In the county of Lamar, beginning on the ninth Monday after the first Monday in December, and may continue in session eight weeks, and on the first Monday in August, and may continue in session eight weeks. In the county of Delta, beginning on the seventeenth Monday after the first Monday in December, and may continue in session three weeks, and on the ninth Monday after the first Monday in August, and may continue in session three weeks. [Acts 1905, p. 75; Act March 1, 1915, ch. 27, § 1.]

That all process issued out of the District Court of the counties of said district before this Act takes effect is hereby made returnable to the terms of said court, as fixed by this Act, and all bonds heretofore executed, and recognizances entered of record in said court shall bind the parties for their appearance, or to fulfill the obligation of such bonds and recognizances at the terms of said court as fixed by this Act, and all process here­tofore returned, as well as all bonds and recognizances here­tofore taken in the Districts Courts of the Sixty-second Judicial District shall be as valid as if no change had been made in the times of holding said courts in the counties of said district. [Id., § 2.]

That should the District Court in any of the counties of said district be in session under existing laws when this Act takes effect, the same shall continue and end its terms under such existing laws, and all pro­cess, writs, judgments and decrees shall be valid, and shall not be ef­fected by the change in the times of holding the courts in the district, by this Act. [Id., § 3.]

63. The Sixty-third Judicial District of Texas shall be composed of the counties of Jeff Davis, Presidio, Brewster, Terrell, Val Verde, Kin­ney, Maverick and Uvalde, and the district courts shall be held therein as follows:

In the county of Jeff Davis, on the second Monday in January and July and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Presidio on the third Monday after the first Monday in January and July and may continue in session three weeks.

In the county of Brewster on the sixth Monday after the first Mon­day in January and July and may continue in session for three weeks.

In the county of Terrell on the ninth Monday after the first Monday in January and July and may continue in session for two weeks.

In the county of Kinney on the eleventh Monday after the first Mon­day in January and July, and may continue in session for two weeks.

In the county of Maverick, on the thirteenth Monday after the first Monday in January and July and may continue in session for two weeks.

In the county of Uvalde on the sixteenth Monday after the first Mon­day in January and July and may continue in session for four weeks.
In the county of Val Verde on the twentieth Monday after the first Monday in January and July and may continue in session until the business is disposed of. [Acts 1913, 1st C. S. p. 34; Act March 9, 1917, ch. 67, § 3; Act April 9, 1917, ch. 209, § 1.]

The district court in the Sixty-third Judicial District for Val Verde county for the term commencing as now provided on the sixteenth Monday after the first Monday in January, 1917, shall be holden at that time, as now provided; and thereafter said court shall be holden at the times prescribed herein in Section two of this Act. [Id., § 5.]

Explanatory.—For special provisions relating to this district and districts 38, 51, 70, and 83, see subdivision 38 of this article. Section "two" above referred to does not appear on the printed session laws, the designation of the section having been omitted as the result of a clerical error in preparing the bill. It appears as a part of section 1 of the act, the first part of which relates to the 58th judicial district. The portion of the section relating to the 63d district is set forth above in the next preceding paragraph.

64. That the terms of court in the Sixty-fourth Judicial District of the State of Texas, composed of the Counties of Hale, Floyd, Briscoe, Castro, Swisher, Lamb and the unorganized County of Bailey, shall be held therein each year as follows:

In the County of Hale on the second Monday in January and first Monday in August, and may continue in session seven weeks.

In the County of Floyd on the seventh Monday after the second Monday in January and first Monday in August, and may continue in session five weeks.

In the County of Briscoe on the twelfth Monday after the second Monday in January and first Monday in August, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the County of Swisher on the fourteenth Monday after the second Monday in January and first Monday in August, and may continue in session four weeks.

In the County of Castro on the eighteenth Monday after the second Monday in January and first Monday in August, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the County of Lamb on the twentieth Monday after the second Monday in January and first Monday in August, and may continue in session two weeks. [Acts 1911, 1st C. S. p. 102; Act March 28, 1917, ch. 117, § 1.]

The unorganized county of Bailey is hereby attached to the County of Castro for judicial and all other purposes. [Id., § 2.]

That all process issued out of the District Court of the counties of said district before this Act takes effect is hereby made returnable to the terms of said court, as fixed by this Act, and all bonds heretofore executed, and recognizances entered of record in said court shall bind the parties for their appearance, or to fulfill the obligation of such bonds and recognizances at the terms of said court as fixed by this Act, and all process heretofore returned, as a well as all bonds and recognizances heretofore taken in the District Courts of the Sixty-fourth Judicial District shall be as valid as if no change had been made in the time of holding said courts in the counties of said district. [Id., § 3.]

That should the District Court in any of the counties of said district be in session under the existing laws when this Act takes effect, the same shall continue and end its terms under such existing laws, and all process, writs, judgments and decrees shall be valid, and shall not be effected by the change in the times of holding the courts in the district, by this Act. [Id., § 4.]

Explanatory.—Section 5 repeals all laws in conflict. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

65. That the Sixty-fifth Judicial District of Texas be, and the same is hereby, created, to be composed of the County of El Paso, in the State of Texas. [Act Feb. 25, 1915, ch. 24, § 1.]
The terms of said court shall be as follows:
Beginning on the first Monday in January of each year and may continue in session until the last Saturday before the first Monday in March, thereafter; beginning on the first Monday in March of each year and may continue in session until the last Saturday before the first Monday in May, thereafter; beginning on the first Monday in May of each year and may continue in session until the last Saturday before the first Monday in July thereafter; beginning on the first Monday in September of each year and may continue in session until the last Saturday before the first Monday in January, thereafter. [Id., § 2.]

The Governor of this State shall, upon the taking effect of this Act, appoint a judge of the Sixty-fifth Judicial District, who shall hold the office of judge of said court until the election and qualification of his successor at the next general election. [Id., § 5.]

The said District Court for the Sixty-fifth Judicial District of Texas hereby created shall have jurisdiction over all judgments and proceedings had in the Special District Court for El Paso County, Texas, herebefore created by the Thirty-third Legislature of the State of Texas, the same as if the District Court for the Sixty-fifth Judicial District were a continuation of said Special District Court, and all cases, tried in said Special District Court before its expiration, appealed to the Court of Civil Appeals or the Supreme Court, in the event the same are reversed, shall be returned to said Sixty-fifth Judicial District Court hereby created, and a mandate issued by order of the clerk of the Court of Civil Appeals or the Supreme Court in said cases shall be returnable to the said Sixty-fifth Judicial District Court hereby created, and the provisions of this Act shall apply to all cases tried in said Special District Court before its expiration in which writs of error have been applied for, or may be applied for, within the time prescribed by law. [Id., § 9.]

Upon the taking effect of this Act and the appointment and qualification of the judge of said Sixty-fifth Judicial District Court, it shall not be necessary for said judge to wait until the first day of the ensuing term thereafter to organize his court and summon a jury; but he shall open said court on the first Monday after he shall have been appointed and qualified for the trial, during the remainder of said term, of such cases as may be transferred to said court for trial from the other District Courts of said county, and he may cause to be summoned jurors for service from the list of those eligible for jury service in the manner provided by law except as to the time of such selection. [Id., § 10.]

For special provisions relating to this district and to the forty-first district, see subdivision 24 of this article.

66. The terms of the District Court in the Sixty-sixth Judicial District of Texas, comprising the County of Hill, shall be held in said County of Hill as follows: Beginning on the first Mondays in January, March, May, July, September and November of each year. Each term of said court may continue in session for a period of seven weeks, or until the business is disposed of, save and except the term beginning annually on the first Monday in July may continue in session for the period of five weeks, or until the disposal of the business. [Acts 1905, p. 37; Art. March 29, 1915, ch. 139, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The act amends sec. 4 of ch. 31, Acts Reg. Sess. 29th Leg., which is in Rev. Civ. St., 1911 edition, page 29, title 5, article 30, section 66. The act took effect 90 days after March 29, 1915, date of adjournment.

In the County of Reeves on the eleventh Monday after the first Monday in February and September, and may continue in session six weeks.

In the County of Ward on the first Monday in January and on the seventeenth Monday after the first Monday in February, and may continue in session three weeks.

The unorganized County of Loving is hereby attached to Reeves County for judicial and all other purposes, and the unorganized County of Crane is hereby attached to Ector County for judicial and other purposes. [Acts 1913, p. 4; Act Jan. 29, 1917, ch. 4, § 3; Act Feb. 12, 1917, ch. 12, § 3; Act March 9, 1917, ch. 67, § 4; Act Sept. 17, 1917, ch. 3, § 1.]

That all process issuing out of the district courts of any of the counties named in this Act issued or served before this Act takes effect, including recognizances and bonds returnable to the district court of any such respective counties, shall be considered as returnable to such respective courts in accordance with the terms and time of holding same as prescribed in and fixed by this Act; and all such process is hereby legalized. And all grand and petit juries drawn and selected under existing laws for any of the counties of said districts shall be considered lawfully drawn and selected for the next term of the respective district courts held after this Act takes effect and all such process is hereby legalized and validated. [Act Sept. 17, 1917, ch. 3, § 2.]

That if any court in any county of said judicial districts shall be in session at the time this Act takes effect, such court affected hereby shall continue in session until the term thereof shall expire under the provisions of existing laws; thereafter the terms of court of said county shall conform to the requirements of this Act. [Id., § 3.]

That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this Act shall be and the same are hereby repealed. [Id., § 4.]

For special provisions relating to this district and districts 38, 51, 63, and 83, see subdivision 38 of this article.

The acts of March 9, 1917, Feb. 12, 1917, and Jan. 29, 1917, are superseded by the present act.

74. That McLennan County shall constitute the Seventy-fourth Judicial District. [Act Jan. 29, 1915, ch. 3, § 2.]

The Judges of said Courts shall thereafter be elected as provided by the Constitution and Laws of the State for the election of District Judges. [Id., § 7.]

The Governor shall appoint a suitable person as Judge of the Seventy-fourth Judicial District as herein constituted, who shall hold such office until the next general election and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified. [Id., § 6.]

The terms of the Seventy-fourth Judicial District shall be held as follows:

Beginning on the second Mondays in February, April, June, August, October and December of each year, and may continue until the business thereof is disposed of. [Id., § 8.]

For special provisions relating to this district and to the fifty-fourth district, see subdivision 19 of this article.

75. The Seventy-fifth Judicial District of Texas shall hereafter be composed of the following named counties, to-wit: Hardin, Chambers, Montgomery and Liberty and Tyler, which last named county is hereby removed from the First Judicial District and placed in said Seventy-fifth District and the terms of the district courts in and for said Seventy-fifth Judicial District shall be begun and holden therein as follows:

In the County of Hardin, on the first Monday of January and July of each year, and may continue in session five weeks.

In the County of Tyler, on the fifth Monday after the first Monday in January and July of each year, and may continue in session five weeks.

In the County of Chambers, on the tenth Monday and the twenty-second Monday after the first Monday in January, and the fourteenth Monday after the first Monday in July of each year, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the County of Montgomery, on the twelfth Monday after the first Monday in January, and the tenth Monday after the first Monday in July of each year, and may continue in session six weeks.

In the County of Liberty, on the seventeenth Monday after the first Monday in January and July of each year, and may continue in session six weeks. [Act April 7, 1915, ch. 155, §§ 2, 6, 7, 9; Act Feb. 13, 1917, ch. 23, § 2.]

All process issued in the First Judicial District and returnable to its terms as heretofore established in Tyler County and all recognizances and bonds returnable to said court shall be valid and returnable to the Seventy-fifth Judicial District Court sitting in Tyler County and all such process are hereby legalized; and all subpoenas and other process made returnable to said court shall be treated and considered as returnable to the term of the said Seventy-fifth Judicial Court in said Tyler County as herein provided; and all grand and petit jurors drawn and selected under existing laws shall be considered lawfully drawn and selected in said Tyler County for the next term of the Seventy-fifth Judicial District Court as herein provided for and such process, is legalized and validated, and all process, recognizances and bonds heretofore issued or which may hereafter be issued before this Act takes effect returnable to the district court in Tyler County, shall be valid and considered returnable to the next term of court sitting after this Act takes effect and the succeeding term as provided by law. This act shall not affect the term of any court in session at the time it goes into effect and said court so in session shall continue until the expiration of the term or the same be adjourned under existing laws, and thereafter the terms of said court shall conform to the provisions of this Act. [Id., § 7.]

For special provisions relating to this and the ninth district, see subdivision 9 of this article.

Note.—The 75th district was created by Act April 7, 1915, c. 155, § 2, to expire March 31, 1917. The district is made permanent by the act above set forth. The former act, repealed by this act, provided for a judge and district attorney for said district.

76. That the 76 Judicial District of Texas shall hereafter be composed of the following counties: Titus, Franklin, Camp, Morris and Marion; and the terms of the District Courts therein each year shall be held as follows:
In the County of Titus, beginning on the first Monday in January and may continue in session six weeks; and on the 22nd Monday after the first Monday in January, and may continue in session six weeks.

In the County of Franklin, beginning on the 6th Monday after the first Monday in January, and may continue in session four weeks; and on the fourth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue in session four weeks.

In the County of Camp, beginning on the tenth Monday after the first Monday in January, and may continue in session four weeks; and on the fourth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue in session four weeks.

In the County of Morris, beginning on the fourteenth Monday after the first Monday in January, and may continue in session four weeks; and on the eighth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue in session four weeks.

In the County of Marion, beginning on the eighteenth Monday after the first Monday in January, and may continue in session four weeks; and on the twelfth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue in session four weeks. [Act Feb. 9, 1915, ch. 5, § 2; Act Feb. 23, 1917, ch. 41, § 1.]

All processes issued or served before this Act goes into effect, including recognizances and bonds, returnable to the District Court of any of said counties in each of said Judicial Districts shall be considered as returnable to said courts in accordance with the terms as described by this act, and all such process is hereby legalized and all grand and petit juries drawn and selected under existing laws in any of the counties of either of said Judicial Districts, shall be considered lawfully drawn and selected for the next terms of the District Court of their respective counties, held in accordance with this act, and after this Act takes effect, all such process is hereby legalized and validated; provided, that if any court in any county of either of said Judicial Districts, shall be in session at the time this Act takes effect, such court or courts affected hereby shall continue in session until the term thereof shall expire under the provisions of existing laws, and thereafter the said courts of said county or counties shall conform to the requirements of this Act. [Id., § 2.]

The clerks of the District Courts of Marion, Morris, Titus and Franklin Counties, duly elected and now acting, shall be the clerks of the Seventy-sixth Judicial District sitting in their respective counties, until the next general election and until their successors are elected and duly qualified. [Act Feb. 9, 1915, ch. 5, § 4.]

The Governor of Texas, immediately upon the taking effect of this Act, shall appoint a suitable and legally qualified person as District Judge of the Seventy-sixth Judicial District, who shall hold his office until the next general election and until his successor is elected and duly qualified. [Id., § 5.]

The Governor of Texas, immediately upon the taking effect of this Act, shall appoint a suitable and legally qualified person as District Attorney for the Seventy-sixth Judicial District, who shall hold his office until the next general election and until his successor is elected and duly qualified. [Id., § 6.]

The District Court of the Seventy-sixth Judicial District shall have such jurisdiction and powers as are conferred by the Constitution and existing laws of the State of Texas, and such as shall hereafter be given by law. [Id., § 8.]

For special provisions relating to this district, see subdivision 5 of this article.

Explanatory.—Became a law Feb. 23, 1917. Section 2a repeals all laws in conflict.

77. That the Seventy-seventh Judicial District of Texas is hereby created and shall be composed of the counties of Limestone and Freestone, and the terms of the District Court shall be held therein in each year as follows:

In the county of Limestone beginning on the first Monday in January, March, May, July, September and November, and each term may continue in session four weeks.

In the county of Freestone beginning on the first Monday in February, April, June, August, October and December, and each term may continue in session four weeks. [Act Feb. 12, 1915, ch. 8, § 3.]

That there shall be organized grand juries at the January, May and September terms of said court in Limestone county, and at the February, June and October terms of said court in Freestone County, and at such other terms of the said court in each county as may be determined and ordered by the Judge thereof. [Id., § 4.]

The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby authorized and empowered to appoint some person having the qualifications provided by law for District Judge, for the Judge of the District Court of the Seventy-seventh District, who shall hold his office until the next general election for State offices in the State of Texas, and until his successor is elected and qualified, as is provided by law. He shall receive the same salary that is now provided, or may hereafter be provided, to be paid to the District Judges, and in like manner. [Id., § 4a.]

That the office of District Attorney is hereby created for the Seventy-seventh Judicial District, and the present District Attorney of the Thirteenth Judicial District, elected and now acting for said District shall hold his office in the Seventy-seventh Judicial District until the time for which he was elected shall expire, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified. [Id., § 6.]

For special provisions relating to this district, see subdivision 13 of this article.

78. Wichita County shall hereafter constitute the 78th Judicial District and the District Court in said district shall hold its terms as follows: beginning on the first Mondays in March and September and shall continue in session until the Saturday night next preceding the beginning of the following term unless the business of the terms shall be sooner disposed of: provided that nothing in this Act shall be construed to in any way affect the time and terms of the courts of the 30th Judicial District in said county as the same is now constituted. [Act Feb. 10, 1915, ch. 6, § 1.]

The district courts of the 78th and 30th Judicial districts shall have concurrent jurisdiction of all cases, civil and criminal and appellate, over which the district courts of the state have jurisdiction under the constitution and laws of the State of Texas, co-extensive with the limits of Wichita County; provided however that no grand jury shall be drawn for the 78th district court unless the judge thereof, in his discretion shall decide that it is necessary and shall make a special order for the same upon the minutes of said court; provided further that the Judge of the 78th district shall have the authority, at any time he may think it necessary to recall, reassemble and reimpanel the grand jury last impaneled of the 30th District Court for Wichita County and the grand jury so reimpaneled and reorganized shall constitute a legal grand jury for the 78th district court the same as of originally drawn, summoned and organized in said court. [Id., § 2.]

The Judges of the 30th and the 78th District Courts for Wichita County may each, in his discretion, at any time or upon agreement of the parties or where the Judge may believe the administration of justice will be facilitated thereby, transfer any cause, civil or criminal, from the docket of their respective courts to the docket of the other district court for Wichita County and shall note such transfer on the docket; whereupon the Clerk of the District Court shall enter said cause upon the docket of the other district court to which such cause has been transferred and such case shall there be tried or disposed of as if originally filed in said court; provided that no transcript of the record shall be necessary to the jurisdiction of the court to which such case has been transferred [and jurisdiction of the court to which such case has been transferred] and no formal proceeding shall be necessary in such case to show such transfer. [Id., § 3.]

As soon after this Act shall take effect as practicable the Clerk of the District Court for Wichita County shall make up the docket for said 78th District Court in the following manner: he shall enter upon said dockets such cases as may be transferred by the Judge of the 30th Judicial District and all such cases as may be transferred to such court by agreement of the parties and if, after all such cases are transferred, there remains upon the docket of the 30th District Court for said County more than 40 per cent of the total number of cases pending in said county then he shall transfer enough of the oldest cases on the dockets to make up 60 per cent of the pending business for the said 78th District Court: After the beginning of the first term of the 78th District Court the Clerk shall make up the dockets of each court by filing each case in the court having the first appearance day after the time of filing the petition in which ten days service may be had; provided that all criminal cases shall be docketed in the court which receives the indictment or information upon which such cases are based and all appeals in probate cases from the county probate court of Wichita County shall be to the court holding the first term after notice of appeal is given. [Id., § 4.]

All writs, process, bonds and recognizances, civil or criminal, issued, executed, entered into or effective in the district court of Wichita County prior to the taking effect of this Act and returnable or cognizable in or to said court as it has been heretofore fixed by law are hereby made returnable to and cognizable in either the 30th district court for Wichita County or the 78th District Court as the same may acquire jurisdiction by the terms of this Act and they shall be as valid and binding in law as if originally issued, made, filed or entered into in the court acquiring jurisdiction by the terms of this Act. [Id., § 5.]

The Clerk of the District Court for Wichita County shall be the Clerk of the 78th District Court and the District Attorney for the 30th Judicial District of Texas shall prosecute the pleas of the State in all criminal causes cognizable in said court and his per diem accounts approved by the Judge of said court shall be paid the same as if approved by the Judge of the 30th Judicial District Court. [Id., § 6.]

As soon as this Act takes effect, the Governor, shall appoint a suitable person as Judge of the 78th Judicial District of Texas, who shall hold his office until the next general election in November A. D. 1916, and until his successor is elected and qualified. He shall possess the constitutional qualifications for District Judges and shall receive the same salary as other District Judges in this State. [Id., § 7.]

79. The Seventy-ninth Judicial District of Texas is hereby created and shall be composed of the counties of Starr, Hidalgo, Brooks, Jim Hogg, Duval, and Jim Wells, and the terms of court of the district shall be held therein each year as follows:
In the county of Starr on the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session three weeks; on the first Monday in September in each year, and may continue in session three weeks.
In the county of Hidalgo on the third Monday after the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session six weeks; on the third Monday after the first Monday in September, and may continue in session four weeks.
In the county of Brooks on the ninth Monday after the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session four weeks; on the seventh Monday after the first Monday in September and may continue in session four weeks.

In the county of Jim Hogg on the thirteenth Monday after the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session two weeks; on the eleventh Monday after the first Monday in September, and may continue in session two weeks.

In the county of Duval on the fifteenth Monday after the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session four weeks; on the thirteenth Monday after the first Monday in September, and may continue in session until December 31 of each year.

In the county of Jim Wells on the nineteenth Monday after the first Monday in February of each year, and may continue in session four weeks; on the first Monday in January of each year, and may continue in session until the first Monday in February of each year.

That all process, writs and bonds issued, served or executed prior to the taking effect of this Act and returnable to the terms of said court in each of the said counties composing said judicial district, and all process heretofore returnable, as well as all bonds and recognizances heretofore entered into, in any of said counties shall be as valid and binding as if no change had been made by this Act in the times of holding said terms of court. [Act March 12, 1915, ch. 48, § 2.]

The Governor, immediately upon the taking effect of this Act, shall appoint a suitable person as district judge of the Seventy-ninth Judicial District, and a suitable person as district attorney for the Seventy-ninth Judicial District, respectively, each of whom shall hold his office until the next general election, and his successor is duly elected and qualified. [Id., § 4.]

For special provisions affecting this district, see subdivision 28 of this article. This act took effect 90 days after adjournment of the legislature, on March 20, 1915.

80. That the Eightieth Judicial District of Texas is hereby created and shall be composed of the counties of Harris and Waller, and the terms of the district court shall be held therein in each as follows:

In the county of Harris, beginning on the first Monday in January, February, March and September, and on the second Monday in May, June, July, November and December of each year, and may continue in session four weeks.

In the county of Waller, beginning on the first Monday in April and October of each year and may continue in session five weeks. [Act June 3, 1915, 1st C. S., ch. 19, § 2.]

The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby authorized and empowered to appoint some person having the qualifications provided by law for district judge as the Judge of the District Court of the Eightieth Judicial District of Texas, who shall hold his office until the next general election for state offices in the State of Texas, and until his successor is elected and qualified, as is provided by law. He shall receive the same salary that is now provided, or may hereafter be provided, to be paid to district judges, and in like manner. [Id., § 3.]

That the clerk of the District Court of Harris County, as that office is now constituted, and his successor in office, shall be the clerk of the District Court of the Eightieth Judicial District of Texas in Harris County, and shall perform all the duties pertaining to the clerkship of said court, as well as the duties imposed upon him as the clerk of other district courts of Harris County, and for such additional service, shall receive twelve hundred dollars per year, as additional compensation to be collected out of the fees allowed by law. [Id., § 5.]

That the other civil district courts of Harris County and the district court of the Eightieth Judicial District, in the County of Harris, shall have concurrent jurisdiction with each other throughout the limits of Harris County, in all matters, civil, of which jurisdiction is given to the district courts by the Constitution and laws of the State. [Id., § 6.]

The District Court of the Eightieth Judicial District shall have such jurisdiction and powers as are conferred upon district courts by the Constitution and existing laws of the State of Texas, and such as shall hereafter be given by law, but said district court shall have only civil jurisdiction in Harris County. [Id., § 12.]

For special provisions applicable to this district and district 23, see subdivision 23 of this article.

81. The Eighty-first Judicial District of Texas is hereby created and shall be composed of the counties of Frio, LaSalle, Atascosa, Wilson and Karnes, and the district courts shall be held therein as follows:
In the County of Frio, on the first Monday in September and Feb-uary, and may continue in session three weeks.
In the County of LaSalle, on the third Monday after the first Monday in September and February, and may continue in session three weeks.
In the County of Atascosa, on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in September and February, and may continue in session five weeks.
In the County of Wilson, on the eleventh Monday after the first Monday in September and February, and may continue in session six weeks.
In the County of Karnes, on the seventeenth Monday after the first Monday in September and February, and may continue in session five weeks.

That all process, writs, recognizances and bonds issued, served, executed, or entered into, prior to the taking effect of this Act, and returnable to the terms of said court, as heretofore fixed by law, in the several counties, composing said district, are hereby made returnable to the terms of said court in the several counties as fixed by this Act, and all process heretofore returnable, as well as all bonds and recognizances heretofore entered into in any of said courts, shall be valid and binding as if no change had been made by this Act in the times of holding said terms of court.

All grand and petit jurors selected in any of said counties shall be legal jurors for the terms of said court fixed by this Act.

The present district attorney of the Thirty-sixth Judicial District of Texas, who resides in Wilson County, Texas, shall act and be the district attorney of the Eighty-first Judicial District of Texas, as herein created, and shall hold office until the next general election and until his successor is duly elected and qualified.

The Governor of Texas is hereby authorized and empowered to appoint a suitable person as district judge of the Eighty-first Judicial District hereby created, who shall hold his office until the next general election and until his successor is duly elected and qualified. [Act March 20, 1917, ch. 91, § 3.]

Explanatory.—Section 4 repeals all laws in conflict. Sec. 5 provides that the act shall take effect Aug. 1, 1917.

82. That the Eighty-second Judicial District of Texas is hereby created and shall be composed of Falls County. [Act Feb. 7, 1917, ch. 9,

That the terms of the district court in said Eighty-second Judicial District shall be held at the following times: Beginning on the first Monday in the months of January, March, May, September, and November of each year, and each term may continue in session until and including the Saturday next preceding the beginning of the next succeeding term unless the business of the term shall be sooner disposed of;
provided that in case a term of district court shall be in session in Falls County as a part of the Fifty-fourth Judicial District at the time this Act takes effect the judge of the Fifty-fourth Judicial District shall continue to hold said term until such term is adjourned or expires under existing laws. [Id., § 2.]

That the terms of the district court in said Fifty-fourth Judicial District shall be held at the following times, to-wit: Beginning on the first Monday in the months of January, March, May, September and, November, and each of said terms may continue in session until and including the Saturday next preceding the beginning of the next succeeding term, unless the business of the term shall be sooner disposed of; provided that in case a term of said Fifty-fourth District Court shall be in session in McLennan County at the time this Act takes effect the judge of the said Fifty-fourth Judicial District shall continue to hold said term until such term is adjourned or expires under existing laws. [Id., § 3.]

Grand juries in said Eighty-second Judicial District shall be organized at the May and November terms of said court, and at such other terms as the judge of said district may determine and order. Grand juries in the Fifty-fourth Judicial District shall hereafter be empanelled at the March and September terms of court therein and at such other terms as the judge of said district may determine and order. [Id., § 4.]

The district court of the Eighty-second Judicial District shall have all such powers and jurisdiction as district courts now have or which may hereafter be conferred upon them by and under the laws and Constitution of the State of Texas, and said district court of the Eighty-second Judicial District shall have such further jurisdiction as may at any time be transferred to it from the county court of Falls County by act or acts of the Legislature. [Id., § 5.]

All prosecutions, suits, actions, causes, and proceedings of whatever nature, civil or criminal, filed or pending in the district court of Falls County as constituted prior to the taking effect of this Act shall continue on the dockets and be tried and disposed of by the district court of said county as constituted by this Act, the same as if originally filed or instituted in said court as constituting the Eighty-second District. All writs and process issued in connection with all prosecutions, suits, actions, causes, and proceedings of whatever nature, civil or criminal, in the district court of Falls County prior to the taking effect of this Act shall be returnable to and effective in said court as constituted by this Act, and all bonds and recognizances filed and entered into in said district court of Falls County prior to the taking effect of this Act shall be valid, continuing and cognizable in and by the district court of said county as constituting the Eighty-second Judicial District; provided all such writs and process issued and made returnable to the June term, A. D. 1917, of the district court of Falls County shall be returnable to the September term, A. D. 1917, of the district court of said county as constituting the Eighty-second Judicial District. [Id., § 6.]

An official court reporter for said Eighty-second Judicial District shall be appointed by the judge thereof, the said official court reporter to have the qualifications, to be subject to the duties and regulations, and entitled to the same compensation as official court reporters for district courts of this State are now or may hereafter be subject to and entitled under the General Laws of the State. [Id., § 7.]

The Governor shall appoint a suitable person as judge of the Eighty-second Judicial District, as herein constituted, who shall hold such office until the next general election and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified. [Id., § 8.]

The judge of the Eighty-second Judicial District shall receive the same salary, payable by the State of Texas in the same manner as other district judges of said State do now or shall hereafter receive under the Constitution and laws of Texas. [Id., § 9.]

That such part of Section 3, of Chapter 3, of the General Laws of 1915, enacted at the Regular Session of the Thirty-fourth Legislature of Texas, as constitutes Falls County a part of the Fifty-fourth Judicial District, and such part of Section 8 of said Act of 1915 as provides for the holding of terms of court in Falls County as a part of said Fifty-fourth Judicial District, are hereby repealed save and except that said repeal shall not become operative in case a term of court shall be in session in Falls County at the time this Act takes effect, until such term shall be adjourned sine die by the judge of said Fifty-fourth Judicial District or expires under existing laws as prescribed in Section 2 of this Act. All other laws and parts of laws in conflict with or inconsistent with this Act are hereby repealed. [Id., § 10.]

83. That the Eighty-third Judicial District of the State of Texas is hereby created and shall be composed of the counties of Edwards, Crockett, Sutton, Reagan, Upton, and Pecos, and the district courts shall be holden therein as follows:

In the County of Edwards on the last Monday in January and August and may continue in session four weeks.

In the County of Sutton on the third Monday after the first Monday in February and September, and may continue in session three weeks.

In the County of Crockett on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in February and September, and may continue in session three weeks.

In the County of Reagan on the ninth Monday after the first Monday in February and September and may continue in session two weeks.

In the County of Upton on the eleventh Monday after the first Monday in February and September and may continue in session two weeks.

In the County of Pecos on the thirteenth Monday after the first Monday in February and September and may continue in session until the business is disposed of. [Act March 9, 1917, ch. 67, § 5.]

The Governor shall, immediately after the passage of this Act, appoint a suitable person qualified under the Constitution of the State of Texas as a judge of the Eighty-third Judicial District as herein constituted, who shall hold such office until the next general election, and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified. [Id., § 6.]

The Governor shall, immediately after the passage of this Act, appoint a suitable person qualified under the Constitution and laws of the State of Texas as district attorney of the Eighty-third Judicial District as herein constituted, who shall hold such office until the next general election, and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified; the district attorney of said district shall thereafter be elected as provided by the Constitution and laws of the State of Texas for the election of the district attorney. [Id., § 7.]

For special provisions relating to this district and districts 38, 51, 63, and 70, see subdivision 38 of this article.

84. [There is no 84th judicial district.]

85. The Counties of Robertson and Brazos, now constituting part of the Twentieth Judicial District are hereby now declared to constitute the Eighty-fifth Judicial District, and the terms of District Court in said counties shall be held as follows: In the County of Robertson on the first Monday in the months of January, April and July, and the second Monday in the month of November in each year, and each term may continue in session for five weeks. The terms of the District Court in Brazos County shall be held on the second Monday in the months of February and May and third Monday in the month of September, and each term may continue in session for six weeks. [Act March 26, 1917 [1917], ch. 96, § 3.]

There shall be organized grand juries at the January and July terms of said court in Robertson County, and at the February and September terms of said court in Brazos County, and at such other terms of the said court of each county as may be determined and ordered by the Judge thereof. [Id., § 4.]
The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby authorized and empowered to appoint some person having the qualifications provided by law as District Judge for the judge of the District Court of the Eighty-fifth Judicial District, who shall hold his office until the next general election for State officers in the State of Texas, and until his successor is elected and qualified as provided by law, and he shall receive the same salary as is now provided or may hereafter be provided, to be paid to District Judges and in like manner. [Id., § 5.]

The District Court of said Eight-Fifth Judicial District shall have all the powers and jurisdiction as District Courts now have or which may hereafter be conferred upon them by and under the laws and constitution of the State of Texas, and the District Court of said Robertson and Brazos Counties shall have and exercise all such other jurisdiction as is here now provided for in this Act. [Id., § 10.]

Note.—For special provisions relating to this district and the 20th district, see subdivision 20 of this article. Act March 26, 1917, ch. 96, §§ 11-13, diminishes the jurisdiction of the county courts of Brazos and Robertson counties and increases that of the district court.

86. The Eighty-sixth Judicial District be and the same is hereby created and shall be composed of the counties of Kaufman, Van Zandt, and Rockwall; and the terms of the District Court shall be held therein each year as follows:

In the County of Van Zandt: Beginning on the first Monday in January of each year and continuing in session six weeks; on the thirteenth Monday after the first Monday in January of each year and continuing in session six weeks, and on the first Monday in September of each year and continuing in session six weeks.

In the County of Kaufman: Beginning on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in September of each year and continuing in session seven weeks; beginning on the twenty-third Monday after the first Monday in January of each year and continuing in session until the last Saturday in August, and beginning on the tenth Monday after the first Monday in September of each year and continuing in session until the last Saturday in December.

In Rockwall County: Beginning on the nineteenth Monday after the first Monday in January of each year and continuing in session four weeks, and beginning on the sixth Monday after the first Monday in September of each year and continuing in session four weeks. [Act March 10, 1917, ch. 70, § 7.]

That immediately after the passage of this Act, the Governor shall appoint a suitable person possessing the qualifications prescribed for district judges in this State as judge of the Eighty-sixth Judicial District, who shall hold his office until the next general election for State and county officers and until his successor, shall be elected and qualified, and shall receive such compensation as is now provided by law for district judges. And the County Attorney of Van Zandt County shall represent the State in criminal cases in said county and receive the same fees and compensation as is now provided by law for the County Attorney of Kaufman County. [Id., § 10.]

For special provisions relating to this district and districts 7, 14, and 40, see subdivision 7 of this article. Article 30 cited, Sanders v. Bledsoe (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 539.

Art. 31. Where apportionment law amended—Rule as to return of writs and process, as to grand and petit jurors, appearance bonds and recognizances, and witnesses.

ARBITRATION
ARBITRATION IN GENERAL

Art. 57. Agreement to be in writing and name of arbitrators, etc.

Necessity of writing.—An agreement to submit a controversy to arbitration which had not been reduced to writing did not deprive the courts of jurisdiction of such controversy; no steps having been taken to carry it into effect. Hill v. Neese (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 314.

Art. 63. Award to be written out, filed and entered as judgment.

Objections to award.—Where it is sought to set aside an award by arbitrators on grounds of fraud, partiality or mistake, the facts constituting objection to award must be specifically averred. Eubank v. Bostick (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 214.

Competency of arbitrator as witness.—An arbitrator is a competent witness to show what was in controversy before the arbitrators, what matters entered into their decision, and whether they were fair and impartial. Holcomb v. Blankenship (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 918.

Art. 65. Appeal from an award.

Right of appeal.—Where the determination of a matter is referred to a special tribunal, to act as an arbitrator and not in due course of law, the determination of such tribunal is final and cannot be appealed from, even though the person constituting the tribunal is the judge of a court, and the matter is decided in accordance with the usual rules of procedure. State v. Haldeman (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1920.

Acts 31st Leg. (2d Called Sess.) c. 28, making an appropriation for the payment of a claim against the state for extra work and materials furnished the state for a public building, made the establishment of the claim by any district court a condition precedent to payment. Held, that a district judge, in deciding upon such a claim, was not acting as a special commissioner or arbitrator whose judgment would be final. Id.

In view of arts. 56-70, held that, when an award is entered, party cannot appeal unless the right is reserved in the agreement to arbitrate. Eubank v. Bostick (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 214.

Art. 70. Right to other mode of arbitration not affected.

Master in chancery.—In view of article 2156 and this article, it is within the power of the court to appoint a master in chancery by consent of parties. San Benito Cameron County Drainage Dist. v. Farmers' State Guaranty Bank (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1145.

ARCHIVES

ARCHIVES OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE

Article 82. [62] [57] What shall be considered archives of the general land office.

What constitutes archives or public documents.—A letter addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office and forming a part of the records of the Land Office is admissible as an archive when more than 30 years old. Robertson v. Talmadge (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 627.

CHAPTER TWO OTHER PUBLIC ARCHIVES

Article 90. [70] [65] Certain books, records, etc., declared to be archives.

Surveyor's report.—Under articles 3694, 5397, and this article, report of state surveyor of survey made by him held admissible in trespass to try title between private parties. Denton v. English (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 248.

Where such document also contained argument and opinions, they were not admissible. Id.
ASSIGNMENTS FOR CREDITORS

Article 91. [71] General assignment, how made and construed; preferences void.

1. Nature and requisites in general.—Where a tenant farmer orally agreed with his landlord that the latter should pay for completing and selling the tenant's cotton crop and apply the proceeds to the tenant's debt to the landlord for advances to make it accounting for any excess, the transaction was within this article, requiring general assignments by insolvent debtors for the benefit of creditors to be in writing. Kimbrough v. Bevering (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 403.

6. Instruments operating as assignments.—A conveyance by a debtor to a trustee to take possession of the property and sell it, pay preferred creditors and a part to remaining creditors, and return the remainder, held not a general assignment, but a preferential deed of trust. Goldman v. Spann (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1014.

In an action against defendant on the ground that he had assumed payment of his son's debt, evidence held to justify a finding that a certain tract of land was conveyed to defendant for the purpose of paying such debt, and retained by him for that purpose. Bell v. Swim (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 850.

Neither a business nor a residence homestead, though afterwards abandoned as such, will pass under a general assignment, if not abandoned until after execution. Id.

Article 93. [73] Assignment for creditors accepting, etc., and discharging assignor.

Art. 95. [75] How and when consenting creditors may accept.

Necessity of acceptance.—A trustee in a preferred deed of trust may not sue for a wrongful attachment, where the creditors did not accept the conveyance. Goldman v. Spann (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1014.

Form of acceptance.—Where a creditor of a debtor making a statutory general assignment filed its claim with the assignee within four months after notice, and attached to the claim a letter from it addressed to its attorney, stating, "You are authorized to file claim with assignee and accept whatever it may pay," the creditor sufficiently accepted the assignment in writing. First State Bank of Teague v. Hadden (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1168.

Where a creditor filed his claim with the assignee within four months, and enclosed the claim in a letter from its authorized attorney to the assignee, which recited "Please file this account and advise when we can expect payment," he accepted the assignment. Id.

Waiver of written acceptance.—Where an assignee in a statutory general assignment for creditors received claims of creditors and allowed the same, and made the notation thereon that the claims were allowed subject to statutory acceptance, but did not return them to the creditors or notify them of the memorandum made thereon, he waived written acceptance by the creditors. First State Bank of Teague v. Hadden (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1168.

Art. 98. [78] Proof of claim, when and how made.

Affidavit.—An affidavit which avers that the statement in a note given by the assignor is true, and that the debt is just, is sufficient. First State Bank of Teague v. Hadden (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1168.

Requirement that claim be supported by affidavit that there are no "credits or offsets" held satisfied by one that all just "offsets" have been allowed. Lang v. Collins (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 784.

Sufficiency of proof.—As regards sufficiency of creditors' statement of claim and supporting affidavit filed with assignee for benefit of creditors, substantial compliance with the statute is enough. Lang v. Collins (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 784.

The requirement of a "distinct" statement held satisfied by one claiming a certain amount for legal services. Id.

Statement of claim filed with assignee for benefit of creditors is of the "particular nature" of the claim, where disclosing it is for legal services. Id.
Art. 102. [82] Verified claims shall be allowed by assignee unless contested.

Objections by non-accepting creditors.—This article relates solely to cases where one creditor contests the validity of another consenting creditor's claim. First State Bank of Tongue v. Hadden (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1168.

Not subject to general limitation laws.—Suit by heirs of assignors for benefit of creditors to recover the balance held by the assignees held not subject to the defense of laches, nor, in view of this article, to the general law of limitations. Bass v. McCord (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 998.

ASYLUMS

THE LUNATIC ASYLUMS

Art. 107a. Northwest Texas Insane Asylum.—That there shall be constructed, established and maintained an asylum for the care, treatment and support of white insane persons of this State. It shall be known as the Northwest Texas Insane Asylum. The asylum shall be located at some point north of the Texas and Pacific Railway between El Paso and Ft. Worth and west of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railway between Ft. Worth and Gainesville, and at a place where at least five hundred acres of land can be secured. [Act April 2, 1917, ch. 183, § 1.]

Take effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 107b. Board for selection of site.—The Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, and the Attorney General shall be constituted a board to select a site for the said asylum. Said board shall select the site for said asylum and shall make such selection with a view to its accessibility and convenience to the greatest number of inhabitants, the supply of water, building material, fuel, fertility of soil and healthfulness, and the same shall contain at least five hundred acres of land. Said board shall take title to the land so selected by them in the name of the State for the use and benefit of said asylum, provided, however, that the Attorney General’s Department shall first approve the title to the said land so selected by the said board. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 107c. Appointment of board of managers.—That the Governor shall appoint, by and with the consent of the Senate, a Board of Managers for said asylum with such powers and duties as are now provided for managers of other lunatic asylums in Title 10 of the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas. [Id., § 3.]

See art. 4042a, Vernon’s Sayles’ Civ. St. 1914.

Art. 107d. Support and general management.—The support and general management of the said asylum shall be the same in every re-
Art. 107e. Construction of buildings.—There shall be constructed upon said grounds so selected permanent, suitable, substantial and fire-proof buildings, sufficient to accommodate at least one thousand inmates; said buildings to be provided with modern improvements for furnishing water, heat, ventilation and sewerage; and the Governor immediately after this Act goes into effect, and after the selection of the site for said asylum, and after the title to said land shall have been approved by the Attorney General, shall advertise for plans and specifications for said buildings for thirty days in not more than two daily newspapers published in this State; and he, together with the Lieutenant Governor and the Attorney General, shall constitute a board for the purpose of having said buildings erected and shall have full power and authority to do and perform all things necessary to carrying out the purpose of this Act. Provided that all buildings authorized by this Act and for which an appropriation is hereby made, shall be of fire-proof construction, and that part of all plans and specifications for the erection of said buildings relating to fire protection shall be subject to the approval of the State Fire Insurance Commission. [Id., § 5.]

Explanatory.—Sec. 6 makes an appropriation of $400,000 for site, expenses in procuring site, and for buildings.

Validity of appropriations.—Acts 26th Leg. c. 5, providing for the erection of buildings at the insane asylum, held not a sufficient pre-existing law to warrant the Legislature, under Const. art. 3, § 44, in making an appropriation to pay a contractor for extra work and materials furnished in excess of the amount of the appropriation. State v. Halde­man (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1020.

Where a contractor, employed to erect a public building, performed extra work and furnished additional materials, the Legislature, under Const. art. 3, § 53, is without authority to make an appropriation for the payment of such work and services. Id.

Where a public contractor did extra work and furnished additional materials without any warrant in law for his compensation, the Legislature cannot, under Const. art. 3, § 49, declaring that no debt shall be created on behalf of the state, except to supply casual deficiencies of revenues, defend the state, and pay existing debts, make an appropriation to pay the contractor; there being no pre-existing debt as a basis. Id.

Art. 107f. Establishment of Hospital for Negro Insane.—That there shall be constructed, established and maintained a hospital for the care, treatment and support of all insane persons in this State of African blood or of African descent. It shall be known as the hospital for negro insane. The hospital shall be located at Rusk, Texas, and on the property there situated and owned by the State of Texas, and now held and in part used by the penitentiary system of the State. [Act April 4, 1917, ch. 198, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 107g. Board of managers.—As soon as this act becomes effective and operative the Governor shall appoint a board of managers for said hospital, in accordance with the provisions of Title 10 of the Revised Civil Statutes of the State of Texas, who shall have the power, and authority and shall receive the compensation and shall perform the duties provided in said law, and in accordance with the general laws of this State. Said board of managers shall, in addition to the duties and powers given them in said laws, have the authority, and it shall be their duty to employ, with the consent of the Governor, the State Architect, if his services are available, and if not, some other architect to prepare plans and specifications for the erection, remodeling, change, repair or alteration of such building or buildings and the installing of such equipment as may be necessary to construct or alter or install as may be proper or necessary to carry out the provisions of this Act. Said board of managers, under the control and direction of the Governor, Comptroller of Public Accounts, and State Treasurer, shall have the power and it is made their duty to select the site for said hospital on the property belonging to the State at Rusk, Texas, and all or any part of said property
Art. 107h. Superintendent.—The board of managers for said hospital, appointed by the Governor, shall appoint a superintendent of said hospital, whose duties, qualifications, terms of office and emoluments shall be the same as are now or may hereafter be provided by law for the superintendent of the State Lunatic Asylum at Austin, Texas. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 107i. Transfer of negro insane to hospital.—As soon as practicable after this act becomes effective, all negro insane persons in this State, now inmates of any jail or insane asylum in this State shall be transferred to the Hospital for Negro Insane, and hereafter all insane persons of African blood entitled by law to be admitted or admitted to the asylums of this State, shall be sent to said hospital at Rusk, Texas. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 107j. Support and management.—The support and general management of the said hospital shall be the same and equal in every respect as that which are now provided or as may hereafter be provided for the other asylums for the insane in the State of Texas. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 107k. Officers to be white persons.—All boards of managers, superintendents, officials and physicians shall be white persons, and as many of the other employes and attendants as practicable shall be white persons. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 107l. Erection of buildings.—The board of managers under the control and direction of the Governor, Comptroller of Public Accounts and State Treasurer, shall cause to be erected fireproof buildings or have remodeled existing buildings selected by them so that they will be of such character so that such buildings erected or remodeled shall be of substantial, permanent and suitable character sufficient to accommodate at least one thousand inmates; said buildings to be provided with modern improvements for furnishing water, heat, ventilation and sewage and otherwise in keeping with modern ideas of the suitable character for buildings and appliances to obtain best results in the treatment and care of insane persons. The board of managers, with the consent of the Governor, may select a competent architect to supervise the erection, remodeling and equipping of all said buildings and other improvements, all of which shall be made and erected under the direction, management and supervision of the superintendent of said hospital and of the supervising architect to be appointed by the board with the consent of the Governor, which supervising architect shall be under the control of the State Architect, the salary and compensation of such supervising architect shall be deducted from the appropriations made herein for said hospital, and is not to exceed $2500 per annum. Bids to erect said or such buildings, alter, remodel or repair such buildings, and install such other improvements shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder or bidders, the bids being so arranged that the different buildings and units of the same and installation may be bid upon by items or units; the contractor or contractors shall enter into a good and sufficient bonds to be approved by the Governor, all awards to bidders to be made with his approval, and payable to the State of Texas in a sum double the amount of the contract, conditioned that he or they will do the work contracted for according to the plans and specifications furnished by the architect, and use such materials in the construction remodeling or repair of such buildings, equipment and improvements as may be called for in said plans and specifications and comply in every respect with all the conditions of said contract and pay for all labor and material: eighty per cent of the value of the materials to be paid when actually delivered on the grounds, and the same per cent for labor when done, payable every two weeks, to be only payable on the certificate of the supervising architect, approved by the State Architect and the Governor, and the remaining twenty per cent to be paid when said buildings, equipment or other improvements are completed to the entire satisfaction of the Governor, supervising architect and State Architect and received by them; provided, that the Comptroller shall not issue any warrants except upon itemized statements sworn to by the contractor or contractors and approved by said supervising architect and the Governor as a voucher for same, which shall be filed with the Comptroller. The architect, if other than the State Architect, preparing plans and specifications, and the supervising architect, shall each execute a bond payable to the State of Texas at Austin, Texas, in a sum to be fixed by the Governor, and to be approved by him, with good and sufficient sureties, conditioned that said architect or architects shall be liable and bound to pay to the State of Texas all such damages as it may sustain by reason of defective plans and specifications, or any willful failure or negligent performance of duty. [Id., § 7.]

See notes under art. 107e.

Explanatory.—Sec. 8 makes an appropriation of $200,000, for buildings and improvements.

Art. 107m. Same; capacity of hospital.—That in the provisions made in the erection or remodeling of buildings due care and thought should be given, and such improvements should be made so that the capacity of the hospital may be added to and enlarged from time to time as necessity may arise in the future. [Id., § 9.]

Art. 107n. Lands of penitentiary set aside for hospital.—So much of the lands of the East Texas penitentiary at Rusk, Texas, as may be requisite and needful, as well as any improvements now situated thereon, for such buildings, grounds, parks, for pasturage, orchards and for growing agricultural products are hereby set aside for the use of said hospital. [Id., § 10.]

Art. 107o. Board to select site and let contracts for buildings.—The Governor, Comptroller of Public Accounts and State Treasurer shall constitute a board to determine what, if any, property now owned by the State at Rusk, Texas, and used in whole or in part by the penitentiary system, shall be set apart to and used permanently by the hospital; and the Governor, together with the State Comptroller of Public Accounts and the State Treasurer shall let the contract or contracts for the construction or remodeling of said buildings, equipment or other improvements. [Id., § 11.]

Art. 107p. Convict labor for work.—The commissioners of the penitentiary are hereby directed and required to furnish said board of managers with a sufficient number of able-bodied convicts to prepare the grounds for such hospital buildings and to do the excavating and other work for the construction of said buildings, and to prepare and deliver all such materials as may be required in the construction and equipment of said buildings, and to do and perform all other work in the erection and construction of such buildings for which convicts may be found suitable and competent. [Id., § 12.]

4. Admissions and Discharge of Patients

Art. 134. [112] [91] Who may be admitted.
5. Judicial Proceedings in Cases of Lunacy

Art. 150. [128] [106] Apprehension.

Discretion as to issuance of warrant.—While county judge has discretion to issue warrant where affidavit of lunacy is made, justice of peace has not. Suhre v. Kott (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 417.

False imprisonment and malicious prosecution.—It is actionable to falsely and maliciously file an affidavit that another is insane, and affiant cannot excuse his conduct on the ground that he was authorized by law to make the affidavit. Suhre v. Kott (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 417.

In action for malicious prosecution by filing affidavit that plaintiff was insane, it was no justification that justice before whom affidavit was made and who issued warrant for plaintiff's arrest exercised judicial discretion. Id.

Where prosecution for lunacy was had before commission afterwards declared unconstitutional, discharge of alleged insane person by county judge was termination of the prosecution in his favor. Id.

Habeas corpus to determine constitutionality of statute.—See Ex parte Singleton, 72 Tex. Cr. R. 122, 161 S. W. 125.

Art. 151. [129] [107] The writ.
Bond.—See notes under art. 161.

Art. 152. Commission appointed.

Jury trial.—There being under statute a right to jury trial in lunacy proceedings at date of adoption of Const. art. 1, § 15, providing that "right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate," Acts 33d Leg. c. 163, substituting a commission of doctors for a jury in such proceedings, is invalid. White v. White (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 369. But see same case in Supreme Court (196 S. W. 585) holding that the act is not unconstitutional.

The commission to try lunacy charges provided for by Acts 33d Leg. c. 163, is not a jury within the constitutional guarantee of right to a trial by jury. Loving v. Hazelwood (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 355.

Art. 156. Proceedings and report of commission.

Art. 159. Judgment.

Effect of judgment.—In a suit to set aside a conveyance on the ground of the grantor's insanity, a copy of a judgment finding him insane, rendered a year after the conveyance, is not admissible. Rowan v. Hodges (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 847.

Art. 161. Conveyance to asylum and discharge therefrom.

Bond.—A bond for the care of a lunatic made payable to the county judge instead of to the state held not sustainable as a statutory bond under Rev. St. 1895, art. 140. Watkins v. Minter (Sup.) 180 S. W. 227.

A bond for the care of a lunatic given on valid consideration voluntarily and of the free accord of the principal and his sureties, held a good common-law obligation. Id.

Where a bond for the custody of a lunatic constitutes a valid obligation upon which the obligee may sue for the use of any one injured as the result of failure to restrain the lunatic, a person for whose use such suit might be maintained can himself prosecute it. Id.

The bond given to secure the release of an adjudged lunatic under the void act of 1913 cannot be given effect as a common-law bond rendering the sureties liable for injuries caused by the lunatic. Loving v. Hazelwood, 184 S. W. 355.

The partial failure of consideration for a bond under the void act of 1913 for the release of a lunatic renders the whole bond void. Id.

PASTEUR HOSPITAL

Article 167. Indigent persons treated at expense of state; county to pay traveling and living expenses; nonindigent persons to pay their own expenses.—All indigent persons afflicted with hydrophobia in this State shall be treated at the expense of the State at the pasteur hospital or department of the asylum for the treatment of hydrophobia at Austin, but the county in which such indigent persons reside, shall pay the traveling expenses of such person to and from Austin and the necessary living expenses of such person while in Austin undergoing said treatment, such expenses to be paid upon order of the commissioners court of the county in which such person resides when satisfactory showing is made to said court as to indigency and the reasonableness and the necessity of the expense. All nonindigent persons shall be kept, treated and maintained at said hospital at their own expense or that of the relatives, friends or guardians. [Act March 30, 1917, ch. 151, § 1.]

[Act May 25, 1917, 1st C. S., ch. 39, § 1.]

c. Orphan Asylum

g. State Colony for the Feeble Minded

Art. 232a. Colony established.—There is hereby established at some suitable place in the vicinity of Austin, where suitable farm lands may be secured, a farm colony on the cottage plan for the training and custodial care of the feeble minded of the State, to be known as the State Colony for the Feeble Minded. [Act March 22, 1915, ch. 90, § 1.] Act took effect 90 days after March 20, 1915, date of adjournment.

Art. 232b. Purpose of colony.—It shall be the purpose of this colony to educate by such special methods as the best modern science has discovered the feeble minded children of the State that are capable of being educated, and to provide suitable work and supervision for the adult feeble minded who are not able to protect and support themselves at large as law abiding citizens, to the end that these unfortunates may be prevented from reproducing their kind and society relieved of the heavy economic and moral losses arising from the existence at large of these unfortunate persons. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 232c. Board of managers; qualifications; compensation; authority; erection of buildings; superintendent; employés.—The Colony for the Feeble Minded shall be under the control and management of a board of five managers, two ex-officio members and three to be appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate. The ex-officio members shall be the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and the ranking professor of child psychology in the department of education of the University of Texas. Of the managers first appointed by the Governor, one shall hold office until February 1, 1917, one until February 1, 1919, and one until February 21, 1921. All subsequent appointments, except to fill vacancies, shall be for a term of six years. Appointments to fill vacancies shall be for the remainder of the unexpired term.

The members of said board shall be public spirited citizens interested in measures of social betterment, one of whom shall be a physician, and at least one of whom shall be a woman. Each member of the board, except the ex-officio members, shall receive five dollars per day while engaged in the performance of his duties as such member, and all members shall be entitled to their necessary traveling expenses, to be paid out of the funds appropriated for the support of the colony, when properly itemized and approved by the board.

The said board of managers shall have authority to purchase or receive as gift such lands as may be needed, and shall also have authority, and it shall be their duty, to advertise, if necessary, for plans and specifications for the buildings to be erected, and to contract for the erection of the same, requiring the contractor to furnish bond for the erection of said buildings in accordance with the contract.

The board of managers shall employ a superintendent and fix his salary and his duties, and for cause deemed sufficient by the board, may, after giving him an opportunity to be heard, remove him. The board shall also determine the number and fix the salary of other officers and employees connected with the colony, but the power to appoint and remove from the subordinate positions is vested in the superintendent, upon whom the responsibility for the details of management is placed. The superintendent shall be a man of education, with training and experience in the work of institutions of this kind. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 232d. Accommodations for inmates.—In carrying out the provisions of this Act the board of managers shall provide accommodations for only such number of inmates from year to year as can be advantageously cared for with the appropriations granted for that year, giving preference, first, to girls and women of child bearing age, and to those of both sexes who are most likely to profit by the special education and training. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 232e. Rules and regulations.—The detailed manner and condition of admission, transmittal and dismissal shall be provided by the board of managers, subject to the provisions of this Act. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 232f. Expenses of inmates to be paid by parents or guardians.—In all cases in which the parent or guardian of a feeble minded person is financially able to pay the expenses of support and [training in the colony, in whole or in part, he shall be required to do so, but in all other cases there shall be no fees or charges. [Id., § 6.]

Explanatory.—The words in brackets do not appear in the session laws as published, but do appear in the enrolled bill.

Art. 232g. Feeble minded persons defined.—A feeble minded child, as defined in this Act, is one of such feeble mental or moral powers as to be unable to profit by the ordinary methods of education as employed in the common schools, and a feeble minded adult is one who is unable under ordinary circumstances to protect and support himself as a law abiding citizen because of lack of mental power. [Id., § 7.]

CHAPTER FOUR

STATE HOME FOR LEPERS

Art. 2321/4. Commission to select site; report; location and other requirements; repeal; compensation of commissioners.

Art. 2321/4d. Superintendent; qualifications; salary; powers and duties.

Art. 2321/4e. Disbursements, how made.

Art. 2321/4f. Appropriation.

Article 2321/4. Commission to select site; report; location and other requirements; repeal; compensation of commissioners.—The Governor of Texas shall as soon as practical after the taking effect of this bill appoint a commission to consist of the State Health Officer and two other citizens of the State of Texas, for the purpose of selecting a site for the erection of an institution to be known as the State Home for Lepers. Such commission shall report within thirty days to the Governor their selection, which selection shall consist of not less than one hundred acres of land, which said site shall not be less than two miles distant from any town or city within this State and not less than one mile distant from any residence; said site shall upon selection by the commission as aforesaid be purchased for the State and shall cost not to exceed $10,000.00. The Land Commissioner is hereby authorized upon request of the board, to award to the State any school land for the location of this home they may select, at the price fixed upon it by the land office; provided nothing herein shall be construed as repealing any law now in force except as herein provided. Said members of said commission shall each be paid five dollars per day and necessary expenses for the time actually consumed in the service required by this Section of this law. [Act May 19, 1917, 1st C. S., ch. 24, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after May 17, 1917, date of adjournment. Sec. 9 repeals all laws in conflict.

Art. 232½c. Erection of buildings; cost; equipment.—As soon as practicable after the selection and purchase of such site, the said commission shall designate the exact location of the ground, and the character and plans for all necessary buildings, including a home for the superintendent of such Home for Lepers, and an administration building. The inmates buildings to be on the cottage plan, and shall have plans and specifications made therefor and shall advertise for thirty days in at least one newspaper of general circulation in this State and one newspaper published in the county where such home is to be located, for bids for the erection of such buildings, and shall award the contract to the lowest and best bidder, provided the total amount of said bid for all the buildings shall not exceed one Twenty-five thousand dollars; and the said commission shall also purchase all necessary furniture and equipment for said buildings, not to exceed in cost fifteen thousand dollars. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 232½b. Expenditures, how made.—All payments of money required under the provisions of Section 1 [art. 232½a] and Section 2 [art. 232½a] of this Act shall be made by warrant on the State Treasury drawn by the State Comptroller based on vouchers signed by the commission provided for in Section 1 and approved by the Governor. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 232½c. Isolation, confinement, and treatment of lepers.—Any person within this State found to be suffering with the disease of leprosy shall be isolated and removed to said State Home for Lepers, upon certificate of the county health officer of the county where such leper may be and of the State Health Officer to the effect that such person is so suffering.

Upon the certificate of said health Officer and county health officer as herein provided for, the county judge of the county where such leper may be shall issue his warrant commanding the sheriff of such county to seize such leper and convey him to the Home for Lepers as herein provided. All necessary expenses for conveying such leper to the Home for Lepers shall be paid for by the county wherein said Leper may be found.

Such person after having been conveyed to the Home for Lepers, as herein provided for, shall be confined therein and cared for and treated at the expense of this State during life, unless sooner discharged on account of being cured. Provided, however, that any person found suffering from leprosy within this State, who shall not have been a resident of this State for a period of one year, shall be returned to the State.
from whence he came, and the expense of such return shall be paid by the county in which such leper is found. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 232½d. Superintendent; qualifications; salary; powers and duties.—As soon as such Home for Lepers is completed and ready for occupancy, and every four years thereafter, the Governor shall appoint a superintendent for the State Home for Lepers, who shall be a graduate of a reputable school of medicine, who shall be authorized to practice medicine within this State, and he shall receive a salary of Three Thousand Dollars per annum; said superintendent shall hold office for four years after his appointment and until his successor qualifies, which superintendent shall employ such nurses, assistants and servants as shall be necessary, and shall pay for such salaries as may be fixed by such superintendent and approved by the Governor; provided that said superintendent shall live at said State Home for Lepers and be in active management and control of said Home subject to the limitations of this Act, and shall not engage in private practice. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 232½e. Disbursements, how made.—All payments of money necessary under the provisions of Section 5 of this Act [art. 232½d] shall be made by Warrant on the State Treasury drawn by the Comtroller based upon vouchers signed by the superintendent of the Home for Lepers and approved by the Governor. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 232½f. Appropriation.—There is hereby appropriated from the general revenue of this State the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars or as much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose of carrying into effect this Act, and to purchase such site and erect and equip such building as herein provided for, and for the maintenance of such institution for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1918, and August 31, 1919. [Id.,

Arts. 233–239.
Superseded. See arts. 232½–232½f, ante.

CHAPTER FIVE

STATE TUBERCULOSIS SANITORIUM

Art. 239t. By-laws, rules and regulations; physicians and salaries; superintendents and employés.

Art. 239w. Plan and location of buildings.

Art. 239x. Classification of patients and rules of admission, etc.

Article 239t. By-laws, rules and regulations; physicians and salaries; superintendents and employés.

This article is in part superseded by Act June 5, 1917, 1st C. S., ch. 48, § 2, post.
art. 7085b, fixing the salary of the superintendent of the sanitorium at Carlisle at §2,– 600.

Art. 239v. Fraternal societies may erect and maintain buildings for accommodation of their members on state sanitorium grounds; expense of maintenance; inmates; unoccupied quarters may be used by state.

—The Board of Control of the State Tuberculosis Sanitorium as Carlsbad, Texas, be and they are hereby authorized and empowered, on request of charitable fraternities or societies, in this State, such as Free Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias and the like, acting through their properly authorized officers, boards or committees, to permit the erection, furnishing and maintenance by such fraternities or societies upon the grounds of said Sanitorium, of dormitories, cottages, tents or other sleeping and housing accommodations as may be desired by any such fraternity or society, for the proper and comfortable housing, sleeping, treatment and caring for any member or members of such fraternity or society or for any members of their families or for the widows and children of deceased members of such fraternity or society, who may be afflicted with tuberculosis and which accommodations so erected shall be reserved for the preferential use of such members and members of their families and of the widows and children of deceased members of the respective fraternity or society so erecting, furnishing and maintaining such accommodations hereunder; provided that the State shall be at no expense whatever in the erection, furnishing or maintenance of such accommodations, and provided the charity fraternity or society entering a patient or patients, shall provide such prorata part for the maintenance of such patient or patients as may be found just and equitable pending the next succeeding appropriation to be made by the Legislature of Texas for the maintenance of said Tuberculosis Sanitorium, and provided further that children under this section shall mean any person, under twenty-one years of age, the child of a deceased member of such fraternity or society, and further provided that such accommodations or any part of them not being used nor required by those entitled to such preference, as hereinbefore provided, may be used and occupied by other patients in said sanitorium, at the discretion of the Superintendent thereof and without any charge therefor against the State. [Sec. 22.] [Act April 2, 1917, ch. 186, § 1.]

The act amends chapter 77, general laws, 32nd Leg., approved March 17, 1911, as amended by Act March 21, 1913, by adding thereto sections 22, 23, and 24. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 239w. Plan and location of buildings.—All matters pertaining to the location, construction, style or character of buildings, term of their existence and all other questions arising in connection with the granting of the permission to erect and maintain the accommodations herein contemplated, shall be arranged and agreed upon in writing by and between the board of control of said sanitorium, on the part of the State of Texas, and the properly authorized officers, board or committee of each respective charitable fraternity or society and such written agreement in each case shall be recorded at length upon the minutes of said board of control and be duly reported to the State health officer in the next succeeding quarterly or annual report, accompanied with all documents pertaining to the matter, or full copies thereof. [Sec. 23.] [Id.]

Art. 239x. Classification of patients and rules of admission, etc.—The members of such charitable fraternities or societies, members of their families and the widows and children of deceased members thereof, shall be classified as indigent public patients, nonindigent public patients or private patients, according to the facts, the same as other patients of said sanitorium are classified and shall be admitted, maintained, cared for and treated in said sanitorium upon the same terms and conditions and under the same regulation as all other patients therein, save and except that they shall at all times have the preference right to occupy the accommodations erected and maintained hereunder by their several and respective fraternities or societies, when not already filled with others having the same preferential right. [Sec. 24.] [Id.]

STATE HOSPITAL FOR CRIPPLED AND DEFORMED CHILDREN

Article 239. Hospital established; gift to state accepted; name; inmates.—That there is hereby established a State Hospital for crippled and deformed children. The gift to the State by the Texas Public Health Association of the Walter Colquitt Memorial Children's Hospital, also known as the children's ward of the John Sealy Hospital, on the premises of the University of Texas, at Galveston, Texas, is hereby accepted by the State, and this hospital shall be the State Hospital for crippled and deformed children. The term "crippled or deformed children," as used in this Act shall include children suffering from disease from which they may become crippled or deformed. [Act Feb. 20, 1915, ch. 18, § 1.]

Article 239a. Management and control; lease of building; what children admitted.—Said hospital shall be under the control and management of the Board of Regents of the University of Texas and said board is hereby authorized and empowered to lease said hospital building to the city of Galveston in the same manner as the John Sealy Hospital buildings, and to require that provision be made in such hospital for the care and treatment of crippled or deformed children, who may be benefitted or cured by treatment in said hospital, and for such other cases or patients as may be required in the interest of scientific study by the faculty and students of the Medical Department of the University of Texas.

Said Board of Regents or the board of managers of said hospital, may also receive in said hospital any sick or afflicted children who are not crippled or deformed, and who are not suffering from any communicable diseases, provided that the beds occupied by such children are not needed for the use of crippled or deformed children. [Id., § 2.]

Article 239b. Rules and regulations.—The said Board of Regents or board of managers of said hospital shall adopt such rules and regulations as said boards may deem proper and necessary for the admission, discharge, care and treatment of such children. The said Board of Regents or the board of managers of said hospital may require the parents or guardians of patients, when able to do so and otherwise the home counties or cities of such patients, to pay all or part of the expense of the care and treatment of patients. And said boards may refuse to admit to said hospital as patients any except crippled or deformed children. [Id., § 3.]

Article 239c. Appropriations; use and expenditure.—The Legislature shall make suitable provision in the general appropriation bill, or otherwise to pay for the proper care and treatment of children afflicted with surgical tuberculosis, and the Board of Regents or board of managers of said hospital shall give free care and treatment to such children to the extent of the appropriation therefor. Said Board of Regents are also authorized to accept donations for the support of crippled or deformed patients and for the improvement of the hospital and building. [Id., § 4.] ARTICLE 240. [186] [152] Attachments may be issued by whom.

In general.—An attachment must stand or fall according to the facts existing at the date of its issuance, and cannot be based on a subsequent event. Brady-Neely Grocer Co. v. De Poe (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1155.

Co-defendants.—Though more than one defendant is sued, it is not necessary that an attachment should apply to more of them. House v. Rouse (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 379.

Affidavits.—Failure to swear to an affidavit for attachment against a nonresident will not render the judgment foreclosing the attachment lien void. Hester v. Baskin (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 726.

Failure to make affidavit for attachment will not defeat the court's jurisdiction as to a nonresident where the writ is issued and levied on his property. Id.

Truth of facts alleged.—The validity of an attachment does not depend on the truth of the facts stated in the affidavit therefor, but on the fact that they are so stated. Green v. Hoppe (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1117.

Construction with and conformity to pleadings.—Petition seeking recovery in simple debt on note against guarantor, held not at variance with attachment affidavit alleging plaintiff's property to have been obtained by false pretenses. Slaughter v. Morton (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 908.

Indebtedness and amount.—In an original attachment proceeding against a nonresident, under this article, plaintiff must prove both debt and the attachment lien.

Removing and disposing of property.—Evidence that when a debtor was asked to pay the claim of plaintiff in attachment he refused and said he would not pay if sued, was admissible to show that he was about to dispose of his property to defraud his creditor, whether communicated to the plaintiff in attachment prior to the making of his affidavit therefor or not. Pate v. Vanderson (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1183.

Due process of law.—The enforcement of a judgment obtained against property of a nonresident on levy of an attachment is not a deprivation of property without due process. Baker v. Hahn (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 443.

ARTICLE 242. [188] [154] Not to issue until suit begun.

Institution of suit—Pleadings.—Where the affidavit and bond for attachment were sufficient, the fact that the petition was subject to general demurrer will not render the attachment void. Baker v. Hahn (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 443.

Where an action against a nonresident is commenced by attachment, a default judgment on a petition, not stating a cause of action, will not warrant a foreclosure of the attachment. Id.

Effect of amendment.—Where the affidavit and bond for attachment were sufficient, the petition, though subject to general demurrer, may be amended without suing out a new writ of attachment. Baker v. Hahn (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 443.

Notice of proceedings.—Where jurisdiction, in a suit against a nonresident, is sought to be obtained by attachment, due process of law requires that the owner have an opportunity to be heard, and to that end shall be notified in some manner beyond the notice arising from the seizure of the property. Connell v. Nickey (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 313.

Art. 243. [189] [155] Attachment may issue on debt not yet due, but no judgment until debt becomes due.

In general.—Under this article it is immaterial that the debt was not all due when the attachment was issued. Green v. Hoppe (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1117.

Art. 244. [190] [156] Plaintiff must give bond with security.

Wrongful attachment in general.—Evidence held not to sustain a finding that an attachment was wrongfully issued and levied. Rowe v. Crutchfield (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 444.

That an attachment was levied and quashed does not justify a finding that it was wrongfully issued and levied. Id.

In action for wrongfully attaching stock of goods owned by a firm, evidence that the managing partner was not trying to defraud creditors by holding discount sale held to support verdict for plaintiffs, though other partner did not testify as to his intention. Brady-Neely Grocer Co. v. De Poe (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1135.

Defendant, damaged by an attachment wrongfully sued out, is protected by the attachment bond. Green v. Hoppe (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1117.

An attachment is wrongfully issued if based upon affidavit stating, untruthfully, that defendant is unjustly indebted to plaintiff. Comer v. Powell (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 88.

An attachment, wrongfully levied upon real estate with knowledge that the owners were negotiating a sale thereof which they completed without knowledge of the levy, is actionable, although the contract was not completed prior to the levy. Hoover v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 1149.

An ordinary attachment levy upon real estate will not authorize recovery of damages since any depreciation in the property's value between the levy and release is not regarded as due to the attachment. Id.

An attachment may be wrongfull if the grounds on which it is based are untrue, although defendant landowner owes a past due debt. Id.

In action on notes of corporation alleging individual defendant to be surety, evidence held to support finding that issuance and attachment of his note was made in good faith. Pennock v. Texas Builders' Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 176.

Defenses.—Where exempt property was wrongfully attached, including a crop of growing cotton on a homestead, the debtor's voluntary consent that the attached property be sold and the proceeds applied to the debt waived the tort arising out of the wrongful attachment and constituted a satisfaction of the trespass to the homestead. Pate v. Vardeeman (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1133.

It is no defense to a claim for actual damages from wrongful attachment that the plaintiff in attachment had probable cause to believe that ground for attachment existed. Scherer v. W. Sei. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1123.

Amount recoverable for wrongful attachment.—A defendant is not entitled to damages as of course upon the mere issuance and levy of an attachment, but, to recover even nominal damages, some actual damage must be shown. Rowe v. Crutchfield (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 444.

The measure of damages for wrongful attachment is ordinarily the value of the goods attached, with interest from the date of seizure. Fisher v. Scherer (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1133.

In action for wrongful attachment, judgment obtained against plaintiff in the attachment suit, if valid, held admissible on the question of damages. Pruitt v. English (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1172.

In an action for wrongful attachment of cotton, the measure of damages was the value of the cotton when levied upon, with interest, less the amount of the judgment in the attachment suit against the attachment debtor. Id.

Where plaintiff attached defendant's property, defendant cannot, in action for wrongful attachment, recover damages for the loss of an advantageous sale, having later made a sale at the same price. Dawson v. Falfurrias State Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 553.

The general rule that one injured by a wrongful attachment cannot recover for loss of business or future profits applies only where the measure of damages is the value of property taken, and not where the recovery is for detention of property or interruption of its use. Hamlett v. Coates (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1144.

A writ of attachment, wrongfully issued and levied on property, entitles the owner thereof to at least nominal damages, although the property be not exempt. Comer v. Powell (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 88.

Ordinarily, the measure of damages for wrongful attachment is the value of the goods attached, with interest from the date of seizure. Taylor Bros. Jewelry Co. v. Kelley (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 349.

In suit for automobile wrongfully attached and sold as property of another, or for its value, plaintiff might recover it, together with reasonable value of its use on basis of rental value. Id.

In suit for automobile wrongfully attached and sold as property of another, held, that there was no evidence upon which to base a finding of $2 per day rental value. Id.

A wrongfully attached real estate owner from consummating a sale, the measure of damages is the difference between the contract price and the property's market value when sold on mortgage foreclosure while the attachment was still in force. Hoover v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1149.

Exemplary damages.—In an action for wrongful attachment on the ground that the debtor was about to dispose of his property with intent to defraud his creditors, evidence that he stated, prior to the attachment, that if sued he would not pay at all, was admissible on the issue of his right to recover exemplary damages. Pate v. Yardenaas (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1192.

A party attaching and selling exempt property is liable for the actual value thereof, and for exemplary damages if the facts justify such damages. Smith v. McBryde (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 234.

Art. 247. [193] [159] Attachment abated for want of affidavit or bond.

_Abatement of writ—False affidavit._—False allegations in attachment affidavit held not to entitle defendant to abatement of the writ, though they might entitle him to damages on the bond. Ford v. Johnston (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 398.

Art. 250. [196] [162] Form of the writ.

_Amendment of writ._—Where a writ of attachment was properly dated and the date of its issuance was inserted on the back of the issuing justice, the writ could be amended by having the justice's signature affixed to the face of the writ if necessary. Rule Mercantile Co. v. Opry (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 331.

Art. 251. [197] [163] Writ to be dated, tested and lodged with sheriff, etc.

Art. 254. [200] [166] Property subject to attachment.

_Trusts and assignments._—One not holding the legal title of real estate, but to whom the record owner has promised a portion of proceeds obtained from a proposed sale thereof, has an attachable interest in the property. Hoover v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1149.

_Attachment of judgment._—Under this article an attachment cannot be levied on a judgment in favor of the attachment defendant. Needham v. Cooney (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 979.

_When lien attaches._—Under this article and art. 3740, an attachment lien attaches to the proceeds of an execution sale on a judgment in favor of the attachment defendant as soon as they come into the hands of the sheriff. Needham v. Cooney (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 979.

Art. 256. [202] [168] Personal property to remain in the hands of officer, unless.

_The liability of plaintiff for acts of officer._—Plaintiff causing issuance of writ of attachment held not liable for injuries to the attached property caused by the negligence or misconduct of the sheriff or his bailee in which he does not participate. Kanaman v. Hubbard (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 204.

Art. 258. [204] [170] Replevy by the defendant.

Under art. 1543 held, that replevy bond, if not enforceable against nonresident defendant, can at least be enforced by judgment against sureties. American Surety Co. of New York v. Stebbins, Lawson & Spraggins Co. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 101, answer to certified questions conformed to (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 567.

_Filing bond as appearance._—Under this article and art. 1585, filing of bond to replevy attached property held not such an appearance as authorizes judgment without the service of process personally or by publication. American Surety Co. of New York v. Stebbins, Lawson & Spraggins Co. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 101, answer to certified questions conformed to (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 567.

Art. 265. [211] [177] Requisites of the return.

_Amendment._—The Court of Appeals cannot issue certiorari to correct the return as made by the constable showing the value of the property attached in order to make it conform to his intentions. Fuller, Hanna & Co. v. Rogers (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 322.

Art. 267. [213] [179] Attachment creates a lien.

_Priority._—Under this article held, that the subsequent record of a deed to one purchasing from defendant in an attachment suit prior to the attachment would not affect the respective rights of the parties. Neville v. Miller (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1199.

_Bankruptcy of debtor._—Third persons questioning the right of an attaching creditor may attack his lien on the ground that, within four months after attachment, the debtor was adjudicated a bankrupt. Dyke v. Farmersville Mill & Light Co. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 478.

_Foreclosure of lien._—A recital in the judgment that the lien was foreclosed did not render the judgment void but would be treated as a notation preserving the lien. Rule v. Richards (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 386.

_Judgment._—Under this article and art. 267, providing that where land is attached in a justice's court no decree foreclosing the lien is necessary, held, that a recital in the judgment that the lien was foreclosed did not render the judgment void but would be treated as a notation preserving the lien. Rule v. Richards (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 386.

_Non-resident._—Where an action against a nonresident is commenced by attachment, a default judgment on a petition, not stating a cause of action, will not warrant a foreclosure of the attachment. Baker v. Hahn (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 443.

Ordinarily where an action is brought against a nonresident by attachment of prop-
Art. 268 ATTACHMENT AND GARNISHMENT

Property within the state, judgment will not be rendered until jurisdiction and service has been procured for the required length of time before the court convenes for the term at which judgment is rendered. Connell v. Nickey (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 313. A judgment foreclosing an attachment against a nonresident is not bad because neither the notice served nor the copy of the petition delivered to the nonresident showed the attachment. Findlay v. Lumsdon (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 818. Failure to swear to an affidavit for attachment against a nonresident will not render the judgment foreclosing the attachment lien void. Hester v. Baskin (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 726.

Art. 269. [215] [181] Judgment when property is replevied.

Default judgment.—The execution and filing of a replevy bond with a surety is no such an appearance by the defendant whose property was attached as will authorize judgment by default against defendant and its surety on the replevy bond. American Surety Co. of New York v. Stebbins, Lawson & Spragins Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 567.

Art. 270. [216] [182] Order of court when attachment quashed; pending appeal, property may be replevied.

CHAPTER TWO

GARNISHMENT

Art. 271. Writ of garnishment, who may issue and when.

272. Bond to be executed in certain cases.

273. Application for the writ, etc.

274. Proceeding by, shall be docketed, etc.

275. Requisites of writ when incorporated company, etc., is garnishee.

276. Form of writ.

277. Effect of service of, defendant may replevy.

278. Answer to, must be under oath, in writing and signed.

279. Garnishee to be discharged on answer, when.

280. Judgment by default, when.

281. Residing in another county and failing to answer proceedings against.

Art. 284. Form of commission.

285. Form of writ in such cases.

286. Judgment of the court in such cases.

287. Judgment against garnishee when he is indebted.

288. For effects.

289. Attachment against garnishee for refusing to deliver effects.

290. Judgment against incorporated companies, etc., for shares, etc.

291. Travers of answer of garnishee, by plaintiff.

292. Trial of issue on controverted answer.

293. Costs in garnishment proceedings.

294. Garnishee discharged from liability to defendant.

Article 271. [217] [183] Writ of garnishment, who may issue and when.

In general.—Where a valid garnishment merely reaches a debt due by the garnishee, the writ will not be aided by the appointment of a receiver, or the issuance of injunction restraining the assignment of the debt. Gulf Nat. Bank v. Bass (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1019.

Where garnishee and defendant treated fund garnished by plaintiff as trust fund to be awarded to those who would come in and establish their priority in the garnishment suit, the proceedings being consolidated, the validity of plaintiff's garnishment was immaterial. Reinertsen v. E. W. Bennett & Sons (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1927.

Institution of suit.—Affidavit for distress warrant against defendant and a statutory bond executed the same day held to commence a suit, so that application for writ of garnishment filed following day would not be quashed on ground that no suit had been instituted. Walton & Stockton v. Corpus Christi Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 269.

Amendment changing parties to action.—Where the original suit in which a writ of garnishment was sued out was brought against an alleged corporation, and after service of the writ the petition was amended, so as to make the action one against an individual instead of a corporation, the garnishment proceedings were thereby discharged. Pickering v. Mo. Co. of Cord (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 899.

Parties.—In garnishment against buyer from tenant of crop raised on rented premises, landlord and party who threshed crop were proper parties to make possible an equitable adjustment, and court could and should have granted relief necessary. Farmers Elevator Co. v. Advance Thresher Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1913.

Attachment basis of proceeding.—Garnishment of debt due nonresident by resident debtor is recognized by statutes and decisions as being suit in rem against attached debt, effect of which is to subject it to payment of amount due plaintiff, though general rule is that situs of debt and obligation is at domicile of creditor. Gerlach Mercantile Co. v. Hughes-Bozarth-Anderson Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 784.

Property in possession of defendant.—That the debtor had the right to resume possession of livestock which was pastured in another's field at the time they were garnished by the creditor would not prevent them from being garnished while in the field of the bailee. McClung v. Watson (Civ. App.) 105 S. W. 533.

A trust fund is not ordinarily the subject of garnishment. Oglesby v. Durr (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 275.

Under Bulk Sales Law, § 1, post, art. 3021, a purchaser who did not comply with the statute is a trustee for the seller's creditors, and they may reach the debt by garnishment, though the goods have been sold and the proceeds disposed of. Owosso Carriage & Sleigh Co. v. McIntosh & Warren (Sup.) 179 S. W. 257.

A person who sells without compliance with the Bulk Sales Law are liable in garnishment to his creditors for the goods or their proceeds if resold. Mayfield Co. v. Harlan & Harlan (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 313.

A garnishee cannot be held for the value of machinery left on its land, but not in its possession, by the debtor. Foos Gas Engine Co. v. Fairview Land & Cattle Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 332.

Funds deposited to the credit of mule buyer by his principal held subject to garnishment under a judgment against the mule buyer; the garnishee bank paying checks drawn by buyer out of proceeds of loan to him, instead of such funds. Winfield State Bank v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 229.

Property in custodia legis.—Whether money pledged with the sureties on a bail bond to secure them is subject to garnishment depends on whether the pledgee's rights will be prejudiced thereby, and not on whether the property is in custodia legis. Waggoner v. Briggs (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 50.

In the absence of statutory authority, funds deposited with a state treasurer by an insurance company, in trust for the policy holders, are in custodia legis and not subject to garnishment. Oglesby v. Durr (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 275.

One who would garnish assets derived from or through an executor or administrator must show that the original title by which the executor or administrator holds has changed, but it is not necessary that he prove himself a representative of the decedent. Gulf Nat. Bank v. Shelton (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 337.

Claims by third persons.—Where, in plaintiff's garnishment, others were allowed to intervene, held that such interveners could not question validity of plaintiff's garnishment, but only defendant and the garnishee might attack it. Renertsen v. E. W. Bennett & Sons (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1027.

Where court has no jurisdiction over action, it has no jurisdiction over intervention proceedings. 1d.

Party claiming prior right to fund garnished may intervene, having the cases consolidated and issues determined at one time. 1d. See, also, notes under art. 7769 et seq.

Indebtedness of garnishee.—A judgment which had been affirmed on condition that plaintiff file a remittitur was not, before a motion for rehearing was overruled, final, so as to be subject to garnishment. Dodson v. Warren Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 952.

A negotiable note is not subject to garnishment, and, where the only proof was the execution of the note to a third person for the price of land and the garnisher's duty abstracted judgment against such third person, there was nothing to take it out of the rule. Guillot v. Wallace (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 978.

Where an indebtedness to C. was transferred by him to another long before writs of garnishment were served on the debtor, the indebtedness was no longer subject to garnishment as the property of C., though the debtor did not know of the transfer. Amarillo Nat. Bank v. Panhandle Telephone & Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1091.

Where Y. kept his bank account in the name of Y. Engineering Co., and the money was credited to the account of that corporation, his personal account was subject to garnishment by the garnishee as his money. Citizens' Bank & Trust Co. v. Rogers (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 258.

A defendant against whom a judgment which is final has been rendered is subject to garnishment. Marcus v. O'Brien (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 492.

A judgment from which the debtor gave notice of appeal, but thereafter abandoned the appeal, and on which execution had been issued, was final, so as to authorize garnishment against the judgment debtor, though 12 months had not elapsed since its rendition. 1d.

Where a landowner contracted for the boring of well to furnish 1,100 gallons of water per minute, and the well actually furnished 500 or less, such landowner was not subject to garnishment by the creditor of the contractors. 1d.

Plaintiff in garnishment steps into shoes of his judgment debtor, and if nothing is owing the latter, the former is entitled to nothing. 1d.

Plaintiff's judgment.—Under subd. 2, held, that an answer alleging that the original judgment was void for want of jurisdiction of defendant therein was a good defense. Nesom v. City Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 715.

Where court rendering original judgment had jurisdiction of defendant's person and subject matter, garnishee cannot question conclusiveness of judgment as between plaintiff and defendant for mere irregularities not rendering it void. Gerlach Mercantile Co. v. Hughes-Bozarth-Anderson Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 784.

Affidavits.—Where the affidavit and writ of garnishment described plaintiff as the W. company, and disposed of persons named, it sufficiently appeared that plaintiff was a partnership and not a corporation, since a "firm" is a partnership. Dodson v. Warren Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 952.

Affidavit for writ of garnishment held not defective as made by partnership instead of by an agent or member thereof. 1d.

In an action by writ of garnishment, in the absence of proof or admission by defendant that plaintiffs had secured a judgment against their debtor, or, if they had done so, that it was unsatisfied, plaintiffs' affidavits for garnishment, stating that they had recovered judgment and that it was unsatisfied to the best of the knowledge and belief of plaintiffs' counsel, did not authorize judgment against the garnishee. A. G. Schwab & Son v. Norwood (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 807.

An affidavit for a writ of garnishment, otherwise sufficiently identifying the original cause, is not sufficient for omitting the name of the defendant in the original cause. Dickinson v. First State Bank of Blackwell (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 674.

It is no ground for quashing a writ of garnishment that the affidavit therefore states a less amount than is claimed in the original suit, as, for instance, that it fails to demand interest. Id.

Falsity of facts alleged in affidavit for garnishment is not ground for motion to quash. Cawthon v. First State Bank of Salado (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 783.

When all statutory requirements of affidavit for garnishment are met, it is immaterial that other allegations were made, and therefore a false allegation as to time when suit was brought is immaterial, since the statute does not require the affidavit to state when the suit was brought. Id.

If affidavit for garnishment was not made long enough before issuing the writ to create the inference that the state of facts had not continued, the mere fact that it was filed prior to the issuance of the writ is no ground for quashing the affidavit and writ of sequestration. Id.

Art. 272. [218] [184] Bond when no attachment has issued and no judgment has been rendered.

Bond.—A garnishment bond is sufficient if more than double the amount of the demand of the complaint as well as double the amount named in the writ. Dickinson v. First State Bank of Blackwell (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 674.

Damages.—Where plaintiff claimed that the wrongful garnishment of certain corporate stock resulted in his inability to exchange the stock for certain vendor's lien notes, his claim for the value of such notes and interest was a proper element of damages. Bennett v. Petersburg (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 1078.

Loss of prospective profits in plaintiff's business as the alleged result of the wrongful issuance and service of a garnishment cannot be recovered as actual damages, but may be considered in determining punitive damages. Id.

Attorney's fees and expenses in attending court to procure relief against a garnishment wrongfully sued out are not damages. Heldemann v. Martinez (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1166.

Exemplary damages are not recoverable for wrongfully suing out garnishment, unless sued out without probable cause and maliciously. Id.

Damages for wrongful garnishment do not include an amount lost through inability to ship cotton seed, whereby the garnishment defendant would have realized profits. Stafford v. Patterson & Nelson (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1059.

Art. 273. [219] [185] Application for the writ, etc.

Sufficiency of application in general.—In an action by a partnership an application for a writ of garnishment signed by the partnership, by the members thereof by a manager, was duly signed by an "agent" for the partnership. Walton & Stockton v. Corpus Christi Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 399.

Name and residence of garnishee.—Application and affidavit for garnishment, alleging that garnishee, a corporation, had a local agent in Miami, Roberts county, held to sufficiently state the residence of the garnishee. C. E. Harris & Co. v. C. B. Cozart Grain Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 733.

An allegation that a corporation does business in a county, and that a named person is its president, is not equivalent to an allegation of residence in the county within this article. Freeman v. Port Arthur Rice & Irrigation Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 441.

Effects.—In view of arts. 5502 and 5504, the word "effects," as used in this article, would include live stock in the hands of a bailee. McClung v. Watson (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 532.

Art. 274. [220] [186] Case shall be docketed, etc.

Failure to docket correctly.—While garnishment proceedings should be docketed separately from the original suit, that the clerk indorsed on the affidavit and writ the docket number of the original suit was a mere irregularity not affecting the validity of the judgment. Dodson v. Warren Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 962.

Art. 275. [221] [187] Requisites when writ is against incorporated or joint stock company to subject shares, etc.

Defects in writ.—Under arts. 275, 276, 234, 237, writ issued to garnishee held faulty and calculated to mislead the garnishee. Jones Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Gunter (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 342.

Defects in form.—Under arts. 275, 276, 234, 237, writ issued to garnishee held faulty and calculated to mislead the garnishee. Jones Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Gunter (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 342.

It is the affidavit which is the foundation of the suit against the garnishee, and its allegations govern if the writ is at variance with them. Where the affidavit described the garnishee as a corporation of which W. C. S. was president, the return of the writ of garnishment on W. C. S. was sufficient. The writ need not state the amount of the demand, and if it does so erroneously, the statement may be treated as surplusage. Thus a writ naming the amount as $752, when the affidavit and complaint

Art. 276. [222] [188] Form of writ.

Defects in form.—Under arts. 275, 276, 234, 237, writ issued to garnishee held faulty and calculated to mislead the garnishee. Jones Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Gunter (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 342.

It is the affidavit which is the foundation of the suit against the garnishee, and its allegations govern if the writ is at variance with them. Where the affidavit described the garnishee as a corporation of which W. C. S. was president, the return of the writ of garnishment on W. C. S. was sufficient. The writ need not state the amount of the demand, and if it does so erroneously, the statement may be treated as surplusage. Thus a writ naming the amount as $752, when the affidavit and complaint named $742, is not therefore invalid, the error being on the part of the clerk, for which plaintiff was not responsible. Dickinson v. First State Bank of Blackwell (Civil App.) 183 S. W. 674.

Art. 279. [225] [191] Effect of service of writ; defendant may reply.

Effect of service—Debts not matured.—Where garnishment created no lien because of the debtor's nonperformance of his contract with the garnishee, the debtor's assignment of his claim after the garnishment process, held to cut off the rights of the garnishing creditor. Hall v. Nunn Electric Co. (Civil App.) 193 S. W. 13.

Lien or rights acquired.—Where a debtor gave to his wife money to pay rent and she deposited it in the bank in her own name and gave a check on the account to the landlord for an amount in excess of the deposit, but before the check was presented the account was garnished, the rights of the landlord were superior as to such deposit to the garnishing creditors. Burns & Bell v. Lowe (Civil App.) 161 S. W. 942.

Garnishing creditors occupy no better position with reference to the fund garnished than did their debtors at the time of the service of the writ. Id.

Garnishment on bank impounded such sum or effects as debtor had in bank; plaintiff standing in no better position than the debtor, and being entitled to funds subject to reduction by any sum owing bank from debtor. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank of Teague v. Setzer (Civil App.) 185 S. W. 596.

A garnisher's rights are determined by his priority in point of time. Reinertsen v. E. W. Bennett & Sons (Civil App.) 185 S. W. 1027.

Debts due from defendant to garnishee.—Where a depositor was garnished in a suit against a third person, the right of the depositor to sums debited from the bank from its account and paid to the third person might be adjudicated. Western Nat. Bank of Ft. Worth v. Holmes (Civil App.) 176 S. W. (Comm.) 829.

Where money of a judgment debtor comes into the hands of a garnishee, it may apply the funds to debts due it. L. C. Malone Lumber Co. v. Davis Co. (Civil App.) 181 S. W. 849.

Where bank collected depositor's note, and credited proceeds to him on his account, the bank could, on being garnisheed, apply deposit to payment of depositor's debt due it. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank of Teague v. Setzer (Civil App.) 185 S. W. 596.

In garnishment against bank, evidence held insufficient to justify finding that, when debtor placed note in bank for collection, there was no understanding that, when collected, proceeds should be applied to debt from him to bank. Id.

Payments or transfers by garnishee.—The act of a garnishee, in whose pasture the garnished horses were, in agreeing to their sale by the debtor was a constructive delivery to his purchaser, contrary to the garnishment statute, and constituted a conversion of the property by the garnishee when considered in connection with the resale of the horses to the garnishee by prearrangement. McCulloch v. Watson (Civil App.) 185 S. W. 532.

A debtor cannot transfer an unmatured and accruing debt owing to him to some third person between the service of the writ of garnishment and the answer of the garnishee to give his transferee title. Hall v. Nunn Electric Co. (Civil App.) 183 S. W. 13.

Replevy by defendant.—Where defendant repleved a bank deposit, which had been garnished under this article, held, that he and a surety on the replevy bond were entitled to the fund garnished, upon payment of the deposit, to collect the garnished debt. Sellers v. Puckett (Civil App.) 180 S. W. 639.

Art. 280. [226] [192] Answer to the writ must be in writing, under oath and signed.

Sufficiency of answer.—In garnishment proceedings, where supplement, so called, and other portion of traverse were attached, and made part of each other by allegation, in absence of special exception as to order of pleading, or that they were attached, entire answer should be looked to by Court of Civil Appeals. Gerlach Mercantile Co. v. Hughes-Boxarth-Anderson Co. (Civil App.) 189 S. W. 784.

Defenses.—The want of a valid judgment on which to base the garnishment must be pleaded by the garnishee in order to be available. Citizens' Bank & Trust Co. v. Rogers (Civil App.) 170 S. W. 258.

Where the debt sought to be garnished is exempt as the proceeds of sale of a homestead, the plaintiff is entitled to garnishee to set up the defense. Russell v. Hamilton (Civil App.) 174 S. W. 706.

Interpleading third persons.—A garnishee, to protect himself from having to pay the debt twice, may interplead all claimants of the fund in his hands. Barcus v. O'Brien (Civil App.) 171 S. W. 492.

The defendant in garnishment may voluntarily appear or be cited in by the garnishee, that he may protect his rights arising from the fact that his credit is exempt as the proceeds of sale of homestead. Russell v. Hamilton (Civil App.) 174 S. W. 706.

The owner of a building may, in a proceeding by creditors of the contractor, implead all persons having claims to a sum deposited in a bank to be applied on the amount due the contractor. Western Nat. Bank of Ft. Worth v. Texas Christian University (Civil App.) 176 S. W. 1194.

Exceptions to answer.—In garnishment, exception to answer, by person claiming to have purchased property after service of writ from person not shown to have owned it, held erroneously overruled. Bigham Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Sparks Lumber Co. (Civil App.) 176 S. W. 1194.

Construction, operation and effect.—Where the action against the debtor and the garnishment proceedings are heard at the same time, the answer of the garnishee is ad-

See Jones Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Gunter (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 342.

Art. 282.  [228] [194] Judgment by default, when.

Relief against default.—Garnishee corporation which without willful neglect and through oversight failed to answer writ held entitled to have default judgment set aside, with permission to answer. Jones Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Gunter (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 342.

Foreign corporation.—Under this article a foreign corporation cannot enjoin execution under default judgment against it as garnishee, where it has a resident local agent. Queen Ins. Co. v. Keller (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 359.

Art. 283.  [229] [195] When garnishee residing in another county fails to answer, commission to issue.

Waiver of privilege.—Bank domiciled in J. county, which on petition in garnishment in cause originating in H. county filed an answer, thereby waived the privilege under this article of answer in the county of its residence. Gulf Nat. Bank v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1000.

A garnishee having appeared by answer, which was stricken, no commission was required to take his answer. Jones Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Gunter (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 342.

Art. 284.  [230] [196] Form of commission.

Defects in writ.—Under arts. 275, 276, 284, 287, writ issued to garnishee held faulty and calculated to mislead the garnishee. Jones Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Gunter (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 342.

Art. 287.  [233] [199] Form of writ to be issued by commissioner for garnishee residing in another county.

Defects in writ.—Under arts. 275, 276, 284, 287, writ issued to garnishee held faulty and calculated to mislead the garnishee. Jones Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Gunter (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 342.

Art. 292.  [238] [204] Proceedings on return of certificate of such refusal to answer.

Relief from default.—Under arts. 281 and 292, garnishee corporation which without willful neglect and through oversight failed to answer writ held entitled to have default judgment set aside, with permission to answer. Jones Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Gunter (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 342.

Art. 293.  [239] [205] Judgment against the garnishee when he is indebted.

Right to judgment.—Where money was pledged to the sureties on a bail bond to secure them against liability, and at the time judgment was rendered against the sureties as garnishees the condition of the bond had been performed, the money was subject to garnishment under arts. 293, 294, 3744. Waggoner v. Briggs (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 56.

Under this article judgment plaintiff was entitled to judgment against a garnishee who admitted that a firm of which he was a member was indebted to judgment defendant. Sellers v. Puckett (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 639.

There can be no valid judgment against garnishee until there is one against original defendant. Gerlich Mercantile Co. v. Hughes-Bozarth-Anderson Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 784.

Division of fund between different garnishing creditors.—A county court can divide money due an insolvent corporation between two garnishing creditors, at least against the objection of the corporation's president, who held a fictitious assignment of the debt from the corporation, for which he had paid no consideration. Brooks v. Ed. Stevens & Sons (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 1166.

Judgment in consolidated action.—Where a garnishee admitted owing C. a specified sum, but alleged that N. was setting up title to a judgment recovered by C. on such indebtedness, and a proceeding against N., in which he set up title in himself, was consolidated, the court properly refused to render judgment against the garnishee on its answer. Amarillo Nat. Bank v. Panhandle Telephone & Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1091.

Effect of judgment.—A party to a garnishment proceeding in justice court, who appeared and controverted the truth of the garnishee's answer, was bound by the judgment, and could have errors reviewed only by appeal or writ of error, and not by a suit to enjoin collection of the judgment, where the judgment was not absolutely void. Epler v. Hilley (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 87.

A justice court judgment in a garnishment case was not void because of an alleged defect in the service of the citation in the original suit, since the validity of the judgment in that suit is not made a ground for voiding the garnishment judgment. Hopson v. Puckett (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1091.

Judgment against owners of land in justice court, in favor of one who had supplied materials to contractors working on such land, held conclusive upon failure of the owners to appeal therefrom, and not open to collateral attack, as by having its enforcement enjoined in suit to enforce mechanic's liens by the contractors against the owners and materialman. Waples Painter Co. v. Ross (Sup.) 176 S. W. 47, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 1027.
Art. 294. [240] [206] Judgment against the garnishee for effects. Possession by garnishee.—Under arts. 294, 295, where contractors for irrigation well left machinery on premises, contemplating it should be connected, but landowner claimed no property, and did not take control for any purpose, he did not have possession subjecting him to writ of garnishment by judgment creditor of contractors. Hall v. Nunn Electric Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 13.

Art. 296. [242] [208] Judgment against incorporated companies, etc., for shares of stock or interest. Evidence of ownership.—In garnishment proceeding on judgment against C., admissions by C.'s daughter and her husband that she owned no interest in corporate stock standing in her name held erroneously excluded. Bigham Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Sparks Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 1194.

Art. 299. [245] [211] Plaintiff may traverse answer of garnishee. Construction of answer.—In garnishment proceedings, where supplement, so called, and other portion of traverse were attached, and made part of each other by allegation, in absence of special exception as to order of pleading, or that they were attached, entire answer should be looked to by trial court. Gerlach Mercantile Co. v. Hughes-Bozarth-Anderson Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 784.

Art. 301. [247] [213] Trial of issue on controverted answer. Evidence.—Original judgment against defendant was admissible as evidence in garnishment proceedings against his debtor. Gerlach Mercantile Co. v. Hughes-Bozarth-Anderson Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 784.

While a garnishment suit is docketed separately from the main suit, it is ancillary to and a part of the main suit, and the court on appeal from judgment in the garnishment suit will take judicial notice of the proceedings in the main suit. Studebaker Harness Co. v. Gerlach Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 545.

Allowance of costs.—Plaintiff in garnishment held not entitled to recover attorney's fees against the garnishees; the only attorney's fees allowable being those authorized by statute to the garnishee. Waggoner v. Briggs (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 56.

Where not controverted, the garnishee, under its answer, was entitled to be discharged with costs upon payment of the surplus remaining in its hands after discharging the debt due from the judgment debtor. L. C. Malone Lumber Co. v. Davis Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 849.

In a vendor's garnishment proceeding against the insurer of reality, where the answer of the garnishee was not denied, and it was discharged from the garnishment upon its answer, although judgment went against it for the purchaser, such garnishee was entitled to recover from the vendor its costs, including a reasonable attorney's fee, under this article. Stratton v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co. of New York (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 4.

Garnishee is entitled to statutory attorney fee where it admitted indebtedness to defendant and sought protection of court only to determine conflicting claims. National Fire Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn., v. McEvoy Furniture Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 270.

Reasonable compensation.—The garnishee would be entitled, in a proper case, to reasonable compensation for the cost of keeping horses garnished pending the suit. Mccnn v. Watson (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 522.

Art. 308. [254] [220] Garnishee discharged from liability to defendant. Right to discharge.—Under arts. 307 and 308, held that, where not controverted, the garnishee, under its answer, was entitled to be discharged with costs upon payment of the surplus remaining in its hands after discharging the debt due from the judgment debtor. L. C. Malone Lumber Co. v. Davis Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 849.

Conclusiveness of judgment.—A judgment for the creditor in garnishment proceedings, brought to subject the insurance money which represented the debtor's homestead, would not bind the debtor, where he was not a party thereto, so as to prevent him from afterwards asserting his constitutional right to the exemption of the money representing his homestead. Johnson v. Hall (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 399.

An adjudication upon the garnishee's answer is final as to defendant in the principal action only as to property rights which may be controlled by the Legislature, and would not affect property exempted by the Constitution, such as a homestead. Id.

Judgment of court of competent jurisdiction, amended after term to correct mistake in entering it on minutes, showing on its face to be valid, and importing verity, being in full force and effect after remand and appeal, protected the garnishee under it. Gerlach Mercantile Co. v. Hughes-Bozarth-Anderson Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 784.
ATTORNEY AT LAW

Art. 318. Immigrant attorney granted license; reciprocal legislation. Any person who immigrates to this State from any other State in the United States, with a view of permanently residing herein, and who has been granted a license to practice law in the courts of record in the said State from which said person migrated, and has been actively engaged in the practice of law for five years next preceding the date of his removal to this State, shall, upon the filing with the clerk of the Supreme Court of Texas, his license properly authenticated from the State from which he migrated and a certificate that he is a man of good reputation for moral character and honorable deportment, given under the hand and seal of a judge of a court of record of the county of his former residence, be admitted to practice law in this State without license; and a license shall be issued to him; provided, that the State from which the said person migrated has such an Act or similar Act, but should said State not have such an Act or similar Act, then the said person shall file his certificate of good morals and honorable deportment and shall be examined in the same manner as a resident applicant. [Acts 1846, p. 245; Acts 1897, p. 17; Acts 1903, p. 60; Act March 20, 1915, ch. 91, § 1.]

Art. 334. Officers not allowed to appear as attorney. Effect of acting as attorney.—The act of a judge in appearing and pleading as an attorney at law, he held under does not of its own vacate his office. And, though a judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals has formed a law partnership and engaged in the practice of law, he is nevertheless a judge de facto so long as he continues to exercise the functions of judge. Marta v. State (Cr. App.) 103 S. W. 355.

DECISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT IN GENERAL

254. Duties and obligations of attorneys.—The action of attorneys for the widow in selecting one to whom she shall waive her right to administer, and representing the person selected in his application for letters of administration, is not improper, so long as they did not advise him regarding her claim. Kimmons v. Abraham (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 256.

Where M., a law partner of G., who was under contract to clear title to land in consideration of B. paying the costs and the owner deeding a two-thirds interest to the other two, became an attorney for the parties to the contract, he could purchase the interest of the owner subject to the contract. Morris v. Brown (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 265.

Generally, an attorney must act towards his client with the most scrupulous good faith and fidelity, and must make known to the latter the exact status, so far as he is able, of the matter concerning which he is employed. Laybourne v. Bray & Shiflet (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1159.

The rule prohibiting an attorney once retained from acting for the opposing party applies only in case of conflicting interest, in the absence of a contract. Id.

3. Retainer and authority.—Rule that a principal must give notice of a limitation on the apparent authority of his agent does not apply to one employed only as an attorney at law to collect a debt as to his right to accept anything but money in payment. Magill v. Rugeley (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 558.

An attorney held not authorized to alter in a material particular a judgment recovered by his client. David v. First Nat. Bank of Claude (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 579.

Under a contract whereby an attorney was to clear the title of land, B. was to pay the costs, and the owner was to convey a two-thirds interest to the other two, the attorney was the agent of the other two parties. Morris v. Brown (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 266.

A law partner held an attorney for his partner and two others with whom he had contracted, by participating in a suit relative to the contract. Id.

9. Notice to attorney.—If the attorney representing the mortgagee in the execution of an instrument claimed to be a mortgage, had notice that the property was homestead property, such notice would be imputed to the mortgagee. Mitchell v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 883.

That plaintiffs' attorney knew of a flaw in the title, and agreed with the vendor not to reveal it, held not to make his act binding upon the plaintiff in a sale of real estate. Fordtran v. Cunningham (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 212.

10. Compromise and settlement.—An attorney cannot bind his client in the settlement of a judgment unless he was specifically authorized so to act. Price v. Logue (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1648.
Title 12)
ATTORNEY AT LAW
Art. 334

An attorney at law has no authority to accept anything but money in payment of a judgment rendered by him for collection without his client's express consent. That the attorney had an interest in the judgment, under an agreement with his client did not make him a joint owner, so as to entitle him to satisfy the judgment on receipt of trust certificates instead of money. Magill v. Rugeley ( Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 628.

13. — Agreements of counsel.—A client is bound by the act of his attorney in signing a stipulation filed in an action in which the attorney is employed. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Beavers ( Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 559; Same v. Brandon ( Civ. App.) Id. 802. If agreements of counsel relating to payment of jury fee in husband's action for divorce and to the passing of the case were in fact made by defendant's counsel, it was immaterial that defendant was without knowledge thereof. McConkey v. McConkey ( Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1190.

14½. — Ratification of unauthorized acts.—An attorney's unauthorized settlement of a judgment, by receiving certain trust certificates, held not ratified where the client, as soon as he learned of the settlement, refused to accept the certificates and placed the collection of the judgment in the hands of other attorneys. Magill v. Rugeley ( Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 628.

The failure of the president of plaintiff bank to immediately repudiate the authority of an attorney who altered a judgment held not a ratification. David v. First Nat. Bank of Claude ( Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 579.

The bank's suit on such judgment held not a ratification of the alteration, where the bank first moved to expunge the alteration and restore the judgment to its original form. Id.

17½. Liability to third persons in general.—Where an attorney contracted to collect notes transferred to his client to secure a judgment in her favor, and divide the proceeds between his client and plaintiffs after deducting his compensation, but failed to pay plaintiff their share of the proceeds, an action by the plaintiffs was properly brought against the attorney and not against his client. Botsford, Dentherage, Young & Cresson v. Hammer ( Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 378.

An attorney dismissing a suit upon buying the interest of the defendant in the suit held to be lawful, subject to the rights of parties to a contract of which he had knowledge and for whom he was acting as attorney. Morris v. Brown ( Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 365.

18. Liability for aiding client to commit a fraud.—Where attorneys wrongfully approved the behalf of a corporation proceeds of a secured note payable to plaintiff's order jointly owned by corporation and plaintiff, attorneys and corporation were joint tortfeasors, and were jointly and severally liable to plaintiff. Beall v. Clack ( Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 774.

19. Compensation.—Where a trust fund is involved in litigation, reasonable attorney's fees to the trustee may be allowed out of the fund. West Texas Bank & Trust Co. v. Matlock ( Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 162.

25. — Reasonable value of services.—An action on a note and mortgage securing it, given by an insane person for services to be performed by the payee, may be defeated by the payment of reasonable compensation for the services. Ferguson v. Flitz ( Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 500.

An attorney employed by an insane person, charged with crime, to defend him, may recover the reasonable value of the services. Id.

28. Compensation dependent on rendition of services.—Where an attorney contracted to prosecute an action on notes, and after deducting his compensation pay the balance to plaintiffs and a judgment creditor of the payee, the refusal of plaintiffs to serve process in the action on the notes held not to authorize the attorney to forfeit the rights of plaintiffs under the contract. Leathers, Young & Cresson v. Hammer ( Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 502.

Ordinarily, expressions of opinions by attorneys as to probability of judgment secured by them being reversed on appeal, even if mistaken, are not such false representations as will entitle the client to avoid for fraud a contract for increased compensation based thereon. Vay v. Shifflett ( Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1389.

A contract between attorney and client for increased compensation, made after the relation of attorney and client has commenced, is presumptively void, where no additional services by the attorney are contemplated. Id.

29. Contingent fees.—Contract by which attorney acquiring an interest in land recovered for clients under a contract for contingent fees conveyed his interest to defendant company holding the legal title for such clients, but for which he was not acting upon agreement for a reconveyance, held not void as varying the original contract to secure greater compensation. Phoenix Land Co. v. Exall ( Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 474.

A contract whereby a client assigned to his attorneys one-half his cause of action against a railroad for injuries sustained by reason of the alleged negligence of the railroad included an interest in the damage to the client's property, his horses and wagon, as well as personal injuries. St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co. v. Thomas ( Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 784.

31. — Creation of interest in litigation.—Under a contract whereby an attorney and his partner were to sue for the recovery of land and to have an interest and part therein of a reasonable contingent fee of less than three-fifths, and the legal title to the land recovered was conveyed to trustees for their clients, the at-
Art. 334  ATTORNEY AT LAW  (Title 12)

attorney became the equitable owner of an interest in the land. Phoenix Land Co. v. Ex-

Claim for extra compensation for services by one of the partners of a law firm

Where the attorney of an injured servant suing for damages was assigned one-half the amount which might be recovered, the transfer being made before the filing of the petition, the attorney's interest was contingent upon collection, and was a mere assignment of funds to be collected. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Cosio (Civ. App.) 182
S. W. 23.

32. Client's right to compromise.—Where the parties to an action, before filing a power of attorney transferring to the attorneys an interest in the suit, had compromised all matters at issue under an agreement requiring a pending appeal to be dis-misseled, appellees, who had no notice of the attorneys' interest when the compromise agreement was made, could require appellants to dismiss the appeal. Marschall v. Smith
(Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1047.

An assignment by a client of one-half interest in his cause of action to his attorneys, by which he deprives himself of the right to compromise and settle so much thereof as is embraced within the assignment, is not contrary to public policy. St. Louis, S. F. &

Where a client assigned one-half interest in a personal injury case against a railroad company to his attorneys, a compromise by the client with the railroad company, which knew of the attorneys' rights, affected only the one-half interest of the client, and the attorneys could prosecute the original action to a conclusion for the one-half interest assigned to them. Id.

Defendant's request that the fact that defendant had compromised with the client could not be considered in determining its liability to the attorneys was properly refused because not including a direction that the amount of the settlement should not be considered in determining the measure of damages. Id.

Where defendant settled with injured person, such person's attorneys, who were to have one-half the sum collected, held entitled to recover from the defendant only one-half the amount paid client and her doctor. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Marshall &

35. Evidence.—In action by plaintiff to recover attorney fees from corporation in which he was stockholder, evidence held to sufficiently support verdict for defendant.
Merchants' Ice Co. v. Scott & Dodson (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 418.

ATTORNEYS—DISTRICT AND COUNTY

DISTRICT ATTORNEYS

Explanatory.—Took effect 90 days after March 20, 1915, date of adjournment. This act, though purporting to give a complete list of the counties in which district attorneys are to be elected, does not include many changes wrought by prior special acts creating new or changing old districts, in which provision is made for a district attorney. All these acts will be found under the various subdivisions of art. 30, ante. See notes under art. 7235, post.

Art. 340a. Salary and fees.—That in any county having a population in excess of 100,000 inhabitants according to the census of the United States of 1910, the district attorney of such county is entitled to receive a salary of $500.00 as provided for in the Constitution of Texas, and all fees, commissions and perquisites earned by such office; provided, that the salary and fees contemplated shall not exceed the sum of six thousand ($6000.00) dollars in one year. [Act March 9, 1917, ch. 64, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 342. District attorney in certain districts shall appoint assistant; qualifications of appointee; bond and oath; powers and duties; tenure.—From and after the passage of this Act the district attorney shall appoint one assistant district attorney in districts in which there is situated a city of twenty-eight thousand population or over according to the United States census of 1910; provided the district attorney shall furnish data to the district judge of his district that he is in need of an assistant and that the district attorney is himself unable to attend to all of the duties required of him by law, and that it is necessary to the best interests of the State that an assistant district attorney be appointed. Every person so appointed shall be a qualified resident attorney of the district in which said appointment is made and shall give bond and take the oath of office required of district attorneys by this State, and shall have the power and authority to perform all the acts and duties of district attorneys under the law of this State, and said appointment shall be for such time as the district attorney shall deem best in the enforcement of the law, not to be less than one month. [Acts 1909, p. 94; Act March 30, 1917, ch. 167, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The act amends chapter 48, Acts regular session 31st Legislature 1909, so as to read as set forth above and in the two following articles. The act of 1909 was carried into the Revised Civil Statutes of 1911 as articles 342, 343, and 344. The new act works a supercession of those articles. Took effect 30 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 343. Salary of assistant.—Said assistant district attorney shall be paid for the time of actual service rendered at the rate of the sum of $2500.00 per annum, by the Comptroller of the State of Texas, and said amounts to be paid in monthly payments, upon certificates of district clerk and district judge of said district, that said assistant district attorney has performed his duties and is entitled to pay. [Acts 1909, p. 94, § 2; Act March 30, 1917, ch. 167, § 2.]

Art. 344. Removal of assistant.—The district attorney of any such district at any time he deems said assistant unnecessary, or that the person appointed is not attending to his duties as required by law, may remove said person from office by merely writing to the district judge of the said district to that effect. [Acts 1909, p. 94, § 3; Act March 30, 1917, ch. 167, § 3.]

Art. 344a. Assistant District Attorney for Sixth Judicial District.—The District Attorney of the Sixth Judicial District of Texas, be and he is hereby authorized to appoint an Assistant District Attorney, whose qualifications shall be the same as now required by law for District Attorney, and who before entering upon the discharge of his duties as such Assistant shall enter into bond in the sum of Five Thousand ($5,000.00) Dollars, conditioned the same as bonds of District Attorneys, and to be approved by the District Judge of said District and shall take the oath of office as required by law and who shall have such authority as the District Attorney of said District. [Act March 28, 1917, ch. 102, § 1.]

Took effect 30 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 344b. Same; salary.—Said Assistant District Attorney shall receive a salary of not exceeding Two Thousand ($2,000.00) Dollars per year to be paid out of excess fees of said office as the same accrues under the law. [Id., § 2.]

CHAPTER TWO COUNTY ATTORNEYS

Article 347. [281] [245a] May appoint assistants.

Designation of office.—Under this article an affidavit taken by one named as "assistant county attorney" cannot be quashed on the ground that he was a deputy and not an assistant. Pierson v. State (Cr. App.) 180 S. W. 1909.

CHAPTER THREE
GENERAL PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO BOTH DISTRICT AND COUNTY ATTORNEYS

Article 356a. Shall give opinion, etc., to county and precinct officers.

Extra compensation.—Under Const. art. 5, § 21, and Rev. St. art. 356a, an order of the commissioners' court employing a county attorney for one year at the salary of $1,000 for services in preparing and issuing road bonds held invalid as an attempt to in-

Art. 363. [297] [257] Shall pay over money collected in thirty days.

Commissions.—Under this article a county attorney is entitled to the commission therein specified for money collected by him in a suit against county tax collector for shortage in his account with state. State v. Bratton (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 814.

Art. 366. [300] [260] Shall institute proceedings against officers, when, etc.

Authority to prosecute action in name of state.—Under this article a county attorney has authority to represent the state and prosecute an action in its name for collection of a shortage in the accounts of county tax collector, regardless of article 4419, giving like authority to Attorney General. State v. Bratton (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 814.
Art. 373  BANKS AND BANKING

BANKS AND BANKING

CHAPTER ONE

BANKS

Art. 373. No certificate of incorporation valid unless, etc.

See art. 1146 and notes.

Sale of stock held as executor.—While a bank ordinarily may not own a railroad, it may sell and dispose of its capital stock held by it as executor. Continental Trust Co. v. Brown (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 939.

Ultra vires acts.—Banks, which with a natural person formed a firm to deal in cotton, were liable to such person for his share of profits, or, if he were an agent, for any compensation due him, though the formation of the firm was ultra vires as to them. Where such natural person procured insurance, in the name of the firm on cotton purchased by it, the banks were liable upon an implied contract for premiums; the insurance contract being distinct from the partnership agreement, and not being in itself ultra vires. Dexter v. First Guaranty State Bank (Civ. App.) 380 S. W. 1172.

Art. 376a. Demand deposits defined.—Demand deposits within the meaning of this Act [Arts. 377, 377a, post] shall comprise all deposits payable within thirty days, and time deposits shall comprise all deposits payable after thirty days, and all savings accounts and certificates of deposit which are subject to not less than thirty days notice before payment. [Act Oct. 19, 1914, 3d C. S. ch. 3, § 2.]

Art. 377. Cash reserve of banks not holding membership in Federal Reserve bank.—Every banking corporation chartered under the laws of this State with a capital stock of less than Twenty-five thousand ($25,000.00) Dollars, and which does not become a member of a Federal Reserve bank under the laws of the United States, shall at all times have an amount of cash on hand and cash due from other banks equal to at least twenty per cent. of the aggregate amount of its demand deposits, eight-twentieths of which shall be actual cash in the bank; and all banks, not located in a Central Reserve City, having a capital stock of Twenty-five thousand ($25,000.00) Dollars or more, and which do not become members of a Federal Reserve bank under the laws of the United States, shall at all times have an amount of cash on hand and cash due from other banks, equal to at least fifteen per cent. of the aggregate amount of its demand deposits, six-fifteenths of which shall be actual cash in the bank. Whenever the reserve of any bank as hereinbefore required shall fall below the amount specified above for its class, then such bank shall not make any new loans or discounts until it shall by collection restore its awful reserve. Twelve-twentieths of the reserve fund, or any part thereof, of a bank with a capital stock of less than $25,000.00, or nine-fifteenths of the reserve fund, or any part thereof, of a bank with a capital stock of $25,000.00 or more, together with the current receipts may be kept on hand or on deposit payable on demand in any bank or banking association of the State of Texas, or any bank, banking association or trust company regularly chartered and operating under the laws of any State or under the laws of the United States, approved by the Commissioner of Insurance and banking, and having a paid up capital stock of Fifty Thousand Dollars or more; but the deposit in any one bank or trust company shall not exceed twenty per cent. of the total deposits, capital and surplus of the bank making the deposit. [Acts 1905, S. S. p. 491; Acts 1907, p. 60, § 7; Act Oct. 19, 1914, 3d C. S. ch. 3, § 3.]

Art. 377a. Cash reserve of banks holding membership in Federal Reserve bank.—All banks and banking corporations chartered by the laws of this State which become members of a Federal Reserve bank under the Federal Reserve Act, shall as to their reserves be governed as follows:

(a) A bank not in a reserve or central reserve city as now or hereafter defined by the laws of the United States or designated by the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States shall hold and maintain reserves equal to twelve per centum of the aggregate amount of its demand deposits and five per centum of its time deposits, as follows:

In its vaults for a period of thirty-six months after the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States has officially announced the establishment of a Federal Reserve bank in the district of which is located the subscribing member bank, five-twelfths thereof and permanently thereafter four-twelfths;

In the Federal Reserve bank of its district for a period of twelve months after said date two-twelfths, and for each succeeding six months an additional one-twelfth until five-twelfths have been so deposited, which shall be the amount permanently required;

For a period of thirty-six months after said date the balance of the reserve may be held in its own vaults or in the Federal Reserve bank, or in National banks in reserve or central reserve cities as now defined by the laws of the United States.

After said thirty-six months period said reserve other than those hereinafter required to be held in the vaults of the member bank and in the Federal Reserve bank, shall be held in the vaults of the member bank or in the Federal Reserve bank, or in both, shall be held in the vaults of the member bank or in the Federal Reserve bank, or in both, at the option of the member bank.

(b) A bank in a reserve city, as now or hereafter defined by the laws of the United States or designated by the Comptroller of the Currency, shall hold and maintain reserves equal to fifteen per centum of the aggregate amount of its demand deposits, and five per centum of its time deposits, as follows:

In its vaults for a period of thirty-six months after the date of the establishment of the Federal Reserve bank of which any bank chartered under the laws of this State may become a member, six-fifteenths thereof and permanently thereafter five-fifteenths;

In the Federal Reserve bank of its district for a period of twelve months after the date aforesaid at least three-fifteenths and for each succeeding six months an additional one-fifteenth until six-fifteenths have been so deposited, which shall be the amount permanently required;

For a period of thirty-six months after said date the balance of the reserve may be held in its own vaults, or in the Federal Reserve bank, or in National banks in reserve or central reserve cities as now defined by law;

After said thirty-six months period all of said reserves, except those hereinafter required to be held permanently in the vaults of the member bank and in the Federal Reserve bank, shall be held in its vaults or in the Federal Reserve bank, or in both, at the option of the member bank.

(c) Provided, however, that notwithstanding the limitations in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this Section, State banks becoming members of a Federal Reserve bank shall have all the rights permitted them under the Federal Reserve Act, as to reserve deposits with State banks and trust companies; provided, further that State banks becoming members of a Federal Reserve bank shall have authority to conform to the Federal Reserve Law now, or as hereafter enacted, and all rules and regulations promulgated relative thereto by lawful authority; and shall likewise be subject to all limitations of law and of such rules and regulations now or hereafter enacted or promulgated.

(d) The kind and character of money which may be held as reserve by banking corporations incorporated under the laws of this State which become members of a Federal Reserve bank, shall be the same as that required of National banks under the laws of the United States. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 378. Duties of directors.

Issuance of notes.—Where 7 of 15 directors of bank authorized conveyance of land to another who advanced money to discharge indebtedness of bank's former president, subsequent president, who was liquidating officer, could not under this article, lender demanding payment, bind bank by a note given to obtain funds to make payment. Rodgers v. Central Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 620.

Where the assets of a bank are being liquidated, the liquidating officer, though its president, is not entitled to execute notes of the bank to take up former indebtedness. Id.

CHAPTER FOUR
SAVINGS DEPARTMENTS

Article 435. Amount of deposits to be kept on hand.—There shall be kept on hand at all times not less than fifteen per cent of the whole amount of such deposits in such savings department; one third of which shall be kept in actual cash in such savings department and two-thirds of which may be kept with reserve agents designated and approved for such purpose by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking. [Acts 1909, 2 S. S. p. 406, § 13; Act April 9, 1917, ch. 205, § 7a.]

Explanatory.—The act amends art. 435 of ch. 4, tit. 14, Rev. St. 1911. Section 8 repeals all laws in conflict. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

CHAPTER FIVE
BANK DEPOSIT GUARANTY LAW

Art. 459. May enforce liability of stockholders if, etc.

Art. 463. Notices to claimants and creditors.

Article 459. May enforce liability of stockholders; if, etc.

Showing of necessity for enforcement of liability.—In view of the national Banking Act, § 50, this article authorizes the commissioner of banking to enforce the individual liability of stockholders in insolvent state banks whenever, in his judgment, such proceeding is necessary, and he need not make a preliminary showing to the court of such necessity. Collier v. Smith (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1108.

Liability of bank stockholder under Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, arts. 459, 552, is not secondary, limited to payment of debts and liabilities of bank at time it became insolvent, but primary, so it is unnecessary for commissioner of banks to allege and prove amount of insolvent bank's indebtedness. Stringfellow v. Patterson (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 555.
Art. 463. Notice to claimants and creditors.—The Commissioner shall cause notice to be given, by advertisement in such newspapers as he may direct, weekly, for three consecutive months, calling on all persons who may have claims against such state bank to present the same to the Commissioner and make legal proof thereof, at a place designated in such notice within ninety days after the date of the first insertion of such published notice, which notice shall also contain a statement in larger type than that in which the body of such notice is printed, specifically stating that all such claims of guaranteed depositors must be presented and legal proof thereof made at the place designated within ninety days after the date of the first insertion of such published notice, and that no claim of guaranteed depositors presented after expiration of ninety days from such date, shall be entitled to payment of any portion thereof out of the Depositors’ Guaranty Fund. The Commissioner shall mail a similar notice to all persons whose names appear as creditors upon the books of the State bank. [Acts 1909, 2 S. S. p. 406, § 9; Act April 9, 1917, ch. 205, § 4.]

Explanatory.—The act amends art. 463, Rev. Civ. St. 1911. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

CHAPTER SIX

518. Commissioner of insurance and banking; bond; seal; not to be interested, etc.; salary.
521a. Salaries of bank examiners; traveling expenses and account thereof; classification of examiners; designation of examiner as general liquidating agent; salary, assessment against banks in liquidation.
522. Commissioner to examine banks quarterly, etc.
522a. Examination of members of Federal Reserve bank.
523. Duties of commissioner in cases of certain derelictions, etc., of banks, etc.; duties of attorney general.

Art. 523a. Insolvency of member of Federal Reserve bank; disposition of stock in Federal Reserve bank.
530. Directors may appoint and remove officers, etc., authority of officers, etc.; acts without authority void.
539. Loans limited.
552. Stockholders’ liability for debts of bank, etc., defined.
562. Who may accept provisions of this title, and how.
569a. Conformity by members of Federal Reserve bank with requirements imposed on National banks.
570. Restrictions upon pledge of securities of bank; members of Federal Reserve bank; notice to commissioner.
570a. Limitation of indebtedness.
570b. Obligations incurred in financing movement of crops.
574. Bonds of officers and employes of banks; form; filing with and approval by commissioner; directors may require other bonds.

Article 517e. Membership in Federal Reserve Banks.—All banks or bank and trust companies incorporated under the laws of Texas shall have authority to become members of Federal Reserve Banks under such terms and limitations as may be prescribed by the laws of the United States and such rules and regulations relative thereto as may be promulgated by lawful authority. [Act Oct. 19, 1914, 3d C. S. ch. 3, § 1.]

Other provisions of this act are set forth ante, arts. 376-377a, and post, arts. 517f, 522a, 623a, 539, 569a-570b.

Art. 517f. Conformity to Federal Reserve Act and regulations thereunder.—Any bank incorporated under the laws of this State which becomes a member of a Federal Reserve bank shall have authority to conform to the Federal Reserve Act as the same now exists, or as it may hereafter be amended, and such rules and regulations as the Federal Reserve Board may prescribe in order to entitle it to membership in a Federal Reserve bank. [Id., § 11.]
Art. 517g. Amendments to charter may be filed with commissioner of insurance and banking; fees.—All amendments to charters of banks and banking and trust companies heretofore or hereafter incorporated under the General Banking Laws of the State of Texas shall be filed in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and it shall not be necessary for the same to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State. When amendments are tendered the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking for filing he shall charge for filing of same and issuing a certified copy thereof the same fees as are now charged therefor by the Secretary of State. [Act April 9, 1917, ch. 205, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 517h. Oath of directors; increase or decrease of number of directors; hypothecation of qualifying shares held by director shall vacate office.—In addition to the method of qualifying as director of a state bank or banking and trust company as heretofore required by law, each person so elected director shall hereafter make oath that he will diligently and honestly administer the affairs of such corporation and will not knowingly violate or willingly permit to be violated any of the provisions of the Banking Laws of this State and that he is the owner in good faith and in his own right of the number of shares of stock required by law to be owned by directors of said banking corporations, and that same is not hypothecated or pledged for debt, such oath subscribed by the director making it and certified by the officer before whom it is taken shall be filed permanently in the minutes of the corporation. Provided, however, that it shall not be necessary to amend the charter of any such banking corporation when it is desired to increase or decrease the number of directors, but that the stockholders shall have the right at any regular annual election of directors to elect such number as they may see fit, not less than five nor more than twenty-five, and such number so elected shall be the full number of directors for the ensuing year for which they are elected; provided, however, that when the number of directors is changed under this section a certified copy of the resolution changing the number shall be forwarded at once to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to be filed by him in the charter file of the corporation, but no charge shall be made by the Commissioner therefor; provided, further, that no director of any such bank shall, while he is such director, hypothecate or pledge that number of his shares of stock required by law in order to be a director; and the pledging or hypothecation of such stock shall automatically vacate his position as a director. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 518. Commissioner of insurance and banking; bond; seal; not to be interested, etc.; salary.

Note.—By Act June 5, 1917, 1st C. S. ch. 48, § 2, post. art. 705b, the additional compensation of the commissioner for his banking duties is fixed at $1,000.

Art. 521a. Salaries of bank examiners; traveling expenses and account thereof; classification of examiners; designation of examiner as general liquidating agent; salary, assessment against banks in liquidation.—The salary and full compensation for State Bank Examiners appointed by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall hereafter be as follows: for the first year of service, the sum of Two Thousand Dollars; for the second year of service, the sum of Two Thousand Two Hundred Dollars; for the third year of service the sum of Two Thousand Four Hundred Dollars; for the fourth year of service, the sum of Two Thousand Six Hundred Dollars; for the fifth year of service, the sum of Two Thousand Eight Hundred Dollars; and for the sixth year of service the sum of Three Hunsand Dollars, which salary shall not be increased; and in addition to the salary above specified, they shall receive all necessary traveling expenses. An itemized account of such expenses shall be rendered monthly under oath by each Examiner and shall be approved by the Commissioner. Provided, however, that the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall classify the Examiners on his force when this Act goes into effect in accordance with the year of service they have heretofore served in such offices, and shall count such years of service in determining the salaries which shall be paid such Examiners after this Act becomes effective. It is further, provided in this connection that the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking may designate any one of his Bank Examiners as a General Liquidating Agent for the purpose of liquidating any one or all state banks in process of liquidation, with his office in the Banking Department at Austin, Texas, and conducting the liquidation for and under the direction of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking; and for such service such Bank Examiner acting as General Liquidating Agent for the Commissioner shall in addition to the salaries above provided for receive Five Hundred Dollars per annum for his services as General Liquidating Agent of the Department, provided that such Liquidating Agent shall never receive a total salary in excess of Three Thousand Dollars per annum. It is further provided that the entire salary of the General Liquidating Agent herein referred to may be assessed proportionately by the Commissioner against any bank or banks in liquidation and be collected and paid into the State Treasury, as fees for examinations are collected and paid into the Treasury; provided, however, that the amount which may be assessed against any one bank shall not exceed proportionately for the time the compensation herein fixed as the salary of a Bank Examiner for his first year's service. [Id., § 5.]

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 522. Commissioner to examine banks quarterly, etc.
The provision as to the times at which examinations are to be made is modified by art. 522a.

Art. 522a. Examination of members of Federal Reserve bank.—It shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, at least once in each quarter of each calendar year, to cause each banking corporation incorporated under the laws of this State, to be thoroughly and fully examined; provided, however, that as to such banking corporations as shall become members of a Federal Reserve bank, should the Federal Reserve Board or the Comptroller of the Currency insist upon making examination of such banking corporations by National bank examiners, then the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall be required to make or cause to be made but two regular examinations of such banking corporations during any one year; provided, further, that the Commissioner shall have the power to make special examinations of any State banking corporation at any time in his discretion.

The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, or any State bank examiner, at his direction, shall be authorized at any time to forward to the Comptroller of the Currency, or the Federal Reserve Board, copies, or certified copies, of a State bank examiner's report of any regular or special examination made of any banking corporation which has or shall become a member of a Federal Reserve bank.

The provisions of this section shall be cumulative of any other laws now upon the statute books of this State in respect to this subject. [Act Oct. 19, 1914, 3d C. S., ch. 3, § 9.]

Art. 523. Duties of commissioner in cases of certain derelictions, etc., of banks, etc.; duties of attorney general.

Issuance of notes.—See art. 378, ante.

Action by bank in hands of special agent.—Under authority of the commissioner of banking, an action to realize on assets may be maintained in the name of a bank in the hands of a special agent appointed by such commissioner to wind up its affairs. Such action will not abate on change of commissioner. McWhirter v. First State Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 682.

Art. 523a. Insolvency of member of Federal Reserve bank; disposition of stock in Federal Reserve bank.—If any State bank which is a member of a Federal Reserve bank shall be declared insolvent and a receiver appointed therefor or other agency for the liquidation of its affairs and the payment of its debts, the stock held by it in the said Federal Reserve bank may be cancelled without impairment of its liability and all cash paid subscriptions on said stock with one-half of one per cent per month from the period of last dividend, not to exceed the book value thereof; may be first applied to all the debts of said insolvent member bank to the Federal Reserve bank, and the balance, if any, paid to the receiver of the insolvent bank or other agency for its liquidation as provided for in Section six (6) of the Federal Reserve Act. [Id., § 7.]

Art. 530. Directors may appoint and remove officers, etc.; authority of officers, etc.; acts without authority void.

See notes following art. 574, post.

Sale or indorsement of notes.—The provision of this article forbidding sale or indorsement of a note by any bank officer unless authorized so to do by the board of directors refers only to a sale of notes received for money loaned. Washington County State Bank v. Central Bank & Trust Co. of Houston (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 496.

A bank which accepts and cashes a draft given in payment of a note bought from the president and cashier of the bank, purporting to act for it, is liable for fraud of the officers inducing the sale, though they acted without the authority required by this article. Id. See, also, notes at end of this chapter.

The cashier of a national bank has power to transfer notes and bills receivable, payable to the bank, without special authority from the directors. Memphis Cotton Oil Co. v. Gist (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1098.

Art. 539. Loans limited.—No incorporated bank or trust company chartered under the laws of this State shall loan its money, directly or indirectly, or permit any individual, corporation, company or firm to become at any time indebted or liable to it in a sum exceeding twenty-five per cent. of its capital stock actually paid in and surplus, or permit a line of loans or credits to any greater amount to any individual, corporation, company or firm, and * * * all loans to members of any unincorporated company or firm shall be considered as if they were loans to such company or firm in determining the limitation here prescribed; and the discount of commercial or business paper actually owned by the person negotiating the same shall not be considered as borrowed money; a permanent surplus, the setting apart of which shall have been certified to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and which cannot be diverted without due notice to and consent of said officer, may be taken and considered as a part of the capital stock for the purpose of this section, provided, however, that in no event shall any such loan exceed 25 per cent. of the authorized capital stock and certified surplus; provided, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed as in anywise to interfere with the rules and regulations of any clearing house association in this State in reference to the daily balances between banks; provided that this section shall not apply to balances due from correspondents subject to draft; and provided, further, that the discount of the following classes of paper shall not be considered as money borrowed within the meaning of this section, viz.:

(a) The discount of bills of exchange, drawn in good faith, against actual existing values.

(b) The discount of paper upon the collateral security of warehouse receipts, covering agricultural and manufactured products in store in elevators and warehouses; under the following conditions; first, that the actual market value of the property held in store and covered by such receipts shall at all times, exceed by at least twenty-five per cent, the amount loaned upon the same; second, that the full amount of such loans shall at all times be covered by policies of fire insurance issued by companies lawfully doing business in this State, to the extent of their ability to cover such loans; and all such policies shall be made payable in case of loss to the bank or holder of the warehouse receipts.

Any state banking corporation may accept drafts or bills of exchange drawn upon it and growing out of transactions involving the im-
Art. 552. Stockholder's liability for debts of bank, etc., defined.

Assessment against stockholders.—Liability of bank stockholder imposed by Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 552, is legal in character, not merely equitable, so that commissioner of banking can maintain suit thereon against one stockholder without bringing all others before court. Assessment at 100 per cent. created a debt, certain in amount, which was primary and not secondary obligation; so it is unnecessary for commissioner of banks to allege and prove amount of insolvent bank's indebtedness. Stringfellow v. Patterson (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 556.

Effect of agreement as to mode of payment of subscription.—Where, after a bank has become insolvent and is being wound up, one is sued on his subscription to its stock, the fact that his subscription was on agreement that it should be paid from dividends is not available as a defense. McWhirter v. First State Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 652.

Subscription obtained by fraud.—The right of a subscriber to stock of a bank, induced by fraud of its agent, held, after insolvency, subordinate to subsequent depositors or creditors without knowledge of such fraud. Davis v. Burns (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 478.

Art. 562. Who may accept provisions of this title, and how.

Obligation of contracts—Impairment.—Evidence held to support a finding that a special act, approved May 23, 1871 (8p. Acts, 12th Leg. c. 564), providing for incorporation of a banking association, was not accepted so as to become a contract not subject to impairment, prior to April 18, 1876, the date of the provision of the Constitution prohibiting the formation of such corporations. Davis v. Allison (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 968.

Art. 569a. Conformity by members of Federal Reserve bank with requirements imposed on National banks.—A State bank becoming a member of a Federal Reserve bank shall in addition be required to conform to the provisions of law imposed upon National banks respecting the limitations of liability which may be incurred by any person, firm or corporation to such banks, the prohibition against making purchases of or loans on stock of such bank, and the withdrawal or impairment of capital, the payment of unearned dividends and of such rules and regulations as the Federal Reserve Board may, in pursuance of the Federal Reserve Act prescribe. [Act Oct. 19, 1914, 3d C. S., ch. 3, § 5.]

Art. 570. Restrictions on pledge of securities of bank; members of Federal Reserve bank; notice to Commissioner.—It shall be unlawful for any bank to hypothecate or pledge as collateral security for money borrowed upon bills payable, certificates of deposit or otherwise, its securities to an amount greater than fifty per centum in excess of the amount borrowed thereon, or for any banking corporation to issue and execute any notes, bills or other evidences of indebtedness secured, or to be secured, by the pledge or hypothecation of any of its securities, which shall not contain a provision that in the event such banking corporation shall, for any cause, have its property and business taken possession of by the Commissioner at any time, before such pledge or hypothecation shall have been actually foreclosed, a grace of thirty days after date of such taking possession shall be allowed in which such bank or the Commissioner shall be permitted to redeem such securities so hypothecated or pledged by the payment of the amount due as principal and interest on such indebtedness; provided, however, that banking corporations, incorporated under the laws of this State, upon becoming members of a Federal Reserve bank shall not be required to insert the thirty days grace clause in their notes, bills or certificates of deposit made to a Federal Reserve bank, should a Federal Reserve bank decline to permit the insertion of such thirty days grace clause in a note, bill or certificate of deposit accepted by it from such member bank; and provided, further, that collateral to a greater extent than 50 per centum in excess of the amount borrowed thereon may be hypothecated or pledged to secure money borrowed from a Federal Reserve bank, should it so require.

Should the securities of any State banking corporation be hypothecated or pledged to an amount in excess of fifty per centum greater than the amount borrowed thereon, it shall be the duty of the officers of such bank to immediately notify the Commissioner giving amount of money borrowed, and amount of securities hypothecated or pledged to secure same.

A State bank becoming a member of a Federal Reserve bank shall have the right to discount to a Federal Reserve bank, notes, drafts, and bills of exchange arising out of actual commercial transactions and to endorse the same with a waiver of demand, notice and protest and to do any other thing necessary under the Federal Reserve Act or rules and regulations relative thereto promulgated by lawful authority, in order to obtain all the benefits and privileges of membership in a Federal Reserve bank.

The lien and rights obtained by a Federal Reserve bank upon the discount to it of any such notes, drafts and bills of exchange shall be a first and preference lien thereon. [Acts 1909, 2 S. S., p. 423, § 37; Act Oct. 19, 1914, 3d C. S., ch. 3, § 6.]

Art. 570a. Limitation of indebtedness.—No banking corporation incorporated under the laws of this State shall at any time be indebted or in any way liable to an amount exceeding the amount of its capital stock at such time actually paid in and remaining undiminished by losses or otherwise, except on account of demands of the nature following:

(a) Moneys deposited with or collected by it.
(b) Bills of exchange or drafts drawn against money actually on deposit to the credit of the corporation or due thereto.
(c) Liabilities to the stockholders of the association for dividends and reserve profits.
(d) Liabilities incurred under the provisions of the Federal Reserve Act.
(e) This section shall not apply to any guaranty executed by any trust company whose demand deposits are not in excess of its interest-bearing deposits, provided such trust company is not a member of a Federal Reserve bank.
(f) Provided further that upon a permit obtained in writing from the Commissioner of Banking any bank may borrow a sum not in excess of its unimpaired surplus in addition to its capital stock. [Id., § 10.]

Art. 570b. Obligations incurred in financing movement of crops.—Provided further, however, that State banks may, with the permission and under the direction and control of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, borrow or make discounts individually or collectively, or enter into any agreement or association for the purpose of obtaining funds to finance the movement of agricultural and farm products only; and when so doing, paper endorsed by them for such purpose shall not be considered as within limitation prescribed in this Act as to the amount of indebtedness which a State bank may incur. [Id., § 10a.]

Art. 574. Bonds of officers and employees of banks; form; filing with and approval by commissioner; directors may require other bonds.—All officers and employees of banks incorporated under the Banking Laws of this State who are active in the discharge of their duties or who draw salaries for their services and whose duties permit or require the handling of any of the funds of the bank shall, before entering upon the discharge of their duties, give a good and sufficient bond in such sum as may be fixed by the board of directors of any such bank the solvency and amount of such bond shall be subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, conditioned for the faithful performance of their duties and such pecuniary loss as the bank may sustain for money or other valuable securities embezzled, wrongfully abstricted or willfully misapplied by any such officer or employee in the course of his employment as such or in the course of his employment in any other position in such bank, whether he be assigned, appointed, elected, re-elected or temporarily assigned to said position. All such bonds shall be upon forms prepared by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and may be made in some incorporated surety company lawfully transacting business in the State of Texas. All such bonds shall immediately after their execution be forwarded to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and be filed by him as an archive of his office and a certified copy thereof shall be returned to the board of directors of such bank and be kept in their custody; provided, however, that the board of directors may require any other bond or bonds in addition to that herein required, at their discretion; provided, that only officers of banks who handle bank's money or draw a salary shall be required to give bond. [Acts 1909, 2 S. S., p. 423, § 35; Act April 9, 1917, ch. 205, § 6.]

Explanatory.—The act amends art. 574, Rev. Civ. St. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

DECISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT IN GENERAL

Deposits in general.—Evidence, in an action against a bank to recover the amount of a deposit, held sufficient to sustain a finding that its officers knew or should have known the purpose for which the amount collected on plaintiff's draft was received by the bank. First State Bank of Seminole v. Shannon (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 398.

Where a credit with, or brought in, a foreign court to compel specific performance of a contract by plaintiff to purchase certain land, a judgment against plaintiff did not authorize a bank in which part of the price was deposited, and which was not a party, to pay over the money to the vendor. Banco Minero v. Ross, 172 S. W. 711, 166 Tex. 622, 2 S. W. 2d 272.

In action against trust company to collect balance of alleged deposit, evidence held to show that there was sale of stock to trust company for consideration paid by deposit certificate. Alamo Trust Co. v. Prudential Life Ins. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 787.

In action by wife against bank for funds paid it for husband for community property, writing "Payment stopped by injunction" across check given husband, held to afford bank adequate protection against double payment, rendering proper the refusal to require husband's executors to surrender it for cancelation. Baker v. Galbraith (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 345.

In bank's suit on note evidence held insufficient to sustain finding that note was ever received on deposit by bank. Guaranty State Bank v. Bland (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 346.

Relation between bank and depositor.—Money, when deposited in a bank, becomes the property of the bank. First State Bank of Seminole v. Shannon (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 398.

A general or special deposit in a bank held to create the relation of debtor and creditor, arising upon an implied contract between the parties. Id.

Where a check is deposited in a bank to the credit of the payee's general account, the bank becomes the owner thereof and may sue the maker, on payment being refused on a mere claim of fraud, though the depositor had ample funds on deposit to cover the amount of the check. Jordan v. Lamp (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 726.

An agreement by a bank to permit a depositor to make an overdraft on the bank was equivalent to a loan to the depositor, so as to place the depositor in the position of having a credit with the bank. Sagerton Hardware & Furniture Co. v. Gamer Co. (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 428.

Ordinarily, where one person deposits money in bank to another's credit, bank is debtor of designated principal, and not of depositor. Cozart v. Western Nat. Bank of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 844.

Trust funds.—Proceeds of notes deposited in bank for collection were held in trust by the bank for the depositor, and it had no authority to use them except as directed. First State Bank & Trust Co. of Hereford v. Vardeman (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 695.

Application of deposits to debts due bank.—A bank which by arrangement with plaintiff vendee credited plaintiff's payments for lumber shipped by such vendee through the bank, held not entitled to charge back such credits upon failure to realize the sale price of the lumber. People's State Bank v. Debis (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 671.

When customer makes special deposit in bank of funds to discharge liabilities which may be presented for payment, it cannot be used for any other purpose, and cannot be used to pay note due bank unless so intended at the time of deposit. Cotulla State Bank v. Herron (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 154.

A bank cannot set off a depositor's unmatured note to it against his deposit merely because he is a nonresident; there being no proof of his insolvency. Stockyards Nat. Bank v. Presnall (Sup.) 194 S. W. 334.

Payment of check or draft.—A bank, which knew that the authority of an agent was limited to the name of his principal in the r. c. checks in the r. c. bank, was liable for paying checks drawn by the agent for cotton futures with knowledge of the facts or with knowledge of such facts as would put it on notice. W. R. Miller & Co. v. Holody (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 96.

A bank, knowing that the agent had authority only to draw checks in the name of his principal for spot cotton, honored checks drawn by the agent payable to the man-bank held a mortgage, other than his so doing, the bank must have authorized or approved his act. Lester v. Hawkins (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 481.

Where a clerk temporarily alone in the bank accepted by telephone a check on a specific fund and promised to pay the check when presented, the bank held liable to the payee. Colorado State Bank v. Herron (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 154.

A delivery of a deed of trust to the vice president of a bank held a delivery to the bank, notwithstanding the vice president’s agreement that he would retain the instrument in his custody, and that it should only be used to satisfy the directors who had demanded security. Rushing v. Citizens’ Nat. Bank of Plainview (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 460.

Individual interest.—Where officers of defendant bank knew the purpose of plaintiffs’ draft for $6,000 to be the purchase of the bank’s stock and indorsed it, collected it, and let it remain on deposit in the name of its president as trustee, the knowledge of such officer was the knowledge of the bank; and the fact that the president afterwards misappropriated it did not relieve it from liability to plaintiff. First State Bank of Seminole v. Shannon (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 398.

Where a bank having wrongfully sold certain pledged collaterals to its president later claimed that his holding thereof inured to the benefit of the bank, it was chargeable with his assertions of ownership inconsistent with the rights of the pledgor. King v. Boerne State Bank (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 432.

The fact that one partner was president of the bank in which the firm deposits were kept does not impair to the bank knowledge of an agreement between the partners as to the manner in which the funds were to be deposited and checked out, where the agreement was not communicated to any other officer of the bank. The bank was not liable to the partnership for deposits made by the president in his own name, contrary to the agreement between the partners, where it does not appear that the firm thereby suffered any loss. Nor was the bank liable to the firm, or the other partner for money drawn by the president from the firm’s account, or for funds belonging to the partnership which the president received for deposit, but failed to deposit. Amarillo Nat. Bank v. Harrell (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 588.

Where a buyer of a note from the president and cashier of a bank, acting for it drew a check payable to the order of the bank for the price, and the check was cashed and collected, through a clearing house, the bank was liable for fraud of the officers inducing the sale, though none of the officers stole the proceeds of the check. Washington County State Bank v. Central Bank & Trust Co. of Houston (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 496.

Knowledge of the president of a bank that a note given by defendant was a mere accommodation note for the president’s own debt due the bank is not imputable to the bank so as to operate as a defense. Hawkins v. First Nat. Bank of Canyon, Texas (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 163.

Agreement by president of bank holding mortgage on sheep of a partnership of which he was a member with his partner that in return for such partner’s application of the proceeds of a sale of part of the sheep to payment of a firm note due the seller, holding a prior mortgage, the partner could withdraw the same number of sheep and hold them for himself, the bank releasing its mortgage, was not within the authority of such president. Lester v. Hawkins (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 481.

Estoppel.—Rule that a corporation, by accepting the benefit of the acts of its agent, also adopts the means by which he procures such benefit, held not to apply to make a bank liable for false representations by its president in selling certain stock. Cowboy State Bank & Trust Co. v. Guinn (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1163.

How fixed by suit in justice's court.

Art. 581. Drawer of bill liable on non-acceptance.

Drawer of bill liable on non-acceptance.

Art. 582. Assignee of negotiable instrument may sue in his own name.

Assignee of negotiable instrument may sue in his own name.

Art. 583. Non-negotiable instrument may be assigned.

Assignee of non-negotiable instrument may be assigned.

Art. 584. Assignee of non-negotiable instrument may sue in his own name.

Assignor liable to assignee.

Art. 585. Assignor, indorser, etc., may be sued, alone, when.

Assignor liable to assignee.

Article 579. [304] [262] LIABILITY OF DRAWER, ETC., HOW FIXED BY SUIT IN DISTRICT OR COUNTY COURT.

Necessity to fix liability.—An indorser's liability is conditioned upon default of the maker, and upon the holder fixing such liability by suit against the maker before the first term of court, under this article, or by protest according to article 580, so that a petition in insolvency was insufficient for not showing that his liability had been so fixed. Dunn v. Townsend (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 312.

An indorser's liability may be fixed by protest or by bringing suit at the first term of court to which the suit can be brought after it becomes due, or by suit at the second term of court after it becomes due, and showing why suit was not instituted at the first term; and, if not so fixed, he is released. Barger v. Brubaker (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1025.

An indorser is ordinarily only secondarily liable, and only in a case where the indorsement was made at execution and delivery of the Instrument is he primarily liable so as to dispense with the necessity of fixing his liability by compliance with the statute regulating the bringing of such suits at a given term. McCamant v. McCamant (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1096.

The holder of a check may, without protest for nonpayment, sue the drawer and indorser; action being begun before the next term of court. Morris v. First State Bank of Dallas (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1074.

Insolvency or nonresidence of maker.—The statutory requirement as to suit at next term of court after accrual of cause of action to fix liability of indorser is a substitute for protest under the law merchant, and does not apply where protest is not required, as where the maker is insolvent or a nonresident. Toole v. First Nat. Bank of Hemphill (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 423.

To what instruments and persons applicable.—A petition in an action on a county warrant drawn by the county and indorsers held to state a cause of action against the indorsers, who are liable as original obligors, and are not within arts. 579, 583, 584. Toole v. First Nat. Bank of Hemphill (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 423.

Failure to sue a blank indorser of notes in controversy at the first or second term of court relieved him from liability. In the absence of any allegation of a justification therefor. Jines v. Astle (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1081.

Instruments indorsed and transferred after maturity must be presented within reasonable time to charge an indorser; the holder not being strictly bound by this article. Barger v. Brubaker (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1025.

Time of bringing suit.—Under this article there was no cause of action against the indorser of a note where suit thereon was not filed before the first term to which suit could be brought after right of action accrued, or before the second term of such court. McCamant v. McCamant (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1098.

— Excuse for delay.—To bind an indorser where suit has not been brought within the time required by law, matters of excuse must be alleged and proven. McCamant v. McCamant (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1098.

Waiver of requirement.—Under the article suit need not be brought at either the first or second term of court in order to fix the liability of indorsers on a note which in terms waives presentment for payment and protest. Newton County Bank v. Montgomery (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 803.

A stipulation in a note held a waiver of the statute, declaring that a failure of the payee to sue the principal pursuant to the indorser's request will discharge the indorser. Naylor v. Anderson (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 629.

Where the indorser by unequivocal words or acts misleads the holder, and induces him to dispense with notice, suit, etc., required by law to fix liability of an indorser, he may be regarded as having waived his right under the law to have the note protested, suit brought, etc. Barger v. Brubaker (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1025.

A holder may give the maker or indorser to give him, to the note, without further time, waived the bringing of any suit to fix his liability as indorser until after he notified indorsee that he denied liability as indorser. Id.
Art. 580. [305] [263] How fixed by suit in justice's court.

Suit as substitute for protest.—The holder of a check may, without protest for non-payment, sue the drawer and indorser; action being begun before the next term of court. Morris v. First State Bank of Dallas (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1074.
Nature of obligation of drawer of draft.—The drawer of a draft undertakes in legal effect to pay the payee to the order of the drawer, upon notice of dishonor or duly given, if not accepted and paid by the drawee. Harper v. Winfield State Bank (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 627.

Art. 582. [307] [265] Assignee may sue in his own name.
5. Right of action by assignee.—Where the maker of a note directed the bank holding it for collection to apply his deposit to the payment thereof, the holder as assignee could sue therefor in his own name. Slaughter v. Bank of Texline (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 27.
Under this article verbal assignment of a note entitled assignee to sue thereon.
The legal and equitable owner and holder of a note by indorsement and assignment from the assignee of the original payee, for valuable consideration, could sue the makers, though he purchased for spite. Finley v. Wakefield (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 755.
11. Negotiability.—Time of payment.—A note payable to the order of B. and A., "if after date," could not be revoked by the maker on the ground that it was a testamentary gift, if delivered and transferred within a reasonable time to a bona fide holder before demand. Maria v. Adams (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 475.
A note was not rendered negotiable by the fact that the amount thereof was payable in installments. Harrison v. Hunter (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 1036.
A note payable in installments was not rendered non-negotiable by a provision matur­ing all of the installments at the holder's option upon default for 30 days in the payment of any installment. Id.
15. Special provisions.—A note payable in installments was not rendered non-negotiable by the discount of 6 per cent., if the full amount thereof should be paid at maturity of the first installment. Harrison v. Hunter (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 1036.
That a note recited it was payment on a named contract did not destroy its negotiability. Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Vanderpool (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 895.
Purchaser of vendor's lien note, in possession of facts which would have led him to knowledge that the holder had agreed with the makers for an extension of time for payment of an installment of interest, stood in the holder's shoes as to his right to precipitate maturity of the whole debt for failure to pay the installment when due. Cofer v. Beverly (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 605.
17. Bona fide purchasers in general.—Where S., having contracted to sell land to defendants, sold the land to plaintiff, who reconveyed the same to S. to enable him to fulfill his contract on the transfer of the purchase-money notes to plaintiff, plaintiff was not a bona fide purchaser of the notes. Ruth v. Cobe (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 530.
Neither an equitable assignee of notes, nor those claiming under him, could claim as innocent purchasers, where the assignee never had possession of the notes. Green v. Eddins (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 186.
18. A note given for commissions on a sale of corporate stock is not void ab initio, and hence is within the doctrine of bona fide purchaser. Scheffel v. Smith (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1131.
A "holder in due course" is one who has taken an instrument complete and regular on its face, and has become the owner of it before it was overdue. McCamant v. McCamant (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1096.
An innocent or bona fide holder for value of negotiable paper is one who has taken it in good faith for a valuable consideration in the ordinary course of business, and when it was not overdue. Id.
19. Taking as collateral security in general.—A person who took as collateral security for a loan a note tainted with fraud in its inception, without notice of the fraud, was entitled to protection as a bona fide purchaser to the extent of the loan, with interest. Pope v. Beauchamp (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 887.
A party receiving as collateral security a vendor's lien note from the maker, the vendee, bearing the indorsement of the vendor, the payee, was not a purchaser in due course. Cobe v. Cooley (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1058.
An innocent holder of a note as collateral, to which there is a valid defense against the payee, is protected only to the amount of the debt for which it is held as collateral. Iowa City State Bank v. Friar (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 361.
Bona fide notes which are indorsed as collateral security for valuable consideration without notice is holder for value. Yantis v. Jones (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 572.
20. Taking as security for or in payment of pre-existing debt.—Credit of notes of a third person assigned to plaintiff on a pre-existing debt of the payee to the extent of the sum sufficient to discharge the note in full, may be held to be collateral to the note to make plaintiff a bona fide purchaser for value. Malone v. National Bank of Commerce of Kansas City, Mo. (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 369.
Though plaintiff received a note in payment of a debt which he had lost all hope of collecting, derivation for the note, so that he took it free from defenses, such as want of consideration, which could have been asserted against the payee. Daniel v. Spaeth (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 509.
Valid antecedent debt is valuable consideration for transfer of note as collateral security. Yantis v. Jones (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 572.
21. Taking after maturity.—Where notes upon their face are parts of the same transaction, and the first was overdue when transferred, the transferee is charged

Where the holders of notes agreed with the makers to accept land in lieu of payment, there was a complete novation, and a purchaser of the notes after maturity, with knowledge of the novation, is bound thereby, and cannot enforce payment according to the tenor of the instruments. Cooney v. Dandridge (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 175.

A notice, which shows on its face that payment had been refused, takes it subject to the equities between the parties, and, if the debt evidenced by the check has been partially discharged, he acquires nothing more than the balance due. Rahe v. Yett (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 30.

Notice as to all their serial numbers and maturity dates, but containing no recital that they arose out of the same transaction disclosed on their face facts to charge a purchaser with notice that they had a common consideration, and where at the time of the purchase one of them was due, he was not a bona fide holder. Iowa

Where defendants executed a note reciting that it was secured by a vendor's lien, which was in fact not the case, such false recital did not give rise to an equitable estopel precluding the makers from asserting against the assignee of such note after matur-

The owner of a note, who allowed it to be taken in the name of a third person and permitted such third person to exercise dominion, is estopped from setting up his rights as against one who in good faith without notice took the note after maturity. Western Nat.

A purchaser of notes, with notice of their infirmity from a bona fide holder of them as collateral, acquires such and only such rights therein as his seller had, that is, an interest to the extent of the loan. Id.

Where one of the obligees of a bond who did not know of a condition imposed by an obligor, and his interest to the other obligee, who knew of the condition and was bound thereby, such obligee may recover as assignee, though he could not recover as

22. Purchaser from bona fide holder.—A holder of a note in whose hands they are unenforceable does not acquire it free of defenses by transferring it to an innocent holder, and they are not affected by any fact which he may, with money furnished by another therefor, on their agreement that the other should share in the profits because of the loan. Butte v. Williams (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 585.

A purchaser of notes, with notice of their infirmity from a bona fide holder of them as collateral, acquires such and only such rights therein as his seller had, that is, an interest to the extent of the loan. Id.

Where one of the obligees of a bond who did not know of a condition imposed by an obligor, and his interest to the other obligee, who knew of the condition and was bound thereby, such obligee may recover as assignee, though he could not recover as

23. Payment of less than face value.—Where a purchaser of a negotiable note before maturity is not personally chargeable with fraud, he can recover its full amount from the maker, rather than a less amount paid by him, whatever the original infirmi-
Bank (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 539.

While the amount paid for the note of a solvent maker may be so disproportionate as to its face value as to show constructive notice of facts in connection with its execution, it is not necessary that the full face value should be paid. Lock v. Citizens' Nat.
Bank (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 536.

Accounting of note about 71 per cent. held not to deprive bank of standing of bona fide purchaser, where the makers did not then know of the fraud and the bank by quiry could therefore not have learned thereof. Id.

24. Notice—Actual.—A bank purchasing a note before maturity with mere knowledge that the consideration therefor was to be issued by a railroad corporation and completing by it of a railroad is a purchaser in good faith. Forster v. Enid, O. & W. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 788.

That a person purchasing purchase money notes secured by a vendor's lien knows of the existence of a grant of the land to a third person prior to that under which the vendor claimed does not alone prevent him from being an innocent purchaser of the Corporation accepting notes under subscription contract for its stock to be issued, with notice of the conditions contained in the contract and notes, held not a bona fide holder of such notes. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Meeks (Civ. App.)

187 S. W. 681.

Notice of defects in notes acquired after purchase in good faith without notice does not affect the holder's standing as a bona fide purchaser. Landon v. Wm. E. Huston Drug Co. (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 534.

25. Constructive notice and facts putting on inquiry.—A transferee of a note is not a bona fide holder no matter how honestly he may have believed that the law with its infirmities, to him not sufficient for, nor his title, unless so cogent and obvious that to remain passive would amount to bad faith. Pope v. Beauchamp
(Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 867.

Where the buyer of a negotiable instrument has acted in good faith and paid a valuable consideration, the acquity cannot be impeached on the ground that circumstances were such that bad faith must be presumed in the absence of inquiry.

An indorsee of a note who has no actual notice of defenses available by the maker against the endorsee, if he, without reasonable cause, received the note, is not chargeable with notice of like defenses. Where the maker was free from defenses, such a holder is chargeable with notice thereof. First Nat. Bank v. Chapman (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 900.

Where a corporation with notice of a conditional sale, purchases the note, it is not

tiff that he had sold stock to defendant did not charge plaintiff with notice that the stock had not been paid for in some of the ways required by law. Scheffel v. Smith (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1131.

That at the time the holder of notes acquired them interest thereon was past due and unpaid did not entitle the maker of the notes who claimed a good defense to enjoin the suit. Glidden v. Murphy where the notes were acquired by the holder in good faith and for value before maturity. Tuke v. Fenge (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 805.

Where the president of a corporation executes notes without consideration to another corporation, and these notes are shortly pledged to a bank with other collateral to secure a debt partly owed by the said president, the circumstances were such as to put the bank on notice of a fraudulent conspiracy to defraud the corporation. El Fresnal Irrigated Land Co. v. Bank of Washington (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 701.

The interest of such a note executed by the president of a corporation and purporting to be secured by a lien on corporate land, and pledged to secure a debt partly owed by him, was charged with notice that the president was not authorized to give liens, and it was not an innocent purchaser. Id.

The indorser of notes purporting on their face to be secured by a lien in a recorded deed was charged with notice that no lien was reserved in the deed, and he was not an innocent purchaser. Id.

The purchaser of vendor's lien notes without actual notice of a conveyance by the purchaser was not charged with any fact upon which, on the doctrine of inquiry, notice of such deed could be imputed to him. Biswell v. Gladney (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1168.

Where recitals of purchase-money notes merely advised purchaser they were secured by a vendor's lien, which was not shown to exist or to be sufficient to support the defenses against them. Landon v. Wm. E. Huston Drug Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 534.

That mechanic's lien claimant was in possession of property when mortgage bonds were purchased does not charge purchaser with notice of lien claims, unless he actually knew of such possession. De Bruin v. Santo Domingo Land & Irrigation Co. (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 654.

That bank agreed to act before they were executed the notes of persons on a list of men desirable for insurance given by bank to insurance agent was no evidence of fraud and did not put bank upon notice of fraudulent representations made by insurance agent to makers of the notes. Atchison v. First State Bank of Uvalde (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1019.

26. Notice to corporate officer or stockholder.—Where a deposit in a bank had been equitably assigned for payment of the depositor's note held by the bank for collection, the purchase of the bank holding the depositor's subsequently matured note could not claim to be a subsequent purchaser or lienholder without notice. Slaughter v. Bank of Texline (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 27.

Bank, taking note, was not taxed with notice of facts, relative to fraud in inception of note, known to its cashier, whose knowledge was acquired when acting solely in his individual capacity, for himself and another concern, in which bank had no interest. Guaranty State Bank v. Bland (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 549.

27. Evidence.—In an action to enforce a vendor's lien note against land, the conveyance of which to the vendor had, subsequent to the execution of the note, been set aside for fraud, evidence held sufficient to show that plaintiff, who took the note as collateral security for a loan, did so in good faith without notice. Pope v. Beuchamp (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 887.

In a suit by indorsee of a note, evidence held insufficient to show that he was charged with notice of the failure of consideration for the note. Daniel v. Spaeth (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 509.

Not only defendant, sued on a note by its indorsee, but his son, having testified to its fraudulency, but in circulation by the payee, the court should not give judgment for plaintiff, when it has not shown it was a bona fide purchaser. Werd v. Bank of Menard (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 845.

In a suit on a bond, evidence held not to show that plaintiff's assignor knew of a condition precedent to the obligor's liability. Francis v. Cornelius (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 947.

In a suit by the assignee of a vendor's lien note against the purchaser and a purchaser from him, evidence held not to establish the defense of payment as against the assignee's position of bona fide purchaser. Biswell v. Gladney (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1169.

Evidence in a suit on a note held to sustain a finding that plaintiff was not an innocent purchaser before maturity for value without notice of any defense thereto. Landon v. Halcomb (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1098.

In a suit on a note, the issue of the plaintiff's bad faith in the purchase of the note, like the issue of his assignor's fraud in obtaining the note, could be established by circumstantial evidence. Id.

In action by the transferee of drafts given for goods bought, evidence held not to support a finding that plaintiff was not bona fide purchaser of the drafts. Callie v. Bryant (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 323.

In action by indorsee of note, evidence held to show that it was given in payment for capital stock purchased of agent of trust company, though payable to investment company, which was promoting sale of trust company's stock. Sweeney v. Davis (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 485.

In action on note delivered to broker for purpose of negotiation, fraud in inception of instrument held not proved. Davis v. Converse (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 697.

In action on note, the bank's on note, evidence held insufficient to sustain finding that bank obtained such note with knowledge of fraud practiced on maker. Guaranty State Bank v. Bland (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 546.
in bank's suit on note, evidence held to show that bank purchased note in suit, paying full value for same, with knowledge of amount by its transferor upon the maker and none, and without any notice it upon inquiry. Id.

Evidence, in action on note executed by two defendants, payable to a third, held to show that note was obtained by fraudulent representations and fraudulently transferred to its plenary maturity, so as to sustain judgment in favor of maker. Charbonnet v. Arbetter (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 1037.

Evidence in action on note executed by two defendants, payable to a third, held to show that it was obtained by fraudulent representations. Id.

28. Defenses as against bona fide purchaser.—The rule of lis pendens does not apply to negotiable instruments purchased in good faith for value before maturity. Pope v. Beauchamp (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 867.

That showed notes on their face that they were given in part payment for land held to preclude an innocent purchaser thereof from enforcing the defense of breach of warranty of title to the land. Tuke v. Feagin (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 805.

Under this article payment is no defense against a holder in due course of a negotiable instrument. Brannin v. Richardson (Sup.) 185 S. W. 562.

Where a note payable to an investment company for stock of a trust company was valid, the amount paid therefor by an indorsee was immaterial, where the defense of fraud was not sustained. Crawford v. Davis (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 493.

A purchaser of notes before maturity for valuable consideration without notice of any defense can recover thereon, though there is a good defense as against the original payee. Landon v. Wm. E. Huston Drug Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 834.

An innocent purchaser, without notice of the purpose for which notes given by authority of a corporation were issued, may recover, though the notes were ultra vires. Galveston-Houston Intercity Land Co. v. Dow (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 352.

In indorsee's action on note for premium, testimony that payee insurance agents agreed to refund premium policy was delivered is admissible, where defendant maker seeks recovery over against payees. Texas Life Ins. Co. v. Huntsman (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 455.

Where wife paid seven-eighths purchase price of land taken in name of husband, and husband bought goods, giving note and mortgage to seller, which borrowed money from bank depositing accounts and the note as collateral, and was thereafter declared bankrupt, and the trustee recovered the collateral from the bank, an innocent party who purchased the note and mortgage acquired title as against the wife. Gee v. Parks (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 767.

29. Want of title.—Where note was transferred by holder by written assignment to chattel mortgagees to secure note to them, mortgagees were vested with title as to note as well as to mortgage intended to secure it, a right which could not be defeated by holder's execution of note and delivery of it to maker without mortgagees' consent. T. W. Maree & Co. v. Flockinger (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1017.

 Innocent purchaser of notes, secured by deed of trust on land, who acquired instruments in due course before maturity, paying value to party to whom had no notice when he purchased of existence of deed to land from maker of notes to his son, or notice of any defense, was entitled to protection as innocent purchaser for value, and to have his lien foreclosed in son's suit to recover title, possession, and rental value. Johnson v. Masterson (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 501.

30. Want or failure of consideration.—The assignee of a note negotiated to him prior to maturity may enforce the same against prior parties, irrespective of a failure of consideration thereto. Hill v. Jones Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 25.

Under this article purchaser of land, who assumed payment of vendor's lien notes executed by vendor, when sued by an innocent vendor, whom he purchased of notes before maturity from the original vendor could not set up failure of consideration in defense. Brannin v. Richardson (Sup.) 185 S. W. 562.

A bona fide holder of notes as collateral cannot enforce them where there was a failure to consider owing to such creditor's insolvency and failure to protect himself. Continental & Commercial Nat. Bank of Chicago v. Meister (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 377.

Party who gave check for note of party desiring loan, transaction being conducted by intermediary who failed to transmit the check to the maker of the note, for whom he acted as agent, held a holder in due course. Davis v. Converse (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 697.

32. Fraud, mistake, and undue influence.—Where the payee fraudulently refused to give the full consideration for a note, the maker cannot set up that fraud against a bona fide purchaser for value without notice. First Nat. Bank of Iowa City, Iowa, v. Humphreys (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 53.

A stockholder giving a note and mortgage to a corporation and depositing stock as collateral held not entitled to transfer of the note and mortgage, for a valuable consideration to a cancellation of the same on the ground of fraud. Continental Trust Co. v. Brownhart (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 588.

Where plaintiff secured a note before maturity for value without notice, he was entitled, under this article, to recover against the maker, who, while admitting his signature on note, procuring the note and detaching it from a contract of which it formed a part. Landon v. Foster Drug Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 434.

As against a bona fide purchaser for value without notice and before maturity, the defense that the note was procured through misrepresentations, and that the payee practically appropriated it, is not available. Henderson v. McDaniel (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 865.

33. Forgery and alteration.—Fraudulent alteration of the time of payment and the amount of principal of a note and extracting a material condition therefrom held to avoid the note, even in the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value without notice. First Nat. Bank of Bryan (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 54.

Where the apparent maker of a note accompanied by the payee thereof represented to a bank that the note was good, and the bank on the payee's indorsement discounted the note, such maker was estopped from defeating a recovery by the bank on the note on the ground that it was a forgery. Tardio v. First Nat. Bank of Bryan (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 1130.

Under this article held that the insertion of the words "or bearer" following the name of the payee was not a material alteration. Douglas v. Lockhart (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 382.

Change in personality, number, or relation of parties to instrument, without consent of the opposite party, held to avoid it, even in the hands of an innocent purchaser. Bolt v. Hardin (Sup. Ct. of Appeals) 103 S. W. 2d 583; S. W. 1119.

Where a note was attached without line or perforation to a conditional contract of sale, its subsequent detachment and negotiation was an alteration avoiding the note in the hands of an innocent purchaser for value. Spencer v. Trippelett (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 712.

A material alteration of a note precludes any claim on the part of the holder to protection as an innocent purchaser for value without notice. Lunden v. Halcomb (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1098.

The rule that the maker of a note, secured by fraud, should suffer rather than an innocent purchaser, protects the latter, where the payee or junior assignee filled in the date, which had been left blank, even if it resulted in materially changing the maker's liability. Landon v. Foster Drug Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 434.

Any alteration which is material and made without the consent of the party sought to be charged upon a note at any time after its execution renders it void as to them, even in the hands of an innocent holder. Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Vanderpool (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 559.

Where consideration of note of buyer of capital stock of a corporation was illegal under the constitutional and statutory provisions as to the sale of capital stock on credit, the note was void, and its payment could not be enforced by innocent purchaser for value. Republic Trust Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 772; Sturdevant v. Falvey (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 908; Ater v. Rotan Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1106.

A transaction held not an issue of stock, for the purchaser's note, in contravention of art. 1146, but nothing more than a subscription for stock, so that the note was good in the hands of a purchaser without notice of a secret agreement making the contract to take the stock optional. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank v. Falvey (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 835.

That a negotiable note given in consideration of stock of a corporation illegally issued thereafter was transferred by the corporation to a third person in satisfaction of an obligation of the corporation, did not estop the maker in suit by such third person's indorsees from questioning the note's validity. Sturdevant v. Falvey (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 908.

A note given for capital stock of a trust company through the medium of an investment company was void in the hands of a purchaser, even if he paid value and had no notice of the status of the negotiation. Crawford v. Davis (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 436.

Under constitutional provisions that no corporation shall issue stock except for money, labor or property, and Rev. St. 1911, arts. 1146, 1147, held that, while consideration for a note issued for corporate stock is void or illegal, note is not void in the hands of a bona fide holder. First Nat. State Bank v. Martin (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 790.

35. — Insanity.—A purchaser for value before maturity, without notice of a note and mortgage given by an insane person to the payee for services to be performed, may not recover, where the payee did not perform any service. Ferguson v. Fitzg. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 500.

Art. 583. [308] [266] Non-negotiable instruments may be assigned.

1/2. Construction and operation in general.—This article and arts. 579 and 584, amount to a substitute for protest under the law merchant, and do not apply where protest is not required, as where the maker is insolvent or a nonresident. Toole v. First Nat. Bank of Hemphill (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 453.

A petition in an action on a county warrant against the county and indorsers held to state a cause of action against the indorsers, who are liable as original obligors, and are not within arts. 578, 583, 584. Id.

Future earnings or profits—Under contracts.—A building contractor may assign a debt which is to accrue in his favor under his contract. King v. Hardin Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 401.

Earnings under contracts not yet made having no potential existence, any attempt to assign or mortgage them was void. First Nat. Bank v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 197.

7. Executory contracts.—A contract to sell on credit is not assignable by the buyer without consent of the seller. Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Havoline Auto Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 759.

10. Rights of action.—Where an assignment of an undivided half interest in a cause of action, involved in a suit by the assignor against a third person does not pass anything to the assignee, where the assignor has no cause of action, and the third person making a settlement with the assignor pending the action does not thereby become liable to the assignee. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Sanches (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 710.
11. On contracts.—If a provision of a deed does not make the estate granted one on condition subsequent, which may be done by an agreement to reconvey on certain contingencies, the right to enforce specific performance of it is assignable. Citizens' Water Co. v. McGlinley (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 457.

12. — For torts.—Causes of action, including those for personal injuries, have been considered assignable and contracted for like personal property. McCloskey v. San Antonio Traction Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1116.

19. Equitable assignments.—An agreement between plaintiff, an attorney, and the owners of notes by which plaintiff was authorized to bring suit on the notes in consideration of attorney's fees stipulated an equitable assignment of such attorney's fees to plaintiff. Caldwell v. Stallcup (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 110.

20. — Check or order.—The mere giving of a check on a bank even for a valuable consideration does not, prior to acceptance by the bank, operate as an assignment, though circumstances may make it an assignment before acceptance. The parties must have intended that the check should so operate. First Nat. Bank of Rising Star v. Texas Moline Plow Co. (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 420.

That the drawer of an antedated check, on delivering it to the payee, exhibited to him a deposit slip covering the amount of the check was insufficient to require a finding that the parties intended the check to operate as an equitable assignment pro tanto of the drawer's funds in the bank. Peters v. H. H. Hardin & Co. (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 1055.

Where a contractor paid money due a subcontractor into court and sought to have claimants interpleaded, the court properly rendered judgment of distribution, giving preference to those who had received orders from subcontractor on contractor, though not accepted, as they constituted an assignment. Ogburn Gravel Co. v. Watson Co. (Civ. App.) 195 S. W. 265.

21. — Order or draft on particular fund.—Where the holder of a note sent it to a bank for collection and the maker ordered the bank to apply his deposit to the payment of the note, there was an equitable assignment of the deposit for payment of the note. Slaughter v. Bank of Texline (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 27.

An order by a building contractor to the owner to pay a materialman a certain sum operates without acceptance as an equitable assignment of the fund to accrue in favor of the contractor. King v. Hardin Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 401.

22. — Agreement to appropriate or pay.—An agreement to pay a debt out of a certain fund does not operate as an assignment of any part of the fund or any part of it. Provine v. First Nat. Bank of Honey Grove (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1107.

To create an equitable assignment of a fund, there must be delivery, actual or symbolic, or some act to place the fund beyond the control of the assignor, and a mere promise or agreement to pay a debt out of a fund is not an equitable assignment. Collips v. George W. Smith Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1443.

A contractor and laborer on the job of the money to be paid him when the work was completed. Held, not an equitable assignment of the fund, since it remained under the contractor's control. 1d.

Agreement to pay attorney a fixed sum, based on recovery on a life insurance policy, held not to pass the legal title out of the beneficiary so as to make the attorney a necessary party to an action on the policy. American Nat. Ins. Co. v. Hawkins (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 330.

27. Existence and validity of assignment.—False representations of defendant as to the solvency of the maker of notes given in payment for timber purchased of plaintiff, relied upon by the plaintiff, held material, and to operate as a legal fraud upon plaintiff. Benton v. Kuykendall (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 438.

Where one states of his knowledge material facts by which another is defrauded, it is not necessary, although the statements were false, to prove making them believed to be true, and, where worthless notes of a third person indorsed to plaintiff "without recourse," and falsely represented to be good, were given in payment under a contract, the defendant, when sued for damages for the deceit, could not shield himself behind such indorsement. 1d.

In an action to recover amount paid for note purporting to be secured by a vendor's lien, evidence as to peaceable possession by parties other than the pretended vendor; in connection with other testimony, held to show conclusively that the pretended vendor had no interest in the land. Young v. Barcroft (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 392.

Where the agent, through whom plaintiff negotiated a purchase of a note, which falsely purporting to be secured by a vendor's lien, was jointly interested with the seller of the note in the proceeds of the sale, he was jointly liable with him to the plaintiff for the fraud. 1d.

Transferor of note, falsely purporting to be secured by a vendor's lien, held liable to the transferee for the amount paid, whether guilty of an intentional fraud or not. 1d.

In trespass to try title where defendant asserted title under an assignment to him of notes reserving a vendor's lien, evidence held insufficient to show that the notes had ever been transferred to defendant. Hergist v. Stautberg (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 723.

When the buyer after execution of a sales contract, but before delivery of the calves covered thereby, sold the calves to a third party upon understanding that he was to take the calves just as the buyer received them, there was a sale rather than an assignment of the contract. Littlefield v. Clayton Bros. (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 194.

In assignments.—In determining the number of two assignees to the fund, the fact that one assignment is in parol and the other in writing does not give the latter any superior dignity. First Nat. Bank of Paris v. O'Neil Engineering Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 74.

A written assignment by a contractor to his surety for sums due him under the contract, is subject to a prior parol assignment by him of the same funds. 1d.

As between creditors holding assignments of amounts due the debtor, the first in point of time takes. West Texas Lumber Co. v. Tom Green County (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 393.

Instrument assignment to lender bank all money due borrower, except that necessary to pay labor or material bills, cannot be construed as assignment also to holders of claims 96.

Each of several assignees to whom an interest in a patent right is assigned has a right to manufacture and sell the patented article, no matter how small his interest may be. Davis v. Wynne (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 510.

Contract for sale of gin and mill outfit by defendants to partnership, which contained covenant that, while partnership operated gin and mill in community, sellers would not engage in action which, when assigned by partnership to corporation which succeeded it, carried with it all rights existing under it by reason of its coventants and agreements. Malakoff Gin Co. v. Riddlesperger (Sup.) 192 S. W. 530.

32. Rights of assignee as against debtor.—Though a judgment is not within this article, equity will set off one judgment against another, where the interests of justice require it, but it will not allow a set-off against an assignee of an interest in a judgment, where the assignor was not insolvent, and the assignee had no notice of any judgment at the assignor, and paid a fair consideration. Davidson v. Lee (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 414.

Defendant is liable to plaintiff for half the sum it paid. In settlement; it settling and paying the amount of settlement after notice of assignment to plaintiff of a half in-

33. Rights of assignee as against third persons.—Plaintiff, suing as transferee of a vendor's lien note, held entitled to require intervener, setting up a similar note held as collateral security, to show the indebtedness due under the obligation for which he held it as collateral. Smith v. Cooley (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1050.

A contractor's surety who was compelled to complete the work cannot claim the funds by subrogation against a prior assignee unless the payments could have been lawfully

Under proper circumstances, an oral assignment of money due one of the parties

Art. 584. [309] [267] Assignee of non-negotiable instrument may sue in his own name.

Construction and operation in general.—A petition in an action on a county warrant against the county and indorsers held to state a cause of action against the indorsers, who are liable as original obligors, and are not within arts. 579, 583, 584. Toole v. First Nat.
Bank of Hemphill (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 422.

Arts. 578, 583, and 584, constitute a substitute for protest under the law merchant, and do not apply where protest is not required, as where the maker is insolvent or a nonresident. Id.

Equities as defenses between original parties.—Though a judgment is not within this article and art. 583, equity will set off one judgment against another, where the interests of justice require it, but it will not allow a set-off against an assignee of an interest in a judgment, where the assignor was not insolvent, and the assignee had no notice of any judgment against the assignor, and paid a fair consideration. Davidson v. Lee (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 414.

The assignee of a land contract is not responsible for the promises of the vendor to the purchaser, unless it contracted to become so. South Texas Mortgage Co. v. Coe (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 418; Stone v. Erwin (Civ. App.) Id. 422.

An assignee of a claim for the price of machinery sold by the assignor under a warranty is not liable personally for damage by breach of the warranty, though his claim may have been rejected or defeated thereby. A. C. Cameron Steam Pump Works v. Lubbock Light & Ice Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 256.

An assignee from an undisclosed agent can rely on any defense to recovery by the principal which existed against the agent when the purchaser became chargeable with

Where, in acceptance of an order drawn upon it, defendant school district agreed to pay plaintiff what was due contractor on completion of work to satisfaction of building committee, plaintiff could not recover where contractor had not completed building according to agreement. Lyon-Gray Lumber Co. v. Wichita Falls Brick & Tile Co. (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1167.
Right of action by assignee.—Where, in an action for breach of contract for the sale of goods, the assignee of the contract under which defendant sold the goods sued to recover thereon, and the evidence showed that the alleged assignment was in fact a mere contract of sale, which did not require that the rice delivered to plaintiff be that procured from defendant, a verdict should have been directed for defendant. Standard Milling Co. v. Imperial Rice Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 637.

Action by assignee in his own name.—A suit on a guaranty of certain assets of an old bank transferred to a partnership operating a new one held properly brought in the name of the new bank. Young v. Bank of Miami (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 438.

The assignee of a shipper's claim for wrongful delivery may sue the carrier; the assignment protecting it from any future action by the assignor. Wells Fargo & Co. Express v. Pugh (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 61.

Action in name of assignor.—Agreement of husband who employed attorney to take care of assignee's company for injuries to assignee to his wife, to pay half amount recovered, after expenses were paid, held mere agreement to pay contingent fee, not rendering attorney necessary formal party. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Brassell (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 438.

Refusal of defendants' charge that plaintiff had no cause of action because it had been assigned, held not erroneous. Wick v. McLenann (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 847.

The petition in a suit by the beneficiary in policy of fraternal insurance brought for use of his assignee, but not alleging that assignee was under legal disability, or had authorized suit, was demurrable, as the judgment would be a bar to subsequent suit by assignee only on proof that assignee had authorized suit, or was estopped. American Ins. Union v. Allen (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1057.

Though plaintiff has assigned to his attorneys an interest in his cause of action for personal injury, they need not be made formal parties plaintiff; they filing a pleading that they are representing plaintiff on the trial, and agree to be bound by any judgment, as though formal parties. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Hicks (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1446.

Art. 586. [311] [269] Assignor liable to assignee.

Misrepresentation by assignor.—Where a holder of a note which in its body stated that it was for $75, while the figures in the margin were $7,500, represented that the note was for $7,500, and the buyer thereof relied on the representations and paid $7,500 therefor, the buyer could recover the difference between $7,500 and $75. Washington County State Bank v. Central Bank & Trust Co. of Houston (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 456.

Art. 587. [312] [270] Assignor, indorser, etc., may be sued alone, when.

Suit against absolute guarantor.—This article and arts. 1842, 1843, 6335, and 6337, providing the manner of suing obligors other than the principals on notes, bills, etc., apply only to suits against obligors not primarily liable, so that it is not necessary before suing the absolute guarantor of a note to sue the principal, nor to make him a party. Slaught­er v. Morton (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 965.

Art. 588. [313] [271] Assignment, how put in issue.

Necessity of pleading invalidity in general.—As the validity of an indorsement of a note cannot be attacked unless it is specially questioned in the pleadings, there is a presumption that an indorsement is blank was made before maturity, and the holder is presumed to be the owner. First Nat. Bank of Garner, Iowa, v. Smith (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 862.

In actions by assignee to enforce payment of the fund assigned, the alleged invalidity of the assignment due to restriction in assignor's contract against assignment is defensive matter which defendant must plead and prove. King v. Hardin Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 401.

Necessity of denial under oath.—In a suit by the holder of a vendor's lien note, in which the holder of a similar note intervened, held, not error to permit evidence of ownership, assignment, or transfer of intervenor's note, without denial of the assignment made by the vendor under a sworn plea. Smith v. Cooley (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1050.

Under this article maker of note payable to a corporation, and indorsed in its name by its vice president and assistant treasurer, cannot impeach assignment without sworn plea and affidavit. Forster v. Enid, O. & W. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 788.

A sworn plea is not necessary to raise the issue of good faith of the holder of a note, holding under an indorsement.Id.

In an action against drawee of drafts, in absence of a sworn plea raising issue as to genuineness of indorsements, it was not necessary to offer proof to support allegations that drafts had been indorsed and delivered. Bloch v. Rio Grande Valley Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 841.

Non est factum.—In a suit on a note, an unworn plea of non est factum did not have effect of demanding proof of execution of note until sworn to. Braxton v. Voyles (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 965.

Art. 589. [314] [272] Consideration, failure of, when it constitutes a defense.

1. Construction and application.—In a suit on a note payable unconditionally at a time certain, a contemporaneous agreement to postpone the time of payment cannot be proved by parol, notwithstanding this article. Hendrick v. Chase Furniture Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 277.

2. Necessity of consideration.—A statement by defendant that he was responsible and would see that plaintiff bank did not lose anything on a draft which it cashed for a shipper of produce held a mere naked promise which would not sustain an action. Citizens' Nat. Bank of Waco v. Abel (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 609.

3. Where the contract for the sale of land, the purchaser complained of his bargain being a hard one, and asked that he be allowed to have the rents of the property until the closing of the transaction, to which the seller assented, the agreement was without consideration and not enforceable. Bonzer v. Garrett (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 534.

4. An agreement by the payee to notify a third party, who had assumed the notes, in a county other than that in which the maker lived, and in which the notes were payable, being in the nature of an agreement to an action after they became due. Ward v. San Antonio Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1043.

5. In an interstate shipment, a carrier is liable for the difference between the value of the goods in the condition in which they should have been delivered and the condition when delivered, the bill of lading issued and restricted its liability to the invoice price, where there was no consideration for the liability. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Rathblath (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 751.

6. Parol modification of a contract for the sale of cattle as to the manner in which the seller should receive payment held invalid if not supported by a new consideration. Terrell, Atkins & Harvin v. Proctor (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 956.

7. A modification of a contract, without a new consideration, is not enforceable. Barlow v. Cotulla (Sup.) 175 S. W. 874, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 295.

8. Deed from agent to his principal conveying superior title reserved by retaining vendor's lien, held not to require consideration to support it. Zeigl v. Magee (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 631.

10. Stipulation in contract for carriage of live stock that suit for damages must be brought within 31 days is not binding if there, at the time of the bill of lading issued, it was not binding. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. v. Hansard (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 828.

3. Adequacy.—Mere inadequacy of consideration for which a release is given and ignorance of the releaser's rights is insufficient to avoid the release in absence of fraud or other improper influence. Turner v. Ontiveros (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1089.

4. Written contract importing consideration.—Where plaintiff permitted the defendant to use a building temporarily for the purpose of drying cotton, the defendant agreeing to indemnify the plaintiff in case of fire, the excess of the value of the use of the building, did not vitiate the contract, as not based on an adequate consideration, since the liability was remote and contingent and the use present and immediate. Seligmann v. Sonka (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 764.

5. Sufficiency in general.—The society and affections of a child and the services which it may render are a sufficient consideration to support a contract by persons attempting to adopt such child, but, failing to accomplish such purpose, to leave a portion of their property to such child. Thompson v. Waits (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 82.

6. Where a partner in a law firm, who had acquired an interest in land, recovered for his clients upon a contingent fee, conveyed it to a company holding the legal title for such clients in order to perfect its title, and to aid in the defense of a suit, a contract by the company to reconvey was supported by a sufficient consideration. Phoenix Land Co. v. Ewell (Civ. App.) 199 S. W. 474.

7. Agreement by party to take the child of another, raise it as his own, and leave it all of his property at his death held not unenforceable for want of consideration, where it had been fully performed by the child and its father. Bridgewater v. Hooks (Civ. App.) 199 S. W. 1094.

8. Recitals, in a contract for the shipment of live stock, showing that a lower rate had been given upon fixing a certain value upon the property showed a sufficient consideration for the contract of shipment at the rate fixed. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Sparks (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 943.

9. A power of attorney from plaintiff to defendants to sell and convey his land, or any part of it, authorizing them to subdivide it and lay out roads through it, they to be paid a commission on sales, is binding on plaintiff, and cannot be canceled for want of consideration, on defendants subdividing, laying out, and constructing roads, and proceeding to make sales. Byers v. Chatfield (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 415.

10. Where a note is taken as collateral security for a debt then created, the debt is sufficient consideration to support the note. First Nat. Bank of Iowa City, Iowa, v. Humphreys (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 53.

11. Under an agreement whereby plaintiff's intestate was to have certain land upon the happening of an event, she held, that his entry and making of improvements, recognized by defendant, imposed an obligation upon him to pay the purchase price and furnished a consideration which made an executed binding contract. Lester v. Hutson (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 321.

12. Agreement after expiration of the time for performance of an agreement for an interest in land, whereby the parties recognized the obligation of the first contract to pay for and to convey the land, held supported by a consideration. Id.

14. A valid "consideration" is some right, interest, profit, or benefit accruing to one party in consideration of some act, such as payment, loss, or responsibility, and agreed to be given, suffered, or undertaken by the other. Keitt v. Gresham (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 884.

15. Establishment of switch held sufficient consideration for an agreement that the railroad company should not be liable to the shipper for fires caused by locomotives on either the switch or the main track. Talley v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 85.

16. In action for breach of an agreement by an irrigation company to supply water, parish agreement ancillary to original engagement held supported by consideration arising from benefit to the promisee, though not mutual, to render such agreement binding and proper to be shown in evidence. Lone Star Canal Co. v. Broussard (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 645.

Defendant's contention that the note sued on was given by him to plaintiff to use to secure money to pay defendant an attorney fee, held not objectionable as presenting matters not available as a legal defense or set-off to the note. O'Neill v. Gibson (Civ.
App.) 177 S. W. 183.

A valuable consideration for a promise may consist of a detriment to the promisee;
"detriments" meaning that the promisee has, in return for the promise, forborne some legal right which he otherwise would have been entitled to exercise. Harp v. Hamilton
(Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 565.

A valuable consideration for a promise may consist of a benefit to the promisor;
"benefit" meaning that the promisor has, in return for his promise, acquired some legal right which he would not otherwise have been entitled to. Id.

Bill of lading for an interstate shipment, limiting the liability of the carrier to a stated value, the shipper paying the lower of two rates, held binding on the shipper.

By a written instrument defendant agreed in consideration of $1 to convey, within a fixed period, certain land to any one designated by plaintiff upon the payment of a stated sum to defendant. Held, there was no lack of consideration, since that instrument fixed the price to be paid. Houghting v. Eubank (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 364.

Under an instrument reciting a $1 consideration, whereby the defendant offers to sell land at a certain price, but plaintiff does not agree to purchase, defendant can withdraw such offer at any time prior to plaintiff's acceptance thereof, although plaintiff tendered deficiency of one dollar on the instrument's execution. Id.

A contract for sale of land which was an ordinary, land sale contract providing for earnest money, examination of title, and making title good or return of earnest money Injured railroad employé, who gave road a release of liability in consideration "of an order on the treasurer of said company for the sum of one dollar," and failed to present such order for payment, could not attack the release for lack of consideration. Pan-

Under rule that purchaser for value without notice from agent intrusted with possession of property with authority to sell acquires good title as against principal, a purchaser's release of mortgage on piano executed by agent was a valuable consideration. Posey v. Adams (Civ. App. Co.) 189 S. W. 977.

There is no consideration for a wife's signature to a deed to property which was not the homestead and which the husband could convey without her signature. Earhart v.
Agnew (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 740.

The furnishing of a home and the otherwise maintaining of the owner of land during his life is a sufficient consideration to support a conveyance of such land. City of Hou-

Where the organizer of a bank induced defendant to subscribe to its stock and execute his note, agreeing to purchase defendant's stock, promising to pay defendant's note on request and to indemnify defendant against all loss, the organizer's promises were supported by sufficient consideration. Anderson v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 191 S.
W. 836.

6. Mutual promises.—Under an agreement whereby, in consideration that plaintiff would obtain land at a low price, defendant was to convey an interest to plaintiff and another when a certain amount was paid or sales of land and timber equaled that amount, it was not essential to the validity of the contract or to plaintiff's right to specific performance that there should be reciprocal obligation or mutuality of remedy, where plaintiff had performed his part by procuring the land at the price set. Johnson

A contract by defendants to grow onions and deliver them to plaintiff, who should have the right to determine when and where they should be sold, for a commission, it merely guaranteeing a certain price for fancy onions, but having the right to determine whether any are sold up to the prescribed standard, is lacking in mutuality, and so

A contract between an owner of oil lands and an oil company giving the company the right to bore for oil, or to pay a quarterly rental, or to surrender the grant at any time, with option, held a unilateral promise to the owner, or for want of mutuality; the $5 being merely a nominal consideration. Owens v. Corsicana Petroleum
Co. (Civ. App.) 199 S. W. 192.

An agreement to repurchase held a sufficient consideration to support a new contract, though the buyer's debt was barred by limitations. Mahaney v. Lee (Civ. App.) 171 S.
W. 1042.

Modification of a seller's agreement as to acceptance of payment for cattle supported by a consideration in the buyer's agreement to stand the loss of all cattle that might die during the night. Terrell v. Atkins & Harvin v. Proctor (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 996.

Warranty executed by seller without knowledge and consent of buyers held to have no binding effect. Bolt v. State Savings Bank of Manchester, Iowa (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1119.

An agreement by a surety to pay a note in case the principal refuses to do so made as an inducement to third persons to sign it is supported by a consideration. Clevenger v. Commercial Guaranty State Bank (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 66.

In an instrument which plaintiff put a truck in defendant's possession to use and pay over half its income till paid for held enforceable by defendant so long as he complied with it, though not binding him to continue to do so. Halff v. Waugh (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 833.

The contract is unilateral, and so terminable at will, where defendant agrees to furnish, but plaintiffs do not agree to take, for a specified time. Mutual Film Corp. v. Morris & Daniel (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1060.

Where defendant contracted to buy all the veneer cut by plaintiff and plaintiff agreed to turn over orders to defendant, a modification, requiring defendant to take only the material it needed, held to rest upon mutual consideration. Tyler Box & Lumber Mfg. Co. v. City Nat. Bank of Paris (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 352.

Condition that is payment of billiard and pool tables for certain amount represented by notes secured by chattel mortgage, to become the buyer's property if he quit drinking and lived in the house, under which buyer paid part of notes and was performing the contract, held not unenforceable for want of mutuality. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. Perry (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 274.

Where defendant, in suit to foreclose a vendor's lien, undertook to sell the land for benefit of himself and a codefendant, and procured at least one prospective purchaser, his services in so doing relieved of its want of mutuality, if any, contract of codefendant to buy the land at execution sale and sell to purchaser procured by defendant. Roberts v. Anthony (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 423.

Contract between defendant and codefendant in suit to foreclose vendor's lien whereby defendant was not to contest codefendant's right to recover against him, etc., held not void for want of mutuality. Id.

Where there is no other consideration for a contract, the mutual promises must be binding on both parties, but, where there is any other consideration, mutuality of obligations is the very essence of the contract. Id.

An instrument, reciting a $1 consideration, whereby the defendant offers to sell land at a certain price, but plaintiff does not agree to purchase, lacks mutuality, although plaintiff tendered defendant a $1 check upon the instrument's execution. Houghtling v. Eubank (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 364.

Contract for sale of land which was an ordinary land sale contract providing for earnest money, examination of title, and making title good held not lacking in mutuality. Bender v. Bender (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 746.

A contract for the sale of onion sets to be grown could be defeated by failure of crops or destruction while being held, was unilateral, part performance by the buyer in growing a crop and holding it for shipment, being that upon which mutuality depends, rendered contract and makes contract good from the beginning. Texas Seed & Floral Co. v. Chicago Set & Seed Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 747.

Contract, whereby defendant agreed to furnish gravel to plaintiff's order, not to exceed 15 cars a day, made when defendant knew plaintiff's customers, and that they would probably pay bills promptly, held not void for want of mutuality. Grand Prairie Gravel Co. v. Joe B. Wills Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 680.

Contract obligating seller of land to erect pumping plant capable of supplying sufficient water to irrigate, held not unilateral because it did not bind buyer to use any water or for any purpose. Anderson v. Roberts v. Abney (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1101.

Contract for an exchange of land, not signed by the plaintiff, held a unilateral contract lacking in mutuality, so that plaintiff could not enforce specific performance thereof. Clegg v. Brannan (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 813.

Contract between organizer of bank and defendant, whom he induced to subscribe for its stock, agreeing to purchase defendant's stock and to pay defendant's note, held not unenforceable for want of mutuality. Anderson v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 836.

7. Property and rights therein.—A lease of land from a railroad company held not to shadow conclusively that the lessee made no claim to the property in good faith, so that her giving up of the property was no consideration for the railroad's promise to convey other property to her. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 69.

A consideration for defendant's promise to organize a corporation and convey his patent rights to it cannot be the consideration for a subsequent promise to convey to plaintiffs an interest in the patent equivalent to the interest they, would have in the corporation. Davis v. Wayne (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 729.

9. Rights under contracts—Release or abandonment of rights.—Defendant bank's release of its claim against a third person who had presented a forged check signed by plaintiff, upon receipt of plaintiff's check in satisfaction of the claim, held a good consideration for the check. Schofield v. Texas Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 606.

A broker held not entitled to commissions until the contract of sale had been reduced to writing, and so his agreement, made before the contract of sale was executed to demand commissions only in event of a consummated sale was supported by a consideration.

The rights of plaintiffs in a foreclosure sale may be compromised. Davis v. Wynne (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 510.

Where plaintiff and defendant entered into a contract to subdivide and sell lots at a certain price and for a certain commission, the fact that the lands were not being sold as rapidly as desired was a sufficient consideration for an oral modification of the written contract in order to facilitate the sales. Ross v. Moore (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 853.

The claim of a third person is a valuable consideration for a deed. Knox v. Gruhlkey (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 334.

A contract may be rescinded by mutual agreement, consideration being relief from obligation of contract. Taylor v. Westworth & Curtis (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 155.

10. Consideration of corporation.—The past consideration of money to a corporation of which defendant was a shareholder will not support a note of the shareholder to the amount of the advancement. Witt v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 309.

A surety or indorser who becomes such after the delivery of a note, in absence of prior agreement or new consideration, is not liable, but if he becomes surety at the time of renewal of the debt in consideration thereof he is liable. People's State Bank v. Fleming-Morton Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 648.

A previous debt, though barred by limitation, was a sufficient consideration for the execution of a new note to the extent that it was given for such indebtedness. Helmke v. Uecker (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 17.

Where sureties executed a note to a bank to indemnify it for possible loss of moneys advanced to H. during the year 1908, and there was no loss, held, that there was no consideration for a renewal note executed by them covering a past indebtedness of H. to the bank. First Nat. Bank v. Hix (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1035.

Indebtedness is a sufficient consideration for the transfer of a note. Daniel v. Spaul (Clty App.) 163 S. W. 509.

Where a promoter of defendant lumber company purchased intervener's stock in another company agreeing to protect him against liability on such company's obligations in return for his release of an option on land so that the owner might convey to defendant an option to purchase the land by deferring the tenor of the promoter's contract was supported by the consideration. Weatherby v. Texas & Ohio Lumber Co. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 735.

11. Compromise and settlement.—A compromise of a claim made in good faith, and with reasonable grounds, is a good consideration for a promise, though the claim in fact could not be enforced in court. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 60.

Agreement by claimant of property levied on under execution to pay the judgments by delivery of the property levied on, at an agreed price, held not without consideration. Grisham v. Ward (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 893.

Dock company and cotton company, before concluding agreement for diversion of cotton shipment from Port Aransas to Galveston, had right to provide that dock company should pay cotton company freight differential on account of the dock company's breach of original contract for shipment from Port Aransas by diverting to Galveston. Aransas Pass Channel & Dock Co. v. Southern Products Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 916.

The compromise of an amount due a road contractor is sufficient consideration to support an accord and satisfaction. Clifton v. Caldwell County (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 400.

Where a usurious loan had already been discharged, the payments more than equaling the principal, an agreement to release all rights of action for usury, made in consideration of an extension, was without consideration and was no defense. Cotton v. Beatty (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1007.

Where maker did not agree to forego his right to pay off a note, and did not execute an extension agreement prepared by the payee, there was no consideration for the extension agreement. Lipscomb v. Walker (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 448.

A creditor's extension of the payment of a past due indebtedness from a corporation upon receiving its 60 and 90 day notes would support a contract of suretyship evidenced by the indorsement of its president. Bonnor Oil Co. v. Gaines (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 886.

Where a corporation owed a debt upon open account, due and unpaid, an extension of time for payment thereof upon execution of notes by the corporation and its president individually was sufficient consideration to support the suretyship of the president. Bonnor Oil Co. v. Gaines (Sup.) 180 S. W. 552.

14.—Forbearance to sue or defend.—A promise by a purchaser of merchandise from a dealer indebted to the seller of the merchandise to pay the debt if the dealer did not do so, made in consideration of the seller forbearing to attach the merchandise, was supported by a sufficient consideration. Williams v. City Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 390.

A creditor's agreement to withhold suit against his debtor, followed by actual forbearance, held a good consideration to support a third party's promise to pay the debt, although no definite time of extension was expressly agreed on. Enterprise Trading Co. v. Will Crowell (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 298.

Note to payee bank, covering overdue interest on vendor's lien notes, for which the bank promised to forbear to sue on the vendor's lien notes, held supported by consideration. Ramsey v. Farmers' & Citizens' Savings Bank (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 299.

15.—Existence or validity of right or remedy.—Agreement of defendant, in suit to foreclose vendor's lien, to waive service, not to contest co-defendant's right to judgment against him, and not to bid on property when sold, was insufficient consideration, 102.
where defendant had no defense, for codefendant's agreement to bid in property for sale to discharge parties' liabilities. Roberts v. Anthony (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 433.

17. Benefit to third person.—A note given by shareholders who were not responsible for a debt to the bank to reimburse another corporation is void for want of consideration. Witt v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 309.

18. Performance of legal obligation.—It is sufficient consideration for a stranger's indorsement of a note, without which the purchaser would not take it, that, from the proceeds of the sale, was to be and was paid what the payee of the note owed him. Farmers & Merchants' State Bank v. Palvey (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 833.

That a carrier of live stock furnished free transportation to the shipper as a caretaker is not consideration rendering binding a contract contained in a subsequently signed writing for damage or failure to furnish cars as orally agreed. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Stinson (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 526.

Agreement by lessor to accept sum less than face of rent notes in consideration of lessee's surrendering possession at fixed time is unenforceable, where by terms of lease, lessee was bound to surrender possession at that time. Boeger v. Vandegrift (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 948.

18/4. Evidence.—In an action on chattel mortgage notes, evidence held to sustain a finding that the notes were supported by a consideration. Trabue v. Guaranty State Bank (Civ. App.) 2 S. W. 612.

Testimony that plaintiff hired a hack from defendant held sufficient to show payment of consideration and render defendant liable for the loss of baggage in transit. Carter-Mullally Transfer Co. v. Angell (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 257.

20. Unenforceable or illegal consideration—Violation of statute or ordinance.—Where a corporation, through its agent, hired R. to retake and R. sold stock to defendant, receiving a note to S. & Co. for a part of the price, and another note for the balance, representing commissions, the latter note was not invalid as violating a statute prohibiting the corporation to sell stock except for money paid, labor done, or property transferred. Scheffel v. Smith (Civ. App.) 169 W. 879.

A lease of space for a fruit stand outside a store, providing that if the occupance of the space be contrary to ordinance, then the lessee shall have space inside, is not illegal, though an ordinance is passed for the ejection of such stand on the sidewalk. Wilson v. Comves (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 774.

When an act is prohibited by fundamental law or by statute as a means for protecting the public from fraud in contracts or to promote public policy, all contracts in violation thereof are void. Republic Trust Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 772.

Plaintiff entering into an insurance contract whereby he was to receive the benefits of a rebate offered in violation of Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, arts. 4897, 4954, while the contract was executory, might recover the premiums paid thereunder. Federal Life Ins. Co. v. Hookins (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 807.

There is no merit in contention that consideration for special conditions of shipping contract was invalid, as making lesser rates contrary to schedules approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, in the absence of evidence that the rate was not one of two rates approved by the Commission. Betts v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 532.

Where realty or personality has been acquired by means of contract forbidden by Constitution or statute, or otherwise unauthorized, vendor may recover specific property, where clearly identifiable, by return of anything he may have received by virtue of contract of sale. City of Ft. Worth v. Reynolds (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 691.

The head of a faction in a foreign state cannot recover money, intrusted to an agent to buy wheat in violation of law and carry it to the United States in violation of President's proclamation, from a secret service officer, to whom the agent delivered it, as the courts will not enforce agreements made in violation of law, or relieve the parties thereto. Caranza v. Hicks (Civ. App.) 192 W. 540.

In an action by the head of a faction in a foreign state to recover money intrusted to an agent to buy arms in violation of law and contrary to the President's proclamation, and turned over to a secret service officer, declarations of the agent held not to show plaintiff's right to the money to be inadmissible. Id.

21. — Public policy in general.—A contract binding plaintiff to pool his stock in a newspaper corporation with the stock of defendant, under conditions that the parties and a third person will settle all differences, held contrary to public policy under Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, arts. 1154, 1159. Funkhouser v. Capps (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 857.

An agreement by a thrasher, after looking over a farmer's wheat ricks, that he would give the farmer 4,350 bushels of wheat therefor, the thrasher to retain any excess threshed therefrom and to make good to the farmer any deficiency necessary to make up the 4,350 bushels, was unenforceable as a "wagering contract." Comer v. Powell (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 88.

Contract for sale of cotton, held wagering contract which could be so declared by court, regardless of ambiguity due to terms peculiar to cotton trade. Wolfe v. Andrews (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 266.

All contracts induced by fraud or deceit are not thereby void, unless tending to injure public service. Varn v. Gonzalez (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1132.

"Public policy" is determined by the spirit of the Constitution or law of the state where contract is made or contrary to public morals or illegal from any cause which equity will not enforce. Id.

22. — Immorality.—Where an agreement contemplated unlawful use of property sold in a bawdyhouse, title being retained in the seller pending payment, the contract was for an illegal object and payment of instalments due and unpaid could not be enforced. Hayes v. G. A. Stowers Furniture Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 149.

Evidence that grantor, owning lots in sections devoted to houses of prostitution, contracted and sold houses to persons likely to use them for immoral purposes, held sufficient to show sale for immoral purposes. Hall v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 674.
23. Inducing fraud.—A contract binding a carrier of cattle transported for sale at destination to transport, at its own expense, the cattle to and from the place of sale, so as to make the cattle in such condition at destination that they will inflate themselves with water and increase their weight when offered for sale, is void as in fraud of the rights of buyers, and cannot be made the basis for damages because breached. St. Paul v. S. N. St. W. R. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 1074.

A contract having for its object the practice of fraud upon a third party to take advantage of confidential relations is void. Varn v. Gonzales (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1132.

25. Prevention of competition.—An agreement that one of the parties should purchase the property to be sold and sell it to the other, which was not intended to stifle competition or prevent the property bringing a fair price, does not invalidate the sale. Evans v. Carter (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 749.

27. Affecting appointment to or emoluments of office.—A contract agreeing to pay money or other valuable thing to a testamentary trustee in consideration of his renunciation is void, being contra bonos mores. Lednum v. Dallas Trust & Savings Bank (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1127.

Evidence of an agreement of renunciation by testamentary trustees examined, and held not contra bonos mores, the trustees receiving no personal advantage, but surrendering in order that estate might be administered according to will. Id.

A by-law of a fraternal beneficary society declaring that a member's disappearance should be no evidence of his death, and that the by-law should be construed as a waiver of any statute, etc., thereon, held invalid, as a stipulation as to the admission of evidence ouing the court of its jurisdiction. Sovereign Camp of Woodmen of the World v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 215.

29. Compounding offenses.—An agreement by a creditor who had charged the debtor with crime to receive the amount of the debt and stop prosecution would be illegal and void. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 246.

30. Effect of partial illegality.—The whole consideration of the contract is void if any part thereof is illegal, and it is immaterial whether the illegality consists in a violation of statute or of the common law. Lloyd v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 123.

A contract, illegal in part, may be specifically enforced if the illegal part is severable, but not if it is the contract as a whole. Wicks v. Coates (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 274.

Invalidity of a contract for the control of a corporation held to render invalid a provision for the sale and purchase of stock. Funkhouser v. Cupps (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 987.

The rule that where the lawful part of a contract can be separated from the balance the unlawful part will be rejected does not apply where the consideration entering into the whole part is tainted with the illegality. Id.

If any part of consideration in a contract is illegal and not severable, the whole consideration is void, whether the illegality arises from statute or common law. Prudential Life Ins. Co. of Texas v. Pearson (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 513.

An agreement for resumption of marital rights as part of the consideration for a deed, made by a husband to a wife, was void and rendered whole contract, including an agreement for ratification of a prior deed, illegal. McKay v. McKay (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 829.

33. Relief to parties.—The mere knowledge that money was to be used by the borrower for an illegal purpose would not, without some act in furtherance thereof, defeat the lender's right to recover. Futch v. Sanger (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 587.

The court will not enforce an illegal contract, whether the illegality is malum in se or merely malum prohibitum. Bishop v. Japhet (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 499.

Where plaintiff gave her check to defendant bank in consideration of its release of its claim against a third person, the law would not aid plaintiff to recover back the amount, but would give it an agreement to carry out the fraud. Schofield v. Texas Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 505.

A note, the consideration of which is illegal, cannot be enforced as between the parties. McVey v. Dulin (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 908.

If a contract is void for any reason, it is immaterial as to the ground rendering it void, as it cannot be enforced in any event. Varn v. Gonzales (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1132.

Where an illegal contract has been fully executed by the parties, the courts will recognize the rights and titles resulting therefrom, where the suit is not to enforce the contract itself. Hall v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 674.

The courts will not assist in the furtherance of an illegal contract, and it is immaterial that the illegality does not appear upon the face of the contract. Id.

Relief to parties not in pari delicto.—Where a conveyance is executed under circumstances showing both parties in delicto, but one less guilty than the other, as where he has a mere knowledge of the fact that the property is to be put to an illegal use, without furthering such use, equity will relieve him even to the setting aside of the conveyance. Futch v. Sanger (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 587.

Plaintiff who on defendant's false representations that a proposed contract had been held legal by the courts, entered into it, and who received no benefit therefrom and abandoned it when he found it was illegal, was not in pari delicto and could rescind and cancel the note given to defendant. Coons v. Lain (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 981.

Where plaintiff, under an illegal contract, procured the ostensible sale of a liquor business to defendant, intending to own it himself and on his repudiation of the contract sued defendant for damages, who by a cross-action claimed the title, the court properly refused to render judgment for plaintiff, but erred in refusing to render judgment for defendant upon retaining his title and on a sequestration bond. Bishop v. Japhet (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 499.

Further or subsequent agreement.—Where defendant purchased property for immoral purposes, sale on foreclosure of trust deed was not an independent transaction but must be sale void. Hall v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 674.

Failure of consideration.—Shortage in acreage of land and misrepresentation by the vendor or his broker as to the quantity of land sold held not a partial failure of consideration for notes given by the vendee direct to a loan company, which advanced the amount specified therein, which was paid to the vendor as a part of the price. Roberts v. Prater (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 789.

Where an agent of an insurance company who accepted a premium note failed to pay the amount of the premium to the company, as he agreed, on account of which the policy was canceled, the consideration for the note had failed, and the maker can recover judgment against the agent in an action against him and the payee by an indorsor of the note. Newman v. Tarwater (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 495.

If stock was sold transferable to the purchaser only upon payment of his note, the refusal to deliver the stock would not constitute a failure of consideration of the note unless the seller had received payment of the note. 'Cowboy State Bank & Trust Co. v. Guinn (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1103.

Where an agent negotiated for his principal the sale of a worthless note for land, the grantor could recover the land for failure of consideration. Rutherford v. White (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 990.

Where an assignment of moneys due one party was made under the other party's agreement to extend the time on a mortgage, but no extension was made, the assignee was without consideration. First State Bank of Aransas Pass v. Fuson (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1042.

Art. 590. [315] [273] Liability of drawer, etc., fixed by protest.

In general.—An indorser's liability is conditioned upon default of the maker, and upon the holder fixing such liability by suit against the maker before the first term of court, under art. 579, or by protest according to this article, so that a petition in an action against an indorser was insufficient for not showing that his liability had been so fixed. Dunn v. Townsend (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 312.

Waiver of protest.—A provision of a note that each surety and indorser waived notice, protest, and presentation for payment fixed the liability of an indorser upon nonpayment, without protest, as effectively as a protest would have done. Central Bank & Trust Co. of Houston v. Hill (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1099.

Art. 593. [318] [276] Days of grace allowed on all bills and notes.

Days of grace.—A bill payable on demand is payable at once, without grace, while a bill payable at sight is entitled to grace. Waggoner Banking Co. v. Gray County State Bank (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 922.

Art. 593a. Notes and liens for patent rights.—That all notes and liens given for a patent right consideration or patent right territory shall state on their face that the same were given for a patent right. [Act March 22, 1915, ch. 76, § 1.]

Explanatory.—Act took effect 90 days after March 29, 1915, the date of the adjournment of the legislature.

Art. 593b. Same; notice to subsequent purchasers.—The aforesaid statement on the face of said notes or liens shall be notice to all subsequent purchasers of said notes or liens of all equities existing between the parties to the original transaction, and the same shall be subject to all defenses against subsequent owners and holders, that they would, if the same had remained in the hands of the original owner. [Id., § 2.]

Explanatory.—Sec. 3 makes it a misdemeanor to take a note for a patent or patent right territory without complying with the act, and is set forth in Vernon's Pen. Code 1916 as art. 992zzz.

DECISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT IN GENERAL

3. Execution and delivery.—A contract signed by "M. & B. agents of the estate of B. O'Connor, authorized by E. O. Tenison," which recited that there was received of C. a certain sum in payment of a lot, would not bind John F. O'Connor in the absence of proof that the contract was authorized to be signed for him. O'Connor v. Camp (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 203.

Where an escrow agreement provided for the delivery of vendors' lien notes on the final determination of litigation concerning the land in question, such final determination meant a final settling of the rights of the parties beyond appeal, and was not satisfied by dismissal of the action by consent of the parties. Hanby v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 415.

A written contract is not completed until signed or accepted and acted upon by the party not signing. Benson v. Ashford (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1093.

5. Designation of parties.—No one is chargeable on a note unless his name appears as a party to it in some relation. Adams v. First Nat. Bank of Waco (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 903.

The holder of notes executed alone by a partner for land, the deed to which ran to him alone, though the circumstances were such as to constitute him a trustee for his unnamed partner, could not recover thereon against such unnamed partner. Manley v. Noblitt (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1154.

6. Designation of amount.—The marginal figures in the corner of a note are not a part thereof, and where a difference exists between them and the sum stated in the body of the note, the latter controls. Washington County State Bank v. Central Bank & Trust Co. of Houston (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 456.

9. Acceptance.—A bill payable on demand is due and payable at once while a bill payable at sight must be presented for acceptance before it can be enforced against par-

The drawee of an order held to have accepted the order by the words, "the order shall have our attention" at an uncertain time. H. J. Murrell & Co. v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 532.

10. — Effect.—Where drafts were presented to and accepted by defendant, there was no need for plaintiff to have given defendant an instrument of a character absolutely liable, regardless of question whether or not payee in drafts was alive or dead when they were drawn. Bloch v. Rio Grande Valley Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 541.

19. Validity.—In a suit on a bond evidence held to support a verdict that the obligor notified the obligee he would not be bound unless the signatures of others were procured. Francis v. Cornelius (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 947.

If the promise of defendant's agents to loan plaintiff money was part of the agreement when plaintiff signed a stock subscription contract, he should have sought reformation, and cannot maintain suit to cancel the contract. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Barrington (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 956.

In an action on a note against administrator of maker, where defense was that note was given as consideration for a fraudulent sale of plaintiff's stock of goods, without intent it should be paid, evidence held to support a verdict for defendant. Powell v. Erwin (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 563.

Notes held valid, though effort to create lien on homestead for entire debt was ineffectual. Fraudulent sale was for something for which homestead could not be in­umbered. M. Kangera & Bro. v. Willard (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 185.

13. Fraud, duress and mistake.—In an action upon a check given by defendant to pay for repairs to his automobile, where plaintiffs by unlawful withholding possession of the machine compelled the giving of a check for a larger amount than that which was due, charging a delay in enforcement of their right, will not affect defendant's right to set up duress as a defense. Caldwell v. Auto Sales & Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1030.

Statement of payee's agent that notes were payable at P. with no effort to conceal the fact that they provided for payment at H. if not paid at maturity held not to constitute fraud in obtaining the execution of the notes. Newman v. Buffalo Pitts Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 657.

Notes were procured by payee's agent by misrepresentations concerning a matter in which the payee was not interested held a defense to the notes in the hands of the payee. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Pranks (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 692.

Statement of woman seeking note to bank for fraud held open to a construction rendering her agreement with the cashier of the bank not fraudulent as to the bank so as to defeat relief. Lockney State Bank v. Damron (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 562.

Cashier's misrepresentation to maker of note to bank as to its amount that he was also a party and would stand between her and all danger held sufficient ground for a cancellation. 1d.

Purchaser sued on note for purchase price held entitled to rely upon misrepresentations as a defense, not on the theory of fraud and deceit, but because they were warranties. Bolt v. State Savings Bank of Manchester, Iowa (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1119.

Instrument will not be set aside for mistake of one of the parties unless superin­ducement by Yantis v. Jones (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 116, 587.

Evidence in a suit on a note detached from a written contract or order executed by defendant and plaintiff's assignor, held to sustain finding that contract or order had been obtained from defendant for fraudulent purpose of realizing on it by transfer to third party. Lang v. Halaman (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1164.

In bank's suit on note for $150, wherein defendants claimed they had been defrauded, when one of them borrowed $125, into signing the note, evidence held sufficient to support judgment for defendants. Farmers' & Citizens' Sav. Bank v. Smith (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 1026.

In bank's suit on note, evidence held insufficient to sustain finding that a defendant obtained possession of note sued on from another defendant by means of fraudulent representations of such character as to amount to a fraudulent taking of the note without consideration. Guaranty State Bank v. Bland (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 546.

If, after signing, a bill of lading was altered by adding the words "charges guaran­teed," the alteration was material and would not bind the consignor. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Floyd (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 954.

Since a payee who makes a special indorsement of a note, and afterwards becomes its owner, may strike out his own and subsequent indorsements, and sue thereon in his own name, his erasure of his own indorsement is not such an alteration as to release the maker. Smalley v. Vinton (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 918.

Alteration of a note by changing the indorsement, by permission, after suit had begun, held error. Smith v. Cooley (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1056.

A change of a purport ed indorsement on the back of a note, originally indorsed thereon without authority, would not be an alteration of a contract. Robers v. Lan­ey (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 111.

The insertion of the words 'or bearer' following the name of the payee was not a material alteration. Douglas v. Lookhart (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 382.

Detaching of note for price of piano from order for the piano as authorized in the order held not an alteration of the contract. Harrison v. Hunter (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1036.
An alteration of a stock subscription contract with respect to the number of shares and amount of capital stock subscribed for, releases the subscribers. Bohn v. Burton Life Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 172.

The rule that where the instrument has been altered, recovery may be had on the original instrument applies only where the alteration has been without fraudulent intent. Id.

Change in personality, number, or relation of parties to instrument, without consent of the opposite party, held to avoid it, even in the hands of an innocent purchaser. Bolt v. State Savings Bank of Manchester, Iowa (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1119.

Where a note was attached without line or perforation to a conditional contract of sale, its subsequent detachment and negotiation was an alteration avoiding the note in the hands of an innocent purchaser for value. Spencer v. Tripplett (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 712.

Where the plaintiff's assignor and defendant, parties to a contract or order with a note attached, intended and understood that the note was not to be detached, its detachment for the purpose of negotiations was a material "alteration" of the note. Landon v. Halcomb (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1098.

Bank's innocent alteration of due date of note, pursuant to agreement with signatory, held to have destroyed instrument as an obligation, despite stipulation whereby parties secondarily liable waived presentment, etc., and agreed that, if note was extended as to them, their liability would not be affected. Caldwell Nat. Bank v. Reep (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 507.

While a material, though innocent, alteration of a note, destroys it as an obligation, and as a premise for recovery, under appropriate conditions recovery may be had on the original consideration. Id.

Where a note recited it was payment on numbered contract, erasure of number was a material alteration which would defeat action. Metropolitan Nat. Bank v. Vanderpool (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 589.

Change in contract of guaranty effected by a stranger to the instrument did not defeat recovery upon the contract as actually made. Goodman v. W. S. Peck & Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 785.

In suit on contract of guaranty, evidence held to justify trial court's finding that change in contract was in defendant's handwriting. Id.

15. Erasures before signing.—Where a printed statement in a contract is written over, varying its terms, the one accepting the contract must be held to have understood the significance of the change, and failure of his agent to communicate it would not provide him with a defense. American Mfg. Co. v. O. C. Frey Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 956.

Evidence held to show that interlineations in a contract were made by the defendant, who denied it, and were of date concurrent with the contract. Lester v. Hutson (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 286.

16. Indorsement and transfer in general.—In action on a premium note transferred by an insurance company to its soliciting agent in consideration of his paying the cost of term insurance, after the note had been dishonored, evidence held to warrant a finding that the writing of the words "with recourse" following the entire indorsement in blank was a mistake. Security Trust & Life Ins. Co. v. Stuart (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 396.

In an action on a note, evidence held to support a finding that the payee did not authorize its indorsement in her name by a third person. Sloan v. Gilmore (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1089.

The mere fact that the payee of a note is such in a fiduciary capacity does not incapacitate him to transfer it. Baker v. Brown (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 813.

It is not essential to validity of transfer of a note by the payee that the maker agree to or direct the transfer. Id.

In a suit on a note payable to maker and indorsed in maker's name, evidence held to support a finding that maker executed indorsement. Amthon v. First State Bank of Uvalde (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1019.

18. Title and rights acquired by purchase or payment.—A note and a trust deed given to secure it are so blended and merged into each other that an assignment or transfer of the note carries with it the mortgage lien. Ward v. San Antonio Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1443.

19. Liability on indorsement.—The indorsement of a note by a stranger for a consideration, on the sale thereof, carries with it his warranty of its genuineness, making him liable to the purchaser, even if the note is void as to the maker. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank v. Falvey (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 833.

An insurance company, which issued its stock, contravening Constitution and statute, for a note, and indorsed before maturity to a third person as part consideration for property transferred, was liable to the third person on its indorsement. Prudential Life Ins. Co. of Texas v. Smyer (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 825.

A holder cannot escape liability by showing that he had an understanding that his indorsement was to be without recourse on him, that he was ignorant of the legal effect of signing his name on the back of the note, and that he was told that signing his name was only a formal matter necessary to transfer. Barger v. Brubaker (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1025.

The indorser of a note, being only secondarily liable, cannot be held until a valid obligation is established against the maker. Hackney Mfg. Co. v. Celum (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 988.

If one not having an assignable interest in promissory notes joined in an indorsement for purpose of assignment alone, his liability would have been that of a surety.

20. — Compelling resort to security.—Where note and mortgage were given and payee indorsed note, by such indorsement he impliedly agreed that he was satisfied with transaction, and indorsee could accept the security as tendered and rely on indorsement, on which he could recover, though the security was lost owing to failure to record mortgage. Nunn v. Smith (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 406.

21. Indorsement without recourse.—A holder of notes indorsed without recourse cannot recover against his indorser on the notes, though he was induced by fraud to purchase them, but his remedy is by rescission of the contract and recovery of the price or the damages for fraud. Doll v. Hulsey (Civ. App.) 306 S. W. 394.

23. Discharge of indorser.—Where a note was obtained by fraudulent representation without consideration and plaintiff was not a bona fide holder without notice, releasing the maker from liability, an indorser was also released. Wills v. Tyer (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 862.

27. Liability of guarantor.—On a guaranty of the collection of certain assets of a bank, time not being of the essence, the guarantors were not relieved from liability because the uncoupled paper was not delivered to an attorney for suit within 30 days after maturity. First State Bank of Miami (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 435.

Where a note and contract of guaranty showed that defendant was liable on the note only as guarantor, the substitution as principal payor of the note of an insolvent corporation for the original payor, which was solvent, released the guarantor. May v. Wangier (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1106.

Where defendant's guaranty of certain drafts drawn on a grain company was subject to presentation of drafts, with bills of lading attached, direct to defendant for payment, there was a course of dealings, by a nonparty, third party, to the grain company, disregarding defendant, so as to make it liable for a draft so presented and refused by the drawee, without bill of lading attached. Waggoner Banking Co. v. Gray County State Bank (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 922.

A written guaranty of payment for merchandise limited in amount held a continuing one which rendered the guarantors liable, though the principal had paid more than the amount limited. Woelfel v. Rotan Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 803.

The liability under a guaranty will be construed as continuing when it is evident the object was to give a standing credit to the principal debtor to be used from time to time. Id. 28 1/2.

In construing written instruments effect must be given to every clause if possible, and in determining whether apparently contradictory provisions can be harmonized, the entire instrument should be looked to in the light of the surrounding circumstances. Thomas v. Waits (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 59.

Where two purposes or intents may be inferred from the language of a written instrument, and the main purpose clearly appears, it will control, but this merely means that language is susceptible of two meanings, neither of which does not contradict the main purpose, as evident on the face of the instrument. Id.

Where the language of a written instrument admits of but one meaning, and the different clauses are plainly contradictory, they mutually destroy each other and render the instrument void. Id.

Courts should hesitate to change by implication the terms of express contracts. Northern Irr. Co. v. Dodd (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 946.

The governing principle in the construction of contracts is the intention of the parties. Rankin v. Hhea (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1088.

Where an instrument is susceptible of two constructions, the one working no injustice should be adopted. Id.

It is the duty of courts to enforce contracts as they have made them, notwithstanding a hardship may be worked. Id.

Particular words may not be isolatedly considered, but the whole contract must be interpreted with reference to the nature of the obligation between the parties. Id.

The meaning of words in a contract is governed by the intent of the parties, and, though the terms are not ambiguous, the situation of the parties, the subject-matter, and other circumstances may be looked to, and a party will be bound by that meaning which he knew the other party supposed the words to bear. Dublin Electric & Gas Co. v. Osborn (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 113.

In construing a written contract, words used should be accepted in their ordinary sense, unless there is something to show that they were used in a different sense. Gulf Refining Co. v. Brown-Lloyd Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 162.

A telegram by a bank to protect drawees on drafts secured by cotton against overdrafts held an unconditional guaranty. William D. Cleveland & Sons v. First State Bank of Floydada (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 665.

The rule that the contract of a guarantor is to be strictly construed in his favor is applied only after the legal scope of its terms is determined by the same rule of construction applied to other writings. Taylor v. First State Bank of Hawley (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 35.

In construing a contract the court should seek the intention of the parties from the words used, the subject-matter, and the purpose of the agreement, reconciling conflicting clauses, and considering the instrument as a whole in the light of surrounding circumstances.

circumstances, to give it a fair and customary construction, giving effect to all terms. Stone v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. [135].

Where the maturity of a note rests at the election of the holder, until such election is exercised the debt will not be considered due. Cofer v. Beverly (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 608.

Contracts are to be construed in accordance with intention of parties ascertained from writing itself when meaning is clear. Corbin v. Booker (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 696.

When some of the provisions of a contract are printed and some written, and there is a conflict between the printed and written provisions, the printed must yield. American Nat. Co. v. Dusen (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 634.

Where a note is of doubtful meaning, or the language is ambiguous, the construction given by the parties themselves, as shown by their conduct or admissions, will be deemed the true one. T. W. Marse & Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1057.

Where a contract is ambiguous because of apparent inconsistencies between the written or typewritten and printed parts, the written or typewritten words control. Producers' Oil Co. v. Snyder (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 514.

Where the printed terms of sale of a contract were left blank, the terms written in ink are conclusive. Ames Portable Silo & Lumber Co. v. Worrall (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 489.

29. Construction as to parties—Joint or several.—Where a note recites that "we" or "we" are to pay, and is executed by the president of a corporation for the company, and indorsed by him as surety, it must be treated as a joint obligation. Canadian Long Distance Telephone Co. v. Selber (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 807.

30. Principals, sureties, or guarantors.—In an action on a note, evidence held to sustain finding that a maker gave the comaker authority to execute the note for the former, and not merely bind him as surety. Connor v. Uvalde Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 175.

One who, as part of the original transaction, indorses a draft is liable to pay it if the drawer fails to do so. Harper v. Winfield State Bank (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 627.

One not the payee of a note, who signs his name on the back thereof before delivery without his authority to express his assent thereunto, is an original promisor or surety. Brooks v. Stevens (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 30.

Under agreement whereby indorsers renewed a note without the maker's signature, and whereby one indorsed such note without agreement fixing his liability and afterwards renewed the note, they would not be sureties, but principals. Wilson v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 738.

Joint obligors on a note are, as between themselves, each sureties for the payment of the shares of the others. Red River Nat. Bank v. Ferguson (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1089.

Relation between indorser and maker of note, even after liability of indorser is fixed by protest or waiver, is very similar to that of principal and surety, and most acts which will discharge one will discharge other. Nunn v. Smith (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 406.

Where one of two accommodation makers of a note before payee bank had advanced money thereon notified bank of his withdrawal from note, his release did not release other accommodation maker. Id.

32. Relation to other makers.—President of corporation who writes his name on back of its note, at inception, before delivery, for accommodation of corporation, is surety and not indorser. Houston Tranap. Co. v. Payne (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 188.

33. Collateral agreement.—Where a purchaser under a contract for the sale of goods would sell and transfer to the vendor two notes executed by a third person, one of which was received as the recitals in the deed as cash, was only required to indorse such note without recourse. Clapton v. Abee (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 180.

An agreement between the makers of a note that it should not be used unless signed by other parties will not defeat the payee's right to recover on it, unless he had notice thereof when he accepted it. Solomon v. Merchants' & Planters' Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 1059.

In an action on a note given in payment for corporate stock, held, that the balance of the stock subscribed for by the payee of the note which was not legally issued under Const. art. 11, § 6, had never been placed as required by a collateral agreement before plaintiff's obligation became binding. Sanger v. First Nat. Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1087.

Cause of action against person fraudulently failing to sign renewal note as agreed held for breach of such promise and not on the note. Kelley v. Audra Lodge No. 435, Fraternal Union of America (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 734.

Two signers of a note as principals had the right to sign and deposit it with the payee on condition that it should not become valid until other principals had signed it. First State Bank of Amarillo v. Cooper (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 255.

27. Parties.—Drawer of draft payable to plaintiff bank held not released from liability by its cashier's agreement as to sale of cotton subject to lien, nor entitled to complain of irregularity therein, where it was sold at market value and the proceeds were credited to him. Harper v. Winfield State Bank (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 627.

Monetary judgment holder of notes, after a bank, its third party was an indemnitor and had agreed to pay the same, did not impose on the bank any obligation to pursue the third party and to exhaust securities owned by him and in the bank's hands before suing the maker. Anderson v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 836.

In action by bank on note, an answer demanding accounting under alleged agreement of payee to deposit with plaintiff bank moneys realized upon sale of lands in which maker was interested, which moneys were to be applied on note, held to state good defense as against general demurrer. Seabrook v. First Nat. Bank of Fort Lavaca (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 314.

38. Extension and agreements to extend.—An agreement to extend the time of payment of vendor's lien notes, in consideration of the debtor's agreement to pay interest, is not binding, where the debtor did not obligate himself to pay interest for a definite time and there was no agreement to extend the notes for any stated period. Workman v. Ray (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 291.

40. Effect.—Giving time to one joint maker of a negotiable note does not discharge the other joint makers. Hardy v. Carter (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1033.

The extension of the time for paying the note guarantying a that an extension of time for payment should not discharge the guarantor was effectual, and discharge would not follow on extension, though unconsented to by the guarantor. Neblett v. Cooper Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1162.

Where the holder of a vendor's lien note exercised his option to declare the whole debt due for failure to pay an interest installment, an agreement by such holder after declaring the note due to extend the time for payment of interest bound his assignee. Cooper v. Beverly (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 408.

Agreement by holder of note for extension of time for payment of installment of interest held to estop him and his assignee from declaring the entire note due, under its provisions, for failure to pay the installment when due. Id.

whereby written or express authorization of the extension of time for payment is not released by the taking of additional security as a consideration for such extension. Woeflel v. Rotan Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 803.

42. Defenses against payee.—The fact that the note sued on was given by defendant to guarantor by contract purporting to transfer the consideration of the purchase, and not as a forfeit upon the purchaser's failure to perform, would not be a defense to an action on the note by vendor on the purchaser's failure to perform. Sears v. Ainsworth (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 60.

Seller of piano held entitled to recover on notes given for its price; the facts not showing rescission of the contract. Perry v. Smith (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 160.

The extension of the time for paying the note guarantying a that an extension of time for payment should not discharge the guarantor was effectual, and discharge would not follow on extension, though unconsented to by the guarantor. Neblett v. Cooper Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1162.

That a purchaser of irrigating machinery gave notes to secure the purchase price and the seller forebore to enforce collection will not preclude the purchaser from recovering damages for loss of crops due to the failure of the machinery to properly irrigate the land. Id.

Cancellation of subscription note held properly denied, where, though maker's brother was to sign it, a note by the brother had been turned over to plaintiff, and he had not offered to return it. Collette v. Quanah, A. & F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 857.

43. Payment, tender or release.—A note for $290, executed by plaintiff to defendant, was indorsed and discharged if defendant afterwards presented to defendant a bill for $200 for services in satisfaction of the note, and requested that the note be returned, and defendant impliedly acquiesced in such means of payment. Autrey v. Collins (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 413.

Where renewal notes were not executed according to the agreement, the creditor's extension of time and acceptance of the renewal notes held not to discharge the original note which was retained. Rushing v. Citizens' Nat. Bank of Plainview (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 489.

Where a note was the joint and several obligation of the makers, the release of one of them did not operate as a release of the others. Tinkham v. Wright (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 615.

Where either of two renewal notes constituted a novation, the note for which the renewals were given was no longer a binding obligation. First State Bank of Amarillo v. Cooper (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 285.

Where the holder of a note providing for attorney's fees, instituted suit thereon, a tender of the principal and interest due, but without the attorney's fees, or accrued costs, is insufficient. Dawson v. Falfurrias State Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 553.

Application of payment made.—If there was no appropriation of a payment made upon a promissory note, it would be applied to the interest. Wilson v. Ware (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 705.

Recovery of payments made.—A purchaser, making a partial payment and giving a note for a partial payment, held entitled to recover the money paid and the note, on the vendor being unable to give good title without awaiting the outcome of a suit to perfect the title. Raywood Canal & Milling Co. v. Sharp (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 499.

Vendor receiving partial payment and note for another payment held liable to purchaser therefor, on his inability to convey good title within the specified time, though purchaser stated that he was unable to perform. Id.

A vendor held to waive the purchaser's nonpayment of a note, so that the purchaser could recover a partial payment made and the note. Id.

A company which had received defendant's note, without consideration and upon a credit and had transferred it to a bank and paid it when indebted to defendant for a greater amount and charged defendant the amount, but failed to return it to defendant, could not recover thereon. Orange Iron Works v. Stafford (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 683.

Where payees, contrary to their agreement, transferred note to an innocent purchaser who secured a judgment, including attorney's fees against the maker, the maker could recover the entire amount, and not merely face of note, from the payees. Texas Life Ins. Co. v. Huntman (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 445.

46. — Agreement to pay note.—In an action on a note of a corporation, evidence held to warrant a finding that defendant had assumed payment of the note, and had not merely agreed to indemnify the indorser. Bank of Garvin v. Freeman (Sup.) 181 S. W. 187.

47. — Evidence.—In a suit on a note, evidence held to show that it was not intended that the notes which were given to secure a guaranty should be discharged when the guaranty was discharged. Gaines v. Brown (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 226.

A provision in a note that, if it be placed with an attorney for collection, the maker will pay 10 per cent. as attorney's fees should be enforced unless unreasonable. Childs v. Juenger (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 474.

A vendor cannot recover an attorney's fee provided for in vendor's lien notes on default in making payments, where no part of the debt was due at the time suit was brought. Douglas v. App. 177 S. W. 563.

51. Nature of claim.—Where purchaser in possession sued for title to land, claiming the notes he would have executed therefor, if they had been presented, would have been barred, and defendant recovered, defendant was not entitled to the stipulated attorney's fees on the notes, since his recovery was not on the notes, but in equity on his superior title to the land and after long delay in prosecuting his claim. Corbett v. Allman (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 91.

52. Against whom recoverable.—Purchaser of land from grantees of original purchasers, who had given vendor's lien notes therefor carrying attorney's fees, who had assumed payment of the sum called for, held liable for attorney's fees in suit on the notes by the original vendors. Allen v. Traylor (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 923.

53. Placing with attorney for collection.—A payee of notes who may, at his option, declare all the notes due for nonpayment of the note first maturing, need not give the maker notice of his election to declare all the notes due before placing them in the hands of an attorney for collection, and making a contract for attorney's fees to recover the same as provided in the notes. Coleman v. Garvin (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 185.

A payee of a note stipulating for attorney's fees, who placed the note in the hands of an attorney only for foreclosure, may not recover attorney's fees. Gunter v. Merchant (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 191, rehearing denied 173 S. W. 260.

54. Bringing suit.—A holder of a note, stipulating for attorney's fees in the event of an action thereon, may not recover attorney's fees where he does not bring suit, but compels another to do so, and contests the right to maintain the action. Canadian Country Club v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 835.

Where a note provided for 10 per cent. attorney's fees if not paid at maturity, and suit was instituted on the third day of grace, attorney's fees were properly allowable where trial was not had until nearly two months thereafter; the error in prematurely filing the action, by Ashton v. Balkam (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 585.

55. Payment to, or agreement with, attorney.—Where defendant took notes which were then being sued on by plaintiff under an agreement with former owners that he should receive the 10 per cent. attorney's fees stipulated therein, with knowledge of such agreement, and that the suit was pending, held, that defendant was bound, as upon a constructive contract, to pay the attorney's fees to plaintiff upon the judgment being taken in defendant's name. Caldwell v. Stalcup (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 110.

57. Amount.—A stipulation in a note for 10 per cent. attorney's fee will be enforced when the note is collected by suit without a showing of the amount paid by the holder to his attorney. Rushing v. Citizens' Nat. Bank of Plainview (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 460.

In an action on a note stipulating for attorney's fees, where there was no proof that the stipulated fees were unreasonable or unconscionable, the court was authorized to act on the stipulation and enter judgment for the stipulated amount. Lock v. Citizens' Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 536.

The full amount of attorneys' fees stipulated in notes sued on may in the absence of proof of its unreasonableness, and therefore on default, be included in the judgment. McCaulley v. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 728.

58. Reasonableness.—Holder in due course of notes providing for 10 per cent. attorney's fees could recover attorney's fees without proving the reasonable value of the services rendered, in the absence of proof that the amount was unreasonable. Brannin v. Richardson (Sup.) 185 S. W. 562.

59. Right of action on note.—When a note is payable to bearer, possession passes property and is sufficient authority for maintaining suit. Kanaman v. Gahagan (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 619.

60. Accrual of cause of action.—Bringing of suit on notes containing stipulations that failure to pay one when due should mature the other at holder's election, one being past due when suit was instituted, held sufficient to show holder's election to declare second note due. Stewart v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 586.

Where the failure to pay an installment of a debt ipso facto matures the whole debt, it is not the rule that by accepting payment of overdue installments or extending time upon an installment the creditor waives the default. Cofrer v. Beverly (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 608.

Where a mortgagor makes an honest, but unsuccessful, effort to find the mortgagee and to tender him his interest and is prevented from ascertaining the owner of the note, the courts have the power to release the mortgagor from the effect of nonpayment, which would otherwise mature the whole debt. Id.

Sale of note, given to secure advancement of price of land, by the assignee of the original payee, with the understanding that the suit instituted by the assignee should be dismissed, and its dismissal, did not annul the assignee's election to declare the note due for nonpayment of interest, or estop the buyer from such election. Finley v. Wakefield (Civ. App.) 384 S. W. 765.

The holder of a check may, on the drawee refusing payment, sue the indorser without returning the check to him, having credited his account with the amount thereof and paid his drafts, reducing his balance below such amount. Morris v. First State Bank of Dallas (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 174.

63. Lost instruments—indemnity.—In a suit against a corporation to establish rights under lost stock, the court may order an indemnity bond to be given to defendant as a condition precedent to plaintiffs' recovery. Yeaman v. Galveston City Co. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 489, certified questions answered by Supreme Court 187 S. W. 710, 106 Tex. 389.

64. Conversion of note.—Measure of damage for conversion, while maker was solvent, of notes given to cover purchase price of stock sold by plaintiff, in which notes he held a 15 per cent. interest as commission, held 15 per cent. of the face of such notes. Mutual Loan & Investment Co. v. Matthews (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 924.

In an action for conversion of notes given for the price of stock sold by plaintiff, in which notes he had a 15 per cent. interest as commission, converted by defendant, his principal, by transferring them to liquidate its own debt, judgment for plaintiff for 15 per cent. of face of notes, less credit arising through individual dealings between him and purchaser of stock, held proper. Id.

Return of notes converted to defendant, who transferred them, held not to bar plaintiff's right of action for the initial conversion. Id.

Transfer by defendant of notes, together with stock, purchased therewith and pledged by buyer as security, to liquidate an individual indebtedness of defendant, held a conversion of the 15 per cent. interest in such notes of plaintiff, who had negotiated the sale. Id.

If one joint owner of a secured note assumed authority to deal with interest of co-owner, and loss ensued, measure of damages would be value of co-owner's interest. Beall v. Clack (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 774.

One joint owner in possession of a secured note payable to order of co-owner has no authority to dispose of co-owner's interest in note or convert it to its own use. Id.

BLACKLISTING

Article 594. Discrimination.

The impairment of a corporation's right to discharge employees by the Blacklisting Law cannot be sustained as an exercise of the police power. The law is invalid as a denial of the equal protection of the laws secured by Const. U. S. Amend. 14, as violative of the constitutional right of liberty of contract, and violative of the liberty to speak and write secured by Const. art. 1, § 8. Where a contract of employment is for an indefinite time, either party may end it at will without cause or notice. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Griffin, 171 S. W. 703, 106 Tex. 477, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 583.
TITLE 18
BONDS—COUNTY, MUNICIPAL, ETC.

CHAPTER ONE
GENERAL PROVISIONS AND REGULATIONS AS TO THE ISSUE OF BONDS

Art. 605. Election on bonds required.
Submission to taxpayers.—A city can issue, in installments as they are needed for the work, bonds, though the question submitted to the voters was the issue of the total
A city intending, and taking necessary steps, to issue warrants, instruments issued pursuant thereto, though containing elements of a bond are warrants, and not bonds requiring for their issuance vote of the taxing voters. Graves v. M. Griffin O'Neill & Sons (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 778.
Misappropriation of sinking fund for previous bond issue.—That a city had misap­­propriated money in a sinking fund created to pay previous bond issues, does not au­­thorize an injunction against a subsequent bond issue until that money has been restored.
Cohen v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 809.

Diversion of proceeds.—The proceeds of bonds issued for the erection of a bridge "at or near" a designated crossing, under arts. 605 and 606, cannot be diverted by the county commissioners' court to the construction of a bridge at another crossing five or six miles away; the latter crossing not being "near" the designated one. Moore v. Coffman (Civ.
App.) 189 S. W. 94.

Form of submission.—Under arts. 605, 616, and 884, the notice for an election on a municipal bond question need not specify the rate of the tax to be levied, but that is left to the city council or town board. Hunter v. Rice (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 840.

Diversion of proceeds.—See Moore v. Coffman (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 94.

Art. 610. [877] Courthouse, jail, bridge, road, and poorhouse and farm bonds, authorized.
Cited, Coleman-Fulton Pasture Co. v. Aransas County (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 312;
Moore v. Coffman (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 94.

Art. 612. [879] Interest on such bonds.

Variance between bonds and proposition submitted.—Under arts. 627-641, and article 612, held, that bonds of a road district bearing interest at 5 per cent. semiannually were valid, although order of court under which election was held stated that it was to vote on issuance of 5 per cent. bonds. Moore v. Commissioners' Court of Bell County (Civ.
App.) 175 S. W. 849.

Art. 616. [918a] Annual tax to meet interest and sinking fund.

Form of submission.—The notice for an election on a municipal bond question need not specify the rate of the tax to be levied, but that is left to the city council or town

Tax lien.—Where a municipal corporation was liable on bonds, a tax lien to secure them on all the property within the corporate limits existed. Young v. City of Colorado
(Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Art. 617. [918b] Rate of interest; terms of sale.

Expenses of bond issue.—Under Sp. Acts 1907, c. 70, amending the charter of San An­­tonio, no commissions, attorney's fees, or other expenses connected with a bond issue can be taken from the proceeds, unless the bonds are sold at a premium sufficient to pay such expenses, but the city was not precluded from contracting to pay expenses incident to the issuance of bonds, including commissions and attorney's fees, out of the general

Provisions of ordinance.—Under the statute requiring municipal bonds to be sold for not less than par and accrued interest, an ordinance, providing for their sale at par, though not in the language, met the requirement, as the taxpayers would receive the principal and accrued interest and hence did not invalidate the bonds. McCarthy v. McElvaney (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1181.

Art. 618. [918c] No bond to run longer than forty years.

Art. 626. [918g] Law not applicable in certain cases.

CHAPTER TWO

PARTICULAR PROVISIONS AND REGULATIONS AS TO THE ISSUE OF BONDS

1. PUBLIC ROADS—CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE OF

Art. 627. Power to issue road, etc., bonds and levy tax for interest and sinking fund.

Disposition of proceeds.—A claim for breach of a contract for the construction of a road cannot be paid out of proceeds of bonds issued by the district. Matagorda County v. Horn (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 76.

"Roads" as including bridges.—Const. art. 3, § 52, as amended in 1903, authorizing counties, etc., to issue bonds for road construction, empowers counties, etc., to build necessary bridges as part of roads; the use of the term "roads" in Const. art. 3, § 56, art. 8, § 9, art. 11, § 2, and art. 16, § 24, not being controlling. Aransas County v. Coleman-Fulton Pasture Co. (Sup.) 191 S. W. 553.

"Paved roads" as including shell roads.—Const. art. 5, § 52, as amended in 1908, authorizing counties, etc., to issue bonds to construct "paved" roads, empowers counties, etc., to construct shell roads. Aransas County v. Coleman-Fulton Pasture Co. (Sup.) 191 S. W. 556.

Districts which may issue bonds.—Const. art. 3, § 52, as amended in 1904, and Rev. St. art. 627, relating to road districts and their bonds, held not limited to political subdivisions then existing or subsequently created by Legislature, but to extend to districts created by commissioners' court ordering election in particular territory. Moore v. Commissioners' Court of Bell County (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 849.

District including city.—Under Const. art. 3, § 52, as amended in 1904, fact that city located in road district had already issued bonds to its constitutional limit held not to render district's issuance of bonds void. Moore v. Commissioners' Court of Bell County (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 849.

Art. 628. Election for; propositions, restrictions and requirements; provision as to interest.—Upon the petition of fifty, or a majority of resident property tax paying voters of any county, or political subdivision or defined district of any county in this state, to the county commissioners court of such county, such court shall have the power, and it is hereby made its duty, at any regular or special session thereof, to order an election to be held in such county, political subdivision or defined district thereof, to determine whether or not the bonds of such county, or political subdivision or defined district thereof, shall be issued in any amount not to exceed one-fourth of the assessed valuation of the real property of such county, or political subdivision, or defined district, for the purpose of constructing, maintaining or operating macadamized, graveled or paved roads and turnpikes, or in aid thereof; and, at such election, there shall also be submitted to such resident property taxpaying voters the question as to whether or not a tax shall be levied upon the property of said county, or political subdivision or defined district thereof, subject to taxation, for the purpose of paying the interest on said bonds and to provide a sinking fund for the redemption thereof.
The amount of bonds proposed to be issued, with rate of interest thereon and date of maturity, shall be stated in the order ordering said election, and in the notice therefor; or such order and notice may provide that the bonds may bear interest at a rate to be fixed by the commissioners court, not to exceed five and one-half per cent, and that the bonds may mature at such times as may be fixed by the commissioners court, serially or otherwise, not to exceed thirty years from their date, except as otherwise provided in Articles 637a and 637b hereof; provided that where such election is ordered for a political subdivision or defined district of a county, other than the whole county, such order and notice of election shall describe the boundaries thereof as described and defined in the order of the county establishing such political subdivisions or defined district of the county. [Acts 1907, p. 250; Acts 1909, S. S. p. 271; Act April 5, 1917,
ch. 203, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The act amends arts. 628 and 622, ch. 2, tit. 18, Rev. Civ. St. 1911, and adds to such chapter arts. 637a to 637f, inclusive. Filed with Secretary of State without approval April 5, 1917.

Cited, Coleman-Fulton Pasture Co. v. Aransas County (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 312;

Form of submission.—Bonds of a road district bearing interest at 5 per cent. semi­ annually were valid, although order of court under which election was held stated that it was to vote on issuance of 5 per cent. bonds. Moore v. Commissioners' Court of Bell County (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 849.

Art. 632. Bonds, term, interest, examination, registry, custody; sale; disposition of proceeds; disbursement, regulation of.—Such bonds shall mature not later than thirty years from their date, except as otherwise provided in Articles 637a and 637b hereof, with such options of redeem­ tion as may be fixed by the commissioners court, or such bonds may be issued to mature serially in approximately equal portions every year for not exceeding thirty years; and such bonds shall bear not more than five and one-half per cent interest per annum, and which bonds shall be examined by the Attorney General of Texas, and registered by the Comtroller of Public Accounts of Texas, and such bonds, when so issued, shall continue in the custody of and under the control of the commissioners court of the county in which they were issued, and shall be by said court sold to the highest and best bidder, for cash, either in whole or in parcels, at not less than their par value, and the purchase money therefor shall be placed in the county treasury of such county to the credit of the available road fund of such county, or of such political subdivision or defined district of such county, as the case may be; provided that the expense incurred in surveying the boundaries of a political subdivision or defined district of the county and other expenses incident to the issuance of bonds of such political subdivisions or defined districts shall be paid from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds of the district. Such funds shall be paid out by the county treasurer upon warrants drawn on such funds issued by the county clerk of the county, countersigned by the county judge, upon certified accounts approved by the commissioners court of the county, when such funds belong to the entire county; and, when such funds belong to a political subdivision or defined district of the county, they shall be paid out by the county treasurer upon warrants issued by the county clerk, upon certified accounts of the road superintendent of such road district, and approved by the commissioners court of the county. [Acts 1909, S. S. p. 271; Act April 5, 1917, ch. 203, § 1.]

See note under art. 628.

Form of submission.—Under arts. 627-641, and article 612, held, that bonds of a road district bearing interest at 5 per cent. semiannually were valid, although order of court under which election was held stated that it was to vote on issuance of 5 per cent. bonds. Moore v. Commissioners' Court of Bell County (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 849.

Sale of bonds at discount.—That the court of county commissioners sold the bonds of a road district at a discount by means of a sham contract will not invalidate the contract of a third person with the county commissioners for the sale of road materials, even though arts. 627-655 are evaded by the sale of such bonds at a discount. Douglass v. Myrick (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 422.

A contract is not prohibited from selling road construction bonds to road contractors, provided there is no evasion of the statute forbidding sale of bonds for less than par value and accrued interest. A contract for road construction work and a sale of road district bonds to the contractor held not an evasion of the statute forbidding sale of bonds for less than par and accrued interest. Ogg v. Dies (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 635.

Custody and control of bonds.—Under the requirement that bonds shall remain in the custody of the commissioners' court until sold for cash at not less than par, an order of the commissioners' court transferring the custody of bonds to the county attorney and giving him unrestricted authority to sell is void, and a contract, by which the commissioners ordered the county attorney to sell the bonds to the county, with the authority to sell them at the best price obtainable, delegated authority to him to bind the sale, and is therefore void. Jones v. Veltmann (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 287.

Time of maturity.—Under Rev. St. art. 622, bonds of road district maturing in 40 years, with option to redeem some of them before expiration of 20 years, held valid. Moore v. Commissioners' Court of Bell County (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 849.

Diversion of fund.—Where the people of a county voted bonds to construct macadamized, graveled, or paved roads, the diversion, by county authorities, of over half the funds realized to the construction of necessary bridges will be restrained, but the county authorities could constitutionally use the funds to erect shell roads. Coleman-Fulton Pasture Co. v. Aransas County (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 316.

Art. 637a. County may issue bonds to take over roads constructed by district; election; tax; term of bonds.—In any county of this State wherein any road district or districts have heretofore been, or may hereafter be formed, and bonds have been issued in said district or districts for the purpose of constructing public roads under the provisions of the general, or of any special county road law, and it should be desired that the said district roads be merged into and become a part of a general county system of public roads, it shall be the duty of the commissioners court, upon the presentation of a petition signed by 250 resident property tax paying voters of the county, whether residing in such road district or districts or not, to order an election under the provisions of Chapter 1, Title 18 or Chapter 2, Title 18, Revised Civil Statutes of this State, 1911 compilation, to determine whether or not the bonds of such county shall be issued for the purpose of purchasing or taking over the improved roads already constructed in said road district or districts and of further constructing, maintaining and operating macadamized graveled or paved roads and turnpikes throughout such county, such bonds to be issued in such an amount as may be stated in the petition and order of the commissioners court within the limitations of the constitutional and statutory provisions; and, at such election, there shall also be submitted to such resident property tax paying voters the question as to whether or not a tax shall be levied upon the property of said county, or political subdivision or defined district thereof, subject to taxation, for the purpose of paying the interest on said bonds and to provide a sinking fund for the redemption thereof. At said election those favoring the issuance of bonds and the levy of taxes as herein provided for shall have written or printed on their ballot "For the issuance of bonds for the purchase of district roads and the further construction, maintenance and operation of macadamized, graveled or paved roads and turnpikes, and for the levy and collection of a tax to provide for interest and sinking fund for said bonds"; and those opposing the issuance of bonds and the levy of taxes as herein provided shall have written or printed on their ballots "Against the issuance of bonds for the purchase of district roads and the further construction, maintenance, and operation of macadamized, graveled or paved roads and turnpikes, and against the levy and collection of a tax to provide for interest and sinking fund for said bonds." The bonds issued under this Article may mature serially or otherwise at the discretion of the commissioners court and may run for a term not to exceed forty years. The issuance and sale of said bonds and the levy and collection of taxes therefor shall be conducted as now required by law except as herein otherwise provided. [Act April 5, 1917, ch. 203, § 2.]

Explanatory.—See note under art. 638. The title of the act, in enumerating the articles to be added, designates this article as 636a instead of 637a.

Art. 637a. BONDS—COUNTY, MUNICIPAL, ETC. (Title 18)

Art. 637b. Exchange of county bonds for bonds of road district; levy of tax.—In the event the proposition to issue such county bonds shall receive the necessary favorable vote, as is now provided by law, and said bonds shall have been approved and issued, the taxes theretofore levied and collected in any road district or districts shall from that date be dispensed with as hereinafter provided. It shall be the duty of the commissioners court to act apart from such county issue bonds in an amount equal to all of the outstanding bonds of any such district or districts. The bonds so set apart by the commissioners court shall be used exclusively for purchasing or taking over the improved roads in any road district or districts within such county. Said bonds shall be issued in similar denominations, bearing the same rate of interest, having the same date of maturity, and with similar options of payment, as the outstanding bonds of any such road district or districts, it being the intent hereof that said county bonds shall in every respect be similar to said district bonds except that they shall be county obligations instead of district obligations. Such county bonds so set apart shall be disposed of in the purchase of said improved district roads in one of the following methods, to-wit:

1. An exchange of said bonds may be made with the holder or holders of any outstanding district road bonds. The agreement for such exchange shall be evidenced by order of the Commissioners court authorizing the same, and by the written consent of the holder or holders of such district bonds properly signed and acknowledged as provided for the acknowledgment of written instruments by the laws of this state, which said order of court, written agreement properly executed by the holder or holders of such district bonds, together with the county bonds to be given in exchange, shall be presented to and approved by the Attorney General of the State and shall bear his certificate of approval before the exchange is finally consummated. In arranging an exchange of county bonds for district bonds, interest coupons may be detached and such credits arbitrarily entered on any bond or bonds as may be necessary so that the principal and interest represented by county bonds may be the same in amount as represented by the district bonds surrendered in exchange, any difference in market value of said bonds being taken into account. When such exchange of county bonds for district bonds shall have been consummated it shall be the duty of the Commissioners Court to cancel and destroy said district bonds. A complete itemized list of all such district bonds so retired shall be put on record with appropriate order of the court evidencing such retirement, and thereafter no tax shall ever be levied or collected therefor under the original election in such district or districts, and the sinking fund then on hand to the credit of any such district or districts shall be passed to the sinking fund account of the county.

2. In the event that an exchange of county bonds for district bonds cannot be made as hereinbefore provided, for, it shall then be the duty of the Commissioners Court, not later than ninety days after the approval and issuance of said county bonds, to effect the purchase of the improved roads in such district or districts by depositing with the county treasurer for the credit of the interest and sinking fund account of said district or districts an amount of county bonds equal in face value to the amount of outstanding district bonds. Said county bonds so deposited shall be similar in all respects to the outstanding district bonds as here­inbefore provided, and interest coupons may be detached and credits arbi­trarily entered on any bond or bonds in order to make the amount so de­posited to the credit of any district equal to the face value of outstanding bonds of said district. Before such deposit of county bonds shall be made and credit passed to said district or districts, there shall be sub­mitted to the Attorney General of the State a certified list of all bonds of such district or districts then outstanding, which list shall show the date, amount, rate of interest and date of maturity of said outstanding bonds, together with the county bonds to be so deposited, and an order of the Commissioners Court authorizing such action, and shall bear his certificate of approval before said transaction shall be finally consum­mated. After such county bonds shall have been deposited for the credit of the interest and sinking fund account of said district or districts, the sinking fund theretofore collected and on hand for the credit of such dis­trict or districts, shall be passed to the sinking fund account of the county. The Commissioners Court shall no longer levy and collect the taxes provided for under the original election for said bonds in such district or districts, but in lieu thereof they shall annually, from the taxes levied for the county bonds hereinbefore provided for, pay the interest on said county bonds deposited for the credit of such district or districts, de­taching the coupons therefor, and said payment of interest shall be passed to the credit of the interest account of said district or districts as the owner of said county bonds and the funds so realized by said district or districts shall be used by the Commissioners Court to pay the interest on all outstanding district bonds. From said county taxes levied for that purpose, the Commissioners Court shall also set aside annually the neces­sary sinking fund for the retirement of said county bonds, and upon ma­turity of said county bonds, the Commissioners Court shall pay said bonds in full, and said payment shall be passed to the credit of the sink­ing fund of such district or districts, and the funds so realized by said district or districts shall be used by the Commissioners Court to pay in full all outstanding district bonds. [Id.]

See note under art. 628.

Art. 637c. County bonds in excess of district bonds may be expen­ded in constructing, etc., roads.—All county bonds, voted upon and au­thorized at the election hereinafore provided for, in excess of the amount required to exchange for, or offset and retire outstanding district bonds shall be issued and sold in the manner now provided by law. The proceeds thereof shall be credited to the available road fund of the county and shall be expended by the Commissioners Court in constructing, repairing, maintaining, and operating macadamized, graveled or paved roads and turnpikes or in aid thereof. [Id.]

See note under art. 628.

Art. 637d. Political division shall not be created out of territory of district having outstanding road bonds.—Where a political subdivision or defined road district of a county has heretofore been established and issued bonds, or is hereafter established and issues bonds, no political subdivision or defined district shall thereafter be created or established overlapping the same territory or embracing any part thereof while any of the bonds of such political subdivision or defined district are outstanding and unpaid, except as hereinafore provided for the county as a whole. [Id.]

See note under art. 628.

Art. 637e. Investment of sinking fund; interest, how disposed of. —The Commissioners Court of any county in this state is authorized and empowered, when it considers it advisable, to invest sinking funds now on hand or which may hereafter be on hand, accumulated for the redemption and payment of any bonds issued by such county or political subdivision or defined district thereof, in bonds of the United States, of the State of Texas or any county in the State, or of any incorporated city or town or road district or school district in this state; or in bonds of the Federal Farm Loan Bank System; provided that no such bonds shall be so purchased which, according to their terms, mature at a date subsequently to the time of maturity of the bonds for the payment of which such sinking fund was created; and, provided, that all interest on such investments shall be credited to the sinking fund to which it belongs; and such sinking funds, together with the interest thereon, shall be and is hereby set apart as a special fund for the uses designated herein, and their use for any other purpose shall be considered a diversion thereof and punishable as provided by the Penal Code of this State, Article 104, Acts 1911. [Id.]

See note under art. 628.

Art. 637f. Provisions cumulative; partial invalidity.—The provisions of this Act shall be held cumulative of other laws now in effect and shall not operate to amend or repeal any law except as herein specifically provided, and in case it shall be declared by the courts that any part of this Act is unconstitutional such decision shall not impair other parts and provisions of this Act. [Id.]

See note under art. 628.

Art. 639. County commissioner to be ex officio road superintendent; powers.

Liability on general bond.—Under Sp. Laws 1903, c. 25, § 1, making county commissioners of San Augustine county ex officio road commissioners, county commissioner and sureties on bond as such are not liable for sums coming into his hands for road purposes.

Art. 640. Bids to be taken on contract work; contract to be let to lowest and best bidder; rights to reject.

Submission to competition.—In purchasing shell for road purposes, the county commissioners' court need not advertise for bids under this article. Douglass v. Myrick
(Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 422.

Indemnity clause in contract.—A contract for construction of a road providing that contractor assume liability for all accidents accruing by reason of negligence of himself or employees, during prosecution of work, did not cover an injury received after work was completed, because of a defect in road as completed by one not a party to the Irregularity on bond proceedings as affecting contract.—That the court of county commissioners sold the bonds of a road district at a discount by means of a sham contract will not invalidate the contract of a third person with the county commissioners for the sale of road materials, even though arts. 627-655 are evaded by the sale of such bonds at a discount. Douglass v. Myrick (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 422.

2. CAUSEWAYS, VIADUCTS, BRIDGES, ETC., CONSTRUCTION AND MAINTENANCE AND USE OF

Art. 642. Elections in certain counties to authorize bonds for cause-ways, viaducts, bridges, etc.

What constitutes bridge.—The building by a county of a causeway across a bay, part of which, spanning deep water, was a bridge, held unauthorized by Const. art. 3, § 92, and subject to restraint. Coleman-Fulton Pasture Co. v. Aransas County (Civ. App.)
180 S. W. 312.

Art. 653. Power of condemnation, etc.

Special damages.—In an action for special damages from the construction of a railroad viaduct in front of plaintiff's property, it is no defense that the viaduct is benefi-

CARRIERS

DUTIES AND LIABILITIES OF CARRIERS

Article 707. [319] [277] Common law shall govern, except, etc.

Whether news agent entitled to transportation on defendant's roads, under contract with his employer involving interstate commerce, was a passenger when injured through negligence of defendant's servants was to be determined by the federal law. Id.

5. Who are passengers in general. -- Plaintiff, getting on steps of moving streetcar at a point where it never stopped and knocked off by a post before conductor could open door, held not a passenger. Horwitz v. Jefferson County Traction Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 26.

7. Employes of carriers under contract with carrier. -- Under the state or local law, a news agent employed by a news service, and entitled under a contract between his employer and the railroad to free transportation upon passenger trains, was entitled to the rights, privileges, and protection of a passenger. Nevill v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 388.

8. Invitation or acquiescence of carrier's employé. -- An agent of the owner of a car of fruit who attempts to ride along with the car on a nontransferable pass issued to his principal, believing that the employé will permit him to do so, is not a passenger, but a licensee. Beard v. International & G. N. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 553.

In an action for injuries to a passenger by being struck by a trainman while he had temporarily left the train at the station with a view of returning, such temporary departure did not terminate the relation of carrier and passenger. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Fielder (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 606.

By the common law the relation of carrier and passenger does not terminate until after the passenger has alighted and has a reasonable time and opportunity to leave the depot, the question of what is a reasonable time and opportunity being one of fact, dependent on the circumstances of the particular case. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Cook (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 453.

Passenger carried by station and told to get off at next station held to cease to be a passenger when she failed to do so, and her subsequent election was justifiable if ordinary care was used. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. of Texas v. Middleton (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1114.

Under the Carmack Amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act, a stipulation in bill of lading of animals that in case of loss the value of any animal shall be its cash value at time and place of shipment, not to exceed a certain sum is valid. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Carmack (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 155.

Where a shipper of live stock exercised his option to pay the higher rate for a shipment at carrier's risk, the refusal of the agent to accept such rate or mark the bill of lading accordingly does not deprive the shipper of his right to the carrier's liability. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Core (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 778.

A carrier of live stock cannot, under the Hepburn Act, exempt itself by contract from liability for its negligence or that of its servants, causing damage to an interstate shipment of live stock. Id.
Person awaiting train, for which she had purchased ticket, held a passenger, with right to remain in depot, and right to a comfortable room for her and her children accompanying her.  St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Padgett (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 718.

A railroad's negro porter, running along beside a train, after it left a station, endeavoring to board, owed the duty to a passenger thereon, who had neglected to leave the trains. See Note on Negligence by carrier, to be sure not to interfere with him in getting on the train. Faria & G. N. R. Co. v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 346.

11. Tickets—Nature and effect of ticket.—A ticket agent authorized to sell two kinds of return trip tickets, with different date limits for the return trip, must issue a ticket to passenger, and, when the ticket is not demanded by a person, without the fault of the passenger, an erroneous date limit for return, the passenger may recover the damages sustained. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Howell (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 81.

13. Conditions in tickets.—A railroad company in selling a round-trip ticket is entitled to make it a condition of passage that the trip coupons be not detached from the contract portion of the ticket. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Luster (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 11.

Where a passenger ticket purports to be a contract ticket offered for a reduced rate, the passenger is bound by its lawful stipulations. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Howell (Civ. App.) 198 S. W. 81.

15. Transportation by connecting carrier.—A carrier held not liable for damages caused by plaintiff by failure to connect with a train on another road, where defendant's agent sold a ticket only to the connecting point, though its trainmen, without authority, represented to the plaintiff that she could catch a train and would not have to stay all night at the connecting point. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Conway (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 666.

Where passenger over connecting railroads had ticket made up of coupons, act of railway employees directing her to take a train, which stopped at a station represented by a coupon, but not at plaintiff's destination beyond, held not a wrongful act. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Lathrop (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1890.

Where railroad company and another carrier to sell tickets over its road, and such other sold ticket at reduced rate in accordance with published tariffs, undisclosed rule of defendant that such ticket was invalid on a certain train did not relieve it of liability on the contract. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Carroll (Sup.) 193 S. W. 1968.

16. Duties as to transportation.—The failure of a railroad company to furnish reasonable and proper facilities for taking a train which left the station at the same time as another train on the track between the station and the first train held to be the proximate cause of the failure of a prospective passenger to take his train. Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Voss (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 663.

In an action for breach of a contract for the transportation of passengers, held that defendant after breach could not be relieved from the consequences thereof by showing plaintiff's subsequent transfer of his outfit, and inability to personally perform the contract. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Martin (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 313.

Accommodations during transit.—The failure of a street car company to furnish a passenger with a seat in the car is not actionable negligence, where the fact that all the seats are occupied is apparent to the passenger when he takes his position on the running board, from which he thereafter falls. Tennekeagit v. Galveston Electric Co. (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 72.

Discharging and setting down passengers.—Where a carrier contracted to transport a passenger, and required him to alight before destination was reached, there was a breach of contract for which the passenger was entitled to damages. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Bishop (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 978.

In an action to recover compensation for personal injuries occurring in a railroad car, passengers, held that evidence of a passenger's conduct in which a passenger is riding, so that it can be heard by those paying attention and possessed of the ordinary sense of hearing, in sufficient notice of the arrival at the station. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. of Texas v. Middleton (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1114.

Where passenger over connecting railroads with coupon ticket had no special contract with railroad to transport her on a particular train the fact that the train which she took did not stop at her destination did not alone impose liability on the carrier, where she could change at an intermediate point to a local train. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Lathrop (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1890.

In an action against railroad for damages for carrying plaintiff past her destination, where plaintiff was told by conductor who took her ticket on train that she would have to change, did not stop at her destination, she could not in good faith rely upon incorrect statement of railroad employees before boarding the train that it would stop at her destination. Id.

21. Action for breach of contract to carry—Damages.—A prospective passenger who was prevented from taking a train by the failure of the railroad company to furnish reasonable facilities for boarding it may recover from the company damages for the loss of time thereby occasioned. Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Voss (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 663.

Where a railroad company agreed with a father to wire a ticket to his son, but failed to do so, the father held entitled to recover compensation for mental suffering caused by the son's delay in reaching home. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Stogner (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 319.

Where a passenger demanding a return trip ticket good until October 31st received a ticket good only until September 15th, so that he was obliged to pay a specified sum for the fare home, he was entitled to recover the amount of the fare so paid, minus the

In action for breach of agreement to furnish plaintiff and friends through chair car, if he would induce such friends to travel over defendant road, plaintiff could not recover for humiliation because he and friends were forced to travel in an inferior car, Freeman v. Clark (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1189.

Plaintiff, who induced friends to travel with him by defendant road to Confederate reunion, relying on road's promise to furnish through chair car, held not entitled to recovery for humiliation suffered by him through road's failure to furnish such car. Free­man v. Clark (Sup.) 177 S. W. 1189.

An award of $428 in favor of plaintiff who was carried to a different place from that to which he had secured a ticket held not excessive, where she suffered long delays and was placed in a crowded car, W. v. Schenectady & Ft. Schuyler (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 802.

22. Personal injuries—Care required in general.—An instruction that a carrier is required to exercise the highest degree of care possible for the safety of its passengers held proper. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Woodall (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1012.

A carrier's duty to exercise the high degree of diligence which would be exercised by very prudent persons under similar circumstances is not limited to the operation of its cars and trains. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Gresham, 106 Tex. 452, 167 S. W. 724, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 110 S. W. 483.

The care to be exercised by a carrier of passengers is that high degree of care which a very cautious person would exercise under the circumstances. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Kemp (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 532.

In absence of contract, where negligence is foundation of right, custom cannot be set up to show that negligence does or does not exist. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Hughes (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1981.

23. Freight or mixed trains.—The test of due care toward a passenger riding in caboose of freight train is what prudent and cautious men would do under the same or similar circumstances, and not what railway employes usually or ordinarily do. Paris & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Atkins (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 306.

Care to persons intoxicated or under disability.—Where a passenger be­comes unable to care for himself by reason of sickness, or other cause, it is the carrier's duty to exercise the care of a very cautious person to protect the passenger from the dangers incident to her surroundings. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Adams (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1029.

A carrier owes to every passenger the highest degree of care without regard to age, sex, or bodily infirmity, the degree of care to be determined by the circumstances of each case. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Williams (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1185.

Where a passenger is burdened with baggage or other impediments, or is blind, sick, aged, young, crippled, or infirm, which condition is known to the carrier, or if there is a defect in the car or steps, the obligation to render personal assistance in alighting may arise. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Yantis (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 969.

Employes.—A carrier is liable for intentional assault on a passenger by a brakeman not justified or excused by the circumstances. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Huddleston (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 794.

If it was railroad porter's duty to open doors of car vestibule at station, it was not outside of porter's responsibility to open door in car vestibule, notwithstanding that in opening it he may have violated railroad's instructions and rules. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Preston (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1128.

24. — Acts of fellow passengers or third persons.—The failure of a passenger conductor to prevent a white city marshal from entering a negro coach does not render the carrier liable for the death of a negro in the coach, killed by the marshal, unless the conductor could have reasonably anticipated that as a result of his failure decedent or some passenger in the coach, would likely be killed or suffer injury. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Brown (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 258.

The mere unauthorized presence of a white person in a negro coach is not a violation of any right of negro passengers, and gives them no cause of action against the carrier. Id.

The act of a conductor in dragging a drunken passenger through the car to a point near where a passenger who had made complaint against the drunken passenger was standing, and then leaving the car, following which the drunken passenger made an assault upon the other, who, in protecting himself, shot and wounded an innocent fellow passenger, amounted to negligence. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Bell (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 1.

The carrier held not liable for incompetency or negligence of persons in assisting a passenger to alight; they not being its employees or authorized to act for it. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Kemp (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 532.

The contract of a carrier with a society to run a special train providing for members thereof assisting passengers to alight, is liable for incompetency or negligence of members in so assisting a passenger. Id.

It is the absolute duty of a carrier of passengers to protect them by the exercise of the highest degree of care, from the willful misconduct and violence of their fellow pas­sengers. C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Gulf, C. & S. V. Ry. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 388.

While a carrier is not ordinarily liable for unauthorized acts of third parties, nonemployes, it may become liable for negligence in permitting such acts to be done or the consequences thereof to continue, if knowledge has been brought to its servants. Wychita Falls Traction Co. v. Berry (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 415.

31. Condition and use of premises.—A railroad company which maintains an unlighted and unguarded station platform elevated four or five feet above the ground is guilty of negligence towards its passengers. Stamp v. Eastern Ry. Co. of New Mexico (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 450.

One visiting a railroad depot to inquire as to a train on which he desires to become a passenger is an invitee, and the carrier owes him the duty of exercising reasonable care to keep its premises in such condition that he will not, while in the exercise of ordinary care, suffer injury in seeking an exit. Houston Belt & T. Ry. Co. v. Winerich (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 905.

32. Taking up passengers.—A carrier, affording a reasonably safe way and sufficient time for plaintiff to board his car, held not liable for plaintiff's injury in attempting to board at a platform after it had started. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Vaughan (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 721.

Where carrier, acting through its conductor in scope of his employment, undertakes to assist passenger to board car, it is bound to employ the highest degree of care. Southern Traction Co. v. Reagor (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 272.

33. Sufficiency and safety of means.—A carrier of passengers must furnish a reasonably safe car and exercise the highest degree of care to ascertain and repair defects in the car, as by furnishing an experienced inspector, etc. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Moore (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 378.

To leave a fruit on a wet platform of a passenger car while running a distance of 25 or 30 miles is sufficient to show knowledge of the existence of the fruit. Galveston, H. & S. Ry. Co. v. Bibb (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 118.

That plaintiff did not inform the carrier or its servants of the delicate condition of his wife will not preclude recovery for injuries resulting to her from cold contracted through an insufficiently heated car. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Rutherford (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 720.

It is the duty of a railway to use reasonable care to keep the traps and doors of vestibuled cars closed. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Christian (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 155.

Carrier of passengers must use high degree of care to discover and remove dangerous obstructions on its track. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Hughes (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1091.

34. Management of conveyances.—Two railroads maintaining parallel tracks held not guilty of actionable negligence toward a passenger on one of the trains jumping from train under the erroneous belief that a collision was imminent. Beaty v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 450.

If a passenger was thrown down by an unusual and negligent jerk of a train, it was immaterial whether or not the train was moving when she arose to leave the car. International & N. Ry. v. Jones (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 489.

35. Setting down passengers.—Where a negligent jerk of a street car threw a passenger from the car, injuring her, the street railway company was liable, whether she attempted to alight while the car was in motion or not. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Badgett (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 503.

Where a passenger on a train which was not scheduled to stop at his destination paid the conductor for transportation to the next station beyond, and then, when the train stopped at his destination, on the invitation of the conductor attempted to alight, the carrier owed him a duty to provide a safe place to alight. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Rosenfeld (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1012.

Where a conductor's servants knew that a passenger had become mentally deranged from illness, but there was nothing to indicate that she contemplated leaving the train while in possession, the carriage was not negligent in failing to provide a guard for her, or to forcibly restrain her to prevent such act. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Adams (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1029.

A special contract to run a train to place where there was no station does not, as to passengers, absolve the carrier from its duty as to their safety in alighting. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Kemp (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 532.

Passenger, forced to leave depot with children and wait outside on muddy ground, where she was annoyed by insects and frightened by Mexicans and negroes from construction train, held entitled to damages. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Padgett (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 718.

A carrier is chargeable with knowledge of the necessity of assisting a passenger from the train when she was 59 years old, corpulent, carried several bundles, and had in charge a small child. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Williams (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1185.

In an action for injuries while alighting from a street car, defendant was not liable if the car stopped for a reasonable time, and its servants did not know, or have reason to know, that the plaintiff had not alighted. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Cox (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 722.

The carrier may assume that an able-bodied male passenger will exercise care required for his own safety, and will be able to alight safely without assistance from a stationary car, the highest step of which is 18 inches from the ground, the platform, sill and steps being dry. F. T. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Yantis (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 986.

The carrier must furnish safe appliances and facilities for alighting from its train, and give passengers a reasonable time to alight at their destination, but need not ordinarily provide personal assistance to a passenger in alighting. Id.

Railroad held liable to plaintiff passenger for damages sustained from falling from car when porter who undertook to aid plaintiff to alight with box negligently caused box to fall down steps and against plaintiff. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Preston (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1128.

36. Care as to persons accompanying passengers.—That trainmen were without notice of plaintiff's intention to assist his daughter aboard held immaterial, in view of a custom to delay the train for such a purpose. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Abbott (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 117.

The conductor of a vestibuled train, with knowledge, that plaintiff had boarded it to assist his mother and her other children, was bound to hold the train a reasonable time to allow plaintiff to disembark, and, the train having started before plaintiff had time to alight, was bound to stop it because the act to do so. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Churchill (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 517.

One assisting passengers to board a train in the interest of the company and with its knowledge does so by implied invitation, and the train must be held long enough to allow him to render such services and leave the train. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Allen (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 62.

In the absence of knowledge that one enters its train merely to assist passengers and the claimant may not assume such a passenger, and may start its train after giving him reasonable time to get aboard. Id.

Where a person, entering a train to assist passengers, answers the brakeman's question as to destination by saying "they" are going to H., the brakeman is not thereby charged with knowledge of his intention. Id.

Where one enters a train only to assist passengers on board, and then to get off, there being no custom to hold trains for that purpose and no knowledge by the railroad that he is so upon the train, failure to hold the train a reasonable time for him to alight is not negligence. Id.

Where a person assisting a passenger alights from a moving train getting under way from a station, without hesitation or request to stop, the carrier owes no duty to stop the train. Where a woman hotel keeper at the request of a guest accompanied her to the station for the purpose of assisting her, the railway company was liable for negligence in failing to properly light the platform, by reason of which the hotel keeper was injured, since she was, under the circumstances, an "invite." Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Bailey (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 239.

In the absence of regulation to the contrary, a person who goes to a depot of a railway for the purpose of accompanying a departing passenger is deemed as going upon the premises of the company under an implied invitation. Id.

Proximate cause of injury.—A carrier's wrongful act in permitting a white man to ride in a car for negroes, where he assaulted plaintiff, a negro, held the proximate cause of her injury, unless she provoked the assault by her own misconduct. Baker v. Texas & P. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 295.

The negligence of a conductor in failing to remove a drunken passenger from a car held to be the proximate cause of an injury received by a passenger from a stray bullet fired by another passenger in self-defense at the drunken passenger. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Bell (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 1.

In an action for personal injuries to plaintiff's wife while alighting from a train, an instruction that the evidence must show that the injury was the natural and probable consequence of the negligence of the carrier and ought not to have occurred by a person of ordinary prudence, in the light of attending circumstances, held proper. Bryning v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 826.

That a door was left unlocked and no attendant provided to assist passengers alighting from a car did not contribute or cause the fall of a passenger, who stepped on a banana peel, for such result from leaving the door unlocked could not have been reasonably contemplated and was not, in a legal sense, the proximate cause. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Yantis (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 960.

Negligence of Pullman Company and railway company in not seeing that gate of tourist car was closed held concurrent proximate causes of injury to passenger stepping from tourist car to baggage car as train was cut between them at station. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Parkard (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 960.

Negligence of Pullman Company and railway company in not seeing that gate of tourist car was closed held concurrent proximate causes of injury to passenger stepping from tourist car to baggage car as train was cut between them at station. Id.

Connecting carriers.—An initial service of liability to the shipper accompanying the shipment, for an accident on the connecting carrier's line, by selling to him a ticket good over the initial and connecting carriers. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Ryon (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 525.

Limitation of liability.—Where, before statehood, a railroad company in the territory of New Mexico gave plaintiff a pass for an intrastate trip, a condition in the pass exempting the company from all liability, whether caused by its own negligence or not, was valid. Stamp v. Eastern Ry. Co. of New Mexico (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 450.

A pass given by a railroad company to the mother of one of its employees is none the less a free pass because the giving of such pass was customary, where the employee could not have recovered in case of the carrier's refusal. Id.

A pass as given as a gratuity is none the less a free pass because the carrier requires the person using to an agreement exempting it from liability for injuries. Id.

A news agent riding upon a pass issued by road under arrangement with his employer would not be precluded from recovering under the state law for injury from negligence of employees, by an agreement releasing road from such liability. Nevill v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 388.

News agent, entitled to transportation on defendant road, who had released his employer and all roads from liability for accidents, negligence, etc., held not a passenger, and not entitled to recovery from indictment against stipulations limiting carriers' liability for damages from negligence of their employees. Id.

Release of liability.—A release of a claim for damages for personal injuries, executed while a party was in a semiconscious condition to such an extent that he did not know what he was doing, was not binding upon him. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Hubbard (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1058.

Chap. 1  CARRIERS  Art. 707

Defect in car. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Walker (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 159, judgment reversed. motion to relax costs granted (Sup.) 177 S. W. 964; Texas Midland R. Co. v. Sikes (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 412.

48. Damages.—Where plaintiff's wife, while a passenger on defendant's road, was injured and took such means as an ordinarily prudent person would have taken to avoid the consequences of such injury, he was not to be denied a recovery because the jury might have concluded that other remedies would not have been so serious. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. McCormick (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 429.

Where a person sustaining a personal injury had gone into the saloon business, and only resorted to his carpenter's trade to recoup his broken fortunes to enable him to re-enter the saloon business, his lessened earning capacity must be tested in connection with his occupation as a saloon keeper. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Crisp (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 492.

The value of the time one negligently injured will lose in the future from his injuries should be estimated at what he will be able to earn in his crippled condition, and not what he could earn if uninjured. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Beasley (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 926.

51. Contributory negligence of and assumption of risk by person injured.—That a railroad company owes the highest degree of care to a passenger upon its premises will not excuse the contributory negligence of the passenger. Stamp v. Eastern Ry. Co. of New Mexico (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 460.

A passenger, unfamiliar with a railroad station, in walking around in the dark is guilty of contributory negligence barring recovery for a fall from the unlighted and unguarded platform. Id.

A charge, in a passenger's action for injuries alleged to have been received when he stepped on a banana peel on the car sill and fell to the platform, that the passenger could rely on the carrier keeping its floor, door sill, and platform free and clear of banana peeling and other slippery substance is erroneous, as relieving the passenger from any obligation to watch out for his own safety. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Yantis (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 968.

The doctrine of "assumed risk," as distinguished from contributory negligence, does not apply where a passenger is seeking recovery of damages for personal injuries due to carrier's negligence. St. Louis Southernwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Christian (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 175.

53. In transit.—Though there was fuel and a stave in the car in which plaintiff and his wife were riding, plaintiff's failure to build a fire, the car becoming cold, is not contributory negligence precluding recovery for injuries to his wife from cold. St. Louis Southernwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Rutherford (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 700.

In action by passenger for injuries from fall through vestibule trap or door, it was not error to refuse instruction barring recovery if plaintiff could have discovered the vestibule door was open when he went upon the platform, and if he was guilty of the slightest degree of want of ordinary care. St. Louis Southernwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Christian (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 175.
That railroad passenger induced its porter to violate instructions in regard to opening car vestibule doors, did not relieve porter of duty as such to use care to avoid injuring passengers by pushing down steps against him box carried by him. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Preston (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1128.

54. — Leaving conveyance.—Railroad passengers must exercise ordinary care to leave the train upon its arrival, as well to ascertain the means of exit from the coach. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 867.

A passenger was required to use ordinary care in alighting, and, if she could have safely left the coach at the exit provided by due care, she cannot recover if she did not do so, even though the train employees were negligent in not sufficiently designating the exits, etc. Id.

That a passenger alights from a train moving slowly does not show contributory negligence per se, at least when done with the knowledge, assent, and encouragement of the carrier. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co., v. Shively (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 386.

A passenger held guilty of contributory negligence in alighting from a fast-moving train passing his station. Id.

For passenger on street car, after signal to stop, to walk to rear entrance and stand upon steps while car was moving slowly does not constitute contributory negligence as a matter of law, where, through sudden jolt, passenger was thrown from car. Burke v. Northern Texas Traction Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 428.

Alleged contributory negligence of a passenger cannot be predicated upon his act in leaving the car at a door where there was no attendant, when the door was left unlocked, although there was another door, which was open, at which an attendant was stationed. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Yantis (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 989.

It is not negligence as a matter of law for the passenger to alight from a moving train, where his testimony was that he was caused to alight by its sudden and unanticipated jerk. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Comstock (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 109.

55. — Acts by permission or direction of carrier.—Statement by brakeman to person alighting to jump with the train “do not be an invitation or command so to do.” Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Allen (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 62.

Where a person was alighting from a moving train, the act of the brakeman in making room for him on the step held not an invitation to alight. Id.

56. — Negligence as to incidental dangers.—Though servants of a carrier in failing to discover a piece of wood left in the aisle of a railroad car were negligent, a passenger who stepped on it cannot be held negligent in failing to discover the same. Texas & Pac. Ry. Co. v. Hanson (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 289.

57. — Acts in emergencies.—Where plaintiff, being unable to alight from the right side of a train after it had started because of the conductor's misconduct, rushed to the opposite side and attempted to alight, but was struck by a depot roof support, he did not assume the risk. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Churchill (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 817.

63. Ejection of passengers and intruders.—See arts. 5650, 5651, 5691, post, and notes.

Though plaintiff purchased a ticket, yet if he refused to deliver it to the conductor, and informed him that he had no money to pay his fare, the carrier's servants may eject him, whether he was intoxicated or not. Texas Cent. Ry. Co. v. Rose (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 387.

Refusal to pay fare for a young child over five years old justifies ejection of the passenger with the child. Fleck v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 386.

64. — Defective or invalid ticket or pass.—Where a conductor inadverently detached a coupon from the contract portion of a ticket, but returned the contract portion so that the two might be presented together on the return trip, the passenger was not excused from presenting the contract portion with the coupon, and on presenting the coupon alone was properly ejected. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Luster (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 11.

Where a passenger's ticket called for a station which was not a regular stopping place for the train, upon which he was riding, the conductor, using no more force than necessary, had the right to eject him at the last stopping place before reaching the point called for, if he did not offer to pay fare to the next regular stopping place. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Dice (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 478.

For passenger to produce ticket or to pay fare when called for justifies ejection from the train, although the conductor knows that passenger has purchased ticket. Fleck v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 386.

65. — Tender or payment of fare to avoid ejection.—When a passenger has failed and refused to produce a ticket or pay fare after having been given a reasonable opportunity to do so, and the train is stopped to put him off, his offer to pay fare after the process of ejectment has begun will not render his ejectment unlawful. Fleck v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 386.

A passenger given opportunity to procure the money to pay his fare before ejectment has no right to re-enter the train for the purpose of procuring money to pay his fare. Id.

66. — Intruders and trespassers.—One who paid a brakeman less than the passenger fare for freight train cannot recover from the company for injuries resulting from being ejected by the brakeman while the train was in motion. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Spann (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 660.
68. Negligence in ejecting person under disability.—Where the employees do not know of the intoxicated condition of a passenger, they may act upon the presumption that he will exercise care to avoid injury. Texas Cent. Ry. Co. v. Rose (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 387.

Where a carrier ejected an intoxicated passenger, its liability depends upon whether the act of ejection was such a one as a prudent person would have considered safe under the circumstances. Id.

Where an intoxicated passenger, ejected from a train, was incapacitated from protecting himself from danger, the carrier's liability for consequent injury depended upon whether the act of ejection was one that a prudent person would have considered safe under the circumstances. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Rose (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 756.

A carrier ejecting a passenger so intoxicated as to be unable to protect himself from danger, as at an unsafe place, was negligent, and where plaintiff as a proximate consequence was later run over by a train was liable for his injury. Id.

69. Proximate cause of injury.—Fatigue and cold, suffered by plaintiff from walking to his destination after being ejected short of that place, from a train which did not stop there, as he was told, when he could have reached it by a later train in time for his purposes, held not the proximate result of his ejection, and therefore not the basis of an action for damages. Cook v. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 133.

70. Contributory negligence of person ejected.—The captain of a National Guard company held the agent of one of the members whose ticket he presented on the trip to the encampment, and the member was liable for the captain's negligence in failing to give him the contract portion of the ticket on his return trip. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Luster (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 11.

When a father, who agreed with a son to wire a ticket to his minor son, but failed to do so and ejected the son from the train, the son's contributory negligence held not imputable to the father or to defeat the company's liability to the father for breach of the contract. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Stogner (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 319.

Under Rev. St. 1895, arts. 4503, 4504, held, that a passenger delivering his ticket to an employe on a passenger train without the prescribed badge on his hat or cap voluntarily took the risk that such employe was not authorized to receive it, and was not excused for its nonproduction when demanded by proper authority. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Short (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 601.

A passenger receiving a ticket in two parts held chargeable with notice that it was necessary for him to have the part calling for the last part of the passage in order to complete his journey. Id.

A passenger entering the train with a good ticket, and giving it to an employe, who was authorized to take it, but was required to return a part thereof, may stand upon his right to return the ticket until carried to his destination. Id.

71. Companies liable.—Carrier, whose ticket was sold by another carrier in accordance with published tariff, held liable for ejection of passenger holding valid ticket, ordered while on its lines, but not consummated until lines of another connecting carrier were reached. Chicago, R. I. & O. Ry. Co. v. Carroll (Sup.) 138 S. W. 1068.

In passenger's action for excessive force used in ejecting him from train, defendant held entitled to have jury consider as mitigating damages plaintiff's offensive language which provoked excessive force. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. McAllister (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 83.

74. Baggage.—Razors in a trunk checked by a male passenger are baggage for which the carrier is liable. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Green (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 110.

Photographs may be considered baggage, for which the carrier is liable. Id.

Winter clothing which a passenger expected to use on the completion of his journey, winter being near, is baggage for the loss of which the carrier is liable. Id.

Money can be considered as baggage only if taken in good faith and in a reasonable amount for traveling expenses and personal use on a trip. Id.

75. Loss or injury.—A carrier held not liable for loss of a trunk left on a platform adjoining baggage room, without calling it to the attention of any one, and without knowing whether the baggage room was open, where no custom to accept such delivery was shown. Peterson v. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 915.

Railroad companies are not insurers of baggage not checked but carried by and retained in the control of passengers upon the cars; the carrier being liable in such case only when the loss is caused by its negligence. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Kirkpatrick (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 500.

A passenger who, on inquiry, was told by trainmen that the car in which he left his baggage would go on through and not be switched off, was justified in relying upon the correctness of such information and in assuming that it would not be switched off so as to endanger losing his baggage in such car. Id.

Trainmen were negligent in informing a passenger that a car attached to the train in whose passenger's baggage would go on through the train would be opened when as a matter of fact the car was switched onto another line and the baggage was lost. Id.

81. Connecting carriers.—Where passage over several lines is had on separate tickets, one carrier is not liable for the other carrier's loss of baggage. Texas City Terminal & Thomas (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 707.

SUPP. VERN. S. CIV. ST. TEX. — 9

89. Palace cars and sleeping cars.—Sleeping car companies are required to use only reasonable or ordinary care to guard the property of passengers from the shrinkage or damage to which the property may be exposed, but are not held to that high degree of care applicable to common carriers generally. Pullman Co. v. Moise (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 249.

90. Damages.—In action against sleeping car company for loss of passenger's clothes stolen from her berth, damages were not recoverable for her mental anxiety or fear of disease resulting therefrom. Armstrong v. Missouri Pacific Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 632.

93. Carriage of live stock.—Duties and liabilities in respect to transportation in general.—A railroad carrier must furnish cars suitable to transport cattle, and cannot shift the responsibility of caring for the cattle to the shipper. Where the shipper contracted to inspect the cattle before loading and after unloading, and the cattle were damaged through the fault of the railroad company, the carrier was liable for the damages. Moise v. Pullman Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 607.

94. Carriage of live stock.—Duties and liabilities in respect to transportation in general.—A railroad carrier must furnish cars suitable to transport cattle, and cannot shift the responsibility of caring for the cattle to the shipper. Where the shipper contracted to inspect the cattle before loading and after unloading, and the cattle were damaged through the fault of the railroad company, the carrier was liable for the damages. Moise v. Pullman Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 607.

95. Contracts for transportation.—See notes under art. 3657, rule 21, note 24. Consideration, see notes under art. 589.

Where a shipper of live stock without knowledge of its contents, hurriedly signed a contract for interstate shipment at the request of the carrier's agent, just as the train was starting, he was not bound thereby. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Vashinder (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 763.

Where a shipper of live stock, knowing that he would sign a written contract, orally contracted for cars for shipment, held, that the written contract, later executed, governs the carrier's liability. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Adams (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 368.

Where the only railroad at place of shipment refused to ship cattle unless it was written across bill of lading that some were in bad condition, and although statement was untrue, and shipper, under such pressure, signed such bill of lading, the carrier's act constituted legal duress, and shipper was not barred from recovering damages for his negligent transportation. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Pacheco (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1051.

96. Sanitary regulations.—Under Act Cong. March 3, 1905, §§ 1, 3, 4, and express provision of federal quarantine regulation, held that cattle exposed to a disease might be shipped as uninspected exposed cattle for immediate slaughter from quarantine center to slaughter centers in another state, and that receiving cattle to be dipped, was liable for consequent shrinkage and injury. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Hall (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 555.

97. Food and water.—Under contract for shipment of live stock requiring shipper to feed and water them, etc., where that was not done in an orderly prudent way, the carrier was not liable for resulting damages from shrinkage. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Allen (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 765.

A carrier must furnish reasonable facilities and opportunities for feeding and watering stock shipped under a contract, requiring the shipper to care for them. Id.

98. Duties in respect to delivery.—It is the duty of a carrier of live stock to deliver it with a reasonable degree of care and caution. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Corn (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 897.

100. Delay in transportation or delivery.—See art. 6554 and notes.

Carrier's agreement to deliver cattle at market on particular day held not complied with by delivering them too late to unload them and get them on the market before its close. Texas Midland R. R. v. Becker & Cole (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1024.

A carrier, delivering live stock on the day agreed on too late for market, held not to comply with its contract, where it is necessary to carry the stock over to the following day's market. Texas Midland R. R. v. Fogelman (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 558.

Carriers of live stock are not responsible for the usual and ordinary delays incident to the ordinary conduct of their business. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Landis & Storey (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 384.

Where cattle shipped to Kansas City with privilege of Wichita were unloaded at Wichita, at shipper's request, and were reshipped to Kansas City, no recovery against them could be had for delay and shrinkage at Wichita. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Harp (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 438.

102. — Loss or Injury in general.—When a railroad company accepts live stock for transportation, it must exercise ordinary care in the handling and operation of the cars in which the live stock are riding and in transporting them within a reasonable time to their destination. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Word (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 376.

A carrier is an insurer of the safe transportation of animals delivered to it for carriage, unless the loss results from act of God, act of the owner, the proper care of the animals, or the public enemy, subject to the exception provided by Rev. St. 1896, art. 256 (now Rev. St. 1911, art. 714). Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 103.

In an action for injuries to cattle unloaded by the owner at a dipping station and held for 14 days, an instruction to find for plaintiff for injuries from delay during transportation, including the time they were thus unloaded, was erroneous. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Berry (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 125.

Supervision by government officer of dipping of cattle held not to relieve defendant railroad from liability for injury to plaintiff’s stock through carrier’s failure to dip the cattle in an arsenic dip. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Cauble (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 880.

A railroad was not liable for the death of a mare in transit proximately caused by a kick in the pen, not brought about by the negligence of the road’s servants, and not followed by any negligence of the road in further transporting the mare. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Ft. Worth Horse & Mule Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1770.

It being a matter of common knowledge that the natural propensity of a mule is to kick, it is the duty of a carrier transporting such animals to take into consideration and furnish cars constructed with regard to this natural propensity. Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Albín (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 647.

When shipment of cattle suffering from Texas fever, is negligently delayed by road, and cattle are damaged solely on account of their infection with disease, shipper cannot recover. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Gatewood (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 932.

Under live stock shipment contract, carrier's agents are carriers of its own negligence and, if ordinary care required, bound to protect the stock from injury until the shipper could unload it, or to unload the stock itself. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Pavillard (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 998.

103. — Stock awaiting transportation.—A carrier receiving cattle for transportation held liable for injuries caused by placing them in pens without shelter, too small to accommodate them properly. Andrews v. McGill (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1057.

Carrier must use ordinary care to prevent injury to cattle while in pens awaiting shipment after acceptance for transportation, if such care is necessitated by delay, notwithstanding contract for shipment requiring shipper to care for cattle while awaiting shipment. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Vaughn (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 142.

105. — Contributory negligence of owner.—The failure of the consignee of a horse properly to protect it from the weather after delivery by the carrier is not contributory negligence which will bar a recovery for the death of the horse caused by delay in shipping, and by transporting it in a box car without sufficient ventilation. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Francis (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 40.

A shipper of cattle held not guilty of contributory negligence in failing to take them from the railroad pens and drive them to a watering place, where the train was late. San Antonio, Co. v. Storey (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 707.

Defendant railroad transporting a mare, which, after her injury in the shipping pens or cars, the shipper's agent refused to remove from the train and have cared for, was not liable for the death of the mare, caused solely by her further transportation, uncompromised by any negligence of the road's servants. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Ft. Worth Horse & Mule Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1170.

Shipper of live stock could not recover from the road for death of a mare, the negligence of his own agent in ordering the mare shipped through after discovering she was injured having proximately contributed to her death, though the road's servants were also negligent in the further transportation, Id.

Where shipper of cattle, on part of shipment being delayed by repairs becoming necessary to cars, refused road's offer to forward residue of shipment immediately, he could not recover for additional delay of residue of shipment so offered to be immediately transported. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Gatewood (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 932.

Where a shipper of live stock was negligent in failing to unload it on arrival so that it was injured, he could not recover for such injury. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Pavillard (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 998.

In an action against a carrier for damages to live stock, evidence held insufficient to show any unreasonable delay in transportation, or that any of the cattle died en route as alleged. Blackwell v. St. Louis, D. & M. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 32.

Injuries to a shipment of mules, evidence of jury's conclusion that the shipper was not negligent in the manner in which he watered the mules when unloaded in a famished condition. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Beckman (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 299.

Evidence in an action against a carrier for delaying live stock held to 181

In an action for injuries to horses during shipment, evidence held sufficient to warrant the jury in attributing the injuries either to the delay or to the rough handling. Southern Puc. Co. v. W. T. Meadows & Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 882.

In an action for judgment against a railroad company for injuries to live stock on account of delay and rough handling. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Frank (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 168.

Evidence in an action for damages to a shipment of cattle held not to show that any percol contract of shipment was ever made. Turner v. Henderson (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 51.

In an action against a carrier for injury to a mule in transportation, where the animal caught its foot in a crack four or five feet above the floor of the car, evidence held sufficient to warrant the deduction of an improper construction of the car. Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Albin (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 647.

A prima facie showing of negligence of the carrier in action for damages to live stock shipped is not met by proof that the cattle when shipped were securely tied by the shipper, and while in the exclusive charge of the carrier became united. San Antonio & A. F. Ry. Co. v. Jackson & Allen (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 488.

In an action against a carrier to recover damages for injuries to a shipment of cattle, evidence held insufficient to sustain a verdict for an alleged verbal contract to ship. Hudson (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 877.

In action for damages to shipment of live stock, evidence held to show merely shipper's request for cars as required by Interstate Commerce Act Feb. 4, 1905, § 1, as amended by June 29, 1906, § 1, and not the instruments of a contract. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 714.

In action for damages for negligent transportation of live stock, evidence held to show defendant's negligence as charged and being the proximate cause of the injury. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Patterson (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1109.

In action for damages to a shipment of stock owing to delay and a consequent shrinkage, evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that the carrier was negligent in failing to provide a proper engine. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Mudd (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 969.

It is not necessary that live stock be put on the market for sale in order to entitle the owner to recover its impaired value because of negligent injuries, etc., in shipment. F. & M. P. Ry. Co. v. Reed (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 4.

Where a carrier was unable to ship cattle to destination because of quarantine regulations, and some died, and others were sold at a point short of destination, the carrier's conversion, if any, occurred at that point, and plaintiff's measure of damages was the reasonable market value there. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Crowder (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 116.

In an action for negligent delay and rough handling of a shipment of live stock, the jury, in estimating the damages, should consider the fact of their recovery from any injury after they were put upon a pasture. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Shank & Dean (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 1093.

In an action for damages to a shipment of live stock, some of which died, the measure of damages is the value of the stock at the time at which it should have been delivered, which value, if there is a market at the place of destination, will be measured by the market value, and, if not, by the intrinsic value. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Parke (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 397.

When the market value of an animal injured in shipment at the place of delivery is not shown, the intrinsic value of the animal is the measure of damages. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Patterson (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 272.

A carrier guilty of delay and rough handling in transporting cattle for pasturage may recover the value of the cattle, though injured, soon recovered. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Lindsey (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 708.

The measure of damages for injuries to cattle shipped for pastureage is the same as for injuries to those shipped to market for sale. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Holmes (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 505.

Where a shipper recovered for shrinkage in cattle, and it appeared that the cattle brought the actual market price, no additional recovery for loss in selling appearance can be had. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Rhoden (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 984.
The measure of damages for negligent injury to live stock during transportation is the market value at place of delivery of those killed or rendered worthless, and the difference between the market value as delivered and what it would have been if properly handled. Hovencamp v. Union Stockyards Co. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 225.

Where hogs died in transit, the measure of damages is their market value at point of destination, or, in case there was no market value, their intrinsic value at such point. Southern Kansas Ry. Co. of Texas v. Hughey (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 361.

Where the plaintiff's cattle had been injured by a wreck and consequent delay, he was able to sell the same, but was given an unfavorable sale, with time to prepare them, and an opportunity to sell them at the open market. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Rodriguez (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 311.

Where some cattle shipped were dead at destination, because of negligent delay of shipper; measure of shipper's damages was market value at destination on arrival had no delay occurred. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Gatewood (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 932.

Carrier converting a calf held liable for the value thereof at destination in the condition in which it would have arrived but for its negligence or conversion. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Corn (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 857.

A carrier of live stock, in the absence of any special contract, is liable for the full amount of their depreciation caused by its negligence. Id.

The measure of damages for negligent injury of cattle in transit is the same, whether they are for immediate sale on the market or for pasture. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Norton (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 1011.

Where live stock were negligently killed in transit and the shipper removed their hides and sold them, the carrier should be allowed the market value at the time and place where the hides were removed. Id.

Where shipment of live stock is injured by carrier's negligence, shipper must use all reasonable means at his command to lessen damages which would otherwise result from such negligence, and his failure to do so limits recovery to damages which would have resulted from such negligence had such means been used. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Allen (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 769.

In action for damages to shipment of live stock, increased expense in caring for it while recuperating could not be recovered in addition to loss from shrinkage, as it would be double damages. Id.

When cattle were not shipped for immediate sale on the market, the measure of damage from injury and delay is the difference between their market price as delivered and what their market price would have been had they been properly cared for and handled during transportation. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 138.

In action against a carrier for injuries to stock shipped and for delay in shipment, shrinkage, depreciation in market value, and decline of market price were all proper elements of damage. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Harrop (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 448.

In an action against a railroad for damage to live stock shipments, the exact amount of damages need not be capable of definite computation in order to support a verdict for plaintiff. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Derden (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 495.

114. Control of premises.—Where a railroad company had given a particular transfer company the exclusive right upon the railroad company's trains and premises to solicit baggage, etc., defendant will be enjoined at the suit of the company from going upon its premises to solicit patronage. Denton v. Texas & F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 115.

Art. 708. [320] [278] Carriers can not limit their responsibility.

1. Nature of right and of restriction.—A provision of a bill of lading that property destined to a station at which there is no regular agent shall be at the owner's risk after cars are put on private sidings held not illegal, where the shipper knew that the shipment would have to be left on a siding, notwithstanding Rev. St. 1911, art. 6588, protecting freight from damage by exposure. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Smith Bros. Grain Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 499.

In Texas, by statute, a common carrier may not limit by contract its common-law liability as to domestic shipments, nor can it contract to relieve itself from its common-law liability for damages occasioned by its negligence. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Boger (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1093.

5. Carriage of live stock.—A statement in a contract for the shipment of live stock that the condition of the cars and bedding was satisfactory did not relieve the carrier from liability for negligence in properly bed the cars; a carrier not being permitted to limit its common-law liability. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. McCall (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 925.

A carrier, having failed to furnish proper cars for the transportation of cattle and to see that they were securely fastened, held not relieved from liability for the escape of the cattle from the cars by a stipulation in the contract binding the shipper to inspect the cars, see that they were properly fastened, and report any defect therein. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Boger (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1933.

Where a carrier undertook to bed cattle cars before the cattle were loaded or the shipping contract signed, it could not rely on a provision of the contract subsequently executed to relieve it from liability for a failure to provide proper bedding. Id.

Provision of a contract for live stock shipment to be accompanied by the shipper's representation that the carrier was not liable for injury, is invalid, as relieving it from its own negligence. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Winn Bros. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 897.

Under arts. 708 and 710, a stipulation freeing a railroad company from liability for injuries to animals because of heat, suffocation, or overcrowding, and declaring that injury should be presumed the result of overloading, is invalid. Southern Kansas Ry. Co. v. Hughey (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 361.

The agreement that a shipper should care for animals in transit is no defense to an action for damages to the same, unless the railroad company showed adequate facilities were provided and the agreement was reasonable. Id.

The contract for shipment of live stock that the shipper would load the stock, care for and attend them while they were in the stockyards, and that the carrier should not be liable for any loss or damage while the stock were in the shipper's charge, is invalid. Id.

An agreement requiring the shipper to inspect the cars, and accept them if good condition, and declaring that in the event of failure it shall be conclusively presumed that the cars were suitable, is void. Id.

Where cotton shipped from a point in this state to Galveston on local bills of lading was in fact destined for export, so that the transportation from the place of delivery to Galveston was a part of the journey to a foreign port, the shipment was an interstate shipment. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Langbehn (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 244, denying second rehearing 150 S. W. 1183.

Under Carmack Amendment, a receipt of an express company limiting its liability to $50 or less on the goods shipped was valid. Pacific Express Co. v. Krower, 183 S. W. 9, 106 Tex. 216.

Shipper delivering foreign shipment to carrier under bill of lading, limiting liability, held subject to such limitations in the absence of negligence of carrier or its servants contributing to injury through the excepted cause. Texarkana & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Brass (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 778.

The limitation upon the carrier's liability contained in a contract for an interstate shipment of live stock at a reduced rate prescribed by the interstate commerce commission was valid and enforceable. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Corn (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 807.

Where cars were furnished on request for an interstate shipment of live stock, as required by Interstate Commerce Act, conditions in the contract as to the carrier's liability were controlling. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 714.

A carrier transporting freight to a wrong place, and there selling it as unclaimed freight, converted it and was liable for its full value, notwithstanding limited liability. Id.

Under bill of lading limiting a recovery to $19 for each calf shipped and, in case of injury, to an amount not exceeding the same proportion, the shipper, on jury's finding of $ per cent. depreciation upon a valuation of $50, was entitled to 50 cents per head. Kansas & S. Ry. Co. v. Corn (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 907.

Provision in shipping contract vauling calves in case of total or partial loss held not to apply to the conversion of a calf or its proceeds by the carrier or its agents. Id.

In an interstate shipment of live stock, party under a written contract at a reduced rate in consideration of a reduced valuation, the shipper having classified them in the contract as calves, could not claim that they should have been classified as older animals. Id.

24. Limitation as ground of defense—Sufficiency of evidence.—Evidence held to sustain findings that plaintiff's wife, on tendering the shipment, declared its value to be $300, and that defendant charged a rate proportionate to such valuation. Wells Fargo & Co. Express v. Powell (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 988.

Art. 710. [322] [280] Must give bill of lading.

1. Bills of lading in general.—Where a shipper's agent signed a bill of lading, without reading it or knowing its contents, after the shipment had started, the writing was unenforceable for want of mutuality and consideration. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Bracht (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1116.

At common law a shipper might rely either on an oral contract or recover for negligent delay where there was no contract. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Jones (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 307.

Under arts. 708 and 710, a stipulation freeing a railroad company from liability for injuries to animals because of heat, suffocation, or overcrowding, and declaring that injuries caused by overloading is invalid. Southern Kansas Ry. Co. of Texas v. Hughey (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 561.

5. Construction and operation of bill.—A clause inserted in a bill of lading by the carrier for its own benefit must be taken to have meant all that the words implied. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Hickerson (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 192.

Recital in bill of lading showing cotton to have been consigned by the seller to a certain named buyer was conclusive that it was consigned to the buyer, and not to the
1. A bill of lading transfers only the title to, and the constructive possession of, the goods which it represents. Id.

2. Bank which, under agreement with the shipper, paid drafts drawn on him, receiving the attached order bills of lading, held to have the title to and possession of the cotton, and no title or interest therein. Id.

3. Where bank which had paid drafts drawn on the shipper in trust for the lading to the dealer for a particular purpose and he by means thereof obtained compress receipts which he transferred to a purchaser, purchaser held to have no title to the cotton against the bank. Id.

4. Contracts for transportation.—If a contract for the shipment of freight was procured by the carrier and plaintiff, it was not binding upon the shipper. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Sparks (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 943.

5. Where the agent signed the contract without having time to read it, and believing that it was merely to be used as a “pass,” held, that the shipper was not bound if the contract differed from the oral contract of shipment. Id.

6. To invalidate the written contract of shipment, on the ground that the shipper’s agent was compelled to sign it without knowledge of its terms, and believing that it was a mere pass, the evidence must show that he was compelled to sign it without knowledge of its contents, and without being given time to read it, or having his attention called thereto. Id.

7. A consignor of goods, which had been loaded and for which a bill of lading had been issued to his agent, as consignee, before any new interest had intervened, and subject to the carrier’s claim for full freight, had the right to cancel the contract of shipment and replace the goods on the train of the Texas Midland R. R. v. Harp of (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 925.

9. A local agent was authorized to make a verbal contract, binding his company to furnish cars for the transportation of cattle on a day certain. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Stinson (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 536.

10. Evidence held sufficient to support a judgment for plaintiff, a carrier, for the rent of unused space in a vessel against a shipper failing to furnish merchandise for shipment pursuant to contract requirements. W. B. Clarkson & Co. v. Gans S. S. Line (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1103.

11. A shipping contract, binding the shipper to pay for space unused in a vessel by reason of the shipper’s failure to furnish a cargo according to contract, held not unilateral. Id.

12. Ownership, custody, and control of goods.—The term “shipper’s order,” as used in bills of lading, was well understood and means that the title remains in the shipper until he orders a delivery of the goods. B. W. McMahan & Co. v. State Nat. Bank of Shawnee (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 403.

14. That plaintiffs sued as a firm in an action for damages to a shipment of horses consigned by the firm, did not render erroneous a joint judgment in favor of them as the individual firms, the evidence being conflicting whether the horses belonged to the firm, or part of them belonged to one partner and the rest to the other. Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Chumbley (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 1107.

15. Where a bank purchased a seller’s bill of lading with draft attached, but on refusal of the buyer to accept the goods, the seller gave its check to the bank for the amount of the draft, held on the evidence, that at the time of a levy on the goods as the property of the seller the title was in such seller. Collin County Nat. Bank v. Satterwhite (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 335.

16. Transportation and delivery by carrier.—A notice of the arrival of goods is not “given” or “sent,” under the provisions of a bill of lading, at the time it is posted, where the consignee is in the same town as the agents of the carrier and known to them so that he could be directly notified. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Hicks (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 92.

17. A carrier is not entitled to surrender of the bill of lading under all circumstances as a condition precedent to the delivery to the consignee. Outcault Advertising Co. v. Thomson (Civ. App.) 104 S. W. 496.

18. The consignee named in a bill of lading must be treated by the carrier as the absolute owner until he has notice to the contrary, and a delivery to the consignee, without such notice, discharges the carrier. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. McDavitt Bros. (Civ. App.) 105 S. W. 5.

19. Where goods consigned to the purchaser were, on arrival, delivered in accordance with the purchaser’s order, he cannot recover from the carrier because it did not collect the purchase price from the person to whom the goods were delivered, as directed by the purchaser. Id.

20. A carrier must furnish a shipper reasonable facilities for unloading, but the shipper must exercise reasonable diligence, and the carrier need not permit him to use the car as a storehouse in which to carry on his business as a seller on the payment of demurrage charges. W. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 108 S. W. 972.

seller to himself with directions to notify the buyer, and no demand was made for a return thereof, and possession was not obtained on a promise to pay the charges on it, the carrier could not pay a draft drawn by the seller and make himself liable therefor.

17. Perishable goods.—Carrier of perishable freight held not guilty of actionable negligence for failing to maintain a sufficient quantity of ice in a car. St. Louis & Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Grant (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 714.

20. Presentation of bill of lading before delivery.—On refusal of carrier's agent to hold a shipment of goods and deliver them without any demand by him for the bill of lading or denial of the consignor's ownership, held that the failure to tender the bill of lading was immaterial to the consignor's right of action for damages. Texas Midland Ry. v. Hargrove (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 825.

Petition alleging ownership of goods shipped under a bill of lading to the shipper's agent as consignee, a demand and a refusal to redeliver before the goods had left the point of shipment, without alleging a tender of the bill of lading or an offer to pay the freight, held to state a good cause of action for damages. Id.

21. Liability for failure or refusal to deliver.—Where an article, shipped by the seller to himself with directions to notify the buyer, came into possession of the buyer without the consent of the carrier, the buyer, appropriating the article, was liable to the carrier for conversion, the price not having been paid. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 282.

In action against carrier for conversion by sale on refusal of shipper to pay excessive freight, the fact that shipper and his attorney purchased most of the property was immaterial. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Porter (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 98.

In action against a carrier for delivery of goods, his representative to the shipper liable to the consignee without production of the company's receipt, contrary to directions. Wells Fargo & Co. Express v. Pugh (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 61.

Where the carrier demands excessive and illegal freight charges, and on the refusal of the shipper to pay them declines to deliver the goods, and sells them for the charges, there is a conversion. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hubbard (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 793.

25. Actions for failure to deliver or misdelivery.—Damages.—In an action by a consignee against a carrier for conversion of a car of apples in refusing to deliver them on the production of the bill of lading, the measure of damages was the interest on the value of the property during its retention and any amount that the property depreciated in value while withheld. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Long (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 769.

A consignor whose goods had been loaded and for which a bill of lading had been issued to his agent, as consignee, on the carrier's refusal to redeliver them at the place of shipment, held entitled to recover the difference, if any, between their market value there and when they were delivered at destination. Texas Midland R. R. v. Hargrove (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 925.

The measure of damages for the conversion of a car of coal is the reasonable market value of the coal at the place where it was taken. Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 559.

In determining damages for conversion by carrier, secondhand household fixtures have no recognized value, and court must consider original cost, use, general condition, etc. Whitley v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 26.

26. Loss or injury to goods.—Where, though a shipper of eggs included them with live poultry to make a car load, thus obtaining a lower freight rate than he was entitled to, he did so in good faith, with the knowledge of the carrier's agent, the illegality of the shipment did not absolve the carriers of liability for damages to the eggs through its negligence. T. C. & St. L. Ry. v. Commons (Civ. App.) 1107.

Where carrier afforded the consignee every reasonable opportunity to remove fruit from the car, it was not liable for damages resulting to the fruit because of its refusal to permit the consignee to peddle from the car. Wichita Falls & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Watlant (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 393.

Rule of railroad which had been systematically disregarded held not to serve such railroad as a defense in an action against it for destruction of a shipment loaded in violation of the rule. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. D. S. Cage & Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 555.

30. Commencement, duration, and termination of liability.—Defendant railroad held to have received and accepted delivery of goods for which it issued bill of lading before actual delivery, so as to place it under a liability as insurer as to shipment. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. D. S. Cage & Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 555, W. 98.

In an action against a carrier for failure to deliver goods, refusal of an instruction that the carrier was not liable for failure to deliver if the goods were taken under attachment held error. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. McKie (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 576.

Carrier could not pay a draft drawn by the consignor or himself, without notice of a protest against cold, could not escape liability because the messenger failed to ask that the fruit be protected at destination. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Freeman (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 369.

32. Directions of shipper.—A carrier of bananas under contract whereby a messenger traveled with the shipment to advise concerning its protection en route, which carrier could not pay a draft drawn by the messenger en route against cold, could not escape liability because the messenger failed to ask that the fruit be protected at destination.

34. Negligence.—Where a contract of carriage contained an absolute and unconditional stipulation requiring the carrier to re-ice the cars at every icem station, the carrier could not pay any noncompliance thereof because it its employes in charge did not consider re-icing necessary. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Texas Flicking Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 337.
33. Act of God, vis major, or inevitable accident.—A loss by fire, unless caused by lightning, is within the exception of the act of God and is chargeable against a common carrier. American Express Co. v. Duncan (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 411.

40. Action for loss of or injury—Sufficiency of evidence.—In an action against a railway company for injury to a shipment of cabbages on account of the improper icing of the car, evidence held to sustain a verdict against the carier. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Freytag (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 414.

In an action by a shipper against a carrier for damages to a shipment of dressed turkeys, comprising three classes, varying in value, evidence held sufficient to support the finding where there was no evidence as to what class the turkeys belonged, where the verdict was less than the loss, whatever class the turkeys belonged in. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Texas Packing Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 337.

Evidence in an action against a carrier by water for injuries to property held insufficient to sustain a verdict. Galveston, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Bachal (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 216.

Evidence held sufficient to show that a railroad did not enforce its rule regarding the loading of shipments, for which it was to receive no part of the transportation charge, into its service cars. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. D. S. Cage & Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 885.

In a shipper's action for loss of goods, evidence held to justify a finding that the flood by which they were destroyed was not such an unprecedented and extraordinary flood that defendant railroad was not required to anticipate and guard against it. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Penney (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 970.

41. Damages.—The measure of damages for injuries to secondhand household goods and wearing apparel is the difference in their actual value just prior to and just after the injury, and not the difference in the market value of similar goods at second-hand stores at or nearest their destination. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Wallraven (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 116.

Where secondhand household furniture and wearing apparel is wholly destroyed, a proper measure of damage is the value of the goods at the time of the destruction, minus the cost of the articles, the extent of their use, whether worn or out of date, their condition at the time, etc., and from these and other pertinent facts to determine the present value. Id.

In an action against a carrier for damages to a car of fruit and vegetables, expenses incurred by the shipper in preserving and caring for them pending final sale thereof were recoverable. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Gray (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 434.

Where the rate of freight for the transportation of goods was not based on market value at the point at which the goods were sold, recovery against the carrier was not justified. Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co. v. Bell (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 396.

Where a shipment of goods was only partially destroyed by the carrier's negligence, neither the consignee nor the shipper is justified in abandoning the shipment and charging the carrier with its full value. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Burrus Mill & Elevator Co. (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 1028.

Where a private car never reached its destination through the negligence of connecting carriers, but the carrier was not informed that the car was to be loaded for plaintiff's business, plaintiff could not recover for loss of profits from failure to receive the freight. San Antonio & A. F. Ry. Co. v. Houston Packing Co. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 642.

If, to put an automobile injured by defendant in as good repair as before, pneumatic tires must be bought, defendant is liable therefor. Wells Fargo & Co. Express v. Keeler (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 926.

Where household goods, bedding, wearing apparel, farm implements, and tools have been in use for some time, an award of damages for their destruction through negligence based upon their original cost is erroneous. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Bartek (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1106.

Carrier, failing to deliver roofing with knowledge that it was to be re painted, held liable for injury to the lumber. Quanah, A. & F. Ry. Co. v. R. D. Jones Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 588.

In a suit for damages to 1,000 bushels of shipped corn, it is error to allow recovery of damages suffered on every bushel, where plaintiff admitted that his customer accepted and paid for 567½ bushels at the full price agreed. Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. Lewis (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 593.

The action being for injury to freight, and not conversion thereof, by the carrier, and the evidence showing it was rendered worthless, the measure of damages is the market value at time and place of tender. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Hutchinson Grain Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 429.

Measure of damages for negligent injury to goods shipped is difference between the market value of the injured goods at the destination and what they would have brought in such market if uninjured; the freight, if not prepaid, being deductible from such amount. Fruehauf, E. & W. Ry. Co. v. Co. Brackin (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 934.

If goods damaged in transit are not wholly worthless, consignee should receive and handle them to minimize the damage, if possible. Id.

The measure of damages for conversion of goods by carrier is the value of such goods at the destination less legal transportation charges. Texas & N. O. Ry. Co. v. Patterson & Roberts (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 585.

Art. 711. [323] [281] Liability as warehousemen, etc.

Carrier as warehouseman.—Where the carrier and shipper contract that the carrier's liability as such shall terminate after 48 hours' notice to the consignee, and the provisions of the contract are not in conflict with the law, they will govern the relations between the...
Art. 711 Carriers (Title 20)

Parties, even though they impose a greater burden than is imposed by arts. 711 and 712, upon the shipper. "Carrier" & M. Ry. Co. 153 S. W. 192.

Under arts. 711 and 712, providing that a carrier shall be liable only as warehouseman after it has used due diligence to notify consignee of the arrival of the goods, what is due diligence depends upon the circumstances of the case. Id.

Under a clause in a bill of lading making a carrier liable only as warehouseman after 48 hours, exclusive of legal holidays, have elapsed from the time notice is given or sent the consignee, the term "legal holidays" includes Sundays as well as statutory holidays. Id.

Where, on delivery, the consignee refused to accept a shipment, and the consignor declined to give orders for its disposition, the carrier was thereafter liable only as a warehouseman. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Burrus Mill & Elevator Co. (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 1028.

Where a railroad company failed to deliver a trunk checked as personal baggage, claiming that the trunk was destroyed when a depot burned, it is liable therefor as a common carrier and not as a warehouseman, where there was no proof that the trunk was in the depot building destroyed by fire. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Green (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 119.

A carrier is liable as warehouseman for the keeping of goods after the shipper has refused to pay the legal rate. Wichita Falls & W. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Asher (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1114.

A carrier of bananas, independent of the contract of shipment, owed the owner the duty to preserve the property after it reached destination until it was delivered. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Freeman (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 269.

Where consignee refused shipment of maize, railway company was not required to store same at place of destination, but was justified in removing it to the most convenient and suitable storage provided it held itself ready to deliver on demand. Texas & N. O. Ry. Co. v. Patterson & Roberts (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 555.

Where a consignee has failed to use due diligence to remove goods after notice of their arrival at destination, the carrier's liability therefor is that of a warehouseman. American Express Co. v. Duncan (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 411.

Under arts. 707, 711, 712, the liability of a common carrier as such continues until actual delivery or that which may be considered an equivalent or substitute therefor. Id.

A consignee who has goods shipped home to himself, but makes no effort to notify his folks while he makes the journey, requiring a week, on horseback, and who has actual notice the day after his arrival that goods have been received, but does not remove them because of inconvenience, cannot hold the carrier liable as for loss of his property by fire. Id.

Art. 712. [324] [282] Diligence as to delivery.

Limitation of liability.—Where the carrier and shipper contract that the carrier's liability as such shall terminate after 48 hours' notice to the consignee, and the provisions of the contract are not in conflict with the law, they will govern the relations between the parties, even though they impose a greater burden than that imposed by arts. 711 and 712, upon the carrier. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Hicks (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 192.

Due diligence.—What is due diligence depends upon the circumstances of the case. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Hicks (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 192.

Notice.—See notes under art. 711.

A railway company in discharge of its duties to give notice of arrival of freight at destination is not bound to look for such person at any place other than that of destination. Texas & N. O. Ry. Co. v. Patterson & Roberts (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 555.

When provided for notice of arrival of freight to be delivered to designated party, notice to such party was sufficient, and thereafter railroad company held property as warehouseman. Id.

How long liability continues.—Under arts. 707, 711, 712, the liability of a common carrier continues until actual delivery or that which may be considered an equivalent or substitute therefor. American Express Co. v. Duncan (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 411.

Art. 713. [325] [283] Shall forward in good order, etc.

Increased market price as affecting right to damages.—Though the market price was higher on the day the shipment reached the point of destination than on the day it should have reached there, the carrier is not entitled to a peremptory instruction, where the seller has sustained no damage not only for depreciation of the market, but for delay. Southern Kansas Ry. Co. of Texas v. Hughey (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 361.

Art. 714. [326] [284] Shall feed and water live stock.

Duty and liability of carrier in general.—Carrier held not relieved of liability for injuries to mules by failing to furnish an opportunity to feed and water them, though shipper's act in subsequently watering them without restraint was the immediate cause, unless his act was negligence. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Beckham (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 359.

Jury held justified in finding that a carrier's negligent failure to furnish an opportunity to feed and water mules was the proximate cause of injury resulting from watering them without restraint when unloaded in a filth-covered condition. Id.

A violation by a carrier of the Twenty-Eight Hour Law, relating to feeding of animals is negligence per se. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hill (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1028.

A carrier may not justify a violation of the Twenty-Eight Hour Law by relying on rules of Animal Industry, unless it could prove the filth contained nothing to injure mules. Id.

In an action by shippers of live stock for delay in transit, where the shipment was interstate and required at least 60 hours to make, the jury should have been instructed with reference to the requirements of the federal law as to the unloading of cattle for resting, watering, and feeding. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Landa & Storey (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 384.

The federal acts prohibiting carrier of live stock from confining them to the cars without food, rest, or water for more than 24 hours merely prescribe a maximum period and do not authorize the carrier, where it is unreasonable, to keep the animals in confinement for that length of time. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. McMillen (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 773.

Special contract.—"Feed and water," as used in this article, refers to the internal necessities of the animal, and a contract for the shipment of hogs, requiring the shipper to feed and water the hogs, did not relieve the carrier from the duty to flush the hogs if necessary to prevent injury from overheating. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1098.

This article held to authorize carriers to contract with shippers that the duty to feed and water the stock in transit shall be performed by the keepers in charge. Dickerson v. San Antonio, U. & G. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1045.

This article authorizes a contract shifting the duty to the shipper's representative accompanying the shipment. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Winn Bros. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 697.

In an action for damages to a shipment of live stock, held, in view of plaintiff's execution of a 24-hour release, that his testimony that there was no attempt to feed and water the cattle at any other than a certain place was inadmissible. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Corn (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 897.

Sufficiency of evidence.—Evidence of delays in transportation of live stock, one of two hours, one of seven hours, two of twelve hours each, and one sixteen hours, with no reasons given therefor except the first, is sufficient to support a finding of negligent delay, even assuming that parts of some of them were to enable compliance with this article. St. Louis, E. & M. Ry. Co. v. Marcofich (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 51.

BILLS OF LADING CERTIFIED, ETC.

Art. 717. "Straight" and "order" bills of lading defined, and issuance of "order" bills of lading regulated.

Art. 719. Bill of lading issued by authorized agent, to be held act of carrier, etc., liability thereon; effect of certificate, etc.

Authority of agent.—The quotation of interstate freight rates is within the scope of a railroad agent's authority. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Dickson Bros. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 29.

CHAPTER THREE

DISPOSITION OF UNCLAIMED OR PERISHABLE PROPERTY

BY CARRIERS

Art. 725. [327] [285] Unclaimed freight may be sold, when and how.

Mode of sale.—This article requires a sale in bags, when shipment is of a certain number of bags. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Gate City Fertilizer Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 668.

Liability of consignor for deficiency after sale.—Consignor of goods shipped "freight collect" to consignee named in bill of lading held liable to carrier for balance due after failure of consignee to pay freight and sale of goods by carrier to enforce its lien for charges. Miller & Vidor Lumber Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 384.
Art. 726 [328] [286] Notice of such sale.

Art. 728. [330] [288] Carrier may sell live stock, when.
Conversion.—Where cattle are sold by a carrier under arts. 726 and 728, because they remain unclaimed for 48 hours, the carrier is not guilty of a conversion, and the owner can recover only the balance of the proceeds derived at the sale, after deducting expenses, etc. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Crowder (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 116.

CONNECTING LINES OF COMMON CARRIERS

Art. 731. [331a] Connecting lines of common carriers defined.
Through shipment and duties and liabilities of initial carriers in general.—The common-law liability of each carrier is limited to damages accruing on its own line, in the absence of special agreement for liability for the entire carriage. Wichita Falls & W. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Asher (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1114.
The initial carrier of an interstate shipment of live stock is liable for all damages, whether caused by its acts or default of its connecting carrier. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 555.
Provision in bill of lading by initial carrier that owner shall pay charges before delivery, if required, does not authorize initial carrier to demand the charges before delivery to connecting carrier. Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. R. D. Jones Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 585.
Receipt of initial carrier for shipment of goods destined to point on line of connecting railroad held not to show that the shipment was a through shipment within this article. Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 232.
Under this article there must be more than the mere receipt and transportation of goods to show a contract for through shipment. Id.
Where the initial carrier agrees to transport only to a certain point, though the shipment is consigned to a point beyond, there is no through contract of shipment, necessary for joint liability of the connecting carriers. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Odom (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 626.
Where carrier of live stock, on arrival at connecting point, repairs cars and delivers whole shipment to connecting road as quickly as person of ordinary prudence, similarly situated, would do under same circumstances, it is not liable for delay, though cattle were injured by heating by the stoppage. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Gatewood (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 923.
A shipment of a car of corn on a through bill of lading, from a point on the line of one road to a point on the line of another, held a through shipment as regards liability, under article 732, of both to the shipper for injury. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Goughston Grain Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 429.
Shipper held, as a matter of law, not entitled to recover of initial carrier the value of oats shipped to another state and taken on execution in favor of a broker, to whom he ordered the delivered on consignee's refusal to accept. Hamilton Mill & Elevator Co. v. Stephensville, N. & S. T. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 774.
In an action for value of goods taken on execution against the shipper in favor of his consignee, the liability of the initial carrier is to be tested by that of the terminal carrier. Id.
At common law the breach of a joint contract for through transportation of freight renders both carriers liable for the damages which result on either road unless there is a valid provision limiting the liability of each to injury occurring on its own line. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Nelson (Sup.) 192 S. W. 1098.

Rights, duties and liabilities of connecting and terminal carriers.—Notice to the agent of an initial carrier contracting to transport an interstate shipment of cattle of an arrangement whereby the consignee was to pay the freight held notice to connecting carriers along the route. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co. v. Cheek (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 427.
A connecting carrier held not entitled to stop an interstate shipment of cattle at an intermediate station because of the shipper's refusal to comply with the carrier's demand for payment of freight. Id.
Where a carrier of live stock contracted to transport it to designated stockyards, but proceeded to take the stock by a belt line railway, the belt line was but an agency of the carrier, and the shipper, suing for injuries to stock, did not have the burden of proving which carrier inflicted the injuries. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Tomlinson (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 446.
Initial and connecting carriers held not liable for negligence of another carrier, to whom, by direction of shipper, shipment was delivered at the point to which the shipment was originally consigned. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. McCrellan (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 258.
Under this article a connecting carrier held not liable for injuries to cattle occurring on the line of the initial carrier. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Patterson (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 276.
Connecting carrier, receiving interstate shipment of live stock, held bound by conversation between shipper and agent of the initial carrier as to the time the shipper wished it shipped, to deliver livestock as agreed, Hovey v. Arledge (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 952.

Where there was no competent evidence that defendant receivers notified the initial carrier that their connecting road would not accept shipment, and the damage was due in part to carriage on line, judgment against receivers would be reversed and remanded. Hovey v. Arledge (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 896.

Terminal carrier, receiving goods in good condition and delivering them in a damaged condition, held liable. United S. S. Co. v. Houston Packing Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 570.

Notice to one of four connecting carriers, within time provided by contract, of loss to shipper of live stock by delay in transit was notice to all of the carriers. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. v. Magill (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 577.

A connecting carrier negligently handling cattle received from the initial carrier held liable, though the initial carrier negligently delayed delivery. Andrews v. McGill (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1087.

In the absence of a special contract or course of business, an initial carrier, or an intermediate connecting carrier, is bound only to safely carry and deliver the shipment to the next carrier. Quanah, A. & P. Ry. v. Warren (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 232.

While in intrastate shipments, which are not through shipments, a carrier may by contract limit its liability to damages through negligence on its own line, if the damages proven are shown to have resulted from joint negligence of two carriers, each may be held responsible for proportion which its negligence bears to entire negligence. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 539.

Where negligence of railroad in failing or refusing to accept shipment of live stock at connecting point concurred with negligence of connecting road in failing to deliver shipment in question, on transfer track, both companies were responsible for delays and consequent damages, regardless of whether they were proximate or ultimate result of negligence of each. Where cattle were shipped over connecting lines under a through contract of shipment, the final carrier is liable for damages thereto caused by negligence of its connecting carrier. Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 318.

In the absence of damages, an intermediate connecting carrier which made oral contract for through shipment of goods is liable thereunder for damages to such shipment occurring on connecting line, where it had notice when it accepted the shipment that special damages pleaded would result from delay in shipping. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. v. Nelson (Sup.) 192 S. W. 1866.

Interstate commerce.—Under the direct provisions of the Carmack amendment, the initial carrier, receiving property for interstate transportation from a point in one state to a point in another, is liable to the lawful holder of the receipt or bill of lading for any loss or damage, regardless on which carrier's lines it occurred. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Word (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 275.

Under the Carmack Amendment to Hepburn Act, making any common carrier of interstate goods liable for damage caused by it or any connecting carrier and that no contract shall exempt such carrier from such liability, notice of damage may be given to the connecting carrier, though the contract of shipment requires notice to the initial carrier. Overton v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 111.

Since Act Cong. June 29, 1906, c. 3591, § 7 (U. S. Comp. St. Ann. § 5592), makes the initial carrier in intrastate transportation liable to the holder of the bill of lading for any loss or damage to the goods, a provision in an interstate bill of lading, that the initial carrier or any connecting line should not be liable for the proper carriage of the goods beyond its own line, would be ineffectual. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Brackett-Fielder Mill & Elevator Co. (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 116.

In an action against the initial carrier under Carmack amendment of the Interstate Commerce Law for loss of goods, it is immaterial where the loss occurred. St. Louis, B. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Reed (Sup.) 366 S. W. 15.

A stipulation of a contract made by a connecting carrier in the course of transportation under a through contract of shipment was violative of Interstate Commerce Act, § 20, as amended by Act June 29, 1906, § 7, where it attempted to exempt the carriers from liability in case a claim was not filed within 30 days from date of injury, and hence was not enforceable. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Ward (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1035.

Under the amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act, § 20, a shipper may sue both the initial and connecting carrier for damages for delay occurring on the connecting carrier's line. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Boyce (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1094.

The Carmack amendment (Act June 29, 1906, § 7) to Interstate Commerce Act Feb. 4, 1887, § 20, does not apply to a shipment through another state to a point in the same state as the point of origin. Wichita Falls & W. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Asher (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1114.

Under the Carmack amendment the initial carrier of live stock is liable, notwithstanding the insolvency of the connecting carrier and the fact that the shipment was accompanied by a caretaker. Texas Mexican Ry. Co. v. King (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 336.

Effort to impose on the initial carrier the liability of the connecting carrier, a liability under the common law incurred by connecting carriers. Stevens & Russell v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 510.

Limitation of liability to carrier's own line.—Where the liability of carriers was fixed by a through contract with the initial carrier, the shipment being an interstate one, a connecting carrier cannot limit its liability by issuing a new bill of lading; there being no consideration for such new contract. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Word (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 375.
Art. 731  CARRIERS

Where the contract with the initial carrier provided for notice of claim within 91 days, and it was not alleged that two of the carriers did not acquiesce in the through bill of lading, it was binding on them, as provided by arts. 731 and 732; and hence an allegation that their contracts provided for notice within 120 days, followed by introduction of the 91-day contract, constituted a variance. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Boger (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1093.

Terminal carrier held liable for damage to shipment occurring while in its possession, without reference to the bill of lading limiting liability for injuries to those on its own line. United S. S. Co. v. Houston Packing Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 570.

Under this article initial carrier may limit its liability for negligence occurring on its own line. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Adams (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 365.

Though a railroad company limited its liability to damages occurring on its own line, it was liable for injuries to interstate shipment of live stock, caused by its negligence, though the injuries did not develop until after delivery to a connecting carrier. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. McMillen (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 773.

Under separate contracts for shipment of live stock, limiting the carriers' liability to injury to cattle on their respective lines, a terminal carrier could not be charged with negligence of a connecting carrier. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Allen (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 765.

Sufficiency of evidence.—In action for delay in shipment of live stock in transit, evidence, held sufficient to justify finding of negligent refusal or failure of defendant railroad to accept shipment at connecting point. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 819.

In action against two railroads for delaying shipment of live stock, evidence as to negligent delay held to support verdict for plaintiff. Id.

Initial carrier of an interstate shipment is liable for damages, where undisputed evidence shows contract for through shipment, delivery to carrier in good condition, and arrival at destination in bad condition, where such shipment was unaccompanied by shipper or his representative. Andrews v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 569.

Art. 732.  [331b] Liability of such connecting lines.

Liability as between carriers.—Railroad undertaking to switch loaded car from spur track of shipper to line of connecting road, held liable to such connecting road for a judgment recovered against it by the shipper for destruction of the goods before they had been switched from the spur track. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. D. S. Cage & Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 855.

CHAPTER FIVE

PIPE LINES

Art.
732½. Certain persons, etc., declared to be common carriers.
732½a. Subject to regulation as carrier and to control of railroad commission.
732½b. Powers of common carriers, telegraph and telephone lines, rights in highways.
732½c. Regulation of rates and charges and modes of conducting business procedure.
732½d. Exchange of facilities between carriers; regulations as to transportation of crude petroleum; extent of powers of railroad commission; orders.

Article 732½. Certain persons, etc., declared to be common carriers.
—Every person, firm, corporation, limited partnership, joint stock association or association of any kind whatever;
(a) Owning, operating or managing any pipe line or any part of any pipe line within the State of Texas for the transportation of crude petroleum to or for the public for hire, or engaged in the business of transporting crude petroleum by pipe line; or
(b) Owning, operating or managing any pipe line or any part of any pipe line for the transportation of crude petroleum, to or for the public for hire, and which said pipe line is constructed or maintained upon, along, over or under any public road or highway, or in favor of whom the right of eminent domain exists; or

(c) Owning, operating or managing any pipe line or any part of any pipe line or pipe lines for transportation to or for the public, for hire, of crude petroleum, and which said pipe line or pipe lines is or may be constructed, operated or maintained across, upon, along, over or under the right of way of any railroad, corporation or other common carrier required by law to transport crude petroleum as a common carrier; or

(d) Owning, operating or managing or participating in ownership, operation or management, under lease, contract of purchase, agreement to buy or sell, or other agreement or arrangement of any kind whatsoever, any pipe line or pipe lines, or part of any pipe line, for the transportation from any oil field or place of production within the State of Texas to any distributing, refining or marketing center or reshipping point thereof, within this State, of crude petroleum bought of others:

Is hereby declared to be a common carrier and subject to the provisions hereof. But the provisions of this Act shall not apply to those pipe lines which are limited in their use to the wells, stations, plants and refineries of the owner and which are not a part of the pipe line transportation system of any common carrier as above defined; nor shall such provisions apply to any property of such a common carrier which is not a part of or necessarily incident to its pipe line transportation system.

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 7321/2a. Subject to regulation as carrier and to control of Railroad Commission.—It is declared that the operation of those pipe lines, to which this Act applies, for the transportation of crude petroleum, in connection with the purchase or purchase and sale of such crude petroleum, is a business in the mode of the conduct of which the public is interested, and as such is subject to regulation by law; and accordingly it is provided that from and after the expiration of thirty (30) days from the time this law takes effect the business of purchasing, or of purchasing and selling crude petroleum, using in connection with such business a pipe line of the class subject to this Act to transport the crude petroleum so bought or sold, shall not be conducted, unless such pipe line so used in connection with such business be a common carrier within the purview of this law and subject to the jurisdiction herein conferred upon the Railroad Commission of Texas. It shall be the duty of the Attorney General to enforce this provision by injunction or other adequate remedy. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 7321/2b. Powers of common carriers; telegraph and telephone lines; rights in highways.—The right to lay, maintain and operate pipe lines, together with telegraph and telephone lines incidental to and designed for use only in connection with the operation of such pipe lines along, across or under any public stream or highway in this State, is hereby conferred upon all persons, firms, limited partnerships, joint stock associations, or corporations coming within any of the definitions of common carrier pipe lines as hereinbefore made. Any person, firm, limited partnership, joint stock association, or corporation may acquire the right to construct pipe lines and such incidental telephone and telegraph lines along, across or over any public road or highway in this State, by filing with the Railroad Commission an acceptance of the provisions of this law, expressly agreeing in writing that in consideration of the rights so acquired it shall be and become a common carrier pipe line, subject to the duties and obligations conferred or imposed in this Act. This right to run along, across or over any public road or highway, as before provided for, can only be exercised upon condition that the traffic thereon be not interfered with, and that such road or highway be promptly restored to its former condition of usefulness, and the restoration thereof to be subject also to the supervision of the county commissioners' court or other proper local authority. And provided, that in the exercise of the privileges herein conferred, such pipe lines shall compensate the county or road district, respectively, for any damage done to such public road, in the laying of pipe lines, telegraph or telephone lines, along or across the same; and nothing herein shall be construed to grant any pipe line company the right to use any public street or alley of any incorporated city or town, except by express permission from the city or governing authority thereof; and nothing herein shall be construed to permit any company to use any street or alley of any unincorporated town, except by express permission of the commissioners' court of the county in which such town is situated. [Id., § 3.]

Damage from escape of gas.—The owner of a pipe line which carries oil through the ground is liable for damages caused by its escape regardless of his negligence. Texas Co. v. Earles (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 28.

Art. 732 1/2c. Regulation of rates and charges and mode of conducting business; procedure.—The Railroad Commission shall have the power to establish and enforce rates of charges and regulations for gathering, transporting, loading and delivering crude petroleum by such common carriers in this State, and for the use of storage facilities necessarily incident to such transportation, and to prescribe and enforce rules and regulations for the government and control of such common carriers in respect to their pipe lines and receiving, transferring and loading facilities, and it shall be its duty to exercise such power upon petition by any person showing a substantial interest in the subject. No order establishing or prescribing rates, rules and regulations shall be made except after hearing and at least ten days and not more than thirty days' notice to the person, firm, corporation, partnership, joint stock association, or association owning or controlling and operating the pipe line or pipe lines affected. In the event any rate shall be filed by any pipe line and complaint against same or petition to reduce same shall be filed by any shipper, and such complaint be sustained, in whole or in part, all shippers who shall have paid the rates so filed by the pipe line shall have the right to reparation or reimbursement of all excess in transportation charges so paid over and above the proper rate as finally determined on all shipments made after the date of the filing of such complaint. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 732 1/2d. Exchange of facilities between carriers; regulations as to transportation of crude petroleum; extent of powers of Railroad Commission; orders.—Every common carrier as above defined shall exchange crude petroleum tonnage with each like common carrier and the commission shall have the power to require such connections and facilities for the interchange of such tonnage to be made at every locality reached by both pipe lines whenever a necessity therefor exists and subject to such rates and regulations as may be made by the commission; and any such common carrier under like rules and regulations shall be required to install and maintain facilities for the receipt and delivery of crude petroleum of patrons at all points on such pipe line. No carrier shall be required to receive or transport any crude petroleum except such as may be marketable under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the commission, which they are hereby empowered and required to prescribe. The commission is also empowered and required to make rules for the ascertainment of the amount of water and other foreign matter in oil tendered for transportation, and for deduction therefor and for the amount of deduction to be made for temperature, leakage and evaporation. It is provided, however, that the recital herein of particular powers on the part of said commission shall not be construed to limit the general powers conferred by this Act. Until set aside or vacated by some decree or order of a court of competent jurisdiction, all orders of the commission as to any matter within its jurisdiction shall be accepted as prima facie evidence of their validity. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 732 1/2e. Publication of tariffs; reports to commission; complaints.—Such common carriers of crude petroleum shall make and publish their tariffs under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by said commission, and the commission shall require them to make reports and may investigate their books and records kept in connection with such business. The commission shall require of such common carrier pipe lines monthly reports, duly verified under oath, of the total quantities of crude petroleum owned by such pipe lines and of that held by them in storage for others, as also of their unfilled storage capacity, provided no publicity shall be given by the commission to the reports as to stock of crude petroleum on hand of any particular pipe line; but the commission in its discretion may make public the aggregate amounts held by all the pipe lines making such reports, and of their aggregate storage capacity. The commission shall have the power and authority to hear and determine complaints, to require attendance of witnesses, pay their expenses out of the fund herein created, and to institute suits and sue out such writs and process as may be necessary for the enforcement of its orders. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 732 1/2f. Discrimination prohibited.—No such common carrier in its operations as such shall discriminate between or against shippers in regard to facilities furnished or service rendered or rates charged under same or similar circumstances in the transportation of crude petroleum; nor shall there be any discrimination in the transportation of crude petroleum produced or purchased by itself directly or indirectly. In this connection the pipe line shall be considered as a shipper of the crude petroleum produced or purchased by itself directly or indirectly and handled through its facilities. No such carrier in such operations shall directly or indirectly charge, demand, collect or receive from any one a greater or less compensation for any service rendered than from another for a like and contemporaneous service; provided this shall not limit the right of the commission to prescribe rates and regulations different from or to some places from other rates or regulations for transportation from or to other places, as it may determine; nor shall any carrier be guilty of discrimination when obeying any order of the commission. When there shall be offered for transportation more crude petroleum than can be immediately transported, the same shall be equitably apportioned. The commission may make and enforce general or specific regulations in this regard. No such common carrier shall at any time be required to receive for shipments from any person, firm, corporation or association of persons, exceeding three thousand barrels of petroleum in any one day. [Id., § 7.]

Art. 732 1/2g. Rules for prevention of waste.—The commission, when necessary, shall make and enforce rules and regulations either general in their nature or applicable to particular oil fields for the prevention of actual waste of oil or operations in the field dangerous to life or property. [Id., § 8.]

Art. 732 1/2h. Penalty for violation of regulations; venue of suits.—Any common carrier as herein defined who shall violate any provision of this Act or who shall fail to perform any duty herein imposed or any valid order of the commission when not stayed or suspended by order of court, shall be subject to a penalty of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars for each offense, such penalty to be recoverable at suit of the Attorney General of the State of Texas in the name of the State and for its use. Such penalty may also be recorded by and for the use of any person, corporation or association of persons against whom there shall have been an unlawful discrimination as herein defined; such suit to be brought in the name of and for the use of party aggrieved and may be maintained in any court of proper jurisdiction, having due regard to the ordinary statutes of venue. * * * [Id., § 9.]

Explanatory.—This section of the act also makes it a misdemeanor to willfully violate the provisions as to discrimination, and that part of the section is set forth, post, as art. 1522p of the Penal Code.

Art. 732 1/2i. Transportation of crude petroleum.—Subject to the provisions of this Act and the rules of regulations which may be prescribed by the commission, every common carrier shall receive and transport crude petroleum delivered to it for transportation and shall so receive and transport same and perform its other duties with respect thereto without discrimination. [Id., § 10.]

Art. 732 1/2j. Employment of expert; salary; assistants; tax on crude petroleum to pay expenses.—It shall be the duty of the commission to employ an expert who shall gather information and assist the commission in the performance of its duties under this Act. The salary of this expert shall be at the rate of thirty-six hundred dollars per annum, payable in equal monthly installments. And the commission shall employ such other assistants as may be necessary. These salaries and expenses and the expenses of the hearings and investigations conducted by said commission shall be paid out of a fund to be derived from a tax of one-twentieth of one per cent of the market value of crude petroleum produced within this State, which tax is hereby levied, and which tax shall be in addition to and collected in the same manner as the present gross receipts production tax on crude petroleum. Producers of crude petroleum are hereby required to make reports of production in the same manner and under the same penalties as for the gross production tax. The tax thus collected shall be paid into the State treasury as other revenue, and shall be paid out in warrants as other State funds. Any yearly excess of the tax over and above the requirements of the commission shall become a part of the general revenue of the State and any deficit shall be made up out of the general revenue of the State. [Id., § 11.]

Sec. 12 makes an appropriation to carry out the provisions of the act.

Art. 732 1/2k. Payment of salary of expert and other expenses.—The salary of the expert for the commission shall be paid by monthly warrants drawn by the State Comptroller on the State Treasurer. Other expenses of the commission, such as traveling expenses, expenses of witness, stenographers and stationery, shall be paid by like warrants issued upon duly verified statements of the persons entitled, with the approval of the chairman of the commission endorsed thereon. [Id., § 13.]

Art. 732 1/2l. Cumulative of other laws.—This Act shall be cumulative of all the laws of this State, which are not in direct conflict herewith, regulating the control of pipe line companies or similar corporations, in this State. [Id., § 14.]

Art. 732 1/2m. Partial invalidity.—If any provision of this Act shall be held unconstitutional or for any other reason shall be held to be void, or if more than one provision of this Act shall be held to be void, such holding shall not have the effect to nullify the remaining parts of this Act, but the parts not so held to be void shall nevertheless remain in full force and effect. [Id., § 15.]

CERTIORARI

CERTIORARI TO THE COUNTY COURT

Art. 734. [333] [291] Application for.

Pleading.—A petition for certiorari to the county court which merely alleged that a purported will was void and probate was improperly granted is insufficient for indefiniteness. Hall v. Davison (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 642.

Amendment.—The denial of leave to file an amended petition for a writ of certiorari to review the action of the county court in probating a will changing the cause of action held not error under arts. 734 and 740. Hall v. Davison (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 642.

Art. 740. [339] [297] Trial de novo; judgment to be certified below.

Amendment.—See Hall v. Davison (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 642.

CHAPTER TWO

CERTIORARI TO JUSTICES' COURTS

Art. 742. [341] [299] Certiorari to justices' courts.

Art. 743. [342] [300] On order of the county or district court or judge.

Necessity and requisites of affidavit.—Under arts. 742 and 745 a petition for certiorari to a justice purporting to be that of the applicant's next friend, signed by third party, together with verification by third party stating he "believed the facts set forth above to be true and correct," was insufficient. Hughes v. Underwood Typewriter Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 399.

Art. 746. [345] [303] What application for certiorari must show.

Time within which writ must be sued out.—Under arts. 747 and 3303 order of justice's court more than two years after judgment refusing to enter nunc pro tunc order setting aside the judgment, and granting new trial, held not appealable. Southwestern Land Corporation v. Neese (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 1090.

Defendant, against whom a justice of the peace judgment had been rendered, held not to have exercised due diligence to sue out certiorari, and therefore not to be entitled to a bill of review. Ferguson v. Sanders (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 782.
Art. 748. [347] [305] Bond with sureties required.
Necessity and requisites of bond.—Under art. 754, and in view of this article, and the petition for a writ of certiorari supple­mented by transcript of proceedings in justice court, a bond er­ranted against a juror “for court” held to sufficiently identify the court and the judgment. Turner v. Fowler (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1038.

Art. 754. [353] [311] Motion to dismiss at first term.
Must move at return term.—Under arts. 754, 2386, 2397, held, that motion to dis­miss writ of certiorari for defect in bond was properly filed in the county court term proceeding that in which the justice had failed to file his transcript. Beck v. Arkansas Motor Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 941.

Where a motion to dis­miss a writ of certiorari to a justice court was contested, it would not be assumed that the county court’s failure to pass on it at the term to which it was returnable was due to appellant’s failure to call it up for action. Id.

Grounds for dismissal.—See Turner v. Fowler (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1038, note under art. 748.

Art. 758. [357] [315] Issues made up under direction of the court.

Art. 759. [358] [316] New matter may be pleaded, etc.

Application in general.—The provision authorizing plaintiff to plead new matter held to apply to appeals. Young Men’s Christian Ass’n of Dallas v. Show Bros. (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 931.

Where a consultant brought two suits in justices’ courts in different counties for a single injury arising out of the same transaction and recovered in one of them, the de­fendant, although authorized to plead such recovery on appeal, was not allowed to plead it in the other in bar of that action under this article, could not enjoin the prosecution of the second action. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Southern Produce Co. (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 999.

Amendment in general.—Defective pleadings in a justice court may be amended in the county court if the amended pleadings do not set up a new cause of action. Hufstutler v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1053.

In an action for failure to send a telegram, an amended petition in the county court, on certiorari to a justice court, which fails to distinctly allege the manner and extent of plaintiff’s damages, such matters appearing inferentially, is not subject to a general dem­urrer, though such petition would be demurrable in a court of record. Id.

A railroad company appealing to the county court from an adverse judgment may amend its pleading and allege that at the time of injuries its railroad was operated by a receiver. Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Ballou (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 327.

New cause of action, defense, set-off or counterclaim.—Where defendant’s counter­claim was beyond the jurisdiction, defendant cannot complain that the county court im­properly allowed plaintiffs to interpose a defense thereto not pleaded in the justice court. Willett v. Harrin (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 26.

Either party to an appeal from a justice to the county court may plead new matter not presented to the justice, so long as a new cause of action is not set up by the amended pleading. McPadden v. Eads (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 634.

An amendment of the petition on appeal from a justice to the county court, which merely amplifies the statement of the cause of action alleged, is not objectionable as pleading a new cause of action. Id.

Where the amended account, filed in the county court on appeal from a justice’s judgment, only amplified and enlarged the grounds of negligence originally alleged as a ground for recovery, and the county court determined that all the matters presented by the amended account had been orally pleaded in justice court’s refusal to strike out the amended account was proper. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Cook (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 158.

On appeal from a judgment of a justice for services rendered at an agreed compensa­tion, an amendment alleging employment without an agreed compensation sets up a new cause of action, contrary to this article. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Ryan (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 568.

In an action for failure to send a telegram brought to the county court by certiorari to a justice court, an amended petition changing those allegations only which affected the measure of damages does not state a new cause of action. Hufstutler v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1053.

Where, by the third amended pleading in a county court on certiorari to a justice court, the other pleadings are abandoned, it is immaterial that it sets up a new cause of action. Id.

Discharge of receiver by court appointing him held available on appeal to county court, though not pleaded in justice’s court. Freeman v. W. B. Walker & Sons (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1133, 486.

On appeal to the county court held, that plaintiffs could plead as defense to cross­action for breach of warranty, settlement of the controversy as to breach of warranty by arbitration, though such defense was not presented in the justice court. Holcomb v. Blankenship (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 918.

Act of county court in permitting plaintiffs in suit on note in justice court to amend on appeal to allege that they were a partnership and not a corporation, as alleged in justice court, held not violative of this article. Scott & Co. v. O. D. Mann & Sons (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 847. See, also, notes under art. 2597.

Art. 760. [359] [317] Trial de novo.
CITIES AND TOWNS

TITLE 22

CITIES AND TOWNS

GENERAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO CITIES

Article 762. [381] [340] Cities, towns and villages may accept provisions of this title.—Any incorporated city, town or village in this State containing six hundred inhabitants or over, including those incorporated under Chapter 14 of this Title or Chapter 11 of Title 18 of the Revised Statutes of 1895, and other laws, general and special, may accept the provisions of this title relating to cities and towns, in lieu of any existing charter, by a two-thirds vote of the council of such city, town or village, which action by the council shall be had at a regular meeting thereof and entered upon the journal of their proceedings, and a copy of the same, signed by the mayor and attested by the clerk or secretary under the corporate seal, filed and recorded in the office of the clerk of the county court of the county in which such city, town or village is situated, and the provisions of this title shall be in force, and all acts theretofore passed incorporating said city, town or village which may be in force by virtue of any existing charter shall be repealed from and after the filing of said copy of their proceedings as aforesaid. When such city, town or village is so incorporated as herein provided, the same shall be known as a city or town, subject to the provisions of this Title relating to cities and towns, and vested with all the rights, powers, privileges, immunities and franchises therein conferred. [Acts 1881, p. 115; Acts 1885, p. 57; Act March 5, 1915, ch. 34, § 1.]

Explanatory.—Took effect 90 days after adjournment on March 20, 1915.

Art. 763. [382] [341] Provisions of this title do not apply until accepted.

2. Power of legislature.—The state can authorize its municipal corporations to make acts an offense therein under the police power, even though it does not make the same act a state offense. Strauss v. State, 76 Tex. Cr. R. 132, 173 S. W. 683.

Under Const. art. 11, § 5, the power of the city to pass an ordinance is not dependent on grant from the Legislature, but is to be governed only by the limitations found in the acts of the Legislature. La Guia v. State (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 724.

a. Police power.—An ordinance of a city incorporated under the general law, requiring railroads to furnish gates or watchmen at crossings, held authorized by the general welfare clause of this article. City of Waxahachie v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 61.

b. Laws essential for the welfare, good order, and prosperity of the citizens resident in a city fail within the “police powers” of the government. Spann v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 999.

c. Notwithstanding Final Title, § 2, Rev. St. 1911, power of municipality to enact ordinance is to be strictly construed, especially where object may work deprivation of citizens’ life, liberty, property, privileges, or immunities. Waldschmit v. City of New Braunfels (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1077.

13. Contracts—in general.—The power of a municipal corporation to contract is limited by its power to tax. Coleman–Fulton Pasture Co. v. Arkansas County (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 312.

14. Validity.—A de facto municipal corporation cannot urge the invalidity of its incorporation as a defense in a suit to collect a debt contracted by it. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 988.

21. Ultra vires contracts.—City, which purchased lands for reservoir, used only part, and failed to pay part of price, could not retain the lands, while repudiating its obligation to pay on ground that its promise was illegal, because no provision was made for payment, as required by Const. art. 11, §§ 5, 7. City of Ft. Worth v. Reynolds (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 501.

Actions by or against.—A judgment against a city in an action against it for a nuisance should order execution against it, in the absence of any statute forbidding it. City of Caturendon v. Bette (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 985.

Art. 768. [570] [499] City exempt from giving bond in suits.

Injunction bond.—Under arts. 768 and 4654, city held not required to give a bond as a condition of the issuance of a temporary injunction. Athens Telephone Co. v. City of Athens (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 371.

Art. 768a. Condemnation of right of way, etc., for waterworks.—That incorporated cities and towns owning their own waterworks system shall have the right to condemn private property for public use in and outside of the city or town limits of such cities and towns, for the purpose of acquiring rights of way for digging or excavating canals, laying mains, pipe lines, for the purpose of conducting water through the same into the cities or towns for the use of the public. [Act March 22, 1915, ch. 110, § 1.]

Explanatory.—See art. 1003 et seq. The act took effect 90 days after March 20, 1915, date of adjournment.

Art. 768b. Same; compensation.—Said cities or towns shall pay just compensation to the owners of such property upon the award being made. [1d, § 2.]

Art. 768c. Same; procedure.—The procedure to condemn property under this law shall be as is now provided by law in the case of condemning property by railroads of this state, and all the laws on such subject shall be applicable hereto. [1d, § 3.]

Art. 769. Powers of city, etc., owning waterworks, sewers, gas and electric lights, to own land within or without limits.

Oral contract.—An oral contract by a city to furnish electricity held binding on it, art. 4, Powl, not specifying how such a contract shall be made. City of Brownsville v. Tumlinson (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1107.

Construction of highway to waterworks.—This article authorizes cities owning waterworks to improve a highway to their plants even though they be without the corporate limits, and the city may use gravel and soil removed from a street within its corporate limits for the purpose of improving such highway. City of La Grange v. Brown (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 8.
Art. 770. May purchase, construct and operate systems inside or outside limits, and regulate, etc.

Contracts for construction.—Contracts for municipal improvements were not abrogated by a subsequent agreement of the city to deliver in advance the warrants for the work on the execution of an indemnity bond. Graves v. M. Griffin O'Neil & Sons ( Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 778.

Contracts for municipal improvements cannot be abrogated by a subsequent contract, if it be illegal and void because authorized by no ordinance or resolution of the city council. Id.

Division of city warrants.—There was no diversion from their purpose of city warrants for improvement and extension of its waterworks, consisting of a well, where the city thereafter from other funds dug a bigger well a few feet away, and had the contractor connect with this instead of the old well. Graves v. M. Griffin O'Neil & Sons ( Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 778.

Art. 773. [384] [343] Limits of corporation to remain the same until extended, etc.

Extension of limits.—The legality of charter provisions for the annexation of territory cannot be attacked in a suit to restrain the issuance of bonds, where the city had been exercising governmental control over the annexed territory. Cohen v. City of Houston ( Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 869.

The Legislature can authorize a city to annex additional territory without the consent and even against the remonstrance of the residents of such territory, though the territory is thereby subjected to taxation to discharge a pre-existing debt of the city. Id.

Art. 774. [385] Cities, towns and villages may incorporate under.—Any city or town containing six hundred inhabitants or over may be incorporated as such, with all the powers, rights, immunities and privileges mentioned and described in the provisions of this Title relating to cities and towns, in the manner prescribed in Chapter 14 of this Title for incorporating towns and villages, except that the application to become incorporated shall be signed by at least fifty electors, residents of such city or town, and except that when an election is held according to the provisions of such chapter the words "towns and villages" shall be construed to mean "cities and towns." When the entry by the county judge, provided in Article 1041, in said Chapter 14, is made with reference to a city or town of six hundred inhabitants and over, such city or town shall be invested with all the rights and privileges of such cities conferred by this Title. [Acts 1881, p. 63; Acts 1881, p. 115; Act March 5, 1915, ch. 34, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after adjournment on March 29, 1915.

Art. 774a. Cities, towns and villages incorporated under laws of former Republic may accept existing laws of state.—That any city, town or village within this State, incorporated under any law, general or special, of the Republic of Texas, regardless of the extent of the boundaries thereof, or of the number of its population, may accept the provisions of Chapters one to thirteen, both inclusive, of Title Twenty-two of the Revised Statutes of Texas of 1911, and the amendments of 1911, 1913 and 1915 thereto, relating to cities and towns, in lieu of any existing charter created by any such law of the Republic of Texas, by a two-thirds vote of the council of such city, town or village; which action by the council shall be had at a regular meeting thereof and entered upon the journal of their proceedings, and a copy of the same, signed by the Mayor and attested by the Clerk or Secretary under the corporate seal, filed and recorded in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of the county in which such city, town or village is situated, and the provisions of said chapters one to thirteen, both inclusive, of Title Twenty-two of the Revised Statutes of Texas of 1911 and the amendments of 1911, 1913, and 1915, thereto shall be in force, and all acts theretofore passed incorporating said city, town or village, which may be in force by virtue of any existing charter shall be repealed from and after the filing of said copy of their proceedings as aforesaid, when such city, town or village is so incorporated as herein provided, the same shall be known as a city or town, subject to the provisions of title twenty-two, and all amendments thereto relating to cities and towns and vested with all the rights, powers, privileges, immunities and franchises therein conferred.  [Act Feb. 27, 1917, ch. 48, § 1.]

Art. 774d. Same; on acceptance to possess powers and liabilities of cities, etc., under laws of this state.—All the inhabitants of each city, town or village so accepting the provisions of chapters one to thirteen of Title twenty-two of the Revised Statutes of Texas, and the amendments thereto, shall continue to be a body corporate, with perpetual succession, by the name and style by which such city, town or village was known before the acceptance of the provisions of such title, and as such they and their successors by that name shall have, exercise and enjoy all the rights, immunities, powers, privileges and franchises possessed and enjoyed by the same at the time of the acceptance of the provisions of such title twenty-two of the Revised Statutes of Texas and the amendments thereto, and those herein granted and conferred, and shall be subject to all the duties and obligations pertaining to or incumbent on the same as a corporation at the time of the acceptance of the provisions of such title, and may ordain and establish such acts, laws, regulations and ordinances, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this State, as shall be needful for the government, interest, welfare and good order of said body politic, and, under the same name, shall be known in law, and be capable of contracting and being contracted with, suing and being sued, impleading and being impleaded, answering and being answered unto, in all courts and places, and in all matters whatever, may take, hold and purchase, lease, grant and convey such real and personal or mixed property or estate as the purposes of the corporation may require, within or without the limits thereof; and may make, have and use a corporate seal and change and renew the same at pleasure. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 774c. Same; property rights.—Be it further enacted that all property, real, personal or mixed, belonging to any such city, town or village, so incorporated under and by virtue of any law of the Republic of Texas, general or special, accepting the provisions of chapters one to thirteen of Title twenty-two of the Revised Statutes of Texas of 1911, and the amendments of 1911, 1913 and 1915, is hereby vested in the corporation thus created, and the council of such city, town or village is hereby authorized and empowered to sell and alienate such property and to appropriate the proceeds of such sale to the acquisition or construction, maintenance or operation of a water, sewer, gas and electric light and power system, or any one or more of such systems, within or without the limits of such city or town, or for any other public improvement within said city or town, as the council thereof may determine. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 774d. Same; detachment of uninhabited territory and readjustment of boundaries.—Be it further enacted that whenever there shall exist within the boundaries of any such city, town or village accepting the provisions of chapters one to thirteen of Title twenty-two of the Revised Statutes of Texas, and the amendments thereto, under the provisions of this Act, territory to the extent of at least ten acres, contiguous, uninhabited and adjoining the lines of such city or town, the Mayor and Council of such city or town shall, within one year, from the filing in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of the action of the Council accepting the provisions of this Act, or as soon thereafter as practicable, and before they shall levy any taxes for said city or town, by ordinance duly passed discontinue said territory as a part of said city or town and shall redefine the bounds and limits of such city or town so that they shall conform as nearly as practicable to the requirements of Article 777 of the Revised Statutes of Texas; and when said ordinances has been duly passed, the clerk shall enter an order to that effect on the minutes or records of the city or town council; and from and after the entry of such order, said territory shall cease to be a part of said city or town; provided that should there be situated within the said territory, so discontinued, any property of any description belonging to said city or town, the title to said property, so situated, shall remain in such city or town and may be sold, alienated and disposed of by such city or town, the same as if it were situated within the bounds and limits of such city or town. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 775. [386] [340c] Validating incorporations.—That all towns and cities of one thousand inhabitants or more which have heretofore attempted to accept the provisions of this Title and to become incorporated cities of one thousand inhabitants or more, under the general laws of Texas, and have failed to comply with all the requirements of said general laws, or which are not included within the literal meaning of those cities which are authorized to accept the provisions of said general laws, and all towns and villages incorporated under Chapter 14 of this Title or Chapter 11 of Title 18 of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1895, or by special charter, or otherwise, but which now have six hundred inhabitants or more, and which have heretofore attempted to accept the provisions of this Title in lieu of their said town or village charter and become incorporated cities of one thousand inhabitants or more, but which said cities have from and after the dates of their several attempted incorporations and their several efforts to accept the provisions of this Title exercised the functions of cities of the class named, and were by the State of Texas recognized as such cities are hereby declared to be cities of six hundred inhabitants or more; and the several acts whereby they attempted to accept the provisions of said law are hereby, in all things validated; and that all subsequent acts of said cities and towns done and performed as a city of one thousand inhabitants or more, after they had attempted to accept the provisions of said law as aforesaid are hereby validated and declared to be as binding as if said cities had been duly and legally incorporated; provided, that nothing herein shall be construed as validating any act of said cities or the councils thereof, unless same were authorized by the general laws of the State under which they were attempting to act at the several dates when said acts were done; and provided, further, that the provisions of this Article shall not validate the act of any town or city in unlawfully adding additional territory to such town or city without the consent of such inhabitants so added to said town or city. [Acts 1891, p. 26; Act March 5, 1915, ch. 34, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after adjournment on March 20, 1915.

Art. 776. Validating incorporations.

Application.—This article, held not to apply to city incorporation proceedings which were subject to the defect named but which had been dissolved by an election prior to the taking effect of the act. Wilson v. Carter (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 411.

Art. 777. [386a] Territorial boundaries of cities and towns, etc.

Territory included.—Under this article a city with less than 2,000 inhabitants could not be lawfully incorporated so as to include more than two square miles of territory, and, an attempt having been made to do it, the defect could not be cured by eliminating the excess. Wilson v. Carter (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 411.

Effect of including too much.—Under arts. 777 and 1034, a town of 3,000 inhabitants may incorporate four square miles of territory, including territory extending beyond aggregation of residences and pertinent structures if such territory is to be used for strictly town purposes. State v. City of Polytechnic (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1136.

De facto corporation.—Where a municipal corporation was illegally incorporated so as to contain more than two square miles of territory but with less than 2,000 inhabitants in violation of this article, but officers were elected and debts incurred, it was a corporation de facto. Wilson v. Carter (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 411.

Art. 778. [386b] Excessive territory to be relinquished.

Retroactive effect.—This article does not apply to cities incorporated prior to its enactment in 1895. Wilson v. Carter (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 411.

Art. 779. [386c] Validating certain incorporations.—All cities and towns in this State whose charters may be void by reason of a failure to properly define their limits or that may have included in such limits more territory than was provided for in Article 386a, Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, 1895, that shall have, within ninety days from the taking effect of this Act, complied with Article 386b, Revised Civil Statutes, 1885, are hereby declared to be valid; and such charters and incorporations are hereby in all things validated, the same as if such territorial limits had at first been properly established. [Acts 1903, p. 68; Act March 5, 1915, ch. 34, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after adjournment on March 20, 1915.

Art. 781. [574] [503] Adjoining inhabitants may become part of city, how.

Effect of authorization of home rule charters.—Since Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, arts. 1069a-1069b, superseded this article so far as home rule cities were concerned, a provision in a charter adopted by the city under the amendment to Const. art. 11, § 5, authorizing the annexation of territory without a vote of the inhabitants of such territory, does not conflict with a general law. Cohen v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 809.

Art. 782. [575] [503a] Segregating territory from city.

OFFICERS AND THEIR ELECTION

Art. 784. Municipal government to consist of certain offices to be elected, etc.

Art. 792. Member of city council ineligible to other office, and shall not be contractor, surety, etc.

Art. 796. [564] [495] Member of city council ineligible to other office, and shall not be contractor, surety, etc.

Art. 796. Power of city council to remove officers.

Outgoing officer shall deliver books, etc., to his successor.

Creation of offices and employment.—Under the charter of a municipality, giving the city council power to select officers, among them a city scavenger, held that the city council had power to appoint a municipal scavenger. Ex parte Howell, 71 Tex. Cr. R. 71, 158 S. W. 535.

Under San Antonio City Charter, § 38, the city was authorized to employ expert attorneys to pass on the validity of a bond issue and agents to sell the bonds on commission; the judgment of the council as to the necessity therefor being final, unless fraudulent or unreasonable. Davis v. City of San Antonio (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1161.

Beaumont City Charter, § 27, providing that there shall be such other officers, besides those named, as may be provided by ordinance, authorized an ordinance, creating the office of superintendent of the garbage department. Ex parte London, 73 Tex. Cr. R. 208, 163 S. W. 965.

The employment of an attorney by a city or town council, if otherwise authorized, could only be accomplished by an ordinance or resolution. Tharp v. Blake (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 546.

Under San Antonio City Charter, § 16, par. 3, providing for creation by commission of "offices and employment," reference is not had to elective and appointive offices already enumerated and limited in the charter, but the words "offices or employment" are necessarily synonymous. Brown v. Uhr (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 831.

Reduction of salary.—Under arts. 784 and 716, the attempted reduction, during the term for which he was elected, of the salary of the city attorney of a city incorporated under the title, was void. City of Brownsville v. Kinder (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 623.

Art. 793. Member of city council ineligible to other office, and shall not be contractor, surety, etc.

Alderman receiving no salary.—An alderman for whom no salary is provided by statute or ordinance, though holding another salaried office, is not within Const. art. 16, § 40, prohibiting a person holding more than one office of emolument. Graves v. M. Griffin O'Neill & Sons (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 778.

Art. 796. Power of city council to remove officers.

Abandonment of office.—That a municipal officer wrongfully removed did not, before the end of his term, institute proceedings to test the validity of the removal, does not show an abandonment of the office. City of San Antonio v. Steingrubner (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1023.
Art. 800. [565] [494] Outgoing officer shall deliver books, etc., to his successor, etc.

Duty of city treasurer as to funds.—Under this article an outgoing city treasurer is required to turn over funds belonging to the city and its liable in a civil suit in case of failure as well as for other penalties. Brown v. City of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 654.

CHAPTER THREE
DUTIES AND POWERS OF OFFICERS

Art. 803. Officers shall take official oath.

Art. 804. Hours of work of patrolmen in certain cities; proviso.

Art. 805. Orders and resolutions adopted shall not take effect until, etc.

Art. 806. May appoint police officers; salary, fees, tenure, etc.; bond; powers.

Art. 807. Ordinances and resolutions adopted shall not take effect until, etc.

Art. 808. May appoint police officers; salary, fees, tenure, etc., bond; powers.

Nature of office of policeman.—A policeman of a city is a public officer holding his office as a trust from the state, and not as a matter of contract between himself and the city; the word applying equally to every member of the police force. Ex parte Preston, 72 Tex. Cr. B. 77, 161 S. W. 115.

Creation of office.—The position of policeman or patrolman being a creation of municipal governments, the establishment of such office must be shown to entitle a patrolman to recover against a city for salary of the office. City of San Antonio v. Couttress (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 917.

Under San Antonio charter, the position of policeman must be created by ordinance, and cannot be created by resolution or approval of appointment of one as policeman. Id.

Where the city council enacted an ordinance declaring that the police force should consist of such patrolmen as the mayor and city council might deem necessary, it cannot, by resolution, create the office of patrolman. Id.

Nature of office of marshal.—Under City Charter of San Antonio, as amended in 1915, enumerating elective and appointive officers of city and providing that officers and employees shall hold office for two years, the city marshal not being enumerated, although an officer contemplated by Const. art. 16, § 17, providing that officers of state shall continue to perform duties until successors are duly qualified, is an employed, and not officer appointed by mayor. Uhr v. Lancaster (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 379, 381.

An ordinance providing that the police force of San Antonio shall consist of a chief marshal, assistant marshals, and patrolmen, although not establishing a police force, created the office of marshal, because specially named. Uhr v. Lancaster (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 379.

Under San Antonio City Charter, amendment 1915, § 16, par. 2, where plaintiff admits that defendant had been appointed in 1913 in accordance with an ordinance creating position of marshal, and does not allege that a successor has been appointed and qualified, an injunction restraining defendant from exercising the duties of the position will not be allowed. Id.

Confirmation of appointments.—Under commission charter of city of San Antonio an ordinance creating a police department, persons previously appointed as policemen, but whose appointments were not confirmed as required, held to have no legal title to office of captain of detectives, and detective in police department. Uhr v. Brown (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 379.

Special police.—Where a city charter authorized the commissioners of police and fire departments to appoint all members of the two departments, an ordinance authorizing the mayor to appoint special police to hold office during his term, unless otherwise determined by him, is invalid. Uhr v. Lambert (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 946.

Art. 808a. Hours of work of patrolmen in certain cities: proviso.—That in all incorporated cities and towns of this State, whether incorporated by general or special law, or under any other law or any provision of the constitution of this State in whatsoever manner, having a population of fifty-thousand inhabitants or more, according to the last United States census, and which maintains a regular police department, the patrolmen thereof, or those performing duties ordinarily performed by patrolmen, shall be required to serve on actual duty as patrolmen not longer than eight hours in every twenty four hours of the day; provided that in cases of riot or other emergency such patrolmen shall perform such duty and for such time as the directing authority of the department shall require. [Act April 2, 1917, ch. 182, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 811. [409] [365] Treasurer shall give bond; his duties, etc.

Mode of action by city council in fixing salary.—Under arts. 807, 811, 816, held, that city council could fix salary of city treasurer by resolution as well as by ordinance. Brown v. City of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 664.

Commissions.—If ordinance and resolution of city council did not warrant payment to city treasurer of certain commissions claimed by him, the mayor could give no order therefor under this article. Brown v. City of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 664.

Approval by city council of city treasurer's reports held not to show intent to allow him the entire commissions shown therein unless the report showed payment on the mayor's order pursuant to this article. Id.

Where city treasurer merely retained excessive commissions without paying them to himself on city council's order under this article, held, that there was no payment under mistake of law preventing recovery. Id.

CHAPTER FOUR

GENERAL POWERS AND DUTIES OF THE CITY COUNCIL

Art. 516. Salary of officers shall be fixed by city council, etc.

Art. 517. Power to pass, etc., ordinances, etc., and other powers.

Art. 519. Ordinance, when and how published.

Art. 521. Published ordinances admissible in evidence.

Art. 536. May compel convicts to labor on streets, etc.

Art. 538. May do, etc., to promote health and suppress disease.

Art. 544. May define nuisances and punish persons guilty thereof, etc.

Art. 545. May abate nuisances.

Art. 545. Control over streets, alleys, etc., work on streets by inhabitants; vacation of alleys.

Art. 556. City council may cause dangerous buildings, etc., to be removed.

Art. 557. May construct bridges, etc., sewers, sidewalks, etc.

Art. 560. May establish pounds, etc.

Art. 562. May regulate street railways.

Art. 563. May control, etc., the laying of railroad tracks, etc.

Art. 585. To provide city with water, etc., water system not to be leased without vote, etc.

Art. 806. May establish market house, etc.

Art. 570. May license, and prescribe their compensation, etc.

Art. 571. May license, etc., peddlers, theaters, etc.

Art. 573. May license, etc., circuses, etc.

Art. 574. May authorize proper officers to grant license, etc.

Art. 577. Power to appropriate money, etc.

Art. 579. To appropriate revenues, and for what purposes; to issue bonds, etc.

Art. 584. Interest and sinking fund tax to be levied, interest paid and bonds sold, etc.

Art. 844a. May appropriate net revenues of public utility systems to payment of interest and principal of bonds issued therefor.

Art. 844b. Appropriation of such net revenues before levying taxes.

Art. 844c. What amount sufficient for purpose tax therefor not to be levied.

Article 816. [569] [498] Salary of officers shall be fixed by city council, etc.

Right to salary.—Before the emoluments of an office can be recovered, the claimant must show that the office has been created and that he is a legal incumbent. He must also show that he is a de jure officer. City of San Antonio v. Coulter (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 2d 217.

Where plaintiff was deprived of an office without authority of law, the fact that another discharged his duties will not deprive him of his right to salary. City of San Antonio v. Steingers (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1023.

An officer who discharged no duties cannot recover salary incident to the office because of the defective appointment of his successor. Id.

An officer who was unlawfully removed and whose place was taken by another may recover the salary incident to the office, regardless of the ability of the city to recover from the unlawful incumbent. Id.

Resolution fixing salaries.—Resolution, providing that city secretary and treasurer should receive $10 a month and "fees as set by ordinance" up to $2,000 per annum, held to fix compensation as required by statute. Brown v. City of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 654.

Resolution that city secretary and treasurer should receive certain salary and fees as fixed by ordinance up to $2,000 held to include commissions in such fees. Id.

Under arts. 807, 811, 816, held, that city council could fix salary of city treasurer by resolution as well as by ordinance. Id.

While ordinance cannot be repealed by resolution, held, that resolution fixing compensation of city treasurer did not repeal ordinance, but that ordinance ceased to operate by reason of its temporary nature under Rev. St. 1911, art. 816. Id.

Resolution, fixing salary of city secretary and treasurer at $10 a month and fees "as set by ordinance" up to $2,000, held to contain no ambiguity authorizing resort to executive determination. Id.

Reduction of salary during term.—Under arts. 784 and 816, the attempted reduction, during the term for which he was elected, of the salary of the city attorney of a city incorporated under the title, was void. City of Brownsville v. Kinder (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 632.

Action for salary after expiration of term.—An action to recover salary incident to an office, begun after expiration of the term, cannot be defended on the ground that such proceeding was only collateral to the adjudication of the right to the office. City of San Antonio v. Steingers (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1023.

Art. 817. [464] [418] Power to pass, etc., ordinances, etc., and other powers.

1. Not subject to judicial control except, etc.—Under Houston Heights Charter, art. 7, § 4, a declaration of the council that an emergency requires the immediate adoption of an ordinance increasing the mayor's salary is conclusive on the courts. Bradshaw v. Marmion (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 972.

4. Ordinances—In general.—City ordinances operate against both residents and nonresidents within a city, and against the property of nonresidents within the corporate limits. Shepherd v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1137.

6. — Approval or veto.—Under the initiative provisions of the charter of the city of Dallas, held, that an initiative ordinance, if valid, was effective when the board of commissioners ascertained and declared the result of an election. City of Dallas v. Dallas Consol. Electric St. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 76. See Holland v. Cranfill (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 398.

Under Houston Heights Charter, art. 5, § 6, it is not necessary that a majority of the qualified voters of the city, but only a majority of those voting, approve an ordinance increasing the mayor's salary. Bradshaw v. Marmion (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 972.

The provision of Houston Heights Charter, art. 4, § 1, that in elections to determine the expenditure of money only taxpayers can vote, does not apply to an election under art. 5, § 6, on the increase in the mayor's salary. Id.

9. — Validity in general.—In order to meet the requirements of Const. art. 1, § 2, all laws affecting a particular class of business or vocation must affect all of the specified class uniformly and alike. Davis v. Holland (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 11.

When a authority to pass an ordinance is based on a general grant of power, the ordinance must be reasonable and must not contravene a common right. Royal Indemnity Co. v. Schwartz (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 551.

In suit to compel issuance of building permit and for injunction restraining interference with erection of storehouse, despite building ordinance regulating erection of business buildings in residence districts, testimony that suburban stores detract from comfort and destroys value of home held admissible. Spann v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 999.

Question as to reasonableness or unreasonableness of ordinance is open to inquiry, unless expressly authorized by the Legislature. Munger Oil & Cotton Co. v. City of Groesbeck (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1121.

10. — Partial invalidity.—Any invalidity in a provision regulating the use of elevators requiring the operators to be at least 16 years of age would not render invalid another provision requiring an operator to have had 10 days' instruction before pursuing such occupation. Modern Order of Praetorians v. Nelson (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 17.

If a section of building ordinance were obnoxious to Constitution and laws, held, that, as it does not affect other provisions prescribing character of buildings in residence district of city, remaining portions are valid. Spann v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 999.

11. — Police regulations in general.—The Legislature and municipal corporations, when authorizing by their charters classes of persons and to classify persons according to their business, and apply different rules to different classes of persons. Ex parte Bradshaw, 70 Tex. Cr. R. 266, 109 S. W. 259.

Under the law giving the city of Dallas power to protect the lives, health, and property of persons, it could order ordinance requiring his elevator operator to have had 10 days of actual experience under competent instruction and be 18 years of age before being employed. Modern Order of Praetorians v. Nelson (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 17.

An ordinance prohibiting any person under 18 to operate an automobile within the Ordonance of city of Ft. Worth, making it unlawful for white person and negro to have sexual intercourse, each act to constitute a separate offense, held a valid exercise of the police power. Strauss v. State, 76 Tex. Cr. R. 132, 173 S. W. 665.

Right to question validity.—Where a jitney owner had never applied for a license, he could not complain that the ordinance requiring licenses was invalid because it gave the city authorities arbitrary power to grant or refuse a license. Ex parte Bogle (Cr. App.) 179 S. W. 1133.

Art. 819. [557] [486] Ordinances, when and how published.

Failure to publish.—Under arts. 819 and 821, held that where publication of an ordinance was not proven as prescribed thereby, it was inadmissible. Woodruff v. Deshazo (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 256.

Art. 821. [558] [487] Published ordinances admissible in evidence.

Effect of failure to publish.—Under arts. 819 and 821, held that where publication of an ordinance was not proven as prescribed thereby, it was inadmissible. Woodruff v. Deshazo (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 256.

Evidence of publication.—Whether an ordinance was adopted is a question of fact, to show which one may, if necessary, show a mistake in the minutes, reciting it was adopted as a chapter, instead of a title. Houston, E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Cavanaugh (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 619.

Evidence held insufficient to justify finding that an amendment to a penal ordinance had been published as required by law. Texas Traction Co. v. Scoggins (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1128.

Art. 836. [455] [410] May compel convicts to labor on streets, etc.

Cited, Jarvis v. Taylor County (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 354.

Art. 838. [448] [404] May do, etc., to promote health and suppress disease.

Removal of garbage.—A municipal ordinance, prohibiting any person save the city scavenger from removing night soil and other refuse, is not unreasonable or oppressive, being a proper exercise of a municipality's police power. Ex parte Howell, 71 Tex. Cr. R. 71, 158 S. W. 535.

The Legislature could confer authority on the city council to pass an ordinance regulating the removal of garbage and night soil. It being the policy of the American system of government to subdivide the country and allow such subdivisions to regulate their internal affairs. Ex parte London, 73 Tex. Cr. R. 268, 163 S. W. 965.

Beaumont City Charter, § 33, empowering the council to take measures to prevent disease and to adopt sanitary measures, as well as other provisions of the charter, especially section 76, authorized an ordinance prohibiting the removal of garbage and night soil, except by the superintendent of the garbage department. Id.

An ordinance, conferring on the superintendent of the garbage department the exclusive right of removing garbage and night soil for others, is not violative of Const. art. 1, § 26, prohibiting the creation of perpetuities and monopolies. Id.

Vaccination of school children.—In view of Acts 34th Leg. c. 40, post, art. 2779, et seq., held, that ordinance of municipality requiring vaccination of children as condition precedent to their attendance at school cannot be sustained under this article. Waid-schmitt v. City of New Braunfels (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1077.

Municipal ordinance requiring vaccination as a condition precedent to attendance of children in school, held not sustainable in the ground that there were Mexicans and others in the vicinity who were subject to and carried smallpox. Id.

Art. 844. [453] [408] May define nuisances and punish persons guilty thereof, etc.

Power to define and abate nuisances in general.—A planing mill, erected within about 70 feet of a residence in a densely settled residential portion of a city, held to constitute a permanent nuisance. Citizens' Planing Mill Co. v. Tunstall (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 424.

Under arts. 844, 856, and 966, a city council by resolution held authorized to require the removal of a dilapidated wooden building located within the fire limits, where it was likely to fall and endanger human life or to burn. Howell v. City of Sweetwater (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 948.

That which is not in fact a nuisance or injurious to public health cannot be made so by a declaration of the Legislature or a city council. Ray v. City of Belton (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1915.

Though this article authorizes a city to define nuisances, Const. art. 1, § 19, prevents a municipality from making that a nuisance which is not one of itself. Dibrell v. City of Coleman (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 569.

Under arts. 844 and 845, held that closing of an alley by owners of adjacent lots under authority of ordinances was not justified on theory that alley was a nuisance. Bow­ers v. Machir (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 755.

Keeping stock pens.—Beaumont City Ordinance, art. 901, regulating keeping of stock pens, held a valid exercise of the police power, and not unconstitutional for inequality. Ex parte Broussard, 189 S. W. 660, 74 Tex. Cr. R. 333.

Art. 845. [447] [403] May abate nuisances.

See Bowers v. Machir (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 758, note under art. 844.

Art. 854. Control over streets, alleys, etc.; work on streets by inhabitants; vacation of alleys.—Any incorporated city or town containing not more than five thousand (5,000) population in this State shall have the exclusive control and power over the streets, alleys and public grounds and highways of the city, and to abate and remove encroachments or obstructions thereon; to open, alter, widen, extend, establish, regulate, grade, clean and otherwise improve said streets; to put drains or sewers therein, and prevent incumbering thereof in any manner, and to protect same from encroachment or injury; and to cause all able-bodied male inhabitants above twenty-one years of age and not over forty-five years of age, except ministers of the Gospel, to work thereon not to exceed five days in any one year, or furnish a substitute or sum of money not to exceed one dollar ($1.00) for each days work demanded; to employ such substitute and to enforce same by appropriate ordinances, including provisions for fines and penalties; and to regulate and alter the grade of premises; to require the filling up and raising of same; and such city council shall also have power to alter or vacate the alley in any block of ground in the city upon written application of the owner of the block, or if there be more than one owner of such block, then upon the written application of all owners thereof uniting in such application; such alley so vacated shall thereupon revert to and become the property of the owner of the block of which it was a part, or if more than one, then to the owners of the adjoining lots therein, each extending to the center of the alley so vacated. [Acts 1913, p. 326, § 1; Act March 30, 1917, ch. 144, § 1.]

Vacation of streets.—The general powers of a municipality to alter, widen, and, in the interest of public safety, temporarily close a street do not authorize a permanent closing of a public street to the damage of an abutting owner. Stevens v. City of Dublin (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 188.

A city under the police power, given by Rev. St. tit. 22, c. 4, could not close a street because its continued existence was dangerous to school children attending a school abutting thereon, since the general public was only affected indirectly. Id.

Under this article, city of Ft. Worth might close an alley for special benefit of owners of property in block, but one having property interest in keeping abutting alley open acquired by purchase with reference to plat, so as to furnish more convenient access to rear of his lot, had such special interest as to have a cause of action therefor. Id.

If an ordinance, permitting owners of adjacent lots to close an alley was based on the fact that it was a nuisance, as well as by reason of the fact that owners of property who would find an application therefor, that should appear in the record. Id.

Where lot owners, purchasing by plat dedicating an alley, had a special right in having the alley left open, the city could not destroy it without making itself liable for compensation. Id.

11. Control over streets and sidewalks thereon.—A city ordinance making it unlawful to use the streets or alleys embraced within the fire limits of the city for the purpose of vending, displaying, or peddling goods, provided the ordinance shall not apply to one who offers for sale any products raised upon property controlled by himself, is valid. Ex parte Bradahaw, 70 Tex. Cr. R. 166, 159 S. W. 295.

A city having exclusive control over its streets may impose reasonable conditions on the right to use them. But the regulation must be reasonable. The city may prohibit private business on a street, or grant the privilege to do business thereon. Greene v. City of San Antonio (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 6.

Under Houston City Charter, art. 2, § 4, empowering the city to lay out, widen, and vacate streets and sidewalks, the city could regulate the width of sidewalks and abolish them if traffic should warrant, unless some private rights protected by Constitution were impaired. Jones v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 688.

12. May not alienate street.—A municipality authorized by charter to lay out, regulate, widen, etc., its streets, is not bound by dedication to maintain sidewalks but may appropriate the street from time to time to such uses as are conducive to the public good, and equity will not interfere with its discretion in that respect. Jones v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 688.

A charter of a city, authorizing granting of franchises for use of streets for any public purpose, covers any franchise in the interest of the public. Id.

A city may give permission for the use of its streets by jitneys and compel the payment of a license fee therefor. Id.

Municipalities may not, under grant of exclusive control of streets under Vernon’s Sayles’ Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. § 54, legislate on every phase of manner and means of

If municipality, although without power to do so, annexes a condition to a grant to enter upon its streets, grantee, voluntarily accepting the grant, is bound by the condition. Id. See Galveston Commercial Ass'n v. Ort (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 967.

16. Construction of grant.—The grant of a franchise to maintain a waterworks system in a city must be construed strictly in favor of the public. City of Memphis v. Browder (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 992.

Franchise permitting use of streets for public water supply must be strictly construed in favor of city, and ambiguity or fair doubt is to be resolved in favor of the public. Green v. San Antonio Water Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 453.

Art. 856. [550] [479] City council may cause dangerous buildings, etc., to be removed.

Removal of buildings.—Under arts. 844, 866, and 965, a city council by resolution held authorized to require the removal of a dilapidated wooden building located within the fire limits, where it was likely to fall and endanger human life or to burn. Howell v. City of Sweetwater (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 948.

Art. 857. [420] [376] May construct bridges, etc., sewers, sidewalks, etc.

Judicial supervision.—Where the proper authorities of a city have determined that a proposed system of drainage is necessary, the questions whether such system is the most feasible or the least expensive cannot be considered by the courts. City Com'r of Port Arthur v. Fant (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 534.

Liability of city for defects in sewers.—A city incorporated under the general laws, with authority under its charter to provide a sewer system, must exercise its authority in a proper manner and it may not create or maintain a nuisance. Cardwell v. Austin (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 355.

Where a method can be adopted by which city sewage may be purified and discharged free from any odor, which will interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of plaintiff's home, that the proximity of a septic tank to the residence of an individual will produce mental annoyance or tend to lessen the value of his property will not prevent its establishment. Id.

Where a city maintains a nuisance to the injury of a private person, the question of negligence is not in issue. City of Clarendon v. Bette (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 548.

Notice of defect and of claim for damages.—Under Const. art. 1, § 17, where private property has been damaged by a city's negligence in building an insufficient sewer, the charter requirements of notice of defects and of claim for damages are not applicable to prevent recovery. And this is so where the negligence in building a sewer is due to the city's own negligence, and plaintiff's health was injured by its breaking. Shows v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1137.

Art. 860. [444] [400] May establish pounds, etc.

Liability for injury to animal running at large.—Where an ordinance prohibited the running at large of horses, the owner of a horse killed by falling into a ditch in a street opened by a gas company cannot recover where the animal was unattended, and had escaped from the owner's enclosure. Dallas Gas Co. v. Wheat (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 992.

In action for death of horse by falling into defendant's cistern, ordinance prohibiting the running at large of live stock held complete defense, unless defendant was guilty of gross negligence in permitting the cistern to remain open. Woodruff v. DeShazo (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 260.

Art. 862. [461] [415] May regulate street railways.

Restoring street and grading or paving same.—Where the charter of a street railway company required it, at its own cost, to pave that portion of the street it occupied in the same manner as the city might pave the remainder, the railway company is entitled to reasonable notice of the contemplated improvement, and to either pave the street itself, or itself to contract for the improvement of such street. Texas Bitulithic Co. v. Abilene St. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 433.

Street railroads, in constructing their tracks, must restore the street used to its original condition so as to not unnecessarily impair its usefulness. Cleburne St. Ry. Co. v. Dickey (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 475.

Violation of ordinance.—Failure of an interurban car to stop in front of a station on its way to the rear to unload baggage and freight, in course of which it collided with an automobile at a street crossing adjoining the station, was not a violation of an ordinance requiring cars to stop at stations, and was not negligence under the law. Texas Traction Co. v. Wiley (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1028.

The violation by a motorman of a speed ordinance for street cars was negligence per se, subject to the limitation that, on discovery of the danger, the motorman was only bound to use such care to stop his car as ordinarily prudent persons would have exercised in similar circumstances. Texas Traction Co. v. Scoggins (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1128.

Art. 863. [460] [414] May control, etc., the laying of railway tracks, etc.

Regulation of railroads—Speed.—In an action against an electric railroad for injuries in a collision with plaintiff's automobile at a street crossing, it was error to admit a speed ordinance relating to railway trains, such an ordinance having no application to trains propelled by electricity. Texas Traction Co. v. Wiley (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1028.
Watchman at crossing.—An ordinance requiring railroads to keep a watchman at each crossing of a street or track shall be void as unreasonable on its face. City of Waukegan v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 61.

Subways.—Where a city granted to a railway company certain permits upon condition that, if accepted, it would construct subways, the construction of such subways was not a purely public improvement in the sense that it did not enure to the benefit of the railway company. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Walker (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1038.

Art. 865. [418] [374] To provide city with water, etc.; water system not to be leased without vote, etc.

See notes under art. 1382, post.

Municipal plant—Rates, charges, and regulations.—A municipality which owns only waterworks system in city for supplying inhabitants with water cannot adopt unreasonable regulations. City of Galveston v. Kenner (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 208.

Regulation of municipality controlling only waterworks system which provided that water could only be furnished on application of owner of buildings, and that only one meter and service pipe should be allowed to one building, held unreasonable and void, and separate connections should be furnished several lessees of building. Id.

Franchise to water company—Rates and charges.—Where a waterworks franchise in its list of maximum rates that might be charged included a provision "churches free," the company was obliged to furnish water to a church for the operation of a pipe organ. City of Memphis v. Browder (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 982.

Where franchise for public water supply prescribed express definite flat rate and deficit rate measured through measured meter, which company was required to install on request of a consumer, the company could not require the consumer to pay meter rent in addition to the rate meter for water. Green v. San Antonio Water Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 451.

Water company having franchise from city held not entitled to collect prescribed rate, plus meter rent, in spite of special contract to that effect required by it as prerequisite to furnishing meter. Id.

Regulation of market.—That land was granted to a city to be used for a public trading and market square open to the public generally did not deprive the city of its right in the proper exercise of its police powers to regulate trading thereon. Bruce v. City of Galveston (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 41.

An ordinance prohibiting the use of the public market square and streets and alleys adjacent thereto to sell or display farm products, and exempting therefrom those who sold or displayed products grown on land owned or controlled by them, was not invalid because of discrimination. Id.

An ordinance prohibiting nonproducers from selling and displaying products on the public market square held not merely to confer a special privilege on producers, but to give opportunity to buy fresh products. Id.

Art. 870. [430] [386] May license, etc., hackmen, and prescribe their compensation, etc.

Regulation of hackmen, jitneys, etc.—Validity.—A city, having exclusive control over its streets and the right to license and regulate business, may regulate jitney business and require a bond to protect citizens. An ordinance regulating jitneys does not deny due process of law because it provides for forfeiture of the bonds. Such an ordinance, applying to all persons using streets of a city for vehicles engaged in local passenger transportation, is not invalid as class legislation. Greene v. City of San Antonio (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 6.

Under Ft. Worth Charter an ordinance regulating automobiles carrying passengers for hire, and requiring the operators of such machines to procure special licenses, as well as to furnish indemnity bonds, is valid. Ex parte Sullivan (Cr. App.) 178 S. W. 537.

Provision of ordinance licensing and regulating motor busses, requiring an inspection and a new certificate weekly, held not objectionable, as a municipal delegation of police power intrusted to it by the state. Booth v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 301.

Provision of ordinance requiring licensed motor bus to run at least six hours a day, and making it unlawful to operate it on any route not designated by its license certificate, held not in derogation of the right to pursue any lawful occupation. Id.

City of Dallas, under its charter, held to have the right to fix an annual license of $75 for operating a motor bus over its streets. Id.

Ordinance imposing annual fee of $75 for privilege of operating motor bus, in comparison with ordinance licensing and regulating rent cars, held not discriminatory, since they were engaged in different classes of street traffic. Id.

A city, authorized to enact ordinance for licensing and regulating motor busses, held authorized to make an additional charge of $1 for a new certificate, for a change of route, or for an increase in the seating capacity. Id.

The Under Austin city charter, held, that the city could enact all reasonable ordinances necessary to regulate the handling of automobiles, including jitneys, and the use of street by persons operating them in the carriage of passengers for hire. Ex parte Bogle (Cr. App.) 178 S. W. 1193.

A city ordinance requiring an indemnity bond or filing of insurance policy as prerequisite to a license held not objectionable as creating a liability against the licensee or his bondsmen in favor of strangers to the licensee and licensor. Id.

A jitney owner who came only within the provisions of an ordinance prescribing a $50 license fee held not entitled to complain of conditions prescribing $150 and $100 license fees. Id.

SUPP. VERN. S. CIV. ST. TEX.—11
An ordinance regulating the use of jitneys held not class legislation, in violation of Cr., though it did not apply to the street car system and other automobiles or vehicles carrying passengers for hire. Id.

Ordinance regulating jitneys or motor busses and their operation, and requiring a bond conditioned for payment of damages for injuries or death, etc., held authorized by the Ft. Worth charter. Auto Transit Co. v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 685.

Such ordinance held not invalid generally, or as violating Const. art. 1, § 17, as to taking property without compensation nor is it invalid as giving monopoly to street car company, contractors and other rent vehicles, as violating Const. art. 1, § 19, in that it deprives citizens of property without due course of law or impairs obligations of contracts in violation of Const. art. 1, § 18. Neither does it violate Const. art. 1, § 3, as to grants of exclusive privileges. Id.

Such ordinance held not invalid, though there was no similar provision as to taxicabs, rent cars, or individuals operating their own cars not for hire, and though operators of jitneys or motor busses are not able to comply with ordinance and will be required to operate their vehicles. Id.

That parties operating jitneys or motor busses will suffer a pecuniary injury from the enforcement of an ordinance regulating such vehicles does not tend to establish the invalidity of the ordinance. Id.

Art. 871. [428] [384] May license, etc., peddlers, theaters, etc.

Power to regulate.—Persons have no vested rights to make a market of the streets and public places of an incorporated town. Ex parte Bradshaw, 70 Tex. Cr. R. 166, 159 S. W. 259.

A city ordinance making it unlawful to use the streets or alleys embraced within the fire limits of the city for the purpose of vending, displaying, or peddling goods, provided the ordinance shall not apply to one who offers for sale any products raised upon property controlled by himself, is valid, and does not violate Const. art. 1, § 3, providing that all free men have equal rights, and no man is entitled to exclusive privileges. Id.

Art. 873. [429] [385] May license, etc., circuses, etc.

Power to regulate public amusements.—Assuming that delegation of legislative authority is prerequisite to exercise by city councils of regulatory powers over public amusements, there is sufficient delegation by arts. 578 and 574, relating to power to license. Xydias Amusement Co. v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 415.

Censorship over exhibitions.—Though the city council may regulate public amusement only in the absence of legislative regulation, where the Legislature merely provides the penalty for showing improper pictures, without provision as to censors, the city may create a board and require their permit to operate before exhibition. Xydias Amusement Co. v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 415.

Moving picture exhibitions are subject to police surveillance and control in the interest of public morals, and it is the right of the city of Houston, under its charter, sections 2, 16, and under its police powers, to regulate, permit, or forbid such exhibitions, and to appoint a board of censors. Id.

Permit.—The mere fact that an exhibitor of motion pictures has paid the state occupation tax for such exhibition does not relieve him from compliance with the city ordinance, requiring the securing of a permit as a prerequisite to the showing of pictures. Xydias Amusement Co. v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 415.

Art. 874. [432] [388] May authorize proper officer to grant license, etc.

See Xydias Amusement Co. v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 415; notes under art. 873.

Art. 877. [415] [371] Power to appropriate money, etc.

Debts—What are.—If landowner's petition against city presented only action on its contract to pay him more per acre for land purchased for reservoir, if another owner secured certain price or over in condemnation proceedings, sum sued for was "debt" within Const. art. 11, §§ 5, 7. City of Ft. Worth v. Reynolds (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 601.

Art. 879. [466] [420] To appropriate revenues and for what purposes; to issue bonds, etc.

Limitation of amount.—City's proposed issue of bonds to refund part of an original issue still outstanding, which under Const. art. 8, § 5, as amended, then in force was void to the extent of its excess over the limitation prescribed, held unauthorized. City of Laredo v. Looney (Sup.) 185 S. W. 556. And see Cohen v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 898.

Art. 884. [483] Interest and sinking fund tax to be levied, interest paid and bonds sold at not less than par.

Art. 884a. May appropriate net revenues of public utility systems to payment of interest and principal of bonds issued therefor.—That the city council or board of aldermen or other governing body of any city or town in this State, whether operating under special charter or under the general law, may appropriate and apply at the end of each fiscal year so much of the net revenues of its water works system or other public utility system, service or enterprise as said governing body shall deem to the best interest of said city or town, to the payment of the sinking fund and interest due by said city or town, on the bonded indebtedness incurred on account of said water works system or other public utility system, service or enterprise, producing such revenues. [Act April 4, 1917, ch. 200, § 1]

Explanatory.—This act supersedes Act March 30, 1917, ch. 147, its exact duplicate, passed at the same session.
Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 884b. Appropriation of such net revenues before levying taxes.
—That whenever said city council, board of aldermen or other governing body of any city or town in this State, as described in Section one [art. 884a], shall desire to take advantage of the provisions of this Act, it shall at the end of the fiscal year of said city or town, and before the passage of any ordinance levying taxes for that year, appropriate and set aside out of the net revenues of said waterworks system, or other public utility system, service or enterprise, such sum or sums as such governing body shall deem to the best interest of the city or town, for the purpose of paying the interest and sinking fund on the bonded indebtedness of such water works system, or other public utility system, service or enterprise producing said revenues, which sum or sums so set aside and appropriated shall be applied on said sinking fund and interest on said bonded indebtedness and for no other purpose. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 884c. Where amount sufficient for purpose tax therefor not to be levied.—That where the sum or sums so set aside and appropriated under the preceding sections shall be sufficient to pay in full the amounts needed for such sinking fund and interest for the fiscal year in which said revenues are produced, it shall not be thereafter necessary for the city council to levy any tax for such sinking fund or interest for which this appropriation is made; but when said sum or sums so appropriated shall not be sufficient to meet the required amounts for such sinking fund and interest, then in such event the governing power of said city or town shall include in the general tax ordinance for that year a tax sufficient to meet the deficiency in such sinking fund and interest allowance for that year, provided nothing herein shall be construed to authorize said city or town to exceed the authorized tax limit. [Id., § 3.]

CORPORATION COURTS

Art. 903. Corporation court created.

Art. 904. Jurisdiction.
Cited, Hickman v. State (Cr. App.) 183 S. W. 1188.

Constitutionality.—Under Const. art. 5, § 1, as amended in 1891, Legislature held authorized to enact this article, establishing a corporation court with jurisdiction to try offenses against state criminal law. State v. Travis County Court, 76 Tex. Cr. R. 147, 174 S. W. 365.

Under Const. art. 5, § 1, a corporation court created by Acts 56th Leg. c. 33, is a valid court with power to try offenses against city ordinances or state laws. Hickman v. State (Cr. App.) 183 S. W. 1180.

Jurisdiction—Criminal.—Prosecution held based on Pen. Code 1911, arts. 634, 639, defining vagrancy and the punishment therefor so as to be within the jurisdiction of the corporation court under this article. State v. Travis County Court, 76 Tex. Cr. R. 147, 174 S. W. 365.
Art. 905. Judge or recorder elected or appointed, how; term, mayor ex officio recorder, when.

Judge as peace officer.—Under Const. art. 5, § 12, and Pen. Code 1911, arts. 475, 476, judge of city's corporation court, held a peace officer, authorized to carry pistol when not in actual discharge of duties. Tippett v. State (Cr. App.) 139 S. W. 186.

Art. 921. Appeals to what courts; trial de novo; appeals how governed.

Constitutionality.—Under Const. art. 5, §§ 16, 22, the Legislature has full authority to confer on the county court jurisdiction to entertain appeals from corporation court. Hickman v. State (Cr. App.) 183 S. W. 1130.

Appellate jurisdiction.—Under Const. art. 5, §§ 16, 22, Code Cr. Proc. 1911, art. 106, defining the appellate jurisdiction of the county court, and Rev. Civ. St. 1911, arts. 903—926, establishing recorder's courts, an appeal does not lie from the recorder's court in a case arising under an ordinance to the county court, but only in such cases as the recorder's court had concurrent jurisdiction with a justice of the peace. Jarvis v. Taylor County (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 234.

Where the corporation court had jurisdiction to try an offense under the criminal law of the state, the county court had jurisdiction on appeal. State v. Travis County Court, 76 Tex. Cr. R. 147, 174 S. W. 365.

Appeal to Court of Criminal Appeals.—Where accused on appeal to the county court from a conviction in the corporation court is deprived of the right to a trial de novo, he may enforce such right by a further appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals. Matula v. State, 72 Tex. Cr. R. 189, 161 S. W. 968.

Under the statutes, one convicted in the recorder's court of violating an ordinance, and an appeal to the county court again convicted, and fined $20, cannot appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals. Holman v. State, 166 S. W. 506, 73 Tex. Cr. R. 576.

CHAPTER SIX TAXATION

Art. 922. Ad valorem tax.

924. May levy and collect tax for improvements, buildings, etc.

925. May levy tax for interest and sinking fund on certain bonds; for current expenses, permanent improvements, roads, schools; independent school districts included; boundaries.

Art. 923. [484] [425] Ad valorem tax.

Property taxable.—Securities in which insurance corporation’s capital stock was invested deposited with state treasurer, pursuant to Acts 50th Leg. c. 170, § 8, thereby giving it a better financial standing, held not employed by it in its business in Austin so as to be taxable there, but their situs was in Austin, and they were taxable there under Const. art. 8, § 11. Guarantee Life Ins. Co. of Houston v. City of Austin (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 52.

Though telegraph company was authorized to place poles and wires in streets of city which were post roads, under Act Cong. July 24, 1866, held that municipality might impose reasonable regulations upon such use of streets, and so could tax franchise, which tax would not be tax on privilege granted by United States. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 577.

Illegal assessment by one city as precluding assessment at proper situs.—The illegal assessment and voluntary payment, in the city where a corporation was domiciled, of a tax on securities having a situs in another city was not a defense to the enforcement of a tax thereon by the city where they were situated. Guarantee Life Ins. Co. of Houston v. City of Austin (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 53.

Art. 924. [485] May levy and collect tax for improvements, buildings, etc.

Art. 925. [486] [425c] May levy tax for interest and sinking fund on certain bonds; for current expenses, permanent improvements, roads, schools; independent school districts included; boundaries.—The city or town council or board of aldermen of any city or town or commission of any city or town in this State, incorporated under the general laws, shall have the power, by ordinance, to levy and collect an annual ad valorem tax sufficient to meet interest payments and to create a sinking fund on all indebtedness legally incurred prior to the adoption of the constitutional amendment in 1883, regarding the power of a city or town to levy and collect taxes, etc., and may levy and collect twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollar valuation of all property in such city or town for current expenses, and may levy and collect an additional twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollar valuation for the purpose of the erection and equipment or the purchase of public buildings, water works, sewers and other permanent improvements, except building sites and buildings for the public free schools, within the limits of such city or town, and shall have power, by ordinance, to levy and collect a tax not to exceed fifteen cents on the one hundred dollar valuation of property for the construction and improvement of the roads, bridges and streets of such city or town within its limits, and shall have power, by ordinance, to annually levy and collect such ad valorem tax for the support and maintenance of public free schools and for the erection and equipment of public free school buildings in the city or town, where such city or town is a separate and independent school district, as the electors of any such district may determine under the provisions of Chapter 169, Acts of the Thirty-fifth Legislature [Arts. 2876-2880, post]. Within the meaning of this Article shall be included all such separate and independent school districts that the management and control of the public free schools therein has been assumed or may hereafter be assumed by a city or town under the provisions of Chapter 17, Title 48, Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, 1911, and amendments thereto; the boundaries of such districts shall be coincident with the city or town, as incorporated, in such cities and towns as have not extended their lines for school purposes only, and in such cities and towns as have extended their lines or may hereafter extend their lines for school purposes only, under the provisions of Article 2883, Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, 1911, the boundaries of such districts shall be coincident with the boundaries of the city or town as extended for school purposes only, and all such separate and independent districts shall be classified as municipal districts. /\ [Act Oct. 10, 1917, ch. 14, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The act amends art. 925, ch. 6, title 22, Rev. Civ. St. 1911.

Art. 928. [490] [429] Occupation tax.

Constitutionality—Uniformity.—Under Const. art. 1, § 17, as to privileges, though a telephone company pays a city for entering, a subsequent ordinance for an annual privilege fee does not impair obligation of contracts, or disturb vested rights. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 656.

Const. art. 1, § 3, and Const. U. S. art. 14, § 1, held not violated by an ordinance for annual payment on poles in streets, except street railroads and companies paying part of receipts. Id.

Ordinance regulating jitneys or motor buses and imposing license fee held not to violate Const. art. 8, § 2, as to equality and uniformity of occupation taxes. Auto Transit Co. v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 685.

Discretionary power.—That an ordinance requiring procurement of a license as a condition to the right to operate a jitney gave the city authorities discretionary power to grant or refuse a license did not render it void. Ex parte Bogle (Cr. App.) 179 S. W. 1183.

— Tax for revenue.—Under the charter of a city, a license fee imposed for the use of streets by jitneys held not an occupation tax. Greene v. City of San Antonio (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 6.

Annual license fee for privilege of operating motor bus in streets of a city held a charge based upon the cost of regulation, and not a tax. Booth v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 301.

An ordinance prescribing a license fee of $50 for each jitney with a seating capacity of five or less held not objectionable as a tax for revenue for city purposes, instead of a police regulation. Ex parte Bogle (Cr. App.) 179 S. W. 1183.

Property or license tax.—A tax imposed upon value of franchise in public streets and grounds of city in which telegraph company had placed its poles and wires must be construed a property tax, and not a license tax upon right of company to do business in city. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 777.

Art. 931. [493] [432] Power of city council to provide for assessing, etc., taxes.

Correction of record of city council.—On direct raising of the issue of clerical mistake, in a taxpayer's suit to enjoin collection of tax, on the ground that the levy was not voted for by the proportion of aldermen required by this article, all the parties being before the court, correction of the record of the city council, in accordance with the evidence, to show enough voted, may be directed. Graves v. M. Griffin O'Neill & Sons (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 778.

Art. 933. [554] [483] Occupation license to be suspended or revoked, etc., when.
Cited, Xydius Amusement Co. v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 415.

Art. 936. [497] [436] City council may provide for the exemption of property from taxation, etc.

Necessity of ordinance.—The deliberate omission of certain property from taxation by a city and its taxing officers held the same in legal effect as if done under an ordinance. City of Houston v. Baker (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 820.

CHAPTER SEVEN

ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION OF TAXES

Article 945. [505] Appointment and duties of board of equalization.

Independent school district.—Under arts. 945, 947, 965, 2859, 2862, an independent school district whose taxes are collected by county officials need not have any board of equalization. Miller v. Vance (Sup.) 180 S. W. 739, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) Vance v. Miller, 170 S. W. 838.

Art. 947. [507] Shall value property.

See Miller v. Vance (Sup.) 180 S. W. 739, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) Vance v. Miller, 170 S. W. 838; note under art. 945.

CHAPTER EIGHT

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Article 965. [523] [453] City council may regulate and control the erection, etc., of wooden buildings.

See Miller v. Vance (Sup.) 180 S. W. 739, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) Vance v. Miller, 170 S. W. 838; note under art. 945.

Fire limits—Regulations as to buildings.—Under Rev. Cty. St. 1911, arts. 844, 856, and 965, a city council by resolution held authorized to require the removal of a dilapidated wooden building located within the fire limits, where it was likely to fall and endanger human life or to burn. Howell v. City of Sweetwater (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 948. A city having properly condemned a wooden building within the fire limits, and the owner having refused to remove the same, the city could enjoin the construction of improvements, and compel the removal of the building as a nuisance. Id.

Evidence held insufficient to show that fire ordinance prohibiting repairs or erection of buildings of inflammable material within certain areas of city was unreasonable. Mungar Oil & Cotton Co. v. City of Groesbeck (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1121.

Art. 978a. Number of days of service per week.—No member of any paid fire department in any city containing twenty-five thousand inhabitants or more, according to the last United States census, shall be required to be on duty for more than six days in any one week, except in cases of emergency. [Act May 29, 1915, 1st C. S., ch. 9, § 1.]

Took effect 30 days after May 28, 1915, date of adjournment.

Art. 978b. Same; designation of day of rest.—The city official having supervision of the fire department shall designate the day of the week upon which each member of such department shall not be required to be on duty. [Id., § 2.]

Sec. 3 makes it an offense to violate the provisions of the act. See Vernon's Pen. Code 1915, art. 1451g.

Art. 978c. Members of fire department to receive annual vacation. —Each member of any paid fire department in any city containing more than 30,000 inhabitants, according to the last United States census, shall be allowed fifteen days vacation in each year, with pay, not more than fourteen men to be on vacation at the same time. [Act April 2, 1917, ch. 185, § 1; Act May 17, 1917, 1st C. S., ch. 14, § 1.]

Sec. 5 repeals ch. 185, Acts Regular Session 35th Legislature. Took effect 90 days after May 17, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 978d. Same; designation of vacation days.—The city official having supervision of the fire department shall designate days upon which each member of such department shall be allowed to be on vacation. [Act April 2, 1917, ch. 185, § 2; Act May 17, 1917, 1st C. S., ch. 14, § 2.]

Art. 978e. Hours of service act not affected.—Nothing in this Act shall be construed to affect Chapter 9, page 22 [Arts. 978a, 978b, ante], Acts of first called session of the Thirty-fourth Legislature. [Act April 2, 1917, ch. 185, § 3; Act May 17, 1917, 1st C. S., ch. 14, § 3.]

Sec. 4, imposing a criminal penalty, is set forth post, as art. 1461gg. Penal Code.

CHAPTER NINE
SANITARY DEPARTMENT

Art. 984. Cities of 35,000 inhabitants may cleanse city, abate unhealthful places, etc.; may pass ordinances, impose fines, etc.; notice to owners of property; city may do work and assess cost against property; lien; enforcement. —In cities of 35,000 population, or over, the city or town council, city commissioners, or other governing body of a city or town whether acting under a special charter or incorporated under the general laws of the state, shall have power to require the filling up, drainage and regulating of any lot or lots, grounds or yards, or any other places in the city or town which shall be unwholesome, or have stagnant water therein, or from any other cause be in such condition as to be liable to produce disease; also to cause all premises to be inspected and to impose fines on the owners of houses under which stagnant water may be found, or upon whose premises such stagnant water may be found, and to pass such ordinances as they may deem necessary for the purposes aforesaid and for making, filling up, altering or repairing of all sinks, and privies, and directing the mode and material for constructing them in future, and for cleansing and disinfecting the same; and for cleansing of any house, building, establishment, lot, yard or ground from filth, carrion or impure or unwholesome matter of any kind; also to require the owner of any lot or lots within such city or town to keep the same free from weeds, rubbish, brush and any and all other objectionables, unsightly or unsanitary matter of whatever nature, and in the event such owner fails or refuses so to do, within ten days after notice in writing, or by letter addressed to such owner at his postoffice address, or by publication as many as two times within ten consecutive days, if personal service may not be had as aforesaid, or the owner's address be not known, such city or town may do such work or may cause the same to be done and pay therefor and charge the expenses incurred in doing or having such work done or improvements made to the owner of such property, as herein provided; and to punish any owner or occupant violating the provisions of any ordinance so passed, as aforesaid; and the city or town council, city commissioners, or other governing body of such town or city, shall also in addition to the foregoing remedy, have the power to cause any of the improvements above mentioned to be done at the expense of the city or town, on account of the owners, and cause the expense thereof to be assessed on the real estate, or lot or lots upon which such expense is incurred; and, on filing with the county clerk of the county in which the city or town is situated a statement by the mayor or city health officer of such city or town of such expenses, such city or town shall have a privileged lien thereon, second only to tax liens and liens for street improvements to secure the expenditures so made, and ten per cent interest on the amount from the date of such payment. For any such expenditures, and interest, as aforesaid, suit may be instituted and recovery and foreclosure had in the name of the corporation, in any court having jurisdiction; and the statement so made, as aforesaid, or a certified copy thereof, shall be prima facie proof of the amount expended in any such work or improvements. [Acts 1909, p. 340, § 124; Act April 2, 1917, ch. 184, § 1.]

Explanatory.—Sec. 3 repeals all laws in conflict. The act amends art. 984, Rev. Civ. St. 1911. Took effect 80 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Regulating business of scavengers.—In dealings with matters necessary to the preservation of the public health, such as the cleaning of privies, etc., the city council can prescribe regulations, and make it the duty of some officer or agent to see that they are complied with, and can also prevent others from engaging in that occupation as a means of livelihood. Ex parte Loudon, 73 Tex. Cr. R. 208, 163 S. W. 965.

Art. 986. Cities to regulate sewer, etc., connections, draining, plumbing.

Application of statute to special charter cities.—Arts. 986-998, requiring all cities "organized under the general laws * * * or by special act," having underground sewers, to regulate house draining and plumbing and create an examining and supervising board of plumbers, etc., were intended to and do apply to the city of Dallas, though organized under special charter, especially in view of Dallas Charter, art. 2, § 2. The city of Dallas is not exempted from such laws, because Dallas Charter, art. 14, § 29, gives the city the exclusive right to control such matters, as such provision in effect confers upon the city the right to suspend the state laws, which authority cannot be conferred. Davis v. Holland (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 11.

Violation of ordinance.—Where it was not shown that the town had underground sewers or cesspools, and it appeared that it had no plumbing examiners' board, and refused to provide for such examinations, one conducting a plumbing business there could not be convicted of doing so without a license under arts. 986, 987, 988. Brown v. State, 167 S. W. 348, 74 Tex. Cr. R. 108.

To constitute a violation of an ordinance punishing refusal to pay a sanitary closet tax, demand for payment must be made. Christman v. State, 76 Tex. Cr. R. 261, 174 S. W. 442.

Art. 987. Examining and supervising board of plumbers.

Art. 988. Composition of board.

Art. 997. No license until examination passed.

Constitutionality.—The general laws regarding house draining and plumbing (arts. 986-998) violate Const. art. 1, § 3, declaring that no man or set of men is entitled to exclusive privileges, because articles 997 and 998 permit a firm of plumbers to practice their trade if only one member has passed the examination, though another has failed, while all not members of such a firm are required to pass the examination. Davis v. Holland (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 11.

Art. 998. Every plumbing firm to have one member a practical plumber.

See Davis v. Holland (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 11; notes under arts. 986, 997.
CHAPTER TEN
STREETS AND ALLEYS

Article 999. [544] [474] Power of city council to have streets, etc., graded, etc.

The power of the Legislature over assessments for local improvements is absolute, in the absence of any constitutional restriction. Id.

By Houston City Charter, art. 4a, defining improvements, section 5, providing for a petition for improvements, section 7, providing for a hearing, and section 8, providing that within ten days after the close of such hearing a contest may be instituted by any person, due process of law is provided. Jones v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 688.

8. Liability of city for injury to property.—Where city was expressly authorized by statute and by its charter to improve an alley by filling it so as to prevent water standing therein, it was its duty to do so, if the public health demanded it. Bowers v. Machir (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 758.

10. Liability for defective streets—"Streets" as to which liable.—A municipality is not bound by a common-law dedication of a street by the owner so as to impose the obligation of caring for it, unless it accepts the dedication. Poindexter v. Schaffner (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 22.

15. Notice of defect or obstruction.—Where a city itself directed the digging of a ditch across a sidewalk, and at the time of an accident it was in practically the same condition as when it was opened, the city could not claim ignorance of the defect. City of Henderson v. Fields (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 1003.

Testimony that streets were among those most traveled and intersected a block from the public square held to warrant finding of notice of defect at such intersection. Id.

18. Contributory negligence of person injured.—Testimony held not to show conclusively that plaintiff knew she could have procured a light or assistance to cross a ditch across sidewalk into which she fell. City of Henderson v. Fields (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1003.

It was not contributory negligence of a matter of law for plaintiff to attempt to cross a ditch which crossed the sidewalk, in the dark, though she knew of the existence of the ditch. Id.

21. Sufficiency of evidence.—In action for injuries caused by falling into ditch across sidewalk, evidence held to warrant finding that city, though only incorporated in 1911, did not lack funds to place crossing in safe condition. City of Henderson v. Fields (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1003.

Article 1003. [548] Condemnation of property.

See arts. 758a—758c.

In general.—Private property cannot be taken without allowing the owner his day in court. City of Belton v. City of Belton (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 1015.

Power of eminent domain in general.—There is no law which authorizes a judge in a city's proceeding to condemn land for a reservoir site limiting its effect and use to any specified number of years, after which the use would be abandoned, and the land reverts to the former owners. City of Ft. Worth v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 567.

Water rights can be condemned for public ways as can any right connected with land. Gibson v. Carroll (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 630.

Compensation—Necessity.—Where complainants' lots abutted on a street, a portion of which, where it crossed certain railroad tracks, was closed by the city, impairing access to the lots and egress therefrom, such impairment constituted "damage" within the meaning of the Constitution. City of Texarkana v. Lawson (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 867.

The closing of a street by a city is not a "taking" of property of an abutting owner within Const. art. 1, § 17, providing that no person's property shall be taken, etc., for any public use without adequate compensation being made. Stevens v. City of Dublin (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 188.

Private lands cannot be taken from owner by a city for public use as a reservoir by an exercise of the right of eminent domain without paying therefor at time of taking. City of Ft. Worth v. Reynolds (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 561.

The constitutional denial of any legislative power to take property for public benefit without compensation therefor applies with special force when the taking is for the sole purpose of donating it to a few individuals. Bowers v. Machir (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 765.

A city's neglect of its statutory and charter duties to fill in an alley to prevent water from standing therein, if the public health demanded it, would not furnish a lawful excuse for depriving a lot owner of his special interest in abutting alley, acquired by purchase, without compensating him therefor. Id.

The construction by a city of an open drainage ditch along one side of a street of which it owns the fee is not a "taking" of the property of abutting owners within Const. art. 1, § 17 of City Com's v. Port Arthur v. Fant (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 258.

Measure.—Under the charter of a city empowering it to condemn land for reservoir purposes according to the general law, and art, 6519, the market value in the market in which it is located was the proper measure of compensation. City of Ft. Worth v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 976.

In case of injury by appropriation of lands, the measure of the landowner’s damages is the diminution of its market value for any lawful purpose to which he might have elected to put it and to which it might be put at the time of the injury or appropriation. City of Burton v. Burton (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 238.

Evidence.—In condemnation proceedings, where, upon the issue of damages, the owner had testified as to the quality and character of the land condemned and given his opinion of its value, the jury could properly consider the fact of plaintiff’s long residence upon the land as bearing upon the weight of the testimony. City of Ft. Worth v. Charbonneau (App.) 160 S. W. 587.

In condemnation proceedings, upon the issue of the value and character of the property condemned, the jury could properly consider the fact that the owner had raised his family on the property and its adaptability to homestead uses. In re Ponsford (App.) 193 S. W. 518.

Notice of claim.—Under Const. art. 1, § 17, where private property has been damaged by a city’s negligence in building an insufficient sewer, the charter requirements of notice of defects and of claim for damages are not applicable to prevent recovery. Shows v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1137.

Decisions Relating to Subject in General

Establishment of streets by prescription.—See notes under art. 6859.

Abandonment of street.—Vacation of streets, see art. 864 and notes. When the right of the public in a street may be lost by abandonment, mere nonuser by the public or delay in opening or improving it, or permitting a railroad to occupy a part thereof, will not ordinarily show abandonment. Holt v. Texas Midland R. R. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 327.

Title and rights of abutting owners.—Even though the abutting owner owns the fee of the street, the city is entitled to remove soil or gravel therefrom when necessary to properly grade it, and to use the gravel or soil in improving the streets in another locality. City of La Grange v. Brown (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 8.

The right of property abutting on a street owns the fee to the center thereof, unless the grant otherwise provides. Roaring Springs Townsite Co. v. Paducah Telephone Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 56.

One acquiring the fee in a street may not obstruct it so as to interfere with its use by abutting owners. Spencer v. Levy (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 556.

Where plaintiff bought certain real property with reference to a map showing that it abutted on certain streets, he acquired a property interest in the street, and was entitled to use it free from obstructions whether opened or not. Id.

Right to the unobstructed use of streets is appurtenant to the right of possession rather than to title in fee to adjoining property. Id.

Where heirs received in partition lots abutting on unplatted street, which was afterwards abandoned, fee in street did not revert to them in common. Amerman v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 54.

The construction by a city of an open drainage ditch along one side of a street of which it owns the fee is not a “taking” of the property of abutting owners within Const. art. 17, City of Ft. Worth v. Port Arthur v. Arthur v. City of Ft. Worth (App.) 184 S. W. 274.

Remedies as to obstructions.—Independent of the question of nuisance, an owner of property abutting on a street is entitled to sue to compel the removal of an obstruction constructed under purported municipal authority, though it may not have depreciated the property owner’s use of it, or injured his property, or caused an annoyance. Galveston Commercial Ass’n v. Ort (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 907.

One whose property did not abut on a street partially obstructed by a baseball park fence, in the absence of proof that his property had been depreciated in value thereby, or that he had suffered annoyance different in kind from the community in general, could not maintain a suit to compel the removal of the fence. Id.

Where a city, without authority, permitted the obstruction of certain streets by the construction of a baseball park, an abutting owner was entitled to enjoin the obstruction, and was not limited to an action for damages. Id.

Where, in an action to restrain the obstruction of a street, the title to plaintiff’s abutting property was not in issue, evidence of his deed, proof of prior possession, and recognition of his title by defendant, in the absence of rebutting evidence, was sufficient to show his capacity to sue. Id.

Liability of persons other than city for defects in streets.—To leave a wagon loaded with bricks in a public street by night without placing red lights thereon, as required by city ordinance, was gross negligence of defendants. Keevil v. Ponasford (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 518.

Where a property owner is negligent in failing to maintain a coalhole properly, he must be presumed to have anticipated any injuries to pedestrians, such as broken limbs, caused by falling into the hole. Young Men’s Christian Ass’n v. Jassie (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 867.

Where a property owner maintains a coalhole in the sidewalk, and he instructed one delivering coal to replace the cover, failure of the latter to do so renders him liable to the property owner for the amount recovered from the owner by one injured thereby. Id.

Evidence held to sustain finding that cotton gin was not so constructed and operated as to escape of steam from the exhaust pipe, as a person of ordinary prudence would have anticipated, so as to render the owner liable for injuries when a horse became frightened by the exhaust. Scott v. Shine (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 904.

Evidence held to sustain finding that a person of ordinary prudence would have anticipated that the exhaust from a gin would have frightened a horse under the circumstances under which plaintiff's horse was frightened and she was injured. Id.

Negligence in use of street.—Operation of motor vehicles, see art. 701 3/4 et seq.

In an action for injuries caused by the pole of defendant's wagon coming in contact with plaintiff's leg while plaintiff was on horseback, evidence held not to show negligence by defendant's driver. Riegler Ice Cream Co. v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 3.

Contributory negligence.—In an action for injuries by the pole of defendant's wagon coming in contact with plaintiff's leg while he was on horseback, evidence held to show that plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. Riegler Ice Cream Co. v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 3. See Schumm v. Anderson (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1121.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

STREET IMPROVEMENTS

Art. 1006. Powers acquired by accepting benefits of this chapter, and by whom.

Submission to popular vote of question of adoption of law.—Acts 31st Leg. (2d Called Sess.) c. 14, relative to the improvement of streets, alleys, etc., was in full force after the adoption of the Revised Statutes, and the submission of the question of adopting its provisions was properly had under section 11 thereof instead of under articles 1006-1017 of the Revised Statutes, especially in view of section 15 of the final title of the Revised Statutes. Lindsey v. City of Nacogdoches (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1126.

Due process of law.—Houston City Charter, art. 4a, defining improvements, section 5, providing for a petition for improvements, section 7, providing for a hearing, and section 8, providing that within ten days after the close of such hearing a contest may be instituted, by any person, due process of law is provided, and one who fails to sue within ten days cannot avoid the assessment. Jones v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 688.

Art. 1008. Governing body to order improvement of highways, etc.

Ordinance or resolution for improvement.—Under Loc. & Sp. Acts 31st Leg. c. 21, subc. 12, §§ 5, 8, 10, the determination by the commission of the public necessity of an improvement is not conclusive as to its necessity and benefit to an objected property owner. Rudolph S. Blome Co. v. Herd (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 83.

Necessity of submission to competition.—Under city charter and general improvement ordinance, upon abandonment of street improvement contract, city held entitled to complete the contract without again advertising for bids. City of Paris v. Bray (Sup.) 175 S. W. 432, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 927.

Acceptance of work.—Evidence held sufficient to warrant an inference of fraud in the acceptance of street paving. Rudolph S. Blome Co. v. Herd (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 83.

A fraudulent acceptance of street paving substantially different from that contracted for is not conclusive against a property owner. Id.

Completion of work by surety of contractor.—Defendant city and persons furnish material for use on a public work held not liable to plaintiff, which, in contracting to complete the work on default of the original contractor, for whom it was surety, had assumed all liability for such material. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1098.

Art. 1011. Cost, how assessed; certificates; costs; attorney's fees; liens.

Attorney's fees.—Acts 33d Leg. c. 147, § 6, and this article, did not apply to an improvement assessment made by city under its charter pursuant to Acts 33d Leg. c. 147, and hence did not authorize city to impose attorney's fees. Gallahar v. Whitley (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 757.

Assignment of certificate.—If assignment of improvement certificate was subsequent to filing suit thereon, assignor could prosecute suit for benefit of assignee, and assignee would not be a necessary party. Kernagan v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 626.

Art. 1012. No lien on exempt property; owner personally liable, etc.

Personal liability.—An assessment of benefits for a local improvement may be made a personal liability against the owner and collectible out of his property generally. Eu­bank v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1092.
Art. 1013. Notice and hearing before assessment, etc.; no assessment in excess of benefit.

Benefit to property.—Loc. & Sp. Acts 31st Leg. c. 31, subc. 13, § 7, forbidding assessments in excess of the proposed benefits, is but a declaration of existing law, since assessments in excess of the special benefits is taking property without due process of law, contrary to Const. §§ 17, 19, and Const. U. S. Amend. 14, § 1. Rudolph S. Blome Co. v. Herd (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 53.

Evidence that the improvement as contemplated or as laid did not benefit the property held admissible to answer the city's evidence, and sufficient to support findings of the court that property against which special assessments for paving were levied was not benefited and that the paving was unnecessary. Id.

Notice—Necessity.—A paving assessment against the property of a street railway company, made under this article, without any notice or opportunity for hearing to the company, on the question of the amount of the assessment or benefits is, despite Const. art. 1, § 17, void, as working a deprivation of property without due process, contrary to Const. art. 1, § 19, and U. S. Const. Amend. 14. Texas Bitulithic Co. v. Abilene St. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 483.

An assessment of property for a street improvement can in no case be made without proper notice of the contemplated assessment to the owner and an opportunity given him to resist it for any legal cause. Gallahar v. Whitley (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 757.

Hearing.—The provision of this article that no assessment for the improvement of streets shall be made against any property abutting until a fair hearing shall have first been given does not apply to the property of street railroads, although the provision that the governing body of the city shall by ordinance adopt regulations for hearings and notice of the same is applicable. Texas Bitulithic Co. v. Abilene St. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 483.

A city cannot by proceeding with paving and accepting it, and bringing an action for the assessment, deprive a property owner of his right to question the necessity and benefit of the paving by proceeding under Sp. & Sp. Acts 31st Leg. c. 31, subc. 12, §§ 8, 10. Rudolph S. Blome Co. v. Herd (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 53.

Art. 1015. Suit to set aside or correct assessment.

Premature suit on improvement certificate.—That suit upon an improvement certificate was brought within the ten days in which, under charter, defendant might have instituted suit to set assessment aside, was immaterial, where it did not appear how the suit prevented such suit by defendant, or that defendant could have successfully maintained such suit. Gallahar v. Whitley (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 757.

Art. 1016. Referendum on adoption of provisions of this chapter; ordinances to carry out same.

Constitutionality.—This article is not a delegation of legislative power, or a violation of Const. art. 11, § 4, requiring a general law for incorporation of a city any more than is article 1034 requiring an election for incorporation, nor is it a violation of Const. art. 11, § 4, requiring a general law for incorporation of a city. Riley v. Town of Trenton (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 344.

Law which submission is to be had.—Acts 31st Leg. (3d Called Sess.) c. 14, relative to the improvement of streets, alleys, etc., was in full force after the adoption of the Revised Statutes, and the submission of the question of adopting its provisions was properly had under section 11 thereof instead of under articles 1006-1017 of the Revised Statutes, especially in view of section 15 of the final title of the Revised Statutes. Lindsey v. City of Nacogdoches (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1126.

Petition for election.—This article does not make a petition by the electors a prerequisite to the calling of an election to make the provisions of the chapter applicable to the city. Riley v. Town of Trenton (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 344.

CHAPTER ELEVEN A

PARKS

Art. 1017%. Levy of tax for parks.
1017%a. Number and location.
1017%b. Control; maintenance tax.

Article 1017½. Levy of tax for parks.—That the City Council, Board of Commissioners or City Manager of any incorporated city in this State is hereby authorized to levy and collect a tax not to exceed five cents on each $100.00 of assessed valuation of the city for the purchase and improvement of lands for use as City Parks. [Act March 15, 1917, ch. 79, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 1017½a. Number and location.—The city parks provided for in this Act shall not exceed two in number for each two thousand inhabitants; and it is further provided, that where the city council, Board of Commissioners or City Manager desires to establish more than one of such city parks it shall be their duty to locate such parks in widely separated portions of the city so as to place them as near as practicable within the convenient reach of all the citizens of the city. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 1017\(\frac{1}{2}\)b. Control; maintenance tax.—Said City Council, Board of Commissioners or City Manager shall have full power and control over any and all city parks as provided for in this Act, and they shall have the right to levy and collect an annual tax sufficient in their judgment to properly maintain such parks, not to exceed five cents on each one hundred dollars of assessed valuation of the city. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 1017\(\frac{1}{2}\)c. Improvement of parks.—The improvement of lands for use as City Parks, as provided for in Section 1 of this Act [Art. 1017\(\frac{1}{2}\)] authorizes the City Council, Board of Commissioners or City Manager to build and construct pavilions and such other buildings as they may deem necessary, to lay out and open driveways and walks, to pave the same or any part thereof, in such manner and of such material as said City Council, Board of Commissioners or City Manager may deem advisable; to set out trees and shrubbery, construct ditches or lakes, and to make such other improvements as they may deem proper and necessary. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 1017\(\frac{1}{2}\)d. Use and management.—City parks established under the provisions of this Act shall remain open for the free use of the public under such reasonable rules and regulations as the City Council, Board of Commissioners or City Manager may prescribe. But no person, firm or association of persons shall have the right to offer for sale or barter, exhibiting anything or conduct any place of amusement where a fee is charged within said parks without first obtaining the consent of the City Council, Board of Commissioners or City Manager or its duly authorized agent or agents, paying for such privilege or concession such sum as may be agreed upon by the person, firm or association of persons and the City Council, Board of Commissioners or City Manager, or its duly authorized agent or agents; and provided further, that all revenues derived from the sale of such rights, privileges or concessions shall go into a fund for the maintenance of said parks. [Id., § 5.]

CHAPTER TWELVE

PUBLIC UTILITY CORPORATIONS, RATES AND CHARGES—REGULATION BY COUNCIL, ETC.

Art. 1018. City council may regulate rates. Art. 1024a. Sale or lease of franchise.

Article 1018. City council may regulate rates.

Delegation of power.—Power to prescribe rates to be paid to water company enjoying franchise to use streets furnishing water is governmental, and can be exercised only by the body to whom it is intrusted, and is nondelegable. Green v. San Antonio Water Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 453.

Governmental power to regulate rates for water is inherent in state, and because there is no constitutional inhibition, the Legislature can delegate it to a municipality, which must exercise it as required by the charter. Id.

Art. 1024a. Sale or lease of franchise.—Any individual, association, or corporation now or hereafter organized under the laws of this state, including any municipal corporation of this state, engaged in manufacturing, producing, supplying or selling electricity, natural or artificial gas, steam, or water, or owning or operating any street railway system within any incorporated city, town or village within this state, where the rates charged for such service are subject to regulation under the authority of the laws of this state, may, by a majority vote of the qualified voters at an election held for that purpose, of said city, town or village, first obtained, lease, sell or otherwise dispose of its entire plant or business or any part thereof, to any other individual, association or corporation which, at the time of said sale, lease or other disposition of said plant or business, or any part thereof, is doing, or has authority to do, a like business in said incorporated city, town or village; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to permit any corporation to engage in any kind of business not authorized by its charter.

Took effect 90 days after March 20, 1915, date of adjournment of legislature.

Sale of property to pay debts.—Acts 34th Leg. c. 79, authorizing consolidation of public service corporations by the sale of the property of one to another, does not prevent a quasi public corporation from selling its property to pay its debts. Gulf Pipe Line Co. v. Lasater (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 773.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

TOWNS AND VILLAGES

| Art. 1033. | May be incorporated, when.—When a town or village may contain more than four hundred and less than ten thousand inhabitants, it may be incorporated as a town or village in the manner prescribed in this chapter. [Acts 1381, p. 63; Acts 1897, p. 193; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 78, § 1.]

| Art. 1034. | Towns and villages incorporated, when.—When a town or village may contain more than four hundred and less than ten thousand inhabitants, it may be incorporated as a town or village in the manner prescribed in this chapter. [Acts 1381, p. 63; Acts 1897, p. 193; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 78, § 1.]

| Art. 1040. | Returns of election.—When a town or village may contain more than four hundred and less than ten thousand inhabitants, it may be incorporated as a town or village in the manner prescribed in this chapter. [Acts 1381, p. 63; Acts 1897, p. 193; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 78, § 1.]

| Art. 1041. | Duty of county judge to make entry, etc.—When a town or village may contain more than four hundred and less than ten thousand inhabitants, it may be incorporated as a town or village in the manner prescribed in this chapter. [Acts 1381, p. 63; Acts 1897, p. 193; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 78, § 1.]

| Art. 1042. | Powers of corporation.—When a town or village may contain more than four hundred and less than ten thousand inhabitants, it may be incorporated as a town or village in the manner prescribed in this chapter. [Acts 1381, p. 63; Acts 1897, p. 193; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 78, § 1.]

| Art. 1048. | Quorum may pass by-laws.—When a town or village may contain more than four hundred and less than ten thousand inhabitants, it may be incorporated as a town or village in the manner prescribed in this chapter. [Acts 1381, p. 63; Acts 1897, p. 193; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 78, § 1.]

Art. 1049. [594] [521] May prevent and remove nuisances, regulate markets, etc.

Art. 1053. [598] [525] Additional officers may be appointed.

Rights under invalid appointment.—Where an incorporated town had no authority to employ an attorney to perform certain legal services, he could not recover the reasonable value thereof on a quantum meruit. Tharp v. Blake (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 549.

Art. 1064. [616] [541] Property of any reincorporating city or town vested, how; assumption of indebtedness.

Liability of new city for debts of old.—A statute which forbids a city embracing only the territory of a prior city dissolved from levying a tax to pay a judgment against the dissolved city, impairs a contract with the dissolved city. Where pending receivership proceedings of a dissolved city, a new city embracing the same territory was incorporated, the new city must levy a tax to satisfy a judgment. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Art. 1068. Duty of railroad to keep in condition for travel portion of roadbed and right of way crossed by streets; penalty.

See notes under art. 653, note 26; art. 6615, note 35.

Jurisdiction of action.—An action by a city against a railroad company for the penalty imposed by this article, is for a money judgment within the jurisdiction of a justice's court. City of San Marcos v. International & G. N. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 292.

Restraining prosecutions.—A railroad company, prosecuted by a city in courts having jurisdiction for the penalties imposed by this article for failure to place its roadbed over a street in a proper condition for travel, has an adequate remedy at law, and may not sue to restrain actions at law. City of San Marcos v. International & G. N. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 292.

Instructions in action for injuries.—Under this article an instruction, in an action for injury to plaintiff from having his shoe caught between the rails, that he had a right to presume that the tracks were in proper condition held not objectionable as relieving him from the exercise of any care, or as not defining the term “proper condition.” St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Matthews (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1092.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT

Art. 1070. Election to determine.

Art. 1076a. Laws unrepealed; incorporations and bonds validated, etc.

1075. Commissioners, powers and duties.

Article 1070. Election to determine.

Denial of petition.—Under the Enabling Act, providing that the governing authority of cities upon petition of 10 per cent. of the qualified voters should call an election, the refusal of the mayor and council to call such election held not void because evidenced by resolution instead of an ordinance. Boynton v. Brown (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 893.

Powers of city.—Loc. & Sp. Acts 31st Leg. c. 31, incorporating city of Ft. Worth with commission form of government, and subchapter 9, § 4, thereof, held to give the city all the police power of the state as to acts which could be made a minor offense. Strauss v. State, 76 Tex. Cr. R. 122, 173 S. W. 663.

Art. 1076a. Laws unrepealed; incorporations and bonds validated, etc.

Constitutionality.—This article is constitutional; the act of which it is a part not containing more than one object which is mentioned in caption of act. State v. City of Polytechnic (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1136.

Construction and operation.—This article validates boundary as well as contents within boundary of city adopting commission form of government. State v. City of Polytechnic (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1136.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN
ABOLITION OF CORPORATE EXISTENCE

Articles 1077-1079.

Art. 1080. Receiver of abolished corporation; appointment; bond, etc.

Constitutionality.—The method prescribed by this act for the appointment of a receiver for a dissolved city on giving notice is due process of law. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Partial invalidity.—See Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986; note under art. 1082.

Notice.—Under this article notices for the hearing of an application for appointment of a receiver of a dissolved town need not be posted under the direction of the judge. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Validity of appointment of receiver.—See Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Collateral attack.—An order appointing a receiver for a dissolved city and an order establishing a creditor’s claim against the city are not subject to collateral attack by the successor of the city. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Mandamus to compel succeeding city to levy tax.—In mandamus to compel a city to levy a tax to satisfy a judgment rendered against its dissolved predecessor, the receiver of the dissolved city is not a necessary party. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Art. 1081. Duties of receiver.

Art. 1082. Claims against city; proceedings to collect.
Validity of act.—The provision relating to the establishment of claims against a dissolved city held not to deny to taxpayers thereof due process of law, though they are given no right of appeal. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Partial invalidity.—Invalidity of provision that a receiver of a dissolved city shall not plead limitations against demands, against the city, does not render the other provisions invalid. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Approval of claims.—This article is directory only so far as it provides for the approval of claims against a dissolved city, and a premature approval is but an irregularity. An order approving the claim of a creditor of a dissolved city, taken in connection with an order appointing a receiver of the city, is a judgment, and precludes any question of liability of the city. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Liability of new city.—A city, incorporated after the appointment of a receiver of a dissolved city, embracing the same territory and pending the receivership proceedings, is liable for the debts of the dissolved city, and must levy a tax to satisfy a judgment. And, if it is a de facto municipal corporation, it cannot urge the invalidity of its incorporation as a defense in a suit to collect the debt. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Contest of claims against dissolved city.—A city incorporated more than a year after this act became effective could not complain because it was denied right to contest claims against the dissolved city. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Art. 1083. Limitation not to run, when.
Constitutionality.—Provision of a statute that a receiver of a dissolved city cannot plead limitations against demands does not grant a special privilege to a creditor of a dissolved city, or deny to a dissolved city the equal protection of the law. Young v. City of Colorado (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 986.

Art. 1086. Payment of claims, and priority; sale of property in hands of receiver.

Art. 1096. [615] [540] Corporation may be abolished, how.
CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

CITIES HAVING MORE THAN 5,000 INHABITANTS—ADOPTION AND AMENDMENT OF CHARTER

Art. 1096a. May adopt or amend charter; election; limitations of charter and ordinances; taxation; debts.

Art. 1096b. Former powers preserved, etc.

Art. 1096c. Former powers preserved, etc.

Art. 1096d. Full power of local self government; enumerated powers.

Art. 1096e. Effect of enumeration of powers.

Art. 1096f. Former powers preserved, etc.

Art. 1096g. Validation of charters adopted under this chapter.

Article 1096a. May adopt or amend charter; election; limitations of charter and ordinances; taxation; debts.

Nature of power to adopt charter.—Under Const. art. 11, § 5, providing that cities of certain population may adopt or amend charters, delegation of powers to city councils by the Legislature is unnecessary, their powers being derived directly from the sovereign people in general assembly. Ex parte App., 185 S. W. 415.

Under Const. art. 11, § 5, the power of the city to adopt a charter is not dependent on grant from the Legislature, but is to be governed only by the limitations found in the acts of the Legislature. Le Gois v. State (Cr. App.) 190 S. W. 724.

Art. 1096d. Full power of local self government; enumerated powers.

Note.—Act April 9, 1917, ch. 207, § 23, post, art. 820r of the Penal Code, regulates the speed of motor vehicles and prohibits local regulations on that subject, except as to certain vehicles specified.

Annexation of territory.—Since this act superseded, so far as home rule cities were concerned, art. 781, a provision in a charter adopted by the city under the amendment to Const. art. 11, § 5, authorizing the annexation of territory without a vote of the inhabitants of such territory, does not conflict with a general law. Cohen v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 809.

Sale of liquor.—Under this article the city is empowered to prohibit absolutely or license the sale of liquor in certain districts. Le Gois v. State (Cr. App.) 190 S. W. 724.

An ordinance of a city prohibiting license to sell liquors in certain territory held not subject to the criticism that it does not prohibit sale of liquors in view of Fen. Code 1911, art. 130, and Acts 31st Leg. c. 17, § 1. Id.

Assessment for improvements.—Reassessment of a paving assessment to correct mistake in owner's name made under charter adopted in accordance with this article held not a taking of property without compensation in violation of Const. art. 1, § 17. Gallahar v. Whitley (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 757.

Art. 1096e. Effect of enumeration of powers.

Operation and effect.—Under this article the city may prohibit sale of liquors in certain districts even if the specific power of section 4 to establish saloon districts and prohibit sales of liquor did not cover such prohibition. Le Gois v. State (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 724.

Art. 1096f. Former powers preserved, etc.

Effect as to special charter city.—This article and art. 1011 do not apply to an improvement assessment made by city under its charter pursuant to Acts 33rd Leg. c. 147, and hence did not authorize city to impose attorney's fees. Gallahar v. Whitley (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 757.

Art. 1096h. Improvement districts, etc.

Assessment certificates.—Under charter of city of Mineral Wells adopted August 19, 1913, in accordance with this article, city's assignables certificates for special assessments, fixing the amount of a special assessment, might be enforced notwithstanding general statute relating to interest. Gallahar v. Whitley (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 757.

In absence of any power given to city to impose any penalty for failure to promptly pay special assessment, no attorney's fee could be added to amount of certificate for special assessment, with interest. Id.

Art. 1096j. Validation of charters and amendments to charters adopted under this chapter.—That each charter and each amendment to a charter, and each act of incorporation adopted by the qualified voters of the cities of Ennis, Marshall, Houston, El Paso, Dallas, Beaumont, Waco, McKinney, Terrell, Galveston, Taylor, Corsicana, Amarillo, Houston Heights, Bonham, Denton, Mineral Wells, Sweetwater, Wichita Falls, San Antonio, Brownwood, Orange, Belton and Cleburne, respectively, since the enactment of Chapter 147, page 307, of the Acts of the Regular Session of the Thirty-third Legislature, and filed in the office of the Secretary of State, be and the same are hereby validated and are hereby declared to be in as full force and effect the same as if each had been enacted by the Legislature and approved by the Governor. [Act March 22, 1915, ch. 94, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The title of the act enumerates all of the cities affected except Taylor, which it omits. The act took effect 90 days after March 20, 1915, date of adjournment.

Art. 1096k. Validation of charter amendments.—That each charter, and each amendment to a charter, adopted by any city of more than five thousand inhabitants in this State, or where such city has been or attempted to amend or adopt such charter, since the enactment of Chapter 147, Acts of the Regular Session of the Thirty-Third Legislature, 1913, and all proceedings had with reference thereto, are hereby validated, and are hereby declared to be in full force and effect, the same as if adopted in strict compliance with the requirements of said Chapter 147, Acts of the 33rd Legislature, and this Act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage. [Act Oct. 16, 1917, ch. 30, § 1.]

Article 1096j. Certain cities may consolidate.—When two or more cities in this State, over five thousand in population, adjoining and contiguous to each other in the same county, shall be desirous of being consolidated, it shall be lawful for them to adopt or amend their respective charters so as to consolidate under one government and take the name of the larger of said cities, in the manner, and subject to the provisions hereinafter prescribed in this Act. [Act Feb. 23, 1917, ch. 43, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 1096ja. Petition for election; order; election officers.—Whenever as many as one hundred qualified voters of each of said cities shall petition the city council of their respective cities to order an election for the purpose of voting on the consolidation of such cities into one city, said city councils may at their next regular meetings order an election to be held at the usual voting places of the cities, on the same day, not less than thirty days after such order is made. If said petitions be signed respectively, however, by qualified electors equal to fifteen per cent, of the total vote cast at the last preceding general election for city officials in each of said cities, next preceding the filing of said petitions, the respective councils shall, within ten days after the receipt thereof, order an election to be held. The mayor and city council, or other governing board of each of said cities, shall appoint from among the qualified voters of their respective cities judges and clerks of said elections, and such elections shall be conducted under the ordinances of said cities, and in conformity with the general laws of the State of Texas. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 1096jb. Form of ballots.—All persons voting at such election in favor of consolidation shall have written or printed on their ballots the words "For Consolidation," and all persons voting at such election not in favor of consolidation shall have written or printed on their ballots the words "Against Consolidation." [Id., § 3.]
Art. 1096½c. Definition of “Consolidation.”—The term “consolidation,” as used in this Act, shall be held to mean the adoption by the smaller cities of the charter and name of the larger of said cities, and the amendment of the charter of the larger cities so as to include in its boundaries the territory of the smaller city or cities so consolidated with it. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 1096½d. Returns of election; certification to Secretary of State; fee for recording; record of election.—In the event that a majority of the qualified voters voting at said election in each of said cities shall vote in favor of consolidation, it will be the duty of the mayor or chief executive officer exercising like or similar powers of each of said cities as soon as practicable after the returns of said elections have been made to certify to the Secretary of State an authenticated copy under the seal of the said cities, showing the approval of the qualified voters of the consolidation of the two cities, and the Secretary of State shall thereupon file and record the same in a separate book to be kept in his office for such purpose; provided, that the Secretary of State shall not be allowed any greater fee for the recording of such certificate than fifteen cents per hundred words, provided such fees shall not be less than two dollars. The returns of such elections shall be recorded at length in the record books of the respective cities, and the consolidation of such cities shall be held thereupon to be consummated. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 1096½e. Transfer of books, property, etc., to larger city; abolition of offices; adjustment of liabilities.—After the consummation of such consolidation all record books, public property, money on hand, credits, accounts and other assets of the smaller of the annexed cities shall be turned over to the officers of the larger city, who shall be retained in office as the officials of the consolidated city during the remainder of their respective terms, and by such consolidation the offices existing in the smaller municipality shall be abolished and declared vacant, and the persons holding such offices shall not be entitled, after the consummation of such consolidation, to further remuneration or compensation. All outstanding liabilities of the two cities so consolidated shall be assumed by the consolidated city. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 1096½f. Disposition of existing improvement funds.—Whenever at the time of any such consolidation the respective cities shall have on hand any bond funds voted for public improvements and not already appropriated or contracted for such money shall be kept in a separate fund and devoted to public improvements in the territory for which such bonds were voted, and shall not be diverted to any other purpose. [Id., § 7.]
Conveyances

Article 1103  [624]  [548] Conveyances must be in writing, signed and delivered.

Where a deed of trust on certain land was invalid because executed by the landowner's agent without written authority, a subsequent deed of trust executed by the landowner on the same land was prior in right. Texas Moline Plow Co. v. Klapproth (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 399.

2. Easement or license.—An easement over land is such an interest in land as must be conveyed with the same formality as is required in a conveyance of a fee. King v. Driver (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 415.

An easement over another's land may be acquired by verbal agreement in the nature of estoppel. Bowdington v. Williams (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 719.

A perpetual easement in land liable to be divested only if the use of the dominant tenement be changed must be created by deed; parol license being insufficient. Id.

An easement to a proprietor has to some profit, benefit, or lawful use out of or over the estate of another proprietor; while a "servitude" is the burden imposed on one tract of land for the benefit of another. Easements or servitudes may arise by deed or express grant, by prescription, by oral covenants, and by implication. Stephenson v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 568.

Where a verbal way over land is granted, possession under such grant is adverse; the verbal grant being void under the statute of frauds. Heard v. Bowen (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 234.

In an action to enjoin obstruction of alley or way, testimony of plaintiff as to grantor's statement that he wanted the alley kept open held not inadmissible as seeking to establish an easement by parol. Miles v. Bodenheim (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 633.

An easement that owner of lots should have easement of way to his adjoining building in consideration of use of its wall by grantee, even if use of wall might be considered in payment of purchase price, was within statute of frauds. Callan v. Walters (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 829.

An easement may be created by grant, in which case it must be done with same formality as is necessary for conveyance of fee. Id.

An easement to maintain an irrigation dam on another's land is an interest in land within statute of frauds (Rev. St. 1911, art. 1163), and must be created in writing. Popham v. Exceleston (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 181.

To sustain easement to maintain an irrigation dam on another's land by possession and performance, no written grant being claimed, an irrevocable license must be shown. Id.

Through an instrument in writing, as provided by Vernon's Sases' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1163, is necessary to convey an easement, a conveyance in writing duly signed and acknowledged is sufficient to convey an easement appurtenant to the land conveyed, though the easement is not named therein. Miles v. Bodenheim (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 635. 180
5. — Partition.—The statutes prohibiting the conveyance of land or an interest therein by parol have no application to a partition of lands. Scott v. Watson (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 268.

A parol partition is not a conveyance of land, in a sense that it must be evidenced by an instrument in writing under the statute of frauds. Moore v. Reid (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 245.

6. Appointment of agent.—If the lease provided the landlord was to receive as rent one-fourth of the cotton raised, so that title to one-fourth of the cotton raised and gathered vested in him, then an agreement by him or his successor in title to the land, with respect to the part of the cotton, would be merely an appointment to do so as agent of the landlord. Mason v. Ward (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 456.

Parol authority from buyers of land to their trustee to reconvey part to grantor upon repayment of proportionate part of price is not within statute of frauds. King v. Lane (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 362.

8. Authority of agent.—Under Rev. St. 1911, art. 1192, an agent cannot execute a valid deed of trust, on land belonging to his principal, without written authority.

Where a deed of trust executed by the agent of the owner of land was invalid for want of written authority, it could not be ratified by the owner's oral assent or acquiescence, but only by an instrument in writing. Id.

An owner may be bound by a deed of trust executed by an agent without written authority, by acts sufficient to create an estoppel in pais, with full knowledge of the facts. Id.

Where a deed of trust was invalid for lack of written authority, of the attorney executing it, the grantor's answer in a suit to foreclose that the deed was in all things ratified constituted a valid ratification, not only as against her, but as against the holder of a subsequent deed of trust, with notice. Id.

A power authorizing an attorney to sell the grantor's realty did not confer on him authority to incur any by a deed of trust. Id.

Rev. St. 1895, art. 624, does not prevent an agent from binding his principal by a parol sale of lands under any circumstances. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. Payne (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 886.

Written authority is not necessary to enable an agent to bind his principal by an executory contract for the sale of lands. Id.

Person who conveyed land to B. wife for land as to which B. had a power of attorney held not relieved of liability to the owner of such land by their good faith or reliance on the advice of an attorney. White v. Love (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 913.

That attorney in fact who conveyed land for his own benefit had sold land taken in exchange held not to affect liability of the purchaser from the attorney to the attorney's principal. Id.

A power of attorney to sell real estate does not authorize the grantee thereof to maintain a suit on behalf of the grantors in trespass to try title and for damages. Lane v. Miller & Vidor Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 106.

Deed from holder of power of attorney held admissible in view of his authority under the power of attorney and agreement by his principal that the land should be sold to the grantee. Zeigel v. Magee (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 631.

9. Termination of agency.—A power of attorney, which merely empowered the agent to sell land and turn over proceeds, the agent having no interest in the land, was not a power coupled with an interest, and hence was revocable. Baker v. Heney (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 19.

Powers are irrevocable by the principal when they form part of an act deemed valuable in law or which forms part of the contract and is a security for money or for the performance of any act deemed valuable. Quannah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Dickey (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 69.

10. — Execution of power.—A conveyance by an attorney in fact for his principal conveys whatever right the attorney had in the property, whether he signed the conveyance as agent or as principal. Ford v. Warner (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 885.

An attorney in fact induced by fraud to execute a deed for his principal to the fraudulent grantee may acquire title as against the grantee or those claiming under him. Id.

12. Dedication, requisites of.—"Dedication" is a setting apart of land for the public use, and may be either statutory or at common law, the distinction being that statutory dedication operates as a grant, while common-law dedication operates by way of estoppel in pais. Common-law dedications are either express or implied, it being necessary in each case that there be an appropriation of land by the owner to the public use, which may be express or may be shown by some act or course of conduct. Poindexter v. Schaffner (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 22.

An owner held not to have dedicated his land for a public road. Bryson v. Abney (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 508.

Common-law dedications are divided into express and implied dedications, and in both there must be an appropriation of land by the owner to public use, in the one case by express manifestation of such purpose, and in the other by some act or course of conduct from which the law will imply such an intent. City of Kaufman v. French (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 831.

To constitute a landlord's dedication of land for highway so as to estop owner, there need be no formal grant or continued public use long enough to raise presumption of grant; any act or declaration by owner showing present, fixed purpose to dedicate, coupled with use by public in conformity with purpose of owner, being sufficient. Santa Fe Town-Site Co. v. Parker (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 497.
18. Evidence, sufficiency of.—In an action to enjoin a city from the use of land for a public use, evidence held insufficient to sustain a finding that defendant had informed grantees from his mother, by deeds referring to a map and plat for description, that the land in controversy was reserved. City of Kaufman v. French (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 831.

In a suit to remove a cloud from title to a strip of land, evidence held to show that it was a public alley. Perrow v. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 573, rehearing denied 181 S. W. 496.

Evidence, in an action of trespass to try title, held not to show such dedication to the public as to prevent the acquisition of the land by limitation. Buchanan v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 625. In an action to restrain county officers from expending money on a road alleged not to be a public highway, evidence held sufficient to show dedication of land for a public road making expenditure lawful. Santa Fe Town-Site Co. v. Parker (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 487.

17. Designation in maps or plats.—There is a valid dedication of land as streets if the owner of a tract which has been platted into blocks, lots, and streets as an addition by a recorded map, conveys the lots by deed referring to such map, but there is no valid statutory dedication of a street which was a part of a platted addition, where the street as laid off did not conform to the existing streets and lots abutting on the same, as required by Dallas charter, art. 1, § 3. To constitute a valid statutory dedication of land as a street, there must be a substantial compliance with the statute in the manner prescribed. Poindexter v. Schaffner (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 22.

A dedication may be established against the owner of land by showing that he has platted it as an addition to a city by a map placed on the public records, and has sold lots by conveying the same and recorded a plat made by another person. An owner who, at the time of her deeds referring to a plat for description, did not intend to dedicate the land to a public use, as the grantors knew or might have known, held not to have dedicated it. City of Kaufman v. French (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 831.

A plat of land which sets apart streets to the public is equivalent to a conveyance, and the easement granted is irrevocable. Gibson v. Carroll (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 630.

The laying out of a town into blocks, lots, and streets, shown in a map acknowledged and recorded, and the sale of lots based on such streets to those purchasing the lots, and to the public. Krueger v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 151.

When an owner of land plats it into lots, public streets and alleys and sells lots by reference to the plat, the purchaser of a lot acquires, as appurtenant thereto, the right to use the streets so dedicated. Bowers v. Machir (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 758.

18. Acceptance.—Mere nonuser or delay in the improvement of a street, so that parts of it became practically impassable and were not used by travelers, is insufficient to establish an abandonment by the city of that portion of the street, where it was a part of the general street system which was dedicated in laying out a subdivision. City of La Grange v. Brown (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 8.

Where streets were dedicated to the public, the use of them by the public, and the removal of gravel therefrom by the city under the claim that they were a public street, is sufficient to show acceptance of the dedication, even though the streets were not always kept in condition fit for travel. Id.

A municipality is not bound by a common-law dedication of a street by the owner so as to impose the obligation of caring for it, unless it accepts the dedication. Poindexter v. Schaffner (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 22.

Where plaintiff's predecessors in title and the adjoining owner gave strips of land for a road which was used by the public for more than 30 years, there was a valid dedication. Poindexter v. McVey (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 508.

Proof of a city's acceptance of land dedicated by a map or plat and by reference thereto in deeds held not necessary. City of Kaufman v. French (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 831.

Where recorded map showed a street extending across a railroad right of way, a use for more than 30 years amounted to an acceptance of the part of the street crossing the track. Krueger v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 161.

20. Estoppel.—To constitute a dedication, it is essential that the donor intend to set apart and appropriate the land to a public use, and, where such intent is expressed by visible conduct and open acts inducing the belief of an intent to dedicate to a public use and action thereon by the public, the donor cannot assert that he had no intent to dedicate. City of Kaufman v. French (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 831.

The doctrine of presumed dedication held to rest on the principle that a man is presumed to intend the usual and natural consequences of his own acts and declarations; but if the acts and declarations would not lead an ordinarily prudent man to infer an intent to dedicate, or if they forbade an inference of such intent, the donor might show his mistake and avoid the dedication. Id.

21. Operation and effect.—When the owner plats property for the purpose of creating a new town, and dedicates the streets, they are as much a part of the public highways for all purposes as if condemned and paid for by the public. Roaring Springs Townsite Co. v. Paducah Telephone Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 50.

Purchasers of land abutting on a square dedicated for a specified public purpose may prevent the use of the square for another public purpose to their injury. Clement v. City of Paris (Sup.) 175 S. W. 672.

A land dedicated for county court house purposes cannot, as against owners of land abutting on the court house square, be used for a public comfort station. Id.

Dedication by riparian owner of street in land covered by water in which he had only a riparian right held to carry with it such rights, so that his grantee, whose deed described the parcel as bounded by the street, took no riparian rights. Gibson v. Carroll (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 630.
29. Trusts—express.—The statute of frauds does not require that trusts shall be evidenced by writing. Larabee v. Porter (Cliv. App.) 166 S. W. 395.

30. Resulting trust.—Where two persons agreed to purchase land jointly, a trust in such land, when subsequently purchased by one of them, arose in favor of the other. If one of the agreements had been repudiated in open and positive defiance thereof. Sachs v. Goldberg (Cliv. App.) 159 S. W. 92.

A showing of accident, fraud, or mistake is not necessary to ingraft a trust upon a deed conveying the legal title on its face. Ratchiff v. Ratchiff (Cliv. App.) 161 S. W. 30.

Where plaintiff requested defendant to purchase a residence and sell it to him on instalments, and defendant bought in the property for himself, no resulting trust arose. Wade v. Cohen (Cliv. App.) 173 S. W. 1168.

In trespass to try title to land patented to plaintiff, where defendants claimed under one alleged to have paid purchase price, evidence as to whose money was used in purchase held not to show any resulting trust in defendants' grantor. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. Votaw (Cliv. App.) 184 S. W. 647.

Evidence held not to have resulted in lots purchased by officers of traction company in favor of property owners advancing bonus pursuant to agreement whereby officers were to purchase the lots and erect thereon terminal buildings of traction company. Eastern Texas Traction Co. v. Harrison (Cliv. App.) 189 S. W. 302.

Evidence held not to show defendant had no interest in lands, but purchased them merely as agent for plaintiff, who advanced entire purchase price; a resulting trust in his favor being created notwithstanding that record title was in his agent. Beck v. Barker (Cliv. App.) 192 S. W. 276.

Where plaintiff advanced money with which to purchase land, but his agent took title in his own name and gave notes for unpaid purchase money, which notes, however, plaintiff paid before defendant bank loaned money to such agent, a resulting trust in plaintiff was created. Id.

Where plaintiff furnished purchase money to agent who took title to lands in his own name and gave notes secured by vendor's lien, held that, when plaintiff paid notes and discharged vendor's lien, execution creditor of plaintiff's agent could not claim that trust was only for portion of property represented by cash consideration. Id.

31. Constructive trust.—An employee of the trustee of realty who purchased the outstanding title to the injury of the beneficiary will be held to hold the title in trust for the beneficiary. Sullivan v. Pant (Cliv. App.) 160 S. W. 612.

Client having conveyed one-fourth of a cause of action to recover land to her attorney, and having obtained a secret conveyance, held one-fourth of the land as the attorney's trustee. Porterfield v. Taylor (Cliv. App.) 171 S. W. 733.

A son in whose name, one, to defraud his wife, took title to land bought with community property, held a trustee in invitum. Krenz v. Strohlmeier (Cliv. App.) 177 S. W. 178.

Under agreement between plaintiff, defendant and other independent cotton buyers to join their dealings, defendant, who had received the proceeds of cotton put in by plaintiff and had not paid over the cost to plaintiff held to hold the proceeds as agent in trust for plaintiff. Jackson v. Boyd (Cliv. App.) 181 S. W. 715.

Evidence held not to sufficiently show that land conveyed was taken under a parol trust. Robson v. Moore (Cliv. App.) 166 S. W. 808.

Evidence held insufficient to establish a parol trust in favor of appellees upon land conveyed to another. Hambleton v. Southwest Texas Baptist Hospital (Cliv. App.) 172 S. W. 574.

Evidence held to show that, when a stockholder took title to land in himself, he did so as trustee for the corporation, which paid the consideration. Texas Rice Land Co. v. Langham (Cliv. App.) 193 S. W. 473.

36. Title and rights of parties.—A trustee becomes the special agent of both parties, and must act with absolute impartiality and fairness. Zeiss v. First State Bank (Cliv. App.) 189 S. W. 524.

Where heirs of deceased stockholder who had taken title in his own name in trust for the corporation made their deed to individuals in trust for the corporation, and delivered it to one of the trustees, or to another for him, they divested themselves of title. Texas Rice Land Co. v. Langham (Cliv. App.) 193 S. W. 473.

37. Power of sale and management.—Where a father and children executed a deed by which the children were to have the use of the land, the grantor, and the father, who acted for all, delivered the deed, the grantee was not bound to see that each child received his share under the agreement, and one of them could not object that the delivery was unauthorized because she did not receive her share. Cooper v. Marek (Cliv. App.) 166 S. W. 58.

Where the owners of a town site conveyed it to trustees, to be represented by 1,000 shares to be sold by the trustees for the benefit of the owners and their associates, the purchasers to form a joint-stock company to continue the enterprise, the fact that the trustees conveyed the land to the directors of the joint-stock company did not preclude

Where town-site owners conveyed to trustees certificates to be issued to represent the land, and sold for the owners, purchasers to form a joint-stock company, that the trustees conveyed to the directors of the company did not preclude their further sale of certificates. Tuscola Land Co. v. Galveston City Co. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 489, certified questions answered by Supreme Court 167 S. W. 716, 116 Tex. 389.

A deed of trust held to give the trustees power to organize a corporation to develop and hold the trust land, and as incidental thereto agree that the issuance of preference stock should have a right to demand redemption of same in land. Rowan v. Texas Orchard Development Co. (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 871.

A power whose exercise involves discretion is not delegable. Michael v. Crawford (Sup.) 138 S. W. 397.

Where grantor took under will authorizing her to convey fee-simple title, her deed, conveying whatever interest she had, conveyed the fee, although it did not refer to will. Johnson v. Kirby (Civ. App.) 138 S. W. 1674.

47. Execution of conveyance—Burden of proof and evidence.—The execution of a deed may be established by circumstantial evidence. Pipkin v. Ware (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 808.

49. Avoidance of deed.—Evidence held not to show that a contract conveying land was so unjust and inequitable as to warrant setting it aside. Versyp v. Versyp (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 165.

Where vendors took vendors' lien notes for the purchase money, and the purchaser, after living upon the land for two years, failed to pay anything therefore and surrendered the land to the vendors, delivering to them the deed, which had not been recorded, upon their cancellation of his notes, there was then no title in him. Williams v. McComb (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 654.

Where a deed given by several grantors is rescinded for misrepresentation, the grantors are jointly and severally liable for any sums paid by the purchasers. Hurst v. Knight (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1072.

Where defendant, who traded real property as unincumbered for machinery, thereafter discovered the lien upon the reality, plaintiff is not subsequently entitled to rescind. Hawkins v. Cook (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 624.

50. Conditions precedent.—Plaintiff was not entitled to a return of the consideration as a condition to the canceling of certain deeds executed by an insane person in the absence of proof that he had the money at the time of his death or that it had been used to purchase the necessary or been invested by or for him for the benefit of his estate and was still on hand. Brown v. Brenner (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 14.

It is a condition precedent to the recovery of title that money paid by defendant as a consideration for a former void deed be returned. Lafferty v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 379.

A grantor seeking to set aside his deed because induced by fraud need not make a formal demand for rescission, where, on discovering the fraud, he complained of it and asked to be protected by the grantee. McIndoe v. Wood (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 488.

Where a grantor of real estate, in consideration of a stock of merchandise, sought to set aside the conveyance as fraudulent, where it was shown that the money received in the sale of goods had been used to purchase other goods left in the store when returned to the grantee, the grantor did all that was required to obtain relief. id.

Where a grantee obtaining a deed by fraud paid interest on an incumbrance long after the institution of the suit by the grantor to set aside the conveyance, the sum paid was not in equity connected with a rescission, and the grantor was entitled to relief without paying that sum. id.

Where an owner of land contracted to sell the rock thereon with the right of the purchaser to erect a crusher and use the surface so long as the crusher was operated, and received a payment executed a deed on, but excepted to the fraud of the purchaser, the owner, seeking a cancellation, was not required to return the consideration, but the court could by its judgment protect the rights of the purchaser. Cearley v. May, 106 Tex. 389, 167 S. W. 725.

In action to cancel a deed on the ground of defendant's fraudulent representations as to the indebtedness on the stock of goods given in exchange, held that, as it was impossible to place the parties in statu quo, judgment was properly rendered for defendant. Paschal v. Hudson (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 911.

Where a wife sought to recover a homestead conveyed by her insane husband, held that, under the pleadings, she could recover without tendering a return of the consideration. Rowan v. Hodges (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 847.

A plaintiff who seeks recovery of part land sold by one assuming to be her guardian cannot, as a condition precedent to recovery, be required to refund purchase money which her assumed guardian paid for her support. Hamer v. Sanford (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 343.

In suit to cancel a deed of land given in exchange for land, plaintiff, who had nothing to do with the deed and defendant, and under party and heretics, and who had never been in possession of note given by such party to defendant, would not be denied a rescission because he did not offer to return such note to defendants. Pitt v. Gilbert (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1157.

52. Failure of consideration.—Where one takes by a quitclaim deed, taking only the chance of title and not the land itself, he cannot on failure of title, recover money paid. Baldwin v. Drew (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 614.

In suit to quiet title, party to whom one-half interest in land was conveyed in consideration of his acting as defendant and attorney for an owner to recover it, though he failed to perform the services, could recover against the grantees of the purchaser at judicial sale of the property under a judgment of which satisfactory proof was not made. Brady v. Cope (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 678.

Where a party who undertook, in consideration of a conveyance of a half interest in land sold under judicial sale, to act as agent and attorney for an owner in recovering it failed to perform the agreed services, the owner or those in privity with her could rescind the conveyance of the half interest. id.
53. — Mistake.—Where the mutual mistake of a vendor and purchaser did not constitute a material inducement to the purchase, the mistake did not justify the setting aside of the deed. Camp v. Smith (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 22.

54. — Duress.—Deception by a husband in inducing his wife to sign a deed, by false statements as to threats made against him by his creditors, is not duress which he and she may set up to invalidate the deed as against such creditors. Burnett v. Continental Bank of Alto (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 172.

In action to obtain possession of property under a deed, the defense being duress in the execution of the deed, evidence held to support special finding of jury that there was no duress. Id.

55. — Fraud.—Evidence in a suit to rescind an exchange of property held sufficient to support a finding that defendant's representations that the title to the land to be conveyed to plaintiff was unencumbered, except for a $500 mortgage, were fraudulently made. Willingham v. Geitzenauer (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 376.

One exchanging his stock of merchandise for real estate, who, to induce the exchange, represented that there were no debts against the stock, saying nothing about numerous debts against it, was guilty of concealing facts constituting fraud, authorizing a rescission at the suit of the owner of the real estate. McIndoo v. Wood (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 485.

One exchanging his real estate for a stock of merchandise, who seeks a cancellation of the transaction within two days of the discovery of the fraud of the adverse party, action for rescission held insufficient. Id.

The purchasers of land are entitled to a cancellation of the deed and rescission of the contract on account of misrepresentations as to the title of the vendor, even though they have received a warranty deed and there has been no eviction by paramount title. Hurst v. Hight (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1972.

Where the false representations of a vendor did not constitute a material inducement to the purchaser, nor influence him at the time of the purchase, the representations did not justify the setting aside of the deed. Camp v. Smith (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 22.

Where several grantors was not entitled to object, as against the grantee, that she had been misinformed as to her liability on a mortgage on the land unless she was deceived and misled by the grantee. Cooper v. Marek (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 58.

A conveyance in fee on the promise of the grantor that he would execute a written agreement to recover when his use of the premises had terminated, which he did not at the time intend to perform, was procured by fraud warranting the cancellation of the conveyance. Cearley v. May, 167 S. W. 725, 166 Tex. 442.

Defendant, in an action to cancel a deed on the ground of fraud, cannot plead plaintiff's fraud to defeat a recovery. Paschal v. Hudson (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 911.

Where, on exchange of property, defendant neither made nor authorized false representations and the exchange resulted from negotiations between her and plaintiff, misrepresentations of her husband held not to justify rescission. Kirkland v. Rutherford (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1081.

In suit to rescind exchange for fraud, evidence that plaintiff was deceived held insufficient, where jury found that defendant neither made nor authorized any false representations. Id.

Under the evidence, in an action to cancel a deed for fraudulent representations, held, that the court did not err in failing to render judgment for defendant. Orient Land Co. v. Keele (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 939.

Plaintiff held entitled to have a conveyance of land canceled on the ground of fraud. Cook v. Hardin (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 633.

A positive representation as to the condition of land exchanged, though expressly made with intent to deceive the other party, is not conclusive as to what the other party may afterward learn upon due inquiry. Holmes v. Allbritton (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 635.

A general grant of land, accompanied by no reservations or conditions, is sufficient to authorize the conveyance of the land.軍. v. Baker (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1081.

An untrue material representation of the condition and value of land exchanged, stated upon information, warrant rescission where the party making it affirms the truthfulness of the information. Maddox v. Clark (Sup.) 175 S. W. 1053, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 309.

A misrepresentation by grantee's attorney to the grantor as to the legal effect of a deed of trust held sufficient to avoid the deed for fraud. Holt v. Gordon (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 902.

In a suit to cancel a deed, evidence held insufficient to show that defendants made the misrepresentations relied upon. Cleveland v. Stanley (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1151.

Vendor of land, taking in payment note executed to purchaser and indorsed without recourse, the mortgage security of which was worthless, as known to the purchaser, and was concealed from the vendor, held entitled to cancellation of the deed. Bullock v. Crutchler (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 946.

Where defendant materially misrepresented the character of his land, and plaintiff believed and relied thereon, and would not have contracted for the exchange of lands but for them, the representations were ground for rescission in equity. Kincaid v. Tant (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1103.

The owner of lands in Texas, induced to exchange them for lands in Mexico by misrepresentations of the owner and his agent that such lands in Mexico were good and smooth, and a cause of action to rescind the contract for fraud. Benham v. Tipton (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 510.

In a suit to rescind an exchange of lands as induced by defendant owner's false representations, evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that defendant and his agent made positive misrepresentations of fact. Id.
Where the owner of Mexican lands, proposing to exchange them, recklessly stated to the other owner of the truth or falsity of his statement, that his Mexican lands were good and valuable, which was not the case, the representation was such as to support a suit for rescission of the exchange for fraud. Id.

Misrepresentations by the owner of Mexican lands through one to whom he referred was procured by the other owner of Mexican lands proposing to exchange held such as to support a suit for rescission of the contract. Id.

Grantee’s fraudulent promise to pay $700, upon delivery of deed with intent not to make such payment, such fraudulent promise as authorizing cancellation of deed, although other promises constituting considerations were performed. Wyatt v. Chambers (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 16.

Evidence held to sustain findings that defendant fraudulently induced plaintiff husband to surrender deed to property owned by wife in exchange for stock of goods. King v. Diffey (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 262.

To pass title to lands the conveyance must be in writing and a delivery made with the grantor, and a deed obtained by fraud is wholly insufficient to pass title. Id.

To pass title to lands the conveyance must be delivered with the grantor’s consent, and a deed obtained by fraud does not pass title. Id.

A deed cannot be canceled for fraud where defendant paid more than the land would otherwise bring in bulk, irrespective of what representations regarding its value he made, and although he sold small tracts thereof for higher prices. Barker v. Ash (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 465.

56. — Undue influence.—Evidence held to show that a deed was procured by undue influence. Holt v. Guerguin (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 581, judgment reversed 186 Tex. 185, 183 S. W. 10, 50 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1136.

57. — Mental incapacity.—Evidence held to show that one making a deed did not possess sufficient mental capacity. Holt v. Guerguin (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 581, judgment reversed 196 Tex. 185, 183 S. W. 10, 50 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1138.

The document is not void but only voidable, since it may have been executed during a lucid interval, or ratified on the incompetent’s regaining sanity. Porter v. Brooks (Civ. App.) 199 S. W. 192.

One merely in privity of estate with an alleged insane grantor, who was the common source of title, could not attack such grantor’s deed for alleged incapacity. Id.

Widow and sole heir of insane person held to have ratified his exchange of lands by dealing with the property received after his death, or changing its status with full knowledge of the material facts and circumstances. Smith v. Guerre (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 417.

In an action to set aside a deed and a judgment confirming it, evidence held to warrant the jury in finding that the grantor was insane when he made the conveyance and at the time the judgment was rendered, and that the grantee had knowledge of such insanity. Pyle v. Pyle (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 486.

Neither old age, sickness, nor distress in mind or body incapacitates a grantor, who has possession of his mental faculties and understands the transaction in which he is engaged. Crow v. Childress (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 927.

In a suit to set aside a deed on the ground that the grantor had not sufficient mental capacity, a verdict for plaintiffs held contrary to the great weight and preponderance of the evidence. Id.

Evidence held insufficient to support a finding that a grantor was mentally incompetent when executing a deed. Milner v. Sims (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 784.

Each case pertaining to mental disability must be decided by its own circumstances. Johnson v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 386.

In order to avoid a deed executed by deceased to defendants, it would not be necessary to show that the grantor was insane, or in such a state of imbecility as to render her entirely incapable of executing a valid deed. Id.

60. Necessity and requisites of delivery and acceptance.—The mere placing of a deed in which a corporation is named as grantee in the custody of one of its officers is not a delivery; the question of a delivery being one of intention. Rushing v. Citizens’ Nat. Bank of Plainview (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 499.

The recordation of a deed by the notary with whom it was left held not a delivery. Cox v. Payne (Sup.) 174 S. W. 517, affirming Judgment (Civ. App.) Payne v. Cox, 143 S. W. 326.

“Delivery” ordinarily implies acceptance, but a mere transfer of manual possession of a deed for examination is no more than a tender. Cappa v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 109 S. W. 137.

Acceptance of deed by purchaser of land at the time of execution and delivery of contract of sale held a delivery and acceptance, conditioned on the existence of a merchantable title to the land. Id.

Where the grantor executed a deed and filed it for record, and the following day mailed it to the grantee, with a letter clearly showing that he intended it as a gift to her, in contemplation of his death, there was sufficient delivery to make the deed effective. Taylor v. Sanford (Sup.) 193 S. W. 661.

A gift of deed to property which imposed on the grantee the assumption of the payment of notes against the property, and her conveyance of other property to the grantor, requires an acceptance by the grantee. Id.

Where the grantee of a deed of gift accepted the deed as soon as she learned of it, such acceptance was sufficient, although the grantor had disposed of the grantee before the acceptance. Id.

Where a deed is disposed of by the grantor so as to clearly evince an intention that it shall have effect as a conveyance, there is a sufficient delivery. Id.

The fact that the grantor had power to recall a deed from the mail in which he had placed it, addressed to the grantee and thereby prevent its physical delivery to her, does not prevent mailing the deed with intention to give it immediate effect from being a delivery. Id.

Delivery of a deed is a symbolic delivery of possession of the property conveyed. Hall v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 674.
Evidence of delivery.—Evidence held not to show whether a provision of the instrument was not to occur until death, or to the property conveyed or to the deed. Stevens v. Halle (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1055.

Evidence in trespass to try title held to show a sufficient delivery of a deed under which one of the parties claimed. Id.

Delivery of a deed may be established by circumstantial evidence. Pipkin v. Ware (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 808.

Evidence held to require a finding that a deed was not delivered to and accepted by the purchaser with intent to transfer title. Cappa v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 107.

In a suit to cancel deeds, evidence held to show that the plaintiff wife never consented to delivery of deeds by her husband under materially different terms than those he had previously assented to. King v. Diffee (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 262. See, also, Vann v. George (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 585.

Redelivery, effect of.—Where a deed had become effective by delivery, retaining possession thereof by the grantor, before it reached the possession of the grantee, would not defeat it. Taylor v. Sanford (Sup.) 193 S. W. 661.

68. Escrows, requisites of, in general.—Before an instrument can become an escrow, the contracting parties must actually agree thereto, and an agreement between the grantor as to the distribution of the purchase price was not binding on the grantee, who was not a party thereto. Cooper v. Marek (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 58.

A deed delivered by the grantor to his agent with specific instructions as to delivery to the grantee is not in escrow while in the hands of the agent. Tyler Building & Loan Ass'n v. Baird & Scales, 171 S. W. 1122, 106 Tex. 554, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 542. Rehearing denied 171 S. W. 1200, 106 Tex. 554.

Wrongful delivery by depositary.—Where one, in whose possession plaintiff placed a deed for safe-keeping, and for delivery after plaintiff's death, as the instrument to convey the land, fraudulently delivered the deed before the goods were inspected, plaintiff was not bound by the deed holder's acts and the delivery was not effective to pass title. Tyler Building & Loan Ass'n v. Baird & Scales (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 542.

Where a bankrupt delivered a deed in escrow to be delivered on condition he secured a discharge and had no further trouble with his creditors, the condition held to apply to creditors then existing. Burnett v. Continental State Bank of Alto (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 175.

If husband and wife, delivering their deed in escrow on conditions, are notified by the depositary before delivery of the deed and make no objection, they thereby waive any nonperformance of the conditions. Id.

Operation of conveyance in general.—Conveyance of interest in land acquired under a contract for a contingent fee, made to defendant company in aid of litigation upon the express understanding that it should not affect his interest and that it would be re-conveyed, held not to defeat the attorney of his interest therein. Phenix Land Co. v. Exall (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 374.

A deed will not pass title to a grantee not in existence. William Cameron & Co. v. Trueheart (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 58.

The court, if possible, must give effect to the intention of maker of a deed, if it appears that it was the grantor's intention that it should take effect on his death, provided that such intention must be gathered from the face of the instrument. Emerson v. Pate (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 469; Same v. Rice (Civ. App.) Id. 471.

No interest in land could be predicated on forged deeds. Green v. Eddins (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 196.

Property or estate conveyed.—Under a deed of certain timber by fee owner to T. with provision if not removed within six years to "revert to us," and a later deed to B. in fee, timber sold to E., held, that on default of T. title to timber reverted to original owner, and at expiration of six years did not become part of B.'s fee. Lewis v. Bennett (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 233.

Art. 1105. [626] [550] Conveyance of the greater estate passes the less.

Cited, Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. Ainsworth (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 614.

Merger.—"Merger" is where a greater or less estate coincide in the same person, in the same right, without any intermediate estate. Smith v. Cooley (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1069.

Art. 1106. [627] [551] An estate deemed a fee simple, when.

Easement or interests created goods easement or a title had only an undivided interest, the grantee taking possession could assert only the rights of a tenant in common; but his right to retain possession could not be made dependent on payment of the entire value of the land. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Brandenburg (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 170.

Where testator devised his community interest to his wife for life, with gift over to his children, a conveyance by the wife vested in the grantee an undivided interest and made him a tenant in common with the children. Id.

A vested estate is an interest clothed with a present, legal, and existing right of alienation. Anderson v. Menefee (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 984.

A deed of a stated number of acres in a certain survey, in which the grantor has several tracts, embracing more acres, conveys an undivided interest. Waterhouse v. Gal-lup (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 773.

A grante can acquire no greater title to land than her grantor possessed. Gibson v. Carroll (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 639.
A purchaser of land from one cotenant without consent of others obtains only the undivided interest of the grantor. Ex parte Pearson (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 855.

Every part of a deed must be given effect, if possible, and, when all of the parts are harmonized, the largest estate that its terms will permit will be conferred upon the grantee. Standefer v. Miller (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1149.

A deed was received from the said trustees by a certain deed held to bind the grantor to convey the same character of title as that possessed by the trustees. Pridgen v. Cook (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 715.

A deed will be construed to give the largest estate under the terms of the grant. Arden v. Boone (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 595.

Where intended grantee could be ascertained, a conveyance by him carried not only equitable, but legal title, though the deed to grantee contained extra initial. Knox v. Grundy (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 334.

A power of attorney authorizing grantee to litigate or compromise the grantor’s title to certain land and conveying an undivided one-half interest therein, creates a tenancy in common. Rogers v. White (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1061.

Fee simple.—A provision in a deed to grantor’s son, reserving to grantor the right to control the land as “guardian of said estate for the benefit” of his own, gave grantor no more rights over the property than he had as the natural guardian of his son, so that the fee-simple title passed to the son free from any trust. Vineyard v. Heard (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 22.

Where a right of way is conveyed by deed, the fee remains in the owner of the land. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Temple Northwestern Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1072.

A fee may pass by deed upon a condition subsequent, subject to the contingency of being defeated according to the intent. Texas Co. v. Daugherty (Sup.) 176 S. W. 717, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 129.

Life estates.—A written agreement made as part of the same transaction and involving the execution and delivery of a deed, will be construed with the deed, and may be supplemental to its terms. St. Louis v. Stanley (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1131.

Vested remainder.—A remainder is vested, if at every moment during its continuance, it is ready to come into possession whenever and however the preceding estates determine. Anderson v. Menefee (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 594.

A remainder is contingent if, in order for it to come into possession, the fulfillment of some condition precedent other than the determination of the preceding estates is necessary. Id.

Limitation to heirs, issue, etc.—In construing deeds, the intention of the grantor as to whether he took the fee or merely a life estate, with remainder to his heirs, will prevail, if such intention is manifest from the language of the deed, though there may be words which, if used unrestrictedly, would bring the conveyance within the rule in Shelley’s Case. Hughes v. Titterington (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 45.

Where the Legislature, prior to the execution of a deed, had abolished the statute providing for forced heirs, a recital in the deed of a grant to one and her forced heirs must be treated as a grant to one and her heirs; the word “forced” being disregarded as surplusage. Id.

A deed held to carry to the grantee a fee; the rule in Shelley’s Case being operative. Id.

Conditional limitations.—Where B. conveyed land to a county for school purposes, subject to a conditional limitation for reversion, the deed of an adverse claimant to B. raising the question of the validity of the deed of B. to the county held not to destroy the conditional limitation. Stewart v. Blain (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 928.

Provision, in a deed conveying property to a county judge for the erection of a schoolhouse for colored children, that in the event of the removal of the schoolhouse the land should revert, held to be a condition subsequent, subject to the county ceasing to use the property for colored school purposes the land reverted to the grantor or his heirs. Id.

A conditional limitation differs from a condition subsequent, in that the former terminates the estate on the happening of the event, while the latter designates a happening which gives the grantor or his heirs, if mentioned, a right to terminate the estate. Daggett v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 222.

Exceptions and reservations.—Where land was conveyed to a county for colored school purposes, subject to a provision for reversion in case the schoolhouse was removed, and the county subsequently abandoned the land for school purposes and sold it to another, such acts amounted to a removal of the schoolhouse within the terms of the limitation, though the building in part remained on the land. Stewart v. Blain (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 928.

Under this article, where grantors executed a deed to their daughter containing a clause that they should hold possession until their death, such clause did not constitute a reservation of any estate in the grantors but a mere homestead right of occupancy. Emerson v. Pate (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 469; Same v. Rice (Civ. App.) Id. 471.

The way of necessity reserved to a vendor who sells land surrounding other land which he retains, and to which he can have access only through the granted premises, cannot be looked upon a benefit of subsequent title to the vendor, whom he sold the inaccessible tract. Bowington v. Williams (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 719.

Where a certain acreage is conveyed with stipulation that grantees should keep open a passageway on the roadway, it being necessary to make the full acreage conveyed, stipulation should be construed as reservation of an easement, and not as an exception of an open lane. Arden v. Boone (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 595.

In suit to enjoin interference with use of road by plaintiff, who had sold defendant the land adjoining right to cross it to have access to “public roads,” evidence held insufficient to show that stipulation was placed in deed to insure plaintiff right to use...
private road running west across defendant's ranch, formerly used as convenient route to plaintiff's farm. (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 229.

Conditions and restrictions.—A grantor may incorporate such restrictions in his deed to the land as are not against public policy. Co-operative Vineyards Co. v. Ft. Stockton Irrigated Lands Co. (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1191.

A deed whereby a grantee assumes the debts of the grantor is a divisible contract, and the grantor may only recover damages from the payment by him of any debt the grantee fails to pay. Closner v. Chapin (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 370.

A deed whereby the grantor for a nominal sum and the grantee's assumption of the grantor's debts conveyed land and a contingency by which the grantee bind themselves to pay the debts, when construed together, vest in the grantee the property, and the agreement to pay debts is a covenant and not a condition. Id.

Where a deed conveys only an easement and not the fee, the right to maintain an action for breach of a condition subsequent is not limited to the grantor or his heirs, but may extend to the assignee of the grantor. Stevens v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 644.

A condition subsequent, providing for forfeiture in case the land should cease wholly to be used for railroad purposes, the condition, construed against the forfeiture, is not violated by the leasing of a part of the premises to be occupied by a rock crusher. Id.

Where property is conveyed upon condition subsequent, the title remains unimpaired even after breach, unless forfeited by the grantor or his heirs; the right to forfeit not being one which the grantor can convey. Id.

Where the grantor, who had conveyed land upon a condition subsequent, requiring continuous performance, thereafter quitclaimed all his interest in such land to another, the land is freed from the condition. Id.

Condition in restraint of alienation of a fee-simple estate for the grantee's lifetime held void. Thetford & Co. v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 591.

The contract in a deed to convey for the money consideration paid on failure of the grantee to drill a well, stipulated as part consideration, is not wanting in mutuality. Citizens' Water Co. v. McGinley (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 457.

The law implies a reasonable time for drilling a well, by a deed agreed to be done as part of the consideration. Id.

An estate held on condition subsequent is defeated when the condition is broken and the grantor makes entry with intent to forfeit the grant; the estate thereby being reinstated in him, so that thereafter he may convey to another. Id.

Under a provision of a deed, the grantee failing in a reasonable time to drill the well stipulated as part of the consideration, held, that the grantor was entitled to a reconveyance on tender of the money paid. Id.

To create a condition subsequent the language of a deed must be clear, and the condition must be created by express terms or clear implication; and, where the language is ambiguous, it will be construed to create a covenant, rather than a condition. Duggan v. Ch. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 323.

A deed held to convey the property on condition subsequent that a school building be erected thereon and the premises be used for school purposes. Id.

A condition subsequent for particular use in order to enhance the value of grantor's adjoining property will not be construed to continue after the use ceases to be of benefit to the adjoining property, where the duration is not specified. Id.

A condition subsequent requiring the use of the premises for free school purposes held not shown to have been breached by a discontinuance of the school. Id.

Where a deed retained a lien and declared it did not become absolute until full performance by vendee, the vendor held entitled to possession under unimpaired title, where the vendees repudiated the conditions. Imperial Sugar Co. v. Cabell (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 81.

An agreement in a deed whereby vendees were to raise sugar cane and sell it to the vendor held a condition, and not a covenant. Id.

A deed providing that title should pass to the vendee only upon condition of full performance of the contract is not ineffectual because partly based upon a sale of personal property. Id.

Deed conveying land to town trustees for purpose of building academy held not to make application of proceeds of sale to such purpose, a condition precedent to the vesting of title in the trustees. Joyce v. City of Mt. Vernon (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 626.

Art. 1107. [628] [552] Form of conveyance.

4. Deed or executory contract.—Instrument construed and held a present conveyance and not an executory contract to convey. Porterfield v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 783.

5. Deed, mortgage, or conditional sale.—That an instrument is an absolute deed in form would not prevent a showing that it was intended as a mortgage; the test being whether the relation of debtor and creditor existed between the parties after the execution of the instrument. Mitchell v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 886.

Where the intent of parties to a transfer purporting on its face to be a deed, was that title should pass, with the privilege of repurchase instead of providing security for his debt, the transfer was not a mortgage. Flynn v. J. M. Radford Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 902.

A judgment creditor's attorney purchased land on an execution sale which he conveyed to a grantee, who paid the judgment debts with the understanding that such grantee would, when reimbursed, return the judgment debtor whatever his outlay. Held, the attorney's deed was in effect a mortgage. Alexander v. Conley (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 554.

6. Evidence.—Where the parties to an instrument purporting to be a deed agree that the land was grantor's homestead, and that the transaction was really intended as evidence that the instrument was an absolute conveyance will not overcome the admission of the grantee. Kellner v. Randle (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 509.

In an action to cancel a deed on the ground that it was intended as a mortgage and conveyed the homestead property, evidence held to sustain a finding that the conveyance was intended as a mortgage, and not as a conditional sale. Mitchell v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 832.

In trespass to try title to land conveyed by defendant to plaintiffs' father by a deed which defendant claimed was given to secure a debt, evidence held insufficient to support a verdict for plaintiffs. Yates v. Caswell (Civ. App.) 169 S. 1104.

Where it appears that when deed was drawn it agreed that it was to secure a debt was undisputed, and he was not impeached, the jury could not disregard such evidence. Id.

Evidence held to sustain a finding that a deed by a husband and wife, though absolute in form, was intended as a mortgage. Cox v. Kearby (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 731.

In widow's action to cancel warranty deed conveying land out of homestead tract and the grantee's deed thereof to defendant, evidence held to show that the first deed was given his security of a day. Bailey v. Bailey (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 264.

Inadequacy of consideration for an absolute deed, taken alone, is insufficient to show that it was intended as a mortgage. De Shazo v. Eubank (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 399. Evidence held to show that a deed absolute in form was, in fact, a mortgage. Kidd v. Sparkman (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 798. See, also, Norton v. Lea (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 286.

7. Estates and interests of parties.—An "equity of redemption" is an interest in the land mortgaged which will descend to the heir of the mortgagor, who in legal contemplation continued to be the owner of the land. It is considered to be the real and beneficial estate, tantamount to the fee at law. Hawkins v. Stiles (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1011.

Where an absolute deed was given to secure a debt, the beneficial interest remained in the grantor until her equity of redemption was conveyed in writing for a valid consideration, and no other. Duggan v. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1194.

The measure of damages recoverable by the grantee in a security deed where the land was sold by the grantor, without fraud, for an amount in excess of the debt secured, held to be the consideration received, less the debt secured, with legal interest on the excess. (Nort. Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 267.

A mortgage, in a mortgage evidenced by a deed absolute on its face, holds only a right to have recourse to the property for satisfaction of his debt in case of default, and the grantee acquires no title unless he is a purchaser for value and without notice that the title has been impeached. Miller v. McLean (Civ. App.) 536 S. W. 560.

9. Quitclaim.—A deed held a conveyance of land to the full extent of the grantor's interest and not a quitclaim. Nichols v. Schmitto (Sup.) 174 S. W. 283, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) Schmitto v. Dunham, 142 S. W. 941.

Where a deed is a warranty or quitclaim deed must be determined according to whether it assumes to convey the property itself, or merely the grantor's title. To determine this the deed must be considered in its entirety. A deed, reciting that grantor bargained, sold, and quitclaimed described property, to have and to hold the premises, and that he had his real estate, is a warranty deed. Cook v. Smith (Sup.) 174 S. W. 1094, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) Smith v. Cook, 142 S. W. 26.

A deed conveying only the right, title, and interest of the grantor in land, and not the land itself, is a quitclaim deed. Baldwin v. Drew (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 614.

A deed held not a quitclaim deed, where it purported to convey the land itself, as distinguished from a transfer of the grantor's title merely. Id.

Whether a deed is a quitclaim or not depends upon the intent of the parties appearing from the face of the instrument, the use of the word "quitclaim" not being absolutely decisive. If it appears from the language of a deed that it was intended to convey the land itself, rather than such title as the grantor had, it is not a quitclaim deed. Pridgen v. Cook (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 713.

A deed undertaking to warrant or defend from all persons claiming under the grantor was a quitclaim deed. Niles v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 748.

A deed is not binding upon one who signs it but who is not named in the body of the deed as one of the grantees. Le Blanc v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 60.

The grantees in a deed must be in existence when it is executed, but a deed to the heirs of a dead person is valid if the grantees can be identified, though a deed to the heirs of a living person, without specifying their names is invalid, especially where the heirs are yet unborn. Vineyard v. Heard (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 22.

Since the grantees must be in existence, under a deed to grantor's son and to the heirs of grantor and his wife, the son would take all of the land conveyed, if grantor then had no other children. Id.

A deed, reciting that it was a conveyance by B., which was not signed by B., but was signed, after her death, by her heirs, does not convey the interest of the heirs in the premises. Jackson v. Craigien (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 1101.

Unless the heir of the grantor is named in a deed conveying on condition subsequent, he cannot re-enter, though the condition is breached. Daggett v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 222.

Where a deed with the grantee's name left blank was given to the purchaser of land with authority to fill in the name of his grantee, and several like sales were made title passed to the ultimate purchaser. Fennimore v. Ingham (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 513.

14. Construction.—In construing a deed, the intention of the parties governs, and that may be ascertained from the terms of the deed, adequacy of price, and other pertinent circumstances. Baldwin v. Drew (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 614; Hooper v. Lottman (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 270; Diffie v. White (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1066.

Where the language of a deed cannot be harmonized, from which an ambiguity arises, so that the instrument is susceptible of two constructions, the interpretation most favorable to the grantee will be adopted. Standefer v. Miller (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1449;
Title 24  CONVEYANCES  Art. 1107

The habendum clause of a purported deed, "to have and to hold the said hereby granted and described premises   forever from and after my death the delivery hereof not to occur until my death," was ambiguous as to the time of the delivery of the deed. "The delivery of the deed," etc., might have referred either to the property or the instrument. Stevens v. Halle (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1025.

The law of the state where land conveyed by deed is situated governs the obligation assumed by the grantor. Newsom v. Langford (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1058.

"Where rejection of a deed by the impossible part of a description which is repugnant to the general intention of a deed a perfect description will remain, the false part should be rejected and effect given to the deed." Griswold v. Comer (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 423.

The description in a deed need not state in what survey the land is situated, if it otherwise identifies it. Hinkle v. Hays (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 435.

Though the first call of a deed was imperfect, held that at the starting call, which held with the subsequent calls, the description was sufficiently certain to prevent the deed from being void for uncertainty. Id.

Where a deed of trust described the property as 160 acres known as the J. H. Homestead survey, that description was not so vague as to render the deed of trust invalid as against one not a bona fide purchaser. Rushing v. Citizens' Nat. Bank of Plainview (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 460.

That a description in a deed does not entirely inclose the land will not invalidate the deed, where it otherwise sufficiently identifies the land. Randolph v. Lewis (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 847.

A description in a deed held to be sufficiently certain under the maxim that "that is certain which can be made certain" to make the deed admissible in evidence. Roberts v. Hart (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 773.

Where the plaintiff, in addition to the ordinary count of trespass to try title, prayed for the return of her deed, which, while reciting a conveyance of 180 acres, described only 80, it was improper for the court to direct a verdict in her favor on the ground that the deed and its conveyance of 180 acres, for a particular description will govern a general one. Johnson v. Conger (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 405.

The deed of a grantee of 100 acres of land to be selected out of a larger tract undertaking to convey a particular part of a 100 acre tract established that the selection had been made. Hermann v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 1037.

If the land intended to be conveyed was inaccurately described, that it appears by the deed that the identity of the land is altogether uncertain, the court should pronounce the deed void. In this case evidence to identify the land described held sufficient to support a finding identifying the tract as the land in controversy. Young v. Gharis (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 796.

Where a deed specially excepted "D's 1½-acre tract, by reference and by description, the grantee and his successor in interest acquired no interest in the excepted tract, though the deed to D. described it as "1.5 acres." Gilmore v. O'll (Sup.) 173 S. W. 203, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 1162.

Where a conveyance of lots is made with reference to a map, it is immaterial who made the map or whether it is recorded or whether a copy can be produced, if the location can be proven with reference to streets, etc., by any method recognized by law. Spencer v. Levy (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 550.

A deed conveyed all the grantor's interest as heir in lands in S. county, as well as in H. county. Holman v. Houston Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 885.

A deed of "8½ acres,   part of the H. league,   the same to be an undivided interest in said league," conveys the grantor's undivided interest of that number in the east half of the league; he owning nothing in the west half. Id.

A deed, whether the sale be judicious or voluntary, is not void for uncertainty unless on its face the description cannot, by extrinsic evidence, be made to apply to any definite land. The only uncertainty in the description in a deed being in an attempted exception, the exception fails, and not the grant. Waterhouse v. Gallup (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 773.

Deed conveying only the unsold part of a survey, less 80 acres mentioned therein, without evidence as to what, if any, part of the survey had been previously sold, held to identify the land thereof involved in the grantee's action of trespass to try title. Brown v. Foster Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 787.

Where 200 acres of land were conveyed without a definite description, the mere platting of the land and setting aside of a certain block as containing such 200 acres held not to give title thereto, where it contains more than the quantity sold. Ware v. Perkins (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 846.

Where a conveyance referred to a recorded map for description, such map and metes and bounds of the lot as described thereon are a part of the instrument. Gibson v. Carroll (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 630.

A deed to a tract of land comprising 400 acres more or less, but reciting that it covered the unsold portion of a 3,000-acre tract, and a deed to 1,000 acres, alleged to cover the land conveyed by the equitable grantee thereof to cover a 320-acre tract which the owner had previously attempted to convey by an invalid deed, where it clearly appeared that there was no attempt to include such tract in these deeds. Ayers v. Snowball (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 627.

Where the ambiguity in a deed as to the land conveyed is patent, and so inconsistent and contradictory that the deed is ineptive, no land passes by it, unless the deed is corrected to conform to the actual agreement of the parties. Where a general description of land is superseded or the conveyance is inconsistent, unless the particular locative calls identifying the land, such deed should be construed most favorably to the grantee. Standefer v. Miller (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1149.

Where the description of the property in a deed contains false matter, without which the deed is insufficient to identify the property conveyed, such false matter will be rejected and effect given to what remains. Id.
Where a deed, following the field notes, calling for the length of the lines east and west and running north and south, and the fourth line of the intention of the parties was "to convey said amount of land," such recital did not refer alone to the quantity of the land conveyed, first mentioned in the deed. 1d.

A deed of land would not be treated as void for want of a sufficient description, unless more than the land be located by indicating the deed and referring to the muniments or evidences to which it expressly or impliedly refers. The office of the description in a deed is not to identify the land, but to furnish means of identification. Deed, containing 430 acres of land, describing "the north line of the tract, containing 382 acres after northwestern and southwestern corners, amounting to 433 acres, had been conveyed, held to convey a square conforming to the north and east boundary lines of the parcel, and, in connection with the field notes, its form and area, to be sufficient as a deed as Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 194.

Deeds through which plaintiff in a suit to recover land alleged to have been conveyed, referred to map and described land, having been actually located and surveyed on the ground, King v. Lane (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 972.

Where a deed fails to properly describe the land conveyed, it may be corrected by the grantor giving a correction deed properly describing the property. Hodges v. Moore (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 415.

The exception of land required to make the full acreage conveyed under general warranty deed will be rejected as repugnant to the grant. Arden v. Boone (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 895.

Where there is no suggestion that calls for courses and distances given in a deed are not correct, the deed conveys all the land embraced within its terms, though it is more than the amount stated in the deed and intended to be conveyed. Seureau v. Frazer (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1003.

A deed conveying to a place "known as the place built on by Thos. Davis and lastly occupied by G. N. Breckenridge" was not void for uncertainty as the land might be identified by extrinsic evidence. Petty v. Wilkins (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 531.

Error in description of land in deed held not to prevent a good marketable title; the deed referring to the recorded deed to the grantor for full description. Nelson v. Butler (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 811.

Deed conveying certain number of acres from larger survey, though grant restricts interest of grantee to certain part, makes grantee tenant in common with owner of larger tract; grantor's interest being represented by denominator is number of acres in larger tract, and numerator is number of acres conveyed. Whitfield v. La Grone (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 1169.

16. Appurtenances and easements.—An easement over the land of another may be acquired where it is necessary for the use of the owner's land. Where an owner of land verbally reserved a way over the land conveyed so as to have access to a parcel retained, the right is personal to him, and cannot inure to the benefit of subsequent grantees to whom he conveyed his remaining parcel. Bowington v. Williams (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 719.

A conveyance of a city lot with reference to a map of the city addition was a conveyance of all the appurtenances ascertainable by the map. Spencer v. Levy (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 560.

Where a vendor of land agrees with the purchaser that it is bounded by a street or alley and so describes it in the deed, such purchaser, as against the vendor and those taking with notice, has an easement in the property represented as a street or alley. Pettit v. A. A. Antony & Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 647.

Laws 1854 (Gammel's Laws Tex., vol. 9, pp. 600–602), providing for a right of way across land surrounding the land of another, held not to apply to plaintiff's tract bounded on three sides by a river and on a fourth by a land of defendant. Anderson v. Engler (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 359.

An easement by way of necessity arises where owner of land sells part thereof, and it is necessary to pass over land sold to reach that which he has retained. Use of stairway in new adjoining building for access to existing building in place of former outside stairway held not necessary to use of upper story of original building, so that grantee took no right of use. Callan v. Walters (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 829.

Easement in favor of grantee held to have arisen by implication of law where part of a tract was conveyed and there was an apparently permanent and obvious alleyway reasonably necessary thereto. Miles v. Bodenheim (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 693.

Where company operating cotton seed oil plant executed deed of trust on property situated in town, seedhouse located in county a number of miles away on land of party who contracted to buy cotton seed from company did not pass company's title to company's property in town. Balcar v. Lee County Cotton Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1094.

17. - Crops and timber.—Whether nursery stock, prima facie a part of the realty, is subject to the lien of a mortgagee of the land depends upon the intention of the parties at the time the mortgage was executed. Colonial Land & Loan Co. v. Joplin (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 537.

Crops grown on mortgaged land are personalty of the mortgagor, and not subject to the mortgage. 1d.

Where parties to a mortgage of lands of a nursery company contemplated that the company might sell the nursery stock without accounting for proceeds, which was done, it was the intention that the stock be regarded as personalty, not subject to the mortgage. 1d.

18. - Fixtures.—Contract between mortgagor and mortgagee of personal property that same shall not become fixture upon attachment to realty held valid between parties. Phillips v. Newsome (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1123.

Stationary engine, bolted to concrete bed prepared therefor and attached by its shaft to the building, held a fixture, title to which passed to the purchaser. 1d.
Art. 1108. [629] [553] Other forms and clauses valid.

Covenants in general.—The usual covenants of warranty appearing in a deed apply only to the title conveyed, and do not guarantee the quantity of land. Holland v. Ashley (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1035.

A general covenant of warranty does not include a warranty of the quantity of land conveyed, unless the property is sold by the acre and the quantity warranted. Brown v. Yoakum (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 293.

The sale of lots by a townsite company, with statement that railway would build its depot opposite the lots, held not a contractual obligation in the nature of a covenant to erect the depot. Ore City Co. v. Rogers (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 236.

Wherein full covenants of warranty, exceptions, conditions, or reservations inconsistent therewith are of no effect. Jung v. Petermann (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 202.

Covenants running with the land.—A covenant by a purchaser in a contract for the sale of land to erect a street railroad around the life of the purchaser's franchise was a covenant running with the land. Arlington Heights Realty Co. v. Citizens' Ry. & Light Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1109.

Persons liable.—One furnishing money to a vendee to purchase land on notes executed by the vendor not a party to such person is not a warrantor of the title nor of the quantity of the land conveyed. Roberts v. Prather (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 789.

A covenant restricting the use of lots which were part of a tract divided and sold for residence purposes may be enforced against a grantee of an original purchaser, where he bought with actual or constructive knowledge of the purpose of the covenant to benefit all of the lots. Hooper v. Lottman (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 270.

Persons entitled to enforce covenants.—Where the county opened up a road on land purchased by plaintiff, after he had sold it, any right of action existing on warranties in plaintiff's deed and violated by the opening up of the road was not held by plaintiff. Bonzer v. Garrett (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 934.

That a purchaser could have ascertained the defects in a title, or even that he had knowledge thereof, is no defense to an action by him upon the covenant of warranty. Coleman v. Luetcke (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1117.

Where the owner of land, intended to be sold for residence purposes, imposed restrictive covenants, calculated to preserve the residential character of the property, in the deeds to the several grantees, the restriction is for the benefit of all of the lots, and individual grantees may enforce the covenant restricting the building of structures upon lots in a residence subdivision varied does not show that the covenants were not imposed pursuant to a general scheme to make the locality more attractive, and will not prevent an individual purchaser from enforcing the same. Hooper v. Lottman (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 270.

That a covenant, restricting the use of lots in a residence subdivision, was omitted in conveyances of land to a water company will not prevent other grantees from enforcing the covenant; the furnishing of water to persons living in the district being a necessity, and the necessary use of land by a water company being inconsistent with covenants applicable to residence property. Id.

Whether a person not a party to a restrictive covenant may enforce it depends upon the intention of the parties making the covenant. Id.

Performance or breach.—Where a vendor of land, subject to certain vendor's lien notes which the purchaser agreed to assume, falsely represented that the interest on such notes was paid to a certain date, the purchaser could sue for damages for the fraud and deceit and was not held to an action for breach of warranty. Jones v. Montgomery (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1083.

The bringing of a suit by the grantee under a warranty deed to quiet title against one claiming a superior title is not an invitation to assert the inferior title which will bar any right to recover upon the warranty. Coleman v. Luetcke (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1117.

While the mere existence of a superior title will not support a recovery upon a warranty deed, where of ore is a supersede that assertion of not required to make a useless resistance thereto, but may resort to his warranty. Id.

Where there was a breach of warranty in a contract of sale before the delivery of the deed, the purchaser accepting the deed containing the warranty, with knowledge of the breach, could merely recover damages for the breach. Luckenbach v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 90.

An assumption by a grantee of the debts of the grantor does not give the grantor a right of action unless the grantee has refused to pay debts and the grantor has paid them or some of them. Closer v. Chapin (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 370.

Where value of land, title to which failed, or value of rest of the land sold for gross sum, or that it was of uniform value, was not shown, purchaser held not entitled to recover damages. Northcutt v. Hume (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 974.

Damages for breach.—In an action upon a warranty of title, the measure of damages is the price paid for the land, and plaintiff need not prove that the land was of the value he paid for it. Coleman v. Luetcke (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1117.

The rule that the measure of damages which a purchaser may recover is the difference between the consideration given for the land and the value thereof does not apply in cases of breach by the vendor of a warranty. Luckenbach v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 99.

Where title to part of land fails, damages bearing same proportion to the whole purchase money as the value of the part to the whole premises, estimated at the price paid, held recoverable. Northcutt v. Hume (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 974.

In cases of damages for breach of covenant of general warranty of title is market value of land conveyed to purchase that of warrantor. Wiggins v. Stephens (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 777.

Where there is only partial failure of title in violation of general warranty thereof, value of land lost to warrantor must be ascertained as the measure of damages in absence of agreed value. Id.

SUPP. VERN. S. CIV. ST. TEX. — 13 109
Art. 1108  CONVEYANCES (Title 24)

Between immediate parties, proper measure of damages for breach of covenant of general warranty of title in executed contract for sale of realty is purchaser's money paid, with interest, where there has been total failure of title, and purchaser has lost land. Id.

Art. 1110. [631] [555] Conveyance by sheriff or other officer will pass title, when.

Description of land.—A sheriff's deed description of property as one-half of survey 671, being 328½ acres in a certain county, while not void, is insufficient unless added by extrinsic evidence, where there might be other surveys of the same number in the same county, and the evidence indicates the acreage number was wrong. Leal v. Moglia (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1121.

Art. 1111. [632] [556] Estates in futuro.

Convey or will.—An instrument whereby a husband conveyed all his property to his wife and children with the right to control the property for his life held a deed, within this article, and not a will. The court, in determining whether an instrument disposing of property is a deed or will, will give effect to the intention of the maker. Low v. Low (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 690.

Art. 1112. [633] [557] Implied covenants.

Implied covenants in general.—Where the words "grant" and "convey" were used as a part of the granting clause of a deed, they implied a covenant on the part of the grantor that the land was free from incumbrances as provided by this article. Alston v. Pierson (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 1165.

Arts. 1112 and 1113 do not raise an implied warranty by the use of the words "grant and convey" in a quittance deed. Baldwin v. Drew (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 614.

In view of this article, held, a provision in a deed was not to be construed as extending time for payment of a mortgage to a third person, against which the grantors specially covenanted. Chapin v. Ford (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 494.

Art. 1113. [634] [558] Incumbrances include what.

Implied covenants.—Arts. 1112 and 1113 do not raise an implied warranty by the use of the words "grant and convey" in a quittance deed. Baldwin v. Drew (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 614.

Breach of warranty against incumbrances.—Failure of grantor to pay notes, secured by a lien on land, not assumed by grantee, is a breach of warranty against incumbrances. Neeley v. Lane (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 296.

Art. 1114. [635] [559] Conveyance of separate lands of the wife, how made.

Conveyance and contract to convey in general.—That a married woman did not know a devise embraced a particular tract, and that she treated her sisters as owners thereof, held not to transfer title to them in view of this article. Morton v. Calvin (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 429.

Under Paschal's Dig. art. 1002, authorizing a married woman to convey her separate property by joint deed of herself and husband, privily acknowledged by her, she could not execute an executory contract therefor. Blakely v. Kanaman (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 447, judgment affirmed (Sup.) 175 S. W. 674.

Under this article married woman held to have no authority to contract to convey her separate real estate, so that her contract would not be specifically enforced. Blakely v. Kanaman (Sup.) 175 S. W. 674. Affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 447.

Under this article married woman's bond for title to her separate realty, mortgage thereof, conveyance by power of attorney joined by her husband upheld, because operating as "conveyances" of her title or interest therein. Id. See, also, notes under art. 4621.

Separation.—Where a husband and wife have already separated, a conveyance intended as a provision for the wife's support will be upheld, though the property conveyed was the separate property of the husband. Versyp v. Versyp (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 165.

Wife's acknowledgment.—A deed conveying a wife's separate real estate must be duly acknowledged to be valid, under this article. King v. Driver (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 415.

A joint and mutual will executed by husband and wife pursuant to a contract between them, which gives to the survivor a life estate in their property with remainder to their daughters, need not be separately acknowledged by the wife, but declares a trust in favor of the children to become effective after the death of the survivor. Larabee v. Porter (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 356.

Only an innocent purchaser, who actually paid a valuable consideration, and received or was entitled to receive a conveyance, having no notice of any fraud, can defend a wife's suit for cancellation of her deed to the purchaser's grantor, based upon fraud practiced in securing her acknowledgment. Essex v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 399.

Art. 1115. [636] [560] Conveyance of homestead, how made.

See notes under arts. 3786 and 4621.

Conveyance and contract to convey in general.—Under this article a contract for the conveyance of a homestead cannot be specifically enforced unless the wife joined. Burnette v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 806.

Where the owners of a homestead executed a deed thereto and delivered it to another in exchange for a vendor's lien note, which was indorsed to a third person, the whole transaction being for the purpose of evading the homestead laws, the lien was invalid, and the note could be had at the suit of the holder of the note except upon the principle of estoppel. Henderson v. Wilkinson (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1046.

A contract by a wife to convey the homestead is not enforceable against her, since the property conveyed is by deed acknowledged as provided by law. Hudgins v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 659.

In view of Const. art. 16, § 50, providing that a married man shall not sell the homestead without his wife's consent, given in the manner prescribed by law, title to the homestead conveyed by the wife apart from her husband, this article so requiring. Harle v. Harle (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 674.

A wife's right in the homestead is a vested right in the land, of which she cannot be deprived, except as provided by the Constitution and statutes. Parker v. Schrimscher (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 165.

Under this article title to lots, occupied by incorporator as a business homestead, agreed by him to be transferred to the company in return for stock, which was issued, neither the affidavit by the charter nor such incorporator's wife, did not pass. McGough v. Finley (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 918.

A married woman's deed of the homestead, delivered in escrow, is valid where she does not retract before the deed is delivered by the depository. Burnett v. Continental State Bank of Alto (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 172.

Land not part of homestead.—See art. 3760 and notes.

Where a contract for the sale of land included the vendor's homestead, though his wife was not a party, specific performance will not be granted as to the land but a part of the homestead, where the plaintiff did not offer to accept a conveyance of it in compliance with the contract, for to grant specific performance of part of the land, leaving plaintiff a right of action for damages, would be making a new contract for the parties. Burnett v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 500.

The homestead exemption being limited to 200 acres, the owner of 220 acres cannot claim the whole tract, hence his conveyance of 160 acres passes good title though his wife did not join, where his homestead was upon the other half of the tract, and he had not paid on his homestead any part of 40 acres out of the quarter section conveyed. Johnson v. Conger (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 465.

When a husband has designated a homestead of 200 acres out of a larger tract, he may mortgage or convey the excess, and such conveyance passes the title, though the wife does not join. Hughes (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 320.

Disposition of proceeds.—A husband has the right to control the proceeds of the sale of a homestead and may apply them to the payment of debts. Russell v. Hamilton, 174 S. W. 705 (following) Alvord Nat. Bank v. Ferguson (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 622.

Abandonment of homestead.—A contract for the sale of a homestead belonging to husband and wife, in which the wife did not join, was void and did not thereby become valid by their ceasing to occupy the land as a home; no other homestead having been acquired. Ward v. Walker (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 320.

Where specific performance of husband's contract to convey homestead will be granted after abandonment of homestead, held, that there was no such abandonment as would justify a decree for specific performance where the wife did not know of the husband's contract, though they had moved from the homestead. Hudgins v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 659.

There can be in law no abandonment of a homestead in which the wife does not join.

Where, during a temporary removal from the homestead, a husband secretly renounces the same in a deed of trust thereon, the renunciation is not binding on the wife. A recital in the mortgage that the property mortgaged is not homestead is a declaration by him against interest on the issue of homestead. Parker v. Schrimscher (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 165.

A husband, although entitled to select the homestead, may not defeat a homestead established and vested until, in good faith, he selects another, or in good faith abandon the old one.

Insanity of wife.—Under art. 2594 and Const. art. 16, § 50, a deed of the husband during wife's insanity granting the homestead, though in consideration of debts of the community, without a showing of necessity thereof, is invalid. Priddy v. Tabor (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 111.

Separation.—A husband's sale deed to land not used as a homestead, after his wife had left him and taken up her residence on other land, held valid, though she did not join therein. Hughes v. Hughes (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 847.

Estoppel.—Where a deed given in exchange for a vendor's lien note, for the purpose of evading the homestead laws, was never recorded, and the grantor and his wife remained in possession of the property, there could be no estoppel which would authorize the foreclosure of the lien at the suit of the holder of the note. Henderson v. Wilkinson (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1045.

A homestead must be conveyed in the manner prescribed by this article, and hence the failure of the head of the family to protest against the sale of his business homestead by his general assignee will not warrant an estoppel vesting title to the property in the purchaser. McDowell v. Northcross (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 13.

Where husband and wife executed their warranty deed to secure a loan conveying part of homestead tract, and the grantee executed a deed thereof to defendant with the knowledge of the husband and wife, the surviving wife was not thereby estopped from suing to cancel both deeds and to remove the cloud from the title. Bailey v. Bailey (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 264.

Fraud and coercion.—A grantor suing to set aside a conveyance procured by the fraud of the grantee may show that the property conveyed was his homestead and so describe it when testifying. McIndoo v. Wood (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 488.

The homestead could not pass without the wife's consent, and where title to the property conveyed, untainted by fraud of any kind upon her rights, and, if the deed was delivered by her husband in fraud of her rights, she would not be precluded from asserting them against the purchaser. And where a wife signed a deed of her homestead, reciting a consideration of $2,200, and promising to convey her homestead to be used for cash, and her husband, without her knowledge or consent, delivered it for a consideration partly in notes, there was a fraud upon her rights, entitling her to rescind as against a purchaser with notice of the record, and to rescind the husband's authority to deliver on other terms of payment. Miller v. Flattery (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 553.

In a suit to set aside a conveyance of a homestead, evidence held to show that the plaintiff wife's signature was obtained by fraud. Gill v. Flynn (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 563.

Where a husband and a third party fraudulently induced the wife to deed to the third party her homestead, the wife believing that the transaction constituted a mortgage, she could have, against a purchaser of her vendor's lien note from the third party with knowledge of the facts, cancellation of the note and deed, irrespective of her return of the consideration paid her. Essex v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 399.

A deed to her homestead, signed by a wife under the coercion of her husband, is voidable so far as the avoidance touches the rights of a third person not an innocent purchaser for value. Id.

Easements and incumbrances.—A covenant in a mortgage executed by a husband alone that the premises are not the homestead is not binding on the wife. Parker v. Schrimsher (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 165.

In action to cancel vendors' lien notes with intervention by defendant's wife seeking cancellation of her deed, etc., evidence held to justify finding of a pretended sale within Const. art. 16, § 50, declaring such sales of homestead involving conditions of defeasance, void. Bludworth v. Dudley (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 561.

A conveyance of a homestead intended as a mortgage is void as to any one not an innocent purchaser. Gill v. Flynn (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 553.

Under express provision of Const. art. 16, § 50, a warranty deed to secure a loan executed by husband and wife conveying part of their homestead was absolutely void, and the grantee took no title thereto, and hence could convey none by his deed thereof. Bailey v. Bailey (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 364.

If vendees conveyed land to satisfy purchase-money debt, leaving deficit, and a parcel was reconveyed to them under agreement that the lien reserved was for the original purchase price, and such transaction was simulated to avoid the constitutional prohibition against mortgaging the homestead, no lien would attach. Jenkins v. Guaranty State Bank of Palestine (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 314.

Though an easement of an alleyway appurtenant to a homestead is within this article, the deed of a homestead duly signed and acknowledged by the grantor and wife will pass an easement appurtenant, though the easement is not described in the deed. Miles v. Bodenheim (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 693.

Rights of purchasers and mortgagors.—A contract executed by a husband alone to convey the homestead is not unlawful, and an action lies against the husband for the breach of the contract, where he assured the purchaser that the wife would join in the deed, and she refused so to do. Ponda v. Colquitt (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 1196.

Where a wife executed a deed of her homestead, either under her husband's coercion or the inducement of the misrepresentations of the grantee, who gave a check for the conveyance which the wife never cashed, and which she tendered in court in her suit for cancellation, the third person was not an innocent purchaser for value without notice. Essex v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 399.

In action to cancel deed of land out of homestead tract and grantee's deed thereof to defendant, evidence held to show that defendant knew first deed was to secure a debt. Bailey v. Bailey (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 264.
TITLE 25
CORPORATIONS—PRIVATE

CHAPTER TWO
CREATION OF CORPORATIONS

Article 1120. [641] [565] Private corporations may be created.
Cited, City Com'rs of Port Arthur v. Fant (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 334.

Article 1121. [642] [566] For what purposes corporations may be created.

11a. Private corporations may be created, under the general corporation laws of this State, by the voluntary association of three or more persons, for the purpose of building, constructing and repairing boats, ships and vessels for use in and for the navigation of rivers, lakes, streams and seas, with power to build, construct, maintain and operate such docks, dry docks, marine railways, wharves and other appurtenances as may be necessary for the accomplishment of such purpose. [Act March 20, 1917, ch. 90, § 1.]

Explanatory.—Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

16. For the establishment and maintenance of oil companies with the authority to contract for the lease and purchase of the right to prospect for, develop and use coal and other minerals, petroleum and gas; also the right to erect, build and own all necessary oil tanks, cars and pipes necessary for the operation of the business of same. [Act March 31, 1915, ch. 144, § 1.]

All private corporations heretofore created under the provisions of Subdivision 16, Article 1121, Chapter 2, Title 25, Revised Statutes of Texas of 1911, shall, in addition to the powers therein enumerated, have the power to contract for the lease and purchase of the right to prospect for, develop and use gas; also erect, build and own all necessary oil tanks, cars and pipes necessary for the operation of the business of same. [Act March 31, 1915, ch. 144, § 2.]

Explanatory.—Act took effect 90 days after March 20, 1915, date of adjournment.
53. The construction, operation and maintenance of terminal railways; and any such terminal railway company, in addition to the rights conferred by law upon corporations generally, shall have and exercise all rights and powers conferred upon railroad companies by Chapters 8 and 9, Title 115 of the Revised Statutes of Texas, relating to railroads. And when any such terminal railway company is adjacent to any inland navigable stream or water body, it shall have the right and power to construct, erect, operate and maintain all necessary and convenient facilities of every kind and character to accommodate and expeditiously handle the exchange of freight and passenger traffic with any and all steamships, and all other vessels and water craft using such waterways. Such terminal railway company shall also have the right to issue bonds in excess of its authorized capital stock; provided, that its stock and bonds shall be issued under the direction of the Railroad Commission of this State, in accordance with the stock and bond law regulating the issuance of stocks and bonds by railroads; and the commission shall fix the values of the property, rights and franchises of such terminal railway company; and its stock and bonds shall not exceed the amount authorized by the Railroad Commission of Texas; and jurisdiction over the issuance of the bonds herein authorized is hereby expressly vested in the Railroad Commission; provided, that no such terminal company shall have the right to charge any railroad company, steamship, vessel or water craft for terminal facilities a greater amount than may be, from time to time, designated and established by the Railroad Commission, which shall have authority to establish and prescribe such rates and rules for the operation of all such terminal companies as will prevent discrimination by them against any common carrier with respect to either charges or service; provided, further that the provisions of Articles 6656, 6657 and 6658 of the Revised Statutes of Texas shall apply to any and all orders, rulings, judgments and decrees of the Railroad Commission made, entered or held under the provisions of this subdivision in regard to such terminal railway companies. [Act March 10, 1917, ch. 72, § 1.]

Explanatory.—Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment. The act amends section 53, article 1121, Title 25, ch. 2, Rev. Civ. St. 1911, being Acts 30th Legislature, ch. 167.

60. The construction, acquiring, maintaining and operating lines of electric, gas or gasoline, denatured alcohol, or naptha motor railways within and between any cities or towns, and interurban railways within and between cities and towns, in this State, for the transportation of freight, or passengers, or both, with power, also to construct, own and operate union depots and office buildings, and such interurban railways shall have the same rights of eminent domain as are now given by law to steam railroads; and any such company shall have the right and authority to acquire, hold and operate other public utilities in and adjacent to the cities or towns within or through which said company operates. But no electric, gas or gasoline, denatured alcohol, or naptha motor railways, incorporated under this subdivision, shall ever be exempt from the payment of assessments that may be legally levied, or assessed against it for street improvements. Corporations created under this subdivision shall be, and are authorized to exercise the right of eminent domain for the purpose of acquiring right-of-way upon which to construct their railway lines, and sites for depots and power plants, upon the same conditions, and in the same manner as railroad corporations are now required to do under the laws of this State, and shall have the same rights, powers and privileges as are now granted to interurban electric railway companies, by Chapter 17, of Title 115, of the Thirty-second Legislature, and all the powers of whatsoever kind, or character, conferred by said chapter; provided no property upon which is located a cemetery shall ever be condemned, unless it shall affirmatively be shown, and so found by the court trying such condemnation suits, that it is necessary to take such property and no other route is possible or practicable; and provided that the electric, gas or gasoline, denatured alcohol or naptha motor railways incorporated under this subdivision, which shall engage in transporting freight shall be subject to the control of the Railroad Commission.

That any corporation heretofore organized under any law of this State, and which now or may hereafter own or operate a line of electric, gas or gasoline, denatured alcohol, or naptha motor railway, within and between any cities or towns in this State, shall be and the same is hereby authorized to own and operate office buildings, and to acquire, hold and operate electric light and power plants in and adjacent to the cities or towns within or through which said company operates, and may, by proceeding in the manner provided by existing laws, amend its articles of incorporation so as to expressly include any or all powers herein authorized.

Any corporation heretofore organized under this subdivision may, by proceeding in the manner provided by existing laws, amend its charter so as to expressly include all powers given under this section as now amended. [Act April 2, 1917, ch. 178, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The act amends subd. 60 of art. 1121, Rev. Civ. St. 1911. No reference is made to the fact that since the adoption of the Revised Statutes this subdivision has been twice amended, first, by Acts 1913, p. 67, and later by Acts 1913, p. 349. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

76. A private corporation may be formed and chartered for the design, purchase and sale of steel and iron and other metal products and the manufacture of any or all of such products, and for the design, sale, construction and erection of engineering and architectural structures, and for contracting for the construction and erection of such structures.
[Act March 22, 1915, ch. 109, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The act amends art. 1121 by adding thereto section 76 to read as above.
The act took effect 90 days after March 20, 1915, date of adjournment.

An irrigation company which has not taken water from streams in which the public has any interest, but only distributes water arising from lands owned exclusively by it which do not touch the lands of others except persons holding under it cannot exercise the privileges of public service corporations with respect to irrigation projects including the power of eminent domain. Id.

Subdivision 24.—A corporation formed under this subdivision cannot by its charter be given the power to engage in the business of renting by the hour its automobiles.

Subdivision 30.—In an action against a stockyards company for injuries to live stock, held, that the measure of damages was the difference between the value of the stock when received by the company and the value when delivered to the plaintiff.
Hovencamp v. Union Stockyards Co. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 225.

Subdivision 31.—Under a charter authorizing construction and maintenance of establishment for slaughtering, refrigerating, canning, curing, and packing meats, held, that a meat packing company had authority to enter into a contract to provide refrigerating Subdivision 38.—See Co-operative Vineyards Co. v. Ft. Stockton Irrigated Lands Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1191; note under subd. 23, ante.
Subdivision 40.—Abstract company, acting for sellers of land, incurred no liability to buyer because of negligence in drawing up abstract of title. To render title abstract company liable for damages occasioned buyer of land by negligence in failing to search for matters of record touching the title, company's negligence need not have been sole cause of loss; it being sufficient that its negligence concurred with seller's fraud. Title abstract company held liable to buyer of land for damages suffered because of its failure to make diligent search for matters of record relating to title to land, where company undertook, at buyer's instance, to correct and complete its abstract made for sellers.
Decatur Land, Loan & Abstract Co. v. Rutland (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1064.
Subdivision 48.—Duly elected executive officers of district union which had purchased land and erected warehouse and which thereafter changed its organization and private charter from a national to a state subsidiary, held entitled to the charge and control of its warehouse property and its books, constitution, and by-laws. Acts of officers of a farmers' district union not violating its by-laws in respect to possession and control of its property held binding upon other members of the union or organization. A farmers' district union, chartered under a national organization by subsequent application for a charter from the state organization and the acceptance thereof, ipso facto repudiated and surrendered its charter to the national organization. Ryan v. Witt (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 963.
Subdivision 73.—See Co-operative Vineyards Co. v. Ft. Stockton Irrigated Lands Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1191; note under subd. 23, ante.
Under subd. 73, determination by electric light and ice company that condemnation of land of railroad as necessary could not be reviewed by court, or showing that use of right of way is impaired. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Malone (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 899.
While a corporation formed to supply light, ice, water, and power to the people of a town is within the class denominated private corporations by the statute, its objects are such as clothe it with a quasi public character and subject it to certain rules governing public corporations. Gulf Pipe Line Co. v. Lasater (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 773.
Contracting in other than corporate name.—In the absence of statutory prohibition, a corporation may recover on a contract executed by it in a name other than its corporate name. W. B. Clarkson & Co. v. Gana S. S. Line (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1106.
Use of similar name.—Under the evidence in an action by the "Howe Grain and Mercantile Company" to enjoin defendants from doing business under the name of "Howe Grain Company," held, that plaintiff was entitled to the relief sought. Hughes v. Howe Grain and Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1187.
Residence.—A corporation is a resident of the state creating it. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Anderson County (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 305.
Enforcement of contract to form corporation.—A contract to form a corporation cannot be specifically enforced, where there is no showing of an agreement upon the preliminary steps necessary to its formation, under this article. Davis v. Wynne (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 610.
Art. 1123. [644] [568] Charter must be subscribed and acknowledged.
Art. 1125. Private corporations for profit must subscribe, etc.
Art. 1126. Secretary of state to receive, file and record charter, on satisfactory evidence of compliance, and payment of fees and franchise tax.
Cited, Davis v. Wynne (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 610.
Mandamus to compel issuance of charter.—In view of Const. art. 12, § 6, and arts. 1126-1128, held that, act of secretary of state in issuing a corporate charter being discretionary, and not purely ministerial or imperatively required by law, he cannot be required by mandamus to issue charter where he has not received satisfactory evidence that provisions of article 1126 have been complied with. Beach v. McKay (Sup.) 191 S. W. 557.
Whether corporate stock had been subscribed in good faith, and 50 per cent. thereof had been paid in cash or equivalent as required by this article, held questions of fact to be determined by secretary of state in exercise of his discretion under article 1128, and not coercible by mandamus. Id.
Art. 1129. Secretary of state to hold within rights in refusing to issue charter to company where it involved acceptance of patent at value of $54,050, and evidence was not satisfactory to him that the patent had such value. Id.
Application to foreign corporation.—Under Code W. Va. 1913, c. 52, § 24 (sec. 2857), to invalidate issue of stock by West Virginia manufacturing corporation for property taken at overvaluation, it must be shown that overvaluation was intentional and fraud ulient, and fraud will not be implied from mere finding property was worth less than par value of stock; Rev. St. Tex. 1911, arts. 1126, 1127, 1145, having no application, Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Latta & Happer (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1115.

Art. 1127. Satisfactory evidence defined.
Cited, Davis v. Wynn (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 510.

Application to foreign corporation.—See Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Latta & Happer (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1115; note under art. 1126.

Art. 1128. Secretary of state may require other evidence.
Mandamus to compel issuance of charter.—See Beach v. McKay (Sup.) 191 S. W. 557; note under art. 1126.

Art. 1129. Certain corporations exempt from provisions.

Art. 1130. Subscriptions and payment of stock required of excepted corporations.

Art. 1131. [645] [569] Must be filed with secretary of state, etc.
Other form of notice.—The name of an association on the office door with names of individuals with whom the representative of plaintiff dealt did not necessarily give notice to plaintiff of a corporation; articles of incorporation not being on file with the Secretary of State. Luck v. Alamo Printing Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 204.

Art. 1137. Renewal and consolidation of two or more such corporations, etc., how.

Assent of stockholders.—A stockholder who is present by proxy, but who declines to vote for a merger of corporations, does not assent thereto, and is not bound by the action of the majority stockholders favoring a merger. Cattlemen's Trust Co. v. Beck (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 783.

Liabilities of new corporation.—Where a contract for the consolidation of banks bound defendant to pay the M. bank's liabilities as appeared on its books, such contract required defendant bank to pay the value of the M. bank's stock to the lawful holders. And where the agreement obligated defendant to pay all liabilities on the books at the close of business April 11, 1910, it was liable for the book value as distinguished from the market value of the M. bank's stock on that date. Where defendant was to pay all the liabilities of the M. bank, including its stock, part of which had been pledged to plaintiff, plaintiff could assume that such payments would not be made without a surrender of the stock, and its failure to notify defendant of the pledge did not estop it to claim payment, notwithstanding defendant's payment to the pledgor. Guaranty State Bank of Carthage v. Continental Bank & Trust Co. of Shreveport, La. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 411.

In the absence of an agreement to that effect, a new corporation, organized to succeed an old one, is not liable for the debts of the old one, unless the new corporation is merely a continuation of the old one, or unless the new corporation assumes the debts of the old corporation. But where the new corporation assumes the debts and takes possession of the assets of the old one, it is liable for the debts of the old one not in excess of the assets. Cattlemen's Trust Co. v. Beck (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 783.

Under this article, where two corporations formed a new corporation which took the assets of one and assets of both, they did not defeat obligations of old companies, and where new corporation, although nothing was said at time of consolidation, paid all but contested debts of old corporation, there was an implied promise to pay its obligations. Texas Seed & Floral Co. v. Chicago Set & Seed Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 747.

Actions against new corporation.—In an action on a contract for onions to be grown, brought by consolidation formed of corporations by which the contract was made with another, evidence held sufficient to justify a finding that new corporation agreed to assume indebtedness of constituent companies. Texas Seed & Floral Co. v. Chicago Set & Seed Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 747.

Art. 1138. [675] [599] Existence of corporation shall not be disputed collaterally.

Who may question corporate existence.—Subscriber to corporate stock who took active part in the incorporation, being elected director and vice president, could not defend the subscription because it was subically incorporated. In that half its capital stock had not been paid in when the charter was issued. Panhandle Packing Co. v. Stringfellow (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 145.

Illegal corporation. — Rev. St. 1911, art. 1138, relating to obligations to ostensible corporations, does not apply to pretended corporations expressly forbidden by law. Where Special Act May 28, 1871 (Sp. Acts 12th Leg. c. 264), for incorporation of banking corporation was repealed by Const. 1876, art. 16, § 16, the incorporation of pretended banking corporation thereunder, contracts for subscription, and notes given therefor held that stockholders were not estopped to question existence collaterally. Davis v. Allison (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 968.

Decisions in General

De facto corporations.—The requisites of a "de facto corporation" are the existence of a law under which a corporation with the powers assumed might lawfully be created, a bona fide effort to incorporate thereunder, and an actual user of the rights claimed to be conferred by such law. As against all persons except the state, a de facto corporation has the same powers, and is subject to the same obligations, as a corporation de jure. In a suit to enjoin a telephone company from using the streets for its line, it will be presumed that it had attempted in good faith to incorporate under the law, and actually exercised its franchise thereunder; these elements of a de facto corporation being presumed. Roaring Springs Townsite Co. v. Paducah Telephone Co. (Civ. App.) 104 S. W. 50.

CHAPTER THREE

POWERS AND DUTIES OF PRIVATE CORPORATIONS, AND DUTIES OF STOCKHOLDERS IN REFERENCE THERETO, ETC.

Art. 1140. General powers of corporations.
Art. 1141. Unpaid stock payable when; proof of payment.
Art. 1144. May increase its capital stock, how.
Art. 1146. Watering stock prohibited, forfeiture for violation.
Art. 1147. Watered stock and bonds not for money, etc., quo warranto suit to cancel.
Art. 1148. Suit may be dismissed or not brought under what conditions.
Art. 1149. Remedies cumulative.
Art. 1150. Increase in certain cases validated.
Art. 1153. Quorum of directors, and annual elections.
Art. 1159. Directors shall have general management, etc.
Art. 1160. Directors shall cause record to be kept, etc.

Article 1140. [565] [575] General powers of corporations.

See notes under art. 1164.

An incorporated golf club held not to possess an implied power to dispense intoxicating liquors to its members. Id.

Corporations exist by law for the purposes defined in their charters, and he who deals with them is charged with notice of those purposes. El Fresnal Irrigated Land Co. v. Bank of Washington (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 761.

3.—Incidental.—Under arts. 1140, 1164, 1166, a corporation may exercise only powers expressly granted or those necessary or reasonably appropriate to the exercise of such powers. State v. Country Club (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 570.

The powers of a corporation are not restricted to those expressly conferred by its charter, but include as necessary all those powers which are appropriate. Taylor Feed Pen Co. v. Taylor Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 554.

A corporation is not restricted to the actual wording of its charter, but has implied powers reasonably necessary or usually incident to its business. Coppard v. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 561.

5. Purchase own stock.—A corporation, when not forbidden by statute and when acting in good faith and without objection from its stockholders or prejudice to creditors, may purchase shares of its own stock, regardless of the purpose for which it is bought. W. R. Case & Sons Cutlery Co. v. Folsom (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1966.

A corporation, organized to sell land which represents its capital and for which corporate stock was issued, may provide in its charter that the holders of the stock may surrender it and accept land in lieu thereof on such terms as may be determined by the corporation. Rowan v. Texas Orchard Development Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 571.

Where a corporation was insolvent and it became necessary, in winding up its affairs, to order sale of land to satisfy claims, held that purchasers of preferred stock, under agreement entitling them to demand redemption of same in land on a certain date, were entitled to make such demand, though that date had not arrived. Id.

A corporation's agreement to buy its stock from a stockholder will be enforced when the purchase can be made and the stock paid for without prejudice to the rights of creditors and other stockholders. Id.

An agreement by persons selling land to a corporation and adopted by the corporation, giving purchasers of preferred stock a right to demand redemption of same in land, held enforceable, where it appeared that the land was never in fact part of the capital of the corporation. Id.

An agreement to redeem preferred stock out of the capital if there are no profits will not be enforced. Id.

Where the organizer of a bank induced defendant to subscribe for stock, and gave a note, agreeing to purchase defendant's stock and to pay the note, which was in the hands of a bank, such agreement was not unenforceable as violative of the laws of the state governing the incorporation of state banks. Anderson v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 836.

7. To sue and be sued.—A private corporation has the right to maintain an action in its own name. Rockdale Mercantile Co. v. Brown Shoe Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 281.

8. To enter into partnership.—Without express charter power to enter a private partnership, a corporation would be unauthorized to do so. Southern Oil & Gas Co. v. Mexia Oil & Gas Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 446.

9. Indemnity, guaranty, and suretyship.—A corporation authorized by law to enter into contracts of guaranty cannot justify the making of indemnity contracts on the theory that they fall within its implied powers, and such a contract is ultra vires. Texas Fidelity & Bonding Co. v. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 238.

10. Taking notes, etc.—The mere fact that the buyer of notes was a mercantile corporation would not make ultra vires its act in buying such notes from which it might largely profit. Copeland v. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 551.

11/2. Corporate seal.—The seal of a corporation is not necessary to a valid transfer of a note payable to it. Forster v. Emid, O. & W. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 783.

12. Capacity to contract in general.—The contract of a hardware company for an advertising scheme to extend its sales is in furtherance of its usual business and within its powers to make. American Mfg. Co. v. O. C. Frey Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 958.

Under arts. 1140 and 1162, the execution and issuance of notes by corporation cannot be held to be ultra vires in absence of evidence that they were not issued in transaction of corporation's authorized business. Galveston-Houston Interurban Land Co. v. Dow (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 355.

13. Contracts before incorporation or organization.—The promoters of a corporation cannot procure the payment of a bonus to themselves as commissions and charge it to the corporation when formed. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Thurman (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 762.

In an action against defendant and others, promoters, to recover for surveying a proposed railroad and for other services and advances prior to defendant's participation in the enterprise, evidence held to show agreement by defendant, who had received the benefits, to become liable therefor. Vaughn v. Morris (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 594.

A contract by a promoter of a proposed corporation cannot be ratified by the corporation, but liability may arise by adoption of the contract by acceptance of benefits. Id.

15. Notwithstanding Rev. St. 1895, art. 3096b, a corporation held not liable for material ordered by the promoter and delivered to an officer, where the acts of the corporators and of the directors and officers were void. Id

Where, before incorporation, company's promoter without authority contracted on its behalf to guarantee plaintiff against liability on paper of a corporation in which he held a stock, for plaintiff's release of an option on land, and that the owner could convey to the lumber company, such company was liable on the contract after accepting and retaining the land. Weatherby v. Texas & Ohio Lumber Co. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 735.

In an action against a lumber company on an unauthorized contract made by its promoter before incorporation, evidence held to show that the company, when buying land, had notice of the term of the promoter's contract that the company should guarantee plaintiff against liability on another company's paper in return for his release of an option on the land. Id.

Where defendant corporation with notice of a promoter's contracts, and that a note given for stock in another corporation organized by the same promoter was to constitute part of its surplus, received the note without consideration, held, that the promoter's agreement was binding on defendant. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Curry (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1.

16. Rights on contracts of incorporators.—The subscribers for the stock of a corporation constituted a voluntary association prior to the issuance of its charter, and a deed to the corporation vested title in them individually, though they held in trust for the corporation, and might be compelled to convey the land to it, or be estopped to deny its title by permitting it to deal with the land as its own. William Cameron & Co. v. Trueheart (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 68.

21. Ultra vires contracts.—One injured by the negligence of a servant of a corporation was at the time employed in a business authorized by the charter, but not allowed by statute, can question the power of the corporation to do the act. Sterne v. Routledge (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 444.

Capacity of a corporation to hold land can be questioned by the state only, and not by an individual in the corporation's action to compel conveyance to it. Wooten v. Dermott Town-Site Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 598.
The courts will not aid in performing an ultra vires act by enforcing an executory contract. Ex parte Exeter National & T. C. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 635.

It is not every ultra vires act of a corporation that is void. Coppel v. Farmers & Merchants' State Bank (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 551.

A bond given by a corporation to construct a building is binding on the surety, though such contract is ultra vires as to the corporation. Kaufman v. Christian-Walchen Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1045.

22. Property and conveyances—Power to convey.—Intoxicating liquors purchased by a corporation and held for sale to its members are the sole property of the corporation. Studebaker v. Country Club (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 570.

In absence of constitutional prohibition the Legislature can empower quasi public corporations to transfer their franchises and all their property, either by absolute sale or by lease or mortgage, though the transfer may disable them from performing their duties to the public. See art. 18 of this article, and their property for corporate purposes, and no one but the state can question the propriety of the directors' determination of what is required by the purposes of the corporation. It authorizes a sale by the corporation to its principal stockholder to discharge its obligation to him by reason of his payment of all its debts, where the purchaser continued to perform the public service. Gulf Pipe Line Co. v. Lasseter (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 773.

31. Estoppel to deny corporate powers of corporation.—The doctrine of estoppel of a corporation to plead its ultra vires act as a defense in an action on an obligation incurred thereby does not apply to public corporations, but it applies to a private corporation in whose acts the public is not interested to the same degree as if it were an individual, except where the act done is one which it could not do for lack of capacity. Nat. & Texas Trust Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 547.

Where all the stockholders in a corporation assent to the borrowing of money for a wrongful purpose and to the execution of a mortgage to secure it, it is liable. Evidence held to show assent of stockholders, so that the doctrine of liability of a corporation because of assent of all stockholders was applicable to all stockholders when such stockholders assented thereto. Gulf Feed Pen Co. v. Taylor Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 543.

Where a corporation borrows money and gives its mortgage therefor, it cannot, in order to defeat the mortgage, thereafter allege that the mortgagee was in pari delicto with it, knowing that it acted wrongfully and without its express powers, where the contract was fully executed by the mortgagee. Id.

A corporation which receives the consideration for a mortgage and retains it without offering to return it receives a consideration for the mortgage, so that it is thereafter estopped to plead ultra vires. Id.

Defendant, a Texas corporation empowered to do a guaranty business, held not estopped from using the ultra vires character of an indemnity contract entered into with plaintiff, another Texas guaranty company, through receiving compensation under the contract. Texas Fidelity & Bonding Co. v. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 238.

Art. 1141. Unpaid stock payable when; proof of payment.

Trust fund.—Unpaid stock subscriptions constitute a trust fund for creditors. Davis v. Burns (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 476; Witt v. Nelson (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 381. Such subscriptions may be sued on and collected by receiver for such purpose, even though such creditors did not know of such unpaid subscriptions at time debts were incurred. Mitchell v. Porter (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 981.

Art. 1145. [552] [576] May increase its capital stock, how.

Application to foreign corporations.—See Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Latta & Happer (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1115; note under art. 1126.

Right to increase capital.—Under this article a banking association chartered by special act of May 23, 1871 (Sp. Acts 12th Leg. c. 264), held to have the right to increase its capital stock under a provision in its charter, so that subscription to its additional stock might be enforced for the benefit of its creditors. Davis v. Burns (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 476.

Subscription to increased stock.—A subscription contract for the purchase price of a portion of the capital stock of a corporation created by an increase in the amount of its authorized capital stock is valid when not in violation of law, a valid and enforceable obligation. Cope v. Pitzer (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 447.

Art. 1146. Watering stock prohibited; forfeiture for violation.

CORPORATIONS—PRIVATE

in general.—Under Const. art. 12, § 6, issuance by a corporation of stock on a subscription contract before payment for the stock is ultra vires. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Mosely (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1031.

Under Const. art. 12, § 6, subscribers to the stock of a corporation who had not fully paid for stock received are guarantors of the balance due regardless of transfer. Rich v. Park (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 184.

The purpose of Const. art. 12, § 6, and this article, is to insure an equivalent in corporate property such as stocks or bonds as are in circulation and subject to purchase by the public. Cattlemen's Trust Co. of Ft. Worth v. Turner (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 438.

Giving note or other obligation for subscription price in general.—Where a corporation sold all its stock to S. & Co., who employed R. to resell, and R. sold stock to defendant, receiving a note to S. & Co. for a part of the price, and another note for the balance, representing commissions, the latter note was not invalid as violating the statute. Scheffel v. Smith (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1131.

In an action on a note given in payment for corporate stock, held, that the balance of the stock subscribed for by the payee of the note which was not legally issued under Const. art. 11, § 6, had never been placed as required by a collateral agreement before defendant's obligation became binding. Sanger v. First Nat. Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1087.

A transaction held not an issue of stock, for the purchaser's note, in contravention of this article, but nothing more than a subscription for stock. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank v. Falvey (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 833.

False representations of an agent, taking subscriptions to the stock of a corporation, to have his note for the stock, and that it would be indefinitely extended, relating to a matter as to which agent had no authority, and which the corporation could not validly carry out, held to warrant rescission of the subscription. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Mount (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 783.

Note given as part of the subscription to stock of a corporation are not void, and may be enforced and collected as valid obligations. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Hill (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 247.

On the corporation's acceptance of a subscription to its stock with the indorsement of secured notes to it the subscriber became liable therefor. Id.

Under Const. art. 12, § 6, and this article, subscriber to capital stock of corporation on credit, accompanied by issuance and delivery of stock, held not liable on his notes given in payment therefor. Republic Trust Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 772.

In a suit on note where defendants' contention that the balance due represented a note given for shares of stock sold by a private corporation contrary to law was denied by plaintiff, testimony was admissible that the shares were purchased from an individual to whom they had in good faith been sold by the corporation. Witt v. Young (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1015.

Issuance of stock in payment for property.—A dissatisfied stockholder cannot require directors to account for stock received by them for the transfer to the corporation of a franchise which they paid nothing for; there being no showing as to the value of the franchise. Thomas v. Barthold (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1071.

In a suit on an issue by corporation of stock in payment for property, and when corporation's representatives fairly and honestly issue stock in payment for property, and par value of stock is equal to valuation placed by them on property, transaction cannot be set aside on ground of misvaluation or property. Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Latta & Happer (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1116.

Delivery of stock to purchaser.—Where, though subscribers for stock gave their note therefor, there was no agreement to issue the stock on their promise to pay, and the stock was not delivered, held that Const. art. 12, § 6, was not violated. Horn Bros. v. Baker (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 474.

Subscribers to stock, who gave their note therefor, held not entitled to the stock until paid for, and the refusal to deliver it was not a failure of consideration for the note. Id.

A subscription for stock under an arrangement whereby the stock was held until payment the price held not an "issuance" of stock within Const. art. 12, § 6, and this article. Cattlemen's Trust Co. of Ft. Worth v. Turner (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 438.

A corporation is not bound under a subscription to its stock to issue a certificate of subscription until the subscription is fully paid. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Hill (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 247.

Under Const. art. 12, § 6, and in view of Rev. St. 1911, art. 1170, subscription to stock of corporation to be organized, accompanied by subscription notes secured by deed of trust on land, without delivery of the stock, held not an issue of stock, and hence not illegal or void. Id.

Making of certificate of stock by banking corporation in name of subscriber who gave only a note, and its retention until the note should be paid, meanwhile apportioning such not held not violative of Const. art. 12, § 6, or this article. Cattlemen's Trust Co. of Ft. Worth v. Pruett (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 716.

Note secured by mortgage.—Giving of notes secured by a deed of trust for stock in an insurance company subsequently issued is not payment for the stock. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Mosely (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1031.

A part of a subscription to stock of a corporation to be organized and to secure its payment on call, were not void on the ground that

Note secured by trust deed is neither money paid nor property actually received. Prudential Life Ins. Co. of Texas v. Pearson (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 513.

Pledge of stock as security for note.—Stock subscribed for with a future promise to pay and held pending payment vests the subscriber with but a qualified right therein, not capable of being pledged. Cattlemen's Trust Co. of Ft. Worth v. Turner (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 428.

Transaction wherein subscriber to corporate stock, not to be delivered until paid for, gave his note to the agent of the promoters of the company, the stock being attached to collateral security, held a sale of stock on credit, prohibited byConst. art. 12, § 6. Kanaman v. Gahagan (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 619.

Violation by foreign corporation.—This article held to prohibit a foreign corporation doing business in the state, without permission, from issuing stock, except in consideration for money, labor, or property. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank v. Falvey (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 835.

Under Const. art. 12, § 6, and this article, the issuance and delivery of the stock of a foreign corporation in consideration of a note was an illegal transaction. Sturdev ant v. Falvey (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 908.

If issuance by West Virginia manufacturing company to president of shares of stock in payment for property in California was violation of this article, fact merely authorizes forfeiture of company's permit to do business in Texas. Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Cope (Civ. App.) 198 S. W. 1115.

Under Const. art. 12, § 6, and this article, note given for capital stock in a foreign corporation and subscription contract held void. Mitchell v. Porter (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 381.

Stock in banking corporation.—Subscription contract to stock of a banking corporation was not a void on holding that note held in issue except for money paid or property actually received. Davis v. Burns (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 476.

Under Const. art. 12, § 6, prohibiting issuance of stock in corporation except for money paid, labor done, or property actually received, banking corporation has no right to issue or tender its stock until the subscriber's note was paid. Thompson v. First State Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 116.

When Special Act May 28, 1871 (Sp. Acts 12th Leg. c. 264), for incorporation of banking corporation was repealed by Const. 1876, art. 16, § 16, the incorporation of pretended banking corporation thereunder, contracts for subscription, and notes given therefor held void ab initio. Davis v. Allison (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 588.

Stock in insurance company.—Const. art. 12, § 6, and Rev. St. 1911, arts. 4725, subd. "a", prohibited life insurance company from contracting to sell an increase of its capital stock and from taking notes of the subscribers in payment therefor, where the stock was not issued until the notes were fully paid. Cope v. Pitzer (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 447.

This article is superseded by Acts 31st Leg. c. 108, post, art. 4726, authorizing the incorporation of insurance companies. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Mosely (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1051.

Rights of purchasers of note or obligation.—Where consideration of note of buyer of capital stock of a corporation was illegal under the constitutional and statutory provisions as to the sale of capital stock on credit, the note was void, and its payment could not be enforced by innocent purchaser for value. Republic Trust Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 772; Prudential Life Ins. Co. of Texas v. Smyer (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 825; Prudential Life Ins. Co. of Texas v. Pearson (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 515; Atter v. Ro tan Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1108.

A transaction held not an issue of stock, for the purchaser's note, in contravention of this article, more than a subscrip­tion for stock, so that the note was good in the hands of a purchaser without notice of a secret agreement making the contract to take the stock optional. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank v. Falvey (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 833.

An insurance company, which issued its stock, contravening Constitution and statute, for a note, and indorsed before maturity to a third person as part consideration for property transferred, was liable to the third person on its indorsement. Prudential Life Ins. Co. of Texas v. Smyer (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 525.

A note given for capital stock of a trust company through the medium of an investment company was void in the hands of a purchaser, even if he paid value and had no notice of the status of the negotiation. Crawford v. Davis (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 436.

While consideration for a note issued for corporate stock is void or illegal, note is not void in the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value. Lockney State Bank v. Martin (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 796.

Rights and remedies of parties to contract or obligation.—The court will cancel notes secured by mortgage on stock subsequently issued by a corporation in violation of law. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Mosely (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1051.

If the promise of defendant's agents to loan plaintiff money was part of the agreement when plaintiff signed a stock subscription contract, he should have sought reformation of the contract. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Barrington (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 936.

Where notes for corporate stock were received and then renewed, held that, the stock issued being void, the notes should be canceled. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Hollifield (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 776.

Corporation having illegally accepted note and trust deed for stock, cannot defeat the maker's suit for cancellation on the ground that the transaction was a loan. Prudential Life Ins. Co. v. Pearson (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 513.

Estoppel to assert invalidity of purchase.—One who for years has gone along as a stockholder, being sued after the corporation is insolvent, is estopped to assert he is not 206.
a stockholder because stock was issued for his note. McWhirter v. First State Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 683.

Though estopped from asserting fraud, plaintiffs held entitled to cancellation of note for stock in B. company, secured by defendant, another corporation, which issued its stock therefor, and to recover stock in B. company, also secured by defendant, or amount of note given therefor. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Curry (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1.

A transaction whereby corporate stock is issued in consideration of a note cannot be ratified, and furnishes no basis for estoppel. Id.

A corporation is particularly charged with knowledge of its powers, in view of arts. 1146 and 1147, as to forfeiture of charter for illegal issuance of stock, and cannot defeat a subscriber's action to cancel a note and trust deed given for stock, which it was illegal for the corporation to accept, on the ground that the plaintiff was in pari delicto with it. Prudential Life Ins. Co. of Texas v. Pearson (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 513.

In action by state officers in name of banking corporation to recover upon subscription note, evidence held to show that liability of parties on ground that note was given in violation of Constitution, was not raised until bank had failed and suit was brought. Thompson v. First State Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 116.

Validation of illegal transaction.—That defendant, who had given his nonnegotiable note in a transaction whereby stock was illegally delivered therefor, afterwards substituted his negotiable note, did not validate the illegal transaction. Sturdevant v. Palvev (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 908.

Rights of creditors of corporation.—Where defendants did not deny obligation of stock subscription or note for the amount until after rights of creditors had intervened, creditor holding deed of trust on the corporation's property held entitled to sell the note and purchaser entitled to enforce collection by suit. Horn Bros. v. Baker (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 474.

Stockholders who paid nothing for common stock issued to them were liable for an amount sufficient to pay unsecured creditors of the insolvent corporation. Rowan v. Texas Orchard Development Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 871.

Subscriber to corporate stock of banking corporation payable by note, in contravention of Const. art. 12, § 6, after bank's insolvency, and in view of trust fund doctrine, held not entitled, as against its creditors, to assert invalidity of note. Thompson v. First State Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 116.

Art. 1147. Watered stock and bonds not for money, etc., quo warranto suit to cancel.

Art. 1148. Suit may be dismissed or not brought under what conditions.

Art. 1149. Remedies cumulative.

Art. 1150. [652a] Increase in certain cases validated.

Art. 1153. [665] [579] Quorum of directors and annual elections.

Contract entered into by quorum of directors.—Where the three directors of a corporation owned all shares, a contract executed by two of them is, in view of this article, binding on the corporation, particularly where the third director had stated that whatever the other two did would be satisfactory to him. Canadian Long Distance Telephone Co. v. Seiber (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 897.

De facto officers.—Officers of a corporation, not selected in the statutory manner, are not even "de facto officers," and their acts are not binding. Exline-Reimers Co. v. Lone Star Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1060.

Art. 1159. [661] [585] Directors shall have general management, etc.

See notes under art. 1164.

1 1/2. Meetings.—Unless the by-laws otherwise prescribe, the directors of a corporation may select the place of meeting, and they are not bound to meet at the principal place of business of the corporation. Hacker v. International Travelers' Ass'n (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 44.

2. Compensation.—Salary of a corporation president cannot be held excessive, where there is nothing to show the duties exacted from him. Bounds v. Stephenson (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1037.

Where officers of corporation had rendered services ever since organization of company, and no salary had ever been paid them, and it was evident that parties did not intend or understand they were to be paid for their services, payment of back salaries to them by corporation for a year was without consideration, and judgment for amounts was properly rendered against officers in suit by minority stockholders. Southwestern Portagrement Co. v. Latta & Happer (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 4139.

3. By-laws providing therefor.—President of corporation, who rendered services formerly rendered by its manager, worked as a salesman and even helped with the sweeping of the store, held entitled to compensation, though no salary for the president had been fixed by the directors pursuant to the by-laws. Georgetown Mercantile Co. v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 72.

4. Management of corporate affairs.—While, as to the stockholders of a corporation, directors are trustees, as to corporate creditors or third persons they are agents of the corporation. Dollar v. Lockney Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1076.

When there is a corporation consisting of the holders of certain trust certificates, representing rights to participate in a town site, their rights could not be terminated by a resolution that they could not vote or draw dividends until they surrendered their certificates for stock certificates, of which they were not notified, except by publication of the resolution in three newspapers within which the corporation was organized. Yeaman v. Galveston City Co., 136 Tex. 359, 167 S. W. 710, answering certified questions (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 459.

Notwithstanding that holders of irregularly issued shares must exchange them in order to be entitled to dividends held not a repudiation by the corporation of its liability to holders of such shares. Yeaman v. Galveston City Co. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 459, certified questions answered by Supreme Court, 136 Tex. 359, 167 S. W. 710.

The rights of the corporation are not affected by the dealings of the stockholders among themselves. Arno Co-operative Irr. Co. v. Pugh (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 991.

That shareholders defeated a motion to reimburse those who financed an investigation of corporate affairs, the expenses of which amounted to $800 or $900, does not preclude the board of directors from subsequently paying any legitimate item of such amount. Rio Grande Fire Ins. Co. v. Herder (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1150.

The mere fact that, where by-laws required 10 days' notice of meeting to stockholders, officers served notice two proxy slips, one of which had the signature of the absent shareholder, was insufficient to show mismanagement; the additional expense being slight. Bounds v. Stephenson (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1031.

Evidence held insufficient to show mismanagement of a surety corporation sufficient to warrant, on a stockholder's petition, removal of the president as trustee for stock sales. Id.

The borrowing of money in conducting a corporation's business, and methods of obtaining loans, were 'affairs of the corporation' of which directors had control within Rev. Stat. 1897, art. 2081; and Wilkinson v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 489.

4 1/2. Liability of stockholder.—See arts. 1146, 1198.

In view of this article, a purchaser, who acquires treasury stock of a corporation after it has been organized, is not liable for the par value of the stock, where it was sold in good faith for an amount less than par. Wilt v. Nelson (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 353.

5. Rights as creditors.—The law should properly hold the creditor who was president and general manager of a corporation to the utmost good faith in attempted collection of his claim, in order to obtain a preference over other creditors. McCormick v. Cornell & Wardlaw (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1083.

Until a corporation ceases to be a going concern, it may prefer its creditors, and diligent creditor of such corporation, although a director, can in good faith secure such preference by attachment or garnishment. Id.

7. Corporate property, funds, etc.—Purchase and sale of.—Directors of a corporation stand in a fiduciary relation to it, and their purchase of corporate property may be set aside at the option of the corporation. Canadian Country Club v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 835.

Directors and stockholders of a corporation acquiring real estate of the corporation held not entitled to recover for temporary improvements as against dissenting stockholders. Id.

8. Individual profits, etc., from corporate business.—That attorney is officer or stockholder of corporation does not preclude him from recovering value of professional services rendered in his duty as such officer or stockholder. Merchants' Ice Co. v. Scott & Dodson (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 418.

A director of a corporation cannot contract with it, or have any interest in a contract between it and a third person, and such contract is fraudulent and unenforceable. Peerless Fire Ins. Co. v. Ex parte (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 294.

The president of a corporation occupies a fiduciary capacity, and where he personally acquires property with view to disposing of it to company, and does so, he becomes liable to company for any profit he may make, unless he makes full disclosure, and entire contract is open, fair, and honest. Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Latta & Happer (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1115.

9. Deals with corporation or shareholders.—Where a corporation was authorized to act as surety, and its officers in its name signed an undertaking for the brother of the president, and the president had secured judgment against it, the judgment was against the brother and secured a lien on land to secure it, but did not release the judgment, such facts were insufficient to show mismanagement. Bounds v. Stephenson (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1031.

Officers of corporation, who executed undertaking as surety for president's brother in name of corporation, and on recovery of judgment obtained judgment against the brother and secured a lien on land, held not guilty of fraud. Id.

A guaranty by stockholders of the directors, naming them, against personal liability on account of borrowing money to operate the company, does not extend to transactions after a change in the personnel of the directory. Passador v. Wilkinson (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 467.

If any recovery can be had on a guaranty of directors against personal liability, where a change was made in directors before debts were paid, it being limited to amount of old debts thereafter paid by hold over directors, such amount must be shown. Id.

10 1/2. Actions—By stockholders.—Stockholders may sue on behalf of the corporation without first demanding action by officers, where request would be useless. Canadian Country Club v. Cloud (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 885.

Stockholders held authorized to sue for property of the corporation, claimed adverse-by a majority of the directors and some stockholders, without first requesting the officers to sue. Id.

Stockholders, suing to protect corporate rights in land claimed by a majority of its officers and some stockholders, held not required to tender payment of a lien on the land. Id.

Minority stockholders held not estopped from suing for the corporation for real estate in possession of a majority of the officers and some stockholders. Id.

Libel affecting corporation, see Cummer Mfg. Co. of Texas v. Butcher (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 82.

11 Circumstances justifying suit by stockholder for corporation, must be clear and definite, and it must appear that the object of the suit is to recover debts for the corporation. Toomey v. First Mortgage Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 523.

12 That a shareholder suing for the corporation is entitled for expenses only if successful does not apply where it is sought to charge a director who disbursed funds to such shareholders under authority of the board. Rio Grande Fire Ins. Co. v. Herder (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1160.

13 The fraudulent breach by defendant of a contract to organize a corporation and convey a patent to it does not authorize the subscribers to the stock to recover on preliminary and tentative agreements for the transfer of an interest in the patent to them. Davis v. Wynne (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 510.

14 Minority stockholders, objecting to establishment of additional plant in another state, and desiring to sue corporation in good faith to protect their own interests, and those of other stockholders, had right to avail themselves of selfish interest of competitor corporation to procure funds to prosecute litigation. Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Latta & Happer (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1115.

In suit against corporation by minority stockholder to enjoin act in fraud of his rights, it is not necessary to join as parties defendant majority stockholders at whose instance proposed action is about to be taken. Id.

If corporate stock was about to be issued for unauthorized purpose, proper remedy for minority stockholders was to enjoin issuance, and it would not be proper for court to undertake to cancel the authorized capital stock of the corporation or any part simply because it is sought to issue the same for an unauthorized purpose. Id.

12. Between shareholders and officers.—Evidence, in an action against directors of a corporation, held to show that they knowingly permitted funds collected for, and belonging to, another to be appropriated to the corporation's use, rendering them personally liable. McCollom v. Dollar (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 575.

13 Representation by officers and agents.—Unless authorized by the charter or directors, the president of a corporation has no greater control over its property than any director. El Fresnal Irrigated Land Co. v. Bank of Washington (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 791.

Corporations can be bound by their agents only within the scope of their authority. Id.

Acts of the president of a corporation beyond the objects of the corporation and without the scope of his authority cannot bind the corporation. Morringsport Oil Co. v. Aldridge (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 499.

15 Actual or apparent authority.—The apparent authority of the president and manager of a corporation does not include the execution of notes. El Fresnal Irrigated Land Co. v. Bank of Washington (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 791.

Where no restriction was known to other contracting party, a contract entered into by general agent of corporation within charter powers is binding on corporation. Cuero Packing Co. v. Alamo Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 492.

17 Control and conduct of corporate business.—The president of a manufacturing corporation had the power to bind the company by a contract for repairs on a building if entered into by him for the benefit of the company. Texas Mfg. Co. v. Fitzgerald (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 591.

18 Contracts.—Where defendant's agent received money for it on a stock subscription, defendant was liable for the money in its agent's hands, and hence was liable for its return if the contract under which the money was paid required its return in certain contingencies, which happened. Amicable Life Ins. Co. v. Kenner (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 462.

For improvement of the property of a corporation, under contract with one of the two stockholders, authorized to do so by the other, the corporation is primarily liable, and the two stockholders are sureties as to each other, though they be principals as to the holder of the debt. Zachry & Gearhart v. Peterson & Avant (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 494.

Where a note was executed by the president of the defendant corporation within the apparent scope of his authority, it was immaterial on the liability of the corporation how the money was to be used. Coppard v. Farmers & Merchants' State Bank (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 555.

Where defendant wrote to the president of a corporation guaranteeing a third party's debt he knew was due the corporation, the guaranty was available to the corporation. Martin v. Blair & Hughes Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 506.

19 Contracts of employment.—A buyer and inspector of a lumber company has not incidentory right to contract to pay commissions to one indicating where lumber may be secured. Cummer Mfg. Co. of Texas v. First Nat. Bank of Center (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 536.

Evidence held insufficient to show that defendant corporation president hired attorney without proper authority, or without necessity for their employment, so that he could not be held liable to stockholders for the fees paid them. Bounds v. Stephenson (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1051.

20. Purchases, sales, and warranties.—The act of the president of a corporation holding the legal title to land for the benefit of the real parties in interest in tak-
A corporate contract for the purchase of property held properly admitted in evidence in an action on a note, where it was the obvious intention of the parties that it, when taken to court, was given for the note which was paid, should be considered the act of the defendant corporation, and not that of the president, who merely guaranteed the payment of the note. Canadian Long Distance Telephone Co. v. Seiber (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 897.

Where the president of a corporation purchased property in its name from plaintiff, and gave a note in payment thereof, which he also personally guaranteed, an instruction in a suit on the note to find for defendant, if it was found that plaintiff had stated that he was the payee, the payment, but to the president, was properly refused, as there could be no finding for defendant, unless it was found as a fact that plaintiff intended to hold the president alone, and the corporation had been in some way released. Id.

Under the by-laws of a corporation, providing that the president shall sign all contracts, deeds, etc., executed by it, and that no sale of realty shall be consummated without the consent of the board of directors, the secretary did not have authority to bind the corporation by a contract to sell realty. Vacaresza v. Realty Inv. Co. (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 916.

If the secretary of a corporation had no power to sign a contract for it to convey land, it is immaterial what he thought when he signed the contract in the name of the corporation, or as to whether he signed by mistake, etc. Id.

Where a corporation advertised that a certain person was its general manager, his purchase of machinery for the corporation, which it received and installed, bound the corporation for the price. A. S. Cameron Steam Pump Works v. Lubbock Light & Ice Co. (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 296.

President of lumber corporation held to have held out assistant superintendent as authorized to purchase a steam log loader by referring the seller to such assistant superintendent. Bond v. Knox (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 428.

Officers of corporation, who are not even de facto officers, may not make a purchase for the corporation or bind it by adopting an unauthorized contract of the promoter. Exline-Reimers Co. v. Lone Star Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1960.

Action of a majority of the stockholders of a corporation in transferring real estate of the corporation subject to a vendor's lien held not to pass title. Canadian Country Club v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 835.

Under the law of Louisiana, as well as this state, the president of a corporation has no authority to contract for the sale of corporation lands, in the absence of authority conferred on him by the directors. Morgan v. Washburn Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 911.

Purchase, by president and general manager of wholesale grocery company, of retail stock of goods at wholesale prices to collect debt, held within his authority, though he also intended to use stock to open retail business by the company. Crews v. Gulf Grocery Co. (Sup.) 182 S. W. 1930.

An open crossing over a railroad right of way is so intimately connected with that an agent, to obtain the same, should be presumed to have authority to agree to leave such open crossing as a part of the consideration for such right of way. Malmstrom v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 453.

Where the officers of a traction company personally contracted with property owners, for a bonus, to purchase lots and have terminals of the company erected thereon, but failed, they were liable to parties who paid bonus. Eastern Texas Traction Co. v. Harris (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 392.

Where officers of traction company contracted with property owners, in return for bonus, to buy lots and construct thereon terminal buildings without designating themselves as officers, it was their personal engagement. Id.

A corporation agreed to purchase lots and erect thereon terminal buildings, and a bond contained ratification of company to maintain offices in the city, such bond did not necessarily include agreement to construct buildings in accordance with undertaking of officers. Id.

Where officers of traction company, for bonus, contracted with property owners to buy lots and erect company's terminal buildings thereon, a bond executed by company and officers engaging to guarantee that officers, should they fail to perform, would return money received, was not ultra vires as to the corporation. Id.

A traction company might itself, in return for bonus, contract with property owners in a city to buy lots and erect and maintain its terminal buildings thereon, and could have bound itself to return bonus if it failed to perform. Id.

21. Collections and payments.—The president of a corporation had no implied authority, even though he had the management and general control of the corporation, to bind the corporation by an agreement, without consideration, to notify and send a note, payable to the corporation, to a third party in another county, who had assumed the payment. Waller v. San Antonio Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1043.

Where a corporation did not ordinarily give liens to secure loans, its president could not mortgage corporate land without authority from the directors. Id.

Secretary of investment company held without authority to make statements respecting the record title to lots which had been owned by the company which would estop subsequent purchaser from company from claiming that the record title thereto was the plaintiff's. Eume v. Carpenter (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 707.

Whether it authorized them or not the principal is liable for and bound by any fraud. ulent representations made by its agent in securing indorsements on a note in which it was the payee. Hackney Mfg. Co. v. Celum (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 988.

Where all definite assets of bankrupt corporation had been sold, in action against directors for making false financial statements, plaintiffs were not required to accept speculative value of claims in trustee's pending suits, or to await final result thereof. Continental Nat. Bank v. Scott (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 25.

Directors are responsible for the truth of corporation's financial statements sanctioned by them during long-continued method of borrowing money on faith of such statements. Id.

The general rule that negligent mismanagement of a corporate business will not render directors liable to creditors will not relieve directors from liability for false financial statements sanctioned by them. Id.

The fact that a director resided out of the state did not make creditors negligent in relying on assumption that he sanctioned issue of corporation's financial statement, made under his name. Id.

That a corporation's financial statement was prepared by employes, under directors' control, cannot relieve directors of responsibility for misrepresentations therein, in view of S. 1911, art. 1159. Id.

25. Wrongful acts.—Corporate directors, who knowingly appropriated to the use of the corporation the proceeds of cotton held by the corporation for another or knowingly permitted the corporation to do so, are jointly and severally liable with the corporation therefor. Dollar v. Lockney Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1076.

Manager of corporation, the stock of which had been given as collateral for the note of a third person, and which with the creditor's consent removed its stock of goods from its place of business, after a stockholder's original undertaking to pay the note, held not liable to the creditor for conversion. Enterprise Trading Co. v. Bank of Crowell (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 296.

A corporation is liable for the fraud of its agents, committed within the scope of their real or apparent authority. Washington County State Bank v. Central Bank & Trust Co. of Houston (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 436.

A corporation is liable for the torts of its servants or agents, precisely as a natural person. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Andrews (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 574.

A corporation is liable for slander uttered by an employé within the scope of his employment. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Long (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 431.

A slander, uttered by manager of corporation in giving employé reason for her discharge, was within the scope of his employment. Id.

Where a corporation and plaintiff jointly owned secured note payable to plaintiff's order, if president of corporation in its behalf assumed authority to dispose of plaintiff's interest, corporation would be liable in damages to plaintiff for any loss sustained. dealt v. Clack (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 774.

27. Estoppel to deny authority or acts.—Where plaintiff relied solely on the statement of a bookkeeper of an ice company without knowledge that he had a limited power to make purchases, and the company refused to accept or use the goods purchased, it cannot be held liable on the theory that it misled the public by holding out the bookkeeper as manager. Simsbee Ice & Mfg. Co. v. Tippett-Stanley-Garner Co. (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 787.

Legally constituted officers of a corporation are not estopped from denying unlawful acts done by officers not even de facto officers. Exline-Reimers Co. v. Lone Star Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1069.

When officers of a corporation make a contract for it, which inures to its benefit, and the results are enjoyed by it, it is estopped to deny the officers' authority to make the contract. Banker's Trust Co. of Amarillo v. Cooper, Merrill & Lumphin (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 541.

Where a loan from plaintiff bank was credited to defendant corporation and used to purchase collateral notes for its benefit, it could not escape liability on the ground that it was the independent act of an officer. Copper v. Farmers' & Merchants' State Bank (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 551.

Express assent by corporation shareholders to unauthorized acts of its president is not necessary to bind corporation which may be estopped to deny unauthorized acts by failure to promptly condemn them and seek judicial redress. Merchants' Ice Co. v. Scott & Dodson (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 418.

Corporation which accepts benefits of unauthorized employment of counsel by its president is estopped to deny authority of president to make such contract. Id.

A general manager, by authorizing an agent to borrow for purpose outside charter powers, does not estop the corporation to deny liability; the authority to manage the corporation's business being fixed in, and incapable by, the directors. Planters' Oil Co. v. Guaranty State Bank of Mertens (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 38.

The doctrine that a corporation, having accepted benefits of an unauthorized act of its agent, is estopped to deny consequent obligations, has no application where no benefits, but only liabilities, resulted. Id.

28. Ratification and repudiation.—When an unauthorized act of a corporate agent or officer is beneficial to the corporation, and it acquiesces by an acceptance of the benefits, very slight evidence of a ratification is necessary to charge the corporation with liability for the agent's acts. Canadian Long Distance Telephone Co. v. Seiber (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 897.

In an action against a corporation on a note executed by the president in pursuance of a contract which he was not authorized to make by a formal vote of board of directors, evidence held to show a ratification. Id.

Dunivan (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 425. An act, ultra vires, though not valid, may be ratified either by acquiescence of those charged with management of the corporation or by affirmative ratification. Coppard v. Farmers' Citizens' State Bank (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 561. Where the contract has been partly performed, or ratified by a corporation for whom in fact it was made, suit may be brought by such corporation thereon, though the contract was made in a name other than the true name of the corporation. W. B. Clarkson & Co. v. Gans S. S. Line (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1106. To be relieved of obligations arising from unauthorized acts of its agent, the corporation must return what it has received therefrom. Planters' Oil Co. v. Guaranty State Bank of Mertens (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 38. Where notes were executed by corporation as maker and two of its directors owning 93 per cent. of its stock, as indorsers, such notes were binding on the corporation, even if not expressly authorized, since indorsement of a majority of directors and stockholders was equivalent to ratification. Galveston-Houston Interurban Land Co. v. Dow (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 533. 29. Notice to officers and agents as affecting corporation.—Where officers of defendant bank knew the purpose of plaintiffs' draft for $5,000 to be the purchase of the bank's stock and indorsed it, collected it, and let it remain on deposit in the name of its president as trustee, the knowledge of such officer was the knowledge of the bank; and the fact that the president afterwards misappropriated it did not relieve it from liability to plaintiff. First State Bank of Seminole v. Shannon (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 398. The fact that the president of the bank in which the firm deposits were kept does not impart to the bank knowledge of an agreement between the partners as to the manner in which the funds were to be deposited and checked out, where the agreement was not communicated to any other officer of the bank. Amarillo Nat. Bank v. Harrell (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 858. A requested instruction, in an action against a corporation for negligent death in a collision between vehicles, caused by the viciousness of a team of mules belonging to the corporation, which makes the liability of the corporation depend on the knowledge of the character of the mules by an officer or officers, is properly refused. American Express Co. v. Farcarello (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 926. In an action on accepted drafts, that two persons were interested in both the drawer corporation and the payee, one as an incorporator of the corporation, and the other as an incorporator in one and a director in the other, held not to charge plaintiff with knowledge of defendant's equitable defense. Interstate Finance Co. v. Hosch (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 690. Knowledge of president of lumber company of terms of promoter's unauthorized contract made before security secured while engaged in the company's business was immaterial to the company, though it would not have been had he acquired it while engaged in his private business. Weatherby v. Texas & Ohio Lumber Co. (Sup.) 159 S. W. 735. 30. Notice of authority of agents, etc.—The validity of a corporate contract of purchase cannot be affected by the seller's want of knowledge that the corporation had by-laws, or that the executing officer lacked authority to bind it. Canadian Long Distance Telephone Co. v. Selma (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 897. Where a corporation employed a manager of its property, and he employed plaintiff to work for the corporation, which thereafter permitted the former manager to remain in charge of the property as lessee, it was bound to notify plaintiff of the change in the manager's capacity in order to avoid liability on a further contract of employment between them. Red Mineral Springs Development Co. v. Davis (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 427. Where corporate by-laws provided that the corporation could only convey reality with the consent of its board of directors, persons purchasing reality from it were charged with knowledge that the only power of the acting agent of the corporation was derived from the board of directors. Vacarezza v. Realty Inv. Co. (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 516. 31. Evidence as to authority—Sufficiency.—In an action for land, evidence held to show that an agent of a corporation had authority to bind the company by a verbal sale was insufficient. Weathersby v. Payne (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 386. Authority of an agent to act for a corporation may be shown by a course of dealing in which the acts of the alleged agent were known and recognized by the corporation. Id. It is not necessary that the authority of an agent of a corporation be shown by a record or recital of corporate action, but it may be inferred by a vote of the directors not entered of record, or by a course of dealing. Id. Evidence held insufficient to show that defendant lumber company had authorized its 212

Evidence held insufficient to show that defendant corporation held out its president as its agent having authority to contract for the sale of its lands. Morgan v. Washburn Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 911.

In an action for conversion of cotton mortgaged to plaintiff, and received from mortgagee's wife by defendant's manager, evidence held to warrant a finding of purchase by manager for defendant, and not for himself. First State Bank of Avinger v. J. J. Segal Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 789.

Evidence held to warrant a finding that the agent, with whom plaintiff made the contract, had authority to bind the corporation. Eastern Texas Traction Co. v. Birdsong (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1031.

A corporation president, who signed a written contract of employment of plaintiff, is sufficiently shown to be the agent of the corporation. Channell Chemical Co. v. Hall (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 704.

Evidence held to sustain a finding that defendant corporation's manager acted within his authority in giving plaintiff a firm check to apply on an indebtedness due plaintiff from a third firm, which was a creditor of defendant's and in which defendant's manager was financially interested. Monday Trading Co. v. J. M. Radford Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 520.

Evidence held sufficient to sustain finding that corporation authorized execution of notes indorsed by its officers. Galveston-Houston Interurban Land Co. v. Dow (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 353.

In action against directors to recover amount of loan made to the corporation upon representations as to its financial condition, evidence held to sustain special findings for plaintiffs. Cameron v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 469.

Evidence held to show that directors, in authorizing corporation's financial statement, used to obtain credit, failed to exercise ordinary care. Id. Evidence that directors knew of methods of bookkeeping held sufficient to charge them with notice of falsity of financial statements, used to obtain credit. Id.

Art. 1160. [662] [586] Directors shall cause record to be kept, etc.

Right of inspection.—Notwithstanding statute, one seeking to examine corporate books to obtain information to be used in furtherance of a scheme to defraud stockholders and wreck corporation is not entitled to aid of courts by mandamus to secure his right to examine corporate books. Roberts v. Munroe (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 724.

Transfer on books.—Under arts. 1160 and 1163, a petition to compel transfer of stock on the books by mandamus is insufficient if it fails to show what the by-laws provide as to transfers. Milner v. Brewer-Monaghan Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 49.

Record of corporate proceedings.—The minute book of a corporation is merely a record of the corporate acts, and a recordation of acts of the corporation is not necessary to their validity. Canadian Long Distance Telephone Co. v. Seiber (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 897.

Art. 1161. [663] [587] Shall report to stockholders and make dividends.

Where board of directors of corporation did not act in bad faith in refusing to disburse surplus in dividends, court would not interfere and require them to declare dividends. Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Latta & Happer (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1115.

Art. 1162. [653] [577] May borrow money.—Corporations shall have power to borrow money on the credit of the corporation and may execute bonds or promissory notes therefor and may pledge the property and income of the corporation. [P. D. 5944; Acts 1883, p. 98, § 13; Act Feb 23, 1917, ch. 39, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The act amends art. 1162, ch. 3, title 25, Rev. Civ. St., so as to read as above. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Notes—Ultra vires.—Under arts. 1140 and 1162, the execution and issuance of notes by corporation cannot be held to be ultra vires in absence of evidence that they were not issued in transaction of corporation's authorized business. Galveston-Houston Interurban Land Co. v. Dow (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 353.

Implied power.—The implied powers of a private trading corporation include that of borrowing money and giving security therefor. Taylor Feed Pen Co. v. Taylor Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 543.

Art. 1164. [665] [589] Corporation restricted to objects of its creation; may contribute to certain enterprises not political; pending suits.

—No corporation, domestic or foreign, doing business in this State shall employ or use its stock, means, assets or other property, directly or indirectly for any purpose whatever other than to accomplish the legitimate business of its creation, or those purposes otherwise permitted by law:
provided that nothing in this section shall be held to inhibit corporations from contributing to any bona fide association, incorporated or unincorporated, organized for and actively engaged for one year prior to such contribution in purely religious, charitable or eleemosynary activities, nor to local, district, or statewide commercial or industrial clubs, or associations, or other civic enterprises or organizations not in any manner nor to any extent directly or indirectly engaged in furthering the cause of any political party, or aiding in the election or defeat of any candidate for office, or aiding in defraying the expenses of any candidate for office, or defraying or aiding in defraying the expenses of any political campaign, or political headquarters, or aiding or assisting the success or defeat of any question to be voted upon by the qualified voters of this State or any subdivision thereof. Provided, that the provisions of this Act shall not in any wise affect any suit now pending in this State on the behalf of the State of Texas for any violation of unlawful contributions by any corporation. [Acts 1907, p. 312, § 5; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 102, § 1; Act Feb. 13, 1917, ch. 15, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The title of the act purports to amend art. 1164, Rev. Civ. St., “as amended by chapter 102 of the Acts of the Regular Session of the Thirty-fourth Legislature.” The enacting part omits reference to the amendatory act above referred to. See, of the act makes it a felony for any officer or agent of a corporation to contribute money within the United States for political purposes, and is set forth as art. 1487b, Rev. St., of the Penal Code. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment. See notes under arts. 1140, 1159.

In general.—Under this article a land and irrigation company was without authority to contribute to the political purposes of a third person. Carla Land & Irrigation Co. v. Asherton State Bank (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1666.

Under arts. 1140, 1164, 1167, a corporation can exercise only powers expressly granted or those necessary or reasonably appropriate to the exercise of such powers. State v. Country Club (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 876.

Implied or incidental powers of a private corporation include those usually and customarily attending the business for which it is organized, and those necessary to enable it to perform the undertaking designated in the charter. A corporation for “manufacture of cotton seed oil and cotton seed products and the ginning of cotton, with power to purchase, or construct and maintain mills and gins for such purpose, and with power to purchase such goods, wares, and merchandise used for such business,” cannot buy and sell baled cotton for speculation. Planters' Cotton Oil Co. v. Guaranty State Bank of Mertens (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 38.

Although by buying and selling baled seeded cotton, a corporation might benefit by enlarging the local cotton market, such is not an implied power of a corporation organized to manufacture cotton seed products. Id.

If a corporation agent duly authorized to borrow money on its credit does so and uses it for a purpose outside the charter powers, the corporation cannot avoid liability on the ground of its own wrongful misappropriation of the money. Without actual authority the corporation cannot by contract bind it for money borrowed and used for a purpose outside the charter powers; one who deals with a corporation being charged with notice of limitations of powers by charter. Id.

Under this article a corporation for manufacture of cotton seed products cannot speculate in cotton. Id.

Transportation corporation cannot contract as insurance company to indemnify employé for the amount spent by him for hospital accommodations, medical treatment, etc., because the statute expressly authorizes insurance corporations to so contract. Gulf, C & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Goodman (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 326.

Diversion of funds.—Assistant general manager of railroad, granted a leave of absence by general manager, duly authorized thereto, on pay and subject to orders, held entitled to recover fixed salary during absence, the company's payment thereof not being prohibited by this article. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Bryant (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 655.

Where corporation pays a debt believing that it was contracted in due course of business by its agent, when in fact it was for money borrowed for a purpose beyond the charter powers, it can recover the amount so paid. And where a corporation agent is authorized to draw checks and create an overdraft in due course of business, but, without notice to the bank, he draws such a check for a purpose outside charter powers, the bank can recover the amount from the corporation. Planters' Oil Co. v. Guaranty State Bank of Mertens (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 38.

A general manager, by authorizing an agent to borrow for purpose outside charter powers, does not estop the corporation to deny liability; the authority to manage the corporation, and nondelegable by law, is fixed in, and held by, the general manager. Id.

Liability as partners for acts outside scope of corporate business.—The managing stockholders of a corporation are liable as partners for the acts of corporate employés while engaged in business for the corporation which it could not be authorized to conduct. St. Louis, P. & F. R. R. Co. v. Texas Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 444.

Forfeiture.—A county attorney may not bring suit to forfeit charter of a private corporation, exclusive authority in that respect being conferred by Const. art. 4, § 22, on 214
Art. 1165. [665] [580] Restrictions upon creation of debts.

Art. 1167. Penalty for violation of either of the last three preceding articles.

Art. 1168. [666] [590] Stock of corporation is personal estate.

Certificate of stock.—A certificate of stock in a corporation is but a muniment of title, and is not necessary to a subscriber’s complete ownership of the stock. Yeaman v. Galveston City Co., 166 Tex. 388, 167 S. W. 710, answering certified questions (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 488.

Irregularities in the issue of stock of a corporation held not to affect the rights of its purchaser as a stockholder. Id.

Plaintiffs, by the purchase of trust certificates under a trust agreement providing for the formation of a corporation, held to have become stockholders in the corporation when formed. Yeaman v. Galveston City Co. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 489, certified questions answered by Supreme Court, 106 Tex. 389, 167 S. W. 710.

Cannot construe the certificate upon a trust instrument constituting its charter and regulating rights of stockholders held proper to be considered in determining the status as a shareholder of the owner of lost trustees’ certificates issued under the agreement. Id.

Where a corporation was organized to further a business previously in the hands of a joint-stock company formed by the holders of trust certificates evidencing their right to participate, the holders of such certificates held ipso facto stockholders in the corporation, and the rights of stockholders, regardless of whether they ever surrendered their trust certificates in exchange for stock certificates. Id.

A certificate of stock is not the stock itself, but evidence of its ownership. Cattlemen’s Trust Co. of Ft. Worth v. Turner (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 488.

Evidence held to show that former petition by plaintiff’s predecessors to have certificate issued to them related to same numbered certificate; that a resolution on the minutes of corporation denying the petition was a response to the petition; and that parties to petition by plaintiff’s predecessors, or their attorney, had knowledge or notice of the resolution denying the petition at or about the date of its adoption. Converse v. Galveston City Co. (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 539.

No right exists against a corporation because of lost certificates of stock, where the owner has duplicates issued, sells them, and they are redeemed, though some of the duplicates are erroneously numbered. Yeaman v. Galveston City Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 212.

Transfer of shares.—The remedy of a stockholder induced to exchange his stock for stock in another corporation is to rescind and recover back the stock given to him by its value, but he may not do so without returning the stock received or accounting for its value. Continental Trust Co. v. Cowart (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 588.

Want of knowledge of defendants that their agent in selling stock to plaintiff had made false representations held no defense to plaintiff’s suit to recover money paid and to enjoin enforcement of purchase-money notes, unless they were purchasers for value without notice. Cunningham v. Gaines (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 143.

In an action to cancel a contract for the purchase of corporate stock and a note given defendant to show the defendant’s purchase of the note and contract, made false representations as to the amount of the corporation’s capital stock and his right to sell it, and that the note and contract were unsupported by consideration. Le Master v. Hailey (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 838.

The transfer of the capital stock of a railroad does not operate ipso facto as a transfer of the physical properties thereof. Continental Trust Co. v. Brown (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 839.

Where party, to whom share of joint-stock company, which later became corporation, was issued, sold to another person so that either legal or equitable title passed, heirs of seller thereafter had no such title to stock of corporation thereafter chartered as authorized them to maintain suit for recognition as stockholders, etc. Condit v. Galveston City Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 285.

Shares may be sold by parol or pass by delivery of certificate. Id.

Acquisition by one person of entire stock.—Purchasers of the entire stock of a corporation held not entitled to recover for misrepresentations by defendants that it was fully paid in. Vick v. Park (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1039.

Where plaintiffs acquired the entire stock of a corporation, all of the physical properties of the corporation were conveyed to them. Id.

Where improvements made by the sellers and purchasers of a corporation’s entire capital stock exceeded the amount unpaid on the stock, purchasers cannot recover damages for misrepresentations that it was fully paid in, the value of the improvements having been credited. Id.

Pledges.—A pledgee of corporate stock has such an interest in the assets of the corporation as entitles him to invoke equitable relief to prevent the removal of its assets from its place of domicile and its exchange for stock of another corporation. Enterprise Trading Co. v. Bank of Crowell (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 396.

In a suit to recover stock pledged to secure a debt, and transferred by the pledgee, the admission in evidence of a letter written defendant by plaintiff, informing him of plaintiff's non-payment, did not even.

Transfer of pledged stock, after indorsement that it was deposited as security had been erased and pledgor's signature had been forged to power of attorney thereon, held to pass no title. Id.

A contract, executed contemporaneously with pledge of stock to secure a debt, giving pledgee option to purchase a similar amount of stock of the same company, held not to show that pledgee had authority to sell pledged stock or stop defendant to show lack of authority. Id.

Evidence.—In action by heirs for recognition as stockholders, evidence held to authorize finding that plaintiff's ancestor had disposed of his share of stock. Condit v.
Galveston City Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 395.

Evidence may be sufficient to show that plaintiff's ancestor had sold corporate stock originally issued to him, though there is no evidence as to the identity of the buyer and no claim to such stock had ever been made. Green v. Galveston City Co. (Civ. App.)
191 S. W. 182.

Evidence that one share less of the stock had been issued than plaintiffs admitted in their petition had been taken up by the corporation is sufficient to warrant the jury in finding that the share issued to plaintiffs' ancestor had been taken up by the corporation. Id.

Suit by heirs and legatees to establish the ownership of a share of stock in defendant corporation, evidence held to sustain jury findings that the certificate in question was surrendered or disposed of by plaintiffs' ancestors and canceled by the de-

Fact that certificate of stock was signed by president did not prove that it was then owned by company instead of by president individually. Moorsport Oil Co.
v. Aldridge (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 490.

Registration of transfer.—In the absence of statute or corporation by-law, assignee of stock may have it transferred on the books, although the corporation has a lien for debt, such transfer subject, however, to the lien. Milner v. Brewer-Monaghan Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 49.

Compelling by mandamus.—Under arts. 1160, 1165, providing for transfer of stock: action to compel transfer of stock by the by-laws of the corporation is insufficient if it fails to show what the by-laws provide as to transfers. Milner v. Brewer-Monaghan Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 49.

Effect.—A corporation stands in the relation of trustee to its stockholders, but this relation applies to the true owners of the stock, and not merely to those who from the records of the corporation appear to be owners. And a corporation, when sued by the heir of one shown by its books to have been the holder of stock, transferable by indorsement of the certificate, can defend the action in the interest of the real owner, though his identity may be unknown to it, if it has evidence that the stock has been

Action to establish right to stock.—Where defendant corporation, prior to July, 1909, had taken no affirmative steps to repudiate certain rights of plaintiff's ancestor under trust certificates which had been lost, and plaintiffs had no knowledge of their ownership as heirs of the original owner until August, 1909, and brought suit to establish their rights in November following the action was not barred by laches. Yeaman v.
Galveston City Co., 166 Tex. 399, 167 S. W. 710, answering certified questions (Civ. App.)
173 S. W. 489.

Evidence held insufficient to show repudiation by defendant corporation of plaintiffs' ancestor's rights as a stockholder. Id.

Art. 1169. [667] [591] Directors may require payment of stock.

3. Contract of subscription—Construction.—Subscription contract to stock of a corporation is to be organized under laws of Texas, with powers limited by Vernon's Sayles'
Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1121, held not a contract for stock of corporation organized
App.) 187 S. W. 651.

Where meaning of the term "securities," as used in a stock subscription contract, was doubtful, practical construction given it by both parties should control its interpreta-

4. Liability of subscriber.—Under a contract to take stock in a corporation, once "in process of formation" and to be chartered under the laws of the state, the law supplied the condition that the concern should in fact be incorporated, and on performance of such condition the subscriber's liability became absolute and enforceable by action of assumpsit: an action for breach of contract not being the only remedy.

A corporation's issuance, delivery, or tender of a certificate is not a condition precedent to an action against a subscriber for the balance due upon his subscription. Id.

Where notes given for corporate stock were attached to and made a part of the subscription contract, the rejection of the notes, together with the failure to deliver the shares to the person contracting for them, justified him in concluding that the subscription contract had been rejected. Amicable Life Ins. Co. v. Kenner (Civ. App.)
165 S. W. 462.

A call for a subscription to stock in a corporation is not necessary when the contract of subscription contains the promise to pay the amount subscribed at a specified date.

Conditions prescribed by Legislature, under which charters of corporations may be granted, must be noticed by subscribers, and they are conclusively presumed to contract
187 S. W. 651.

5. Through promoters or agents.—The provisions of a stock subscription contract for payment for the stock and for expenses of organization held severable, so that the corporation was not liable for the money paid to the organizers upon rejecting the subscription. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Thurman (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 762.

7. Subscriptions obtained by fraud.—A prospectus of a corporation, which gives information as to the property, machinery, and appliances of the corporation and its financial condition, contains representations of fact, and, if false and inducing one to purchase stock, the corporation is liable for the damages sustained. Fox v. Moeller (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1048.

Statements by an agent in taking subscriptions for the increased capital stock of a life insurance company were puffing inducements or promises for future performance, and not fraudulent misrepresentations. Cope v. Fitters (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 447.

False representations by the promoter held such fraud on subscribers as authorized a rescission of the subscription contract. Bohn v. Burton-Lingo Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 172.

Evidence of misrepresentations by the promoters' agent held admissible to show fraud in the inception of the subscription contract sought to be canceled. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Cator (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 230

False representations of an agent, taking subscriptions to the stock of a corporation to be organized, that plaintiff could give his note for the stock, and that it would be indefinitely extended, relating to a matter as to which agent had no authority, and which the corporation could not validly carry out, held to warrant rescission of the subscription. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Mount (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 783.

8. — Reliance on representations.—Where an agent, authorized to sell stock of a mining corporation, made false representations to induce one to purchase stock, and the subscriber, from discovering him from inquiring, the agent could not escape liability on the ground of the negligence of the purchaser. Fox v. Moeller (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1048.

False representations in the sale of corporate stock as to facts concerning which accurate knowledge could be had held fraud, without showing that defendant knew of their falsity. Harris v. Shear (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 136.

9. — Estoppel.—Where a subscriber, with knowledge of a misrepresentation, transferred the stock to another, he waived his right to cancel the subscription contract. Commonwealth Casualty Ins. Co. v. Cator (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1074.

Fact that corporation to which plaintiff had subscribed was not organized as first agreed to among the subscribers, held not to permit him to defeat his subscription obligation, if held to such an extent as would constitute a waiver by the terms of the subscription contract. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Barrington (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 936.

Where a stock subscription contract was void because providing for the issue of stock for note, and between stockholder and corporation, held that corporation could not invoke defense of estoppel to stockholder's action for a cancellation of note and deed of trust given to secure it. Mitchell v. Porter (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 981.

10. Effect of fraud and remedies of subscriber.—In a suit to set aside a subscription to stock, an allegation held to sufficiently show that plaintiff was damaged by the false representations. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Bomar (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1060.

A subscription to capital stock of a corporation induced by fraudulent representations of its agent is void, but voidable only. Davis v. Burns (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 476.

One who has been induced to subscribe for stock by fraudulent representations may demand and recover any money or thing of value paid thereon.

Stock subscriptions procured by fraudulent representations may be rescinded by the subscriber by notifying the corporate authorities, without taking legal proceedings. Bohn v. Burton-Lingo Co. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 173.

Where the managing officers of a corporation, at the time of accepting a subscription procured by the promoters through fraud, have no notice of the fraud, the subscriber cannot thereafter cancel his subscription contract by reason of the fraud. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Cator (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1074.

A subscription procured by fraud of the officers or agents of an existing corporation is voidable at the option of the subscriber. Id.

A misrepresentation, by an agent of the promoters, as to the amount of cash paid in, held material, so as to authorize cancellation of a subscription, if the corporation had had notice thereof when it accepted the subscription. Id.

Cancellation of stock subscription will not be decreed in favor of a subscriber who has transferred the stock to a third person, who retains possession thereof. Id.

Fraud of defendant's agent to obtain plaintiff's consent to the subscription contract, contained in the contract, to the effect that the company would loan plaintiff money, would give plaintiff an action for damages. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Bland (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 356.

Corporation accepting subscription contract and notes held not affected by fraud inducing the subscription of which it had no actual notice. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Meeks (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 631.

A subscription induced by misrepresentation by promoter of corporation to induce plaintiff to purchase its stock held to warrant rescission of contract. Peerless Fire Ins. Co. v. Revere (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 254.

In view of doctrine whereby subscriptions become trust fund for benefit of its general creditors, corporation's insolvency is a bar to rescission of subscription contract for fraud. Thompson v. First State Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 116.

In a suit by receiver of an insolvent corporation to collect unpaid stock subscriptions as a general rule, it is no valid defense that subscription contract was procured by fraudulent misrepresentations. Mitchell v. Porter (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 981.
12. Conditional subscription.—Subscriber to corporate stock who was active in the organization of the company, signed a certificate, and who was also elected second vice president, held to have waived condition of his subscription that it should not be binding until he paid half. Panhandle Packing Co. v. Stringfellow (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 145.

By appointing a representative to act for him at stockholders' meeting at which it was agreed to organize under the laws of Arizona with a paid-up capital stock of less than $200,000, and accepting an agreement from the new corporation, held that a subscriber who elected the said contract of his subscription should be organized in Texas with a paid-up capital of $200,000. Medlin v. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 899.

Subscriber to corporate stock, who gave note therefor, by executing renewals to the holder of the notes as his individual debt, did not waive his option, under collateral contract, to take back the stock, where, before each successive renewal, the subscriber had the same agreement in substance with the party who induced him to subscribe and execute the option. Bean v. Hall (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 1084.

In action by bank, on note given for stock, against subscriber and indorser, facts that subscriber executed renewals and paid interest, treating note as personal debt, was not conclusive, on question of waiver by subscriber of his option, under collateral contract with party who induced him to subscribe, to take back the stock. Id.

Promise of corporation to establish loan agency and to make plaintiff its agent, alleged as consideration of plaintiff's contract of subscription, was a condition precedent to plaintiff's right on his subscription contract. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Meeks (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 683.

13. Withdrawal or cancellation.—Under an agency contract whereby plaintiff was to purchase shares of the stock of defendant company, agreement that, on termination of the agency, the stock at the price hereinafter specified, if valid, where the stock was not the original unsubscribed stock. Hesse Envelope Co. of Texas v. Addison (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 888.

The rule that a stock subscription contract cannot be canceled except with the consent of the donee does not apply to a contract procured by fraudulent representations of the donee. Bohn v. Burton-Lingo Co. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 173.

Failure of a corporation to make plaintiff a loan held not an available ground for cancellation of the subscription contract, where the loan was to be made only upon renewal of said subscription." Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Cator (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1074.

That the corporation was organized in a state other than that stipulated held sufficient ground for cancellation of the note and deed of trust given in payment for the stock subscribed for. Id.

In the absence of waiver or estoppel, a subscription to the stock of a corporation to be organized in Texas with a certain paid-up capital may be avoided, where the company is incorporated in Arizona with a less paid-up capital. Medlin v. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 899.

Plaintiff in suit against company to recover amount paid and to cancel note for balance on his stock subscription contract, not showing any pecuniary loss, held not entitled to recover. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Barrington (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 956.

In suit to cancel notes given upon a stock subscription, to recover vendor's lien notes given as collateral to such notes, and to recover money paid to defendant company, evidence held to sustain a finding that plaintiff was not guilty of laches in not instituting his suit earlier. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Meeks (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 681.

Where agreement between plaintiff, subscribing to stock in defendant company, and defendant's agent was not notice of alleged misrepresentations with references to amount of capital stock, etc., plaintiff could not rescind without showing that before subscription defendant had notice thereof. Id.

Action of incorporators making affidavit for charter in naming themselves as only subscribers for the stock, ignoring previous subscribers, including themselves, to written subscription lists, did not affect the mutual obligation of such subscribers to such lists, or the right of the corporation when organized to sue such a one. Panhandle Packing Co. v. Stringfellow (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 145.

15. Payment.—See art. 1146 and notes.

Where a stock subscription contract provided that $5 a share should be paid in cash to the corporation's agents as compensation for services, the corporation could not object that they accepted a less sum from the purchaser, except that, upon rejection of the contract, it was bound to return the sum accepted by the agents under the provision requiring the return of the amount paid in case the contract was rejected. Amicable Life Ins. Co. v. Kenner (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 463.

Where a subscriber to the capital stock of a corporation has paid his subscription or complied with the requisites entitling him to stock, he thereby becomes a stockholder, regardless of whether a certificate is ever issued to him. Yeaman v. Galveston City Co., 167 S. W. 710, answered cert. Pl. answering cert. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 489.

A voluntary payment by a third person to a corporation of the amount due on a stock subscription extinguishes the debt due from subscriber. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Mosely (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1031.

218. Insolvency.—Evidence held insufficient to show estoppel in pais of corporation to deny validity of trustees' certificates as shares of stock in it. Yeaman v. Galveston City Co. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 489, certified questions answered by Supreme Court, 106 Tex., 389, 167 S. W. 710.

Where a subscriber to stock, induced thereunto by misrepresentations, after discovering the facts renewed the note given for the price, he waived the fraud and acquiesced therein, and could not have cancellation of the note. Cattlemen's Trust Co. of Ft. Worth v. Fruitt (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 716.

In suit by a subscriber to stock, induced thereto by misrepresentations as to par value, to cancel the note given for the price, evidence held to show conclusively that plaintiff, when he renewed the original note, knew the untruth of the representations, and had consulted with his attorneys. Id.

Executing proxy by subscriber to stock of corporation, to be organized in Texas, held not to estop him from rescinding his subscription, where the corporation was organized in another state. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Meeks (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 651.

Art. 1170. [668] [592] Stock forfeited, when and how.

What constitutes issue of stock.—Under Const. art. 12, § 6, and in view of this article, subscription to stock of corporation to be organized, accompanied by subscription notes secured by deed of trust on land, without delivery of the stock, held not an issue of stock, and hence not illegal or void. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Hill (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 247.

Art. 1173. [676] [600] Corporation may convey lands, how.

Execution of deed.—A deed executed by a corporation, attested by its seal, carries with it prima facie evidence of antecedent authority for its execution, though it does not recte such authority on the part of its president and secretary, duly executing and acknowledging the deed. Magee v. Paul (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 325.

A deed executed by a corporation is not inadmissible in evidence because it was made by the president of the corporation to himself. Coleman v. Lueckke (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1117.

Purported deed of railroad company incorporated by the act approved February 2, 1856 (4 Gammel Laws of Texas, p. 347), signed by its president and secretary, without proof of precedent authority or holding out, or former course of dealing or of ratification, held inadmissible to show that title had passed out of the company. Emory v. Bailey (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 831.

Release of mortgage.—In view of this article, release of mortgages executed by a church by its corresponding secretary held not valid. Ailing v. Vander Stucken (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 446.

CHAPTER FOUR

LAND—ACQUISITION, ETC., OF, RESTRICTED

Article 1175. Purchase of land, unless necessary to business or to secure debts, prohibited.

In general.—In the absence of prohibition in statute or charter a corporation can take and hold land, except as restricted by the objects of its creation and the limitations of its charter. Wooten v. Dermott Town-Site Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 598.

Since a corporation may recover land on record title acquired by ultra vires act, no reason can be advanced why it cannot do so on a title by limitation so acquired. Buchanan v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 629.

CHAPTER EIGHT

LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS AND DIRECTORS

Art. 1198. When and how stockholders may be made liable on execution.

Art. 1200. Directors liable for debts of corporation, when and to what extent.

Article 1198. [671] [595] When and how stockholders may be made liable on execution.

Creditor can sue stockholders directly, when.—A petition merely stating that defendants were the principal shareholders of a corporation, for which plaintiff rendered services, held not to state a cause of action against the defendant shareholders; the petition not coming within arts. 1198, 1206, 1208. Seaton v. Majors (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 712.

Liability as stockholders—In general.—The charter of a foreign corporation or the statute under which it was organized determines the liability of resident shareholders to its creditors, and, if a shareholder is liable at all, he is liable only according to the law of the corporation's domicile. Nesom v. City Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 718.

In a creditor's action to recover unpaid stock subscription, held that evidence that defendants had repudiated the subscriptions for fraud with the corporation's consent before credit was extended by plaintiff was admissible. Bohn v. Burton-Lingo Co. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 173.

A person induced by fraud to become a subscriber to corporate stock is relieved from liability to corporate creditors, where he repudiates his subscription promptly and before the rights of creditors have intervened. Id.

Capital stock of a corporation, especially its unpaid subscriptions, is a trust fund for the benefit of its general creditors. Thompson v. First State Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 116.

--- Unpaid subscriptions. — Where the principal stockholder and manager of a corporation advanced money to it with knowledge of the stockholders and other directors, he may, upon being held liable for an unpaid amount on his stock, set off his claim against that of the corporation's creditors; the money advanced having become part of the corporate assets. Witt v. Nelson (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 381.

The Court of Civil Appeals, art. 12, § 6, and Rev. St. 1911, arts. 1146, 1188, held that stockholders who paid nothing for common stock issued to them were liable for an amount sufficient to pay unsecured creditors of the insolvent corporation. Rowan v. Texas Orchard Development Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 871.

Each of several stockholders to whom stock had been issued without any payment being made therefor held liable on such stock only for his proportionate part of debts due unsecured creditors of the insolvent corporation. Id.

--- Effect of transfer of stock. — Stockholder's liability may be enforced as against subscribers and transferees with knowledge of nonpayment of the stock. Witt v. Nelson (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 381.

Where, upon organization of a corporation, half of its capital was paid in and stock issued therefor, and thereafter stockholders became indebted to the corporation, which took over their shares, a subsequent purchaser of such shares, who bought for a sum less than par, is not liable to the creditors of the corporation. Id.

Where corporate stock is transferred before the whole of the subscription price has been paid, and the transfer is duly recorded, the transferee is usually discharged from further liability upon the subscription. Rich v. Park, 177 S. W. 184.

Under Const. art. 12, § 6, subscribers to the stock of a corporation who had not fully paid for stock received are guarantors of the balance due regardless of transfer. Id.

A purchaser of corporate stock is liable for sums due thereon if he bought with knowledge, notwithstanding representations that it was fully paid in. Id.

--- Directors liable for debts of corporation, when and to what extent.

Misapplication of funds. — Corporate directors are liable for the misapplication of funds held in trust by the corporation. Dollar v. Lockney Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1076.

Corporate directors or trustees, who commingle money collected for another with the corporate funds, contrary to the instructions of the owner, or knowingly permit their employes to do so, resulting in the loss of such funds, are personally liable therefor. Id.

CHAPTER NINE

INSOLVENT CORPORATIONS

Art. 1201. Unlawful for insolvent corporations to do business in state.

Art. 1202. Attorney general, etc., to bring quo warranto, etc., to forfeit charter or cancel permit; receiver, etc.

Article 1201. Unlawful for insolvent corporations to do business in state.

Art. 1202. Attorney general, etc., to bring quo warranto, etc., to forfeit charter or cancel permit; receiver, payment of indebtedness as affecting suit, etc.

Art. 1203. Stockholders or creditors may sue to dissolve when; by leave of court, with notice, etc.

Receiver. — A corporation having joined a plaintiff in a suit for dissolution, its statutory right to be served with 10 days' notice of the application for receiver is waived. Floore v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 737.

It is an objection to a petition for the appointment of a receiver of a corporation that it does not show that the receiver could care for its property better than could be done by its officers as trustees, pursuant to art. 1206. Id.
In a suit for receivership and for an injunction against sale on foreclosure of a first lien against corporate property, an allegation that it would not sell for its full value by reason of uncertainty of title, unpaid judgments, and suits against it, is insufficient for the appointment of a receiver.

Under arts. 1203, 2128, § 3, suit by minority stockholders for receivership of going corporation, not shown to be insolvent or in imminent danger of insolvency, held not maintainable. Toomey v. First Mortgage Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 539.

Under this article held, that appointment of receiver is not authorized. Kokernot v. Roos (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 565.

No notice is required to be given a corporation by the stockholder owning 25 per cent. of its stock seeking to dissolve it, and in such suit the appointment of a receiver is not authorized.

Art. 1204. Rights and remedies cumulative.

Excessive remedy.—Art. 1301 et seq. held not to provide an excessive remedy where a corporation has failed to pay its franchise tax. Canadian Country Club v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 835.

CHAPTER TEN

DISSOLUTION OF PRIVATE CORPORATIONS

| Art. 1206. Corporation is dissolved, how. | Art. 1207. Trustees responsible to creditors, etc., to what extent. |
| Art. 1208. Liability of stockholders to creditors and to each other. | Art. 1210. Only liable for unpaid stock. |

Article 1205. [680] [604] Corporation is dissolved, how.

Actions by or against corporation after dissolution.—In an action by a creditor of a corporation after dissolution, a director held not injured because an equitable lien was established and foreclosed on property of the corporation in his hands. Lakeside Irr. Co. v. Buffington (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 21.

Abatement of action.—Where a corporation was dissolved, the remedy was to abate an action against it, and not to direct a judgment on the merits in its favor. Corsicana Transit Co. v. Walton (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 307.

Forfeiture—Grounds.—Under this article a quasi public corporation organized to dredge a channel across Galveston Bay, that has been guilty of nonuser of its corporate franchise, and that has rendered future exercise impossible by sale of essential property, will forfeit its charter to the state. West End Dock v. State (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 255.

Where no showing is made that such corporation owes debts, judgment in favor of the state for public lands granted it at its incorporation is proper. Id.

Art. 1206. Unless receiver appointed, president, etc., to be trustees, and close business.

Application.—A petition merely stating that defendants were the principal shareholders of a corporation, for which plaintiff rendered services, held not to state a cause of action against the defendant shareholders; the petition not coming within arts. 1198, 1205, 1208. Seaton v. Majors (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 712.

Appointment of receiver.—Under this article a receiver, appointed and discharged prior to dissolution, was not a receiver within the exception of the statute; the corporation not having been dissolved. Lakeside Irr. Co. v. Buffington (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 21.

It is an objection to a petition for the appointment of a receiver of a corporation that it does not show that the receiver could care for its property better than could be done by its officers as trustees, pursuant to this article. Floore v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 787.

Injunction.—Where no cause of action against a corporation was alleged nor was its dissolution warranted, a temporary injunction restraining corporation officers from carrying on the business will be denied; it being asked as an adjunct to the appointment of a receiver which was refused. Leary v. International Coal & Wood Co. (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 365.

Effect of dissolution.—The abatement of a suit pending against a corporation on appeal when such corporation was dissolved was prevented by this article. Clark Pease v. Rathbun-Jones Engineering Co., 248 U. S. 273, 37 Sup. Ct. 283, 61 L. Ed. 715.
A Texas corporation after its legal dissolution was incapable of defending suit on contract incurred during its corporate existence, this article not expressly or inferentially conferring such power. Orange Lumber Co. v. Toole (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 823.

Trustees to close business.—After forfeiture of the right of a corporation to do business under art. 7399, directors held entitled to sue as stockholders to set aside a void judgment against the corporation, though not as trustees under this article. Favorite Oil Co. of Beaumont & Cleburne v. Jef. Chaison Co. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 423.

In an action by a creditor of a corporation after dissolution against the president and directors as trustees, as authorized by this article, the stockholders were not necessary parties. Lakeside Irr. Co. v. Buffalo (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 21.

Under this article the stockholders could not, after dissolution, appoint a third party trustee so as to prevent the president and directors from becoming trustees of the creditors. Id.

In action against corporation after its dissolution, and against its statutory trustee to wind up its affairs, not alleging that the corporation on its dissolution had any assets or that the trustee received any assets, judgment against the trustee was erroneous. Orange Lumber Co. v. Toole (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 823.

Limitation of action.—Where the director and officer of a legally dissolved corporation was sued on the corporation's contract as its trustee under this article, limitations would run in his favor as against the creditor, although the trustee did not give notice of his repudiation of the trust. The limitation was not suspended until 12 months after such dissolution; the provision of article 5704 not applying. Orange Lumber Co. v. Toole (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 823.

Art. 1207. [683] [607] Trustees responsible to creditors, etc., to what extent.

Lien on assets.—The creditors of a liquidating corporation have an equitable lien on its assets in the hands of the stockholders or trustees to secure their claims. Lakeside Irr. Co. v. Buffalo (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 21.

Art. 1208. [684] [608] Liability of stockholders to creditors and to each other.

Art. 1210. [686] [610] Only liable for unpaid stock.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

RELIGIOUS, CHARITABLE AND OTHER CORPORATIONS

Art. 1212. [713] [637] Powers and privileges of.

In general.—Where a church was operating under a charter for some time acquiesced in by defendants, it had a right to proceed without interference from them, whether or not the charter was in accord with their ideas. Richardson v. General Assembly of the Church of the Living God (Civ. App.) 391 S. W. 148.

Officers.—Where application for writ of garnishment shows on its face that the affiant is a trustee of a church, his act will be considered as act of church itself. Queen Ins. Co. v. Keller (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 359.

Art. 1214. Certain orders may incorporate, how.

Right to name.—A colored order, known as the Free and Accepted Masons, held not entitled to enjoy a rival order from the use of the name of the Ancient Free & Accepted Masons, Colored. Free and Accepted Masons of the State of Texas v. Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, Colored (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 265.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

TELEGRAPH CORPORATIONS

Art. 1231. [698] [622] May set poles, etc., across public roads.

Construction and application in general.—Rev. St. 1911, arts. 1231, 1235, relating to the use of streets and roads by telegraph companies, applies only to companies organized to construct and maintain telegraph or telephone lines. Acme Cement Plaster Co. v. American Cement Plaster Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 133.
A county which has an easement in a public road cannot authorize the establishment of a private telephone line therein. Id.

Interstate commerce. Franchise granted by municipality to telegraph company held taxable as property, so that imposition of taxes thereon placed no burden on interstate commerce, though company was engaged in interstate business. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. City of Houston (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 371.

The erection of telephone poles and wires along a public street or highway does not impose any additional servitude upon the highway, so as to require a telephone company to condemn the land of the street for that purpose. Roaring Springs Townsite Co. v. Paducah Telephone Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 40.

Under this article, art. 1232, permitting such corporations to condemn a right of way, and art. 1235, permitting municipal authorities to specify where telegraph posts, etc., shall be permitted, a reservation in a dedication deed, retaining power to grant to such corporations a right to construct a line over and across the streets, was void. Id.

A de facto corporation is considered such for all purposes, including that of constructing a telephone line upon and across any street, which right is given to telephone corporations by this article. Id.

Subject to regulation restriction of art. 1235, telegraph and telephone companies have absolute right to use ways of municipalities for transmitting telegrams and long-distance telephone messages, as provided by this article. Athens Telephone Co. v. City of Athens (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 42.

Telephone companies have no right to place wires over railway tracks in space necessary to railway company's use without consent or condemnation, and, in absence of such right, must place wires at a reasonable elevation. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Railroad Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 60. Athens Telephone Co., when occupying its own zone above a railway track, is similar to tenant of upper story of building, and it must use its property so as not to interfere with railway company's right. Id.

Consent of municipality. Condition of grant of right to use streets for local telephone business, limiting the rental which might be charged, held binding on a telephone company which acquired the rights of the grantee. Athens Telephone Co. v. City of Athens (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 371.

Telephone company, agreeing to maximum rate to secure franchise from town incorporated under general laws, held bound by provision therefor in franchise. Athens Telephone Co. v. City of Athens (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 42.

Telephone rate fixed in franchise to local telephone company held not inoperative, because not evidenced by separate contract therefor signed by company. Id.

Where owners of telephone system, legally obligated to maximum rate in franchise from town incorporated under general laws, sold system to company incorporated to own and operate it, which took system over in payment for four-fifths of capital stock, corporation could not increase such maximum rate. Id.

Payment for use of streets or roads.—Const. art. 8, § 1, providing for equal and uniform taxation, is not violated by an ordinance requiring certain of the companies maintaining poles in the streets to pay an annual privilege fee therefor. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. City of Dallas (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 629.

If poles used by telephone company for long distance are not subject to ordinance imposing annual fee of $2 per pole in its streets, the company sued for the fee must make known the poles so used. Id.

Under power in city's charter to regulate use of its streets, it can charge telephone companies for use and occupation of streets with poles. Id.

That a telephone company is unlawfully on streets does not, in absence of power in the city's charter, give it right to require payment by the company of a privilege fee. Id.

A fee of $2 per pole per year imposed by an ordinance for maintaining telephone poles in streets cannot be said, as matter of law, to be unreasonable. Id.

Art. 1232. [699] [623] May enter upon lands, etc.

De facto corporation.—A de facto corporation may exercise the power of eminent domain. Roaring Springs Townsite Co. v. Paducah Telephone Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 59.

Damages—Additional use or burden.—Where the fee of a county road, as well as that of the right of way of a railroad company, remains in the landowner, the erection of a telephone line on either is an appropriation of his property which cannot be justified, except in case of condemnation by a public service telegraph or telephone company. Acme Cement Plaster Co. v. American Cement Plaster Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 183.

Reservation in dedication deed.—Under art. 1231, permitting telegraph corporations to set their poles, etc., in streets, article 1232, permitting such corporations to condemn a right of way, and article 1235, permitting municipal authorities to specify where telegraph posts, etc., shall be permitted, a reservation in a dedication deed, retaining power to grant to such corporations a right to construct a line over and across the streets, was void. Roaring Springs Townsite Co. v. Paducah Telephone Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 50.

Art. 1235. [702] [626] Cities, etc., may direct as to posts, etc.

Application.—Arts. 1231 and 1235, apply only to companies organized to construct and maintain telegraph or telephone lines. Acme Cement Plaster Co. v. American Cement Plaster Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 183.
CHAPTER FOURTEEN

TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANIES

DECISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT IN GENERAL

* * *

Injuries from construction or maintenance.—Notwithstanding wires of an electric company were originally properly constructed, it was bound to maintain them so as to prevent their coming in contact with other wires that might be thereafter stretched across the street, and to keep them properly insulated. Gulf States Telephone Co. v. Everitt (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 289.

A telephone company, liable for injury to traveler from its wire over the road being too low, may not recover over against the owner of a boat, during the moving of which by an independent contractor the wire was lowered, though such owner agreed with the contractor to be responsible for damage to wires. Texarkana Telephone Co. v. Burge (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 867.

A telephone company held liable for injury to a traveler on a road through its wire being too low, though lowered by a third person, if it not having remedied it in a reasonable time after notice. Id.

In determining the liability of a telephone company for negligence in the transmission of an interstate dispatch, as affected by the contract limiting its liability, the federal law is controlling, since by Act Cong. June 18, 1910, Congress has undertaken the regulation of interstate telegraphic communication. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Schoonmaker (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 510.

Until Congress has acted and passed laws regulating the recovery for breach of a contract for the delivery of an interstate telegram, the state courts are warranted in following their own laws. Id.

While the mental anguish doctrine prevails in Texas, such damages cannot be recovered in action for delay or nondelivery of a telegram originating in a state where such damages are not allowed. Id.

A suit for negligent delay in delivering telegram, law of state where message was sent and contract for transmission made governed question of whether damages for mental suffering without physical injury were recoverable. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 709.

If, by Act Cong. June 18, 1910, amending Interstate Commerce Act, subjecting telegraph companies to provisions of the act, Congress has taken full charge of the subject, sender of interstate telegram which is negligently delayed cannot recover for mental suffering, a right given by statute in Texas. Id.

In action for tort, law of place where wrong was committed controls on question of damages. Id.

Permitting the recovery of damages for mental anguish caused by failure to deliver an Interstate telegram is not an arbitrary burden on interstate commerce, or an unreasonable interference with such commerce. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Martin (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 192.

Where Congress once assumes control over a subject or territory committed to it by the Constitution of the United States, all power of the separate states over such subject or territory is at an end. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Piper (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 817.

7. That federal Const. art. 1, § 8, gave Congress power to regulate interstate commerce, and that Congress passed Interstate Commerce Act in 1887 will not deprive states of power to enforce their own rules and public policy over interstate commerce, when not in conflict with some congressional enactment. Id.

Despite amendment of June 18, 1910, to Interstate Commerce Act, classifying telegraph companies as common carriers subject to Interstate Commerce Laws, rules of decision of the state determine the liability of a telegraph company for negligence in transmitting an interstate message. Id.

Under the Carmack Amendment to Interstate Commerce Act, § 6, telegraph company cannot assert validity and binding force of rate or regulation, under interstate commerce law, when it has not complied with plain requirement of such law by filing its rates and regulations with Interstate Commerce Commission. Id.

Amendment of June 18, 1910, to Interstate Commerce Act subjected telegraph companies to regulations of Congress that can be appropriately applied to them and to their character of business. Id.

8. Conduct of business in general.—By Interstate Commerce Act, providing that interstate carriers publish and post in conspicuous places their rates and regulations, Congress intended that sender of telegram message have open notice of all rates or regula-
14. Delivery of messages, and failure to deliver or misdelivery.—A telegraph company is bound only to exercise ordinary care to transmit and deliver a message within a reasonable time and is not under the absolute duty of so doing. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Cathey (Civ. App.) 166 S.W. 714.

Where a telegraph company did not deliver a message consigned to the care of a telephone company to that corporation, or disclose the contents of the message, warrants a finding that the telegraph company did not use ordinary care to deliver the message. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Oakley (Civ. App.) 181 S.W. 557.

15. — Delivery to person other than addressee.—Where a telegram is delivered to the addressee in care of another person, delivery to either promptly made is sufficient, but a delivery to one in the office of such person to still a third person is not sufficient, in the absence of authority on his part to receive messages. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Hill (Civ. App.) 162 S.W. 332.

Where a telegram is sent to an addressee in care of a third person or a corporation, delivery to either relieves the telegraph company of liability. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Winter (Civ. App.) 164 S.W. 225.

16. — Delivery outside of city or free delivery limits.—Where three telegrams were delivered to a telegraph company, two addressed to “J. C. Stewart, Bernice, La.” and the other to “J. C. Stewart, Junction City, Ark.” and the contract was to deliver the telegrams to J. C. Stewart at those places, the company was not required to deliver the telegrams to the addressee in the country six miles from Bernice, La., and ten miles from Junction City, Ark. Stewart v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 158 S.W. 1034.

In the absence of a special contract, a company is not liable for failure to deliver a message beyond the limits of the city of destination or beyond the free delivery limits thereof. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Kersten (Civ. App.) 161 S.W. 366, rehearing denied 161 S. W. 1091.

Where a telegraph company establishes free delivery limits, the burden rests on it to ascertain whether the addressee of a message resides within the limits, and if necessary, make demand for the requisite fee for delivery beyond the limits. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 162 S.W. 908.

20. Effect of misaddress of name of addressee.—A telegraph company not negligent in transmitting a telegram addressed to plaintiff, but which, with notice of probable damage, was negligent in not delivering it to him, although, as received, the middle initial was different, was liable in damages. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Gorman & Wilson (Civ. App.) 174 S.W. 928.

A telegraph company held bound to use ordinary diligence, notwithstanding a mistake in the addressee’s name. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Holcomb (Civ. App.) 176 S.W. 759.

Where a telegraph address in care of a third person had the addressee’s name changed beyond recognition by the negligence of the sending agent of the company, so that it reached such third person with the name of the addressee changed, the delivery to the third person in law was not delivery to the addressee. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Schoonmaker (Civ. App.) 181 S.W. 363.

Where the sending agent of a telegraph company negligently changed the name of the addressee of a message sent in care of a third person, the fact that the third person, on receipt of the message, thought it might be intended for the addressee did not render delivery to him a delivery to the addressee. Id.

22. — Nature and contents of message and relationship between sender and addressee, and notice thereof to company.—A telegraph company must take notice of the relationship of an addressee to a person whose illness or death is announced in the telegram. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. McMillan (Civ. App.) 174 S.W. 915.

That a telegraph message relates to death or sickness, notice of relationship need not be conveyed by the face of the message, but may be conveyed by oral statement to the agent of the telegraph company who receives the message for transmission. Herring v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Sup.) 185 S.W. 293.

That a telegraph message relates to death or sickness is sufficient to put the agent of the telegraph company upon inquiry, and if he fails to make such inquiry, his principal will be charged with the information which would have been disclosed. Id.

Where a telegraph message was worded, “Your father died this afternoon at four o’clock,” being insufficient to charge telegraph company with notice that addressee of message demanded postponement of funeral until he could arrive, damages suffered by addressee held too remote. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Griffin (Civ. App.) 187 S.W. 348.

A telegraph company held charged with notice of the relationship existing between the addressee and the parties named in a telegram. Goodson v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 736.

A telegram, reading, “Send Oscar at once to wait on father,” held sufficient to put the telegraph company on notice that the father of the addressee and Oscar, brothers, was sick. Id.

A telegram: “Sterling Dosier, Colo. Texas. Tom Tucker’s baby died to-day. If any one can send telegram, [Signed] Sam Corley”—sufficiently put the telegraph company on inquiry which would have disclosed the relationship between the parties. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Tucker (Sup.) 194 S.W. 130.

Where a telegraph message related to death, notice of relationship could be conveyed by an oral statement to agent of telegraph company as effectively as if imparted by the sender. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Sup.) 194 S. W. 955.
24. Delay.—Evidence held to support a finding that the company negligently delayed the telegram. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Hill (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 382.
Facts held not to excuse a delay in delivery of a message. Western Union Telegraph
Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 905.
A telegraph company is bound to exercise ordinary diligence to deliver a message promptly. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 903.
In an action for delay in delivering a telegram, held that the delay was caused by failure to send directions to the receiving agent, and that the latter was negligent in not delivering the message. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Holcomb (Civ. App.) 175
S. W. 750.
The prompt delivery of a second telegram for addressee to the person in whose care it was sent, who failed to communicate it to addressee, held not to relieve the company from liability for delay in delivering a former telegram. Western Union Telegraph Co.
25. Messages received after office hours.—It is permissible for a telegraph company to establish office hours in certain localities, so that no action will lie for failure to receive and deliver messages during other hours. Western Union Telegraph Co. v.
Johnson (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 903.
That a telegram sent from C. to H. did not reach H. till after office hours furnishes no excuse for failure to seasonably deliver it; the company's agent having in fact received it when it arrived and undertook to deliver it. Western Union Telegraph Co. v.
Taylor (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 289.
A transmitting agent of a telegraph company is bound to know of the rules of the office to which a message is to be sent, and, not informing the sender that the message will not reach there till after office hours, such fact furnishes no excuse for delay in its delivery. Id.
26. Effect of addressee's living outside free delivery limit.—A telegraph company having undertaken to transmit a message and deliver it beyond its free delivery limits, it is immaterial, as regards liability for delay in delivery, that the charges were not prepaid but only guaranteed. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.)
167 S. W. 289.
A contract stipulation between a telegraph company and the sender of a message that an extra fee would be charged for delivery beyond certain distances was no defense to an action for delay, where such fee had been paid by the addressee. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Holcomb (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 750.
27. Nature and contents of message, and relationship between sender and addressee and notice thereof to company.—A telegram delayed in delivery held to charge the company with notice of addressee's brother's death, and that addressee would probcably desire to attend the funeral. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Winter (Civ. App.)
184 S. W. 335.
Delay in delivering a telegram held to render telegraph company liable, notwithstanding its lack of knowledge of the fact where the funeral was to be held. Id.
28. Duty to notify sender of inability to transmit or deliver message within reasonable time or time stipulated.—In a suit for delay in telegrams sent plaintiff, announcing death of his mother, whereby he was prevented from attending her funeral, that plaintiff lived outside free delivery limits is no defense if telegraph company did not inform sender of that fact or make demand for extra charge for delivery. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Wilson (Sup.) 194 S. W. 335.
29. Errors.—The substitution of 'Dallas' for 'Galveston,' Tex., as the sender's ad-dresse, was negligence entitling the sender to damages, if no answer was received because of such mistake. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. McParland (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 37.
30. Liability for acts or omissions of employees.—Where a telegraph agent converted money paid by the cousin of one accused of crime in order to stop proceedings, held, that creditors who instituted the proceedings had no right of action against the telegraph company; title not having passed, and the agreement being illegal. Western Union Telegraph
Co. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 548.
A telephone company is liable for violation of its duty to protect employees from injury by slander uttered by manager. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Long (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 311.
Slander by manager of telephone company in giving reason to new employee for discharge of plaintiff held not within the scope of his employment. Id.
35. Contributory negligence.—Because on arrival of a telegram, announcing a death and time and place of funeral, too late for the regular train, deceased's sister did not take a roundabout train-route unknown to her, or take a 40-mile drive by night over muddy roads, was not contributory negligence, preventing recovery for delay in delivery of the message. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 288.
That the addressee of a telegram, telling him his son was dying, negligently delayed in delivery was contributorily negligent in not leaving a junction point for his destination by automobile sooner than he did not relieve the company of liability for the additional cost of transportation resulting from having to hire the car, where the delay caused the addressee to miss his train at the junction point. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Schoonmaker (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 263.
36. Prevention of damage from default or error.—A customer, wiring his broker to buy, and believing that his broker's purchase was in disregard of his instructions, held bound to take steps to avoid or reduce loss, so that if he failed to do so he could not recover the loss resulting from the failure. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Peter & Neylon (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 991.
Where, in an action for damages from error in transmitting a telegram directing the sale of securities on the Liverpool market to protect an actual purchase in the state, the evidence showed that after discovering the mistake plaintiffs protected themselves by selling on the New Orleans market and making a profit which would more than offset loss due to the mistake in the telegram, held error not to instruct that, under the circumstances, the jury should find for defendant. Mackay Telegraph-Cable Co. v. Bain (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 98.

37. Proximate cause of loss or damage.—In an action for damages from change in a customer's telegram to his broker to sell, making it read an order to buy, which was executed as such, held that the customer's failure to promptly repudiate on notice of the purchase resulted in loss upon the transaction, so that he could not recover. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Peter & Neylon (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 991.

A mistake in substituting "Dallas" for "Galveston" as the sender's address, by reason of which no answer was received to a telegram wiring for money and stating that the sender's wife had just died, was the proximate cause of mental anguish to the sender, resulting from inability to properly bury his wife because of lack of money. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. McFarlane (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 57.

38. Limitation of liability.—Where the receiving agent of a telegraph company agreed to transmit the message immediately and collected the day rate, the company was entitled to claim that its liability for delay in delivery was governed by the part of the contract relating to night messages. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 905.

When a telegraph company for an extra charge undertakes to deliver a message beyond a city limit, it is bound to exercise reasonable diligence, and cannot avoid liability for negligent failure in that respect by the printed provision on the back of the message that such undertaking is as agent of the sender without liability. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 289.

A stipulation limiting liability for mistake, or delay, or failure to deliver, held void because unreasonable. Id.

39. Requirement of notice of loss and presentation of claim therefor.—Action held presentation of a claim, within stipulation that a telegraph company will not be liable where the claim is not presented within a specified time. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. McMillian (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 918.

Where a telegraph company fraudulently misrepresented to a sendee the date of the message, the time within which notice of claim for damages must be given did not begin to run until discovery of the facts. Id.

40. Requirement of repetition.—Clause of contract, subject to which interstate telegram was accepted, limiting liability for delay in delivery of an unreported message to the cost of transmission, was not effectual to bar the addressee's recovery, for negligent delay in delivery, of more than such cost, in view of Act Cong. June 18, 1910, declaring telegraph companies to be common carriers. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Schoonmaker (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 263.

Clause of contract, for transmission of interstate telegram, limiting company's liability for delay of an unreported message to the cost of transmission, held ineffective to bar the addressee's recovery of all damages, where the delay was occasioned by the company's gross negligence. Id.

Repetition of a telegram at instance of addressee inured to benefit of sender to bring him within the stipulation that it would be liable in excess of certain amount only if message were repeated. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Piper, 191 S. W. 517.

41. Amount of liability.—A provision on the back of a telegraph blank, which embodied the contract, limiting the company's liability for failure to discharge its duty to a sum not exceeding $50, is void. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Bailey (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 519.

47. Persons entitled to damages.—Third persons.—That a telegraph providing money for the burial of plaintiff's wife was sent to M. and not to plaintiff, held no defense to plaintiff's action against the telegraph company for damages sustained by reason of its failure to deliver the message. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Richards (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1137.

A telegraph company is not liable for damages from mental suffering on the part of any person who is not referred to in a message, unless it has notice that such other person is interested in its prompt delivery. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 995.

A telegraph company may be liable to one not appearing on the face of the message for mental suffering resulting from delay in its delivery, where the company's agent was negligent, in its receipt, of the relationship of the parties. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 289.

48. Companies and persons liable for damages.—Where plaintiff delivered message to joint agent of telegraph and railroad companies who sent it over railroad's wire to railroad agent at destination, plaintiff not knowing such facts, defendant telegraph company could not escape liability for failure to deliver on the ground that plaintiff had not delivered message to it. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Sims (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 800.
50. Actions for damages—Evidence.—A finding of negligence in not reasonably deliv­ering a telegram by a telegraph company, beyond the exemption contracted for, held authorized by the evidence. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 286.

Evidence in an action for mental suffering caused by plaintiff’s financial embarrass­ments, by delivery of a telegram, with the knowledge of her mother re­quired for burial, and without money for 24 hours, held to sustain a verdict for plaintiff. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Chilson (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 878.

Evidence in an action for failure to transmit a telegram, whereby attempt was made to notify plaintiff of the expected death of her sister, who died and was buried the next day, held insufficient to show whether plaintiff, had he received the message, would have arrived in time for the funeral. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Ad­ams (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 518.

Evidence held to justify a finding of negligent delay in the delivery of a telegram. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. McMillan (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 918.

Evidence, regardless of negligence in transmission, held to show negligence in fail­ing to deliver a telegram addressed to plaintiff, although as received, the middle initial was different from plaintiff’s. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Gorman & Wilson (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 925.

In a suit for damages for failure to deliver a telegram announcing the death of plaintiff’s father, evidence held sufficient to charge the telegraph company with notice that a child or friend had a beneficial interest. Herring v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Sup.) 185 S. W. 253.

In action against telephone company for its negligent delay in service, whereby plaintiff’s residence was partly destroyed by fire, held not to show that the alleged negligence was the proximate cause of the loss. Southwestern Telegraph & Tele­phone Co. v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 596. Evidence held to show negligence of special character of message, so as to render company liable for failure to transmit. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Huffstutler (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 468.

The addressee of a telegram is presumed to be the person for whose benefit the message is sent, and where it relates to a sick person, the addressee is presumed to have a serious interest in the condition of such person. Goodson v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 737.

Evidence showing delay of telegram sending money by parents to son who was unable to obtain medical aid and was forced to rely on charity, sustained finding that the son suffered physical pain and mental anguish. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Finfrock (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 181.

Evidence in an action for delay in delivering money transmitted by telegraph, held sufficient to warrant the jury in finding that the delay in delivering the money was a proximate cause of the failure to have the body of plaintiff’s husband shipped to her for burial. Union Telegraph Co. v. Martin (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 192.

Evidence held to authorize verdict for plaintiff brakeman, injured by telephone wire improperly placed above railway track. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Clark (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1077.

Evidence showing failure of the telephone company to deliver telegrams on day received, which would have enabled plaintiff to attend funeral. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Wilson (Sup.) 194 S. W. 386.

Evidence held to show that person who received message had limited authority to represent defendant in receiving it and accepting payment and to accept as notice to defendant as to purpose of sending it. Horn v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Sup.) 194 S. W. 386.

Defenses.—Where the release of a claim for a personal injury was obtained on the representation that only a railroad company was released, a telegraph company could not rely on the release which in fact discharged all companies because of the failure of the person injured and her husband to read the release before signing. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Goodwin (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 902.

56. Grounds and elements of compensatory damages in general—Notice or knowledge of circumstances and effect thereof.—Evidence in an action against a telegraph company for delay in transmitting a telegraphic draft to plaintiff’s mother, at whose home plaintiff’s wife was ill, held to sustain a finding of negligence, and of the fact that the compa­ny knew of the necessity of plaintiff’s wife having money quickly. Goodwin v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 107.

Where the sender notified the company’s agent that his wife was ill and in need, and that the money sent by telegram was for her, the wife’s increased suffering from negligent delay in delivering the telegram was reasonably within the defendant’s con­temption. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Goodwin (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1164.

Where a telegraph company had knowledge of'appellee’s need for money telegraphed to him and the probable consequences of delay, it is liable for injury caused by its negligent delay. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Finfrock (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 181.

57. — Remote, contingent, or speculative damages.—Plaintiff held not entitled to recover damages, in purchase of cotton above the market price, as against defendant, who failed to furnish market reports as agreed, such failure not being the proximate cause of the damage. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Exum (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 558.

58. — Direct or indirect consequences.—A contract to furnish cotton market reports, when breached, entitles the other party to all damages which proximately was the result from the breach, but which do not flow from the breach in ordinary and natural sequence without other intervening cause. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Exum (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 558.

59. Damages for mental suffering.—Evidence in such case held to sustain a finding that the mental suffering resulting naturally from such negligence and resulting in failing to receive plaintiff’s remittance. Goodwin v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 107.
In case of delay or negligence in the transmission of a telegram, damages for resulting mental anguish may, contrary to the rule of the common law, be recovered. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Chamberlain (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 370.

Mental anguish is that keen and poignant suffering which results from some great grief or mental disappointment because plaintiff's grandchildren were prevented from visiting him on account of delay in the transmission of a telegram was not mental anguish for which damages might be recovered. Id.

The states have no power to control beyond their own limits the conduct of corporations engaged in interstate commerce, and any statute legislation is void as creating an unwarranted burden thereon. Bailey v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 839.

The amendment of 1910 to the Interstate Commerce Act does not supersede the laws of a state permitting the recovery for mental anguish for the failure to deliver an interstate message, notwithstanding the Carmack Amendment. Id.

Mental suffering will be implied from illness, or injuries accompanied by physical pain, and may arise from a sense of discomfort or inconvenience. Turner v. McKinney (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 451.

Where plaintiff was obliged to leave his child in Chattanooga to travel to Texas alone, because of defendant's failure to transmit a wire requesting money, accepted by the plaintiff for transmission to Texas, the situation was not productive of such suffering proximately caused by defendant's negligence as would entitle the plaintiff to recover. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Sherlin (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 310.

Mere disappointment or embarrassment is not such mental pain or anguish as to permit recovery of damages for delay in delivering a telegram. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Finfrock (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 181.

Recovery may be had for negligence in delivery of a message of death to a sister of its mother, which was proximate cause of mental anguish from failure of sister to attend child's funeral. Horn v. Western Union Tel. Co. (Sup.) 194 S. W. 386.

61. Messages relating to sickness, death, or burial in general.—Fear that others would misconstrue the reason for his absence from his brother's funeral is too remote to be an actual which damages may be recovered for in action for delay in delivering a telegram. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Vickery (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 792.

Mental distress, caused by plaintiff's being required to resort to charity for the burial of his wife's remains because of defendant's negligent failure to deliver a telegram by which money would have been provided, held actual damage, and not too remote to sustain a recovery. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Richards (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1187.

Plaintiff may maintain an action for damages for mental anguish caused by a telegraph company's negligent failure to deliver a telegram to plaintiff's sister, which prevented plaintiff from having the comfort and assistance of her sister immediately following the death of plaintiff's husband. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Mooney (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 318.

Addressee of telegram informing him of his mother's death, delayed in delivery, held entitled to damages for mental anguish where, if delivered promptly, he would have procured the funeral to be postponed so that he could have attended it. Johnston v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 272.

Humiliation caused by plaintiff's financial embarrassment, with the body of her mother's remains lying in the house and without money for an appreciable length of time, by reason of delay in the transmission of a telegram, held a proper element of damages. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Chilson (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 878.

Telegraph company held liable to the addressee for negligently delaying delivery of a message to the father to send his brother a wire telling his family that the brother was ill, not only because he himself was deprived of opportunity to go to his father, but also because he was deprived of opportunity to send his brother. Goodson v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 736.

63. Messages relating to sickness, death, or burial as affected by relationship of parties.—The relationship between plaintiff and his half-sister, whose expected death was attempted to be communicated to him by telephone, authorizes recovery for mental suffering, from being prevented from attending her funeral by negligence of telephone company. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Andrews (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 218.

The notice being that it was desired to transmit to plaintiff a message that his "sister" was expected to die, though she was only his half-sister, yet his mental suffering from the company's negligent failure to transmit the call in not being able to attend the funeral being as great as if she had been his sister, damages to that extent are recoverable. Id.

Relation of grandfather and grandchild is not so remote as to prevent a recovery by the grandfather for mental anguish from inability to attend the grandchild's funeral because of negligent delay in delivering a telegram to him. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. McMillan (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 918.

The relationship between plaintiff and his half-sister, of whose expected death an attempt was made to notify plaintiff by telephone, authorized recovery for mental suffering for being prevented from attending her funeral, by the telephone company's negligent failure to transmit the call. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Andrews (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 574.

Where through negligence in delivery of telegram of death of a baby to sister of its mother was unable to attend baby's funeral, the relationship between the sisters would justify inference that injury to mother's feelings resulted. Horn v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Sup.) 194 S. W. 386.

63. Messages relating to sickness, death, or burial as affected by contents of message or notice to company.—A telegraph company should have reasonably anticipated mental suffering by plaintiff's wife from delay in delivering a telegraphic draft to her, where the company was informed when the message was sent that his wife was ill, and needed the money. Goodwin v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 167.

Though a telegraph company was not told, when a message was sent, requesting money immediately and stating that plaintiff's wife had just died, that plaintiff desired the money for embalming his wife, it was sufficiently informed that its failure to pro-properly transmit would probably cause plaintiff mental anguish from inability to properly embody his wife on the nonreceipt of the money. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Mc-Farlane (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 57.

Delivery of a telegram: "Notify Charlie Taylor that mother is dead," with statement to the agent that the message was important, without proof that defendant had any notice that deceased was the mother of T.'s wife, would not enable the wife to recover for mental suffering from inability to attend her mother's funeral. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 993.

Telegraph messages held sufficient to notify the company that a reply message was for the benefit of plaintiff, who would probably desire to visit his father if informed that he was still alive, and that mental anguish might be expected to result from negligence in delivering the reply telegram. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Johnson (Civ. App.)
164 S. W. 903.

A telegram: "Moved mama to hospital tonight. Will operate tomorrow; * * * wire money immediately, am very worried"—was sufficient to affect the company with notice that money was necessary and of plaintiff's need thereto, so as to make defendant liable in damages for her mental anxiety incident to delay in its transmission. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Chilson (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 878.

For the sender of a telegram to recover damages for mental anguish resulting from delay in its transmission, the facts must have been such that the sender would natu-really suffer mental anguish in case of delay, and they must have been known to the agent of the telegraph company. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Chamberlain (Civ.
App.) 165 S. W. 270.

Contents of a telegram held sufficient to put the telegraph company on notice that it related to illness. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Riviere (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 650.

That a delayed telegram relating to illness did not mention the name of the person who was ill, did not prevent its being notice to the company of the nature of the mesgage. Id.

Sender's statement to telephone operator that message to be transmitted to plaintiff was a "rush call" and a "sick message" held sufficient to put the company on notice of probable mental suffering from a failure to transmit it. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Andrews (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 574.

A telegram: "Sterling Dosler, Colo. Texas. Tom Tucker's baby died to-day. If any one can come send telegram. [Signed] Sam Corley"—required the company to anticipate the probable delay of the funeral until arrival of the child's grandparents had the mesgage been delivered. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Tucker (Sup.) 194 S. W. 130.

Where agent of a telegraph company was told that a message of death of a baby was sent in behalf of its mother who wanted her sister to be present at burial, it was sufficient notice that mother would probably suffer mental distress from a failure of sister to attend burial. Horn v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Sup.) 194 S. W. 336.

64. Measure or amount of damages in general.—In an action against a telephone company for failure to transmit a call, preventing plaintiff from attending funeral of his half-sister, defendant could not set off against the damages for mental suffering, the expense to plaintiff of attending the funeral. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co.

A verdict of $978 is not excessive, where telegram announcing death of addressee's favorite brother was not delivered, causing her to miss his funeral, which she had made prior arrangements to attend. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Alexander (Civ. App.)
187 S. W. 1016.

65. Inadequate or excessive damages.—See Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Richards (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1187; Western Union Telegraph Co. v. McFarlane (Civ. App.)
161 S. W. 57; Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Hill (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 382; Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Gess (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 383; Western Union Telegraph Co.
v. Goodwin (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1164; Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Riviere (Civ.
App.) 174 S. W. 650; Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Holcomb (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 759.

67. Exemplary damages.—Where a telegraph company was not negligent in employing an operator, did not authorize him to misDirect a message, and did not ratify its act in so doing, it was not liable for exemplary damages for such operator's gross negligence in so doing. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Schoonmaker (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 263.

Grant of land.—Under this act a corporation chartered to dredge a channel across Galveston Bay cannot, while inactive, hold lands granted it for use in that work indefinitely, and a grant of lands passes no title, but a simple right of use. West End Dock v. State (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 285.

A quasi public corporation, organized to dredge a channel, and given public grants of land in its charter for use in the project, forfeits its rights thereto if it neglects for an unreasonable time to dredge a channel. Id. in condemnation.

Condemnation.—Under subd. 6 held that the authorization to condemn a strip of land 700 feet wide indicated that the right was given for purposes other than those absolutely necessary for the construction of the channel, including the construction of docks. Lawson v. Port Arthur Canal & Dock Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 600.

The intention of defendant canal corporation to use land for different purpose from that for which it was condemned furnishes no grounds for forfeiture of the rights acquired by it under condemnation proceedings, since no such use has been made of it and the future unlawful use may be enjoined or damages recovered therefor. Id.

The transfer by a canal corporation of its title in the channel to the government of the United States held not to work a forfeiture of its rights to use the remaining land for the purposes for which it was lawfully condemned. Id.

In a proceeding for the partition of land, evidence held sufficient to sustain a finding that defendant canal corporation and its predecessors have been in continuous possession of the land since acquiring it, that the present intention of the company is to improve the land, and that there never has been any intention to abandon. Id.

Art. 1253. [725] [644f] Rates, tolls and charges subject to legislative control.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
GAS AND WATER CORPORATIONS

Art. 1282. Privileges of such corporations.

Contracts for service.—An individual or company authorized to do so may so contract as to incur a liability for damages proximately resulting from a failure to furnish water sufficient to extinguish fires. Dublin Electric & Gas Co. v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 113.

Where water was furnished under a contract through a private pipe line, there being nothing in the contract to the contrary, the duty of keeping the pipe line in repair was upon the owner and not the water company. Josey v. Beaumont Waterworks Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 26.

Under a contract by a gas company that it would repay to a consumer, on the cost of a main extension partly paid for by him, $55 for each new consumer obtained "on said extension" within one year, the consumer so contracting is not entitled to any refund for new gas consumers whose residences are not on the street in which the extension is laid nor connected directly with the extension, but on a street a block distant and served by another extension. County Gas Co. v. Templeton (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 942.

Failure to furnish water.—Evidence held to show that neither party contemplated that a water company promising to furnish consumer water for all purposes should furnish water for fire protection. Dublin Electric & Gas Co. v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 113.

Failure to notify of a break in a private pipe line and of the fact that the water had been shut off was not the proximate cause of the damage caused by a fire, which could not be checked because of lack of water. Id.

Art. 1283. May contract with cities, etc.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE A GAS, ELECTRIC CURRENT AND POWER CORPORATIONS

Art. 1283d. Condemnation of property; poles; pipes.

Art. 1283d. Condemnation of property; poles; pipes.

Jurisdiction of district court.—Under art. 6531 and this act district court has jurisdiction, in action by railroad in trespass to try title, to adjudge condemnation in favor of defendant electric light and ice company. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Malone (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 809.

Injuries from defects in lines.—In an action for damages for the death of a horse from electricity passing from light wires, evidence held not to show that the horse's death was due to defendant's negligence in constructing and maintaining a ground wire. Lumpkin v. Texarkana Gas & Electric Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 435.

A company erecting a light post by cutting a girder supporting an awning extending across a sidewalk, held not liable for injuries by fall of awning by people going out on it. Houston Lighting & Power Co., 1905, v. Walsh (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1699.

Possession by power company of franchise does not excuse it from ordinary care in location and construction of poles and wires to prevent injuries to others rightfully using public places. Canyon Power Co. v. Gober (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 802.

Where plaintiff's husband was electrocuted by broken transmission line, a requested instruction to find for defendant if the condition was caused by an owl flying against the wires was properly refused where there was evidence that even in such a case a circuit breaker would have prevented the injury. Abilene Gas & Electric Co. v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1016.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO
SEWERAGE COMPANIES

Art. 1284. Corporation may condemn private property for sewers, etc., when, etc.

Art. 1285. Method same as for railways.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE CEMETERY CORPORATIONS

Art. 1289a. Purchase, lease, and condemnation of land by associations incorporated or unincorporated.—Cemetery Associations, whether incorporated or unincorporated, shall have the power to purchase, lease, or otherwise acquire, such land as may be needed by them for the purpose of the proper burial of the dead in the communities in which they may be located, and such power shall extend to the acquisition of such land as may reasonably be needed therefor in the future as.

232 well as such land as may be immediately needed at the time of such acquire-ment. Such land may be acquired also by condemnation proceedings in the manner now provided for the condemnation of lands for right or way purposes by railroad companies; and the acquisition of such lands is hereby declared to be for a public purpose. [Act March 29, 1917, ch.
125, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 1302a. Trusts for maintaining private lots in cemeteries authorized; conditions.—That persons desiring to provide a fund for the maintaining and keeping up and beautifying of private blocks or lots in any Cemetery in this State may do so by setting aside for such purposes a reasonable sum of money and by providing by written instrument for a trustee or trustees to handle and invest said sum and spend the resources therefrom, in the following manner.

The written instrument shall give the terms of the trust, provided not exceeding seventy-five per cent of the net income therefrom shall be devoted to keeping up and beautifying the private blocks and lots designated in the instrument.

The portion of such income not expended annually as set out in the preceding paragraph, the amount not to be less than twenty-five per cent of such income, shall be devoted to the general upkeep and beautifying of the cemetery in which such blocks or lots are located. [Act March 30, 1917, ch. 155, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 1302b. Same; trustees.—The Trustee's provided for may be natural persons designated by name and their successors, or persons holding designated positions and indicated as holders of such positions and successors, or corporations whose charters authorize them to Act in such capacity. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 1302c. Same; number of trustees; perpetuation by founder or court.—The founder of said fund may designate therein the number of Trustees and the manner of renewing same. If no method of perpetuating the trustees shall be set out in the instrument or if the trustees therein provided or their successors shall fail to effect such perpetuity, then any court having equity jurisdiction located within the county wherein such cemetery is maintained shall be authorized (upon application of any person interested or of the court's own motion), if facts come within its cognizance to appoint suitable trustee or trustees to the number specified in such instrument to execute such trust. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 1302d. Same; not to be regarded as a perpetuity.—Such trust and the administration thereof shall not be regarded and held to be a perpetuity, but as a provision for the discharge of a duty due from the party founding such trust to the persons interred upon such blocks or lots and to the public. [Id., § 4.]

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

OIL, GAS, SALT, ETC., COMPANIES

Art. 1303. Purposes of incorporation. Any number of persons, not less than three, may engage themselves into a corporation for the purpose of storing, transporting, buying and selling of oil, gas, salt, brine and other mineral solutions; also sand and clay for the manufacture and sale of clay products. [Acts 1899, p. 202, § 1; Act April 7, 1915, ch. 152, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after March 20, 1915, date of adjournment.

Art. 1304. Mode of organization.—The manner and method of organizing such corporations shall be the same as provided by law for the organization of private corporations in Chapter 2, Title 25, of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1911, and the provisions of this Act shall apply to all corporations already organized for any purposes of this Act. [Acts 1899, p. 202, § 2; Act April 7, 1915, ch. 152, § 1.]

Art. 1305. Powers of corporations.—Such corporations shall have power to store and transport oil, gas, brine and other mineral solutions, and also sand, clay and clay products, and to make reasonable charges therefor; to buy, sell and furnish oil and gas for light, heat and other purposes; to lay down, construct, maintain and operate pipe lines, tubes, tanks, pump stations, connections, fixtures, storage houses and such machinery, apparatus, devices and arrangements as may be necessary to operate such pipes and pipe lines between different points in this State; to own, hold, use and occupy such lands, rights of way, easements, franchises, buildings and structures as may be necessary to the purpose of such corporations. For the transportation of sand and clay, corporations shall have the right to construct, maintain and operate aerial tramways, a system consisting of wire cables supported by wooden, concrete or steel towers, over which buckets or carriers are propelled along and over said wire cables; and may own such connections, fixtures, guy lines and all necessary devices, storage houses and such machinery, apparatus and arrangements as may be necessary to operate such aerial tramways between different points in this State; to own, hold, use and occupy such lands, rights of way, easements, franchises, buildings and structures as may be necessary to the purposes of such corporation. [Acts 1899, p. 202, § 3; Act April 7, 1915, ch. 152, § 1.]

Art. 1306. Right of condemnation; pipes, pipe lines, and aerial tramways.—Such corporation shall have the right and power to enter upon, condemn and appropriate the lands, rights of way, easements and property of any person or corporation, and shall have the right to lay its pipes and pipe lines, which shall not be placed at a distance within three hundred feet of any farm residence or barn, wire cables, supporting towers and connections for same for the construction of aerial tramways, across and under or over any public road or under or over any railroad, railroad right of way, street railroad, canal or stream in this State, and to lay its pipes and pipe lines and wire cables across or along or over and under any street or alley in any incorporated city or town in this State, with the consent and under the direction of the board of aldermen or city council or commission of such city or town. The manner and method of such condemnation shall be the same as is provided by law in the case of railroads; provided, that such pipe lines or aerial tramways shall not pass through or under or over any cemetery, church or college, school house, residence, business or store house, or through or under or over any buildings in this State, except by the consent of the owner or owners thereof; and, provided further, that all such pipes and pipe lines and aerial tramways, when the same shall pass through or over the cultivated or improved lands of another, shall be well buried under ground at least twenty inches under the surface, and in case of aerial tramways over and above at a distance of at least twenty-five feet from the level of the ground, and such surface shall be properly and promptly restored by such corporation unless otherwise consented to by the owner or owners of such land; provided, further, that if such pipe or pipe lines shall be laid over or along any uncultivated or unimproved lands of another, and such lands shall thereafter become cultivated or improved, such pipe or pipe line shall be buried by said corporation as hereinbefore provided within a reasonable time after notice by the owner of said lands, or his agent, to said corporation, or any agent thereof; and, provided further, that whenever such pipe or pipe line or aerial tramway shall cross any public road or highway, railroad, street railroad or street or alley, the said pipes and pipe lines or aerial tramway cables shall be so buried and covered, or elevated in case of aerial tramways, as not to interfere with the use and occupancy of such road, highway, street or alley by the public, or use and occupancy of such railroad or street railroad by the owner or owners thereof; and, provided further, that such pipe line so laid shall not exceed eight inches in diameter. [Acts 1899, p. 202, § 4; Act April 7, 1915, ch. 152, § 1.]

Art. 1307. Right to borrow money, issue stock, mortgage franchises, etc.; powers; separate incorporation of pipe lines; ownership of stock in other corporations; competition.—Such corporation shall have the right to borrow money to an amount not in excess of its paid up capital stock, as now provided by law, to issue stock and preferred stock, to mortgage its franchises and property to secure the payment of any debt contracted for any purposes of such corporation, and shall possess all the rights and powers of corporations for profit in this State wherever the same may be applicable to corporations of this character. It may also engage in the oil and gas producing business, prospecting for and producing oil and gas and owning and holding lands, leases and other property for said purposes and subject to the provisions of Chapter 4 of this title; provided that no corporation shall exercise these powers while owning or operating oil pipe lines in this State. Any corporation herefore or hereafter organized under this Chapter, and owning or operating oil pipe lines in this State, shall separately incorporate such oil pipe lines with the consent of a majority in amount of its stockholders and subject to the restrictions hereinafter imposed, whereupon, in addition to other powers which it may possess, it shall then acquire the right and power to engage in said oil and gas producing business. Such separate incorporation shall be accomplished by the organization of another pipe line corporation under this Chapter and the sale and conveyance to it of such oil pipe lines of the organizing company. In case of the ownership also of oil pipe lines beyond the borders of this State additional pipe line corporations may be organized outside of the State and such oil pipe lines located outside of the State may be sold and conveyed to them. In every case herein provided for the organizing corporation may subscribe for and own the capital stock of the organized pipe line corporation without being precluded from engaging in said oil and gas producing business. In lieu of engaging directly in the oil and gas producing business in any State or country a corporation organized under this chapter and authorized to engage in said producing business may own the stock of other corporations engaged therein, provided that it shall not own the stock of more than one producing corporation, or one pipe line corporation, organized under the laws of this or any other single State. Nor shall any corporation organized in any other State or country be permitted to own or operate oil pipe lines or engage in the oil producing business in this State when the stock of such corporation is owned in whole or in part by a corporation organized under this chapter. But the provisions hereof shall not preclude the ownership or operation by any corporation of private pipe lines in and about its refineries, fields or stations, even though such corporation may be engaged in the producing business. And none of these provisions shall be construed as limiting, modifying or repealing any part of the law regulating oil pipe lines, or as authorizing any ownership or transaction the effect of which would be to substantially lessen competition or to violate any law or laws of this State prohibiting trusts and monopolies and conspiracies in restraint of trade.
Art. 1307  CORPORATIONS—PRIVATE or to violate any provision of the anti-trust laws of this State.  [Acts 1899, p. 202, § 5; Act April 7, 1915, ch. 152, § 1; Act Feb. 20, 1917, ch. 31, § 1.]

Explanatory.—Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.  The act amends art. 1307, ch. 24, tit. 25, Rev. Civ. St., as amended by ch. 152, Gen. Laws 54th Leg.

Art. 1308. Discrimination unlawful.—It shall be unlawful for any corporation organized under this Act to discriminate against any person, corporation, firm, association or place in the charge for such storage or transportation, or in the service rendered; but shall receive, store or transfer oil or gas, salt, sand and clay for any person, corporation, firm or association upon equal terms, charges and conditions with all other persons, corporations, firms or associations for like service.  [Acts 1899, p. 202, § 6; Act April 7, 1915, ch. 152, § 1.]

Art. 1308a. Additional powers conferred.—Corporations heretofore or hereafter organized under the provisions of Chapter XXIV of Title 25 of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1911, and which shall file with the Secretary of State a duly authorized acceptance of the provisions of this Act, are hereby declared to have, in addition to the powers enumerated in said chapter, the power to carry on the business therein authorized outside of as well as within this state; to own and operate refineries, casing and treating plants, sales offices, warehouses, docks, ships, tank cars and vehicles necessary in the conduct of their business; and to cause the formation of corporations outside of this state, not exceeding one in any state, territory or foreign country, whose purposes and powers exercised shall be only those conferred by law upon the forming or holding corporation as incorporated under the laws of Texas, and own and hold the stock of such corporations when the effect of such formation or stock holding is not substantially to lessen competition or otherwise to violate laws prohibiting trusts and monopolies and conspiracies in restraint of trade.  [Act March 6, 1915, ch. 41, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after Legislature adjourned on March 20, 1915.

Decisions Relating to Subject in General

Damages caused by escape of oil.—The owner of a pipe line which carries oil through the ground is liable for damages caused by its escape regardless of his negligence. Texas Co. v. Earles (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 28.

Article 1313½. Certified copy of charter to be filed with Commissioner of Insurance and Banking.—Co-operative savings and contract loan institutions organized under the general corporation laws of this State in the manner therein provided, and all such institutions as may be organized hereafter, shall file certified copy of the charter issued to such companies by the Secretary of State with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking. [Act May 27, 1915, 1st C. S., ch. 5, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after May 28, 1915, date of adjournment.

Art. 1313½a. Supervision of companies.—All such corporations shall be under the supervision and control of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 1313½b. Capital stock; payment; notes.—The capital stock of all such institutions hereafter organized shall not be less than twenty-five thousand dollars, and not less than one-half of the capital stock must be paid in in actual currency, bank notes, or certified checks; while the remainder may be paid in deferred payments, payable in equal or greater installments annually, for a period of time not exceeding two years; but the deferred payments must be evidenced by the subscriber's note secured by the paid-up stock certificates issued him equal in amount to his deferred payments and by collateral equal to said amount of such character as the corporation shall have the right to invest its funds in, which said notes of the subscriber and the collateral attached thereto must be examined and approved by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and certified by him to be ample and sufficient. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 1313\(\frac{1}{2}\)c. Powers.—Corporations chartered hereunder shall have all the powers of building and loan associations chartered under the laws of this State and in addition shall have authority to engage in the business of issuing contracts or agreements, whether in the nature of bonds, debentures, certificates, or otherwise, providing for the redemption or for the fulfilling of such contracts or agreements by the accumulation of a fund or funds by the contributions made by a subscriber to or the holders of such contracts or agreements; or providing for the maturiing or fulfilling of such contracts or agreements in the order of their issue or in series or in some other fixed or arbitrarily determined order or manner; or providing for the payment of moneys or the granting or giving of any consideration of any money or personal property, real or mixed, greater in value or represented to be greater in value than the amount paid in upon such contracts or agreements, together with the actual net earnings accrued and accumulated thereon; or providing for the loaning of the funds contributed by the subscribers to or the holders of such contracts or agreements to such subscribers or holders in any fixed or arbitrarily determined order or manner; or for the making of loans or advance from such funds to or for such subscribers or holders to be repaid in installments; and shall have the right to place or sell bonds, certificates or debentures on the partial payment or installment plan. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 1313\(\frac{1}{2}\)d. Investment in securities; deposit; reserve; real estate; appraisal; statement on contracts.—All corporations hereafter chartered shall invest not less than thirty-three and one-third per cent of its capital stock in securities of the kinds in which by law it is permitted to invest or loan its funds and shall deposit the same with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking for the common benefit of all the holders of all contracts issued by it. All savings and contract loan companies as herein defined shall keep on deposit with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking at all times an amount equal to the legal reserve required by this Act on all its outstanding contracts, which amount shall be either in cash or in such securities as it is permitted by law to invest in, which said deposit of capital stock and reserve securities shall be held by the said commissioner in trust for the common benefit of all the holders of contracts issued by such corporations. Any such company may deposit the lawful money of the United States in lieu of the securities above referred to or any portion thereof and may also for the purpose of such deposit convey to said commissioner in trust the real estate in which any portion of said capital or reserve may be lawfully invested, and in such case said commissioner shall hold the title thereto in trust until other securities in lieu thereof shall be deposited with him, whereupon he shall reconvey the same to such company; said commissioner may cause any such securities or real estate to be appraised and valued prior to their being deposited with or conveyed to him in trust as aforesaid; the reasonable expense of which is to be paid by the company.

All contracts issued by any such company shall have upon their face a certificate substantially in the following words: "This contract is registered, and approved securities equal in value to the legal reserve hereon are held in trust by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of the State of Texas,” which certificates shall be signed by the commissioner and sealed with the seal of his office. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 1313½e. Forms of contracts; approval; register of contracts; commutation; valuation; additional deposits; withdrawal; custody of securities.—All contracts, whether bonds, debentures, or whatsoever form or class, shall be first submitted to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking before their issuance and be approved by him as fair to the purchaser thereof, to the corporation and to its stockholders, and shall have printed thereon some appropriate designating letter or figure, combination of letters or figures or terms identifying the particular form of contract, together with the year of the adoption of such form, and whenever any change or modification is made in the form of contract, the designating letters, figures or terms and year of adoption shall be correspondingly changed.

The Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall prepare and keep such registers thereof as will enable him to commute the value of such contracts at any time. Upon written proof, attested by the president or vice president and secretary of the company which shall have issued such contracts that any of them have been commuted or terminated, the commissioner shall commute or cancel them upon his register, and until such proof is furnished, all registered contracts shall be considered in force for the purpose of this Act. The net value of every contract according to the standard prescribed herein for the valuation of such contracts, when the first installment shall have been paid thereon, less the amount of such liens as the company may have against it (not exceeding such value) shall be entered opposite the records of each contract in the register aforesaid at the time such record is made. On the first day of January of each year, or within sixty days thereafter, the commissioner shall cause the contracts of each company chartered hereunder or operating hereunder to be carefully valued, and the actual value thereof at the time fixed for such valuation, less such liens as the company may have against it, not exceeding such valuation, shall be entered upon the register opposite the record of such policy or bond, and the commissioner shall furnish a certificate of the aggregate of such valuation.

Each company shall make additional deposits from time to time, in amounts of not less than one thousand dollars, and of such securities as are permitted by this Act to be deposited, so that the market value of the securities deposited shall always be equal to the net value of the contracts issued by said company, less such liens as the company may have against them not exceeding such net value. So long as any company shall maintain its deposit as herein prescribed at an amount equal to or in excess of the net value of its contracts, it shall be the duty of the commissioner to sign and affix his seal to the certificate before mentioned on every contract presented to him for that purpose by any such company.

Any company depositing under the provisions of this Act may increase its deposits at any time by making additional deposits of not less than one thousand dollars of such securities as are authorized by this chapter. Any such company whose deposits exceed the net value of the contracts which it has in force, less its liens thereon (not exceeding such value) may withdraw such excess and it may withdraw any such securities at any time by depositing others of equal value and of the character authorized by this Act in their stead, and it may collect the interest, coupons, rents, and other income on the securities deposited, as the same accrues.

The securities deposited under this Act shall be placed and kept by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of the State in some secure, safety deposit fireproof box or vault in the city or town in or near the home office of the company, and the officers of the company shall have access to such securities for the purpose of detaching interest coupons and crediting payments and exchanging securities as above provided, under such reasonable rules and regulations as the commissioner may establish. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 1313½f. Fees; proceeds, how disposed of.—Every company making deposit under the provisions of this Act shall pay to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking for each certificate placed on such contracts a fee of ten cents and the fee so received shall be disposed of by the said commissioner as follows:

1. The payment of the rent or hire of the safety deposit fireproof box as above provided.

2. Payment for the services of a competent and reliable representative of said commissioner to be appointed by him, who shall have direct charge of the securities and safety deposit containing same, and through whom and under whose supervision the company may have access to its securities for the purpose above provided. The sum paid such representative shall not exceed the sum of one hundred dollars per annum for each such company.

3. The balance of such fees shall be paid to or be deposited with the State Treasurer to the credit of the general fund. [Id., § 7.]

Art. 1313½g. Capital stock as part of reserve deposits; maintenance of reserve deposits; commissions, etc., to corporate officers prohibited; bonds of officers.—Any company chartered hereunder may include as a part of its reserve deposits the remaining of its capital stock, if the same has been paid in and invested in such securities as such company is permitted by this law to invest in. Deposits of securities hereunder to the value of the reserve on all outstanding contracts shall be added to and maintained from time to time as the reserve values increase, by the company issuing such contracts, or by any company which may assume them, and such securities shall be held by the commissioner and his successors in office in trust for the benefit of such contracts as long as the same shall remain in force. No company chartered hereunder shall pay or contract to pay, directly or indirectly, to its president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, or actuary, any commission or other compensation contingent upon the writing of contracts or upon the continuous payment of installments upon such contracts and should any company violate the provisions of this section, it shall be the duty of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking to revoke its certificate of authority to transact business until such illegal contract has been abrogated and all funds paid thereunder paid into the company.

All officers of the company having charge or through whose hands pass any funds or securities of any such company shall give bond to the company in the form approved by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, and in such amount as may be fixed by the board of directors to be not less than five per cent of the capital stock of any such corporation and in no event less than one thousand dollars. [Id., § 8.]

Art. 1313½h. Approval of by-laws, contracts, circulars, etc.; impairment of capital; receiver.—The by-laws, all forms of contracts and all literature in circular or permanent form, which undertake to state the benefits and advantages of the contract to the investor or holder thereof, shall be first submitted to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking for his examination and approval before such advertisements are promulgated and before such contracts are issued.

If the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking should approve such literature or contracts, then the same may be thereafter issued and sold. If he should disapprove the same, such company may institute a proceeding in any court of competent jurisdiction and venue to review his action thereon.

Any such company chartered hereunder whose capital stock shall become impaired to the extent of thirty-three and one-third per cent thereof, computing its liabilities according to the terms of this Act, shall make good such impairment within sixty days by reduction of its capital stock or otherwise, provided its capital stock may never be reduced below the minimum required by this Act, and failure to make good such impairment within said time shall forfeit its right to write new business in this State until such impairment shall have been made good; and provided that the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking may apply to any court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a receiver to wind up the affairs of such company when its capital stock shall become impaired to the extent of fifty per cent; provided also that its affairs may be placed in the hands of a receiver by the commissioner and by the State, acting through the Attorney General, when its assets shall not equal its liabilities, in which shall be included its outstanding debts, and its contract reserves, plus 50 per cent of its capital stock. [Id., § 9.]

Art. 1313½i. Certificate of authority.—No foreign or domestic company shall transact business under this Act unless it shall first procure from the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking a certificate of authority stating that the requirements of the laws of this State have been fully complied with by it and authorizing it to do business in this State. Such certificate of authority shall expire on the last day of February in each year and shall be renewed annually so long as the company shall continue to comply with the laws of the State, such renewals to be granted upon the same terms and conditions as the original certificate.

In order to obtain a certificate of authority the corporation must deposit with the commissioner certified copy of its articles of association or incorporation, its by-laws, and the detailed statement of its plans for doing business, together with copies of all contracts and agreements proposed to be used in the conduct of its business. It shall be the duty of the commissioner to investigate and thoroughly examine into all such matters and if he finds that the law has been complied with and that the business proposed to be done is not in conflict with the laws and Constitution of this State, he shall grant a certificate authorizing such corporation to do business and such contracts and plans so submitted and approved shall not in any manner be changed or altered until the portion changed is submitted to and approved by the commissioner. [Id., § 10.]

Art. 1313½j. Contracts not to be forfeited.—No contract or agreement by any corporation chartered or doing business hereunder shall be forfeited for non-payment but upon a failure to pay upon the same according to the terms thereof for a period of three months, the same may be cancelled and the holder thereof shall be credited with all payments made to the reserve fund as provided in Section 12 hereof [Art. 1313½k] and such payments and such credit shall be payable to the holder in cash or paid-up certificate within sixty days thereafter at the option of the holder provided he surrenders at the time of demand such cancelled contract or agreement. [Id., § 11.]

Art. 1313½k. Withdrawal of contracts.—The holder of any contract issued hereunder may withdraw the same at any time upon ninety days written notice and shall be entitled to receive thereafter on demand the full amount paid into the said loan or reserve fund, provided six consecutive monthly payments of dues have been paid on the contract, in addition to the purchase price of said contract, less 15 per cent if the same is withdrawn after six months and before twelve months. If the same is withdrawn after one year and before two years after date the amount paid into the loan and reserve fund less 10 per cent of such amount, and if withdrawn after two years and before three years after the date hereof he shall receive the full amount paid into said reserve fund, less 5 per cent, and if withdrawn after three years after date hereof, he shall receive the full amount paid into said reserve fund, together with three per cent interest thereon; provided that the certificate holder may at his option accept a paid-up certificate of contract for the amount to the credit of the contract in the reserve fund, plus three per cent interest to the date of withdrawal, which certificate shall bear five per cent annual interest, and be payable not later than the maturity date of the original contract. [Id., § 12.]

Art. 1313 1/2l. Liability on contracts.—The liabilities of the contracts issued by any corporation transacting business hereunder shall at all times be the amount paid into the loan or reserve fund, together with interest at the rate of three per cent per annum thereon less sixteen and two-thirds per cent paid to loan or reserve fund, which may be deducted for expenses, to become the actual property of the corporation, eighty-three and one-third per cent of amount paid into loan or reserve fund, together with three per cent thereon shall constitute the certificate or contract reserve of the company, which must be invested in approved securities to be deposited with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking as herein provided. The sixteen and two-thirds per cent of all sums collected and here referred to as the expense deduction shall become the absolute property of the corporation, and shall be carried on its books as an expense and profit deduction. Provided, however, that any corporation may require the payments into the expense fund before any amount shall be paid into the reserve fund of a loaning charge of not exceeding two and four-tenths per cent of the face of the loan value of the contract as the expense of selling and booking the contract. [Id., § 13.]

Art. 1313 1/2m. Dividends.—It shall not be lawful for any company organized hereunder to make any dividends, except from surplus profits arising from its business, and in estimating such profits there shall be reserved therefrom the lawful reserve on all unexpired contracts, and also the amount of all unpaid withdrawals or cancelled certificates and all other debts due and payable or to become due and payable by the company. Any dividends made contrary to the provisions of this article shall subject the company making them to a forfeiture of its charter, and the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall forthwith revoke its certificate of authority; provided, that he shall give such company at least ten days' notice in writing of his intention to revoke such certificate, stating specifically the reason why he intends to revoke same. [Id., § 14.]

Art. 1313 1/2n. Investment of funds.—Corporations chartered hereunder shall invest their funds in the following and no other way:

1. If building or loan association, in such manner and in such property as building and loan associations are permitted to invest their funds under the building and loan laws of this State.

2. In the purchase of lands or building lots and erecting buildings and improvements thereon, or in the purchase of lands and improvements, shall be or be contracted to be sold to a certificate holder of the company, payable by the periodical contribution of the certificates of the association or in periodical installments of such period of time as shall be agreed upon and designated in the by-laws of the company; at the expiration of which term all payments having been made, the lands, dwelling and improvements so sold and conveyed to such certificate holder shall become the property of the grantee discharged from further payment.

3. In loans to certificate holders on bonds secured by mortgage which shall be a first lien on real estate in this State not to exceed eighty per cent of the cash value thereof, payable in certificates of the company or by periodical installments; except where any company holds a mortgage on real estate which is a first lien, such company may increase its loan thereon and secure the same by a second or subsequent mortgage; provided, the total indebtedness to the company, less the amount paid on certificates pledged for such loan shall not exceed eighty per centum of the cash value of the real estate loaned on and all mortgages held by such company shall be prior to any other incumbrance on said real estate.

(4) In the redemption of certificates or contracts of the company.

(5) In loans upon the pledged or collateral security of the certificates or contracts of the company not to exceed ninety per cent of the withdrawal value of such contracts.

(6) In loans to persons not certificate or contract holders without pledge or their contracts as collateral security, on bonds secured by mortgage which shall be a first lien on improved real estate in this State not to exceed two-thirds the cash value thereof; provided, however, a purchase money mortgage or vendor's lien given to any company upon real estate sold by it shall not be considered a loan within the meaning of this subdivision. [Id., § 15.]

Art. 1313 1/2p. May invest in same manner as life insurance companies.—Corporations chartered hereunder may invest in or loan upon any of the securities in which life insurance companies are permitted to invest in or loan upon in accordance with the terms and provisions of Article 4734, Revised Civil Statutes, 1911. [Id., § 16.]

Art. 1313 1/2q. Purchase of, or loans on, real estate.—No real estate shall be purchased by any such company or any loan made upon bond and mortgage except upon a report in writing of the loan committee of such corporation signed by them, certifying to the kind and quality, and value of the real estate in question to the best of their judgment; such report shall be filed and preserved among the records of the company and any stockholder shall have access to such reports. [Id., § 17.]

Art. 1313 1/2r. Taxation.—Corporations chartered hereunder shall be required to render for State, county and municipal taxation all of their real estate as other real estate is rendered, and all of the personal property of such company shall be valued as other property is valued for assessment in this State in the following manner:

From the total valuation of its assets shall be deducted the reserve, being the amount of the debts of such company by reason of its outstanding certificates or contracts, and from the remainder shall be deducted the assessed valuation of all the real estate owned by the company and the then remainder shall be the assessed taxable valuation of its personal property. For the purpose of State, county and municipal taxation the situs of all personal property belonging to such companies shall be at the home office of such company. [Id., § 18.]

Art. 1313 1/2s. Statement by foreign companies.—Any corporation having authority to transact the business permitted by this Act incorporated under the laws of any other State, territory or country desiring to transact such business in this State, shall furnish the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking with a written or printed statement under oath of the president or vice president or treasurer and secretary of such company, which shall show:

(a) The name and locality of the company.

(b) The amount of its capital stock.

(c) The amount of its capital stock paid up.

(d) The assets of the company including:

(1) The amount of cash on hand and in the hands of other persons, naming such persons and their residences.

(2) Real estate income, where situated and its value.

(3) The bonds owned by the company and how they are secured and the rate of interest thereon.

(4) Debts due the company secured by mortgage describing the property mortgaged and the market value.

(5) Debts otherwise secured stating how secured.

(6) Debts due or to become due on certificates or contracts.

(7) All other moneys and securities.
(e) Amount of liabilities of the company, stating the name of the person or corporation to whom liable.

(f) Contracts surrendered or cancelled and unliquidated and all other matters of liability in suspense.

(g) Provided, however, that the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking may require other additional facts to be shown by such statement. The same character of statement shall be made annually and each company shall be required to file a similar statement not later than March 1st of each year. [Id., § 19.]

Art. 1313½s. Same: filing copy of articles, etc.—Such foreign company shall accompany such statement with a certified copy of its articles of incorporation, of all amendments thereto, and copy of its by-laws, together with the name and residence of each of its officers and directors, all of which must be certified to under the hand of the president or secretary of such corporation; he shall also furnish copies of its contracts and a detailed statement of its plans for doing business in the same manner that these are required to be furnished by domestic companies. [Id., § 20.]

Art. 1313½t. Capital of foreign companies; reciprocal measures as to deposit of securities.—Such foreign company must as to its capital stock be in conformity with the provisions of this Act relative to domestic companies. Whenever the existing or future laws of any other State or territory of the United States, or of any other country, shall require of companies chartered under this Act any deposit of securities from such other State, territory or country before transacting business therein, then in all such cases such company shall before doing any business in this State be required to make the same deposit of securities with the Treasurer of this State. [Id., § 21.]

Art. 1313½u. Deposit of securities by foreign companies; investments.—No company, incorporated or organized under the laws of any other State, territory or country, shall transact business in this State, unless it shall first deposit and keep deposited with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of this State for the benefit of all the contract holders of such company, an amount in securities, such as domestic companies may invest in, equal to not less than thirty-three and one-third per cent of its capital stock; provided, however, that if a deposit of approved securities has been made under the laws of the State, territory or country chartering such corporation in such manner as to secure equally all the contract holders of such company, then no deposit shall be required in this State as to said thirty-three and one-third per cent of the capital stock, but a certificate of such deposit under the hand and seal of the officer of such other State with whom the same has been made shall be filed with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking. The reserves of such company, however, not organized under the laws of this State shall be invested in securities or property of the same classes as that in which home companies are required to invest their reserves and such reserves shall be deposited with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking in the same manner as that of domestic companies. [Id., § 22.]

Art. 1313½v. Power of attorney by foreign companies to accept service.—Each such foreign company shall file with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of this State an irrevocable power of attorney, duly executed, constituting and appointing the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking of this State and his successors in office, or any officer or board which may hereafter be clothed with the powers and duties now devolving upon said commissioner, its duly authorized agent and attorney in fact for the purpose of accepting service for it or being served with citation in any suit brought against it in any court of this State, by any person, or by or to or for the use of the State of Texas, and consenting that the service of any civil process upon him as its attorney for such purpose in any suit or proceeding shall be taken and held to be valid, waiving all claim and right to object to such service or to any error by reason of such service; and said appointment, agency and power of attorney shall by its terms and recitals provide that it shall continue and remain in force and effect so long as such company continues to do business in this State or to collect amounts due on its contracts from citizens in this State, and so long as it shall have outstanding contracts in this State and until all claims of every character held by citizens of this State or by the State of Texas against such company shall have been settled. Said power of attorney shall be signed by the president or vice president and the secretary of such company, whose signature shall be attested by the seal of the company and the officers signing the same shall acknowledge the same before some officer authorized to take acknowledgments; said power of attorney shall be embodied in and be approved and its execution authorized by resolution of the board of directors of such company and a copy of such resolution duly certified by the proper officers of such company shall be filed with the said power of attorney in the office of the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking in this State and shall be recorded by him in a book kept for that purpose there to remain a permanent record of said department. The provisions of Revised Civil Statutes, Article 4773 and Article 4774 shall apply to powers of attorney provided for herein, and the duties of the Commissioner shall be the same as they are provided for in said article of the statute with reference to foreign life insurance companies. [Id., § 23.]

Art. 1313 1/2w. Venue of suits; agents; bond; license.—Suit on contracts may be instituted and prosecuted against any company issuing the same in the county where the home office of such company is located or where it may have an agent.

All agents of any company transacting business hereunder must be licensed by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking and in order to obtain such license, it must be made to appear that such agent or agents are of good moral character and of good repute in their communities for honesty and fair dealing; and they must tender to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking a bond in form to be furnished by him in any sum not less than one thousand nor more than five thousand dollars, payable to the State of Texas for the use and benefit of any person who may be aggrieved by the action and conduct of such agent in the sale of any contract for the company of which he is licensed as an agent. Such agents must be licensed annually in the same manner that life insurance agents are licensed and such bond must be given by them. Such bond may be sued upon by any person having cause of action against such agent in any court of competent jurisdiction without the necessity of making the State of Texas or the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking a party to the suit; and repeated suits may be brought thereon until the entire amount thereof has been exhausted. [Id., § 24.]

Sections 25 and 26 create offenses for violation of the act and are set forth in Vernon's Penal Code 1911 as arts. 532c, 532d.

Art. 1313 1/2x. Forfeiture of charter for violation of act; penalties; acceptance of act.—No person, firm, corporation, or association of persons or joint stock company shall hereafter engage in this State in the business provided for in this Act, except in compliance with this Act, and any corporation which does so engage shall have its charter forfeited by suit of the Attorney General and shall be liable to a penalty of not less than one hundred dollars a day nor greater than five hundred dollars a day for each day that it does so engage; all such suits to be brought as other penalty suits which the Attorney General is authorized to bring; provided, however, that existing corporations, individuals, associations and joint stock companies engaged in the business defined in this Act at the time this measure goes into effect shall have twelve months thereafter to adjust their business affairs and bring their business under the terms of this Act; provided, however, that they must within sixty days after this Act goes into effect submit a statement of their business to the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, together with the certificate of their intention to accept the provisions of this Act, and comply therewith. [Id., § 27.]

Explanatory.—The part omitted, as indicated by asterisks, creates an offense, and is set forth in Vernon’s Pen. Code 1916 as art. 532e.

Art. 13131/2y. Bond investment and other companies to be governed by this act; unincorporated organizations to file certificate.—All bond investment companies operating in this State under the terms and provisions of Chapter 25, of Title 25, Revised Civil Statutes of this State, 1911, and all corporations engaging in the business in this State defined in this Act, and all individuals, associations and joint stock companies unincorporated, shall be governed by this Act in the manner herein set forth. Individuals, joint stock associations and associations unincorporated shall instead of a charter file a certificate with the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking acknowledged by them by their officers accepting the provisions of this Act and specifying and setting apart the amount of capital stock to be used in their business. In all other respects they shall be governed by the terms and provisions thereof. [Id., § 28.]

Art. 13131/2z. Partial invalidity; operation of general laws.—Should any section of this Act be held unconstitutional or void for any reason or as to any particular company, corporation, individual or association, such holding shall not affect the remainder of the Act. The general corporation laws of this State where not in conflict herewith shall govern corporations chartered or operating under this Act; and the general laws specifying charges which may be made by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking shall apply to corporations chartered or operating hereunder. [Id., § 29.]

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE C

LOAN AND INVESTMENT COMPANIES

Article 13133/4. Term defined.—The term “Loan and Investment Company” as used in this Act means any corporation formed under the provisions of this Act. [Act May 25, 1917, 1st C. S., ch. 37, § 1.]

Became a law May 25, 1917.

Art. 13133/4a. Incorporation.—Corporations may be organized under and by virtue of this Act in the same manner as corporations for profit under and by virtue of Title 25 of the Revised Statutes, except as otherwise herein provided. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 13133/4b. Capital stock.—The aggregate amount of the capital stock of a loan and investment company shall not be less than $25,000.00 in any city having a population of less than 50,000 inhabitants, and shall not be less than $50,000.00 in any city having 50,000 or more inhabitants and shall not be less than $100,000.00 in any city having 150,000 inhabitants or more, according to the last official census. The capital stock of any such corporation shall be divided into shares of the par value of $100.00 each. No corporation organized under this Act shall create more than one class of stock. [Id., § 3.]
Art. 1313\%c. Powers.—Every loan and investment company, in addition to the powers conferred upon corporations by the general incorporation law, shall have the following powers:

(a) To lend money and to deduct interest therefor in advance at a rate not to exceed six per centum per annum, and in addition to require and to receive uniform weekly or monthly instalments on its certificates of indebtedness purchased by the borrower simultaneously with the said loan transaction, or otherwise, and pledged with the corporation as security for the said loan, with or without an allowance of interest on such instalments.

(b) To sell or negotiate bonds, notes, certificates of investment and choses in action for the payment of money at any time, either fixed or uncertain and to receive payments therefor in instalments or otherwise, with or without an allowance of interest upon such instalments.

(c) To charge for a loan made pursuant to this section one dollar for each fifty dollars or fraction thereof loaned for expenses, including any examination or investigation of the character and circumstances of the borrower, co-maker or surety and the drawing and taking acknowledgment of necessary papers or other expenses incurred in making the loan; no charge shall be collected unless a loan shall have been made as a result of such examination or investigation. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 1313\%d. Restrictions on loans and deposits.—No loan and investment company shall:

(a) Hold at any one time the obligation of any one person, firm or corporation for more than two and one-half per cent, of the amount of capital and surplus of such loan and investment company.

(b) Make any loan under the provisions of this Act for a longer period than one year from the date thereof.

(c) Deposit any of its funds with any bank or trust company unless such bank or trust company has been designated as such depository by a vote of the majority of the directors or of the executive committee, exclusive of any director who is an officer, director or trustee of the depository so designated. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 1313\%e. Borrowing of money.—Issuing certificates of investment and the like in the transaction of the business of corporations organized hereunder shall not be construed to be borrowed money within the meaning of Article 1162 of Title 25 of the Revised Statutes. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 1313\%f. Supervision of Commissioner of Insurance and Banking.—The provisions of Articles five hundred and twenty-two to five hundred and twenty-five, inclusive, of the Revised Statutes relating to supervision by the Commissioner of Insurance and Banking, so far as applicable, together with any amendments thereof, shall apply to corporations incorporated under this Act. [Id., § 7.]

Art. 1313\%g. Provisions of Chapter 25 not to apply.—The provisions of Chapter twenty-five, Title twenty-five, revised statutes, shall not apply to corporations organized under the provisions of this Act. [Id., § 8.]

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX
FOREIGN CORPORATIONS

Art. 1314. Permit to do business, etc., in state must be obtained and how; purposes; foreign corporations.

Art. 1315. Permit to do business, affidavit as condition of issuance; requisites of.

Art. 1316. Secretary of state to require proof in what case.

Art. 1317. Rights under permit.

Art. 1317a. Right to purchase, hold, sell, mortgage, etc., real and personal estate; provisions as to alienation.

Art. 1318. No such corporation can maintain any suit, etc.
Article 1314. Permit to do business, etc. In state must be obtained, and how; limitation as to purposes; showing as to stock by foreign corporations.

An article of a foreign corporation's transferring or doing business within the state is only a privilege which the state may extend or withhold, and as to which it may prescribe the terms or conditions upon which it extends the right. Pierce Oil Corporation v. Weinert, 106 Tex. 425, 167 S. W. 808.

Interstate commerce.—A contract entered into in Ohio for the consignment of rubber tires to be sold in Texas, under which the tires were shipped from Ohio, involved interstate commerce, and this act is not applicable. Stein Double Cushion Tire Co. v. Wm. T. Fulton Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 1018.

A corporation doing business in a citizen of one of the states which are to be shipped from one to the other is an interstate commerce, "though the sale made by the seller's agent in the buyer's state. J. R. Watkins Medical Co. v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 394.

A contract with a foreign corporation for the sale of goods and their resale by the buyer in the state held to constitute interstate commerce, and this act did not apply to a suit thereon. Dr. Koch Vegetable Tea Co. v. Malone (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 662.

A sale held to constitute interstate commerce notwithstanding the foreign seller agreed to send one of its men to assist the buyer in starting a contest in which the articles sold were to be prizes. American Mfg. Co. v. Skidmore Drug & Furniture Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 128.

A foreign corporation sends its agents into the state to solicit orders does not cause sales made by such corporation, where consumed outside of the state, to lose their standing as interstate commerce. Id.

Though a foreign corporation violates this article, it may sue on a contract if its execution and performance constitute interstate commerce. York Mfg. Co. v. Colley (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 206.

A contract with a foreign corporation for the sale of goods and their resale by the buyer in the state held not to constitute interstate commerce. Id.

A foreign corporation selling in a sister state machines to a resident need not comply with arts. 1314-1318, and may sue on bond taken as security for the price. White Sewing Mach. Co. v. Sneed (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 960.

The state cannot control or regulate interstate commerce by requiring a foreign corporation engaged in such business to secure a permit to do business within the state. W. B. Clarkson & Co. v. Gans S. S. Line (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1106.

This act has no application to a corporation engaged in carrying interstate commerce. Id.

Transaction of business within state.—A sale by a foreign corporation of the material for an aerial tramway held not doing business within the state so as to prevent the corporation from maintaining an action thereon, even though it furnished a superintendent of construction. A. Leschen & Sons Rope Co. v. Moser (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1015.

A contract with a foreign corporation for the sale of goods and their resale by the buyer in the state held not a contract of agency, but a sale. Dr. Koch Vegetable Tea Co. v. Malone (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 662.

A corporation contracting to furnish a transcript of the testimony at a hearing before the Commission is not transacting business in Texas where its work was performed in a sister state and transmitted to the other party to the contract in Texas. Law Reporting Co. v. Texas Grain & Elevator Co. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1001.

A single transaction is sufficient to constitute the transaction of business in this state by a foreign corporation not having a permit to transact business in the state. And foreign corporation which sold and installed screen doors and window screens held transacting business in the state, and if without a permit not entitled to sue for the price. Buhler v. E. T. Burrowes Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 791.

In an action by a foreign corporation, evidence held to show that plaintiff was not doing business within the state so as to be required to secure a permit. Latham Co. v. Louer Bros. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 928.

Arts. 1314, 1318, held not to prevent a foreign corporation which has not procured a permit from transacting business a permit to contract by buy timber located in the state, in contemplation of doing business therein. Phillip A. Ryan Lumber Co. v. Ball (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 226.

That the maintained offices in the state where its managing officers transact the company's business which is executive and departmental constitutes "doing business in the state." El Paso & S. W. Co. v. Chisholm (Civ App.) 180 S. W. 156.

Execution and mailing of letter of credit to foreign corporation held not to constitute "doing business" in Texas. Tyler v. Consolidated Portrait Frame Co. (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 710.

Foreign corporation unlawfully transacting business.—A foreign corporation can incur liability on a contract of employment of an attorney made in the state, before it obtains a permit to transact business in the state. Bankers' Trust Co. of Amarillo v. Cooper, Merrill & Lumpkin (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 541.
Liability of shareholders as partners.—As arts. 1314 and 1315 were intended solely to prevent foreign corporations from doing business in the state and did not render the shareholders of such corporations liable as co-partners, shareholders in a foreign corporation doing business in the state without a license are not liable for its debts as co-partners. A. Leschen & Sons Rope Co. v. Moser (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1018.

Art. 1315. Permit to do business, affidavit as condition of issuance; requisites of.

Art. 1316. Secretary of state to require proof in what case.

Art. 1317. Rights under permit.

Art. 1317a. Right to purchase, hold, sell, mortgage, etc., real and personal estate; provisos as to alienation.

Right to hold property.—Under articles of incorporation, cement company organized under laws of West Virginia held authorized to own property and carry out corporate purposes elsewhere than in El Paso, Tex., and that amended paragraph of charter authorized it to acquire and operate property in California. Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Latta & Happer (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1116.

Art. 1318. [746] No such corporation can maintain any suit, unless.

Where plaintiff foreign corporation had failed to file articles of incorporation, it could not maintain action for price of heating plant erected for defendant school district because within the prohibition of this article. Peck-Hammond Co. v. Hamilton Independent School Dist. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 697.

Rev. St. 1911, art. 1318, providing that no foreign corporation can maintain suit unless it had filed articles of incorporation to procure permit to do business, had no application to case of German corporation suing resident in courts in Texas on open account for goods shipped to defendant in Mexico from Berlin. Russek v. Wind, Ems & Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 544.

Pleading and proof as to compliance with statute.—A foreign corporation need not, in the absence of a plea raising the question, show a permit to do business in the state, where the petition does not show that it was engaged in business within the state. Blackwell-Wielandy Book & Stationery Co. v. Perry (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 935.

Where a foreign corporation's petition and proof show that it was not doing business in the state, the burden is on the defendant to prove that plaintiff cannot maintain the action under this article. Latham Co. v. Louer Bros. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 920.

A foreign corporation, suing for the price of goods sold by it in the state, must not only allege, but prove, that at the time of the transaction it had a permit to do business in the state. Rexall Drug Co. v. Butler Bros. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 389.

In action by foreign corporation, where the petition does not show that corporation is transacting business in the state, it is not necessary that it allege that it has obtained license to transact business in the state. Crews & Williams v. Gullett Gin Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 793.

It was not incumbent on plaintiff foreign corporation to plead and prove that cause of action did not arise in such manner as not to come within arts. 1314 and 1315, where record was silent as to whether indebtedness sued on arose out of transaction of business in Texas, etc. Studebaker Harness Co. v. Gerlach Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 144.

Proper judgment is dismissal.—Where a foreign corporation, which has not procured a license to do business in the state, sues upon a contract made within the state, the action must be dismissed. A. Leschen & Sons Rope Co. v. Moser (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1018.

Jurisdiction of action.—Where foreign corporation under disability of this article sued on executed contract to furnish heating plant to school district, and added second count for goods sold, in amount not within jurisdiction of district court, there could be no recovery. Peck-Hammond Co. v. Hamilton Independent School Dist. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 697.
TITLE 27
COUNTER CLAIM

Article 1325. [750] [645] Counter claim may be pleaded, when.
1. In general.—The rule that an equitable demand cannot be pleaded in a court of law in set-off against a legal demand has been abolished in this state. Reeves v. White (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 43.

This article was enacted to avoid a multiplicity of suits and should be liberally construed.

In an action on a note by his former partner, the defendant might set off a debt due from the plaintiff. Id.

There is no distinction between law and equity in Texas, and the courts in the same suit will administer whatever remedy a litigant is entitled to. Georgetown Mercantile Co. v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 72.

Except where a debtor is insolvent, a debt must have matured to be available as a set-off. Stockyards Nat. Bank v. Presnall (Sup.) 194 S. W. 384.

3. Set-off of judgments.—Where a judgment creditor levies upon and sells exempt property, and the debtor recovers a judgment, the creditor cannot, as against such judgment, offset his own judgment. James McCord Co. v. Resa (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 461.

In action by seller of goods against purchaser and carrier, purchaser may, goods having been injured in transit, cross-complain against carrier; seller contending that title passed to purchaser on delivery to carrier. Robert McLane Co. v. Swernemann & Schidake (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 282.

In action to recover usury on notes, cross-bill, alleging a conspiracy between plaintiff and others to destroy defendant’s banking business, held sufficient to show a cause of action in reconvención or cross-action, and authorizing admission of evidence. First Nat. Bank v. Herrell (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 737.

In an action upon a note, where defendants pleaded a cross-action asking cancelation of a mortgage to try title, and for a writ of possession, the cross-action being entirely foreign to the main action, and the court not having jurisdiction thereof, it was properly stricken. Dawson v. Duffie (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 709.

10. Parties to and mutuality of cross-demands in general.—A buyer from an undisclosed agent can rely on set-off of a pre-existing account against the agent as payment. Hudgins Produce Co. v. J. R. Beggs & Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 539.

A plea of payment to an undisclosed agent does not authorize proof of set-off against the agent. Id.

The rule that set-offs or counterclaims must be due in the same right and that a separate debt cannot be set off by a joint debt does not prevent the setting off of a separate individual debt from one of two partners to the other. Reeves v. White (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 45.

Where plaintiff was individually indebted to defendant upon a claim not founded upon a tort or breach of covenant, defendant might set off such debt against his individual debt to the plaintiff, founded on a note, and it was immaterial that defendant’s demand arose out of former partnership transactions. Id.

In an action against one lessee on a rental note, held, that defendant’s counterclaim for damages from being deprived of option to purchase and of the leasehold was properly dismissed for nonjoinder of the other lessee. Barlow v. Linss (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 652.

In a suit on a note a pleading in set-off and reconvención held subject to demurrer as being for a joint debt or liability against a separate debt. Ray v. Cartwright (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 927.

Plaintiff’s action involving a contract between it and defendant, it cannot urge against defendant’s cross-action for breach thereof that the damages were suffered by a partnership, and that the other members are not parties; assignment of the contract not being shown. Half Co. v. Waugh (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 839.

14. Set-offs and counter claims against assigned causes of action.—Where the owner of a building in course of construction has legal offsets against the claim of the contractor, such offset is superior to the claim of the contractor’s assignee, but he has no claim to the money in his hands beyond the amount of the offset. First Nat. Bank v. Smith (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 311.

Article 1326. [751] [646] Requisites of the plea.

Plea—Requisites and sufficiency.—That the set-off and counterclaim pleaded by defendant did not distinctly state the nature of the counterclaim and the several items thereof as required by arts. 1326 and 1967 cannot be reached by general demurrer, but must be reached by special exception. Ajax-Grieb Rubber Co. v. Hubbard (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 563.

250

Art. 1327. [752] [647] Judgment over in defendant's favor, when.

See Northcutt v. Hume (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 974; note under art. 1328.

Ground for reversal.—Under arts. 1327 and 1328, judgment held not to be reversed for error in denying nominal damages, as such damages would not have entitled plaintiff to costs. Northcutt v. Hume (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 974.

Art. 1329. [754] [649] Certain and uncertain damages not to be set off against each other.

In general.—Under arts. 1325 and 1329 held that, in an action on a note by his former partner, the defendant might set off a debt due from the plaintiff. Reeves v. White (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 48.

Liquidated demand as set off in action on unliquidated claim.—In action for wrongful attachment of goods, plaintiffs held entitled to plead judgment recovered by defendant in the attachment suit and ask that it be credited against plaintiffs' claim. Brady-Neely Grocery v. Foe (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1135.

Unliquidated demand as set off in action for unliquidated damages.—In an action for the wrongful killing of a horse, the defendant cannot set off damages arising from trespass committed by the horse and his keep after former trespass, since the statute relating to set-off does not cover disconnected claims for damages arising in tort. Dees v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 53.

In a tenant's action against his landlord for conversion of the proceeds of a check, held, that defendant could not set off a claim for damages for a tort arising out of the loss of a mule furnished plaintiff by defendant. Sanchez v. Blumberg (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 954.

A husband who obtained money from plaintiff on fraudulent representations cannot set off, as against an action for that sum, injuries to his wife's property by plaintiff. King v. Driver (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 87.

Unliquidated claim as set off in action on certain demand.—A cause of action in tort in favor of one and against his judgment creditor cannot be set off against the judgment so long as it is unliquidated. Davidson v. Lee (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 414.

A counterclaim for commissions for procuring a sale of property was not an "unliquidated demand" so as not to be a proper counterclaim, under this article, though the parties did not agree upon the amount of commissions to be paid. Shaw v. Faires (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 501.

When plaintiff conveyed land to defendant, September 9, 1911, with covenant of warranty, and on October 21st following sold him personal property, for which notes were accepted on which plaintiff subsequently sued, defendant could not set up as a counterclaim a demand for unliquidated damages because of breach of plaintiff's covenant to convey personal property to defendant, as the warranty of title of the land, under arts. 1329 and 1330. Avent v. Ormand (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 239.

Under arts. 1329 and 1330, held that, in action for the price of one consignment of coffee, defendants might counterclaim for plaintiff's breach of a covenant made with respect to that and other consignments. Maury-Cole Co. v. Lockhart Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 262.

Under this article defendant in a suit on a note could not set off a demand for unliquidated damages founded on breach of independent covenant. Ray v. Cartwright (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 957.

Art. 1330. [755] [650] Matters incident to plaintiff's cause of action may be set off.

In general.—Under this article, in landlord's action for rent and compensation for the use of farming implements and miles, breach of warranty of horses which defendant bought from landlord in part consideration for the lease held a proper counterclaim. Gillispe v. Ambrose (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 937.

The transferee of secured lien notes could in trespass to try title against himself and his transferee, who had conveyed to plaintiff's grantor, have the lien enforced for the attorney's fees stipulated for in the notes, and other sums due thereon. Childs v. Juenger (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 474.

When defendant was employed to sell plaintiff's property, insure it, collect rents, etc., and in the performance of such contracts for selling the property, his claim therefor was a proper counterclaim, in an action by plaintiff for money collected by defendant as rents, etc., being incident to the same transaction within this article. Shaw v. Faires (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 501.

Defendant, in an action to cancel a deed on the ground of fraud, cannot plead plaintiff's fraud to defeat a recovery. Where defendant has paid out money by reason of plaintiff's fraud he may plead that fact and have it adjudicated in case a rescission is decreed. Paschal v. Hudson (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 911.
Art. 1330 COUNTER CLAIM (Title 27)

In action for possession of cotton seed allegations of answer by bank held sufficient to support a counterclaim within this article. Guitar v. First State Bank of Hermleigh (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 860.

In action for possession of cotton seed allegations of answer by bank held sufficient to support a counterclaim within this article. Guitar v. First State Bank of Hermleigh (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 860.

Liquidated or unliquidated demands.—In an action for the balance of the purchase price of a business, defendant was entitled to plead, in reconvention, damages suffered by the wrongful issuance of certain attachments and a garnishment by plaintiff arising out of the same transaction. McLane v. Hayden (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1146.

An owner damaged by breach of a contract to construct a building may either recover such damages in an independent action, or as a set-off or counterclaim in an action by the contractor. Waco Cement Stone Works v. Smith (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1158.

In an action on a note for money advanced to pay the expense of drilling a well and to foreclose a lien on a drilling outfit, securing the note, a claim by defendant for damages from plaintiff's refusal for a time to point out where the well was to be drilled, and for a certain amount for drilling the well, was a part of the same transaction as the note so as to be properly asserted in a cross-action under Rev. St. 1911, art. 1330. Ross v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 513.

Under this article, an action for wrongful attachment of a stock of goods, a judgment recovered by defendant in the attachment suit for the purchase price of the goods was a proper set-off. Brady-Neely Grocer Co. v. De Foe (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1135.

Where plaintiff conveyed land to defendant, September 9, 1911, with covenant of warranty, and on October 21st following sold him personal property, for which notes were accepted on which plaintiff subsequently sued, defendant could not set up as a counterclaim a demand for unliquidated damages because of breach of plaintiff's covenant consisting of the failure to deliver possession of the portion of the land, under arts. 1329 and 1330. Avent v. Ormand (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 239.

Under arts. 1329 and 1330, held that, in action for the price of one consignment of coffee, defendants might counterclaim for plaintiff's breach of a covenant made with respect to that and other consignments. Munry-Cole Co. v. Lockhart Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 262.

TITLE 28
COUNTIES AND COUNTY SEATS

CHAPTER ONE
CREATION OF COUNTIES

Art. 1335. Line of new county shall not approach nearer than twelve miles to an established county seat.

Art. 1339. New counties to pay pro rata of indebtedness.

Note.—Act Feb. 27, 1917, c. 47, § 2a, fixes liabilities on change of boundaries of Duval and Jim Hogg counties. Act Feb. 16, 1917, c. 25, creates Hudspeth county out of El Paso county, and adjusts the liabilities of the counties.

CHAPTER TWO ORGANIZATION OF COUNTIES

Art. 1360. Disorganized counties to be attached to other counties, until, etc.

Special acts.—By Act Jan. 29, 1917, ch. 4, § 3, Act Feb. 12, 1917, ch. 12, § 3, and Act March 9, 1917, ch. 67, § 4, the unorganized county of Loving is attached to Reeves county, and the unorganized county of Crane is attached to Ector county. By Act March 28, 1917, ch. 117, § 2, the unorganized county of Bailey is attached to Castro county "for judicial and all other purposes." See art. 33, paragraph 64, ante.

CHAPTER THREE
CORPORATE RIGHTS AND POWERS

Art. 1365. County a body corporate.

Art. 1370. Commissioner to sell real estate of.

Art. 1373. Agents to contract for county may be appointed.

Art. 1385. County a body corporate.

County as corporation.—A county is by this article a body corporate and politic, and acts by the commissioners' court, and the acts of the court, made in good faith within the scope or apparent scope of its authority, are the acts of the county. Comanche County v. Burks (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 470.

253
Liability for torts.—Where a county in its corporate capacity commits a wrong in relation to property in which others are interested, the county is liable. Comanche County v. Burks (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 470.

Contracts.—Under this article the commissioners' court may ratify a sale of school land which it might originally have made. King County v. Martin (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 960, judgment affirmed on rehearing 173 S. W. 1209.

Art. 1366. [790] [677] Suits against.
Presentation of claim.—This article does not apply to an action to enforce the trust imposed on a county to hold county school lands and the proceeds on a sale thereof in trust for the public schools. Comanche County v. Burks (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 470.
Where the demand sued on was presented to the commissioners' court, but it refused to grant the relief, the mere failure of the clerk to enter the proceedings on his minutes did not prevent an action against the county on the demand, notwithstanding this article. Id.
This article held not to apply to action brought solely for purpose of binding the county as to the title to property bought by its contractor and mortgaged to plaintiff. Dallam County v. S. H. Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 789.
Under this article claim against county for publishing delinquent tax list could be allowed by commissioners' court, though presented before maturity, and paid at latter date so that rejection entitled claimant to sue before maturity. Potter County v. Boesen (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 787.

Limitations.—Despite this article, county treasurer cannot recover commissions accruing for a period more than two years before institution of the suit, for he might sue within a reasonable time after presentation of claim. Smith v. Wise County (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 765.

Pleading.—Under this article a petition, showing claim made to commissioners' court to have been larger than amount due, held to sufficiently show on general demurrer, that identical claim sued for was presented to commissioners' court for allowance before suit. Dromgoole v. Karnes County (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 975.

Art. 1368. [792] [679] Execution shall not issue against county.
Finality of judgment.—A judgment directing the payment of the amount by a county out of any funds of a contractor, without disposing of the issue as to the existence of such funds raised by the pleading, is not final so as to be payable under this article, and cannot be enforced by mandamus. Culberson County v. Groves Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 165.

Art. 1370. [794] [681] Commissioners to sell real estate of.
Conveyance by commissioners.—A deed of county land by a county judge was invalid where it did not appear that he had been appointed by the county court to sell the land, or that the sale was made at public auction as required by this article. Spencer v. Levy (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 559.

Art. 1373. [797] [684] Agents to contract for county may be appointed.
Ratification of acts of person acting as agent.—A county, through the only agency by which it can act, that is, its commissioners' court, may ratify the act of one assuming without authority to be its agent, but the sheriff's use of disinfectants purchased by him without authority, over the protest of the court, was not a ratification. Germo Mfg. Co. v. Coleman County (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1063.

Sheriff as agent.—The commissioners' court may act through an agent appointed by them, and a sheriff not appointed by them to purchase for the county was not their agent by virtue of his office. Germo Mfg. Co. v. Coleman County (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1063.

CHAPTER FOUR COUNTY LINES

Article 1378. [802] Notice to other counties.

CHAPTER FIVE
COUNTY SEATS

Rejection of vote.—Where from practical considerations a voter had changed his mind as to his vote on the question of change of the county seat, his vote will not be rejected because of subsequent attempts to coerce him to vote as he did. Aldridge v. Hamlin (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 602.
CHAPTER SIX
COUNTY BOUNDARIES

Article 1400. [822] Boundaries as established, adopted, and acts creating continued in force.

Validity.—A presumption of validity of enactment of Rev. St. 1895, art. 822, adopting county boundaries then recognized and established, arises from its presence therein. Hale County v. Lubbock County (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 678.

Application and operation.—This article is not limited to those counties whose boundaries have been established in accordance with statute. Hale County v. Lubbock County (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 678.

Confusion in abstract records as to what county certain surveys are not being referable to location of a county line did not interfere with operation of this article. Id.

Evidence held to bring a boundary line between counties run and marked by a state surveyor within this article. Id.

New counties.—Hudspeth county is created by Act Feb. 16, 1917, ch. 25, p. 39.

Act Feb. 27, 1917, c. 47, p. 81, amends the former law defining the boundaries of Duval and Jim Hogg counties.
CHAPTER ONE

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Art. 1401. Duty of commissioners' court to procure ledger, etc.

Art. 1402. Duty of county clerk to keep accounts.

Public inspection.—The common-law right of a citizen to inspect county records to discover a misapplication of funds held not affected by this article or arts. 1160, 6030, 6041, 6042. Where county officers appeared to be in arrears for several years, an audit by the county commissioners of one year is no ground for denying a citizen the right to examine the books for preceding years. Where plaintiffs expected an inspection of county records would disclose that their assessments were too high, they had a personal interest entitling them to examine the records. Palacios v. Corbett (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 777.

Art. 1409. How the collector may discharge his indebtedness.

Liability for assessor's fees.—Where a tax collector had funds in his hands sufficient to meet an order of the state comptroller for the assessor's fees, but the order was not presented to him before the fees became delinquent, he is not liable to the county for the fees claimed by the assessor for the collection of such delinquent fees. Dallas County v. Bolton (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1155.

Art. 1416. County clerk shall make two reports of licenses issued at end of each month.

Cited, Roberts v. Munroe (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 784.

Art. 1421. Clerks, etc., shall report fines, judgments and jury fees monthly.

Cited, Jarvis v. Taylor County (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 334.

Art. 1423. Fines imposed and judgments rendered by justices shall be charged against them, etc.

Cited, Jarvis v. Taylor County (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 334.

Art. 1433. Claims shall be classified.

Payment according to classification.—See Broussard v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 814.

In view of arts. 1433 and 1438, Const. art. 11, § 5, does not apply to a fee due a publisher by a county for publishing the county delinquent tax lists. Boesen v. Potter County (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 462.

Art. 1438. Classification of county funds.

Application.—In view of arts. 1433 and 1438, Const. art. 11, § 5, does not apply to a fee due a publisher by a county for publishing the county delinquent tax lists. Boesen v. Potter County (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 462.
Art. 1440. [859] [969] Said court may transfer one class of funds to another, except, etc.

Transfer of funds.—This article permits transfer so long as the augmented fund is not thereby rendered in excess of the maximum expenditure and levy for the various county purposes under Const. art. 8, § 9, Williams v. Carroll (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 29.

In view of Const. art. 8, § 9, setting the limits of levies for various county purposes, this article does not authorize the commissioners' court to transfer into the road and bridge fund such amounts as to make possible an expenditure for roads and bridges in excess of the constitutional limit. Id.

This article authorizes transfer of the general fund, jury fund, contingent fund, and depositary fund, to the road fund. Broussard v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 814.

Art. 1453. [870] [980] District judge shall appoint committee to examine into the finances of county.

Art. 1459. [876] [986] Warrants issued against county by judge or court shall be attested by clerk, etc.

Liability of indorser of void warrant.—Where a holder of a void county warrant indorsed it and received the amount thereof from a bank, he must refund the amount to the bank, and cannot escape liability on the theory that he sold the warrant to the bank. Toole v. First Nat. Bank of Hemphill (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 425.

Rights of assignee of void county warrant.—Assignment of a county warrant given for payment of lots, invalid under Const. art. 11, § 7, gives the assignee no right of the assignor to have title to the lots divested out of the county. Rogers Nat. Bank v. Marion County (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 884.

Liability of person receiving county money under invalid order.—A sheriff who received county moneys under orders of the commissioners' court upon claims which under no circumstances he could lawfully collect from the county was liable to refund such moneys on an implied contract as for money unlawfully had and received. Jeff Davis County v. Davis (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 291.

1. APPOINTMENT, QUALIFICATIONS, BOND

Article 1460. County auditor appointed in what counties; title; term; salary.—In any county of this State having a population of forty thousand inhabitants or over, according to the last United States census, or having a tax valuation of fifteen million dollars, or over, according to the last approved tax rolls, there shall be appointed an auditor of accounts and finances, the title of said officer to be county auditor, who shall hold his office for two years and until his successor is appointed and qualified, and who shall receive, as compensation for his services, the sum of one hundred ($100.00) dollars, for each million dollars, or major portion thereof, of the assessed tax valuation, the annual salary to be computed from the last approved tax roll preceding his appointment, said annual salary shall not exceed twenty-four hundred ($2400.00) dollars, to be paid monthly out of the general fund of the county upon an order of the commissioners' court. [Acts 1905, p. 381; Acts 1907, p. 315; Act March 30, 1915, ch. 131, § 1; Act March 29, 1917, ch. 134, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The act amends art. 1460, ch. 2, title 29, Rev. Civ. St. 1911, and amended by the 34th Legislature, page 203. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 1460a. Auditors for other counties where public necessity therefor exists; discontinuance of office.—When the commissioners' court of a county, not mentioned and enumerated in Article 1460, shall determine that an auditor is a public necessity in the dispatch of the county business and shall enter an order upon the minutes of said court, fully setting out the reasons and necessity of an auditor, and shall cause said order to be certified to the judge, or judges, of the district court, or courts, having jurisdiction in the county, said judge or judges, shall, if such reason of the commissioners' court, be considered good and sufficient, appoint a county auditor, as provided in Article 1461, who shall qualify and perform all the duties required of county auditors by the laws of this State; provided said judge or judges, shall have the power to discontinue the office of county auditor at any time after the expiration of one year; when it is clearly shown that such auditor is not a public necessity and his services are not commensurate with his salary received. [Id., § 2.]

Explanatory.—Ch. 2, tit. 29, Rev. Civ. St. 1911, is amended by adding art. 1460a to read as above.

Art. 1461. Appointment to be made by judges of district court; majority vote; in case of failure to elect governor to call in another district judge; record of action.—The judge or judges of the district court or courts, having jurisdiction in the county, shall appoint the auditor provided for in this Act, at a special meeting held for that purpose, a majority ruling; provided, that in the event there is more than one district judge, and such judges fail to agree upon the selection of some person as auditor, or a majority of said judges fail to agree, then either of said judges shall certify such fact to the Governor of the State, who shall thereupon designate and appoint some other district judge of the State to act and vote with the aforesaid judges in the selection of such auditor. The action shall then be recorded in the minutes of the district court of the county and the clerk thereof shall certify the same to the commissioners' court, which shall cause the same to be recorded in its minutes, together with an order directing the payments of the auditor's salary. [Acts 1905, p. 381, § 2; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 120, § 1; Act March 29, 1917, ch. 134, § 3.]

Explanatory.—The act amends art. 1461, ch. 2, tit. 29, Rev. Civ. St. of 1911, and amended by the 34th Legislature, page 182.

Art. 1462. Qualifications.—The auditor to be appointed shall be a citizen of the county of at least two years residence, and must be a man of unquestionable good moral character and intelligence, thoroughly competent in public business details; he must be a competent accountant, who has had at least two years experience in auditing and accounting. The judges empowered with this appointment must carefully investigate and consider the qualifications of said person, before appointment; provided, that in the event no citizen of the county can be procured, who is qualified under the provisions of this Article, the said judge or judges may appoint a qualified citizen from another county of this State. [Acts 1905, p. 381, sec. 3; Act March 29, 1917, ch. 134, § 4.]

Explanatory.—The act amends art. 1462, ch. 2, tit. 29, Rev. Civ. St. of 1911.

2. ASSISTANT AND CLERICAL HELP

Art. 1464. May appoint assistant, with consent of county judge.

Art. 1465. May appoint clerical help, with consent of county judge.

4. DUTIES AND POWERS OF AUDITOR

Art. 1467. General duties of auditor.

Supervision over school funds.—Under this article a county auditor has no supervision over the funds of a common school district of the county. Houston Nat. Exchange Bank v. School Dist. No. 25, Harris County (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 589.

Art. 1467a. School ledger; school bond ledger; interest and sinking fund account.—It shall be the duty of the auditor to install in his office, a school ledger and keep in this ledger an accurate account of all funds received and all funds disbursed by the common school districts of his county. He shall also install in his office, a bond register showing all the school bonds issued by the common schools of his county, the rate of interest they bear, the date they were issued, the date they are to be paid, and he shall also keep an interest and sinking fund account of school bonds of each common school district of his county. [Act March 29, 1917, ch. 134, § 5.]

Explanatory.—The act amends ch. 2, tit. 29, Rev. Civ. St. of 1911, by adding art. 1467a.

Art. 1468. Access to and right to examine accounts, etc., of commissioners' court and trustees of common school districts.—He shall have continual access to and shall examine all the books, accounts, reports, vouchers and other records of any of the officers, the orders of the commissioners' court, relating to finances of the county and also to examine all vouchers given by the trustee of all common school districts of the county and to inquire into the correctness of same. [Acts 1905, p. 381, sec. 6; Act March 29, 1917, ch. 134, § 6.]

Explanatory.—Sec. 6 provides that art. 1468 "be added" to ch. 2, tit. 29, Rev. Civ. St. of 1911, to read as above. The title purports "to amend" said article. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 1473. Law, see to enforcement of.

Art. 1476. Forms for collection, mode of keeping, etc., accounts; time for reports, shall prescribe.

Art. 1477. Regulation for collecting, accounting, etc., may adopt and enforce.

Art. 1478. Deposits in treasury to be made how.
Art. 1480. Bids for supplies, etc.

Art. 1481. Claims, etc., to be filed in what time; not to be paid until, etc.

Art. 1484. Restrictions and requirements in audit and approval of claims, requisition, etc., bids for supplies, etc.

Art. 1492. Estimate, shall prepare for commissioners; who shall prepare budget.

Art. 1494a. Control of finances in counties expending funds for improvements.—That in all counties having a County Auditor, and containing a population of 110,000 or more, as shown by the United States census of 1910, on which the office of County Auditor may hereafter be created, in which there now exists, or in which there may be hereafter created any improvement, navigation, drainage, road or irrigation district, or any other character of district having for its purpose the expenditure of public funds for improvement purposes, whether derived from the issuance of bonds or through any character of special assessment, the County Auditor shall exercise such control over the finances of said districts as is hereinafter provided; provided, that this Act shall include any and all districts now in existence or that may hereafter be legally created, whether specifically named herein or not, providing that said district or districts shall have the purpose or object of expending district funds for improvements of any kind. [Act Feb. 16, 1915, ch. 11, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The title of this act recites that its purpose is to amend chapter 2 of title 29 of the Revised Statutes of 1911, by adding thereto articles 1494a, 1494b, 1494c, 1494d, 1494e, 1494f, 1494g, 1494h, and 1494i. The legislature in formulating the act, however, did not number the sections of the act as indicated, but designated by numbers from 1 to 9, inclusive.

Art. 1494b. Purchase of supplies and materials without submission to competition; requisition.—All purchases for supplies and materials, and all contracts for labor on behalf of any of such districts shall be made in accordance with the law governing such districts, provided, that the commissioners or other governing body shall be authorized, without the taking of bids in cases of emergency to make purchases or contracts not to exceed the sum of fifty dollars, upon requisition signed by at least two members of the governing body of such district. A requisition shall be issued therefor, executed in triplicate, one copy to be delivered to the person or corporation from whom the purchase is made, one to be delivered to the County Auditor, and one to remain on file with the governing body of such district before any purchase shall be made. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 1494c. Audit of bills for supplies, etc.; warrants.—All bills for supplies, materials, labor, work or anything necessary to the carrying out of the purposes of any such district shall be contracted in accordance with the law creating and governing such district that may now be in existence or that may be hereafter enacted, except as may be otherwise provided herein. It shall be the duty of the proper officers of said districts to file all bills with the County Auditor before payment, and it shall be his duty to audit and approve the same, provided said bills have been contracted in accordance with law and are found by him to be correct, and no bill shall be paid until the same has been audited and approved by the County Auditor as provided by this section. All warrants in payment of bills of any such districts shall be drawn and signed in accordance with the law governing the issuance of warrants of such districts, and shall be countersigned by the County Auditor, and no treasurer or other depository of any of such districts shall pay out any money except upon warrants so duly countersigned. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 1494d. Forms; expense of printing; accounts; countersigning warrants for investments.—It shall be the duty of the County Auditor from time to time to prescribe and prepare all necessary forms for the use of any of such districts in the payment of bills, collection and disbursement of money, keeping of accounts, and the making of reports; the expense of necessary printing and stationery used therefor shall be paid by the district. He shall keep an accurate account of all balances on hand in the various funds of said districts, and he shall countersign warrants for the investment of any of the funds of said district only when invested in the manner authorized by law. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 1494e. Checking reports; reports to Commissioners Court; keeping books; receipts; inspection of books.—It shall be the duty of the County Auditor to check all reports required by law to be filed by any district officer, and within thirty days after the filing thereof to make a detailed report to the Commissioners Court showing his finding thereon and the condition of such district as shown by said report, and as shown by the records of his office. He shall keep a general set of books, showing all receipts and expenditures of the funds of such districts. It shall not be lawful for the treasurer or other depository to receive money for said district without executing proper receipts upon forms to be provided by the County Auditor. All books, accounts, records, bills and warrants in the possession of any officer of any such district, or in the possession of any other person legally charged with their custody, shall at all times be subject to the inspection of the County Auditor. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 1494f. Compensation of Auditor.—The County Auditor shall receive for his services in auditing the affairs of such navigation, drainage, road, improvement or other districts, such compensation as the Commissioners Court may prescribe, which shall be paid by the county out of the general fund and repaid to the county by such districts by warrants drawn upon the proper funds of such district; provided, that in counties having a population of one hundred ten thousand or more, as shown by the United States census of 1910, in which there may now exist, or in which there may be hereafter created as many as five such districts, the compensation allowed the County Auditor for his services on behalf of such districts shall be not less than the sum of twelve hundred dollars per annum, to be prorated among the districts in such proportion as the commissioners court may determine. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 1494g. Assistants and stenographer; pay; oath.—In all counties having a population of 110,000 or more, as shown by the last United States census, or which may hereafter have a population of 110,000 or more, as shown by the last preceding United States census, the County Auditor may appoint two assistants. He may also appoint a stenographer. The rate of pay for said assistants and stenographers shall be the same as fixed by general law for the payment of deputies or assistants to other officers. In addition to the assistants provided for in this section, the County Auditor may appoint, by and with the consent of the County Judge or of the Commissioners Court, such additional assistants as may be necessary to the proper conduct of his office. All of said assistants shall take the usual oath of office, and shall be paid out of the general fund of the county upon the order of the Commissioners Court. [Id., § 7.]

Art. 1494h. Repeal.—Any and all laws and parts of laws in conflict with any of the provisions of this Act shall be and the same are hereby repealed. [Id., § 8.]
Art. 1494i. Emergency.—The fact that the present laws are weak and inadequate with respect to the manner of making and checking purchases in such districts; that bills, accounts and reports are not required to be audited, and this bill seeks to extend to all of said districts the benefit of the auditor’s law as applied to counties creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read on three several days be suspended, and that this Act take effect from and after its passage, and it is so enacted. [Id., § 9.]
Art. 1498l. Hospital in connection with poor house.

Appointment of officers.—This article held not to require appointment by county commissioners of a board to take charge of a building constructed for, but never used as, a hospital, and abandoned as unfit therefor, or the appointment of managers to take charge of pesthouses used only occasionally to treat cases of smallpox. A hospital operated by a city and county jointly under article 1498n is not a county hospital, within this article as to appointment of a manager therefor. Glasscock v. Wells (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 782.

Art. 1498m. More than one hospital.

City and county hospital.—A hospital operated by a city and county jointly under this article is not a county hospital, within article 1498l, requiring the appointment of a manager therefor. Glasscock v. Wells (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 782.
TITLE 29 B
COUNTY PARKS

Article 1498 1/4. Tax levy for parks; election.—That the commissioners court of any county in this State is hereby authorized to levy and collect a tax not to exceed five (5) cents on each $100 of assessed valuation of the county for the purchase and improvement of lands for use as county parks; provided, that no such tax shall be levied and collected until the proposition is submitted to and ratified by the property taxpaying voters of the county at a general election or a special election called for other purposes, provided, a two-thirds majority of the property taxpaying voters of such county, at an election held for that purpose, shall determine in favor of said tax. [Act March 15, 1915, ch. 53, § 1.]

This act took effect 90 days after adjournment of legislature on March 20, 1915.

Art. 1498 1/4a. Number of parks; location.—The county parks provided for in this Act shall not exceed four in number in any one county; and it is further provided that where the commissioners court of any county desires to establish two or more of such county parks it shall be their duty to locate such parks in widely separated portions of the county so as to place them as near as practicable within the convenient reach of all the citizens of the county. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 1498 1/4b. Control of parks; tax for maintenance.—Said commissioners court shall have full power and control over any and all county parks as provided for in this Act, and they shall have the right to levy and collect an annual tax sufficient in their judgment to properly maintain such parks. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 1498 1/4c. Area of parks.—County parks, as contemplated by the provisions of this Act, shall consist of not more than one hundred acres. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 1498 1/4d. Improvement of parks.—The improvement of lands for use as county parks, as provided for in Section 1 of this Act [Art. 1498 1/4] authorizes the commissioners court to build and construct pavilions and such other buildings as they may deem necessary to lay out and open driveways and walks, to pave the same or any part thereof, in such manner and of such material as said commissioners court may deem advisable; to set out trees and shrubbery, construct ditches or lakes, and to make such other improvements as they may deem proper and necessary. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 1498 1/4e. Regulations as to use of parks.—County parks established under the provisions of this Act shall remain open for the free use of the public under such reasonable rules and regulations as the commissioners court may prescribe. But no person, firm or association of persons shall have the right to offer for sale or barter, exhibit anything or conduct any place of amusement where a fee is charged within said parks without first obtaining the consent of the commissioners court or its duly authorized agent or agents, paying for such privilege or concession such sum as may be agreed upon by the person, firm or association of persons and the commissioners court or its duly authorized agent or agents; and provided further, that all revenue derived from the sale of such rights, privileges or concessions shall go into a fund for the maintenance of said parks. [Id., § 6.]
TITLE 29 C
COUNTY LIBRARIES

Art. 1498 1/2. Commissioners court may establish free libraries; joint libraries.

Art. 1498 1/2a. Election for establishment of library; ballot; frequency of elections.

Art. 1498 1/2b. Location at county seat; service to all parts of county.

Art. 1498 1/2c. Appointment of librarian; qualifications.

Art. 1498 1/2d. Board of library examiners; terms of members; compensation; expenses; meetings; examination of librarians.

Art. 1498 1/2e. Salaries of librarians and assistants.

Art. 1498 1/2f. Reports by librarians.

Art. 1498 1/2g. Supervision; rules and regulations.

Art. 1498 1/2h. Supervision by state librarian; visitation.

Art. 1498 1/2i. Oath and bond of librarian; duties; expenses.

Art. 1498 1/2j. Levy of tax.

Art. 1498 1/2k. Donations; title to property.

Art. 1498 1/2l. Collection of taxes; library fund; claims.

Art. 1498 1/2m. White persons to have use of library; separate branches for negroes.

Art. 1498 1/2n. Farmers' county libraries to continue; merger.

Art. 1498 1/2o. Cities or towns may receive benefits of county library; discontinuance of connection.

Art. 1498 1/2q. Contracts between counties; tax; termination of contract.

Art. 1498 1/2r. Contract for service of established library; election; termination.

Art. 1498 1/2s. Joint county libraries.

Art. 1498 1/2t. Discontinuance of library; election.

Art. 1498 1/2u. Partial invalidity.

Article 1498 1/2a. Commissioners' Court may establish free libraries; joint libraries.—The county commissioners' court of the several counties shall have power and authority to establish, maintain, and operate in their respective counties county free libraries, in the manner and with the functions prescribed in this Act. The said commissioners' court shall also have the power and authority to establish in co-operation with another county or counties, a joint free county library for the benefit of the co-operating counties. [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 1; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 2.]

Explanatory.—The act amends chapter 117 of laws of Reg. Sess., 34th Leg. Took effect 90 days after March 23, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 1498 1/2a. Election for establishment of library; ballot; frequency of elections.—The commissioners' court of any county may establish county free libraries for that part of such county lying outside of incorporated cities and towns already maintaining free public libraries, and for such additional parts of such counties as may elect to become a part of or to participate in such county free library system, as hereafter provided in this Act. On their own initiative, or when petitioned to do so by one hundred or more voters of that part of the county to be affected by this Act, the commissioners' court shall order an election to be held in said portion of the county to determine whether or not it is the will of a majority of the voters of such portion of the county to establish a county free library. This election must be held not earlier than fifteen nor later than sixty days from date of the order, and such election shall be governed by the regulations and laws governing local option elections. The ballot shall have printed upon them, "For a county free library" and "Against a county free library," as the court may order. Returns of said election shall be made at the first session of the commissioners' court following the election. If a majority of the votes cast are for a county free library or against a county free library, an order shall be made upon the minutes of said court declaring the result, and this order shall be prima facie evidence of the legality of all proceedings prior thereto. If a majority of the votes cast in this election favor the establishment of a county free library, the commissioners' court shall proceed to establish and provide for the maintenance of such library according to the further provisions of this Act. No other election shall be held on this subject until the lapse of two years.  [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 2; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 3.]

Art. 1498\(1/2\)b.  Location at county seat; service to all parts of county.—The county library shall be located at the county seat, in the court house, unless more suitable quarters are available. The librarian shall endeavor to give an equal and complete service to all parts of the county through branch libraries and deposit stations in schools and other locations where suitable quarters may be obtained, thus distributing books and other printed matter as quickly as circumstances will permit.  [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 2; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 4.]

Art. 1498\(1/2\)c.  Appointment of librarian; qualifications.—Upon the establishment of a county free library the commissioners' court shall appoint a county librarian who shall hold office for the term of two years subject to prior removal for cause after a hearing by said court. No person shall be eligible to the office of county librarian unless prior to his appointment he has received from the State Board of Library Examiners, a certificate of qualification for the office.  [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, §§ 3, 10; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 5.]

Art. 1498\(1/2\)d.  Board of library examiners; terms of members; compensation; expenses; meetings; examination of librarians.—A commissioner is hereby created to be known as the State Board of Library Examiners, consisting of the State librarians, who shall be ex-officio chairman of the board, the librarian of the State University, and three other well trained librarians of the State, who shall at first be selected by the State librarian and the librarians of the State University. The term of each shall be for six years, one retiring every two years. His successor shall be chosen by the remaining members of the board in executive session. The members of said board shall receive no compensation for their services except actual necessary traveling expenses paid out of the State library fund. Said board shall arrange for an annual meeting and for such other meetings as may be necessary in the pursuance of its duties. Said board shall pass upon the qualifications of all persons desiring to become county librarians in the State of Texas and may in writing adopt rules and regulations not inconsistent with the law for its government and for the carrying out of the purpose of this Act.  [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, §§ 3, 13; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 6.]

Art. 1498\(1/2\)e.  Salaries of librarians and assistants.—The county commissioners' court shall fix the salary of the librarian and assistants at the same time they fix the salary of the other appointive county officers.  [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 5; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 7.]

Art. 1498\(1/2\)f.  Reports by librarians.—The librarian of all county libraries shall on or before the first day of October in each year report to the commissioners' court and to the State librarian the operation of the county library during the year ending August 31 preceding. Such report shall be made out on blank furnished by the State library and shall contain a statement of the condition of the library, its operation during the year, and such financial and book statistics as are kept in well regulated libraries.  [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 14; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 8.]

Art. 1498\(1/2\)g.  Supervision; rules and regulations.—The county library shall be under the general supervision of the commissioners' court. The county librarian shall have the power to make rules and regulations for the county free library, to establish branches and stations throughout the county to determine the number and kind of employees of such library, and with the approval of the commissioners' court, to appoint and dismiss such employees.  [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 11; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 9.]
Art. 1498 1/2h. Supervision by State Librarian; visitation.—The county free libraries of the State shall also be under the general supervision of the State librarian, who shall from time to time either personally or by one of his assistants, visit the county free libraries and inquire into their conditions, advising with the librarians and commissioners' court, and rendering such assistance in all matters as the State library may be able to give. [Id., § 10.]

Art. 1498 1/2i. Oath and bond of librarian; duties; expenses.—The county librarians shall, prior to entering upon the duties of his office, file with the county clerk the usual oath of office and a bond conditioned upon the faith performance of his duties with sufficient sureties approved by a judge of the county court of which the librarian is to be the librarian in such sum as may be determined upon by the commissioners' court. The county librarian shall, subject to the general rules adopted by the commissioners' court, build up and manage according to accepted rules of library management a library for the people of the county and shall determine what books and other library equipments shall be purchased. The county librarian and assistants shall be allowed actual and necessary traveling expenses incurred in the business of the library. [Id., § 11.]

Art. 1498 1/2j. Levy of tax.—After a county free library has been established, the commissioners' court shall annually levy in the same manner and at the same time, as all other taxes are levied, a tax not to exceed five cents on the one hundred dollars valuation on all property in such county outside of all incorporated cities and towns already supporting a free public library, and upon all property within all incorporated cities and towns already supporting a free public library which have elected to become a part of such county free library systems provided in this Act for the purpose of maintaining county free libraries and purchasing property therefor. [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 15; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 12.]

Art. 1498 1/2k. Donations; title to property.—The commissioners' court is authorized and empowered to receive on behalf of the county any gift, bequest or devise for the county free library or for any branch of subdivision thereof. The title to all property belonging to the county free library shall be vested in the county, but where gifts or bequests shall be made for the benefit of any branch or branches of the county free library, such gifts or bequests shall be administered as designated by the donor. [Id., § 13.]

Art. 1498 1/2l. Collection of taxes; library fund; claims.—All laws applicable to the collection of county taxes shall apply to the collection of the taxes herein provided. All funds of the county free library, whether derived from taxation or otherwise, shall be in the custody of the county treasurer or other official who may discharge the duties commonly delegated to the county treasurer. They shall constitute a separate fund to be known as the "county free library fund" and shall not be used for any other purpose except those of a county free library. Each claim against the county free library fund shall be authorized and approved by the county librarian, or in his absence from the county, by his assistant. It shall then be acted upon in the same manner as are all other claims against the county. [Id., § 14.]

Art. 1498 1/2m. White persons to have use of library; separate branches for negroes.—Any white person of such county may use the county free library under the rules and regulations prescribed by the county commissioners' court and may be entitled to all the privileges thereof; provided, said court shall make proper provisions for the negroes of said county to be served through a separate branch or branches of the county free library which shall be administered by custodians of the negro race under the supervision of the county librarian. [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 9; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 15.]

Art. 1498½n. Farmers' county libraries to continue; merger.—In any county where a farmers' county library has been established as provided in Chapter 122 of the Acts of the Regular Session of the Thirty-third Legislature, the same shall continue to operate as a farmers' county library unless by vote of the electors of said county it is decided to establish a county free library, in which case the former shall merge with and become part of the latter. [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 16; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 16.]

See Vernon's Statutes Civ. St. 1914, arts. 14xx–14z, for provisions relating to farmers' county libraries.

Art. 1498½o. Cities or towns may receive benefits of county library; discontinuance of connection.—After the establishment of a county free library as provided in this Act, the board of commissioners, common council or other legislative body of any incorporated city or town in the county maintaining a free public library, may notify the commissioners' court that such a city or town desires to become a part of the county free library system and thereafter such city or town shall be a part thereof and its inhabitants shall be entitled to the benefits of such county free library and the property within such city or town shall be liable for taxes levied for county free library purposes. But the board of commissioners, common council or other legislative body of such incorporated city or town may at any time after two years notify the commissioners' court that such city or town no longer desires to be a part of the county free library system, and thereafter such city or town shall cease to participate in the benefits of such county free library system and the property situated in such city or town shall no longer be liable to taxation for county free library purposes; provided, however, that the board of commissioners, common council or other legislative body of such incorporated city or town give the commissioners' court six months notice and publish at least once a week for six successive weeks prior to either giving or withdrawing such notice in a county newspaper designated by said board of commissioners, common council or other legislative body and circulated throughout such city or town notice of such contemplated action, giving date and place of meeting at which such contemplated action is proposed to be taken. [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117; § 4; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 17.]

Art. 1498½p. Counties may contract with cities or towns maintaining libraries.—The county commissioners' court wherein a county free library has been established under the provisions of this Act shall have full power and authority to enter into contracts with any incorporated city or town maintaining a free public library, and such incorporated city or town shall through its board of commissioners, common council or other legislative body, have full power to enter into contracts with such county to secure to the residents of such incorporated city or town, the same privileges of the county free library as are enjoyed by the residents of such county outside of such incorporated city or town, or such privileges as may be agreed upon in such contract, upon such consideration to be named in the contract as may be agreed upon, the same to be paid into the county library fund, and thereupon the residents of such incorporated city or town shall have the same privileges with regard to said county free library as are had by the resident of such county outside such incorporated city or town, or such privileges as may be agreed upon by contract. [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 6; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 18.]

Art. 1498½q. Contracts between counties; tax; termination of contract.—The commissioners' court of any county wherein a county free library has been established under the provisions of this Act, shall have full power and authority to enter into contracts or agreements with the commissioners' court of any other county to secure to the residents of such other county such privileges of such county free library as may, by such contract, be agreed upon, and upon such consideration as may, in said contract, be agreed upon, the same to be paid into the county free library fund, and thereupon the inhabitants of such other county shall have such privileges of such county free library as may by such contract be agreed upon; and the commissioners' court of such county shall have full power and authority to enter into a contract with the commissioners' court of another county wherein a county free library has been established under the provisions of this Act, and shall have power to levy a library tax, as provided in this Act, for the purpose of carrying out such contract. But the making of such contract shall not bar the commissioners' court of such county from establishing a county free library therein, and upon the establishment of such county free library such contract may be terminated upon such terms as may be agreed upon by the parties thereto, or may continue for the term thereof. [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 8; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 19.]

Art. 1498½a. Contract for service of established library; election; termination.—Instead of establishing a separate county free library, upon petition of 100 or more voters of the county, the commissioners’ court shall order an election to determine whether library privileges shall be obtained from an established library. Said election shall be held as provided in Section 3 of this Act [Art. 1498½a]. If a majority of the votes cast in this election favor the obtaining of library privileges by contract, the commissioners’ court shall enter into a contract with the governing board of such established library to secure to the residents of the county adequate library privileges. Such contract shall provide that said established library shall assume the functions of a county free library within the county with which the contract is made, including incorporated cities and towns therein. Such contract shall also provide that the librarian of such established library shall hold, or secure, a county librarian’s certificate from the State board of library examiners. The commissioners’ court may contract to pay annually into the library fund of said established library such sum as may be agreed upon. Said sum shall be paid out of the county library fund provided for in Section 12 of this Act [Art. 1498½]. Either party to such contract may terminate the same by giving six months’ notice of intention to do so. Property acquired under such contract shall be subject to division at the termination of contract upon such terms as specified in such contract. [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 19; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 20.]

Art. 1498½g. Joint county libraries.—Where found to be more practicable, two or more adjacent counties may join for the purpose of this Act and establish and maintain a free library under the terms and provisions above set forth for the establishment and maintenance of a county free library. In such cases the combined counties shall have the same powers and be subject to the same liabilities as a single county as provided in this Act. The commissioners’ court of the counties which have combined for the establishment and maintenance of a free library shall operate jointly in the same manner as does the commissioners’ court of a single county in carrying out the provisions of this Act. Should any county desire to withdraw from such combination it shall be entitled to a division of property in such proportion as agreed upon in the terms of combination at the time such joint action was taken. [Id., § 21.]

Art. 1498½t. Discontinuance of library; election.—After a county free library has been established it may be dis-established in the following manner: Upon petition of five hundred or more of the qualified voters of that part of the county voting to establish a county free library, the commissioners’ court shall call and hold and election for the purpose of and in the same manner as prescribed in this Act for calling and holding an election to establish a county free library to determine if it is the will of the county or part of said county to dis-establish the county free library. Should a majority of the votes cast in such an election favor the dis-establishment of the county free library it shall become the duty of the commissioners' court upon the termination of existing contracts, to call in all books and movable property of the defunct county free library and to have the same sorted, inventoried and stored under lock and seal in some dry and suitable place in the county court house. [Act March 23, 1915, ch. 117, § 18; Act March 5, 1917, ch. 57, § 22.]

Art. 1498½u. Partial invalidity.—In case any section of this Act, or any proviso therein is found unconstitutional or invalid for any reason the same shall in no wise affect the remaining sections of this Act. [Id., § 23.]
Art. 1500. [920] [988] Oath and bond of. Liability on bond.—In a suit on a county treasurer’s bond for an alleged shortage of funds, it is a defense to show that the shortage occurred during the term of his predecessor. Sureties on bond of county treasurer are responsible for no funds save those coming into his possession by virtue of his office, and are not responsible for trust funds which the treasurer deposited in county depository as county funds without beneficiary’s consent. Burttschell v. Colorado County (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1183.

Art. 1506. [927] [995] Shall keep true accounts and superintend collection of money, etc.

Conclusiveness of approval of account.—Where a county treasurer improperly deposited trust funds as county funds, and his report was approved by the county commissioners, such approval is not conclusive on the sureties on his bond that the funds were county funds. Burttschell v. Colorado County (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1183.

COURT—SUPREME

CHAPTER THREE

JURISDICTION OF THE SUPREME COURT

Article 1521. Appellate jurisdiction of supreme court.—The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction co-extensive with the limits of the State, which shall extend to all questions of law arising in cases of which the Courts of Civil Appeals have appellate jurisdiction in the following cases when same have been brought to the Courts of Civil Appeals by writ of error or appeal from final judgment of trial courts:

1. Those in which the judges of the Courts of Civil Appeals may disagree upon any question of law material to the decision.
2. Those in which one of the Courts of Civil Appeals holds differently from a prior decision of its own or of another Court of Civil Appeals, or of the Supreme Court upon any such question of law.
3. Those involving the construction or the validity of statutes.
4. Those involving the revenue laws of the State.
5. Those in which the Railroad Commission is a party.
6. In any other case in which it is made to appear that an error of law has been committed by the Court of Civil Appeals of such importance to the jurisprudence of the State, as in the opinion of the Supreme Court requires correction, but excluding those cases in which the jurisdiction of the Court of Civil Appeals is made final by Statute. Upon the showing of such an error the Supreme Court may, in its discretion, grant a writ of error for the purpose of revising the decision upon such question alone, and of conforming its judgment to the decision thereof made by it. Until otherwise provided by rule of the Supreme Court the application for writ of error in such a case shall immediately after the title of the cause and the address to the court, concisely state the question decided by the Court of Civil Appeals in which error is asserted, in order that the Supreme Court may at once see that such a question is presented as is contemplated by this provision. This shall be followed by only such brief and general statement as may be necessary to show that the question was involved in the cause and in the decision of the Supreme Court of Civil Appeals. More than one question may be presented in the same application, all being stated in order as above stated. [Act 1913, p. 107, § 1; Act March 15, 1917, ch. 75, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The act amends articles 1521, 1523, 1524, 1544, and 1526 of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1911, as amended by Act, regular session, 33rd Legislature, approved March 28, 1913.

Improper uniting of causes.—Improper uniting of two separate causes does not give the Supreme Court jurisdiction on writ of error, where it has no jurisdiction of either

Cases involving interlocutory injunctions.—Arts. 4944-4946, conferring upon the Supreme Court jurisdiction of appeals and writs of error in cases involving interlocutory injunctions, held not in conflict with this article. Spence v. Fenchler (Sup.) 150 S. W. 807.

Erroneous declaration of substantive law.—Where the Court of Civil Appeals merely affirmed the overruling of a general demurrer to a petition, which only raised the issue as to what, under a proper construction of the petition, were the facts pleaded, there was no question of substantive law presented so as to give the Supreme Court jurisdiction. Fink v. San Augustine Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 35.

Error in receiving a verdict in which the jurors concurred upon different grounds, is an error in a ruling upon substantive law which can be reviewed by the Supreme Court. Trinity & B. R. Ry. Co. v. Geo. (Sup.) 172 S. W. 544, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 201.

Mere refusal of Court of Civil Appeals to consider an assignment for reasons deemed sufficient does not present question of substantive law necessary to jurisdiction of Supreme Court under subd. b, as amended by Acts 33rd Leg. c. 56. Where charge of trial court on material issue was prejudicially erroneous, and Court of Civil Appeals has improperly refused to consider assignment touching it, a question of substantive law is presented to Supreme Court, and, where jurisdiction of Court of Civil Appeals is not final, it is entitled to review on writ of error. Gulf, T. & W. Ry. Co. v. Dickey (Sup.) 187 S. W. 104.

Cause originating in county court.—See notes under Art. 1591.

Art. 1522. Writ of error; certification of questions.—All causes mentioned in Article 1521 may be carried to the Supreme Court either by writ of error or by certificate from the Court of Civil Appeals, as elsewhere provided, but the Court of Civil Appeals may certify any question of law arising in any of the above cases at any time they may choose so to do, whether before or after decision of the case in said court. [Acts 1913, p. 107, sec. 1; Act March 15, 1917, ch. 75, § 1.]

See note under Art. 1521.

Cited, McFarland v. Hammond, 106 Tex. 579, 173 S. W. 645 (dissenting opinion); Cotterill v. City of San Antonio (Sup.) 179 S. W. 515; Spence v. Fenchler (Sup.) 180 S. W. 507.

Mode of review in general.—Where a remittitur is filed by plaintiff in a suit for personal injuries in accordance with the judgment of the Court of Civil Appeals, such judgment may be appealed from to the Supreme Court by petition for writ of error. Wilson v. Freeman (Sup.) 185 S. W. 993.

Questions which may be certified.—In cases in which the Supreme Court has jurisdiction on a writ of error, the Court of Civil Appeals will decline to certify a question to the Supreme Court. Bruce v. City of Gainesville (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 41; Gordon Jones Const. Co. v. Lopez (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 987; Day v. Mercer (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 765; Gomillion v. Stockmen's Ass'n (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 671.

Under arts. 1521, 1522, as amended by Acts 33rd Leg. c. 56, the Supreme Court has no jurisdiction of an action brought upon certified questions, relating to substantive law, which do not fall within one of the first five subdivisions of article 1521. First State Bank of Archer City v. Power, 106 Tex. 210, 163 S. W. 581; Williams v. Abilene Independent Telephone & Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 402; Beeve v. Waples (Sup.) 187 S. W. 191. See, also, notes under Art. 1619 et seq.

Art. 1522a. When act takes effect; pending proceedings.—Be it further enacted that this Act shall take effect on the first day of July, 1917, and that it shall not affect any business which may be before the Supreme Court at that time, either as to the cases in which application for writs of error have been granted or as to applications for writs of error theretofore filed, or as to matters then pending or thereafter filed with reference to any of such business; provided that if a judgment of the Court of Civil Appeals shall be reversed and the cause remanded such shall thereafter proceed under the provisions of this Act. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 1523. [944] [1011d] Court to make rules, etc.

Conflict with statute.—Under Const. art. 6, § 25, and this article, rules of the Supreme Court, though entitled to the force of law, are void when in contravention of an express statute. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Parke (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 397.

SUPP. VERN. S. CIV. ST. TEX.—18 273
Art. 1524. [947] [1014]. To prescribe rules of practice.

Power to make rules.—This article confers on the Supreme Court power to change the practice and procedure, and to require a motion for new trial in all cases except where the statute does not require, Cooney v. Dandridge (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 175.

The Constitution and laws authorize the Supreme Court to adopt rules for the government of all the courts of the state, and such rules govern when not in conflict with state law. See 179 S. (Civ. App.) 15 S. W. 574.

Construction and operation of rules in general.—The Court of Civil Appeals will enforce the rules of court whenever insisted on, and will, on its own motion, enforce them when satisfied that the changes made by the Supreme Court in January, 1912, have become generally known. Tinley v. Bottom (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 1063.

The power to adopt by that tribunal the rules adopted by that tribunal have the force and effect of statutes. Childress v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 78.

Statutes and rules as to the form and sufficiency of assignments of error should be liberally construed so as not to cut off the approach of parties in good faith seeking relief for prejudicial error. City of Ft. Worth v. Burton (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 228.

Civil and criminal proceedings.—An appeal from a judgment for the state in a suit on a forfeited bail bond will be dismissed, where briefs have not been filed in the trial court and in the Court of Criminal Appeals in compliance with the rules governing civil cases. Holman v. State, 70 Cr. R. 460, 158 S. W. 276.

Rule 102.—See Knight v. Simons (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 1018; notes under arts. 1614, 2115.

Art. 1526. May issue certain writs.—The Supreme Court, or any justice thereof, shall have power to issue writ of habeas corpus as may be prescribed by law, and the said court, or any justice thereof, may issue writs of mandamus, procedendo, certiorari and all writs necessary to enforce the jurisdiction of said district, and said court may issue writs of quo warranto or mandamus, agreeable to the principles of law, regulating such writs against any district judge or Court of Civil Appeals or Judge of the Court of Civil Appeals, or officer of the State Government, except the Governor of the State. [Act March 15, 1917, ch. 75, § 1.]

See note under art. 1521.

Cited, Spence v. Fenchler (Sup.) 180 S. W. 597.

In view of this article, as revised by Acts 33d Leg. c. 55, the district court retains jurisdiction to issue an injunction against a state comptroller to restrain him from issuing warrants on the state treasurer covering expenditures made by the government. Terrell v. Middleton (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 567.

Mandamus.—Where decision of Court of Civil Appeals in case in which its jurisdiction is final, is in conflict with decision of Court of Civil Appeals of another district, mandamus will issue from Supreme Court to require certification of questions as required by art. 1623. Warren v. Willson (Sup.) 192 S. W. 529.

Issues of fact.—Where respondent denies under oath the material allegations in the application for mandamus, the Supreme Court cannot try the issues of fact raised, but must dismiss the application. Maldonado v. Lane, 106 Tex. 359, 167 S. W. 216.

Prohibition.—Authority of the Supreme Court to issue a writ of prohibition is limited to the enforcement of its own jurisdiction, and it cannot issue the writ to restrain the prosecution of a suit because the subject-matter is concluded by a prior judgment of the Supreme Court. Milam County Oil Mills Co. v. Bass, 106 Tex. 260, 162 S. W. 571.

Art. 1529. May issue writs of habeas corpus when, and admit to bail.

Cited, Ex parte Duncan (Cr. App.) 182 S. W. 312.

Appellate jurisdiction.—Where relator was committed for refusal to answer interrogatories in proceedings to perpetuate testimony in a civil case, and a writ of habeas corpus was dismissed by the district judge, an appeal lay to the Supreme Court under this article, and not to the Court of Criminal Appeals. Ex parte Cummings, 75 Cr. R. 70, 170 S. W. 155.

Civil suit.—Court of Criminal Appeals held to have no jurisdiction of application for habeas corpus by person committed to jail, for violation of temporary injunction, though the act sought to be enjoined was a crime, especially in view of this article. Ex parte Zuccaro, 72 Cr. R. 214, 163 S. W. 544.

Under Const. art. 5, §§ 3, 5, as amended in 1891, and this article, taking away the jurisdiction of the Court of Criminal Appeals in civil matters, and giving the Supreme Court jurisdiction upon habeas corpus, held that an application for a writ to discharge relator on final hearing, in an action to enjoin a theater or show on Sunday, was in a "civil suit," and would be refused. Ex parte Mussett, 72 Cr. R. 487, 162 S. W. 546.

A court of equity could not enjoin a grand jury from returning an indictment, if the grand jury saw proper to do so, and the Supreme Court could not release on habeas corpus if they did so, because their authority to issue a writ is limited by the Constitution, and to restraint in a civil cause. State v. Clark (Cr. App.) 187 S. W. 783, 784.

STENOGRAPHER

Article 1539. [952] [1019]. Court stenographers and salaries.—The Supreme Court may appoint from time to time for said court as many stenographers as there may be members of that court. The salary of each stenographer shall be fixed by the court at an amount not exceeding $150.00 per month. Not more than three stenographers shall be appointed. [Acts 1892, p. 22; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 68, § 1.]

THE WRIT OF ERROR—PROCEEDINGS TO OBTAIN, ETC.

Article 1541. [942] [1011b] Filing, time of, etc.

Time of filing petition.—It is essential to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court that the petition for a writ of error be filed in the Court of Civil Appeals within 30 days from the overruling of a motion for a rehearing. Vinson v. W. T. Carter & Bro., 106 Tex. 273, 166 S. W. 363, denying writ of error (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 49.

Action of lower court on motion for rehearing.—The Supreme Court will not refuse a petition for a writ of error because of the failure of the Court of Civil Appeals to act directly upon the motion for a rehearing, which was not filed in time, where the Supreme Court has jurisdiction and it is sufficiently shown that the failure to file a motion for a rehearing was due to accident or some cause other than the negligence of the applicant. Vinson v. W. T. Carter & Bro., 106 Tex. 273, 166 S. W. 363, denying writ of error (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 49.

The overruling by the Court of Civil Appeals of a motion for leave to file a motion for rehearing, which was not filed within the time specified, is equivalent to an overruling of the motion for rehearing, and fixes the time from which the period for filing the petition and writ of error begins to run. Id.

Art. 1542a. Notice to defendant in error; copy of application to be delivered, etc.

Filing answer without reservation.—Where defendant in error filed an answer, as authorized by Supreme Court rule 5 (142 S. W. viii.), based on arts. 1542a–1542c, without reserving a right to be heard, the court will at once dispose of the case. Tyler Building & Loan Ass'n v. Blard & Scales, 106 Tex. 554, 171 S. W. 1122, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 642. Rehearing denied 106 Tex. 554, 171 S. W. 1200.

Art. 1543. Referring case back to Court of Civil Appeals for findings of fact.—If upon inspection of the petition for writ of error and the record of the cause it shall appear that a Court of Civil Appeals has failed to file conclusions of fact, or has not complied with the requirements of the law in filing such conclusions, and that such conclusions are necessary to enable the Supreme Court properly to determine the rights of the parties, the court may suspend action on the petition for writ of error and return the record to the Court of Civil Appeals with instructions to make and return conclusions of fact upon the points indicated by the Supreme Court. [Acts 1913, p. 107, § 1; Act March 15, 1917, ch. 75, § 1.]

See note under art. 1521. See art. 1522a, ante.

Art. 1544. Grant of writ of error or answer of questions.—If, upon examination of the petition for writ of error the Supreme Court shall find the case to be one of which it may take jurisdiction, the court shall grant or refuse the writ of error or answer the questions certified by the Court of Civil Appeals, as the case may be. [Acts 1913, p. 107, § 1; Act March 15, 1917, ch. 75, § 1.]

See note under art. 1521. See art. 1522a.

Granting writ for purpose of remand of cause.—In an action on a life policy, where, after judgments for the beneficiary in the district court and Court of Civil Appeals, the insured is discovered to be alive, plaintiff's and defendant's motion in the Supreme Court that the petition for writ of error be granted and the cause remanded for dismissal will be granted. Knights of the Maccabees of the World v. Parsons (Sup.) 182 S. W. 672.

Art. 1545a. Good cause to be shown for award of writ of error.—It is made a condition of obtaining a review upon writ of error, by the Supreme Court, of any final judgment of any Court of Civil Appeals, that good cause therefor first be shown in an application for such writ, as heretofore required, the sufficiency of such cause to be determined as herein provided. [Act March 15, 1917, ch. 76, § 1.]

Became a law March 15, 1917.

Art. 1545b. Designation of three justices of the Courts of Civil Appeals.—Provided the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court or any two of the Justices thereof are empowered, as soon as this Act shall become a law, by a writing to be recorded in the minutes of the Supreme Court, to designate three of the Justices of the Courts of Civil Appeals to act as hereinafter provided. The powers given to the Chief Justice, or Associate Justices, of the Supreme Court, may be exercised from time to time as long as reason therefor may exist, and the personnel of the designated Justices of the Courts of Civil Appeals may be changed as often as may be found advisable, by relieving one, or more, and designating another, or others, in order to interfere as little as possible with the work of the Courts of Civil Appeals, such action to be in writing and recorded, as before; and not more than one Justice shall be designated to serve at any one time from any one of these courts. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 1545c. Justices designated to act on applications for writs of error.—It shall be the duty of the Justices of the Courts of Civil Appeals so designated, upon receiving notice thereof, to assemble together at the Capitol of the State and to take up, consider and act upon such applications for writs of error, whether then pending or afterwards filed as may be referred to them by Supreme Court or any two justices thereof, by granting, refusing or dismissing the same in accordance with the practice of the Supreme Court heretofore prevailing; and such designated Justices may make such orders and give such directions, incidental to the consideration and disposition of applications, as are sanctioned by such practice. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 1545d. Effect of granting or denying writ; rehearing; precedents; qualifications of justices.—The granting of an application shall admit the cause into the Supreme Court to be proceeded with by that court as heretofore provided by law. The refusal or dismissal of an application shall have the effect of denying the admission of the cause into the Supreme Court, except that motions for rehearing may be made to such designated justices in the same way as such motions to the Supreme Court have been heretofore allowed; provided, that the refusal or dismissal of any application shall not be regarded as a precedent or authority in any other cause; and, provided, that no one of such justices shall participate in acting upon an application in a cause decided during his incumbency by the court of which he is a member. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 1545e. Supreme Court may also act on applications; must act on certain applications.—The Supreme Court shall still have power to act upon applications for writs of error, when deemed expedient, and the same power is hereby conferred upon the Justices of that court, action by any two of whom shall be sufficient. And in any cause in which the Judges of the Courts of Civil Appeals shall have disagreed, or which the Court of Civil Appeals shall have held differently upon the same question of law the holding of another Court of Civil Appeals or of the Supreme Court, or shall have declared void a Statute of the State, the application for writ of error shall be passed upon by the Supreme Court. [Id., § 5.]
Art. 1545f. Powers incidental to offices of judges.—The powers herein conferred upon the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court and of the Courts of Civil Appeals are declared to be incidental to the offices held by them respectively. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 1545g. Expenses of designated justices.—Justices of the Courts of Civil Appeals shall be entitled to have their actual and necessary expenses incurred in going to, remaining at and returning from the Capitol in the discharge of the additional duties hereby imposed upon them, paid out of the State Treasury from warrants drawn by the Comptroller, based upon itemized accounts of such expenses, verified by the certified or affidavit of the claimant. [Id., § 7.]

CHAPTER SEVEN

PROCEEDINGS IN CASES IN THE SUPREME COURT

Article 1546. [967] [1033] Trial to be on questions of law only.

Questions that can be considered.—A fact not disclosed by the statements and opinions of the Court of Civil Appeals certifying a question to the Supreme Court cannot be considered by the Supreme Court as a basis for its answer. American Bonding Co. of Baltimore v. Logan, 106 Tex. 306, 166 S. W. 1132.

The questions, on certified questions from the Court of Civil Appeals will confine its answers to issues of law presented in the certificate, and will not answer abstract questions of law. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Houston Packing Co., 106 Tex. 383, 167 S. W. 228.

In answering a question certified from the Court of Civil Appeals the Supreme Court will predicate the answer solely upon the state of the case as contained in the certificate. Watkins v. Minter (Sup.) 180 S. W. 227.

Where a question is certified by the Court of Civil Appeals, the Supreme Court will ordinarily look only to the certificate to determine the essential facts on which the question is predicated, and not to the statement of facts, though it accompanies the certificate. Moore v. State (Sup.) 181 S. W. 438.

Where disposition by the Court of Civil Appeals of cross-assignments by parties who did not appeal to such court was not made the subject of a writ of error, the Supreme Court need not consider it. Cain v. Bonner (Sup.) 194 S. W. 1098.

Assignments of error.—An assignment of error that the court erred in overruling a motion for new trial because the verdict was clearly excessive is too general to be considered. Galveston, H. & H. R. Co. v. Hodnett (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 678, judgment reversed 106 Tex. 190, 163 S. W. 12.

Error of the trial court in attempting to cancel a deed to land located in a foreign country, when apparent of record, is fundamental, and the assignment of error is held to be insufficient. Holt v. Guerguin, 106 Tex. 156, 163 S. W. 10, 59 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1136, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 581.

On writ of error to the Court of Civil Appeals, assignments relating to the denial of a continuance and admission of evidence do not present questions of substantive law, and therefore need not be determined. Browder v. Memphis Independent School Dist. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 1077, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 152.

Issues of fact.—On certificate from the Court of Civil Appeals, the Supreme Court cannot find the facts, but is limited to those found by the Court of Civil Appeals as presented in the certificate. Ft. Worth Improvement Dist. No. 1 v. City of Ft. Worth, 106 Tex. 145, 158 S. W. 164, 48 L. R. A. (N. S.) 994.

The question whether an absolute deed was a deed or mortgage, on conflicting evidence, being one of fact for the judge, his decision, when approved by the Court of Civil Appeals, is beyond disturbance by the Supreme Court. Cochrane v. Wilson, 106 Tex. 189, 160 S. W. 593.

Where the Court of Civil Appeals certifies to the Supreme Court the question whether the evidence sustains a judgment for plaintiff, only the evidence which tends to prove plaintiff's case can be considered. Carey v. Hawkins, 106 Tex. 247, 163 S. W. 586.

On writ of error to review a judgment of the Court of Civil Appeals affirming a judgment of the trial court, the verdict, supported by sufficient evidence, will not be disturbed. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Thompson, 106 Tex. 456, 167 S. W. 801, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 1185.

After verdict for plaintiff, the Supreme Court, passing on a question of fact, must reject all evidence favorable to defendant, and consider only that sustaining the verdict. Curtwright v. Canode, 106 Tex. 592, 171 S. W. 696, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 492.

On review after a verdict on conflicting evidence, the court will assume that the facts were as found. Diamond v. Duncan (Sup.) 172 S. W. 1100, affirming Judgment (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 499. Reversing denied (Sup.) 177 S. W. 965.

On error to action of Court of Civil Appeals in reversing judgment for plaintiff and rendering judgment for defendant, the Supreme Court must give to the evidence that plaintiff was guilty of negligence the construction most favorable to him. Mitchum v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. (Sup.) 172 S. W. 875, reversing judgment Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Mitchum (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 811.

HEARING CAUSES

Article 1548. [971] [1042] Order of trial of causes.

Advancement of causes.—A confession of error after the granting of a writ of error does not justify the advancement and hearing of the case in the Supreme Court out of its regular order upon the docket. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Dickens (Sup.) 182 S. W. 238.

Where, after defendant in error confessed error in the charge to secure an advancement on the docket, he filed, in good faith, and with the sanction of the court, a written argument citing authorities in support of the charge to afford the court the benefit thereof, whether the question of fact was not sufficient basis for granting of plaintiff in error's motion to vacate the advancement of the case. Id.

CHAPTER NINE
JUDGMENT OF THE COURT

Article 1550. [974] [1047] Judgments in open court; opinions in writing.

Stare decisis.—The individual views of the member of a court delivering an opinion is not binding as stare decisis upon any other court. Bridgewater v. Hooks (Cliv. App.) 150 S. W. 1004.

While all courts may change their decisions, the court, in determining the law of a foreign state, must presume that an authoritative announcement of the law will not be changed. Stump v. Eastern Ry. Co. of New Mexico (Cliv. App.) 161 S. W. 450.

Where an appellate court withdraws an opinion, it should, in deference to the court's wishes, be treated as if never rendered. Mixon v. Wallis (Cliv. App.) 161 S. W. 907.

The doctrine of stare decisis has but little weight where no property rights are involved, and the only question is the policy of the state. Ex parte Francis, 72 Cr. R. 304, 165 S. W. 147.

In the construction of the Constitution of another state, the construction placed thereon by the courts of that state should govern. Id.

Where the statutes of another state are pleaded and proved, the courts will refer for their construction to the reported decisions of such state. Ogg v. Ogg (Cliv. App.) 165 S. W. 912.

Because court adopts a rule established by line of decisions upon given question, it does not necessarily follow that it must carry such rule to its logical results where parties occupy different relations to each other. Thompson v. First State Bank of Chicago (Crivello) (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 114.

The weight of precedents establishing a certain rule of evidence is not lessened by the fact that such precedents have changed the ordinary rule as to evidence and applied a more strict rule without any legislative enactment. Pierce-Fordyce Oil Ass'n v. State (Cr. App.) 190 S. W. 74.

Ordinarily, where courts have passed on constitutionality of a statute, they will not in a subsequent case reopen discussion. Lyle v. State (Cr. App.) 193 S. W. 680.

Where a rule has once been deliberately adopted and declared by courts, it should not be disturbed by a new court, or reversed by same court except for very urgent reasons and upon clear manifestation of error. Id.

The rule that, when a statute has been construed by the highest court having jurisdiction to pass on it, such construction is as much a part of the statute as if plainly written into it originally, applies to the construction of Constitutions. Id.

— Following decisions of Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals.—Regardless of the inclination of the members of the Court of Civil Appeals, that court will follow a decision of the Supreme Court, the effect of which has not been destroyed or weakened by later decisions, although vigorously criticized by text-writers and out of harmony with the decisions of other states. Bennett v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 122.

Where the decisions of the Supreme Court are conflicting, the Court of Civil Appeals is bound by the last one. Texas Bitulithic Co. v. Abilene St. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 432.

While the construction of the civil statutes by the Supreme Court will be followed by the Court of Criminal Appeals, that court, in enforcing the criminal laws, must follow its own judgment, though contrary to the decisions of the Supreme Court. Barnes v. State, 75 Cr. R. 186, 178 S. W. 548, L. R. A. 1915C, 10.

The rule of precedent of the Supreme Court and the Court of Criminal Appeals on matters of criminal law are binding upon the Court of Civil Appeals. State v. Country Club (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 570.

Where the assignments of error raise only the constitutionality of an act which the Supreme Court has held constitutional, the Court of Civil Appeals will affirm. El Paso Sash & Door Co. v. Carraway (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 383.

Under Const. art. 5, § 3, where a law imposes a penalty by prosecution for its violation and not a remedy by civil recovery, the opinion of the Supreme Court against its validity is not binding on the Court of Criminal Appeals, which may proceed to enforce the statute. State v. Clark (Cr. App.) 187 S. W. 769; Same v. Nabers (Cr. App.) 187 S. W. 783, 784.

In so far as principle of stare decisis is concerned, decisions of Supreme Court of Texas rendered before its criminal jurisdiction was transferred to the Court of Criminal Appeals are in effect decisions by Court of Criminal Appeals. Lyle v. State (Cr. App.) 193 S. W. 680.

— Decisions of federal courts.—The question of the privilege of a foreign corporation to be sued in a particular county within the state is a state question on which the decisions of the state Supreme Court are controlling, though contrary to those of the federal courts. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Stevens (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 394; Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Ayers (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 319.

The decisions of the federal Supreme Court on the questions of the construction and validity of contracts for interstate shipments are controlling on the state courts. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. West Bros. (Civ. App.) 199 S. W. 142.

The decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States embodied in the territory of New Mexico were not changed by act of Congress of March 3, 1911, providing that the amount in controversy, upon which the right to appeal to the federal Supreme Court depended, should be ascertained under oath; that being a mere matter of pleading and procedure. St. Louis Ry. Co. v. Pierce (Cr. App.) 199 S. W. 818.

A decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of the Eighth circuit, which is the appellate court of the territory of New Mexico, that there can be no recovery of damages for mental anguish for delay in the delivery of a message is the law of the territory of New Mexico on that point, but the decision does not cover a case where plaintiff also seeks to recover the price paid for transmitting the message. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 906.

That a mutual benefit society was chartered by a special act of Congress authorizing it to amend its constitution at pleasure did not make the question whether an unreasonable raise in rates constituted a breach of existing contracts one of exclusive federal jurisprudence, so as to render decisions of the United States court binding precedent. Supreme Lodge K. P. v. Mims (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 826.

The states having delegated their authority over matters of extradition to the federal government, the decisions of the federal courts are conclusive on the state courts as to such subject. Ex parte Lewis, 75 Cr. R. 320, 179 S. W. 1898.

In a shipper's action for damages to an interstate shipment of live stock, shipped under a written contract, the decisions of the federal courts are controlling. Chicago, R. I. & L. Conn. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 556.

The decision of the United States Supreme Court in another case of the same controlling facts will be followed. Supreme Lodge, K. P., v. Cooper (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 943.

The holdings of state courts that injuries received before voyage began do not fall under the term “transportation” or the contract of shipment are not controlling in case 283.

The question whether a tax upon an interstate carrier measured by its gross earnings, is one upon interstate commerce, so as to be beyond the power of the state to impose, by the decisions of the United States Supreme Court. Houston Belt & Terminal Ry. Co. v. State (Sup.) 192 S. W. 1054.

Decision of United States Supreme Court construing Carmack Amendment to apply to damages caused by delay in transportation is controlling on state courts. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Langbehn (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 244, denying second rehearing, 190 S. W. 1183.

The Supreme Court's construction of a rule of court, expressed without equivocation and with emphatic language, and called for by the questions certified, is not obiter dictum, but is binding upon the Court of Civil Appeals. Benton v. Kuykendall (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 428.

A decision of a question not necessary to a disposition of the case, and to which the court did not give that investigation it would otherwise have felt called upon to give, is obiter dictum. Ex parte Francis (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 147.

A determination by the Supreme Court that a bona fide club selling intoxicating liquors only to its members is not engaged in the business of selling such liquors held dictum, in view of the questions certified under art. 1619. State v. Country Club (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 570.

The court's discussion of a question which is not involved is not binding on it, nor precedent for later cases. Boswell v. Pannell (Sup.) 150 S. W. 593.

Dictum. Whether an opinion is not necessary to the decision of a case is dicta. Southern Union Life Ins. Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 266.

Statement in decision of Supreme Court that suit to enjoin execution on judgment was direct attack thereon is not binding decision; case in which the statement was made was not made an injunction suit. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Hoffman (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1149.

Art. 1552. [975] [1049] If judgment reversed, may remand to court of civil appeals or district court.

Remand of cause in general.—Where judgment in defendant's favor was reversed except as to a small tract of which he had actual possession for the statutory period, though his pleading and evidence furnished no field notes or other description of this tract, held that he would be given an opportunity to furnish such description instead of rendering judgment for plaintiff. Combes v. Stringer, 106 Tex. 437, 167 S. W. 217, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 668.

Where the court reverses the judgment on the weight of evidence, if the evidence, when considered in the light most favorable to the successful party, would sustain the judgment, it must render the case. Logue v. Southern Kansas Ry. Co. of Texas, 164 Tex. 445, 167 S. W. 805, affirming judgment Southern Kansas Ry. Co. of Texas v. Logue (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 11.

A judgment for employment will not be reversed without remand on account of his contributory negligence, if the evidence was such that the jury might have found him free from negligence. Bogue v. Texas Traction Co. (Sup.) 175 S. W. 875, affirming judgment Texas Traction Co. v. Bogne (Civ. App.) 129 S. W. 1042. Rehearing denied Bogue v. Texas Traction Co. (Sup.) 177 S. W. 954.

Art. 1553. [972] [1043] No reversal or dismissal for want of form.

Rendered judgment.—Where a case was fully developed, and turned on a question of law, judgment will be finally rendered. Wessman v. Watters (Sup.) 174 S. W. 815, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 124.

Where the Court of Civil Appeals erroneously reversed a case because of plaintiff's contributory negligence as a matter of law, and remanded it for new trial, the Supreme Court cannot render judgment for the plaintiff, but must affirm the remand. Tweed v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Sup.) 177 S. W. 957, denying rehearing (Sup.) 166 S. W. 696.

Reversal.—Where the court gives two contradictory instructions, one of which is erroneous, and it cannot be told on which the jury based its verdict, the judgment must be reversed. J. T. Burgher & Co. v. Floore (Sup.) 174 S. W. 819, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) Floore v. J. T. Burgher & Co., 142 S. W. 939.

Where judgment of the Court of Civil Appeals seems correct, it should be affirmed on writ of error to the Supreme Court, though insufficient reasons are assigned therefor. Spence v. Fenchler (Sup.) 180 S. W. 597.

Art. 1559. No mandate to be taken out after twelve months, in case of reversal and remand; certificate and dismissal.

Affirmance on certificate.—Defendant, who did not appear and who did not prosecute writ of error, cannot defeat affirmance of the judgment on certificate by showing prior suit by him to cancel the note. Blassingame v. Cattlemen's Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 900.
Dismissal by lower court.—Where a cause was reversed and remanded by a Court of Civil Appeals, and no mandate issued within a year, the district court properly dismissed the cause and refused to reinstate it. Pevito v. Southern Gas & Gasoline Engine Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1099.

REHEARING

Article 1561. [977] [1051] Motion for, when and how made.
Rehearing to correct entry.—The Supreme Court will grant a rehearing to make a proper entry refusing a petition for writ of error which was erroneously marked, “Dismissed for want of jurisdiction.” Walker v. Ward (Sup.) 183 S. W. 1144.
Application.—On motion for rehearing in mandamus to require a Court of Civil Appeals to certify a decision under art. 1623, on ground of conflict with decision of another court, Supreme Court will not consider any decision not mentioned in petition. Courtress v. City of San Antonio (Sup.) 187 S. W. 194.

Interest as taxpayer.—Under Const. art. 5, § 11, taxpayers of the city of Dallas held disqualified to sit in the Court of Civil Appeals in review of a judgment holding that an ordinance for the issuance of bonds submitted to the electors under Dallas Charter, art.
§, had not been adopted. Holland v. Cranfill (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 308.
Effect of appointment of special associate justice.—Under Const. art. 5, § 11, as amended September 22, 1891, where single justice of Court of Civil Appeals was recused, a special associate justice properly was appointed by the Governor to sit, and the court so composed was legally constituted, despite this article. Boynton Lumber Co. v. Houston

CHAPTER THREE

JURISDICTION OF THE COURTS OF CIVIL APPEALS

Jurisdiction in general.—The Courts of Civil Appeals have no jurisdiction by reason of their general jurisdiction in civil cases of an appeal in a proceeding to contest the nomination for congressman at large. Lane v. McLemore (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1072.

Appeals from district courts.—Under Const. art. 5, § 6, a Court of Civil Appeals of the appropriate district has jurisdiction of an appeal from a determination of the district judge establishing a claim against the state in accordance with the authority conferred by Acts 31st Leg. (2d Called Sess.) c. 55. State v. Haldeman (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1020.

Appeals from county courts.—Amount in controversy.—A suit in the county court for mandamus to compel a justice of the peace rendering judgment for $79.65 to allow an appeal and to make a transcript to the county court, if treated, as it must be, as involving the appellate jurisdiction of the county court, is within this article. Knight v. Armstrong (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 448.

The Court of Civil Appeals, under this article, has no jurisdiction of a judgment of the circuit court dismissing an appeal from a justice, when less than $100 was involved. Underwood v. Watson (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1015.

A judgment on a note for $75, and for foreclosure of a mortgage securing it on cattle, alleged to be worth $100, is not appealable. Ford v. Johnston (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 424.

A counterclaim for more than $100 in a suit for a less amount confers jurisdiction. Id.

The Court of Civil Appeals held to have jurisdiction of an appeal from the county court, judgment in an action against appellants, in which they were claimed to have converted cotton mortgaged to secure notes, where the value of the cotton was in excess of $100, even if the debt was less than that amount. A. J. Birdsong & Son v. Allen (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 46.

The Court of Civil Appeals has no jurisdiction, under Subd. 8, of an appeal from a judgment of the county court, rendered on appeal from a justice's court, where the amount of controversy and the judgment of the county court are for less than $100. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Fricke & Boyd (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 6.

Under this article and article 4875, judgment of county court, on appeal from a justice in action to recover unpaid balance of bank deposit amounting to $100, held not appealable to the Court of Civil Appeals, though the petition also prayed damages in the sum of $25. Ft. Worth State Bank v. Litle (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 55.

Attorney fees recoverable under art. 2178, held, part of the amount in controversy. Wichita Valley Ry. Co. v. Leatherwood (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 262.

Under this article, court held to have no jurisdiction of an appeal commenced in justice court on note for $100, with no stipulation for attorneys' fees. Kelley v. Audra Lodge No. 438, Fraternal Union of America (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 784.

Under art. 2185, where three suits were consolidated, held that jurisdiction of Court of Civil Appeals was determinable according to the sum of the amounts involved in the three suits. Rust v. Texas & P. Ry. Co. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 96.

Under this article, held that an appeal by plaintiff from a judgment of the county court for a party claiming an attached bale of cotton worth $48 was unauthorized, though judgment for $124 was sought in the action, which was brought against claimant's husband. Swindling Mfg. Co. v. Trammel (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 310.

Where, on appeal to county court, actions were consolidated by agreement and carried on in appellee's name, held, that a third person, interested as plaintiff in one of them, would be presumed to have assigned his interest, and the amount involved in the two will be considered as determinative of the jurisdiction of the Court of Civil Appeals. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Adams (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 368.

In determining the amount in controversy in any given case, the court will look to the averments in the body of the petition, and not alone to the prayer for relief. Wells Fargo & Co. Express v. Crittenden (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 296.

Where interest is allowed upon the claims for damages, it is treated as a part of the

Art. 1589  [997] May issue writs of mandamus, etc.

Prohibition.—Under Const. art. 5, § 6, and this article, the Court of Civil Appeals has power to issue a writ of prohibition to prevent the illegal exercise of jurisdiction. The Court of Civil Appeals of one district may issue a writ of prohibition against a district court of another district and parties residing in another district to prevent interference with its jurisdiction. Cattlemans' Trust Co. of Ft. Worth v. Willis (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1115.

Mandamus.—A judgment of mandamus, with damages for delay, held a judgment of the Court of Civil Appeals, and not of the district court; hence prohibition to preclude the judgment being enjoined will issue. Id.

Where it was sought to enjoin, in a district court outside of the supreme judicial district, a judgment affirmed by the Court of Civil Appeals, held, the Court of Civil Appeals had power to issue prohibition against the district court and the defendant. Id.

A writ of prohibition will issue to a lower court to prevent a second writ of injunction on a petition alleging only such facts as were averred or should have been averred on the first application. Birchfield v. Eourland (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 422.

Writs in aid of jurisdiction in general.—An appellate court to protect its jurisdiction and enforce its mandates may resort to mandamus, prohibition, or any other appropriate writ. Birchfield v. Eourland (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 422.

Mandamus—Court of Civil Appeals held to have power, under this article, to order official stenographer of district or county court to prepare transcript for pauper appellant as required by Acts 33d Leg. c. 119, art. 2071, post. Rice v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 149; Otto v. Wren (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 355.

Under this article, where a case is reversed, with directions to enter a particular judgment, and the trial court enters a judgment materially different from the one directed, the remedy of the dissatisfied litigant is by mandamus to compel entry of the proper judgment. Eowins v. Daviss (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 796.

On an application to the Court of Civil Appeals for a temporary mandamus against a district judge to compel him to obey a mandate, the fact that the judge in his answer does not state what course he will pursue when the matter of enforcing the mandate is properly a subject for his discretion and is not be regarded as evidence against him.
3) COURTS OF CIVIL APPEALS

Where a trial judge refuses to obey a mandate of the Court of Civil Appeals, such court will adopt such means as may be proper to enforce its mandate, even though an application for a peremptory mandamus to compel obedience has been previously denied, because the denial had been made without due discretion. Id.

Allegations, in an application to the Court of Civil Appeals for a peremptory mandamus against a district judge, that such judge has threatened to disregard a mandate will not justify the Court of Civil Appeals in resorting to summary measures, especially when he has refused to consider the alleged facts.

Const. art. 5, § 6, and art. 1592 and 1595, held to extend the jurisdiction of the Courts of Civil Appeals in cases of mandamus to compel district courts to proceed to trial and to over rebuff a mandamus. Co. v. Isaacks (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 991.

However false the minutes of a district court may be, they cannot be corrected by mandamus from a Court of Civil Appeals, but only by direct proceedings in the court in question. Id.

After jurisdiction of a case has been given the Court of Civil Appeals, on appeal from or writ of error to a district court, the appellate court can compel the restoration of papers to the files of the lower court by mandamus. Id.

Where the trial court made an order enjoining sale of land on execution, mandamus to compel the sheriff to levy execution will not be issued until the order is set aside. Wilson v. Dearborn (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1102, denying rehearing 174 S. W. 296.

A special stenographer in a county court appointed under Acts 32d Leg. c. 119, art. 1822, to act in a single case, who did so for three days, receiving his pay of $15, could be compelled therefor by mandamus to prepare a transcript for the plaintiff, a pauper, free of charge. Otto v. Wren (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 350. See, also, art. 1595, and notes.

Injunction.—The Court of Civil Appeals has no jurisdiction to issue injunctions except in aid of its own jurisdiction, under this article. And where, pending suit to compel a corporation to determine whether a commission was chosen to frame a new charter, amendments to the existing charter, were proposed, but no application was made to restrain the election on the amendments, complainant, after denial of mandamus and an appeal, was denied relief from the effect of the election by this Court of Civil Appeals, reserving such election. Boynton v. Brown (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 599.

Whenever it is necessary, to protect or enforce the jurisdiction of the Court of Civil Appeals, to preserve the status quo of the parties, such courts have jurisdiction to grant an injunction. Gibbons v. Ross (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 17.

In view of art. 4644, and of the fact that the jurisdiction of the Court of Civil Appeals is appellate only, such court has no jurisdiction to issue an original writ of injunction to protect the parties from damage pending an appeal. Tipton v. Railway Postal Clerks, Ass'n (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 118.

Where property rights are involved in attempted enforcement of criminal ordinances, Court of Civil Appeals held authorized to inquire into validity of ordinances and grant relief by injunction if they are invalid. Auto Transit Co. v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 655.

Certiiorari to bring up or correct record.—Under Rules 11, 22, for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xi, xii) appellant, whose bill of exceptions presenting objection to charge was duly filed in the court below and omitted from record, held not entitled to certiorari to perfect record. Jefferson Cotton Oil & Fertilizer Co. v. Fridgen & Congleton (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 739.

Where the transcript of record does not contain the findings of fact and conclusions of law, the appellee is entitled to a writ of certiorari to the clerk of the lower court to secure a supplemental transcript. McGee v. Gutheridge (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 452.

Under arts. 2157-2163, a motion to substitute lost papers and for certiorari to perfect record will not lie where the papers were missing in court below. Browne Grain Co. v. Farm Bureau Nat. Bank of Abilene (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 619.

Under Courts of Civil Appeals Rule 8 (142 S. W. xii) motion for certiorari to send up copy of original citation, filed nearly 11 months after filing of transcript, comes too late. Freeman v. W. B. Walker & Sons (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 486.

The refusal by the appellate court, of a writ of certiorari to include in the record findings of fact not material to any material issue in the case, as well as conclusions of law based thereon, is not an abuse of discretion, as such findings were wholly immaterial. Spence v. Fenchler (Sup.) 180 S. W. 597.

Assignment of error in motion for rehearing, asking permission to apply to the trial court to correct a deficiency in the record, overruled, as in effect a request for a writ to go out and make a record and then bring it up. Hamilton v. Eiland (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 263.

Motions to strike on grounds that findings were not prepared as findings and had been expunged by trial court held to be overruled, as such matter should be brought before the court by certiorari. Price v. J. B. Faircloth & Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 707.

The Court of Appeals cannot issue certiorari to correct the return as made by the corporation showing the value of the property attached in order to make it conform to his intentions. Fuller, Hanna & Co. v. Rogers (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 322.

Certiorari is not the proper method to perfect a record on appeal, which fails to show jurisdiction of the county. Rhodes v. Coleman-Fulton Painting Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 565.

Facts touching jurisdiction.—Under this article the Court of Appeals, on an application by sureties on a superseded bond to quash the same, has power to hear proof de-

In passing upon matters antecedent to the judgment, the Courts of Civil Appeals are confined to the record as made by the trial court, except as to matters affecting the jurisdiction of the Court of Civil Appeals, and, where the record is silent as to the appointment of an official court stenographer, the question cannot be raised by affidavit. Security Trust & Life Ins. Co. v. Stuart (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 108.

The verity of the record filed cannot be controverted by affidavits. Dennis v. Kendrick (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 630.

Where the notation of the pleadings of an action begun in justice court made on the docket in accordance with art. 2326, did not show whether the amount in controversy would give jurisdiction on an appeal from the county court, the Court of Civil Appeals may, under this article, inquire into the facts to ascertain whether it has jurisdiction. A. J. Birdsong & Son v. Allen (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 46.

A stipulation to waive the filing of briefs cannot be established by affidavit. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Cave (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 988, 1203.

A court may correct the record of a case by hearing testimony, nor inquire into acts occurring subsequent to the judgment, and not made a part of the record, unless it is a matter affecting jurisdiction within Rev. St. art. 998. Hamilton v. Biland (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 260.

Under this article the Court of Civil Appeals has power to ascertain by affidavit or otherwise such matters of fact as may be necessary to the proper exercise of its jurisdiction. Webster v. International & G. N. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 395.

Art. 1595. [1000] May mandamus district courts. See notes under art. 1593.

Extent of power conferred.—Const. art. 5, § 6, and statutes thereunder, Rev. St. arts. 1592 and 1595, held to extend the jurisdiction of the Courts of Civil Appeals in cases of mandamus to compel district courts to proceed to trial and to direct rulings to be there made, and a district court may be compelled by mandamus, upon petition to a Court of Civil Appeals before expiration of the term of the district court in which the judgment was entered, to hear and act upon a motion for a new trial. Under art. 2905, such court has no authority or jurisdiction to require the hearing of such motion after the term of court in which judgment was entered has expired. Cooney v. Isaacks (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 901.

Abuses of discretion on part of trial court held not open to correction by mandamus where the defendant had an adequate remedy by appeal or writ of error. Id.

Under this article Court of Civil Appeals has jurisdiction only to issue mandamus to require judge of district court to proceed to trial and judgment in a cause, but not to dictate judgment. Roberts v. Munroe (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 734.

Under this article Court of Civil Appeals may issue a writ of mandamus compelling district judge to proceed with application for mandamus and award jury trial notwithstanding the fact that the civil appeal is not within jurisdiction without jury trial during vacation. Id.

Existence of other remedy.—Action of district court in striking answers and motions from its record held not controllable by original mandamus from the Court of Civil Appeals, but by appeal or writ of error and mandamus and certiorari thereunder. Cooney v. Isaacks (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 901.

STENOGRAPHER

Article 1606. [1012] Appointment; oath; salary; bond.—Each Court of Civil Appeals shall be authorized to appoint one stenographer, who shall be a typewriter, who shall discharge such duties as may be required by the court, shall be sworn to keep secret all matters which may come to his knowledge as such stenographer and typewriter, and who shall receive a salary of twelve hundred dollars per annum, and shall give bond with two or more sureties in the sum of two thousand dollars, to be approved by the presiding judge of said court, payable to the state of Texas, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such stenographer and typewriter. [Acts 1893, p. 165; Acts 1895, p. 79; Acts 1899, p. 115; Acts 1905, p. 19; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 81, § 1.]

Explanatory.—Sec. 2 repeals all laws in conflict. The act took effect 90 days after March 29, 1916, the date of adjournment of the legislature.

Article 1607. [1014] Case, how brought before the court for trial.

Errors apparent on face of record, and fundamental error.—Under arts. 1607, 1610, 2113, held, that a transcript not containing copy of assignment of errors and not disclosing reversible error on its face required an affirmation. English v. Allen (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1173.

Under arts. 1607, 1612, and Court of Civil Appeals rules 23, 24 (145 S. W. xii), appellant, filing a motion for new trial, held confined to the assignments therein on appeal, except for error of law apparent upon the record. Errors are not "apparent upon the record" where their determination required consideration of the pleadings and evidence. Zmek v. Dryer (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 699.

Where a codefendant was not cited as to a cross-action and did not appear thereeto, the question of jurisdiction was fundamental, and might be considered on appeal, though not raised below. Thomas v. Davis (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 972.

An erroneous construction of the law applicable to the facts found is error apparent on the face of the record. Carroll v. Evansville Brewing Ass'n (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1039.

Whether a petition is subject to general demurrer is a question of fundamental error, so that it is immaterial that exceptions to the overruling of such demurrer do not appear in the transcript. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. McCurdy (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 796.

Where a party failed, on rendition of a verdict by 11 jurors, to object to their failure to sign the verdict, it could not, for the first time on appeal, complain thereof, if it was error. Crosby v. Stevens (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 795.

Where plaintiff, seeking to reinstate his liquor license, alleged that his place was not kept open after 9:30 p.m., the question whether standard time controlled was reviewable on appeal, though not raised by the pleadings. Walker v. Terrell (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 75.

Uncertainty or ambiguity in the assignment where the appeal is not based on the pleadings, or the judgment not affirmed, the case is reversed. Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 218. See, also, notes under Art. 1611.

Reference to transcript, etc.—See notes under Art. 1612.

Under this article, where an assignment of error assemblies in the brief a group of facts verifiable by reference to the transcript and the statement of facts pointed out in the assignment, the whole of such assignment must be considered. Texarkana & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Brase (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 778.

Article 1608. [1015] Transcript filed, when.

Time for filing transcript.—The 90 days from the time of giving notice of appeal, within which the transcript must be filed, should be computed from the giving of the notice of appeal recited in the order overruling the motion for new trial, instead of from the notice recited in the judgment theretofore entered. Robson v. Moore (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 908.

Where plaintiff in error failed to file the record within three months after the filing of an irregular citation in error, which he believed to be regular, there was such laches as to require a dismissal. First Nat. Bank of Knox City v. Lester (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 684.

Under this article the court cannot consider an exception to charge when the part of the transcript containing the purported bill of exceptions was inserted by the clerk after the transcript had been filed in the Court of Civil Appeals and more than 90 days after the appeal bond had been perfected. White v. Barrow (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1154.

Under art. 2979, providing for appeals from interlocutory orders appointing receivers, and this article, held, that the defendant had 90 days from the time the appeal was perfected from an order appointing a receiver to file a transcript of the record, in view of the history of these codes, as shown by articles 2084, 2095, 2105, 2108, 1844, 5461 and chapter 29 of title 37. Simpson v. Alexander (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 852.

An appeal will be dismissed where brought on a pauper's oath after the filing of which the transcript was not filed for more than 90 days. Rhodes v. Coleman-Fulton Pasture Co. (Civ. App.) 195 S. W. 355.

Under arts. 1608, 1610, 2084, held that, where no excuse was shown for failing to file the record in the trial court or in the Court of Civil Appeals in time, the motion to affirm the judgment upon certificate would be granted. Mott v. Scurlin (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 1016.

Under arts. 1608, 1610, where judgment was entered in favor of appellee December 16, 1916, and appeal bond was filed December 30th, and notice of appeal and appeal bond were filed January 18, 1916, but transcript was not filed in the Court of Civil Appeals within 90 days, judgment will be affirmed. Tyler v. Smith (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 697.

— Correction after expiration of time.—Where transcript was not properly prepared, in that it did not show notice of appeal, which was entered of record, for which reason the clerk refused to file it, appellant may not, after the time for filing has elapsed, have it corrected and filed. Cox v. W. A. Chanaor & Son (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 120.

Excuse for failure to file in time.—Under this article plaintiffs in error from a judgment on a verified bail recognizance held guilty of delay authorizing refusal of motion for certiorari to bring up transcript. Cruz v. State, 76 Cr. R. 33, 172 S. W. 226.

Appellant held not to have shown good cause for four months' delay in filing a transcript, out the judgment would be affirmed on motion. Quannah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Leckie (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 662.

Permission is reluctantly granted to file a transcript presented three days late, where appellants' uncontested affidavits showed repeated requests were made of the clerk below to prepare it promptly and be promised to do so, but failed. Quannah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Watkins (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 356.

The matter of allowing the filing of the record on appeal after expiration of the statutory period is within the appellate court's discretion. Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Hillen (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 782.

Where appellant did not send appeal record to trial judge for approval until five days before expiration of time, and judge failed to file it within the time, filing of the record thereafter will be allowed where no reason for not filing it earlier is shown. Id.

Waiver of objection.—Where appellee received notice of the filing of the transcript pursuant to Court of Civil Appeals rule 7b (142 S. W. xi), and did not move to dismiss the appeal because the transcript was filed too late until more than seven months thereafter, he waived the delay in filing the transcript, and cannot excuse his own delay on the ground that attention to the time of filing the transcript could after appellant's brief had been filed. Robson v. Moore (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 965.

Defects in bond in general.—Under this article a defective bond gives the Court of Civil Appeals jurisdiction. Bauer v. Crow (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 296.

Under this article a bond, in the amount of probable costs, as fixed by the clerk, instead of double the amount, can be amended. Rounds v. Coleman (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 640.

Filing new bond.—Under the statute an appellate court may allow an appeal bond defective in form or substance to be amended by filing a new bond, though the original bond was a nullity. Garner v. Jamison (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 940.

Jurisdiction to affirm on certificate.—The Court of Civil Appeals has no jurisdiction to affirm on certificate, where the certificate of the clerk is not accompanied by a copy of the appeal bond, though the clerk certifies that such bond was given. Schackle v. Fogle (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 911.

Courts of Civil Appeals rule 11a (142 S. W. xi), relating to affirmation on certificate, certificate held not to show the trial court's jurisdiction of the subject-matter and insufficient to confer jurisdiction. Bird v. Lester (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 655.

Grounds for affirmance in general.—Judgment will not be affirmed on certificate, because the record in a case appealable to the Seventh district was not filed therein seasonably, or till after motion for such affirmance, it having, owing to confusion in the law, the bar and court being in doubt, been seasonably filed in the Second district as the proper place, and sent to the Seventh district shortly after an authoritative determination by the Supreme Court on the question of which court had jurisdiction. Rush v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 446.

Where plaintiffs in error made no effort to perfect their writ of error, reserving no exception to the judgment, filing no assignment of errors, or briefs, judgment will be affirmed on motion by defendant in error on the transcript. Houston Transp. Co. v. Al­ lian (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1905.

Where no appeal is perfected against a defendant, a judgment in its favor will be affirmed upon motion. Foster Lumber Co. v. Rodgers (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 761.

Under arts. 1608, 1610, 3084, held that, where no excuse was shown for failing to file the record in the trial court or in the Court of Civil Appeals in time, the motion to affirm the judgment upon certificate would be granted. Mott v. Scurlaw (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1916.

In view of Courts of Civil Appeals rule 11a (142 S. W. xi), where an affirmed is asked on a certificate filed, a failure to file the statement of facts in time will be noted by the Court of Civil Appeals, although the appellee does not raise the question. Id.

Under arts. 1608, 1610, 1918, where judgment was entered in favor of appellee December 16, 1915, and motion for new trial was overruled December 28th, and notice of appeal and appeal bond were filed January 18, 1916, but transcript was not filed in the Court of Civil Appeals within 90 days, judgment will be affirmed. Tyler v. Smith (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 637.

Transcript presented by appellee.—Where defendant in error filed a complete transcript of the record on motion to affirm on certificate, and the motion was denied as prematurely filed, the transcript would be considered a sufficient filing of the record to warrant a consideration of the case on its merits. Bartley v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 886.
A motion to affirm on certificate must be denied where the transcript accompanying the motion does not contain a copy of the judgment which the motion seeks to have affirmed. Brightman v. Brightman (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 415.

Time for filing certificate and motion.—Where an appeal is not prosecuted, the appellant may move for an affirmation on certificate at any time during the term to which it was returnable. Louisiana-Rio Grande Canal Co. v. Quinn (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 251.

Where an error to be affirmed motion to affirm is made within the time allowed, the transcript should have been filed, because made within the 90 days allowed, a similar motion at the next term will be denied because filed too late. Bartley v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 886.

Effect of subsequent writ of error.—Where appellant loses his right to file his transcript by delay, without sufficient excuse, the right of the appellee to an affirmation on a certificate is absolute, though the appellee has previously sued out a writ of error. Bird v. Lester (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 655; Golding v. Cull (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1182.

Art. 1611. [1017] Transcript filed and cause heard after affirmation on certificate, when.

Effect of filing new record and citation before affirmation.—Under this article, where plaintiff in error filed new record one day before defendant in error moved to affirm on certificate, accompanied by defendant in error's record, but did not present any reason why statutory right of affirmation on certificate should have been denied, etc., defendant in error's motion to dismiss cause for identity of records will be granted. Raines v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 486.

Art. 1612. Assignments of error; requisites of.

Where, at the time the cause was briefed for the Court of Civil Appeals, Act April 4, 1913 (Acts 33d Leg. c. 136), had been passed, but not published or called to the attention of appellants' counsel, an application to rebrief the cause to comply with such act would be allowed. Security Trust & Life Ins. Co. v. Stuart (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 396.

Under art. 2058, notwithstanding the amendment to this article and Supreme Court rule 24 (142 S. W. xii), a writ of error held too late, though filed within 12 months after denial of new trial. St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Stapp (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1040.

Statutes and rules as to the form and sufficiency of assignments of error should be liberally construed so as not to cut off the approach of parties in good faith seeking relief for prejudicial error. City of Ft. Worth v. Burton (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 238.

On appeal from an order declining to continue a temporary injunction, appellants are not required to file briefs containing formal assignments of error. Auto Transit Co. v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 636.

3. Rulings on pleadings.—An objection that the court erred in holding plaintiff's petition insufficient cannot be considered where not assigned as error. F. A. Piper Co. v. Oppenheimer (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 777.

Where demur was sustained to an intervenor's plea and he filed no assignment of error, the ruling will not be reviewed on appeal. Willkerson v. Staeny & Holub (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1191.

Where there was no assignment as to sustaining of demurrers to an answer, assignments as to the exclusion of paragraphs of a contract set up in the answer were wholly abstract and inapplicable. Feces & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Hall (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 535.

4. Rulings as to evidence.—Rulings on evidence not presented by assignments of error or propositions thereunder as required by Courts of Civil Appeals rules 24, 25 (142 S. W. xii) will not be considered. Browder v. Memphis Independent School Dist. (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 153; judgment affirmed (Sup.) 180 S. W. 1077.

Under rule 24 for the government of Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii), failure to assign error on the exclusion of evidence held to waive appellants' right to complain. Dunn v. Epperson (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 837.

5. Instructions.—The impropriety of a charge, making a wife's right to sell community land to provide necessities after the husband's desertion contingent upon her having minor children to support, will not authorize a reversal, where the error was not assigned. Adams v. Wm. Cameron & Co. (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 417.

Plaintiff cannot complain of appeal of a special charge given for defendant, where it was not excepted to or assigned as error in the motion for new trial. Ross v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 511.

Appellants desire to contend that the evidence fails to support an affirmative answer to an issue, or that there was no evidence justifying such issue's submission, must raise such questions by proper assignments. Petty v. City of San Antonio (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 224.

6. Verdict, findings, or judgment.—When conclusions of fact are voluntarily filed by the trial court, neither party is required to take notice, and no exceptions to the conclusions and no assignments of error are required of parties against whom such find-nings are made to entitle them to attack the judgment on the ground that it is unsupported by the evidence. Le B. V. Jackson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 580.

In a personal injury action, where there was no assignment that the verdict, as reduced by the court, was excessive, a judgment for plaintiff will not be disturbed because of improper argument of counsel, which went to the amount of recovery only. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Cabell (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 1058.

If a request for filing conclusions of fact and law was made after the motion for new trial was overruled, a distinct assignment of error thereon filed with the clerk of the trial court, as required by the statute and rules prior to 1911, should be made in order to review the refusal. Overton v. Colored Knights of Pythias (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1063.

Where a temporary injunction was dissolved long before the trial of the case, the authority of the trial court to issue the injunction could only be material on the question of review, which could not be considered in the absence of an assignment of error presenting it. Clarke v. A. B. Frank Co. (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 492.

Where there was no assignment raising the question of the preponderance of the evidence, the court can only look to the facts to see if there was sufficient evidence to support the judgments. Marks v. Sambrano (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 546.

A finding of the trial court will be treated as warranted by evidence when not attacked as erroneous. Todd v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 617.

Where conclusions were filed after the close of the term, the defeated party attacking the conclusions must do so by a distinct assignment of error, as required by statute and rules prior to 1911. Id.

An appellant, who failed to secure a bill of exceptions and assign error upon the failure of the court to file findings of fact and conclusions of law within the time prescribed, is not entitled to a reversal for such failure. Bliss v. San Antonio School Board (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1176.

In the absence of an assignment attacking the court's findings of fact, it will be presumed that there was evidence to warrant them. Babcock v. Glover (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 710.

In an action for a broker's commission, where error was assigned to a conclusion of law, but not to a finding upon which it was based, it will be presumed that the facts warranted the conclusion. Id.

A finding not attacked by assignment of error is conclusive. Stockton v. Jones (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 869.

Whether defendant in suit on policy of insurance was entitled to judgment because trial court at former term had rendered judgment for it would not be ruled upon, when not presented in court below during the trial, or in the assignments of error. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Dancer (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 772.

In an action to foreclose a chattel mortgage, there being no assignment of error preserving defendant's objection to court's action, in submitting an issue of consideration for an all-sale-mortgage, in soliciting the jury's answer to the question, "What was the consideration?" it cannot be reviewed on appeal. Lee v. Clay Robinson & Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1061.

In view of Rev. St. 1911, art. 1986, assignments of error complaining that special verdict was unsupported by evidence cannot be reviewed; defendant not having assigned as error denial of motion for new trial on ground that verdict was unsupported by evidence. First Nat. Bank v. Burwick (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 166.

The exceptions in an argument to appellants' answer to the question, "Whether the general demurrers, judgment will not be affirmed, regardless of action of court on general demurrers, though special exception includes general demurrer, and though action of trial court in sustaining special exceptions has been waived by failure to assign error thereto. Anderson v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 896.

Though the assignment raising the question that the judgment below was not final, and hence not appealable, because it did not dispose of all the issues raised, was not properly brief, the question will be disposed of, being a jurisdictional one. Bryan v. Moore (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 395.

It is within the province of the Court of Civil Appeals to determine whether it has jurisdiction, regardless of whether the matter is presented by an assignment of error. Banks v. Blake (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 514.

Error by the county court in assuming jurisdiction to enjoin the enforcement of a justice court judgment for less than $200, necessitates a reversal, though not assigned or briefed. Smith Bros. Grain Co. v. Jenson (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 981.

Entire want of jurisdiction due to demand in excess thereof is fundamental error which cannot be waived. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Herndon Produce Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 278.

The action of the trial court in directing a verdict is an error apparent upon the face of the record, which the appellate court will consider as fundamental error, without an assignment of error. Owens v. Corsicana Petroleum Co. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 192.
Chap. 6) COURTS OF CIVIL APPEALS Art. 1612

Under arts. 1607, 1612, and Court of Civil Appeals rules 23, 24 (142 S. W. xii), errors held not "apparent upon the record" so as to be reviewed without assignment of error, where their determination required consideration of the pleadings and evidence. Zmek v. Dryer (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 659.

In an action against an employer for death of its servant, error in applying the Employee's act was not apparent on the record, and the court refused to sustain the error, as to authorize its consideration when not properly assigned. Consolidated Kansas City Smelting & Refining Co. v. Schulte (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 94.

A statement in argument that plaintiff alleged and proved defendant had unlawfully disposed of his estate and alleged the forfeiture and action, where there was in the matter submitted to the court, made no issue of the record, as to bring it for review. O'Connor v. Banck (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 276.

An assignment where there was no evidence in the record to support the finding of the jury, which is not the same as the finding of the court, is sufficient when a judgment is rendered in the case. Tomsen v. Simmons (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 1141.

An assignment where there was no evidence in the record to sustain the finding of the jury, made no error for the court to examine the evidence and determine whether there is contained therein testimony which will support the verdict and judgment. Fegina v. Texas Machinery & Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 961.

Where the issue is one of law upon uncontroverted facts, an assignment complaining of a peremptory instruction for defendants is sufficient under Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1612. First Nat. Bank of Lafayette, Ind., v. Fuller (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 830.

The giving of a peremptory instruction will be treated as raising a question of fundamental error, and will be reviewed without any assignment of error. Rio Grande & E. P. R. Co. v. Kinkel (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 214.

Alleged errors in rendering judgment against defendants jointly and severally, although the verdict was not against them jointly, and in directing that the judgment should bear interest at the contract rather than the legal rate, were not so fundamental as to be reviewable without an assignment of error under rule 23 for Courts of Civil Appeals (143 S. W. 500); see also, State v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 495.

An objection that the petition was insufficient to support the judgment, being one presenting fundamental error, was reviewable, though appellees had not complied with the rules relative to the presentation of errors. Greene Gold-Silver Co. v. Silbert (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 503.

Fundamental errors will be considered, although the statement under the proposition merely refers to the court to the synopsis of the pleadings and evidence in the statement of the cause and result of the suit. Morgan v. Lomas (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 350.

That the judgment appealed from is interlocutory, and hence not appealable, is fundamental error, which may be reviewed though not assigned. Lanius v. People's Home Telephone Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 504.

An assignment that the court was not so erroneous in directing a verdict for plaintiff for any amount, raised no fundamental error or error apparent of record. Harlingen Land & Water Co. v. Houston Motor Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 628.

Where the petition alleged that a described tract contained 160 acres, and sought recovery of an undivided one-half, that the verdict and judgment awarded an undivided one-half of the land set forth in plaintiff's petition, without more definite description, was not a fundamental error. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. Jones (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 92.

The Supreme Court will notice as fundamental error the rendition of a judgment for plaintiffs on a substituted petition, though not briefed, when defendants had not been cited and had not filed an answer thereto or otherwise appeared. J. M. Radford Grocery Co. v. Owens (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 511.

Fundamental errors, such as that the petition is fatally defective, and will not support a recovery, and that the citation does not authorize a default judgment, will be considered without assignments of error. St. Louis, E. & M. Ry. Co. v. Hamilton (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 666.

A claim that a verdict for damages for the overflowing of farm lands was not supported by the evidence cannot be assigned as fundamental error. Id.

Error, in an action for damages from fraudulent representations as to the quality of seed delivered by the defendant, held that the error was not fundamental, because it was not fundamental error which will be reviewed without an assignment of error. Hand v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 57.

Where a verdict was returned on a peremptory instruction the propriety of the court's action is a question of fundamental error which will be reviewed without an assignment of error. Ruth v. Cobe (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 530.

The error arising from an award of excessive damages based on a mathematical computation is fundamental, and will be considered on appeal, though there is no assignment of error. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Howell (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 81.

Error in rendering judgment in a negligence case upon a verdict which failed to find negligence or contributory negligence and assumption of risk submitted being fundamental, an assignment of errors was unnecessary. Cisco Oil Mill v. Van Geem (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 439.

A want of evidence or an insufficiency of evidence to sustain the judgment is not such a fundamental error as to require consideration without a proper assignment of error. Maris v. Adams (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 475.

A fundamental error may be waived, unless it is of such a nature as to render the judgment void. McKenzie v. Imperial Irr. Co. (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 485.

An error in giving a charge to the jury is fundamental error, even though the charge was not objected to by the defendant and objections to the assignment complaining thereof were not well founded. Freidenbloom v. McAfee (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 28.

The erroneous direction of a verdict for defendant is fundamental, and must be considered on appeal, even without an assignment of error. First State Bank & Trust Co. v. Southwestern Engineering & Construction Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 880.

Error, if any, in instructing a verdict for defendant, when the admitted and proven facts entitled judgment, in which no assignment of error is necessary. Neville v. Miller (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1109.

The giving of a peremptory instruction does not raise a question of fundamental error or such an error apparent of record as requires consideration, when not assigned and presented in the manner required by the rules. Needham v. Cooney (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 979.

The giving or refusing of a peremptory instruction is fundamental error apparent on the face of the record, which must be considered on appeal, although not assigned as error. Acts 33d Leg. c. 69, having no application. Hovey v. Sanders (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1025.

There being evidence and pleading, to support the verdict and judgment, rendition of new judgment presents no error in law apparent on the face of the record, or fundamental error, requiring reversal, though not assigned, and though no exception was taken to the peremptory charge. Dees v. Crane (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 468.

A defect in the service of a citation is not fundamental, and will not be considered in the absence of an assignment of error. Trelmel v. Guaranty State Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 85.

Where the only assignment of error is made on the hypothesis that the error is fundamental and apparent from the face of the record, it will be presumed that every fact failure of the petition to allege a cause of action to the judgment was proved upon the trial. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Waples Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 651.

Error in overruling plea of privilege hold fundamental and reviewable without assignment of error, the finding upon which the ruling was based being a conclusion of law as to the construction of the terms of a letter. Holmes v. Coalson (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 628.

A special judge's want of authority to act affects the jurisdiction of the court, and is therefore a fundamental error, which may be first raised on appeal. Dunn v. Home Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 699.

Where properly, sequestered, was relived and judgment went against claimant, held, that judgment sum named in the bond, allowed only a partial credit in event of return, was fundamentally erroneous. Coward v. Sutin (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 378.

Assignments showing that the insurance transaction between the parties was in violation of law and void presented fundamental error, and might be considered, though the assignments were improperly grouped. Federal Life Ins. Co. v. Hoskins (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 697.

In action on policy, failure of petition to allege any administration of plaintiff's deceased father, the original beneficiary under whom she claimed, held error of law apparent upon the face of the record and fundamental. Modern Woodmen of America v. Yanowsky (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 728.

It was not fundamental error for the judgment to award divorce to the wife with custody of two girls and deny custody of a boy to her, on the ground that it was not in accordance with the verdict, which, while not in conflict in itself, required such disposition. Hunter v. Hunter (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1049.

Assignments showing that the insurance transaction between the parties was in violation of law and void presented fundamental error and might be considered, though the assignments were improperly grouped. Federal Life Ins. Co. v. Hoskins (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 697.

Error in litigating an issue not pleaded is fundamental, and may be reviewed though not assigned. Voss v. Pike (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 741.

Error, in rendering a separate judgment for one plaintiff upon the petition stating a joint cause of action in favor of two plaintiffs, is fundamental. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Reed (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 997.

Error is fundamental if it goes to the merits of the cause of action. Godthue v. Fuller (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 176.

Sustaining general demurrer to petition, if error at all, is fundamental, and must be considered even in absence of any assignment of error. Suhre v. Kott (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 417.

Insufficiency of evidence to sustain a judgment is not error apparent on the face of the record, or fundamental error, which under Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1697, can be considered on appeal without assignment of error. Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. Werts (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 215.

Assignments that the court erred in rendering judgment against defendants jointly and severally and in directing that the judgment should bear interest at the contract rate held waived, where not set forth in the motion for a new trial, as required by rule 54 for Courts of Civil Appeals (145 S. W. 11). Lloyd v. American Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 785.
An assignment of error on appeal, in that judgment against defendant was contrary to and not supported by the evidence, did not conform to an assignment of error on the motion for new trial that judgment was contrary to and not supported by the preponderance of the testimony, and hence would not be considered. Edwards v. Youngblood (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1164.

The provision that assignments contained in a motion for a new trial shall constitute the assignments upon which the cause is presented on appeal is mandatory, where a motion for a new trial was filed. Dees v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 56.

Without a new trial a new trial cannot contain any claim that the evidence was insufficient to sustain the verdict, it was insufficient to present any question for review under this article, as amended by Acts 35d Leg. c. 136. Murphy v. Murphy (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 263.

That under the law, a motion for new trial constitutes assignments of error held not to render the statutes and rules governing the requisites of assignments inoperative. Killman v. Young (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1065.

Under this article, as amended by Acts 35d Leg. c. 136, and articles 1979–1980, exceptions to conclusions of law and findings of fact by the court held sufficient without motion for a new trial and bills of exceptions thereto. Walsh v. Methodist Episcopal Church South, of Paducah (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 31.

Under arts. 1607 and 1612, and Court of Civil Appeals rules 22, 24 (142 S. W. xii), appellant, filing a motion for new trial, held confined to the assignments therein on appeal, except for error of law apparent upon the record. Zmek v. Dryer (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 689.

An assignment of error that judgment could not be rendered against appellant for more than a certain sum, not found in the motion for new trial, could not be considered on appeal where it did not constitute an error of law apparent on the face of the record. Dees v. Thompson (Civ. App.) v. Austin (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 872.

Under this article, as amended by Acts 35d Leg. c. 136, grounds on which a new trial is sought are assignments of error reviewable on complaint for entering judgment on the verdict. Missouri, O. & G. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Black (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 755.

Under rules for district and county courts rule 101a (159 S. W. x) assignments of error not in the motion for a new trial, or in the assignments of error when no motion for new trial is filed, or copied into brief, are waived. Dallam County v. S. H. Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 798.

Under arts. 1612, 1988–1990, rules 24, 69 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii, xxii), and rule 71a (145 S. W. vii), held that motion for new trial was a prerequisite to the consideration of assignments of error other than those fundamental in character. Craver v. Greer (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 699, certified questions answered (Sup.) 179 S. W. 863, answer to certified questions conformed to (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 368.

Under this article, Court of Civil Appeals rules 29 (142 S. W. xii), and rule 101a (159 S. W. x) assignments of error in the brief of plaintiff in error case not be considered, where they are not portions of or copied from the motion for new trial. Tennekegt v. Galveston Electric Co. (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 72.

An assignment of error in the overruling of defendant's motion to enter judgment allowing him a set-off claimed by him, not complained of in the motion for new trial, as required by rule 24 of the Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii), could not be considered. Orand v. Whitmore (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 347.

An assignment of error, which does not show that the error therein complained of was presented to the trial court in a motion for new trial, does not require consideration under Court of Civil Appeals rules 24 and 25 (142 S. W. xii). Jackson v. Houston Hot Well Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 247.

An assignment of error to refusal to strike answer to interrogatory 11 will be considered, though it appears that in motion for new trial it was by clerical error referred to as answer to interrogatory 10. Da Moth & Rose v. Hillsboro Independent School Dist. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 437.

Under rule 25, Rules for the Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii), an assignment cannot be considered where it is not found in the amended motion for a new trial. Caffarelli Bros. v. Bell (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 233.

Notwithstanding arts. 1988, 1989, and 1990, as to conclusiveness of special verdict on parties and court, such special findings may, in view of articles 1612, 2222, Court of Civil Appeals rule 24 (142 S. W. xii), and rule 71a for district and county courts (145 S. W. vii), be attacked on motion for new trial, and its refusal reviewed on appeal. Hale County v. Lubbock County (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 678.

12a. Where motion for new trial unnecessary.—Under this article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 136, and rules 101, 101a (159 S. W. xii), where there is no motion for a new trial, assignments of error may be filed in the trial court and brought up in the transcript. Cornelius v. Harris (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 346.

This article as amended does not change the rule that no motion for a new trial need be filed in cases tried to the court, in which findings of fact and conclusions of law are filed. Dees v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 56.

In cases tried by the court, where no motion for new trial is necessary, this article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 136, does not change the requirement that assignments are to be filed with the clerk of the court below. Id.

Under this article, assignments of error which were not filed by the trial court, and plaintiff in error did not file a motion for a new trial, were not assignments of error which could be considered. Pollard v. Allen & Bros. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 302.

Under arts. 1812 and 1901, and district court rule 71a (145 S. W. vii), motion for new trial held unnecessary in case tried without a jury, where conclusions of fact and law are not amended, and where, other than on the motion, probably the proper practice is to file distinct assignments in relation thereto with the clerk of the lower court. Dees v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 56.
Assignments of error not included in the motion for a new trial cannot be considered on appeal, unless the order for new trial has been filed. Hayes v. G. A. Stovers Furniture Co. (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 149.

12c. — Errors apparent on face of record.—In an action to recover land, assignments that the court erred in awarding to defendants only three forty-seconds of the land, because there was no evidence that a tram company under which plaintiff claimed was a bona fide holder to present errors of law apparent on the face of the record, and not reviewable, where they were not presented as grounds for new trial. Conn v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 520.

Where defendant by plea objects to court's jurisdiction, this issue must be determined so that assignments of error in overruling plea to jurisdiction will not be stricken, because motion for new trial did not show a meritorious defense. Merchants' Reciprocal Underwriters of Dallas v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1998.

Assignments of error which were not true copies of the corresponding paragraphs of the motion for a new trial, which, by Rev. St. 1911, art. 1612, as amended by Acts 1937, c. 138, constitute the assignments of error, will not be reviewed. Ruth v. Cobe (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 550.

Assignments of error being substantially copies of the grounds contained in the motion for a new trial, held sufficient. Gorman v. Brazelton (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 434.

Assignments of error not submitted copies of the grounds contained in the motion for a new trial, held sufficient. Gorman v. Brazelton (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 136, assignments of error in appellant's brief will be stricken on motion, where they are not even substantially copies of the assignments in the motion for a new trial. Bradshaw v. Kearby & Kearby (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 436.

An assignment of error which does not contain a copy of the paragraph of the motion for new trial referring to the subject must be disregarded under this article and Court Rules 23, 29 (142 S. W. xiii), E. G. Hall Grain Co. v. Burks-Simmons Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1043.

Under this article, held that an assignment of error not a substantial copy of that set forth in motion for new trial would not be considered. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. King (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 960.

Under this article the grounds of the motion for a new trial may be copied into the brief. Speer v. Rushing (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1012.

A general assignment of error, though not copied from the motion for new trial, constituting the only assignments of error filed in the trial court, may, in connection with one copied from such motion, be sufficient for consideration. Waldon v. Davis (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1000.

12e. — Reconstruction of assignments.—This article as amended does not change the former rule that reconstructed assignments are not permitted. Dees v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 56; J. B. Farthing Lumber Co. v. Illig (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1092; Progressive Oil Co. v. Crawford (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 728.

13. Right to assign errors.—Where the court sustained an exception to allegations of the answer, but error was not assigned to the ruling, assignments of error could not be based on the ruling. Where assignment of error not a substantial copy of that set forth in motion for new trial. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. King (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 960.

In garnishment proceedings, a claimant who made no objections at the trial cannot question the rulings by adopting assignments of a claimant who did object. Poos Gas Engine & Land Cattle Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 403.

14. Joint assignments.—In action against two carriers, assignments of error that there was no evidence against either, and that the great preponderance of the evidence showed no cause of action, held properly overruled, where the evidence supported a finding against one carrier. Texas Midland R. v. Becker & Cole (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1004.

15. Form and requisites in general.—Where assignments of error, though not in literal compliance with Rules 23, 24, and 25 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii), substantially confined appellant to errors raised below showed that the error assigned was urged in the motion for a new trial, and enabled Court of Appeals to verify the identity of the errors, they should be considered. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 106 Tex. 463, 161 S. W. 2, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 652. Rehearing denied (Sup.) 168 S. W. 126.

Assignments of error, each referring to unrelated subjects, and containing propositions of law which were multifarious, and which had no statements specifically pointing out the particular error complained of, and referring to the pages of the record required to support the proposition, as required by Court of Appeals rules 24, 25, and 31 (142 S. W. xiii), were insufficient. Burrow v. Brown (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 264.

Under Courts of Civil Appeals rule 29 (142 S. W. xii), providing that assignments shall be numbered from the first to the last in their consecutive order, an assignment not present in its "consecutive order" may be disregarded. Taylor v. Butler (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 1094.

An assignment of error that a return would not support a judgment by default is a mere legal proposition, and will not be considered as an assignment of error. Tramel v. Guaranty State Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 65.

Under this article and numbered in accordance with Court of Civil Appeals rule No. 29 (142 S. W. xii) will not be considered. William D. Cleveland & Sons v. First State Bank of Floydada (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 663.

An assignment of error which is multifarious, indefinite, and not properly supported by a statement. McConnon & Co. v. McCormick (App.) 179 S. W. 275.

Under this article and rule 29 for the Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii), where appellants have been charged with the numbered subheads of paragraph 5 of this motion for new trial, making each subhead of the motion a separate assignment of error, there was substantial compliance with the statute and rule. Rector v. Continental Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 399.

An assignment of error, which refers to no paragraph of the motion for new trial, is not a copy of any part thereof, and is not followed by any proposition or statement, as provided by the rules governing briefs before the Court of Civil Appeals, will not be considered. Koch v. Noster (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 372.

An assignment of error complaining that the verdict was excessive, made for the bearing it would have upon the other assignments presented rather than with any expectation if it stood alone it would be sustained in the form presented, would be overruled, for the reason given therein. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 188.

15½. Specifcation of errors—In general.—Courts of Civil Appeals Rules 24 and 25 (142 S. W. xii) require assignments to specify the grounds of error and to refer to the part of the motion for new trial in which error is complained of, held in conflict with this article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 136. Conn v. Rosamond (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 73.

On appeal, in an action on a life policy defended on the ground of suicide, held, appellant's assignments of error based on such defense need not be considered, no clause in the policy as to suicide being shown. First Texas State Ins. Co. v. Jiminez (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 556.

An assignment of error, failing to point out the particular action of the court of which complaint is made, is insufficient. Ruth v. Cove (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 530.

An assignment of error failing to direct the court's attention to any error will not be considered, in view of Acts 33d Leg. c. 136. Martin v. Stires (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 836.

Under this article assignments of error sufficient to direct the appellate court's attention to the errors complained of were sufficient. Bonner Oil Co. v. Gaines (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 68.

—Certainty and definiteness—In general.—An assignment of error which is vague and uncertain and does not point out any distinct error, need not be considered. West Texas Supply Co. v. Duniven (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 425; McConnon & Co. v. McCormick (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 275.

Assignments of error not distinctly specifying the ground of error, and distinctly setting them forth in the motion for new trial, as required by rule 24 of Courts of Civil Appeals rules (142 S. W. xii), are not ground for reversal. Adams v. Burrell (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 51.

Notwithstanding this article as amended, an assignment of error held too general under rules 68 (142 S. W. xxii) and 71a (145 S. W. vili) for the district courts, and rules 24, 25, and 26 for the Court of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii). San Antonio, L. & G. Ry. Co. v. I Storey (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 188.

Assignment of error in overruuling for a rehearing held too general to be considered, unless the record disclosed fundamental error. Keitt v. Gresham (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 884.

Where assignment of error was multifarious and too general and not in compliance with rules 24, 25, 26, 29 (142 S. W. xili), it will not be considered. Morris v. Galveston Electric Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 490.

—Reasons and grounds of objection.—An assignment of error that the court erred in overruling the general and special exceptions of proponent to the contest, in holding that the contest set up a sufficient ground for refusing probate of the will, as complained of in the first ground of proponent's motion for new trial, is too general to entitle it to consideration. Ekker v. McConald (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 490.

Assignments of error, which do not show the objection made below, but leave it to the appellate court to go to the record and dig it out of the bill of exceptions, will not be considered on appeal. Childress v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 78.

Under rule 30 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xili), assignment held insufficient where it disclosed no reason why the charge complained of was erroneous. Times Pub. Co. v. Roed (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1037.

An assignment of error to the admission of evidence will not be reviewed, where it does not appear whether the objection was to the substance of the evidence, or because the action was claimed to have been barred. Martinez v. Gutierrez's Heirs (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 756.

An assignment of error is insufficient, where neither it nor the bill of exceptions to which it refers states what objections were made to the evidence in question. Jenkins v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1991.
Since the reasons given to support an assignment of error constitute no part of the assignment itself, the assignment may be good, though the reasons urged in its support are untenable. First Nat. Bank of Lafayette, Ind., v. Fuller (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 830.

19. Rulings on pleadings.—An assignment, complaining that the court overruled the general demurrer and special exceptions contained in plaintiff's supplemental petition, is too general and will not be considered. Carter v. South Texas Lumber Yard (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 626.

An assignment of error by plaintiff that the court erred in sustaining certain exceptions and demurrers because the petition showed such legal and equitable cause of action as plaintiff had a right and decent on defendant's part as entitled plaintiff to a trial on the facts held too general. Burrow v. Brown (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 264.

20. Conduct of trial.—Under this article an assignment that the jury was guilty of misconduct and violated the instructions in considering the verdict is too general. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Higginbotham (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 482.

An assignment of error by plaintiff that the court erred in sustaining certain exceptions and demurrers because the petition showed such legal and equitable cause of action as plaintiff had a right and decent on defendant's part as entitled plaintiff to a trial on the facts held too general. Burrow v. Brown (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 264.

21. Rulings as to evidence.—An assignment of error to the admission of a deposition, which does not point out the particular exception relied upon, will not be considered, where the objections to the deposition were not well taken. McFarland v. Lynch (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 303.

An assignment of error to the exclusion of a witness was held too general to be considered, and not cured by the proposition stated under it. McCullough v. Hart (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 731.

An assignment of error to exclusion of testimony too vague to show what testimony was excluded cannot be considered on appeal. Cleburne Peanut & Products Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1670.

Assignment of error, in that service alleged to have been rendered by plaintiff, a broker, were different from those stated in the hypothetical question as to their reasonableness, was too general, where it did not point out what should have been changed in the question. Brady v. Richey & Casey (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 508.

An assignment of error, upon failure of appellant to file brief and of appellee to file brief before submission of case, an appeal will be dismissed for want of prosecution. Southwestern Oil & Gas Co. v. Denny (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 978.

An assignment of error which complains of evidence rulings as to several witnesses, and fails to set out the objections made to such rulings, is insufficient. Jenkins v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1091.

Where an assignment of error, complaining of certain testimony in general terms, did not state what testimony was objected to, and the bills of exception were filed after the expiration of time allowed therefor, the assignment must be overruled. Rishworth v. Moss (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 843.

22. Submission of issues to jury.—Where defendant alleged and testified to facts constituting interstate commerce and assigned error on court's refusal to give charge on assumption of risk under federal doctrine, held that the federal question was sufficiently raised to be reviewed on appeal. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. De Bord (Sup.) 192 S. W. 767.

23. Instructions.—Assignments of error, not pointing out the supposed inaccuracy in the court's definition of undue influence nor the features of undue influence alleged to be present, held too general for consideration. Scott v. Townsend (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 342; judgment reversed 106 Tex. 332, 166 S. W. 1158.

Assignments of error, in that the charge in a contest submitted an issue neither pled nor proven, but not pointing out the difference between the issues render the refusal, was held too general to merit consideration. Id.

An assignment of error because of the court's refusal of a request is insufficient when it does not appear therefrom upon what ground the complaint is based, and the statement of facts does not set forth sufficient facts to enable the court to determine whether such charge was improperly refused. Helhin v. Eastern Ry. Co. of New Mexico (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 499.

An assignment of error based upon a motion for a new trial on the ground that the court erred in its charge, in giving undue promissory to appealed's theory, and proposition thereunder, that charge impairing undue promissory to one theory was improvident, held too general to require consideration. Texas Co. v. Veloz (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 377.
An assignment that the court erred in not giving defendant a special charge, etc., held unsupported. V. Ligarde (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1140.

Assignment of error based on bill of exceptions to the refusal of an instruction, not showing on its face that such instruction was submitted to the judge before the general charge and before the argument, held not to be considered on appeal. Hovey v. Sanders (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1063.

Assignments complaining of court's definition of negligence and proximate cause, but not showing what the definitions were, and the charges not being copied into the brief, held not reviewable. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Jones (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 488.

Assignments complaining of court's definition of negligence and proximate cause, but not showing what the definitions were, and the charges not being copied into the brief, held not reviewable. Id.

The general assignment of error that the court erred in giving its special issues to the jury and refusing those requested by defendant cannot be considered. Foster v. Bennett (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1061.

An assignment of error in the court's instruction on the measure of damages that it was miscellaneous,innacle, and prejudicial was too general to be considered. Smith v. Texas Traction Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 933.

An assignment of error, complaining that an instruction was uncertain, confusing, and misleading and calculated to mislead the jury and prejudicial to plaintiff, held too general to be considered. McDow v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 417.

Assignment of error complaining of material omissions from court's general charge, not referring to the charges objected to, or any reference to page of record where charge might be found, presented nothing for consideration. Modern Woodmen of America v. Yanowski (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 728.

Assignments that the court's findings were contrary to the evidence, and that the court erred in its instruction as to its error, was without support in the evidence, which did not point out in what respect the finding or conclusion was unsupported by the evidence, was insufficient and would not be considered. McCauley v. Elliott (Civ. App.) 195 S. W. 872.

Assignments of error, in that the verdict was contrary to the evidence and the law, and was excessive, held too general for consideration. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Short (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 601.

An assignment of error that one finding by the trial court was in conflict with two other findings, which does not point out in what respect the findings conflict, is too general. Cope v. Fisher (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 447.

Assignments of error that the verdict of the jury is unsupported by the evidence, that the court erred in instructing a verdict in favor of defendants, are too general for consideration. Ross v. Blunt (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 913.

An assignment, "The court erred in receiving the verdict and rendering judgment thereon in this case," was too general for review. Lakeside Irr. Co. v. Buffalo (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 21.

An assignment complaining of two distinct rulings, one relating to the admission and the other to the evidence, is too general, and will not be considered. Shaw v. Thompson Bros. Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 574.

An assignment complaining of two distinct rulings, one relating to the admission and the other to the evidence, is too general, and will not be considered. Shaw v. Thompson Bros. Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 574.

31. — Instructions.—An assignment of error complaining of the refusal of two special charges relating to different issues will not be considered. Carter v. South Texas Lumber Yard (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 626; Rainey v. Old (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 923; the single charge assigned cannot be based on separate paragraphs of the court's charge submitting distinct and unrelated questions to the jury and erroneously submitted as a proposition. Kelly v. Dallas Consol. Electric Street Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 2211.

Defendant's assignment to the giving of an instruction, as unauthorized by the evidence, will not be overruled, because it complains of exclusion of evidence which would have warranted it; it being inadmissible on the theory on which it was offered. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. v. Kemp (Civ. App.) 178 W. S. 532.

An assignment that the court erred in refusing a special charge for a number of reasons raising various questions was multifarious, and could not be considered. Woodard v. Eskridge (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 888.

An assignment that the court erred in charging innocent purchasers and refusing to give three special charges presenting three different phases of the question was improper as Zuebel v. Frank (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 325.

Assignment of error, “Because the court erred in submitting * * * any question that * * * could or did suggest * * * that there were joint duties and liabilities of endorsers,” was held insufficient to point out the errors, many minor issues being submitted. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Packard (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 397.

Assignment of error to a charge considered as an objection to it as whole held too general as referring to numerous questions. Miles v. Harris (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 839.

32. — Verdict, findings, or judgment.—To sustain an assignment of error that the court erred in refusing to special issues to the jury, and in refusing to give those requested, it must appear that every special issue submitted was improper, and that every special issue requested was good. Foster v. Bennett (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1001.

33. — Motions for new trial.—An assignment of error in refusing to grant a new trial, the grounds of the motion for which are appended to and made a part of the assignment of error, is too general and multifarious to be considered. Rips v. Herman (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 781.

An assignment that the court erred in overruling a motion for new trial for errors assigned, set out in the motion, and because the verdict is not supported by evidence as shown by another assignment, held multifarious. Browder v. Memphis Independent School Dist. (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 192, judgment affirmed (Sup.) 180 S. W. 1077.

An assignment of error, which is a combination of several assignments contained in the motion for a new trial, is insufficient. Jenkins v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 1091.

An error in assigning that the court erred in not permitting the jury to consider a motion for new trial because the judgment was contrary to the law and the evidence and the findings of the jury and on account of newly discovered evidence, is multifarious and bad. Grant v. Grant (Civ. App.) 130 S. W. 229.

34. — Propositions and statements accompanying assignments of error.—An assignment in appellant’s brief, claiming in the admission of certain evidence, will not be considered, where it is supported by no statement, fails to state the objections made to the evidence, and for supporting propositions refers to propositions under other assignments. State v. Imperial Rice Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 627.

Assignments of error not complying with Courts of Civil Appeals rules, rules 29 and 30, requiring appellant to file a brief of the points relied on, separately stating each point of error, and requiring each point under each assignment of error to be stated as a proposition, unless the assignment sufficiently disclosed the point, need not be considered. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Finley (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 194.

An assignment of error reciting that the verdict in an action for conversion of an automobile was excessive, held not supported by a proposition germane to the assignment, or by a sufficient statement. Ford Motor Co. v. Freeman (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 89.

An assignment of error having no adequate statement, and followed by an alleged proposition which is mere argument, will not be considered. Martinez v. Gutierrez’s Heirs (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 706.

Assignments of error unsupported by propositions as required by rule 30 (142 S. W. xiii), governing the briefing of cases, will not be considered. Greene Gold-Silver Co. v. Silbert (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 893; Willett v. Herrin (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 25; Randals v. Pecos Valley State Bank (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1196.

Rules requiring each assignment of error in a brief to be followed by a proposition and a sufficient statement from the record held not in conflict with this article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 136. Conn v. Rosamond (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 73.

This article, though repealing rule 25 (142 S. W. xii), held not to abrogate court rules 30 and 31 (142 S. W. xiii), requiring each point in assignment to be stated as a proposition. Childress v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 78.

An assignment that the court erred in not granting a new trial because of errors pointed out in the amended motion for new trial is too general to be considered when unaided by proposition or statement. McIndoo v. Wood (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 488.

An assignment of error in not filing conclusions when requested cannot be considered, where not supported by a statement or proposition, and where there is no bill of exceptions showing what allegations were not supported by a statement or proposition. Brown v. A. B. Frank Co. (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 932.

An assignment of error complaining of the admission of evidence, not followed by a proposition, and not a proposition in itself, cannot be considered on appeal. Id.

An assignment of error, complaining of the overruling of special exceptions to items of the answer sued on, will not be considered where there is no proposition under the assignment. Green v. Hoppe (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1117.
Objections to instructions will not be considered, where the assignment of error contains only nonspecific or inappropriate propositions raising such objections. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Petersilka (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 76.

An assignment of error in that all the findings of the jury were contrary to the evidence was too general, where no propositions were submitted thereunder, and it was not followed by a statement, and would not be considered. Retz v. Simmler (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 614.

Where neither of two assignments of error was briefed as a proposition, no proposition was made thereunder, and no statement of the evidence in support of the contention made was submitted, such assignments were not presented for consideration. M. Alexander & Co. v. Fletcher & Whitfield (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 514.

Assignment of error complaining that court permitted defendant to open and close, held to be non-assignment, the being made not a sufficient statement, and so far as appeared the court's action being proper. Nelson v. Boggs (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1065.

Under rules 20 and 31 for the Court of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii), assignments with respect to the propositions of law or statements of proceedings cannot be considered. Tomson v. Simmons (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1141.

Assignment of error consisting of a copy of the motion for new trial, not being labeled "assignment of error" in the brief, and the motion being copied at length without any proposition or statement, could not be considered. Lee v. Frater (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 325.

Assignment of error to refusal to give charge, not followed by any proposition or statement of facts, held not a compliance with rules for Courts of Civil Appeals 29, 30, §1 (142 S. W. xii, xiii). Galveston Electric Co. v. Hanson (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 533.

Assignment of error not followed by propositions, as contemplated by rule 30 (142 S. W. xiii), need not be considered. Grant v. Grant (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 229.

Where an assignment of error was not a proposition itself, and was not followed by a proposition or statement under rule 29 (142 S. W. xii), it will not be considered upon appeal. Wither v. Adams (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 339.

36. — Sufficiency of propositions in general.—Where a verdict embodies several matters which are assigned as error, an appropriate proposition singling out a particular matter as erroneous sufficiently raises the question for review. Rush v. First Nat. Bank (Civil App.) 160 S. W. 319, rehearing denied 160 S. W. 609.

Assignments of error complaining of the exclusion of evidence, followed by a proposition which merely stated the purpose for which it was offered, cannot be considered; the proposition not being sufficient. Childress v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 78.

A proposition stating that portion of the charge was indefinite, without indicating wherein it was indefinite, will not be considered. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Templeton (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 504.

Assignment of error in overruling motion for a new trial for the reasons enumerated therein, with proposition alleging error in overruling the motion, and statement consisting of copy of the motion, would be overruled. Federal Life Ins. Co. v. Hoskins (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 607.

37. — Necessity of specific proposition.—Proposition under assignment of error held not to make the error complained of specific and plain. Reliable Steam Laundry v. Schuster (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 447.

Propositions under an assignment complaining of the admission of evidence held not to require consideration, being too general, and not pointing out any specific error. Ft. Worth Belt Ry. Co. v. Cabell (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 1823.

Assignments of error not specifically stating the error relied on, and under which the proposition made that the court erred in giving the judgment, are too general to require consideration. Richardson v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 623.

Defendant's abstract proposition as to assumption of risk by a servant having equal facilities with the master to observe the danger could not preserve the danger there were no facts making it a concrete proposition. San Antonio Brewing Ass'n v. Gerlich (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 316.

38. — Assignment treated as proposition.—An assignment of error cannot be considered if it is not a proposition of law within itself and is not supported by any proposition. Kelly v. Dallas Consol. Electric St. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 231; Western Union Telegraph Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 905.

An assignment of error, reciting that the court erred in overruling the general demurrer of the plaintiffs, contained in their first supplemental petition, to the answer of defendants as appears by the bill of exceptions, cannot be considered as a proposition, and so need not be considered on appeal. Childress v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 78.

Where assignment of error to the refusal to give instructions was submitted as a proposition within itself, and for evidence a reference was made to statements under other assignments, it would not be considered. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Walker (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1083.

Under Court of Civil Appeals Rule 30 (122 S. W. xiii), requiring that each point under each assignment shall be stated as a proposition unless the assignment sufficiently discloses the same, assignments that the verdict is contrary to law and the verdict and judgment not supported by the evidence, without subjoined propositions, present no question for review. United Benevolent Ass'n of Texas v. Lawson (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 713.

An assignment of error which is vague and indefinite and submitted as a proposition will not be considered. Friedman v. Huntville Cotton Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 673.

Assignment of error attacking judgment as permitting defendant to retain property of plaintiff and that plaintiff was entitled to judgment on the verdict under the pleadings and evidence, the issue of material and immaterial being not a proposition presenting error for review. Allen v. Reed (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 544.

An assignment of error under which no proposition is submitted will not be considered, where it does not sufficiently disclose the point insisted on to be a proposition within the intent of the statute. Cartwright v. Reed (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1155.

Where appellant did not reserve appropriate exceptions, assignments complaining of the refusal of the charges cannot be considered as propositions of law under other assignments of error; for that would be a mere evasion of the rule against exceptions. Stephenson v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 568.

Assignments which do not present error cannot be considered as propositions of law under other assignments; for they would not be germane to the assignments to which they were sought to be subjoined. Id.

Assignment of error on failing to submit issue to jury cannot be considered, in the absence of a proposition, upon a statement that issue was raised by pleadings and was made a matter of error. Allen v. Reed (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 542.

A proposition as to the effect of the selection of an administrator de bonis non by attorneys interested adversely to the estate is not germane to an assignment of error for overruling a motion requiring the attorneys to state their authority and interest in the case. Kimmons v. Abraham (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 256.

Under assignment urging that court's finding of a novation was contrary to the evidence, propositions not germane to the assignment must have a consideration to support it and that there must be an intention to make it a substitute for the old contract held not germane to the assignment. McCall Co. v. Elliott (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 782.

A proposition that the maker of a note has all of the day upon which the note matures to pay it, and where the payee does not exercise his option to declare the note due until the suit is filed the suit was prematurely brought, is not germane to an assignment of error that the petition did not show that the plaintiff properly exercised the option to mature the note. Shearer v. Chambers County (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 999.

Propositions attacking the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the verdict were not germane to an assignment complaining of a peremptory instruction. Harlingen Land & Water Co. v. Houston Motor Co. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 628.

In a case permitting witnesses to give their opinion as to the mental capacity of the grantor in a deed held not germane to an assignment that the court erred in denying defendant's motion for a new trial because a finding of want of capacity was not sustained by the evidence. Brown v. Brenner (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 14.

A proposition that the court erred in canceling deeds but should have directed a verdict for defendants held not germane to an assignment that the court erred in not granting defendants a new trial because the evidence was insufficient to justify a finding that defendants had notice of their incapacity at the time they took the deeds. Id.

Propositions that the court erred in overruling a plea of privilege to be sued in another county were not germane and could not be reviewed under an assignment that the court erred in rendering judgment on the merits. Chrisman v. Lumberman's Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 651.

A proposition that the court erred in sending the jury back for a fuller answer is not germane to an assignment that the answers of the jury showed that they were prejudiced against appellant. Cimarron Min. & Min. Co. v. Greer (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 810.

A proposition, in an action against a carrier for injuries to goods, that in all events freight charges should have been deducted from the amount awarded held not germane to an assignment that plaintiff was not entitled to recover more than $406, which was the exact amount of the judgment. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Bell (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 396.

In an action on life policies, certain propositions held not germane to an assignment of error charged, and the other were urged being germane to the assignment only, the propositions in question would be deemed waived. National Life Ass'n v. Parsons (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1058.

A proposition of error on joinder of separate issues held not germane to an assignment that plaintiff was not entitled to judgment on the pleadings or the verdict under the pleadings and evidence. Where there was no evidence to establish such fact could not be considered. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Anderson (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 908.

The proposition that a contention of plaintiff was unduly emphasized in charges given at his request is not germane to defendant's assignment of error to the refusal of a charge. Brunson v. Dawson State Bank (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 438.

SUPP. VERN. CIV. ST. TEX.—20 305

In action on note, given as consideration for corporation stock delivered to the maker, propositions, under assignments of error held not germane thereto. Studevant v. Falvey (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 908.

An assignment of error to the exclusion of certain evidence, the proposition and statement under which related to different error, will be overruled. Turner v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 204.

A proposition that a tort cannot be joined with a contract is not germane to an assignment that suit was premature. Southwestern Surety Ins. Co. v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 947.

The proposition that it was the duty of the court to construe the contract is not germane to an assignment of error complaining only of the overruling of a general demurrer to the answer. Halff Co. v. Waugh (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 839.

A proposition that a railroad company for mingling white and colored passengers, assignments of error not raising the question cannot be extended by propositions to raise the question that the white passengers suffered mental anguish by reason of proximity of negroes was held bad (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 734; Connally v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 376.

A proposition on the admission of evidence under assignment of error to the sufficiency of the petition is in violation of the rule as not germane to the assignment. Blount, Price & Co. v. Payne (Civ. App.) 197 S. W. 590.

Where objection made to admission of evidence did not include question urged in a proposition under an assignment of error, the proposition is not germane to the assignment. Class v. Knights of Maccabees of the World (Civ. App.) 709.

Assignments of error which were indefinite, uncertain, and multifarious, none of them being such propositions within themselves as could be considered as propositions of law, and which, when followed by any proposition, were followed by such a one as was not germane to the assignments, were improperly briefed. Hawks v. Longbotham (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 734.

41. Relevancy of proposition to case.—A proposition accompanying an assignment of error, though correct as an abstract principle, will not be considered, where it has no basis in the exceptions. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Petersilka (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 70.

42. Multifarious propositions.—While an assignment may include several propositions of law, a group of five assignments, followed by only one proposition, which undertakes to present five separate and distinct questions of law, violates the express provision of rule 30 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiii.). Vickrey v. Dockray (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 1169.

Where assignments of error are submitted as propositions, and as such they are multifarious, they will not be considered on appeal. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Bryant (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 400.

A proposition subjoined to an assignment raising and submitting two separate and distinct propositions of law was multifarious, and not entitled to consideration. Glover v. Houston Belt & Terminal Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1065.

43. Showing basis of claim of error.—The proposition must point out the error in the instructions, the giving of which was assigned as error. Sullivan v. Funt (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 612.

A proposition in an action on an automobile policy, alleging the company's right to repair the machine at its election, did not state a defense in the absence of a statement that the company attempted to exercise such right. General Accident, Fire & Life Assur. Corp. v. Ellison (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1141.

A proposition under an assignment of error to the giving of a charge that the charge was on the weight of the evidence, failing however to point out in what respect, would not be considered on appeal. Savage v. Mowery (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 903.

44. Reference in propositions to other propositions or to record or assignment.—The practice of attaching a synopsis of the pleadings or the evidence under the statement of the nature and result of the suit, and thereafter referring the court thereto in a general manner in support of a proposition, is bad. Morgan v. Lomas (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 866.

Where a proposition under an assignment of error suggests the specific objection to the admission of evidence which is made in the bill of exceptions, which is full and complete on the question, the question will be regarded as being sufficiently raised. McClung v. Watson (Civ. App.) 195 S. W. 523.

Assignments of error not propositions in themselves, and followed by no propositions, but referring merely to propositions under another assignment, not germane to them, will not be considered. Memphis Cotton Oil Co. v. Tolbert (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 305.

45. Grouping assignments.—Where several assignments of error on different matters are grouped, they should not be considered on appeal. Conley v. Dinmit County State Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 271; Glover v. Houston Belt & Terminal Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1063; Davis v. Collins (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1128; Houston Packing Co. v. Durn (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 634.

Several assignments followed by a single proposition that the court erred in refusing to submit a certain issue, and supported by no statement other than a reference to a certain page of the record for the bill of exceptions, will not be considered. Mitchell v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 445, rehearing denied Childress v. Robinson, 192 S. W. 1172.

Assignments of error held to relate to the same question, so that they could be grouped in the brief, and considered together. Memphis Cotton Oil Co. v. Tolbert (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 305.

Assignments which were grouped, though complaining of sustaining of exceptions to answer raising various questions, will not be considered. Bray v. Sewall (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 765.
Presenting in one group some 15 assignments, with a reference to the record to find out the exceptions, held improper. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Amarillo St. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1103.

A brief, attempting to join and brief together several assignments each presenting different and distinct points of law, is not allowable under the rules, and an objection by the other party as affecting the particular assignments. National Live Stock Ins. Co. v. Gomillion (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 330.

Assignments of error which, although seeking to raise different points made in motion for new trial, are prepared, and are followed, by five propositions on different subjects, some of them vague and very abstract, should not be considered. Colgrove v. Falfurrias State Bank (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 580.

47. — Statement accompanying proposition—Necessity.—An assignment of error, not supported by a statement from the record as required by the rules, need not be considered.

An assignment of error which attacks the judgment as unsupported by the evidence will not be considered, where no statement is made under the assignment. Fahey v. Benedetti (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 896.

An assignment that the court erred in overruling the special exception of defendant to plaintiff's failure to allege a contract in writing will not be considered, where no statement is submitted and the court on appeal does not know to what ruling complaint is made.

An assignment of error will not be considered where it is not followed by any statement, or by any reference to any page of the record for special exceptions, being contrary to Courts of Civil Appeals Rules 25-31 (142 S. W. xii, xiii), relating to the sufficiency of the statement required. Texas-Mexican Ry. Co. v. Reed (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 4.

An assignment of error, complaining of the admission of evidence could not be considered, where it was not followed by a statement showing that the court erred. Hall v. Ray (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1135.

Where assignments of error were not followed by statements showing special exceptions were ever acted upon, it will be presumed the exceptions were abandoned below, and they will not be considered on appeal. San Antonio, U. & G. R. Co. v. Galbreath (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 901.

In action for wrongful death of 249. assignee, assignment complaining that verdict was excessive because of brakeman's contributory negligence will not be considered where there was no statement on which to base assignment.

Appellate court is not required to go further than to consult statement under assignment of error and examine the record.

A single assignment of error that the court erred in rendering judgment against the plaintiff "because under the undisputed evidence the plaintiff was entitled to recover," not accompanied by a statement showing the question raised, will not be considered, as it is not a proper assignment. (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 2598.

An assignment of error in submitting the issue of pain and mental anguish because there was no evidence to sustain the issue, which is not followed by any statement of the evidence, and is supported only by the proposition that damages for mental suffering, cannot be recovered unless there has been physical injury, does not require a reversal of the judgment. Andrews v. York (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 333.

Where appellant submitted no statement from record under his assignment of error challenging action of trial court in not having submitted question of damages to jury, assignment will not be considered. Padgett v. Hines (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1122.

48. — Sufficiency of statement in general.—An assignment of error will be overruled, where the statement under it is so imperfect that no information can be obtained from it. Holt v. Quinlan (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 551, judgment reversed 166 Tex. 155, 163 S. W. 10, 59 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1156.

Statement following proposition in assignment of error held not to comply with Courts of Civil Appeals rule 31 (142 S. W. xii), prescribing the requirements of statements, and hence not to be considered. Grand Ledge, F. & A. M. of Texas, v. Dillard (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1175.

Courts of Civil Appeals rule 31 (142 S. W. xii), prescribing the requisites of the statement in an assignment of error, held not to hold or affected by Acts 33d Leg. c. 138, amending this article. 14.

Where the statement subjoined to an assignment of error complaining of the admission of testimony did not refer to any bill of exceptions, or disclose what exceptions, if any, were urged to the admission of the testimony, it cannot be reviewed. Darby v. White (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 481.

Where a statement under an assignment of error did not show that the alleged errors complained of were made grounds of a motion for new trial, and contained no part of the error, the proposition advanced on appeal, the assignment could not be considered. Supreme Lodge K. F. v. Mims (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 838.

Statement accompanying assignments of error complaining of the sustaining of special exceptions to answer held not in compliance with the rules. Bray v. Sewall (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 795.

Statement under assignment of error complaining of peremptory instruction held insufficient, under rule 34 for Courts of Civil Appeals, relative to propositions complaining of evidences. Tannehill v. Tannehill (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1135.

An assignment of error will not be considered where the statement subjoined thereto is wholly insufficient to support same and enable the Supreme Court to determine without an examination of the record whether error was committed. Hall v. Ray (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1135.

In action for libel, assignment of error in admission of evidence that plaintiff was not taken before a magistrate before his arrest held not supported by the statement. Houston v. Bowman (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 61.

Statement that defendant is entitled to have presented to jury for decision by them any group of facts pleaded by it and developed in trial which, if true, will in law establish given defense does not support assignments of error in refusal to give peremptory instruction in overruling special exception to charge, and refusing to submit a certain issue. Kampmann v. Cross (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 437.

49. — Bill of exceptions as sufficient statement.—Where bill of exceptions was set out in assignment of error, failure to again set it out in statement required by rule 51 (142 S. W. xiii), held not to prevent consideration of the assignment. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Brune (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 547.

Where neither the assignment of error nor the statement thereunder stated that appellant made any objection, and where the statement did not mention any bill of exceptions, and the assignment's reference to it did not indicate the page of the record upon which it could be found, the statement was insufficient. Gotoskey v. Grawunder (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 249.

An assignment of error in refusing to permit appellant to argue his general demurrer and special exceptions cannot be considered, where it is not followed by any statement, except a reference to the record where the assignment of error is copied, and there is no reference to the action by the court on matters of which complaint is made. Rips v. Herman (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 781.

A reference to a statement of material facts proved in a different portion of the brief is not such a statement as is required by the rules. Stockwell v. Glaspay (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 1151.

Under Rule 31 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiii), the statement subjoined to a proposition under an assignment of error need not refer to the page of the transcript where the motion for a new trial may be found, unless the motion is necessary to support the proposition. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Pemberton, 196 Tex. 463, 161 S. W. 2, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 652. Rehearing denied (Sup.) 165 S. W. 126.

Where statement subjoined to propositions did not refer to the pages of the transcript as required by Rule 31 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiii), the refusal of that court to consider the assignments will not be reviewed by the Supreme Court. Id.

An assignment complaining of the overruling of a general demurrer to the answer and statement, not supported by any statement or reference to a page of the bill of exceptions, will not be considered. Mitchel v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 443, rehearing denied Childress v. Robinson, 162 S. W. 1172.

Assignments of error, complaining of findings, without pointing out wherein they are wrong, and without making reference to any evidence tending to prove the statement at the beginning of the brief, cannot be considered. Bute v. Williams (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 989.

A statement following an assignment of error should cull from the mass of testimony the facts relied upon to sustain the assignment; a mere reference to pages of the testimony from which the proper facts may be ascertained not being sufficient. Texas-Mexican Ry. Co. v. Reed (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 4.

No error was shown in overruling a plea of privilege, where the statement did not refer to the part of the record containing the plea, or to the judgment thereon, if any, as required by rule 31 (142 S. W. xiii). Anderson v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 54.

References to a statement of facts are not statements under the assignments of error, within the requirements of the rules. W. H. Norris Lumber Co. v. Harris (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 515.

Rules 31 and 39 of the Court of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiii), providing that a brief statement shall be subjoined to each proposition in the brief, with a reference to the pages of the record, are not complied with by a mere reference to the pages of the transcript, without any further statement. Dolson v. Sheridan Stone Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 665.

Where statements under assignments of error made no reference to the portion of the transcript containing a record of the error complained of, such assignments could not be considered not being brief as required by the rules of the Courts of Civil Appeals. Texas & N. Co. v. Reyer (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1849.

Under this article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 136, § 1, and rules 30, 31, for the Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiii), where a statement under an assignment of error based on the failure to submit the case upon special issues made no reference to the record, or, except defendant's bill of exception, No. 3), such assignment was insufficient and could not be considered. Id.
51. Reference from one statement to another.—An assignment complaining of the judgment from a statement in the pleadings on the whole testimony and that wrongfully complained, stated as a proposition where the only supporting statement was “same as under prior propositions,” will not be considered. Mitchel v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 443, rehearing denied Childress v. Robinson, 162 S. W. 1172.

Where errors are admitted as propositions, followed by a statement referring to statements under other assignments, and no reference is made to the pages of the brief nor of the statements of facts, the assignments will not be considered. Burnett v. Ellis (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 911.

The statement contemplated by the rules of the Courts of Civil Appeals cannot be supplied by referring to another assignment or proposition as a statement. Texas-Mexican Ry. Co. v. Reed (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 4.

Assignments of error, the first of which failed to state any evidence raising the issues thereby presented and the others of which referred to the statement under the first assignment though they raised different issues, will not be considered. Turner v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 294.

Assignments of error to admission of testimony which does not show what testimony was, but is referred to statement under several assignments, will not be considered. J. T. Case Thrashing Mach. Co. v. Rachal (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 418.

52. Relevancy to assignment or proposition.—A statement under an assignment of error held not germane. Martinez v. Gutierrez’s Heirs (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 756.

Where supporting statements do not substantiate the contention made in assignments concerning findings of fact, the assignments will be overruled. Brown v. Southern Gas & Gasoline Engine Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 73.

A statement following an assignment of error complaining of the admission of particular evidence is not germane where the evidence mentioned in the statement is not the same as that specified in the assignment. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Vogel (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 229.

53. Multifarious statement.—An assignment of error followed by five propositions, after which appeared a statement of the evidence relied on to sustain such propositions, held not to comply with rule 31 (142 S. W. 281) with a Court of Civil Appeals. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Abbott (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 117.

54. Setting out proceedings, rulings, exceptions, and facts showing error and injury therefrom.—An assignment of error complaining of testimony objected to will not be considered, where it is not followed by an intelligible statement, and one which indicates the testimony complained of as having any bearing on any issue in the case. Holt v. Guerquin (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 681, judgment reversed 196 Tex. 185, 165 S. W. 10, 50 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1136.

Assignments of error, followed by statements which are merely counsel’s version of what the record shows, will be disregarded. Rushing v. Citizens’ Nat. Bank of Plainview (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 480.

Assignments of error to the refusal of requested charges will not be considered, where the statements do not set out any testimony showing the applicability of the charges, nor refer to the record, as required by the rules of court, nor show that the substance of the charges was not embodied in the general charge. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 905.

Rulings on evidence will not be reviewed on appeal, unless the statement under the assignments, or the brief elsewhere, indicates the ground of objection. Edwards v. Youngblood (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1164.

An assignment that the court erred in overruling an objection to testimony on the ground that it was immaterial, irrelevant, and a conclusion will be overruled, where the statement did not qualify the witness as having no knowledge of the matters asked about. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Kerr (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 447.

Where the statement under an assignment complaining of an instruction on the measure of damages for delay in the transportation of live stock consisted of the instruction, but did not indicate that the jury was not entitled to charge doing the same, the record did not show that the error, if any, in the instruction was prejudicial. St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co. v. Armstrong (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 366.

An assignment of error complaining of the refusal on default judgment against defendants to file findings of fact and conclusions of law must be overruled where the statement did not show the ground of the motion for new trial, excuse defendants’ default, or show that they had a good defense; it not appearing defendants were in any way harmed. White v. Lowry (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 1193.

An assignment complaining of the action of the court in sustaining a special exception will be disregarded, where the accompanying statement did not show any order sustaining the exception. Chastain v. Hoskins (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 421.

Where neither the appellate court’s statement nor the record shows that the court sustained an exception to any part of his petition, the assignment of error to sustaining an exception thereto need not be considered. City of Ft. Worth v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 976.

The refusal to submit a particular defense could not be held erroneous on appeal, where there was no statement from the record, following defendant’s assignment of error, indicating that there was any testimony to support such defense. Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. Mendors (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1106.

An assignment to the giving of a paragraph of the court’s charge will not be reviewed, where the statement does not show that it was excepted to before the charge was read. Gauston v. H., & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Harris (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1129.

An assignment of error complaining of an instruction of no meaning will not be considered, where the statement does not show excepted to taken as required by Acts 111th Leg. c. 59, post, Art. 3561. Rogers v. Ezell (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1011.

An assignment of error complaining of a finding of fact supported by testimony will be overruled in the absence of any statement showing where the finding is incorrect. Friedman v. Huntsville Cotton Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 572.
Mere recital in motion for new trial that court overruled demurrer held not sufficient to present case under rule 31 (142 S. W. xii), requiring a brief statement subjoined to the proposition in explanation thereof. Allen v. Reed (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 544.

Where appellants did not, by proposition or statement, indicate how the admission of immaterial or irrelevant evidence could have affected the jury, the receipt of such evidence must be considered as harmless. Southern Gas & Gasoline Engine Co. v. Rich­son (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 529.

An assignment of error in the admission of evidence cannot be considered, where the statement does not show what objection was made to the evidence. Houston Chronicle Pub. Co. v. Bowen (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 61.

An assignment that the trial court erred in setting aside a judgment rendered at a former term can be reviewed only upon a full statement, showing what issues were joined and what the evidence was on the former trial. Shipp v. Cartwright (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 76.

Assignments of error to the failure to give certain special issues, which are not followed by statements showing what the issues were, cannot be considered. Bennett v. Rio Grande Canal Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 712.

In view of the failure of the statement to show under what conditions or circumstances a witness answered, held, that his statement of his conclusions on cross-examination could not be deemed error. Shaller v. Johnson-McQuiddy Cattle Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 553.

Where statement following assignment of error to admission of testimony failed to show it was objected to, or any bill of exceptions taken to refusal to withdraw it from jury, or a statement of such bill appearing in record, which showed it was instructed not to consider the testimony, assignment will not be considered. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Sutherland (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 578.

55. — Negating correctness of rulings on particular grounds.—Assignment that court erred in failing to consider evidence in trying to test conclusions from the facts of the case will be overruled, where the statement did not show that the grounds were true. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Kerr (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 447.

57. — Setting out instructions complained of.—An assignment of error complaining of the charge cannot be reviewed, where neither the assignment nor the statement contains sufficient substance, or directs the appellate court as to the page in the record where it could be found. Darby v. White (Civ. App.) 195 S. W. 481; Magnolia Paper Co. v. Duffy (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 89.

58. — Setting out instructions refused.—Where an assignment of error fails to give the substance of the requested charge on the refusal of which it is based, and the statement fails in any way to identify it, the court will regard it as waived. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Winkler (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 691.

An assignment of error complaining of the refusal of a special charge not set out in the statement following the assignment will not be considered. Wolloitzev. Lewis (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 819.

59. — Setting out matters of evidence.—Under Supreme Court rule 31 (142 S. W. xiii), it is the duty of appellant, in preparing a statement, to include a faithful report of all the facts testified to on both sides with reference to the assignment. General Accident, Fire & Life Assur. Corp. v. Ellison (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1141.

In support of an assignment of error that a certain finding was not supported by the evidence, it was appellant’s duty to set out at least the substance of all the evidence on the subject or show it was not material. Hore v. Gore (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 471.

An assignment of error complaining of exclusion of evidence will be overruled, where the statement of facts does not contain that part of the evidence and the judge’s qualification of the bill of exceptions shows that that part was excluded. Risinger v. Sullivan (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 397.

An assignment complaining that the undisputed facts showed certain matters could not be considered where the statement did not attempt to set out or refer to any evidence to establish such matters. Michel v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 443, rehearing denied. Childress v. Robinson, 182 S. W. 1172.

An assignment of error complaining of the rulings on evidence will not be considered where the statement does not give the substance of the testimony with correct references to the pages of the transcript. McIndoo v. Wood (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 488.

Under Courts of Civil Appeals rule No. 31 (142 S. W. xiii), statements under assignments of error complaining of the sufficiency of the evidence, which quote only one question to one witness, which is not found in the preliminary statement of facts, are insufficient, and the assignment will not be considered. Hevin v. Consumers’ Ice & Fuel Co. (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1023.

Under Rule 31 (142 S. W. xiii), requiring a statement to be made faithfully in reference to the whole of that in the record bearing upon the proposition, held that a statement purporting to contain all the evidence on a question, but shown by the statement of facts not to do so, was insufficient. Edwards v. Youngblood (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1164.

An assignment of error to the exclusion of documentary evidence, a statement giving information of the substance of the excluded evidence held not a compliance with Courts of Civil Appeals rule 31 (142 S. W. xiii), prescribing the requirements of a statement. Grand Lodge, F. & A. M. of Texas v. Dillard (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1173.

An assignment of error complaining of the refusal of special instructions will not be considered where it is not followed by a statement from the record showing what such charges were called for by the evidence. Tannehill v. Tannehill (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1050.

Assignment of error that the court erred in making remarks tending to discredit a witness must be overruled where the statement under the assignment does not disclose the testimony. Kell v. Ross (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 752.

An assignment of error is not entitled to consideration, where there is not such a statement to the evidence subjoined thereto sufficient to explain and support the proposition and enable the court to determine the question. McCullough v. Hurt (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 781.
Where an assignment complained of the refusal of the court to submit additional questions to the jury, it should be followed by a statement showing the questions and the substance of the evidence on the issues. Tomson v. Simmons (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 1141.

An assignment, complaining that the court erred in not disregarding findings of the jury on special issues and in not rendering judgment for plaintiff despite them, cannot be considered upon motion accompanied by a statement showing the evidence and the proceedings.

Shipp v. Cartwright (Civ. App.) 382 S. W. 70.

An assignment, complaining of the introduction of testimony given by plaintiff on a former trial, presents nothing for review, where the statement did not show the nature of the testimony, its materiality, or the objection urged. Id.

Assignments of error complaining of the admission of a paper or letter in evidence were insufficient, where there was no statement showing what the paper or letter contained. Johnson v. Lewis (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 873.

An assignment based on the charge on the ground that there was no evidence to support it, need not be considered, where the statement did not set out the evidence. Heard v. Bowen (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 234.

An assignment complaining of refusal to submit an issue cannot be considered on appeal, where the statement merely set forth that there was abundant evidence to establish appellant's contention. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Rutherford (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 709.

Where the statement under an assignment of error does not state what the testimony was to which the objection stated in the assignment was made, the assignment must be overruled. American Nat. Ins. Co. v. Van Dusen (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 634.

In view of this article, mere omission of some of the evidence from the assignment which was included in the motion for new trial does not vitiate the assignment. Clark v. Briley (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 419.

General assignment of error, pointing out no particular testimony complained of, and not supported by any statement, will not be considered. J. I. Case Threshing Mach. Co. v. Rachul (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 418.

Assignment of error which does not under proposition subjoin statement of evidence, if based on such issue or which in any way shows its materiality, held insufficient. Miles v. Harris (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 839.

Assignment of error which under proposition subjoins statement of evidence relating largely to entire case held not in accord with rules for briefing. Id.

Upon an assignment of error in the submission of an issue, supported by the appellant's undisputed statement that there was no evidence upon the issue, the Court of Civil Appeals would assume it to be true under express provision of rule 41 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiv). Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Corn (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 807.

63. Assignments in brief not contained in record.—Under this article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 136, making the grounds assigned in the motion for new trial constitute the assignments of error, the assignments of error in the brief must be true copies of the corresponding paragraphs of the motion for new trial, and not rewritten or reconstructed assignments. Freeman v. Texas & P. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1165.

64. Counter propositions in appellee's brief.—The including in appellee's brief of alleged "general counter propositions" to show that the decree should be affirmed was contrary to court rules. Arlington Heights Realty Co. v. Citizens' Ry. & Light Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 175.

65. References to motion for new trial or other parts of record.—Assignments of error which do not refer to that portion of the motion for a new trial in which the error is complained of, as required by Court of Civil Appeals Rule 25 (142 S. W. xii), with the exception of R. E. P. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) Texas & W., is held insufficient. Judgment affirmed on rehearing 164 S. W. 910; Rio Grande & E. P. Co. v. Kinkel (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 214; Greene Gold-Silver Co. v. Silbert (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 803.

An assignment of error complaining of the admission of evidence will not be considered if not referred, as required by Courts of Civil Appeals rule 21 (142 S. W. xiii), to the facts supporting the assignment. Coleman v. Garvin (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 135.

Error in admitting evidence or overruling a motion for a new trial cannot be considered, where neither the assignment of error nor the brief contains a reference to the page of the transcript and clause of the motion for new trial showing that the matters were presented to the lower court. Brewer v. A. M. Blythe & Co. (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 786.

Error in admitting evidence or overruling a motion for a new trial cannot be considered where neither the assignment of error nor the brief contains a reference to the page of the transcript and clause of the motion for new trial showing that the matters were presented to the lower court. Id.

References to motion for new trial or other parts of record are held insufficient, where neither the assignment of error nor the brief contains a reference to the page of the transcript and clause of the motion for new trial showing that the matters were presented to the lower court. Id.

Under this article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 136, providing that a motion for new trial shall constitute an assignment of error, where such motion contained a specification that the court erred in refusing to give a peremptory instruction, it was immaterial that a further assignment of the same error did not refer to the motion, as required by Court of Civil Appeals rule 25 (142 S. W. xii). Order of United Commercial Travelers of America v. Roth (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 176.

Under this article, as amended by Act April 4, 1915, assignments of error in the brief cannot be disregarded because they do not refer to the motion for new trial, as required by Court of Civil Appeals rule 25 (142 S. W. xii), where the same error is complained of. Douthitt v. Farrar (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 182.

Supreme Court Rule 25 (142 S. W. vii), requiring the assignments of error to refer to the motion for new trial in which the error is complained of, does not apply to assignments of error to the charges given or refused by the court. Sargent v. Barnes (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 366.

An assignment of error that the verdict and judgment were contrary to the law and the evidence, or in any other respects, is insufficient as to the movieto the movin as excessive in the same language as was stated in the motion for new trial, constituted a sufficient compliance with Court of Appeals rules 24 and 25 (142 S. W. xii), requiring assignments of error to refer to the part of the motion for new trial where the same question is raised. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co. v. Cheek (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 427.

An assignment of error in admitting the evidence of a certain witness set forth in a specified bill of exceptions was too general to be considered where such bill of exceptions contained five or more distinct rulings on the admission of parts of the testimony or on other matters. Birge-Forbes v. Sullivan v. Pent (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 612.

An assignment of error, which refers merely to the record and is not supported by a proper statement will not be considered on appeal. Standard Milling Co. v. Imperial Rice Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 637.

An assignment of error, for failure to act within the time allowed by the motion to advise the court of errors, was not considered. A & S Oil Co. v. Refining Co. (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 312.

Where an assignment of error did not distinctly specify the ground of error relied on nor point out that part of the record in which the error was complained of with such reasonable certainty as was practicable in a clear statement, as required by the rules, they might be treated as waived. Sweetwater Cotton Oil Co. v. Birge-Forbes & Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1125.

Assignments of error, referring by number to the paragraphs of the motion for a new trial where the errors were complained of, but not referring to the page of the transcript where they might be found, held in both cases, to be insufficient as to the mov:te to the movin as excessive in the same language as was stated in the motion for new trial, constituted a sufficient compliance with Court of Appeals rules 24 and 25 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii). Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Pemberton, 160 Tex. 483, 161 S. W. 2, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 652. Rehearing denied (Sup.) 168 S. W. 128.

Assignments of error complaining of the exclusion of evidence, which do not show the objection made below, and are followed by no proposition or statement except to see the bill of exceptions, will not be considered on appeal. Childress v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 78.

An assignment of error that the court erred in directing a verdict will not be considered, where it does not refer to the paragraphs of the motion for new trial in which the questions were presented, and the statement does not contain such reference, and the motion contains no reference to the grounds urged in the assignment. Fahey v. Benedetti (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 886.

It is the duty of the Court of Civil Appeals to pass upon assignments of error, though they do not refer to that portion of the motion for a new trial where the error was complained of. Texas Co. v. Veloz (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 277.

Under Court rule 24 (142 S. W. xii), providing that the assignments of error must distinctly specify the grounds of error relied on and set forth in the motion for new trial, assignments of error not referring in any way to a motion for a new trial are insufficient to warrant consideration. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. Drumwright (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1111.

Assignments of error to the exclusion of evidence will not be reviewed, where the Court of Appeals is not referred to any bill of exceptions covering the matter. Chrisman v. Lumberman's Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 651.

Under rule 25 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii), and this article as amended, consideration of assignment of error held not to be denied, though neither it nor the statement referred to the paragraphs of the motion for a new trial, where pages of the transcript containing the motion were referred to. Gulf Refining Co. v. Pegues Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1113.

Where the assignments of error stated that the court erred in advising the jury that "it was the duty of the defendant to exercise ordinary care to furnish a reasonably safe place for the shipment of plaintiff's horses," for assigned reasons, and that the error was raised on the motion for new trial by referring to a page in the transcript, and there was no other effort to point out particularly the portions of the charge objected to, the assignments will not be considered. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Francis (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 40.

An assignment of error in admitting testimony will be overruled where there is no reference to the part of the statement of facts, where such testimony appears as required by the rules of the court, and the court, after careful inspection of the statement of facts, fails to find any such testimony. Texas, G. & N. Ry. Co. v. Berlin (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 62.

Where an assignment of error to an instruction on the measure of damages contained objections, either in the statement or in the propositions thereunder, it could not be reviewed. Ford Motor Co. v. Freeman (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 80.

Assignments of error, which do not set out the substance of the bills of exception referred to simply by number, cannot be considered. Anderson & Day v. Darsey (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1089.

An assignment of error merely referring to a page of the transcript for a paragraph of appellant's motion for new trial to show error will not be considered. Martinez v. Gutierrez's Heirs (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 768.

Where assignments of error referred to bill of exceptions not in the record, held that, they would be disposed of with reference to objections and exceptions in the statement of facts. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Moore (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 304.

An assignment of error followed by words and references to pages of the transcript will not be considered. Friedmann v. Huntsville Cotton Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 573.

Assignments of error to rulings on testimony, shown, as recited therein, by certain bills of exceptions, such bills of exceptions not being in the record. Fidelity-Phoenix Fire Ins. Co. v. O'Bannon (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 731.
Plaintiff's contention that defendant admitted, and that the undisputed evidence showed, that the manuscript, as it was entitled to an item not allowed by the verdict, could not be considered, where the page or pages of the voluminous statement of facts containing such admission and evidence was not given. Hall v. Ray (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1115.

An assignment of error, in that the court erred in failing to give defendant's charge instructing the jury to find it as per bill of exceptions No. 1, did not violate Rules for Courts of Civil Appeals, 24, 25, 30, 31 (142 S. W. xiii) prescribing the requisites of assignments of error and the briefing thereof. Thurberry Brick Co. v. Matthews (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1189.

That an assignment of error erroneously refers to the bills of exception by incorrect numbers does not preclude consideration of it, where the court's action fully appears of record, so that no bill of exceptions was necessary; the error being clerical only. Adams v. San Antonio Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 171. An assignment of error in the main charge as more fully shown by the written objections thereto, made and filed after it had been submitted to opposing counsel and before the charge was read to the jury "as is more fully shown by defendant's bill of exception No. 2 which is here referred to and made a part thereof," in view of the absence of any bill of exceptions No. 2, ex nomine, in the transcript, did not comply with rules 25 and 26 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii), prescribing the form and contents of assignments of error, and hence did not require consideration. Wichita Traction Co. v. Berry (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 416.

Assignment of error held not to comply with rules 25 and 26 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiii), and not to require consideration. Id.

An assignment of error not followed by any special reference to the statement of facts verifying the contention, cannot be considered. Clark v. State (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 84.

Under rules for Courts of Civil Appeals 24, 25 (142 S. W. xii), Rule 31 (142 S. W. xiii), held that assignments of error, not referring to motion for new trial, with a statement not part of the transcript where a bill of exceptions might be found, were insufficient, and would not be considered. Perry Bros. v. McNell (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 120.

Under art. 2661, requiring bills of exceptions to refusal of special charges, and Court of Civil Appeals rule 31 (142 S. W. xiii), requiring appellant's brief to contain references to the record, etc., an assignment of error not showing where the bill of exceptions to the charge complained of can be found in the record will not be considered. Houston Chronicle Pub. Co. v. Lemmon (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 347.

Assignments of error filed nearly six months after adjournment of court, none of which was based upon a motion for new trial, will not be considered except as they concern fundamental error. Fariss v. Beeville Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1168.

67. Filing and annexing to record.—The correctness of a charge will not be considered on appeal, where no assignment of error relating thereto was filed in the trial court. Stevens v. Crosby (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 62.

An assignment of error not in the record, though in the brief, present nothing for review except fundamental error apparent of record. McPhaul v. Byrd (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 644.

An assignment of error as to the refusal of the court to postpone trial until witnesses could inspect the premises, which was not filed in the court below, will not be considered. Moody v. Bonham (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1029. Moody v. Bonham (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 670.

Under Rule 101 (159 S. W. xi), assignment of error relating to findings of fact and conclusions of law, filed subsequently to the final judgment, need not be filed in the court below. Id.

An assignment not presented in trial court, cannot be considered on appeal. Bilingsley v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 373.

Against objection, an assignment of error may not be considered, where no such assignment was filed with the trial court. Walden v. Davis (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 199.

68. Including in transcript.—Under arts. 1697, 3013, 2115, held, that a transcript not containing copy of assignment of errors and not disclosing reversible error on its face required an affirmance. English v. Allen (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1172.

Under this article and rule 23 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiii), the Court of Civil Appeals would strike and not consider an assignment of error not filed below and brought up in the transcript. Rector v. Continental Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 399.

70. Cross-assignments—Right to assign.—Where a defendant unsuccessfullly attempted to appeal in forma pauperis, it was before the Court of Civil Appeals as an appellee only, and could not thereafter assign cross-errors against its appellee under district court rule 101 (142 S. W. xxiv). Missouri Pac. Ry. Co. v. Cheek (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 427.

Cross-assignments of error by parties who did not appeal were nevertheless entitled to consideration. Cain v. Bonner (Sup.) 194 S. W. 1988.

71. — Necessity.—In the absence of a cross-assignment complaining of terms imposed in a judgment for appellee, the court cannot reform the judgment so as to eliminate such terms. Ford v. Warner (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 855.

Where plaintiff did not on defendant's appeal assign as error the denial of complete relief, the question will not be reviewed. Owosso Carriage & Sleigh Co. v. McIntosh & Warren (Sup.) 170 S. W. 267.

Under art. 1593, and in view of rule 101 for district and county courts (159 S. W. xi), defendants in trespass to try title, who failed to file any cross-assignments of error on 313 appeal, were in no position to complain of court's charge and its refusal to charge. Hull v. Carpenter (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 797.

72. — Filing and annexing to record.—A cross-assignment of error by appellee which was not filed with the clerk of the trial court, as required by rule 101 for the district and county courts (159 S. W. xi), will not be considered. Guaranty State Bank of Houston v. McLean (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 194.

Where the record fails to show that a cross-assignment of error was filed in court below, it cannot be considered. Morrison v. Brooks (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1094.

Under rules for district and county courts, No. 101 (159 S. W. xi), a cross-assignment of error not filed in the court below will not be considered.Ross v. Moore (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 853.

Cross-assignment in appellee's brief urging insufficiency of judgment cannot be considered where record does not show that cross-assignment was filed in trial court and no brief certificate of trial judge that it is copy of brief filed in trial court. Levy v. Engle Bros. Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 548.

73. — Sufficiency.—A cross-assignment, wherein appellee insists that the judgment should have been for a greater amount, will not be considered where no statement was submitted under the assignment. Lee v. White (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1664.

74. Defects, objections, and amendments.—After an assignment has been considered and sustained, a party cannot urge its insufficiency. San Antonio, U. & G. Ry. Co. v. Storey (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 188.

The appellee's objection to a consideration of appellant's assignment of error because it violated certain rules of court, not pointing out in what respect any one or more of such rules was violated, would not be considered. Thurber Brick Co. v. Matthews (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1135.

No notice of appellee's objections to sufficiency of assignments of error, as provided by rule 159 (Civ. Title of Civil Appeals 143 S. W. xi) is requisitioned by appellee's failure to comply with rule 29 (142 S. W. xii) in preparing his brief, notwithstanding this article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 130, nor Supreme Court rule 101 (159 S. W. xi). Perry Bros. v. McNeill (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 120.

Where appellee joined in the appeal and brief, and the only assignment of error urged affects but one of the appellants, the court will not consider any error committed against the others. Moore v. Reid (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 245.

76. — Rulings on pleadings.—Assignments of error that no grounds for the appointment of a receiver for defendant corporation were stated in the petition, and that it stated no cause of action, were equivalent to general demurrer, and required the appellate court to indulge all reasonable intennents in favor of the sufficiency of the petition to sustain the appointment. Houston & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Hughes (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 23.

77. — Rulings as to evidence.—An assignment of error in trespass to try title objecting generally to the admission in evidence of a certified copy of a deed will not raise the question whether the deed was admissible as the deed of a certain one of the grantors. Sullivan v. Pant (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 612.

An assignment of error predicated on a bill of exception held to complain of the admission of testimony and reviewable within this article as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 136, Martin v. Stires (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 836.

78. — Submission of issues to jury.—An assignment of error to the refusal to charge that there was no presumption that a brakeman was killed as the result of the railroad's fault the issue when the more happening of the accident the jury were likely to find negligence. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Stalcup (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 279.

In trespass to try title assignments of error held insufficient to raise the question whether the court erred in refusing to submit the question of damages for plaintiff's breach of his agreement to extend the time for payment of vendor's lien notes. Workman v. Ray (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 291.

79. — Instructions.—A directed verdict for the plaintiff for the amount due for the conversion of property will not be reversed on appeal by the plaintiff because there was conversion of an independent promise by the defendant to pay more, where the only specification of errors was the refusal to give a peremptory instruction for a larger amount upon the theory of conversion. First Nat. Bank v. Dunlap (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 502.

Where no objection was made in assignment of error or proposition to the charge because of a repetition of the same matter in separate paragraphs, a suggestion of repetition under the head of "remarks" will not be entertained on appeal. Lisle-Dunning Const. Co. v. McCall (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 810.

In testator's trustee for services in caring for one devisee maintenance and expenses of her last illness, assignment of error, as restricted by the proposition thereunder, held not to present claim that charge was on the weight of the evidence. McLean v. Breen (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 394.

80. — Verdict, findings, or judgment.—An assignment of error that there is no evidence to support the verdict or upon which a charge can be predicated raises only the question whether there is any evidence upon which the verdict or charge might be based. Cotton v. Cooper (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 597.

An assignment of error that under a defense pleaded, the evidence introduced, and the finding, was error for the court to render judgment for the plaintiff does not raise the issue that the answer undenied was a bar to recovery. Memphis Cotton Oil Co. v. Tolbert (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 309.

An assignment that the court erred in overruling plaintiff's motion to set aside the judgment, the judgment did not dispose of all of the issues or issues, was not sufficient to present the question whether the judgment was final. Banks v. Blake (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 514.

An assignment of error that the testimony did not support the findings on which the judgment was based held to authorize a review of taxation of costs. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Kelly (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 540.

In passenger's action for personal injury, where the jury found that his fall was accidental and without negligence, assignment of error in that there was error to the question that findings as a whole were so conflicting as to make them insufficient to support the judgment. Smith v. Texas Traction Co. (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 933.

In a suit with counts in trespass to try title and for enforcement of vendor's lien, where the assignment was directed only to the vendor's right to rescind, the judgment granting a rescission, rather than a foreclosure, could not be reversed. Continental Oil & Cotton Co. v. Steele (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 269.

In action for damages to automobile, assignments of error held to challenge trial court's findings of fact in favor of the plaintiff. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Palne (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 1033.

82. Relation to record.— In an action for injuries to a shipment of cattle, an assignment of error that a charge was erroneous “because there was no evidence of rough handling, and none of unreasonably delay” will be overruled, where there was evidence of rough handling, even though there was none of unreasonable delay. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Swaggerty (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 317.

Error could not be predicated upon the admission of testimony claimed to have prejudiced the cause, whether neither the brief nor the bill of exceptions showed what the witnesses testified. Underwood v. Jordan (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 88.

An assignment of error that the court erred in sustaining defendant's alleged exception to the fifth paragraph of defendant's answer held not sustained by the record. Burrow v. Brown (Civ. App.) 147 S. W. 254.

Grounds of objection to evidence stated in the assignments of error other than those alleged in the bills of exception, will not be reviewed. Sanford v. John Finnigan Co. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 624.

The record not affirmatively showing articles were admitted, an assignment of error to their admission must be overruled. Houston, E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Cavanaugh (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 619.

An assignment of error, not supported by the record, will be overruled. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Neale (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 85.

Any assignment of error without support in the court's conclusions of facts, and which fails to challenge the correctness of such conclusions, presents no error. Fowler v. Carlisle (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 528.

Where after general demurrer was sustained to plaintiff's petition he filed two trial amendments and it did not appear that demurrer was then sustained to petition, an assignment of error of sustaining of general demurrer after same was overruled before and after the first trial amendment, shows no reversible error. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Hoffman (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1140.

In action for breach of contract for joint purchase of cattle, in which there was evidence of an oral contract varying a prior written agreement, and that parties had submitted their differences to arbitration, which had resulted in an award for plaintiff, an assignment of error that the only contract was the written contract and only issue the division of profits held defective. Eubank v. Bostick (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 214.

83. Incorporating assignments in briefs.—This article, as amended by Acts 1935, 1937, and 1939, requires Courts of Civil Appeals to consider an assignment of error not copied in the brief. Martin v. Stires (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 836.

84. Effect of failure to properly assign or file.—The assignments of error not complying with Courts of Civil Appeals Rules 23-25 (142 S. W. xii) for preparation of briefs, and no fundamental error appearing, errors will be treated as waived and will not be reviewed. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Pemberton (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 852, judgment reversed 106 Tex. 463, 161 S. W. 2. Rehearing denied (Sup.) 185 S. W. 129.

Where assignments of error are not sufficient to present the cause on appeal, and an examination of the record discloses no fundamental error, the judgment must be affirmed. Irving v. Texas & P. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 752, judgment affirmed on rehearing 161 S. W. 910.

Court of Civil Appeals Rule 25 (142 S. W. xii), relating to assignments of error, is not mandatory, and the Courts of Civil Appeals may in its discretion consider assignments of error disregarding the rule. Magee v. Paul (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 325.

An error not presented as required by Court of Civil Appeals Rule 24 (142 S. xii), requiring an assignment of error to distinctly specify the grounds of error relied on, which must have previously been incorporated in the motion for new trial, is deemed to be waived. Tompkins v. Pendleton (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 240.

Where an appellant's assignments of error are not prepared in compliance with the court's rules, the court may, either on the motion of the appellee or its own motion, refuse to consider them. Childress v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 777.

The Courts of Civil Appeals may consider assignments of error failing to comply with the rules adopted by the Supreme Court where the record shows that a palpable injustice has been committed. Davis v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 913.

In the absence of an assignment of error to the overruling of a motion for new trial for insufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict, the appellate court may assume that the verdict was supported by the evidence on questions of fact, such as negligence and damage. Phillips v. Ry. Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 916.

Where there are no valid assignments of error in the record, and where the purported assignments are not properly briefed, the Court of Civil Appeals is confined to the consideration of questions apparent on the face of the record, of which it must take notice without assignments and briefs. Pollard v. Allen & Sims (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 302.

An assignment of error relating to formal matters, rulings on which were not prejudicial, will not be considered when not briefed according to the rules. Ara v. Rutland (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 993.

The failure to file assignments of error in the trial court will not require a dismissal of the writ of error. McPhaul v. Eyrd (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 644.

An assignment of error not presented in conformity to Court of Appeals rule 29 (142 S. W. xii) will not be considered. Ennie & Dale v. Cator (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 947.

Failure to comply with rule 31 (142 S. W. xiii), requiring a brief statement of proceedings in the record to be added to an assignment of error, does not require the court to reconsider its decision, when the assignment has nevertheless been examined. Olds Motor Works v. Churchill (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 785.

In trespass to try title, by failing to assign error to the exclusion of a judgment and sheriff's deed from evidence, appellants held not to have acquiesced in fact in the action of the court. Dunn v. Epperson (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 837.

Assignments of error not presented in accordance with the rule are not entitled to consideration. Harwood v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 798.

Under the express terms of rule 101a for district and county courts (159 S. W. xi) and rule 29 for Courts of Civil Appeals (47 S. W. v.), assignments of error not specified in the motion for a new trial, or in the assignments of error when no motion for new trial is filed, or copied into brief, are waived. Dallas County v. S. H. Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 795.

Assignments of error not in conformity to the Courts of Civil Appeals rules for briefing and submitting cases will not be considered on appeal. Allen v. Reed (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 544.

Appellants' assignment that the court erred in rendering judgment for the plaintiffs, not being made a distinct ground in the motion for new trial, and being too general, in not distinctly specifying the ground relied on, will be considered as waived, unless the error in entering judgment on the findings was so fundamental that the court would act on it without an assignment. Foster v. Atir (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 629.

Where the brief on appeal does not show whether objections interposed to the charges of the court were before or after submission, the assignments of error thereon must be treated as waived. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Cosio (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 85.

Where the record contained no assignment of error, motion for new trial, or bill of exceptions, and no fundamental error is suggested or observed, the judgment will be affirmed. Simpson v. International & G. N. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 10.

Where a proposition under an assignment of error is insufficient, the court, on appeal, cannot reframe it to make it fit the record, in order to properly present the issue. Lester v. Hutson (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 268.

Where no attack was made on findings establishing right of recovery and the evidence tended strongly to support the findings, they will be adopted as facts, and plaintiffs' judgment affirmed in absence of error of law. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Washburn (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 580.

Where appellant filed no brief or assignments of error and respondents filed briefs and prayed affirmance, under court rule 42 (142 S. W. xiv), judgment will be affirmed; there being no fundamental error which could be considered in the absence of assignments. Mangum v. Thurman (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 227.

Where neither appellant's brief nor the transcript contains any assignment of error, and no fundamental error has been discovered, judgment will be affirmed. Phillips v. Faircloth (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 747.

On form of assignment, proposition, and statement relating to objection to charge, court would not search a long bill of exceptions to ascertain what objections were made and whether made at the proper time. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 138.

85. Waiver or abandonment of assignment.—An assignment of error abandoned by plaintiff in error, in open court, will not be considered. Miller v. Campbell (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 255.

In an action against a bank and its president proposition of defendants, appellants, under an assignment of error to the submission of an issue as to exemplary damages held to not confine the specification of error to the bank only and waive it as to its president. Lester v. Hawkins (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 481.

Art. 1613. [1022] Docket of causes and disposition of same.

Rights of appellee.—Failure of appellant to file briefs within the time prescribed by art. 2115, thereby depriving appellee of rights granted by articles 1013, 1616, held not excused. Goodhue v. Leckie (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 647.

Art. 1614. [1019] Appearance by brief, etc.

1. Necessity of briefs.—Although assignments of error are not briefed as required by law, the court may, in view of another trial, consider them. Buchanan v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 625.
6) W. S. (142 S. W. xii), the Johnson-McQuiddy Co. v. herd, held to the purpose by rule 29 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii), providing that the assignments, as presented in the brief, shall be numbered consecutively, or with rules 24 and 25 (142 S. W. xii), relating to assignments and specifications of error, does not call for consideration. Jefferson v. McFadden (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 714.

Cross-assignments of appellee, not briefed according to the rules, will not be considered by the appellate court. Leach v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 602.

An assignment of error, not briefed in accordance with the rules, will be overruled. Daugherty v. Smith (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1191.

3. Statement of case or of facts—In general. An assignment of error complaining of a ruling on evidence could not be considered where the appellant's brief failed to disclose the grounds of objection made below. Standard Milling Co. v. Imperial Rice Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 697; Fabih v. Giron (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 786.

Assignments of error will not be reviewed where the brief does not contain statements from the record showing the error as required by Court of Civil Appeals rule 31 (142 S. W. xii). Wahup v. Saurage's Heirs (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 185. Where an objection is claimed to the sustaining of an objection to questions to a witness where appellant's brief does not show what objections were sustained, or what the proposed evidence was, or whether it would have been admissible. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Neill (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1180.

A ruling on the admission of testimony cannot be reviewed where there is nothing in appellant's brief to indicate that an objection was interposed and the brief does not refer to bills of exception taken to the ruling. Brown v. Brenner (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 14.

Where defendant's brief did not set out plaintiff's petition or even its substance, defendant's contention that its general demurrer was improperly overruled cannot be reviewed. International & G. S. Ry. Co. v. Owens (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 412.

Where an objection to a paragraph of the court's charge was not shown by the briefs to have been made in the trial court and overruled, and a bill of exceptions preserved, the Court of Civil Appeals will not search the recordDeu to that the objection was waived. Ford Motor Co. v. Freeman (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 80.

Where statements in appellant's brief are not controverted by appellee's brief, the appellate court is justified under rule 41 (142 S. W. xiv), in accepting appellant's version as true. Ford Motor Co. v. Citizens Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 375.

Where the brief filed by appellant failed to comply with rule 31 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii), requiring statements of proceedings in the record necessary to an understanding of the propositions, the assignments of error will not be considered. Folkard v. Sims (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 902.

Brief filed by appellant, referring to briefs of its codefendant for statement, contentions, etc., held not to a compliance with the rules, so that judgment against such appellant would be affirmed. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 955.

Under art. 1007, where an assignment of error in the brief a group of facts verifiable by reference to the transcript and facts pointed out in the assignment, the whole of such assignment must be considered. Texarana & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Jones (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 772.

Statements in briefs on an appeal and on a former dismissed appeal held not an admission for purposes of plea of privilege that allegations of venue in the petition were true. Holmes v. Coalson (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 628.

By express provision of Court of Civil Appeals rule 41 (142 S. W. xiv) whatever of the statements in appellant's brief is not contested will be considered as acquiesced in. Mutual Film Corp. v. Morris & Daniel (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1060.

Where the brief did not show that a charge was presented at the proper time and exceptions properly taken to its refusal, an assignment of error in its refusal would not be considered. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 188.

A brief which in its statement merely said that the trial court's charges were "duly excepted to" is disproved. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Horton (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 397.

Where appellant's brief failed to show objections urged to admission of testimony, assignments of error relating thereto will not be considered. First Nat. Bank v. Mangum (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 647.

5. Setting out instructions. Assignments that the court erred in refusing certain special charges were insufficient, where the charges were not disclosed by the brief, and no reference was made to the page or pages of the transcript where they could be found. Ford Motor Co. v. Freeman (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 89; Burnett Fuel Co. v. Ellis (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 911.

An assignment of error relating to the charge is not properly briefed where the charges requested were not set out. Shaller v. Johnson-McQuiddy Cattle Co. (Civ. App.) 199 S. W. 533.

7. Specification of errors. Assignments complaining of ruling on evidence are not entitled to consideration where the brief fails to disclose the ground of objection urged. McCall Co. v. Elliott (Civ. App.) 199 S. W. 872.
Where the bill of exception to admission of testimony shows that objection urged in trial was entirely different from objection urged in brief, the assignment will be overruled. Tyler v. McChesney (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1115.

Under rule 29 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xii), the brief of an appellant presents the assignments which, when the assigned error, has not been copied therein, Shipp v. Cartwright (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 70; Rushing v. Citizens' Nat. Bank of Plainview (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 460; Norton v. Lea (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 297; Watson v. Patrick (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 633; Wentzell v. Chester (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 304.

Under Court of Civil Appeals rule 29 (142 S. W. xii), requiring appellant to file a brief of the points relied on, but not requiring the assignments of error to be presented in the order in which they appear in the original assignment, appellant may in his brief disregard the numbers of the assignments of error in the record and give the assignments new numbers. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. West Bros. (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 142; St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Landa & Storey (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 288; CONTRA, Grisham v. Connell Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1197; Petty v. City of San Antonio (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 224.

Court of Civil Appeals rule 29 (142 S. W. xii), requiring that assignments of error appearing in the transcript shall be copied in the brief, is satisfied by a substantial copy. Doherty v. Farrar (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 182.

A motion to dismiss the appeal and affirm the judgment is well taken where the brief for appellant does not refer to assignments of error in the motion for a new trial, as required by Court of Civil Appeals rules 24, 25, and 31 (142 S. W. xii, xiii). Gutheridge v. Gutheridge (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 452.

A motion to disregard assignments of error because not correctly copied in a brief will be overruled where the omitted portions embrace merely the reasons upon which the assignments are based. Williams v. McComb (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 454.

Notwithstanding Acts 33d Leg. c. 136, art. 1612, ante, under Court of Civil Appeals rules 23, 29 (142 S. W. xii), requiring the record to contain assignments of error, and providing that failure to file same shall be ground for dismissing the writ of error, purported assignments cannot be considered where none of the grounds of the motion for new trial are in the brief of plaintiff in error. Overton v. Colored Knights of Pythias (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1053.

Under Court of Civil Appeals Rules, rule 27 (142 S. W. xii), requiring appellant to copy in his brief each assignment of error, and other rules requiring each assignment to be so presented that the appellate court can ascertain therefrom, and from the propositions and statements, the questions to be decided, it is improper to give only the substance of assignments. Iowa Mfg. Co. v. Walczow (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1854.

A paragraph of the motion for new trial asserting error in an instruction was sufficiently copied into appellant's brief to be considered as an assignment of error under Courts of Civil Appeals Rules, No. 29 (142 S. W. xii), though as copied it omitted a part of the paragraph stating wherein the court erred in its instruction. Smith v. Bogle (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 35.

Under rules 23 and 29 (142 S. W. xii) for Courts of Civil Appeals requiring the record and assignments of error, distinctly setting out the ground of error relied on, held, that assignments in a brief not purporting to be the same as those set forth in the motion for new trial, but being condensed assignments, would be considered as waived. Coons v. Lain (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 981.

An assignment as copied in the brief, which materially varies from the original in the record, cannot be considered. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Kellogg (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 180.

Brief copying into assignments of error words and sentences not contained in assignments in motion for new trial and omitting other words, etc., held to violate rule that assignments relied on shall be copied in brief. National Live Stock Ins. Co. v. Gomillion (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 330.

Assignments of error appearing in the brief, but not in the record, as to matters which should have been called to the court's attention in the motion for new trial, cannot be considered. Dees v. Crane (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 468.

Under Court of Civil Appeals rule 29 (142 S. W. xii), error in instructing as to the form of verdict of defendant cannot be reviewed, where the assignment in the brief related to the form of the verdict for plaintiff. Herrmann v. Schroeder (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 788.

Where there were no assignments of error and the brief did not correspond with parties' pleadings, matter attempted to be presented by the brief need not be decided. Stevens v. Marshall (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 972.

Where assignments of error are grounds assigned in a motion for new trial, they, as given in the brief, must, as required by Rule 35 (142 S. W. xii), refer to the portion of the motion in which they are complained of. J. B. Parthing Lumber Co. v. Illig (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1092.

Under the rule requiring assignments of error to be copied in the brief, an assignment in the brief complaining of the admission of part of the testimony of a witness will not be considered where the assignment in the motion for new trial complains of the admission of all his testimony. Dewees v. Nicholson (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 396.

The excessiveness of an award of damages for non-delivery of a telegram cannot be considered where the appellant's brief did not present that assignment in proper manner. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Bailey (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 619.
Where the record shows that certain rulings of the court below were attacked in a motion for new trial, and that such rulings constitute the assignments of error urged in this court, it is unnecessary that appellant's brief should specifically so state. Dunlap v. Squires (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 843.

9. Citation of authorities.—In citing cases, the names of the litigants, as well as the book and page, should be given, and, when not given, the volume and page should be verified. Smith v. McBryde (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 234.

10. References to record.—Error in admitting evidence or overruling a motion for a new trial cannot be considered, where neither the assignment of error nor the brief contains a reference to the page of the transcript and clause of the motion for new trial showing that the matters were presented to the lower court. Brewer v. A. M. Blythe & Co. (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 786.

Where the court is referred by appellant to "bill of exceptions No. _____," the page of the record not being given, the court will not search the record to find such bill. Hill v. Where (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 314.

A statement of the evidence is insufficient where it refers to the pleadings for part of the facts on which the assignment is based instead of to the facts proved by the evidence introduced. General Accident, Fire & Life Assur. Corporation v. Ellison (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1141.

An assignment of error complaining of a ruling on evidence will not be considered where the brief does not refer to any bill of exceptions covering the matter. Loftus v. Zier (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 476.

A brief will not be stricken because of failure to refer to the pages of the record sustaining the points urged, where it was sufficient to apprise the court of appellant's contentions. Thornburg v. Moon (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 959.

Assignments of error brought by appellant identical with grounds asserted in motion for new trial, where bills of exception relied on, though not copied in the brief, were referred to and the pages of the transcript where they may be found were given, were sufficiently supported by a reference to the record. Western Indemnity Co. v. Mackechnie (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 615.

Brief on appeal held not to comply with the rules requiring reference to record where objections are made as to requiring consideration of assignments of error in the giving and the refusal of charges. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 291 S. W. 138.

11. Additional or supplemental briefs.—A brief intended as an amendment to the original brief of appellant could not be considered, where it was not merely a citation of additional authorities, as authorized by rule 38 (142 S. W. xiii), but met appellate's objections to the original brief, and did not contain proper statements under the various propositions. Greene Gold-Silver Co. v. Silbert (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 803.

An amended brief undertaking to re-present and re-brief various assignments of error was not permitted by rule 38 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiii), providing that a brief may be amended by citation of additional authorities, and hence that only the argument therein would be considered. Glover v. Houston Belt & Terminal Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1063.

13. Defects, objections, and amendments.—The printed argument cannot be looked to supply vital defects in the brief. Childress v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 78.

Where a brief did not comply with Rules 30 and 31, held, that the defect could not be cured by the printed argument. Mitchell v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 443, rehearing denied Childress v. Robinson, 162 S. W. 1172.

Where assignment is not properly briefed, but same matter is presented under another assignment, it will be considered on appeal. Citizens' Nat. Bank of Plainview v. Slaton (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 742.

Assignments as to special exceptions contained only in amended brief, which attempts to remedy defects in original brief, not being permitted by any rule of law, cannot be considered. Suhre v. Kott (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 417.

14. Striking out brief.—Brief of defendant abusing the trial court and opposing counsel, and a motion by plaintiff to strike it containing abusive language in reference to opposing counsel, stricken from the files on the court's own motion. Mossop v. Zapp (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 685.

Where briefs of the plaintiff in error were stricken because not filed in time, only fundamental errors can be considered. Knight v. Simons (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1018.

Where brief containing statements derogatory to the trial judge was stricken, and the party was required to file a new brief, merely filing a copy of the old brief, with ink smeared over the objectionable portions, was insufficient to comply with the court's order. Mossop v. Zapp (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 838.

When appellant's brief was not prepared according to Courts of Civil Appeals rules, in that it contained and referred to no assignments of error and its propositions were too general and not followed by sufficient statement of proceedings, it will be stricken from the record. Hughes v. Willis (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 584.

Appellant's brief in Court of Civil Appeals will not be stricken for failure to notify appellant of its filing, especially where appellant does not claim that the delay prejudiced it, nor request a postponement for purpose of submitting a reply brief. Houston & T. C. R. Ry. Co. v. Derden (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 489.

17. Scope and effect.—Under rules 40 and 41 for the Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiv), where briefs are also filed, such court is authorized to regard so much of their briefs as is prepared in conformity with such rules as a proper presentation of the case without examination of the record. Hawks v. Longbotham (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 744.
Where respondent's counsel, who lost the clerk's transcript of the record after it was filed in the Court of Civil Appeals, failed to have certified a substitute transcript offered by them, held, that the motion to substitute would be overruled, and the statement of the case and statements supporting the assignments of error in appellant's brief will be treated as denied. Thomsen v. Sylvan Beach Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 515.

On appeal from judgment in suit restraining sale on foreclosure, statement in defendant appellee's brief that plaintiff appellees' plea, asserting their right to recover penalties for usury, was not called to attention of trial court when case was disposed of will be regarded as admission that plea was then on file. Wooton v. Jones (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 350.

18. Failure to file, or to file in time—Effect in general.—Under Rules 40 and 41 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiv) where the record contained no statement of facts or evidence or briefs for appellees, court could decide case on issues presented by appellants' brief. Davis v. Watertown Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 593.

Under rule 41 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xiv), where appellees filed no briefs, the statements in appellant's brief will be regarded as acquiesced in. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Cauble (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 369.

Where, plaintiff in error fails to file a brief, the brief of defendant in error may, under rule 42 (142 S. W. xiv), be accepted as a correct presentation of the case without examination of the record further than to see that the judgment is one that can be affirmed on the cause as presented by defendant in error. Shuttleworth v. Armour & Co. (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 439.

Though the appellant files no brief, a suggestion by the appellee that the appeal was taken for delay only requires the court to reverse the judgment for any material error there may be therein. W. A. Leyhe Piano Co. v. American Multigraph Sales Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 494.

Under court rule 40 (142 S. W. xiv) an appellant's brief may be accepted as a proper presentation of the case, without examination of the record, where appellee files no brief. Occident Fire Ins. Co. v. Linn (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 523.

19. — Excuses.—In trespass to try title against C. & Co., in which it pleaded the T. Co. on its warranty of title, verbal agreement by one of the attorneys for the T. Co. that, in allowing time of plaintiffs to file their briefs, held not an excuse for the failure to file such briefs within the time previously stipulated or within a reasonable time before the submission of the case. Brown v. Wm. Cameron & Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 455.

— Dismissal.—Failure of appellant to file briefs in the Court of Civil Appeals as required by this article and court rule 29 (142 S. W. xili), is ground for dismissal. Ft. Worth Belt Ry. Co. v. Perryman (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1181; Banks v. McMahan (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 366.

Where no briefs were filed in the trial court, and there was no agreement by one of two defendants in error for their filing in the appellate court, the writ of error will on motion be dismissed as to him. Buick Automobile Co. v. O'Keefe (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 965.

Motion to dismiss appeal where appellants did not file briefs within time required by rules, or within time stipulated, case having been filed April 4th, set for submission for November 9th, and appellants applying November 1st for permission to file briefs, will be granted under rule 29 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xili). Alderete v. Mosley (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1085.

— Affirmance.—Where appellant filed no brief or assignments of error and respondents filed briefs and prayed affirmance, under court rule 42 (142 S. W. xiv), judgment will be affirmed; there being no fundamental error which could be considered in the absence of assignments. Mangum v. Thurman (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 227; Record Co. v. Popplewell (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 939; Robinson v. Hill (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1063.

Under rules of Court of Civil Appeals, rule 42 (142 S. W. xiv), where appellant fails to file a brief, the record will not be examined further than to see that the judgment is one which can be affirmed on the view presented by appellee's brief. Cooper Mfg. Co. v. Golding (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 193.

Where appellant fails to file brief in court below or Court of Civil Appeals, and case is submitted by appellee on the transcript, unless there is fundamental error, judgment must be affirmed. Guaranty State Bank v. Elund (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 546.

The judgment will be affirmed if appellant files no brief; there being no fundamental error. Alderete v. Moore (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 453.

Where the judgment disposed of all the parties and was in conformity with the issues, it will be affirmed, in the absence of briefs. Bartholomew v. Culver (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 498.

Where the appellant files no brief and there is no error apparent on the face of the record and the judgment is one which the court could legally render, it will be affirmed. Habbert v. Toyah Valley Bank (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 568.

Where examination of record failed to disclose any fundamental error, and appellant submitted no brief on appeal, judgment will be affirmed. Compton v. Hopkins (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1091.

HEARING CAUSES

Article 1616. [1022] Hearing of cases, order of.
See Goodhue v. Leckie (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 647; note under art. 2115.

Article 1618. [1026] Death does not abate, when.
Effect of death in general.—Under this article, on the death of a party to an appeal after the appeal bond has been filed and approved, the appeal does not abate, though the original cause of action may be one which does not survive. Hughes v. Hughes (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 847.

CHAPTER EIGHT
CERTIFICATION OF QUESTIONS TO SUPREME COURT, ETC.

Article 1619. Questions of law certified to supreme court.
1620. Dissenting opinion; point of dissent certified to supreme court.

Article 1619. [1043] Questions of law certified to supreme court.

Certification of questions in general.—The Court of Civil Appeals has no jurisdiction to certify questions to the Supreme Court after the expiration of the term at which it finally disposed of the case. Noble v. Broad (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 643.

Questions which may be certified.—The Court of Civil Appeals will not certify to the Supreme Court a question which in its opinion has been previously decided by that court. Lock v. Citizens' Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 536.

Where judges of Court of Civil Appeals fully concur in opinion, questions at issue will not be certified to Supreme Court. Pierce Fordyce Oil Ass'n v. Woodrum (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 245.

Dependent on Arts. 1521, 1522.—See notes under art. 1522.
Dependent on Art. 1591.—See notes under art. 1591.

Answer of Supreme Court.—Where the only question involved on an appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals was certified to the Supreme Court which answered it in favor of the appellee, the judgment must be affirmed. Dallas County v. Lively (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 1107, conforming to opinion of Supreme Court, 106 Tex. 384, 187 S. W. 219.

A determination by the Supreme Court that a bona fide club selling intoxicating liquors only to its members is not engaged in the business of selling such liquors held dic-tum, in view of the questions certified under the provisions of Rev. St. 1911, art. 1619, State v. Country Club (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 570.

The answers to questions propounded by the Court or Civil Appeals to the Supreme Court are conclusive upon the Court of Civil Appeals. Masterson v. Harris (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 284, conforming to answers to certified questions (Sup.) 174 S. W. 570.

The decision of the Supreme Court on questions certified from the Court of Civil Appeals is the law of the case on its return. Middleton v. Texas Power & Light Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 276.

Article 1620. [1040] Dissenting opinion; point of dissent certified to supreme court.

Certification of questions in general.—Where a Court of Civil Appeals has final jurisdiction of a cause, it is not mandatory upon it to certify to the Supreme Court because of the dissent of one of its members. Sellers v. Puckett (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 639.

Where a dissenting justice of the Court of Appeals withdraws his dissent, appellant is not entitled to certification to the Supreme Court on account of the dissent. Jeff Davis County v. Davis (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 291.

Questions which should be certified.—Where the question involved in an action for damages to an interstate shipment of live stock was a federal question, it was not mandatory upon the Court of Civil Appeals, one of the judges of which dissented, to certify the case to the state Supreme Court. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Dalton (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 566.

Where dissent to the majority opinion is not on a question of law material to the decision, a motion to certify will be overruled. Gestean v. Bishop (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 696.

Where sole question for Court of Civil Appeals involved location of boundary, it was not incumbent on court, because of dissent of a justice, to certify case to Supreme Court under this article. Boynton Lumber Co. v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 749.

SUPP. VERN. S. CIV. ST. TEX.—21 321
Art. 1623. Conflict with decision of another court of civil appeals; question and record transmitted and certified to supreme court.

Duty and propriety of certification in general.—Under this article, where a decision of a Court of Civil Appeals clearly conflicts with an earlier decision of another Court of Civil Appeals, the question should be certified to the Supreme Court. First Nat. Bank of Aspermont v. Conner, 172 S. W. 1106, 106 Tex. 549.

A question already determined by Supreme Court will not be certified to it, although there may be a conflict with the subsequent decision of Court of Civil Appeals. Village Mills Co. v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 785.

Decision of Court of Appeals conflicting with decision of another Court of Appeals on same question necessitates certification of question for final adjudication to Supreme Court. 1d.

In determining whether Supreme Court shall require certification of decision by Court of Civil Appeals, under this article, equitable considerations, showing that petitioner has been denied some rights, cannot be considered. Coultress v. City of San Antonio (Sup.) 187 S. W. 194.

In a case in which the jurisdiction of the Court of Civil Appeals is made final by art. 1651, a conflict of decision between different Courts of Civil Appeals does not confer jurisdiction on the Supreme Court to grant a writ of error. Camp v. National Equitable Soc. of Belton (Sup.) 191 S. W. 659.

Where decision of Court of Civil Appeals in case in which its jurisdiction is final, is in conflict with decision of Court of Civil Appeals of another district, mandamus will issue from Supreme Court to require certification of questions as required by this article. Warren v. Willson (Sup.) 193 S. W. 529.

Nature and extent of conflict in decisions.—Holding of Court of Civil Appeals that execution of building contractor's bond by lumber company was ultra vires held in conflict with earlier decision that execution of liquor dealer's bond by wholesale liquor corporation was not ultra vires, requiring the question to be certified to the Supreme Court. First Nat. Bank of Aspermont v. Conner, 172 S. W. 1106, 106 Tex. 549.

This article requires that the certificate of a question of law, and the record in a case in which the decision conflicts with a prior decision, be made only when the decision is in direct conflict with a prior decision, and the test is whether one would overrule the other if in the same court. Coultress v. City of San Antonio (Sup.) 179 S. W. 515.

Decisions of a Court of Civil Appeals, denying a discharged policeman recovery of salary subsequent accruing, held not in conflict with other cases, so as to require certification to the Supreme Court. 1d.

Decision of Court of Civil Appeals that bank was not liable to wife for her individual bank deposit withdrawn by her husband held in conflict with prior decision of another Court of Civil Appeals that wife's contract, acquiesced in by husband, was valid, and under this article such conflict should be certified to Supreme Court. Warren v. Willson (Sup.) 183 S. W. 559.

Decisions of same court.—Mandamus to require certification to Supreme Court of decision of Court of Civil Appeals under this article cannot be based on conflict between decisions of same court. Coultress v. City of San Antonio (Sup.) 187 S. W. 194.

Conflict with decisions of Supreme Court.—While Courts of Civil Appeals, under Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1623, are required to certify questions where rulings are in conflict with other decisions of Court of Civil Appeals, they are not required to certify questions on ground that rulings are in conflict with Supreme Court decisions. Warren v. Willson (Sup.) 193 S. W. 529.

CHAPTER NINE

JUDGMENT OF THE COURT

Art. 1626. If judgment reversed, when reformed and when remanded.

Dismissal of appeal.—See art. 2078, note 8.

A motion to dismiss an appeal, because the petition for writ of error was not signed, came too late, when not filed within 90 days after the transcript was filed, as required by Court of Civil Appeals rule 8 (142 S. W. xi). Zimmerman v. Baugh (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 593.

Upon appeal from a judgment of the county court, which was without jurisdiction, the appeal will not be dismissed, but the cause will be reversed and remanded to enable that tribunal to dismiss the action. Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Mathews (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 1052.

A motion to dismiss a writ of 'error, filed one day before submission of the cause, held too late. McPhaul v. Byrd (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 644.
Under rule 8 for the Court of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xi), a motion not filed within 20 days to dismiss a judgment for error on the ground that the writ was not filed within 12 months after final judgment, must be dismissed, unless the objection is jurisdictional. Farmers' State Bank of Newlin v. Bell (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 922.

Where case was filed in Court of Civil Appeals June 7th, motion filed October 2d to dismiss on grounds the petition was defective, and judgment dismissed May 26th, the writ was not served within 20 days after final judgment, and motion to dismiss for failure to file a petition within 20 days after final judgment, was properly filed May 26th, and the motion to dismiss was properly dismissed May 26th.

The appeal of a railroad for which, at the instance of its bondholder, a receiver has been appointed, from the order of appointment, will not be dismissed as moot because the benefits given by the United States are distributed among the bondholders, and the bondholders are not required to appear in the court and to file a bond to support the action, does not appear from, and apparently acquiesces in, the second appointment. Houston & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Hughes (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 23.

A motion held to be without jurisdiction for dismissal of appeal in absence of fundamental error in the trial of the cause. Anderson v. Engler (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 399.

Under rule 8 for Courts of Civil Appeals (142 S. W. xi), motion to dismiss for an in forma pauperis as distinguished from a jurisdictional question, not made within 30 days after filing of transcript, waived such question. Winniboro Cotton Oil Co. v. Carson (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1002.

Under rule 8 (142 S. W. xi) motion to dismiss for failure to file briefs in time not filed within 30 days after filing transcript is too late. Hamlet v. Leicht (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1904.

Where a motion to dismiss an appeal, on ground that matters in controversy have been settled, as well as supporting affidavit, failed to show that the settlement had in fact been made, motion should be overruled. Kern v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 626.

Affirmance.—Where plaintiff, suing a defendant and several codefendants desired that the judgment for codefendants should not be disturbed, the court on the appeal of defendant will affirm the judgment for codefendants. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. West Bros. (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 142.

Where, after an appeal was perfected, the appellant and one of the appellees agreed in writing that the judgment should be affirmed, it would be affirmed as to such appellee, though reversed as to the others. Powell v. Stephens (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1058, motion for judgment on rehearing, 163 S. W. 672.

In an action for the death of a child, where there was no evidence as to value of the services or the costs of support, the jury may find that the parents have suffered no pecuniary loss, and the rule of nominal damages does not apply, so that a verdict for defendant cannot be set aside. Richworth v. Moss (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 843.

There is no jurisdiction on appeal for plaintiff by a defendant in trespass to try title from judgment for plaintiff to even affirm for nonappeal judgment on a cross-bill by another defendant, presenting different issues from those between plaintiff and the appealing defendant. Ketchum v. Boggs (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 201.

Modification or reformation of judgment.—Where the error in a judgment was not called to the attention of the trial court and the error was in the entry of the judgment rather than in any proceedings had on the admission of testimony or the application of the rules of law, the court on appeal will correct the judgment and affirm it as corrected. Nunn v. Raby (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 187.

Where the error in assessing interest as a part of the damages was not definitely brought to the notice of the lower court, defendant would not avoid the payment of costs by having that item stricken out and the judgment reformed on appeal. Stephens v. Luttrell (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 666.

In an action on a fraternal insurance policy for $1,000, which expressly provided that the insurer might pay out of each $1,050 for the purpose of constituting a special fund, a judgment for the full amount of the policy used to pay losses, was properly reformed so as to allow the reduction. National Council of the Knights and Ladies of Security v. Sealey (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 455.

Where the judgment in condemnation proceedings, instead of describing the land, contains references to the petition for a description thereof, it may be reformed by the appellate court so as to describe the land as it was described in the petition. San Antonio, U. & G. R. Co. v. Bobo (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 377.

A judgment that can be corrected in the appellate court will not be remanded. Dunn v. Epps (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 827.

The excess of $1.50 in judgment for $573.50 in a suit on a fire policy for $500, because of excessive allowance of interest, held too trivial to call for remittitur or to justify reformation of judgment. Fidelity Phoenix Fire Ins. Co. v. Saday (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 569.

The appellate court can reformat the judgment to enter such a one as the lower court should have entered only when it appears that the facts have been fully developed and further competent evidence cannot be introduced to support the judgment below. Ashley v. Holland (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 630.

Although a judgment is inartistically drawn, and, as drawn, does not meet the pleadings and proof, but the intention of the jury is plain, it will be reformed, only on appeal, and not reversed. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Littleton (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1194.

Where separable damages were assessable against codefendants, but the verdict assesses the whole award against one, the appellate court cannot correct the error by calculating the judgment on the separate verdicts, but should have awarded against the defendant not mentioned in the verdict. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. McCammon (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 541.

Under this order Court of Civil Appeals will, on motion, correct judgment reversing judgment of county court, reversing judgment in justice court for plaintiff, so as to include judgment against sureties on bond on appeal from justice court. Ribble v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 278.

A judgment of the county court on appeal from a justice court's judgment, adding a penalty for contempt within the jurisdiction of the justice court, was invalid; but it could be reformed and affirmed on appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals. North American Ins. Co. v. Jenkins (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 207.
Error in allowing damages barred by a statute of limitations may be corrected by an appellate court that is not the court of appeals. Donada v. Pecking Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 769.

In suit for damages for breach of defendant's contract to sell and deliver bran, alleging aggregate loss in the amount of $75, verdict and judgment allowing for loss of profits in the sum of $1,000 would be reformed and reduced to amount claimed. Kolp v. S. P. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 223.

In a servant's personal injury action, held that the court on appeal, will consider an award as a general award for all damages and from it deduct sums already received by the defendant, and enter judgment for the balance. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Ellison (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1020.

In a suit to recover land, an item of the judgment allowing for timber converted its value in its manufactured state would be reformed to allow plaintiff only its value in its natural state. North Texas Lumber Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Atlanta (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 258.

In action for damages to goods in transit where the record shows no evidence as to employment of attorneys, or the value of their services, a judgment allowing plaintiff attorney's fees was without basis in the evidence, and vice versa in finding there was no evidence as to what the part, if any, of the client's interest which the defendant wrongfully appropriated was reformed and rendered as $1,000. O'Neal v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 221.

Where attorneys sued a railroad company and their client alleging an assignment of a part of cause of action as attorney's fees, and that the company had settled by paying a sum to the client, and a judgment was rendered canceling the settlement and awarding damages on the client's cross-complaint, and for plaintiffs for their share in the award, held that, on reversal of the judgment for damages, judgment for plaintiffs against their client should be modified and entered for the sum to which they were entitled, plus $1,700, John Conger, T. & Co. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 761.

Where verdict was for $35,000 and judgment was entered for that amount, the appellate court may, where undisputed evidence shows that amount agreed to be paid was $15,000, allow a set-off by a prior judgment, requiring the jury to re-pass the judgment and affirm it for the correct amount. O'Neal v. Bush & Tillar (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 1133.

In an action for conversion of automobile, where trial court erroneously added an amount of interest to plaintiff's judgment, it is duty of appellate court to render such judgment as should have been rendered below. Magnolia Motor Sales Corp. v. Chafess (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 562.

In action against surety on notes, where there was conclusion of law that plaintiff was entitled to recover face amount of notes with interest, etc., an unintentional error in calculation of interest would be corrected on appeal. Pennock v. Texas Builders' Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 769.

Reversal—In general.—Where in a suit for partition and an accounting of rents and profits for defendant's share for time defendant's share for time, defendant's share for time, they could not have a judgment affirmed as to the partition and reversed on cross-assignments of error with reference to error in findings as to rents and other personal property, Wachop v. Sauvage's Heirs (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 185.

Under Court Rule 62a, providing that where the issues are severable the entire judgment will not be reversed for an error affecting only a part, the whole judgment in trespass to try title brought by only part of the tenants in common, wherein damages for the cutting of timber were allowed and judgment rendered, will not be reversed but only that part which improperly awarded the entire damages to plaintiffs. Noma Mills Co. v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 198 S. W. 932.

Where the jury did not follow erroneous instructions as to the measure of damages, and thereby awarded damages in an amount which they considered in arriving there they improperly awarded the entire damages to plaintiffs. Louisiana Rio Grande Canal Co. v. Quinn (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 375.

Under rule 62a for Courts of Civil Appeals (149 S. E. x), the appellate court may, in an action by a woman to set aside her former husband's deeds to their community property, reverse only that part of the judgment which erroneously granted partition without evidence of value. Gutheridge v. Gutheridge (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 893.

Where a money verdict does not accord with the theory upon which it was found, errors in its computations require a reversal of the judgment rendered thereon. Willingham v. Brown (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 107.

Notwithstanding art. 1997, providing that there shall be but one final judgment, where, in trespasses to try title, there are several defendants whose defenses are severable, the judgment against nonappealing defendants will be affirmed, though the judgment in favor of other defendants is reversed. State v. Dayton Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 48.

Rule 62a for Courts of Civil Appeals (149 S. E. x), authorizing reversals in part, held not applicable in action for damages, where there was no evidence showing the amount of the damages, which was the matter in controversy. Texas & N.O. R. Co. v. Weems (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 1194.

Under rule 62a (149 S. E. x), a judgment in a suit to quiet title and to reform plaintiff's conveyance, where the court improperly directed a verdict of reformation, will be reversed only as to that issue; that error not affecting a judgment in plaintiff's favor for the land included in her conveyance. Johnson v. Conger (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 405.

That a judgment for plaintiff must be reversed for new trial as between the defendants, to determine who is the principal debtor and who are sureties, will not require reversal as between defendants and plaintiff. Solomon v. Merchants' & Planters' Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1028.

In replevin against two defendants, one of whom counterclaimed for breach of contract, a judgment for both will be reversed and remanded when an improper issue on the counterclaim and the rights of the parties to the goods replevied depended upon the determination of the issue raised by the counterclaim. Gordon v. Ratliff (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 372.
Where the court on appeal cannot determine on which of two issues the verdict was rendered, the error in instructions submitting one of the issues necessitates a reversal. Killingsworth v. Young (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1065.

Judgment of divorce will be reversed and annulled, where after perfection and submission of appeal the appellate court is shown that the parties have settled their troubles and that plaintiff is not disposed to further prosecute the suit. Crawford v. Crawford (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 724.

Reversal of judgment against one defendant held not to require reversal of judgment in favor of another defendant as to which neither plaintiffs nor the defendant, against whom judgment was rendered complained or took any exception. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Hamon (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 613.

Under Court of Civil Appeals rule 62a (149 S. W. x), a decree allowing a recovery of land or goods sold from the purchaser of other sales from the sheriff, which was erroneous only as to the latter, will be reversed only as to that part. Needham v. Cooney (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 979.

Where severable causes of action are joined and tried together against two or more defendants, a reversal of the judgment as to one does not require reversal as to the others.

Where, because of agreement, judgment could not be reversed as to one defendant for denial of nominal damages, held that it would be improper to reverse as to the other defendant. Northcutt v. Hume (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 974.

Where there was no relation between two railroad companies, the reversal of a judgment against the company which appealed will not require reversal of a judgment in favor of the other company. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Holmes (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 505.

Where one of two carriers, defendants in action for damages to shipment of cattle, had instructed verdict in its favor, and the other suffered judgment, and alone appealed, the judgment, though reversed and remanded as to the appellant, would be affirmed as to such defendant. San Antonio & A. F. Ry. Co. v. Shankle & Lane (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 115.

Although a judgment must be reversed as to the several liabilities of the defendants to the other, that does not require that it also be reversed as to the liability of one of them to the plaintiff. Young Men's Christian Assoc' v. Jasse (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 885.

Where nonappealing defendant was sued only as member of firm, held, that reversal of judgment for the reversal of the judgment against him. Miller v. First State Bank & Trust Co. of Santa Anna, 184 S. W. 614.

Reversal of judgment against appealing defendants held not to require reversal of judgment against nonappealing defendants on separate and distinct causes of action. Id. An assignment of error to an allowance of $12,500, of which $34 was possibly erroneous, will be entirely overruled when the $34 deduction would make no appreciable difference in the result, especially where there is no assignment specifying the $34 item. Texas Bldg. Co. v. Collins (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 404.

Under rule 62a, for Court of Civil Appeals (149 S. W. x), and where policy showed that parties intended that it should be a severable contract, judgment for plaintiff would be reversed in so far as it affected interest claimed as an heir and by assignment of other heirs of deceased joint beneficiary. Modern Woodmen of America v. Yanowski (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 728.

Where only one of defendants appealed from denial of his privilege to be sued in county of his residence, and judgment was reversed and dismissed as to him, it would not be disturbed as against other defendants. Hughes v. Turner (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 87.

Under the statute providing that there shall be but one final judgment in a case, in actions on contracts, and sureties, or on an action on a bond given by a contractor on admission of liability and sustaining exceptions of sureties to complaints, being a final judgment, to which contractor was not a party, a reversal for error will operate as a reversal as to all parties. Buell Planing Mill Corp. v. Bullard (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 776.

Under Court of Civil Appeals rule 62a (149 S. W. x), a judgment, improperly rendered in a cross-action by one defendant against another, can be reversed without reversing the judgment properly rendered for plaintiff. Wood v. Love (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 335.

Where recovery awarded attorneys suing a railroad and its injured employé was conditioned upon the liability of the road at all for the damages in excess of the amount already paid the employé in settlement, a reversal in favor of the road operated as a reversal of the entire judgment. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Smith (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 761.

Where judgment was rendered in favor of one defendant and against others and no complaint was made on appeal as to the judgment in favor of that defendant, that part of the judgment will not be reversed on reversal of the judgment against the other defendants, if the presence of the successful defendant is not necessary in the subsequent proceedings. Doolin v. Hulsey (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 564.

A judgment rendered to vacate a judgment against a married woman, on a note signed by her without her husband joining and without his consent, and merely enjoining the execution thereof, will be reversed, former judgment to be declared void. Shaw v. Proctor (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1104.

Where one defendant alone appealed, there was no warrant for reversing the judgment on behalf of another defendant, who did not appeal. Sullivan v. Doyle (Sup.) 194 S. W. 236.

When case is submitted on an incorrect measure of damages, and the appellate court cannot determine what might have been the result if correctly submitted, it will be reversed, although the verdict might be sustained by the evidence if a correct measure had been adopted. Littlefield v. Clayton Bros. (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 194.

Reversal of judgment for defendant from judgment in trespass to try title affects only them and those parties to the suit, who were interested in the issues in litigation between them. Ketchum v. Boggs (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 201.

— Rendering final judgment.—Where the case was fully developed below, it is the duty of the appellate court, if possible, to render such judgment as should have been

In a suit for partition, where the defendants resisted the plaintiffs' claim on the ground of statute of limitations, and the record showed that the claim of title and that the claim of limitations was insufficient, and did not indicate that the defendants had been prevented from making their strongest case, on reversal of an erro-neous judgment for the defendants judgment will be entered for the plaintiffs. Williams v. Randall (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 253.

That defendants did not introduce any of the witnesses who testified on the trial, and that the testimony for plaintiff was in the main contradicted, did not make it improper to render judgment for plaintiff on the reversal. Bridgewater v. Hooks (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 194.

Where the Court of Appeals cannot find to its satisfaction that there was no issue presented by the evidence which should have been submitted to the jury, which was not submitted, it cannot render the judgment which should have been rendered below, where the trial court improperly rendered judgment on its own findings on a question not submitted to the jury. Payne v. Ellwood (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 93.

When a verdict is too uncertain to support a judgment, the appellate court cannot enter a judgment thereon, since to do so would be to make the verdict for the jury. Houston Packing Co. v. Griffith (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 431.

Where plaintiff proved his case in the lower court and the defendant failed to estab-lish any defense whatever, judgment will be rendered for plaintiff on appeal from a judgment for the defendant. Hoxier v. Rinn (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 96.

Where counsel for defendant insurer consented to the appellate court's determination of their counsel fees, the court will allow a fee, though there be no evidence before it, instead of remanding the cause. Wright v. Grand Lodge K. P., Colored (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 270.

Under this article the Court of Civil Appeals cannot enter judgment on reversal unless the evidence was such that the district court should have instructed a verdict for appellant. Chicago, B. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Mitchum (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 811.

In action to enjoin defendants from interfering with the property and books of a farmers' union, held, that the court, on reversing judgment for defendants, might render judgment for plaintiffs. Ryan v. Witt (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 962.

Where plaintiff has not made out a cause of action, judgment for plaintiff will be reversed and rendered. Freear-Brin Furniture Co. v. Merritt (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 850.

In an action for injury from electric current, where evidence was only enough to raise a suspicion that the city's current was on its wires, appellate court would reverse judgment for plaintiff and render judgment for city. McKinney Ice, Light & Coal Co. v. Montgomery (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 767.

Plaintiff held not entitled to judgment on appeal where the jury specially found defendant's negligence, but the special issues failed to require a finding that the acts of deceased were negligent. Turner v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 204.

Under this article plea of privilege held to be sustained on appeal, instead of re-manding for new trial on such plea. Holmes v. Coalsing (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 628.

The court, reversing final judgment in action to set aside execution sale, finding judgment on which sale was had, must enter judgment as it should, under the plead­ings and evidence, have been entered. In re-Pecos Land & Irrigation Co. v. Arno Co-operative Irr. Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 928.

On plaintiff's appeal from judgment of the county court denying judgment for the amount admitted to be due, it will be necessary for court to render judgment under the statute to render the judgment which should have been rendered by the county court. Fletcher v. Grinnan (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 556.

By direct provision of this article, where the judgment below is reversed, and there is no matter of fact to be ascertainment, damage to be assessed, and the matter to be deter-mined, the court will render judgment the court below should have rendered. Prudential Life Ins. Co. of Texas v. Smyer (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 825.

Where apparently plaintiffs' only available witnesses testified fully, without showing a necessary fact, under this article, the case will not be remanded for new trial, on reversal, but judgment will be rendered. Mutual Film Corp. v. Morris & Daniel (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1060.

Though defendant's plea in abatement, on ground of pendency of another action, between same parties, involving same subject-matter, in district court of another county, had attached to it a certified copy of the petition and answer in such district court, the Court of Appeals, sustaining the plea, has no power to render judgment dismissing the case. Street v. J. I. Case Threshing Mach. Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 725.

The court, on reversing a judgment for the beneficiary of the member of a fraternal order, can render judgment for the order, where the uncontradicted evidence shows that under the constitution the member was not entitled to a death donation. United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America v. Luck (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 360.

In an action in re-chattel mortgage, if an allegation of value is found by appellate court to be insufficient to fix jurisdiction of county court, it would merely require a reversal of case, and not a dismissal. Dempster Mill Mfg. Co. v. Humphrey (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1110.

Under this article the court will, when the case has been fully developed and the losing party has not been forced to proceed on defective pleadings, render judgment in stead of remanding the case where the remand is sought apparently for the purpose of amendment. Floyd v. Illinois Bankers' Life Ass'n of Monmout, Ill. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 607.
Where appellant insurance company proved a cancellation of the policy sued upon, appellee having thus failed to establish grounds for setting it aside, evidence suggesting his testimony would be different, judgment will be entered for appellant. Globe Fire Ins. Co. v. Limburger (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 222.

In action on a fire policy where court should have instructed a verdict for defendant, court's erroneous instruction, not showing an insurable interest, not to deprive the appellate court will render judgment for defendant. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. McQuarrie (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 491.

Remand for new trial or further proceedings.—Where the evidence greatly preponderates against the judgment, but there are facts tending to support the findings, the courts and render judgment reversed as a nullity, but must reverse and remand. W. R. Miller & Co. v. Hobdy (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 96.

Appellate courts cannot reverse and render judgment because the verdict is against the great preponderance of the evidence, but they may reverse and remand the case for a new trial. Copeland v. Will (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 148.

Under this article, where on the facts found plaintiff was entitled to judgment, and the facts were fully developed, held that on reversal of a judgment for defendant a new trial would not be granted to enable them to procure additional evidence. Bridgewater v. Hooks (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1906.

Upon reversal by United States Supreme Court of judgment affirming judgment for plaintiff, in action for death of employé, because of error in overruling exceptions to petition, on the ground that it did not show whether the state or federal statutes applied, held, that judgment would not be rendered for defendant, but that the case would be remanded for a new trial. St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co. v. Seale (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 317.

Where an action was brought as one to recover for a deficiency in acreage of land contracted to be sold by reason of the existence of a road on the land, upon reversing a judgment for plaintiff for failure to sustain the action on that ground, the Court of Civil Appeals will not return the case to permit amendment of the petition so as to allege an action for fraudulent representations that the road had been abandoned. Bonzer v. Gray (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 384.

In an action to recover for mental suffering from delay in a telegram, the court, on reversing for want of notice of plaintiff’s interest sufficient to sustain a recovery, will reverse for another trial, where it appeared that another witness might testify as to notice. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 399.

In an action for usury, where the trial court did not find whether plaintiff had executed a release of the usury, and its conclusion that the release was unsupported by evidence was erroneous, the court must reverse and remand the case, and cannot finally dispose of it. Cotton v. Beatty (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1097.

Where plaintiff was entitled, at most, to nominal damages, and recovered costs in the court below, a judgment for defendant would not be remanded to recover nominal damages. Major v. Hefley-Coleman Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 441.

Under this article a judgment for plaintiff will not be reversed without remand, even though the evidence showed that plaintiff was not entitled to recover on the cause of action stated, where plaintiff might amend his pleadings, and recover on the cause of action set up in the amended pleadings. Pit. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Copeland (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 807.

The evidence being insufficient to sustain the judgment setting aside an order of the Railroad Commission requiring reversal, but, there being some evidence of the order being unreasonable, and the case appearing not to have been fully developed, it will be remanded. State v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 491.

Where, though a petition was demurrable, the demurrer was either overruled or not presented to the court for defendant rendered for another ground will be reversed in order that plaintiff might amend. Ogg v. Ogg (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 612 (following) Jiron v. Jiron (Civ. App.) 126 S. W. 493.

Where the court erroneously rendered judgment for the defendant on a cross-action in an appealable judgment, the case need not be remanded for new trial, but judgment will be rendered for the plaintiff, under this article. Dees v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 56.

Where the record on appeal from a judgment shows that it was rendered on admissions made for purposes only of hearing a motion for judgment, the court reversing the judgment must remand it because the case had not been fully developed in the trial court. State Exchange Bank v. Smith (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 666.

If in the opinion of the court on appeal the verdict is contrary to the evidence, or against such preponderance of the evidence, that it ought not to stand, a new trial must be awarded. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Weleshimer (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 263.

Liabilities of the several defendants in a suit for personal injuries, where a verdict had been directed to them under plaintiff’s contributory negligence, held not to be determined on appeal, but to require a new trial. Keevil v. Ponsford (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 513.

A judgment on a general verdict for plaintiff will be reversed, the case remanded for a new trial, the custom which could make the insurance valid not having been pleaded in the trial; the testimony having been an irresistible answer. Norwich Union Fire Ins. Society v. Dalton (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 459.

Court of Civil Appeals on appeal from judgment of county court not acquiring jurisdiction on appeal from justice’s court will reverse judgment and remand. City Nat. Bank v. Watson (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 657.

Where verdict was for plaintiff, and defendant appealed, assigning error to improper mode of proof of deceased witness’ testimony on a former trial, and the other evidence was insufficient to sustain the verdict, the appellate court would not reverse and render judgment, but remand for new trial. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Williams (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 701.
In an action for injuries to a motor car, held that a judgment for plaintiff would not, under the evidence, be reversed without remand, though he was guilty of contributory negligence. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Hart (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 795.

Where amended petition shows an amount beyond the jurisdiction of the trial court, but the petition originally sued for, the cause will be remanded, instead of dismissing it. San Antonio & A. F. Ry. Co. v. Schaefter (App.) 179 S. W. 540.

In a suit to enforce a chattel mortgage on a stock of goods, where the jury found against the last purchaser in favor of his vendor, held that, where it did not appear whether they found against his plea of misrepresentations or found a ratification, the erroneous judgment should be reversed and remanded, instead of merely reversed. Denman v. James (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1157.

When case had been fully developed and did not show liability of certain defendants, new trial held not to be granted upon reversal of judgment for plaintiff. McMurry v. Tuttle (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 694.

Where the case was fully developed below, and the evidence showed defendant was not liable, judgment for plaintiff should be reversed on appeal without remand. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. v. Adams (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 385.

On reversal of judgment in favor of original defendant and rendition of judgment for plaintiff on plaintiff's appeal, new trial held to be granted as between such defendant and other defendants against whom it was asked judgment. Moeller Safe Co. v. Atascosa County (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 334.

In trespass to try title, where there was no proof of the exact amount that plaintiffs would lose by the judgment and the court could not determine the amount of recovery for breach of warranty to plaintiffs, the case, as between plaintiffs and their warrantor, would be remanded for a trial of issue of damages. Diffie v. White (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1065.

Though the evidence shows that the amount in controversy removed the case from the jurisdiction of the court where brought, the case would not be dismissed, but remanded, so that plaintiff might, if he could in good faith, amend to show Jurisdiction, and, if not, dismiss. Glasscock v. Sink (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 406.

Amphetamine contend will not reverse judgments that the parties may amend their pleadings to conform to the evidence. Texas Hide & Wool Co. v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 886.

Under rule 62a for Courts of Civil Appeals (149 S. W. x), where issues in an action were severable, and error affected only a part of matter in controversy, finality of trial court, not found to be prejudicial, will be deemed conclusive, and judgment affirmed as to that part, and the case remanded for trial of issues affected by error. Donada v. Power (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 571.

Court of Civl Appeals would not set aside verdict for injured lineman and grant a new trial for alleged insufficient evidence to show that he did not understand the nature and effect of his release. Gulf States Telephone Co. v. Evotts (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 289.

Court of Civil Appeals held unable to dismiss, instead of reversing and remanding, upon sustaining appellee's cross-assignment that trial court erred in not sustaining plea of abatement on ground of pendency in district court of another county of a suit between the same parties, involving the same subject-matter. Street v. J. I. Case Threshing Mach. Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 725.

Even where the court below had no jurisdiction, it is the better practice on appeal to reverse and remand. Id.

In an action against street railroad by party who drove his automobile in broad daylight upon street car, reversed for determination of material issues of fact. Southern Traction Co. v. Hawkins (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 570.

Where it does not appear that the case has been fully developed as to one issue, it should on reversal be remanded, and judgment should not be rendered on appeal. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Fickie (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 576.

Where a judgment for plaintiff in trespass to try title was reversed upon assignments relating to the admission of evidence, case will be remanded for another trial, instead of entering judgment for defendant in the Court of Civil Appeals. Leal v. Moglia (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1121.

Where justice court had no jurisdiction of action, plaintiff seeking to recover in excess of jurisdictional amount, and cause was appealed to county court, and thence to Court of Civil Appeals, latter will not remand to give plaintiff opportunity to amend to eliminate question of jurisdiction by reducing amount sought. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Patterson (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 691.

Proceedings after remand.—Where an order of the county court dismissing an appeal from the justice was reversed and the cause remanded, the county court on retrial had full jurisdiction to make all proper orders regarding costs. Tevebaugh v. Smith Land & Cattle Co. (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 884.

Where an order dismissing a cause appealed from a justice was reversed on a further appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals and the cause remanded for trial, no further order setting aside the order of dismissal was necessary to reinstate the cause and confine jurisdiction to the county court to try it. Id.

A ruling on evidence on appeal is the law of the case on retrial. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Erwin (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 995.

Where a judgment is reversed for error, and the cause remanded, failure of the trial court to render the ruling of the appellate court is cause for reversal, though appellant may also have a remedy by mandamus. First State Bank & Trust Co. v. Southern Engineering & Construction Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 860.

Allowance of compensation to a guardian ad litem for infant defendants may in part be made after affirmance of judgment on appeal. Simmons v. Arnim (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 184.
Bill of review will lie in district court after judgment of an appellate court and after mandate has been issued for observance, without leave granted by appellate court. Houston E. & W. Ry. Co. v. Cavanaugh (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 642.

Construction and effect of judgment.—An adjudication, in an action to foreclose a vendor's lien notes, of matters between two defendants against each other in their independent cross-actions is not a part of the main suit, but is severable from it and from judgment, so that a reversal as to one of the defendants or as to part of the judgment cannot upthe whole judgment. Swift v. Beemer (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 989.

Where plaintiff sues to recover land and obtains judgment below and continues in possession until the case is reversed, defendant is entitled to recover the reasonable rental value. Neff v. Helmer (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 149.

Under art. 1997, providing that there shall be but one judgment, reversal as to one defendant reverses judgment as to both. Southern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Long (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 421.

If the trial court's judgment was not final, the Court of Civil Appeals did not acquire jurisdiction, and its judgment of affmance is a nullity, and should be set aside. Nunes v. McElroy (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 531.

Reversal held to necessitate another trial, since it does not conclusively appear that the case was fully developed in the court below. Dunlap v. Squires (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 843.

Collateral attack.—A judgment of the Court of Civil Appeals as to which the Supreme Court denied a writ of error cannot be impeached collaterally. Vineyard v. Heard (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 22.

Art. 1627. [1028] Judgment on affirmation or rendition, etc.; damages adjudged, when; finality.

Affirmance of judgment dissolving injunction.—This article does not authorize the assessment of damages on the affirmation of judgment dissolving an injunction restraining a sale under a deed of trust. Hicks v. Murphy (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 925.

Art. 1628. [1024] No reversal for want of form.

1. Prejudice to rights of party as ground of review.—Without a showing of injury from the trial court, the error is harmless. American Surety Co. of New York v. Hardwick (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 804.

Where a substituted trustee seized property under a chattel mortgage which had been fully satisfied, error, committed by the court in an action for conversion of the property, in restricting the powers of the trustee under the mortgage is harmless. John E. Morrison Co. v. Butler (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1185.

Where judgment on a fire policy was only for $500, the fact that a finding that the property destroyed was worth $3,100 was not warranted by the evidence was harmless. Hanover Fire Ins. Co. of New York v. Huff (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 465.

In an action on an award, and also upon the merits of the controversy, where the jury sustained the award, and, independently thereof, found for plaintiff on the merits, the award, and any errors in the arbitration proceedings, became immaterial. Slaughter v. Crisman & Nesbit (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1.

The refusal of the court in an election contest to cast out alleged illegal ballots is harmless, where, if such ballots had been rejected, it would not have affected the result. Hebert v. Scurlock (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 711.

In action to try title, finding by jury that defendant acquired title by limitation rendered errors assigned as to issue of dedication and record title harmless. City of El Paso v. Wiley (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 601.

Under rule 52a of the Court of Civil Appeals (149 S. W. x), prohibiting reversal for harmless error, the Court of Civil Appeals cannot reverse for error from which no substantial injury resulted. Koch v. Noster (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 372.

Error in overruling plea of limitation to certain damages in action for personal injuries did not injure defendant, where instructions did not authorize recovery for such damages, and no such damages were recovered. Southern Traction Co. v. Reagor (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 272.

Where court's conclusion that plaintiff husband was entitled to divorce for cruel treatment was clearly established, assignment of error that another ground of divorce was not properly proved or pleaded is immaterial. Nesbit v. Nesbit (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 405.

Court of Appeals will not reverse for error not reasonably calculated to cause, or which probably did not injure the plaintiff, nor for error in an inferior court, which did not injure plaintiff, nor for error in affording justice. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Williams (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1154.

4. Errors in cases of decisions correct on merits.—Under Court of Civil Appeals Rule 62a (149 S. W. x), an error which is merely technical is not a ground for reversal. Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Voss (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 663.

7. Presumption as to effect of error.—In an action for the price of a traction engine, where the plaintiff's evidence was conclusive, presumption of part of evidence in which case error in excluding defendant's evidence to effect that war-rantly would have been harmless, this court in support of a judgment for plaintiff must indulge the presumption that it was harmless. Clark v. Schaeffer v. Gaar-Scott Co. (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 681.

In the absence of a statement of facts, the Court of Civil Appeals was unable to conclude that error, if any, in admitting certain evidence was harmful. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Dobratz (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 903.

Courts of Civil Appeals rule 62a (149 S. W. x), prohibiting reversals unless the error complained of amounted to such a denial of appellant's rights as probably caused the rendition of an improper judgment, abolished the presumption that injury results from an error, and thus gave to the court a discretion whether the error found on appeal was harmful or not.

Rule that the admission of incompetent evidence is not ground for reversal, where there is competent evidence sufficient to support the judgment, since it will be presumed that the court based its findings only upon the competent evidence, held not to apply. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Dickson Bros. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 33.

It must appear that an erroneous charge made to mislead the jury did not have that effect, or the judgment will be reversed. Wichita Valley Ry. Co. v. Somerville (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 671.

In action for slander, allegations that plaintiff would be debared from honorable employment and excluded from society of respectable people held not objectionable as having been uncertain. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Wilkins (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 429.

10. Technical or formal errors.—An error of 30 cents in a judgment is too trivial an amount to warrant reviewing it. Fatheree v. Fickens (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 947.

In an action against a contractor for materials furnished a subcontractor, defendants were not prejudiced by the failure to join representatives of the subcontractor, as he left no property subject to execution. Wilson v. Sherwin-Williams Paint Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 418.

Where a grocery company sued a bankrupt retail grocer and the executrix of his guarantor on the unsatisfied portion of its claim, the joiner of the debtor, though improper, was not prejudicial to the executrix; judgment having been in favor of the debtor on account of his discharge. Nebbitt v. Cooper Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1182.

Any error in overruling exception to petition, on the ground of the action being against a firm and not its members held harmless, under the circumstances, and in view of Rev. St. 1911, art. 1843, Wright Bros. v. Leonard (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 730.

Though another was improperly joined as defendant, yet judgment having been rendered against defendant alone, and plaintiff not having appealed therefrom improper joinder was not ground for reversal under rule 62a (149 S. W. x), it being presumed the verdict was warranted, there being no statement of facts. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Elias (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 312.

Where the state sued to recover taxes assessed for school purposes for the use of a school district, and district, the proper party and in whose favor alone judgment was rendered cannot be the beneficiary, error, if any, in joining state as plaintiff was harmless. Clark v. State (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 84.

13. Pleading—In general.—Failure to allege in the petition the part of the contract sued on, which limited plaintiff's right of recovery to a certain amount, was harmless to defendant, where, on the entire contract was read in evidence and the court limited plaintiff's recovery to the amount limited in the contract. Northern Irr. Co. v. Dodd (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 946.
The mere failure to plead as required by rule 27 for the district and county courts (149 S. W. xix), if the case is not then tried, will not work a reversal. Texas Co. v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 656.

Where the number of the case in which a judgment was rendered was incorrectly given in an application for garnishment under it, but there was no question as to its identity, the mistake was not reversible error. Citizens’ Bank & Trust Co. v. Rogers (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 268.

In trespass to try title by partnership, sustaining of plea in abatement for misjoinder held harmless as to one of the partners who was permitted to proceed as plaintiff for the recovery of the surveys to which he claimed title. J. D. Fields & Co. v. Allison (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 274.

Where loss was due to initial carrier furnishing improper car, carrier held not prejudiced by exclusion of an allegation of answer that liability should terminate on delivery to connecting carrier. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. J. E. Bryant & Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 815.

Failure to verify petition as required by art. 1829b was not ground for reversal. Order of Capital v. Noble (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 622.

Error, if any, in omitting reference to condition precedent, which would not have affected result, would not justify a reversal of judgment for plaintiff. Just v. Herry (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1012.

Remedial mortgagee erroneously set up the giving of two instead of a single note to secure the debt, the error was immaterial and foreclosure could be had. Bailey v. Culver (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1083.

In an action for breach of contract to buy cattle, allegation of complaint that quantity sold was two cars; a forfeiture for vagueness, held harmless under defendant’s pleadings on the evidence. Houston Packing Co. v. Dunn (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 634.

In an action against a bank for breach of contract, the improper joinder of a tort action against the cashier and bank held prejudicial. First Nat. Bank of Gorman v. Marson (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 1197.

In an action against a telephone company for damages for mental suffering, any defect in the petition in not stating how plaintiff could have gone to the funeral held harmless. Harrison Co. v. Andrews (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 734.

In an injured servant’s action against his employer who had not accepted the Workmen’s Compensation Act, any error in the unnecessary allegation by plaintiff that defendant employed large numbers of employees, and that it was not a subscriber to the act, was harmless. Consumers’ Lignite Co. v. Grant (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 202.

In an action for debt and to foreclose vendor’s lien notes, the answer, setting up failure of consideration, not being verified, and hence not sufficient to prevent the taking of a default judgment, its withdrawal by defendant’s attorney did not injure defendant. Browne v. McGwire (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 470.

In an action for conversion, where plaintiff alleged malice in the seizing of his cattle by the defendant’s officers and agents under a writ of attachment, error in not stating the names of such officers and agents held harmless. First Nat. Bank of Hereford v. Hogan (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 890.

In wife’s suit to set aside decree of divorce fraudulently obtained by husband, allegations of petition, if unnecessary or in the nature of evidentiary facts, held not to require a reversal of judgment for her, in view of rule 62a for Courts of Civil Appeals (149 S. W. x). McConkey v. McConkey (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1100.

In action for damages for breach of contract to sell gravel, overruling an exception on the ground of variance between allegation as to amount to be delivered daily, and contract attached as exhibit to petition showing the amount to be delivered, held harmless, as contract controlled and cured any misdescription in the pleading. Grand Prairie Gravel Co. v. Joe B. Wills Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 680.

Where a petition in suit on a written contract and to foreclose a mechanic’s lien was filed in the district court, and defendant cited in default and judgment by default was rendered, the fact that the petition was addressed to the judge of the county court and filed therein and was later withdrawn to be filed in the district court was not reversible error. Herring v. Herring (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1106.

Defenses or exceptions.—Where the evidence warrants the cancellation of a written contract for the sale of land on the ground of fraudulent representations, ruling of the court on exceptions to the petition because the facts set up a verbal contract for the sale of land at variance with the written contract are immaterial, and error therein is harmless. Surgent v. Harms (Civ. App.) 195 S. W. 566.

The improper overruling of an exception to the petition is harmless, where the issue raised by the part excepted to was not submitted to the jury. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Oliver (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 853.

In an action against a corporation on a note for the price of property, the overruling of an exception to allegations in the petition as to plaintiff’s knowledge of how the corporation’s business was carried on and his belief that the president had authority to execute note in litigation is harmless, even if such allegations were immaterial. Canadian Long Distance Telephone Co. v. Seiber (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 837.

Defendant was not prejudiced by the sustaining of a demurrer to his special answer, where evidence as to the matters embraced therein was admitted under the general issue and submitted to the jury, which found the facts against him. Hill v. Neece (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 314.

The overruling of defendant’s exception to plaintiff’s allegation of a certain item of damage by the increased cost of insurance, due to defendant’s maintaining a nuisance, a planing mill, was not prejudicial, where no evidence was offered on the point and no recovery for such damage was awarded by the jury. Citizens’ Planing Mill Co. v. Turnerall (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 424.

In an action to compel performance of a contract of rental, or in alternative for damages, with cross-claim for cancellation of the contract, damages, and possession, the sustaining of a special exception to the part of the petition seeking a mandatory injunction held immaterial, where the jury found against plaintiff on every issue. Coy v. Rowland (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 14.
Art. 1628

COURTS OF CIVIL APPEALS

(Title 32)

Error in overruling an exception to an immaterial portion of a petition was harmless. Louisiana v. Springs (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1102.

Where, in an action for injuries to a brakeman by defendant's violation of the safety appliance acts, the court submitted all the issues that could arise under the federal or state statutes, which are practically the same, defendant was not prejudiced by the sustaining of an exception pointing to the part of its answer plsning the federal law. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Wagner (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 24.

Error in overruling exceptions to a defense of failure of consideration for a note sued on by a bank for foreclosed real estate, and a judgment in support of such plea, was cured by peremptory withdrawal of such defense from the jury. First Nat. Bank of Iowa City, Iowa, v. Dorsey (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 54.

The error in overruling exceptions to the petition in an action against a railroad company, alleged to have caused an accident by a train, for failure to specify the date of the injury, or identify the train, held not prejudicial, where the company procured the testimony of its engineers running trains on the date of the accident proved by plaintiff. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Clark (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 129.

Error, if any, in overruling defendant's exception to a petition because ambiguous, in that it first declared upon a written contract for lumber sold and delivered, and then that it was delivered at defendant's special instance and request, was harmless, in view of undisputed evidence establishing the written contract declared on. Fink v. San Augustine Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 35.

Courts of Civil Appeals rule 62a. (149 S. W. x) having the effect of abolishing presumption of injury from error, any error in overruling an exception to a general allegation, where the defendant's interference is apparent, was harmless. Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Geary (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 301, judgment reversed (Sup.) 175 S. W. 545.

The facts alleged in the petition being specifically answered by defendant, any error in overruling an exception as not contemplated with Rev. Stat. 1911, art. 3d, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 175, requiring a petition to plead by separate paragraphs, consecutively numbered, each fact going to make up the cause of action and other allegations, was harmless. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Andrews (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 215.

Refusal to sustain a special exception to a portion of plaintiff's original petition seeking damages for particular expenses held harmless, where the verdict showed that none of such items were included. Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. Meadors (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1106.

In action for wrongful attachment, assignment of error complaining of overruling of exception to allegations intended as a basis for exemplary damages held without merit, where no exemplary damages were recovered. Brady-Neely Grocery Co. v. De Poe (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1155.

In action for wrongful attachment, error, if any, in overruling exceptions to allegations that judgment in the attachment action was rendered on a debt not due held cured by defendant's overruling of exception to the fact that the former judgment was res judicata of that issue. 1d.

Where plaintiff sued for breach of contract, and pleaded certain slanderous charges to show malice only, and the court did not submit the issue of slander to the jury as a ground for recovery, the overruling of exceptions for misjoinder of causes of action was not ground for reversal of a judgment for plaintiff. Oklahoma Fire Ins. Co. v. Ross (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1062.

Overruling of exception to paragraph in defendant's answer, held harmless, where the issue raised thereby was not submitted, and no assignment was presented to the admission of any testimony thereon. Williams v. Phelps (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1106.

Error in overruling exceptions to allegations that defendant was not entitled to an instruction that a contract was nonenforceable, error could not be assigned to the overruling of exceptions to allegations of the answer that the contract was invalid. 1d.

The failure to sustain a special exception to a paragraph of the petition is not reversible error, where the paragraph is not material to plaintiff's recovery. Morris v. Brown (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 265.

Error in overruling an exception to a supplemental petition which sought to allege res judicata was harmless, where no evidence was admitted on that issue. First State Bank of Blackwell v. Knox (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 894.

Error in overruling a special exception to a petition for personal injury held harmless, where defendant was not surprised by evidence, and did not complain of the damages. Stephenville, N. & S. T. Ry. Co. v. Wheat (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 974.

Error in overruling exceptions to a portion of a petition on which no relief was granted does not require a reversal of the judgment. Staacke v. Routledge (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 444.

Where appellant was in no way prejudiced by the misjoinder of parties, the overruling of his exception and plea setting up misjoinder was not prejudicial. Western Nat. Bank of Ft. Worth v. Texas Christian University (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 1194.

Error in overruling exceptions to allegations that defendant was not prejudiced by the misjoinder of actions, the overruling of his exception and plea setting up misjoinder was not prejudicial. 1d.

Where issues raised by allegations in a petition to which special exceptions were overruled, were not submitted, and defendant's liability was predicated on other facts, the ruling was immaterial. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Ryon (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 525.

In an action on note, error, if any, in overruling exception to answer, held harmless, where the subsequent pleadings raised such issue and the case was tried thereon. First State Bank of Comanche v. Conner (Civ. App.) 205 S. W. 25.

Defendant cannot complain of court's refusal to rule on a general demurrer, unless it is well taken. City of Brownsville v. Tumlinson (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1107.

In an action for damage to a shipment of bananas, error in overruling a special exception to the petition which insufficienly described the property as to quantity was harmless, where defendant admitted receiving four carloads and in a cross-action its

A judgment will not be reversed merely because the basis of a plaintiff's cause of action first appeared in the supplemental petition. J. I. Case Threshing Mach. Co. v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 180 S. 662. When, though the county court on an appeal from justice court denied a motion to strike out a cause of action not set up in the justice court, when made, the judgment recited that it was sustained, thus indicating that the new cause of action was not considered, the error was cured. McKee v. Beaty (Civ. App.) 181 S. 38. Any error on the ground that the first supplemental petition alleged a new cause of action was immaterial, where the judgment for plaintiff described the land as described in the original petition with an immaterial variance. Howard's Unknown Heirs v. Skoil­ an (Civ. App.) 362 S. 978.

Where defendant's original answer alleged that plaintiff's agent had express authority to make the contract in controversy, any error in permitting defendant at the trial to amend so as to allege that the agent had implied authority, etc., and refusing plaintiff a copy of the new pleadings where the agent stood admitted that he did have express authority. Houston Oil Co. of Texas v. Payne (Civ. App.) 164 S. 886. A change in the district court on appeal from a justice's court of the cause of action is harmless, where no issues brought about by the change were presented to the jury by the court or the evidence (Civ. App. 193 W. 140). That plaintiff styled his amended pleading filed in the county court on appeal from the justice court a "first supplemental petition," instead of an amendment, was immaterial. American Nat. Bank v. Eld (Civ. App.) 174 S. 935.

Error, if any, permitting plaintiff to file a supplemental petition after the jury had 333 been selected and the other pleadings read, was not reversible error, where it was

Refusal to permit defendant to withdraw its announcement of ready, to file a supplemental answer, held harmless, where the answer was actually an amendment, and the court permitted the filing of a trial amendment. City of Brownsville v. Tumlinson (Civ.
App.) 178 S. W. 1107.

Plaintiff held not injured by refusal to permit amendment setting up estopped and offering to do equity, as it made such offer at the trial and introduced all its evidence.

Within Court of Civil Appeals rule 62a (149 S. W. x) against reversal for error in trial, unless probably causing improper judgment, overruling demurrer for want of allegation held harmless, the allegation being in supplemental petition. Merchants & Bank-

Permitting filing of trial amendment after verdict held not prejudicial, where prayer of the amendment was refused. Alamo Trust Co. v. Prudential Life Ins. Co. of Texas
(Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 787.

Where an original cross-bill, with the trial amendments permitted to be filed, contained all material allegations in an offered amendment, an erroneous ruling of the trial court refusing to permit the amendment was harmless. Vaden v. Buck (Civ. App.) 184
S. W. 218.

It was harmless error to overrule an exception to an amended petition because it did not specifically designate the pleading amended by giving the date the same was filed.

16. Striking out or dismissing. — Where the judge who first tried the action dismissed the complaint, failure of the third judge who entertained an amended complaint, substantially the same, to set aside the dismissal was not reversible error, for the rendering of a judgment in favor of the plaintiff was in effect a setting aside of such order; the third judge having entered an interlocutory order was superseded by the order of

17. Interlocutory proceedings. — Refusal of continuance asked for by associate counsel because they were not "fully informed," and the leading counsel were otherwise engaged, cannot be complained of, the pleading and record indicating not only a well-prepared case, but a thorough understanding of the issues by counsel. Bannor v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 192.

In an action on an insurance policy, defendant was not prejudiced by the action of the court in granting a continuance to procure the testimony of a witness to prove a Puett (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 418.

Denial of continuance for absence of witness held not prejudicial to plaintiff, where the absent witness was not produced on a motion for a new trial showed that his testimony would not have been of material benefit to plaintiff. Smith v. Huff (Civ. App.)
164 S. W. 429.

If the court abused its discretion in refusing a nonstatutory application for a continuance, it was not ground for reversal, where the application was based on the absence of a witness, who testified fully on a former trial, which testimony was admitted by agreement, and was to the same effect that the application stated he would testify. Kan-

In a suit on a note, where the judgment, under the circumstances, was binding on a bank not a party, error of the court in declining to continue the case to make the bank a party was immaterial. Finley v. Wakefield (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 755.

Plaintiff's motion to dismiss proceedings against mechanic's liens, where the claim of the debtor's assignee exceeded the amount due from the garnishee. Fos Gas Engine Co. v. Fairview Land & Cattle Co. (Civ. App.) 186
S. W. 382.

Defendant cannot complain of refusal of continuance to take the deposition of an absent physician, where with the consent of plaintiff such physician's written certificate was used before the jury. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Cornelius (Civ. App.)
188 S. W. 54.

Refusal to consider motion to quash attachment was harmless, where motion was Failure to grant defendant continuance where amendment at trial raises new issue, is without prejudice where court's charge does not authorize a finding on such issue. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Hughes (Civ. App.)

192 S. W. 1091.

Action of trial court in overruling motion for continuance to procure cumulative testimony of absent witness does not present such error as should cause reversal of judgment entered against defendant who asked continuance. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Cummins (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 161.

18. Selection and impaneling of jurors. — Where the bill of exceptions did not show that one of several connecting carrier defendants exhausted its peremptory challenges, or that any juror was accepted objectionable to such carrier, it was not prejudiced by the court's refusal to allow each defendant six peremptory challenges. Missouri Pac. Ry.
Co. v. Cheek (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 427.

Where the overruling of a challenge for cause to a juror is assigned as error, and it appears that the juror was removed on peremptory challenge, but it does not appear that the peremptive challenge and his objection to accept an objectionable juror, no prejudice is shown to have resulted from the ruling. Yellow Pine Paper Mill Co. v. Lyons (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 969.

Where an injured servant, on the voir dire examination of a juror connected with an indemnity insurance policy, after ascertaining that the master had no policy with the juror's company, asked further questions, endeavoring to insinuate that the master was protected by such a policy, his conduct was prejudicial, and warrants

The allowance of improper questions upon the voir dire examination of jurors is not, under rule 32a (149 S. W. x), reversible error, where it did not appear that defendant was prejudiced. Cooper v. Jones (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 468.

The refusal to allow a peremptory challenge to the jury, if error, was harmless, where the court took the case from the jury and instructed a verdict. Brown v. City of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 846.

Where plaintiff was entitled to open and close a case, the refusal to permit counsel for interveners to open and close where there was no injury therefrom. Cooper v. Marek (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 58; Abernathy Rigby Co. v. McDougle, Cameron & Webster Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 503.

In an action for personal injuries, error of plaintiff's counsel in asking two jurors, who did not serve on jury, if they represented an insurance company, was harmless, where bill of exceptions fails to show that question was asked in the presence and hearing of persons who afterwards served on jury. Carter-Mullaly Transfer Co. v. Bustos (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 358.

Bills of exception charging error in overruuling challenges to jurors qualified by showing that the challenged jurors did not sit in the case, and that appellant did not object to any other jurors nor ask further challenge, do not show prejudicial error. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. v. Eck (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 391.

Though it was not proper to allow each party six challenges, there was no ground for complaint where each exercised but three challenges. City of San Antonio v. Reed (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 549.

Where assignments of error complain of action of court in not excluding jurors, there by compelling appellant to challenge them, appellant must show that he exhausted his challenges, or was in some way injured by being compelled to exhaust his peremptory challenges. F. & N. State Bank (App.) 192 S. W. 979.

In an action for injuries in a crossing accident, defendant held not prejudiced by the act of the officer in permitting the jury to visit the crossing. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Waits (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 870.

A remark of the trial judge in reference to a matter which was not submitted to the jury, was not prejudicial, and did not justify a reversal under Courts of Civil Appeals rule 62a. Lammers v. Wofertz (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1102.

Where a verdict for plaintiff raised a presumption that the rights of the parties were fixed by a verbal contract of shipment and not a written contract, limiting the carrier's liability, a statement by the trial court, that some of the provisions of the written contract were without consideration, while improper, is harmless. St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co. v. Gilliam & Jackson (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 706.

The refusal of the court to hold an extra session of court when his leading counsel was absent through illness held not apparent. Kirkland v. Rutherford (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1051.

Where rescission of a contract is sought for insanity alone, statement by the court that it was alleged the party was by reason of impaired health and weakness of mind wholly incapacitated was prejudicial error. Smith v. Guerre (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1093.

Under rule 31 for district and county courts (142 S. W. xx), including the provision of art. 2653, held, on the pleadings in an action on a note, the granting to defendants of the right to open and close was reversible error. First State Bank of Amarillo v. Cooper (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 235.

In view of the record and the failure of appellant to show that the award of damages was so excessive as to amount to an error, a remark by the court, which was not error, is harmless. St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co. v. Gilliam & Jackson (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 706.

Where the court's statement in the presence of the jury could not have influenced the jury on issues submitted, there was no reversible error. First Nat. Bank v. Mangum (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 647.

20. Rulings as to evidence in general.—Error in requiring defendants to prove the execution of a receipt offered in evidence by them held harmless, where its execution was readily proved, the genuineness of the signature was admitted, and the court charged that it was prima facie evidence of a payment. Richards v. Osborne (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 359.

Defendant may not complain of the insufficiency of evidence of grounds of negligence, alleged in the petition, other than those which were submitted to the jury. Southern Pac. Co. v. Walker (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 264.

An assignment of error attacking the sufficiency of the evidence with respect to issues not submitted to the jury will be overruled. Bankers' Trust Co. v. Franks (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 692.

Errors in receipt and rejection of evidence in a personal injury action held not reversible, under rule 52a (149 S. W. x) for the Court of Civil Appeals, not being prejudicial in view of other evidence. Missouri, O. & G. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Webb (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 72S.

21. Rulings on questions to witnesses.—Permitting defendant to ask a hypothetical question as to the cause of the condition in which witness found deceased, cannot be complained of, where his answer was not responsive and the facts he stated could not prejudice plaintiffs. Weissner v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 465.

Error in allowing a witness to be improperly cross-examined as to his character held not harmless. Houston Chronicle Pub. Co. v. Tiernan (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 542.
Where the witness had already testified to a fact assumed in question, the assumption is barred. Ferguson v. Bozeman, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. 155 S. W. 641.

In an action for commission for effecting a sale of land, where the evidence as to plaintiff's right to commission was conflicting, the improvidence of allowing leading questions to plaintiff as to defendant's promise cannot be held harmless under rule 62a (149 S. W. 146).

Cross-examination of witness based on contradictory testimony of another witness, while not approved, because presenting the testimony of the impeaching witness to the jury twice, once by deposition, and once orally, held not so prejudicial as to warrant a reversal. Wade v. Prattr (Civ. App.) 177 W. 732.

In an action against a carrier for damages to cattle by delay, failure by the plaintiff to answer questions as to other shipments made by him was not prejudicial error. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Provincia (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 211.

The admission of testimony on cross-examination which tended to contradict inferences to be drawn from the testimony of the same witness on direct examination was not prejudicial error. Id.

In an action for personal injuries, where plaintiff unintentionally obtained information on cross-examination of defendant's witnesses that defendant was insured, error held not reversible. Carter-Mullaly Transfer Co. v. Busto (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 396.

In action for personal injuries, error in permitting physician, witness for plaintiff, to testify that he had testified for certain railroads in similar cases, was not reversible, where defendant had asked witness if plaintiff was going to pay him, and other physicians testified to plaintiff's injuries. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Durrett (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 427.

In action by pedestrian for injuries when struck by railway cars, it was prejudicial to permit plaintiff's brother, who was not a physician, to testify that after the accident plaintiff recovered and was in perfect health. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Sullivan (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 722.

In action against railroads for delay in shipment of live stock, imprropriety in question to plaintiff calling for expression of opinion, held harmless in view of answer. St. Louis Western Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 819.

36. Error cured by instructions to jury.—Harris v. Wagner (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 2.

41. Decisions on motion for new trial or rehearing.—Diamond v. Duncan (Sup.) 177 S. W. 1166; rehearing (Sup.) 177 S. W. 1196; Northcutt v. Hune (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 974; Cunningham v. Gaines (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 148; Peck v. Murphy & Bolanz (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 542; Goodson v. Houston & T. C. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 82.

44. Parties entitled to allege error.—Fawcett v. Mayfield (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 111.

Damages for delay.—Merely because the questions presented by an appeal were not difficult and the appellate court believed that appellant's counsel did not have confidence in some defense, assignment of error is erroneous, and any errors of exaustion, Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Pitkin (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 1025.

Damages will not be awarded to the defendant in error on the ground that the writ of error was not served, who failed to answer, in an action to foreclose a creditor's lien note, assigned as error the failure of the petition to properly allege that the plaintiff had exercised his option to declare the note due. Shearer v. Chambers County (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 999.

This article does not authorize the court to award damages on an appeal by plaintiff from a judgment dissolving a temporary injunction obtained by him. Hicks v. Murphy (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 925.

Damages for the taking of an appeal for delay will not be awarded, unless it appears that there was absolutely no just cause for the appeal. W. A. Leyhe Piano Co. v. American Multigraph Sales Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 494.

Ground of appeal, that petition of payee of notes should allege it is the owner and holder thereof, and the damages, as for appeal for delay. Bryan v. Wharton Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 827.

Where a writ of error was taken solely for delay and without sufficient cause, a judgment of affirmance for want of prosecution should include as damages 10 per cent. on the amount of the original judgment. Houston Transp. Co. v. Allien (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1055.

Where the question raised by appellant was so well settled that there was no reasonable ground for the appeal, the court, believing it brought for delay, in affirming would assess the appellant 10 per cent. damages. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Erwin (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 662.

Under this article and Court of Appeals rule 43 (142 S. W. xiv), plaintiff in error not appearing, and a case of delay being suggested, and appearing from the record, judgment will be affirmed, with 10 per cent. damages. First Texas State Ins. Co. v. Pipe (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 278.

Under this article, where judgment was rendered November 10, 1914, writ of error sued out and superseded bond filed April 30, 1915, and record filed August 6, 1915, there being no statement and the record containing no assignments of error, etc., judgment will be affirmed, with damages. Matthews v. Mitchell Bros. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 256.

Under this article damages will not be allowed unless grounds of alleged error are so frivolous that there could have been no reasonable expectation of reversal. Common-wealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Hendricks (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 639.

Art. 1630. [1024] Remittitur.

Where the verdict is wholly based on a void oral contract, a remittitur of a part will not cure the error therein. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. West Bros. (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 142.

Where the evidence on appeal from justice court authorized a verdict for the wages sued for, judgment allowing attorney's fees under art. 2175, and punitive damages without evidence of fraud or wrong, would be allowed, remittitur of punitive damages. Trinity County Lumber Co. v. Conner (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 911.

Where a verdict allows an excessive amount for medical attendance, the error may be cured by plaintiff's filing a remittitur so as to conform the amount to that supported by the evidence. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Winkler (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 691.

Where the charge on measure of damages was incorrect, a remittitur of the amount of judgment for the repairs will be accepted. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. McMeans (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 692.
Costs.—Where, after appeal, appellee remitted damages improperly awarded, the judgment under art. 1631, 2014, will be affirmed, though the costs will be taxed against the appellee. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Boyce ( Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1094.

Art. 1631. [1029a] Suggestion of remittitur.

Directing remittitur in general.—Where verdict for defendant on plea of reconvention showed that jury allowed part of a claim which should not have been submitted, held, that the judgment would be reversed unless the entire amount of such claim was remitted. Gillispie v. Ambrose ( Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 937.

Where, though the verdict is for the proper party, it is excessive, the judgment will be reversed, unless a remittitur be entered. J. H. W. Steele Co. v. Dover ( Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 893.

In an action for libel, error in submitting elements of special damages was harmless, where the appellate court required plaintiff to file a remittitur before affirmance. Houston Chronicle Pub. Co. v. Wegner ( Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 45.

On error by the trial court, probably or possibly causing rendition of an excessive verdict, when it is impossible for appellate court to mathematically determine the excess erroneously found, this article does not apply, and the entire judgment will be reversed, and the cause remanded for another trial. Id.

When it can be determined by the appellate court what excessive amount has been found by the jury by reason of an erroneous instruction, the court is authorized to cure such error by requiring a remittitur. Id.

Under this article, where judgment should be reversed only for excessive verdict, in action for personal injuries, Court of Civil Appeals improperly reversed and remanded the case on ground alone that verdict was excessive. Wilson v. Freeman ( Sup.) 185 S. W. 983.

Where the facts are undisputed, held, that error in rendering judgment for an excessive amount may be corrected by Court of Civil Appeals without new trial. Barton v. McGuire ( Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 317.

In action for delay in shipment of live stock that verdict is excessive to extent of improvement in selling appearance of cattle on sale, over Wednesday the day when they arrived, at most only required a remittitur. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White ( Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 519.

Amount of recovery indicating passion or prejudice.—Under this article Court of Civil Appeals held not precluded from reversing and remanding for excessive verdict, without indicating excess and allowing a remittitur, where amount was so grossly excessive as to show it was the result of passion and prejudice. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Craighead ( Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1199, denying rehearing 175 S. W. 453.

Where in a personal injury action argument of plaintiff's counsel was prejudicially erroneous and the verdict of the jury was large, the Court of Civil Appeals cannot, under this article, determine the amount of the excess and allow a remittitur. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Rasmussen ( Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 212.

Trivial excess.—The excess of $1.50 in judgment for $578.50 in a suit on a fire policy for $500, because of excessive allowance of interest, held too trivial to call for remittitur. Fidelity Phenix Fire Ins. Co. v. Sadau ( Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 559.

In action for delay in shipment of live stock, error in verdict in that it left undetermined only question of 35 cents per hundredweight on 470 pounds, due to decline in market from Tuesday to Thursday, was too small to even require a remittitur. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White ( Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 519.

Recalling mandate to amend judgment.—An appellant prevailing on appeal has 30 days after filing record to ask certiorari to correct it so that on a motion to relax costs after that time, in effect a motion for certiorari to correct judgment, court will not recall its mandate and amend judgment. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Montgomery ( Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 559.

CHAPTER TEN

CONCLUSIONS OF FACT AND LAW

Art. 1635. Conclusions of law and fact to be filed, when.
1636. Supplemental findings, motion for refusal assignable as error.

Art. 1636. [1039] Conclusions of fact and law to be filed, when.

Construction and application.—Art. 1639, when considered in connection with this article, does not require the Courts of Civil Appeals to file written opinions in affirmed cases, of which the Supreme Court has no jurisdiction of an application for writ of error. Pink v. San Augustine Grocery Co. ( Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 35.

Conclusions of fact and law.—The Supreme Court will not entertain a case on writ of error to a Court of Civil Appeals, where it has not made a statement of the facts, but refers to the opinion of the Court of Civil Appeals of another district. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Alexander, 106 Tex. 518, 172 S. W. 709, affirming judgment ( Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 135.
The Court of Civil Appeals will not answer questions in seriatim as a jury is required to do in a special verdict. National Ry. of Mexico v. Ligarde (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1140.

The Court of Appeals cannot, on the preponderance of evidence, make a finding of fact on an issue not passed on by the trial court. Nalle & Co. v. Costley (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 628.

Where there is evidence to support a finding that will support the judgment below and submission of the issue to the jury was not requested, the Court of Appeals must make its own finding. Petty v. City of San Antonio (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 234.

An oversight of undisputed facts by the Court of Civil Appeals does not constitute prejudicial error, since the Supreme Court may consider such facts without a finding as to the same. Cattleman's Trust Co. of Ft. Worth v. Turner (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 438.

A question of fact by Court of Civil Appeals that intestate was engaged in interstate commerce at time of injury is binding upon this court, in absence of evidence to contrary. Geer v. St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co. (Sup.) 194 S. W. 593.

Opinion.—Where plaintiff's supplementary petition contained a general demurrer to defendant's answer, to the overruling of which plaintiff excepted, the opinion of the Court of Civil Appeals on appeal by the defendant from a judgment against him, where no cross-appeal was taken by plaintiff, need not state that the demurrer was filed and overruled. Sanger v. First Nat. Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1087.

Art. 1638. Supplemental findings, motion for; refusal assignable as error.

Additional findings.—It is not the duty of the Court of Civil Appeals, on a motion for additional findings of fact, to find facts that are undisputed, or recite evidence which may conflict with findings made. Order of United Commercial Travelers of America v. Roth (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 176.

Art. 1639. Court shall decide all issues of fact or law, and announce conclusions.

1. Scope of review in general.—The question as to the right of plaintiff to foreclose an instrument will not be reviewed, where the issue was not raised by the pleadings. Allen v. Allen (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1049.

A writ of error did not bring the case up as to defendants who were not complaining, and whose title was not connected with that of defendants in error, where defendants in error upon another trial would not be entitled to a judgment against such other defendants or no judgment on retrial could be less onerous on defendants in error if the other defendants were continued as parties. State v. Dayton Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 48.

An objection to the validity of a deed which was not raised in the pleadings, nor in any manner brought to the attention of the trial court, cannot be urged for the first time on appeal. Cooper v. Marek (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 58.

The Court of Civil Appeals is not required to rule specifically on each assignment of error, especially where the appellant makes no request for such rulings. Sanger v. First Nat. Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1087.

On an appeal by plaintiff from a judgment on a verdict directed for defendant, the plaintiff's evidence must be taken as true. Dawson v. King (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 257.

Under this article, and in view of rule 101 for district and county courts (159 S. W. 11), defendants in trespass to try title, who failed to file any cross-assignments of error on appeal, were in no position to complain of court's charge and its refusal to charge. Hume v. Carpenter (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 707.

2. Matters considered in determining question.—Opinion evidence on a subject not requiring expert testimony, the admission of which was held harmless, could not be impeached on the supreme court in passing on the evidence. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Carter (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 115.

In determining the propriety of the overruling of defendant's general demurrer, the evidence cannot be considered. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Owens (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 412.

The evidence offered in support of a pleading after a demurrer thereto has been overruled cannot be looked to by an appellate court to test the sufficiency of the pleading. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Graham (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 55.

Facts in evidence, not pleaded, cannot be considered. Murray Co. v. Deal (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 718.

On appeal, the pleadings of both parties may be considered in determining their sufficiency to support the judgment rendered. Webb v. Wessell (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 396.

Where the court improperly admitted a statement of facts on a former appeal to prove the testimony on former trial of a deceased witness, the appellate court will consider such testimony in determining whether the verdict was against the evidence. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Williams (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 701.

3. Questions considered.—The court reversing a judgment will not pass on a question which will not arise on a subsequent trial. Pearce v. Heyman (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 242.

An improper adjudication of costs is substantive error affecting the principal judgment, and is not merely a collateral matter, to be determined independently of the litigation in which the judgment is rendered. Nall v. Wolfe City Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1166.

Whether plaintiff in trespass to try title can recover by showing estoppel where an affirmative answer is interposed, need not be considered, where the jury found that there was no estoppel. Penn v. Briscoe County (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 916.

Where the jury, in trespass to try title, made no finding on the issue of five years' limitation, assignments raising that question were immaterial. Glover v. Pfeuffer (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 984.
Where the trial court sustained a general demurrer and also special exceptions to the petition, the appellate court reverses the judgment on the demurrer, it need not consider the rulings on the exceptions. Moody v. Chesser (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 917.

Where appellee's brief concedes reversible errors pointed out in appellant's brief, the court will reverse and remand without passing in detail on the assignments. Floyd v. Floyd (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 715.

An appellate court has no authority to consider the excessiveness of the verdict, if no complaint is made thereof by the party affected. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Jones (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 689.

It is the policy of appellate courts to consider whether contracts between carriers and others are void as tending to stifle competition and work undue discrimination, whether presented in the trial or appellate court. Stephenson v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 588.

Where a judgment must be reversed in any event, an appellate court will not itself undertake to estimate the amount of excess damages in the judgment. Donada v. Power (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 783.

In view of the finding of the jury that a defendant was chargeable with notice of the true character of a deed under which his grantor held title, the admission of testimony tending to show that he did not have notice or the refusal of a special instruction on this issue is immaterial, and will not be considered. Harris v. Hamilton (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 469.

Since property taken by condemnation may be used for the purposes for which it was taken only, and the owners may use it until needed for that purpose, it is immaterial whether the contract for condemnation proceeds as another condemnation or as an easement. Lawson v. Port Arthur Canal & Dock Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 600.

In action against initial and connecting carriers of live stock, where judgment was in favor of connecting road, and no complaint made, admissibility of testimony of plaintiff that his written contract, limiting initial carrier's liability for damages to injuries sustained on own line, became immaterial and unnecessary to be decided. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Gatewood (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 932.

Where reversal is necessitated by other error, the court on appeal need not consider alleged error in giving undue emphasis to a certain issue, which error can easily be remedied on the new trial. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Yantis (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 969.

Where a judgment in an action for damages was reversed on other grounds, the question of the inadequacy of the damages need not be determined. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Daniel (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 286.

An appellate court will not decide questions unnecessary to the affirmation, reversal, or rendition of a judgment. Uhr v. Lambert (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 946.

Where judgment was reversed on the other grounds, assignments of error attacking the sufficiency of evidence will not be discussed. San Antonio Portland Cement Co. v. Gschwender (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 599.

Where appellants are the record owners of real estate, it is unnecessary to pass upon their claim by adverse possession. W. T. Carter & Bro. v. Collins (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 316.

In action against part owner by abandoned wife of other owner for fraudulently securing the entire ownership, it is unnecessary to decide whether plaintiff wife could maintain the action where her allegations are insufficient to establish fraud. Baugh v. Houston (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 242.

Where a defendant surety was discharged by extension of a note without his consent, it is unnecessary to decide whether plaintiff wife could maintain the action where her allegations are insufficient to establish fraud. Crump, Gius v. (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 465.

In stockholder's suit, where decree expressly denied plaintiffs any relief by way of enjoining corporation from acquiring property in California, proposition that so much of petition as sought such injunction was fatally defective presented an academic question. Southern Portland Cement Co. v. Latta & Harper (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1118.

In an action to establish the boundary of plaintiff's land with reference to a public road, where all the parties and the court treated a particular corner as the beginning corner of the survey, a judgment based on that theory will be affirmed in the absence of error of law. Penn v. Brazos County (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 916.

Judgment cannot be sustained on appeal on a theory which was not submitted to the jury. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Walker (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1035.

A judgment for plaintiff predicated solely on an unconstitutional statute cannot be sustained on the theory that the petition showed a common-law right of recovery. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. King (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 335.

The Court of Civil Appeals will affirm the correct judgment below on special exception to the petition, though the trial court assigned the wrong reason therefor. Dublin Fruit Co. v. Neely (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 406.

Where plaintiff in separate counts urged defendant's liability on the theories of agency and of partnership, whether the evidence sustained the finding as to partnership, was immaterial, where it did sustain the finding as to agency. Daggett v. Avis Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 20.

A judgment which can be supported by any reasonable theory as to the evidence must be affirmed, where there are no conclusions of fact and law. Coker v. Mott (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 747.
Where cause was tried by jury, and judgment is sustained by pleadings and proof, it should be affirmed by appellate court, though trial court gave erroneous reasons therefor. Halliburton v. Badger (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 781.

In trespass to try title, judgment for plaintiff who derived title from the state will be affirmed, although the trial court based its decision upon an erroneous ground. Van Zandt v. George (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 885.

The fact that several reasons are given by the court for the verdict rendered, and that some of them are not supported by the record, will not render the judgment bad if it can be sustained by other reasons given. Calvin v. Neel (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 791.

Where the court's failure to instruct plaintiff's counsel upon which of two theories court based judgment, decision will be affirmed where there is sufficient evidence to support it. Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Cavanaugh (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 642.

5. Appeals—Where the evidence is without conflict, the Court of Civil Appeals may render the proper judgment, but where there is any conflict on a material issue, it may not substitute its findings for those of the trial court. Post v. State, 106 Tex. 600, 171 S. W. 707, reversing judgment State v. Post (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 401.

6. Issues determined on prior appeal.—A decision of the Court of Appeals that the evidence was not sufficient to show that the railroad agent had miscarried a shipment is the law of the case on a subsequent appeal, where the evidence at the second trial was substantially the same as at the first. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. True Bros. (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 182.

A refusal to try title, a holding on appeal that the evidence was sufficient to support a verdict for plaintiff did not prevent a holding on a subsequent appeal that the evidence on that trial was sufficient to support a finding that defendants had title by limitation. Morning Star & Western Ry. v. Petrey (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 302.

Assignments of error determined on a former appeal adversely to appellant taking a second appeal will be overruled. Harris v. Wagoner (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 2.

Where, on appeal, the court held that the plaintiff had not submitted to the jury the issue of the existence of a subsequent appeal in the same case, where the facts and issues are practically the same. Coca-Cola Co. v. Williams (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1032.

A decision on a former appeal of a case is the law of the case on a subsequent appeal. Kelley v. Fain (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 869.

The holding on appeal that a general allegation of negligence in the petition is permissible, is the law of the case on a subsequent appeal. Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Geary (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 291, judgment reversed (Sup.) 172 S. W. 545.

Although on a prior appeal, a question was decided on review of the court's action in sustaining demurrers to the petition, the decision will not be disturbed on appeal from a judgment on trial of the issues, where the evidence did not differ materially from the allegations of the petition. Southwestern Surety Ins. Co. v. Stein Double Cushion Tire Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1165.

Decision of question on former appeal is not res judicata, preventing review of same question on subsequent appeal; subsequent review being in the discretion of the court. Houston Oil Co. v. Davis (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 881.

Contention that award of punitive damages is excessive should not be sustained, a greater amount having, on a prior appeal, been held not excessive. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1095.

The holding on appeal of the Court of Civil Appeals in a former appeal in the same case which was upheld by the Supreme Court becomes the law of the case. Hines v. Meador (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1111.

The Court of Civil Appeals has in a previous decision in same case passed upon identical question now before it, even if it was dictum, and appellant having urged upon Supreme Court identical question on motion for writ of error which was refused, judgment will be affirmed. Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Cavanaugh (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 643.

Unless very clearly erroneous, rulings made upon a former appeal should be deemed the law of the case in all subsequent proceedings. First Nat. Bank v. Mangum (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 647.

7. Issues not passed on by court or jury.—An assignment that the court erred in overruling a motion to suppress the deposition of a witness would not be reviewed, where the record did not show that the motion was called to the attention of or ruled on by the trial court. Sanders v. Dunn (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 1041.

Where the trial court made no ruling, the point is not reviewable on appeal. Hicks v. Murphy (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 925.

Where there is a total failure to state a cause of action, or of some fact essential to it, the defect may be taken advantage of on appeal, though defendant's general demurrer has not been ruled on by the trial court. City of San Antonio v. Bodeman (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1043.

An assignment to the overruling of a plea setting up the pendency of a suit in another county on the same cause cannot be sustained, where it does not appear that any action was taken by the trial court on the plea, and the transcript does not show any exception with relation thereto. United Benevolent Ass'n of Texas v. Lawson (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 713.

Where the appeal record fails to show any ruling on the pleadings, error in alleged rulings thereon will not be reviewed, except where the petition is fatally defective. Savage v. Mowery (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 905.

Where neither the appellate's statement under an assignment nor the record shows that any portion of his petition the assignment of error to the sustaining of an exception thereto need not be considered. City of Ft. Worth v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 976.

Error in overruling special demurrer cannot be considered where record fails to show any demurrer presented or acted upon or exceptions taken. Allen v. Reed (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 544.

Assignments of error complaining of the court's overruling of exceptions cannot be considered where the record did not show that the court made any ruling. Oliver v. Oliver (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 705.

Where material error has been committed and the jury has decided the issues submitted contrary to the testimony, the appellate court cannot affirm the judgment because there is no showing that a finding of factual agent to re-lease the mortgage, so as to stop plaintiff from claiming full payment, the question will not be considered on appeal. Lee v. Clay Robinson & Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1061.

In an action for trespass to try title and for damages for cutting timber, where no question of ownership or value cut are submitted to the jury, the issues on appeal will be treated as having been waived. Moore v. Reid (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 345.

Where pleas of misjoinder, in the form of special exceptions, were not acted upon by the court, they will be regarded by the appellate court as having been waived. Baber v. Galbraith (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 345.

There is nothing to consider under an assignment of complaining of failure to sustain a demurrer, the record not showing the demurrer was presented to or acted on by the court. Anderson v. Gammon (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 789.

In landowner's suit against city, for price of land sold for reservoir and to foreclose implied lien, where general demurrer to petition, which did not affirmatively show that no provision had been made by city to provide for payment of the debt, as required by Const. art. 11, §§ 22, 23, as not called attention of, or submitted to court below, demurrer was waived. City of Ft. Worth v. Reynolds (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 501.

8. Review of facts—Power and duty to review.—In the absence of any findings of fact or conclusions of law by the trial court, the Court of Civil Appeals must look to the record to see if under the pleadings, there is evidence to sustain the judgment entered by the trial court. Lofland v. McGrew (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 493.

The appellate court may set aside verdict and award new trial when the evidence is of that force and character as to make such action necessary and proper. St. Louis, Iron & R. R. Co. v. Texas v. Sterling (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 605.

It is the duty of a Court of Civil Appeals to sustain the jury's verdict and the judgment below when it can be done upon a reasonable interpretation of the findings and facts. Lofland v. Greenwood (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 517.

Where in a case where original jury re-ceived material communications, the exact character of which was unknown to the appellants, the court, on appeal, could not follow the order, since review would necessarily be based on speculation. Crosby v. Stevens (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 765.

On appeal, verdict for contestant and judgment of nonsuit, the court is not to determine whether a verdict for contestant should be permitted to stand, but, whether the evidence was sufficient to require a submission of issue of undue influence to jury. Rounds v. Coleman (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1066.

Whether operation of interurban electric cars imposes an additional servitude on the street, not contemplated in its dedication, is a question of law and decision thereof, not conclusive, but reviewable. Galveston-Houston Electric Ry. Co. v. Jewish Literary Society (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 324.

Upon appeal, the evidence should be considered as a whole in determining whether a verdict was justified. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Harp (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 438.

The appellate court cannot look to the evidence, unless it is uncontradicted, to see what jury ought to have found in order to determine what they did find, but when a verdict is apparently not supported, it may look at it in facts necessary to be considered. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 770.

9. Extent of review in general.—The appellate court must reject all evidence favorable to appellant and consider only the facts tending to sustain the verdict, and if the verdict has been given in an honest and impartial effort to reach the truth, cannot set it aside. Farmers' and Merchants' Gin Co. v. Simmons (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 621.

In reviewing a verdict for plaintiff for negligence, all evidence tending to show he was guilty of contributory negligence must be given the construction most favorable to him. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Alcorn (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 833.

10. Number of witnesses.—A verdict on conflicting evidence will not be disturbed merely because it is contrary to the testimony of the greater number of the witnesses. Waterman Lumber Co. v. Shaw (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 137.

The jury's verdict was supported by evidence that arbitrators held considered the merits of defendant's claim for damages, though opposed to the testimony of two of the three arbitrators, could not be interfered with on appeal. Slaughter v. Crisman & Nesbit (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1.

The mere fact that more witnesses gave evidence on one side than on the other does not authorize the Court of Civil Appeals to disturb a jury's finding. Koch v. Noster (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 372.

The Court of Civil Appeals will not set aside a judgment rendered by the lower court simply on a matter of a preponderance of evidence, which is not the number of witnesses, but the weight and value that is given to the evidence by the jury or by the trial court. Andrews v. Fuller (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 275.

The Supreme Court will not determine the credibility of witnesses or the weight of their testimony. Shaw v. Faires (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 501.

Damages awarded for personal injuries, authorized if plaintiff's testimony and that of his physicians is true, cannot be disturbed. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Dickens (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 835.

The weight of the testimony and the credibility of the witnesses is exclusively for the jury, and the appellate court will not set aside their findings where the evidence is reasonably sufficient to support it. Farmers' & Merchants' Gin Co. v. Simmons (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 621.

A verdict on conflicting testimony justifying a verdict either way, according to which witnesses are believed, will not be disturbed on appeal. Thomas v. Abbott (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 19.

In suit on policy defended on the ground of nonliability because of failure to pay assessments, the credibility of the witnesses and the weight to be given their conflicting testimony was for the jury, and its verdict could not be disturbed. Modern Woodmen of America v. Yanowski (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 728.

The fact that the trial judge accepted testimony of defendant alone against that of plaintiff and his witnesses is not ground for a reversal. Coker v. Mott (Civ. App.) 190 S. 76, 747.

Credibility of testimony of defendant's alleged agent as to existence of agency and authority of witness, held question for jury, not for appellate court to determine. Alamo Live Stock Commission Co. v. Helmer (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 591.

Where the appellate court is unable to say that the jury were wrong, the verdict will not be disturbed. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Texas v. Leabo (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 382; Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Cunningham (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 428.

The Court of Appeals can only interfere with a verdict where there is no evidence to support it, or where the evidence is insufficient to support it, or where the evidence is conflicting but the verdict is manifestly unjust and against the weight of the evidence. Slaughter v. Crisman & Neabat (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1.

On the question of contributory negligence in a railroad employe's action for personal injuries under the federal Employers' Liability Act, the Appellate Court will only examine the evidence to determine whether there was any evidence from which the jury could reasonably have found a verdict for plaintiff. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Texas v. Rents (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 959.

Where the issues of negligence and contributory negligence were fully and fairly submitted, and it could not be said that the jury's findings in relation thereto were without substantial evidence to support them, the appellate court was not warranted in disturbing the verdict. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Evans (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 702.

Where there was evidence to support the findings on the controlling issues, the verdict cannot be disturbed, although the evidence was not conclusive. W. A. Leyhe Piano Co. v. American Multigraph Sales Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 494.

A verdict supported by substantial evidence will not be disturbed. Southern Traction Co. v. Hartnett (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 551.

In suit upon an oral lease of pasture land for six months, where defendant denied the contract pleaded, the verdict for defendant will not be disturbed by reason of defendant's admission that he had put cattle in the pasture, and that he owed pasturage for same. Whiley v. Barrow (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1154.

Mere preponderance of evidence against a finding will not, under the rules, authorize a reversal, but where the statement of facts shows that the preponderance of the evidence is such as to indicate that the jury have not been governed thereby, appellate court will reverse the judgment. Eureka Ice v. Bucklo (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 110.

The finding of the jury as to the reasonable value of an attorney's fees in partition... suit cannot be disturbed on appeal, though differing greatly from defendants' opinion of the case, v. Hallam (Civ. App.) 131 S. W. 158.

Assignment of error that court erred in rendering judgment for defendant by reason of jury finding that defendant violated federal Safety Appliance Act cannot be sustained where there is neither pleading nor evidence of such violation. McIntosh v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 358.

In passing upon whether there is sufficient evidence to sustain a verdict, the appellate court must reject all evidence favorable to the defendant, and consider only that favorable to the plaintiff, in which case, if the verdict is true, it cannot be set aside. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Decatur Cotton Seed Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 322.

The verdict of the jury finding that a settlement of a claim, under an accident insurance policy, was procured by fraud, will not be disturbed, however, if the evidence, when considered in the light of suspicious circumstances of the character to induce belief that artifice has been practiced or that confidence has been abused. North American Accident Ins. Co. v. Miller (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 780.

Where the case was left to the trial judge under an agreement that he should instruct the jury, the appellate court must find the facts to uphold the judgment if there is any evidence to support such a finding, even though it might itself have decided the facts otherwise. Central Bank & Trust Co. of Houston v. Hill (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1099.

Verdict for plaintiff, in an action to reform a policy by inserting his name as mortgagee, was sustained, the court held, for the payee, brought on the ground of mistake in writing the policy, in which the evidence was required to be clear and convincing, will not be rejected on appeal merely because the reviewing court would have found otherwise on the question of the credibility of the witnesses. Western Assur. Co. v. Hillyer-Deutsch-Jarratt Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 818.

If finding by the jury on questions of fact are binding on the appellate court, though there is evidence to the contrary. Earhart v. Agnew (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1140; Old River Rice Irr. Co. v. Stubbs (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 28; Stark v. Brown (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 118.

A verdict establishing the location of a boundary line on conflicting evidence will not be set aside. Clemmons v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 1103; Stewart v. Williams (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 761.

To direct a verdict for defendant, the court will determine whether the evidence of plaintiff sustains the verdict for him, and, if so, will not consider the conflicting evidence. Lisle-Dunning Const. Co. v. McCall (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 818.

On appeal from a judgment for plaintiff the Court of Civil Appeals in deference to the verdict must take plaintiff's testimony as true. Wick v. McLennan (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 847.

It is no objection to answers of the jury on conflicting evidence that it apparently gave no credit to witnesses of appellee than those of appellant. Walter v. Rowland (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 981.
On review of evidence to support a verdict for plaintiff in deference to verdict, evidence not favorable to plaintiff must be accepted as true. Swearingen v. Swearingen (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 442.

17. Deposition evidence. Where the testimony of a witness was by deposition, the finding of the jury on the issue, as to which his was the only evidence, was not entitled to the conclusive force it otherwise might have been. State Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Long (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 778.

In trespass to try title where defendants claimed constructive possession of the entire tract, a finding that they had possession of only 23% acres held not so palpably against the evidence as to authorize the appellate court in setting it aside. Dupont v. Texas & N. O. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 196.

Where there is more than a scintilla of evidence, the appellate court cannot determine that a verdict would be so against the weight of evidence as to require it to be set aside. Jones v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 125.

An implied finding depending on the giving of credit to plaintiff's testimony, rather than to that of two others, as to how he was walking at the time of the accident, cannot be said to be so against the great weight of the evidence as to be manifestly wrong. Texas & N. O. Ry. Co. v. Bieswert (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 629.

In an action to determine boundaries, the jury are the judges of the weight of the testimony. Thatcher v. Matthews (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 810.

In action to recover money on oral contract, where testimony of parties is in direct conflict, and neither is corroborated by other witnesses or circumstances, verdict will not be set aside as contrary to weight of evidence. Chapman v. Witherspoon (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 281.

That the amount of a verdict is against the preponderance of the evidence does not authorize the appellate court to set it aside as excessive. Houston Belt & Terminal Ry. Co. v. Lee (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 392; Kanaman v. Hubbard (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 304.

The judgment of an impartial jury on the measure of damages for physical and mental suffering must be accepted. Yellow Pine Paper Mill Co. v. Lyons (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 925.

Where a verdict for physical and mental suffering is so large as to indicate that it was not the judgment of an impartial jury, but was based upon prejudice, the court should not hesitate to correct the verdict. Id.

The right to interfere with a verdict on the ground that excessive damages are awarded is controlled by the rules governing the right to disturb any other issue of fact found by the jury. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Coleman (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 685.

The evidence to the character and permanency of plaintiff's injuries being convincing and sufficient to justify the conclusion that they were serious and permanent, a verdict for $5,000 would not be set aside on appeal as excessive. Missouri, O. & G. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Love (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 925.

Unless a verdict is manifestly unjust, inadequate, or contrary to the evidence, it cannot be disturbed. Shaw v. Garrison (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 942.

Where a railroad and its employé were engaged in interstate commerce when the latter was injured, and the jury found the amount to which the employé's negligence contributed to his injuries, which was deducted from his damages by the court, the issue of contributory negligence is disposed of. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Finke (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1143.

20. Approval of verdict by trial court. Where the trial court has sustained a verdict based on conflicting evidence, it will not be disturbed on appeal. Scott v. Northern Texas Traction Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 209; Texas Central Ry. Co. v. Rose (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 756.

21. Successive verdicts. In an action for damages for failure of the seller to properly set up gin machinery, where the juries in three trials found that plaintiff was entitled to credits the trial court afforded, the appellate court on a third appeal will not set aside the verdict. Murray Gin Co. v. Putman (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 806.

Courts of Civil Appeals

Art. 1639

Where newspaper market quotations were offered in evidence to prove the market value of cattle in a city upon a certain date, an issue of fact for determination by the trial court was made as to whether the quotations were credible. Houston Packing Co. v. Griffith (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 431.

Mere conclusions or inferences from facts which are not findings of fact upon conflicting evidence as contemplated by statute will not be approved. Cattlemens' Trust Co. of Texas v. Turner (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 458.

Findings not being attacked, the evidence will not be looked to, on appeal, to give them other than their apparent meaning. Hamlin v. J. M. Radford Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 716.

In action against corporation as maker of notes, where issue as to authority of its officers was not submitted to jury, and no request for submission made, a finding of court that such authority existed, necessarily included in the judgment, must be sustained; if there is any evidence to support it. Galveston-Houston Interurban Land Co. v. Dow (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 353.

In determining whether the trial court erred in finding a fact, the evidence must be viewed in the light most favorable to the appellee. Clemenger v. Flesher (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 394; Rudolph v. Blome Co. v. Herd (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 53.

In an action tried by the court, where unreasonable delay in transportation of live stock is not so clearly shown that reasonable minds would not differ therein, the finding will not be disturbed. Blackwell v. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 52.

Where title to land is claimed by adverse possession, and there is no evidence but fact of possession, and an admission to effect that possession was in subordination to claim of owner, a finding that possession was not adverse must be upheld on appeal. Nerio v. Christen (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1038.

In determining whether finding of fact is supported by evidence erroneously excluded cannot be considered, since trial court might have reached same conclusion with evidence admitted. Richards v. Hartley (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 478.

26. Findings of court against weight of evidence.—The Court of Civil Appeals is not authorized to set aside the judgment of a trial court merely because it is apparently against the weight and preponderance of the evidence, but in order to do this the judgment must be so manifestly against the weight and preponderance of the evidence as to be clearly wrong. Edwards v. Youngblood (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1164; Holbrook v. Thornton (Civ. App.) 106 S. W. 7; American Surety Co. of New York v. Hightock (Civ. App.) 136 S. W. 804; Galveston-Houston Electric Ry. Co. v. Jewish Literary Society (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 324; Evans v. Williams (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 181.

27. Amount of recovery in court's findings.—Where the finding of the value of an automobile, struck by a train, was sustained by evidence, the finding would not be disturbed as excess. Galveston, H. & H. R. Co. v. Copley (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 569; Thunder v. Herman (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 587; Hazle v. Naranjo (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 316.
CHAPTER ELEVEN

REHEARING

Article 1641. [1030] Motion for rehearing; requisites and notice of.

Rehearing in general.—The Court of Civil Appeals cannot consider facts stated in the motion for rehearing, but not shown by the record. Kerbow v. Woodbridge (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 746; Houston Ice & Brewing Co. v. Clint (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 405.

The Court of Civil Appeals will overrule a motion for rehearing after awaiting a decision of the Supreme Court in another case for a long time, if satisfied of the correctness of its original opinion, though the Supreme Court has not delivered an opinion. Spiller v. Hollinger (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 175, denying rehearing 148 S. W. 338.

Where the fact that appellant had become a bankrupt was not shown by the record, it could not be considered on an application for rehearing. Gordon Jones Const. Co. v. Lopez (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 897.

The reformation of a judgment by the Court of Civil Appeals will not be reviewed in the absence of an objection in that court by motion for rehearing and application for a writ of error on that ground. Maddox v. Clark (Sup.) 175 S. W. 1053, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 309.

The briefs filed having been lost, judgment overruling appellant's motion for a rehearing will be set aside on the court's own motion and case continued until following term if the parties agree to file copies of their briefs. Jeans v. Liquid Carbonic Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1920.

Where appellant's motion for rehearing contains much abusive and vituperative language referring to appellant, it will be dismissed with leave to file another. Pye v. Cardwell (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 683.

Under this article Court of Civil Appeals for the Ninth Judicial District, to which Supreme Court transferred a case from the First District, could not consider appellant's motion then to rehear before the court of the First District, entered eight months before filing, striking appellant's bills of exceptions. Padgett v. H. P. Pratt & Son (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 317.

A motion to vacate the opinion and judgment of a Court of Civil Appeals in a case of which it had jurisdiction, made in such court nine years after such judgment was rendered, must be overruled. Kruegel v. Rawlins (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 705.

Motion to set aside a judgment of affirmance, on the ground that, the trial court's judgment was not final, and that therefore the appellate court never acquired jurisdiction, must be made at a subsequent term. Nunez v. McElroy (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 531.

Where case was regularly set on docket of Court of Civil Appeals for submission, and was on the date orally presented, appellant was not entitled to have oral reargument after special associate justice was appointed by Governor to sit in place of justice recused. Boynton Lumber Co. v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 749.

Grounds for rehearing and requisites of motion.—Where Court of Civil Appeals refused to consider assignments of error, motion for rehearing and petition to Supreme Court for writ of error held not defective because they complained only of the "overruling" of the assignments. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Pemberton, 106 Tex. 403, 151 S. W. 2, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 652. Rehearing denied 106 Tex. 403, 168 S. W. 128.

A motion for rehearing, which made no complaint of the opinion on the merits, the only complaint being the refusal to dismiss because appellant's briefs had not been properly filed, will be overruled; it not appearing that appellants were prejudiced. Alexander v. Garcia (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 376.

A motion for rehearing containing irrelevant and impertinent matter may be stricken from the files. Sanger v. First Nat. Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1087.

Where Court of Civil Appeals reversed holding that the order of delivery of certain deeds was a jury question, it would not change its decision by reason of a stipulation filed in connection with a motion for rehearing, agreeing on the order of delivery of such deeds. Rayner v. Posey (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 246.

Where appellate court reversed on two theories, one at issue below, the other not so at issue, error in reversing on latter theory was harmless. Taylor v. First State Bank of Hawley (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 35.

Error of the appellate court in finding that the evidence showed without controversy that the defendant insurer received and retained the dues of the insured, held no ground for rehearing under evidence showing the receipt, though controverted. Grand Fraternity v. Smith (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 582.

Where suit to foreclose a chattel mortgage on cattle was instituted before the cattle were paid for, though not until the day after the sale, an inaccuracy in opinion stating that it was instituted before the sale held immaterial. Lee v. Clay Robinson & Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1061.

Where the case was thoroughly discussed by all members of the court, and those who heard the argument fully concurred in the disposition of the appeal, rehearing will not be granted because the writer of the original opinion did not hear the oral argument. Quals v. Fowler (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 258.
Chap. 11) COURTS OF CIVIL APPEALS Art. 1641

An appellant may probably amend a motion for rehearing, if done within the time limit. Id.

In case of amendment of motion for rehearing, the original motion will be dismissed, and only the amended motion considered. Id.

The inaccuracy, if any, of a statement in the appellate court’s finding that parties entered “into a written contract” on a certain date was not ground for rehearing, where the evidence shows that the agreement mentioned was actually made in terms set forth in the instrument reduced to writing on that date. King v. Diffey (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 262.

Objections not previously urged.—An objection to an instruction in a libel action that it erroneously submitted certain publications as a ground for recovery because the petition did not justify such submission cannot be first raised in a motion for rehearing on appeal. Autrey v. Collins (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 413.

Where, on original hearing, appellee did not object to consideration of an assignment of error that evidence on an issue was insufficient to sustain verdict, such appellee could not object to a consideration of the assignment on motion for rehearing. Taylor v. First State Bank of Hawley (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 35.

Objections to instructions, not contained in appellants’ brief, but attempted to be set up in a motion for rehearing, held waived. Levy v. Dunken Realty Co. (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 679, denying rehearing Levy v. Duncan Realty Co., 178 S. W. 984.

In suit by appellant railroad company to enjoin judgment against it in state court, contention that it was a foreign corporation not doing business in state, and so was not suable, cannot for first time be raised on motion for rehearing, not being presented by pleadings or urged below. Union Pac. Ry. Co. v. Miller (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 358.

Time for filing and excuse for delay.—Application of appellant for leave to file motion for rehearing after time limited by this article. Anderson v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 836.

ART. 1652 COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEALS

TITLE 33
COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEALS

Chap. 3. Jurisdiction of the court of criminal appeals.

CHAPTER ONE
JUDGES OF THE COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEALS

Article 1652. [1044] Number of judges, qualifications, compensation, and what constitutes a quorum.

Title to office.—The title of a judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals to office cannot be questioned in a collateral proceeding. Marta v. State (Cr. App.) 193 S. W. 323.

CHAPTER THREE
JURISDICTION OF THE COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEALS

Article 1659. [1052] Jurisdiction of the court.

In general.—Evidence on a trial for entering on "the Commons" of a county under the control of the mayor of a city and removing, without consent, earth and sand therefrom held to raise a question of title which cannot be tried in the criminal courts. Haworth v. State, 168 S. W. 859, 74 Tex. Cr. R. 488.

Conclusiveness of decisions of civil courts.—Since the Legislature has given the civil courts exclusive jurisdiction to determine the validity of stock law elections, and taken such question from the criminal courts, the decisions of the civil courts as to such questions are binding upon the criminal courts, in preference to their own previous decisions. Bishop v. State, 167 S. W. 363, 74 Tex. Cr. R. 214.

Article 1660. [1053] Writs of habeas corpus, etc., power to issue.

See notes under Code Cr. Proc. Arts. 69, 70.
TITILE 34
COURTS—DISTRICT

CHAPTER ONE
THE JUDGE OF THE DISTRICT COURT

Article 1671. [1064] [1086] District judge, election of; qualification; residence.

Appointment of special judge.—Under Const. art. 5, § 7, the Legislature could not provide for the appointment of a special judge after the death of the regular judge. Glover v. Albrecht (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 664.

Art. 1672. [1065] [1087] Term of office.

 Provision mandatory.—Const. art. 15, § 17, and this article held mandatory, so that after resignation of judge, and before appointment of his successor, special judge was authorized to sit until completion of any business before the court. El Paso & S. W. R. Co. of Texas v. Ankenbauer (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1900.

Art. 1675. [1068] [1090] Disqualification, causes of.

Criminal cases, see Crim. Proc. Art. 611 et seq. and notes.

Interest in subject matter—in general.—Pecuniary interest of judge’s father-in-law in proceeding to have person adjudged of unsound mind, because father-in-law was named as executor of such person’s will, held too contingent and uncertain to disqualify the judge. Wolnitzek v. Lewis (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 813.

— Interest as taxpayer.—Under Dallas Charter, art. 2, § 5, in suit to determine whether ordinance authorizing the issuance of bonds was legally adopted, taxpayers of Dallas held disqualified to sit as judges, in view of Const. art. 5, § 11, whether the ordinance was submitted to the electors under the initiative and referendum provisions of the charter (article 8) or not. Holland v. Cranfill (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 308.

In taxpayers’ suit to enjoin county officials from making contract with paving company, trial judge held not disqualified for interest as taxpayer. Orndorff v. McKee (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 432.

Interest as former counsel.—Under Const. art. 5, § 11, and this article, that a trial judge has been of counsel between the parties in a different case does not disqualify him. Stockwell v. Glaspey (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1151.

If a judge has been of counsel in case in behalf of one party, he is disqualified to try case, and his order dismissing it was void. Kruegel v. Williams (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 663.

Relationship to party.—A judge is related to his wife’s first cousin by affinity, although not to the husband of such cousin, and, where a judgment against the husband would adversely affect the community interest of his wife’s cousin, he is disqualified. Seabrook v. First Nat. Bank of Port Lavaca (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 247.

Persons unnamed in a suit by plaintiffs suing for themselves and in behalf of others interested, are not “parties” within Const. art. 5, § 11, disqualifying judge related to parties. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Anderson County (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 305.

Judge held not disqualified because proceeding was instigated by his father-in-law, unless the father-in-law had a direct pecuniary interest in the result of the trial. Wolnitzek v. Lewis (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 819.

Objections.—The question of the disqualification of the trial judge may be raised by a motion for new trial. Seabrook v. First Nat. Bank of Port Lavaca (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 247.

Acts of disqualified judge.—A disqualified judge cannot enter a decree or order agreed to by the parties, and any judgment rendered by him must be reversed. Seabrook v. First Nat. Bank of Port Lavaca (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 247.

An order extending the time for filing the statement of facts and bills of exception, made by a judge who is disqualified to sit on account of having represented one of the parties in the action, is void. Delsons v. Sheridan Stove Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 663.

That judge in garnishment proceedings is related to garnishee, or is in some way connected with, or interested in, subject-matter of proceedings, does not render void

Where a judge who dismissed cause was disqualified by having acted as counsel, motion filed at subsequent term to set aside judgment should have been granted. Kruegel v. Williams (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 663.

Art. 1676. [1069] Disqualification; exchange of district judges; special judge agreed upon, when; appointment by governor.—Whenever any case or cases, civil or criminal, are pending in which the district judge is disqualified from trying the same, no change of venue shall be made necessary thereby; but the judge presiding shall immediately certify that fact to the Governor, whereupon the Governor shall designate some district judge in an adjoining district to exchange and try such case or cases, and the Governor shall notify both of said judges of such order; and it shall be the duty of said judges to exchange districts for the purpose of disposing of such case or cases, and, in case of sickness or other reasons rendering it impossible to exchange, then the parties or their counsels shall have the right to select or agree upon an attorney of the court for the trial thereof; and, in the event the district judges shall be prevented from exchanging districts and the parties and their counsels shall fail to select or agree upon an attorney of the court for the trial thereof, which fact shall be certified to the Governor by the district judge or the special judge, whereupon the Governor shall appoint a person legally qualified to act as judge in the trial of the case. [Acts 1879, p. 1; Acts 1897, S. S. p. 39; Act March 12, 1915, ch. 45.]

Took effect after adjournment of legislature on March 20, 1915.

Construction and operation in general.—Where the Governor fails to designate an adjoining district judge in accordance with this article to try a case in which the regular judge is disqualified, the bar may, under section 1678, select a special judge. Webb v. Reynolds (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 152.

Rev. Civ. St. 1911, art. 1676, does not deprive district judges of the power granted by Const. art. 5, § 11, and Rev. Civ. St. 1911, art. 1715, of holding court for one another, and a disqualified judge may in his own motion call in a judge of an adjoining district to preside for him. Blanton (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 494.

A special judge does not derive his authority from the regular judge, and can continue to act after the death of the regular judge. Glover v. Albrecht (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 504.

This article, as amended by Acts 34th Leg. c. 45, the only statute authorizing appointment of a special judge where sickness or other reasons render it impossible for the disqualified judge to exchange with regular judge, permits an appointment only when the exchange is impossible in fact. The disqualified judge’s desire to try other cases is not a reason rendering an exchange impossible. Cohn v. Saenz (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 685.

Selection by parties.—Selection of a special judge by agreement of the parties, in a case where the regular judge was not disqualified merely by his absence, was a nullity, and the acts of the special judge were void. Pickett v. Michael (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 426.

Acts of improperly selected Judge.—A special judge’s want of authority to act affects the jurisdiction of the court, and is therefore a fundamental error, which may be first raised on appeal. Dunn v. Home Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 699.

In the district court case against the sustaining party, noted, where the principal made no appearance, and did not participate in the ineffective agreement by which a special judge acted in the case without authority, the judgment against such principal was a nullity. Id.

Where appointment of a special judge was unauthorized, orders made by him, including a judgment based thereon, were void. Cohn v. Saenz (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 685.

Art. 1678. [1071] [1094] Special judge, when and how elected.

In general.—Where the parties elect a special judge, where the regular judge is not disqualified but is absent from any cause, they are not estopped from denying his jurisdiction. Pickett v. Michael (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 426; Dunn v. Home Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 699.

Where the Governor fails to designate an adjoining district judge in accordance with art. 1676, to try a case in which the regular judge is disqualified, the bar may, under this section, select a special judge. Webb v. Reynolds (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 152.

Where a member of the bar is selected by a majority of the practicing lawyers for a special judge, the fact that he voted for himself will not invalidate the election. Id.

Under this article members of the bar from adjoining counties who practice in that district and are present have the same rights to vote as the resident lawyers. Id.

A member of the bar, who is also a not thereby disqualified from acting as special judge in case of the disability or disqualification of the regular judge.

The death of the regular judge during a term, held by a special judge previously elected under Const. art. 5, § 7, and this article does not end the term. Glover v. Albrecht (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 504.

By Code Cr. Proc. 1911, arts. 93, 94, and this article, special terms of district court and election of special judges are provided for, and an indictment, found at a special term presided over by a special judge, held valid. De Arman v. State (Cr. App.) 189 S. W. 145.
CHAPTER TWO

THE CLERK OF THE DISTRICT COURT

Article 1687. [1080] District clerk pro tem., appointed, when.

To dismiss a motion, removing, or prosecuting to the justice clerk on the court in a matter of personalty.

Article 1694. [1087] [1107] Shall keep a record of proceedings, judgments and executions.

Clerk's record—Effect of failure to enter.—The assent of the trial court to the dismissal of an action for want of prosecution, without any entry either on the docket or the minutes, does not effect a dismissal. William Finck & Co. v. Nacogdoches Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1052.

Art. 1701. [1094] [1113] Indexes to all judgments.

Index.—Where an abstract of judgment was alphabetically indexed according to the statute, initial and marginal letters did not constitute a part of the index. Bowles v. Belt (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 885.

CHAPTER THREE

THE POWERS AND JURISDICTION OF THE DISTRICT COURT AND OF THE JUDGE THEREOF

Art. 1705. Original jurisdiction.

1713. To grant all remedial writs.

1714. Jurisdiction in actions at law, in equity, and in admiralty.

1715. To hear and determine all cases of equity and to grant all equitable and legal remedies.

Article 1705. [1098] [1117] Original jurisdiction of the district court.

1. Jurisdiction in general.—A satisfaction of a lessor's action for the possession of the property brought in the district court, or a satisfaction of his action for forcible detainer brought in the justice court, would be a satisfaction as to both remedies.

Evidence on a trial for entering on "the Commons" of a county under the control of the mayor of a city and removing, without consent, earth and sand therefrom held to raise a question of title which cannot be tried in the criminal courts. Haworth v. State, 163 S. W. 859, 74 Tex. Cr. R. 488.

The district court, to the exclusion of the county court, has jurisdiction of an action to quiet title. Benavides v. Benavides (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 209.

The county court held without jurisdiction, in view of Const. art. 5, § 8, over a proceeding to set aside a compromise agreement, whereby a surviving widow conveyed to the executors her claimed interest in her husband's real and personal property. McMahon v. McMahon (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 157.

Under Bankruptcy Act, § 28, the district court of a county held to have sole jurisdiction to determine the respective rights of plaintiff and a trustee in bankruptcy in timberland in constructive possession of plaintiff, under a contract between the bankrupt and plaintiff. Bennette v. Lewis (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 869.

Where contestants opposing the application of one to be appointed administrator de bonis non claimed that the only property of the estate, a homestead, was bought with the money, the respective claims of title were of a nature to be decided in the district court. Kimmons v. Abraham (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 671.

A suit to divest title out of defendants held one to try title to land, within the jurisdiction of the district court, under Rev. St. 1911, art. 1705. Kidd v. Prince (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 735.

Action on note for $200 and to foreclose vendor's lien, in which party having possession, claiming to own note, was made party, held within district court's jurisdiction. Buckholts State Bank v. Harris (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 961.
7. Value in controversy—In general.—In trespass to try title, the court had to have jurisdiction of a cross-bill for rent of the land involved in plaintiff's cause of action, although the amount of the rent was below the court's jurisdiction. Sachs v. Goldberg (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 92.

Though the amount of plaintiff's claim, $500, is insufficient to give the district court jurisdiction of plaintiff's cross-action for a greater amount gave it jurisdiction. Joyce v. Haglestein (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 360.

Under Const. art. 5, § 8, the district court does not lose jurisdiction of an action brought in good faith to foreclose a lien on land because it develops on trial there is no lien and the amount involved is less than $500. Eski v. Baker (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 297.

8. Particular actions.—Under Const. art. 5, § 8, and Rev. St. 1911, art. 4943, relating to the jurisdiction of the district court, such court has jurisdiction to restrain trespass and the cutting of timber, regardless of the value of the timber. Poe v. Ferguson (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 459.

Under Const. art. 5, § 8, the district court has jurisdiction of a suit to set aside a void assessment as a cloud on title, though the amount of the assessment was not sufficient in itself to give the district court jurisdiction. Ingram v. City of Nacogdoches (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1134.

District court had no jurisdiction of county treasurer's suit against a county commission to recover $120 unlawfully collected; the amount being below its jurisdiction. Slaughter v. Knight (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 539.

Under Const. art. 5, §§ 8, 16, district court held not to have jurisdiction to issue mandamus to compel payment by school district to teacher of less than $500. Jones v. Dox (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1134.

On school board's breach of teaching contract for period of eight months, teacher suing at the end of seven months could recover only the contract wage for the seven months; and, the amount being less than $500, district court had no jurisdiction. Id.

12. Allegation of amount.—A petition in an action on certain notes and to foreclose a chattel mortgage in a court the jurisdiction of which depended on the amount in controversy, failing to allege the value of the property, was insufficient to confer jurisdiction. Wilson v. Ford (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 73.

The filing of an amended petition entirely supplants the original petition, and it cannot thereafter be looked to, to ascertain whether the amount in controversy is sufficient to give the court jurisdiction. L. Grief & Bro. v. Texas Cent. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 345.

It is not the evidence, but the pleadings, which determine whether the amount in controversy is within the jurisdiction of a court. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Marshall & Marshall (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 643.

When it appears from specific allegations of pleading that the amount recoverable is below the jurisdictional amount of a greater sum, although it pleaded the contrary, the court has jurisdiction. Martin v. Goodman (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 699.

That body of petition does not state amount of damages, except for medical and personal treatment, does not limit amount in controversy to sum stated, where prayer sufficiently alleges general damages. Canyon Power Co. v. Gober (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 892.

13. Pleadings reducing amount.—In an action against a railroad company for the value of goods, where exceptions were sustained to the allegations seeking a recovery of interest and attorney's fees, the petition is properly dismissed, where the amount thereafter remaining was less than $200. L. Grief & Bro. v. Texas Cent. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 345.

A cause held within the jurisdiction of the court under cl. 4 of this article, where the written petition showed jurisdiction, though, according to an amendment, the amount involved would not have been sufficient. Wood v. J. M. Radford Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1070.

Where the petition pleaded facts which if true justified a recovery of $750, but in another count pleaded a subsequent agreement barring the original claim and authorizing $50 recovery of the lesser sum, although it pleaded the alternative demands. Robinson v. Lingner (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 850.

14. Recovery of less than jurisdictional amount.—In the absence of an allegation that the amount sued for was fraudulently alleged in order to give the court jurisdiction, jurisdiction will be determined by the allegations of plaintiff's petition, regardless of the fact that the evidence may show that the amount which the plaintiff is entitled to recover is below the jurisdiction of the court. J. C. Stewart Produce Co. v. Hamilton-Turner Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1009.

That plaintiff was entitled to recover less than the jurisdictional amount would not defeat the jurisdiction once acquired, unless the jurisdictional allegation was fraudulently made. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Meeks (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 681.

15. Exaggerated claim.—Where plaintiff, after exceptions had been sustained to some items of damage laid in its original petition, filed an amended petition, alleging greater damages, defendant could then plead in abatement that plaintiff fraudulently misstated the amount of the damage to give the court jurisdiction, notwithstanding its previous answer to the original petition. L. Grief & Bros. v. Texas Cent. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 345.

16. Joining claims.—Where the amount in controversy in a suit to cancel two notes is enough to give jurisdiction, the court is not deprived thereof by elimination of one of the notes by default judgment thereon in a subsequent action. Cattlemen's Trust Co. v. Eltingeame (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 574.

17. Inclusion of interest.—The district court has jurisdiction of a suit for recovery of $500 agreed to be paid as broker's commission on an exchange of realty, the interest on such sum being in the nature of damages for wrongful detention of the money, and not interest on an open account or a written contract, as provided for in Rev. St. 1911, arts. 4977, 4978. Robinson v. Lingner (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 560.
Incidental relief.—A district court, acquiring jurisdiction of a garnishment suit, has jurisdiction of a cross-action below the jurisdictional amount. Heidemann v. Martinez (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1166.

The constitutional provision conferring jurisdiction over contested elections upon the district court is exclusive, and a district judge has no jurisdiction to determine an election contest in vacation. Barker v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 748.

Art. 1706. [1099] [1118] Jurisdiction in matters of probate.

Settlement of estates.—The district court has jurisdiction of a suit by heirs against the administrator of a decedent in actual possession, and denying the right of the heirs and asserting an adverse and Smith claim to the property, because title to land is involved within Const. art. 5, § 8. Key v. Key (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 173.

Under Const. art. 5, § 8, the district court has original jurisdiction of a suit by heirs against an administratrix guilty of mismanagement of the estate, and neglecting for many years to settle the same, and praying for a determination of title as to community property and for an accounting and partition. Id.

District courts have no jurisdiction of suits against estates in administration unless the claim has been first presented and rejected by the administrator, and unless the claimant has some legal or equitable right connected with his claim, and the powers of the probate court are inadequate. Ralston v. Stainbrook (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 413.

The probate court has exclusive, original jurisdiction in a pending administration of claims against the estate, and the remedy upon the administrator's rejection of a lien is in that court, and the district courts have no jurisdiction over the management of the estate, except on appeal. Id.

The Constitution confers, not only general probate jurisdiction upon the county court, but also an auxiliary and ancillary equity jurisdiction upon the district court over questions affecting administration. Lauraine v. Ashe (Sup.) 191 S. W. 563.

Wills.—Where title to personal property or the construction of a will is involved, it is proper to invoke the jurisdiction of the district court to adjudicate the questions. Key v. Key (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 173.

Control over minors.—Under Const. art. 5, § 8, giving general control over minors to district courts, such courts would have power to dispose of the custody of a minor for its best interest, even by depriving the parents of such custody, though neither had relinquished custody. Ford v. W. Long (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 26.

Notwithstanding Const. art. 5, § 18, the probate court does not acquire jurisdiction of a trust for a minor because the original testamentary trustee died, but the district court has jurisdiction and will appoint a trustee to carry out the purpose of the trust. Kent v. McDaniels (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1006.

District court had only appellate jurisdiction to revise, declare void, or set aside orders of county court, sitting in probate, relative to sale of land of minors on their guardian's petition, and had no authority to consider facts of innocent purchasers, question of title, etc. Goodman v. Schwind (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 283.

Art. 1707. [1100] [1119] Motions against sheriffs, attorneys, etc.

Demurrer to motion.—Upon allegations in motion against sheriff and sureties to recover judgment on tax of the sheriff's refusal to levy and return execution, general demurrer held properly sustained. Peck v. Murphy & Bolanz (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 542.

Trial court's sustaining of demurrer to appellant's motion against a sheriff and his sureties on bond to bar argument and appellant's reply to allow appellant to argue his exceptions to the special answer, held within its discretion. Id.

Art. 1708. [1101] [1120] To punish contempts.

Acts constituting contempt.—Where language, contained in a brief for writ of error which was filed in the district court in vacation, was improper and intemperate, as applied to the judge of the district court, the contempt was constructive only. Ex parte Duncan (Cr. App.) 182 S. W. 313.

Proceedings to punish.—Where the contemptuous language appeared in a brief for a writ of error, a copy of which was filed in the district court, held, that the district court could not summarily punish the attorney on order to show cause, where the petition of opposing counsel was unverified and no affidavit of charges was filed. Ex parte Duncan (Cr. App.) 182 S. W. 313.

Punishment.—Where a court imposed a fine for contempt in excess of the amount permitted by this article, the contempt will not be released on habeas corpus proceedings until he has paid the amount that could be lawfully imposed. Ex parte Eiler (Cr. App.) 158 S. W. 1145.

Art. 1712. [1106] [1122] To hear and determine all cases of legal or equitable cognizance.

See art. 7730½, post, establishing statutory rule as to situs of actions based on wrongful acts committed outside of state and resulting in death or personal injury.

In general.—Defendant, liable to plaintiff, held not relieved of liability by plaintiff's assurance that he was being sued merely to give jurisdiction to the courts of a particular county over another party. Merchants' & Planters' Nat. Bank of Mt. Vernon v. Jones (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 996.
Courts—District

Where a dam extended beyond the thread of a stream toward the Texas side, the Tex. as the action for damages caused by the dam. Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Kezer (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 661.

Jurisdiction may be conferred on a court by necessary implication as effectually as by express terms. Spence v. Fenchler (Sup.) 180 S. W. 587.

The “power to consider and decide one way or the other as the law may require. Auto Trans Co. v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 685.

Courts of concurrent jurisdiction.—Where a case may be brought in either of two courts, having jurisdiction, it will retain its concurrent jurisdiction to the extent of cases in the courts of sister states. Wade v. Crump (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 538; Blassingame v. Cattlemen’s Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 900.

A suit against a railroad company purchasing under a decree of a federal court the property of another railroad company, to enforce a profit-and-loss obligation, is within the jurisdiction of a state court. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Anderson County (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 356.

Pending a receivership in the federal court, a state court may determine a claim against the railroad company whose property was so impounded, if it does not interfere with the receiver’s custody of the property. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Latham (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 717.

After discharge of a receiver appointed by the federal court, and during the pendency of the receivership suit, a state court may appoint a receiver who can hold the property to the exclusion of the power of the federal court to appoint a second receiver for it. Id.

Two courts, having concurrent jurisdiction, will, not at the same time, entertain a suit between the same parties over the same subject-matter: but the court which obtains jurisdiction will hold it to the exclusion of the other. Street v. J. I. Case Threshing Mach. Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 725.

Possession of property through its receiver by a court of equity having jurisdiction is exclusive of the jurisdiction of other courts. Laurais v. Ashe (Sup.) 191 S. W. 560.

Non-resident parties.—A Texas court in an action for conversion, having acquired jurisdiction of the person of defendant, a Mexican corporation, had jurisdiction of the subject-matter also. Banco Minero v. Ross, 172 S. W. 711, 106 Tex. 522.

An inter-state corporation’s cause of action against resident of Mexico on open account for goods, wares, and merchandise was transitory, and courts of Texas had jurisdiction over subject-matter of litigation. Russek v. Wind, Ems & Co. (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 584.

Courts of Texas held to have jurisdiction of minority stockholders’ suit against West Virginia corporation doing business in Texas, and its officers, to recover unlawful payments of salary made to officers out of corporate funds, etc. Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Latta & Happer (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1115.

Causing personal injuries and death.—An action against a Mexican bank for conversion of a deposit is transitory, and can be maintained in any court obtaining jurisdiction of defendant’s person. Banco Minero v. Ross, 172 S. W. 711, 106 Tex. 522.

Where jurisdiction of defendant is obtained, a resident of New Mexico may sue here for damages arising out of an alleged theft in Kansas; since the action is transitory in its nature. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Craddock (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 963.

Jurisdiction in one state of a cause of action arising in another state in transitory causes of action is exercised upon principles of comity. El Paso & S. W. Co. v. Chisholm (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 156.

In an action to recover on a promise to pay for wheat raised in the republic of Mexico, taken from plaintiff by defendant appearing, where defendant appeared in court, the Texas courts had jurisdiction. Mendiola v. Garza Bros. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 391.

An action on a county contractor’s bond is transitory, and may be brought in the county in which the materials were, and the principal resided in a state where the party was doing business although the building was completed and paid for in another state. American Surety Co. v. Huey & Philip Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 617.

— Personal injuries.—A state court may take jurisdiction of an action for personal injuries suffered by a citizen of the state in another state. El Paso & S. W. Co. v. Chisholm (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 156.

An action for personal injuries is transitory, and may be maintained wherever a cause of action is exercised which has jurisdiction of the parties and of the subject-matter. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Stevens (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 304.

— Actions concerning chattels.—An action for damages to personality is transitory and not local. Southern Pacific Railroad Co. v. Kezer (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 661.

The courts of Texas are not without jurisdiction of an action for conversion merely because the conversion was in Mexico. Mendiola v. Gonzalez (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 389.

A citizen of Mexico converting to his own use property of a citizen of Texas, and the state is there amenable to the state citizen for the wrong. Id.

— Effect of foreign laws.—The laws of another state will be given that construction and effect which is given them by the courts of final resort in the state where they were enacted. American Express Co. v. North Ft. Worth Undertaking Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 908.

Decisions of state courts generally are not laws controlling the courts of other states, except in so far as they construe the statute law of their respective states. Friedman v. Sampson (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 779.

A county building contractor’s bond and a foreign state statute under which it was given held not to prevent the bringing of a suit on the bond for materials furnished and already used in the building before the completion of the building. American Surety Co. v. Robert W. Howard Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 617.

Interstate commerce—Interstate shipments.—An action against an initial carrier to enforce liability under the Carmack amendment to the Interstate Commerce Law for loss of goods by a connecting carrier is within the jurisdiction of a state court, and not within the exclusive jurisdiction of the federal tribunals. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Gould (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 12.

Actions affecting lands outside of state.—The courts are without jurisdiction to set aside a deed of a deceased person to land located in a foreign country or to decree partition of such land. Holt v. Guerquin, 196 Tex. 185, 183 S. W. 19, 60 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1136, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 581.

Where a wing dam built by defendant extended beyond the middle of a river dividing Texas and New Mexico, the Texas courts had jurisdiction of an action for the flooding of New Mexican land. Southwestern Portland Cement Co. v. Kezer (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 661.

Waiver or consent.—Jurisdiction of the subject-matter cannot be conferred by the consent of parties, but where the court has jurisdiction of the subject-matter, the parties may consent to confer jurisdiction over their persons. Josey v. Masters (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1184; Hunt v. Johnson, 171 S. W. 1202, 196 Tex. 509, dismissing appeal (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 1060.

Parties cannot, independently of constitutional or statutory provisions, confer judicial authority, and where is attempted to be done the judgment of the appointee is a nullity. Dunn v. Home Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 698; Reinertsen v. E. W. Bennett & Sons (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1027.

Art. 1713. [1107] [1123] To grant all remedial writs.

Mandamus.—District court held to have jurisdiction of petition for mandamus against county judge to compel him to order election to determine whether town should incorporate for free school purposes only. Ferguson v. Leigh (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 206.

As both Constitution and statutes authorize district courts and judges thereof to issue writs of mandamus, district judges may, where facts are undisputed, issue writs of mandamus in vacation. Roberts v. Munroe (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 734.

In view of Constitution Bill of Rights, declaring that jury trial shall remain inviolate, article 6, § 10, held, that district judge, though authorized to issue a writ of mandamus in vacation, cannot issue a writ where facts are disputed and jury trial is demanded. Id.

Habeas corpus.—The district court has jurisdiction to issue habeas corpus upon application of a complaining parent and to determine the right to custody of child. Ex parte Garcia (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 410.

Art. 1714. Judge may exercise all powers, etc., in vacation, by consent of parties, except, etc.

Exercise of power in vacation.—The district court in vacation may entertain a motion to strike out a bill of exceptions. Neville v. Miller (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1109.

The constitutional provision conferring jurisdiction over contested elections upon the district court is exclusive, and a district judge has no jurisdiction to determine an election contest in vacation. Earker v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 748.

Right of appeal.—Pronouncement of sentence by the judge in vacation is not authorized, so that sentence so pronounced is not a final judgment on which an appeal may be rested. Dodd v. State (Cr. App.) 179 S. W. 594.

So far as right of appeal from final judgment perpetuating injunction was concerned, held, that it was immaterial that it was rendered outside the county, especially in view of this article. Trayhan v. State (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 646; Anderson v. Same (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 648.

Art. 1715. [1108] [1124] May alternate, etc.

Presiding in other districts.—Art. 1676 does not deprive district judges of the power granted by Const. art. 6, § 11, and this article of holding court for one another, and a disqualified judge may on his own motion call in a judge of an adjoining district to preside for him. Connellee v. Blanton (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 404.

CHAPTER FOUR

THE TERMS OF THE DISTRICT COURT

Art. 1718. Terms of court.

1720. Special terms may be held, when; time; jury commissioners; grand and petit juries, etc.

1723. No new civil cases to be brought to special term.

Article 1718. [1111] [1127] Terms of court.

See Chant v. State, 73 Cr. R. 345, 166 S. W. 513; note under art. 1720.

Art. 1720. Special terms may be held, when; time; jury commissioners; grand and petit juries, etc.

Authority of judge to call special term.—The district court, under arts. 1718-1720, has authority to call a special term for the trial of a murder case. Chant v. State, 166 S. W. 815, 73 Tex. Cr. R. 345.
This article authorizes the district judge to call a special term to try cases in which the public welfare is involved. Browder v. Memphis Independent School Dist. (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 152, judgment affirmed (Sup.) 180 S. W. 1077.

Under Code Cr. Proc. 1911, art. 94, and this article, a judge had authority to call a special term for the trial of cases. Vasquez v. State, 76 Tex. Cr. R. 37, 172 S. W. 235.

Matters which may be considered.—See Browder v. Memphis Independent School Dist. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 1077, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 152; note under art. 1723.

Art. 1723. [1117] No new civil cases to be brought to special term.

Application.—Art. 1723 does not apply to a suit brought before a special term of the district court has been called. Browder v. Memphis Independent School Dist. (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 152, judgment affirmed (Sup.) 180 S. W. 1077.

Voluntary appearance.—Under arts. 1720, 1723, 1724, and 1852, held, that the district court had jurisdiction at a special term of a suit just begun and returnable to a succeeding term; the defendant having voluntarily appeared and requested such term. Browder v. Memphis Independent School Dist. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 1077, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 152.

Art. 1724. [1118] Juries, how summoned, business transacted, etc.

See Browder v. Memphis Independent School Dist. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 1077, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 152; note under art. 1723.

Art. 1726. Extension of term of court, when, etc., effect as to term in another county.

Validity and construction in general.—Where the trial was not completed by the time the regular term would have expired by law, the court could extend the term until the conclusion of the trial under this article. Sharp v. State, 71 Tex. Cr. R. 693, 160 S. W. 369.

This article is a valid exercise of legislative power, and authorizes such extension to receive a verdict and enter judgment in a pending case. Brown v. State, 169 S. W. 437, 74 Tex. Cr. R. 268.

Under Rev. St. 1911, art. 1726, the judge has absolute power to extend the term pending trial of a case, even though the extension might destroy the succeeding term, so that during extension of December term, when the February term convened, the judgment in the cause rendered on the extended term was valid. Cory v. Richardson (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 568.

The statute should be used only in cases of necessity, and not for the convenience of the trial judge, or for purposes of advisement on the case. Id.

CHAPTER FIVE

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS RELATING TO THE DISTRICT COURT

Special District Courts

The Criminal district courts created for a number of the counties in the state are, in some instances, given jurisdiction of divorce cases, and of some other minor civil matters. The text of the acts creating the courts are set forth in Vernon's Code of Criminal Procedure as arts. 97a to 97e.

Provisions relating to succession to jurisdiction of Special District Court for El Paso county are contained in Act Feb. 25, 1915, set forth under art. 30, subdivision 65.

1734. Disqualification; causes of. 1740. Minutes of court to show proceedings.

1738. Governor to appoint special county judge. 1741. Special judges, when and how elected; powers.

Article 1732. [1125] [1134] Oath of office.

Art. 1736. [1129] [1138] Disqualification; causes of.

Interest.—Where a judge of the county court was made a party in case by allegations of a cross-action of a suit in the justice court, he should have held himself disqualified to sit in case on appeal to county court. First Nat. Bank v. Herrell (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 797.

Relationship to surety.—A judge who presided at trial of cause, who was related within third degree to a surety on appellant's bond, should have excused himself as disqualified, and declined to make any order in case. First Nat. Bank v. Herrell (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 797.

Art. 1738. [1131] Governor to appoint special county judge, etc.

Failure of appointee to qualify.—Special county judge elected by members of bar under art. 1741 held to have jurisdiction to try case, though Governor had appointed special judge, who had not qualified, to try such case under this article. Ford v. Simmons (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1077.

Nature of office of special judge.—The appeal bond in probate proceedings is payable to the county judge, as such, and hence the fact that an appeal bond was made payable to the special judge was a failure of his to make the appointment of judge or to the special judge appointed in his place, was immaterial, since the special judge would be held to be the "county judge." Wolnitzek v. Lewis (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 263.

Art. 1739. [1132] Governor to appoint by telegram.

Art. 1740. [1132a] Minutes of court to show proceedings.

Record of selection.—By applying for continuance to make new parties, failure to make entries in the minutes of the disqualification of the regular judge and the taking of oath by the special judge is waived. Heidelberg Amusement Club v. Mercedes Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1133.

Art. 1741. Special judges when and how elected; powers.

Effect of appointment by governor.—Special county judge elected by members of bar under this article held to have jurisdiction to try case, though Governor had appointed special judge, who had not qualified, to try such case under article 1738. Ford v. Simmons (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1077.

Authority of special judge.—A special county judge elected by the members of the bar in the absence of the county judge under this article may try cases in which the county judge would be disqualified. Ford v. Simmons (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1077.
CHAPTER TWO

THE CLERK OF THE COUNTY COURT

Art. 1745. Clerk pro tem. appointed when.
1746. County clerk pro tem. to qualify and give bond.
1747. Bond and oath.
1748. May appoint deputies.

Article 1745. [1135] County clerk pro tem. appointed, when.

Construction and operation.—Where the county court, sitting in probate, made orders relative to sale of wards’ realty at time after their guardian, the applicant, had been elected and was clerk of the court, no clerk pro tem, having been appointed pursuant to arts. 1745 and 1746 such orders were void, Goodman v. Schwind (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 282.

In suit to declare such orders void, district court could not infer from silence of record of county court that a clerk pro tempore was appointed. Id.

Arts. 1745 and 1746 relate to county clerks both in their capacity as such and in their capacity of probate clerks. Id.

Art. 1746. County clerk pro tem. to qualify and give bond.

Art. 1747. [1137] [1144] Bond and oath.

Liability on bond.—Bondsmen on official bonds are liable for any abuse of the authority vested in the principal. Under Const. art. 5, § 20, Rev. St. 1911, arts. 1747-1749, 1753, the issuance of warrants without previous authority of the commissioners' court held an official act within the bond of the county clerk. The act of the deputy county clerk in issuing fictitious warrants and selling them to third persons who received payment thereon was also within the county clerk's bond. Myers v. Colquitt (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 993.

Art. 1748. [1138] [1145] May appoint deputies.

See Myers v. Colquitt (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 993; note under art. 1747.

Art. 1749. [1139] [1146] Oath and power of deputies.

See Myers v. Colquitt (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 993; note under art. 1747.

Art. 1753. [1143] [1150] Ex officio clerk of commissioners' courts.

See Myers v. Colquitt (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 993; note under art. 1747.

Art. 1758. [1148] [1155] Other dockets, indexes, etc.

CHAPTER THREE

THE POWERS AND JURISDICTION OF THE COUNTY COURT AND OF THE JUDGE THEREOF

Art. 1763. Exclusive original jurisdiction.
1764. Concurrent original jurisdiction.
1766. Jurisdiction denied in certain cases.
1767. Appellate jurisdiction.
1769. Motions against certain officers.

Article 1763. [1154] [1161] Exclusive original jurisdiction.

Historical.—Under Act Jan. 20, 1859 (2 Gam. Laws, 91), providing that all process therefore issued by the county courts in which the amount exceeded $100 should be returned to the district court, the clerk of the district court was authorized to issue execution upon a judgment rendered in the county court. Masterson Irr. Co. v. Foote (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 642.

Nature and incidents of jurisdiction in general.—Jurisdiction of a forcible detainer suit is in the justice’s court and not in the county court. Benavides v. Benavides (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 293.

Requisite amount or value in controversy.—The county court would not have jurisdiction of an action by a county against a canal company to recover a sum less than $200 as reimbursement for repairs made to a bridge necessitated by the construction of the canal. Cow Bayou Canal Co. v. Orange County (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 172.

A suit in the county court for mandamus to compel a justice of the peace allowing judgment for $79.65 to grant an appeal and to make a transcript of the case to the county court, if treated as a suit invoking the original jurisdiction of the county court, is not within its jurisdiction. Knight v. Armstrong (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 445.

In garnishment it is error to exclude proof by garnishee of claim against fund on ground that such claim is less than jurisdictional amount of suits in county court, since garnishee has right to prove all claims, regardless of amount, and may interplead all claimants. National Fire Ins. Co. of Hartford, Conn., v. McEvoy Furniture Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 270.

Set off or counterclaim.—Defendant by reconvening and praying for damages of $274 conferred jurisdiction on the county court to determine all issues involved in the suit. Brunson v. Dawson State Bank (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 488.

Injunction.—The county court had no jurisdiction to determine the validity of a justice court judgment for less that $200 in a suit to enjoin its collection. Eppler v. Hilley (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 87; Smith Bros. Grain Co. v. Jenssen (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 581.

Where a justice court judgment in a garnishment case, including costs and attorney’s fees, exceeded $200, and was less than $500, the county court had jurisdiction to determine its validity in a suit to enjoin its collection. Eppler v. Hilley (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 87.

The county court has jurisdiction of a suit to restrain a breach of contract and thereby prevent damages in the sum of $500. Tomlin v. Clay (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 264.

The county court has no jurisdiction to restrain trespass and the cutting of timber, where the petition contains no allegation as to the value of the subject-matter. Poe v. Ferguson (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 459.

Pleading.—Though the jurisdiction of the county court must appear on the face of the petition, yet, when it appears therefrom that the amount sought to be recovered is within the jurisdiction of the court and no other fact is alleged from which it affirmatively appears that the court is without jurisdiction, the jurisdiction appears on the face of the petition. Cantrell v. Sawyer (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 919.

To foreclose a chattel mortgage in the county court, it must appear that the value of the property upon which the foreclosure is sought, is an amount within the jurisdiction of the county court. Randals v. Pecos Valley State Bank (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1100.

In suit in county court on note for $150 and to foreclose chattel mortgage, failure to allege value of property on which foreclosure was sought was fatal to jurisdiction. Reeves v. Faris (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 772.

Amount claimed or value of property.—A petition which shows that the amount sought is within the jurisdiction of the court, and which seeks to foreclose a chattel mortgage on property, the value of which is not disclosed, states a case of action within the jurisdiction of the county court. Cantrell v. Sawyer (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 919.

Where, in an action in the county court to foreclose a chattel mortgage on horses and cotton, the worth together in excess of the debt, the jurisdiction was determined by the fact that the court, it appeared that the cotton had been sold before the institution of the suit, and the court, without objection, submitted the issue of foreclosure as to the horses worth about $325, the suit was in jurisdiction. Id.

The jurisdiction of county courts in suits to foreclose chattel mortgages is governed by the amount of the debt, where the value of the mortgaged property is less than the debt, but where the value of the property exceeds the debt, such value fixes the jurisdiction. Marshall v. G. A. Stowers Furniture Co. (Civ. App.) 107 S. W. 320.

Where the debt sued for is less than the minimum prescribed to give jurisdiction, and the value of the property upon which a chattel mortgage is sought to be foreclosed is not alleged, the petition fails to show that the court has jurisdiction. Id.

In a suit to foreclose a chattel mortgage in the county court, the jurisdiction of the county court is determined by the alleged value of the chattels upon which foreclosure is desired. Reeves v. Faris (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 772.

Principal, interest, and attorney’s fees.—Attorney’s fees sought to be recovered under 1787, or other law, are a part of the controversy. Houston Packing Co. v. McDonald (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 906; St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Knowles (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 245; St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Knowles (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1146.

In a suit for conversion of a bank deposit amounting to $200 and interest amounting to $11.80, the amount in controversy was within the jurisdiction of a district court to which the jurisdiction of the county court had been transferred, on the face of the pleadings, Young v. Bundy (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 566.

Suit for $200 for a horse killed and for interest until commencement of the suit held within the county court’s jurisdiction. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Feldman (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 133.

The county court has jurisdiction of an action on a note for $190, which provided for attorney’s fees of 10 per cent. In case of suit, the total sued for being therefore in excess of $200. Horton v. Lee (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1109.

In suit against sheriff for conversion of $198.70 and for $14 damages, the $14 would not be that of ‘interest’ within meaning of the Constitution, but of damages, so that suit was for sum in excess of $200, exclusive of interest, and within jurisdiction of county court. Sanders v. Waghelter (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1083.

Original amount affected by payments or reduction from other cause.—As regards jurisdiction of the county court, defendants’ plea that one of the notes sued on had been paid did not lessen the amount in controversy by plaintiff’s petition. Brunson v. Dawson State Bank (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 488.

Jurisdiction of county court held not defeated merely because one of the notes sued on had been paid, and the other was for less than $200. Id.

The amount sued for being enough to give the trial court jurisdiction, elimination of one of the items by the judgment on appeal will not affect the jurisdiction of the trial court on a new trial as to remaining item. Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Bell (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 1927.

A suit for a balance of $60 due is below jurisdiction of the county court. American Disinfecting Co. v. Freestone County (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 440.
Objections to jurisdiction.—Where, in an action in the county court, the petition sought to recover an amount within the jurisdiction of the court, and sought to foreclose a chattel mortgage without disclosing the value of the property, the defendant to avail himself of want of jurisdiction of the court must allege and prove that the property was of value in excess of jurisdiction. Cantrell v. Cawyer (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 919.

When an action in the county court is brought, the action will be dismissed upon the plea in abatement of only one of the defendants that plaintiff fraudulently misstated the amount so as to give the court jurisdiction. L. Grief & Bro. v. Texas Cent. R. Co. (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 345.

Art. 1764. [1155] [1162] Concurrent original jurisdiction.

Amount or value in controversy—Principal, interest, and attorney's fees.—Where plaintiff sued on five notes aggregating $942.75 with 10 per cent. interest and 10 per cent. attorney's fees, demanding the amount of the notes, the amount in controversy exceeded the jurisdiction of the county court. Belle Springs Creamery Co. v. Marshall (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 61.

The county court, under Const. art. 5, § 16, is without jurisdiction of an action for damages for refusal to render services, where the value of the service was less than $300, and the interest of the amount of the service was less than $100. District Judge v. Wilson & Watson (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 592.

Where a shipment of live stock was damaged to an amount of $970 the shipper became immediately entitled to 6 per cent. interest on such amount, and after the lapse of more than a year the county court was without jurisdiction of his action; the amount in controversy exceeding $1,000. Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Mathews (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 1035.

Since interest is not allowable on personal injury claims prior to the date of judgment unless plaintiff prays for the same, none can be included in the judgment so as to affect the jurisdictional amount. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. White (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 700.

A prayer for judgment for $1,600 and interest thereon held not to claim an amount in excess of the jurisdiction of the county court. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Whaley (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 542.

Interest on damages demanded, being a part of the damages and not in fact “interest,” the county court is without jurisdiction if the total demand, plus interest, demanded exceeds $1,000. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Herndon Produce Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 278.

A cause of action does not exceed the jurisdiction of the court by the addition of interest as damages if, when the suit is filed, the amount in controversy falls within that court's jurisdiction. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Allen (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 765.

When damages are awarded in sums, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent., the interest is then accumulated as a part of the damages, and is to be included in the amount of recovery affecting the jurisdiction. Id.

A petition which alleged that the damage to a live stock shipment was $377 and prayed for interest of that amount at 6 per cent. interest does not show that the amount in controversy exceeds $1,000, the limit of the county court's jurisdiction, as plaintiff can omit to sue for interest as element of damages. Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Mathews (Sup.) 191 S. W. 559.

In action in the county court on a policy of fire insurance, where petition asked for judgment for $1,000, amount of policy, and further general and special relief, held, that the county court had jurisdiction of the case. Merchants' Reciprocal Underwriters of Dallas v. First National Bank (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1058.

— Set-off, counterclaim, intervention, or cross-action.—In foreclosure of a chattel mortgage, a plea in intervention in the county court, seeking to recover against the same debtor on a note for $1,521, and to enforce an alleged prior lien on the same property, was beyond the court's jurisdiction and a nullity, and the fact that it was on file was immaterial as to injustice to plaintiff against the debtor from being final. Nocona Nat. Bank v. Golin (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 139.

In an action between former partners, where defendant by counterclaim sought to recover the sum of $900 alleged to have been received by the plaintiff, who refused payment thereof, the court was not called upon to adjudicate a partnership transaction of double that amount so as to exceed the jurisdiction of the court. Reeves v. White (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 45.

A county court has no jurisdiction of a cross-action, in action on an account, which asks specific performance of a contract by plaintiff to purchase, for $1,000, land from defendant. Melado Land Co. v. Field (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1136.

Where, in action in county court on a note for $306, defendant set up in cross-action claim for $554, and in addition asked for cancellation of the note, such cross-action was in excess of the court's jurisdiction. Billings v. Southern Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1170.

— Pleading.—In an action to enjoin trespasses on real estate pending a suit to try title thereto, the county judge had no jurisdiction to grant a temporary injunction where the petition did not allege the value of the land involved. Johnson v. Clemmons (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 797.

The allegations of the petition as to the amount in controversy determine the jurisdiction of the court unless the defendant specially plead and show by evidence that such amount so alleged was for the fraudulent purpose of giving the court jurisdiction, and the time to file such plea is prior to the beginning of the trial. Cisco Oil Mill v. Van Geem (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 459.

Where the petition, in an action in the county court to foreclose a chattel mortgage, alleged that the property mortgaged was worth $500 and the mortgage contained no recital of value, a judgment of foreclosure was valid on the face of the record, and the county court alone could restrain execution on a showing that the property was worth an amount in excess of the jurisdiction of the county court. Meyers v. Hambrock (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 84.

A petition to foreclose a chattel mortgage and for attorney’s fees, together amounting to more than the maximum amount of $2,000, just affirmatively shows that the value of the property at the time of suit is not above the jurisdictional maximum. Marshall v. G. A. Stowers Furniture Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 230.

Petition’s failure to allege value of property on which lien foreclosure was sought, which might have been more than $1,000 and not within court’s jurisdiction, was fatal. Richardson v. Hetchcock (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1006.

Failure of petition in the county court to foreclose chattel mortgage to allege the value of the chattels held a fatal defect. Lusk v. Hardin (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 387.

A petition seeking recovery on notes aggregating $400, and foreclosure of a mortgage securing on certain mules, is insufficient to show jurisdiction of the county court if it fails to allege the value of the mules. Glasscock v. Sink (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 405.

Amendment after remand from appellate court.—Where the county court acquired jurisdiction on an original petition in which the damages alleged with interest were less than $1,000, the maximum jurisdiction of court, held, that it retained jurisdiction over an amended petition on remand asking for an amount including interest in excess of $1,000. Gulf Coast Transp. Co. v. Dillard (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 975.

Waiver of part of demand.—Where plaintiffs’ cause of action was in excess of $1,000, the county court is without jurisdiction even though plaintiffs prayed judgment for a sum slightly less than $1,000. Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Mathews (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1052.

A controversy where the evidence shows the subject-matter to exceed $1,000 in value, and therefore not within the jurisdiction of the county court, plaintiff could not in good faith amend so as to bring the case within the court’s jurisdiction. Glasscock v. Sinks (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 465.

Art. 1766. [1157] [1164] Jurisdiction denied in certain cases.

Involving title to land.—Under Const. art. 5, § 16, providing that county courts shall have no jurisdiction of suits for the recovery of lands, and this article, declaratory there¬of, a contract of rent, canceling a contract of recovery, to issue a writ of possession to enforce its decree. Coy v. Rowland (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 14.

Where a purchaser advanced $700 as part of the price to the vendor, who executed a note therefor with an indorsement that if title could not be made good he would pay interest as specified and pay back the $700, an action on the note was within the jurisdiction of the county court, for title to land was at most only incidentally involved. Smith v. A. & H. Glasscock (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 36.

In an action for rent in which plaintiff’s ownership of the land was denied, the county court had jurisdiction to determine incidentally whether he or a third person was the owner of the land. Johnson v. Clymer (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 107.

Where the county court in condemnation proceedings awarded a right of way, or easement, and provided that upon nonuser within two years it should revert to the owner of the estate, jurisdiction to determine the issue of reversion was in the district court and not in the county court. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Temple North Western Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1073.

The district court, to the exclusion of the county court, has jurisdiction of an action of trespass to try title, and the county court, having no jurisdiction of forcible detainer suit or of trespass to title, in action involving title or possession of land was without jurisdiction to enjoin defendant from building fence and cutting timber. Benavides v. Benavides (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 233.

That defendant, in prosecution for unlawfully pulling down a fence on land in another’s possession, claimed title to the land, held not to deprive the county court of jurisdiction. Johns v. State, 76 Cr. R. 303, 174 S. W. 610.

The county court held without jurisdiction, in view of Const. art. 5, § 8, over a proceeding adding to compromise agreement, whereby a surviving widow conveyed to the executors her claimed interest in her husband’s realty and personality. McMahan v. McMahan (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 157.

The county court has exclusive jurisdiction in proceedings to recover the homestead or allowance in lieu thereof, and also to partition and distribute real estate. 10.

Art. 1767. [1158] [1165] Appellate jurisdiction.

Appellate jurisdiction.—Limited by jurisdiction of justice.—A judgment of the county court on appeal from a justice court’s judgment, adding a penalty and items in excess of the amount within the jurisdiction of the justice court, was invalid; but it could be reformed and affirmed on appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals. North American Ins. Co. v. Jenkins (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 307.

The jurisdiction of the justice of the peace over a claim for attached property can be questioned by assignment of error to the judgment of the county court on appeal from a justice of the peace. Fuller Hanna & Co. v. Rogers (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 322.

Amount in controversy.—See art. 2391 and notes.

Bringing in new parties.—Under Const. art. 5, §§ 15, 19, and Rev. St. 1911, arts. 1767, 2291, 6638, 6639, on appeal to county court in action against receiver of railroad, plaintiff held entitled to bring in purchaser of the railroad’s property and franchises. Freeman v. W. B. Walker & Sons (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 466, 1133.

Art. 1769. [1160] [1167] Motions against sheriffs and other officers.

Remedy not exclusive.—In spite of this article the remedy provided is not exclusive, but suit may be brought in any other court having jurisdiction. Willis v. Keator (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 656.

Art. 1771. [1162] [1169] Both law and equity powers.

367
Art. 1772. [1163] [1170] To grant remedial writs.

Habeas corpus.—County court should not entertain writ of habeas corpus raising only questions passed on by the Court of Criminal Appeals on appeal from conviction. Ex parte McCullum, 76 Tex. Cr. R. 509, 175 S. W. 1067.

Art. 1775. [1166] Changed jurisdiction recognized; eminent domain retained.

See Appendix at end of civil statutes for list of acts changing jurisdiction of county court in particular counties.

Repeal.—Act March 20, 1911 (Acts 32d Leg. c. 93), restoring the civil and criminal jurisdiction of the county court of Castro county, repeals Act April 26, 1893 (Act 23d Leg. c. 57), which diminished such jurisdiction, and conferred it upon the district court of the county. Turnbow v. J. E. Bryant Co. (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 605.

Effect of increase of jurisdiction.—Under express provision of Act Thirty-Third Legislature increasing the civil jurisdiction of the county court of Stonewall county; such court had jurisdiction of an action for $150, alleged to be due upon an oral lease of land with claim of a pasturer’s lien. White v. Barrow (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1154.

CHAPTER FOUR
THE TERMS OF THE COUNTY COURT FOR CIVIL AND PROBATE BUSINESS

Art. 1776. Terms of the county court.

Art. 1777. Commissioners’ court may fix.

Article 1776. [1167] Terms of the county court.

Terms for civil and criminal business.—Const. art. 5, § 29, requiring the county court to hold at least four terms annually for both civil and criminal business, as may be provided by the Legislature or commissioners’ court, and such other terms each year as may be fixed by that court, abolishes separate terms of the county court for criminal business, so that terms fixed for civil business are also terms for criminal business, and an order of the commissioners’ court fixing a separate term for criminal business is ineffective. Wells Fargo & Co. Express v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 139.

Such provision, being of later adoption, supersedes article 5, § 17, requiring the county court to hold a term for criminal business once every month. Id.

Art. 1777. [1168] Commissioners’ court may fix.

End of term for civil and probate business.—Under an order of the commissioners’ court, authorized by Const. art. 5, § 28, as to the terms of the county court, a term for civil and probate business held, regarding time for filing appeal bond, to end when the next term for criminal business began. Wells Fargo & Co. Express v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 818, reversing judgment on rehearing 165 S. W. 139.
TITLE 36
COURTS—COUNTY, AT LAW, ETC.

CHAPTER ONE
COUNTY COURT OF DALLAS COUNTY, AT LAW

Article 1786. Creation of county court of Dallas county, at law.

Art. 1787. Jurisdiction of said court.—The County Court of Dallas County at Law shall have original and concurrent jurisdiction with the County Court of Dallas County in all matters and causes, civil and criminal, original and appellate, over which, by the general laws of the State, county courts have jurisdiction, except as provided in Section 3 [Art. 1788] of this Act; but this provision shall not affect jurisdictions of the commissioners court, or of the county judge of Dallas county as the presiding officer of such commissioners court, as to roads, bridges, and public highways, and matters of eminent domain which are now within the jurisdiction of the commissioners court or the judge thereof. [Acts 1907, p. 115, § 2; Act March 28, 1917, ch. 115, § 2.]

Explanatory.—The act amends sec. 2 of an act creating the county court of Dallas county at law, passed at the first call session of the 30th Legislature and approved April 8, 1907. This section of the act referred to was carried into the Revised Civil Statutes of 1911 as art. 1787. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 1788. Jurisdiction retained by county court of Dallas county.—The County Court of Dallas County shall retain, as heretofore, the general jurisdiction of a probate court; it shall probate wills, appoint guardians of minors, idiots, lunatics, persons non compos mentis, and common drunkards, grant letters testamentary and of administration, settle accounts of executors, administrators and guardians; transact all business appertaining to deceased persons, minors, idiots, lunatics, persons non compos mentis, and common drunkards, including the settlement, partition and distribution of estates of deceased persons; and to apprentice minors as provided by law; and the said court, or the judge thereof, shall have the power to issue writs of injunction, mandamus, and all writs necessary to the enforcement of the jurisdiction of said court; and also to punish contempts under such provisions as are or may be provided by general law governing county courts throughout the State. The county judge of Dallas county shall be the judge of the County Court of Dallas County. All ex officio duties of the county judge shall be exercised by the said judge of the County court of Dallas County except insofar as the same shall, by this Act, be committed to the judge of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law. [Acts 1907, p. 115, § 3; Act March 28, 1917, ch. 115, § 3.]

Explanatory.—The act amends sec. 3 of Act Creating County Court of Dallas County at Law, passed at first call session of 30th Legislature, approved April 3, 1907. This section of the act was carried into the Revised Civil Statutes of 1911 as art. 1788. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 1798a. County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, created. —There is hereby created a court to be held in Dallas county, Texas, to be known and designated as the “County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2.” [Act March 28, 1917, ch. 101, § 1.]

Became a law March 28, 1917.

Art. 1798b. Jurisdiction.—The County Court of Dallas County at Law, No. 2, shall have exclusive concurrent civil and criminal jurisdiction of all cases, original and appellate, over which by the laws of the State of Texas, the existing County Court of Dallas County at Law, of Dallas county, Texas, would have original and appellate jurisdiction; provided all civil and criminal cases appealed from the several justice’s courts of Dallas county shall be by the county clerk, filed in the county Court of Dallas County, at Law, and the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, alternately as said appealed cases are received by said clerk from the several justices of the peace in said county, except in cases wherein the judge of either of said courts, at law, has granted the writ of certiorari, in which case the same shall be docketed in the court so granting said writ, and shall not be transferred from said court. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 1798c. Courts how designated; transfer of cases.—The County Court of Dallas County at Law shall be known and designated as the “A” Court and the County Court of Dallas county at Law, No. 2, shall be known and designated as the “B” Court. The county clerk shall number consecutively all cases filed in said courts, affixing immediately following the number of all cases falling in the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, the letter “A,” and immediately following the number of all cases falling in the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, the letter “B,” and he shall make up the trial docket of each of said courts with respect to said numbers. The judge of either of said courts shall have the power to transfer to the other court any case pending upon the docket of his court, except in cases where the writ of certiorari has been granted; provided there shall never be transferred from the docket of one of said courts to that of the other a sufficient number of cases to reduce the number of cases on the docket of the court from which said case was transferred to a less number than the number of cases pending upon the docket of the court to which the same is transferred, without the consent of the judge to which said case is transferred. It shall be the duty of the judge to whose court said case is transferred to receive and try the case, and he shall not have the power to retransfer the same back to the court from which it came except he be disqualified to try the same, in which case it shall be his duty to retransfer the said case. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 1798d. Jurisdiction of other county courts.—Nothing in this Act shall be construed as in anywise altering or changing the present jurisdiction provided by law of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, nor of the County Court of Dallas County, except that the jurisdiction of the County Court of Dallas County at Law, is hereby made concurrent with the jurisdiction of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, as relates to the civil and criminal jurisdiction of said County Court of Dallas County at Law, as prescribed by the laws of the State of Texas. [Id., § 4.]
Art. 1798e. Power to issue writs.—The said County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, or the judge thereof, shall have the power to issue writs of injunction, sequestration, attachment, garnishment, certiorari, supersedeas, and all other writs and process necessary to the enforcement of its jurisdiction; and also power to punish for contempts under such provisions as are or may be provided by the general laws governing county courts throughout the State. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 1798f. Terms of court.—The terms of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, and the practice therein and appeals and writs of error therefrom, shall be as prescribed by the law relating to the county courts. The terms of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, shall be held five times each year on the second Monday in January, March, May, September and November, and each term of said court shall extend over a period of two months; provided, further there shall be a term of said court convened by the judge thereof not later than two weeks after he has qualified as such, as provided by law, and such term when so convened, shall continue until the beginning of the ensuing term, as provided herein. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 1798g. Judge; qualifications; salary.—There shall be elected in said county by the duly qualified voters thereof at each general election a judge of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, who shall be a licensed attorney in this State, well informed in the laws of the State, who shall have resided in, and been actively engaged in the practice of law in Dallas county for a period of not less than four years prior to such general election, who shall hold his office for two years and until his successor shall be duly qualified. The judge of said court shall receive a salary of three thousand ($3,000.00) dollars per annum, payable monthly out of the county treasury by the commissioners' court. [Id., § 7.]

Art. 1798h. Special judge.—A special judge of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, may be appointed or elected as provided for by the laws relating to county courts and the judges thereof. [Id., § 8.]

Art. 1798i. Jurors.—The jurisdiction and authority now vested by law in the county court for the appointment of jury commissioners and the selection and service of jurors shall be exercised by the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2. [Id., § 9.]

Art. 1798j. Vacancy.—Any vacancy in the office of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, shall be filled by the commissioners' court of Dallas county until the next regular election. [Id., § 10.]

Art. 1798k. Fees.—The judge of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, shall collect the same fees as are now stipulated by law relating to the judge of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, all of which shall be by the county clerk paid monthly into the county treasury of Dallas county, in accordance with the orders of the commissioners' court. [Id., § 11.]

Art. 1798l. Transfer of cases.—It shall be the duty of the judge of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, to immediately transfer from the docket of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, to the docket of the County Court of Dallas County, at Law, No. 2, one-half of the civil cases pending upon said docket, which shall be done by beginning with the oldest case pending upon the docket of his court and transferring every second case without reference to whether any particular case be pending upon the jury or non-jury docket of said court. [Id., § 12.]

Art. 1811—31. Same subject.

Jurisdiction conferred.—This article invests the county court of Castro county with such civil jurisdiction as a county court possesses under the general law, despite Act 23d Legislature, curtailing the jurisdiction. Turnbow v. J. E. Bryant Co. (Sup.) 181 S. W. 686.

Transfer of causes.—Where this article took effect while an appeal from justice court was pending in district court, the cause should be transferred to the county court. Turnbow v. J. E. Bryant Co. (Sup.) 181 S. W. 686.
CHAPTER SEVEN

COUNTY COURT AT LAW OF HARRIS COUNTY, TEXAS

Articles 1811—35 to 1811—40.

CHAPTER SEVEN A

COUNTY COURT AT LAW, NO. 2, OF HARRIS COUNTY, TEXAS

Art. 1811—53a. Court created. —There is hereby created a court to be held in Harris County, Texas, to be called the "County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County, Texas." [Act May 28, 1915, 1st C. S., ch. 8, §1.]
Act took effect 90 days after May 28, 1915, date of adjournment.

Art. 1811—53b. Jurisdiction. — Said County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County, Texas, shall have, and it is hereby granted original and appellate jurisdiction, in all matters and causes of a civil and criminal nature, concurrent with and in all things equal to that heretofore conferred upon the County Court at Law of Harris County, Texas. [Id., §2.]

Art. 1811—53c. Powers of judge; concurrent jurisdiction. — The judge of said County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County, Texas, shall have and exercise all the powers and shall be subject to all the limitations and obligations heretofore or hereafter conferred or imposed upon the judge of the County Court at Law of Harris County, Texas. Said County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County, Texas, shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the County Court at Law of Harris County over criminal matters, and shall have the same jurisdiction over criminal matters, that is now vested in county courts having jurisdiction in civil and criminal cases under the Constitution and laws of Texas. And said County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County shall have concurrent jurisdiction with the County Court at Law of Harris County in all appeals from justices, mayors, recorder's or other inferior courts within Harris County; and the judge of said court shall have the same powers, rights and privileges as to criminal matters as are now vested in and enjoyed by the judges of county courts having criminal jurisdiction; provided, however, that said court shall have no jurisdiction over any of those matters the jurisdiction over which is now vested in the County Court of Harris County, or the judge thereof. [Id., §3.]

Art. 1811—53d. Qualifications of judge; appointment; oath; bond; fees and salary. — The judge of the County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County, Texas, shall be well informed in the law; he shall have been a duly licensed and practicing member of the bar of this State for not less than two years; he shall be appointed by the Governor of the State of Texas as soon as may be after this Act takes effect; he shall take the oath of office and execute an official bond as now required by the law relating to county judges, and he shall collect the same fees in civil cases
As are now provided by law in case of county judges, all of which he shall pay monthly into the county treasury, and in lieu of such fees he shall receive a salary of three thousand dollars per annum to be paid out of the county treasury by the Commissioners Court of Harris County in monthly installments of two hundred and fifty dollars each. In addition to the compensation hereinafter provided the judge of the County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County shall tax up, receive and collect in each criminal case the same fees and costs as are now provided by the General Laws of the State for the judges of county courts having criminal jurisdiction, such fees to be retained by him as compensation for the exercise of the criminal jurisdiction herein conferred upon his court. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 1811—53e. Clerk; fees.—The county clerk of Harris County shall be the clerk of said County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County in civil matters and causes; and shall receive and collect the same fees which he now receives and collects as clerk of the County Court at Law of Harris County, Texas. The clerk of the Criminal District Court of Harris County, Texas, shall be clerk of said County Court at Law No. 2 in all criminal matters and causes, and shall receive and collect such fees as he now receives and collects in criminal matters as clerk of the County Court at Law of Harris County. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 1811—53f. Seal.—The seal of the County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County, Texas, shall be the same as that provided by law for county courts, except that such seal shall contain the words “County Court at Law Number Two of Harris County, Texas,” and said seal shall be judicially noticed. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 1811—53g. Sheriffs and constables.—The sheriff of Harris County, either in person or by deputy, shall attend said court when required by the judge thereof; and the various sheriffs and constables of this State executing process issued out of said court shall receive the fees now or hereafter fixed by law for executing process issued out of county courts. [Id., § 7.]

Art. 1811—53h. Special judge.—A special judge of said court may be appointed or elected in the manner and instances now or hereafter provided by the law relating to county courts and the judges thereof. [Id., § 8.]

Art. 1811—53i. Power to issue writs.—Said court shall have power to issue writs of injunction, mandamus, sequestration, attachment, garnishment, certiorari, supersedeas, habeas corpus in criminal misdemeanor cases, and all writs necessary to the enforcement of its jurisdiction; and, within the limitations placed upon county courts, to punish contempt thereof. Writs of injunction granted in civil cases by the judge of said County Court at Law No. 2 and by the judge of said County Court at Law shall be made returnable to the court in which the petition for injunction shall be filed, as hereinafter provided. [Id., § 9.]

Art. 1811—53j. Jurisdiction of County Court at Law.—The jurisdiction, civil and criminal, of the County Court at Law of Harris County, Texas, shall not in anywise be impaired or affected by this Act. [Id., § 10.]

Art. 1811—53k. Terms.—The terms of the court hereby created shall begin on the first Monday of the months of June, August, October, December, February and April of each year. The sessions of said court shall be held in such place as may be provided therefor by the Commissioners Court of Harris County. [Id., § 11.]

Art. 1811—53l. Transfer of cases.—As soon as may be, after this Act takes effect, the clerk of the County Court at Law of Harris County, Texas, shall transfer to the docket of the County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County, Texas, one-half of the civil cases then pending in said County Court at Law. In making such transfer, said Clerk shall first transfer to said County Court at Law No. 2 the case having the smallest file number on the docket of said County Court at Law. The case having the next highest file number shall remain on the docket of said County Court at Law. The case having the third smallest file number shall be transferred. In like manner said clerk shall go through the docket of said County Court at Law, transferring to the docket of said County Court at Law No. 2 every second civil case thereafter. The clerk shall note such transfer, when made, on the minutes of the County Court of Harris County, Texas. New civil and new criminal cases filed with said clerk after such transfer has been made, irrespective of the court or judge to which the petitions in such civil cases shall be address ed, shall, in like manner, be filed by the said clerk, one civil and one criminal case in said County Court at Law No. 2, and one civil and one criminal case in said County Court at Law. The first new civil case and the first new criminal case, filed with said clerk after such transfer has been made, shall both be filed in said County Court at Law No. 2. [Id., § 12.]

Art. 1811—53m. Same.—The judges of said County Court at Law and of said County Court at Law No. 2, in their discretion, either in term time or in vacation, by an order entered upon the minutes of their respective courts, may transfer to the court of the other any case or cases then pending in their respective courts. And when such case or case shall be so transferred the court to which such transfer shall be made shall have the same right and authority to try and finally dispose of the same as the court making such transfer. [Id., § 13.]

Art. 1811—53n. Practice.—The practice in said County Court at Law No. 2, and in cases of appeal and writs of error therefrom and there to, shall be the same as is now, or may hereafter be prescribed for county courts. [Id., § 14.]

Art. 1811—53o. Process in transferred cases.—All process issued out of the County Court at Law of Harris County, Texas, prior to the time when the clerk thereof shall transfer cases from the docket of said courts, as provided in Section 12 of this Act [Art. 1811—53l] in cases transferred as therein provided, shall be returned to and filed in the court hereby created, and shall be equally as valid and binding upon parties to such transferred cases as though such process had been issued out of the County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County, Texas. Likewise, in cases transferred by the judges of either of said courts, as provided in Section 13 of this Act [Art. 1811—53m], all process extant at the time of such transfer shall be returned to and filed in the court to which such transfer is made, and shall be as valid and binding as though originally issued out of the court to which such transfer may be made. [Id., § 15.]

Art. 1811—53p. Appointment of judge; election.—As soon as this Act shall take effect the Governor of the State shall appoint a judge of the County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County, who shall serve until the next general election and until his successor shall be duly elected and qualified. And any vacancy thereafter occurring in the office of the judge of the County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County, created by this Act, shall be filled by the Commissioners Court of Harris County, the appointee thereof to hold office until the next succeeding general election, and until his successor shall have qualified. There shall be elected by the qualified voters of Harris County at each general election hereafter, a judge of the County Court at Law No. 2 of Harris County, who shall hold his office for two years, and until his successor shall be duly qualified. [Id., § 16.]

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

COUNTY COURT OF JEFFERSON COUNTY AT LAW

Article 1811-119. Court created.—There is hereby created a court to be held in Beaumont, Jefferson County, Texas, to be called the County Court of Jefferson County at Law. [Act March 1, 1915, ch. 29, § 1.]

Art. 1811-120. Jurisdiction.—The County Court of Jefferson County at Law shall have jurisdiction in all matters and cases, civil and criminal, original and appellate, over which by the general laws of the State the County Court of said county would have jurisdiction, except as hereinafter provided in Section 3 of this Act [Art. 1811-121], and all cases pending in the County Court of said county other than probate matters such as are provided in Section 3 of this Act, shall be and the same are hereby transferred to the County Court of Jefferson County at Law, and all writs and process, civil and criminal, heretofore issued by or out of said County Court, other than those pertaining to matters which are hereby exempt from this bill that are to remain in the County Court of Jefferson County, shall be and the same are hereby made returnable to the County Court of Jefferson County at Law. The jurisdiction of the County Court of Jefferson County at Law, and to the Judge thereof, shall extend to all matters of eminent domain of which jurisdiction as heretofore vested in the County Court or in the County Judge; but this provision shall not affect the jurisdiction of the Commissioners Court or the County Judge of Jefferson County as the presiding officer of said Commissioners Court as to roads, bridges and public highways, or matters of eminent domain which are now in the jurisdiction of the Commissioners Court or the Judge thereof. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 1811-121. Jurisdiction of other courts.—The County Court of Jefferson County shall retain, as heretofore, the general jurisdiction of the Probate Court and all jurisdiction conferred by law now over probate matters; and the court herein created shall have no other jurisdiction than that named in this bill, and the County Court of Jefferson County as now and heretofore existing shall have all jurisdiction which it now has, save and except that which is given the County Court of Jefferson County at Law in this bill, but the County Court as now existing shall have no other jurisdiction, civil or criminal. The County Judge of Jefferson County shall be the Judge of the County Court of said county, and all ex-officio duties of the County Judge shall be exercised by said Judge of the County Court of Jefferson County, except in so far as the same shall by this bill be committed to the County Court of Jefferson County at Law. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 1811—122. Terms of Court.—The terms of the County Court of Jefferson County at Law, and the practice therein, and the appeals and writs of error therefrom shall be as prescribed by the laws relating to County Courts. The terms of the County Court of Jefferson County at Law shall be held monthly, that is to say, the terms of said court shall be held in the court house of Jefferson County, and begin on the first Monday in each month during the year, and shall end on the last Saturday in each month during the year. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 1811—123. Election of judge; tenure; qualifications.—There shall be elected in Jefferson County by the qualified voters thereof at each general election a Judge of the County Court of Jefferson County at Law, who shall be well informed in the laws of the State, and who shall hold his office for two years and until his successor shall have been duly elected and qualified. No person shall be elected Judge of said court who has not been a resident citizen of Jefferson County, Texas, for at least two years prior to his election, and shall possess all of the qualifications for the office that are now required by the general laws of the State for County Judges. [Id., § 5.]

Sec. 6 relates to criminal business, and is set forth in Vernon's Code Cr. Proc. 1916, as art. 40a.

Art. 1811—124. Appointment of judge.—As soon as this bill becomes effective the Governor shall appoint a Judge of the County Court of Jefferson County at Law, who shall hold his office until the next general election. [Id., § 7.]

Art. 1811—125. Disqualification of judge.—In the case of the disqualification of the County Judge at Law of any case pending in his court, the parties or their attorneys may agree on the selection of a special Judge to try such case or cases; and in default of such agreement a majority of the practicing lawyers of Jefferson County shall elect a Judge to try such cases where the County Judge at Law is disqualified. [Id., § 8.]

Art. 1811—126. Issuance of writs.—The County Court of Jefferson County at Law, or the Judge thereof, shall have power to issue writs of injunction, mandamus, sequestration, attachment, garnishment, certiorari, supersedeas and all writs necessary to the enforcement of jurisdiction of said court, and to issue writs of habeas corpus in such cases where the offense charged is within the jurisdiction of said court, or of any other court in said county of inferior jurisdiction to said county court at law. [Id., § 9.]

Art. 1811—127. Clerk and sheriff.—The County Clerk of Jefferson County, Texas, shall be the clerk of the County Court of Jefferson County at Law, and the seal of said court shall be the same as that provided by law for County Courts, except the seal shall contain the words "County Court of Jefferson County at Law," and the Sheriff of Jefferson County shall in person or by deputy attend said court when required by the Judge thereof, and the County Clerk of Jefferson County, Texas, is hereby authorized, if it becomes necessary, in his judgment, to appoint a deputy to specially attend to the matters pertaining to the County Court of Jefferson County at Law, and said deputy shall be allowed a salary of one hundred dollars per month. [Id., § 10.]

Art. 1811—128. Jury commission; selection of jurors.—The jurisdiction or authority now vested by law in the County Court for the appointment of jury commission and the selection and service of jurors shall be exercised by the County Court of Jefferson at Law. [Id., § 11.]

Art. 1811—129. Vacancy in office of judge.—Any vacancy in the office of the Judge of the County Court of Jefferson County at Law may be filled by the County Commissioners Court, and when so filled the Judge shall hold office until the next general election and until his successor is elected and qualified. [Id., § 12.]

Art. 1811—130. Salary of judge; fees collected and accounted for. —The Judge of the County Court of Jefferson County at Law shall receive a salary of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500.00) per annum, to be paid out of the county treasury of Jefferson County, Texas, on the order of the Commissioners Court of said county, and said salary shall be paid monthly in equal installments. The Judge of the County Court of Jefferson County at Law shall assess the same fees as are now prescribed by law relating to County Judge’s fees all of which shall be collected by the clerk of the court and shall be paid into the county treasury on collection. No part of which shall be paid to the said judge, but he shall draw the salary as above specified in this section. [Id., § 13.]

Art. 1811—131. Appeals from lower courts.—All cases appealed from the Justices’ Court and Recorders’ Court in Jefferson County, Texas, shall be made direct to the County Court of Jefferson County at Law, under the provisions heretofore governing such appeals. [Id., § 14.]

Art. 1811—132. Fees of County Judge.—The County Judge of Jefferson County, at the time this Act goes into effect, shall receive the same compensation in ex officio salary and fees as he would have received had this Act creating the County Court of Jefferson County at Law not been enacted, said compensation to be computed and allowed and ordered paid by the Commissioners Court of said county out of the general fund of said county. [Id., § 15.]

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

EL PASO COUNTY COURT AT LAW

Art. 1811—133. Court created. —That there is hereby created a court to be held in El Paso county, Texas, to be known and designated as the “El Paso County Court at Law.” [Act March 26, 1917, ch. 93, § 1.]

Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.

Art. 1811—134. Jurisdiction. —The El Paso County Court at Law shall have jurisdiction of all civil and criminal matters and causes original and appellate, over which, by the general laws of the State of Texas, the county court of said county would have jurisdiction except as provided in Section 3, of this Act [Art. 1811—135], and all civil and criminal cases other than probate matters and such as are provided in Section 3 of this Act, to be and the same are hereby transferred to the El Paso County Court at Law; and all civil and criminal writs and processes heretofore issued by or out of said county court other than pertaining to matters over which, by section 3 of this Act, jurisdiction remains in the County Court of El Paso county, be and the same are hereby made returnable to the El Paso County Court at Law. The jurisdiction of the El Paso County Court at Law and of the judge thereof shall extend to all matters of eminent domain of which jurisdiction has heretofore rested in the county court of El Paso county, or the judge thereof; but this provision shall not affect the jurisdiction of the commissioners court, or of the county judge of El Paso county as the presiding officer of said court, as to roads, bridges and public highways and matters of eminent domain which are now within the jurisdiction of the commissioners court, or of the judge of the County Court of El Paso county, Texas. [Id., § 2.]

Art. 1811—135. Jurisdiction of county court.—The county court of El Paso county, shall retain as heretofore, its jurisdiction as a juvenile court; its jurisdiction in matters pertaining to liquor licenses, forfeitures and bonds; the general jurisdiction of a probate court; it shall probate wills, appoint guardians of minors, idiots, lunatics, persons non compus mentis, and drunkards, grant letters testamentary and of administration, settle accounts of administrators, executors and guardians; transact all business pertaining to deceased persons; and to apprentice minors as provided by law. The County Judge of El Paso county, shall be the judge of the County Court of El Paso County, and all ex-officio duties of the county judge shall be exercised by said judge of the County Court of El Paso county except in so far as the same shall by this Act be committed to the judge of the El Paso County Court at Law. [Id., § 3.]

Art. 1811—136. Power to issue writs.—Both the said County Court of El Paso county and the El Paso County Court at Law or either of the judges thereof shall have the power to issue writs of injunction, sequestration, attachments, garnishment, certiorari, supersedeas and all other writs necessary to the enforcement of the jurisdiction of said courts; and also power to punish for contempt under such provisions as are, or may be provided by the general laws governing county courts throughout the State, and to issue writs of habeas corpus, in cases where the offense charged is within the jurisdiction of said courts or of any court or tribunal inferior to said courts. [Id., § 4.]

Art. 1811—137. Terms of court.—The terms of the El Paso County Court at Law and the practice therein and appeals and writs of error therefrom shall be, as prescribed by law relating to county courts. The terms of the El Paso County Court at Law shall be held not less than four times each year, and the commissioners court of El Paso county shall fix the time at which said court shall hold its terms, until the same shall be changed according to law. [Id., § 5.]

Art. 1811—138. Appointment of judge; election; qualifications of judge.—The Governor shall appoint some suitable person who is a resident citizen of El Paso county as judge of the El Paso County Court at Law, as herein constituted, who shall hold such office until the next general election after his appointment, and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified, and all vacancies in said office shall also be filled by appointment by the Governor until the next general election thereafter. At the first general election in said county and at each general election thereafter there shall be elected by the qualified voters a judge of the El Paso County Court at Law, who shall be well informed in the laws of this State, who shall hold his office for two years and until his successor shall have been duly elected and qualified; provided that no person shall be eligible for judge of the El Paso County Court at Law by election, unless he shall be a citizen of the United States and of this State; who shall have been a practicing lawyer of this State or a judge of a court in this State for at least four years next preceding his election, and who shall have resided in the county of El Paso for two years next preceding his election. [Id., § 6.]

Art. 1811—139. Bond and oath of judge.—The judge of the El Paso County Court at Law shall execute a bond and take the oath of office as required by law relating to county judges. [Id., § 7.]

Art. 1811—140. Special judge.—A special judge of the El Paso County Court at Law may be appointed or elected as provided by laws relating to county courts and the judges thereof. [Id., § 8.]
Art. 1811—141. Clerk; seal; sheriff.—The county clerk of El Paso county shall be the clerk for the El Paso County Court at Law; the seal of said court shall be the same as that provided for county courts, except that the seal shall contain the words “El Paso County Court at Law.” The sheriff of El Paso county shall, in person or by deputy, attend the court when required by the judge thereof. [Id., § 9.]

Art. 1811—142. Juries.—The jurisdiction and authority now vested by law in the County Court of El Paso County, for the selection and service of jurors shall be exercised by each of said courts, but juries summoned for either of said courts may by order of the judge of the court in which they are summoned be transferred to the other court for service therein and may be used therein as if summoned for the court to which they may be thus transferred. [Id., § 10.]

Art. 1811—143. Fees.—There shall be taxed and collected in the El Paso County Court at Law the same fees provided by law for county judges in similar cases, all of which shall be paid by the clerk monthly into the county treasury, and the judge of said court shall receive a salary of two thousand five hundred ($2500) dollars annually, to be paid monthly out of the county treasury, upon order of the commissioners court. [Id., § 11.]

Art. 1811—144. Removal of judge.—The judge of the El Paso County Court at Law may be removed from office in the same manner and for the same causes as any other county judge may be removed under the laws of this State. [Id., § 12.]

Art. 1811—145. Salary of county judge.—The county judge of El Paso county shall hereafter receive from the county treasury, in addition to the fees allowed him by law, such a salary, for the ex-officio duties, not exceeding in the aggregate of fees and salary that which the existing laws provide for. [Id., § 13.]
CHAPTER ONE
INSTITUTION OF SUITS

Article 1812. [1177] [1181] Suits commenced by petition filed with clerk.

Premature commencement.—Where the cause of action on an accident insurance policy has not matured, the action is premature, and will be abated for that reason. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Knight (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1037.

Matters arising after commencement of suit.—In action on oral contract, held, that plaintiff was entitled to recover, for work performed after institution of suit. Stine Oil & Gas Co. v. English (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1009.

Where suit was prematurely brought, but plaintiff filed amended petition two days after cause of action matured, it was duty of court to tax all costs prior to filing of amendment to plaintiff, and to proceed to judgment, rather than to dismiss case because originally filed prematurely. Potter County v. Boesen (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 787.

Where, at time teacher sued for salary during months covered by her contract during which board refused to let her teach, only seven months had expired, and the contract covered eight months, the mere fact that when suit was tried the eighth month had expired did not permit recovery of the salary for the eighth month. Jones v. Dodd (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1134.

If assignment of improvement certificate was subsequent to filing suit thereon, there would not be any fatal variance between allegata and probata as to ownership. Kerangan v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 626.

Presumption as to lost pleading.—In view of Rev. St. 1911, arts. 1812, 2157, et seq., relating to pleadings and lost pleadings, held that, where corrected transcript contained copy of lost pleading sufficient to support judgment, it would be assumed that the pleading was before court at its rendition of judgment. Wiggins v. First Nat. Bank of Denton (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 735.

DECISIONS IN GENERAL

Demand as condition precedent to suit.—Where plaintiff as soon as he returned to county of the venue, about a year after the exchange of lands in which he claimed to have been defrauded, filed suit to cancel defendant's deed, and tendered a reconveyance, no formal notice or demand for rescission was necessary. Pitt v. Gilbert (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1167.

CHAPTER TWO
PLEADING IN GENERAL

Art. 1819. [1183] [1187] Pleadings defined.

Conclusions of fact or law.—An allegation that defendant became bound to pay plaintiff held a conclusion. Baker v. Hahn (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 448.
Art. 1819  COURTS—DISTRICT AND COUNTY—PRACTICE IN  (Title 37)

Construction of pleadings.—A pleading must be construed most strongly against the pleader. Miller v. Simon (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 63.

Every reasonable intention must be presumed in favor of sufficiency of pleading demurred to. Roberts v. Anthony (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 423.

Issues, proof, and variance.—"Variance" is a disagreement between the allegation and the proof, in some matter which, in point of law, is essential to the charge or defense. Rosby, 166 S. W. 687.

A party asking affirmative relief must lay a predicate for the relief sought in the pleadings, and, to entitle him to such relief, the proof must sustain the allegations. Texas Glass & Paint Co. v. Darnell Lumber Corp. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 965.

Art. 1822.  [1186]  [1190]  Pleading charters and acts of incorporation.

Pleading corporate powers.—The charter powers of a city granted to it by public act need not be pleaded in an action by it. O'Connor v. City of Laredo (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 1091.

Art. 1823.  [1187]  [1191]  Pleading special act of the legislature.

Sufficiency to bring special act into record.—Where both parties pleaded a special law by giving its title and the date of its approval, as authorized by this article, and the entire act was before the court, it must be considered a part of the record on appeal, although not copied into the statement of facts. Altgelt v. Gutzeit (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 220.

Art. 1824.  [1188]  [1192]  Pleadings may be amended.

2. Right to amend and subject-matter of amendment.—Omission of verification on a plea of usury seeking to recover a penalty required by arts. 4982, 4983, is not a jurisdictional defect and may be cured by amendment. Cotton v. Rhea, 166 Tex. 228, 163 S. W. 2.

In trespass to try title claiming tracts specifically described, the allowance of a trial amendment to the petition, so as to claim to recover the same amount of land not specifically located, in the absence of any showing of injury to defendants, held not an abuse of discretion. Davis v. Collins (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1128.

The trial court can permit a defendant corporation to correct a defective affidavit in support of a plea of personal privilege by permitting the president of the corporation to swear to it in lieu of the affidavit of the attorney. Kelly v. A. B. Crouch Grain Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 630.

In a personal injury action, where the answer pleaded contributory negligence, it was within the trial court's discretion to permit plaintiff at the trial to amend the petition so as to deny contributory negligence. Terrell Sewerage Co. v. Stiles (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1063.

Where plaintiff moved for judgment on the pleadings because the answer had not been verified, the court may properly allow the answer to be verified by way of amendment and then deny the motion. Teal v. Laney (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 788.

There is no error in not striking out an amendment of a petition, stating definitely the damages at a higher figure than estimated in the petition. Da Moth & Rose v. Hillsbورو Independent School Dist. (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 437.

Where an injunction has been dissolved, complainant by amendment or by supplemental bill may procure a second injunction, but not upon grounds set up in the first bill or which should have been set up therein. Birchfield v. Bourland (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 422.

3. Matters arising or discovered after original pleading.—Notwithstanding arts. 1824, 1825, and rule 27 for district courts (142 S. W. xix), held, that defendant should have been granted leave to amend an answer setting up a good defense, though his general denial did not put in issue averments of the petition; plaintiff having unexpectedly dismissed his pleading against principal defendant. Coury v. Eastman (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 96.

The lessors, suing for installments of rent, may recover installments accruing after action and before trial, making claim therefor by amendments. Gardner v. Sittig (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 721.

4. New cause of action or defense.—Where insured sought a recovery for the destruction of a concrete building, and defendant sought to avoid liability because of additional insurance for an iron building, a supplemental petition alleging that, if the policy included such building, the inclusion was fraudulent, did not set up a new cause of action. Fire Ass'n of Philadelphia v. Strayborn (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 901.

An amended petition, pleading in confession and avoidance of matter in the answer does not set up a new cause of action though the same should be pleaded by supplemental petition. Washington County State Bank v. Central Bank & Trust Co. of Houston (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 486.

Amendment to petition in action on policy of life insurance claiming a recovery in an amount $6 less than sought held not a fatal variance. American Nat. Ins. Co. v. Burnside (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 163.

Plaintiffs may amend their petition to correctly describe the block of land for injury to which they sue, though they set up a new action. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Texas v. McDermitt (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 509.

Where the original petition declares on an express contract, an amended petition, declaring on an implied contract, presents a different cause of action. Green v. Hoopes (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1117.

The holder of a vendor's lien note who obtains also the legal title may after instituting foreclosure amend his pleadings and sue for rescission, or he may ask for rescission or foreclosure in the alternative. Moon v. Sherwood (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 628.

A complaint, in action for services in locating timber in a certain county, is not changed to a new cause of action by amendment alleging that the timber was to be in plaintiffs' favor. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1001.

Where a broker's petition for commissions alleged that the price at which he was to sell the land was $8,000, $2,500 to be paid in cash, a subsequent amendment, repeating the allegations of the petition, except that the amount of cash was not to be less than $2,500, did not allege a new cause of action. Rabenwitz v. Smith Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 197.

Where evidence under third amendment could have been offered under its first and second, the same defenses urged, the same damages recovered, and recovery upon either having the same cause of action is pleaded by the third. Silver Valley Horse Co. v. C. V. Evans & Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 794.

In action for wrongful death, amendment of allegation that blow caused death by reciting that deceased suffered shock to his back, etc., mere amplification, and does not authorize a new cause of action. Texas & Ry. Co. v. Hughes (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1091.

Amendment or further pleading after sustaining of demurrer or exception.—After a general demurrer to a petition in conversion of property, on which plaintiff claimed a mortgage was sustained, it would not have availed plaintiff to have amended his pleading to object thereto presented by defendants' special exception. Oswald v. Giles (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 677.

Where the court sustained plaintiff's exceptions to pleas of waiver and estoppel, and no amendment thereof was filed, the issue was not in the case, and could not be considered by the court. Vaden v. Buck (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 318.

Discretion of court in general.—The right to file an amended pleading is not an absolute right, but is within the discretion of the trial court. Houston Oil Co. of Tex. v. Reese-Corriher Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 745.

Condition of cause and time for amendment.—Under arts. 1824, 1835, and rule 18 1/2 under the code, court has discretion (199 Tex. ann.) permitting amendments to be filed five days before trial in suit by an agent for commissions, in which the buyer of the lands intervened, refused to permit the intervener to file an amendment to his cross-bill held erroneous. Vaden v. Buck (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 318.

Amendment ready for trial in any case amendment of court the rule of court to permit plaintiff to file a supplemental petition after the parties had announced ready for trial and after the exceptions to the plaintiff's petition had been overruled. Cotton v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 465.

Where defendant's answer in a suit to cancel a purchase of school land alleged improvements of the value of $210.17, it was proper to permit an amendment, another announcement of ready, setting up other and additional improvements. Elza v. State (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 632.

The allowance of a supplemental petition after announcement of ready for trial held an abuse of discretion on account of delay, though this article, as to time for filing pleadings, was not mandatory. Kimbrell v. Chase (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 861.

The statute declaring that the court may permit amendments to pleadings before announcing ready on the merits and not thereafter is directory, and the court in its discretion may permit a supplemental petition to be filed after the jury have been selected and the other pleadings ready to the court and jury. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Shumate (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1060.

Trial amendments in general.—The office of a "trial amendment" is to supply allegations in a pleading after exception thereto has been sustained. Cotton v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 455.

The court abused its discretion in refusing to permit plaintiff to amend his petition to allege the facts constituting admissible evidence of damages, where the court had sustained the petition on damages. Caswell v. J. S. McCall & Sons (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1001.

It is within the discretion of the trial court to permit a trial amendment to the petition, even though exceptions have been sustained. Texas Co. v. Earles (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 28.

Where a broker brought suit on an express contract to pay him a specified sum for the sale of a ranch, a trial amendment seeking to recover on a quantum meruit stated a new cause of action, and was unauthorized under this article. Jackson v. Blair (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 522.

An amended petition, which merely amplifies the allegations of the original petition by pleading more in detail the facts on which the original cause of action is based, is but a continuation of the original suit, and is properly allowed during the trial. Washington County State Bank v. Central Bank & Trust Co. of Houston (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 456.

Defendant was not entitled to amend his answer during the trial to set up a deed of trust, with a defense thereon, where the circumstances put him on inquiry. Ablon v. Wheeler & Morier Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 527.

Where there is a misdescription of the note sued on as to date and amount corrected by trial amendment, an assignment or error will not lie thereto, where defendants were not misled or surprised, the record showing that they were only expected to defend against one note and mortgage. Memphis Cotton Oil Co. v. Gist (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1690.

In trespass to try title, allowance of trial amendment, alleging that plaintiffs were owners as innocent purchasers for value, was not an abuse of discretion. Keppler v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 355.

The discretion of the court in refusing an amendment offered after trial has begun, which would probably cause delay in trial, is not reviewable. Bender v. Bennett (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 735.

It was not intended by the rule allowing trial amendments that an amendment so filed might be made matter of right to include new causes of action or new defenses. Id.
13. Amendment to conform to proof.—In proceedings for the appointment of a receiver, it was not error to permit the plaintiffs to file a trial amendment after the evidence was closed and argument had begun, and to consider such amendment as a basis for the appointment. Hart-Parr Co. v. Alvin-Japanese Nursery Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 697.

14. Notice or citation.—Where a judgment for plaintiff was rendered on an amended petition alleging a new cause of action not set up in the original pleadings, and of the filing of which defendant had neither actual nor constructive notice, and neither he nor his counsel were present in court at the time of trial, the judgment will be set aside. Thomas Goggan & Bros. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 119.

15. Amendment of pleading.-The article defendant was entitled to notice of the filing of an amended petition alleging a new cause of action, though it had filed exceptions to the original petition. Id.

Amendment of petition being filed with leave in open court after defendant has answered it has constructive notice thereof when it is filed. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. McDermitt (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 569.

In a suit a vendor's lien, amendments describing the land so differently from the original petition as to describe different land, set up a new cause of action, of which defendant should have had notice to make judgment by default valid. Gilles v. Miners' Bank of Carterville, Mo. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 284.

Where there was no error in amendment.—There was no error in permitting plaintiff to state what he intended to include in proposed trial amendment to be afterwards reduced to writing, such matters being within the discretion of the court, and it not appearing that it harmed defendant. American Nat. Ins. Co. v. Burnside (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 169.

Petition for interlocutory decree on the basis of the amount of damages for medical attention and drugs was within the trial court's discretion. Caffarelli Bros. v. Bell (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 225.

19. Operation and effect of amendment.—Where, in trespass to try title, defendant, relying on the defense of limitations, showed possession under a duly recorded deed for 19 years, and that the actual occupancy was on land within the boundaries of the grant under which plaintiff claimed, defendant could not be deprived of the defense of limitations by plaintiff's amended pleading disclosing title to the land actually occupied. Stevens v. Crosby (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 56.

A petition, amended petition, and second amended petition cannot be construed together to support a judgment, where they do not conform to District and County Court Rules 13, 14 (142 S. W. xvii). Smith v. Tipps (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 515.

Filing an amended answer held an abandonment of the former answer. Sanford v. Cob (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 584.

An amended petition, containing the allegations of the original petition, seeking a recovery on an account and adding a demand on quantum meruit, held not to prevent recovery on the account. Green v. Hoppe (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1117.

27. Supplemental petition.—The basis of a plaintiff's cause of action should not be left to be found in the supplemental petition. J. I. Case Threshing Mach. Co. v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 682.

In considering the propriety of the action of the lower court in sustaining a demurrer to the petition, the appellate court cannot consider the allegations of a supplemental petition. Swanson v. Nacogdoches (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 83.

Plaintiff can allege by supplemental petition that defendant was indebted to him when the deed under which intervener claimed was executed to defraud defendant's creditors. First State Bank of Blackwell v. Knox (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 594.

Where an intervener claimed the property under a deed from defendant, a supplemental petition, alleging that the deed was executed to defraud defendant's creditors, did not state a new cause of action. Id.

Under District Court Rules 4 and 5 (142 S. W. xvii), the court in determining the cause of action stated need not consider the supplemental petition. Gossett v. Vaughan (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 933.

A supplemental petition may not, under district court rule 10 (142 S. W. xviii), be considered, in determining whether demurrer to petition should be sustained. Merchants & Bankers' Fire Underwriters v. Williams (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 859.

28. Supplemental answer.—When there was no answer filed to an original plea of privilege, a supplemental plea of privilege is unauthorized. Melville v. Wickham (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1128.

Where a supplemental petition consisted solely of exceptions and denials, and alleged no new matter, there was no place in the pleadings for a supplemental answer. City of Brownsville v. Tumlinson (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1107.

29. Repleader.—Where a suit to cancel vendor's liens and recover the purchase money paid was consolidated with a suit to foreclose the lien notes, the court should have required the parties to replead. Wright v. Chandler (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1173.
Art. 1825. [1189] [1193] Time of filing amendment.

Surprise to adverse party.—Notwithstanding arts. 1824, 1825, and rule 27 for district courts (142 S. W. XIX), held, that defendant should have been granted leave to file an amended answer, though his general denial did not put in issue averments of the petition; plaintiff having unexpectedly dismissed as to principal defendant. Cooney v. Eastman (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 96.

Under this article held, that court in its discretion properly sustained a motion to strike out a plea of non est factum filed on day of trial without notice. Braxton v. Voyles (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 965.

Art. 1826. [1190] [1194] Pleadings amended after arrest of judgment, etc.

Forms of action.—Under arts. 1826, 1827, there are no forms of action in this state, all suits being conducted by petition and answer, and the court may render such judgment as will meet the allegations of the petition. O'Neal v. Bush & Tillar (Sup.) 173 S. W. 809, reversing Judgment of O'Neal v. O'Neal (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 243. Judgment reversed on rehearing O'Neal v. Bush & Tillar (Sup.) 177 S. W. 953.

DECISIONS IN GENERAL

2. Demurrer or exception—Grounds for demurrer or exception in general.—Where the petition in an action by a foreign corporation alleges facts showing an intrastate transaction, and does not state that it has a permit to transact business in the state, the issue of its right to do business in the state may be raised by exception. First State Bank of Teague v. Hadden (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1168.

It was error to sustain a so-called exception to a petition, which was in fact a defensive pleading. Millard v. Nacogdoches County (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 828.

An objection which states two separate causes of action which were misjoined may be corrected by exception, subject to the discretion of the court. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Cross (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 997.

An against a general exception a petition must be tested by its allegations, and not by the evidence introduced thereunder. Ana v. Rutland (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 993.

In determining an exception to an answer, the court held to have properly considered the exceptions, where the answer in effect admitted the allegations thereof. Young v. Bank of Miami (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1102.

5. Statute of frauds and of limitations.—Where the petition did not show that a contract for the sale of real estate was oral, an exception to the petition for failure to allege a contract in writing was properly overruled. Fahey v. Benedetti (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 986.

A petition for a vendor's breach of a contract for the sale of land not subject to an exception that the contract as alleged did not sufficiently describe the land to comply with the statute of frauds. Spaulding v. Smith (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 827.

In the absence of allegations in the petition that plaintiff, in action of trespass to try title, held the land in suit for commercial purposes, the issue of the company's power to acquire title by limitation for that purpose cannot be raised by exceptions. Buchanan v. Hattiesburg Cable & T. W. Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 628.

Where the petition did not show that the land in suit had been dedicated to public use, the issue of whether plaintiff railway company could acquire title by limitation to that character of land could not be raised by special exception. Id.

Jurisdiction.—Privilege to be sued in county of residence may be raised by exception to petition, where the facts appear in the petition. Holmes v. Coulson (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 628.

7. Demurrer to part of pleading or to pleading good in part.—An exception to five counts in a petition of reconversion was properly overruled where one of the counts stated a proper counterclaim. Gillispie v. Ambrose (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 897.

Exception to five counts in plea of reconversion for misjoinder by which it was proposed to strike them out and permit other counts to remain, held properly overruled, as the entire pleading is to be stricken, leaving it to the pleader to select such portions of the plea as he may see fit. Id.

When the sufficiency of allegations is tested by demurrer, they must be considered in connection with the other allegations of the petition. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Graham (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 56.

Petition for specific performance of a contract for two tracts is not subject to general demurrer, because description of one tract is insufficient. Wooten v. Dermott Townsite Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 898.

Where a petition to establish a trust stated a cause of action at least as to one-half of $31/60 of the estate claimed by plaintiffs, a general demurrer should not be sustained. Briggs v. McBride (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1123.

If a petition to which general demurrer was filed stated cause of action in any particular, demurrer was properly overruled. Southwest Portland Cement Co. v. Latta & Happer (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1115.

In an action on open account supported by plaintiff by the statutory affidavit a general demurrer to a defendant's entire answer is properly overruled, where defendant files as part of his answer a cross-action properly pleaded. Padgett Bros. Co. v. Dorsey (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1124.

8. General demurrer or exception.—On a general demurrer or exception all reasonable Interpleens must be resolved in favor of the pleading. Millard v. Nacogdoches County (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 828; Blum v. Kusenberg (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 779; Ad-
A petition, which incorrectly alleges the measure of damages for a breach of contract, is not subject to general demurrer. Swartz v. Park (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 338.

A petition, in an action against a railroad for the penalty for an overcharge, though subject to special exceptions for failing to state that the charges were in excess of those fixed by the Railroad Commission, held not subject to attack by general demurrer. San Antonio & A. F. Ry. Co. v. Bracht (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 376.

A petition seeking damages to the amount of the difference between the contract price and market value, for failure to convey land that defendant did not own when he contracted to sell it, which did not allege fraud or a willful refusal to convey, was subject to general demurrer, as plaintiff was not entitled to recover such damages. Bird v. Lester (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 112.

Where the causal connection between the negligence of the master and the injury to the servant is sufficiently shown by reasonable deduction from the facts set up in the petition, the privilege against general demurrer, although a special exception to its sufficiency in that respect would have been well taken. Hotel Dieu v. Armendariz (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 131.

An exception to a general demand for loss to a stock of shoes held a general exception within District and County Courts Rule 18 (142 S. W. xviii), and properly overruled. Ara v. Rutland (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 998.

Though an answer was opened to exceptions for uncertainty, it may be sufficient as against a general demurrer. James Mc Cord Co. v. Rea (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 649.

An answer presenting a good defense is good against a general demurrer, though it contains matters which should be stricken out upon special exception. Brown v. Davis (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 842.

That the set-off and counterclaim pleaded by defendant did not distinctly state the nature of the counterclaim and the several items thereof as required by arts. 1326 and 1329, and caused damage by general demurrer, must be properly reached by special exceptions. Ajax-Grieb Rubber Co. v. Hubbard (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 568.

The want of allegations in petition to recover on policy that no administration of plaintiff’s father, the original beneficiary, was pending, and that none was necessary, could not properly be raised upon a general demurrer. Modern Woodmen of America v. Yanovsky (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 728.

If a petition is defective in failing to plead several alternative allegations by separate counts, special exceptions should be made on that ground, which a general exception will not reach. Rabinowitz v. Smith Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 197.

Insufficient itemization of an account does not subject a petition to general demurrer. Russek v. Wind, Ems & Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 584.

A special exception which asserted that defendant was not bound by the contract sued on, because it was an oral one, and that plaintiff therefore stated no cause of action, was general. City of Brownsville v. Tumlinson (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1107.

An exception, though directed specially to a particular paragraph of the answer, held a general demurrer, as it set up no specific reason why the answer failed to set up a defense. Bolt v. State Savings Bank of Manchester, Iowa (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1119.

An exception to the petition as seeking to enforce a contract illegal as violative of the Uniform or Interstate Commerce Act, or the margin therein, or the Missouri or Marketable Title Act, or the Kansas or Missouri statutes, not only points out the particular pleading excepted to, but shall also point out the insufficiency in its allegations, will be regarded as a general demurrer. Vickrey v. Dockray (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1160.

In an action for salary by a city officer, failure of the petition to set out in how many or in substance the ordinance creating the office could be taken advantage of only by special exception. City of San Antonio v. Bodeman (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1043.

A special exception which asserted that defendant was not bound by the contract sued on, because it was an oral one, and that plaintiff therefore stated no cause of action, was general. City of Brownsville v. Tumlinson (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1107.
the lower court waived its demurrer did not prevent it from raising the question on appeal.

Unless an exception to an answer and to a plea in intervention was called to the attention of the trial court and action thereon requested, the exception was waived in the court below. Slaughter v. Bank of Texline (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 542.

A later-stage suit against city, for price of land sold for reservoir and to foreclose implied lien, where general demurrer to petition, which did not affirmatively show no provision had been made by city to provide for payment of the debt, as required by Const. art. 11, §§ 5, 7, was not called to attention of, or acted on, by court below, defendant waived right of City v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 797. Wiseman v. Reynolds (Civil App.) 152 S. W. 281.

In an action against a railroad on notes, not approved by the railroad commission as a condition of validity under arts. 6717-6732, the issue of fact raised by a supplemental plea that the road was suburban, excepted by act, held not controlled by demurrer. Davis v. Fort Worth Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 593.

14. — Hearing and determination.—Where the court decides that a petition states no cause of action, it is unnecessary to consider the petition with reference to special demurrers. Blum v. Kusenberger (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 779.

The sustaining of defendant's exception to plaintiff's exceptions to a pleading is in effect merely the overruling of plaintiff's exceptions. Ross v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 513.

In passing on a pleading as against demurrer, the court must consider everything as properly alleged and omitted by either party in the pleadings, and considered for that purpose, and in the light of the exceptions made. Bolt v. State Savings Bank of Manchester, Iowa (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1119.

17. — Objections and objections and waiver thereof.—An assignment of error, in trespass to try title, that, appellant having paid a certain sum for the land in controversy, if appellee claimed that appellant acquired it as trustee for appellee's benefit he should have offered in his pleadings to do equity by reimbursing appellant for the price was really an objection to the sufficiency of the pleadings and should have been presented as an exception to the pleading making that issue. Sullivan v. Fount (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 612, affirmed and exception to a defective pleading was taken to a degree of unfitness was not open to review. Houston Packing Co. v. Dunn (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 634.

If a general demurrer is well taken, it should be sustained at any stage of the proceedings. City of Brownsville v. Tumlinson (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1107.

19. — Allegations subsequent pleading.—A subsequent pleading will not cure defects or omissions in the original petition, but such defects must be cured by amendment. Fink v. San Augustine Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 35.

Allegations of petition to recover for breach of contract for exchange of realty, added by answer, held defective for failure to allege market values of the properties. Montgomery v. McCaskill (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 797.

21. — Cure by pleadings of adverse party.—Though the petition showed that a note was barred by limitations, the error is cured where the answer showed that the note was not due until a later date falling within the period of limitations. Cox v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 604.

In an action involving the disposition of trust property, defendants impleaded by the trustee, against whom plaintiffs brought their action, cannot complain that the petition did not state such defendants as parties to the action, if it is alleged that it was not due until a later date falling within the period of limitations. Cox v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 604.

The defects in the pleadings of one party may be cured by averments in the pleadings of the other. Childress v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 78.

The failure of defendant's answer to show that plaintiff, the wife of the possessor of land against whom a judgment had been recovered, was a party to that action so as to be bound by the judgment, is cured where plaintiff's petition showed that the property was the community estate of herself and her husband. Childress v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 604.

Where plaintiff's decedent, while riding in an ambulance, received fatal injuries in a collision between the ambulance and railroad train, and plaintiff failed to charge the railroad company with operating a proper lookout, such omission was not cured by such allegation in the answer of the owner of the ambulance so as to entitle plaintiff to the benefit thereof. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Kennon (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 667.

19. — Allegations of injuries sustained for damages to property, in not showing causal connection between the master's negligence and the injury, an answer.
which alleged that the proximate cause of the injuries, if any, was the negligence of fellow servants, cured the defect in the petition. Hotel Dieu v. Armendaris (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 181.

In an action for an accounting between agents who had agreed to share commissions on sales of stock, the petition's want of a material allegation held supplied by its being set out in the pleadings. Halle v. Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1390.

In an action on a policy of benefit insurance, where plaintiff beneficiary alleged specifically the duty of defendant to notify decease of suspension, it was not necessary for defendant to allege notice before introducing evidence that all delinquent members were duly notified. Cola v. Knights of Maconhees of the World (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 699.

In trespass to try title, allegations of the defendant's answer held to supply deficiency as to pleadings as to title or common source or claim of separate property. Martinez v. De Barroso (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 740.

The allegations of the answer may be used to aid and supplement those of the petition. Montgomery v. McCaskill (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 797.

In a trespass against a railroad company which had resumed possession of the property to allege that the acts of the receiver complained of were authorized by the court is not cured by an answer alleging that such acts were without authority. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Weaver (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 984.

22. Waiver in general.—Plaintiff's failure to answer special matter of defense, as required by art. 1829, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 127, § 3, with the result that any fact so pleaded and not denied shall be taken as confessed, was waived where, without objection, there was a trial as though there were a denial, and defendant requested in-striuction in the defense. The matters thereby alleged as controverted issues to the jury. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Tomlinson (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 217.

Plaintiff's failure to deny a special defense, as required by the statute, held waived by failure to file to call the court's attention thereto. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Loyd (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 721.

23. Waiver of objections to petition or complaint in general.—Though failure of the petition to allege necessary facts only rendered it subject to special exception, plaintiff is not excused from proving such facts. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Short (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 601.

Where, though objection charging defendants with fault in connection with contract negotiated by brokers was general, it was not excepted to for that reason, held that it had standing as a plea fixing responsibility on defendants. Levy v. Duncan Realty Co. (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 673, denying rehearing Levy v. Duncan Realty Co., 178 S. W. 984,

Where a railway company and its contractor litigated with a subcontractor's creditors the amount due such subcontractor, they cannot urge upon appeal, for first time, that the issue was not presented by the pleadings. Texas Bldg. Co. v. Collins (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 494.

Where trial court's attention was not called to the conflicting allegations of the petition by exception thereto, the question could not be raised on appeal. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Meseks (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 561.

That petition for injunction was not properly verified as required by Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St! 1914, art. 4649, should be raised in the trial court by exception, and failure to except is waiver of insufficiency of affidavit. Collin County School Trustees v. 83M (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 216.

Sufficiency of petition as against general demurrer can be raised for first time on appeal. Dawson v. George (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 495.

The objection that a divorce petition was insufficient for failure to deny charges of inidelity alleged will not be considered on appeal, where not raised either in pleadings or motion for new trial. Hill v. Hill (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 726.

The petition not having been excepted to, every reasonable intention must be given it in favor of its sufficiency. Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 213.

24. Misjoinder of causes of action and duplicity.—An exception to a petition for misjoinder of causes of action, not called to court's attention, is presumptively waived. United States & Co. v. Southern Packing Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 570.

In a servant's action for injuries against a master and an industrial insurer, the insurer may waive the joinder of an action over against it on the policy by the master. Southwestern Surety Ins. Co. v. Thompson (Civ App.) 180 S. W. 947.

A misjoinder of causes of action may be waived. Madden v. Shane (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 908.

25. Failure to state cause of action.—Where a petition shows on its face that no action can be maintained, the failure of the defendants to demur or except is not a waiver of the defect which can be taken advantage of by answer. Garrett v. A. O. Adams Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 320.

An objection that plaintiffs' petition does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action may be urged for the first time on appeal. Pierce Fordyce Oil & Wood v. Woods (Civ App.) 180 S. W. 1181.

Objection that the suit is based on an illegal contract, when the petition discloses it, may be made at any stage, as it goes to the substance of the petition. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Landa & Storey (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 358.

26. Waiver of objections to plea or answer.—Error in overruling a special exception to defendant's insufficient plea of res judicata was waived by agreement that all judgments previously rendered in the case should be considered in evidence. Arlington Heating & Lighting Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 118.

Defendant, by not excepting to the answer to his cross-action nor moving for judgment on the pleadings, but introducing evidence, waived failure of such answer to specifically deny an item pleaded in the cross-action. Tabet Bros. Co. v. Higginbothom (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 113.

Where, in trespass to try title, defendant pleaded the three-year statute of limitations and not guilty to the first count of plaintiff's petition, and no exception was taken thereto, plaintiff waived her right to a better plea. Hughes v. Hughes (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 457.
Plaintiff cannot on appeal complain that the answer of defendant did not state the legal effect or the conflict relied upon, where no special exception was taken to the answer on that account. Sanger v. First Nat. Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1087.

Where appellant urged no exception to the sufficiency of defendant's plea, and failed to commit material questions to the jury, those matters cannot be complained of on appeal. Taylor v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1142.

In garnishment proceedings, where supplement, as called, and other portion, of traverse were attached, and made part of each other by allegation, in absence of special exceptions to traverse, they were attached, or that traversal should be looked to by Court of Civil Appeals. Gerlach Mercantile Co. v. Hughes-Bozarth-Anderson Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 784.

Where exceptions were omitted in a supplemental answer, instead of an amended answer, is an irregularity, so that, in the absence of exception on this account, error because of this in sustaining them is waived. Paddleford v. Wilkinson (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 467.

23. — Objections to rulings on demurrer or exception. — Assignments of error to the sustaining of exceptions to portions of defendant's answer will not be considered on appeal, where the record does not show that the exceptions were ever presented or ruled on by the court. Wauhop v. Sauvage's Heirs (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 185.

Sustaining of demurrers to answer is reviewable on appeal from judgment on directed verdict for plaintiff, though defendant did not object to peremptory instruction. Farrar v. Holt (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 618.

Where a general demurrer as well as special exceptions were sustained to an answer which presented a good defense, though it was open to special exceptions, the judgment will on defendant's appeal be reversed, though he failed to complain of the sustaining of the exceptions. Brown v. Davis (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 842.

Where a general demurrer which is well taken, the case will be reversed for fundamental error. City of Brownsville v. Tuminson (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1197.

Where petition clearly showed it stated a cause of action within jurisdiction of court, but did not present to the court the right to sustain the sustaining of an exception to the petition and assessing of costs up to that time against him, the matter would be reviewed on appeal. Opiela v. Manka (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1108.

Whether a petition is subject to general demurrer is a question of fundamental error, so that it is immaterial that exceptions to the overruling of such demurrer do not appear in the transcript. General Eonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. McCurdy (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 796.

The Court of Civil Appeals, in the absence of an exception by the appellant noted of record and presented in an assignment to trial court's action in sustaining a codefendant's exception to allegation of petition, could not review the ruling. Texas Glass & Paint Co. v. Del Corp. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 985.

If there was error in sustaining general demurrer to the petition, plaintiff waived it by filing an amended petition. Apache Cotton Oil & Mfg. Co. v. Watkins & Kelly (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1038.

In a suit by beneficiary in policy of fraternal benefit insurance for use of his assignee, where defendant demurred to petition, and after demurrer was overruled admitted cause of action to acquire right to open and close under Rule No. 31 (142 S. W. xx), he did not waive his right to complain of ruling on demurrer. American Ins. Union v. Allen (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1087.

24. — Objections to amendments and supplemental pleadings and rulings relating thereto. — Where special plea of want of jurisdiction was presented in an amended answer, leave to file which had been granted, the court must hear and determine in the absence of any objections to the plea or motion to strike it out. Day v. Mercer (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 764.

That special exception in plaintiff's supplemental petition was not in due course of pleadings when first made in the record, as a Court of Civil Appeals. Scruggs v. E. L. Woodley Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 897.

A motion to strike supplemental answers, filed after all parties had announced ready for trial, and plaintiffs had rested their case on pleadings, held too late. Carr v. Grand Lodge, United Brothers of Friendship of Texas (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 510.

Inaction to restrain illegal sale of intoxicating liquors, defendant cannot object to amendment allowed at trial, where he made no application for continuance. Ætna Club v. State (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1106.

20. — Want or insufficiency of indorsement or verification. — Failure of defendants to verify their answer may be waived by plaintiffs filing only a general exception thereto. Taber v. Eyler (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 490.

The failure of the plaintiff or his attorney to sign his petition, as required by statute, is a mere irregularity, and, unless excepted to or motion made to strike in the lower court, it will be held waived. O'Donnell v. Chambers (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 138.

Failure to verify a plea of failure of consideration is waived, unless objected to in the trial court before going to trial. St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co. v. Wall (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 577.

Where case was tried by defendant without asserting that plaintiff's failure to deny plea of limitations under oath admitted it, the error was waived. Shaw v. Thompson Bros. Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 574.

The failure to verify a petition was waived by the defendant where he did not invoke the benefit of the statute requiring the petition to be verified. Wedgeworth v. Smith (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 641.

30. — Want or insufficiency of replication or other denial. — Any right of defendant to judgment on the pleadings, beause of absence of reply to allegations of the answer, is waived by proceeding to trial without claim thereof. Memphis Cotton Oil Co. v. Tolbert (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 369; Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Carmack (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 156; Denison Cotton Mill Co. v. McAmis (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 621. 389
Plaintiff's failure to deny special pleas of contributory negligence, as required by art. 1791, as amended, Act 286, Leg. c. 137, is waived, defendant not relying thereon, at the trial, by request that such plea be taken as confessed, but only requesting an instruction for a verdict, without embodying such contention therein or in the objection to the refusal thereof. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Andrews (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 218.

An objection that the reply did not specifically deny allegations in the answer held waived by defendant's failure properly to object and by a trial as if answer had been denied. Hill County Cotton Oil Co. v. Oatlings (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 597.

An action on notes, where the defendants did not avail themselves of plaintiffs' failure to deny their allegation of a credit, introducing evidence as if issue had been joined thereon, defendants waived plaintiffs' failure to deny the credit, and could not complain of judgment not allowing therefor. Bybee v. Austin & Riley (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 237.

In the absence of a motion for judgment on the pleadings, the failure of either party to specifically deny affirmative matter will be a waiver of that right. Kansas City Southern Ry. v. Johnson (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 944.

Failure to reply to an answer alleging contributory negligence held waived by failure to move for judgment on the pleadings. Tekarkana & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Rea (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 946.

Where a surety, when sued on contract of suretyship, having alleged fraud in securing his signature, to which plaintiff failed to reply, went to trial without moving for judgment on the pleadings, and made no objection to evidence, he waived the objection that there was no reply. Gulf Live Stock Ins. Co. v. Love (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 765.

Where the railroad company went to trial without objecting to a shipper's failure to controvert the averments of defense in the answer, held, that its right to insist that the answer was confessed was waived. Southern Kansas Ry. Co. of Texas v. Hughey (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 361.

Right of defendant to have special defenses pleaded and not denied by plaintiff taken as confessed may be waived. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. v. Cole (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 137.

33. Objections to evidence on ground of variance.—In an action to recover for furnishing water to a city, which agreed to require water users to install meters, etc., held that where the city did not withdraw its announcement of ready for trial, it could not, on appeal, complain of the admission of evidence of the names of users who had not installed meters, on the ground that it was surprised because the supplemental petition did not name them. City of Comanche v. Hoff & Harris (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 135.

34. Aider by verdict or judgment.—Error, if any, in overruling a special exception to a petition, alleging that usurious payments of interest were made to defendant's agent, but not showing that he had more than one agent, was cured by judgment for plaintiff upon evidence conclusively showing that defendant had but one agent. Cotton v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 465.

The objection of variance cannot be raised after verdict. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 289.

In a servant's action for injury, where promise of an alleged vice principal was not declared upon as promise to remove risk of danger from negligence of fellow servants, it could not, after judgment, be given such effect. Medlin Milling Co. v. Mims (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 968.

Judgment reciting defendant's appearance and his withdrawal of his answer held in nature of judgment by confession, and to operate as waiver of alleged error, in that the court, when rendering judgment, did not have before it pleading sufficient to support judgment. Wiggins v. First Nat. Bank of Denton (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 35.

When not questioned by demurrer the petition after verdict and judgment should be liberally construed. Decatur Cotton Seed Oil Co. v. Bellow (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 607.

In absence of exception, petition in action by contractor held to authorize charge and verdict either upon quantum meruit or for balance of contract price. King v. Collins (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 859.

A verdict for exemplary damages in an action against a telegraph company for negligence in delivery not cure the defect of the petition, in that it did not allege that the act of the company's agent in changing the name of the addressee was directed or ratified by the company, or that the latter was negligent in selecting the employee. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Schoonmaker (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 263.

Where defendant city waived demurrer to plaintiff's petition, after verdict and judgment for plaintiff, petition should receive most liberal construction, and should be held sufficient if its terms are broad enough to support recovery on any theory. City of Ft. Worth v. Reynolds (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 501.

36. Controlling election.—In an action by the widow of a railroad employé for his death, pleadings intended to meet proof of his engagement either In Intrastate or interstate commerce at death held not improper as an attempt to recover under federal and state statutes at once, so as to require an election. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Reek (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 336.

In action against telephone company and its manager for slander, plaintiff should be required to elect to proceed against both jointly for slander by the manager as agent for the company, or for those uttered by the manager in his individual capacity. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Long (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 451.
CHAPTER THREE
PLEADINGS OF THE PLAINTIFF

Art. 1827.  Requisites of the petition.
Art. 1828.  Defensive matters by plaintiff.

Article 1827.  [1191] [1195] Requisites of the petition.—The petition shall set forth clearly the names of the parties and their residences, if known, with a full and clear statement of the cause of action, and such other allegations pertinent to the cause, as the plaintiff may deem necessary to sustain his suit, and without any distinction between suits at law and in equity, and shall also state the nature of the relief which he requests of the court.  [Act May 13, 1846, p. 363, § 5;  P. D. 1427;  Acts 1913, p. 256, § 1;  Act March 22, 1915, ch. 101, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The act amends articles 1827, 1828, 1829, 1902, as amended by chapter 127 of Acts 33rd Leg., Reg. Ses.  Sec. 5 repeals arts. 1829a and 1829b as added by that act.  Sec. 6 repeals all laws in conflict.  Sec. 7, the emergency clause, declares that the act of the 33rd Leg. has resulted in loss of time, and increase of expense, and that a return to the former system of pleading is desirable.  The act took effect 90 days after March 20, 1915, date of adjournment.

1.  Matters of presumption or implication.—In action for death of an employee, where petition alleged that the floor was greasy and slippery, but failed to show that any other person was responsible for such condition, held that it would be presumed that the employee caused such condition.  Snipes v. Bomar Cotton Oil Co., 106 Tex. 181, 161 S. W. 1.

An allegation that a judgment was void because altered by the parties before being recorded is a statement of a conclusion, not sufficient to authorize an injunction.  Lester v. Catewood (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 289.

An allegation of a legal conclusion that the condition upon which defendant's liability depended had been performed need not be considered on appeal, even though it was alleged to be upon information from the defendant.  Sanger v. First Nat. Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1087.

In a suit to enjoin a foreclosure sale, the mere conclusion of a pleader that the property would not bring its full value cannot be considered, in absence of facts alleged reasonably tending to support it.  Floore v. Morgan (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 737.

Allegations that by fraudulent representations and by overreaching by flattery, and persuasions, a conveyance was induced, amount to a legal conclusion.  Smith v. Guerre (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1093.

In petition for injunction, allegations that plaintiff was lawfully in possession of land, and that defendants unlawfully entered and forcibly ejected him therefrom, are mere conclusions of law and insufficient to authorize injunction.  Birchfield v. Bourland (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 422.

An allegation that a party "sold and transferred said business and accounts in violation of the bulk sales law" is a conclusion of the pleader.  Texas Auto & Supply Co. v. Magnolia Petroleum Co. (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 572.

Petition to set aside judgment on a note pleaded a conclusion in pleading, that plaintiff "has a good and legal defense."  First Nat. Bank v. Hartzog (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 368.

3.  Conclusions of law from facts alleged.—A petition, averring it was orally agreed that defendant should be responsible for the note of another in consideration of plaintiff's extension of credit, is sufficient, in pleading the conclusion, and need not set up the conversation.  Thornburg v. Moon (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 959.

4.  Matters of evidence.—An allegation in a supplemental petition claiming a fraudulent conveyance that defendant had conveyed other property at the same time and for the same purpose, and had been used by various creditors, was a pleading of evidence.  First State Bank of Blackwell v. Knox (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 894.

5.  Directness and positiveness, or argumentativeness.—In pleading, facts to be established should be directly averred, and not merely suggested as an inference from other facts.  Street v. J. I. Case Threshing Mach. Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 729.

6.  Certainty, definiteness, and particularity.—In action against a city a supplemental petition by which it was sought to avoid a defense held not bad for indefiniteness.  City of Comanche v. Hoff & Harris (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 135.

7.  Ambiguity.—Allegations of a petition, in an action for lumber sold, declaring upon a cause of action for lumber delivered at defendant's special instance and request, were not ambiguous nor inconsistent with allegations declaring upon a written contract, and hence defendant's exception was properly overruled. Fink v. San Augustine Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 35.

9. Disjunctive and alternative allegations.—In an action by a real estate broker for compensation in assisting defendant to obtain title to land, the petition may allege in the alternative an express contract and a right of recovery on a quantum meruit. Bond v. Blanchard (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 699.

In view of art. 5686, declaring that, in an action for injuries which were not those which caused death, the heirs might continue the suit, held, that where plaintiff died pending his suit, and his surviving children were doubtless as to the real cause of death, they might frame their petition for a recovery for injury causing his death, or for his death from some other cause. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Walker (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 199. Judgment reversed (Sup.) 173 S. W. 208, motion to retain costs granted (Sup.) 177 S. W. 924.

Petition, in action for wrongful death of car repairer, may be drawn in alternative, showing a cause of action under the federal Employers' Liability Act, § 9, as added in 1910, the state laws, or at common law, depending on development of facts on trial for cause to be relied upon. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Littleton (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1194.

A petition alleging an unconditional liability against the defendant railway company and in the alternative alleging that if plaintiff was mistaken another was liable, states a cause of action against the railway company. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Elias (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 312.

A plaintiff who is doubtful about the particular facts he can establish may plead in the alternative without rendering his pleading demurrable for inconsistency or multifariousness. San Angelo Cotton Oil Co. v. Houston County Oil Mill & Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 857.

Where third count of petition showed on its face that it was an alternative plea, plaintiff was not confined to allegation therein, but might make out a case by proving allegations of second count. City of Houston v. Ritchie (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 362.

10. Consistency or repugnancy.—A petition seeking possession of certain land, or if defendant is a tenant in common with plaintiff, in the alternative, for contribution for recovery of improvements, is not rendered demurrable on the ground of inconsistency. Stephenson v. Luttrell (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 666.

Where a petition alleged that plaintiff sold property at the best price obtainable, for $425 and that the market value at the time of the sale was $570 and prayed for the difference as damages, the allegations were repugnant. Stanley v. Sumrell (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 697.

Allegations of negligence of a master in using a dangerous brake, and of negligence of his servants in applying it, not being necessarily inconsistent, a general verdict for plaintiff could stand. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Matkin (Sup.) 174 S. W. 1698, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 604.

The assignor of an account could not recover thereupon, and also for a tort growing out of the same transaction, as it would constitute a double recovery. Carver Bros. v. Merrett (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 741.

An amended petition for the appointment of a receiver attaching deed of trust as an exhibit and made a part thereof, made the terms of such instrument conclusive against contrary allegations contained in the body of the petition. Abilene Independent Telephone & Telegraph Co. v. Southwestern Telephone & Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 356.

11. Irrelevancy and surplusage.—In a suit to restrain individuals from maintaining a disorderly house without a license, the allegations of the petition had for their object, to make it appear that the place known as the "Ureka Club and Socorro Mutua Mexicana," held superfluous and not to show that defendants were dispensing liquor to members of a bona fide club. Soto v. State (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 279.

In action for breach of warranty, held that exception should have been sustained to allegations of petition concerning similar contract between defendant and a third party. Texas-Kalamazoo Silo Co. v. Alley (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 621.

Use of the word, "administratrix" in an action for wrongful death of plaintiff's husband held surplusage, where facts do not bring the case under federal Employer's Liability Act, § 9, as added in 1910, and petition and charge were full and complete under state laws, under which plaintiff could not sue in a representative capacity. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Littleton (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1194.

In action against telephone company for slander in discharging employé, but not for the discharge, special exception to allegations that employé satisfactorily performed duties should be sustained. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Long (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 421.

Where a broker suing for an agreed commission pleaded the facts justifying recovery, the question whether the allegation that he was defendant's agent was a conclusion and not a fact, and whether exception thereto was erroneously sustained, was immaterial; his right to compensation being the same regardless of that question. Robinson v. Long (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 850.

Where no punitive damages were sought and the petition averred that defendant maliciously breached its contract, special exception thereto should have been sustained; motion being immaterial. Texas Power & Light Co. v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 225.

In buyer's action to recover damages for failure to deliver calves pursuant to a sales contract, allegations that the seller's withholding of certain calves was fraudulent may be sustained. Clayton Bros. v. Littlefield (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 194.

12. Scandalous matter and false allegations.—Where a chattel mortgagee erroneously set up the giving of two instead of a single note to secure the debt, the error was immaterial and foreclosure could be had. Bailey v. Culver (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 1083.

In action for slander, where plaintiff claimed no damages from being forced from tele­phone office, exception to allegation that plaintiff left because she feared manager would assault her should be sustained. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Long (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 421. 392
13. Mistakes in use of language.—The facts, pleaded therefor, showing the transaction involved is immaterial that the pleading designated it as "exchange or interest"; the sum deducted for use of money, under art. 4973, constituting interest. Morris v. First State Bank of Dallas (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1074.

14. Pleading written instruments.—A petition relying on ambiguous instruments must place some definite construction thereon so as to cure the ambiguity and support a judgment. Gilberth v. Gilberth (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 303.

One suing for breach of contract to furnish water for irrigation need not allege in the petition the part of the contract providing that $4 an acre should be the maximum damage allowed for failure to furnish the water. Northern Irr. Co. v. Dodd (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 945.

Where an instrument sued upon is merely an offer to sell certain land, the petition, in order to state a cause of action, should allege sufficient facts to show an acceptance of such offer. Houston & E. Branch Bank (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 364.

15. Parol evidence to vary, add to, or explain writing.—Where complaint did not disclose consideration of defendant's oral promise to refund commission on payment of purchase-money notes, general demurrer could not be sustained on ground that cause of action tended to vary terms of notes, since consideration might be based upon some matter independent or collateral to payment of notes. Chapman v. Witherspoon (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 281.

17. Construction of petition.—Petition to restrain official duty will be strictly construed, and every reasonable inference indulged in favor of the legality of the act. Marion County v. Perkins Bros. Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 789.

18. Conclusiveness of allegations.—The allegation in the pleading of plaintiff, seeking to recover with damages, fixtures he manufactured and installed for defendant, who refused to accept and pay for the same as agreed, that the defendant was, by remaining in possession of the fixtures, estopped to deny that they were in substantial compliance with the contract, and that, as against the plaintiff, he was not a mere bailee, but a bailee for hire, was not rendered absolute by setting up his theory of redemption from his commission. McLeod v. Blythe (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 257.

19. Names, description, and capacity of parties, and venue.—Under arts. 1827, 1850, 1852, petition in suit in county court failing to allege the residence of either of the defendants held not to authorize the clerk to command the sheriff to execute the citation therein. Friend v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 988.

20. Statement of cause of action in general.—In determining on appeal whether the petition was so fundamentally defective in its allegations as to damages as to be insufficient to support any recovery, the petition will be held good if it was good as against general demurrer. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Hamilton (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 660.

Where there is a total failure to state a cause of action, or of some fact essential to it, the defect may be taken advantage of on appeal, though defendant's general demurrer has not been ruled on by the trial court. City of San Antonio v. Bodeman (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1043.

21. Theory and form of action.—Under a contract to take stock in plaintiff corporation, then "in process of formation' and to be chartered under the laws of the state, the law supplied the condition that the concern should in fact be incorporated, and on performance of such condition the subscribers' liability became absolute and enforceable by action of assumpsit; an action for breach of contract not being the only remedy. McCorv v. Southwestern Sundries Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 226.

22. Where personal injuries received by a railroad employee in Oklahoma alleged a good cause of action under the laws of Texas, it need not specify whether the plaintiff claims recovery under the laws of Texas, of Oklahoma, or of the United States. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Cox (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1042; Simpson v. Bomar Cotton Oil Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 181, 161 S. W. 1.

Where defendants converted cotton which had been shipped to them for storage, and an action was brought to charge them with the highest price of the cotton during the season of conversion, the action sounds in tort and not in assumpsit. First Nat. Bank v. Martin & Co. (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1029.

The designation of an action as one to remove a cloud does not necessarily make it such, but the character of the suit is to be determined by the facts alleged therein. Lesiter v. Hutson (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 321.

An action for fraud of bank officers, inducing a purchase of negotiable instruments of the bank, is in tort, and the bank is not liable as on contract, where the buyer accepted the paper without indorsement or guaranty from the bank, though the paper was worthless. Washington County State Bank v. Central Bank & Trust Co. of Houston (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 456.

Under the Texas system of pleading, distinctions between actions do not exist, but the facts alleged control, and if a contract appears to be the gravamen of an action it will be so determined. Feces & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Amarillo St. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1103.

A cause of action arising from breach of promise is an action ex contractu, but a cause of action arising from a breach of duty growing out of the contract is in form an action ex delicto. Id.

Wrong arising from nonperformance of implied contract obligations will sustain an action in the case, and where such wrong outside the contract is the gravamen of the action the action is an action ex delicto. Id.

Under arts. 1826, 1827, there are no forms of action in this state, all suits being conducted by petition and answer, and the court may render such judgment as will meet the allegations of the petition. O'Neal v. Bush & Tillar (Sup.) 178 S. W. 865; reversing judgment Bush & Tillar v. O'Neal (Civ. App.) 104 S. W. 212; judgment reversed on rehearing O'Neal v. Bush & Tillar (Sup.) 177 S. W. 953.

Art. 1827 courts—district and county—practice in

Action by the buyer of a piano, alleged to have been represented perfect by the seller's agent, to recover from the seller, held to sound in tort for fraud, supporting recovery of damages. Jesse French Piano & Organ Co. v. Gibbon (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1185.

Landowners, who engaged to pay realty brokers a commission for effecting a sale in notes received for the land, but who, after receiving such notes, sold them to a third person, held liable in assumpsit to the brokers for their commission in money. Patterson v. Kirkpatrick (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 729.

24. Separate causes of action—Separate statement.—The facts alleged in the petition being specifically answered by defendant, any error in overruling an exception to the petition as not complying with art. 1827, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 127, requiring a petition to plead by separate paragraphs, consecutively numbered, each fact going to make up the cause of action and other allegations, was harmless. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Hays (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 218.

25. Separate counts on same cause of action.—The cause of action set up in two counts of a petition for injury to an employé, the one alleging a specific act of negligence, the other making a general allegation of negligence, held to be the same. Trinity & W. Ry. Co. v. Geary (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 291, judgment reversed (Sup.) 175 S. W. 545.

Where petition for fraud prays in one count for rescission of a contract of sale, and in another prays damages, the election to stand on the count for rescission compelled by the petition was not in equity waive the plea of damages. Hubbs v. Marshall (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 715.

In petition against county commissioner for sums collected by county, a paragraph for money had and received does not state a cause of action, where remaining paragraphs are insufficient. Polk v. Roebuck (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 513.

26. Joinder of causes of action.—Where plaintiff oil company sued to recover money paid under mistake as for money had and received, the pleading of all the facts showing that the payment was made pursuant to a draft attached to a bill of lading did not indicate a cause of action. Jewett State Bank v. Coriscana Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 747.

In an action by plaintiff against defendants, one of whom had been associated with him in or sharing commissions on the sale of stock, plaintiff's petition held not multifarious. Harless v. Halle (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1020.

Under the legal and equitable jurisdiction of the courts a multiplicity of suits is to be avoided, as it is the general policy of the law to settle all matters between the same parties and between all parties to the same subject-matter in the same suit. Adams v. First Nat. Bank of Waco (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 993.

Vendees of land and their grantee may jointly bring trespass to try title and to cancel conveyances between defendants, and notes given plaintiffs, held properly brought against a party bank induced plaintiffs by fraud to join with him in purchasing a half interest in land and a person to whom this defendant had conveyed his interest. Garrison v. Bowman (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 70.

In an action against owners of oil to recover commission under contract, joined with action of tort against owner and others, demurrers addressed to the question of a misjoinder of parties and causes of action held properly overruled. Madden v. Shane (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 908.

The rule forbidding misjoinder of causes of action is a rule of convenience and expediency and should be construed with the broader rule for avoidance of multiplicity of suits. Paul v. Sweeney (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 825.

To avoid multiplicity of suits, different causes of action may, as a rule, be joined in one, Rowley v. Klepper (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1033.

27. — Injuries to person, property, or reputation.—A statement in justicce's court of damages to crops by trespassing cattle, which shows that plaintiff based his action on defendant's negligence and willful disregard of plaintiff's rights and failure to repair a partition fence pursuant to contract, and that he left open gates, held not objectionable on the ground that there was a misjoinder. Adair v. Stallings (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 146. See Citizens Planing Mill Co. v. Tuntell (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 424.

28. — Causes of action arising out of contract.—There is no misjoinder of causes of action where the original payee of the note is brought in after suit by the indorsees against the maker, and the maker prays either that the note be canceled, or that he have judgment against the payee. Latham Co. v. Snell (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 917.

A party may sue in one action for a breach of contract and for damages for slander where both claims grow out of the same transaction and are so connected that they may conveniently and appropriately be litigated together. Paul v. Sweeney (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 552.

Matters ex contractu and ex delicto should not be joined in the same suit, though they may be joined when they grow out of the same transaction, relate to the same subject-matter, and are dependent upon the same evidence. Adams v. First Nat. Bank of Waco (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 993.

An action in contract against the sureties on a school contractor's bond can be joined with an action in tort against the trustees for failing to require a sufficient bond. Kerbow v. Wooldridge (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 746.

Where the tenant alleged that the landlord and his agents conspired to destroy his business, closed his office against him, publicly ridiculed him, and accused him of dishonesty, and claimed actual and exemplary damages, his petition sounded in tort and not in contract for a breach of a lease, so that there was no misjoinder. Paul v. Sweeney (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 552.
31. Parties and interests involved in general.—In a suit against county and contractor to enjoin contract and issue of bonds, there is a misjoinder of parties. Broussard v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 814.

Where but one cause of action is alleged against one of defendants, and no cause of action is alleged against the remaining defendants, there is in reality no misjoinder. Madden v. Shane (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 909.

32. Joint or common interest of plaintiffs.—Parties standing in different relations to, and having separate demands against, the defendant may not join; the essence of the right being mutuality of interest both in the subject-matter and in the remedy. Ford v. Sutherland Springs Land & Town Co. (Civ. App.) 139 S. W. 876.

The claims of plaintiffs are separate lots in a town; the selling corporation for damages for the latter’s failure to perform its contract to expend $50,000 in improvements on the streets, alleys, parks, etc., of the town, though conspiracy was alleged, held therefore not to be properly joined. Persons having no common or joint interest in property damaged by a nuisance may not unite in a suit for damages. Hunt v. Johnson, 106 Tex. 509, 171 S. W. 1135, dismissing appeal (Civ. App.) 141 S. W. 1060.

34. Joint or common liability of defendants in general.—Where plaintiff and B. were joint owners of the property to, and, after plaintiff was discharged, he sued the company for breach of contract and joined B., alleging that he conspired to aid the company in ousting plaintiff, there was a misjoinder of causes of action. Oklahoma Fire Ins. Co. v. Ross (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1062.

When a bank was sued for breach of contract and also for wrongfully injuring plaintiff’s credit, it was improper to join third persons interested only in the contract. First Nat. Bank of Gorman v. Mangum (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 1197.

There was no misjoinder of causes of action, where a life insurance company sued together its agents and the sureties on his bond securing his indebtedness to the company. Shaw v. Southland Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 915.

37. Corporation or partnership and members, officers, and other interested persons.—A petition in an action against a corporation, its officers and directors, and a trustee, for the use of the corporation, alleging a misapplication of corporate funds, as a commission merchant of cotton for plaintiff, and the misapplication of the proceeds by the officers and directors, held not objectionable as being multifarious. Dollar v. Lockney Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1976.

38. Defendants in actions for equitable relief.—Where a tenant gave a note for rent, and subsequently subleased the land, and the subtenant converted the crop, it was proper to join the subtenant in a suit on the note and to foreclose the landlord’s lien and to recover from him the value of the crop to the extent of the amount due on the note. Horton v. Lee (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1193.

41. Waiver of defects and objections.—See notes at end of chapter 3 of this title.

42. Splitting cause of action.—Where a car load of fruits was shipped with the privilege of unloading certain bananas in one county and certain other bananas in another county, and neither were unloaded because of injury to the shipment, the consignor could not maintain a separate action in each county for injuries to the fruit intended to be unloaded in each. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Southern Produce Co. (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 999.

43. Railroad’s repudiation of its contract to sell a siding at a lumber yard and its notification thereof, before the time for performance by it, held a breach of the contract in its entirety, so that the lumber company had only one suit in which to recover all the damages sustained thereby. J. B. Farthing Lumber Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 795.

A contract of employment which provides for payment in monthly installments gives a right of action upon each installment as it falls due. Jones v. Dodd (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1124.

45. Reference from one part of petition to another or to other instruments.—In a suit against a tax collector to cancel void tax lien, a statement of the taxes, showing the years for which they were due and the lots incumbered, which accompanied the petition, constitutes a part thereof, and the petition is not bad because not stating with particularity the property incumbered. Raley v. Bitter (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 857.

44. Right of plaintiff.—In an action to set aside a judicial sale of an irrigation company’s property, allegations held sufficient to show interest, and that such interest would be injuriously affected. Trans-Pecos Land & Irrigation Co. v. Arno Co-operative Irr. Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 928.

45. Ownership, title, or possession.—In suit on note payable to maker’s order and indorsed in blank, so becoming payable to bearer, allegations that defendant executed and put it into circulation, and that plaintiff became its owner, were sufficient to admit note in evidence on issue of ownership. Kanaman v. Gahagan (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 819.

46. Matter of inducement and performance of conditions.—In ordinary actions of debt a failure to allege a demand for and refusal of payment renders the petition bad on general demurrer. Cotton v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 465.

An action ex delicto outside the contract which induced the occasion for the wrongful act was a mere inducement, and should not be so pleaded. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Amarillo St. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1103.

51. Statutory actions.—In an action for the death of a car repairer, if the facts alleged being the cause within the federal Employers’ Liability Act, § 9, as added in 1910, it is not necessary to plead the act. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Littleton (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1124.
Allegations of petition held sufficient to entitle plaintiff to recover under the federal Employers' Liability Act, although he failed to state that the injury was workmen's compensation. 1827, 187.

In a railroad employer's action for injuries, allegations of the petition held sufficient to plead a cause of action under art. 6713, providing that it shall be unlawful for any railroad company to use any moving engine, and secure and hold hands. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Sherer (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 404.

52. Duplicity and multifariousness. - "Multifariousness" is the improper joining in one bill of distinct and independent matters as the union of several distinct and unconnected matters against one defendant or a demand with respect to several distinct matters against several defendants. Dollar v. Lockney Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1076.

53. Anticipating defenses. - In a suit to collect a vendor's lien note, and to foreclose the vendor's lien on the property in the hands of a purchaser from the vendor, it was held that the plaintiff, without alleging the use of the land or the sale thereof, could not recover unless plaintiff was a purchaser in good faith. Hunker v. Estes (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 476.

Where a municipal officer was improperly removed from office, that the salary was paid to a de facto officer is matter of defense which plaintiff need not negative in an action for salary. City of San Antonio v. Steinbrucher (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1052.

A proviso contained in a statute need not be negatived by a party seeking relief thereunder. Spence v. Fenchler (Sup.) 180 S. W. 597.

The petition on a fire policy held not to state a cause of action, not alleging the money sued for was not paid. Merchants' & Bankers' Fire Underwriters v. Williams (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 859.

Even if a contract sued on was void for want of mutuality, allegation that there had been an accord and satisfaction between the parties rendered the petition good as against the defendants. Blount v. Anthony (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 117.

A complaint on a fire policy need not allege that the fire did not result from causes for which insurer was not liable. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Laster (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 969.

Where the petition sufficiently alleged the facts to entitle plaintiff to recover on note and mortgage, he was not required to anticipate defenses, but the burden was upon the defendant to plead and prove them. Blount, Price & Co. v. Payne (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 990.

In architect's action for services in drawing plans under allegation that the plans were accepted by defendant, it was not necessary for plaintiff to allege defendant's knowledge of defects when he accepted the plans. Vaky v. Phelps (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 691.

57. Statute of frauds and limitations. - In a lessee's action to enjoin interference with its exclusive and quiet enjoyment of the premises, allegation of payment to the lessor according to contract, delivery of possession, and permanent valuable improvements held all that was necessary to take the verbal lease out of the statute of frauds. Edwards v. Old Settlers' Ass'n (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 123.

An allegation that defendant orally agreed to take the premises for at least one year from January 1, 1914, to January 1, 1915, does not allege an oral lease for more than one year. Street-Whittington Co. v. Sayres (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 772.

In statutory action against sheriff and his sureties for failure to levy and return execution on judgment assigned to plaintiff, allegations held insufficient to show suspension of limitations by concealment of cause of action. Peck v. Murphy & Boland (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 542.

Ordinarily, where a contract can only be enforced if written under the statute of frauds, an allegation that it was made, without stating whether it was in writing or by parole, will, as against general demurrer, be sufficient; the presumption being that the demurrer intended to set forth an enforceable contract. Anderson v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 836.

The presumption is that a contract pleaded, which would otherwise be affected by the statute of frauds, was in writing. Graham v. Kesseler (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 299.

58. Admissions. - The allegation in the petition in an action to recover personally that defendant had converted the same to his own use and possession is not an admission that title was in defendant. Nunn v. Raby (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 187.

In an action to reform a policy by inserting the name of plaintiff as mortgagee and payee, an allegation in the petition that the person named insured was building on the premises, and had no interest therein at the time of loss or at any time, held not an admission that such insured had no interest in the building, so as to avoid the policy for want of insurable interest. Western Assur. Co. v. Hillyer-Deutsch-Jarratt Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 815.

59. Prayer for process and relief. - Judgment authorized, see notes under art. 192.

A prayer for general relief authorizes such relief as the facts warrant. Crenshaw v. Staples (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1184.

In landowner's suit against city for part of price of realty and to foreclose implied lien, petition held held sufficient to cover any legal or equitable relief to which plaintiff was entitled. City of Ft. Worth v. Reynolds (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 501.

60. Alternative relief. - The petition seeking to recover half the profits of a transaction, though praying that a defendant be ordered to convey to plaintiffs an interest in lands in another state, which the court has no jurisdiction to do, is not subject to general demurrer, there being an alternative prayer that, if the property had been converted, and it was inequitable to do so, plaintiffs have judgment against da-fendants in a certain sum, and also a prayer for all equitable relief. Woolley v. Canyon Exch. Co. (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 408.

65. Where the holder of a vendor's lien note who obtains also the legal title may after instituting foreclosure amend his pleadings and sue for rescission, or he may ask for rescission or foreclosure in the alternative. Moon v. Sherwood (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 296.

66. Exhibits—Operation and effect.—In suit to recover street improvement assessment, it is proper to offer as evidence in the trial of the controversy the petition under district court rule 19 (143 S. W. xvii), and the petition, alleging proper notice, was not demurrable for defects in the notice attached. City of Paris v. Bray (Sup.) 175 S. W. 432, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 142 S. W. 927.

67. A pleading or verifying paper is not a sufficient act to set aside a judgment. A petition to set aside a judgment is an appeal to the equity powers of the court, and must be sworn to. Patruco v. Selkirk (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 635.

The term “verification,” as applied to pleadings in equity practice, means that an affidavit must be attached to the plea that the facts therein stated are true. Forest Oil Co. v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 626.

68. Pleading damages in general.—Where, in an action for wrongful garnishment, the petition alleged that the garnishment writ, as well as the attachment, was sued out wrongfully and maliciously and without probable cause, and actual damages were claimed, exceptions to the claim for exemplary damages on the ground that actual damages were not sufficiently pleaded were properly overruled. Bennett v. Foster (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 1078.

Petition, in an action for injuries while riding over a railroad crossing by the horse stumbling and throwing plaintiff to the ground, held not objectionable as not alleging in what way plaintiff sustained damages alleged. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Huskey (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 493.

69. Facts as to impairment of health by slander should be alleged. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Long (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 421.

In action for slander, allegations that plaintiff would be debarred from honest employment and excluded from society of respectable people held not objectionable as alleging mere note and speculative damages. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Wilkins (Civ. App.) 133 S. W. 429.

In suit against loan society if treated as one for damages for deceit of its agent inducing plaintiff to enter into a loan contract, plaintiff held not entitled to recover, where he did not allege and prove facts enabling the court to measure his damages. National Equitable Soc. of Belton v. Carpenter (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 585.

The holder of notes indorsed without recourse cannot recover damages for fraud without pleading and proving the value of the property given in exchange for the notes. Doolin v. Hulsed (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 364.

Allegations that plaintiffs had arranged a sale to parties able to pay for the land, and that the actual market value was much less when sold at a foreclosure sale, sufficiently alleged actionable damages against a general demurrer. Hoover v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1149.

Allegations that plaintiffs' proposed sale of real estate was broken up by the attachment levy are sufficient despite the improbability of a trade for some $327,000, being interrupted by attachment for some $4,000 with large partial payments already made. Id.

Allegations that the prospective purchaser was to give notes which he was able to pay, and that a mortgagee had agreed to extend his debt until such notes were due, alleged damages with sufficient certainty. Id.

70. Pleading general or special damages.—Under a general allegation of damage, evidence is admissible of all damages which naturally and necessarily result from the wrongful act, but if the damages sustained do not necessarily result from the negligent act, plaintiff must allege the particular damage, unless the law infers such damage from the act. Jones v. Coffman (Civ. App.) 150 S. W. 145.

In action for general damages for slander, petition need not itemize elements of damages. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Wilkins (App. Civ.) 133 S. W. 429.

Where petition sought to recover special damages for defendant's failure to comply with agreement made when it leased portion of premises to plaintiff, it must aver facts showing that defendant should have known such damages would result from breach. Texas Power & Light Co. v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 225.

71. Personal injuries and physical suffering.—A petition, in an action for personal injuries, which alleges that plaintiff's skull was fractured, that bones, muscles, and tissues of the head were injured, that he sustained injury to his nervous system and internal injury, that his eyesight and hearing were practically destroyed, sufficiently specifies the injuries. Bartley v. Marino (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1156.

Petition in a personal injury action, which alleged that because of defendant's negligence plaintiff was thrown to the ground while riding a horse and injured his nose, arm, etc., held not objectionable as failing to state what his damages consisted.

A petition for personal injury alleging that plaintiff fell 30 feet to the ground, and was paralyzed from his hip down, specifies the injuries. Stephenville N. & S. T. Ry. Co. v. Wheat (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 974.

72. Issues, proof, and variance in general.—In an action for the death of a husband and father, the jury may consider the value of the father's mental and moral training to the minor children, even though the petition did not allege such damage, and the evidence showed no such training. Texas Power & Light Co. v. Bird (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 8.

One suit for a personal injury resulting in his leg being broken by a violent blow and the subsequent amputation of the leg need not allege that he suffered physical pain to recover damages therefor. Waterman Lumber Co. v. Shaw (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 127.
Under the general allegation of damages in a personal injury action by breaking plaintiff's arm, etc., plaintiff could recover for physical suffering. Fecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Huskey (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 493.

Ordinarily personal injuries other than those alleged in the petition cannot be proved. Memphis Cotton Oil Co. v. Tolbert (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 505.

For his injuries plaintiff was held to be entitled to damages where the petition alleges that an accident affected the plaintiff's brain and "other organs." Missouri, K. T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Smith (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 780.

73. — Consequences of injury in general.—Under allegations of the petition in a personal injury action that the injury caused a concussion of plaintiff's spine and of the nerves and muscles connected therewith, and caused the loss of sensation and mental and physical suffering, evidence of the nature of traumatic hysteria, and that plaintiff might be so affected, was admissible. Fecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Coffman (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 115.

Evidence as to possibility of hernia becoming strangulated held admissible, though strangulated hernia was not alleged. St. Louis S. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Brown (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 363.

In a personal injury action, an allegation as to the nature of the injury that plaintiff "was hurt internally, the exact nature of which he does not know, and cannot state, but he passed for several days blood from his bowels and he was sore and still is sore internally," was sufficiently specific to justify the court in overruling the demurrer. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Graham (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 65.

76. — Aggravation of pre-existing disease, and mode of treatment.—Where the petition alleged plaintiff was a healthy man, and the general issue was pleaded, damages caused by the additional injury by reason of a pre-existing diseased condition rendered recoverable, though not expressly pleaded. Galveston, H. & H. R. Co. v. Hodnett, 168 Tex. 190, 163 S. W. 12.

77. — Permanent or future injuries.—The mind and nervous system being so intimated, fatigued, or overexerted, as to be likely to be affected by physical injuries, proof of aggravation of these faculties is admissible under allegations in substance setting up grievous or permanent injuries. Allen v. Bland (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 25.

In an action for personal injuries, an allegation as to damages in the petition that plaintiff "may lose his arm by reason of the effect of the injury" was proper, and proof of the effect of the injury. Andrews v. York (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 328.

80. — Impairment of earning capacity.—Alleging and proving physical and mental condition which would necessarily result in loss of earning capacity is sufficient pleading and proof of diminished earning capacity. Memphis Cotton Oil Co. v. Tolbert (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 360.

81. — Issues and proof.—Under an allegation that plaintiff's hand was rendered useless, evidence by plaintiff as to diminished earning capacity held admissible. Texas & Pac. Ry. Co. v. Elliott (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 757.

82. — Loss of or damage to property.—Petition held to state good cause of action for damages from nuisance, without alleging market value of property thereby injured before and after erection of cotton gin constituting the nuisance. Crum v. Thomason (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 803.

83. — Issues and proof.—In proceedings to condemn land for a right of way, pleadings held sufficient to authorize an allowance of damages, not only for the land taken, but also to the remaining portions thereof. Wichita Falls & W. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Wyrick (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 570.

Where the petition did not allege market value of grass destroyed by fire but value to him for grazing purposes, evidence as to its value to him for such purposes held admissible. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Brune (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 547.

The action being only for damages to land from the breaking of a dam allowing escape of water, with no claim, as an element of damages, of the dam being a menace, defendant's testimony of it being a benefit and not a menace is inadmissible. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Frazer (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1161.

In an action by shippers of live stock for delay in transit, evidence as to additional shrinkage in weight after the cattle's arrival and of decline in the market for which they were held over held inadmissible as without proper basis in the pleadings. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Landau & Story (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 384.

84. — Damages from breach of contract in general.—The petition in an action for damages resulting from the delivery of cheat seed, instead of oat seed as ordered, which alleged that the time and labor required of the tide tables from the soil and prevent it from interfering with other crops was a certain amount, was not defective for not itemizing the time and labor required. Texas Seed & Floral Co. v. Watson (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 659.

A buyer of fuel oil could not recover the wages of its employees and profits lost during the time it was compelled to close its factory by reason of the seller's failure to furnish the oil as agreed, without pleading such damages. Texas Co. v. Alamo Cement Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 62.

In a petition for breach of contract to exchange realty, allegations as to commissions and inability to close another trade set up no cause of action, since such matters are not a part of the measure of damages. Montgomery v. McCaskill (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 797.

In an action for nondelivery of certain cattle, nondelivery of certain cattle, the court held nonsuit of the defendant's pleading for nondelivery must be specially pleaded and proved. Littlefield v. Clayton Bros. (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 194.

85. — Proof and variance.—In an action for delay in delivery of a telegram, an allegation in the petition held sufficient to show that defendant's sending agent was notified of the insufficient hotel accommodations at the destination at which plaintiff's wife... expected to arrive at night, so as to authorize proof thereof as an element of damage. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Erwin (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 108.

There was a stipulation in the case that service was recovered, so nothing was to be paid or recovered on the part of the defendant. In Atchison, Topeka & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Bigelow (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 887, the court referred to this as a "right of recovery." In the case at bar, it is alleged that the damage was caused by plaintiff's negligence and that there was no evidence of damage to the fruit. The court held that it was not necessary to prove the damage to the fruit in order to recover for the injury to the land.

78. Expenses incurred.—In a personal injury action to recover damages for a month of delays in delivering the goods, the plaintiff alleged that the cause of action was the result of an injury sustained in an accident to a railroad employee. The court held that the cause of action did not arise from the employee's negligence, and that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover for the delay caused by the railroad company. The court also held that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover for the cost of the delay, as it was not shown that the delay was caused by the negligence of the railroad company.

79. Personal injury.—In an action to recover damages for personal injury, the plaintiff alleged that the defendant's nervous breakdown was caused by the plaintiff's negligence. The court held that the plaintiff's allegation was insufficient to support a claim for damages for personal injury. The court also held that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover for the cost of the defendant's medical care, as it was not shown that the defendant was negligent.

80. Injunctive relief.—In an action to enjoin a defendant from engaging in a business, the plaintiff alleged that the defendant was using false advertising. The court held that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover for the cost of the injunction, as it was not shown that the defendant was using false advertising.

81. Repair of damages.—In an action to recover damages for the violation of a contract, the plaintiff alleged that the defendant had failed to perform the contract. The court held that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover for the cost of the repair, as it was not shown that the defendant was negligent.

82. Manner of proof.—In an action to recover damages for personal injury, the plaintiff alleged that the defendant was negligent in maintaining a dangerous condition on the premises. The court held that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover for the cost of the expert medical testimony, as it was not shown that the defendant was negligent.

83. Recovery of damages.—In an action to recover damages for personal injury, the plaintiff alleged that the defendant was negligent in maintaining a dangerous condition on the premises. The court held that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover for the cost of the medical expenses, as it was not shown that the defendant was negligent.

84. Res judicata.—In an action to recover damages for personal injury, the plaintiff alleged that the defendant was negligent in maintaining a dangerous condition on the premises. The court held that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover for the cost of the medical expenses, as it was not shown that the defendant was negligent.
Art. 1827

Courts—District and County—Practice In

clading interest thereon from the accrual from cause of action to trial. 1827

Pleading particular facts or issues.—Agency and scope of employment.—In an action to recover double the amount of usury paid, an allegation that the payment was made to defendant’s agent was sufficient in the absence of a further allegation that he had knowledge of the nature of the instrument. Cotton v. Thompson (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 455.

In an action against a corporation on a note, allegations in the petition held to sufficiently charge that the president who executed the note was authorized by the directors. Canadian Long Distance Telephone Co. v. Seber (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 597.

In an action against a corporation for the purchase price of property, allegations in the petition as to plaintiff’s knowledge of how the business was carried on and his belief that the president had authority to execute the note in question were immaterial. Id.

Pleadings in an action for services alleging that the agent who did the hiring was acting within his apparent authority is sufficient to raise the issue of liability of the principal for a hiring on terms in excess of private instructions to the agent. Bergere v. Parker & Furr (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 598.

Allegations of petition held to sufficiently allege the authority of the agent to bind the insurer by his statements as to what the premium would be. Illinois Bankers’ Life Ass’n v. Dodson (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 992.

Assignment.—Petition held not to sufficiently allege an assignment by one L. of a debt claimed to be due him to make the plaintiff bank the real owner of the claim against defendant. Browne Grain Co. v. Farmers’ & Merchants’ Nat. Bank of Abilene (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 942.

Bona fide purchase.—A petition averring purchase of a note before maturity is not subject to general demurrer because not alleging the date of the note’s maturity. McWhorter v. Estes (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 846.

Consideration or want thereof.—Allegations of petition in action on notes held sufficient to show consideration passing to defendant for his signature to the notes as surety. Pennock v. Texas Builders’ Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 760.

Customers and usages.—In brokering effecting a lease, not alleging that defendant knew of any custom as to the commission for such services, or that he was legally chargeable with notice thereof, evidence as to the customary commission for such services was inadmissible. Brady v. Richey & Casey (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 598.

Discovered peril.—A complaint, in a crossing accident case, held not to raise the issue of discovered peril. 1827

In an action against a railroad company for injuries to horses which, being frightened while driven on a road, were injured in crossing a cattle guard, the petition held to raise the issue of discovered peril. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Vogel (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 255.

Estoppel.—By way of replication, see notes under art. 1828.

In an action against a corporation on a note given for the price of property, allegations in the petition held to sufficiently charge an estoppel on the part of the corporation to deny the contract. Canadian Long Distance Telephone Co. v. Seber (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 597.

A plaintiff suing to remove a cloud on his title held not entitled to rely on an estoppel not pleaded. Ford v. Warner (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 885.

One claiming title by estoppel must plead and prove the facts creating an estoppel. McLemore v. Bickerstaff (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 536.

In a fire insurance policy, plaintiff cannot rely on the estoppel of defendant to deny the agency of the one who took plaintiff’s application in premium, unless he specially pleads it. Merchants’ & Bankers’ Fire Underwriters v. Parker (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 528.

Foreign laws.—Holder of drafts belonging to estate of a foreign administrator, and inquired by the latter, can maintain a suit on drafts in courts of Texas without alleging administration laws of foreign country or state. Bloch v. Rio Grande Valley Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 541.

Fraud and mistake.—Allegations of fraud in representing the solvency of the maker of notes given as consideration for a purchaser of timber, upon which plaintiff, having no opportunity for investigation, relied, held sufficient to admit parol evidence of fraud to vary the written contract, or to show facts inducing its execution. Benton v. Kuykendall (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 438.

Mere broad general charges of fraud in the procurement of a judgment without specific allegations of fact constituting the fraud are insufficient to impeach a judgment. Patruco v. Selkirk (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 635.

Allegations of fraud in the recovery of a judgment sued on, in that the person recovering the same had given false testimony at the trial, are insufficient to sustain a cross-bill to vacate the judgment. Id.

Petition held to sufficiently allege vendor’s fraud in misrepresenting the acreage after having it surveyed as demanded by the purchaser, and an excuse for the purchaser’s failure to discover the fraud. Smalley v. Vogt (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 1.

In purchaser’s action to rescind for false representations, petition held to allege sufficient reliance on the representations, and that they were a material inducement, to admit evidence of the representations. Underwood v. Jordan (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 88.

Where one seeks to avoid the bar of limitations, on the ground of fraud, he must allege the facts upon which he relies. Powell v. March (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 396.

A petition alleging that a mortgagor did not read the instrument and did not know that it contained a recital, but relied on the friendship and business relations with the mortgagee, does not allege that the recital was procured by fraud. Parker v. Schrimsher (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 116.
A petition held sufficient to charge deceit by a railroad company in presenting a contract to exchange land, which described the exchange land other than that pointed out. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 60.

In an action on notes for the purchase of a registered horse, plaintiff can show that the horse was registered, but the certificate contained a mistake in the description without pleading such mistake. National State Bank of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, v. Ricketts (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 528.

Allegations in petition seeking to cancel a conveyance held sufficient to show fraud. Cleveland v. Stanley (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1181.

Allegations of representation that property was good income property, and that plaintiff was thereby induced to believe that it was rented for $50 a week, held not to show fraud supporting a recovery. Holmes v. Coalson (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 628.

Land buyer's petition held to aver seller's fraud in representing the land contained 267 acres, sufficiently to admit parol evidence to show a deficiency. Ashley v. Holland (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 635.

A petition held to allege fraud in accepting paying where evidence of fraud was admitted without objection that it was not authorized by the pleadings. Rudolph S. Blome Co. v. Herd (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 53.

Petition in action for damages for fraud in purchasing plaintiff's land at less than its listed price, so that plaintiff was compelled to pay a broker's commission, not showing that plaintiff had sustained any damage, held to state no cause of action. Hope v. Shirley (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 973.

A complaint for deceit must allege false representations, their materiality, that defendant was ignorant of their falsity, and that he was actually deceived thereby. Dempster v. Humphrey (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1153.

Where a count charged alleged partner of indorsee of notes with conspiracy to convey to plaintiff notes worth less than face value, no injury to plaintiff, first essential in action for fraud, was shown, and there was no liability. Borschow v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 202.

In action against part owner of property by abandoned wife of other owner for fraudulently obtaining entire ownership, allegations that defendant stated sufficient money could not pay mortgage, and forced sale would not pay it, but that such loan was secured after defendant obtained entire ownership, are insufficient. Baugh v. Houston (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 242.

112. — Homestead exemption.—In suit to cancel deeds as a mortgage upon homestead, it was for plaintiff to allege facts showing the mortgage was one not permitted by the constitutional provision on that subject (Const. art. 16, § 50). M. Rangera & Bro. v. Willard (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 195.

114. — Jurisdictional facts.—In an action against defendant trustee in bankruptcy to restrain him from cutting timber, the petition held not to allege constructive possession of such timber, or the trustee so as to give the bankruptcy court jurisdiction to determine conflicting claims to such timber. Bennette v. Lewis (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 660.

1144. — Mental incapacity.—Allegation that a release was executed "without his knowledge or consent" or "while he was under the influence of opiates or suffering" sufficiently alleged mental incapacity in absence of special exception. Turner v. Ontiberos (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1089.

115. — Modification of contract.—The petition in a seller's action for breach of a new contract held not demurrable for failure to specifically allege that the old contract was merged in the new. Mahaney v. Lee (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1092.

118. — Partnership.—The mere allegation in the petition of joint ownership of the mules sought to be recovered was not equivalent to an allegation of partnership as to the mules. Coody v. Shawver (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 955.

119. — Waiver of garnishment.—Defendant's petition for discharge of garnishment described plaintiff as the W. company, a firm composed of persons named, it sufficiently appeared that plaintiff was a partnership and not a corporation, since a "firm" is a partnership. Dodson v. Warren Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 952.

The petition of a corporation alleging partnership relations between it and defendant corporations and individuals, held insufficient to show partnership between plaintiff and defendants. Southern Oil & Gas Co. v. Mexia Oil & Gas Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 446.

193. — Payment.—A petition to recover usurious interest, alleging that defendant, agreeing to make a loan of $8,600, exacted and received $1,290, alleged payment of $1,290 within Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 4882. Gunter v. Merchant (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 191, rehearing denied 173 S. W. 260.

200. — Proximate cause.—In action for delay in delivering telegram, petition held to aver that, while defendant had received the telegram, he had failed to send it. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Forest (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 204. See Fred A. Jones Co. v. Drake (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 441.

An allegation as to the servant's inexperience in the work and ignorance of its danger is sufficient to show proximate cause to admit plaintiff's testimony on question of assumed risk. Stockey & White v. Mears (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 747.

212. — Tender and offer of equity.—A purchaser seeking to rescind need not show by his pleading the value of the rents and profits and offer restitution, but it is sufficient if he offer generally to do equity. Hurst v. Knight (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1072.

213. — Waiver and ratification.—Pleading by plaintiff in defense, see post, art. 1828.

A waiver of proofs of death required by policy, if relied on by the insured in an action thereon, must be alleged. American Nat. Life Ins. Co. v. Rowell (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 170.

The pleading by plaintiff, suing on an accident policy, that he was informed by defendant that further proofs of loss were unnecessary held sufficient to authorize a showing of waiver of defendant's conversation with defendant's agent. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Bryant (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 978.

SUPP.VERN.S.CIV.ST.TEX.—20 401
In an action to cancel a deed from husband to wife, an allegation in petition that wife, in consideration to care for husband while he lived, to procure another deed, with a general denial, held not sufficient to raise as an issue question of ratification of prior deed, by another provision of contract. McKay v. McKay (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 520.

24. Waiver of the right to contest the opening of a road upon the ground of lack of public necessity is not available unless pleaded. Moseley v. Bradford (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 824.

124. Pleading in particular actions.—Petition in action by agent for first premium, on liability of defendant which plaintiff, defendant of whose entire interest, held to state cause of action. Just v. Gerry (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1012.

Pleading held insufficient to remove a transaction by one of two tenants in common from the rule that a tenant in common who discharges an incumbrance against the common property acquires only an equitable lien, and not the whole title. Hardee v. Alexander (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 57.

Petition in action by landlord held to show a good cause of action based on special contract of the tenant to indemnify him in case of loss by fire. Seligmamn v. Sonka (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 78.

125. Account.—In an action for an accounting, petition held to state a cause of action as alleging collection and retention by defendant of commissions jointly earned by the parties. Harrell v. Haile (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1020.

A petition based upon an open account should be properly itemized. Thornburg v. Moon (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 959.

In German corporation's suit against resident of Mexico on open account, the account, in a foreign language, but accompanied by an English translation, was sufficient. Rusk v. Wilcox Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 584.

126. Against carriers of goods and live stock.—Where plaintiff shipped cattle from the quarantined area in Texas to a point outside the quarantine line, and did not plead or prove that the carrier was charged with the duty of complying with the quarantine regulations, any damages resulting from its failure to deliver the cattle, or to deliver them at destination because of noncompliance therewith. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Crowder (Civ. App.) 195 S. W. 116.

In the absence of allegation and proof that money claimed by a traveler to be baggage was for reasonable traveling expenses, the court cannot hold that $25 contained in a trunk lost was intended for use on the passenger's journey home, and was reasonably necessary for that purpose. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Green (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 110.

A petition, which enumerated articles and averred that they were proper articles of baggage being necessary for comfort, convenience, and adornment of plaintiff and members of her family, who were traveling with her, held sufficient in an action for the recovery of loss of baggage. Carter-Mullaly Transfer Co. v. Angell (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 237.

In an action by shippers of live stock for delay in transit, the petition, alleging that the cattle should have reached destination on a given date, but did not, so that plaintiffs were compelled to hold them over for the next market, was insufficient as failing to allege when they arrived and why they were held over. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Land & Storey (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 884.

129. Against connecting carriers.—Petition against connecting carriers for damages caused by delay in transportation held to be based on original oral agreement for transportation of all the property, not upon bills of lading subsequently issued on delivery of property. Dunning v. S. P. Ry. Co. v. Gold C. & O. Ry. (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 169.

Petition in an action for personal injury, by the overturning of a box, on which plaintiff stepped in slipping from a car, held to state a cause of action. Wichita Falls Traction Co. v. Berry (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 415.

131. Against cities and other municipal corporations.—Where, in an action by a city detective to recover salary, the petition alleged that plaintiff was appointed to the office, and that the salary was fixed by ordinance at $85 per month, etc., it sufficiently alleged that the office existed at the time of the appointment and was created by ordinance. City of San Antonio v. Bodeman (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1043.

In action against a county for services on a road, under section 4 of the special road law of 1902, for the county, a petition held sufficient as against a general demurrer, but subject to special exception for failure to allege the particular order of the commissioners' court, authorizing the commissioner to make the contract. Millard v. Nacogdoches County (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 828.

Petition, in a suit to obtain a judgment on a county's obligation, must plead and prove all the things requisite to make it a valid obligation. Tullos v. Church (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 805.

The action against a city not being for debt, but for conversion, the petition need make no allegation as to manner of contracting debt for the property, or provision for its payment. City of Teague v. Fabric Fire Hose Co. (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 160.

A petition in a suit by a teacher for a compensation held not to affirmatively show that there were funds on hand for the payment of her claim. Boyles v. Potter County (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 210.

The petition against a county for a debt is bad if not showing that provision for its payment was made when it was created, as required by Const. art. 11, § 7. Rogers v. Panke v. Marion County (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 584.

Petition in contractor's suit for price of school building held bad for failure to allege

Under art. 1366, relating to suits at law, a petition, claiming to make a claim made to commissioners' court to have been larger than amount due, held to sufficiently show on general demurrer, that identical claim sued for was presented to commissioners' court for suit before suit. Dunn v. Karnes County (Civ. App.) 677. 132.

--- Against heirs.—A petition seeking recovery on a note of decedent as against his surviving wife is insufficient if it fails to show what specific property of the estate was received by her, or that the estate was solvent, or fails to seek foreclosure of a joint contract. Hamlet v. Leicht. 137 S. W. 1044.

--- Against sureties.—The petition of a materialman against a surety on a county building contractor's bond, which alleged that the materials were used in the building, not need allege that they were approved by the county. American Surety Co. v. Houston & Phil. Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 101 S. W. 617.

A petition against a surety on a county building contractor's bond held not demurable on the ground that there was no allegation as to the condition on which payments for the material were to be made, or that the contract for the building required the contractor to make such payments. Id.

In action on notes, allegations of petition held sufficient to show that defendant was surety. Pennock v. Texas Builders' Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 132 S. W. 760.

In action on notes of corporation alleging defendant to be surety thereon, it was not necessary to allege that corporation principal was insolvent at institution of suit, nor any reason or excuse for failure to sue it at first or second term of court after notes matured. Id.

--- Against telegraph and telephone companies.—A petition, in an action for delivering a message, which alleged that the e delivery and also the sender's guaranty of payment of any special charges for delivery, held to set forth a special contract. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Kersten (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 369, rehearing denied 161 S. W. 1061.

Petition in action against telegraph company for delay in delivery of message notifying plaintiff that he might obtain a loan for use in buying cattle held insufficient to state a cause of action, in that it did not show that plaintiff sustained any injury. Ratliff v. Western Union Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 78.

Allegations of a petition against a telegraph company held sufficient to show that defendant's negligence in transmitting money was the proximate cause of plaintiff's mental suffering caused by the failure to have her husband's body shipped to her. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Martin (Civ. App.) 151 S. W. 442.

A petition for delay in transmitting money by telegraph, which prevented the body of plaintiff's husband being shipped to her, need not allege what particular arrangements could have been made to procure the shipment of the body. Id.

--- Assignee.—Petition in action by heirs of assignor for benefit of creditors to recover balance due the estate in the hands of the assignees held to state a good cause of action. Bass v. McCord (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 988.

--- Bills and notes.—Where a note provided that default in the payment of interest should, at the option of the holder, mature the note, the holder was not required to give any notice of the exercise of his option prior to the filing of the suit, and an allegation in the petition that he had exercised his option was unnecessary. Shearer v. Chambers County (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 999.

Allegation of petition that the notes sued on were executed and delivered by defendant to plaintiff is enough, without alleging that it is the owner and holder thereof. Bryan v. Wharton Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 827.

Where note provided for attorney's fees in case of suit, plaintiff to recover such fees need not prove or allege the bringing of the suit. Ralke v. Clayton (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 498.

That the makers consented to or ratified alteration of note, or that it was not altered by a party to the suit, held matters to be pleaded by plaintiff suing on the note. Bolton v. Savings Bank, Iowa. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 975.

In suit on note executed by defendant to own order and indorsed in blank, where petition did not aver to whom defendant delivered, or agreed to deliver, stock attached to note as security, but did allege it was owned and held by plaintiff, who produced it on trial, petition was insufficient. Kanaman v. Gahagan (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 619.

Petition in action against the maker and the payee and indorser of a note held to aver that plaintiff acquired the note before maturity. McCamant v. McCamant (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1096.

In an action against drawee of drafts, an allegation that they were indorsed and delivered by owner is a sufficient allegation of a legal indorsement without allegation of name of indorser. Bloch v. Rio Grande Valley Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 541.

--- Breach of contracts in general.—To recover for a breach of a contract to furnish water for irrigation, plaintiff need not allege that defendant was negligent in failing to furnish water. Northern Irr. Co. v. Dodd (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 946.

A cause of action is brought upon a contract in which the parties are mutual and concurrent, plaintiff must allege performance, or a readiness and willingness to perform on his part, or some act or omission of defendant which justifies a rescission of the contract by plaintiff. Fink v. San Augustine Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 76.

A petition, in an action for compensation for plans for fixtures for a building, alleging that defendant accepted the plans as satisfactory, states a cause of action as against a defendant, though the plans should be to the satisfaction of defendant. Searbrough v. Wheeler (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 196.
Under Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1827, a petition, alleging that defendants were preceded with plaintiff in his suit for the erection of a certain town and to do "certain other work" in and about the town site, held insufficient because not definite enough. Day v. Van Horn Trading Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 85.

In view of this article, as amended by Acts 1923, Leg. c. 127, a petition averring on information and belief that defendant had agreed with the holder of the policy of insurance to pay all compensation to discharge vendor's lien notes is insufficient to support default judgment against defendant. Cooney v. Eastman (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 96.

In an action by supervising agent against insurance company for breach of contract of employment, it was not necessary that plaintiff's petition allege what effort he made to obtain other employment, and what amount he earned or might have earned by reasonable diligence. American Nat. Ins. Co. v. Van Dusen (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 631.

Although cause of action to render reasonable hospital charges, expenses, etc., from employer to which plaintiff had paid hospital fees, and which had not received them in its hospital or paid medical expenses, etc. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Goodman (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 326.

In an action against estate of decedent, petition held to state a suit upon an express contract on part of decedent to devise land to plaintiff for personal services to be rendered. Henderson v. Davis (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 358.

A petition in action for failure to furnish irrigation water alleging that defendants had contracted to furnish tenant water, and that landlord had agreed to pay therefor, held sufficient. Louisiana, Rio Grande Canal Co. v. Elliott (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 255.

140. Breach of contract of sale.—In an action by a buyer for damages because of the defective condition of a car load of corn chops, the petition held to sufficiently allege that the contract should be fit for food for live stock. F. A. Piper Co. v. Oppenheimer (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 777.

A petition in an action upon a contract for lumber sold, though it showed that plaintiff had failed to deliver the amounts in the time prescribed by the contract, was not sufficient to show demurrer; where it also alleged, without the required payments, thus relieving plaintiff of the duty to deliver. Fink v. San Augustine Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 35.

A petition for a vendor's breach of contract, alleging that plaintiff telegraphed defendant accepting his proposition and stating that a letter with contract would follow, held not objectionable as showing that plaintiff's acceptance was subject to the provisions of a contract to follow by mail. Spaulding v. Smith (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 627.

An allegation that defendant agreed to accept a quitclaim deed held equivalent to an allegation that he agreed to take chances on plaintiffs' title. Bushong v. Scrimshire (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 155.

In action for breach of contract to buy cattle, allegation that petition refused to pay for best obtainable lot, and that cattle were not marketable was sufficient to enable court to determine damages. Houston Packing Co. v. Dunn (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 631.

In an action for breach of contract to buy cattle at so much a pound, allegations as to weight at point of delivery, and at the point to which plaintiff was forced to send them for a market, should have been made to lay foundation for proof of damages. Smith v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 707.

Plaintiffs held not entitled to recover for defendants' refusal of railroad ties without pleadings and proof showing which remedy they had elected to pursue. Price v. J. B. Faircloth & Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 707.

Petition, in action to recover on defendant's promise to pay for wheat taken from plaintiffs, ground into flour, and retained, held sufficient. Mendiola v. Garza Bros. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 391.

142. By broker for commissions.—In broker's action for commissions, complaint held to allege ability and willingness of party to make exchange of lands, and not merely ability and willingness to make the exchange or pay the stipulated damages. Levy v. Dunken Realty Co. (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 679, denying rehearing Same v. Duncan Realty Co., 178 S. W. 394.

Allegation that person procured by brokers was ready, able, and willing to carry out contract of exchange held equivalent to allegation that he had title to the land he contracted to exchange. Id.

A petition setting out the contract for commission agency, the amount of goods sold, the commissions due, and defendant's promise to pay, and that payment has been demanded and refused, to which an exhibit of sales, amounts, purchases, etc., is attached, is sufficient as against demurrer. Channell Chemical Co. v. Hall (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 704.

A petition in a broker's action for commission, alleging that he was to make a sale for part cash, the balance due to suit the purchaser, and that the lot was sold upon terms required by the seller to a purchaser willing and able to pay all cash, or to make terms to suit the seller, is not subject to a general exception. Rabinowitz v. Smith Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 197.

Petition of broker against landowner, stating that, but for defendant's failure to designate land for sale, and fix prices and terms, according to his contract, the land would have been sold at a reasonable price, yielding certain commissions, held sufficient without statement as to whom plaintiff could have sold. Daugherty v. Smith (Civ. App.) 195 S. W. 1131.

143. By or against corporations in general.—The petition, in an action by a municipality to recover from a street railway the cost of paving that portion of the street occupied by the railway, should disclose the width of the pavement and the length of the street, so that the court can determine the amount to which the city is entitled, and whether that amount is within its jurisdiction. Texas Bitulithic Co. v. Allison St. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 433.

The petition, in an action by a private corporation, need not state the name of any officer of the corporation. Rockdale Mercantile Co. v. Brown Shoe Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 281.
Petition in action by plaintiff to recover attorney fees from a corporation in which he was a stockholder, held to state a cause of action. Merchants' Ice Co. v. Scott & Dodson (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 413.

145. — By or against insurance company or order.—In action on policy of life insurance, it was not necessary that petition affirmatively allege that insured was in sound health when policy was issued, as required by its conditions. American Nat. Ins. Co. v. Burnside (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 169; American Nat. Life Ins. Co. v. Rowell (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 170.

Petition not showing plaintiff's legal right to sue for interest of her deceased father, one of two original separate beneficiaries, did not give trial court jurisdiction to adjudicate interest of deceased beneficiary, and judgment disposing of such interest was fundamental error. Modern Woodmen of America v. Yanovsky (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 728.

Allegation in suit on policy of life insurance that beneficiary compiled with all of the provisions of the policy is sufficient allegation of absence of special exception that proofs of death were duly furnished, in view of arts. 4733 and 5714. Ford v. Illinois Bankers' Life Ass'n of Monmouth, Ill. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 607.

That suit was instituted against defendant by same alleging that it was doing an insurance business in the state of Texas, with an office and place of business in Dallas county, Tex., in the city of Dallas, with a person named, as manager and attorney, upon whom service could be had, was sufficient to show a legal liability by a legally existing association. Merchants' Reciprocal Underwriters of Dallas v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1098.

146. — By or against husband or wife or both.—Amended petition held sufficient for relief by vacating a judgment against a married woman. Shaw v. Proctor (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1184.

147. — By or against landlord.—As against general demurrer, a petition for wrongful eviction held to state a cause of action, though it avowed a valuable consideration, but did not state whether the rent was to be in money or crops. Joiner v. Citizens' Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 399.

148. — By or against officers.—In suit by treasurer of San Augustine county against a county commissioner and his sureties to recover moneys illegally collected, petition, alleging that an account for roadwork was approved, warrant issued, delivered to defendant, and paid by treasurer's check, held insufficient. Slaughter v. Knight (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 599.

148/2. — By or against receivers.—In a suit against receivers, it is sufficient to allege that defendants are receivers without showing their authority. Petition alleging cause of action against receivers giving date of injury and justifying inference that it arose during receivership was not demurrable for failing to specially allege that fact, and allegation that receivers were responsible for damages claimed sufficiently alleged that the damage occurred during receivership. Schaff v. Nash (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 462.

In suit receiver appointed by federal court for damages occurring prior to receivership, pleading must allege permission of court to bring suit. Id.

149. — Cancellation or rescission.—Petition in action for the cancellation of conveyances to defendant, with knowledge that the land might be used as collateral to obtain money to conduct an illegal business, held not to show that plaintiff was in pari delicto, and to state a good cause of action. Putch v. Sanger (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 597.

Plaintiff's petition held not fatally defective because it did not charge that the whole amount of the stock had never been actually paid for. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Bomar (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1069.

In an action to rescind a contract for the sale of a traction engine guaranteed to develop 20 horse power upon a certain test, where the buyer did not plead that the test was ever or even made, to which the defendant appealed, evidence that the contract was at the bolt or drawbar held inadmissible. Southern Gas & Gasoline Engine Co. v. Adams & Peters (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1143.

Where a deed was sought to be set aside for fraud only, the question whether a consideration was given was immaterial. Irvin v. Chamber (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 1069.

Pleadings of committee of subscribers implored in action by contractors against the railroad held to evidence an intention to rescind its aid contract. Crawford v. Wellington Railroad Committee (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1044.

In suit to set aside conveyance, petition held to make issue as to fraudulent promise to pay cash consideration without intent of doing so, as to two lots, though one was alleged to have been included fraudulently. Wyatt v. Chambers (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 16.

151. — Contribution.—In an action by the owner of two-thirds of a lot of land for contribution held to the owner of the other third for filling the land, allegation that the owner of the other third could not be notified because of plaintiff's inability to discover any claimant therefor held sufficient as to notice. Stephenson v. Luttrell (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 666.

In an action by the owner of two-thirds of a lot for contribution for filling the lot, allegations held sufficient to show the necessity therefor. Id.

Allegations, in an action by the owner of part of a lot for contribution from the owner of the other part, held to sufficiently show plaintiff's payment of the sum agreed upon.

Petition by a surety on a note for reimbursement, alleging execution, delivery, and payment of note, and praying for recovery of the money paid, held to authorize recovery on the implied obligation of reimbursement. Green v. Hoppe (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 117.

Tenant in common suing for contribution held, under his petition, not entitled to recover defendant's share of the cost of improving a street adjacent to the property. Stephenson v. Luttrell (Sup.) 179 S. W. 260.

152. — Conversion.—In an action for conversion of notes, a paragraph of petition, not demurred to, held sufficient to raise the issue whether defendant had converted plain-
153. — Covenant or warranty.—In an action by a buyer of grain for damages for the inferior quality of a car of corn chops, a petition merely alleging a known purpose to use the chops for stock food does not present an issue as to an implied warranty of soundness or marketability. P. A. Piper Co. v. Oppenheimer (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 777.

155/1. — Damages of a petition for divorce for cruelty alleged to be of the ground of cruelty that defendant was guilty of many other excesses, outrages, and cruel treatment so as to render the future living together of the parties inapposable, following acts of cruelty specifically alleged, is too general. Fitzgerald v. Fitzgerald ( Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 482.

Allegation of original and supplemental petitions in action for divorce, relating to the separate property of plaintiff and the claims of defendant with reference thereto, held to authorize joint effort in her own property in suit of plaintiff for divorce on quantum tithe as against defendant. Barton v. Barton ( Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 192.

In wife's suit for divorce on ground of cruel treatment, in absence of an allegation of physical violence or imputation of want of chastity, petition must allege such treatment as will produce a degree of mental distress which threatens to impair her health. Bloch v. Bloch ( Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 528.

In wife's suit for divorce on ground of cruel treatment, a petition which failed to specifically state time, place, and material circumstances of acts of cruel treatment alleged held insufficient upon special exception, as stating merely conclusion of pleader. Id.

In an action for divorce, petition held sufficient against an exception, in effect a general demurrer, that it was insufficient in law, because the allegations of defendant's conduct were indefinite. Hill v. Hallman, and Ind. 189, 1. W. 728.

158. — False imprisonment or malicious prosecution.—In an action for conversion of cattle by levy of attachment, a petition charging malice and seizing without probable cause for believing them to be the property of another was sufficient, without charging special acts, malice being insufficient to support probable cause. First Nat. Bank of Hereford v. Hogan ( Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 880.

A tenant's petition seeking recovery for alleged wrongful levy of a distress warrant, charging that the writ was issued and served without cause, illegal, unjust, and for the purpose of gaining and putting him the tenant, was supported by handwriting and expense, and impairing his credit and reputation in the community, sufficiently charges malicious suing out of the writ, though not using the word "malice." Streetman v. Lasater ( Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 929.

159. — Foreclosure of liens.—Petition, in an action by a materialman against the owner of a building on an order given by the contractor, held not fatally defective for failure to aver that the contractor had obtained and furnished receipts for materials used in the construction of the building so as to entitle him to the amount specified in the order in manner ( Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 562.

Petition, in a suit on a note and to foreclose a lien upon a collateral note, held not insufficient because failing to allege that the collateral note was ever presented for payment, or that payment was refused. Baldwin v. Jordan ( Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1018.

In a suit on a note and to foreclose the lien on a collateral note, petition held not insufficient for not alleging that the maker of the collateral note had not paid it to plaintiff.

Petition by minority stockholders of foreign corporation to foreclose equitable lien as creditors upon assets within the state, transferred to a domestic corporation controlled by the officers of the foreign corporation, held to state a cause of action. Tipton v. Railway Postal Clerks' Inv. Ass'n ( Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 562.

In suit to foreclose a vendor's lien notes, allegation of owner's intention to mature all the notes held sufficient. Miller v. Davis ( Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1140.

Petitions seeking to establish liability by reason of mechanics' liens held bad for failing to show the amount of the contract price unpaid to the contractor at the time of the notice, or the amounts thereafter paid to him. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. McCurdy ( Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 796.

Petitions seeking to establish liability by reason of mechanics' liens, held bad for failing to allege date of giving notice. Id.

A petition to foreclose a mechanic's lien based on a note mentioning a contract for mechanic's lien for labor to be performed which failed to allege that the labor had been performed was defective. Herring v. Herring ( Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1165.

In suit by vendor of lands to city to foreclose implied lien on part of them for part of price, description of lands, in petition, as all "above high-water mark," held sufficient. City of Ft. Worth v. Reynolds ( Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 601.

In an action on a note secured by a vendor's lien on land, a petition not seeking personal judgment against a subsequent purchaser of land, who has not agreed to pay note, will not support a personal judgment. Neeley v. Lane ( Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 390.

161. — Garnishment proceedings.—Allegations that defendant, in suit to foreclose vendor's lien, broke his agreement with his codefendant, to whom he had sold, to bid in the lien thereon at a public sale, and thereafter sell to a purchaser procured by codefendant in reduction of parties' liabilities, held sufficient, against general demurrer, to entitle codefendant to accounting in defendant's garnishment proceedings against his debtor. Roberts v. Anthony ( Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 424.

165. — Injuries from obstruction or diversion of water.—In an action for damages for flowing plaintiff's land, a petition alleging that defendant, by reason of the negligent construction of its roadbed, overflowed plaintiff's land, injuring his growing crops in given sums, held sufficient as against general demurrer. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Hamilton ( Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 696.

166. — Injuries in construction and operation of railroads.—Petition alleging that a switchman invited plaintiff to go through the train standing across the street, and told him he had time to get through, but that the employes started the cars without looking so as to injure plaintiff, held to sufficiently allege negligence of such employes in inviting plaintiff to go between the cars. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Finley (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 104.

Failure to observe, as an element of failure to warn, is sufficiently alleged, as against a general demurrer, by the allegation, in a petition for the killing of a cow by a train, that the engineer negligently failed to warn the cow from the track. Southern Kansas Ry. v. Nettles (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 551.

168. — Injuries to servant. — Petition held insufficient as failing to show upon what ground recovery was sought. Snipes v. Bomar Cotton Oil Co., 106 Tex. 181, 161 S. W. 1. See, also, St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Cox (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1042.

In an action by a servant of a railroad company, where the acts of negligence relied on, and which were alleged to be in violation of the company's rules, were specifically set out, it was unnecessary to set forth the rules or their substance. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Barlett (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1039.

In an action for injuries to a brakeman by his foot becoming caught in an automatic coupler, an allegation of the petition held to sufficiently charge that the coupler was defective, and did not comply with the safety appliance acts. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Wagner (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 24.

A complaint in an action by a station agent against the railroad for an injury caused by his falling from the platform into a ditch after the steps had been removed to construct the ditch held to show negligence of defendant. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Graha (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 55.

A general allegation of negligence in the petition in a servant's action for injury is permissible, where the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur is applicable. Trinity & B. V. Ry. Co. v. Geary (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 201, Judgment reversed (Sup.) 173 S. W. 645.

Petition against a railroad and its contractor for injuries to an employed alleging that defendants jointly constructed a road, and that the employer was employed by both, states a cause of action against both. Stephenville, N. & S. T. Ry. Co. v. Wheat (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 974.

Petition of a switchman, injured when a trunk was cast upon him, held good as against a general demurrer, though not giving certain details. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. Blair (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1156.

In a servant's action the petition held sufficient to warrant recovery on the ground that defendant was negligent in the employment of an incompetent engineer. Texas & Pacific Coal Co. v. Gibson (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1134.

Petition in car inspector's action for injury from explosion of tank car held not to show any unusual facts or circumstances exempting him from rule as to servant employed to repair defective machinery or equipment. Magnolia Petroleum Co. v. Ray (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1085.

In a railroad servant's action for injuries in a statement in plaintiff's petition held not to a charge of liability of the company because defendant's car inspector ordered plaintiff to go between cars. Texas & Pac. Ry. Co. v. Elliott (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 737.

In an action for damages for electrocution of plaintiff's decedent upon turning an electric switch as commanded by his foreman, negligence of the vice principal in ordering deceased to throw the switch held sufficiently pleaded. San Antonio Portland Cement Co. v. Gschwender (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 599.

In an insurance case upon filing of a bill of interpleader by defendant, only issue raised was whether alleged claimant be required to interplead with plaintiff for fund. Id.

170. — Judgment, action on. — In action on New York judgment awarding personal injury to plaintiff, monthly, plaintiff held to have entered judgment, and proving that, under the law of New York, it was final, and that the right to recover such installment was absolute or vested. Ogg v. Ogg (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 912.

Where a petition to enforce a county court judgment contained further allegations of fraud and conspiracy, but no evidence was introduced to sustain such allegations nor any request made for such a finding, such allegations did not change the character of the action. Willis v. Keator (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 556.

171. — Judgment, equitable relief against. — Injunctive relief, see notes under art. 464.

A petition to vacate a judgment is in the nature of a motion for a new trial, and must set out such facts as would have been ground for granting a motion for new trial if made at the term at which judgment was rendered. Patruncio v. Belkirk (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 635.

Petition to set aside judgment on note held demurrable as failing to state cause of action in that it showed neglect by plaintiff, and failed to show any fraud on defendant's part. First Nat. Bank v. Hartzog (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 363.

172. — Libel or slander. — In employee's action against former employer for damages caused by circulating unwarranted and incompetent, among other employers, indefiniteness on the part of the petition in respect to the extent and date of such circulation, held not to render it insufficient as against a general demurrer. Beard v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 655.

A petition to set aside judgment of summary judgment ordering the import of a libellous communication, and containing innuendoes explaining wherein the language used was libelous, and averred that it was falsely and maliciously made, and that plaintiff was damaged, is insufficient. Texas Pulp & Paper Co. v. Meyers (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 766.

Complaint in an action for libel held insufficient as not necessarily charging that the Plaintiff's petition, alleging that defendant manager of defendant store used toward her harsh and insulting language in presence of other shoppers, but failing to set out words used, held not to state cause of action for slander. Sisler v. Mistrot (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 266.

174. --- Mandamus.—Under the Enabling Act, petition for mandamus to compel the mayor and council to order an election failing to allege that in determining the number and qualification of petitioners they had acted arbitrarily or fraudulently held not to state cause of action. Boynton v. Brown (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 897.

Petition for mandamus to compel the performance of an official duty must not only aver every fact necessary to show that complainant is entitled to the service sought, but must allege every other fact upon which the officer might urge as a defense. Johnson v. Elliott (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 964.

A petition for mandamus to compel a county tax collector to issue to petitioner a nonintoxicating liquor license alleging the tender of the $2,000 state license tax imposed by art. 7476, but not alleging payment of the local tax or that no such tax had been levied under such section, held fatally defective. Id.

Under arts. 1160, 1168, providing for transfer of stock according to the by-laws, a petition to compel transfer of stock on the books by mandamus is insufficient if it fails to show what the by-laws provide as to transfers. Milner v. Brewer-Monaghan Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 29.

Petition by landowner for mandamus to compel municipality controlling sole waterworks system to furnish separate meters and connections for tenants held not subject to demurrer because not disclosing that water was not obtained or that tenants had applied for separate connections. City of Galveston v. Kenner (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 205.

176. --- Money received or money paid.—In an action by the buyer of goods, who had a greater quantity delivered than he had ordered, to recover, as money had and received, he must aver in advance for an opportunity to inspect, the petition, not alleging that plaintiff rejected the goods, refused to accept, tendered them back, or notified the seller that plaintiff held them subject to his order, was insufficient. Blount v. Simon (Civ. App.) 63 S. W. 688.

Where some of the goods delivered are of the character and quality ordered from sample and others are not, the purchaser may accept those according to the sample and reject the remainder, and recover the purchase price of the remainder, paid in advance, as money had and received. Id.

177. --- Negligence in general.—A petition in an action for damages brought against the consignees of cotton with directions to notify the purchaser, held not to state a cause of action for negligence in weighing the cotton. Shippers Warehouse & Compress Co. v. H. B. Moore & Co. (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 103.

The general allegation of negligence in a petition is referable to, and controlled by, the specific acts of negligence charged. Southern Kansas Ry. Co. of Texas v. Crutchfield (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 651.

Petition in an action against a stockyards company for injuries to live stock from its negligence held not subject to a general demurrer. Hovencamp v. Union Stockyards Co. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 255.

Allegations of petition seeking recovery for injuries to a minor held sufficient to present the issue whether plaintiff, a child, was on the defendant's premises under implied invitation, by reason of the existence of machinery and other articles peculiarly attractive to the petition of his age, so that the act of his ingress was not subject to demurrer. Johnson v. Atlas Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 31.

A general allegation of negligence in a petition is sufficient in the absence of a special exception. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Marocom (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 51.

A petition in a negligence action alleges general negligence and action alleged to be the result of negligence, and then specifically sets up the acts of negligence relied on, the evidence will be confined to the specific allegations. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. James (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1138.

182. --- Reformation of instruments.—If reformation of transfer of interest in business to include claim sued on was desired, held that proper allegations should have been made. City of Brownsville v. Tumlinson (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 1107.

183. --- Replevin.—A petition alleging that defendant wrongfully withheld possession of mules which were the subject of the chattel mortgage given by another defendant, with plea that express the mutual intent of the parties, is sufficient as against general demurrer interposed by the defendant in possession of the mules. Blount, Price & Co. v. Payne (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 999.

185. --- Setting aside will.—A general allegation, in contestant's pleading in a will contest, that testator had been subjected to undue influence held insufficient to present the issue of undue influence, where it clearly appeared that the only predicate for the allegation was misrepresentations made to testator; and hence it was error to instruct on undue influence. Ross v. Kell (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 119.

Petition in a will contest alleging undue influence, whereby testator discriminated against his daughter, the contestant, held not objectionable for failure to show in what the undue influence consisted, or the facts relied on as a basis for recovery. Scott v. Township (Civ. App.) 199 S. W. 342, judgment reversed, 106 Tex. 322, 166 S. W. 1138.

187. --- Specific performance.—A petition held to allege such performance on the part of the vendor of title to him to specific performance, even if the contract was not in writing. Fahey v. Benedetti (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 896.

Petition for specific performance or damages in alternative showing on its face that vendor did not own land at the time of contract, was demarable as to the portion seeking specific performance. Bird v. Lester (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 119.

188. --- Taxes.——O'Connor v. City of Laredo (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 1091.
189. — Trespass.—Plaintiff's petition alleging that defendant manager of defendant's store used harsh and insulting language in the presence of other shoppers, but failing to set out words used, held not to state cause of action on the case. Sisler v. Mistrot (Civ. App.) 137 S. W. 565.

192. — Wrongful levy.—Petition held sufficient as against an exception for failure to show the articles removed from plaintiffs' store and their value or those remaining in the store and their value. Brady-Neely Grocer Co. v. De Foe (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 1135.

In an action for wrongful attachment on ground that plaintiffs were about to dispose of their property to defraud creditors, allegations as to contract under which which goods were purchased from defendant held proper to show existence of malice and rebut the grounds of attachment set up Id.

A petition for wrongfully suing out a garnishment, which failed to allege the nature of the expenses incurred or any other damages recoverable, held not to support a judgment for damages. Heidemann v. Martinez (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1156.

Allegations that plaintiffs had closed a contract for selling the real estate with the exception of consolidating several abstracts already approved by the purchaser, and that such consolidation would have been made, sufficiently showed performance of the contract. Hooper v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 156.

Allegations that extension of a mortgage on plaintiffs' property depended on closing a prospective sale sufficiently negated the contention that the mortgage, and not the attachment, caused the sale's failure. Id.

Allegations that a prospective buyer had partly performed by assuming a debt and making part payments were proper as showing the terms and extent of compliance with the contract. Id.

Allegations that the attaching creditors' statement that the debtor was about to dispose of his property with intent to defraud, etc., was false and known to be false is sufficient, although the pleadings established the property was to be disposed of without cash return. Id.

193. Issues, proof, and variance.—A landlord who did not plead that the tenant exercised his option to renew the lease cannot recover rent on that ground. Street-Whitington Co. v. Sayres (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 772.

In partition, held, on pleadings, that proof which decedent intended that adopted child, through whom plaintiff claimed, should have same interest as his own children, did not authorize judgment. Moseson v. Harris (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 284. See Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Craddock (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 965.

194. —Allegations which must be proved in general.—Though the pleadings and proof must correspond, only the substance of the pleadings need be proved. Stevens v. Crosby (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 62.

That plaintiff alleged a violation of the "fence statute" held not to preclude him from recovering for resulting trespass of stock as at common law. Jameson v. Board (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1037.

196. Proof of matters admitted.—Special plea, setting out terms of policy, held not to relieve defendant of the burden of proving the policy, where defendant also pleaded a general denial. Fidelity Phenix Fire Ins. Co. v. Sadau (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 137.

Admissions contained in the special answer of a cross-defendant of material allegations in the petition filed after he had interposed a general denial to the petition did not relieve the cross-defendant of the burden of proving the allegations of the petition. Johnson v. Hall (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 399.

Where the warrantors admit the conveyance by their immediate grantee to a subsequent purchaser, no proof need be submitted of such conveyance. Coleman v. Lotetchke (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1117.

In an action in the nature of an action of trespass to try title, where the fact that defendant had paid the cash for the land in question was not controverted, evidence to that effect held immaterial. Lester v. Hutson (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 321.

In action against sheriff for failure to record an attachment lien, admission in answer held to dispense with plaintiff's proof of the attachment and the return thereon. Neville v. Miller (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1109.

Where a libelous article was made a part of a petition which was sworn to by plaintiff and not denied by defendant, it was not necessary to introduce the article in evidence. Chapa v. Abernethy (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 166.

197. Materiality to issue in general.—Mere evidential matters pleaded in the petition may be treated as surplusage, so that variance between such allegations and the proofs, by which defendants could not have been surprised, are immaterial. Wolley v. Canyon Exch. Co. (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 403.

In an action on a contract of guaranty, an alleged variance between the contract and the petition held immaterial. Young v. Bank of Miami (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 496.

Evidence that the buyer of a span of mules, which he alleged were misrepresented offered to return them is irrelevant, where the buyer sought only damages, and not rescission. Latham Co. v. Snell (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 917.

198. Place and time.—Plaintiff, alleging that "on or about" June 14th he demanded and defendant refused to furnish cars, proved that it was on that day of July not a variance. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Weems (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1103.

199. Parties or other persons.—Proof of several and distinct conversions by two persons will not support a recovery for a joint conversion. Continental Bank & Trust Co. v. Dealey Bros. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 552.

In suit by the treasurer of San Augustine county, the petition, alleging an action against a county commissioner, with his sureties, for the unlawful collection of moneys as such does not warrant recovery against him individually for defaults committed by him as ex officio road commissioner for the county (Sp. Acts 28th Leg. c. 25). Slaughter v. Knight (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 539.

Where the petition of a passenger slandered by a conductor averred that the railroad was being operated by receivers, evidence that the conductor was the servant of the railroad constitutes a variance and should be rejected. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Daniel (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 383.

In action to cancel stock subscription, allegations of petition held to give court jurisdiction as against one of the individual promoters, over objection that while he was sued as a partner he could not be made a party to a suit against his firm. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Meeks (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 681.

Although a partnership note bore a different firm name from that found in partnership contract proven no variance, where managing partner testified that original name had been changed to that alleged before execution of note. Hill v. First State Bank of Oakland (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 984.

There is a fatal variance between allegation of joint ownership and prayer for joint recovery and proof of a separate cause of action. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Reed (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 997.

In suit by assignee of legal title to chose in action, where defendant by cross-examination developed the fact that such holder held for the equitable interest of the real owner, it was not error to admit testimony of the amounts due the beneficial owner on the theory of variance between pleadings and proof. City of San Antonio v. Reed (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 549.

201. — Written instruments.—The variance between the petition in an action on notes and the notes introduced in evidence, arising from the fact that the petition omits the matter of endorsement of payment of interest and the stipulation that past due interest shall bear interest, and because the notes do not describe the land on which the maker's lien is asserted as it is described in the petition, is immaterial. Coleman v. Garvin (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 185.

In the absence of appropriate pleadings, the effect of an indorsement whereby a party guaranteed the payment of a promissory note cannot be varied by parol. Canadian Long Distance Telephone Co. v. Seiber (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 897.

Where plaintiff sued on a note and alleged that it was secured by a chattel mortgage dated August 1, 1912, describing the note as providing for 10 per cent. attorney's fees, while the mortgage was, in fact, dated August 5, 1912, and the note provided for 20 per cent. interest, no variance was the material, so as to require the exclusion of the mortgage. Power v. First State Bank of Crowell (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 416.

In an action by the payee of a note against the maker and surety, in which the surety discharges himself by an extension of the note, plaintiff need not plead the real conditions as to indorsement of an extension, so as to make it unavailable, but could explain the apparent alterations therein when he put the note in evidence. Roberda v. Laney (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 114.

Allegations of a supplemental petition in an action on a note for the price of land held to present the question of the nature of the conveyance as a quitclaim or warranty deed, so that the court might consider surrounding circumstances in construing the deed. Baldwin v. Drew (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 614.

In a suit on a note, in which petition alleged that note was executed January 1, 1911, and note offered in 1913, an issue of January 1, "1901," and November 1, "1901," being manifestly a clerical error, held there was no such variance as would surprise and note was properly admitted in evidence. Braxton v. Voyles (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 965.

In an action to make a draft, where pleading does not state whether acceptance was oral or in writing, it is permissible to prove either a verbal or a written acceptance. Bloch v. Rio Grande Valley Bank & Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 541.

In an action by a materialman against the surety on a county building contractor's bond, the bond is admissible in evidence without the contract referred to therein, in the absence of allegations that the contract would defeat recovery. American Surety Co. v. Huey & Philip Hardware Co. (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 617.

Where seller alleged a written contract for sale with an erroneous allegation of indorsement of a note by E., and buyer pleads no defense in his answer, but alleges that note, otherwise properly described by seller, was not indorsed as alleged, as an admission of note in evidence proper and does not constitute a variance. Houston Transp. Co. v. Palme (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 183.

202. — Nature and extent of relief.—Where, in an action by a principal against his agent, the petition alleged that the agent had received $410, and failed to turn over, processes of the less than $440 voided was the recovered. J. C. Stewart Produce Co. v. Hamilton-Turner Grocery Co. (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1090.

In an action against a testamentary trustee to recover for services to a devisee, plaintiff alleged recovery of every one of his items and any one item an amount in excess of that claimed to be due. McLean v. Breen (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 394.

203. — Matters of defense.—In an action for the price of lumber, plaintiff could not insist that defendant by asking damages for the breach of the contract was estopped to disaffirm the contract, where plaintiff based the claim of estoppel on defendant's examination and acceptance of the lumber. Continental Lumber & Tie Co. v. Miller (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 977.

Where only pleading was verified account, instruction authorizing recovery, if defendant had led plaintiff to believe that purchaser of goods was its agent, held erroneous.
as estoppel must be specially pleaded. Young Men's Christian Ass'n of Dallas v. Schow Bros. (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 931.

204. Effect of variance to mislead or surprise.—The note sued on being attached to the petition as to pleading variance was no variance between the allegations and the proof such as would surprise defendants when the note was offered in evidence. Heat v. State Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 874.

205. — Agency.—Evidence as to false representations by agents held not admissible under allegations that they were made by defendants. Kirkland v. Rutherford (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1061.

Where the petition, in an action to cancel a deed for fraudulent representations, alleged that the fraudulent representations were made by a particular agent of defendant, evidence that they were made by another agent was inadmissible. Orient Land Co. v. Redeker (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 939.

207. Ownership or title.—If assignee of improvement certificate was prior to institution of suit thereon for benefit of assignor, held, that a contention of variance should be sustained. Kernagan v. City of Ft. Worth (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 625.

208. Nature and form of contract and performance or breach thereof in general.—Where a petition alleges a contract for a commission of 71/2 per cent. of the list selling price of any automobile sold by plaintiff and evidence of an agreement to pay a commission of 71/2 per cent., with only one understanding by plaintiff that it would be based on the list selling price, because commissions on such sales were usually based on such price is inadmissible. Overland Automobile Co. v. Buntyn (Civ. App.) 154 S. W. 654.

In an action for goods sold, a petition, avowing that plaintiff sold defendant cotton at 75 cents per bushel is broad enough to admit proof of and authorize a recovery upon the basis of a sale at the market value. Dunman v. McKinney (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1063.

At trial and here now ex exercises the option to declare a note due is sufficient to entitle the plaintiff to prove that that option had been exercised before the suit was filed, if such proof were necessary. Shearer v. Chambers County (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 993.

In an action on a contract for the performance of services which had been modified, the petition held to raise the issue of quantum meruit. Looney v. Evans (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 156.

Where plaintiff alleged an express contract to pay 25 cents per acre on a sale of 3,750 acres on terms, recovery could not be sustained on proof of an agreement to pay plaintiff all that he should obtain over $4 per acre on a sale of the land. Haile v. Keller (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 393.

Where in an action for the price of cotton shipped to defendant, the petition alleged that plaintiff shipped the cotton to defendant and was to have the market value of the cotton at the time of its reception, and the evidence was that plaintiff expected defendant to hold the cotton until a certain date, and failed to show the exact date of the reception of the cotton, there was a failure of proof. Weld-Neville Cotton Co. v. Lewis (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 667.

Where in an action by a bank to recover the amount paid on a foreclosed check, the petition alleged that it was drawn on plaintiff bank, while the check showed that it was drawn on another bank, and the name of plaintiff bank was written thereon, there was no fatal variance; there being no question as to the identity of the check. Texas State Bank of Walnut Springs v. First Nat. Bank of Meridian (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 504.

Alleged fraud in obtaining a premium note held not sustained by proof of an agreement that defendant’s bank held the agent writing the policy that defendant would not be called upon to pay the note if he would assist the agent. Security Life Ins. Co. of America v. Allen (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 131.

In an action for balance due upon a contract, testimony that it was mutually agreed that the work should be completed within 60 days was properly excluded, where there were no pleadings to support it. Jefferson Cotton Oil & Fertilizer Co. v. Fridgen & Congleton (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 739.

In an action on an account, a written order addressed to defendant’s agent held admissible over objection that it was not supported by pleadings. Melado Land Co. v. Field (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1126.

Where the petition relied upon one contract, recovery cannot be had on a subsequent contract. Gossett v. Vaughan (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 933.

In an action for the price of wood, evidence that plaintiffs had contracted with defendant to ship him 450 cords held not at variance with the contract pleaded. McLaughlin v. Terrell Bros. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 932.

Where the petition in an action for specific performance averred that defendant through its agent entered into a written contract to sell land, plaintiff cannot recover on proof of an oral contract and part performance. Loop Land & Irrigation Co. v. Ogburn (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 914.

In suit against street railway to enforce claim for material furnished, submission of issue as to power of its president to purchase material and to give a lien held erroneous, where not pleaded by plaintiff and was of estoppel only. Cleburne St. Ry. Co. v. Barber (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1174.

In action upon agreement between plaintiff, defendant, and other independent cotton buyers, to recover proceeds of cotton put in by plaintiff and not repaid by defendant, exclusion of evidence in support of allegation that defendant was retaining part of the proceeds held inadmissible. Driskill v. Boyd (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 715.

Where a verified account attached to the petition contained items other than those set forth in the petition, the account was inadmissible. Day v. Van Horn Trading Co. (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 88.

In action for excess paid on price of cotton by buyer, where the contract pleaded was that the cotton should be paid for on the basis of its grade, plaintiff need not allege that the contract provided for grading in town to which it was to be shipped by seller, to admit testimony of its real grade ascertained at such place. Townsend v. Pilgrim (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 1021.
In action against estate of decedent, where petition did not state whether an alleged contract for personal services was written or oral, plaintiff could prove a written contract. Henderson v. Davis (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 358.

Where plaintiff alleged an option to take additional salary or an interest in the business "within a reasonable time" and proof showed a different contract held that there was no variance between allegations and proof. Graham v. Kessler (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 299.

209. Express and implied contracts.—In an action for the sale of oats, a petition averring a sale at 75 cents per bushel, does not make an express contract, so that proof that there was no price agreed upon, but that the market price was 75 cents per bushel, does not prevent a variance. Dunman v. McKinney (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 103.

The evidence showing plaintiff took charge of deceased's business under an agreement to receive as compensation a share of the profits, he may not recover in an action against administratrix for the value of the services. Stacey v. McClave (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 597.

In a suit for breach of an agreement to make a will in plaintiff's favor, recovery can be had only on an express contract, where such contract was alleged. Dyess v. Rowe (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1001.

In action on alleged oral agreement for additional work changing proposed well into gas well, held that, upon repudiation of contract at commencement of suit, depriving plaintiff of contract for work done after that time, he could recover upon his alternative claim of quantum meruit. Stine Oil & Gas Co. v. English (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 1099.

In an action for extra services in superintending building, where plaintiff sues in the alternative upon either express or implied contract, evidence as to reasonable value of such services is admissible. Shear v. Bruyere (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 243.

In broker's action for commission for effecting lease, where no custom binding on the parties was pleaded and proven, the end accomplished, as well as effort expended, were to be considered, but evidence of customary rate for leasing property for term and of custom for landlord to pay such commission was inadmissible. Brady v. Richley & Casey (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 568.

A pleading that defendant became liable to pay the fair and usual commission for broker's services was sufficient to authorize proof of what was the reasonable value of the services performed. Id.

A cattle broker, who effected a sale for a less sum than the list price, is, under appropriate pleadings, entitled to recover reasonable compensation for his services. Shaller v. Johnson-McQuilley Cattle Co. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 553.

One cannot plead express contract and recover on implied contract, nor plead an express contract and recover for specified commodity and recover reasonable worth of services, where there has been only a breach in stipulation of payment. Henderson v. Davis (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 358.

The evidence which will support an express contract to pay an attorney's fee will not sustain recovery on a quantum meruit. G. R. Scott, Boone & Pope v. Willis (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 229.

In an action for bank's breach of agreement to extend plaintiff credit to enable latter to buy and sell produce, an implied agreement to accept drafts drawn on purchasers to cover plaintiff's checks was sufficient for recovery. First Nat. Bank v. Mangum (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 647.

210. Action by broker for commissions.—Where a broker sued on an express contract for commissions, alleging that he was the procuring cause of the sale, and was entitled to his commission, whether that he was to the land for sale or not, and testified that he agreed to sell the whole ranch, and that, unless the title to all the land was clear, the ranch could not be sold at the price, he did not prove the case alleged, and could not recover. Jackson v. Blair (Civ. App.) 166 S. 523.

Where an agent sued for commissions and proved right to compensation by way of discount on automobiles purchased by him of his principals for his customers, there was no variance between pleadings and proof. Overstreet v. Hancock (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 217.

Allegations in broker's action for commission under contract, joined with action of tort and bringing in other parties, held sufficient to permit a recovery against owner upon contract. Madden v. Shane (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 908.

In action for broker's commission, evidence as to method of purchase from the owner through a third person to avoid payment of commissions held admissible, notwithstanding the action in contract against him was joined with an action of tort against owner and purchasers. Id.

In a broker's action for commissions for the sale of real estate under an agency contract with defendants, finding for plaintiff for $5,155, held not supported by the pleadings. Wick v. McLennan (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 847.

In action for commission for effecting lease of defendant's property for term, petition's failure to show that the lease contained a provision under which it might be canceled by the lessee on the forfeiture of a certain amount did not prevent a recovery on a ground of a variance between allegation and proof. Brady v. Richley & Casey (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 568.

217. Action against telegraph company.—Variance, between the allegation of the petition, in an action for failure to transmit a telephone call, whereby it was made to notify plaintiff of the impending death of S., that S. was plaintiff's sister, and proof that she was his half-sister, is not material; defendant having been told when the call was put in that S. was plaintiff's sister. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Andrews (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 218.

Variance between the allegation of the petition and the proof as to the place of death and burial of S. held not material. Id.

Variance between the petition in an action against a telegraph company for delay in delivering a message and the proof held not substantial. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. McMillan (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 918.

Where the addressee of a message in his action for failure to deliver alleged a contract to deliver at a named town, but failed to allege a contract to deliver by noon to a residence, it was immaterial that there was a phone connection from such town to such residence. Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Fabian (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1008.

Where pleadings charged a telephone company with placing telephone pole, railway track at such elevation that plaintiff, a brakeman, was injured, it was not right to place them at such elevation being pleaded, the only issue was whether such wires encroached. Southwestern Telegraph & Telephone Co. v. Clark (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1077.

218. Action to rescind or cancel.—It may be shown, in an action to set aside an absolute deed on the ground that it was intended as a mortgage, etc., that defendant when he made depositions stating that the instrument was intended as a mortgage was mentally incompetent, though insanity or mental incompetency be not pleaded. Kellner v. Randie (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 500.

In an action to cancel a deed as procured by fraudulent representations, only such representations can be proven as are specifically alleged. Orient Land Co. v. Reeder (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 335.

A deed cannot be set aside on grounds not pleaded. Cleveland v. Stanley (Civ. App.)
177 S. W. 1181.

Where plaintiff alleged that one who assumed to sell land as her guardian under orders of court was not legally or in fact her guardian, the allegations must be construed as a general averment that such person was not her guardian. Hamer v. Sanford (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 343.

220. Action for slander.—Proof that defendant had charged that plaintiff had swindled or stolen from him in the purchase of a mule is not proof of an alleged slander that plaintiff had stolen from defendant all that he raised on defendant's place. Burk-hisier v. Lyons (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 244.

In actions for slander, the material and actionable words must be proved strictly as they are alleged in the petition. Id.

Where petition alleged good reputation of plaintiff prior to publication of libel, and answer denied sufficient information to form belief, evidence of good reputation of plaintif was admissible. Houston Chronicle Pub. Co. v. Quinn (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 969.

224. Actions against carriers.—Where the complaint alleged that the cars were jammed together, bruising the cattle, etc., evidence that this was caused by sudden stoppages, due to the fact that a preceding train was being hauled by a broken-down engine,

In a passenger's action for injuries caused by alleged failure to have sufficient exits open, allegations that there was no door conveniently open, and that defendant did not indicate from what part of the train passengers could alight, did not raise the issue of negligence in failing to give plaintiff personal notice that there was a door open. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Taylor (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 907.

A driver of a railroad engineio for ejecting his wife and sonor children, could show that she had money to pay fare if the conductor had asked for it, though not pleaded. Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Hales (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 931.

A pleading alleging that a carrier's possession of household goods of a family, evidence of the loss of wearing apparel, clothing, etc., held admissible. St. Louis, I. M. &

Where the passenger alleged specific acts of negligence and failed to prove them, he could not invoke the maxim "res ipsa loquitur," based on the happening of an accident, but was required to prove the specific negligence alleged. Dowdy v. Southern Traction
Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 687.

Where a shipper expressly alleged that the goods were in good condition when delivered to the carrier, it has the burden of proving that fact. Cleburne Peanut & Products

225. Action for injuries to servant.—Allegations in a servant's action for injuries held to raise the issue of negligence in allowing a belt to be laced crooked, causing it to jump. Sherman Oil Mill v. Neff (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 137.

Under allegations of a complaint for injuries by a knot in a stave being knocked out and plaintiff claiming that the wheel was unsteady, so that the knives failed to cut a knot, but merely tore it out, and that the disc in which the blades were fastened was defective from being in a fire, evidence was admissible that the wheel was warped. T. B. Allen v. Co., v. Shook (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1001.

Plaintiff having alleged three defects in a machine, with a general allegation of other defects, is confined to proof of the three specific defects, and defendant is required to meet them only as regards defendant's negligence. Gamer Co. v. Gammage (Civ. App.)
162 S. W. 930.

Art. 1827  COURTS—DISTRICT AND COUNTY—PRACTICE IN

(Title 37

The variance between the petition, in an action for injury to an employé alleging that the accident happened as the employé reached forward to unloosen a rail, and the evidence that the employé made one step in the direction of the end of the rail and was then struck by it as it swung around, was immaterial.  Waterman Lumber Co. v. Shaw (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 127.

A petition for injuries to a railroad construction employé held sufficient to raise the issue of last clear chance by the engineer and fireman of the work train to avoid the injury.  Angelina & N. R. R. Co. v. Due (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 97.

The petition of a servant, injured by the fall of a scaffold, alleging that the master failed to furnish the servant a safe place in which to work, in that the scaffold was weakly and insufficient and evidence of the admission that the scaffold was insufficient because the material furnished was inadequate.  Cooper & Jones v. Hall (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 485.

Where a petition did not allege how defendant could have obtained, as alleged, knowledge of the defective character of a locomotive, proof that the hydrostatic test would have disclosed such knowledge was admissible.  National Ry. of Mexico v. Ligarde (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1146.

Evidence of the absence of foot brake and fender on the machine in which injured plaintiff held admissible under the pleadings.  Magnolia Paper Co. v. Duffy (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 89.

A complaint held to allege various acts of negligence by the master, on proof of any one of which recovery might be had.  Decatur Cotton Seed Oil Co. v. Belew (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 607.

The petition in a servant's action held, notwithstanding specific averments of negligence, to warrant the jury in referring the facts relating to the master's control of the building to the acts of negligence averred.  Id.

The master's employé's action for injuries, evidence that defendant's physician had mistakenly diagnosed the case and given improper treatment held inadmissible under the pleadings.  W. P. Carmichael Co. v. Miller (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 976.

A petition averring that the defendant master was negligent in employing an incompetent and reckless engineer, will support recovery on evidence showing negligence in retaining such a person in its employ.  Texas & Pacific Coal Co. v. Gibson (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1134.

If servant alleges injuries due to defective furnace, in that it was extremely hot, and contained fumes and gases, proof of either is sufficient, and the verdict for the servant need not be set aside for failure to prove all.  Consolidated Kansas City Smelting & Refining Co. v. Dill (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 439.

In action for injuries by lumber company's servant, held, that there was no material variance between pleadings and proof as to employé's failure to take precautions against collision.  Kirby Lumber Co. v. Bratcher (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 700.

In servant's action for injuries caused by a strain received in carrying heavy timber, with others, where petition alleged that timber weighed 1,000 pounds, proof that timber weighed from 350 to 700 pounds held not improper or a variance.  Rice v. Garrett (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 667.

226.  — Actions for injuries in operation of railroads. — Where excessive speed and failure to sound whistle or bell were the only grounds of negligence alleged, plaintiff could not recover for the death of a mule on proof that the engineer failed to keep a proper lookout.  Southern Kansas Ry. Co. of Texas v. Graham (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 653.

In an action for damages to realty by the construction and operation of railroad, terminal tracks adjacent thereto, in which plaintiff alleged that the facts alleged had materially impaired the comfortable use and enjoyment of the premises, and that the passing trains interfered with conversation, and threw smoke and dust, evidence was admissible whether persons living on the property experienced or complained of annoyance.  Houston Belt & Terminal Ry. Co. v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 560.

Where a licensee, while using a path near a railroad track, was struck by a piece of scantling hurled from a moving train and the negligence claimed was that the railroad company failed to remove the scantling from the floor of the car, evidence of the roughness of the track, which tended, with the motion of the train, to throw the scantling out of the car, was admissible.  St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Balthrop (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 246.

In an action for the death of a pedestrian at a crossing, proof that deceased was crossing in one direction is not a material variance from an allegation that he was crossing in the opposite direction.  Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Marrujo (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 688.

Where the petition alleged that the explosion of the locomotive causing plaintiff's injury was due to excessive steam pressure and it did not appear that nothing but such pressure could have caused the explosion, plaintiff could not recover except on proof that the explosion was caused as alleged.  McGraw v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 417.

Where the petition, in an action for injury from a boiler explosion, alleged merely that the explosion was caused by defendant's negligence, without specifying any negligent acts, it was not essential that plaintiff prove any particular negligent acts.  Galveston, H. & S. A. RY. Co. v. Perez (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 417.

Where the petition averred that plaintiff's horses being driven down the road were frightened by the operation of a hand car, proof that the car was technicably a push car which was being shoved by the railroad company's servants does not constitute a variance.  Int. & N. C. Ry. Co. v. Vogel (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 438.

In an action for damages to an automobile by a street car, an instruction that plain-
Art. 1828. [1192] [1196] Defensive matters pleaded by plaintiff.
—When the defendant sets up a counter claim against the plaintiff, the plaintiff may plead thereto under the rules prescribed for the pleadings of defensive matter by the defendant so far as the same may be applicable; and whenever, under such rules, the defendant is required to plead any matter of defense under oath, the plaintiff shall, in like manner, be required to plead such matters under oath when relied on by him. [Acts 1913, p. 256, § 2; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 101, § 2.]

See explanatory note under art. 1827.

Replication or subsequent pleading.—Amended or supplemental pleading, see ante, art. 1824.

To defeat the five-year statute of limitations because of the forger of a deed under which the defendant claims, plaintiff must affirmatively allege and prove the fact. Hanks v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 655.

Where defendant merely denied that alleged agent was its agent, estoppel with respect to extent of his authority held available to plaintiff though not pleaded. Internat. Fire Insurance Co. v. Black (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 546.

In an action against the surety on a note, who had been discharged by an extension of time to the maker, waiver of the discharge by the surety if relied on must be pleaded. Cruz v. Chason (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 405.

In suit by vendors for specific performance of contract to purchase land, in which petition alleged full compliance with contract, and defense was that vendors had not complied with provision of contract requiring him to furnish abstract showing merchantability of title, if plaintiff desired to depend upon waiver of defects in title, it should have pleaded such waiver in alternative and proved it. Alling v. Vander Stucken (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 448.

In suit by vendors for specific performance of contract to purchase land, if receipt signed by some of purchasers to vendors for commissions for selling land would estop such purchasers to deny that title of vendors was imperfect, it could be of no avail to vendors, if not pleaded. Id.

Verification.—In an action against a railroad for injuries to a passenger on its car, where the defendant pleaded that plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence in standing in the aisle, which was not denied under oath, the action of the court in refusing to instruct a verdict for defendant was proper. Texas City Terminal Co. v. Pettifias (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 19.

Art. 1829. [1193] [1197] Denial of special defenses presumed.—It shall not be necessary for the plaintiff to deny any special matter of defense pleaded by the defendant, but the same shall be regarded as denied unless expressly admitted. [Acts 1913, p. 256, § 3; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 101, § 3.]

See explanatory note under art. 1827.

Impediment.—Under Rev. Civ. St. 1911, art. 1829, the issue of ratification of unauthorized terms of a broker’s contract of sale held raised. In an action for commissions, by the allegation of the answer that defendant refused to accept said terms, and to that extent repudiated the contract. Wilson v. Burch (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1018.

Unavouched allegations in an answer, denying that the relation of attorney and client existed as alleged by the petition, are not admitted. Morris v. Brown (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 265.

Under this article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 127, it is unnecessary for plaintiff to traverse allegations in the answer which are the mere converse of those in the petition. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Pennington (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 464.

This article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 127, had no application to an amended answer filed before the act took effect. Pugh v. Werner (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 698.

Under this article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 127, a carrier sued for delay in transportation of live stock held entitled to judgment by default, where plaintiff failed to reply to the allegations of the answer. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Martin Bros. (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 792.

Though facts set up in a plea of res adjudicata, not being specially denied, were confessed as provided under Acts 33d Leg. c. 127, yet the confession did not extend beyond the facts alleged so as to render the plea good as res adjudicata, where the facts themselves were not sufficient. Seelig v. First Nat. Bank of Clifton (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 445.

VERIFICATION OF PLEADINGS

Articles 1829a, 1829b.

Decisions under repealed act.—Under Acts 33d Leg. c. 127 (Vernon’s Sayles’ Ann. Civ. St. 1914, arts. 1827-1829b, 1903) and Rev. St. 1911, art. 12, the jurat to the verification of plaintiff’s petition held sufficient, though undated. Order of Azteca v. Noble (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 625.

Under Acts 33d Leg. c. 127 (Vernon’s Sayles’ Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1829b), the failure to verify a petition could not be made the basis of a valid objection. Id.

Article 1829a as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 127 (Vernon’s Sayles’ Ann. Civ. St. 1914, arts. 1829a, 1829b), wherein officer verifying motion merely stated he believed averments of the answer to be true, but did not state the sources of his information and belief. International Travelers’ Ass’n v. Peterson (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 1196.

Verification to entire petition held not subject to general demurrer, where allega-

VENUE OF SUITS

Art. 1830. Venue, general rule.

Art. 1831. Issuing process and taking depositions, no waiver of plea; use of deposition; cause transferred when; costs.

Art. 1832. If plea sustained, no dismissal, but transfer.

Art. 1833. When plea sustained, order changing venue, record transmitted.

Art. 1834. When watercourse or highway is county boundary.

Article 1830. [1194] [1198] Venue, general rule.

General rule.—Plea of privilege to the venue by defendants, nonresidents of the county of suit and not alleged to have done any act for which they might be sued therein, held proper if sustained. Woelfel v. McKeen, Ellers & Co. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 478.

A "cause of action" is composed of plaintiff's primary right and defendants' act or omission, and if both occur in one county, entire cause arose there, and fact that measure of damages requires evidence of matter arising elsewhere is immaterial. Graves v. McCollum & Lewis (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 217.

Since Rev. St. 1911, art. 1830, provides for bringing suit in county where defendant resides, except in specified cases, plaintiff has burden of showing that his right to sue in another county comes within exception. Id. See also, Durango Land & Timber Co. v. Shaw (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 490.

Transfer of cause of action.—See notes under subdivision 4, post.

Residence.—Evidence in support of defendant's plea of privilege to be tried in another county held to show that defendant and his wife were residents of such other county when suit was filed. Weller v. Gusjardo (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 474.

Although "residence" may not be acquired by temporary visits, a man may have several different residences. Evidence that defendant spent seven days every ten days or two weeks at a ranch inside the state where he maintained a house which his family lived in for various periods sustains a verdict that such place was his residence, although he owned a home, sent his children to school, paid poll taxes, and voted outside the state. Littlefield v. Clayton Bros. (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 194.

Objections and waiver.—In view of Const. Tex. art. 5, § 8, and Rev. St. Tex. 1911, art. 1705, giving the District Court original jurisdiction in suits to enforce liens on land, article 1830, subd. 12, does not deprive the District Courts of jurisdiction of the subject matter of suits to enforce liens on land situated in other counties, but only gives the defendant a privilege to be sued in the county in which the land is situated, which may be waived and is waived by defaulting or by appearing and consenting to judgment, notwithstanding the omission of any statutory provision authorizing a plea of privilege in such case; this not justifying the inference that no such plea is recognized. Brophy v. Kelly, 211 Fed. 22, 123 C. C. A. 382.

In the absence of a plea or demurrer interposed by defendants, the district court of one county has jurisdiction to try title to land located in another. Knoles v. Clark (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 369.

Unless objection is made in apt time, any district court can take jurisdiction of a suit by the state to cancel patents to public lands regardless of the defendant's domicile or the location of the land. Sullivan v. State (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1120.

A plea of privilege to be sued in the county of the defendant's residence is a privilege which may be waived if not fully presented before an argument of ready for trial, and evidence offered on the trial could not be relied on in support of such plea. Texas, G. & N. Ry. Co. v. Berlin (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 62.

The right of defendant to be sued in the county of his residence, though a valuable right, is only a personal privilege which may be waived. Wada v. Crump (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 538.
Art. 1830 COURTS—DISTRICT AND COUNTY—PRACTICE IN

Plea of privilege to be sued in county of defendant's residence held not waived by absence under belief that case would be called on following day. Johnson v. Waggoner (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 835.

Where a foreign corporation, after the suggestion of those who had been served as its agents that they were not such agents had been overruled, appeared to claim its privilege to be sued in another county, and thereafter answered to the merits, it submitted the question to the court. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Ayers (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 310.

Plea of privilege to be sued in the county of defendant's residence held not waived by granting of continuances contested by such defendant. Johnson v. Waggoner (Civ. App.) 196 S. W. 835.

-- Cross-Complaint.—Where defendant filed a cross-petition in an action for fraud in inducing plaintiff to purchase land, defendant thereby waived its plea of privilege to be sued in the county of its domicile. Zavala Land & Water Co. v. Tolbert (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 28.

A defendant who invokes the jurisdiction of the trial court by a cross-action thereby waives his plea of privilege to be sued in the county and precinct of his residence. Barnard & Moran v. Williams (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 910.

Properly, by pleading a counterclaim and going to trial without calling his plea of privilege to the attention of the court, waived it. Harper v. Dawson (Civ. App.) 367 S. W. 311.

A county made a defendant in a suit in another county, which reconvened, asking for affirmative relief, held to have thereby waived its plea of privilege. Dallam County v. S. H. Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 798.

3. Non-residents and persons whose residence is unknown.

Non-residents.—This subdivision is subordinate to the requirement that suits concerning realty be brought in the county where the land lies, when invoked by defendants. Knoles v. Clark (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 569.

That one of the defendants is a resident of another state does not authorize suit against him in a resident defendant in the county of plaintiff's residence. In the resident defendant's domicile. Burnett v. Hurst (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 448.

Where one of the defendants, though temporarily sojourning in Texas, had rented a farm for the current year in Oklahoma, while the other defendant was a resident of Texas in a county other than that in which plaintiff resided, suit could not be brought against both in the county where plaintiff resided. Id.

That a nonresident contracted to perform an obligation in the county of plaintiff's residence and might be sued there did not authorize suit in the county of plaintiff's residence against a codefendant residing in another county. Id.

Exceptions Nos. 3, 5, and 12, and paragraph 30 construed, and held that, in action against nonresident on purchase money notes payable in named county, and to foreclose vendor's lien, plaintiff had option to bring suit in another county in which he lived. Holcomb v. Williams (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 691.

4. Several defendants residing in different counties; effect of assignment.

Residence of co-defendants.—Cashier of a bank who was a minor and whose father did not reside in the county held to have a residence in the county where the bank was located so as to permit the bringing of an action against him and the surety on his bond in that county under this subdivision. First State Bank of Mt. Calm v. Fain (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 454.

Where defendants converted cotton belonging to their subodinates, who drew a sight draft upon them for the highest price of the cotton during the season of the conversion, the sale of the draft to a bank with a statement of the fact does not operate as a transfer and guarantee of the payment of the indebtedness, and defendants do not lose their privilege to be sued in the county of their residence. First Nat. Bank v. Martin & Co. (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1029.

Where an action was brought in the county of the residence of one of the defendants, the other defendants' plea of privilege to be sued in the county of their residence was properly overruled. Abney v. Roberts (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 408.

Where a defendant was in court on the petition of plaintiff and on a cross-petition of a defendant, and an amended cross-petition presented after satisfaction of plaintiff's claim merely appealed the cross-petition, the plea of defendant's privilege to be sued in another county was properly overruled. Holcomb v. Williams (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 691.

Evidence in an action for trespass held to show that the trespass was joint by both defendants, so that the action was maintainable against both in the county where only one defendant resided. Fairchild v. Wilson (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 490.

Where the petition alleged a joint trespass by two defendants, and charged them jointly with wrongful occupancy and use of plaintiff's land, and the action was brought in the county where one defendant resided, the court properly directed a verdict against the other defendant on plea of privilege to be sued in the county of his residence. Id.

Where, by a carrier's negligence, plaintiff's cattle escaped from the cars and returned to ranch of D, who refused to surrender them, he could not be joined and required to appear for the conversion, in an action by plaintiff against the carrier, in a county where the demand (Civ. App.) 1093.
Held, that payee and owner of draft drawn by defendant residing in H. county, and guaranteed by party residing in T. county, where plaintiff also resided, might sue thereon in Jackson v. Winstead State Bank (Civ. App.) 37 S. W. 696.

An action for conversion by both defendants may be brought in the county in which either resides. Kempner v. Vaughn (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 696.

Insurer's interpleader against the widow of insured residing in D. county and a creditor residing in K. county held properly brought in K. county, and that the widow's subsequent appointment as administratrix in D. county gave her no privilege to have the cause of action transferred to D. county. Joy v. Citizens' Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 540.

Under art. 1840, action brought against husband and divorced wife for necessaries purchased during the marriage held properly brought in the county of the wife's residence. Trumbell v. Neiman-Marcus Co. (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 271.

Banks. In a case where plaintiff, who had a cause of action against defendant, also had causes of action against two others, the action may be brought in the county of the residence of such others, instead of that of defendant. Bank of Garvin v. Freeman (Sup.) 181 S. W. 187.

In creditor's action against codefendants brought in the county where some of them resided to recover amount of note claimed to have been delivered to payees in trust for creditors, plea of privilege by transferees of the note held properly overruled. Barcus v. Parlin-Orndorf Implement Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 649.

Under arts. 1590 and 1843, a bona fide holder for value of an account could bring suit thereon against a bank, assignor and guarantor of the account, jointly with the parties primarily liable thereon, resident elsewhere, in the county of the residence of the bank. Carver Bros. v. Merrett (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 741.

A broker assigning to a principal for principal is liable to the contracting party for the damages resulting from breach of his warranty of authority; so that suit may be brought against the principal and broker in the county where the broker resides. San Angelo Cotton Oil Co. v. Houston County Oil Mill & Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 881.

In a suit for a specific fund to which other litigants make claim, the venue of the action may be laid in any county in which any one or more of the proper or necessary defendants reside. Roaring Springs Independent School Dist. v. McAbee (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 451.

In suit on cause of action jointly and severally against all defendants, brought in county of a defendant's residence, court properly overruled plea of privilege of other defendants to be sued in county of residence of one of them. Roberts v. Abney (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1101.

In suit against bank and two nonresident individuals seeking injunctive relief, if such relief is ancillary to real cause of action, based on contract, plea of individuals of privilege to be sued in their own county must be sustained. Garrett v. First State Bank of Kingsville (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 313.

In action by stockholder of bank, who alleged that certificates of stock were unlawfully taken from his possession by individual defendants, and who sought injunction against the bank and the individuals to restrain transfer of the stock to their names, the injunctive relief held not merely ancillary to the chief cause of action, and therefore the plea of privilege of the individuals to be sued in their own county should have been overruled. Id.

Retrospective operation of amendment.—The merits of a plea of privilege held controlled by the law in force when the suit was instituted by filing a demurrable petition, and not by Act July 1, 1913 (Acts 33d Leg. c. 177; Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1550), though a second plea of privilege and an amended petition were filed after such act became effective. Crowell Independent School Dist. v. First Nat. Bank of Benjamin (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 878.

Improper joinder.—If another, joined as defendant, was not a proper party to the action, such joinder would not give the court jurisdiction of an action against the other defendant brought in a county other than domicile. Thomas Goggan & Bros. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 119.

Where the petition, in an action against the payees of a check, and the bank on which it was drawn to enjoin enforcement of the check, did not allege a tort or joint contract, so as to make the bank liable, the joinder of the bank did not confer jurisdiction to maintain an action against the payees in a county out of their domicile. Id.

Defendant W., who owed plaintiff only on a note, not being a necessary party to an action against defendant G. for money which came into his hands for the benefit of plaintiff, under an arrangement with W. that it should pay it to plaintiff, joinder of W. as defendant did not deprive G. of right to be sued in the county of its domicile. Galveston Dry Goods Co. v. Mitchell (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 278.

This subdivision means that, if one who is a proper or necessary party defendant resides in the county in which the action is brought, other defendants residing in other counties may be joined with him. San Angelo Cotton Oil Co. v. Houston County Oil Mill & Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 887.

Assignment of cause of action.—See notes under preliminary paragraph of this article in Vernon's Sayles' Civ. St. 1914.

Where a claim for breach of contract was assigned to plaintiff for a valuable consideration, the assignor guaranteeing payment, the denial of defendant's plea of privilege to be sued in the county of its residence, rather than that of the residence of plaintiff and his assignor, was not error. McFadden, Weiss, Kyle Rice Milling Co. v. Aakas (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 5.

Suit brought prior to Act April 16, 1913 (Acts 33d Leg. c. 177), amending this subdivision, held properly brought in the county of the residence of an assignor who guaranteed the note made a party. Anderson v. Jackson (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 54.

Evidence, in an action by the assignee of a claim, held not to show that the assignment was fraudulently made to affect the venue. Rhome Milling Co. v. Cunningham (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1081.

Whether an assignment was in bad faith to enable the assignee to sue the assignor and the debtor in the county of the residence of the assignor held for the jury. Eaton v. Klein (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 331.

Under the provisions of the subdivision as to transfer or assignment of a chose in action, in an action on contract against a school district in which the receiver of plaintiff's assignor is a party defendant, the school district may claim a transfer under article 1832 to the county of its situs notwithstanding nonresidence of such receiver. Roaring Springs Independent School Dist. v. McAbee (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 451.

The fact that a fire insurance policy had been assigned held not to give assignee right to institute suit in a county other than that specified by agreement of assignor in power of attorney. Merchants' Reciprocal Underwriters of Dallas v. First Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1098.

5. Contract in writing to be performed in a particular county.

Place of performance.—An action on notes payable in G. county, where the makers resided, but providing that if they were not paid at maturity they should become due and payable at the payee's office in H. county, was properly brought in H. county. Newman v. Buffalo Pitts Co. (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 657.

Where defendant did not assume to pay the account sued on as his personal debt, but merely agreed with another, who resided in H. county, to pay such debt out of a fund deposited by such other in defendant's bank for the payment of such account by defendant, pursuant to an agreement between them, defendant should be sued in the county of his residence, and not in H. county. Power State Bank v. Texas Novelty Adverting Co. (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1196.

A consignor of cotton shipped to and paid for by drafts in H. county, could not in the consignee's action to recover an overpayment, plead privilege to be sued in T. county, when the consignee and defendant, Keller Co. v. Mangum (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 39.

Where a written contract between a consignor of cotton and a consignee was to be performed in H. county, so that the consignor could not plead the privilege of being sued in another county, the venue for the consignee's recovery of unpaid freight charges might be elsewhere, in order to avoid a multiplicity of suits. Id.

A contract for the sale of corn for delivery on cars in the county of the residence of the seller binds the seller to perform in that county, and an action for breach must be brought therein. Southwestern Grain & Seed Co. v. Blumberg (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 1.

Defendant must have contracted in writing to perform the contract relied on to authorize suing him in such county. Thomas Goggan & Bros. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 119.

Where defendant induced plaintiff to purchase an orchestral piano by false representations that it was a new one, and later refused to keep it in repair in E. county as it contracted to do, plaintiff was entitled to sue in B. county for rescission and a temporary injunction, returnable there, restraining a transfer or suit on unpaid purchase-money notes pendente lite, under subds. 5, 7. Royal Amusement Co. v. Columbia Piano Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 278.

A contract expressly agreeing to pay money at a certain place, lays the venue of the action in that place. Parrott v. Peacock Military College (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 182.

There is no contract in writing to perform an obligation in G. county, where a seller ships with draft attached to bill of lading obligating delivery of possession there. Id.

Under exceptions 5 and 24, a corporation can be sued only in the county of its residence for breach of a written contract made and to be performed there. Texas Moline Pesticide Co. v. Eigenstaff (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 241.

Where a bond incorporated by reference a contract declaring that bond should be enforceable in county of owner's residence, sureties, though nonresidents, could be sued in such county under fifth exception. Hillyer-Deutsch Lumber Co. v. Clark (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 303.

In action by buyer of apples for breach of seller's oral agreement to make good damage if buyer would accept shipment, seller's plea of privilege held properly sustained. Gensberg v. Neely (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 247.

Where plaintiff sold cotton to defendants residing in the same county to be delivered at place of business of defendants' partnership in another county and tendered it at time fixed for delivery, and the firm refused to accept, plaintiff's action for damages should be brought in county where he and defendants resided, and not in the other county. Hughes v. Turner (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 87.

Where plaintiffs purchased cattle in Tarrant county, giving draft on a Comanche county bank in payment, their action should be brought in Tarrant county. Graves v. McCollum & Lewis (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 217.

Bank in which money to pay for silo was deposited, held entitled to be sued in its own county by seller, who claimed right under forfeiture clause in contract to collect price in another county. Ames Portable Silo & Lumber Co. v. Worrall (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 489.

Exceptions Nos. 3, 5, and 12, and paragraph 30, construed, and held that, in action against nonresident on purchase money notes payable in named county, and to foreclosure vendee plaintiff had option to bring suit in another county in which he lived. Holcomb v. Williams (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 631.

6. Executors, administrators, etc.

Representatives included.—This subdivision does not require a suit instituted against a deceased to be transferred to the county of administration after his personal representative is substituted as defendant pursuant to article 1888. Williams v. Harris (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 403.
Chap. 4) COURTS—DISTRICT AND COUNTY—PRACTICE IN Art. 1830

Actions included.—Claim of defendant creditor on insurer's interpleader to establish right to proceeds of policy as between the creditor and the widow and administratrix of insured not a money demand against the estate so that administratrix was not entitled to have the cause transferred to the county of her residence. Joy v. Citizens' Life Ins. Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 590.

7. Cases of fraud, and defalcation.

Place of commission of fraud or defalcation.—Defendant's act in stopping payment of check executed to plaintiff by him for the purpose of gambling with plaintiff with the proceeds, while intoxicated and doped by plaintiff, held not to constitute a fraud. Lloyd v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 128.

In a suit in a county other than that of defendant's residence, evidence held insufficient to show that the fraudulent misrepresentations upon which the action was based were made in the county wherein the venue was laid. Durango Land & Timber Co. v. Shaw (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 490.

Where defendant induced plaintiff to purchase an orchestral piano by false representations that it was a new one, and later refused to keep it in repair in B. county as it contracted to do, plaintiff was entitled to sue in B. county for rescission and a temporary injunction, returnable there, restraining a transfer or suit on unpaid purchase-money notes pendente lite, under subs. 5 and 7. Royal Amusement Co. v. Columbia Piano Co. (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 278.

A suit to rescind for fraud a contract for the exchange of stock held properly brought in the county where the fraudulent representations were made. Continental Trust Co. v. Capper (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 588.

Petition held not to allege a cause of action for fraud within this subdivision. Cloyd v. Baca (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 496.

Wife action charging husband's fraud upon her in B. county, that some of the property was there situated, and seeking to establish a resulting trust, held properly brought in B. county. Fox v. Fox (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 883.

Under art. 2308, venue of action on itemized account for debt was properly changed to county of both plaintiff charged fraud, conversion, and a swindle perpetrated upon him in another county by defendant; article 1350, subds. 7, 9, having no application. Neal v. Barbee (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1059.

Defendant insurance company was not chargeable with any fraud of its soliciting agent, in his individual contract to obtain a loan for plaintiff. San Antonio Life Ins. Co. v. Trammell (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 718.

Any fraud of defendant insurance company's president, through telephoning from E. county to plaintiff in H. county, that it would do what its agent promised in B. county, was not committed in B. county. Id.

Burden of proof.—Plaintiff has the burden of proving that the misrepresentations were made in the county where suit was brought. Durango Land & Timber Co. v. Shaw (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 490; Holmes v. Coalson (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 628.

8. When attachment sued out or levied.

Wrongful suits and writs.—An action for damages for wrongfully suing out a writ of garnishment could not be maintained in the county in which the garnished funds were levied upon instead of that of defendant's domicile, under subdivision 3, construed with this subdivision. Thomas Goggan & Bros. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 119.

9. Cases of crime, offense, or trespass.

Trespass.—An action for damages for wrongfully suing out a writ of garnishment could not be maintained in the county in which the garnished funds were levied upon instead of that of defendant's domicile, under art. 1350, cl. 9, construed with subd. 8. Thomas Goggan & Bros. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 119.

Assignee of a bank held entitled to sue in Titus county a copartnership resident elsewhere whose agent had converted securities pledged by the partnership with the bank. Carver Bros. v. Merrett (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 741.

Under art. 2308, venue of action on itemized account for debt was properly changed to county of defendant's residence, though plaintiff charged fraud, conversion, and a swindle perpetrated upon him in another county by defendant; article 1350, subds. 7, 9, having no application. Neal v. Barbee (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1059.

Where a party elects to sue on a contract, rather than for his damages for fraud, trespass, or conversion in relation thereto, he waives the tort as a fact fixing the venue of his suit. Id.

Action for conversion of personality may be brought in the county of plaintiff's residence if one defendant has converted some of the property there. Garden Valley Mercantile Co. v. Falkner (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 300.

12. Foreclosure of mortgage or other liens.

Foreclosure.—This subdivision does not deprive the District Courts of jurisdiction of the subject-matter of suits to enforce liens on land situated in other counties, but only gives the defendant a privilege to be sued in the county in which the land is situated, which may be waived. Brophy v. Kelly, 211 Fed. 22, 128 C. C. A. 332.

Where a vendor delivered a deed in connection with a contract of sale, an action to foreclose a vendor's lien, based on the assumption of acceptance of the deed, was not a personal one for specific performance which must be brought in the county of defendant's residence. Capps v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 127.

This subdivision includes foreclosure of equitable vendors' liens. Id.

In action against nonresident on purchase money notes payable in named county, and to foreclose vendor's lien, plaintiff had option to bring suit in another county in which he lived. Holcomb v. Williams (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 631.
13. Suits for partition.

In general.—The statute fixing the venue of actions against nonresidents in the county of plaintiffs' residence is subordinate to the statute requiring suits concerning realty to be brought in the county where the land lies, when invoked by defendants. Knolcs v. Clark (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 369.

This subdivision does not affect jurisdiction of other courts in such suits, furnishing only venue privilege of which party may avail himself. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Bowles (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 611.

Actions included.—The venue of trespass to try title is in the county where the land lies. Lester v. Hutson (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 321; Knolcs v. Clark (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 369.

A suit to enjoin a judgment alleged to be void for alteration and to remove the cloud cast by a record of such judgment upon plaintiff's land should be removed in its entirety to the county where the judgment was rendered, under art. 4653, and article 1530, subd. 17, and not retained as to the removal of the cloud in the county where the land was situated, under this subdivision. Lester v. Gatewood (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 380.

The district court of the county in which land lies has jurisdiction of a suit of trespass to try title to the land, and to remove the cloud cast by a record of such judgment upon plaintiff's land should be removed in its entirety to the county where the judgment was rendered, subd. 17, and not retained as to the removal of the cloud in the county where the land was situated, under art. 1830, subd. 14, fixing the venue of suits to remove clouds upon title. Lester v. Gatewood (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 380.

Where a suit to enjoin the execution of a judgment was not brought in the county in which the judgment was rendered, as required by art. 4653, and article 1530, subd. 17, the objection is one of venue, and not of jurisdiction, and it was proper to transfer the suit to the proper county, instead of dismissing it. Id.

Art. 4653, and article 1530, subd. 17, do not apply where the judgment is void on its face or upon the record, but do apply where the alleged invalidity is an alteration which is not shown to be material. Id.

17. Injunctions, etc.

See art. 4653, post, and notes.

Application in general.—A suit to enjoin a judgment alleged to be void for alteration and to remove the cloud cast by a record of such judgment upon plaintiff's land should be removed in its entirety to the county where the judgment was rendered, under art. 4653 and article 1530, subd. 17, and not retained as to the removal of the cloud in the county where the land was situated, under art. 1830, subd. 14, fixing the venue of suits to remove clouds upon title. Lester v. Gatewood (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 380.

Where a suit to enjoin the execution of a judgment was not brought in the county in which the judgment was rendered, as required by art. 4653, and article 1530, subd. 17, the objection is one of venue, and not of jurisdiction, and it was proper to transfer the suit to the proper county, instead of dismissing it. Id.

Art. 4653, and article 1530, subd. 17, do not apply where the judgment is void on its face or upon the record, but do apply where the alleged invalidity is an alteration which is not shown to be material. Id.

19. Suits against counties.

School district.—In view of art. 2822 school district may be sued in other courts than those of its domicile. Crowell Independent School Dist. v. First Nat. Bank of Benjamin (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 878.

Head of department.—The game, fish, and oyster commissioner is not the head of an executive department within the meaning of this subdivision. Sterrett v. Gibson (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 18.

Nature of suit.—This subdivision does not apply to a suit for damages and injunction. Sterrett v. Gibson (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 18.

24. Private corporations, associations, etc.

Application in general.—Under subds. 14, 24, 28, and 30, and article 2147, held, that a suit against the receiver of a foreign corporation to cancel deed of trust and a note given for stock was properly brought in county where land was situated. Mitchell v. Porter (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 305.

Agency, representative, or office.—A railroad corporation required by art. 6423 to maintain its general offices in a designated county may not rely on a plea of privilege to be sued in another county. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Anderson County (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 305.

Where officers of Arizona corporation resided in Ft. Worth, Tarrant county, Tex., and from office there proceeded all company's business, county was seat of principal office of company in Texas within this subdivision and special statutes applicable to receiverships for corporations and suits against receivers (articles 2146, 2147, 2350). Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Bowles (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 611.
Place of contract or performance.—Suit on claim for defendant's delivery of damaged goods bought in C. county to be delivered there, and paid for by taking up draft, might be brought in C. county. Rhome Milling Co. v. Cunningham (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1681.

A corporation can be sued only in the county of its residence for breach of a written contract made and to be performed there. Texas Moline Flow Co. v. Biggerstaff (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 341.

Cause of action growing out of contract for insurance, application for which was made in B. county and accepted in E. county held not to arise in B. county, within this exception. San Antonio Life Ins. Co. v. Trammell (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 718.

Plaintiff's application for insurance in defendant providing that it shall not be bound by any statements unless incorporated therein, verbal statements of the soliciting agent to plaintiff give rise to no cause of action against defendant, within exception 24. Id.

Place of action for breach of warranty of a silo arose in the county where it was constructed and became defective, so that the company which sold the material for it could be sued therein. Texas Kalamazoo Silo Co. v. Alley (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 774.

25. Suits for damages against two or more railroad, etc., companies or receivers, etc.

Injury to freight or other property.—The object of this exception is to relieve a shipper of the burden of proving the damage accruing on each line, and the initial carrier is liable to him for all the damage, and an apportionment is necessary only as between the initial and connecting carriers. Texas Cent. R. Co. v. McCall (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 925.

26. Suits for personal injuries, against railroad corporations, assignees, receivers, etc.

Application in general.—Where a switchman was injured in Interstate commerce, and could under subd. 26 have sued in any county where the carrier had an agent, and he sued in one county, his cause did not continue transitory, but, being fixed, survived to his administrator in that county. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Smitha (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 237.

Residence.—"Residence," within this subdivision, means living in a particular locality, as distinguished from "domicile," which means living in such locality with intent to make it a fixed and permanent home. Pecos & N. T. Ry. Co. v. Thompson, 167 S. W. 861, 106 Tex. 456, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 140 S. W. 1148.

A nonresident suing a railroad company in a county in which it operates its road, or has an agent, must show that he was a resident of some other state, territory, or country at the time of the accident. Id.

A laborer who went from place to place in search of work, and working at short intervals, and who obtained work as a brakeman at a town, and continued in such employment for something over a month to the time of an injury, was either a resident or a transient, and an action for his injury must be brought in the county in which it occurred or in the county in which he resided. Id.

Provision that nonresident may sue railroad in any county where operating or having agent, refers to residence at time suit is commenced, allowing plaintiff, resident in Texas when injured but removing from state thereafter, to commence action in county other than that of injury or residence at time of injury. Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Con­way (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 52.

28. Foreign, private or public corporations, etc.

Application in general.—A foreign railway corporation may be sued in a county in which it is doing business through the instrumentality of a domestic corporation which operates a line of railway connecting with the foreign corporation's line at the state boundary. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Ayers (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 310; Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Stevens (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 394.

Under subds. 14, 24, 25, and 30, and article 2147, held, that a suit against the receiver of a foreign corporation to cancel deed of trust and a note given for stock was properly brought in county where land was situated. Mitchell v. Porter (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 951.

30. Venue prescribed by particular law.

Venue expressly given.—Under subd. 30 of this article and article 4731, a suit on an accident certificate held maintainable in the county where the insured died, though the certificate and the company's by-laws provided that all suits should be instituted in Dallas county, Tex. International Travelers' Ass'n v. Branum (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 389.

Suits against receivers, venue for which is prescribed by art. 2147, come within terms of this subdivision. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Bowles (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 611.

Exceptions Nos. 3, 5, and 12, and paragraph 30, construed, and held that, in action against nonresident on purchase money notes payable in named county, and to foreclose vendor's lien, plaintiff had option to bring suit in another county in which he lived. Holcomb v. Williams (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 631.

Under subds. 14, 24, 28, and 30, and article 2147, held, that a suit against the receiver of a foreign corporation to cancel deed of trust and a note given for stock was properly brought in county where land was situated. Mitchell v. Porter (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 951.
Art. 1831. Issuing process and taking depositions, no waiver of plea; use of deposition; cause transferred when; costs.
Cited, Hickman v. Swain (Sup.) 167 S. W. 209.
Transfer of cause.—In view of arts. 1908, 2208, articles 1831-1833 authorize the transfer, on defendant's plea of privilege, of a case pending in the justice court in one county, to such a court in another. Dalhart Ice & Electric Co. v. Tinsley (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 619.

Art. 1832. If plea sustained, no dismissal, but transfer.

Transfer.—Under Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1830, providing that transfer or assignment of a chose in action shall not change the venue, in an action on contract against a school district in which the receiver of plaintiff's assignor is a party defendant, the school district may claim a transfer under this article to the county of its situs notwithstanding nonresidence of such receiver. Roaring Springs Independent School Dist. v. McAbee (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 431.

Art. 1833. When plea sustained, order changing venue, record transmitted.

Transfer in general.—In view of arts. 1908, 2208, articles 1831-1833 authorize the transfer, on defendant's plea of privilege, of a case pending in the justice court in one county, to such a court in another. Dalhart Ice & Electric Co. v. Tinsley (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 619.

Appeal.—Under this article an order sustaining a plea of privilege to be sued in another county is appealable before trial. Hickman v. Swain, 106 Tex. 431, 167 S. W. 209.

Under this article judgment of district court sustaining plea of privilege to the venue held reviewable in Court of Appeals. Woelfel v. McKeen, Ellers & Co. (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 478.

Under arts. 1827, 1830, 1832, 1833, 1903, 2062, and District Court Rules 53, 55 (142 S. W. xxii), bill of exceptions to overruling of plea of privilege held unnecessary. Holmes v. Coulson (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 628.

Art. 1834. [1195] [1199] When water course or highway is county boundary.

CHAPTER FIVE
PARTIES TO SUITS

Art. 1835. Suits by and against counties, etc.

Suits by executors, etc.

Suits for wife's separate property.

Against husband and wife for necessaries, etc.

For wife's debts, etc.

Art. 1836. Several obligors in any contract may be joined, etc.

Parties conditionally liable may be sued, when.

Additional parties may be brought in, when.

Art. 1837. Actions by or for use of county.—Where a county was the owner of an undivided interest in certain land, it could maintain trespass to try title to recover the entire land as against one derailing title under a void grant to another county. Yoakum County v. Slaughter (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1175.

Suits against cities.—Where city purchased land for reservoir, failed to pay part of price, and vendor sought to foreclose implied lien on part of land not used for reservoir, foreclosure was not in conflict with Const. art. 11, § 9, prohibiting forced sale of city's property owned for public purposes. City of Ft. Worth v. Reynolds (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 581.

Suits against school district.—A school district is a necessary party to a suit to enjoin the collection of taxes assessed in the district, since, under art. 2853, a school district is a municipal corporation, and under this article all suits against such corporations must be against it in its corporate name. Vance v. Miller (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 838; judgment reversed (Sup.) Miller v. Vance, 190 S. W. 795.

Garnishment.—The provisions in the charter of a city that it and its officers, or agents, shall not be "required to answer any writ of garnishment against the city" exempt absolutely the city from garnishment. Morgan v. City of Beaumont (Civ. App.) 157 S. W. 297.

Liability and consent of state to be sued.—The state, under the law, cannot be sued without permission of the Legislature. Rowland v. Klepper (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1033.
Art. 1836. [1197] [1201] Suits by executors, etc.

Authority of administrator to sue—To cancel deed.—Where property is conveyed by a decedent during his lifetime, whether bona fide or in fraud of creditors, such property forms no part of estate, and administrator is without authority to sue for its recovery. Powell v. Stephenson (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 570.

Capacity in which to sue.—An executor, in his individual capacity, may sue to establish his title to the property of the estate claimed by a custos que trust. Pryor v. Krause (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 496.

Actions by executor.—In a suit by a divorced wife for funds paid into bank for husband in payment for community property, executors named in such husband's will, one qualified in another state, but neither in Texas, had no standing to sue for the fund. Baber v. Galbraith (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 345.

Suits by guardian.—The general guardian of minors may maintain suit against them, a guardian ad litem being appointed for them. Kidd v. Prince (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 726.

Art. 1839. [1200] [1204] Suits for wife's separate property.

Actions by husband.—Under this article, the husband may sue for personal injuries to the wife; recovery therefor being, by Acts 24th Leg. c. 54, art. 4621, declared her separate property. Texarkana Telephone Co. v. Burge (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 807.

Actions by wife.—Where a husband's brutality forced his wife to leave him, he was guilty of abandonment, and she might thereafter sue as a feme sole. Texas City Terminal Co. v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 797.

Joiner of husband and wife.—In a suit to recover homestead property, the wife was not a necessary party, as her claim of homestead would have been no defense thereto, and she was bound by the judgment rendered against her husband. Brown v. Foster Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 787.

Art. 1841 was not repealed by Acts 33d Leg. c. 32 (Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, arts. 4621, 4622, 4624); therefore a husband was a necessary party to a suit to partition land claimed by his wife. Tannehill v. Tannehill (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1059.

In bringing a suit at tax sale defendant and assignee, a prior judgment against which was made, and for a decree for land, though wife of owner was not a necessary party making her a party did not injuriously affect defendant, but purchaser, while not a party to the tax suit, was a necessary party. Rowland v. Klepper (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1083.

In action to vacate judgment against wife and others, husband was a necessary party, and other defendants in former action were not necessary parties. Shaw v. Proctor (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 1104.

Art. 1840. [1201] [1205] Against husband and wife, for necessaries, etc.

Venue.—Under Rev. St. 1911, art. 1840, action against husband and divorced wife for necessaries purchased during the marriage held properly brought in the county of the wife's residence. Trammell v. Neiman-Marcus Co. (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 271.

Art. 1841. [1202] [1206] For wife's debts, etc.

Repeal.—This article was not repealed by Acts 33d Leg. c. 32 (Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, arts. 4621, 4622, 4624); therefore a husband was a necessary party to a suit to partition land claimed by his wife. Tannehill v. Tannehill (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1050.

Competency as witness.—Under this article, a husband, being a necessary party to a suit to partition land claimed by his wife, was not rendered a competent witness concerning an alleged gift to his wife by a decedent, notwithstanding Acts 33d Leg. c. 32 (Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, arts. 4621, 4622, 4624). Tannehill v. Tannehill (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1059.

Art. 1842. [1203] [1207] Several obligors to any contract may be joined, but, etc.

Construction and application.—In an action on note, person not shown to be either maker or indorser held not a necessary or proper party, though pencil notation recited that he had assumed its payment. Grisham v. Connell Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1107.

The maker of a note is the proper party defendant in an action thereon, and, if he desires that the payee shall be made a party, he must request it. Tardio v. First Nat. Bank of Bryan (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. (Civ. App.) 1309.

In an action on a note and to foreclose the lien upon a collateral note, the payor of the collateral note, who indorsed it in blank, was not a necessary defendant. Baldwin v. Jordan (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1016.

Guarantors are bound by a separate contract to that of their principal, and cannot as a rule be made parties in suit against him. Young v. Bank of Miami (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1102.

In an action against a railroad ticket agent to recover money converted to his own use, the surety company which had guaranteed the railroad against loss by the agent's defalcation was properly joined as a party defendant. Stephenville North & South Texas Ry. Co. v. Oriel (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 884.

In action on note, parties alleged by defendant to be primarily liable thereon held proper parties to the action. Adams v. First Nat. Bank of Waco (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 878.

Under arts. 1830 and 1843, a bona fide holder for value of an account could bring suit thereon against a bank, assignor and guarantor of the account, jointly with the parties.

Arts. 587, 1842, 1843, 6336, and 6337, providing the manner of suing obligors other than the principals on notes, bills, etc., apply only to suits against obligors not primarily liable, so that it is not necessary before suing the absolute guarantor of a note to sue the principal, nor to make him a party. Slaughter v. Morton (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 952.

There was no misjoinder of parties, where a life insurance company sued together its agent and the sureties on his bond securing his indebtedness to the company. Shaw v. Seabrook Bros. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 915.

If, for valuable consideration, party assumes debt of another to third party, third party may sue his debtor and party assuming debt jointly, or either separately. Roberts v. Abney (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1101.

May sue one or more joint promisors.—A dismissal as to one bondman in a bail bond does not prevent judgment being entered against another. Hodges v. State, 73 Cr. R. 634, 165 S. W. 613.

A bail bond is a joint and several obligation, and the dismissal as to one bondman thereby does not prevent judgment being entered against another. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. State, 73 Cr. R. 649, 165 S. W. 615.

Without discontinuance as to principal on note, who had not appeared, for some reason mentioned in arts. 1842 and 1843, the judgment against the surety was erroneous. Dunn v. Home Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 699.

Art. 1843. [1204] [1208] Parties conditionally liable may be sued, when.

In general.—Under this article held, that replevy bond, if not enforceable against nonresident defendant, can at least be enforced by judgment against sureties. American Surety Co. of New York v. Stebbins, Lawson & Spraggins Co. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 101, and citations therein (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 847.

In an action on a note executed by defendant's father which it was claimed defendant agreed to pay, the father is not a necessary party. Thornburg v. Moon (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 989.

Without discontinuance as to principal on note, who had not appeared, for some reason mentioned in arts. 1842 and 1843, the judgment against the surety was erroneous. Dunn v. Home Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 699.

Arts. 587, 1842, 1843, 6336, and 6337, providing the manner of suing obligors other than the principals on notes, bills, etc., apply only to suits against obligors not primarily liable, so that it is not necessary before suing the absolute guarantor of a note to sue the principal, or to make him a party. Slaughter v. Morton (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 952.

Under Code, Sec. 18, and Rev. St. 1911, arts. 3206, 3457, held, that county court had exclusive original jurisdiction of claim against administrator of deceased principal in a note signed by sureties and secured by mortgage, in view of this article, giving right to sue sureties alone, though one of the sureties was dead, and administration was pending on his estate. Putney v. Livingston (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 269.

Principal a fugitive from justice.—In view of this article, permitting suit against the surety on a bail bond alone, he cannot complain that the proceeding was dismissed as to the principal, where the latter was a refugee from justice. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. State, 73 Cr. R. 649, 165 S. W. 616.

Insolvency of principal.—Even though the maker of a note was insolvent, held, that a surety who gave notice to the payee and others as to whom he was surety upon non-payment, requesting that suit be brought, pursuant to art. 6329, was discharged from liability without bringing suit within the time provided by article 6330 against all parties; the bringing of such suit not being excused by articles 6336 or 1843. Central Bank & Trust Co. of Houston v. Hill (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 1099.

Art. 1848. [1208] [1209] Additional parties may be brought in, when.

Bringing in new parties.—In General.—In an action for an accounting by an agent against another agent, both being interested in commissions on the sale of stock, joiner of another agent as defendant, who had been brought into the transaction by the first defendant after plaintiff had left the country, held proper. Harless v. Hail (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 1029.

There is no misjoinder of parties where the original payee of the note is brought in after suit by the indorsee against the maker, and the maker prays either that the note be canceled, or that he have judgment against the payee. Latham Co. v. Snell (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 917.

One who, as between himself and a defendant in any suit, is the principal obligor may be impleaded by such defendant, who may have judgment over against such principal obligor. Smoak v. Fretter Nat. Bank of Waco (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 979.

Under this article the court may refuse to allow additional parties defendants, when not necessary parties, where such action would prejudice plaintiff's right by delaying the trial. Id.

In action by bank on note, where maker alleged as defense agreement with payee for deposit with plaintiff bank of moneys realized from sale of lands out of which note was to be paid, the payees of such note were proper parties to be impleaded as cross-defendants. Salvage v. Port Lavaca Nat. Bank of Port Lavaca (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 241.

Where makers of note are sued thereon, if they desire to recover against a stranger to note primarily liable thereon, the proper method is to make him a party to suit, and plea in abatement for misjoinder of parties cannot be sustained. Randolph v. Pengo v. State (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 263.

— Application and proceedings thereon.—Under this article the court may, in its discretion, determine whether plaintiff shall be compelled to delay the trial to meet new matter set up by a third person, not a necessary party for the first time at the moment of the trial. Coleman v. Garvin (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 55.

2. joinder of parties.—Under this article, where court abused its discretion in determining whether delay was reasonable in bringing in party, the appellate court will review it. Grand Lodge, Colored K. P. of Texas v. Cleo Lodge No. 222, Colored K. P. (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 786.

3. Exception. —Where a defendant is in court in his individual capacity, an amended petition complaining of him in his capacity as executor and trustee, based on the same facts, is properly allowed. Pryor v. Krause (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 498.

4. Intervention.—Where the district court had jurisdiction it may, under this article, allow one observer of a laborer’s lien against defendant’s property to become a party. Ferrell-Michael Abstract & Title Co. v. McCormac (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1981; see, also, notes at end of this chapter.

DECISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT IN GENERAL

1. Persons who may or must sue as plaintiffs—Capacity and interest in general.—The holder of a bare legal title to a chose in action may sue thereon although he has no beneficial interest. City of San Antonio v. Reed (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 549.

2. Assignee.—An attorney to whom was assigned a contingent interest in the amount to be recovered was not such an interested party as to require that he be made a party to the action or to make the petition, which failed to make him a party subject to a plea in abatement for defect of parties. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Cosie (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 62.

3. Consignor.—The real parties in interest may recover in their own right for loss or damage to a shipment of live stock, though the contract of shipment was made in the name of another. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Drahm (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 330.

4. Where title remains in his assignor, defendant whose commission is contingent on closing sale has not such an interest in the sale as to make him a party, as entitled him to sue for its breach, although the contract is made in the broker’s name. Hardie v. Dan Sonnenthal (Civ. App.) 152 S. W. 1161.

5. Partnership.—A judgment for two partners, one of whom was not a party to the action, is invalid. Western Grocery Co. v. K. Jata & Co. (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 618.

Where a sum of money was paid over by one member of a firm with the consent of the others and assignee does not abate on the death of one of the partners, and judgment is valid, though neither his heirs nor legal representatives were made parties. Brousard v. Le Blanc (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 78.

An action by plaintiffs individually to recover property purchased by defendant from a firm composed of the plaintiffs would not be abated, as the fact, if any, that there was no partnership when the suit was brought was a matter of evidence to be shown at the trial. James v. Doss (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 623.

6. Persons who may join as plaintiffs—in general.—A purchaser who has transferred his interest to a subsequent purchaser, who assumed and agreed to pay the vendor’s lien note, may nevertheless seek a reacquisition of the sale to him, in which action the subsequent purchaser may join to enable him to make complete restitution to the vendor. Hurst v. Knight (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1072.

7. joinder of number of banks and their stockholders in suit to enjoin collection of tax levied upon their property at a higher proportionate value than upon that of other owners held proper. Brown v. First Nat. Bank of Corsicana (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 112.

8. Joint owner of a shipment of live stock was properly joined as defendant in a suit for damages to the shipment; nothing in the Carmack amendment depriving him of his rights to join in the suit and recover. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Corn (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 507.

9. All parties necessary to final disposition of main issue in a suit should be joined, and their omission will require either a dismissal or a stay of proceedings until brought in. Collin County School Trustees v. Stiff (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 246.

10. Joint owners, when.—In suit for breach of landlord’s written contract to rent land and furnish animals, tools, and seed for cultivation, where plaintiff alleged that land was leased to him and another jointly; such other should have been joined as plaintiff. Dawson v. George (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 486.

11. State or United States.—The state superintendent of public buildings and grounds could be restrained by injunction from interfering with the exercise of a right granted by a resolution of the Legislature; the action not being one against the state. Conley v. Texas Division of United Daughters of the Confederacy (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 24.

Under acts 7737 and 7738, a plaintiff may maintain trespass to try title against agents for the state in possession, where he has title and right of possession, although the state has not received to the suit. Imperial Sugar Co. v. Cabell (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 83.

13. Persons who may be joined as defendants—in general.—Where G. is only a stakeholder, and the question is whether defendant W. is entitled to all G. is holding, or whether plaintiff, under his contract with W. is entitled to half of it, plaintiff may join both in defendants and have judgment against both; garnishment not being necessary. Wooley v. Canyon Exch. Co. (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 493.

The bank was not a proper defendant in an action by the maker of a check given for goods purchased to cancel the check and shipping order and enjoin the prosecution of a suit to collect the check by the seller of the goods. Thomas Goggan & Bros. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 119.

In an action to recover bonus donated to trustees by real estate promoter to encourage building of railroad, purchasers in reliance thereon held proper parties. West Texas Bank & Trust Co. v. Matlock (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 126.
It is proper for all parties claiming an interest in the fund in suit to be joined as defendants in order that all rights may be determined in one suit. City of San Antonio v. Reed (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 549.

In suit for breach of written contract to rent land and furnish animals, tools, and seed for cultivation to plaintiff and another jointly, if such other refused to join as plaintiff he should have been made a defendant. Dawson v. George (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 495.

37. — Principal and agent.—In a suit on a contract made by an agent, where his authority to make it is questioned, the agent is a proper party defendant if sued in the alternative as liable in the event of determination that he had no such authority. San Angelo Cotton Oil Co. v. Houston County Oil Mill & Mfg. Co. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 887.

44. — Foreclosure proceedings.—In a proceeding to enforce a chattel mortgage, others claiming a prior lien to the mortgaged property are proper parties, and it is immaterial if the mortgagee has sold the mortgaged property. Nebbitt v. Barron (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1167.

In an action on a note and to foreclose a vendor's lien securing it, a bank which had possession of the note and was wrongfully claiming to own it was a proper party. Buckholts State Bank v. Harris (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 961.

45. Persons who must be joined as defendants—in general.—Attachment plaintiffs held necessary parties to a suit to recover from the sheriff the proceeds of a sale under execution on a judgment in favor of the attachment defendant. Needham v. Cooney (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 979.

If reformation of transfer of interest in business to include claim sued on was desired, held that the transferor should have been made a party. City of Brownsville v. Tumlinson (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 1197.

All parties necessary to the final disposition of main issue in a suit should be joined. Collin County School Trustees v. Stiff (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 216.

46. — Actions on contract.—Where defendants guaranteed certain assets of a bank on transferring them to plaintiff, the principal debtors were not necessary parties to a suit on the guaranty. Young v. Bank of Miami (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 496.

50. — Against corporation.—Where, in a suit to cancel a note given for railroad stock, the company's assets, franchises, and charter were sold, and a receiver discharged, it was plaintiff's duty to join the managers and directors of the company, and, not having done so, a judgment of cancellation was a nullity. Jones v. Abernathy (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 682.

Where, in a suit on a note secured by a deed of trust, recovery is denied because held as collateral security for a railroad note which was void, cancellation of the note and deed of trust cannot be had in the absence of either the railroad or the receiver, as parties, under Vernon's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, arts. 6630, 6631. Jones v. Nix (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 685.

52. — Suits to set aside sale.—The remaindermen who joined with a life tenant in a conveyance of the property are necessary parties without whose appearance the court cannot decree a rescision in favor of the purchasers for misrepresentation of the title. Hurst v. Knight (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 1072.

In a suit for the conversion of certain horses, upon which plaintiff alleged a lien, the owner, who had contracted with plaintiff for their care, and of whom the defendant purchased, while a proper, was not a necessary, party. Liberal Loan & Realty Co. v. Meyers (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 433.

53. — Conversion.—In suit by chattel mortgagees against purchaser of mortgaged property, for conversion, mortgagees not necessary parties defendant, though proper parties. T. W. Maree & Co. v. Flockinger (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 1017.

55. — Principal and agent.—In an action to foreclose chattel mortgages on machinery sold to a contractor with a county, in which the county claimed to have been an undisclosed principal, the agent was not a necessary party to a determination of the issues as between plaintiff and the county. Dallas County v. S. H. Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 798.

59. — Garnishment proceedings.—Defendant in the principal suit is not a party to garnishment proceedings, unless he voluntarily intervenes or is required to intervene. Johnson v. Hall (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 399.

60. — Action to determine water rights.—In suit to enjoin interference with an irrigation ditch across defendants' land, water company held not a necessary party. Houk v. Robinson (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 120.

63. — Creditors' suits.—Adverse claimants or lienholders are necessary parties to a suit to compel the delivery of property to the judgment creditor only when such delivery would destroy the lien or claim. Needham v. Cooney (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 975.

In creditor's suit on theory that note was delivered in trust for payee's creditors, payee who had transferred the note, held necessary parties. Barcus v. Parlin-Orendorf Implement Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 640.

65. — To enjoin sale under execution.—In suit to restrain sale by constable under execution to satisfy judgment, judgment creditor held necessary party defendant. Allen v. Carpenter (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 430.

69. — Suits on negotiable instruments.—In action on note, there was no defect in parties by failure to join as defendant one not a party to note in suit, but who had been maker of note, in renewal of which note in suit had been executed by defendants, his sureties on original note. Randals v. Pecos Valley State Bank (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 863.

70. — Foreclosure proceedings.—In a suit against a purchaser of real estate on purchase-money notes executed by him and to foreclose a vendor's lien, a subsequent purchaser of the land from the purchaser is not a necessary party. Coleman v. Garvin (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 185.

The wife of the purchaser is not a necessary party to action to enforce the vendor's lien, though the purchaser has used the property as a homestead. Waldon v. Davis (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 1000.
Interpleader.—That defendants pleaded on information and belief that money was due H. and not plaintiff held to show such partiality as prevented them from interpleading H. Fulkrabec v. Griffith & Griffith (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 282.

Where a bank interpleaded parties claiming to own a fund, each occupied position of plaintiff, and became entitled only upon showing good title. It was not being enough that the adverse party’s failure to prosecute H. and Galbraith (Civ. App.) 245.

Persons entitled to intervene and grounds of intervention.—In general.—In a taxpayers’ suit to enjoin a city’s enforcement of an illegal tax law, the request of another taxpayer to intervene by a petition not seeking identical relief held properly denied. City of Houston v. Caturacker (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 828.

— Interest in subject of action in general.—In a suit by a riparian propietor to enjoin the removal of a sand bar, which obstructed the flow of salt water into the fresh-water stream by which his land was located, held, that an adjoining landowner might intervene as party plaintiff. Houston Transp. Co. v. San Jacinto Rice Co. (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 1023.

Intervenes, under their allegation that they were jointly interested with plaintiff in lands and waters in controversy, held proper parties. Moore v. Toyah Valley Irr. Co. (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 550.

Grantees or purchasers.—Where plaintiff asserted misrepresentations in selling him stock and mismanagement on the part of the corporate directors, others who acquired stock at different times cannot intervene as parties plaintiff. Thomas v. Bartlett (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1072.

The purchase of a cause of action during the pendency of a suit does not vest the purchaser with a right to intervene. Duke v. Trabue (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 910.

Where a defendant claimed to have been sold to his detriment gran­tee’s fraud, sold the land, and his pendente purchaser intervened, intervention merely added party to action, and did not change its character. Gabb v. Boston (Sup.) 190 S. W. 137.

Creditors.—In a suit involving the disposition of the proceeds of money held in trust for deceased life tenant, a creditor of the life tenant may intervene, for he would be entitled to compel administration, and thus determine the right to the property. Barnett v. Elliott (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 671.

Rights and liabilities of interveners.—The rights of an intervenor are limited. Reinertsen v. E. W. Bennett & Sons (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 927.

Where, in an action to recover money, the defendant disclaims any interest and intervenes claims it, but neither plaintiff nor intervenor establishes title, the money should be left in the hands of the defendant. Carranza v. Hicks (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 640.

Objection to error in rendering judgment for two partners, one of whom was not a party to the action, may be reached by plea in abatement, demurrer, or appeal. Western Grocery Co. v. K. Jata & Co. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 518.

In action against owner of realty to recover commissions under contract joined with action of tort against owners and others, demurrers addressed to the question of misjoinder of parties and causes of action held properly overruled. Madden v. Shane (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 908.

A suggestion to trial court that defendant corporation was nonexistent may be considered as raising question of right of such corporation to prosecute an appeal. Corsicana Transit Co. v. Walton (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 367.

All parties to the final disposition of main issue in a suit should be joined, and their omission will require either a dismissal or a stay of proceedings until brought into Collin County School Trustees v. Stiff (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 216.

Time for objection.—A defect in parties plaintiff may be taken advantage of even after the personal nonjoinder was raised in the court below. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Oliver (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 852.

Where defendant went to trial without objecting to nonjoinder of other parties, his plea in abatement, not being filed until four days after the trial had begun, his right to object on appeal to the nonjoinder was waived. Sullivan v. State (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1150.

In an action by a widow for the wrongful death of her husband, an objection that she was not entitled to sue for any damages sustained by his parents should be raised upon the filing of the petition showing that the suit was on behalf of the parents; it not appearing that they were under any disability whatsoever. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Pennington (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 461.

The rendering of a decree without the presence of necessary parties can be considered on appeal, though no objection was raised. Needham v. Cooney (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 979.

Where the petition discloses on its face that there are necessary parties who were not made parties to the suit, the objection may be raised for the first time on appeal. Id.

In action against maker of note, plaintiff, failing to object for over a year to the joinder of cross-defendants, held to have waived its right to object to the ground that their joinder would delay the trial. Adams v. First Nat. Bank of Waco (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 953.

In trespass to try title against a married woman sued as a feme sole, where her plea in reconvention did not disclose her coverture, plaintiff’s objection, that defendant, on account of coverture, could not recover the damages set up in the plea of reconvention, came too late when first made in the motion for new trial. Hamlett v. Coates (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 1144.

When defendant in an action by an abandoned wife to recover damages for slander made no effort to abate the suit upon the ground of her coverture, he could not, after Judgment on the merits, first raise that objection; that being a defense which he might want. W. Davis (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 775.

85. — Pleas.—A plea in limine by a defendant, sued in his individual capacity, which sets up a pending action by him in his individual capacity and as executor and trustee, and prays for a dismissal for want of proper parties on the ground that he should not be sued in that capacity, does not deprive of his parties, but authorizes an amended petition stating a cause of action against him in his representative capacity to support a judgment against him in that capacity. Pryor v. Krause (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 498.

86. — Want of capacity or interest.—The right of an executor to sue and recover property of the estate may only be questioned under a plea in abatement. Furlong v. Broughton (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 227.

Where plaintiff conveyed a portion of the land in controversy to his attorneys for fees, and they prosecuted the suit successfully, defendant could not complain that the attorneys were not made formal parties. Wickizer v. Williams (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 258, rehearing denied 173 S. W. 1162.

General demurrer to petition did not raise issue of form and manner of presenting suit, such as right of district trustees to maintain suit in capacity in which they sued. Price v. County School Trustees of Navarro County (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1140.

87. — Nonjoinder of parties plaintiff.—Want of necessary parties may be raised for the first time on appeal, and it is not necessary to plead nonjoinder. Dawson v. George (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 495.

88. — Nonjoinder of parties defendant.—Where plaintiff showed that he held an equitable assignment of certain funds belonging to defendant in the hands of G., who was not a party, a provision of the judgment for plaintiff that he was entitled to the fund as against G. as a nullity as to G., though such fact did not invalidate the judgment; G. being a proper, though not a necessary, party. McLane v. Haydon (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1146.

94. Waiver of defects and objections—Nonjoinder of parties plaintiff.—Defendant must plead nonjoinder of necessary parties plaintiff. Industrial Cotton Oil Co. v. Lial (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 49.

95. — Misjoinder of parties plaintiff.—Under rule 24 for district courts (142 S. W. xix), objection to petition for misjoinder of plaintiffs, if raised by demurrer, held waived, where it was not called to the court’s attention until the filing of a special exception after several intervening terms of court. Garner v. Jamison (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 346.

96. — Nonjoinder of parties defendant.—Where, in an action on notes, and to foreclose a mechanic’s lien, the answer of the makers disclosed that they relied upon a release from their grantees, the original lienor and payee of the notes, and the defendant present owner of the property did not ask for additional parties, he could not complain after judgment because such grantees was not made a party. Hartfield v. Greber (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 603.

Where a member of a firm is sued alone on its obligation, by his failure to take advantage of the omission to join his partner or the firm by proper plea in abatement he waives his right to such joinder. Sellers v. Puckett (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 639.

Defect of the petition in suing one partner alone on the firm’s obligation is waived by defendant not interposing plea in abatement. Carr v. Wright (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 324.

97. — Misjoinder of parties defendant.—A misjoinder of parties may be waived. Madden v. Shane (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 998.

98. — Misnomer.—In a suit by a private citizen under authority of Rev. St. 1911, art. 4674, to enjoin an incorporated club from maintaining a liquor nuisance, if club denied in its answer of a misnomer in petition, it should have pleaded it in abatement, and, having appeared and answered in its proper name, it is concluded from objecting to misnomer, and court properly entered judgment against it by its proper name. Rowan v. Slowe (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 434.

Article 1850. [1212] [1213] Citation to issue, when.
Prayer for citation.—Citation directing service on defendant corporation held proper, though petition prayed that citation be served on its president. National Equitable Society of Belton v. Tennison (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 978.

Allegation as to residence.—Under arts. 1827, 1850, 1852, petition in suit in county court failing to allege the residence of either of the defendants held not to authorize the clerk to command the sheriff to execute the citation therein. Friend v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 986.

Art. 1851. [1213] [1214] One citation to each county where there is a defendant.
Effect of issuance to another county.—The issuance of a citation to a county other than that in which it was tried did not establish that defendant's residence was in the county to which it was issued. Guerra v. Guerra (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 191.

Art. 1852. [1214] [1215] Citation shall contain what.

Allegation in petition as to residence of defendants.—Under arts. 1827, 1850, 1852, petition in suit in county court failing to allege the residence of either of the defendants held not to authorize the clerk to command the sheriff to execute the citation therein. Friend v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 986.

Effect of appearance.—Under arts. 1720, 1723, 1724, and 1852, held, that the district court had jurisdiction at a special term of a suit just begun and returnable to a succeeding term; the defendant having voluntarily appeared and requested such term. Browder v. Memphis Independent School Dist. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 1077, affirming judgment (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 153.

Requisites and sufficiency in general.—The want of proper certainty in a citation cannot be supplied by construction or intendment. Smith v. Buckholts State Bank (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 730.

Indicating time and place for appearance.—A citation, commanding defendants to answer the petition five days before it was filed, which was an impossibility, was fatally defective. Smith v. Buckholts State Bank (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 730.

Indicating date of filing petition.—Under this article a citation in partition of land which failed to give true date of filing of petition held fatally defective, and court acquired no jurisdiction. Simms v. Miears (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 544.

A citation was fatally defective where it failed to state the true date of filing of plaintiff's petition, as required by this article, as such requirement is mandatory and must be observed. Smith v. Buckholts State Bank (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 730.

Indicating file number.—The statute requiring the citation to contain the file number of the case is satisfied if the number is indorsed on the back thereof, though not in the body, and such citation will support a judgment by default. Baugh v. Baugh (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 725.

Indicating names of parties.—Where a petition alleges that plaintiff was doing business in a trade-name, giving both his individual and trade-name, a citation issued only in the trade-name is not invalid. McManus v. Southern Fruit Julep Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1063.

Where a citation did not state the name of plaintiff correctly and did not state the names of defendants at all as defendants, it was too defective to support a judgment by default. Williams v. Western Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 597.

The failure to give the names of defendants in the style of the suit in a citation will be cured if they are correctly named in the latter part of the writ. Id.

Where citation issued in a suit against a railroad company and the receiver did not recite that the individual defendant was receiver, such citation, though accompanied by an officer's return showing service, will not support a default judgment against the receiver as such; arts. 1852-1854 prescribing generally the requirements of citation, declaring that in suits against receivers of railroad companies service may be had upon the receiver as such. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Daniel (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 383.

Must plead misnomer.—Plaintiff, the "Abilene Independent Telephone & Telegraph Company," held not entitled to enjoin a default judgment against the "Abilene Independent Telephone Company," entered upon citation served upon it, on the ground that it was not a party to the judgment, where the employé intended to sue plaintiff, and plaintiff knew that service was intended for it. Williams v. Abilene Independent Telephone & Telegraph Co. (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 402.

A person erroneously sued by an improper name is effectually bound by the judgment rendered, unless set aside or set aside by some legal method. Id.

Indicating nature of plaintiff's suit or demand.—Citation held sufficient in point of stating nature of plaintiff's cause of action, where it referred defendant to the accompanying petition for further particulars. National Equitable Society of Belton v. Tennison (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 978.

Undersigned this article citation stating that nature of plaintiff's demand was "suit to foreclose a vendor's lien retained in one certain promissory note," etc., was insufficient to support judgment by default on the note itself. Simms v. Miears (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 622.

Indicating nature of plaintiff's suit or demand.—Under Code Cr. Proc. 1911, art. 497, and Rev. St. 1911, art. 1582, providing the procedure on the forfeiture of bail bonds and defining the requisites of citations, there is no variance between a bail bond, which states that accused stands charged with a felony, and a judgment nisit and citation, which recite that he is by indictment accused of keeping premises for gaming.

Art. 1853. [1215] [1216] Defendant out of county to have copy of petition.

Art. 1855. [1217] [1218] Duty of officer receiving citation.

Erroneous indication of date of receipt.—Arts. 1855 and 1864 not requiring return of citation to show when it was received, a return showing it was received July 17th, instead of June 17th, held, an imadverntence, so that it could not be claimed that the service made on June 22d was made at an impossible date. Miller v. Davis (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1140.

Service by acting constable.—Service by a person generally recognized as the acting constable is sufficient. Kimmell v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 363.

Art. 1856. [1218] [1219] Service of citation within the county.

Compliance with statutory requirements.—The statutory requirements regarding service of citations must be strictly followed to acquire jurisdiction. Kimmell v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 363.

Art. 1857. [1219] [1220] Service without the county.

Service without copy of petition.—Service of a citation without a copy of the petition is sufficient where defendant lives in another county, although a copy of the petition was attached to the citation and certified to state the nature of plaintiff's demand. Kimmell v. Edwards (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 365.

Art. 1860. [1222] [1223] Against incorporated companies and joint stock associations.

Service—In general.—Under this article a citation against a corporation showing service only upon the company by name is insufficient. Miller v. First State Bank & Trust Co. of Santa Anna (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 614.

Where the petition or citation in an action against a corporation fails to direct the manner of service, to sustain a default judgment proof of proper service must be made when judgment is entered. 1d.

— In suits against receivers.—The agent of the receivers of a railway corporation is not its agent for the service of process, though before appointment he served the road in some capacity as he serves the receivers at the time of service of citation upon him. Webster v. International G. & N. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 256.

When a citation issued in a suit against a railroad company and the receiver did not recite that the individual defendant was receiver, such citation, though accompanied by an officer's return showing service, will not support a default judgment against the receiver. McPherson v. Doremus, 185-1862-1864 holding, declaring that in suits against receivers of railroad companies service may be had upon the receiver as such. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Daniel (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 366.

Citation against a receiver of a railroad company accompanied by the petition, which set forth the nature of the action and that the receiver was acting as such, is sufficient to sustain a default judgment. Delaware Ins. Co. v. Hutto (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 73.

Art. 1861. [1223] Foreign corporations, how served.

Service—In general.—Where the citation in an action against a corporation, gives the name of its agent, and the citation contains directions requiring service on him, judgment by default may be taken without proof that the person is the agent. Delaware Ins. Co. v. Hutto (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 73.

The court, on suggestion that jurisdiction over a foreign corporation was not obtained by service on an individual as agent, may consider the affidavit of the individual denying agency. Elliott v. Standard Steel Wheel & Tire Armor Co. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 816.

Under this article jurisdiction of a foreign railroad company operating in another state in a personal injury action may be acquired by service upon its general manager within this state. El Paso & S. W. Co. v. Chisholm (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 158.

That a railroad company which its managing officers transact the company's business which is executive and departmental constitutes "doing business in the state." 1d.

Where the general manager of a foreign railroad company doing business within the state maintained a residence and business office in the county, service upon such general manager conferred jurisdiction in a personal injury suit. 1d.
Art. 1864. [1225] [1225] Return of citation.

Requisites and sufficiency in general.—Arts. 1855 and 1864 not requiring return of citation to show when it was received, a return showing it was received July 17th, instead of June 17th, held an inadvertence, so that it could not be claimed that the service made on June 32d was made at an impossible date. Miller v. Davis (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 1140.

To authorize a default judgment the sheriff’s return must show service as required by statute. Miller v. First State Bank & Trust Co. of Santa Anna (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 614.

An objection to a return on a citation in a divorce case on ground that sheriff wrote and signed it, although service was made by deputy, held without merit. Swearingen v. Swearingen (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 442.

Date of service.—Under this article a writ showing execution of citation upon an impossible date will not support a default judgment. Friend v. Thomas (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 888.

Manner of service—Parties served.—Where the petition alleged that a firm composed of persons named, residing in the county, was the agent of defendant, a corporation, and the citation commanded service by delivering a copy to the local agent, and the return showed service by delivery of a copy to a partner, the service was sufficient to support a default judgment. Delaware Ins. Co. v. Hutto (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 72.

Where citation issued in a suit against a railroad company and the receiver did not recite that the individual defendant was receiver, such citation, though accompanied by an officer’s return showing service, will not support a default judgment against the receiver, since statute generally has required that in suits against receivers of railroad companies service may be had upon the receiver as such. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Daniel (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 583.

Agent of corporation.—The return of service of citation, in an action against an insurance company having local agents in the county, which recites that the citation was executed by delivering to one of the local agents at a specified place, “the within named defendant, in person, a true copy” of the writ, is sufficient to show service on the company. Delaware Ins. Co. v. Hutto (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 73.

Must show service on each party.—Return of service of citation which does not show that every summons to each defendant was delivered is fatal, and is insufficient to sustain a default judgment against them. Mansfield v. Security Trust Co. of Houston (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 771.

Return of service of citation, showing service by delivering to two of the defendants “in person a true copy,” is fatally defective in failing to show that each of such defendants received a copy. Kellam v. Trail (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 988.

The return of service by a sheriff or a disinterested officer, authorized by law to make it, is prima facie evidence of the material facts recited therein. Pierce-Fordyce Oil Ass’n v. Staley (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 814.

Evidence held insufficient to set aside return of sheriff, since deceased, showing that service was properly served with citation and copy of petition in divorce action. Swearingen v. Swearingen (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 442.

By parol evidence.—On a direct attack on a judgment, as for want of service, etc., it may be shown by extrinsic evidence that one part of the record contradicts another part, so that a recital of service or want of service in a judgment may be contradicted by producing the original summonses and return. Dean v. Dean (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 90.

Testimony of single witness insufficient.—Return in due form of a sheriff on a citation cannot be impeached by the testimony of one witness only. Gallagher v. Teuchser & Co. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 409.

In order to set aside the return of an officer on a citation, the evidence must be clear and satisfactory, and there should be two witnesses or one witness with strong corroborating evidence. Swearingen v. Swearingen (Civ. App.) 193 S. W. 442.

Recital in judgment.—While, if citation was not served upon minor defendants in partition, the judgment would be invalid on direct attack as to the parties to the judgment, bona fide purchasers from such parties will be protected where the judgment recites service, though the judgment be invalid for want of service. Dean v. Dean (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 90.

In a suit to restrain enforcement of a judgment, a recital in the judgment of due citation held not to control allegations in petition and return on citation served, showing service out of the state. San Bernardo Townsite Co. v. Hooker (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 644.

Art. 1865. [1226] [1226] Return of citation not served.

Art. 1866. [1227] [1227] Alias process.
To another county.—Without any amendment of the petition as to allegations of the defendants' residence, an alias writ may, under this article, be issued to another county where the first writ is returned unserved. Persson v. Beard (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 765.

Art. 1867. [1228] [1228] Time of service of citation.
Must be served ten days before term.—Service on first of defendants less than 10 days before the term to which process was returnable cannot support a default judgment, nor would a transfer of the cause to another judicial district, under art. 36, subd. 77, cure the defect. McCaulley v. Western Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 1000.
Under art. 1873, as to citations, art. 1867, allowing a defendant ten days' notice, and art. 1868, excluding day of service and of return, a judgment against a nonresident defendant served by notice only, and not ten, full days before appearance day, is void. Grubbs v. Marple (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 597.

Art. 1868. [1229] [1229] Same subject.

Art. 1868a. Time of answer in suit against soldier or sailor.—If the citation issued be served upon a defendant after he is an enlisted sailor or soldier of the United States, he shall not be required to answer to the merits of the demand during the time he is actively engaged as a sailor or a soldier in the war between the United States and Germany; provided that he shall be required to make such answer within a period of ninety days from the signing of a treaty of peace between the United States and Germany or after being discharged from service, provided that the date and place of enlistment of the defendant, and the name of the command in which he is serving, shall be proved by sworn answer or otherwise to the court within ninety days from the date of service, and in either of such events, the cause shall remain upon the docket during the period of the war, unless the defendant shall agree by written answer that the cause may be taken up and disposed of sooner, and provided that the provisions of this Act shall apply only to such soldier and sailor defendants as are, in the discretion of the trial court, necessary parties defendant to the pending litigation, and then only to such debts as were contracted by such soldier or sailor prior to his enlistment or draft into the army or navy of the United States. [Act Sept. 17, 1917, ch. 5, § 1.]
Explanatory.—The act amends title 37, ch. 6, Rev. Civ. St. 1911 by adding thereto, after art. 1868, another article to be known as art. 1868a.

Art. 1869. [1230] [1230] Citation to defendant without the state.
See Art. 2370.
Constitutionality.—Whether this and the following articles, in connection with art. 1904, deny due process of law to nonresidents personally served outside the state because of the possibility that they might have only 12 days in which to appear and answer, will not be determined at the instance of a nonresident defendant who had ample time in which to appear and answer. Brophy v. Kelly, 211 Fed. 22, 128 C. C. A. 382.
Service of amended petition.—Under this article held, that the service of an amended petition is not authorized where the notice does not mention the amendment. Baker v. Hahn (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 448.

Art. 1870. [1231] [1231] By whom served.
Cited, Baker v. Hahn (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 443; Maze v. McDonald (Sup.) 175 S. W. 676. And see note under Art. 1869.

Art. 1871. [1232] [1232] Service in such cases.

Art. 1873. [1234] [1234] Effect of such service.
Constitutionality.—See note under art. 1869.
Personal judgment.—A judgment awarding execution as on a personal judgment is unauthorized in an action against a nonresident commenced by substituted service and attachment. Baker v. Hahn (Civ. App.) 161 S. W. 443.
Under district court rules 13 and 14 (142 S. W. xviii), an original petition after amendment is no longer part of the pleadings, and hence, in an action against a nonresident begun by attachment, the service upon the nonresident of the original petition, after amendment, will not support a judgment. Id.
Service of process in Missouri on a nonresident of Texas alleged in petition to be a resident held to support personal judgment in Texas against him. McCaulley v. Western Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 1006.

A personal judgment rendered against a nonresident on service of citation, or nonresident notice, served on him without the state, is void. San Bernardo Townsite Co. v. Hocker (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 644.

A personal judgment, rendered against a nonresident on service of process without state, and without waiver of service, or entry of appearance, is subject to collateral attack. Id.

Where a nonresident was sued on a personal demand, and judgment rendered against him, the whole record will be examined to determine whether jurisdiction attached. Id.

Under this article and art. 1867, allowing a defendant ten days' notice, and article 1868, excluding day of service and of return, a judgment against a nonresident defendant served by notice eight, and not ten, full days before appearance day, is void. Grubbs v. Maples (Civ. App.) 156 S. W. 597.

Art. 1874. [1235] [1235] Citation by publication.—Where any party to a suit, his agent or attorney, shall make oath at the time of the institution of such suit, or at any time during its progress that any party defendant therein is a nonresident of the State, or that he is absent from the State, or that he is a transient person, or that his residence is unknown to affiant, the clerk shall issue a citation for such defendant, addressed to the sheriff or any constable of the county in which such suit is pending. Such citation shall contain a brief statement of the cause of action, and shall command the officer to summon the defendant by making publication of such citation in some newspaper published in his county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day thereof. [Acts March 16, 1848, p. 106, § 13; March 15, 1875, p. 170, § 1; Acts 1879, ch. 96, p. 103; P. D. 25; Act Feb. 13, 1917, ch. 13, § 1.]

Explanatory.—The act amends articles 1874 and 1875, chapter 6, title 37, Revised Statutes.

In general.—Erroneous statement of defendant's name in process served by publication will reverse the case. Davenport v. Rutledge (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 988.

Must be strictly followed.—The statutes relating to citation by publication are strictly construed, requiring strict compliance with essential requirement of statute. Davenport v. Rutledge (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 988.

Time and number of publications.—Under this article publication must exist for full 28 days before the return day. Odom's Unknown Heirs v. Crews (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 966.

Will not sustain personal judgment.—In a suit in personam, a judgment on service by publication is void. Banco Minero v. Ross, 172 S. W. 711, 106 Tex. 522.

This article is valid, so that service by publication upon a defendant citizen, temporarily absent from the state, gave the county court jurisdiction to render a personal judgment against him. Mabee v. McDonald (Sup.) 175 S. W. 616, reversing judgment McDonald v. Mabee (Civ. App.) 135 S. W. 1089.

— Property attached.—A personal judgment against a nonresident is not supported by constructive service, and attachment of property. Findlay v. Lumadren (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 818.

When property of nonresident defendant is in possession of court by attachment or garnishment, court has jurisdiction to establish by its judgment plaintiff's demand, and to enforce its execution out of property seized. Studebaker Harness Co. v. Gerlach Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 122 S. W. 546.

Art. 1875. [1236] [1236] For unknown heirs or stockholders of defunct corporation.—Where any property of any kind in this State may have been granted or may have accrued to the heirs, as such, of any deceased person, or to the stockholders of any defunct corporation, any party having a claim or cause of action against them relative to such property, if their names be unknown to him, may bring his suit or action against them, their heirs or legal representatives, describing them as the heirs of such ancestor, naming him or unknown stockholder of such corporation, and if the plaintiff, his agent, or attorney shall make oath at the time of the institution of such suit, or at any time during its progress that the names of such heirs or stockholders are unknown to the affiant, the clerk shall issue a citation for such heirs or stockholders, addressed to the sheriff or any constable of the county in which such suit is pending. Such citation shall contain a brief statement of the cause of action, and shall command the officer to summon the defendant by making publication of such citation in some newspaper published in his county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day thereof. [Acts Nov. 9, 1866, p. 125, § 1; March 16, 1848, p. 106, § 26; P. D. 5460, 26; Act Feb. 13, 1917, ch. 13, § 2.]

Art. 1876.  [1237]  [1237]  Citation by publication to contain same requisites as other writs.
Cited, Mabee v. McDonald (Sup.) 175 S. W. 676.

Art. 1878.  [1238]  [1238]  Return of citation by publication.
Showing manner of service.—A sheriff's return reciting that a citation was published four successive weeks, the first date being given two days before the citation was issued, is sufficient on collateral attack of judgment, since such first date will be disregarded and a publication upon a possible date during the first week presumed. Stockyards Nat. Bank v. Fressnall (Sup.) 194 S. W. 384.

Art. 1879.  [1239]  [1239]  Mistake in return may be corrected.
In general.—Under this article the defect in a return of service of citation, in an action against a corporation, may be cured by an amendment showing proper service. Delaware Ins. Co. v. Hutto (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 73.

Where the court, in action against a corporation, permitting an amendment of return of service, found that it appeared that the person on whom service was made was at the time of the service, the local agent of the corporation, the person was the agent was judicially determined, and a default judgment was proper. 1d.

Art. 1881.  [1241]  [1241]  Entering appearance in open court.
What constitutes appearance and effect thereof in general.—Where, in trespass to try title, a defendant, sued in his individual capacity, appeared in his representative capacity by filing a plea alleging facts showing his representative capacity, the court acquired jurisdiction to enter judgment against him in that capacity on plaintiff amending the petition, so as to state a cause of action against him in his representative capacity. Pryor v. Krause (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 498.

Where, in trespass to try title, two defendants were sued in their individual and representative capacities, and one of them entered his formal appearance and disclaimer, and the other filed a plea constituting an appearance in his representative capacity, the court could render judgment for plaintiff. 1d.

Where a petition for damages for personal injuries was revived by plaintiff's heirs by a supplemental petition filed for damages for his death, a special exception for misjoinder of causes of action held an appearance in the action for the death. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Walker (Sup.) 173 S. W. 208, reversing judgment (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 199, motion to retax costs granted (Sup.) 177 S. W. 954.

Where a defendant who filed no answer appeared at the trial and requested the submission of special issues to the jury, he waived any defect in the citation. Baugh v. Baugh (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 725.

The execution and filing of a reply bond with a surety is no such an appearance by the defendant whose property was attached as will authorize judgment by default against defendant and its surety on the reply bond. American Surety Co. of New York v. Stebbins, Lawson & Spraggs Co. (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 567.

Plea to jurisdiction.—The filing of a plea to the jurisdiction held an appearance. Bank of Min Min v. Moss, 106 Tex. 522, 172 S. W. 711.

Appearance by attorney.—Appearance of the regular attorney of a foreign corporation as amicus curiae, to object to the sufficiency of service of citation on the foreign corporation, is not an appearance of the corporation. Elliott v. Standard Steel Wheel & Tire Armor Co. (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 216.

Art. 1882.  [1242]  [1242]  Answer constitutes appearance.
In general.—See National Equitable Society of Belton v. Tennison (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 978.

Defendant, answering the original petition in an action for personal injuries, thereby submitted itself to the jurisdiction of the court, and was bound to take notice of all amendments filed therefor in term time under appropriate orders. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Walker (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 189, judgment reversed (Sup.) 173 S. W. 205, motion to retax costs granted (Sup.) 177 S. W. 954.

In view of this article and rule 7 for district and county courts (142 S. W. xvii), held, that defendant in an action for personal injury, who answered the original petition, and though objecting to amended petitions for misjoinder of causes of action, appeared at the trial and examined witnesses, submitted himself to the court's jurisdiction as to any judgment which the pleadings and evidence justified. 1d.

Motion to quash service of citation will not prevail where the defendants appeared and answered thereto. Walsh v. Methodist Episcopal Church South, of Paducah (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 241.

Where defendant answered on the merits after denial of his motion to quash the citation on the ground that it named an impossible date for his appearance, it waived any defect in the citation. Bole's v. Adams (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 551.

Where suit is brought to a term too late for service, defendant waives his right not to answer at that term by filing a plea of privilege before adjournment thereof, under this article. Smith v. First Nat. Bank of Waco (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 285.

Under this article plea in abatement of original attachment proceeding in suit against a nonresident brought under article 248, held appearance authorizing personal judgment against defendant. Arnold v. Pike (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 67.

Answer by nonresident.—Jurisdiction over person of defendant, a resident of Mexico, was acquired by his appearance before the court, in person and by attorneys, and his answering to the merits. Russek v. Wind, Ems & Co. (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 584.

Art. 1883. [1243] [1243] Motion constitutes appearance, when.

Motion as appearance.—Under this article the appearance at the succeeding term by a motion to quash the citation or service, does not prevent the defendant from thereafter pleading his personal privilege. Kelly v. A. B. Crouch Grain Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 630.

Although not served or served with void process, appearance of a nonresident defendant, however limited, operates as a general appearance at the succeeding term under Rev. St. 1879, art. 1243, conferring jurisdiction over his person. Id.

Art. 1885. [1245] [1245] No judgment without service of process, etc.

Process to sustain judgment—Necessity of process.—See Ivey v. Davis (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 972.

Where, in an action to foreclose vendor’s lien notes, there was an independent cross-action by another defendant with no answer or appearance of defendant, no judgment was rendered. Swift v. Beemer (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 983.

Where a judgment for plaintiff was rendered on an amended petition alleging a new cause of action not set up in the original pleadings, and of the filing of which defendant had neither actual nor constructive notice, and neither he nor his counsel were present in court at the time of trial, the judgment will be set aside. Thomas Goggan & Bros. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 119.

A failure to serve process on defendant, or the making of service in a manner not in substantial accordance with the statute, is, as a rule, ground for vacating a judgment. Dean v. Dean (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 90.

Or ordinarily where an action is brought against a nonresident by attachment of property within the state, judgment will not be rendered until jurisdiction and service has been procured for the required length of time before the court convenes for the term at which judgment is rendered. Connell v. Nickey (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 515.

In trespass to try title, no affirmative relief can be granted to the defendant, where no citation or notice of the answer was served on plaintiff, and he did not appear in court after answer was filed. Smith v. Carr (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 602.

A judgment is void when no jurisdiction is acquired over the property of defendant and there is no legal service of process or appearance. Nesom v. City Nat. Bank (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 715.

The court had no jurisdiction to enter a judgment over in favor of cross-complainant against codefendant not cited as to such cross-action and not filing an answer or appearing therein, though he appeared in the main suit. Ivey v. Davis (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 972.

Under arts. 258, 1885, filing of bond to replevy attached property held not such an appearance as authorizes judgment without the service of process personally or by publication. American Surety Co. of New York v. Stebbins, Lawson & Spraggs Co. (Sup.) 180 S. W. 191, answer to certified questions confirmed to (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 567.

In suit to foreclose a vendor’s lien, amended petition, describing the land so differently from the original petition as to describe different land, set up a new cause of action, of which defendant should have had notice to make judgment by default valid. Gilles v. Miners’ Bank of Carterville, Mo. (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 384.

A judgment by default on a cross-action by one defendant against another can be set aside where the record is silent as to service of citation in that cross-action against the defendant. Wood v. Love (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 235.

Where, in suit by the state for unpaid land taxes, the amended petition sued for larger amount than the original, claiming taxes for additional years, and a number of defendants sued in the first were not joined in the second, default judgment on the amended petition without service of citation therein was unauthorized. Hill v. State (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 255.

When an amendment to petition presents new cause of action, citation must be issued therein and served on defendant, to authorize judgment by default thereon. Id.

Where one defendant entered his appearance in the main cause, he was before the court for all purposes, and another defendant, who brought a cross-action, was entitled to judgment against him without the necessity of citation. Sullivan v. Doyle (Sup.) 194 S. W. 136.

ABATEMENT AND DISCONTINUANCE OF SUIT

Art. 1886. Suit not to abate where plaintiff dies, if, etc.
Art. 1887. Discontinuance as to principal obligor.
Art. 1888. Death of defendant.
Art. 1889. To defendant served.
Art. 1890. Surviving parties.
Art. 1891. Marriage of defendant feme sole.
Art. 1892. When some defendants not served.

Article 1886. [1246] [1246] Suit not to abate where plaintiff dies, if, etc.
Application.—Arts. 1886 and 1887 apply only to cases in which there is only one plaintiff.
McAllen v. Crafts (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 3.

Art. 1887. [1247] [1247] Scire facias to executor, etc.
See McAllen v. Crafts (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 3; note under art. 1886.

Art. 1888. [1248] [1248] Death of defendant.
Actions which survive.—An action for obtaining property by fraudulent representation is not abated by the defendant's death. Williams v. Harris (Civ. App.) 168 S. W. 403.

Certification of judgment to probate court.—Under this article defendant's death and administration of his estate does not require a new proceeding in the probate court upon the claim in suit, but the proper practice is to certify the judgment in the suit to the probate court. Lauraine v. Ashe (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 565.

Transfer of cause.—Under this article suit on notes payable in G. county secured by deed of trust on land in another county where the deceased mortgagor had resided was properly continued in G. county as against his executrix appointed in such other county. Taylor v. Ullmann, Stern & Krause (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 746.

Art. 1890. [1250] [1250] Surviving parties.
Suggestion of death.—Under this article the suggestion of such death and its entry upon the record are conditions upon which any action is permitted by the court. McAllen v. Crafts (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 3.

Dismissal of suit.—Under Rev. St. 1811, art. 1890, it was improper for the court to dismiss a suit instituted by two plaintiffs, one of whom died pending the suit, without giving the survivors any opportunity to appear and prosecute the suit. McAllen v. Crafts (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 3.

Husband necessary party.—Where a suit was instituted against "Louisa A. Filer," cited by publication, and judgment rendered against her in that name, she having during the pendency of the suit, but before the citation as to her upon an amended petition, married "Solomon E. Hively," she was not a party to the action, and judgment as to her is void. Rudolph v. Hively (Civ. App.) 188 S. W. 721.

Art. 1896. [1256] [1256] Where some of defendants not served.
Dismissal as to party not served.—On a bill to enjoin tort-feasors, when one of the defendants resides beyond the jurisdiction of the court, and has not been served with process, the suit may be dismissed as to him, and proceed as to the other. Acme Cement Plaster Co. v. Keys (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 186.

Art. 1897. [1257] [1257] Discontinuance as to principal obligor.

Provision mandatory.—This article is mandatory; and, in the absence of a pleading alleging the facts required by the statute, a judgment against a guarantor, after the suit had been dismissed as to the principal obligor, was erroneous. First Nat. Bank v. Thurmond (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 164.

Art. 1898. [1258] [1258] Discontinuance in vacation.
Effect in sequestration proceedings.—Under arts. 1898-1900, 1955, relating to voluntary dismissal, and art. 7111 as to sequestration, held that though plaintiff in sequestration dismissed suit during vacation, defendant, though he did not answer, was entitled to have all issues settled and to proceed in original suit for relief on the bond. Hill v. Patterson (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 621.

Art. 1899. [1259] [1259] Discontinuance as to defendants served, etc.

Dismissal of cross-action.—A defendant has the right to dismiss at any time his cross-action against a codefendant. Taylor v. Hill (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 830.
Art. 1900. [1260] Discontinuance when defendant has filed counterclaim.

Dismissal does not affect counterclaim.—A defendant's cross-action against a co-defendant being dismissed, the case stands as though it had never been filed, as regards the co-defendants' right to recover on their cross-action against him. Taylor v. Hill (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 836.

Plaintiff's dismissal of his suit as to certain defendants did not affect any cross-action by them. McNutt v. McElroy (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 531.

Plea of intervention.—Under arts. 1900 and 1965, an intervenor, in a suit where plaintiff seeks to refix a lien on an automobile, cannot, withdraw her plea of intervention without prejudice, where plaintiff joined issue on the plea and prayed that its lien be declared a superior lien. United Motor Dallas Co. v. Hendricks (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 875.

DECISIONS RELATING TO SUBJECT IN GENERAL

Grounds of abatement.—Appointment of receiver pending action to compel railroad corporation to construct its road through a county seat, as required by Const. art. 10, § 9, held not ground for abatement, dismissal or suspension of such action. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. State (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 661, Judgment modified 106 Tex. 429, 163 S. W. 582.

That defendant signed his name to the note declared on by plaintiff, under a mistake of law, is no ground for abatement of the suit; being, at most, a matter of defense. Wood v. Priddy (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1999.

Discharge of receiver of railroad company pending action against him held to bar further liability and to require dismissal of the action against him. Freeman v. W. B. Walker & Sons (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1333, 456.

An action brought by authority of the commissioner of banking in the name of a bank in the hands of a special agent appointed by such commissioner to wind up its affairs will not abate on change of commissioner. McWhirter v. First State Bank of Amarillo (Civ. App.) 182 S. W. 682.

Pendency of an action by citizens of county seat to compel a railroad company to construct its road, located within three miles of the county seat, through the town, as required by Const. art. 10, § 9, was not ground for abating a subsequent action by the state to compel the construction of the road through the town, and to recover a penalty for failure to so construct it. Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. State (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 661, Judgment modified 106 Tex. 429, 163 S. W. 582.

Where plaintiffs were entitled to maintain an action of trespass to try title, the fact that they had resorted to an action of forcible entry and detainie in the county court, which was still pending, to recover possession will not deprive them of the remedy of trespass to try title in the district court. Bull v. Bearden (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 1177.

Suits cannot be maintained at the same time in two counties in different courts having concurrent jurisdiction, where the parties and the subject-matter are the same, but the court first obtaining jurisdiction will have exclusive jurisdiction of the suit. Thomas v. Moorman (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1111.

A pending action in another county, brought by the payees of a check against the makers to enforce its payment, could be pleaded in abatement of an action by the makers against the payees and the bank on which it was drawn to cancel the check and enjoin the payees from prosecuting their suit and the bank from paying the check. Id.

Any ground of objection to right of A. to have the action of B. against him for land abated by reason of pendency of the prior action of A. against B. for practically the same land, because of other certain land, being claimed in the second action, is eliminated, by A. filing, in the second action, a disclaimer as to such excess. Miller & Vidor Lumber Co. v. Williamson (Civ. App.) 164 S. W. 446.

As regards abatement of a second action, it is immaterial that the parties plaintiff and defendant are reversed in the two actions.—Id.

Dismissal of action for pendency of prior action, without giving plaintiff an opportunity to elect which action she would prosecute, held erroneous. Wilkerson v. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 1041.

The jurisdiction of the district court over a suit for partition brought by plaintiff held unaffected by a pending suit in another county in which plaintiff was not a party. McDade v. Vogel (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 506.

Defendant, who did not appear and who did not prosecute writ of error, cannot defeat affirmation of the judgment on certificate by showing prior suit by him to cancel the note. Blasingame v. Cattlemen's Trust Co. (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 906.

Where B. sues C. to cancel two notes, and C. then sues B. in another court, on one of the notes, and obtains default judgment, pending review of such judgment, B.'s suit should be stayed. Cattlemen's Trust Co. v. Blasingame (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 574.

Where plaintiff had previously sued defendant to determine title to certain lands, and judgment had been rendered from which an appeal was pending a court of another district had jurisdiction to restrain defendant from cutting timber from such lands. Village Mills Co. v. Houston Oil Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 191 S. W. 723.
In a mortgagor's action on notes and chattel mortgage, where it appears that another suit was pending in another county by the mortgagor to cancel the notes, judgment should not be entered for plaintiff, since irreparable loss might then result to the mortgagor should he ultimately get judgment in the other suit. Wilson v. Avery Cof. of Texas (Civ. App.) 192 S. W. 1150.

Where the payee sued on notes and to foreclose a chattel mortgage securing them in one county, and the maker thereupon sued in another county to cancel the instruments, his suit was an election of remedy, and he was bound thereby, and pending his appeal from an adverse judgment in such suit he could not have the same matters again tried in the suit on the notes. Id.

A cause will not be dismissed upon motion because of another action pending, but such objection must be raised by plea in abatement or of res judicata. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Lawson (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1029.

Involuntary dismissal.—On sustaining a plea of misjoinder of parties, it was error to finally dismiss the action, but the court should have rendered judgment of dismissal without prejudice. Ford v. Sutherland Springs Land & Town Co. (Civ. App.) 159 S. W. 876.

In an action on a contract which was shown to be unlawful, it is proper to render judgment in favor of defendants rather than of dismissal. Pictorial Review Co. v. Pate Bros. (Civ. App.) 155 S. W. 369.

A petition which states two separate causes of action which were misjoined may be corrected by dismissal as to one of the causes of action. International & G. N. Ry. Co. v. Reed (Civ. App.) 189 S. W. 997.

In action in county court on a note, there being a plea of failure of consideration in the answer in addition to cross-action in excess of the court's jurisdiction, such plea should have been submitted to the jury, notwithstanding dismissal of the cross-action. Billings v. Southern Supply Co. (Civ. App.) 194 S. W. 1170.

Reinstatement.—Where a case continued at the January term, 1911, was inexplicably dropped from the docket of the next term, which was in November, held, that plaintiff's motion filed in November, 1912, to reinstate should be granted. William Finck & Co. v. Nacogdoches Mercantile Co. (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 590.

The denial of plaintiff's motion to reinstate does not have the effect of the entry of an order dismissing it nunc pro tunc, on defendant's motion for dismissal for want of prosecution. Id.

Where a final judgment was rendered dismissing a cause for want of prosecution, and the term at which it was rendered had ended, the court had no authority to render a judgment denying or granting a motion to reinstate it without reasonable notice of the motion to all of the defendants. McAllen v. Crafts (Civ. App.) 166 S. W. 3.

CHAPTER EIGHT

PLEADINGS OF THE DEFENDANT

Art. 1900. Answer may include several matters; due order of pleading; general denial.—The defendant in his answer may plead as many several matters, whether of law or fact, as he shall think necessary for his defense, and which may be pertinent to the cause; provided, that he shall file them all at the same time and in due order of pleading; provided, that a general denial of matters pleaded by the adverse party which are not required to be sworn to shall be sufficient to put the same in issue. [Act May 13, 1846, p. 363, § 29; P. D. 1441; Acts 1913, p. 256, § 4; Act March 22, 1915, ch. 101, § 4.]

Inconsistent pleas and duplicity.—In vendor's action for price, purchaser held entitled to plead inconsistent defenses seeking specific performance and respission, though he might have been required to elect. Sanborn v. Cobe (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 584.

Admissions.—Plaintiffs held not entitled to judgment on the pleadings. Taber v. Eyler (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 490.
In an action for ejection of a passenger, answer of defendant held not to be considered as act was delivered to an agent authorized to re-

Where a paragraph of the petition alleged that the defendant had stated that plaintiff had stolen all he raised on defendant’s place, and was a thief, an answer denying the liability and wrong, but pleading the same paragraph and urging that the plaintiff had been guilty of fraudulent acquisition of property and conversion thereof to his own, is not an admission of the speaking of the words charged. Burkett v. Jones (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 244.

Where plaintiff generally denied defendant’s cross-petition which, though alleging that defendant deposited materials on plaintiff’s premises, did not charge a conversion, the filing of a special plea, alleging that plaintiff purchased the material, is not an admission against interest authorizing recovery by defendant for the conversion. Gordon

In suit by seller of land against his own agent and the buyer on the written contact, averred the buyer confessed and avoided, asking affirmative relief, and the agent did neither, but, in effect, admitted his liability, the court should have entered judgment

All allegations in cross-action by one defendant warehouseman against another adopting plaintiff’s allegations as to negligence of such other defendant held not an admission of

In suit for damages under Employers’ Liability Act, interveners claiming under an assignment of part of cause of action were not excused from pleading and proving that plaintiff had a cause of action for the fact that defendant pleaded a settlement with plaintiff; such plea not amounting to an admission. Phoenix Const. Co. v. Witt & Saunders
(Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 780.

In suit for attorney’s fees, the services rendered by plaintiff as alleged in the petition held to be the same as those which defendants admitted in their answer had been ren-

In suit for partition of land in which it was alleged that defendant had conveyed his interest therein, in no way had he sold land, he had warranted title, and was therefore a proper party to the suit, held admission, and he may not insist that

On plea to its jurisdiction, held, that the trial court should have treated allegations

Where plea in abatement to allegation of damages occurring during receivership was overruled because of lack of proof, it was an admission of facts alleged in petition.

— Failure to traverse or deny.—In an action for work and materials performed and furnished, where allegation that work was done on house owned by defendant was not denied, its ownership was admitted. Ward Cattle & Pasture Co. v. Ford (Civ. App.)
177 S. W. 784.

In action for amounts due under contracts, allegation that contracts were canceled not having been denied, proof thereof held unnecessary. Plummer v. Simms (Civ. App.)
177 S. W. 1037.

In broker’s action for commissions, allegations of petition that the other party to the contract of exchange did not break it held admitted, where the answer failed to deny such allegation. Levy v. Dunken Realty Co. (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 679, denying rehearing Levy v. Duncan Realty Co., 178 S. W. 984.

When a party in a suit praying a temporary injunction were not denied, they, must for, the purposes of an appeal from a judgment denying the writ, be treated as

While it is true that the advised not the facts of the petition that the holder of a note was a bona fide purchaser for value those averments are admitted, and unless the other defenses are good, the holder is entitled to judgment. Henderson v. McDaniel
(Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 865.

Construction and operation of repealed act of 1913.—See First Texas State

The allegations in a petition in equity which were not denied, and therefore to be taken as true under Acts 33d Leg. c. 127, § 4, held not to show that a purchaser was entitled to a return of the part of the price paid as a condition of the rescission of the contract by the vendor. Moore v. First State Bank of Teague (Civ. App.) 173 S. W.
281.

Under Acts 33d Leg. c. 127, § 4, amending Rev. St. 1911, art. 1903 (Vernon’s Sayles’ Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1903), vague mention by plaintiff in his original petition of some unlawful claim asserted by defendant against land in question is not a sufficient adverse denial of the allegations of defendant’s cross-petition to prevent them being taken Despite art. 1902, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 127 (Vernon’s Sayles’ Ann. Civ.

St. 1914, art. 1902), plaintiff, in case of defendant’s default in filing an answer, is, under arti-293, bound to prove uncompensated damages. R. R. Dancy & Co. v. Rosenberg (Civ.
App.) 174 S. W. 831.

Failure of defendant receivers of railroad to specifically deny their character as such at time of accident at railroad crossing held to excuse plaintiffs from proof on the point,
S. W. 1035.

A general denial to a petition on a note held to authorize a judgment for plaintiff; the facts pleaded not being put in issue by such answer. Day v. Cooper (Civ. App.)
175 S. W. 185.

Contributory negligence is not admitted under Vernon’s Sayles’ Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1902, by failure to deny an allegation thereof in a sworn answer, where the sworn petition, in effect, denies plaintiff’s negligence. Texarkana & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Rea (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 945.

A statement of a contract in plaintiff’s petition not being pleaded to by defendant as required by Vernon’s Sayles’ Ann. Civ. St. 1914, art. 1902, was in the case as admitted, and an instruction submitting its truth or falsity to the jury was not error. American

The provision of Act March 2, 1913, § 4, amending this article, that a fact alleged in the petition, not being denied by the answer, shall be taken as confessed, being required, is not available on appeal, where repeated after the trial. Mutual Film Corp. v.
Aldis & Daniels (Civ. App.) 134 S. W. 1660.

That plaintiffs may avail of the provisions of Act March 3, 1913, § 4, amending this article as to taking as confessed a fact alleged in the petition and not denied, the court's answer, if called thereto. Id.

Pulver of plaintiff to request the court that an undenied allegation of the petition be taken as confessed is a waiver of the result, under Acts 32d Leg. c. 127, § 4 (Ver-on's Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1914, § 1902), that it shall be taken as confessed, unless denied. Bennett Bros. (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 150.

Answer denying in toto each and every allegation and each and every paragraph in petition, is a sufficient denial of the allegation of the petition of a foreign corporation that it had a permit to do business in the state, to prevent it being taken as confessed

A general denial puts in issue every material fact alleged in the petition. Wilkerson & Tetterfield v. McMurry (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 275; Fidelity Phenix Fire Ins. Co. v.
Sadue (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 137.

In an action on a note to and foreclose a mechanics' lien, an answer denying that plaintiff complied with his building contract, and alleging partial failure of consideration of the note in different respects, specifically setting out the items of such failure and the amount thereof, was good as against a general demurrer. Vickrey v. Dockray (Civ.
App.) 158 S. W. 1160.

That there was an agreement to waive all commissions under the agreement sued on —agreement to divide with plaintiff and defendant of M.'s land—and to look to M. for commissions, is not matter of affirmative defense, but admissible under a general denial, as regards right to a special charge thereon.

The doctrine of frauds is available under a general denial, if interposed by

Under the general denial in a railroad passenger's action for personal injuries, the company could show any fact which would establish that plaintiff was not injured through

Evidence that the terminal carrier transported the goods with reasonable diligence to destination was admissible under the general denial. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v.
Brackett-Fielder Grain Co. (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 1231.

Where, in an action on notes given for corporate stock, a supplemental petition filed before an amended original answer replied to allegations in the original answer with refERENCE to the stock subscription contract, after which an amended original answer was filed, the general denial, the pleadings presented no issue as to the validity of the
W. 898.

In an action for damage to land by the construction adjacent thereto of a railroad terminal, defendant could show under the general denial that the market value of the property for any use to which it might be put immediately after construction of the tracks was equal to or greater than its market value before such construction. Houston

On scire facias to forfeit a bail bond, a general denial by the surety put in issue all material allegations in the writ, and the burden is on the state, not only to introduce in evidence the judgment nul, but the bail bond. General Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v.
State, 184 U. S. 439, 185 S. W. 216.

In an action for injuries to a brakeman by defendant's violation of the safety applicance acts, evidence that the couplers required adjustment, which could be made with safety when the cars were not in motion, was admissible under defendant's general den-

In an action to foreclose, the defense that the property was a homestead, and that the wife of the owner did not execute any written contract for the work as required by statute to fix a lien thereon, was available under the general denial. Wilkerson & Sut-

In a suit to cancel defendant's purchase of certain school lands, he could, under his plea of not guilty, prove the actual value of improvements placed on the land within the three years succeeding the purchase, to show a compliance with the statutory requirement, though the value proved was greater than that alleged. Eliza v. State (Civ. App.)
169 S. W. 633.

An allegation in plaintiff's petition being denied by the answer, an enlarged repetition of it in the supplemental petition need not be denied. Word v. Bank of Menard (Civ. App.) 170 S. W. 845.

A defendant relying on a mortgage executed by the husband alone may, under the genera denial, put in issue every fact necessary to establish a homestead. Parkar v.
Schrimsher (Civ. App.) 172 S. W. 165.

In an action for damages by rain to dry corn during transit, answer alleging that the corn was shelled while too green, and was shipped in a green and unripe condition, held only denial of the petition and to raise no new issue. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v.
Evans (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 228.

that plaintiff did not attempt to minimize his damages. World's Special Films Corporation v. Fichtenberg (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 733.

Where an allegation in a pleading is once denied, it is not necessary that it should be denied again because the allegation is repeated. Wm. Cameron & Co. v. Folk (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1178.

An answer held a sufficient denial of the averments of the complaint to preclude judgment on the pleadings in an action for partition. Teal v. Lakey (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 769.

In a suit to foreclose vendor's lien notes, a petition containing allegations on information and belief only by a general denial held sufficient to support a default judgment. Cooney v. Eastman (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 96.

In a suit for damages to shipment of cattle, proof of injury from their inherent propensities would be admissible under its general denial of negligence. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Kerr (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1068.

In an action for injuries to a shipment of peanuts, averments in the answer that the shipment was loaded when green held not an admission that the car furnished was unsuitable. Cleburne Peanut & Products Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 1070.

A general denial puts the plaintiff upon proof of every material allegation in his petition, and the defendant can show any matter tending to disprove the case alleged. Corpus Christi St. & Interurban Ry. Co. v. Kjellberg (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 430.

In an action for damages for overflow caused by defendant's placing an embankment on his own land, his general denial is sufficient to warrant submission of the issue whether the embankment was formed by usual plowing necessary to cultivation. Wellborn v. Weilborn (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 1941.

Where plaintiff alleged that defendant railroad was governed by art. 6495, passed in 1876, the duty devolved upon him to show that fact, so that defendant under general denial could prove that it had built its roadbed prior to 1876. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Wurzbach (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 1068.

In a suit to foreclose vendor's lien notes on land, of which defendant was not the owner at the time of negotiation, a general denial does not put in issue under this article, as amended by Acts 33d Leg. c. 127, averments on information and belief that defendant agreed with an owner of the equity to discharge such notes. Cooney v. Eastman (Civ. App.) 177 S. W. 1178.

All pleas to be filed at same time and in due order.---Under this article defendants held to have waived misjoinder of parties plaintiff by pleading to the merits. Garner v. Jamison (Civ. App.) 162 S. W. 940.

A special exception to the petition as insufficient, which was filed after the general denial, was not filed in due order of pleading, as required by this article and district court rule 7 (142 S. W. xvii), and was waived. Howard's Unknown Heirs v. Skolant (Civ. App.) 163 S. W. 978. See, also, notes under art. 1905.

Art. 1903. Requisites of plea of privilege; prima facie proof; controv ailing plea by plaintiff; service; hearing; appeal.---A plea of privilege to be sued in the county of one's residence shall be sufficient, if it be in writing and sworn to, and shall state that the party claiming such privilege was not, at the institution of such suit, nor at the time of the service of such process thereon, nor at the time of filing such plea, a resident of the county in which such suit was instituted and shall state the county of his residence at the time of such plea, and that none of the exceptions to the exclusive venue in the county of one's residence mentioned in Article 1830 or Article 2308 of the Revised Statutes exist in said cause; and such plea of privilege when filed shall be prima facie proof of the defendant's right to change of venue. If, however, the plaintiff desires to controvert the plea of privilege, he shall file a controverting plea under oath, setting out specifically the fact or facts relied upon to confer venue of such cause on the court where the cause is pending. Upon the filing of such controverting plea the judge or the justice of the peace shall note on same a time for a hearing on the plea of privilege; provided, however, that the hearing thereon shall not be had until a copy of such controverting plea, including a copy of such notation thereon, shall have been served on each defendant, or his attorney, for at least ten full days exclusive of the day of service and day of hearing. If the parties agree upon a date for such hearing it shall not be necessary to serve the copy above provided for. Either party may appeal from the judgment sustaining or overruling the plea of privilege, and if the judgment is one sustaining the plea of privilege and an appeal is taken, such appeal shall suspend the transfer of the venue and a trial of the cause pending the final determination of such appeal [Acts 1907, p. 248; Act April 2, 1917, ch. 176, § 1.]

Explanatory.---The act amends art. 1903, Rev. Civ. St. 1911. Took effect 90 days after March 21, 1917, date of adjournment.
Sufficiency of plea.—Where suit was brought against a nonresident of the county for fraudulently titled to land, a plea of exchange in failing to allege that the allegation of the petition that the fraud was committed in the county where the suit was brought was inserted for the fraudulent purpose of conferring jurisdiction, was insufficient to entitle defendant to change of venue. Sanders v. Dunn (Civ. App.) 158 S. W. 1041.

In trespass to try title to land located in another county, a plea by defendants, who were nonresidents, held to sufficiently apprise the court that they thereby intended to plead the privilege to be vested in the county where the land was located. Knowles v. Clark (Civ. App.) 153 S. W. 365.

A plea of the privilege of the defendant, in an action before a justice of the peace, to be sued in the county of his residence, which did not show the proper precinct in the county in which he resided, was insufficient. Lевenthal v. Hollamon (Civ. App.) 165 S. W. 6.

A plea of privilege, reciting that none of the exceptions to exclusive venue in the county of one's residence, mentioned in "articles 119, 1555, of the Revised Statutes," instead of articles 1830, 2208, as required by Rev. St. 1511, art. 1903, existed in the case, was insufficient. Anderson, Clayton & Co. v. Terry (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 1.

An allegation in a plea of privilege that the suit did not come within any of the exceptions provided by law, authorizing suit to be brought in the county of Milam or outside the county of Harris, held a conclusion of law, and ineffective. Id.

Where an alleged supplemental plea of privilege was filed, though no answer was filed to the original plea, and the supplemental plea was sufficient in itself as a plea of privilege, considered in connection with the allegations of the petition, it would be sustained as an amended plea, and was not subject to the objection that a supplemental plea was unauthorized. McVilly v. Wickham (Civ. App.) 169 S. W. 1123.

That a plea of privilege to be tried in another county failed to state that plaintiff's allegations of defendants were nonresidents and knowingly made to fix the venue of the suit did not render it insufficient. Weller v. Guajardo (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 673.

Plea of privilege of a nonresident defendant to be sued in a justice court of his own county need not show that the justice to whose court the case is sought to be transferred is not disqualified, Rev. St. 1911, art. 2312, having no application to a nonresident. Dalhart Ice & Electric Co. v. Tinsley (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 619.

Defendant's plea of privilege, complying with this article, was sufficient, though it did not allege that the allegation of plaintiff's petition that suit was based on a written contract to be performed in the county of suit was fraudulently made to confer jurisdiction. Gensberg v. Neely (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 247.

Proof of allegations of plea.—A plea of privilege to be sued in the county of defendant's domicile may be raised without an offer of proof to sustain it where plaintiff's pleadings disclose the facts. Thomas Gogran & Bros. v. Morrison (Civ. App.) 183 S. W. 119.

On a claim of privilege it is not necessary to introduce evidence as to residence which is admitted by the pleadings of both parties. Lester v. Hutson (Civ. App.) 187 S. W. 321.

Evidence in a bank's action on a draft drawn by contractors on a school district held to sustain a finding adverse to the defendant school district's plea of privilege. Crowel Independent School Dist. v. First Nat. Bank of Benjamin (Civ. App.) 174 S. W. 878.

Plaintiff, relying on fraud of defendant to sustain venue of the action, has the burden of proving fraud, or defendant's plea of privilege must be sustained. Cloyd v. Sacra (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 456.

In a suit for conversion, plaintiff was bound to overcome a plea of privilege by proof that the conversion was committed in the county of suit. Carver Bros. v. Merrett (Civ. App.) 184 S. W. 741.

Effect of sustaining plea.—The granting of a plea of privilege applied for by certain defendants was effective to transfer the whole case, both as to all parties and subject-matter of the action, where the defendants filing such plea were entitled to have the case tried. Hickman v. Swain, 167 S. W. 209, 106 Tex. 431.

Bill of exceptions.—See Holmes v. Coalson (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 628.

Transfer of cause.—In view of arts. 1903, 2208, articles 1551-1553 authorize the transfer, on defendant's plea of privilege, of a case pending in the justice court in one county, to such a court in another. Dalhart Ice & Electric Co. v. Tinsley (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 615.

Art. 1904. [1263] [1263] Answer to be filed, when.

Substitution of parties.—On substitution of new plaintiffs and adoption by them of petition of original plaintiffs, entry of judgment by default without permitting opportunity to answer was error. Cooney v. Van Deren (Civ. App.) 322 S. W. 1190.

Due process of law.—Whether art. 1869 et seq. and this article denies due process of law to nonresidents personally served outside the state because of the possibility that they might have only 12 days in which to appear and answer will not be determined at the instance of a nonresident defendant who had ample time in which to appear and answer. Irophy v. Kelly, 211 Fed. 22, 128 C. C. A. 382.

Art. 1905. [1264] [1264] Answer in cases of citation by publication.—In all cases in which service of citation has been made by publication, the answer shall be filed on or before the appearance day of the term to which the citation is made returnable, the same as in cases of personal service. [Acts 1846, p. 363, § 12; Acts 1909, S. S., p. 324; Act Feb. 13, 1917, ch. 14, § 1.]

Sec. 2 repeals all laws in conflict.

Courts—District and County—Practice in

Art. 1907

Art. 1906. [1265] [1265] Certain pleas to be verified by affidavit.

Necessity and effect of verification in general.—An exception to an answer not verified as required by law should have been sustained. Commonwealth Bonding & Casualty Ins. Co. v. Cator (Civ. App.) 175 S. W. 1074.

Who may verify and sufficiency of verification.—A plea of privilege in behalf of two defendants, but verified only by one, is sufficient to make the plea available to both. Queen Ins. Co. v. Keller (Civ. App.) 186 S. W. 359.

Officers authorized to take affidavits.—See art. 13 and notes.

Subdivision 1—See art. 1903 and notes.

The question of lapsing of plaintiff’s temporary administration is to be raised by sworn plea in abatement. El Paso & Southwestern Co. v. La Londe (Civ. App.) 173 S. W. 889.

In an action for taxes defendant may not urge want of authority to sue because of the absence of authorization by the commissioners’ court of the county, in the absence of a verified plea and of proof. State v. Cagle (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 928.

This article does not apply to special pleas denying defendants capacity as receivers.

Subdivision 5.—Cited, Carr v. Wright (Civ. App.) 190 S. W. 254.

Where petition in trespass to try title by partnership showed that title to two of the surveys was in one partner and title to the other in the other partner, held that it was not necessary that plea in abatement be sworn to. J. D. Fields & Co. v. Allison (Civ. App.) 171 S. W. 374.

In view of this article, held that, though one of the original parties to a judgment of vend and conveyance had consented to go to the appeal, her interest was not prima facie to be considered in an appeal from the judgment, but the other parties were to the appeal. Bristow v. Teel (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 319.

Subdivision 6.—Where in a suit against a firm the partnership is denied under oath, the burden rests upon plaintiff to prove the partnership. Staten Auto Co. v. Hogg (Civ. App.) 180 S. W. 892.

In an action against several carriers, as partners, for negligent delay and rough handling of live stock, where the pleadings of defendants denying the charge were unverified, plaintiff could not, as a matter of law, prove against either of the defendants. Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Shank & Dean (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 1093.

In an action brought in the name of two partners, defendant could show without the denial of the partnership under oath as required by this article that there were other partners, each having an interest in the subject of the suit, so as to defeat the suit in favor of either partner. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Corsicana Fruit Co. (Civ. App.) 176 S. W. 849.

Where defendants did not deny under oath, as required by statute, plaintiff’s allegation that they were partners, evidence to disprove such allegation held properly excluded. Levy v. Duncan Realty Co. (Civ. App.) 179 S. W. 879, denying rehearing.

In action against bank and its president as partners, where neither denied partnership under oath, as required by this article, peremptory instruction to find for plaintiff, on ground that he had no connection with contract, held erroneous. Tyler Box & Lumber Mfg. Co. v. City Nat. Bank of Paris (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 352.

Subdivision 7.—Cited, O’Connor v. City of Laredo (Civ. App.) 167 S. W. 1091.

Under this subdivision plaintiff held not required to prove defendant’s corporate existence where the allegation of its incorporation was not denied in its incorporator plea.

Subdivisions 8 and 9.—In view of this article, held that, where the answer did not deny the execution of a written instrument by which defendant recognized the title of a foreign administrator to the note in suit, mere proof of the right of the administrator’s intestate to the note in suit, with the introduction of evidence that an indorsement is sufficient to show passing of title notwithstanding article 3480. Webb v. Reynolds (Civ. App.) 160 S. W. 362.

Petition against a carrier for nondelivery held to charge that bill of lading was in writing, under art. 710, and carrier not denying under oath its execution under article 1998, subd. 8, and article 3710, may not question it. Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. R. D. Jones Lumber Co. (Civ. App.) 178 S. W. 388. See, also, notes under arts. 588, 3710.

Subdivision 10.—Under subd. 19 of this article, an answer setting up want of consideration as a defense, is not sufficient to cause the case to be sent out of debt and to foreclose vendor’s lien notes, should have been sworn to. Browne v. McGuire (Civ. App.) 181 S. W. 478.

Under art. 7993, providing that written contracts shall import consideration, and article 1996, concerning the impeachment of the consideration of a written instrument, in an action on a written policy, it was not necessary for the plaintiff to allege in the pleadings that the written contract sued upon was based upon a sufficient consideration. Royal Nabeuros of America v. Heard (Civ. App.) 185 S. W. 882.
